President May Draw On Fund To Aid Indochinese

Promises Of American Aid Held Out To Newly-Recognized Governments

Washington, Feb. 8 (AP)—Officially today President Truman may draw on a special $75,000,000 Far Eastern fund to help newly recognized Indochinese governments fight Communist expansion.

A promise of American aid to the new governments of Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia was held out by the State Department yesterday in announcing United States recognition of these French-supported regimes.

This action followed British recognition by a few hours and came within a matter of days after France had ratified agreements establishing the three states as independent political units within the French union.

Recognition by this country had been foreseen, but not so quickly. The speed apparently was prompted by Russia's recognition of the Indochinese regime of Communist Ho Chi-Minh last week.

This Soviet move, following a similar step by the Chinese Communist government, was generally interpreted here as meaning that Indochina may be the object of the next Communist drive in Asia.

Australia today joined the U.S. and Britain in recognizing the three French-backed regimes in Indochina. External affairs minister Percy S. Spender said recognition would encourage moderate nationalist leaders in Indochina who opposed domination by Russia or Red China.

In its recognition statement the United States declared its intention to meet the challenge in this new war battle ground.

Expressing hope that the new French-backed governments will maintain effective Democratic institutions, the statement said:

"This government is considering that steps it may take at this time further these objectives and to insure, in collaboration with other like-minded nations, that this development shall not be hindered by internal dissension fostered from abroad."

"Any steps that the United States takes will cost money. The money most readily available to the President is that in the $75,000,000 fund which Congress voted last fall for use in opposing Communism in the general area of China.

Sweet Potato Market Obtained

Dunn, Feb. 8 (AP)—Several years of negotiations for a sweet potato auction market here were climaxed yesterday in a contract signing in the office of the local chamber of commerce.

The market will be chartered as the Dunn-Producer Auction Market, Inc. and for the first year will buy and sell potatoes only. Long range plans include a program for dealing in all sorts of fruits, nuts, vegetables and farm products.

Report Famine

Hong Kong, Feb. 8 (AP)—Famine is sweeping East China north of the Yangtze River with at least 16,000,000 persons feeling the pinch.

The Communist news agency yesterday told of the food crisis. Drought, floods and disruptions to farming caused by the civil war are blamed.

Of the 16,000,000 some 2,700,000 were said by the news agency to be facing starvation.

Zoning Regulations

City Planning Experts Report Many Zoning Regulations Are Out Of Date; How Communities Are Affected; 'Self-Sufficient' Neighborhood Development

By ALEXANDER B. GEORGE

Washington, Feb. 8 (AP)—Many American cities—perhaps your town is one of them—would be more prosperous and livable if their zoning regulations were up to date.

So say city planning experts who made a study of the zoning problem for the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Zoning pointers by these experts are contained in a 44-page booklet just issued by the Chamber.

Zoning regulations desirable some years ago are now "sadly out of date," the experts say, largely because of great changes in the commercial and residential setups of many cities during the past 20 to 30 years.

Early zoning ordinances set apart long stretches of a city's main streets for business use only. Now many business enterprises have moved to outlying locations, and old commercial zones in the wrong location for merchandising and transportation.

Numerous manufacturing concerns have abandoned the multi-story factory for the one-floor production line. As a result more land is needed for the factory and for off-street

All-Time High For Red Underground

Russian Undercover Activity In U.S. Reported At Record Level As FBI Chief Relates Investigation Of Klaus Fuchs

Washington, Feb. 8 (AP)—Russian undercover activity in the United States was reported today at an all-time high.

The report came from a lawmaker familiar with evidence on the Klaus Fuchs case which FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has been placing before Congress.

Hoover, seeking enough funds for at least 300 more G-Men, was said to have told a Senate appropriations subcommittee there are 340,000 Communists and fellow travelers in this country, 54,000 of them card-carrying party members.

He also is understood to have said that Fuchs, the British scientist now under arrest in London for passing atomic secrets to Russia, had many opportunities to carry out his operations here.

Fuchs comes up for trial Friday, charged with two violations of the Official Secrets Act. Officials here say these involve two specific leaks of atomic information to Russia—once here in 1948 and the other in Britain in 1947.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) disclaimed last night that he is asking Attorney General McGrath to try to extradite Fuchs from Britain for trial before an American court.

He said such a procedure would provide the "best deterrent" to atomic espionage in the United States.

Hoover's appearance on Capitol Hill yesterday was his third in five days.

Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.) of the appropriations group declined to confirm that Hoover had estimated the number of Communists in the United States, as reported by other lawmakers.

But he did tell reporters that an investigation conducted by a judicial subcommittee which he also heads "confirms the figures."

McCarran is chairman of a bill designed to bar subversive aliens from the U.S. entry.

Two Indiana Republicans said the Truman Administration must bear a large share of the responsibility if there are as many Communists in the country as Hoover reportedly said.

"It just proves what many of us have been saying for a long time—that the Fair Deal party has been sympathetic to Communists and fellow travelers," said Senator Caperton.

Senator Smith (R-NJ), a supporter of the European Recovery Program, told a reporter there is no doubt a conservative victory would "make it much easier" to get congressional approval of the third-year program.

The reason, he said, is that Congress would have more confidence in the British government's economic and social welfare policies under Churchill.

Smith said many members of Congress do not agree with the Labor government's nationalization of industries and its economic and social policies.

"If the Labor government returns to power with its same policies," he said, "it will be like pulling teeth to get money for Europe."

High Postoffice Official Resigns After Request

Postmaster General Confirms Special Assistant's Case Being Probed

Washington, Feb. 8 (AP)—A high postoffice official has quit by request—in connection with dealings in special stamp issues which reportedly cost "investors" hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Postmaster General Donaldson confirmed last night that Harold F. Ambrose, his special assistant in charge of public relations, had been asked to resign and had done so Jan. 11.

Donaldson would not discuss the case in detail, saying that it was "still under investigation by the postoffice inspectors."

He did say he had requested the resignation after getting reports that Ambrose had offered to act as agent for buyers of large blocks of commemorative stamp issues.

Ambrose, married to a niece of Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), was said to have entered the Postoffice Department's Information Section in 1933, when the senator was first assistant postmaster.

The special assistant's job Ambrose held until recently was a $10,000 a year.

Mrs. O'Mahoney told newsmen last night that Ambrose had gone to the senator and reported being "in a jam."

