Coal Output Nears Full Production

Return To Pits By Miners Expected To Be Nearly Complete Today; Effect Of Strike's End Already Manifested By Industry

Pittsburgh, March 7—(AP)—Coal production sped toward normal today in the wake of a month-long soft coal strike.

The coal poured in steady streams from towering mine tipples into waiting gondolas and hopper cars that rushed them to fuel-needy areas.

Nearly a third of the idle diggers happily shouldered picks and shovels yesterday. The work return of the 372,000 striking United Mine Workers is expected to be virtually complete today.

Industries, hard hit by the shutdown, quickly threw off the strike-imposed shackles.

Steel firms and railroads recalled thousands of the more than 225,000 workers idled by the coal walkout.

Wheeling Steel Corporation scheduled full scale resumption of production as did other companies which had curtailed because of fuel shortages.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway restored dining car service which was eliminated to conserve coal. The C. and O. will resume runs of three branch line trains Friday.

The Interstate Commerce Commission decided to keep in effect its partial ban on coal-burning freight and passenger train service until carriers can build up depleted coal stocks.

New York joined other areas in cancelling conservation dimouts. However, the nation's largest city continues fuel rationing for a time.

Mine protocol—the need actually to receive and then to vote on official word of the strike's end—delayed work returns in some sections.

The UMW's biggest local—the 2,400 member Robena local in western Pennsylvania—decided to return to the pits at a four-minute meeting last night. Local members who had spearheaded the long walkout summed up their feeling at going back with a deafening—

"Hurray!"

But one miner didn't dig any coal and isn't likely to dig any. He is Joseph Dickson of Liberty, Pa., who was suspended from his UMW local for calling John L. Lewis a "dictator."

"I'm getting out of the mines," Dickson asserted, "and from under dictatorship—even if I have to dig ditches."

The 29-year-old digger said he will press his appeal for reinstatement in the UMW but only "to show the men how wrong they were."

State Fair Had $65,000 Profit

Raleigh, N. C., March 7—(AP)—Dr. J. S. Dorton, manager of the State Fair, today was re-employed for another year by the State board of Agriculture. The board acted after Dorton submitted a financial statement prepared by the State Auditor showing a profit last year of $65,036.19.

In addition to profits of previous years, this made a total of $252,557.84 in the state fair surplus account, the auditor's report disclosed.

Estimates Cost Of Toll Turnpike

Raleigh, N. C., March 7—(AP)—A proposed toll turnpike across North Carolina would cost between $90,000,000 and $100,000,000.

This was revealed today by Charles F. Jones of Durham, president of the first securities corporation and a member of a special committee Governor Scott has named to study the proposed turnpike and report its findings to the next legislature.

No 'Class Warfare'

The Drama Of British Parliament Opening; Picture Of Pomp Combined With Gov't By Laborites; The Founders Of 'Welfare State' Came From 'Upper Class'

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

Those who hold that this funny old world of ours is doomed because of "class warfare" and the clash of ideologies, might get comfort from the drama of the British Parliament opening yesterday in London.

Thousands of Britons—rich and poor, aristocrat and little man—lined the route to cheer the Royal procession from Buckingham Palace to Westminster. Just as in days long gone the King and Queen rode in coach, escorted by scarlet uniformed household cavalry, State Landaus followed with dignitaries. Guns roared a Royal salute from St. James Park.

Lambert Reveals Pitt Leading In Highway Deaths

Increase Of Fatalities Throughout State; Urges Education In Safety

Captain David T. Lambert, commander of the State Highway Patrol Troop A, stationed in Greenville, speaking before the members of the Greenville Lions Club last night, challenged every member present to start now in teaching and educating the up-coming drivers safety principles which will help to cut down the alarming death rate in the state.

Lambert termed the matter of safety on the highways of the utmost importance to the people in Pitt.

"There has been an increase in motor accidents in North Carolina and Pitt County is at the present time the leader in the number of highway deaths among the 11 counties in North Carolina."

He told the assembled crowd of how the patrol was formed some 20 years ago to aid in reducing highway accidents and deaths due to them.

The patrol commander said that while the Patrol does not like to make arrests it has to, and some 7,500 people are arrested monthly by the patrol in the state.

Citing statistics to bear out the ever-increasing death toll, Lambert stated that in 1947, 836 persons were killed on the highway, while in 1948, the only year that the inspection program was in effect, the death rate was cut down to 734.

With the inspection program out, because of public opinion in 1949, the rate climbed up to 834. In 1948 there were 16,200 accident the year the inspection program was enforced, while in 1949 there were 21,200 wrecks.

"Most people think that accidents will happen, but that they will occur to someone else, not to them," Lambert recalled the tragic two-car accident of December 10, in which four persons lost their lives; and the head-on collision which took the lives of three persons near Greenville several days ago. "The people of Pitt County have had several severe lessons which they should remember," the patrol head stated.

"We have tried all ways to help reduce the accidents, but the aids will have to come from the people themselves.

"The teen-age drivers are not the drivers which are having the majority of the accidents," Lambert said. "It is the drivers between the ages of 25 and 30 years of age who are involved in most of the accidents." Youngsters are driving better now than they were, he said.

"We must protect and train our young now, to be aware of the responsibility that they face when they drive. In a little more than two months, Pitt county has had six people killed in accidents. Most of these accidents occurred in good weather on straight stretches of roads, and in the daytime.

"In spite of the traffic laws which are set up to govern the flow of traffic, between 30,000 and 35,000 people are killed annually in the United States.

"Some people become mightily offended when they are arrested for violating traffic laws," he said. "It is the duty of the officers to keep the people from violating laws which are set up to protect them."

Lambert then urged the members present to be careful in the way they drive, saying "Your children will model their form of driving after you, as they hold their parents to be ideals."

Offers Respite To Laborites In Asking Pledge

London, March 7—(AP)—Winston Churchill offered the Labor government today a chance to ease its precarious position in exchange for postponement of steel nationalization.

In his first clash with Labor since the elections which nearly wiped out the Socialist majority, Churchill put Prime Minister Attlee on the spot with a request for a definite pledge that Labor would not take over steel until a date "not later than nine months after the next general election."

What Churchill offered Labor was a respite from the threat of a sudden overthrow. It would relieve the pressure on many government ministers who would otherwise have to drop their duties at any time to rush into Commons for a vote.

Winston Churchill, in theory these conservatives are representatives of the "upper classes" and when we stop to check we find that it was the self-same conservatives who, when in power, laid

Cancer Society Chapter Formed

Board of Directors Named At Meeting Of Pitt Group

Concrete steps toward the prevention and treatment of cancer in Pitt County were begun yesterday as 12 persons from the county met to name a board of directors for the Pitt chapter of the North Carolina Cancer Society.

The group, meeting at Olde Towne Inn for luncheon, heard the detailed planning of such an organization discussed by Mrs. Donald E. Kent, education director of the state organization.

Mrs. Charles W. Reynolds was named commander of the county organization in absentia. Project chairman of the chapter were voted upon by the organizing group.

W. H. Woodard, president of county Bank and Trust Company, was named treasurer of the county society. Woodard also presided at the meeting.

Other officers of chapter are: Mrs. W. C. Ormond, Ayden, secretary, and Sam Bundy, Farmville, campaign chairman.

Mrs. Kent, who edits the North Carolina Cancer News in addition to her education position, was accompanied at the meeting by Miss Mary Finch, assistant director of the national society's lay service with offices in New York City.

Mrs. Kent told the group that, in initiating such a program in this county, it is "necessary to educate every man and woman in Pitt to the danger signals of cancer."

"This should be a trail-blazing group, a public welfare agency working in conjunction with the official hospital agency. Your reason for being—your first obligation—is in the preventive end."

She reminded the group that to function as a well-knit organization "you must be as interested in the richest person in the community as you are in the indigent."

The county organization, as outlined by the state society's by-laws, consists of a board of directors with an executive board. There are three objectives with chairman of each to carry them out. They are education, service and research and are necessary in order that the organization may function as a separate unit apart from the medical authority.

The group decided to extend the officer's terms to September 1951, one year longer than is the usual custom. This action was taken because of the belated formation of the local chapter.

Offers Respite To Laborites In Asking Pledge

Washington, March 7—(AP)—A new meeting of the Western Big Three foreign ministers to plan cold war strategy seemed today to be a certainty.

