

Long Meeting Is Held By Aldermen

Large Volume Of Diverted Business, Requiring Over Three Hours To Transact, Handled By City Fathers Thursday Night

City aldermen last night handled a large volume of business highlighted by agreement to purchase property for the establishment of highway patrol headquarters here (see separate story), and including numerous routine matters. The meeting, presided over by Mayor W. S. Stafford, lasted for more than three hours. Additional street lights, restricted parking space in front of the library, distribution of the city code, beautification of Greenwood cemetery, bids for painting of Guy Smith stadium, naming of a new member to the city planning board, a rat control program and many other city activities were up for action or discussion.

Dr. John L. Winstead appeared before the board in behalf of a group of physicians for permission to erect a medical clinic building at the corner of Fourth street and Rotary square that did not conform to zoning ordinance restrictions. The board decided that it was a matter for the city zoning board and referred Dr. Winstead to that group.

T. I. Wagner, Joe S. Moye and Miss Irene Hester appeared before the board requesting that parking space in front of the library be restricted for the benefit of library users and also requested better street lighting in front of the library. The board ordered that four parking spaces in front of the library be designated at 15 minute areas during library hours of 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. The matter of additional lights in front of the library was referred to the utilities department for action.

A request by Larry E. Brown for permission to set back certain curbing in order to widen Evans street in front of his apartment house was referred to the street committee for study and report to the board.

Joe S. Moye submitted a map of a new subdivision west of the city for adoption and the matter was referred to committee for study and report to the board.

At the request of the Merchants Association a holiday for parking meters will be in effect on Dollar Day.

Authority to close Clark street adjacent to the recently burned McGowan warehouse was ordered as a safety measure during the rebuilding of the structure.

Charles Morgan, local health sanitarian, and representatives of the State Health Department discussed the rat situation in Greenville and urged a permanent program of rat extermination and control. The matter was referred to the health and sanitation committee to try to work out such a program.

Charles B. Blissett was named a member of the city planning board to succeed Joe S. Moye who recently resigned because of having been a member of the board of education.

Two street lights on Elm street near 10th street and the NYA center, three lights in the Brookgreen area and a light on Glenwood drive in Hillside were ordered installed. The planning committee of the Garden Club offered its services to the city in beautification of Greenwood cemetery if the city would invest $125 in plants and shrubs and furnish the labor. The matter was turned over to the cemetery committee with power to spend the necessary $125 for the project.

At the request of the Lions Club the week of April 2-9 was designated as Easter Seal week and Girl Scouts will be permitted to conduct an Easter Seal tag day on the city streets on Saturday, April 6.

City Authorized Obtain Land For Patrol Building

Way Cleared For Construction Of Highway Patrol Headquarters Here

Greenville aldermen in regular meeting last night authorized the city's part in the purchase of land near the intersection of East Fifth and East Tenth Streets for erection of permanent headquarters for the eastern division of the State Highway Patrol. Mayor W. S. Stafford will present the matter to the board of County Commissioners at its meeting next Monday for final action by the county. County commissioners are already understood to have tentatively agreed that the county will pay its half of the purchase price of the property. The total cost of the property is $3,000, of which the city board agreed to pay $1,500.

State engineers and patrol officials made it known sometime ago that they would like to establish permanent headquarters here if the city and county would provide a suitable piece of property through gift or lease to the patrol.

Mayor Stafford immediately went to work on the project which was climaxed last night by his report to the board that options on the property had been procured. He stated that the patrol expected to spend approximately $50,000 for the erection of buildings and that probably a patrol radio station would be added at a later date. He expressed the belief that the establishment of the permanent headquarters here would be a great asset to both the city and county in the way bringing more families to Greenville and the greater concentration of law enforcement officers in the community.

King Dissolves Parliament For Coming Election

London, Feb. 3.—(AP)—King George VI in a proclamation dissolved Britain's Socialist-controlled Parliament today and cleared the way for the Feb. 23 general election.

The King's act dissolving the 1-674-day old parliament officially set off the election contest between Prime Minister Attlee's Labor party and Winston Churchill's Conservatives to capture a majority of the 625 seats in the new Parliament. Actually Britons have been deep in the election fray for weeks.

The King's proclamation was issued at a meeting of his privy council at Sandringham castle, 100 miles north of London.

Labor held 390 of the 640 seats in the old Parliament.

Ingrid, Roberto Happy

Rome, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Ingrid Bergman is the mother of a new, blue-eyed baby boy—tentatively named Roberto—and one of her doctors said today both she and Italian film director Roberto Rossellini are "very very happy" about it.

The beautiful, 34-year-old Swedish actress has announced that she intends to marry Rossellini as soon as she obtains a divorce from Dr. Peter Lindstrom of Hollywood, who visited her in Sicily nine months ago today.

She filed suit in Mexico last week.

How Much Incentive?

The Oil Industry And Tax Law Provisions Allowing Persons Or Firms To A 'Percentage Depletion Allowance' And 'Intangible' Drilling Expenses

By CHARLES MOLONY

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—How much incentive do people need to prospect for oil and to keep producing oil when they strike it?

There is going to be a lot of argument over taxes on oil operations for some weeks to come, but it will all boil down to that basic question: The answer is a matter of opinion—maybe strong opinion, but still opinion, not fact.

President Truman like President Roosevelt before him, holds this opinion: Less incentive is needed than the special tax privileges the present law allows; these constitute the worst loopholes in the tax laws today.

The oil industry, to a man, holds at least as much incentive is needed as present tax laws give. Maybe more. The national interest doesn't permit discouraging hand-layers of such a vital natural resource, they say.

The argument focuses around two provisions in the law allowing persons or firms with an interest in oil (or gas) well production to:

1. Deduct from taxable income (that is, exempt from taxes) 27 1/2 per cent of the gross income of each well, up to a limit of half the net income from that property. This is called a "percentage depletion allowance."

2. Deduct from total income—from all sources—all expenditures each year for "intangible" drilling expenses, meaning mostly the labor costs of drilling wells. The "intangible" run about 50 to 75 per cent of total drilling costs.

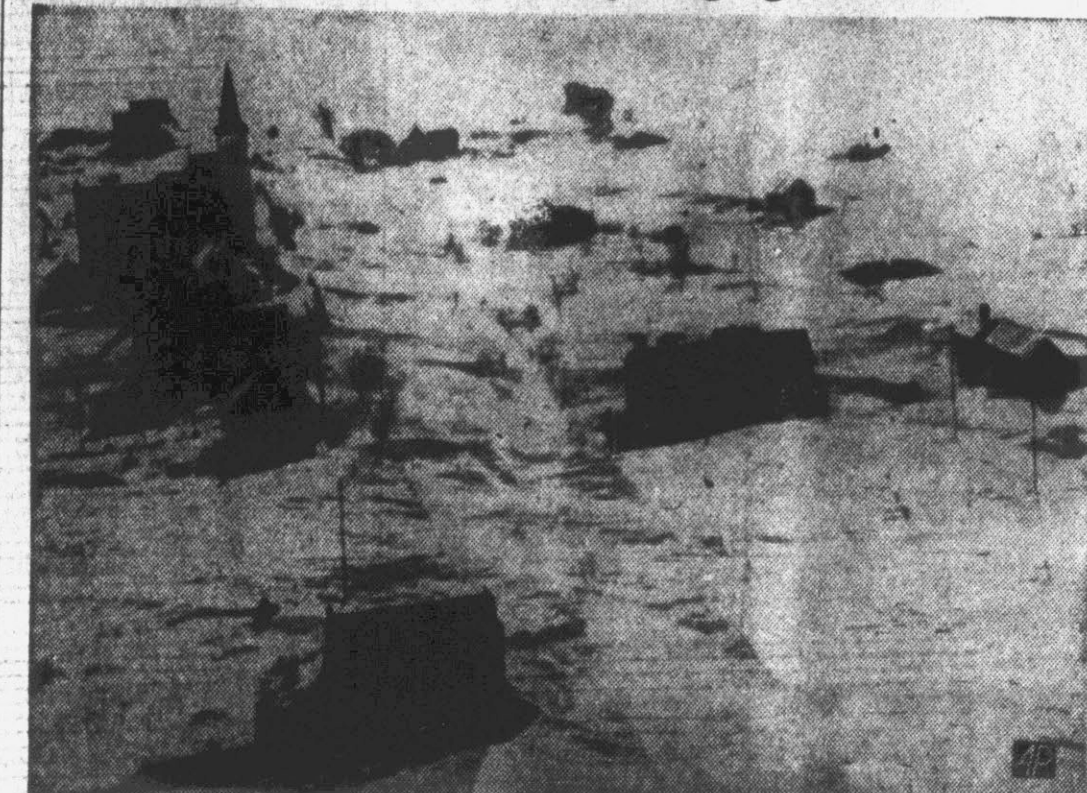

The second provision applies exclusively to oil and gas wells, but the percentage depletion allowance also applies to mines in lesser degree.

The Truman Administration complains that oil, gas and mining interests get much better tax deduction privileges than other business concerns.

Mr. Truman pointed out that ordinary business investments in plants and machines can be deducted through depreciation allowances over the life of the plants and machines—but the deductions cannot exceed the amount of the original investment.

In contrast, he said, the depletion (Continued on page eight)

North Dakota Town Isolated By Raging Blizzard

The town of Fried, North Dakota, is in the grip of frigid isolation as disclosed by this aerial photo. Blizzards have blocked all routes leading into the community but no reports of distress have been received. The only sign of human activity are tracks leading to and from the village store at lower left. Snow has fallen to a depth of about 38 inches in this section. (AP Wirephoto).

Cautious Reaction To Huge Global Aid Plan

McMahon Proposal Of $50 Billion Outlay To Avert Atomic Armament Race Is Termed "Worth Considering"

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A proposal by Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) that this country try to head off an atomic armaments race through a $50,000,000,000 global aid plan brought this cautious reaction in the Senate today:

"Well worth considering." Those words, uttered by Senator Bricker (R-Ohio), appeared to mirror the feeling of most of the lawmakers who heard the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee offer his plan yesterday.

McMahon buttressed his suggestion with the warning that "armaments races lead to war—under today's conditions, hydrogen war!"

While he was among the Congress members who strongly backed President Truman's order to proceed with development of the powerful H-bomb, McMahon cautioned against believing the weapon would provide real security for this nation.

"It only promises the negative result of averting, for a few months or years, well-nigh certain catastrophe," he asserted.

In brief, McMahon's plan calls for the U.S. to spend $10,000,000,000 annually for five years to:

(a) Develop Mr. Truman's "point four" program to help underdeveloped areas; (b) develop atomic energy everywhere for peace, and (c) give general economic aid to all countries, including Russia.

