New Republican Drive Forming Against Acheson

McCarthy Communist Hunt Inspires Fur- ther Criticism Of State Secretary

Washington, March 11—(AP)—A new Republican drive against Secretary of State Acheson appeared to be developing today behind the scenes of the Communist hunt inspired by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, brought the attack into the open yesterday with criticism of what he called Acheson's "bungling" in the Gubitchev spy case.

Wherry said the secretary demonstrated "unfitness" for his job by his offer to let Valentin A. Gubitchev—convicted with Judith Coplon of espionage conspiracy—escape a 15-year prison term if he leaves this country.

The senator said Acheson should have let the law take its course, adding that Russian propagandists already are calling the move a sign of weakness.

Rep. Fellows (R-Me.) made a similar statement in the House.

Although only five other Republicans joined Wherry in voting against Senate confirmation of Acheson on Jan. 18, 1949, there were indications that the Nebraska's attack had the backing of a far larger number of his party members who would like to see the secretary of state dumped overboard.

McCarthy, who has charged that Communists hold key jobs in the State Department, has provided fresh ammunition for Republicans already critical of Acheson's statement that he would not turn his back on Alger Hiss.

Hiss, former department official, was convicted of lying about passing secret papers to an admitted Communist courier.

McCarthy already has brought Mrs. Acheson's name into the Senate foreign relations subcommittee's investigation of the Wisconsin senator's charges.

He made it plain, however, that he pointed to her as a sponsor of an alleged Communist front organization only to show how easy it is for prominent persons unwittingly to be used by such groups.

This McCarthy explanation apparently didn't satisfy the Democrats in what thus far has been one of a political war battle than an investigation.

Louisburg Man To Be Manager Smith Campaign

Raleigh, N.C., March 11—(AP)—Col. Charles P. Green, 39-year-old Louisburg lawyer, will manage the senatorial campaign for Willis Smith.

Smith, prominent Raleigh attorney seeking the U.S. Senate seat now held by Frank Graham, disclosed his choice yesterday. He said Green will take over the job Tuesday morning and prepare for the formal opening of the state headquarters of the "Smith for Senate" campaign.

Gubitchev Said Leaving Country

New York, March 11—(AP)—Valentin A. Gubitchev, convicted as a Soviet spy, reportedly will accept the U. S. government's offer of release from a 15-year prison term on the condition that he go home to Russia.

The government had told the 33-year-old engineer that he could pick his own penalty for conspiracy and attempted espionage against the United States.

Important Speech By Stalin Awaited

Observers Believe Russian Premier's Campaign Talk Will Be Most Important Soviet Announcement In Four Years

Moscow, March 11—(AP)—Prime Minister Joseph Stalin takes the campaign platform tonight to make what most observers expect will be the most important Soviet public announcement of the past four years.

Stalin's speech will climax a campaign for national elections to the Supreme Soviet (parliament) which take place tomorrow. The prime minister himself is an unopposed candidate for re-election in Moscow. Campaign speeches by other top-ranking members of the Soviet Communist party's powerful Politburo have been highlighted by pronouncements of Russia's desire for peace.

Deputy Prime Minister V. M. Molotov, in a major speech in Moscow's Hall of Columns last night, reiterated previous Russian statements that Communism and capitalism can live together in "peaceful economic competition."

But Molotov blasted at "black-malliers from the imperialist camp" for trying to scare the Soviet people with a hydrogen bomb which he said "does not exist."

Foreign diplomats studied with extreme interest the speeches of Molotov and other Politburo members. They predicted the Soviet Union would make some overture toward a new effort to settle international problems which now split the world.

Molotov said he believed peace is possible, but that the Soviet Union must be on its guard. "We firmly believe in the Leninist-Stalinist principle of the peaceful co-existence of two systems and their peaceful economic competition," Molotov said, "but we also know full well that for so long as imperialism exists there exists also the danger of a new war."

"Imperialism and its expansionist plans are inevitable. Therefore, supporters of lasting peace should not be passive, but should wage a more effective struggle for peace and draw masses of people together to oppose the attempts of the imperialists to launch a new war."

Molotov's reference to the hydrogen bomb was the first time it has been mentioned by name here, although other commentators have referred to a "super-bomb."

The deputy prime minister said "While the imperialists were engaging in blackmail about the monopoly possession of the atomic bomb, the Soviet people, as is known, did not waste time but mastered the secret of atomic energy and the atomic weapon."

Veto Predicted For Compromise Farm Supports

House-Senate Conferences In Agreement, But Lucas Sees Objections

Washington, March 11—(AP)—Senate-House efforts to compromise differences over 1950 farm price supports bumped into a prediction today of a presidential veto.

Conferees yesterday reached a tentative agreement on the multi-million dollar price prop program for potatoes, cotton, peanuts and wheat.

However, Senate Democratic leader Lucas of Illinois told a reporter he is confident President Truman will veto the reported compromise, if it ever reaches his desk.

The agreement is subject to another closed-door conference and vote Monday because Lucas and some other Senate conferees were absent from yesterday's meetings.

During Senate action on the farm bill Lucas failed in an effort to bar price props on this year's potato crop unless farmers accepted rigid production controls.

The Senate did agree to apply this provision to future potato crops.

Conferees reported this provision had been knocked out by the conference committee in favor of much milder controls over 1950 and 1951 potato crops eligible for price supports.

Other tentative agreements were said to include:

1. Addition of 1,200,000 acres of cotton that could be eligible for price supports this year.
2. Addition of 850,000 acres of wheat—chiefly in dry western or "dust bowl" states—to qualify for price supports.
3. Addition of 100,000 acres of peanuts that could qualify for price supports.
4. Instructions to the Secretary of Agriculture to pay freight costs on surplus potatoes given away to tax-supported institutions, or moved to ports for export sales at whatever price could be obtained.

The compromise appeared to accept the more liberal provisions of both the Senate and House bills.

Gather To Talk Acreage Quotas For Leaf Crop

Raleigh, N.C., March 11—(AP)—Tobacco men from five states today gathered here to discuss whether acreage quotas for the 1950 flue-cured tobacco crop should be increased.

The meeting of the warehousemen, export dealers and farm spokesmen was called Tuesday by the Board of Directors of Tobacco Associates, flue-cured export promotion agency.

The call came after James S. Ficklen, Greenville export tobacco man, told associates members Tuesday that export dealers believe an acreage hike of at least five per cent this year would be advisable.

Associates declared that unless this year's flue-cured weed crop is a big one supplies likely will not be adequate to meet fully the export demand.

The call came after James S. Ficklen, Greenville export tobacco man, told associates members Tuesday that export dealers believe an acreage hike of at least five per cent this year would be advisable.