"Mrs. O'Mahoney's advice, she said, was to tell the full story to Donaldson, then quit."

There had been reports that a postal official had promised a 50 per cent profit in 90 days to investors in eastern cities who went in on a scheme to buy and sell special stamp issues.

Officials said close to $400,000 was invested on the basis of that promise. While early investors reportedly got their promised profits, others were left with losses of over $300,000 when the scheme blew up.

Mrs. O'Mahoney said Ambrose "didn't take a dime" to her knowledge of the dealings which resulted in his ouster from the Postoffice Department.

Officials said they understood Ambrose used postoffice stationery, but they said no government funds were involved in any way. No charges have been filed, they added.

The mayor said, however, he feels the board of aldermen will comply with the county's request for the sale of the city property on the courthouse square, and in the meantime he stated he will contact the engineer of the state highway patrol to see whether a 50 year lease would be acceptable to the state.

An option has been taken on land near the intersection of East Fifth and East Tenth Streets where the proposed highway patrol headquarters building is to be built. Stafford said earlier the highway patrol is expected to spend approximately $50,000 for the erection of building, and probably a patrol radio station would be added at a later date.

Belgium To Vote On King Leopold

Brussels, Belgium, Feb. 8 (AP)—The Belgian house of representatives voted today to ask the people of this country whether they want King Leopold to return to his throne. The referendum will be late in March.

By a vote of 117 to 92 the house approved an "advisory referendum bill" on the question of restoration of Leopold, who has been in exile since the war. The bill already had senate approval.

Two Men Stage $120,000 Holdup

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 8—Two men robbed the bank of Douglas in downtown Phoenix of $120,000 cash today.

Police said the men caught the janitor outside the bank about a. m. forced him to let them into the building and waited until Jim Wise, a bank employee, arrived about 7:40 a. m.

Wise was forced to open the safe. The robbers then locked the employees in a room and left.

Chiefs Of Staff Begin Defense Survey In Hawaii

Pearl Harbor, Feb. 8 (AP)—The touring U.S. joint chiefs of staff today began a first-hand survey of the military picture in Hawaii. They are on their way home from Japan, Okinawa, Guam and Kwajalein.

The four top commanders flew in yesterday for three days of conferences with Hawaii's military chiefs and inspection of installations.

Gen. Omar Bradley was asked at a news conference if it would be wise to establish a Southeast Asia holding line against communism as was done with military aid in Greece and Turkey.

A decision on any such policy is up to President Truman, said the chairman of the joint chiefs. The joint chiefs' job is to advise on the "military implications."

He added that "political implications may at times override military implications."

Addressing the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce later, Bradley said the U.S. is maintaining as strong a defense establishment as it can afford. Trying to achieve absolute security, he said, would spend the nation into bankruptcy. He added:

"This would accomplish what our cold war opponent would like to see accomplished."

To an audience interested in military payrolls, Bradley said Hawaii has been stripped of military forces because "our frontier, our outposts have been shoved far to the westward."

Jurors Acquit Girl In Mercy-Killing Verdict

Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 8 (AP)—Carol Ann Paigh, acquitted in the mercy slaying of her cancer-ridden father, planned today to return to college as soon as she rests up from the ordeal of her trial.

The 21-year-old bride, who pleaded temporary insanity, was freed last night by a jury of 12 parents.

Unexpected

Chicago, Feb. 8 (AP)—The government received $10 it wasn't expecting today.

John T. Jarecki, deputy collector of internal revenue whose main business is accepting income tax returns, said the following letter came with the money:

"I have come over the enclosed 1949 (income tax form) very carefully. No tax due this year."

"Nevertheless, I think I should kick in something under the circumstances. In all truthfulness, I am not a dime ahead after all the bills are paid, nor have I been ahead all year."

"But we are eating better than before and no landlord can put us out of here. So here's ten bucks, and let's build a bigger and better A-bomb than the one Joe Stalin's cooking up for us."

Jarecki deposited the money to the treasury's general fund credit. He declined to disclose the name of the sender.

Plans Action On County's Offer

Mayor To Call Special Meeting Of Aldermen On Friday

Mayor W. S. Stafford of Greenville said today he will call a special meeting of the board of aldermen Friday morning to take final action on the county commissioners proposal Monday concerning the purchase of highway patrol headquarters.

The aldermen in their meeting Thursday agreed to pay $1,500 of the $3,000 purchase price for a site for the patrol headquarters, and the county commissioners Monday agreed to pay $1,500 of the purchase price provided the board of aldermen would sell to the county a 30 x 30 plot of land near the court house for $1,000.

The county commissioners proposed the lease of the property to the state highway patrol be made for a 50-year period, while Mayor Stafford said the city administration had in mind a 99 year lease for the property.

The mayor said, however, he feels the board of aldermen will comply with the county's request for the sale of the city property on the courthouse square, and in the meantime he stated he will contact the engineer of the state highway patrol to see whether a 50 year lease would be acceptable to the state.

Struck By Auto, Dies Of Injuries

Grimesland Man Dead After Mishap On Sunday Night

James C. Boyd, Negro, age 31, of Grimesland, Route 1, died in Pitt General Hospital yesterday of injuries received when he was struck by a car on the Washington highway Sunday night about 8:00.

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse stated today that an inquest will be held into the death of the man on Friday night, February 10, in the Pitt County Courthouse.

Patrolman R. H. Chadwick, investigating officer, stated that Albert R. Gardner Jr., of 607 W. Third Street, Washington, N.C., was the driver of the car at the time of the accident.

The patrolman quoted the driver as giving the following account: "He was driving along the highway about 50 miles per hour and was meeting another car when the man was seen walking on the wrong side of the highway. The man ran out in front of him and he cut his wheels in an effort to avoid striking him, but could not."

Boyd was taken to Pitt General Hospital by Gardner.

The coroner stated that the man died of a skull injury.

This marks the second death on the Pitt County highways in the new year. One death was recorded in January. In 1949, twelve persons met death on the roads.

Lewis And Coal Operators Agree To Try Negotiation

Unemployment Benefit Claims In Pitt Rising

Washington, Feb. 8 (AP)—President Truman's coal fact-finding board today won agreement from John L. Lewis and the coal operators to try again for agreement on a coal contract through negotiations.

The new bargaining sessions were set for 2 p.m. (EST) with the board members sitting in as observers.

The board members were optimistic that the whole coal dispute might be settled before nightfall.