The State Department said the United States is willing, but officials fore-saw it may be two months before Secretary Acheson is ready for another conference with British Foreign Secretary Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman.

He predicted the foreign ministers would take up Far East peace treaty, relations with Communist China, support for Indochina and other Southeast Asia lands, relations with Germany, and also the possibility of a Big Four meeting.

UAW Considers Offer By Lewis Of Big Loan

Detroit, March 7—(AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers weighed a decision today whether to accept a $1,000,000 loan from John L. Lewis.

Lewis made the offer as help for the UAW's 42-day-old strike against Chrysler Corporation.

The strike has idled 89,000 Chrysler workers at a total of 140,000 in the auto industry.

Michael Shipkov 'Confesses' To Bulgarian Court

Former U.S. Employee And Four Other Bulgarians Confirm Confessions

Sofia, Bulgaria, March 7—(AP)—Michael Shipkov, former Bulgarian translator in the U.S. legation here, confessed yesterday to a Peoples Court that he had spied for America under the personal direction of former U.S. Minister Donald R. Heath.

"The trial opened only two days after the U.S. State Department had released a dramatic affidavit signed earlier by Shipkov, revealing how Bulgarian police had extorted a false confession from him by ruthlessly breaking down his will. He had requested that the affidavit be made public in order to clear his name in the event of a trial, which he evidently felt was inevitable."

Shipkov and four other Bulgarians pleaded guilty and confirmed the written confessions of spying they had made to investigating police before the trial. A co-defendant with Shipkov was Kivka Rindova, former telephone operator at the U. S. legation. Also on the dock were Stefan Kratukov, Inclia Txanov and Vassil Naichev.

Shipkov told the court that Heath—minister in Bulgaria until the U.S. broke relations with that country and closed its legation in Sofia last month—had "inspired in me the conception that the present (Communist-led Bulgarian) regime is transitional."

He said Heath had "underlined that the United States are actively interested in the return of western democracy to Bulgaria."

"My official work in the legation was interpreter," Shipkov declared, adding that "my unofficial activity consisted in gathering information for American intelligence."

He then cited several cases of espionage activity in which he declared he indulged from 1946 onward.

"I distorted, slandered and calculated the initiatives of the Fatherland Front," he told the court, "and he told me how he had gone to Heath after being questioned by the authorities in 1945, telling of his fears of being arrested. He said at Heath's suggestion he took refuge in the legation attic until Oct. 2."

On that day, said Shipkov, Legation Secretary Raymond Courtney brought him food, money, poison, false papers and advised him to flee to Turkey. He said he was captured trying to cross the border.

Dr. Richard Ford, head of the department of legal medicine at Harvard, testified that between 200 and 300 cc of air delivered within 25 seconds would be required to kill a human being.

Dr. Ford said he was basing this estimate on findings that eight cubic centimeters per two and one-fifth pounds of body weight were required to kill a dog.

Two state pathologists had testified for the prosecution they believed Mrs. Borroto died from air embolism caused by the injections.

"Forty cc of air is not enough to block any appreciable part of the arterial system leading to the human lung," said Dr. Ford.

The defense has argued that only between 25 and 28 cc of air were injected into the cancer-wasted woman—and that she was already dead at the time.

Winston-Salem, N.C., March 7—(AP)—The Board of Trustees of Wake Forest College still wants the college to be moved to Winston-Salem.

The trustees made that clear at a meeting here yesterday. The board pledged anew its "complete confidence" in the plan and directed officials to push it to the fullest.

A move was inaugurated recently to keep the school at Wake Forest.

Winston-Salem, N.C., March 7—(AP)—Rep. Graham Barden (D-NC) has revived the controversy over federal aid to parochial schools. He blames the Roman Catholic Church for defeats so far of proposals for federal aid to education.

Barden, author of a bill which would limit federal aid to tax-supported schools, told a luncheon gathering yesterday that Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York had spoken as "a cruel authoritarian" on the issue in an exchange with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt last summer.

Mrs. Roosevelt followed Barden as a speaker at the meeting sponsored by the Committee on Federal Aid

New Talks By 'Big Three' On Cold War Shaping Up

Washington, March 7—(AP)—A new meeting of the Western Big Three foreign ministers to plan cold war strategy seemed today to be a certainty.

The State Department said the United States is willing, but officials fore-saw it may be two months before Secretary Acheson is ready for another conference with British Foreign Secretary Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman.

He predicted the foreign ministers would take up Far East peace treaty, relations with Communist China, support for Indochina and other Southeast Asia lands, relations with Germany, and also the possibility of a Big Four meeting.

Chrysler management rejected an invitation to attend, expressing disbelief that its presence would help.

"We hope," said Robert W. Conder, "this meeting may furnish the occasion for a wide and open discussion of our proposals by your membership, and for a better understanding of them all around."

Coplon, Gubitchev Found Guilty; Sentencing Awaited

New York, March 7—(AP)—A federal jury today found Judith Coplon and Valentin Gubitchev guilty of conspiracy and attempted espionage.

"She is a former government clerk and he is a Russian. The jury of six men and six women had been out since 4:34 p.m. (EST) yesterday and had been locked up overnight. It resumed its deliberations at 9:50 a.m. today."

Miss Coplon was found innocent of one count of the four count indictment which charged her of attempted espionage in that she attempted to transmit documents to unauthorized persons. She was found guilty also on another count of attempted espionage.

Gubitchev was convicted with Miss Coplon under the first count, which charged conspiracy to commit espionage by removing classified documents from government files and to defraud the United States of Miss Coplon's impartial services.

Under count three of the indictment, Gubitchev was found guilty of attempted espionage in that he was an unauthorized person attempting to receive secret documents. This count named Gubitchev alone.

Miss Coplon was found guilty under count four which charged her alone with attempted espionage in that she attempted to transmit documents relating to the national defense to a citizen of the Soviet Union, "with the intent and reason to believe same were to be used to the injury of the United States for the advantage of a foreign power."

At the request of U.S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol Judge Ryan remanded both defendants until Thursday at 10:30 a.m. for sentencing.

A conviction on all four counts of the indictment could send Miss Coplon, now 33, to prison until she is 73 years old. She already has been sentenced to a term up to ten years in another spy case.

Gubitchev, 33-year-old suspended United Nations aide, could get 15 years, and both could get $20,000 fines.

Pleading there was no prospect of early agreement on a verdict, the six men and six women of the jury broke off their deliberations shortly after midnight last night.

The case, which took five weeks to try, went to the jury at 4:34 p.m. (EST) today.

"Well, what do you think of that?" the dark-haired Miss Coplon exclaimed, smiling, as the jury was locked up for the night.

Hair Indicted

Raleigh, March 7—(AP)—Raymond Hair was indicted today on a murder charge and his trial was set to start April 5.

The trial date was set by Judge W. T. Hatch in Wake Superior Court shortly after the Wake Grand Jury had reported on an indictment against Hair.

Hair, 23-year-old Wake Forest college pre-medical student from Fayetteville, is charged with killing Roy W. Coble, 26, of Oakboro, last Dec. 15. Coble was a former Wake Forest student.

Claims Injection Of Air Not Fatal

Manchester, N.H., March 7—(AP) A Harvard pathologist appearing for Dr. Hermann N. Sander testified today that injection of 40 cubic centimeters of air could not have killed Mrs. Abbie Borroto.

The 41-year-old Dr. Sander is on trial for murder on charges he killed the cancer-stricken woman by injecting that amount of air into her veins.

Dr. Richard Ford, head of the department of legal medicine at Harvard, testified that between 200 and 300 cc of air delivered within 25 seconds would be required to kill a human being.

Dr. Ford said he was basing this estimate on findings that eight cubic centimeters per two and one-fifth pounds of body weight were required to kill a dog.

Two state pathologists had testified for the prosecution they believed Mrs. Borroto died from air embolism caused by the injections.

"Forty cc of air is not enough to block any appreciable part of the arterial system leading to the human lung," said Dr. Ford.

The defense has argued that only between 25 and 28 cc of air were injected into the cancer-wasted woman—and that she was already dead at the time.

Winston-Salem, N.C., March 7—(AP)—The Board of Trustees of Wake Forest College still wants the college to be moved to Winston-Salem.