Discuss Improvement Plans For College

President John D. Messick of East Carolina Teachers College (right) and Business Manager F. D. Duncan (left) study a set of architect's drawings as they discuss the permanent improvements program now in progress on the college campus.

College Building Program Progresses; Contracts Let

With contracts for a new warehouse and workshop at East Carolina Teachers College already awarded and plans for a number of other important improvements on the campus approved by the State Budget Bureau, the building program at the college is showing progress, according to F. D. Duncan, college business manager.

Work on the workshop and warehouse will begin within the next two or three weeks, according to Duncan. Bids for a health and physical education building will be received March 28.

Paving a new driveway at the back campus and a drainage project for the area near Slay Hall, new dormitory for men, will also begin soon. Contracts are in process of being awarded for improving the lighting of five dormitories and of the Graham building, the Training School, and the North Dining Hall. Now in the state budget bureau in Raleigh for approval are plans for a new system of street lighting for the campus.

The general contractor of the warehouse and workshop will be the McKoy-Holgerson Co. of Greenville, S. C., which is now constructing the new Pitt County Memorial Hospital on the outskirts of Greenville.

Other contracts for work on the building have been awarded to C. E. Williams Co. of Greenville, for the plumbing; Deans & Baker of Wilson, heating, and Dick's Electrical Co. of Wilson, electrical work.

The workshop and warehouse, which will provide work and storage space largely for the superintendent of buildings and grounds and his staff, will be located on the east campus and to the rear of the Flanagan building. The structure will be a two-story brick building equipped with an elevator to provide storage space on the second floor.

The new health and physical education building will be one of the largest on the campus, according to Mr. Duncan. To be located facing 10th street and east of the campus outdoor fireplace and picnic grounds it will be amply equipped for the work of the health and physical education department at East Carolina.

It will provide classroom and office space and accommodations for basketball and other indoor sports. Seating for approximately 2,000 spectators will be provided. A special feature of the new building will be a swimming pool located in the basement. Measurements will be 75 by 35 feet.

The new driveway, a hard surfaced road with curving gutters, will run back of the Flanagan building and will connect the grounds in front of Slay Hall with other parts of the campus. To the rear of the Flanagan building a wide driveway will be paved and will lead into a parking lot for approximately 25 cars and automobiles. In front of Slay Hall the new driveway will form a rectangle and surround an oval grass plot. The drainage project will be a system of underground pipes to collect and protect the area from rain water. The drainage system was recently awarded to the Clark Construction Co. of Greenville.

Improvements in lighting of the campus have been completed. He included the rewiring of five dormitories on the campus, and the installation of new lighting fixtures in other buildings. The Graham building and the Training School will be equipped with fluorescent lighting and the north dining hall will have new fixtures.

Plans for new street lighting for the campus have been completed and are now in the state budget bureau for approval. They provide for underground wiring and new lighting standards for the parts of the campus where buildings are now located or will be constructed in the near future.

The work of redecorating, sound-treating and providing a new roof for the Austin auditorium, which has been in progress some time, is expected to be completed within the next two weeks, says Mr. Duncan.

After its completion, a new pipe organ will be installed. Satisfactory progress is also being made on the construction of the two new wings for the campus Training School.

Fuchs May Have Rarest Most Of Atomic Secrets

Committee Told Grave View Of tailed Confessor Confessed Spy

Washington, March 11—Dr. Klaus Fuchs, confessed atomic spy, may have stripped the United States' scientific cupboard bare of all but its latest atomic secrets.

Further, it is considered likely among those familiar with the situation that he could have passed on to the Soviets highly "educated guesses," to say the least, about the rate of U.S. A-bomb production and the size of this country's stockpile.

Both are closely guarded secrets. So is all data connected with development of the potentially more deadly hydrogen bomb. Fuchs was familiar with the theory of the H-bomb.

Members of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee who saw the Fuchs' confession for the first time yesterday took a grave view of the matter. Senator McMahon (D-Calif.) committee chairman, declared to say what was in it or not was questions about it.

The confession, passed on by the British, reached the joint committee through the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Atomic Energy Commission. AEC officials met with the committee behind closed doors to go over the document.

It was learned later that some information, including dates and names, had been deleted from the closely-guarded confession before it got to the committee.

Fuchs, a Communist and leading British atomic scientist, was convicted on March 1 of betraying British-American atomic secrets in Russia and sentenced to 14 years in prison.

The German-born scientist had been arrested in London February 1950 on evidence supplied by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He had worked on the U.S. atomic bomb project from late 1943 until June 1946.

There is some conjecture as to how much Fuchs may have known about the atomic secrets passed to Eniwetok in the spring of 1948.

During the recent congressional investigation of the AEC, Dr. Robert Serber, former commission member, said the Eniwetok tests represented an experiment with weapons "which had been designed on the basis of research and development work which had been carried out at Los Alamos during 1947 primarily."

Committee To Hold Kick-Off Breakfast

Kick-Backs Are Studied By SBI

Governor Says Teach- ers Have Complained At Practice

Raleigh, March 11—(AP)—A file of complaints from school teachers who allegedly must make kick-backs to keep their jobs is being gathered by the State Bureau of Investigation, says Governor Scott.

The governor told his news conference yesterday he has affidavits and checks to prove that in some parts of North Carolina teachers are told to "pay up or get out."

The situation apparently prevails on a county-wide basis in three or four counties, Scott said, and on a smaller scale in other counties. He added he is not certain whether these kickbacks went to individuals for their own use or were made as party contributions.

Scott got into the political discussion when a Negro reporter asked if the governor intended to sponsor any measures during the next legislature that would guarantee Negroes equal rights at the polls.

"I think you've got all the laws you need," the governor replied. "It's a question of enforcing what we've got."

He pointed out that in some sections of the state a change in local sentiment must come before Negroes will be permitted to register and vote freely. He added that this discrimination is spotted over North Carolina and is "very definite in some places."

'Spring Hats' Shown At Club

The members of the Woman's Club, their guests and friends who attended the luncheon and Spring hat show, sponsored by Blount-Harvey Company of Greenville, on Thursday, March 9, at the club house, were the beneficiaries of a prelude to spring.

Mrs. R. R. W. ... president of the club, opened the luncheon meeting with a welcome to those present and thanks were given by Mrs. J. Vance Perkins.

Mr. Donald Adcock, flutist, played a group of selections including the Solo Solene Song by Greig, Habener by Elset (from Carmen) and Le Cygne by C. Saint Saens in an admirable and fluent manner.