In return, this country would insist on general acceptance of international control over atomic energy, as well as an agreement by all countries, enforced through inspection, that two-thirds of their present spending on armaments be "devoted toward constructive ends."

He further urged a powerful propaganda drive setting out America's atomic plan and efforts for peace.

School Child Is Killed In Crash

Elizabeth City, N. C., Feb. 3.—(AP)—A school bus-truck collision near New Hope in Perquimans county brought death to one child and injury to five others last yesterday.

Coroner C. A. Davenport was expected to announce today when an inquest would be held.

Killed instantly when the two vehicles sideswiped each other was Irene Foreman, 10-year-old Negro girl route 3, Hertford.

It was North Carolina's first school bus fatality of 1950.

Notice To City Subscribers

In order to assure our subscribers against missing a single issue of the paper our circulation department will be open each evening from 6 to 6:30 to receive complaints and make deliveries of any missed issues.

Except on rare occasions when there may be a delay at our office, all city subscribers should receive their deliveries by six o'clock.

If you have not received your paper by six o'clock or a few minutes thereafter please call 3356 giving your name and address and if more than one subscriber lives at the address, whether one or more papers were missed.

Complaints will be received until 6:30, after which deliveries will be made by special messenger. After that hour the department will be closed for the day and no further complaints will be received or deliveries made.

We are setting up this complaint bureau in an effort to assure the best possible service to our subscribers and your cooperation by calling during the prescribed period will be appreciated.

Johnson Claims Defenses Ready

Prepared To Fight At An Hour's Notice; Gaining Power

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—In some of the toughest language yet used in the cold war, Secretary of Defense Johnson said last night the U.S. is ready to "lick hell" out of Russia on an hour's notice.

"Joe Stalin will know that if he starts something at four a.m.," Johnson declared, "the fighting power of the United States will be on the job at five a.m."

Johnson's words, delivered to a gathering of 300 fellow alumni of the University of Virginia, were perhaps the sharpest to be aimed at Russia by an American cabinet officer since U.S.-Soviet relations began to sour after World War II.

Speaking from pencilled notes, Johnson said this nation's defense setup is more powerful than it has been since 1945. Then he added:

"In all we are doing, we are seeking peace."

"There is only one nation in the world that would start a war. We seek to have a military establishment sufficient to deter that aggressor and to lick hell out of her if she doesn't stay deterred."

As a result of the unification law, he said, "the defense of the United States is in better shape and stronger than at any time since the point system wrecked it in 1945."

The point system was the method used to discharge service personnel after the war.

Johnson said the country's defenses are getting stronger daily and will soon reach a point where they will be ready for anything in an hour's time.

Charge British Physicist Revealed Atomic Secrets

London, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A top ranking British physicist who worked on atomic bombs in the United States for three years was charged in court today with giving away atomic secrets "directly or indirectly useful to an enemy."

The U. S. federal bureau of investigation announced in Washington it had worked with the British in breaking the case. High officials said it involved two specific atomic leaks to Russia.

The indictment alleged that one leak took place in the United States in 1945, the other in England in 1947.

Claus Fuchs, 38, German-born atomic physicist and one of the ranking experts at the British atomic laboratory in Harwell, was brought into Bow street court today on two counts of violating the official secrets act. His trial was set for next Friday.

Fuchs was in charge of theoretical physics at Harwell, which is the heart of British research into atomic fission for producing A-bombs.

In a fog of official secrecy, the tall, slight and balding scientist then was whisked off to a cell at court building. Security officers said he would be taken to Brixton prison in Southeast London to await his trial.

Fuchs had no lawyer. He stood silent while the clerk of the court read out the charges.

The first charge said that Fuchs, "being a British subject x x x on a day in February, 1945, in the United States of America x x x communicated to a person unknown information relating to atomic research x x x which might be directly or indirectly useful to an enemy."

The second said that Fuchs "for a purpose prejudicial to the safety or interests of the state on a day in 1947 communicated to a person unknown information relating to atomic research which might be directly or indirectly useful to an enemy."

Turn Cold Shoulder To Hinted Appeal By Lewis

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 3.—(AP)—An appeal from John L. Lewis for moral aid in the coal crisis got a cold shoulder today from American Federation of Labor leaders.

The AFL's executive council considered an indirect plea from Lewis for legal help in his court fight on the coal strike situation but decided to pass any action for the time being.

Young Musicians Arrive At College

Approximately 150 Students And Directors Attend Clinic

Members of 25 high school bands from schools in eastern North Carolina arrived on the campus of East Carolina Teachers College this morning to attend the Eastern Division of the All-State Band clinic. A group of approximately 150 students and directors will be present today and tomorrow for a series of rehearsals, discussion meetings, and concerts.

Two public performances by bands will be highlights of the clinic, which will close here tomorrow evening. The East Carolina band, directed by Herbert L. Carter, will give a concert in the Wright building. A 100-piece concert band, composed of high school students attending the clinic will play Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock, also in the Wright auditorium. Dr. Earl A. Slocum, of the University of North Carolina, music director of the clinic, will rehearse with the young musicians and will direct the band. The public is invited to attend both programs.

Mr. Carter is local chairman of the clinic here. Others who are assisting with the program and who will conduct a series of discussion groups are Tom Hearne, band director from Henderson; Donald Smith, music supervisor in the New Bern schools; and Dr. R. R. Williams, director of the department of music at East Carolina Teachers College. Hosts for the occasion are the college music department and the band and chorus of the Greenville high school.

The major part of the two-day session will be devoted to a series of sectional rehearsals, during which time high school band members will practice various band leaders. Social events will include a dance for guests following the concert this evening and an informal meeting of directors and their wives Saturday evening in the drawing rooms of the Flanagan building.

Snyder Outlines Proposed Modification Sales Taxes

Allies Map Joint Retaliation For Berlin Blockade

Presumed Steps Will Follow Pattern Of Last Year's Counter Blockade

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The United States reportedly will be joined by Britain and France in striking back at Russia's new "little blockade" of Berlin.

Soviet restrictions on transport between Berlin and western Germany prompted an announcement yesterday that this country will retaliate. Officials said joint counter measures against the Soviet zone of Germany are being discussed among the three Western allies.

Presumably, any steps they take will follow the pattern of last year's counter blockade, which eventually brought trade between eastern Germany and western Europe to a halt. This pressure on the Soviet zone was regarded at that time as one of the principal reasons why the Russians finally gave up their full scale blockade of Berlin.

The new restrictions on traffic between western Germany and the non-Communist section of Berlin have not yet assumed full blockade proportions.

State Department officials consider the current slowdown operation as an effort to create new uncertainty and unrest in western Germany, thus retarding economic progress there.

The statement issued by State Department press officer Michael McDermott yesterday made two main points:

1. After the Berlin blockade and counter blockade were lifted last May, the Russian and Western foreign ministers agreed at Paris to "take the measures necessary to insure the normal functioning and utilization of rail, water, and road transport." The Russians are now violating that agreement.

2. The United States therefore is considering counter measures, their precise nature to depend on "the specific circumstances prevailing at the time."

That seemed to mean this: If the Russians merely harass Western transport across their zone to Berlin the United States will impose only limited restrictions on traffic into the Russian zone.

Tough Decision For Labor Chief

Acceptance Of Truce Might Cost Lewis Strong Weapon

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Major coal operators' acceptance of President Truman's 70-day strike truce proposal confronted John L. Lewis today with one of the toughest decisions of a turbulent career.

The canny labor chief must decide by tomorrow whether to accept President Truman's proposal for a fact-finding board in the bitter soft coal contract battle.

Acceptance might mean the loss of Lewis' strongest bargaining weapon—the nation's dwindling reserves of above-ground coal. Mr. Truman wants "normal production" during the board investigation.

Refusal to accept could bring on labor-bated injunctions under the Taft-Hartley law. Mr. Truman reiterated yesterday that he is ready to use this power whenever he feels an emergency exists.

The next move in the coal controversy was checked to Lewis as a result of two steps taken yesterday by northern and western operators.

First the operators, representing one half of the soft coal industry, abruptly walked out of negotiations with the United Mine workers' leader.

Then they notified Mr. Truman they were ready to accept his proposal and would prepare the mines for normal output. Southern operators and officials of steel company captive mines were expected to follow suit before the Saturday deadline set by Mr. Truman for an answer.

Both operators and union leaders made bitter accusations regarding the breakdown of the negotiations, which had begun only 24 hours earlier.

questioned in his court fight against an injunction asked by Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board.

The reason AFL council members gave privately for not joining the CIO in protesting against any injunction is that the case is now before the court and there will be time to lend legal aid later if the injunction is issued and appealed to a higher federal court.

However, their experience with Lewis have left some AFL leaders indisposed to rush to his aid. Council members also are reported to have looked questioningly on Lewis' insistence on continuing his "able and willing" clause in his contract with coal operators.

Field Director

E. E. SCHOLTZ

The board of directors of the Pitt county Executives club will meet with Elmer E. Scholtz, executive field director of the Associated Clubs, in his annual visit here Monday.

In charge of public relations and program directing Scholtz will sit with the Pitt county club directors to discuss and arrange the program of speakers and entertainers who will be invited to tour the clubs during the 1950-51 season.

Officers of the Pitt county Executives club are President Dr. John D. Messick, Vice President James S. Ficklen, and Secretary-Treasurer N. C. Brooks. The board of directors of the organization include Dr. Messick, J. H. Waldrop, W. J. Smith, Willard T. Kyser, Dr. H. G. Hanes, James S. Ficklen, Dr. L. W. Jenkins, Sam D. Bundy and S. M. Smith.

Scholtz will confer with the officials of the local Executives club at a noon meeting to be held at the Old Towne Inn.

Jaycees From 13 Towns At Meet

Quarterly Zone Meeting Draws Approximately 140 Guests

Jaycees from 13 towns in Eastern and Piedmont North Carolina met in Greenville last night to discuss the proposed expansion program for the Junior Chamber of Commerce organization in this section of the state.

Approximately 140 representatives and guests of the 13 clubs attended the meeting which was held at the Woman's Club. It was the quarterly meeting of some eight of the state organization, and was presided over by Vice President Bernard Leary of Morehead City. President Bancroft Moseley of the Greenville club was master of ceremonies at the meeting.

State Jaycee President Micou F. Brown of Raleigh declared the district meeting the best held in the state this year, and congratulated the members of the Greenville club and the district on the turnout for the session. He urged the Jaycees to intensify their efforts to organize new clubs in communities which do not have Jaycee organizations.

"The greatest pride we can have," Brown declared, "is for future Americans to receive the benefits of Jayceism."