Commissioners Name Sweet Potato Adviser

Louis Gaylord Jr. New Veterans Service Officer; New Site For Health Department Offices Discussed

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners yesterday appointed a Martin county man to serve as sweet potato specialist for this county, Martin and Edgecombe.

Jesse Sumner, former assistant county agent for Martin with offices in Williamston, will take over his new duties effective March 16. His office will remain in Williamston and Sumner will divide his duties among the three counties equally, the commissioners stated.

His term of employment will run through June 30 with whatever extra time is required and deemed advisable by the three counties. He will be paid $115 by each county for his work—$345 altogether.

A native of Northampton county, Sumner was endorsed by the Farm Agents of the neighboring counties and the Extension Department of State College.

Another appointment was made by the Board at yesterday morning's courthouse meeting. Louis W. Gaylord, Jr., local lawyer, was appointed veterans service officer to fill the unexpired term held by Arthur B. Corey who died two weeks ago.

Gaylord will serve until June 30, 1950. In his capacity he will aid veterans and their families in claims against the federal government and whatever other advising they need.

Mayor W. S. Stafford and D. H. Conley, superintendent of county schools, appeared before the Board in behalf of the county Health Department recommending that more space for the department and other agencies now located in the county office building be procured.

Stafford suggested two places in town that can be used by one of the agencies now in the office building. He named the second floor of Dr. H. Hatcher's and the old Shelburn home, located on the northwest corner of 5th and Washington streets as suitable space.

The Mayor suggested one of the county agencies—the Health Department, Farm Agency, Production Marketing Association, or the Home Demonstration Agency—move to either of these two locations, after suitable renovations have been made.

The space over the hatchery is now renting for $100 per month, Stafford said. He recommended, if one of the agencies moves, that the others now in their present location take over the vacated quarters.

The Board called a meeting for this afternoon at two o'clock in the courthouse to discuss the efficacy of such a move. Representatives of the agencies now in the county office building will be present.

Other business, in addition to the regular order, discussed by the commissioners yesterday was—

The county attorney was ordered to ask the Attorney General of the State for advice concerning the funding of a pro-rata part of the money paid by retail beer and wine distributors who have had their licenses revoked, subject to the legality of such action.

A request by the Ayden school board for $20,000 to build a high school lunchroom was taken under advisement. Action on the request, which money will be paid back by the Ayden school district if granted, was put off until a later date.

Amelia Capehart, Negro Home Demonstration Agent, was granted a six-week leave of absence during the months of June and July to attend special courses, relative to her work, at State College.

The Greenville Lions Club was granted permission to stage a carnival April 10 without paying the usual license tax.

The underwriting of the annual insect control program, sponsored by the State and Pitt Boards of Health, was granted. The cost to the county in past years has been approximately $2,800.

Three freeholders of the community were appointed to investigate damages allegedly done to a flock of turkeys, owned by Gordon Owens of Farmville, by a pack of stray dogs. The appointees are Ferrell Morgan, R. E. Stokes, and Woodrow Wooten. They will determine the amount of money involved in the damages.

Fire Virtually Destroys Shelby Business Block

Shelby, March 7—(AP)—Fire virtually destroyed a block of business buildings here today.

The area burned out housed Kendall Medicine Company and Bridgman Auto Parts Company, two blocks west of Shelby's square.

Flames 35 to 40 feet high leaped from the two-story buildings. Light morning rains were insufficient to quench the fire.

Firemen played water on buildings immediately east of the flaming structures in an effort to prevent the fire from spreading.

Before the fire was extinguished, the damage was unofficially estimated at between $150,000 and $200,000.

Hold Inquest On Fatal Shooting

An inquest will be held tonight at 7 o'clock in the Pitt County court house into the fatal shooting of Eula May Brown Saturday.

Jesse Brown, Negro, husband of the victim, is being held by the Pitt County sheriff's office on charges of murder. The shooting took place on the R. H. McLachlorn farm, near Renston.

Predicts Heavy Tobacco Demand On Foreign Mart

J. B. Hutson Says Export Demand Will Not Be Met Unless Crop Is Large

Raleigh, March 7—(AP)—The president of Tobacco Associates Inc., said today "unless the 1950 crop of flue-cured tobacco is a large one, supplies probably will not be adequate to meet the export demand."

The assertion was made by J. B. Hutson, of Washington, president of the Associates, a flue-cured tobacco export promotion organization.

Hutson told the general annual membership meeting that total exports of tobacco last year were up 21 per cent over those of the prewar 1935-36 period.

Flue-cured tobacco exports in 1949, he said, were 426,000,000 pounds (farm sales weight) compared with 383,000,000 in 1948, with 459,000,000 in 1947, and with 389,000,000 during the prewar 1935-36 period.

"At present" Hutson said in his prepared speech, "U.S. stocks of flue-cured tobacco for export are relatively small. During the 1949 calendar year, domestic consumption and exports of flue-cured tobacco were approximately 30 million pounds in excess of production."

"Domestic manufacturers' stocks have been fully maintained. Consequently, dealer and stabilization stocks are at a low level. Below these levels, dealers' stocks were not available for foreign demand."

Stocks of U.S. flue-cured tobacco in foreign countries also are small, Hutson continued. He said the supply problem is complicated further by developments within the tobacco industry in some foreign countries.

In order to conserve dollar exchange, he added, many countries are attempting to displace imported cigarettes with similar cigarettes made from imported U.S. tobacco, and manufacture of these cigarettes requires sizable stocks of U.S. tobacco.

Hutson said that flue-cured tobacco "stands to gain as much as any other industry" from the success of the ECA (Marshall Plan) program. He said that about 30 per cent of the American-grown crop is consumed in Western Europe.

"Consequently," he declared, "all branches of this industry are vitally interested in the full completion of the ECA program."

40 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
March 7, 1910

So far we fail to see any movement to beautify the park strips left between the concrete sidewalks and the streets. They could be made pretty strips with a little attention. Greenville has reached that stage in her progress where factories are a necessity.

Days like this bring a going-away feeling. Miss Sidney Davenport of Pactivent went to Plymouth Thursday to visit relatives.

There are three churches in Pactivent and another going up. There were several architects and contractors here today to confer with the county commissioners relative to building a new court house.

Washington Little Theatre
The Washington Little Theatre will present on Friday evening, March 10, at 8:15 in the John Small School auditorium, a mysterious courtroom drama, "The Night of January 16th."

This is the second production of the season for the comparatively new organization. An unusual feature of the play is that twelve persons from the audience are chosen to serve as jurors, and these twelve persons will decide the ending of the play. If they decide that Karan Andre, on trial for the murder of her lover, is guilty, then the play will have a sully ending, and if she's declared "not guilty," then there will be another ending. But it is the twelve persons chosen from the audience that will decide her fate, and also the ending of the play.

"The Night of January 16th" has a cast of twenty persons, the largest cast the Little Theatre has ever attempted to have. It has been reported that this play is to be the best Washington has ever seen a home talent group do.

Mrs. Bundy Hostess Lydia Wooten Class

The Lydia Wooten class of the Methodist church met Monday night, February 27, at the home of Mrs. W. J. Bundy.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Leon Russell. A short business meeting was held. A most inspiring devotional on "God Is Our Refuge," was given by Miss Eunice McGee. The scripture lesson was from the 48th Psalm.

During the social hour Mrs. Lydia Wooten was honored on her birthday. A corsage was given her by the class and "Happy Birthday" was sung by the members. Other class members having a birthday were remembered with gifts.

A contest to see how many words could be made from the name Lydia Wooten, was won by Mrs. H. A. Hendrix.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Millinery Review At Woman's Club

A delightful luncheon and millinery review, planned by the Woman's Club to raise funds for the redecoration of the interior of the club house, will be given on Thursday, March 9, at 12:30 p. m. at the club.

The preview of spring hats is being presented by Blount-Harvey Company and will be modeled by the Mesdames J. K. Long, M. L. Wright, Ralph Hardee, Dink James, James S. Jenkins, and the Mesdames Ramona Rouse, Eloise Tucker, Jeanne McGowan, Lillian Wooten and Sarah Kirkpatrick.

Tickets may be purchased through Mrs. W. J. Bundy, telephone 3979 and Miss Mary McCallum on the second floor of Blount-Harvey Co.

An original hat model will be given as a door prize.