Mrs. Herbert L. Carter sang three delightful numbers, A Memory by Rudolph Ganes, The Little French Clock by Koonits and Let My Song Fill Your Heart by Earnest Charles. These two accomplished artists, both members of the music department of E. C. Carolina Teachers College were accompanied by the talented and versatile musician, Mrs. J. Paul Davenport, Sr.

Following the luncheon Mrs. Willmann introduced Mrs. J. B. Spilman who took over for a most interesting review of spring creations in hats and children's Easter clothes from Blount-Harvey Company. This feature was greatly enjoyed by the audience and was ex- perly directed by Mrs. Spilman with the help of Miss Ella Sockwell and Mrs. Mary M. Dunn back stage and the appropriate music played by Mrs. Davenport of Paotolus.

Of great interest were the children's costumes which included a yellow and grey checked coat by Banbury, a Navy blue coat with lace collar and matching lace trimmed hat, a Love dress of navy and white pique worn with an off the face navy and natural straw hat. The children's clothes and hats were modeled by Sara Collier Webb, Myra Hathaway, Betsy Friend and Sandra Woodard.

Many lovely and breathtaking hats designed by Brewster, Randy Lee, Dana Marie and Abe Fagan were expertly modeled by the Misses Ramona Rouse, Lillian Wooten and Sarah Kirkpatrick, also by the Meadams, K. Long, M. L. Wright, Dink James, James S. Jenkins, of Greenville and Mrs. Ralph Hardee of Ayden.

The club was beautifully decorated with spring flowers, given through the courtesy of the Cox Floral Company and Simpson Flowers, by the Meadams H. S. Ragsdale, Travis Hooker, J. B. White, Dink James and J. H. Randolph.

A delicious coconut cake was won by Mrs. J. B. Smith.

The lovely Brewster hat, given through the courtesy of Blount-Harvey Company as a door prize was won by Mrs. E. L. Willard.

Those serving luncheon were the Meadams Owen Marshburn, N. C. Brooks, J. H. Randolph, W. W. Stangle and Sam White. Many thanks are extended to Mrs. William J. Bundy and Mrs. J. Hicks Corey who were in charge of the

Mr. Sam Weeks, Assistant Farm Agent, gave a very interesting and helpful talk on preparing permanent lawns and on present and future trends in agriculture in Pitt County due to the cut in cotton and peanut acreage and surplus in the production of corn and Irish potatoes.

Since there was no county-wide meeting scheduled before Mrs. Lowery was to leave our county to take up her position as Home Agent in New Hanover County, and since the members of the Executive Board of the Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs and the office personnel were present, Mrs. Obed Castelle, in behalf of the 600 Home Demonstration Club women of Pitt County, with very fitting and appropriate words presented to Miss Lowery a large leather traveling bag in appreciation of her work with the club women during the past 3 1/2 years.

This dinner meeting was declared a most enjoyable affair by all present.

"Whereas, his upright character and steadfastness in defending causes and principles which he considered right and just has endeared his memory to the hearts of every legionnaire and veteran that had the privilege of feeling his influence;

"Now, therefore, Be it Resolved: "First, That his untimely death deprived the American Legion, Department of North Carolina of an ardent friend and comrade and the loss will be keenly felt at the present and for many years to come;

"Second, His wise counsel and advice to veterans and his participation in all meetings pertaining to veterans and veterans organizations within the state will be greatly missed and his death will be regretted by all that have known him."

These cars were thrown from a trestle over the North Tyger river near Spartanburg, S. C., in the derailment of a northbound Southern Railway freight train. About 25 cars were derailed. Officials blamed a broken journal box on a car. No one was hurt. The train was en route to Charlotte, N. C. (AP Photo).

Blizzard Marks Its Trail Across North Dakota

These fallen telephone lines mark the trail of a terrific blizzard across North Dakota. The scene is west of Fargo. The Bell Telephone company estimates more than 3,000 of its poles went down under the force of 75-mile-an-hour wind and a heavy ice coating. Most of the state is still isolated. (AP Wirephoto).

"It's Murder!" Screamed Helen Traubel

Soprano Traubel isn't just vocalizing. Proudly — and a little nervously — we present a six part draymah of the High Cs, authored by the Metropolitan Opera prima donna. It is the first time Miss Traubel has crashed into print as a full-fledged author. This chilling novel of mayhem was conceived strictly from hunger. On a recent tour Miss Traubel discovered she had already read every published detective story. She was forced to write her own in order to while away the boring back-stage wait between opera scenes. Bang! — or rather Bang! — "The Ptomaine Canary" is the result. It starts in the Reflector on Monday, March 13.

Cook Book Ducks Sale Of Savings Butter And Oleo Bonds Still High Issue in Recipes

Washington, March 11 (AP) The Agriculture Department has just published a new cook book in which it does a neat job of ducking the butter-ve us-margarine controversy.

The 96-page booklet—entitled "Family fare"—gives many mouth-watering recipes for pies, cakes, pastries, cookies and other desserts in which either butter or margarine or some other fat is an essential ingredient.

The department walks the tight rope by referring to these ingredients as "table fats."

Where the average pie crust recipe might call for three-fourths cup of butter or margarine, the department cook book merely specifies "table fat" or simply "fat."

About the only references to butter and margarine are incidental statements that "butter and fortified margarine are rich in vitamin 'A' and that "Like all fats, they furnish many calories."

The cook book was printed at a time when Congress was completing action on bitterly contested legislation removing federal taxes from n margarine. The legislation was opposed by the dairy industry.

There are several other instances in which the cook book carefully avoids giving a preference for competitive foods. In the case of sweets it may say "any kind of sugar—granulated (beet or cane) confectioner's, brown and maple; molasses; or any kind of sirup or honey; jams and jellies, and candy."

The booklet stresses the need of vitamin C in the diet as a scurvy-fighter. But it was careful to state that this element could be obtained from either citrus fruits or tomatoes.

With the current potato surplus problem in mind, the cook book gave the spud a part on the back under a chapter entitled "controlling weight" the department urged consumers not to skip on fruits and vegetables.

"Eat a variety—yes, potatoes too, a medium-sized potato has no more calories than a big orange or a big apple."

The cook book does climb out on a limb, however, by advising food selections for those who must count their food dollars:

"If you want to cut food costs, reduce somewhat—perhaps by about one-third—the quantities of meat, poultry and fish in your food plan. To take the place of these foods, the department says the consumer should increase consumption of potatoes and cereals by about one-fourth."

In either case, it advised, there should be no skimping on milk and milk products, leafy green and yellow vegetables and tomatoes and citrus fruits.

There's More To A Prison Camp Than Meets The Eye

Pitt Prison Camp Requires Hard Work And Supervision

By ROY HARDEE

A prison and the life which is carried on behind the enclosed area is one thing of which most people know very little and care less to find out about.