During the discussion of the extension work the clubs of the district pledged the formation of three new clubs in the districts during the next three months.

Also during the business session the candidacy of James F. Roe Jr. of Goldsboro was announced for the office of district vice president subject to the elections at the state convention in May. The Jaycees discussed the coming meeting of the state board of directors in Greensboro.

Creating A Diversion

The Surprising Russian Proposal To Try Japan's Emperor As A War Criminal And Suspected Reason For About-Face; A Previous Decision Is No Obstacle

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

Diplomacy moves in weird and devious ways to achieve its end in international affairs, as witness Russia's note to Washington demanding that the Mikado be tried as a war criminal on charges involving germ warfare.

This surprising note hasn't yet been answered, but officials say the proposal will be rejected. They suspect Moscow is trying for one thing to create a diversion to counter the American demand that the Soviet Union return 376,000 Japanese who, Tokyo claims, are being held as prisoners of war.

Russia says these prisoners have been returned. That creates a considerable mystery, to put it mildly, because after all it isn't easy to misplace several hundred thousand troops.

The Moscow note, which also was sent to London, is doubly queer in view of an announcement by the U.S. State Department on January 14, 1949, that all eleven of Japan's wartime foes, including Russia, had agreed to exempt Emperor Hirohito from war crimes prosecution. This decision was kept secret three years.

It was taken in line with a course that American experts urged on President Roosevelt and then on President Truman.

These experts advised that treating the emperor on the same basis as the Japanese government leaders would make surrender impossible and would multiply the difficulties of the occupation. This descendant of the sun goddess was an object of adulation to his subjects, most of whom regarded him as a deity until the world war stripped him of that exalted distinction. Since the eleven nations reached their decision, General MacArthur has dealt with Hirohito as the "recognized and respected leader of his people."

What then has happened since the 11-power decision to affect the little emperor? Well, the Russians recently tried 12 Japanese army officers in eastern Siberia on charges of using germ warfare against prisoners and Chinese civilians. The Muscovites say the prisoners pleaded guilty. That gives a chance to (Continued on page eight)

No Discrimination Shown By State School Board

Raleigh, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Any person in or out of North Carolina who believes the state of North Carolina discriminates against Negroes in administration of the public school system would have been surprised at the drama presented in the state board room Wednesday.

Any person who thinks Negroes are not sufficiently interested in educating their children to warrant equal attention on part of the state, would have to change that opinion after listening for an hour to a group of Negroes from Martin county.

Occasion was hearing by the buildings committee of the state board on petitions for location of a Negro high school at Oak City. One of the most interested men in the room was Dr. H. L. Trigg, president of St. Augustine's College and only Negro ever to serve on the state board of education, who is also a member of the building committee.

The proposed new school was opposed by W. C. Chance, principal of the Parmele high school, who feared that a new unit would draw pupils from his school, reduce the number of teachers and thus the prestige of Parmele, and argued that the additional unit would result in two poorly staffed schools instead of a single good one. He also blamed interference of some white people in the scheme of things. Chance has been a sort of storm center for several years. He made national headlines two years ago by refusing to give a home to the Republican convention at Philadelphia. But neither that incident nor his past attitude has real bearing on the present subject, which is the manifest concern of Negro patrons for the welfare of their children.

The group favoring the new school was composed of about 25 men and women. A show of hands indicated that every one of them has children in school, all but two or three own their own homes. That information was accepted as evidence of permanency, rather than because of landowner is any more entitled to school than a tenant.

New Mutual Benefit Organization Formed In Eastern Pines Community

A mutual benefit and assistance organization has been formed in the Eastern Pines community with the first meeting of the group being held Wednesday night in the Community Center.

The club, called the Eastern Pines Men's Club, was formed as a service organization for the community, acting much as does the Red Cross, the express purpose being to lend help and other financial aid to persons in need.

Speakers in the County Agent's office expressed the opinion that the club is the first of its kind hereabouts and is a going concern. Officers were elected at last night's meeting but no constitution or by-laws have been drawn up as yet. It was understood that that procedure would take place during the March meeting.

Thirty persons attended last night's meeting with 28 of them paying the $2 initiation fee. Officers elected were: Glenn Hardee, president; Herman Sutton, vice president; Edwin Boyd, secretary; and Lee Ward Hardee, treasurer. The group elected three members to the board of directors to which the officers of the club are automatically appointed. The three are: J. Brooks Tucker, W. K. Stokes, and J. T. Braxton, Jr.

Police Make 125 Arrests January

Greenville police made 125 arrests during January, 62 of the defendants being white, and 63 colored, according to Police Chief Lester D. Page's report to the Board of Aldermen at the City Hall last night.

The arrests included three white females and four colored females. Thirty-nine of the arrests were for drunkenness. Fourteen arrests were for violations of road and driving laws. Eleven arrests were for miscellaneous offenses, and 10 were for driving motor vehicles while drunk. Six arrests concerned offenses against families and children. Other arrests were for various offenses.

During January the police answered 287 calls, made 243 investigations; checked on 297 complaints; found doors open at 29 stores and other business places at night, and investigated four accidents.

Speech Contest Debaters Chosen

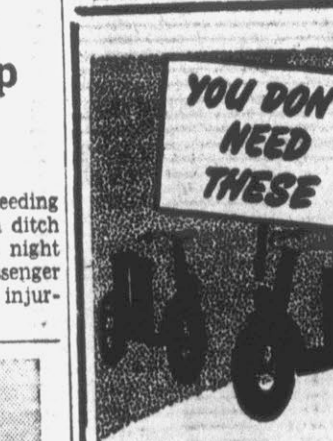

Horace C. Morris of Stella and Miles R. Buck of Syracuse, N. Y., were chosen last night to represent East Carolina Teachers College at a series of contests in public speaking which will be held in the spring at the South Atlantic Debate Tournament in Hickory, N. C. They are members of the Jarvis Forensic Club, which will also send two teams of debaters to participate in inter-collegiate events staged there.

Contests in which Mr. Buck and Mr. Morris will participate will include extempore, after-dinner, and impromptu speaking, radio address reading, standard oratory, and situation oratory.

Storm Damages Big U.S. Liner

London, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The 24,285-ton U. S. Liner Washington was hurled against a Southampton dock today in a howling gale that lashed western Europe from Britain to Portugal. A hole was smashed in her bow.

Most of the liner's 622 passengers were shaken up but none was reported hurt. The number two hold was flooded. The cargo there included automobiles.

AFL 'Ignores' Reynolds Appeal

(From the Reflector's Washington Bureau)

Washington, Feb. 3.—A spokesman for the American Federation of Labor's political arm confirmed here today that former Senator Robert R. Reynolds of Asheville had sought a promise of AFL financial support if he ran for the Senate, and had been turned down.

The spokesman said, however, that when Reynolds wrote a "feeler" letter to the labor organization some time ago, he had intimated that he planned to oppose Senator Clyde R. Hoey, who is on the AFL blacklist as a legislative enemy of labor.

With Reynolds in the race against Senator Frank P. Graham, instead of Hoey, the AFL's attitude toward him would be the "same only more so," the spokesman said.

He pointed out that the AFL already had listed Graham as one of the senators up for election this year who would get labor backing, and he added "we certainly will support Senator Graham against Reynolds."

That labor, as represented by the AFL at least, has no love for Reynolds—or belief in his ability to win—was demonstrated by the fate of his feeler letter seeking financial support in a campaign against the blacklisted Hoey.

That letter, the spokesman said, didn't even draw a reply—"It was just ignored, if I remember correctly," he said.

Graham Hopes To Endorse Moves Strengthen UN

Washington, Feb. 3.—Sen. Frank P. Graham hopes to testify in behalf of legislation for strengthening the United Nations, he said this week.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday began hearings on a number of resolutions designed for this purpose. Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) was the first witness.

Graham, long-interested in international affairs, said he hoped to appear before the committee either tomorrow or sometime next week.

Sen. Clyde R. Hoey was one of the sponsors of the resolution which gives Senate backing to a move to strengthen the United Nations in a number of ways.

Report Dramatic Results With Anti-Arthritic Drug

Pittsburgh, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Physicians at a veterans administration hospital today reported dramatic results have been obtained with a new, cheap arthritis treatment.

Four patients at the Aspinwall VA hospital have been treated. Apparently they are the first in this country to get the new drug—injections of a synthetic adrenal gland hormone and vitamin C.

Dr. Robert Schwartz, chief medical service, said results have been good in three of the four cases but that it's "still too much too early to give a final evaluation."

He said one patient, a 55-year-old man bedfast for six months, walked ten minutes after his first treatment. Another elderly man who was crippled by arthritis got out of his bed and danced a polka, the physician said.

Treatments were first tried in Sweden late last year.

Doctors said enough drugs for one daily treatment costs about $2. In comparison another new arthritis drug—ACTH—costs $200 a gram or enough for eight days treatment.

High School Seniors Given Achievement Tests At College

Members of the senior class of Greenville high school were given achievement tests yesterday morning at East Carolina Teachers College. These tests were Mayers Rush high school Progress Tests, prepared for high school seniors and included mathematics, science, history, and English.

A psychological examination was also given during the time the students were at the college.

The tests were given under the supervision of Professor Frank Fuller, head of the East Carolina Teachers College guidance bureau.

After completing the tests around noon, the seniors were given the remainder of the day off.

More than 32,000 persons were homeless and other thousands were threatened with evacuation today as flood dangers appeared mounting in six central and southern states.

Dramatic Group Preparing Tour

The East Carolina Players, recently organized group of alumni and students of East Carolina Teachers College, are drawing up plans for a tour of twelve eastern North Carolina cities and towns during the first two weeks in June.

With the aim of presenting good drama to children of the state, the Players will give a program of short plays for young people. The tour is planned as a non-profit venture, and fees paid by sponsoring groups in the towns visited will cover only the necessary expenses involved in presenting the plays. The group is composed of members and former members of the Teachers Playhouse, college dramatic club, which each year presents a program of drama for school children of Pitt County. The schedule of towns to be visited is as yet tentative.

In West Virginia where three persons have drowned, 100 families have been evacuated. Other evacuations were reported in Tennessee and in Ohio. Some residents in lowland areas in Indiana were endangered by the rising streams.

The Ohio River, past the $2-foot flood stage in Cincinnati, headed for a predicted crest of 60.5 feet about midnight Saturday.

Rain, which had doused much of the flood area for the past several days, ended today. But colder weather moved in, adding to the discomfort of the homeless.

The river's crest was moving downstream past hard-hit Barbourville and toward Williamsburg. The Kentucky River, in the northern part of the state, crested yesterday, routing some 250 families from their homes. Others were evacuated after floodwaters gushed over areas in northeastern Kentucky.

