

Judge Orders Trial Of Coal Union On Contempt Charge

Refuses To Drop Charges Against Union; Trial To Start Monday; Union Attorney To Decide Whether To Ask For Jury Trial

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Judge Richmond B. Keach refused today to drop contempt charges against the striking coal miners union and ordered a trial on Monday.

Keach told union attorneys they could have a jury trial if they desired.

Welly K. Hopkins, union attorney, said he would consider over the weekend whether to ask for a jury trial.

Assistant Attorney General H. Graham Morison asked that the trial start tomorrow. He noted that since the original court back to work order, issued Feb. 11, "there has been no increase in production of the bituminous mines of this country."

Urging the need for speed in the case, Morison said:

"At least 30 states have adopted emergency measures to take care of the coal supply."

"Virtually all of the nation's cities have the same problem."

"If this contempt is established in appropriate trial then it is the view of the government that the full power and majesty of this court" be used to get the miners back on the job.

Hopkins objected to having the trial start tomorrow.

Judge Keach then set it for Monday.

The judge denied Hopkins' formal motion that the civil and criminal contempt charges be dropped and the proceeding be ended.

Union attorneys had argued the court had no right to issue back to work orders to the miners.

Replying to charges that the union is in contempt of the court's back to work order, the attorneys:

1. Denied the union called the walkout.

2. Denied the union was responsible for continuing the idleness which has cut the nation's coal supply to famine level.

The UMW attorneys told Judge Richmond B. Keach that the strike was a result of individual action by the 370,000 soft coal diggers.

"Refusal to work was and is entirely without suggestion, direction or authorization of the respondent union and wholly in contravention of and contrary to the directions given aforesaid by the respondent through its officers," said Welly K. Hopkins.

GM Announces Reduced Prices

Detroit, Feb. 24 (AP)—Price cuts ranging from $10 to $40 on the prices of all its cars and trucks were announced today by General Motors Corp. The reductions are effective immediately and come with announcement of downward adjustment in the cost of living allowance to be paid GM employees.

An adjustment of the cost of living allowance given GM employees is part of the contract between GM and its hourly and salaried workers.

Czechs Release Missionaries

Prague, Feb. 24 (AP)—Two American Mormon missionaries held by Czech police since Jan. 28 on charges of entering a "prohibited area" were released today and expelled from the country.

The American embassy said the two missionaries, Stanley E. Abbott of Lehi, Utah, and C. Aldon Johnson, of Idaho Falls, Idaho, were released from jail in Olomouc, Central Moravia.

Jessup's India Trip

His Arrival In New Delhi Unheralded, But May Be Of Interplanetary Import; Acheson's Offer Of Help Southeast Asia Unite In Writing Program

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

U.S. roving ambassador Philip Jessup has slipped quietly into New Delhi, India, but while his advent has been unheralded and unsung we are safe in interpreting it as a matter of prime international importance.

There are two things which support this assumption. One is that the distinguished but unobtrusive Jessup is a key figure in the development of Washington's Far Eastern policy. The other is that India bids fair to emerge as chief of the independent, democratic Asia.

Thus we reach the conclusion that America's policy in that part of the world must be heavily influenced by India. And when we speak of India we are, of course, thinking of her dynamic leader, Prime Minister Nehru, one of the world's great personalities who recently made an extensive tour of the United States.

It is interesting that as Prime Minister Nehru and Ambassador Jessup got together in India, Secretary of State Dean Acheson should be discussing the Far Eastern position with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in Washington. He said the State Department is looking

Strike Delayed

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—President Truman today set up an emergency fact-finding board, automatically heading off a nationwide railroad strike scheduled for Monday.

The action has the effect of delaying the proposed strike for 60 days.

Mr. Truman signed an executive order creating the board to investigate a dispute between the carriers and the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors and Railroad Trainmen.

The names of the emergency board members will be announced later.

The dispute is between the Brotherhoods and Carriers represented by the Eastern, the western and the southeastern carriers' conference committees.

FEPC Strategy Goes To Senate

Truman And Backers Aim For Enforcement Clauses

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Its prospects of success clouded by house passage of a voluntary FEPC bill, the administration switched to the senate today in its drive for compulsory fair employment practices legislation.

Backed by President Truman, Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, kept to a schedule which will bring a bitterly-fought anti-job discrimination measure up in the senate next month.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday that he has made it clear he wants a bill with enforcement clauses.

When a reporter asked if such a measure could be made effective without interfering with an employer's right to hire whom he pleases, Mr. Truman said he'd always thought so.

Because of the expected Southern Democratic filibuster, the exact senate date for action on a bill with enforcement clauses is in doubt.

Even its approval by the senate might mean only a disagreement between the two houses. That would kill the legislation in this session of Congress. Civil Rights advocates then would have to start all over again in the next Congress.

The house bill, approved by a 240 to 177 vote, would set up a fair employment practices commission to try to persuade employers not to discriminate in hiring against anybody because of race, creed, disability or sex. Civil Rights advocates didn't like it at all.

Carolinas Voted Against FEPC

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—The Fair Employment Practices Bill (FEPC) drew solid opposition from North Carolina and South Carolina representatives when it passed the house yesterday.

Ten members from North Carolina voted against the measure and Rep. Chatham was paired against passage. The other member of the delegation, Rep. Bulwinkle, was not recorded. He has been ill.

Brother Of John L. Lewis Dies

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 24 (AP)—Thomas A. Lewis, 67, brother of John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, was found shot to death today in his home here.

Deputy Coroner Catherine Rutherford said he had shot himself because of ill health.

Arthur B. Corey Dies In Hospital Following Attack

Arthur B. Corey, 58, prominent Greenville lawyer, former state senator and widely known in American Legion circles, died in Pitt County Hospital here at six o'clock last night following an attack suffered while at his desk about noon yesterday.

Funeral services will be conducted at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. The body will remain at Greenville Funeral Home until two hours before the service at which time it will be carried to the church.

Services at the church will be conducted by his pastor, Rev. Leon Russell, assisted by Rev. L. W. Topping, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. Pitt County Post 29 of the American Legion will have charge of graveside services at Greenwood Cemetery.

Active pall bearers will be Dr. J. L. Winstead, D. J. Whitchard, J. M. Barrett, Paul A. Scott, L. Walter Cherry, W. J. Bundy, J. W. H. Roberts, all of Greenville, W. W. Speight and Asa V. Moore, Washington.

Honorary pall bearers will include members of the Pitt County Bar Association, Kiwanis Club, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Greenville Varsity Forty and Eight and Greenville Lodge 284, A.F.A.M.

Arthur Benjamin Corey was born at Winterville December 10, 1891, the son of Mrs. Sude Tucker Corey and the late James Henry Corey.

He received his early education in private schools and attended Winterville high school 1907-1910. He received his law degree from the University of North Carolina in 1917 and passed the state bar in August of that year. He then volunteered for service in World War I and served overseas with the 113th Field Artillery of the 30th Division. Upon receiving his discharge from the Army in April 1919 he went to Raleigh where he engaged in law practice with Col. Albert L. Cox.

Shortly after going to Raleigh he was active in the organization of the American Legion in this state and a year later served as commander.

Orphanage Given Garris Cottage

Greenville Woman's Gift Dedicated In Raleigh Yesterday

A new $45,000 cottage for junior and senior boys at Methodist Orphanage in Raleigh was dedicated yesterday. The building, a two-story brick structure, was the gift of Mrs. Louis B. Garris, of this city as a memorial to her husband, the late Louis Bryan Garris. Before his death in 1947 Mr. Garris was quite active in affairs of the Methodist Church especially as they pertained to the orphanage.

The building will furnish quarters for 20 boys and an apartment for a matron. On the lower floor is a large reading and recreation room and adjoining parlors.

The presentation of the building by Reynolds May, son-in-law of Mrs. Garris and the late Mr. Garris, was made following brief devotional exercises led by Leon C. Larkins, superintendent of the orphanage, and participated in by other of the de-mination's leaders.

An open house followed the ceremonies during which time guests had an opportunity to inspect the new building.

Those from Greenville attending the ceremonies were Mrs. Louis B. Garris, Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds May and children, Rev. and Mrs. Leon Russell, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Taft, Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Cobb, Mrs. S. B. Underwood Jr., Mrs. W. P. Moore, Mrs. Milton H. White, Mrs. J. C. Wooten, Mrs. John Karsnack, Mrs. John Barker and Mrs. F. P. Brooks.

President Talks Of Stumping For Voter Pressure

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—President Truman may try to rescue his "fair deal" program by a pre-adjournment stumping tour aimed at bringing voter pressure on Congress.

The President himself gave impetus to such speculation by disclosing that he is considering a spring trip to the northwest complete with "whistle stops" going and coming back.

This trip under consideration would have for its avowed purpose participation in the dedication of the Grand Coulee dam in Washington state.

The President told his news conference yesterday that he had been invited and was considering making the trip. If he went, he said, there probably would be some whistle stops going and coming.