David Cole, chairman of the board, had remarked that he believed an agreement might be reached "in two or three hours."

Lewis said it was "possible."

The operators indicated they were less optimistic.

The board's proposal came after a somewhat stormy hour and a half of hearings during which Lewis once called coal man George H. Love "a liar by the clock."

Cole asked whether Lewis ever had presented any specific contract demands to the mine operators.

Love said he was informed by Cyrus S. Ching (Federal Mediation chief) that "it was the union bargaining technique to say that you men own the mines, I have the men in the palm of my hands—what do you bid?"

Lewis jumped up and leveled off at Love across the table:

"That's an infamous and deliberate lie. I said we represented the men. I say to you, George Love, you're a liar by the clock."

Cole tried to interrupt Love protesting. "I don't want to go into personalities, Mr. Cole."

"Why not?" Lewis shouted. "Why not?"

Cole restored calm and the hearings went on.

The chairman announced just before the Lewis outburst that the board would not take formal testimony, but would instead question the principals in public hearings to determine the facts.

In this way, Cole said, the board could speed up its report to the President "if one is necessary."

He did not elaborate on that statement. President Truman has asked for a report by Monday.

The board had some informal sessions with Lewis and the coal operators yesterday.

Awarded Fortune That 172 Others Had Been After

New York, Feb. 8 (AP)—Hollis Powers Gale felt today like a man who had just been handed a $5,000,000 fortune that 172 other people had been after.

Because that is just what happened.

And the sensation, says Gale, is "particularly gratifying."

Gale, a New York businessman, was adjudged yesterday the sole heir of the late-million dollar estate of the late aged reclus, Mary Bullock Powers.

Miss Powers, who had lived the last quarter century in a strange, shut-away-from-the-world solitude, died without a will 20 months ago, a set off a transatlantic scramble for her millions.

Men and women in this country and abroad—173 of them—put in their bids for the money, claiming various degrees of kinship.

King George V was kindly but a rather tough disciplinarian, and perhaps naturally kept a stern eye on his successor to the rule of the world's greatest empire, Queen Mary very quietly used to act as a buffer between the king and the prince when things got too hot for the young man.

Edward always showed a great sense of responsibility. Moreover, he was quite aware of the greatness of imperial majesty. He had striven to learn of that from his great-grandmother, the Austere Queen Victoria, whom he worshipped as a tiny boy.

Returning To England

Duke And Duchess Of Windsor Said Going Home After Self-Imposed Exile; Aging Dowager Queen Behind Decision; The Bond Between Mary, Edward

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor are reported in the London Evening Star to be planning a return to England to live again after their years of self-imposed exile.

If the former King Edward VIII and his American Duchess do pursue this course, a lot of Britons will be made glad. He was one of the most popular princes ever to come to the throne—Prince Charming they called him—and his abdication in order to marry America's Mrs. Wallis Simpson formed one of the unhappy chapters of the royal house.

The Duke's mother, Dowager Queen Mary, is said by the Star to be among those who have had most to do with his decision to return home. That is a most interesting item, for two reasons which might seem to contradict each other, but really don't:

One is that the bond of love between the aged mother and her first-born son always has been very great; the other is that this forceful woman, who is every inch a queen, is said to be among those who have censured the Duke most severely for quitting his throne as

The centerpiece was of red carnations and white baby breath flanked by burning white tapers. Small tables were arranged in a circle with red and white streamers extending from the ceiling to each table. Valentine favors of red and white baskets of candy were at each place. Commander Earl Alder of the local post gave the invocation. After enjoying a delicious supper the ladies and their guests enjoyed spirited contests and an hour of fellowship.

Clem Garner was presented a cake he won, and he in turn auctioned the cake and gave the proceeds to the auxiliary. Kenneth Brown won the cake.

Several contests were enjoyed and prizes were presented the following: Mesdames Margaret Joyner, Edith anged in low crystal on a mirror reflector, tied by burning white tapers in crystal candelabra made the pretty centerpiece.

Iron Curtain Hides Fate Two U. S. Missionaries

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The U.S. embassy announced today it had received reports that two American Mormon missionaries "disappeared" in the province of Moravia Jan. 28 and have not been heard from since.

The embassy said it had asked the Czechoslovakian foreign ministry to supply information "concerning the welfare and whereabouts" of missionaries Stanley E. Abbott and G. Aldon Johnson.

While the embassy announcement made no mention of arrests, reliable Western diplomatic sources said the two men had been arrested by Czech police near Olomouc on unspecified charges.

These sources said the missionaries had been incommunicado and that all efforts of American authorities to see them have failed.

Wallace Toronto, head of the Mormon Church in Czechoslovakia, said Abbott, 23, came from Lehigh, Utah, and that Johnson, 22, was a resident of Idaho Falls Idaho.

Both were unmarried and had been in Czechoslovakia a little over two years.

The Mormon Church has been meeting with difficulties with the Czech government since last May. Since then 13 of its missionaries have been ordered expelled from the country on charges of "endangering the safety and security of the state."

Inter-Religious Council Meets

The executive committee of the newly organized Inter-Religious Council of East Carolina Teachers College, held its initial meeting Monday afternoon of this week in the administration building on the campus, and at that time elected officers and began a plan of work for the remainder of the school year.

Its work will include cooperative efforts to encourage church attendance and student participation in the programs of churches in the city.

Peggy Monroe of St. Pauls was chosen at Monday's meeting to serve as president of the executive council of the organization. Other officers elected at the same time are Houston Williams of Leland, vice president, and Catherine Hill of Deep Run, secretary and treasurer.

More Blue Mold In Coming Year

Raleigh, N.C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Tobacco growers are in for a rough year with blue mold, according to an N.C. State College plant pathologist.

Howard R. Garris, extension pathologist, said yesterday the mold has been reported in hold-over plants in old beds as early as the first week in January in Cook County, Georgia. It is the earliest appearance of the mold on record.

North Carolina farmers faced a widespread shortage of tobacco plants last year because of the mold. The shortage cost them hundreds of thousands of dollars.

"Those who are uncertain about what to do" about the mold, said Garris, "should see their county agent or write to the Agricultural Editor, State College Station, Raleigh, for complete information."

Peach, Apple Production Off

Raleigh, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Commercial peach production in North Carolina dropped 13 per cent last year, according to the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

Commercial apple production, the Service revealed in a report yesterday, was off 54 per cent from the preceding year.