The swollen Cumberland River spilled over lowlands near Nashville, Tenn., forcing more persons to flee their homes.

Japanese Hunt Big Gold Hoard Dumped Into Sea

Tokyo.—(AP)—A salvage company is undertaking to find the huge hoard of gold that an old fisherman insisted he saw the Russians dump into the sea back in 1905. The story of the fisherman, Katsujiro Matsuo, is that one day off Sasebo, southern Japan, he saw a Russian ship which had been surrendered in the final days of the Russo-Japanese war. As it was preparing to enter Sasebo harbor, he says, he saw sailors throw over the side 16 cases of gold ingots. As a round guess, Japanese say such a quantity should be worth $140,000,000.

Matsuo fished vainly for the wealth for many years. In 1932, prompted by his insistence, the Japanese navy made an unsuccessful try for it. Now the Nippon Shinkai industrial company, a salvage outfit, has taken up the hunt.

Earl Warren To Seek 3rd Term

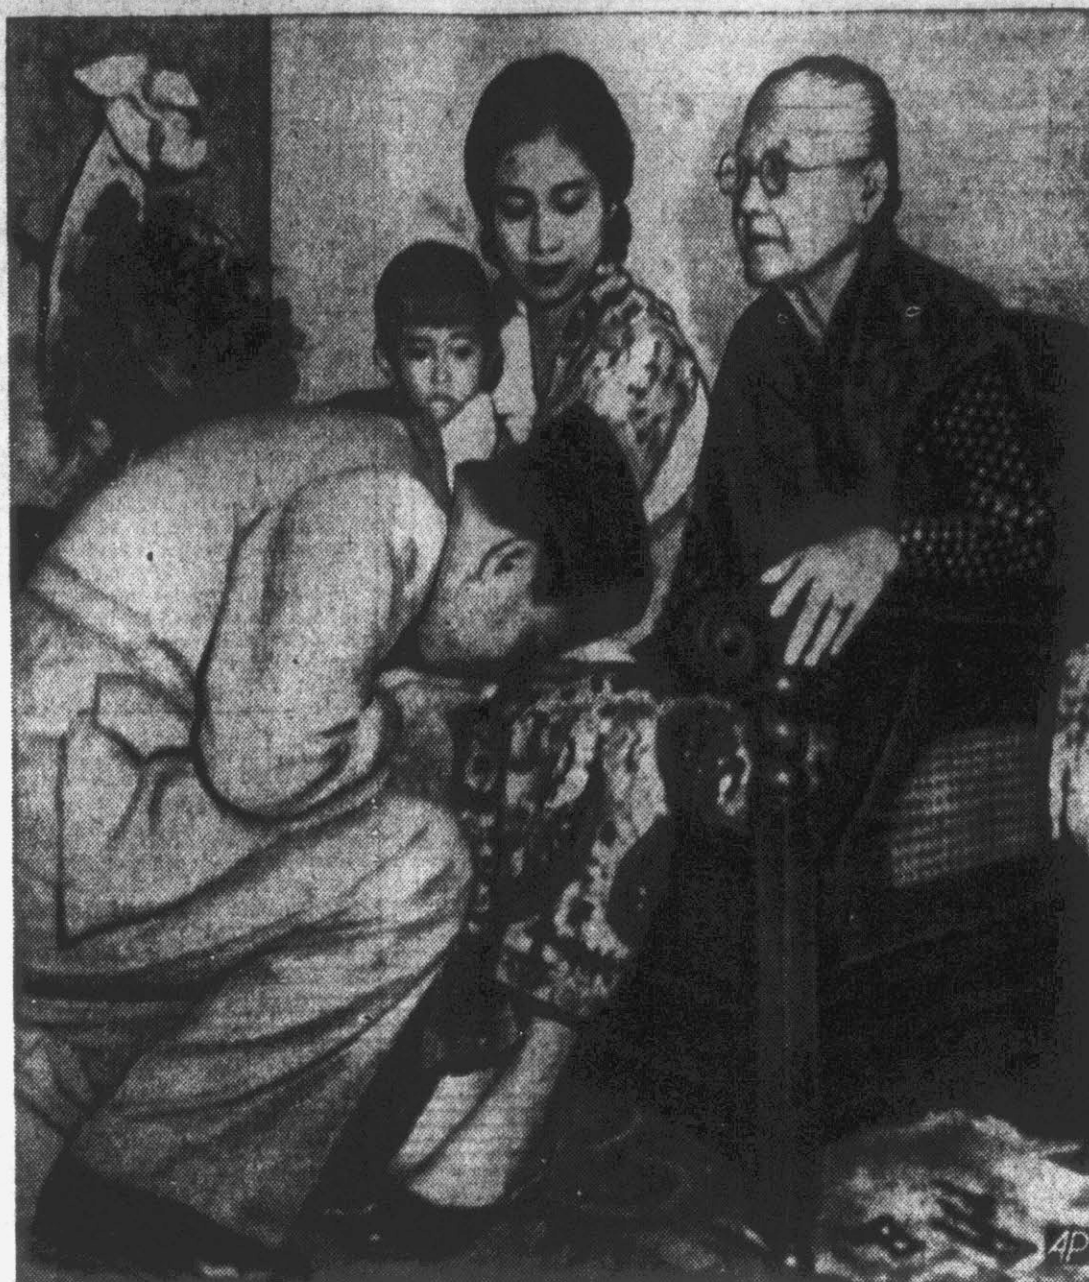

Sacramento, Calif., Feb. 2.—(AP)—California's Republican Gov. Earl Warren has said he will seek reelection for a third term.

Life Expectancy Of Cars Doubled

PHILADELPHIA.—(AP)—Today's automobile life expectancy has doubled. Today, whether the vehicle is ready to fall apart or is fresh off the assembly line, chances are that it will have more than 12 years of service and 103,000 miles behind it before reaching the junk heap. This compares with an average life span of about six years and 25,750 miles for the car of 1925.

These figures are cited by W. L. Aiken, chief automotive engineer at SKF Industries, Inc. He's already driven his own car more than 200,000 miles.

Waynick Reveals Future Interest In Governorship

Washington, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Capus Waynick, ambassador to Nicaragua, says he may run for governor of North Carolina in 1952.

But, he added in a news conference here yesterday, he will not be a candidate for the Senate this year. Waynick is home to report to the President and the State Department. He plans to visit Gov. Kerr Scott and return to Nicaragua in a few days.

The ambassador, former North Carolina Democratic chairman, indicated he would not support former Senator Robert Reynolds, who is running against Senator Frank P. Graham (D-NC).

He said he would do all he could to support Senate candidates who realize these facts:

1. The United States is now the one strong champion of free enterprise and democracy.
2. The world has become one relatively small community as far as travel is concerned and isolationism is a delusion and a snare.

In reply to a question, Waynick said "I don't think that (statement) would describe Mr. Reynolds."

He also said he would vote for Sen. Hoey (D-NC) because there is likelihood there will be no strong opposition to Hoey. However, Waynick added he was not in full agreement with Hoey on some Democratic party policies. He did not elaborate.

Hoey is seeking another six-year term. Graham, appointed last year after the death of Sen. J. M. Broughton, is running for the unexpired four years of the term.

Waynick has a home in Guilford County near High Point. He said he would have been appointed to succeed Broughton had he come from the east.

Lower Price Tag On Super-Bomb

Washington, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Congressmen who deal with atomic matters today put the price tag for the hydrogen bomb at hundreds of millions of dollars—but not billions.

Members of the senate-house atomic energy committee also predicted the gates of secrecy will be slammed shut on the H-bomb until scientists are ready to test it. Some of them seem to think that might be in a year or two.

Strength FOR THE DAY

PICKING BLACKBERRIES
The descriptions in the Bible are both historical events and the symbolic setting forth of great truths. The call to Moses out of the burning bush is a case in point. When Moses turned aside to see, God spoke to him, telling him, among other things, to take off his shoes for the ground whereon he stood was holy.

There are burning bushes all along our pathway, and so often they have no message for us because we are not turning aside to get the message. We are too intent upon some business or social engagement, too anxious to get to the first show at the movies, thinking too much about the dress or the next cocktail party or the scheme by which we may turn every dollar we have into two dollars. God speaks to the human heart every day and numbers of times every day. It is as if our lives were constantly bombarded with messages from outside ourselves, and we are too much preoccupied with other things to listen. Elizabeth Barrett Browning has said: "Earth's crammed with heaven, And every common bush affire with God; But only he who sees takes off his shoes; The rest sit around and pluck blackberries."

COX AND WALDROP

One week ago yesterday the Pitt county grand jury, after a thorough investigation, said in its report Greenville Aldermen Dal Cox and J. Ed Waldrop during recent weeks had acted with intent to obstruct justice in the courts of the city. The grand jury further said the two aldermen had been indiscreet in their actions.

When allegations of attempts by officials to intimidate police officers were first made public, the Reflector maintained that the city officials allegedly involved in the attempt to keep a driving drunk case from going to the city court either should make a satisfactory public explanation of their actions or resign from office.

The only satisfactory explanation of the incident the public so far has received is the grand jury report which said Cox and Waldrop sought to obstruct justice—the justice which protects and maintains the fundamental rights and liberties upon which this great nation has been built.

Last night at the meeting of the board of aldermen each of these men had the opportunity to resign his position of high honor in the city administration, which by all standards of proper conduct in public office he should do. But apparently even in the face of the grand jury's report which charged these men had sought to defraud the people of Greenville of proper protection afforded by impartial law enforcement, these two men chose to hang on to these offices and public trusts which from indications they have subordinated to their own personal feelings and desires.

In our opinion governmental officials who will stoop to seeking to obstruct justice lack the personal integrity which is worthy of Somebody Told Me...

By L. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

There are not many things in this world that will attract the attention that a tree does. Whenever one is to be cut down or dug up the undertaking always attracts a crowd.

For example, the big stump that's sitting in front of Folger Bulck Company has created considerable comment. Moving that stump is a big operation, so Lee Folger dickered with several men about the project.

The one he finally decided to do business with is a character named Parmalee. It makes no difference how the weather is, summer or winter, Parmalee always wears an overcoat, boots and a military cap from The Citadel. Moving a stump is right down his alley.

For over a week Parmalee came in to see Mr. Folger from day to day about the stump. His first price for moving the big one, plus two smaller ones, was $180. During the process of several visits the price finally dropped to $125. "I'll think about it," Mr. Folger finally said.

A few days later Parmalee came in again. Mr. Folger was counting the nickels from the coke machine. "I want to have a few words with you when you aren't so busy," Parmalee said.