In view of his previously announced decision to stay out of Democratic primaries except in his own state of Missouri, the President likely would concentrate on opponents of his legislative program, especially Republicans, but leave enough implications to whip some Democratic recalcitrants in line.

Republicans generally viewed the spring tour as a part of a Truman campaign to get his sort of Democrats elected to Congress. Presidents Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt both made some efforts in that direction, and Senator Brewster (R-Me) said he didn't believe Mr. Truman could succeed where those two failed.

"The American people have always been very allergic to officials who try to arrogate to themselves the job of picking office holders who are selected at the polls," Brewster said.

Mr. Truman did not say when his northwest trip might be made, but his press secretary, Charles C. Ross, told reporters that it would be before the end of May, if undertaken.

Several Hundred Attend Services

Several hundred people this morning joined in the World Day of Prayer services which were held at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church under the auspices of the Greenville Women's Council of Churches.

Robert L. Humber, outstanding lay member of the Memorial Baptist Church, delivered the address at the services as he reminded his listeners gathered in prayer services for peace. Humber in his talk cited instances where the power of prayer has been manifested down through the ages, and called on the members of the congregation to join in the daily prayers for peace in the world.

Other lay members of Greenville churches taking part in this morning's services were Mrs. Dink James, Mrs. Harry Forbes, Mrs. N. C. Brooks and Miss Lillian Wooten. Miss Ramona Rouse sang "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked." The choir for the morning services was composed of members of the choir of the various churches of Greenville.

Practically all stores in the Greenville business section were closed this morning from 9:45 to 11 o'clock for the services.

Willis Smith Enters Race Against Senator Graham

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 24 (AP)—Willis Smith of Raleigh today entered the race for the U. S. Senate seat now held by Senator Frank P. Graham.

Smith announced his decision to enter the race for the Democratic Senatorial nomination and at the same time paid his filing fee of $125 to the state board of elections.

He thus became the first of four candidates for the post to file for the May 27 primary.

Smith, a former speaker of the state house of representatives, issued this statement when he appeared at the board of elections to pay the filing fee:

"I am filing my candidacy for the U. S. Senate for the unexpired term of my friend the late Honorable J. Melville Broughton. I am paying the filing fee as required by law. I shall have another statement later in the day."

Smith, a prominent Raleigh lawyer, is a former president of the American Bar Association. He served as an observer at the Nuremberg trial of war criminals in 1946 and was on the President's Amnesty board in 1947.

He represented Wake county in the state house of representatives in 1927, '29 and '31 and was speaker of the house in 1931.

He represented emergency measures are going into effect across the nation. Officials have ordered demounts and industrial layoffs, forced schools to close and put other conservation measures into effect.

Emergency Appeals Fail To Stir Coal Strikers

Pittsburgh, Feb. 24 (AP)—Striking soft coal miners are showing no inclination to dig coal on an emergency basis despite pleas from hungry cities and hospitals.

The trickle of coal mined by non-union diggers is being choked off by roving bands of pickets who insist production stand still.

That's the picture in the nation today as John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, continues to slug it out with soft coal operators in government-prodded talks to get a new contract.

The St. Louis Hospital Council said it got a reply from Lewis to its urgent plea for him to help provide coal.

It quoted him as saying: "I suggest you urge coal companies heretofore supplying you coal to sign contract with United Mine Workers of America, which will permit immediate resumption of production."

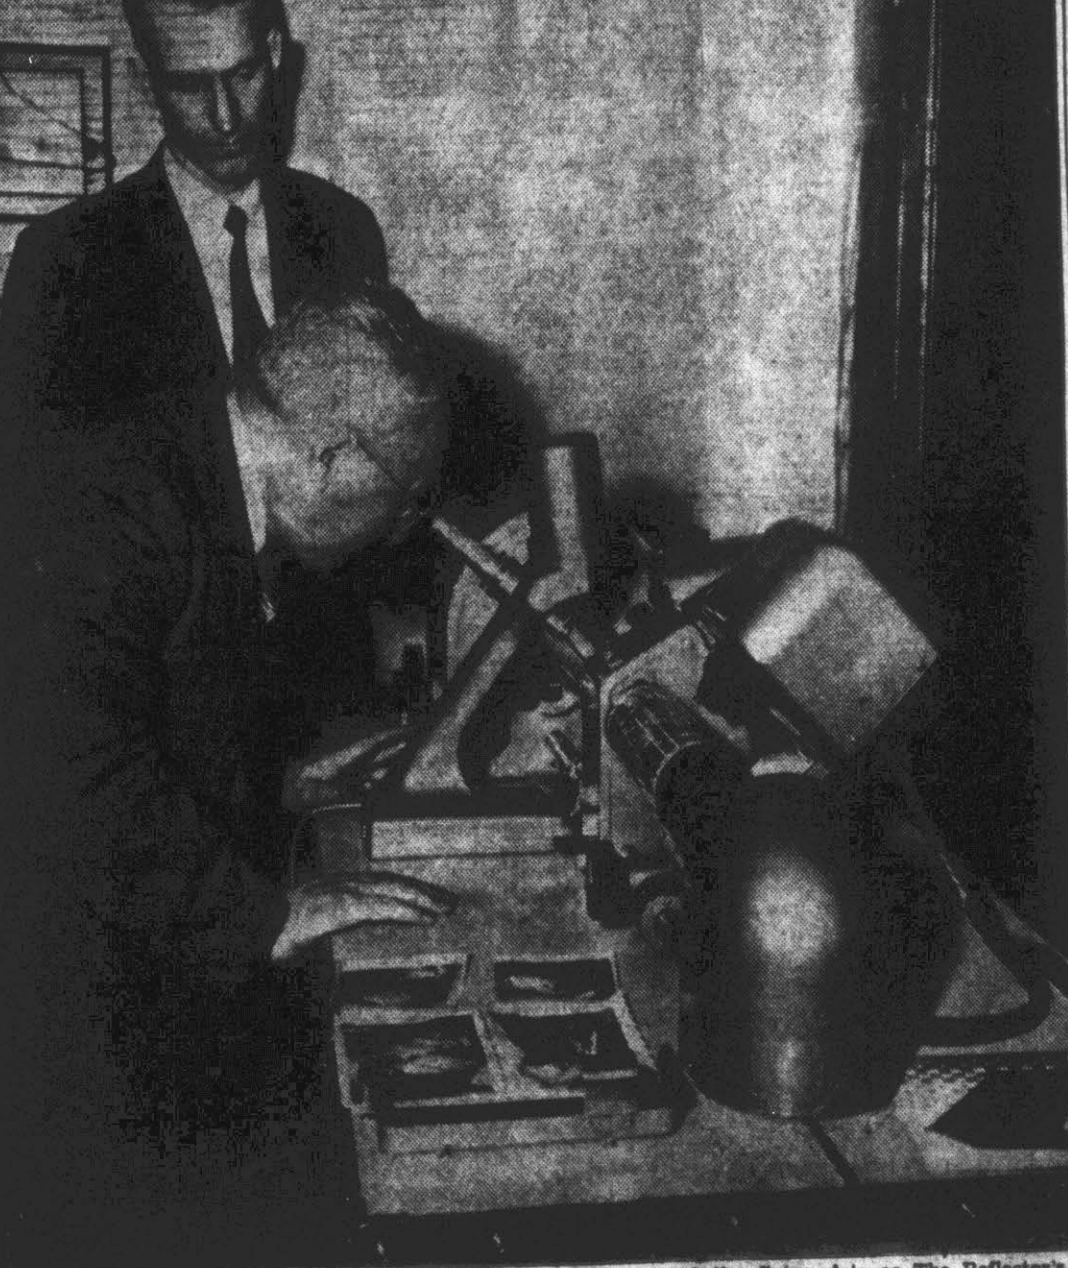

The board of Allegheny County Commissioners in the coal capital of Pittsburgh also wired Lewis, asking him to permit a few mines to operate near here.

Lewis didn't reply.

Stringent emergency measures are going into effect across the nation. Officials have ordered demounts and industrial layoffs, forced schools to close and put other conservation measures into effect.

Republicans Talk Of Going To Court To Obtain Loyalty Files

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Republicans today threatened a court fight to get secret loyalty files into the hands of a senate committee ordered to hunt down any Communists in the state department.

Senator Wherry (R-Neb) talked of prosecuting Secretary of State Acheson for contempt, if necessary. The GOP lawmakers seemed unlikely to get Democratic help, particularly if senator Tydings (D-Md) heads the inquiry group.

President Truman made clear at yesterday's White House conference that the department's loyalty files won't be given to the senate foreign relations committee.

The President notified government departments last year that they are not to release confidential files on government employees. He said yesterday he is standing by that decision.

That cast some doubt on whether Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) will furnish the committee with a full list of the 61 persons he said are Communists who either had been or are now working for the department.

McCarthy said he doesn't know whether it will be worthwhile to go ahead with the investigation if the files remain locked up.

The Wisconsin Senator called the President's decision "an obvious attempt to cover up Communists in the state department," adding: "The administration is afraid to face the facts. I don't think the senate will take this as final."