There is only one time to visit a prison, a business or social call, one which is not prolonged by a forced stay.

More than 110 men awake each day behind the iron bars of the state prison camp located near Greenville and peer out from behind the closed cells, looking wishfully and hopefully at the freedom enjoyed by the outside world.

The often stated saying, "Stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a jail," does not seem to fit into the picture at the state prison camp, as both are much in evidence over here.

Not For Fun

The present prison camp which was built around 1933 replaced the old style, "Cane Camps," which were in use during the years leading up to the 1830's. The old cane camps were, as their names indicated, moveable camps which were taken all over the county where the prisoners were working. The cages could be set up anywhere, thus not having to transfer the men every time a camp move.

The individual county had the system under their direction at this time, but the old chain gangs furnishing the labor. It is comparatively recent that the state brought the prison camps under the direct supervision of one central head in Raleigh.

Life Behind Bars

The 110 men who compose the prisoner population of the camp at the present time live in two large cell blocks, which are separated by a wide hallway.

The men have double bunks, arranged in two straight rows along the side of the building with a single row down the middle. The room is heated by a coal burning stove located in the far end of the building. A wire screen and thick iron bars adorn the outside of the windows of the cell blocks.

The prisoners are awakened around six in the morning, fed, and leave the prison camp by 7:00.

Ninety-five men, making up six road work crews, keep the county roads in top shape and are on jobs somewhere in the county all the time.

Not only do the road crews keep the county roads up, but they also cut right of ways, cut ditches, clear land and many other tasks.

Eleven guards are used in watching the prisoners while they are working.

The men spend about 10-12 hours each day going to work and actually doing their work. Captain Paul Crawford, camp head, stated that he believed the average work day for the prisoners would be about eight hours.

The men return to camp for supper at six.

The camp kitchen run by prison cooks, supervised by the camp steward, prepares some 300 meals daily. Four cooks are used in the preparation of the meals.

The men are fed in a large dining hall which is divided down the middle making two sections which can take care of all the prisoners at one time.

The camp workers, about ten in number, are fed at other times, when they finish their work at the camp, which may be farming or painting.

If after the first plate served, the prisoner finds he has not had enough, he may go back for additional food until he is full.

Most of the products which are used in the camp's kitchen each day either come directly from the camp's garden or has been canned during a previous season and then used.

Farm Unit

The camp is made up of some 80 acres of cleared land, on which is raised corn, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, and all types of vegetables, to be used by the camp kitchen. In addition to the food which is grown on the land, a herd of six cows and many smaller cattle are kept on the land for beef and milk. A laying flock of 125 hens produce plenty of eggs for the camp's tables.

There are now 52 hogs being raised on the farm from which fresh meat and lard are obtained.

Several weeks ago a supply of sweet potatoes were converted into 500 No. 10 cans of sweet potatoes for use. For a time the canning of the surplus goods was carried on at the camp, but now a prison cannery has been set up in one of the other prison camps which takes care of all the work for the eight prison farms composing the second division prison system of which the local camp is a part.

All of the farming and work around the camp is carried on by a group of 12 men who have obtained the status of Honor Grade prisoners.

Not all prisoners are eligible for becoming honor grade men, even though they may have a good prison record at the camp at which they are stationed.

The factors for which a man has been convicted, his background and many other factors determine if a man is made an honor grade prisoner. There are at the present time some 25 trustees who work at the farm and who work with road crews.

Long Termers

The majority of the men who are confined to the prison farm near Greenville are long term men who have received sentences ranging from two years to life.

Captain Crawford stated that while he has not actually figured it up in exact terms, he believes that the average sentence per man at the camp is about twenty years.

Throughout the state, the camp is known to be a camp where some of the toughest and most troublesome prisoners are kept.

Punishment

Up until recently any prisoner who disobeyed orders or in some way violated the prison rules enough to be punished, the usual punishment was handcuffing the man to the cell bars and let him remain there for a period of eight to ten hours. This means of punishment which had the sanction of the prison officials in Raleigh, could be administered for a total of 52 hours.

A change was made however when a case came to light where a camp superintendent was found guilty of mistreating the punishment.

Crawford agreed that the handcuffing treatment was much better on the man and had a better effect upon the entire group than the now standard "Dark Hole" punishment.

This form of punishment has always been used, but only in severe cases of disobedience. A man is taken from his regular cell and placed in a totally dark cell, which is just about four feet wide and some seven feet deep, with only the bare brick walls on the inside.

The one entrance to the cell is an iron door which is only opened to permit the bread and water to be served to the men; their diet for their stay in the hole. The average time that a man is kept in the cell is between eight and ten days.

Each of the cells can house four men and there are four separate cells. A prisoner is given only a thin blanket to lie on while he is in the cell. The dark cells are housed in a small building separate from the cell blocks in the middle of the back section of the camp yard.

Cell Blocks

The two cell blocks in which the 110 prisoners are kept, are inspected each day for contraband which the men are not allowed to have in their possession.

From time to time some articles of contraband are found in the cells, but as a rule these articles are not major violations. The prison inspectors have turned up two guns which had been smuggled into the camp, but these were caught before they were used.

The cell blocks, equipped with toilet facilities and washing rooms, are now in the process of being repainted. One section has been completed while the other one will be finished soon.

On week days the lights for the prisoners are put out at 8:30, but on Saturday night, the lights are allowed to remain on until 10:30.

In their spare time the inmates of the camp find time to make pocketbooks, belts, plastic rings and many other articles which they sell to town folks and they are given the proceeds. The men then, in turn, pay for the materials they have used from the camp's stores.

Visitors are allowed on each first and third Sunday from the hours of two to four.

Prison Ball Club

Each year in the spring and summer a prison baseball team is formed with many games being played among the inmates themselves and other played with out-of-town teams. Sports play a large part in the life of the confined men as they strive to break away from the prison routine.

Prison Record

As far as escapes and attempted breaks which have been foiled, the local camp boasts of one of the best to be found in the second division. Only one prisoner that has escaped from the local camp or work crew, under Crawford's supervision, has not been returned to the camp. This man is now serving time in a prison in Florida and will be brought back here when he is released from the prison there.

Only one prisoner who has attempted to escape has been killed. The man working with a party near Falkland broke away and was killed.

Daily tours of the prison camp are made by the prison doctor who is the Pitt county health officer.