"Start talking," was the reply. "But I want to talk when you aren't so busy."

"Go right ahead," Lee said. "I can do this and talk at the same time."

"Well," Parmalee declared with considerable emphasis, "it won't take me thirty days to move those stumps."

Mr. Folger, try as he did, could make no sense out of the statement. But before he could ask a question Parmalee repeated, "No sir! It won't take me 30 days to move those stumps."

"What are you talking about?" Lee asked. "No one has ever said that you are going to move the stumps at all. And certainly no one has said anything about how long it will take."

"Well," Parmalee continued, "I still say it won't take me 30 days. By this time Lee was fed up, but Parmalee was working the deal just the way he had planned it. The idea was to build up suspense, and then spring the news."

"Well," he said to Lee, "it's like this. Either I've got to get $125 right now and give it to Judge Roberts or I'll be out on the roads for 30 days, and I'm telling you that it won't take me 30 days to move those stumps."

Lee advanced Parmalee the $125, and Parmalee was so grateful that he changed his bid on the stump-moving project. "I'll do it for $80," he said.

And I thank you.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

New York—(P)—Hollywood's male Crawford has a solution to the problem of movies versus television.

This Crawford is Broderick Crawford, and his solution to the conflict that has motion picture magnates gnawing each other's fingernails is:

"Turn out the B-grade, or low budget, pictures for television—and the A-grade, high-cost pictures for the film theaters."

Crawford—no relation to Hollywood's female Crawford, Joan—thinks it is foolish for the film industry to war against television, as it once tried to battle radio.

"Right now the movie actors are screaming to get on television," he said, "but the studios won't let them."

"Television won't stop the making of movies. It should, however, force the studios to make a better product."

The people—the cash customers —are shopping around now for entertainment. This isn't wartime. They won't pay just to see anything, but they'll pay anything to see something that is really good."

Crawford is in a position to know something about that. Son of well-known actress Helen Broderick, he made an excellent name for himself on Broadway but spent a dozen years on the west coast before hitting the jackpot.

He did it last year "All the King's Men," an adult picture in which he played Gov. Willie Stark, who resembles the late Huey Long. Eighty leading Hollywood correspondents in an AP poll voted it the best film of 1949 and named Crawford actor of the year.

Right now Broderick, a big, bluff, easy-going ex-sergeant, is the ranking candidate for an academy "Oscar" next month. But he has been acting too long to count on it.

He feels one reason "All the King's Men" turned out so well is the off-hand manner in which it was made. "You want to know a secret?" he said. "It was shot off the cuff."

"Nobody in the cast had a script, and only Robert Rossen, the director producer, really knew what he was doing."

"He let us all read the script once—then took it away from us. Not knowing the dialogue until two minutes before the camera starts grinding really keeps an actor on his toes. It's a wonderful way to work. You don't have time to get bored with your lines."

Rossen also used townspeople around Stockton, Calif., for minor roles and crowd scenes, and Crawford believes that made for naturalness. It certainly has in foreign-produced films.

"One trouble with Hollywood is you can't tell for sure yourself whether a picture is good or bad until you get it out of town," grinned Crawford.

"Nobody gives anybody an honest answer out there. Everybody praises everybody else—to his face, anyway. When I meet someone and he says, 'I just saw your last picture,' I pull two bucks out of my pocket and tell him, 'All right, what did the tickets set you back?'"

The last time I had seen Crawford was in 1944 in Belgium, and he was wearing an army uniform. He had dropped in on a war correspondent's party. When I asked if he remembered the occasion, he said: "Do I? They took me for my last cent in a crap game that night."

He'd be much better pickings now. He was only drawing a sergeant's pay then.

Dr. Lucile Turner To Speak Before Faculty Lecture Club Monday

First Gentile Church Was at Antioch

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 11:19-24

After Peter had converted the household of Cornelius, the Roman, he returned to Jerusalem, where his brethren chided him for eating with Gentiles, but he explained that it was by God's command.

After Stephen's martyrdom, the apostles scattered to far places, Barnabas going to Antioch. Finding people there eager for the Gospel, Barnabas brought Saul to Antioch to help him in his work.

When the Christians at Antioch heard that there was likely to be great want in Judea, they sent relief to the brethren there by the hands of Barnabas and Saul.

Herod put Peter in prison under strong guard, but an angel released him and brought him to the city gates, which opened of their own accord.

MEMORY VERSE—Acts 20:35.

First Gentile Church Was at Antioch

IT WAS THERE DISCIPLES WERE ORIGINALLY CALLED CHRISTIANS.

Scripture—Acts 11:19-24

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

IN THIS LESSON we learn of the beautiful co-operation practiced by Christians in the early days of the church.

Is it not a shame that after all these years so many differences have arisen that the church is divided, and often antagonistic—one sect demanding that the others should think as they think—when all have access to the Holy Book of scripture to guide them?

After the martyrdom of Stephen, the apostles scattered, some traveling as far as Phoenicia, Cyprus and Antioch (see map that accompanies the Memory Verse). They preached to Jews only, but some were from Cyprus and Cyrene, and when these men came to Antioch, they preached the teachings of Jesus Christ to Greeks and others.

A great many believed and "turned to the Lord." When word of this reached Jerusalem, Barnabas was sent to Antioch. He "was a good man, and full of the holy Ghost and of faith; and much people were added to the Lord."

Seeing much work to be done at Antioch, Barnabas went to Tarsus to seek Saul (Paul), and when he found him, he brought him to Antioch. This is the beginning of Paul's many missionary journeys, which are shown on the map mentioned above.

MEMORY VERSE

"And to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, that He himself said, It is more blessed to give than to receive."—Acts 20:35.

Holy Ghost and of faith; and much people were added to the Lord."

Seeing much work to be done at Antioch, Barnabas went to Tarsus to seek Saul (Paul), and when he found him, he brought him to Antioch. This is the beginning of Paul's many missionary journeys, which are shown on the map mentioned above.

For a whole year Barnabas and Saul (or Paul) stayed at Antioch, organizing the church and preaching, and it was here that the disciples were first called Christians.

When these Christians in Antioch heard that the church in Jerusalem was in need, they—"every man according to his ability"—sent relief by Saul and Barnabas. The disciples at Antioch were not rich but they sent what they could to forestall the famine which came later.

That spirit of generosity and Christian love is still abroad in our world, in spite of many "cold wars" and antagonisms that threaten to rend it asunder. Food, clothing, medical supplies, etc., are being sent to lands where people are in need. That is a hopeful and happy sign.

In the 12th chapter of Acts we read that Herod began again to persecute the Christians, and he

Peter in the flesh. They said it must be his angel, but there he was and they received him with great rejoicing.

"Now there were in the church that was at Antioch certain prophets and teachers; as Barnabas, and Simon that was called Niger (a common Roman name), and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manass, which had been brought up with Herod the tetrarch, and Saul."

Saul is mentioned last in this list, but he and Barnabas were the men the Holy Ghost selected when he said "Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them."

And when they had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them (Paul and Barnabas) away.

So began the great missionary work of Saul, later called Paul. St. Luke, who wrote the book of Acts, knew and was associated with Paul. The early part of the Acts of the Apostles he wrote from interviewing those who had been with Jesus from the first and had been associated with Him all His days on earth.

In the space assigned us we have no room to tell of the many interesting things concerning places and persons who enter into the lesson.

Find Missouri's Bottom Damaged

Portsmouth, Va., Feb. 3.—(AP)—A 12-foot long gash sliced in the battleship Missouri's bottom when she grounded on Thimble Shoal was discovered yesterday.

An Atlantic Fleet spokesman said the gash was cut by a sharp steel plate believed to be part of a wrecked ship on the bottom of Chesapeake Bay. It caused flooding of three double-bottom compartments. A small portion of the plate still was stuck in the opening when the ship's bottom was inspected in dry-dock here.

Salvage experts suggested that the steel plate played a big part in holding the 45,000-ton warship prisoner on the shoal for 15 days. She was freed yesterday on the fifth attempt and towed to the Norfolk Naval Shipyard at Portsmouth.

The gash is the only damage that will require repair, the fleet spokesman said.

Rear Admiral Homer N. Wallin, commandant of the shipyard and deputy chief of the salvage operation, said he was fairly certain the Big Mo will be ready for sea in seven days and possibly in five.

Army To Set Up New Airborne Center At Bragg

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The Army today announced that a new airborne center will be set up within the next two or three months at Fort Bragg, N. C.

This move, like the creation of an Army airborne panel announced January 25, reflects the demand of General J. Lawton Collins, chief of staff, for increased army emphasis on transportation by air.

The army said broad concepts of airborne operations will be developed at the new center in close cooperation with the Air Force and Navy. Joint airborne doctrines will be studied, it added, with emphasis on tactics and training and Army needs for transport planes. Airborne weapons and equipment will also be evaluated.

Birth Rate For France Still Up

Paris.—(AP)—France, whose low birth-rate caused concern to national leaders before the war, is now producing more babies. Official statistics for 1949, just issued, show 940,000 births during the year as compared with an annual average of about 630,000 in the immediate pre-war years. The number of marriages in 1949 was 320,000, a slight decrease as compared with 1948.

Official estimates placed the population of France for the year at around 42,000,000.

Reinforcement

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Navy has announced that it soon will strengthen the Pacific fleet with an additional escort aircraft carrier.

Only last Tuesday, it had announced plans to add two cruisers and six destroyers to the forces in that ocean.

An escort carrier is a particularly useful vessel for anti-submarine service.

Russia's principal naval strength in the Pacific is in submarines.

The Navy said the 11,000-ton carrier Sicily will be shifted from the Atlantic fleet to the Pacific fleet in mid-April.

The Sicily is now being overhauled at the Boston naval shipyard. After its move to the Pacific it will be based at San Diego, Calif.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. — (AP) — John Branaman is 80. He lived alone in a shack until fire turned it into a charred ruin. All he had left were the clothes on his back.

Then three small boys went from house to house. They collected a purse for Old John. It added up to a few pennies less than $14. It was enough to bring a tooth-less smile to a time-seamed, weary face.

Gulf Stream Is Nearer Alabama

Mobile, Ala., Feb. 3.—(AP)—The Gulf stream has moved close to the Alabama Gulf coast, bringing warm water and tropical seaweeds to the area, Weatherman W. L. Tilson reported today.

Tilson said incoming ships had reported finding the mighty current 150 miles farther north than usual. The stream circulates in the Gulf of Mexico before heading out into the Atlantic between the south Florida coast and the Bahama Islands.

The same southerly winds which have brought the Gulf Coast one of its warmest winters on record apparently have pushed the Gulf stream from its regular course, Tilson said.