As indicated above this is a benefit luncheon for the club—all members are urged to come and bring a friend. If you cannot come, buy a ticket for a neighbor.

Supper Meeting For Cosmotologists

The Eastern Cosmotologists Association met February 28 at the Olde Towne Inn with the president, Mrs. Virginia Burwell, of New Bern, presiding. Dues for the coming year were paid and business discussed. The unit having the most members will be given a weeks free instructions under Robert Fiance of New York City.

Immediately following the business session, a most enjoyable program was given by Clyde Landing and son, Billy, of Greenville, of the Hawaiian guitar. The meeting adjourned.

The next meeting will be held in Washington, N. C., on March 28.

On Official Visit

Mrs. Zelma Kah of Middletown, Ohio plans to make her official visit to Greenville White Shrine No. 7 on Tuesday, March 14. She is Supreme Worthy High Priestess of the Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, a position which covers the entire United States and Canada.

Mrs. Kah's family consists of her husband and three children.

The distinguished guest is a past international president Delta Chi Sigma sorority, and presided at the Sorority National convention held in Miami, Fla., several years ago. She is a Past Supreme Queen of Supreme Shrine, the most sought after position in the White Shrine.

Other fraternal honors include having served as Worthy High Priestess of her local Shrine and as district deputy for the State of Ohio. She is also a Junior Past Worthy Matron of her local Eastern Star chapter.

Woman's Club Hears Marshall

The Greenville Woman's Club met on Friday afternoon, March 3, at 2:30 p. m. for a business meeting. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. R. R. Willmann, president, and opened with the singing of the club song.

Mrs. W. C. Kraunik of the International Relations committee urged the members to write their senators and representative to vote in favor of Bill H. R. 64 and S. R. 58. "To take steps to strengthen the United Nations" under Article 109, power to eliminate war, also Bill S. R. 246, now in House committees on Education and Labor.

Mrs. Dink James introduced the following new members who were welcomed into the club: Mesdames Norman Garrison, Arthur Tripp, D. A. Blue and D. C. Whitehurst.

Mrs. Felix Scheller of Boston, Mass., a former resident of Greenville and a member of the Greenville Woman's Club was welcomed as a visitor by her many friends.

"A House of Death or a House of Life," was the title of the address given by Dr. W. E. Marshall, dean of men of East Carolina Teachers College.

The foundation of the house of death or the house of life is the food and agricultural organization which was the first of the new, permanent United Nations organizations to be born, said Dr. Marshall. Its aim, in its own field of work, he said is to help free the power of science and by using these points carefully contributing toward an expanding world economy.

Though FAO does not have the funds or the authority to buy and distribute food, fertilizers, farm machinery, etc., it has had some success collecting and distributing information among the 58 member nations of the U. N. Dr. Marshall pointed out that FAO has distributed some of the latest facts and that scientific methods are put to use by member governments and other international organizations.

An increasing range of problems will be dealt with internationally through organizations like FAO and as they succeed people will learn to consider their own needs in relation to those of other countries. "We will then think and act more and more as citizens of the world, with a world conscience and a world public opinion," he said.

In concluding his address Dean Marshall said, "Freedom from want would indeed be hardly worth achieving, even if it were possible, in a world which did not have freedom from war and fear of war, a world in which the central, vital problem that should be on the mind of every one of us. There is no escape from that problem; now less than ever, when science has made war total and destruction total." But FAO alone cannot build the house of life. It is the people all over the world who are the real builders through their understanding and support, their words and deeds.

"Whoever and wherever you are, you must help to lay the bricks and drive the nails for the house of life," he said.

Mrs. Wendell Smiley and Mrs. Vance Perkins were chairman and co-chairman respectively of the hostesses for the meeting.

Reynolds To File Early Next Week

Washington, March 7.—(AP)—Former U. S. Senator Robert E. Reynolds probably will file as a candidate for the Senate the early part of next week.

Reynolds said here yesterday: "I definitely will file officially as a candidate within the next ten days, possibly a week from today. I'll pay my $125 filing sometime in the forepart of next week probably."

Asked if he would file against Senator Frank P. Graham, Reynolds answered, "definitely."

"I'll probably go to Asheville for the week-end at home with Mamie (his seven-year-old daughter, and to Raleigh a week from today. Then I'll go to the Eastern part of North Carolina."

Reynolds said business, not politics, brought him to Washington. "And I expect to be back in January to stay for four years," he laughed.

Plan $85,000 Span For Neuse

Raleigh, N. C., March 7.—(AP)—The State highway commission plans to build an $85,000 bridge across the Neuse river at King Street in Kingston. The span will have a five-foot wide walk, a 28-foot roadway, and be 405 feet long.

The commission said it expects to advertise for bids on the structure next month. It will replace a bridge on Caswell street.

Withhold Funds In Oil Dispute

Washington, March 7.—(AP)—ECA informed Congress yesterday it is withholding recovery funds from the British oil industry as result of Britain's decision to restrict American oil imports.

Dr. Oscar E. Bransky, chief of the Economic Cooperation Administration's petroleum branch, told the House Commerce Committee about the ban. He said it will continue until "satisfactory outcome" of British-American diplomatic negotiations over the dispute.

The British recently announced restrictions on U. S. oil imports to conserve dollars. The curbs also help sell British overseas oil surpluses in the sterling areas, South America, Spain, and the Baltic countries.

Diplomatic discussions were initiated by the United States. American companies contend the move may have critical effect on the entire domestic industry.

Low Lehr, Movie Comedian, Dies

Kiwanians Go To Miami May 7-11

Eight prominent leaders in business, government, education and religion have accepted invitations to address the 35th annual convention of Kiwanis International, May 7 to 11, at Miami.

This announcement was made today by Tige Gardner, president of the Kiwanis Club of Greenville, who said that advance indications pointed to an attendance of at least 10,000 from all sections of the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii and the Yukon Territory. The Greenville club will be well represented.

Latest in the galaxy of nationally known figures to join the Kiwanis convention program are Paul G. Hoffman, administrator of the Economic Cooperation Administration, and Rep. Walter H. Judd, Minneapolis, former Chinese medical missionary and recognized as one of the outstanding speakers in Congress.

Others who will highlight the five-day meeting include Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson; General Carlos P. Romulo, president of the General Assembly of the United Nations; James M. (Jimmie) Fidler, Hollywood radio commentator; the Rev. Marshall R. Reed, bishop of the Methodist church in the Detroit area; John Fisher, Toronto, widely known Canadian newspaperman, and J. Hugh Jackson, dean of the graduate school of business at Stanford University, Stanford, Calif., and president of Kiwanis International.

Many other unusual features are being planned for the delegates, representing 3,100 clubs and 200,000 members, Gardner said. Their wives, he added, also will be guests at a colorful program of entertainment events, beginning Monday, May 8, and continuing through Thursday, May 11.

The public probably will be invited to the Orange Bowl Wednesday evening, May 10, to see the "Main Feature Entertainment," a tradition of each Kiwanis convention. This year's outdoor pageant will take the form of a Tropical Fiesta with a cast that will number several hundred, President Gardner stated.

Foam Rubber Furniture Gains Importance

(AP Newsfeatures)
Time was when the only self-respecting divan was provided with down-filled cushions, soft and comfortable but requiring frequent plumpings.

Now you'll find many items of new modern furniture with cushions which are just as soft and soothing but which spring back into shape of their own accord when the sitter arises.

These are of latex foam, commonly known as foam rubber, a product coming into wide use, especially in modern sectional furniture.

It is pointed out by Warren Lockwood, director of the Natural Rubber Bureau, that use of latex foam upholstery makes even large pieces of furniture much lighter in weight, and thus easy to move about when the little woman decides on a change of scene.

VERSATILE DINING ENSEMBLE... Swivel chairs upholstered in latex foam double for card-playing and may be swung around for a television session.

MODERN LIVING ROOM... The long winged sofa upholstered in foam rubber fits the modern decor, retaining clean lines though soft and resilient.

Broke Down On Being Arrested

Joe Nathan Asbury, strapping six foot, 22-year-old Negro truck driver of Charleston, S.C., when arrested here yesterday for violating motor vehicle laws, broke down and sobbed when he was locked up at the police station. "I've never been arrested and never even talked to an officer before," authorities quoted him as saying.