The 1949 peach crop was 1,426,000 bushels, the second lowest since 1929. Apple production was estimated at 448,000 bushels, the third lowest crop since 1934. The declines were attributed primarily to late spring frosts.

Record Number Registered Cars

Raleigh, N.C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—A record number of motor vehicles—1,030,319—were registered in North Carolina last year.

This exceeded by 71,778 the previous record of 958,541 set in 1948, according to the Motor Vehicles Department.

In figures released by the department yesterday, Mecklenburg County led the state in registrations in 1949 with 69,249. Second was Guilford, 57,480. Wake was third, 40,804, and Forsyth fourth, 40,200.

Sanford, N. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Sanford has voted in a special election against legalizing the sale of beer. Unofficial returns from the voting yesterday showed 1,464 votes against beer and 1,076 for.

Something New

New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Nothing new under the sun? Well, the Zim Products Co., of New York, says a brush to whisk the dust from any type of phonograph record is being made of hair from the inside of the ear of a Chinese goat. The brush travels ahead of the phonograph needle and cleans 32 grooves at a time both before and after playing groove. The company claims the Chinese goat's ear's hair is used because of its extreme fineness.

Education Aid Again Tied Up

Washington, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Still plagued by wide differences of opinion, House labor committee members locked horns today in search of a federal aid to education bill they can agree on.

As the 25 man committee started a scheduled daily grind of closed-room sessions, there was little indication that any immediate agreement was in prospect.

Rep. Steed (D-Okla.) said the committee appeared to be so hopelessly divided that he did not think there would be any school aid bill this year.

Strength FOR THE DAY

"THE GOOD OLD DAYS"

Read these words carefully: "In the days that are passing over us, even fools are arrested to ask the meaning of them; few of the generations of men have seen more impressive days. Days of endless calamity, disruption, dislocation, confusion were confounded. . . . It is not a small hope that will suffice us, the ruin being clearly . . . universal. There must be a new world if there is to be a world at all. That human beings in Europe can ever return to the old sorry routine, and proceed with any steadiness or continuance therein—this small hope is not now a tenable one. These days of universal death must be days of universal rebirth. If the ruin is not to be total and final. It is a time to make the dullest man consider whence he came and whither he is bound. A veritable New Era to the foolish as well as to the wise."
These words were written by Thomas Carlyle exactly 100 years ago. They seem to confirm the fact that the good old days never existed, and furthermore that an entirely satisfactory arrangement of society will probably never occur.
This is nothing to get discouraged over. We are put in an imperfect world for the purpose of seeing how we can rise above its handicaps and grow souls worthy of fellowship with God through eternity.

By LYNN NISBET
ECONOMICS—Questions about the senatorial campaign and Governor Scott's open support of Senator Frank Graham led the governor into a dissertation on the economic value of spreading wealth at his press conference Tuesday. In answer to direct questions the governor said he would take no part in judicial or editorial races, and felt that intervention in county legislative scraps would precipitate all sorts of embarrassments which he wished to avoid. He reiterated his purpose to do what he can for Senator Graham, not only to justify his appointment of the senator but because he believes in the Graham philosophy.

HUMANITARIAN—The governor hooded at the suggestion that Graham is a communist or has communist leanings. "He is the greatest humanitarian in North Carolina, and the greatest in the whole country so far as my knowledge goes," he said. He added that humanitarianism and communism are diametrically opposite terms.

MILLIONAIRES—The governor said there are groups in North Carolina who did not want a humanitarian. Later he amended that to say maybe they were individuals instead of groups who opposed doing much for the masses because it would cost money. That's where he started the economic dissertation on spread of wealth. Millionaires are made by distributing wealth among all the people, he contended. When he was a boy there wasn't more than one millionaire in Burlington, he said, and there was some doubt about whether Banks Holt was worth a million. Now there are a dozen in that one community. They got their millions as the average level of all the people was raised. Now that they've got it, they fear that continued diffusion of wealth will deprive them of some advantages they hold. The governor definitely does not string along with that idea. Right there a reporter asked him if he had ever taught a course in economics. The Governor said if he knew much about economics he probably wouldn't be where he is.

PRACTICAL—There was some practical politics mixed in with the economic theory. The governor said Senator Graham is just way ahead of his contemporaries in his thinking, and therefore those who can't keep up fall back on the mild cusword of "communist." He said if that word had been of common usage in days of William Jennings Bryan, the Nebraskan and three times unsuccessful candidate for president, would have been called a communist. Most of his ideas have been written into laws, and today he would be regarded as an ultra-conservative. The governor's practicality was evidenced in his further statement that he did not discount opposition to his appointed incumbent senator. The future may prove validity of the Graham idea as it did the Bryan idea. Governor Scott is not forgetting that at the time the issue was drawn the people of the United States would not accept the

Boyle's Column
By HAL BOYLE
New York—(AP)—The pushbutton war of the future may never come for a very simple reason—it doesn't hold much prospect of fun.

Wars in the past have offered exciting change from the humdrum of peace to a large part of the population. The terror, boredom and danger of the front lines affected only a small proportion of the people. The civilians at home, unworried by fear of death, found the annoyance of rationing and higher taxes more than made up for by their enlarged sense of self-importance.

They were caught up by a thrilling feeling of unity that carried them out of their ordinary small frustrations. The factory worker became "the soldier behind the soldier at the front." Women found an escape from the petty world of household chores. They found they could hold a riveting machine as well as the next guy, and war opened to them a whole new round of social activities with a purpose—helping sell bonds, entertaining at USO clubs, collect blood, roll bandages.

Yes, war made everybody feel useful and necessary. And few saw the blood on the battlefield far Somebody Told Me...

By L. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

Broadway columnist Earl Wilson lunched with Jack Benny . . . and paying the check. Earl says you can call him a liar, but it actually happened.

To Earl, Jack is the most relaxed of all the comedians. In fact, he was so relaxed that during the lunch Earl was tempted to take his pulse to see if he was still alive. Not once during the lunch did Benny shoot a witticism over the table or Wilson's head.

First he mentioned his love for New York—"I walk the streets of this town like a big rube," he said. Then Wilson decided that Benny might be radio's top comedian because of the laughs he DOESN'T get. "I don't try for screams," Jack said. "I think you can have two or three minutes of straight dialogue without any laughs. Even if you have great jokes, you may be in danger of having a couple too many."