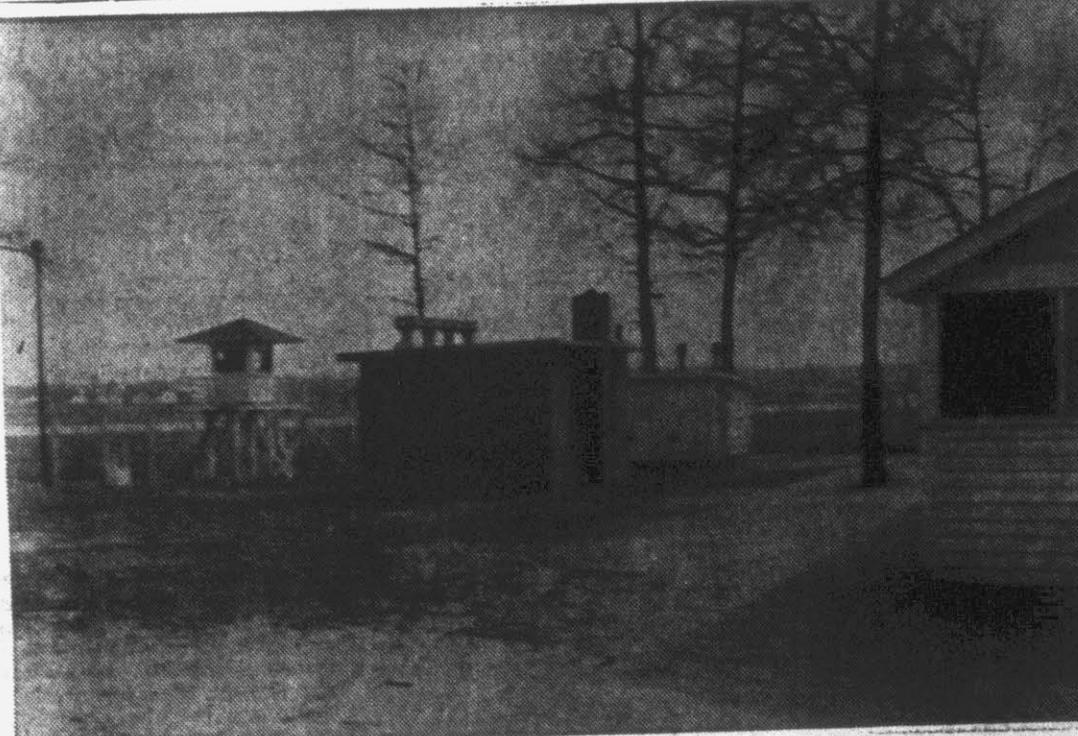

If on examination a prisoner is found to be ill, he is treated and kept in his quarters if the illness is not serious. Prisoners who are found to be in need of medical treatment which only a hospital can offer, are transferred to the prison hospital at State Prison in Raleigh.

Regular church services are held for the inmates every other Sunday by various churches in the county.

The King's Crossroads Choir Led In Forming Singing Convention

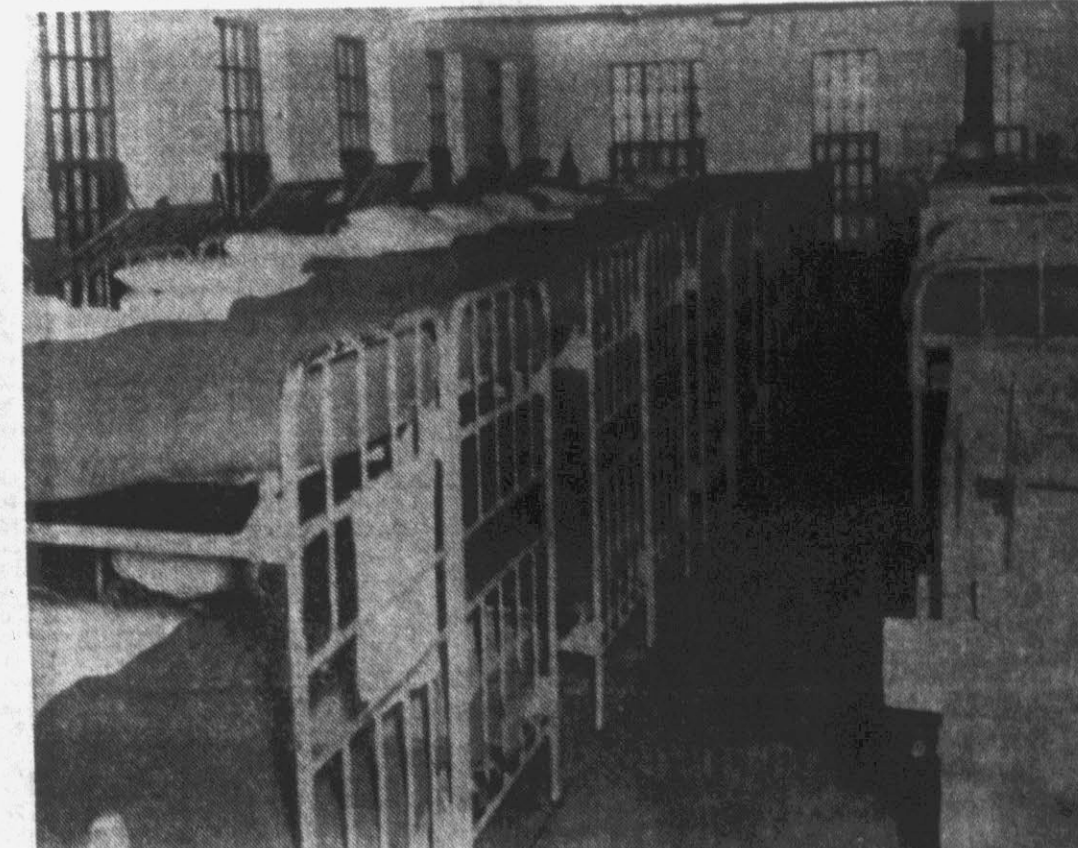

The fourth quarterly Pitt county singing convention which was started about a year ago in Farmville will be held in Wright auditorium, Sunday, March 12, at 2:30. The idea of the Pitt county singing group was originated by the King's Crossroads choir, who are pictured above. These members led the drive to get the singing group organized, which has since grown to have more than 100 members. The main purpose behind the group, was to create a fellowship and a better understanding between the various city and rural churches of the county. A special feature of the singing convention this Sunday will be the presentation of small gifts to every little girl between the ages of 9 and 12 years, who attends the singing convention. Gifts will also be given to the boys present. There is no admission charge for the program and parts of it will be broadcast.

The top picture shows an outside view of the prison yard, with the guards' tower in the background and the "dark hole," building in the center of the grounds. In the top left hand corner can be seen one of the flood lights used to light up the camp grounds in the event of trouble.