State Highway Patrol Cpl. John Laws arrested Asbury while driving a log truck and trailer on three charges. The patrolman said Asbury was driving without an operator's license, without a registration card, no state license plates and the vehicle had no brakes. He will be tried in Police Court Friday.

Court Fight For Custody Flynn Children Looms

Santa Monica, Calif., March 7.—(AP)—A court fight loomed today over custody of the children of Errol Flynn and his ex-wife, Nora Edington Haymes.

Mrs. Haymes filed suit yesterday for full custody of their two children, Rory, 3, and Deldre, 5. Flynn immediately said he would fight the suit.

Mrs. Haymes, now married to Singer Dick Haymes, also asked for an increase in the allowance for the children from $150 to $885 a month.

She was given legal custody of both children in their Nevada divorce a year ago, but Flynn was granted physical custody of Rory. She has had both girls with her since Flynn went to Europe last summer and yesterday stated it would be harmful to separate the girls now.

Flynn, charging he had not been permitted to see the children since his return, said he would demand that Rory be restored to him.

Two Weeks Left In Uncertain Period For State Candidates

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, March 7—Less than two weeks remain in which aspirants for state and district offices may file notice of candidacy for state and district offices. Deadline is 12:00 o'clock, noon, Saturday, March 18.

On statewide basis interest centers in the contest for the United States Senate seat now held by Senator Frank Graham by appointment of Governor Scott, for the term ending January, 1955. Five candidates, including Senator Graham, have announced for this post. The others are Willis Smith of Raleigh, Robert R. Reynolds of Asheville, Manly Dunaway of Charlotte and Olla Ray Boyd of Pinetown. Graham two weeks ago opened headquarters in Raleigh with Jeff D. Johnson, Jr., as campaign manager and C. A. Upchurch, Jr., as publicity director. Reynolds has been operating from his home in Asheville, is expected to open Raleigh headquarters soon. Smith is the only candidate of office record, he having paid his filing fee to the state board of elections at the time he announced. He has obtained headquarters space at the Sir Walter Hotel and will name his top campaign staff this week. Boyd and Dunaway are not expected to figure in the race.

So far no opposition has developed, and none is seriously anticipated, for Senator Hoey for re-election

Trainload Of 198 Refugee Germans Barred By West

Goettingen, Germany, March 7—(AP)—The Western Allies kept a trainload of 198 Germans expelled from Communist Polish territory out of Western Germany Monday.

The allied high commission has said it has information that Poland intends to dump 250,000 expellees in Western Germany. The previous estimate was 125,000 but today officials doubled it.

The Western Allies have vowed to prevent the forced exodus, except for 25,000 expellees who have West German relatives who can help care for them.

West German officials informed the Western Allies they will be unable to cope with the expected flood of refugees.

The allied authorities believe Communist Poland has a two-fold objective: to complicate the West German economy, already burdened with 9,000,000 refugees and expellees and 2,000,000 unemployed; to cut the ground from any future German claims on territory east of the Oder-Neisse line based on the argument that the population is largely German.

Monday's train—a collection of freight cars carrying men, women and children—halted at Hellingstadt, three miles inside the Soviet zone border. Soviet zone authorities asked for authority to send it across into the British zone. British officials refused, saying they could accept only those on the list of 25,000 with relatives here. None on the train appeared to be on the list.

A family of four which had a special permit issued by the International Red Cross in Warsaw was permitted to enter the British zone by truck.

Another train is due at the border in three days.

Death Sites On Highway Will Be Silent Warnings

Raleigh, N. C., March 7—(AP) Red paint will mark the spots where death occurs on North Carolina's highways.

Big red numerals, at least three feet high, will mark death sites starting March 13. Highway patrol commander C. R. Tolar announced yesterday. Last weekend 15 persons were killed on the state's highways.

Tolar said the plan is an effort to "see if there isn't something we can do to impress the people the fact that this slaughter has got to be stopped."

Beginning next Monday, brushes and pails of red paint will become standard equipment with patrol sergeants over the state. Starting then, each new fatal mishap will bring a painted reminder to motorists that someone lost his life at that spot.

The markers will be numbers, indicating how many were killed in the accident or accidents. The numbers will be surrounded by a red circle.

"There is no provision now for marking fatal accidents on county roads," Tolar stated, "but we will try to work out some system for that later." He said he hopes cities and municipalities will use the same plan on their streets.

In cases where a fatality occurred at a sharp curve, the numbers will be painted on approaches to the curve with an arrow pointing to the accident spot.

Until about 10 years ago, the state used black crosses to mark highway points where fatal mishaps took place. One reason the plan was dropped, said Tolar, was because the crosses were unpopular in such cases as where they marked the death of a child in front of a residence.

Veteran Is All For Business At 90 Years Of Age

Denver —(AP)—Ex-Navy man Ambrose Ramsey, who this year turned a spry 90, decided to take advantage of privileges extended former servicemen and go into business for himself. He showed up at the federal land office here to ask about a certain parcel of land near Alkali Bend, Colo.

"Plan to build me a filling station over there," said Ramsey. Then he dug into a travel-worn suitcase and hauled out a document stating that the Navy had issued an honorable discharge in 1877 to "Third Class Boy Ramsey." He also produced a tiny picture of himself as a youngster in uniform.

But the land board had disappointing news—the parcel he had an eye on is reserved by the reclamation bureau. Ramsey said he'd try something else.

Strength FOR THE DAY
ABSURD, BUT GLORIOUS
When a little handful of Christian believers set themselves to found a Church in the vast and wicked Roman Empire, everyone laughed them to scorn. What fools they were, thinking that slaves, ignorant people, social nobodies, were highly favored in God's sight and that through them God would work his great purpose for mankind. The whole project was indeed foolish. It was also... But it was that variety of absurdity which God loves. The early Christian disciples started out to do the impossible — the utterly impossible — and they succeeded. Every sensible person declared that it was impossible for them to succeed. We would have said the same had we been pagan Romans in that day.

But what difference did it make to that group of people who believed that they were chosen of God to a great end? They had no money, no social position. They were cut-off from all on occasions, persecuted at times in the most dreadful fashion. And singularly enough after the persecutions were over, thousands of the pagans who had scoffed at these silly people and helped to persecute them were so moved by the fidelity of these Christian believers that they renounced paganism and embraced Christianity. The impossible was at least achieved.

MORE FLOWERS FOR OUR GREENVILLE
Greenville is a nice town. Most of us agree that there aren't too many in the state which will surpass it as far as beauty is concerned; but there never was a town whose appearance couldn't be improved upon.

One way to do it is to encourage the planting of flowers or flowering trees. In the past, civic organizations have been successful in this field and as a result their towns became nicer places in which to live.

That is what the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce had in mind when it started its campaign to plant some 400 dogwood trees in the yards and parks of Greenville.

The transplanting of 400 small trees will entail a lot of digging and probably a lot of backaches for the Jaycees. It's quite a piece of work they have undertaken both in the labor it will require and in the results they hope to achieve. We hope that many home-owners take advantage of this opportunity to beautify their property, which in turn will bring more beauty to Greenville.

The Reflector congratulates the Jaycees for undertaking the much-needed project for the city; but the real pats on the back will come after the task has been carried out.

Around Capitol Square
DOWN EAST—When Kerr Scott was running a governor two years ago he said he lived in "no man's land" between east and west. He was generally regarded as an eastern candidate, for that his county of Alamance is in the eastern judicial circuit, in the eastern conference of the Methodist church, and by other designations is counted east of center. Actually it is just about in the middle, being slightly east of the population center and right on a north-south geographic line. Now comes the Burlington

Times-News, beginning an editorial on traffic conditions with the phrase "Down East in Raleigh..."

ESTABLISHED—It is not hard to establish a population center. Simple arithmetic applies to census figures does that, and on basis of the last census (it may be moved after the current counting) the population center is in Randolph county near Ramseur. Fixation of a geographic center is more difficult in a state with as many curves, angles and loops as North Carolina. Here's how it was established according to an unofficial but confirmed story: James S. Burch, engineer of planning and statistics for the state highway and public works commission, trimmed a piece of heavy cardboard to exact borders of a map of North Carolina which had been pasted upon it. Then he attached a string to a pin, and moved the pin about until cross levels showed the cardboard was exactly level. That point was established as the center of the state.