"A laugh isn't everything," Benny continued. Earl waited for him to add the obvious, and he didn't.

Recent wars have been less and less rewarding, however, for the men who actually carry the guns. In the old days victorious warriors looted towns and took their pick of the enemy's pretty womenfolk. I wouldn't say this didn't happen on occasion in the last World War, but it was the exception rather than the rule. Our doughboys used to joke that the last thing the retreating Nazis did before pulling out of their cities was to stick up a sign saying: "Off limits to all allied troops."

And on a national scale victory has only brought more responsibility. As soon as you quit kicking a foe, you have to start lending him money, shipping him food, and rebuilding his homeland.

It seems to me that the development of the hydrogen bomb has squeezed the last small ounce of fun out of war.

We are in the twilight of the man-flaw bomber and the finger-pulled rifle trigger. Military leaders warn we haven't reached the push button stage of war yet, but will no Earl added it himself. "For example, there's money." Jack said his two biggest laughs came from saying very little. "Once I was leaving my house with a tin cup to borrow sugar from the Ronald Colemans. As I was walked to their house, you heard a coin drop in the cup and I merely said, 'Thank you.'"

On another famous occasion on the air, a fellow said to Jack: "Stick 'em up, buddy. This is a holdup. Your money or your life."

There was a long silence, so the holdup man repeated, "Come on. Your money or your life." Another silence, and then Jack said four words, "I'm thinking it over." Jack also uses silence, "dead air," in imagined bawling out from the CBS Bossman. The Boss supposedly phones to blast him and Jack says "But . . . but . . . but" and that's all. For some reason this stuff lays 'em in the aisles.

Jack, who'll be 56 on Feb. 14, is still afraid of doing television and radio at the same time. "When would there ever be a day when there would be time to eat lunch?" he says.

On Feb. 14 Benny will be pulling that same old stuff about being 39, or maybe he'll admit to 40 years this year. If you are a radio fan like I am, you still laugh. Every year the same old stuff keeps us happy, and keeps Benny in the millionaire bracket. And I thank Earl Wilson.

Of what avail will bravery be then? It won't take a brave man to point an H-bomb at the enemy and send it whizzing away in a pilotless rocket. The soldiers will be technicians, the Generals will command armies of machines instead of men. And what fun will there be for the civilian population? None. War will become a matter of population endurance, as each side waits for its cities to disappear. A great city is the harvest of millions of men over hundreds of years. Why burn up that long gain of culture and concrete in one tremendous flash of million-degree hydrogen heat?

If nations think this over—and there are signs they will—the H-bomb may turn out to be a great blessing. It will surely never be dropped if everybody realizes that war is no longer fun for anybody, or profitable for anybody, but death or ruin for practically all.

Then peace can become the pleasant, neighborly thing it ought to be. It could even turn out to be fun.

Autry L. Haddock Is Fined $2,500

By CHESTER WALSH
In County Court Tuesday, Judge Dink James found Autry Lee Haddock, 28, of Ayden, guilty of transporting 30 gallons of non-tax paid whiskey.

He sentenced Haddock to two years on the roads, suspended it on condition that he pay $2,500 fine, and placed him on probation for two years.

The judge ordered that Haddock's car be confiscated and sold and that the 30-gallon cargo of bootleg liquor be destroyed, and recommended that his driver's license be revoked for two years.

Haddock gave notice of appeal to Superior Court. He has 10 days in which to perfect his appeal. He posted $1,000 bond and was released. S. O. Officer J. M. Ward and Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Manning testified that they accosted Haddock in his car, talking to a Negro on a Winterville street; that he sped away in his car, through private premises and that the vehicle landed in a canal. They testified that when the car stalled Haddock remained in the seat until the officers arrived. A wrecker pulled the car out of the canal. It was not damaged. The fruit jars of contraband whiskey were intact.

Louis Deans charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was given six months on the roads, suspended on condition that he not molest his family and be placed on probation. The court recommended that Deans be confined in State Hospital at Raleigh.

William A. Gladson, reckless driving and speeding at 96 miles per hour, was fined $50 and his driver's license was ordered revoked for a year. Robert Lee Edwards, same offense, $50 and lose his license for a year.

Drunk—Abram Owens, 30 days or $25.

Larceny—Orlando Barnhill and Duke Williams, six months on the roads for Barnhill; Williams, under 16, was remanded to the Juvenile Court.

William R. Reeves, Jr., colored, was not guilty of non-support.

The case against William H. Cherry, colored, charging abandonment and non-support, was continued.

Important Cases In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH
In Police Court Monday, Judge Roberts dismissed the case against Josiah L. Nobles of near Winterville, who was charged with careless and reckless driving in connection with a collision of his car and a truck driven by R. L. Joyner and owned by the Ormond Wholesale company on a highway near here last October. Hearing of the case was delayed on account of injury to one of the occupants of the Nobles car. It was stated.

The hearing attracted unusual attention because of the appearance of a court stenographer making a record of the testimony. Attorney W. L. Speight, employed by the prosecuting witness to push the case, assisted Solicitor Eli Bloom. Judge Albion Dunn represented Nobles.

The case against James Ed Whitaker, charging him with possession of non-tax paid whiskey, was not pressed.

Robert C. Keel, drunk and possession of non-tax paid whiskey, $25. Theodore Wilson, colored, assault with a deadly weapon 90 days on the roads or pay $25.

James H. Downing, colored, assault with a deadly weapon, 30 days or pay $15.

Judge Roberts settled a tripartite case in which a man and two women, all colored, were involved on Albemarle Avenue, in front of Paradise Cafe, last Saturday night. The affray and assault were among Eddie Sherrod and Alma Hopkins and Rosa White.

The court acquitted Sherrod of assaulting Rosa White in the nocturnal brawl. The judge fined Alma Hopkins and Rosa White each $50 for assaulting each other with deadly weapons—knives. The women were treated at Pitt General hospital.

William Barrett was not guilty of speeding and reckless driving.

AMERICAN BANKING IN ACTION

FOOD FOR 145 MILLION AMERICANS

It takes about 2 acres of farm crops to supply the 1,375 pounds of food which the average American eats a year. To grow and get this food to your table requires money all along the line and bank credit provides a major share of the funds. Perhaps you haven't thought of it just this way, but the money you deposit helps build a credit pool, which directly or indirectly supplies loans to farmers, farm machinery manufacturers, seed and fertilizer dealers, distributors and food markets.