The Senate voted previously to clothe the Foreign Relations group with authority to subpoena the loyalty files.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) told a reporter he doesn't think Congress has the power to get files from an executive department. But he forecast that the investigating subcommittee will work harmoniously with the state department.

The Texas said he will consult with the full committee Monday in naming the inquiry group. Tydings may be its chairman.

Mr. Truman told his news conference he will cooperate in every way possible to disprove what he said were the false charges made by McCarthy.

McCarthy jumped on that statement as an indication that the President is prejudging the case.

Dies Of Injuries In Road Accident

John Henry Worthington, 54, died in a Kingston hospital last night as the result of injuries received around 11:30 in an automobile accident a mile from Ayden on N.C. 11.

Patrolman R. C. Holt, investigating officer gave this account of the accident: Worthington's car was parked on the highway and Worthington was standing on the highway by the side of his car when an auto operated by Kenneth Jackson, of Grifton, struck the left rear fender and door of the parked car; Worthington was injured.

Jackson told Holt he came upon the parked car before he saw it, and his efforts to avoid the car were in vain. Jackson's car went into the ditch some 167 feet down the highway. None of the persons in the Jackson car were injured.

Worthington died in the Kingston hospital about two hours after the accident. First reports gave his address as Stella, N.C.

Pitt county coroner Griffin H. Rouse announced that an inquest will be held in the Ayden town hall Monday night at 7:30.

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—This is an ABC of making out your 1949 income tax return on the 1040 Long Form.

You can't work without it. Get it, if you don't have it.

Attach to form 1040 any receipts—Form W-2—given you by a boss for tax withheld from you in 1949.

If you owe any tax, pay it in full when filing this return. If you've been overtaxed and are due a refund, indicate that in line 10 on page 1. The collector will send it to you.

Husbands and wives, puzzled whether a single or joint return is cheaper when both have income, should work out their tax both ways. It's easy to do. They can't lose filing jointly if one of them had no income.

But when a couple files jointly, both must sign it. Otherwise, the collector will consider it a single return. This will boost their tax.

Here's the ABC. You're married. Total income, $9,800. Your wife had none. Three schoolboy sons. You're ready to start. But, first, be sure of your deductions and exemptions. Deductions—A married couple with $5,000 or more income, filing jointly, are allowed a deduction of 10 per cent of their income up to a limit of $1,000 for things like medical expenses and charitable contributions. They take that 10 per cent without itemizing or proving anything. If their expenses were higher, they can claim them but then they'll have to give proof by itemizing.

Church Training Program Closes

The annual Leadership Training School for interdenominational churches in Greenville and vicinity closed last night after five nights of meetings held at Memorial Baptist Church.

The school was attended by an average of 125-150 persons each night. The purpose of the meetings were to instruct church leaders in teaching, counseling and other phases of religious education.

Two discussion periods were held each night, broken by an inspirational period between times.

Reverend R. E. Hardaway, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, this morning said he was gratified at the attendance at each meeting and that the number seemed to grow larger as the nightly meetings progressed through the week.

Leading the discussion periods were: Miss Eleanor Fleming of Highly Doubtful Prime Minister Attlee Will Have Workable Majority; Combined Opposition Drew Even With Labor Party On Several Occasions

London, Feb. 24 (AP)—The Labor Party has won a plurality over the Conservative and Liberals in the new House of Commons.

With 27 districts out of 625 still to report, Labor held 316 seats against 281 for the Conservatives and 7 for the Liberals. An absolute majority of the new house is 313.

By The Associated Press

London, Feb. 24 (AP)—The Labor party held a narrow margin and precarious lead tonight in the Parliamentary election. It was doubtful that Prime Minister Attlee would have a workable majority in the new House of Commons even if he defeated the combined opposition of Conservatives and Liberals.

The count shortly after 8 p. m. (noon, EST) showed:

Seventy party seats remained to be decided at that time. There will be 625 seats in the new Commons, but the speaker, elected as a Conservative, is regarded as a neutral.

For a time, the Laborites and the combined opposition were all even. Four times in 15 minutes of counting the opponents were dead level, and four times Labor went one seat ahead. Then the Laborites forged ahead by several seats again.

The Conservatives came back sharply in today's counting after overnight results had cast a pall of gloom over headquarters of Winston Churchill's party. When a re-count in the count was taken early today, the Laborites held a lead of 61 seats.

In the old House of Commons which had 640 seats, the Laborites outnumbered the Conservatives 381 to 202.

A Labor spokesman said his party needed a majority of 30 seats to function effectively in the new House.

Many of the districts still to be heard from were in traditionally Labor strongholds.

The race was so close, however, that many leaders on both sides speculated on the possibility that neither party would be able to muster a working majority in the new Parliament. That would force a new election in the near future.

Morgan Phillips, General secretary of the Labor party, told an interviewer the Laborites "need a majority of 30 seats to function effectively as a government."

A Conservative spokesman said there seemed a good chance that the winning party, whichever it was, would be lucky to scrape home with a majority of ten.

Usually in these circumstances there are minority political groups which can be persuaded to support one side or the other.

But this time the Liberals, third strongest party in Britain, were making a sorry showing in seats won and the "splinter" groups were common.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
February 24, 1910

About one o'clock this morning fire started in the old frame building on Cotanche street that was formerly used by the John Flanagan Buggy Company. Being almost like a tinder box it was quickly enveloped in flames and several other similar buildings in close range made an inviting place for a great conflagration. From the building in which the fire originated it quickly spread northward, southward and westward and also came near going eastward. The firemen first gave their attention to Hotel Macon just across Cotanche street and after a noble battle saved that famous old building that seems to have a charmed life against destruction. The firemen quickly moved their position and gave battle to prevent the flames from leaping across Third street from the Hoell and Sheldonside buildings. By now the fire had crossed Evans street to the Pitt County Buggy Company's factory, the court house, jail and Masonic Temple were blazing furiously and doomed to destruction. The firemen followed and had another stubborn fight here to again prevent the fire from crossing Third street to the Reflector office, the Bagwell building and residence of J. G. Moye. They made heroic effort and again won the victory. Just as the firemen had conquered the westward sweep of the flames at the old Blow residence corner, there came the cry that fire was burning in the roof of the second story of the brick block occupied by the Carolina club. Quick as it could be done the lines of hose were changed to this point and under two well directed streams this block was saved. While many men, both white and colored, worked nobly to save property, Mr. S. T. Hooker, was the real hero of the fire. He is a born leader in such emergencies, and directed the efforts of the fighters at the most advantageous points and with telling effect. The most serious loss to the town is the destruction of the handsome Masonic Temple, containing law offices, the opera house, and public library. The vault in the court house was opened this morning and the record books were found in good condition. The total loss is conservatively estimated at $150,000, not more than half covered by insurance.

The weight of pigs has been found to affect their reactions to temperature in terms of feed and water consumption.

The Executive Board of the Women of the Church will meet Monday afternoon 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. James S. Jenkins.

The Choir will meet for practice this Wednesday evening 7:30 o'clock.

The dates for the City-Wide Visitation Evangelism Program are March 12-17. Dr. H. H. Thompson, Atlanta, Ga., will be the leader.

The Gospel according to Mark is the New Testament Book suggested for our reading during the month of February.

Last Sunday the new Sunday School had its first session in the Curb Market, West Greenville. Fifty-nine boys and girls and adults were present. Miss Eleanor Fleming of the Synod's Committee of Religious Education, Charlotte, was the leader of this service, having made a survey of West Greenville and engaged the teachers of the school. We are most grateful to the city aldermen and county commissioners for the use of the curb market as a place of meeting.

The session has called a congregational meeting for this Sunday.

Girl Scout Brownies and Daddies Enjoy Feast

Girl Scout Brownies and their daddies had a "Sweetheart Party" at the Rotary Club building last night. The Brownies provided the supper in boxes. Senior Girl Scouts served other refreshments.

Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, Greenville Girl Scout commissioner, and Mrs. E. L. Henderson, executive secretary, and other members of the Girl Scout Council assisted in making the Brownies' party a wonderful success.

Approximately 150 Brownies and their daddies attended. The "Brownies' and Daddies' Sweetheart Party" was such an outstanding success that it will be held regularly each year.

The following program was carried out:
Invocation—Joe Ann Parks.
Song, by the group.
Margaret Ruffin welcomed the guests.

Wendell Smiley responded. Entertaining stunts were given by members of Girl Scout troops 2, 5 and 6.

Judy Jolly conducted a "guis" program. The program concluded with the Brownies, Girl Scouts and their daddies forming the Girl Scout "Friendship Circle," with all of the guests joining hands and singing the "Evening Prayer."

In terms of the Beatitudes.
"Albert Schweitzer," by Magnus Ratter. Our latest book on the world famous medical missionary to French Equatorial Africa. One of many on and by this outstanding man of today.

"The Great Redemption," by Chester Warren Gumbly. Paul's Epistle to the Romans becomes a modern and living book in the hands of Gumbly, author of several books on Paul.