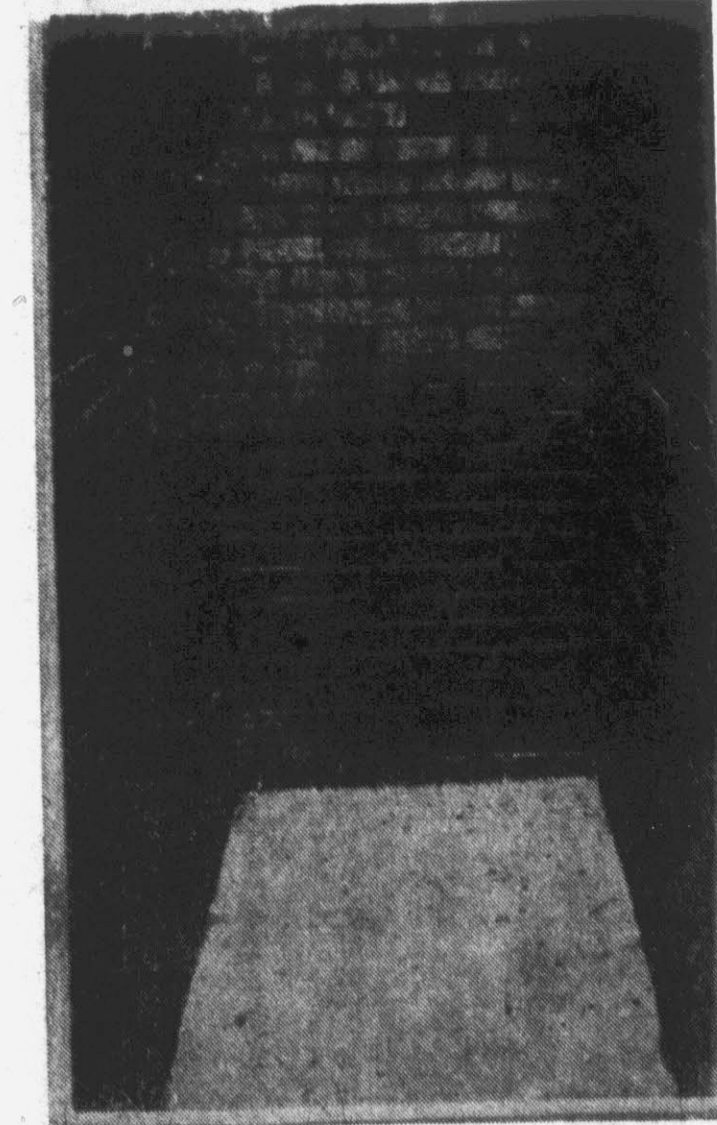

Two of the prison cooks of the State Prison farm located near Greenville are shown in the camp's kitchen as they prepare the evening meal. One of the cooks is making fresh bread for the supper time meal while the other opens cans of goods to be used.

The 110 prisoners confined at the local prison farm are kept in two cell blocks with single rows of beds running down each side of the building, as shown in the top picture and with another line in the middle. Heat for the cells is provided by a coal burning stove located in the middle at one end.

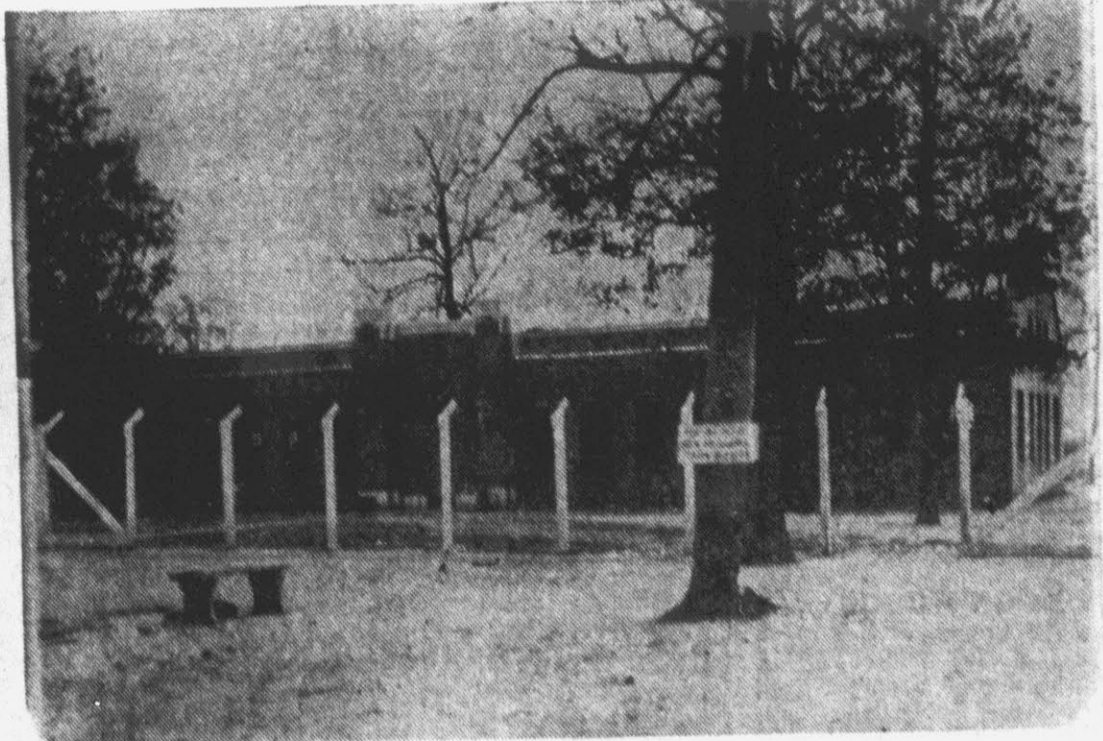

One section of the prison dining hall which can feed 100 prisoners at one time is shown in the above photo.

Standard punishment for violation of orders now is the "dark hole" shown above. A man is put in this section which measures some four feet by seven, and kept there for a period of eight to ten days. The only food given the prisoners, is bread and water. Four men are sometimes housed in each of the cells. (Reflector staff photo by Roy Hardee).

Captain Paul Crawford and one of his helpers are shown in the above photo with two of the blood hounds which are used in tracing escaped convicts from the prison camp in this area. In addition to the two dogs pictured with the men, there are also several younger dogs which are being trained to help with the prison work.

Strength FOR THE DAY

CALL FOR THE WRECKING CREW

For years the stained-glass window behind the altar of a downtown city church had been so dark that the figures in the Biblical scenes were scarcely discernible. This was because a large building, occupied the property next to the church and shut out the light. At last the church acquired the property, tore down the building, and for the first time the light came through the stained-glass window. Then the worshippers realized, as they had never realized before, the beauty of the window which for decades had been facing a brick wall.