It probably isn't contributing to the mild temperatures now, but in the event of a cold wave will have a softening effect, the weatherman added.

Fast Start By Appalachian Defeats Pirates 63-53 In Conference Contest

Everton Gains Individual Scoring Honors With 23 Points; Bucs Failed To Find Basket In Opening Minutes Of Play

A strong Appalachian Mountain quint, currently ranked number two in the North State conference, overpowered a visiting East Carolina five last night at Boone, 63 to 53. The Pirates hoopers were unable to hit on a single field goal until seven and a half minutes had elapsed in the first half. During the closing minutes of the first period, the Buccaneers finally found the range to pull within five points of the Apps for a halftime score of 26 to 21.

Immediately after the start of the second stanza, the rolling Apps, finding the home court to their advantage, again went on a scoring spree to increase their margin over the Bucs to 21 points at one time. However, towering Jack Everton, continuing his high scoring pace for Coach Howard Porter's quint, kept the Pirates in the ball game as he tallied 16 points in the second half. Everton gained a consolation for the visiting Bucs in last night's tilt, as he received the individual scoring honors of the game with 23 points, on ten field goals and three free throws. Martin and Causey were the leaders for Appalachian with 18 and 16 points, respectively.

Last night's North State was the first of a three-game road trip in the west for the Pirates. They play West Carolina games at Cullowhee Monday and Tuesday.

Two 'Strangers' Have Slim Lead In Tucson Open

Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 3.—(AP)—A couple of strangers in the ranks of the touring pros carry a one-stroke lead into today's second round of the $10,000 Tucson Open Golf tournament.

Wally Ulrich, Minneapolis, Minn., and Manuel De La Torre, Chicago, forced their names before the rest of the fraternity yesterday. Both needed only 6 strokes to cover the par 70 El Rio course.

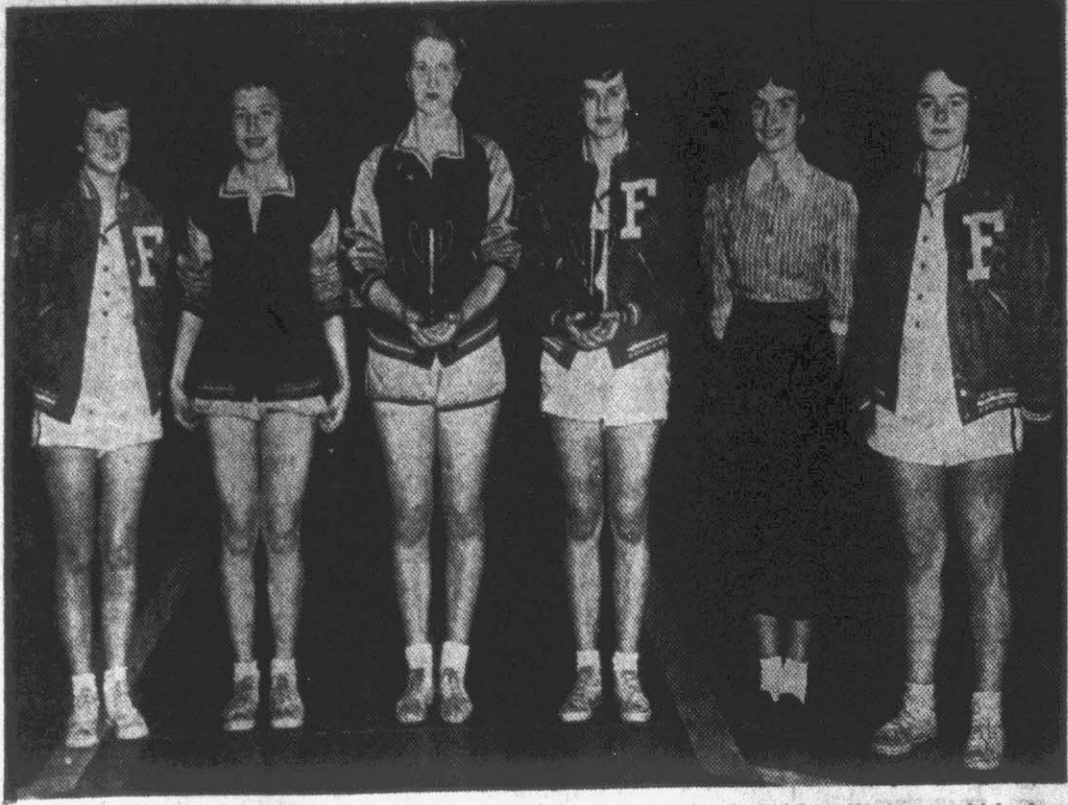

They start out today a scant stroke in front of tournament-wise Tony Penas of Cincinnati, O., and George Buck, Westport, Conn.

A host of other pros are within easy striking distance. Altogether 47 additional members of the group broke par. Another 16 played in even par.

Co-favorite Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif., is poised close behind the four top men with a first round score of 66. So are half a dozen other threats.

Harold Paulsen, Michigan State's hockey coach, was a star puckman for the University of Minnesota.

Tilden Is Voted Tops In Tennis

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The greatest tennis player of the past 50 years is there any argument?

Not in the nostalgic opinion of the nation's sports writers and radio experts. They say that Bill Tilden, net colossus of the golden twenties, outshone every rival by so great a margin there was no real comparison.

The tall, controversial figure who won seven national championships and was ranked No. 1 in the country for 10 straight years from 1920 through '29, won the vote of 310 out of 391 participants in the AP mid-century sports poll.

The voters looked back beyond the personal tragedy which has befell the great champion in recent years and cast almost a solid ballot for Tilden, the tennis player.

Jack Kramer, the current professional king, attracted 32 votes. Don Budge, the red-headed comet of the late thirties, was the choice of 31 experts. Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, glamorous seven-time woman's champion, was voted greatest of the period by 12. The remaining six votes were divided among five players.

Eppes Hoopsters Split Twin Bill Against Wilson

Eppes high school split a double-header with Wilson here Wednesday night as the girls won the first game, 19-16, the boys dropping the nightcap, 28-24.

The boys' game was a runaway affair for the first half with Wilson leading at halftime, 21-6. However, the locals held their opponents to 7 points in the second half, but which was enough for the win. High scorer for Eppes was Hubert Walters with 11 points.

In the girls' game, the Eppes team led from start to finish, leaving the court at halftime with an 11-6 margin. The Wilson girls almost won the game in the last three minutes but the gun sounded before they could overtake the locals lead. Getting the most points for the home club were Margaret Ward with eight and Billie Jenkins with seven points.

St. Mary's Grid Coach Resigns

San Francisco, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Joe Verducci, whose collegiate football teams have been anything but surprising, completely surprised everybody today with his conditional resignation as head coach at St. Mary's College.

The resignation with "certain stipulations" was submitted to the college's board of athletic control in a special meeting here yesterday. William J. Bettencourt, director of public relations, said the board did not disclose what the "certain stipulations" were.

Old Liners Meet Rising Tar Heels

Richmond, Va., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Maryland's Old Liners hope to stop the post-holiday surge of North Carolina's Tar Heels when the two teams battle in a Southern Conference basketball game tonight at College Park.

Since January 9 when the Tar Heels bowed to Kentucky, North Carolina has lost only to North Carolina State. The Tar Heels have won seven games since the Kentucky beating.

Maryland's best bet to turn back the Tar Heels undoubtedly is Lee Brawley, a sophomore forward from Duncan, Ariz. Brawley is the Old Liner's top point-producer. In 10 conference tilts, he's tallied 134 points.

Brawley is a four-sport athlete, participating in basketball, football, baseball and tennis. During his hitch in the Navy, Lee was placed on the Navy Olympic team with such aces as Ken Shugart, Dick Duden, Perry Nelson and Don Dock.

Three other conference games are on tonight's program. Davidson invades the Citadel, Wake Forest travels to the University of Richmond and Clemson moves to South Carolina.

La Motta Faces Warm-Up Fight

Detroit, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Middleweight Jake La Motta promises to go all out tonight to show the boxing world he can put up a good defense for his crown when it goes on the block next summer.

La Motta meets Dick Wagner of Portland, Ore., in ten-round non-title bout at Olympia.

Carl Jeske of Milwaukee recently hit a sweet bowling rut—he rolled a 247, 247, 247—741 series.

Farmville's Winners In Gold Medal Tournament

Big Cage Scorer Reduces Points

River Falls, Wis., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Get out your erasers, you basketball record keepers, here comes a player who's tossing back 310 points he tossed in six years ago.

He's Nate De Long of River Falls State Teachers College. There isn't another player in the nation's collegiate ranks who could afford the gesture.

De Long's decision to relinquish points he scored in 15 games as a first semester freshman in 1943 was approved today by the college athletic council.

"We think the gesture is without precedent in college sports," said Coach George Schlagenhauf. "It's certainly the first time I ever heard of an athlete voluntarily giving up something to which he was entitled."

Until today, De Long's recognized career scoring total was 2,591 points in 107 games, he has 2,281 in 92 for 24.8 average. The total remains a new national collegiate record, surpassing the old mark of 2,199 set by Brooms Abramovic of Salem (W. Va.) College.

You're wondering, probably, why any player would throw away over 300 points. Here's the answer: De Long now is in his ninth semester of competition. He played one semester in 1943 when Wisconsin Teachers Conference had suspended athletics, scoring 310 points. Then he went into the Navy.

In 1946 he came back and has played steadily since. At the start of this year, when he would normally have become ineligible after one semester, the conference ruled those 1943 games would not count against his eligibility. The points, however, have been recognized by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

But De Long doesn't want it that way. A 4½ year record, he figures would have a sort of taint. It's unlikely any other collegian ever will play that long. So he's giving up the points.

Kiner Signs For $65,000 Season With Pirates

Bethel Indians Drop 2 Games To Snow Hill In Final Minutes

Bethel, Feb. 3.—Bethel's sliding Indians dropped two games last night in a non-conference affair to Snow Hill by scores of 36-34 in the boys' game, and 32-31 in the girls' preliminary.

Both teams lost in the last minutes of play, the boys having to watch Snow Hill's Sutton, a forward, sink a desperation field goal to come from a tie score to a freeing game up to the run. The girls lost what would have been a win by a whisker when Snow Hill sank a goal in the last 30 seconds of play.

The Indians were playing without the services of their star forward, Edgar Barnhill, who was out with an inflamed appendix. In his stead, Fred Keel, the other starting forward, scored 14 points only to have Bob Moye of the visitors collect two more points for high-score laurels for the night with 16.

Runnerup to Keel in scoring for the Indians of Walter Latham was ing and pinning down expensive diamond talent, brought the handsome 27-year-old Kiner to heel late yesterday.