"Way to Power and Peace," by E. Stanley Jones. A devotional handbook giving short, thoughtful and forceful meditations for each day in the year.

"Growth in Prayer," by Constance Garrett. A stimulating book giving the reader a greater appreciation of prayer as communion with God as opposed to the idea of prayer as merely asking for what we want.

"Gospel and Our World," by Georgia Harkness. An analysis of the weakness of the church today and suggestions for strengthening it.

"Faith to Live By," by Alison J. Smith. Deals with faith as a power in the chief realms of life—work, home, marriage, handicaps, fears, etc.

Others recommended include the following:
"Mary," by Sholem Asch.
"Man From Nazareth," by Harry E. Fosdick.
"When the Lamp Flickers," by Leslie Weatherhead.
"Jesus Then and Now," by Willard Sperry.
"Prince of Egypt," by Dorothy C.

Dean of Women To Be Guest Of W. C. Alumnae

Miss Katherine Taylor, dean of women at Woman's College of the University of North Carolina and Mrs. Carlton Jester, Jr., alumnae secretary will be guests at the Woman's College Alumnae meeting March 3 at 6:30 in the Episcopal parish house.

Alumnae from Pitt, Martin and Beaufort counties are invited to meet with the guests and to hear Miss Taylor, the main speaker. This is her first official visit to this part of the state since she was made dean of Woman's College on July 1, 1948.

Miss Taylor was graduated in 1928 from Woman's College where she was awarded the Well Fellowship. She received her masters degree at Radcliffe college and continued her studies in France. She returned to her Alma Mater as a member of the Romance Language department and as counselor. During the war she served two years in the United States Navy, Women's Reserve with a commission of Lt. (j. g.). She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, an honorary member of the Golden Chain, honorary Woman's College student organization, member of the Friday Afternoon club, and honorary member of the Greensboro Pilot Club.

All Woman's College alumnae who plan to attend are urged to make reservations with Miss Patricia Waldrop, Box 83, Greenville, by February 28.

AAUW Tournament Proves Success

The games tournament sponsored by the local A. A. U. W. on Monday night, February 20, for the benefit of the scholarship fund proved to be an evening of fun for all present. Several tables were in session at bridge, canasta, and other favorite games. At the conclusion of play, Mrs. Parnell Picklesimer was found to be high scorer at bridge for women and Mr. Billy Morton for men.

The winners at canasta were Miss Senora Moore for women and Dr. J. D. Messick for men.

One of the features of entertainment for the evening was a contest to secure an appropriate title for an unusual and ingenious creation in modern art by Mr. Francis Neel of the Art Department of E. C. T. C. The most original titles submitted were "Screwlectomy" by Howard Porter and "Nehillam" by James Fleming. Mr. Porter won the prize by a lucky draw.

The Greenville branch of A. A. U. W. wishes to thank all who contributed in any way to the success of this tournament. Especially do they feel indebted to the business firms for their contributions of prizes and other services.

Eppes NHA Presents Program At Meeting Of High School FHA

The regular FHA meeting was held Wednesday morning at 8:40 in the high school auditorium. The NHA of Eppes high school, under the direction of Miss Staplefoot, home economics teacher and NHA advisor, presented a program which was enjoyed by all. This was in keeping with National Brotherhood Week. Those participating in the program were: Helen King sang "The Lord's Prayer," Doris Lynch rendered two solo numbers, "Oh Loving Heart" and "Greatest Thou Thus." These were accompanied by Hubert Walters, who was substituting for Mrs. Davenport, the Eppes high school music teacher; an original skit, "How the NHA Helps," was presented by the following students: Keasley Smith, Thelma Rawlins, Martha Teale, Hilda Ellis, Annie Worthington, and Dorothy Cherry. The playlet was concluded by the beautifully blended voices of the entire group singing the NHA song. Both the program and the group were well received by the 80 GHS home economics students present. Pat Simpson, president of FHA, thanked the group for their entertaining program.

3 Ladies' COATS

These coats are large size, and that is all we can find to say about them, except they sold for $25. We never want to see them again.

$4.00

4 Ladies' SUITS

One of our sales ladies looked at these suits for the millionth time the other day and told the boss, either the suits go or I go. Sizes 10, 12 and 14.

$4.00

Ladies' SHOES

They are nationally advertised shoes, but just won't sell for $9.95. Maybe you will feel sorry for us and buy them for the very special price of—

$6.88

2 Children's COATS

You probably will have to spank the kids to make them wear these coats, but they did sell for $9.95. Sizes are 5 and 12.

$4.00

60 Children's DRESSES

Wash 'em, wear 'em, what you will have left, you will not want to tell a soul about. They once were $3.00 values, now you can have them for—

97c

Children's PANTIES

It is rumored that our buyers went to sleep and when she woke up, she had bought 100 dozen instead of 10.

6 PAIRS

$1.00

Men's SHIRTS

The salesman told us these shirts were slight imperfects, now that we have them, we find they are big imperfects of values to $3.00.

$1.09

Men's Nylon JACKETS

You can wash them yourself and if you have the price, we will even sell you one. The truth is we got them and we don't want them. $20.00 value.

$10.88

Children's ANKLETS

Sizes 6 to 11 and they did, at one time sell for 69c. We have passed them around so much until they look like a football.

33c

10 Pair Ladies' GLOVES

There is a question how long these gloves have been here. We don't know, but there is an agreement that they are $2.98 values.

39c

8 Ladies' SKIRTS

Some sold for $6.00, some are old, some are soiled, some are short and some just don't have that something.

$1.44

Brassiers & GIRDLES

We were about to forget there are some garter belts included. Some of these sold for $2.98, but we couldn't find anybody weak enough to buy them.

10c to 88c

24 Ladies' GOWNS

These are floral crepe gowns and if they had left the flowers in the garden, somebody might have bought them. So, if you buy one, you'll have to take both.

$1.00

Ladies' BLOUSES

Our buyer closed her eyes and said I'll take this one, that one and etc. Now that she has them it took us two days to get them from under the counter.

$2.00

2 Evening DRESSES

If you don't like the color, you can dye them. How they ever managed to be marked $19.95 we don't know. They are real dogs, they might even bite you.

$4.00

6 Bed COMFORTS

If everybody hadn't wanted them, we would have never bought them. Nobody wants them now, so we are trying to give them away for—

$2.88

Curtain GOODS

The mill must be closed, because we have all the curtain goods. They really must have told our buyer a real sob story.

18c

Short LENGTHS

These 48c values have been picked over and shuffled around so, that they look like an old deck of cards. At this price you can practice sewing.

19c

Buttons and BUTTONS

We've got more buttons than Carter has pills. And if there is two a like it's a miracle. Bring a wheelbarrow and cart them away.

DOZEN

10c

60 yds. Awning STRIPE

Why pay 60c for the colors to run all over you or fade? All you have to pay now is the real low price listed.

24c

5 Zipper BAGS

These bags are old enough to vote. How do we know? We have had them so long that it will bring tears to our eyes to see them go. Values to $7.95.

$1.44

One Group CRYSTAL

Fruit juice and wine glasses that were bought during the war, just so as to have crystal. Trying to sell them for 60c is like trying to give the measles away.

10c

Men's SUITS

They wouldn't sell for $45.00, so we tried to give them to the moths. They didn't want them. Maybe you can use them for this low price.

$15.00

Men's SWEATERS

These sweaters are slightly soiled and to tell the truth they aren't so smart looking. There are values up to $9.00 included.

1/2 price

Bed SPREADS

Famous name brands of $9.95 values. Don't think the maker would even claim them now. They are slightly soiled, nothing Duz couldn't help.

$4.99

12 Plastic Raincoats

If they didn't have hoods, we might want them. As it is we are stuck with them, and since we can't eat them we have got to sell them.

72c

Special Stationery

If you want to write, then the stationery is good. If you want to store it then you will have to find a box. Just the thing for girls to cut dolls from.

33c

One Group CURTAINS

Lace curtains, ruffled and tailored marquisettes. We have so many we hope you will buy some for your car windows too.

88c

3 Sets BOOKENDS

They are glass, but every time we knock them on the floor they don't break. Maybe you can have better luck and break them before you get home.

87c

One Group LAMPS

If you close your eyes and don't look at these lamps you will like them. Otherwise you will probably throw them in the trash can.

$1.00

Men's Overcoats

Values to $35.00 included, and they will even turn the rain, furthermore the customers always turn away when they look at them. Get some dark glasses and come on down.

$15.00

Men's SHORTS

This is a short, short story. If you aren't too big for your size you can wear them, and if you're not too choosy you might buy them.

34c

9 Shopping BAGS

Whoever bought these to sell for $1.00 surely must have left their glasses home. They are straw, they might be just what your horse likes to eat.

44c

Ball FRINGE

We have every color, but everybody wanted white, and now we have no white. If we pass this around much more we are going to call it football fringe.