IMMEDIATE—The state board of education, usually extremely courteous to all who appear before it, didn't do Senator Libby Ward quite right the other day. Ward appeared in behalf of a new school at Cherry Point, made an earnest plea—and then was told that the building committee had already approved what he was asking for. They might at least have let him and his clients think he got it for them.

SOLUTION?—Action of the county commissioners of Wake county this week in assuming full responsibility for necessary hospitalization of indigent Negro patients living in Wake county, temporarily settles a serious local problem, and to some extent offers a method for permanent solution of many questions arising among governmental agencies on different levels.

GENERAL—The local issue concerns nobody outside of Wake county. The principle is general and is common to every city and town in the state with respect to co-operative activities in health, welfare and education. The basic question is whether residents of an incorporated city are also citizens of the county in which the city is located.

BACKGROUND—Because similar conditions prevail in many places, a bit of local history may serve to clarify the issue. For many years the County of Wake and the City of Raleigh have appropriated funds

Somebody Told Me...
By L. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

Last Thursday night the temperature in the banquet room of the Olde Towne Inn was a cozy 82 degrees. Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce puffed heartily on the cigarettes, rared back and shouted an emphatic "aye" in response to a motion to beautify the city by planting dogwood trees all over town.

Now the scene changes. Remember how the weather was Saturday afternoon? In case you don't, it was bitter cold and near sundown a mixture of hail and rain fell. In spite of conditions, it was time for the Greenville JC's to swing into action. Greenville needed more beauty, and the JC's are bent on accomplishing the mission: Operation Dogwood.

Strangely enough, some of the members who shouted so emphatically "aye" weren't on hand for the first tree-retrieving session Saturday afternoon. But the group, ten strong, took off for the wilderness to bring home the bacon. Several phases of Greenville's business and professional departments were represented: Jimmy Wells, Louis Gaylord, Bancroft Moseley, Gene Ward, Dallas Peele, Ralph Garrett Jr., Ray Wooten, Allen Powell, Charles Horne and yours truly.

After a bounding trip over hill and dale to the right wooded area, we made an interesting observation: of the group of 10 men, only one, Jimmy Wells, knew a dogwood tree when he saw it.

"How is it that you know so much about trees?" I asked Jimmy.

"I studied them," he said.

"Where?" I asked.

"Greenville high school."

This, of course, made me feel like a penny waiting for change. As I too went to GHS but was unable to identify a dogwood tree. The landowner came to the rescue. While Jimmy was in one section spotting dogwoods, he was in the other. Together, they supplied enough work to keep us busy. Two hours and ten aching backs later, we loaded a pick-up truck full of what we thought were dogwoods.

Our first stop was Mrs. W. I. Wooten's, where we sold three trees at $1 each, installed. We told her the conditions of the sale. "Mrs. Wooten," we said, "we do not guarantee these trees to live. In fact, we do not even guarantee that they are dogwood trees. And if they bear fruit or nuts, we expect 20 per cent of the crop."

In nothing flat we sold 27 trees, even with our unattractive contract. By sundown we cleaned out the truck.

If the JC aching backs hold out, "Operation Dogwood" will go over with a bang. Trees sell like hotcakes, and when the market disappears, the JC's plan to take a Greenville street and line it with trees, on the house.

And I thank you.

New York—(AP)—If I had to pick a hero-of-the-year this early in 1950, it would be Mr. Frederick W. Theilmann.

At 82 this retired Minneapolis undertaker has set a stalwart example for a faint-hearted age.

Lugging a movie camera and 1,200 feet of film, the energetic octogenarian has flown to Europe on a three-month trip by air around the world.

It is the first time he has ever left this country, but Theilmann isn't running away from atom bombs, bad times, the sheriff or anything or anybody else. He is going on an Indian Summer voyage of adventure, and in a very humble spirit.

"I am making this trip in the hope that I may learn more than I already know, God willing," he said.

And, God also willing, he'll come back fresher in mind and younger in heart than millions of Americans one third his age.

It is a gallant thing to be curious and venturesome at 82. It proves anew what all physicians know, that old age isn't a matter of the years of the bone so much as the depth of the moss on the soul.

What led Theilmann to make this epic pilgrimage I can't tell. Perhaps it was because in his work as an undertaker he made too many trips to the cemetery with people who ended up there early because they lost the zest for living.

In any case, of the fatigue of our times, the neurotic fear of the future that afflicts so many young and middle-aged people today seems not to have touched him at all. In his long life he has survived three wars, numerous bitter depressions, cancer death in his family—and still he's an eager beaver. He wants to know more about life.

"I don't think he's too unusual an old man for all that. It has been my experience that old people as a group face life with more courage, and retain a better, abiding interest in it, than younger people. After all, their courage and strength has carried them through the test of time—They are the ones who won their way through all troubles. The weaker sank.

And there is distinguished precedent for the exploration voyage of the late-season Llyses from Minneapolis. Cato took up the study of Greek at 80, and our own Benjamin Franklin was still learning—and earning—when death took him.

I once knew a young University professor who sneered at one of his elderly students, a retired preacher who wanted a master's degree in order to start a new career as an English instructor.

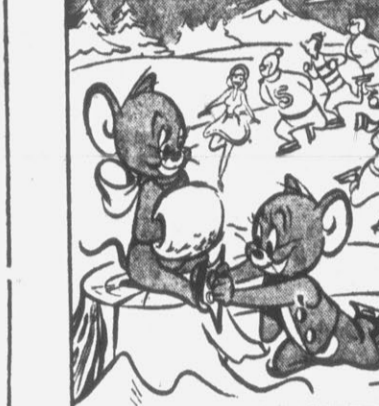

"The man is just foolish and wasting his time and mind," the professor said.

A few years later the professor took a dry dive out a window and ended up dead. Life was too much for him. But the last I heard of the old minister he was happily teaching English.

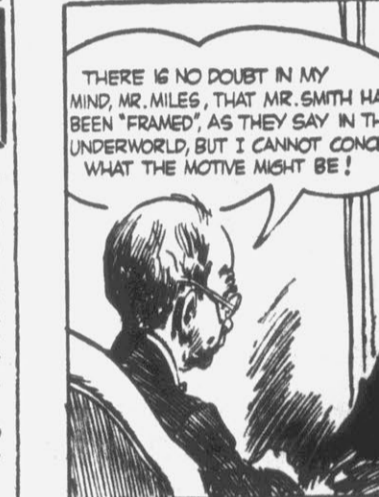

Theilmann's example should stir many old people to take heart to go ahead and do in the time they have left. And as a Bon Voyage message, I can't think of anything better than Tennyson's poem, quoting the philosophy of the original Ulysses in his later years:

"The deep moans round with many voices. Come, my friends, 'tis not too late to seek a newer world. It may be shall touch the happy isles, and see the great Achilles, whom we knew."

Washington—The government is not trying to tell you what you to eat and how to cook it. It merely offers some helpful suggestions in its new 96-page cook-book, "Family Farm—Food Management and Recipes." With the average American family in mind, food specialists of the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics have been developing and testing new nutrition-wise recipes and practical menus for months at the Department of Agriculture's Beltsville Md. laboratories.

Mrs. Mary Swickard, who grew up on a large Indiana farm and began helping her mother cook as soon as she could "see over the top of the stove," directed the research resulting in the book, which is just off the press. (Send cash not stamps, to the Government Printing Office, Washington 25 D. C. Please do not address this newspaper.)

The 200 recipes, from apple brown betty to waffles, include some familiar standbys and some special dishes. A definite food plan for the home, information on up-to-date nutrition, smart buying and wise storage, and menus to round out main dish suggestions are also featured.

recipes were released samples had to be approved by a judging panel which rated flavor, color, texture and other points that make food attractive. Judges were staff members of the Bureau. Estimates there are some 33,000,000 homemakers in the United States. Some want fancy fare and have cooks to prepare it. Others have to cut down to the simplest fare. The new cook book is designed for neither of these brackets. It is for the average family, generally the family of four, and is suitable for farm and city families alike.

Hospital Officials Deny Refusing Admit Woman

Durham, March 7—(AP)—Officials of Duke and Wats Hospitals deny that they either refused to admit or treat Mrs. Alma B. Sauls, 37, who died in an ambulance en route to Duke for the second time shortly before noon Sunday after having been taken to Wats twice previously during the morning.