There are periods in history when the light of common knowledge seems to be shut off from humanity for generations, and sometimes for centuries. Then there is a great awakening, the institutions and evil customs which have kept light from the minds of men are demolished, and the light shines through.

Many of us dwell in darkness year after year because of some huge impediment which shuts out light from our minds and souls. Sometimes this impediment is hatred. Again it is ignorance. Many a life is so self-centered, so overshadowed by concern and anxiety over matters wholly personal, that the breadth and goodness of unselfish living never gets a chance to shed its rays across the daily circumstances of life.

Many of us would do well to put into operation a firm policy of demolition.

SCOTT'S CAMPAIGN RULES

Not so long ago Governor Scott outlined a list of rules for state employees to follow during the coming campaign to insure, as the governor said, a fair campaign.

The rules Scott proposed are:

1. Officials or employees seeking election to any office other than the one which they are currently holding should resign.
2. Department heads should see that no state vehicles are used to transport voters to the polls.
3. Employees serving as poll officials must do so on their own time, and department heads should see that time taken off is counted as vacation time.
4. No state official should instruct any of his employees how to vote.

These rules, as far as they go, seem to us good sound advice for the people who are holding state jobs at the present time. Scott's rules cover the most obvious methods in which pressure could be exerted on the state employees to gain votes for a particular interest.

However, there are other things which have played a great part in political campaigns of the past which were passed over by Governor Scott in his rules of the road for the 1950 campaign. For instance in his second rule the governor has specified that no state vehicle should be used for transporting voters to the polls, but no mention is made of the state vehicles which may be used in traveling from place to place to help particular candidates to carry out their campaigns.

Boyle's Column

New York—(AP)—Slip the rumor to me, Junior. Did you see a bird flying backwards? You say a lion stopped you in the street and wanted to know what subway to take to the Bronx Zoo?

How's that? You just trapped three men from Mars in the basement and winged 'em with your atom gun?

Do I believe you, son? Well, let me put it to you this way—I don't disbelieve you. I no longer disbelieve anybody or anything.

The age of smug certainty is gone. Wonder has piled upon wonder so fast in our lifetime that few of us have any disbelief left. It takes a brave or foolhardy man indeed today to say "That's impossible." Tomorrow he may be proved wrong and a dotdash oar.

Mankind seems to have lost its anchors and is drifting helter-skelter before capricious winds of change and uncertainty. Faith has lost its feathers, and authority is a broken reed. About all a man can be sure of is that if he steps aboard a certain ship he'll end up home. But how about that bus driver a few years back who started out on his regular route here and ended up in Florida?

Nope, you just can't know nothing for certain. There is no basket left you can put your dozen eggs into and count on getting all twelve back again.

Take that story by the dynamite salesman about the wreckage of a space ship being found in Mexico piloted by a gent only 23 inches tall. The Airforce says, "There is no evidence to support the existence of any interplanetary machines."

But you'll note that the Airforce doesn't rule out the possibility. It can't—it may have to fight space ships some day. So may the Navy.

As a matter of fact, the rumor of an interplanetary space ship having crashed on the North American continent has been floating around Manhattan for months. According to the version I heard, it hit in the southwest and the bodies of 34 "things" about three-feet high were found. The "things" were supposed to have been living beings, but without skin, flesh, scales or feathers.

A reporter asked a well-known atomic scientist if he believed the rumor, and he replied:

"I wouldn't say I disbelieved it. Anything is possible. And so it is. If two pollywog-eyed creatures in green armor knocked on my door and said, 'We just landed from the planet Venus,' I wouldn't call them liars. I'd just hand them the keys to the apartment and say, 'Let me know when you get out of here.'"

Can the H-bomb destroy the world? One eminent group of scientists says, "Yes." Another says, "Pooh!"

Is a murder defendant crazy or sane? One psychiatrist testifies he's a Bluebeard and a second psychiatrist says he's batty as a belfry. Will anti-histamines cure the common cold? There's experts on both sides.

That's the trouble nowadays. The world has gone beyond the understanding of the common man, and whom can he trust when the experts quarrel among themselves?

So, Junior, I want deny you saw the backward-"ying" bird, the lion on the street, or shot the three men from Mars. I want disbelieve anything. But just don't ask me to get excited about your marvels. The old man is worn out with marvels he can't comprehend. It might be a good idea to have a five-year moratorium on them till we can all catch up.

Robt. Reynolds To File Friday Against Graham

Asheville, N.C., March 11—(AP)—Robert R. Reynolds said today he'll file for the U.S. Senate next Friday. And, he reiterated, his opponent will be Sen. Frank P. Graham, "my natural adversary."

"Our Bob" said there "isn't anything to this talk that I may fool everybody and file against (Senator) Hoey. I'm going to file against the doctor (Graham)." He plans to name a manager in a couple of weeks.

And, he added, after he files he'll start out on a campaign tour that will take him into every county. "I'm going to do it," he went on, "and I'm going to do a lot of it on secondary, dirt roads."

Somebody Told Me . . .

By L. S. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

Once a song gets under your skin, it's almost impossible to get it off your mind. For example, a salesman walked in the store yesterday and I said, "If I'd a known you were coming I'd a baked a cake."

"Come again," he said. "Whassa matter, ain't ya hep?" I asked. The salesman was a square, he hadn't heard the song about baking the cake.

Another one of those popular songs that gets under your skin is "Rag Mop." It goes "M, I say m-o, m-o-p, m-o-p-p, mop . . . R, I say r-a . . ." and so on. Unless you know the story behind the song, it doesn't make a bit of sense, which doesn't matter.

Hartwell Campbell, alias Arthur Hart, manager of Radio Station WGTC, says that this song will have school children spelling "cat." "C, I say c-a, c-a-t, c-a-t-t." He's probably right. School children go for those songs almost as much as I do.

This week's issue of "Time" magazine tells the story behind the song, James Anderson of Port torial prestige, and there is quite definite probability at least two counties may come up with two senators each. That is, if the general assembly obeys the constitutional mandate for re-districting.

The constitution limits senate membership to fifty, and requires that at the first session after each census the assembly must re-arrange senatorial districts so that each district "shall contain, as near as may be, an equal number of inhabitants." It is further provided that counties making up districts must be contiguous and that "no county shall be divided in the formation of a senate district, unless such county shall be equitably entitled to two or more senators." (Art. 11, Sec. 4.)

The general assembly in the past has assumed that the required equality of inhabitants means representation by a senator instead of actually in a senatorial district. For that reason the state has been divided into 33 districts for the 50 senators. Seventeen of these districts elect two senators each. This policy has worked some grave inequities in the past and unless modified will probably be more inequitable after the 1950 census.