Just four days before Hamey had snared the most expensive untied rookie in baseball history when he inked Southpaw Paul Pettit, 18-year-old Lomita, Calif., giant, for $100,000.

Ignoring the storm brewed by the Pettit case Hamey resumed his hunt on the man who hit 54 home runs and drove in 127 runs for the Pirates last year.

Southworth Back With Ball Club; Healthy Again

Boston, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The official family of the Boston Braves looked forward to a successful 1950 season today with the return of a happy and healthy Billy Southworth as manager.

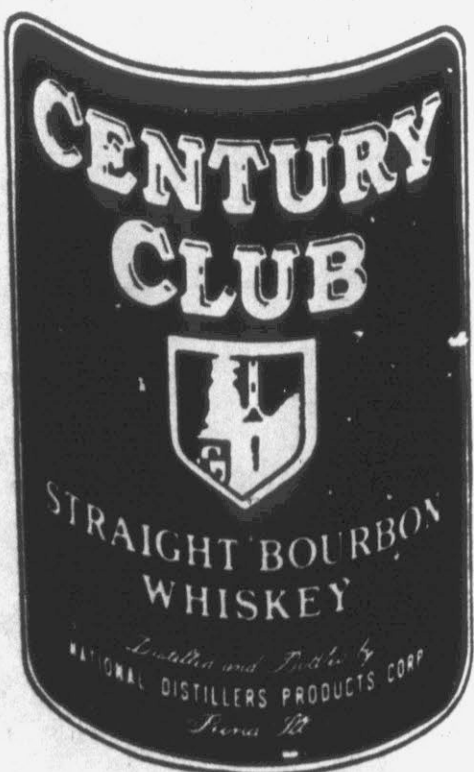

Southworth, who was forced to leave his club because of all health last summer, returned to Boston last night and told more than 1,000 baseball-minded diners at the 11th annual baseball writers' dinner "I'm coming back here to meet a challenge."

After receiving a tumultuous welcome from the large gathering, the Tribe plot promised has club this year "will be out there giving it our best."

"And," he added, "before the three years left on my contract are finished I hope to bring you another championship."

blankets." No one interrupted. The light in the lodge was stronger now, as daylight spread outside. De Polo went on, his voice still calm.

"That I hear and saw. I saw Far Runner, ride away with the three blankets. I was a little puzzled, but it seemed like a good thing, and fair. But I had observed that Zachary took the gifts of blankets from the store of another man, while that man was away. Then, as soon as Far Runner was gone, Zachary found this other man and told him that Far Runner had stolen the blankets. The other man so testified, later. He said that he would go after the thief, and Zachary spoke no word to stop him, to show him that Far Runner was not a thief."

"That's a lie, from start to finish," Zachary blurted. But the paint showed more honestly than ever on his bloodless face.

"It is the truth," de Polo insisted. "This other man was drunk. He followed Far Runner, and because Zachary had told him not to, he shot him and took back his blankets. When that happened, the rest of us were angry, and he told his story. Then, I understood what had been going on, and I told what I knew to the chiefs of the white men."

He looked around, while the silence grew oppressive. His voice was like a knell of doom.

"We tried Zachary and found him guilty. But he killed one white man and escaped, and came to you, to urge you on to war, hoping to wipe out all white men, since all white men who knew his story were now his enemies!"

There was silence again, once he had concluded. The same silence seemed to grip the whole camp while all waited for the decision of the chiefs. Most of the warriors, keyed to a high pitch, did not know what was going on. But that it was something unusual and important none of them could doubt.

There was no sign of grief or anger in White Bear's face, but his very calmness now seemed to increase Zachary's nervousness.

"Aren't you going to hear what I have to say?" he blurted out.

The chief turned a cold stare upon him.

"We have heard you already," he reminded Zachary. "And now I can see that it was all as these men say—that you lied. Far Runner thought that you had lied before he went to see you. First you fooled Lone Buffalo, who was your own blood-brother. Then you betrayed Far Runner to his death, because by so doing you could inflame our minds against your own people, for your own profit."

It was a logical summing up of the case, and the slow nods of the other chiefs showed that they were in complete agreement. White Bear turned to de Polo and Valse.

"You have saved us from a grave error, in coming here to tell us this," he added. "Our hearts were set for war, but now there will be no war. With mischief rooted out, there will be understanding between us."

He arose with dignity, the others following his example. A couple of the braves had moved in on either side of Zachary, and he could read his doom in their faces. Something like desperation cracked his voice, which rose high and shrill.

"Do you take their word above my own? Remember, Lone Buffalo was my brother!"

"I am remembering that," White Bear agreed, and his voice was as grim as his face now.

"Trib, don't let them do this to me!" Zachary exclaimed. "You can't let them do this to me! After all, I'm a white man!"

The appeal was made in English. But this time it evoked more disgust than pity in Valse. Then he remembered Wanda, and her appeal. And he knew the sort of fate which awaited Zachary now at the hands of those he had betrayed. It would be justice—there could be no dispute as to that. Still, it was not white man's justice.

"We were trying him for his crime yesterday," he said, speaking to White Bear. "He had done many things to all of us—to me. We ask that you give him back to us—with the promise that he shall die for the things which he has done." De Polo translated. But White Bear's face did not change.

"No," he said. "I admit that you have much against him, for the things that he has done to you. But so do I. Both of my sons lie dead because of him. And you had him, yesterday. He escaped your justice, and came to us. He shall not escape ours!"

Chapter 29
De Polo went on with the story. When he told how Far Runner had come to town to see Zachary, to discover the truth of what had happened, every chief bent forward tensely. They had heard Zachary's story, and some of them had seen Far Runner killed, apparently murdered in cold blood. But this was something new.

"I heard what passed between them," de Polo explained, "and at the time it seemed good to me. They did not know that I was around, nor guess that I understood the tongue of the Waszaxi.

Zachary told Far Runner that it had all been a mistake, the man that Lone Buffalo had killed, and the killing of Lone Buffalo in turn. That was true. He told Far Runner that the white men wanted only friendship with the red. That, too, was the truth. Then he told Far Runner that gifts would be given him, one for you, White Bear, as the father of Lone Buffalo; one for the mother of Lone Buffalo; one for himself. He took Far Runner to a store, and gave him three

Greenville Phantoms To Invade Edenton Tonight

The Greenville Phantoms travel to Edenton this afternoon to try to duplicate their licking of the Aces three weeks ago. The game is the highlight of a twin-bill of which the Juniors of both teams make up the first half.

In their last engagement, the locals of Coach Bo Farley's coaching went to the scoring races early in the game, emerging very much the winner by a 67-20 score over the vastly out-played Aces.

Since Tuesday night's shellacking at the hands of a towering Kingston ball club, Farley has been running his boys through intensive screening patterns in preparation for the game tonight.

In a hard scrimmage yesterday, in which double and single screening was stressed, Farley thought the team played well as they scored successive baskets against the Juniors. He commented on the over-all team's offense thus far this year, saying he had a scrapping team "if they could only keep their eye all the time." In recent games

Melchior Quits At Metropolitan

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—With a parting wish of good luck to his fellow artists, Lauritz Melchior has bidden farewell to the Metropolitan Opera.

He has been one of the top stars at the Met for a quarter century. But because of differences with the Rudolph Bing, the Met's new manager, the noted tenor announced last night that he will not be back for the next season.

Bootleg Whiskey Supply Found In Ayden Man's Car

Pitt County ABC Officer J. M. Ward and Deputy Sheriff Loyd Manning arrested Autry Lee Haddock, 29, of Ayden, in Winterville last night and confiscated 30 gallons of "bootleg" whiskey and a new Oldsmobile automobile. Haddock gave $300 cash bond for his appearance in County Court next Tuesday.

Ward said he and Deputy Manning spotted Haddock's car parked in the colored section of Winterville while he talked to a colored man. When the officers drove up, Haddock back his car in an effort to get to the highway. Ward backed his car; then Haddock sped forward, the officer stated, cut through a yard and his car landed in a canal in the rear of the premises. A wrecker had to pull out the stranded vehicle.

Ward said Haddock kept his seat when he found his car was stuck and offered no resistance. The cargo of 30 gallons of bootleg whiskey was intact.

'Blue Boy' Resuming Normal Life

Pitt County's "blue boy," Walter Heath, is shown with his father, L. W. Heath, of Ayden (right) and Bob Hawkins, District Supervisor of Vocational Rehabilitation in this area. Hawkins was instrumental in the drive to raise funds in order that Walter could undergo a rare heart operation to save his life. Today, the boy is going back to school and is resuming his normal life, with a few limitations. (Staff Photo by Roy Hardee.)

Students, Parents And Teachers In Discussion

The third meeting of the Greenville high school Student-Parent-Teachers Council was held last night in the high school library at eight o'clock.

The Rev. J. A. Nelson, president of the organization, presided over the program and the business session.

During the business session, a nominating committee was appointed to select candidates for the officers next year.

The nominating committee members are: Mrs. R. W. Stark, chairman, Mrs. Howard Mims, Dr. F. P. Brooks, Rodney Fulcher and Marty Hadley. The constitution of the student-parent-teachers group provides that on the committee appointed there must be two students, one faculty member and two parents.

A movie entitled "You and Your Family" was shown. It dealt with the everyday problems of parents and students and pictured the right and wrong ways in which the situations could be handled.

After the movie, a discussion was conducted by the Rev. Leonard W. Topping in which students, parents and teachers expressed their opinions concerning the problems shown in the movie, and gave their ideas on the ways in which the problem should be met.

The next meeting of the current school year will be in March, when the main business to come before the group will be the election of new officers.

Fix Deadline In Phone Dispute For Mediation

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Government mediators today fixed a Monday deadline for their own for action in the threatening telephone strike next week.

Conciliation Director Cyrus Ching said he will be able to tell by Monday afternoon "whether we are getting anywhere in efforts to head off the strike of 100,000 Bell System workers set for Wednesday, Feb. 8."

A postponement of the strike date might be requested by Ching if he and his aides thought they were making any progress. Ching returned from the west coast two days ago and attacked the telephone problems at once.

Wilson To Build Grain Elevator

Wilson, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Wilson County's Board of Commissioners is expected to take steps next week to acquire funds for building a $300,000 grain elevator here.

The board's plans call for setting up an authority which will issue bonds to build the elevator. Officials hope that construction of the facilities can be started by March 1.

Departs To Attend Accounting School

Dick Fleming of Greenville and Rocky Mount left today for Hartford, Conn., where he will attend a five week course in the Underwood accounting school.