Pirates Come From Behind To Defeat WCTC By 53-45

Catamounts Led At End Of Half; Defense Held Them To One Goal For Rest Of Game

By BILL LLOYD

East Carolina's Pirate cagers, seeking revenge from Monday night's 49-52 stumping upset to West Carolina, came from behind in the second half last night, to down the Catamounts, 53 to 45.

Finishing the West Carolina court to their disadvantage during the first half, the Pirates trailed by an 18-7 score after eight minutes of play, and were behind at intermission, 33 to 26.

However, at the start of the second period, two quick baskets by Thrift and Fennell brought the Bucs within three points of the Cats, 33 to 30. After nine minutes of play had elapsed, the two teams were deadlocked, 37-37.

A thrilling see-saw battle raged between the rival East and West colleges the remaining part of the game, and with only six minutes left to play, the score remained tied at 43-all.

At this point, East Carolina's fresh sensation, Sonny Russell, the game's high scorer with 18 points, looped in a basket and a free throw to make the score read 45-42. West Carolina came back fast to tally a field goal to make it 45-44.

Leading by only one point, the Bucs' Russell teamed with Guard Roger Thrift on a field goal each, and a charity toss by Thrift, to gradually aid the Pirates to pull ahead, 49 to 44.

With only a minute and thirty seconds remaining, Russell and Thrift again hit on two shots from the floor, to give the Pirates their winning margin, 53 to 45.

'Nine Lives' Keep Lead In Carbon Bowling Loop

The Nine Lives of the National Carbon Company bowling league (day shift) continue in number one position in the standings as a result of Monday night's scores.

In nine games to date, the champs have a won-lost game record of seven and two. This percentage leads their closest competitors, the Penlights, by two games. The latter replaced the Evereadys in second position.

A. W. Bryan continues to pace the Nine Lives and the rest of the circuit with consistently high scores in both one and three game series. Bryan is currently leading the 24 bowlers with a nine-game average of 178. That score is 34 pins better than his closest competitor, Bill Wells of the Evereadys, who has an average of 142.

The best display of pressure bowling to date was displayed Monday night when Fred Edwards, captain of the Black Cats, made five straight strikes to run Francis Whelihan out of third place in the one-game-high bracket. Edwards' score wound up at 176 pins for a single game, one better than Whelihan's 175.

Rommie Mallison replaced Whelihan in the three-game-high score as a result of a like demonstration—four straight strikes to wind up with a high 457 for three games. Whelihan's previous third-place score was 425.

For the women bowlers, Ila Gays' one and three-game-high scores of 182 and 352 pins still stands as the best. However, Frances Carawan pushed Marjorie Wells out of second position for one game with a total of 131 pins.

The Penlights improved on the record high total for a team's three games when they bested the Nine Lives' total of 2,075 and posted a new record of 2,166.

The team standings to date:

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Nine Lives	7	2	.777
Penlights	8	4	.556
Evereadys	4	8	.444
Black Cats	3	7	.222

Playing Tonight

Greenville's Phantoms play tonight at Roanoke Rapids— not last night as was announced in yesterday's Reflector.

A mixup in the dates for the scheduled Northeastern Conference game came about when the Roanoke Rapids Armory could not be used for the game until tonight, one day later than the original schedule called for.

The game goes on the floor tentatively at eight o'clock with a JV game in the preliminary. The Juniors sport a better record than their big brothers, having won 11 out of 13 games. They now are riding on the crest of an eight-game win streak, not having lost since Kinston took their measure in the first game of that series, January 5.

Duke Cagers Top Conference Race

Richmond, Va., Feb. 8.—(AP)— Duke's sophomore studded Blue Devils finally had the top rung of the Southern Conference ladder all to themselves today.

Rated a question-mark quintet by their own coach, Garry Gerard, less than a month ago, the Blue Devils took over the No. 1 position last night as William and Mary upset the erstwhile pace-setting, N. C. State, 54-50.

The race at glance:

Duke	8	1	.889
North Carolina State	9	2	.812
William and Mary	8	2	.800

Red Devils Take Doubleheader Against Chicod

Chicod, Feb. 8.—The league-leading Farmville Red Devils swept a twin-bill from Chicod last night as the boys got off to a fast start to win 57-38. The girls won the preliminary, 28-26.

The Chicod girls played the second-position Farmville girls off their feet for the majority of the game, but were unable to keep the pace to the end. Neither team could hit with any degree of accuracy, accounting for the low score. Dot Fishaway and Vonell Moinigo both pushed in 15 points to cop scoring honors for the visitors.

Carl King, a forward for the leaders, bagged 26 points for the night, 16 better than his running-mate Joe Smith, who got 10. Sam Cox for the locals collected 18 points to lead his mates in the scoring.

Boxing Pirates Invade Norfolk; Meet VAC Team

Coach Johnny Long's East Carolina boxing team travels to Norfolk, Virginia tonight, to battle the Virginia Athletic Club in a revenge fight card there.

The Pirate pugs were previously defeated by the VAC star-studded golden gloves here by a close 5 to 3 count.

Expected to lead the way for the East Carolina leather-slingers is Crowell Williamson, terrific 150 pound ringster, who won his last fight against VAC's slightly-rated Tommy Soboleska here.

Also paving the way for the Buccaneer betters along with Williamson, will be Bill Cole, powerful little southpaw who has hit his stride in his last two matches, winning by TKO in one and by a wide decision in another.

Missing tonight's fight card will be East Carolina's undefeated Cecil Phillips, a 145 lb. battler. Phillips has been bothered by a troublesome ear all year long, and the college physician has decided against his fighting tonight.

Other fighters seeking revenge in tonight's fight card are Cleon Smith, 125 lb. class; Homer Thomas, 135 lb. class; Charlie Edwards, 140 lb. class; H. A. Creel, 160 lb. class; Bill Torrans, 165 lb. class.

In scoring his highest point total to date, McCormick led his club to a 33-12 halftime score. Leonard Bullock pushed in 14 points to assist the local team in doubling their first-half score.

Cadillac

FOUR NEW SERIES OF CARS...

The Series Sixty Special Sedan

..All Dramatically Restyled...and Powered by Cadillac's Sensational New Engine!