Sample B. Forous, director of Wats Hospital, said yesterday that symptoms of the brain hemorrhage, of which the woman died, were not evident on her first admission to Wats at 2:25 a.m., at no time was she "denied admittance" and that "prompt attention was given upon both of her admissions to the emergency department."

He said that the woman's husband stated at the time that she was very nervous, had had a similar nervous spasm six days ago, and that she had had frequent headaches in the past six years. He added that her condition was diagnosed as hysterical.

Tractor Driver At Age Of Three

Garden Grove, Calif. — (AP)—Freddy Brugeman is an accomplished tractor driver at the age of three.

A clear-eyed, serious young chap with remarkable mechanical aptitude, he has been soloing on his father's tractor in the family orange grove for several months. Freddy began by tinkering with cars and removing the locks from doors—not always to the benefit of these devices.

The boy's father decided to divert this zest for mechanics into useful channels and taught him to plow a furrow through the orange trees.

The authority for Hollywood's preeminence as the home of the best-known people in the land is a nation-wide survey conducted by Echenley Distributors, Inc. Movie stars rate closest to 100 per cent public recognition in widely scattered American cities, edging out stage luminaries, radio and television stars, syndicated writers and other celebrities, the survey shows.

Christmas Is Late For Mary

Mary Ann Lindbloom, 23, greets Santa Claus from a wheelchair in her Chicago home Saturday as she celebrates a belated Christmas. Shortly before Christmas she was struck by a taxicab and for two months lay in a hospital with a head injury and a paralyzed side. Most of the time she was in a coma. Her parents decided to hold a Christmas party Saturday for the one she missed. (AP Wirephoto).

Health Check-Up To Prolong Life

Philadelphia — (AP)—Individual preventive medicine can prolong life, Dr. William Harvey Perkins says.

Dr. Perkins is directing a "positive health maintenance clinic" which has been operated by Jefferson Medical College since September, 1948.

The new philosophy of health examinations, developed by Dr. Perkins, stresses detailed information on a patient's habits, occupation, family history, heredity, environment, emotional stresses and disturbances and similar factors prior to a complete physical examination. The examination is designed to enable the doctor to know those who come to see him as human beings and not merely as patients, and to keep them in good health as well as cure them if necessary.

One of the difficulties, the doctor says, "is to get people to change their habits even after the probable consequences of failure to do so has been brought to their attention."

Poet's Revenge

Philadelphia, March 7—(AP) David E. Lillenthal, who gave weariness of senatorial heckling as part of his reason for resigning last month as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, has taken a poet's revenge on two of his most outspoken critics.

They are Senators Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Ia.) and Kenneth McKellar (D-Tenn.).

Lillenthal said in a speech here last night he found that as a private citizen he had to have a card to use the Georgetown, Md., public library, near his home. He also needed two references.

So, he said, he put down the names of Senators McKellar and Hickenlooper.

Machine Pumps Sardines From Sea With Ease

SAN PEDRO, Calif.—(AP)—H. J. Kimmerle invented a machine that pumps sardines from the sea. The fish are normally caught in nets. The Los Angeles inventor says he tested the device aboard a purse seiner—and that it picked up sardines at the rate of from 50 to 200 tons an hour.

Kimmerle's unit consists of a vacuum pump hooked to an eight inch hose with a 10-inch funnel entrance. The funnel is dropped into a closely packed school. The fish are sucked up which carries them to the hold. The inventor hopes his system will be adopted by the local sardine fleet.

Since the introduction of the 16-inch television receiver, manufacturers report it is fast becoming the popular set.

Golden Rule, By British Railway

LONDON —(AP)—The government-owned British Railways wants its employees to be kind to the fare-paying, tax-paying public. A new booklet for new hands — "British Railways Welcome You" — advises them:

"Try to treat members of the public as you would like to be treated if you changed places—and you won't go far wrong."

There are nearly 150,000 radio stations of some 40 categories in the U.S., of which only 4,000 are classified as broadcast units.

Yugoslav Voting Outcome Rated One-Way Result

Belgrade, March 7—(AP)—Guess who will win Yugoslavia's first general elections in five years?

The answer is simple: Marshal Josip Broz Tito and his Communist-dominated "People's Front" party, of course. Not since Man O' War pounded down the stretch in 1920 has there been a surer bet.

And the reason is equally simple. There's no competition for Tito and his party.

Although Yugoslavia's new election laws permit anyone who can collect 100 signatures to become a candidate for Parliament, there has been no sign as yet of any opposition emerging to challenge those who have the blessing of the "People's Front."

The elections themselves on March 26, a Sunday as usual, are sure to be a shoo-in for Tito and his supporters.

Under the rules any person, male or female, over the age of 18 has the right to vote. The teen-agers fought in the hills and in the woods during World War II and Yugoslavia decided that if they were old enough to fight they also were old enough to vote.

The voters will choose a total of 408 members of the lower house of Parliament and 215 of the upper house, picking them from their own district. Roughly the two houses compare with the House of Representatives and the Senate in the United States.

There are no literacy requirements. A voter doesn't have to know how to read or write. All he has to do is to make up his mind for or against and in this election that shouldn't be difficult.

The regulations provide that the voter, upon entering the balloting room, is given a small rubber ball. He drops this into a cushioned box for the candidate of his choice—or in an opposition box. He or she is required to plunge a closed hand into all the boxes and then—at the end of the line—to display an unclenched fist to show the ballot has been cast.

At day's end the rubber balls are counted to determine the margin of victory. Best guess here is that it will be about 97 or 98 per cent in favor of the people's government.

Annual NCEA Meeting Slated Start Saturday

Raleigh, N.C., March 7—(AP)—The annual meeting of the North Carolina Education Association will be held in Raleigh, Thursday through Saturday.

Around 3,500 teachers are expected to attend the sessions. A feature of the convention will be the announcement of results of contests for the three general offices. Results of the mail balloting, which took place last month, will be announced Saturday.

The three races involve the presidency, the vice-presidency, and the directorship of North Carolina for the National Education Association.

French Carrier Arrives Norfolk

Washington, March 7—(AP)—A French aircraft carrier arrived at Norfolk, Va., today to set into motion the $1,000,000 aid program for rearming western Europe against possible Russian aggression.

The warship is the Dixmude a former American escort carrier. It will pick up France's initial cargo—around 40 navy fighters and bombers—after brief ceremonies tomorrow.

The first shipment is to be loaded aboard the Dixmude in the face of a bitter Communist campaign to keep dock workers from handling American military aid supplies.

Despite these Communist threats, top government agency officials said today they plan to go full speed ahead with arms aid to France.

Additional shipments to France and seven other European countries, they said, are now moving secretly to East coast ports for quick shipment aboard regular merchant vessels.

I speak for more than a million people protected by Jefferson Standard

"I am an 'average' Jefferson Standard policyowner speaking for more than a million people—policyowners and beneficiaries—whose financial future has been made more secure through Jefferson Standard life insurance protection.

"The Company's 43rd Annual Report published here shows another year of genuine progress and growth that is a source of solid satisfaction to me and my family. Assets have more than doubled in the past ten years and now total $242,758,227. The increase in surplus and contingency reserves—that extra margin of safety for all policyowners' funds—is substantial.

"The steady growth of 'my company' through the years reflects high quality of service to policyowners.

"I note with pride that the Jefferson Standard still leads all life insurance companies in rate of interest earned on invested assets. This means that 'my company' continues to pay the highest rate of interest on dividend accumulations and policy proceeds held in trust for policyowners and beneficiaries—important extra dollars. Not since organization in 1907 has the Jefferson Standard paid less than 4% on these funds. Truly, Jefferson Standard Policy Dollars are Larger.

"Jefferson Standard sales of new life insurance in 1949 averaged more than $10,000,000 per month, more than 25% of which came from my group—old policyowners coming back for more. Total life insurance in force at year end—$894,202,998.

"I like the wide variety of policy plans 'my company' offers to meet the various protection needs of the public.

"I like the special training in life insurance service 'my company' provides for its agents, as well as for its branch office personnel, which results in the capable, courteous and prompt service I get in all dealings.

"It is for all these fine reasons that I presume to speak for more than a million people protected by Jefferson Standard. I am proud to be a policyowner of this splendid life insurance company."