Strength FOR THE DAY

THINGS COULD BE WORSE
Have you ever felt that you were afflicted and bedagged by fate beyond the customary lot of man? Undoubtedly you have, for everyone of us has at some time felt that he had something to bear which was heavier than the burden which anyone else had to bear.

One of the ancient Greek sages is said to have remarked that if everybody could take his troubles, cast them upon a pile, and then go and examine the troubles of every one else, he would come back at last and clutch his head.

It sometimes seems that people have burdens too heavy for them to bear. That is, we think these burdens are too heavy, but the people who are bearing them know that they can bear them. And when they think of all the possibilities involved in the bearing of burdens under which they are other people staggering day by day, most of them conclude that they would rather endure their appointed lot than trade places with anyone else.

People are sometimes broken down by the burden of trouble. Most people, however, are broken down by worrying about troubles that never happen or regretting things that cannot be undone. These two causes, plus an unregulated life and too much speed, constitute the greatest cause of physical, mental, and moral breakdowns.

ARTHUR B. COREY

In the death of Arthur B. Corey here late yesterday Greenville and Pitt County lost a most valuable citizen. In addition to his activities in the legal profession Mr. Corey had served the county and state exceedingly well five terms as State Senator. He was one of the organizers of the American Legion in this state and since that time has been active in veteran affairs.

It was a well deserved tribute paid him in a Legion meeting here last Tuesday night when former State Adjutant J. M. Caldwell declared that there were few if any individuals in North Carolina who were better versed in veterans' affairs or had rendered greater service to disabled veterans and widows and orphans of veterans than had Arthur Corey.

For many years Corey had, without compensation, devoted much of his time to the duties of service officer of the local post of the American Legion and but for his efforts many disabled veterans, widows and orphans would never have received from the government the benefits that were justly due them.

The kind of service that Arthur Corey has rendered to Pitt County truly deserves "Well Done Thou Faithful Servant."

Somebody Told Me...

By L. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

Yesterday Wife Rachel and I were eating lunch at the American Legion restaurant with Bob Ross, the comparatively new manager of the Royal Crown Cola Bottling Company here.

The conversation jumped from here to there, but ended up on domestic relationships. We agreed that no matter how happily married a couple might be, they have disputes now and then. Bob illustrated:

Just before Bob finished at UNC he went to Goldsboro to be interviewed for the job he now holds. He left his wife, Martha, with the understanding that he'd come right back after the interview. In Goldsboro his present boss wanted him to come to Greenville to look over the plant, so he did. Realizing this would prolong the trip, Bob telephoned Martha in Chapel Hill. No answer. At ten that night when Bob got home he found Martha sitting on the porch crying her eyes out. He had locked the door and absent-mindedly put the key in his pocket. She couldn't have possibly answered the phone, nor could she figure out what had happened to Bob.

But Bob confessed that Martha had been more perturbed. One day she asked him to empty the garbage, which he did cheerfully. In fact, en route to the can he picked up things here and there and deposited them in the can. Fifteen minutes later he was devouring the newspaper when Martha let out a yelp, "Bob, where are my orange peelings?"

"Come again."

"My orange peelings! The ones I scooped out to fill with sweet potatoes."

Bob was sunk. "Oh those," he said meekly. "I threw those in the garbage." At that moment Bob wondered if his efforts were fully appreciated.

On the way out of the Legion I asked the manager, Mrs. Bill Rush, how she's liking MSG. That monosodium glutamate, the super seasoning that brings out (but doesn't change) the flavor of food. Several months ago I wrote a column on MSG and called Mrs. Bissette let me to it. He uses it on the food at Bissette's drug store and bought some for resale.

Mrs. Rush tried a small quantity at first, and the results satisfied her. Later she ordered 30 pounds of the seasoning ready mixed with the proper amount of pepper and salt.

"I can't tell how much the use of MSG has helped our business, if any," she says, "because I had a good crowd before. But people want to know what I did to this or that to make it so tasty." MSG has an amazing effect on food. If you don't believe it, just try it yourself.

And I thank you.

Nerve Disease Is New Puzzler For Neurologist

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — A strange nerve disease which seldom makes anyone ill but which holds plenty of mystery for medical researchers is reported by Dr. Robert Wartenberg, neurologist of the University of California medical school. This ailment causes certain areas of the skin to have less than normal sensitivity to pain or a dulling of the sense of touch. It often appears after infections such as grippe or flu. It may affect just one small area of the body or many. It may disappear in some areas and reappear in others.

The significant thing about it, says Dr. Wartenberg in the Journal of the American Medical Association, is that it is a definite disease, but nobody knows what causes it or exactly how to treat it. It is probably, says Dr. Wartenberg, that nearly everyone gets it at one time or another.

Church Is Planted in Pagan City

After staying at Antioch for some days, Paul and Barnabas decided to visit the cities where they had made converts. Barnabas wanted to take John Mark with them; Paul did not, so they separated. Barnabas taking John and Paul, Silas.

Church Is Planted in Pagan City

CORINTH RECEIVES GOSPEL FROM PAUL

Scripture—Acts 15:36-18:22; I Corinthians 5:9-6:20; II Corinthians 6:11-7:1.

By Newman Campbell

TODAY we continue Paul's missionary journeys. Consult the map to see the many miles he traveled with his companions to bring the Gospel of Christ to Jew and Gentile alike.

The distances seem small, measured by modern means of transportation, but they required weary hours to travel in the time of Paul and his comrades.

Paul and Barnabas were in Antioch after going to Jerusalem to make a report of their activities. Paul suggested to Barnabas that they visit again the brethren in every city where they had preached the word of the Lord. Barnabas evidently agreed, but he was determined to take John Mark with them. Paul said no.

You remember, John Mark had deserted them on one of their former expeditions. Luke says, "The contention was so sharp between them that they departed asunder one from the other." The two separated almost quarreled, and Barnabas took John Mark and went to Cyprus, and Paul went to Syria and Cilicia.

Paul and Barnabas never worked together again, which is sad, because Barnabas had introduced Paul to the church and sponsored him when the leaders were inclined to mistrust him.

The lesson is so long and so filled with exciting incidents, that we must be brief in recounting each one in order to have space for the temperance lesson Paul preached to us in Corinthians.

In the 16th chapter of Acts we are introduced to a new and very important character in Paul's life. His name was Timothy, son of a Jewess and a Greek. Two of Paul's last epistles, written just before his death in Nero's persecutions, were addressed to him.

Now a strange thing happened to Paul. The Holy Ghost forbade him to go to certain places. The reason? God had planned another field in which He wished him to work. As Paul lay in his bed, in chains appeared to him. It was that of a man who prayed Paul, "Come over into Macedonia, and help us."

Paul knew it was the Lord had called him. He was the Lord had called him. He was the Lord had called him.

Paul was again arrested here, but the deputy, Gallio, refused to listen to his enemies and sent them packing, which verified the words of God to Paul when he went to Corinth: "Be not afraid, but speak... for I am with thee, and no man shall set on thee to hurt thee."

Writing later to these same Corinthians, Paul warned them against idolaters, extortioners, those who were covetous; against drunkards and those who were impure in their lives. Living good, moral and temperate lives. God would be a father to them. He promised, and they should be His sons and daughters.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Acts 15:36-18:22; I Corinthians 5:9-6:20; II Corinthians 6:11-7:1.

Coming to Troas in their travels, Paul had a vision in the night of a man who begged him to "Come over into Macedonia and help us," so Paul and his companions, thinking this was word from God, went to Philippi, chief Macedonian city.

At Philippi, Paul and his companions made many converts, but envious Jews took them before the magistrates and they were beaten and imprisoned. An earthquake liberated them, however, their jailer was baptized, and after comforting their brethren, they departed.

From Philippi Paul went to Thessalonica where he and Silas were taken before a magistrate who released them; then to Athens, where Paul preached the gospel on Mars Hill; and thence to Corinth, a pagan city.

MEMORY VERSE—Acts 18:9-10.

Itemize. So—in this case with your $9,500 and your wife who had no income—you decide to file jointly and get that 10 per cent deduction which comes to $950, really more than your actual expenses.

Exemptions—When your wife files jointly with you, or if she had no income of her own, you get a $600 exemption for yourself, $600 for her. (If she had income, no matter how small, and files separately or fails to file jointly with you, you get no $600 exemption for her.)

But in this case you also have three schoolboy sons. You get an exemption of $600 each for two of them as dependents, but not for the third. Why?

Because, although all three had income for working after school, only one of them had income of $500 or more. And no one with $500 or more income can be claimed as a dependent, even though you contributed to more than half his support.

So your total exemptions are $2,400. That is, $600 for you, $600 for your wife, and $600 each for your two dependent sons.

Now turn to the bottom half of page 3 and follow the formula down, line by line. Don't skip around.

Line 1—Write your income, $9,500. Line 2—Write your deduction, $950. Subtract line 2 from line 1 and write the result, $8,550, on line 3.