TODAY, we are presenting, for your consideration, the finest, most beautiful motor cars we have ever been privileged to announce. They are the new Cadillacs for 1950—and we want you to come and see them. We not only want you to see them—but we think you should see them. For to see and inspect these wonderful creations will make you a sharper judge of all cars—and increase your motor-car wisdom in every respect. There are four entirely new series of cars—all with wholly new bodies, and all completely restyled. We think you'll agree that nothing so sleek and dynamic and beautiful has ever been seen on the world's streets and highways. They are arrestingly and breath-takingly gorgeous—and all are distinctively Cadillac. And not only are they advanced in beauty—but their performance is finer in every way. Cadillac's great new high-compression engine is even smoother; it is actually quicker in acceleration; and it runs so quietly that only the indicators reveal when it is in action. It is simply wonderful to drive. And—difficult as this will be for owners of 1949 Cadillacs to believe—the 1950 cars are even more economical to operate. Gasoline mileage really approaches that of the smaller, lowest-priced cars. It is no less than amazing that cars so big and luxurious should run so far on a gallon of gasoline. Comfort and handling ease are also remarkably advanced. There is far finer road balance and over-all steadiness at all driving speeds. Steering is softer and more positive. Brakes are more efficient and longer-lived. The over-all satisfaction of driving—from every standpoint—is simply "out of this world." Truly, here are cars so fine and beautiful that they deserve your personal consideration. Make your plans now to come in and see them. You will be cordially welcome at any time.

Home Girl

By Carol Holliston AP Newsfeatures

Chapter 3
 Celia sat at the piano in the back parlor practicing a song. Her fingers were nimble but careless; she had never been one for taking pains even in the days when her father had paid well for good lessons in the hope that there might be a real musician in the family. All she had learned then Celia had not only forgotten but deliberately thrust aside as "classical rot." Now she only played to accompany her voice, which was light, cheerful and commonplace. Roger had refused to pay for vocal lessons, but still her voice had gotten her onto the stage in a bit part. There she had met the rising young actor James Gould whose success was so sure. Now she was his widow and hoping that that same voice would put her back on the stage again. If he had only lived. She stopped singing to heave a sigh. Or if he had only been properly insured.

She banged angry fists on the placid keyboard. Then she turned quickly, sure that someone was watching her. Sure enough, someone was standing there now. He was

If you know your money's worth you will see the extra clean 1948 Nash "600" Fordor Sedan at Flanagan's today. Weather-eye conditioned air, unitized body frame, famous for economy. This one has a brand new 1949 motor. It's a '48 model priced at only $1050.

She caught her breath. "You know how to pay compliments, don't you?"
 "I hope I shall always be able to do whatever is necessary."
 She got up, annoyed. "I have finished practicing and I have my children to look after. You'll probably find that your Anne has gone to the store. She is always dashing out to the store, because it is the only way she can get out of this dreary house."
 "I like this house." He said it carefully and firmly. "Anne and I will probably live here after we're married."
 Celia's lip curled. "I'm sure you will. Young lawyers without money have to sleep somewhere, don't they?"
 "That's true. Like actresses out of work."
 She stepped up to him. "Are you trying to be fresh?"
 He smiled slowly. "You look much prettier when you sing."
 She might have slapped his face then and there, but the phone rang and, like all theatrical people, she lived for phone calls, any one of which might mean so much.
 Tony Raymond went slowly downstairs and back to the kitchen, where Mary was hulling strawberries and humming a hymn cheerfully. She tried to like Tony because Anne loved him and supposedly he loved Anne, though she had her doubts about that. She held up her bowl of hulled berries.

"Better come to dinner, Tony. Broiled chicken, avocado salad, strawberries with cream. Mr. Roger thinks nothing too good for us now the boys are here. He is always bringing things home. I think it will be something special this afternoon, because he had been chucking to himself all day like the cat that swallowed the canary."
 "Do cats chuckle, Mary?"
 "I suppose they do. And if not I'm sure they wish they could."
 She said it a little sharply because she didn't like Tony when he got smart.
 The young lawyer seemed quite oblivious to her dislike. He went to the open door and looked out into the yard where the twins were running and playing. He spoke over his shoulder.
 "Doesn't it get on your nerves to have two kids tearing the place up all the time?"
 "They don't tear the place up at all. Besides, I wouldn't care if they did. A house is only a true house when it has children in it."
 She quoted the phrase sentimentously. He laughed and turned away.
 "I might as well go home before I get any more unpopular around here. When will Anne come in?"
 As if in answer to his question, Anne burst in from the hall holding a big bundle of groceries. She put it down quickly and gave him a hearty kiss and a big hug.
 "Tony, I'm so glad to see you. Celia told me you were here. Take your coat off. You're staying for dinner."

Mary cut in sharply. "I just asked him to stay—and he said he had to go home right away."
 Anne's eyes twinkled. "That was before I came. Now he has to join the mad Blakes at chow. Do the twins know you're here, Tony?"
 "Not yet. I saw them first. Or rather, I heard them long before I saw them."
 Mary banged a pan. Anne took his arm.

"You know you don't mean that. They took a real shine to you. I told them you were our lawyer and we're going to fight for all poor, distressed people like Sir Galahad. We decided to pick you out as our knight."
 He sighed. "I wish I were your real knight."
 "You are."

Disaster Struck Miners' Family Time And Again

Lake Lynn, Pa., Feb. 8—(AP)—Just about everyone in this mining town is pitching in these days to help the coal miners' families.

The Miller family—Paul, Harriett and four surviving children—hunger is just another chapter in a tragedy that began two years ago.

Their next, four-room frame home burned to the ground in 1948. With it went everything the Millers owned but the clothes on their backs.

Miller, a coal miner, started all over again. He bought an old house and tore it down. Then he partially rebuilt it—rather crudely, he admits—on the site of the old house.

Last August, four-year-old Bobby died of a ruptured appendix.

Two months later Mary Elizabeth, 10, was stricken with leukemia and spent 35 days in the hospital.

In the meantime, recurring coal strikes and "holidays" pared down Miller's usual $80-a-week check.

Some 1950, Miller, along with most miners in this area, worked just three days a week and stopped when the miners began their "no contract no work" strike.

There was no extra food in the Miller larder. Last year hadn't permitted any saving. The few dollars he earned vanished fast.

Couldn't he get some other kind of work?

In this shabby mine town, there aren't any steady jobs to be had.

and odd jobs are out because nobody has money to pay for them. Miller applied for relief. He was turned down.