Since his graduation from the University of North Carolina last spring, Fleming has been employed by the Carolina Office Equipment company, making his headquarters in Rocky Mount.

Inquest Feb. 8 Over Death Pitt Tenant Farmer

Lewis Driver, 37-year-old tenant farmer of the Leslie Smith farm, died in Pitt General hospital this morning of a head injury alleged to have been inflicted by George C. Dunn, Greene county native.

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse stated that Driver died of a head injury around 11 o'clock today.

According to reports from the Pitt county sheriff's office, Driver was injured Saturday afternoon in a fight at Bruce Stock's store near Seufferton. He was reported to have been hit by Dunn and knocked to the floor. Following the alleged fight, the man was taken to his home where he remained until he was brought to Pitt General hospital.

The man had been in an unconscious condition since his entrance to the hospital.

Dunn is being held in Pitt county jail without bond, charged with assaulting Driver. A Pitt county jury's inquest will be held on Wednesday night to determine how Driver met his death. Coroner Griffin H. Rouse stated today. The inquest will be held in the Pitt County Court room at seven o'clock.

Dunn was taken into custody by Greene county officers Monday night and was brought to Pitt county by Pitt officers for investigation.

He has been held in the county jail since his arrest pending the outcome of Driver's condition.

Funeral services for Driver will be conducted in Farmville on Sunday afternoon.

Boy Scouts Sat With Aldermen

The Greenville aldermen in their session last night met with ten leading Boy Scouts of the city who were made honorary members of the board of aldermen for last night's meeting.

The ten scouts sat with the mayor and aldermen during the meeting and observed as the city officials transacted the municipal business.

Jake Higgs of Troop 33 was honorary mayor, Ronald Duffin, Troop 33, was honorary alderman and mayor-pro tem, and John Russell, Troop 30, Jimmy Cheatham, Troop 36, Curtis Hendrix, Troop 30, Bobby Starkey, Troop 36, Clifton Boyd, Troop 30, Preston Jarvis, Troop 36, Tommy Smith, Troop 33, and Bobby Harrison, Troop 33, were other honorary members of the board of aldermen.

The scouts were welcomed to the meeting by Mayor W. S. Stafford who expressed the pleasure of the city officials at having the young leaders of the city with them at the meeting. The honorary members of the board sat with the aldermen for approximately two hours of the more than three hour meeting before requesting to be excused because of the late hour.

Jack Dowdy, neighborhood commissioner of the Pitt district of the Boy Scout council, said, "I think the boys liked the meeting. Everything worked out swell, and I think the boys got a lot out of it. We hope we can do the same thing next year."

The scouts who were chosen to serve as honorary city officials were selected by the scout leaders of the city on the basis of rank and activities in scouting.

Plenty Of Work Performed By City Street Department During January

City Street Department head C. K. Beatty last night made his regular monthly report to the Greenville Board of Aldermen, and the report indicates that the department was kept on the move during the month of January.

A breakdown of the reports revealed that during the past month the street department answered a total of 500 different calls in the city other than the ones listed in the regular report. The calls varied from complaints to calls for advice on how to handle various situations.

The department cut down 36 trees, removed 10 of the stumps, and the city trucks hauled 350 loads of limbs and leaves in January.

Beatty stated that all of the city dirt streets were graded by the city motor grader four times during the month.

The roads in Hillsdale were worked on by the street department crews and 157 loads of sand were hauled and placed on the streets in an effort to improve them.

An additional 145 loads of sand was hauled to other parts of the city.

Top soil was placed on the playing field of the Greenville baseball park, and a general clean-up was conducted on the grounds at the park.

The city garbage trucks carried some 1200 loads of refuse for the month.

Six catch basins and storm sewers were cleaned out by the street department during the past month, Beatty said.

Dr. Dan Caldwell Speaks Before Church Clubs

Dr. Dan T. Caldwell of Greensboro, director of the Commission on Educational Institutions of the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina, spoke on education in schools and colleges as he addressed last night the Men-of-the-Church of both the Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church and the First Church of Greenville at a ladies night banquet.

The meeting was the regular monthly gathering of the group and was held at the Meadowbrook church.

Dr. Caldwell answered such questions as "What is Christian Education" and how it differs from secular education. He discussed the academic standards of each type avowing the need for more Christian institutions in operation today.

He stated that "never before in history has there been a need for students to be taught how to live as well as how to make a living" and he qualified his remarks by showing the "futility of bare knowledge as practiced by Germany and Japan in recent years."

Prior to the address, the Men's Club of both churches were served barbecue and fried chicken prepared by the Meadowbrook Church women. Approximately 60 members, wives and guests were present for the dinner and address.

Farmville March Of Dimes Said Gaining

Farmville, Feb. 3.—Sam D. Bundy, chairman of the March of Dimes campaign in Farmville, announces that the response in the past week has been most gratifying.

Only about $450 had been turned in through last week but donations have picked up considerably this week and through Tuesday $1150 had been contributed.

On a statewide basis the campaign has been extended for two weeks beyond the original closing date, Jan. 31. Bundy stated, however, that the drive will end here next Monday unless some special event is scheduled.

Jaycees . . .

(Continued From Page One) boro next weekend, the state convention to be held in Raleigh in May and the national convention scheduled for Chicago in June.

The delegates voted to accept the invitation of the Morehead City club to have the next quarterly district meeting at Atlantic Beach on April 22 and 23.

Ten singers from East Carolina Teachers College under the direction of Professor Dan Vornholt presented a musical program of eight songs which was enthusiastically received by the Jaycees. The songs included chorale selections and solos by Mary Wallace Foy, Al Krekler, Carolyn Isley and Bob Mays.

The clubs of zone eight represented at last night's meeting were Goldsboro, Kinston, Farmville, New Bern, Washington, Morehead City, Beaufort, Jacksonville and Greenville. Other representatives at the meeting were Miss Alice Currin of High Point, executive secretary of the state organization, John Hackney of Wilson, vice president of zone seven, and Rush Hamrick of Shelby and Bucky Snyder of High Point, candidates for state Jaycee offices in the coming election.

Commenting on the meeting, President Moseley of the Greenville club said, "We were highly pleased and thought the district meeting was a great success. It was the largest district meeting held in the state for some time."

ANTI-SUB EXERCISES
Tokyo, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The U. S. Navy will conduct "hunter-killer" anti-submarine exercises this year in the Pacific, where Russia's submarine program is expanding.

Threaten Stop Berlin Traffic

Berlin, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The Russians threatened today to check off entirely Berlin-bound truck traffic at the Helmstedt check point.

(This came on the heels of a U. S. State Department declaration yesterday that the United States is considering counter-measures against the Soviet "baby blockade.")

Border guards at Helmstedt crossed to the British side today and told the western German customs office they had orders from Berlin to reject all trucks which travel on a new type of cargo invoice.

TO SPEAK BEFORE AYDEN WOMAN'S CLUB FEBRUARY 7

Dr. Nell Hirschberg of Raleigh will speak to the Ayden Woman's club on February 7, at 3:30 p. m. in the Community building. Dr. Hirschberg's visit is being sponsored by the Music and Art Department. Her subject will be "Jewish Music." The public is cordially invited to hear this address.

Long Meeting . . .

It was decided that the new city code books would be placed in the city library, the local school and college libraries, and in the hands of city officials and departments and city and county court and law enforcement officials. Individuals can purchase the code books at a cost of $15 each.

The matter of rural firefighting again came up for discussion with no final action in the matter taken.

Bids for repainting Guy Smith stadium were received as follows:

Globe Hardware Co., labor and materials (brush job) $2,310; Pitt Hardware Co., (spray job) $1,267.50; (brush job) $1,667.50; J. A. Watson (combination brush and spray) $3,350; (brush job) $4,050; C. H. Edwards Hardware House $1,980; H. L. Hodges Co., $1,175. The matter was referred to the finance committee for study and report at a call meeting if it decided that the work was to be carried out before the opening of the spring baseball season.

Bids were submitted on a new bookkeeping machine for the clerk's department and the final decision in the matter was left up to the mayor and city clerk.

Mayor Stafford, Chief Page and the recreation commission were empowered to close various streets at certain times for the use of skaters if same met with the approval of the property owners in the areas.

The purchase of a new air compressor for the street department was ordered.

The police and fire department committees were given authority to go into the matter of the purchase of new uniforms for the police and firemen.

The matter of prices for lots in the new section of Greenwood cemetery recently opened was placed in the hands of the mayor and cemetery committee with power to act.

A report of C. K. Beatty, superintendent of streets, and the payment of bills concluded the meeting.

The assumption of the Russian note of course is that the emperor has been a powerful ruler who would be responsible personally for the issuance of orders for the conduct of war.

How Much . . .

(Continued from page one) allowance in the oil and mining business "goes on and on year after year, even though the original investment in the property has already been recovered tax free, not once, but many times over."

Some movie actors—like Bing Crosby and Bob Hope—have gone into oil drilling ventures.

Now take the provision affecting "intangible" drilling costs—how would it affect a Hollywood star in the top income tax bracket, where the tax is 77 per cent on income after business expenses?

Before having a go at oil prospecting, he has earnings or investment income on which he is left only 23 cents on the dollar after paying income tax. So he puts some of this money into well digging.

If he fails to strike oil, he's really out only 23 cents on each dollar that goes into "intangible" drilling costs—and remember, that's 50 to 75 per cent of all drilling costs. (There are depreciation allowances on the remaining drilling costs.)

If he strikes oil, he still has the deduction from his income from oil, movies, radio, etc., and in addition an oil-producing investment carrying a tax exemption on up to half of its net profits.

Alternatively, he can sell the property six months later with no tax liability beyond the 25 per cent capital gains rate on his profit, which is less than a third the income tax he pays on his personal earnings.

Oil men contend this sort of case is an exception to the rule; that, despite treasury claims to the contrary, most oil drilling or "wild-cating" is done by independent prospectors, many of small means.

They say it costs heavily to drill a well—$20,000 or more—and a driller faces chances of drilling so many "dry" holes before he strikes oil that he'll quit trying unless he can count on the present tax allowances.

ECTC Students Begin Register For New Quarter

Preliminary registration for courses to be taken during the spring quarter was held at East Carolina Teachers College yesterday. At that time students at the college met with their faculty advisors and prepared their schedules for the next regular term at the college.

The winter quarter will close Saturday, February 25. The spring quarter will begin the following Monday, February 27, when final registration will take place. Students may begin paying fees for the new term on Monday, February 13.

Preliminary registration, which is part of the guidance program at the college, is held before the beginning of each quarter. It affords students an opportunity to consult with counselors and advisors from the college staff and to receive aid and advice on the choice of courses to be taken and on various other matters relating to their work.