On line 4 write your exemption, $2,400. Subtract the $2,400 from the $8,550 (line 3) and write the result, $6,150, on line 5. This $6,150 is the only part of your income which can be taxed. It's what is left after subtracting your deductions and exemptions from your total income of $9,500. Now, because this is a joint return, skip to line 9. This is where the tax work starts.

Line 9—Write $3,075. This is the tentative tax on $6,150 (line 5). You find the tentative tax by using the rate table on the back of the instruction sheet mentioned earlier.

Line 11—Write $96.38. This is the line where you cut the "tentative" tax to the actual tax. You do that by following the rule on line 11, under section B. Some people, depending on the size of their taxable income, will follow the rule under section A.

Line 10—Write $636.50. This is the tentative tax on $3,075 (line 9). You find the tentative tax by using the rate table on the back of the instruction sheet mentioned earlier.

State Received Over $32 Million In Gov't Funds

Raleigh, Feb. 24 (AP)—Uncle Sam turned over a total of $32,222,197 to the state of North Carolina last year. Most of the money—when matched with state and oftentimes local funds—went to support public welfare, educational and health programs.

Assistant Budget Director D. S. Coltrane released the report yesterday.

The lion's share of the funds—$12,705,221—went to the state Board of Public Welfare to be matched with state and county funds. Old age assistance received the most, $8,544,381, while $3,470,265 went for aid to dependent children and $484,875 went as aid to county welfare administration.

Vocational education came in for a total of $7,193,872. Most of this, $5,625,151, went for the veterans' farmer training program.

The Employment Security Commission took in $3,007,044. Some $1,055,919 went for the State Commission for the Blind, including $790,309 for aid to the blind.

The state Board of Health for $3,111,436. This included $380,334 for venereal disease control, $362,714 for the crippled children's fund, $339,364 for maternal and child health and $246,048 for tuberculosis control.

Among other federal grants were $2,859,312 to the Board of Education for school lunchrooms; $1,437,402 to N. C. State College and the Agricultural Experiment Station; $615,543 to the Medical Care Commission, including $396,913 for hospital construction; and $327,265 to the Highway Commission.

Since India's support is vital for the formation of such an association, Jessup undoubtedly is discussing that matter with Nehru. The ambassador also is bound to be putting his best foot forward to strengthen relations between India and America.

It is an amazing thing to find India, which received its independence from England less than three years ago, today assuming such a position of leadership in the Far East.

Of course the Orient is in a state of turmoil; it is in the melting pot. Still it is possible to say that India may be the paramount nation of the Far East, and certainly will rank as one of the world's dominant powers. China is bigger in area and population, and has greater resources, but the question of whether that shattered and disunited country will again rank as one of the "big five" powers is highly problematical.

All three top-seeded teams—Greenville, Washington and Kinston—advanced to semi-finals play in the Northeastern basketball tournament here staged at the Wright gymnasium of ECYC, by trouncing their opponents in the opening rounds of play last night.

In the opening games, Greenville defeated Edenton, 48-26; Washington Pam-Pack defeated Roanoke Rapids 52-34; and Kinston defeated New Bern by a 46-27 margin.

Greenville 48, Edenton 26
Coach Boley Farley's Phantoms of the Greenville High School had little difficulty in defeating the Edenton Aces, 48-26, in the opening contest of the Northeastern Conference last night.

The Greensies held the Aces to four lone points in the first quarter, while they racked up a total of 13 points and in the second period held them to two points, which came only after six minutes of play, while the Phantoms came through with an even dozen points to take a 26-8 lead at the half-way mark.

The two teams played about even in the third quarter, with each team chalking up seven points each. However, the Greenville team came back in the final quarter to score 16 points and Coach George Thompson's Edenton quint came back to score a total of 13 points, which was as many points as they had scored in the other three quarters of the game. Coach Farley during the last half used members of his second team almost exclusively.

Virginia Haymes led the Phantoms' attack with a total of 12 points and Joe Sawyer with seven points was next high scorer. Sid Briley and Jimmy Dillingham contributed six points each.

Johnny Dobson, stellar forward on the Edenton quint, scored half of his team's total points with 12.

Farmville And Colerain Take Class B Openers

Pitt Champions Off Their Game But Defeat Manteo 51-32; Bertie Medalists Down Elm City Quint By 47-32

Pitt champ, the Red Devils of Farmville high school, played one of their poorest games of the aging season but still managed to stay ahead of Manteo at the gun, 51-32.

Colerain, Bertie County medalist, bagged the night's first kill in taking Elm City in the opener, 47-32.

Farmville and Colerain play in tonight's semi-final round. The Red Devils, coached by Elbert Moyer, meet Ahoskie, winners over Hoke, Wednesday night, in the nightcap tonight. Colerain takes on Vanceboro which beat Jamesville in the first round.

Colerain 47, Elm City 32
Colerain took their 19th win in the opener by hawking the ball effectively the entire game and working it into their center, Sam Farless for two-pointers time and again.

The Bertie team ran the count to 12-2 in the first quarter and 27-8 at the half. They ran the Elm City team, which floundered a badly crippled starting five, off its feet during the first 16 minutes, continually breaking up passes to set up their own offense.

During the last quarter, which showed Elm City behind at the beginning, 34-17, they began a full-court press to try to stop the running-wild offense displayed by Colerain. But the latter found the press to their liking.

Elm City showed they were unfamiliar with pressing tactics for the most part, fouling the Colerain players in their attempts to get the ball.

Leading the victors was Sam Farless, tall center for the Colerain team. He pulled in scoring honors for both teams with 18 points. Don Beich, a fast-breaking forward, was the ball hawk of the game, stealing the ball numerous times to set it up for his teammates.

High for Elm City was Brent Braswell, one of the three Braswells on the first team, with 11 points. He also led the losers on defense.

Farmville 51, Manteo 32
The Red Devils could have made a better game of it and run the score into the higher brackets had they been more accurate from outside and on their set shots.

High-scoring forward Carl King for the host team was held in check for the better part of the game, collecting only seven points. But his center, Albert Cannon, and forward Frank Dupree made up for his low score to tally 12 points apiece, high for both clubs.

Farmville was never headed from the opening gun. They broke away from the initial uptick to allow Harry Albritton to lay one up before the clock had begun its rounds. They led at the quarter 11-6.

They led at the quarter 11-6, holding Elm City team out of the game to discount any long-shot threats.

Half-time score showed Farmville with a ten-point lead, 26-16.

The Devils maintained this point spread or better throughout the remainder of the game, leading at the third period, 36-18.

Leading the Manteo five, which left last night for home and their Dare County tournament tonight, was Buddy Canady with 10 points. Defensively, Lindsay Midgett, a guard, was the workhorse for the losers.

Frank Dupree led the Pitt County champs, on defense, handling the ball with a finesse common among college circles. Harry Albritton assisted him with moments of brilliance but made bad passes a greater part of the time.

Glenn Davis May Draw Football, Baseball Bids

Port Monroe, Va., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Professional football and big league baseball today turned that "come hither" look in the direction of Glenn Davis, the former Army gridiron great.

The "Mr. Outside" of the finest football teams produced at West Point is coming out of the Army. The Army said so yesterday. It accepted the resignation of the 26-year-old first lieutenant.

Neither football nor baseball—nor anybody else—can officially deal with Davis until March 1. That's when he will be free to accept civilian employment. His Army resignation won't become final until June 3.

If Davis plays football—and he said today he would—it will be with the Los Angeles Rams. The Rams have his first crack at Davis.

"I've definitely decided on football," said Davis, who also was a baseball star. But he hinted baseball might win him over if enough of that green stuff is dangled beneath his nose.

The first baseball club to indicate it is interested in Davis was Cleveland. The Indians' general manager, Hank Greenberg, said the club is "definitely interested."

In California, two other baseball clubs expressed an interest in Davis. General Manager Roy Hamey of the Pittsburgh Pirates said "we have invited him to work out with us here."

"We'd like to give him a trial," said Don Stewart, president of the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast League.

Bethel Defeats Williamston By Score Of 43-37

Bethel, Feb. 24.—The Indians came from a last-three-minute tie to beat a visiting Williamston team last night, 43-37.

Trailing at the third period by three points, 39-36, the Williamston club pulled into a tie at 37-37 with the locals. At the 5:00 minute mark of the last stanza, Frank Hemingway, high scoring forward for Walter Latham's five, sank a tie-breaking bucket to put the Indians ahead for keeps.

High scorer for the locals was Hemingway with 12 points. John Nelson, center for the Bethel club, was second high with 10. Earl Johnson and Hilton Tetterton were the defensive standouts.

For Williamston, Jerry Forehand tied with Hemingway for scoring honors, collecting 12 points also. The two starting forwards, Asa Manning and Rush Bondurant, were runners-up with eight apiece. Bobby Clay, center, and Jolky Davis led the defense.

In the girls' preliminary, Bethel made it a clean sweep over the Martin County teams by taking the girls 30-24.

Williamston sported a five-point lead at halftime, 15-10, but the locals closed the gap and went ahead at the third quarter, 20-17.