The State Department of Public Assistance placed a lien against property owned by a relief recipient. Miller owns his rebuilt shack, but he has nothing in the way of a deed to prove it.

The Salvation Army provided several food slips.

"Without them we'd have starved, I guess," said 35-year-old Mrs. Miller.

The government provided the miners with surplus potatoes and the Millers got 100 pounds.

"That's all the food we have in the house," the chunky housewife declared. "I'm trying to save them, so I can only give the children three potatoes between them to take to school for lunch."

"I know this sounds terrible but I tell them that maybe the other children will share their lunches with them. And they do, too."

The officers and directors of the Greenville Kiwanis Club and several committee chairmen were guests of J. Bryan Brown at a barbecued chicken supper at the American Legion Home last night.

President Tige Gardner presided.

It is an old Kiwanis custom for an officer or director of the club to entertain at supper, at his home or elsewhere, the officers and directors at the monthly business meetings.

Matters of importance discussed last night included programs for the year; underprivileged child activities; safety for school children in traffic and support of the School Safety Patrol, and support of High School Key Clubs and College Circle K Clubs.

Those present in addition to the host, Director J. Bryan Brown and President Tige Gardner were: Vice President Dr. H. Glenn Haney, Secretary David C. Moore, Immediate Past President Arthur Tripp; directors V. A. Merritt, J. Archie Rogers, Ed H. Willford, D. H. Conley, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, James Ray Pitman and R. W. Shiplett. Committee chairmen present were Dr. John C. Reynolds, sponsor youth organizations; Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, program; J. Ed Waldrop, underprivileged child; Rev. Leonard W. Topping, laws and regulations; Jesse R. Moye, scholarship, and Chester Walsh, public relations.

Warren Attacks Maritime Body

Washington, Feb. 8—A blistering attack against Maritime Commission policy by the Federal Comptroller General cast doubt today on the future of a projected $70,000,000 American superliner.

In a sharply-worded 180-page report to Congress yesterday, Comptroller General Lindsay Warren claimed that the Commission has mishandled millions of dollars in subsidy payments for the Merchant Marines.

Theme Song For Azalea Festival

Wilmington, N.C., Feb. 8—(AP)—Wilmington's widely-known azalea festival, scheduled for March 30-April 2, has adopted an official theme song for its activities. It was announced today.

The music and lyrics for the song, "Down the Azalea Lane," were written by two Wilmington women.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Feb. 8—(AP)—A blanket of inactivity shrouded the stock market today as the federal government sought to end the coal strike. All but routine trading was lacking. Prices sagged generally without selling pressure in any of the major groups.

Hog Market

Raleigh, Feb. 8—(AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices mostly steady. $16 at Washington, Wilson, Goldsboro, Robersonville, Greenville, Tarboro, Kinston and Rocky Mount.

Poultry and Eggs

Raleigh, Feb. 8—(AP)—(NCDA)—Fryers and broilers steady at mostly 23 with few at 22; eggs steady. A large 33.

Crude oil is a base for more than 1,200 useful products including medicines, dyes, cosmetics, preservatives, rayon, nylon, alcohol, rubber, plastics, paints, solvents, insecticides besides fuel, lubricants and paving material.

It is estimated that a horse eats food from enough land to feed four people.

Vital Statistics

Vital statistics records in the office of Pitt County Register of Deeds Charles F. Gaskins show that there were fewer marriages in 1949 than in the previous year, but that there were considerably more births in 1949 and more deaths than during the previous year.

The vital statistics record for 1949: 647 marriages; 1523 births; 300 deaths, and 22 still births. For 1948: 612 marriages; 1,731 births; 406 deaths, and 48 still births.

Lack Of Space Limiting Scout Banquet Guests

Pitt county Boy Scout officials today stated that while all of the tickets to the Father and Son banquet to be held Thursday night are already sold, any person who is interested in attending the program may do so.

Pitt county district chairman, Wyatt Brown, reported that all tickets to the banquet have been sold. The dinner will be held in the college dining hall, which is the largest place in town for a banquet, he added. Unofficial seating capacity of the hall is over 300.

The exact number of people who will attend the meeting is not known, but "there will be ample room for many people who will not be able to attend the meal, to see the program," Brown said. The limited seating capacity of the hall is the only reason that there are no more tickets, he stated.

The annual Boy Scout Father and Son banquet will get under way sharply at 7 o'clock, it was stated by the program chairman.

Following the dinner, a program staged by the various scout troops will be presented.

Rev. Leon Russell, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church will deliver a short address at the close of the program.

Wyatt Brown, district chairman of the Pitt county region will preside.

She had lived with her daughter in Greenville until she went to Oklahoma in December, 1948. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Greenville.

Surviving are six daughters, Mrs. Guy Harris of Greenville, Mrs. Myrtle Murphy of New London, Conn., Miss Marie Gaskins of Brooklyn, N.Y., Mrs. James Mamzito of Jamestown, N.Y., Mrs. Carl Taylor of Danville, Va., and Mrs. Hicks Smith of Ada, Okla.; two sons, Woodrow and Robert Gaskins of Vanceboro; seven grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Ludie Wilson of Ayden.

The dominance of armored knights in warfare was broken when the leaders of French chivalry were slaughtered by British bowmen at Crecy in 1346.

Returning To . . .

One is reminded of an incident when she died. Little Edward was greatly grieved and also was perturbed about what precedence she would be given in Heaven. He asked his governess, who guessed that her late majesty would rank a little lower than the angels. Edward thought that over, and then:

"Well, I don't think grandma will like it at all, going in behind them." Still, he himself abdicated for love. But a lot of water has run over the dam since that fateful 1936. Time softens many hurts.

Queen Mother Mary is 82 years old, and at this writing is bedridden with sciatica, a terribly painful malady. One suspects that this is a moment when she badly wants her much beloved first-born with her, and so has beckoned for his return. Who would deny her that?

Zoning . . .

the community as a whole. Another tough zoning problem in many cities is parking in the central districts. The experts suggest as approaches to this problem:

1 More intensive use of existing parking space and of public transportation.

2 Encouragement of the commercial parking industry.

3 Cooperative efforts by groups of business men and property owners to establish more parking facilities.

4 Formation of municipal parking agencies with power to assemble land and negotiate for construction and operation of parking facilities.

5 Direct municipal financing of parking meter receipts, revenue bonds, benefit district assessments and from general funds of the city.