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

Home Girl

By Carol Holliston AP Newsfeatures

Chapter 26
Don and Anne stepped forward and she didn't fully realize that she was holding his hand. Don's gentle voice was very quiet.

"I dared to come back, sir, to bring you news of the boys in Chicago. I saw them on my way back East. They look very well indeed. I thought you would like to know, so I forced my way in."

Roger drew a deep breath and his eyes blinked. "You forced your way in." He repeated the words heavily. "I deserve that. I can't even offer you my hand because I'm not sure you'd take it. But I can ask you a question. Deep down in your heart, didn't you know we have been waiting for you?"

"I'm afraid I haven't dared to look deep down in my heart since the day I left here."

"I know," Roger nodded slowly. "I have a lot to answer for. I should have gone after you, but I am lazy and fat, and stupid. Stupid more than anything."

Anne bent to kiss his forehead. "Don't say any more, Father. Don doesn't hold anything against us. He is cleverer than we are. He has not only seen the twins in Chicago but has given them back their dogs."

"I dared to defy you, sir."

Roger got up heavily, steadying himself with the big chair. "Why didn't you defy me six months ago? Why didn't you tell me to go straight to blast? Why didn't you knock me down if I got in your way? Were you afraid of hurting me? Haven't I been hurt far more this way than if you had beaten me with your fists and put me into a hospital?"

Messick Speaks At Rotary Meet

By WYATT BROWN

Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina Teachers College, chatted with the Rotarians last night about the building program, activities, and curriculum of the local institution of higher learning.

In presenting Dr. Messick, Johnnie Overton pointed out that the ECTC enrollment had increased in 1949 over 1948 whereas over the state college enrollment generally had shown a decline.

The annex at the Training School, the gym, and the combination theater and auditorium will be ready in two months, Dr. Messick reported in referring to the new provisions for theatrical pursuits the president said a complete stage had been provided.

The Rotarians were invited to observe the new home of the president since its renovation. In view of the shortage of funds for a president's home, Dr. Messick commented that the Young home was a happy arrangement.

The new $119,000 building for a warehouse and supervisor of grounds to be located between the men's new dormitory and the power-house will be started right away. At this point Dr. Messick said the new dormitory for men would not be opened to the men until this summer when their present quarters are being painted.

The new physical education building to be located on Tenth Street backed up against the present baseball field will be at the opening of bids stage in March. Wright auditorium will continue to be used for physical education, Dr. Messick explained, since there are 1,800 students now taking the courses in that field.

March is the time plans for the new teacher's dormitory will first be looked for. When this new provision for teachers is finished girls will occupy Ragsdale Hall where teachers are now resident. The need for more space for girls is obvious when the old president's home, the infirmary and part of Ragsdale Hall have been used for rooms for them. Some girls were turned away this year because there was no place to put them.

It seems plans for the new library are under way. May is the earliest such plans may be expected. This building will be located west of where the infirmary stands—be-

Monday's Cases In Police Court

In Police Court Monday, Judge Jimmy Roberts gave Kenneth Harrell of the Stokes community 90 days on the roads or pay $50 for assault with a deadly weapon (a knife) at the Blue Ribbon Grill on Dickinson Avenue opposite the ABC store.

The judge ordered that Harrell not visit any store or other business place where wine or beer is sold for 12 months.

Leroy Mayo, colored, larceny, six months on the roads. Mayo was on probation under a two-year suspended sentence in another case of larceny and the court ordered that he serve the term.

Jesse Nobles Jr., colored, paid $75 for assault on a female. Elijah Ebron, colored, paid $40 for a similar offense on another woman.

Jarvis A. Causey paid $15 for being drunk. Tom Staton, colored, also paid $15.

Herman Moseley was not guilty of assault.

Catch Culprit

Houston, March 7 —(AP)—Deputy Sheriffs hauled in their man last night soon after an excited woman shouted over the telephone:

"Quick! I just saw a man stuff a boy into the trunk of a car and drive off with him."

The culprit confessed:

"I was taking some kids to a drive-in movie. And I put the boy in the trunk so I wouldn't have to pay for him."

Fulcher Wins In Legion Contest

A division contest for entrance into the 13th annual American Legion oratorical contest among high school students of North Carolina was held at Williamston Monday night, with H. L. Swain, department oratorical committee chairman, presiding.

The state finals contest will be staged at the Legion Club in Lexington March 17 at 7:30 p.m.

Rodney Fulcher won first place and a $25 War Savings Bond. His subject was "These Things We Know and Must Remember."

Fulcher will speak in the finals at Lexington on March 17.

Other high school students speaking in the divisional contest at Williamston were Patty Phillips, Perquimans High School; Celia Finch, Rocky Mount; Billy Bob Peel, Williamston, and Pearl Grant of Jackson. Peel was the only high school contestant repeating from last year.

The state winner is awarded a $100 U. S. Savings Bond and an opportunity to participate in regional competition, leading to a chance at the national title and a $4,000 college scholarship.

ment of further nationalization of industry, which the socialists had promised before election. Prime Minister Attlee, having read the writing on the wall, decided to drop all that, except for steel, which has already been approved by Parliament. This move, by the way, may win him some support from the nine liberal members of Commons.

And what is the significance of all this medley of pomp, splendor and socialism? To me it means that with reasonable give and take, the so-called "class" differences can be worked out reasonably and amicably if the F. I. will be present.

The alternative to that is regimentation of humanity.

only about 43 five-day weeks.

At that rate, if they worked five days one week, three another, two another, for 52 weeks they could wind up with the equivalent 43-five-day weeks of work.

Since last June 30, because of their dispute with the mine owners, the miners have worked many three day weeks and then no weeks at all when they went on full strike.

But, for the reasons given above, it is impossible to say how much of that lost time would not have been lost if there had been no dispute with the owners.

In fairness, keep that in mind in reading what follows. Suppose there had been enough work for the miners to keep them busy every working day since last June 30 when their old contract ended.

On that basis, you can do some figuring. Their daily pay was $14.05 a day.

Since they were away from the pits about 100 work days at $14.05 a day, this meant $1,405 each one didn't get. They've now won a pay increase of 70 cents a day.

So it will take them—if they work an average of 200 days a year—10 years to catch back the $1,405 they didn't get when they stayed away 100 days.

But, since they also won an additional 70 cents a day that will go into their pension-welfare fund and not directly to each miner, they've won a total increase of $1.40 a day, 70 cents pay, 70 cents pension-welfare.

Figuring that way, they'll earn back the $1,405 in five years of 200 working days a year.

As for the millions the mine owners lost through mine shut-downs there's no way of telling how long it will take them to catch up. That depends in a large part on how much they now boost the price of coal.

Shelby Woman Will Speak At Banquet At Woman's Club

Miss Reeves Forney, second vice-president of the North Carolina Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, will be guest speaker Thursday night at 7 o'clock when the local BPWians entertain their bosses and guests at the Woman's Club.

Miss Forney has been city clerk in Shelby for several years. She is a talented musician and has appeared in several Little Theater plays presented in her home town. She is an attractive speaker and a very beautiful person, members of the club said. She will be overnight guest at the home of Mrs. J. B. Spilman.

Special music will be given by Al Livesay, accompanied by Carl Anderson.

Tige Gardner, president of the Kiwanis Club, will respond to the welcome toast by the president, Mrs. Ruth W. Meeks.

"Boss and Guest Night" is an annual event of the club and usually one of the outstanding meetings of the year.

Her first words when she rose to speak were that she "never considered that I'd come here to talk on a religious matter."

She did not refer to her controversy with the cardinal and reiterated that she could not speak for any federal aid bill. But she voiced opposition to the original Senate bill that allows the states to spend federal funds for schools according to their own laws.

the foundation for the "welfare state." They are the ones who imposed such taxation that they virtually wiped out the landed aristocracy—and more than a few members of Parliament belonged to that class. Already the conservatives were operating "left of center."

Then as the war was drawing to a close the country in a general election decided to try the paces of the labor (or socialist) party. So the socialists came to power and immediately started in on a program of nationalization of industry. They swung much further to the left politically than the conservatives had been.

In the recent general election the people rebuked the socialists for going too far left. Prime Minister Attlee's party just managed to squeeze out a victory, but one which has left it impossible to enact any radical legislation.