Leading the Indian girls were Toddy Smith with 12 points and Mary Ella Moore with 11. Peggy Batchelor got seven. Daphne Bowers starred defensively for the locals.

For Williamston, Alice Peaks was high scorer with 10 points. Jean Bailey and Perle Leggett were the defensive standouts.

Tied For Lead In Bowling League

The Corseters of the American Lady Bowling league tied the Ladyettes for first place last night as they copped three games from the Artists Models.

Lillian Thomas was the workhorse for the Corseters last night as she consistently bowled higher lines than did her opponents or bowling mates. Thomas now sports the highest average for the women of the league with 120 pins for six games, plus leading the league in one and three-game-high scores with 175 and 394 pins respectively.

Miss Today moved from last week's bottom position to third place tie with the Nylons, each with a record of three and three.

In the men's division, of which there are six bowlers, one per team, C. B. Allen of the Nylons replaced last week's Alfred Haisig for highest average with 133 to the latter's 127. J. P. Moss brings up third spot with 119 pins for six games.

In the women's individual averages, in second place to Lillian Thomas, is Charlotte Mills, notching a pin on last week's score with 116. Kathryn Allen and Unicy Melton stand in third and fourth places with averages of 110 and 109 each.

The standings through six games:

East Carolina Drops Opener In North State Loop Tourney

By BILL LLOYD
(Special to the Reflector)
Statesville, Feb. 24.—Fourth seeded East Carolina was dropped from the North State Conference tournament here yesterday as the tournament defending champs, Lenoir-Rhyne, outdistanced the Bucs in the opening game of the dribble derby 52-34.

During the first half East Carolina tied the aggressive Bears three times and went ahead temporarily on a basket by Sonny Russell after 12 minutes of play, 12-10. However, after this stage of the game, the hoopsters from Greenville never threatened seriously again.

Action was slow but deliberate during the opening minutes of the game as the Pirates knotted the count three-all on a free throw by Bauer after four minutes of play.

Trailing 10-5 after 10 minutes had elapsed, the Bucs suddenly caught fire and pulled into a 10-10 tie within the next minute on a bucket by Russell and a field goal and free toss by Pennell. Russell followed with another basket and the Pirates gained their short-lived 12-10 lead. At this point the Bears came soaring back to knot the score 12-all on a lay-up by Wells and went out front 17-13 on two baskets by Sellari and one by Pawlak.

In the second half, Lenoir-Rhyne steadily pulled away from the Bucs who were definitely off on their shots from the floor. With eight minutes remaining in the contest, towering Jack Everton fouled out for East Carolina, the Bears leading 44-27.

East Carolina's freshman all conference forward, sensational Sonny Russell, was the only spark for Coach Howard Porter's cagers as he gathered in six field goals and one free throw to gain individual scoring honors for both teams with 13 points. Kantorski and Sellari, Lenoir-Rhyne's two outstanding forwards, were high for the Bears with 10 and nine points respectively.

Chapter 17
Anne was waiting for the bell, and in less than five minutes it rang. She wanted to dash down the stairs but held herself in control. There were going to be so many occasions henceforth when she would need self-control. She was fighting for something now and there was no one on her side. She heard Mary answer it and then gay voices in the lower hall. Celia and Tony were both laughing. She hoped he hadn't had any cocktails to make him laugh in that new reckless way of his which disturbed her so much. His explanation disturbed her even more. He had something to laugh about now.

Celia and Tony burst into the room together, laughing. Tony had his arm about her waist and Celia leaned against him as they squeezed through the door. Celia waved her hand gaily.

"Here we are again. Tony took me away in a taxi and brought me back in his own swell car. Things have been happening in little old New York, I see. And tea in the sanctum-sanctorum. Wonders never cease. And the famous Mrs. Dalloway blinding me with her diamonds."

"You don't need to proclaim you've had a drink. Celia, it's quite obvious. But you haven't had so many that you need to be helped."

Adele was neat. Celia flung gay arms about her and kissed her. "I was wrong. Everything hasn't changed. You haven't. Except that you look older, of course."

Adele pushed her away. "I'll always be younger than you. And need less make-up."

Roger held his hand out to Tony as he had the night Tony had scorned it and carried Anne away in his arms. He was still a host in his home. Tony grasped it warmly, gaily, and his voice was definitely half fellow well met.

"You're looking swell, Roger. The way Anne talked, I thought you might be phony away. Hello, darling. Are we awfully late?" He managed to kiss Anne while still holding Roger's plump hand. He nodded to Adele and went to shake hands with her while Celia kissed her father. He had no awe of Adele now.

"How's David? Still toting money in advertising? That's a fine racket."

Adele's eyes narrowed. "We hear you have become famous."

"Say infamous if you mean that. Anne is candid enough, aren't you, dear?"

Celia was kissing Anne. Celia said: "Anne knows how lucky she is to catch a man who is going places. Don't be modest, Tony. That belongs with failure. Success not only succeeds but knows why it does. When you go ahead you don't look back."

"Is that Hollywood philosophy, Celia?" queried Adele coolly. "Ask David. He was out there. But don't be surprised if he doesn't tell you too much about where he went and what he did."

Adele waved her hand. "I am not jealous. I know David."

Anne offered tea. Tony accepted. Celia laughed, her eyes dancing. "Can you really drink tea after all those cocktails we had? Father, we knew we couldn't hope for more than sherry here and not very much of that, so we got a good start on the way. Were you worried I had crashed?"

"There was no need to worry." Roger spoke quietly as if in faint protest against her loudness. She caught Tony's arm and struck a posture.

"Anne, don't you think we go well together? I told Tony he should go into pictures."

"And I said I could make very good money right here."

Tony ran a hand through his dark hair. Adele raised her voice. "Don't you want to see your children, Celia?"

"Oh, they'll be around later. Now I'm too excited. I told Tony. Do you know that even in California they are talking about him and the way he got Burns off? Anne, do you realize that?"

"I am not surprised."

"Nor I," added Adele. "Don't good gangsters all try to become producers?"

"Tony, listen to that." Celia poked him. "Tell her off."

Tony laughed. "Poor Adele is so out of date. There are no good gangsters. Where would I be if there were? How would I make any money unless they were very bad? The worse they are the better for me. The dumber they are the more trouble they'll get into. And that's where I come in."

Celia flung her arms about him. "That's the way to talk. The more names the papers call you the more advertising you get."

"I do."

Tony said it and escorted her to the piano. Anne got up and took his tea cup to him. He put his arm about her waist possessively.

"Mad at me, darling?"

"How could she be?" cried Celia. "What song shall it be?"

"Could it be 'Love Me Tonight'?"

She flung him a kiss. "It most certainly could. Here you are."

Celia's voice filled the room. Anne slipped out to get more tea. Roger went to a window. The children and dogs were looking up, wondering about the singing. He motioned to them to come up.

Ninth Life Of Cat Eased By Infra-Red Lamp

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—(AP)—Snooky, an 18-year-old tomcat belonging to Leo Feldworth, was getting old. Frequent colds marred his enjoyment of life.

Feldworth, an aircraft tool and die worker, decided to do something about it. He built a special bed atop Snooky's favorite snoozing place, the refrigerator. The bed was equipped with a hidden switch. Now whenever Snooky wants to nap—which is most of the time—the pressure of his body on the bed throws the switch, turning on a 100-watt infra-red heat lamp overhead.

The colds are gone and Snooky's happy. But Feldworth isn't. "Now Snooky won't even come out to eat," he says. "We have to hand food up to him. Breakfast in bed for a cat. Imagine."

Piedmont Urges Prohibition Bill

Washington, Feb. 23—A rash of support for a return to prohibition has broken out in Piedmont North Carolina, it developed today.

The office of Rep. Carl T. Durham reported he had been flooded by petitions urging him to support the Bryson resolution—a measure authored by Rep. Joseph R. Bryson (D-SC) and proposing the submission to the states of another constitutional amendment to restore prohibition.

Most of the petitions, Durham's office said, are coming from Durham and bearing several hundred signatures, but others also have been received by him from High Point and Greensboro and elsewhere in the district.

For the moment, the movement appeared confined principally to Durham's district. Most other members of the Tar Heel congressional delegation said they had received few, if any, petitions on the subject.

Moving Tree's Career Ended

Zion, Ill.—(AP)—Passers-by saw a man sawing away at a big poplar tree. It meant nothing to them. But it meant a lot to Mrs. Ella Scrafield. She planted the tree 44 years ago. She moved four times. Each time she brought the tree along and transplanted it. But recently, because of decay, it had to be cut down and hauled away.

Many Attended Triple Funeral

Funeral services for three Pitt County persons killed in an automobile accident Monday night on the New Bern highway were held yesterday at three p.m. at S. G. Wilkerson and Sons Funeral Home here.

Last rites were held in Greenwood Cemetery for Mrs. Rosa Coward Sutton and her daughter, Mrs. Loretta Vinters and daughter Rose Marie Vinters who were killed in the worst automobile tragedy in Pitt County since 1928.

Approximately 1,000 persons jammed the chapel, the surrounding corridors and street outside to witness the funeral. Chapel services were conducted by Rev. D. J. Little, Pentecostal Holiness Church of Farmville.

Pallbearers for Mrs. Sutton were: J. W. Smith, Ralph Sullivan, W. G. Sullivan, J. E. Sutton, Ernest Willis and Pete Tripp, all of Pitt County. Pallbearers for Mrs. Vinters were: Alton Haddock, Walter Lee Haddock, O. H. Wilson Jr., Gentry McLawhorn, J. B. Hardee and Roman Williams, also of Pitt County.

Mrs. Sutton was born, reared and spent all her life in Pitt and Craven Counties. She was married in 1910 to Tom Sutton.

Mrs. Vinters, daughter of Mrs. Sutton, was born and reared in the Sheldermine community and was married in 1941 to Thomas Earl Vinters. Rose Marie Vinters, their seven-year-old daughter, died Tuesday in Pitt General Hospital from injuries sustained in the accident.

Experiences in color television go back in the laboratory as far as 1928.

Brothers Appeal Contested Will

Judge Walter J. Bone wound up three days of civil term of Superior Court yesterday afternoon after a two-and-a-half day hearing of a contested will.

The judgment in the contested will of Jefferson I. Baker, deceased Negro barber of Greenville, was that the property be delivered to the original executor, George Wiloughby instead of to the caveators, Herbert and A. B. Baker, brothers of the deceased.

The caveat was ordered by the brothers because they thought Baker was incompetent to make a will at the time of his death and undue influence had been exercised on him by the executor.

Baker died July 21, 1948, having made out his will the day before while on his deathbed.

He designated Wiloughby, his "best friend," as executor and all real and mixed property turned over to him. He willed his kitchen furniture to Annie Mae Baker, no kin, for the assistance she had given him while sick.

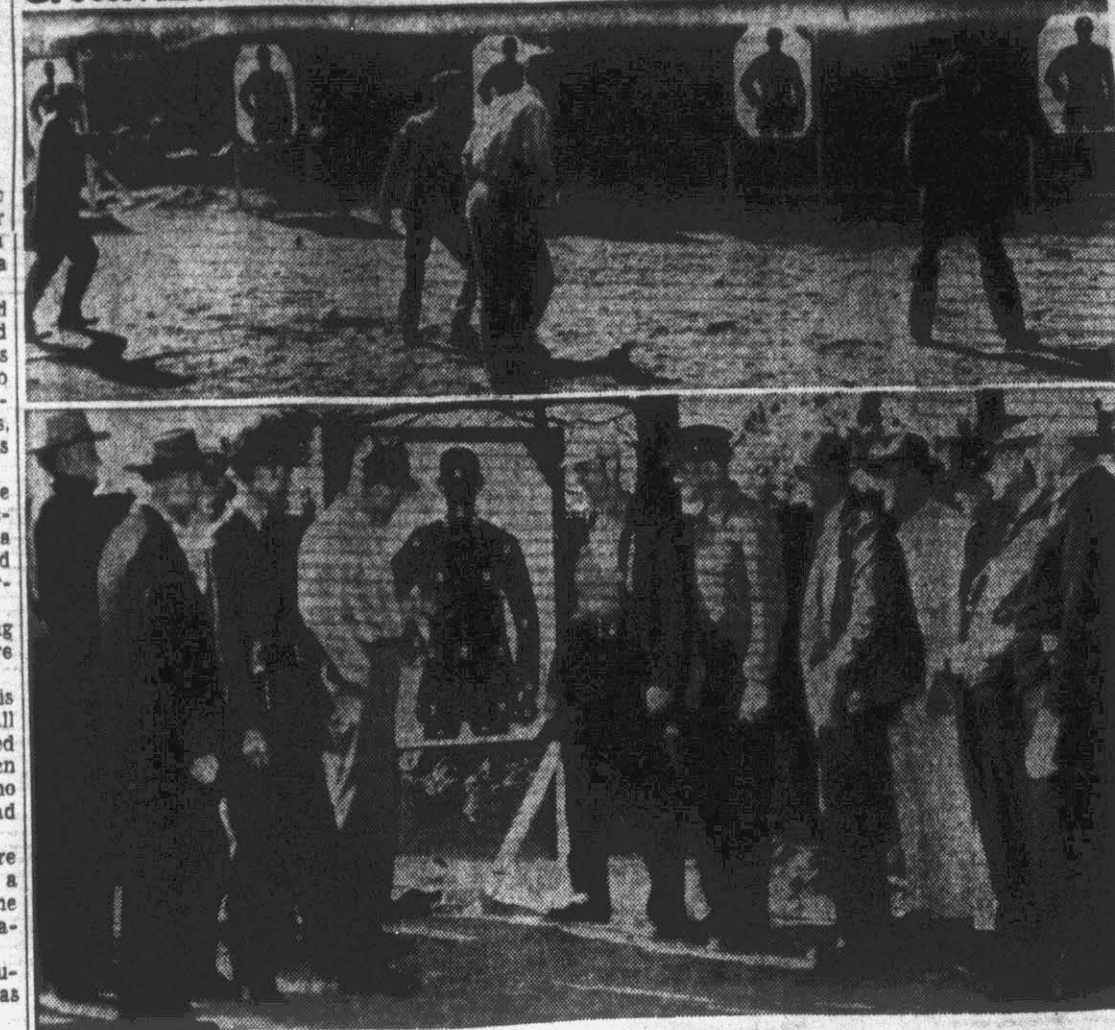

The jury ruled Baker's signature authentic over the testimony by a handwriting authority, hired by the brothers' defense, that the signature was not written by Baker.

The brothers appealed to the Supreme Court and appeal bond was set at $200.

The only other case on Wednesday's calendar was another will case in which Louise Harris Rogers was willed one-half undivided interest in a warehouse by R. E. Harris, Jr.

Greenville Police Officers Take Small Arms Instruction

Members of the Greenville Police force and other law enforcement officers from Pitt county have completed a special small arms training course conducted by an agent from the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The training course, which is the forerunner of a second week of training to be held next week, was held at the city-county rifle range, located back of the Pitt County Airport.

FBI agent Art Lee, who is rated as an expert small arms instructor, was the instructor for the three-day course.

Agent Lee sent two classes daily through the grueling paces of instruction for two to three hours at a time.

The agent demonstrated the proper way in which the various weapons used by the men should be handled and pointed out faults in using their guns. Chief Page stated that the men were very high in their praise for the training which the officer gave them during the course.

"I know that we have benefited tremendously from the training given by Lee," Page said. "I hope that we can conduct a course regularly."

Lee described the performance of the local officers as being better than average. The average group's shooting makes about 70 per cent, he said, while the local officers rated between 75 and 80 per cent.

Special emphasis was placed on shooting from the hip at varying distance and firing in a sitting and crawling position.

Leaders among the officers taking part were: Captain J. R. Mobley, with a perfect score of 100 per cent in short range firing; Tommie Gladson racked up a high score of 87.2 in the long-range arms fire; Chief Page and officer H. F. Lawson tied for second place in long range firing with 86.4. Page took a second place rating in the short distance firing also.

The men who were instructed in firing from either their right or left hands, fired more than 2,000 rounds of bullets during the three-day course.

All men who attend the training course next week, in addition to the arms training will be given a certificate showing they completed the training course in small arms and major case study.

Sub-Zero Cold Hits Some Areas

A blast of cold air from Canada spread across the snow-covered midwest today and sent temperatures to around 30 degrees below zero in some areas. Snow fell over many sections of the cold belt.

The fast-moving storm headed eastward and was expected to move into the New England states by tonight. The northeastern part of the country already was digging out from one of the season's worst sleet and snow storms.

Chicago got another heavy snowfall, the second this week, with more than four inches falling during the night. Traffic was slowed and some plane operations disrupted. Snow fell in parts of Indiana, Southern Michigan and northern Ohio.

LABORITES

An outpouring of voters from the rural and small city districts revived Conservative hopes early in the day after a night of gloom.

The picture changed completely overnight. In the early morning, Labor piled up a lead which many leaders of both parties believed meant certain victory.

When the counting was recessed last night, with Labor holding its big lead, there was jubilation at Transport House, Labor party headquarters. Labor supporters in Piccadilly Circus and Trafalga square settled victory celebrations. Gloom settled over Conservative headquarters.

The swing toward the Conservatives became apparent soon after the counting was resumed this morning. The Labor lead quickly dropped to 43, then 24. It was down to 17 by mid-afternoon, and continued dropping.

An outpouring of voters from the rural and small city districts revived Conservative hopes early in the day after a night of gloom.

The picture changed completely overnight. In the early morning, Labor piled up a lead which many leaders of both parties believed meant certain victory.

When the counting was recessed last night, with Labor holding its big lead, there was jubilation at Transport House, Labor party headquarters. Labor supporters in Piccadilly Circus and Trafalga square settled victory celebrations. Gloom settled over Conservative headquarters.