The first district, for example, comprises eight counties in the northeastern corner of the state with aggregate population in 1940 of 109,675 people. The district has two senators. The nineteenth district, made up of Anson, Stanly and Union counties, has population of 100,374 and two senators. Meanwhile, Guilford county with 153,916 has only one senator, and Mecklenburg with 151,826 has only one. The citizens of Guilford or Mecklenburg have less than one-third the representation in the senate that the citizens of the 19th district have.

If the state's population reaches four million in the current census—and most estimates are it will—then the average population for a senate district will be 80,000. Almost certainly Guilford and Mecklenburg will more than double that number, entitling them to two senators each. Other piedmont counties are believed to have grown faster than far east and far west areas, so that honest reapportionment will give the middle part of the state relatively greater power in the senate. Previous legislatures have not been very careful about obeying the constitution. Disproportionate strength of small counties in the assembly, plus designs to prevent Republicans from gaining ascendancy, have blocked efforts for equitable allocation of senators. These forces will be present in the 1951 session. Whether they will exert the usual influence cannot be known until they go into action.

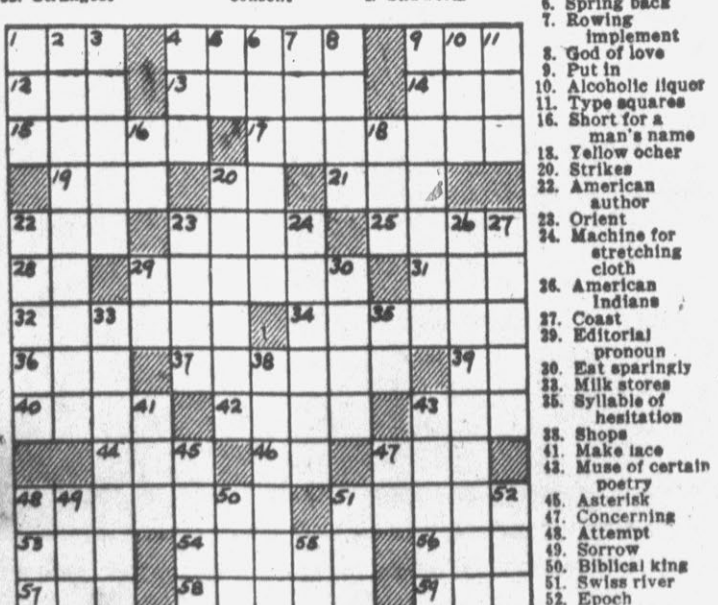

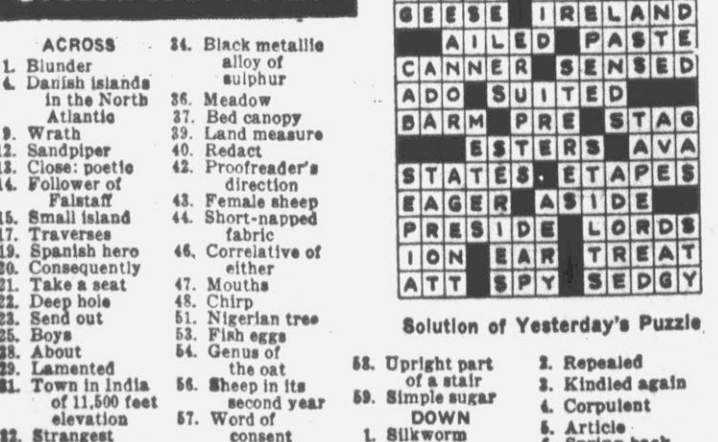

There is less likelihood of major change in apportionment of representatives. The constitution provides that each county shall have at least one member in the house, the other twenty to be allotted purely on mathematical basis. Currently Guilford and Mecklenburg have four members each; Buncombe, Forsyth and Wake have three each; Cabarrus, Cumberland, Durham, Gaston, Johnston, Pitt' Robeson and Rowan have two each.

The six weeks course in mess management is conducted for Army and Air Force officers responsible for the preparation of foods in troop kitchens.

Marines have guarded the Washington Navy Yard (now known as Naval Gun Factory) since 1800.

ONE GREAT HOUR of SHARING

These are days of many and serious world problems, which America cannot ignore. Cold war, strikes, revolution, conflict are the phrases that make today's headlines.

Numerous are the theories advanced for solving these problems. Statesmen, economists, and diplomats have tried and failed to achieve their goal of world peace.

But there is another force at work that promises greater success. This is the power of love, fellowship, and understanding — and it takes its banner under the name of Christianity.

On Sunday, March 12, Christians the nation over will gather together to pool their wealth, talents, and faith in ONE GREAT HOUR OF SHARING. Only through such united efforts as this can the world come to know the peace that it desires.

Come to Church this Sunday morning and share with others the peace and security that you know will come from Christian living and Christian faith.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Farmville Teams Play Ayden And Bethel In Pitt Finals

Pre-Tourney Favorites Will Meet In Big Finale Tonight

Ayden And Farmville Sextets Down Bell Arthur And Grifton While Bethel Quint Stops Ayden And Farmville Tops Winter-ville In Semi-Finals

Finals Tonight
7:30—Ayden vs. Farmville (girls)
8:45—Farmville vs. Bethel (boys)

Proving there isn't much percentage in holding a post-season tournament, the one-two leaders in the county in both divisions came through last night in the semifinals to enter the finals as expected.

Pre-tourney favorites won out over game rivals as Ayden and Farmville beat their opponents in the girls' games. Farmville won the opener from a fighting Grifton team, 36-30. Ayden's all-conquering Tornadoes displayed their winning tactics in the third tilt, winning easily, 45-19, over Bell Arthur.

The boys' leaders were handily in the running. Bethel took the second game over a scrapping Ayden team, 27-28. And Farmville came back in the nightcap by beating Winterville, 31-25.

Farmville Girls 36, Grifton 30
The Bulldogs girls determined at the outset they would make a scrap of it and held a three-point advantage after eight minutes, 12-9. However, their quarter lead was short-lived as the district's Devils came back in the second to completely dominate the play. They held a half-time lead of seven points, 25-18.

The game was tight all the way despite Farmville's half lead and a six-point margin at the third quarter, 30-24. Both teams were off in their shooting but they made up for that lack in scrapping under the backboards.

Paced by Dot Hathaway with 19 points, the Red Devils won the right to enter the finals by superior ball-handling. Joyce Corbett was runner-up with 10 points. Miltie Rouse and Grace Brock were the Red Devils' stalwarts in the back court.

For Grifton, Edna Earl Braxton led the scoring with 13 points, followed by Kili McLawhorn with 10, Virginia Stancil and Allen Jones were the defensive standouts.

Bethel Boys 27, Ayden 28
Playing a deliberate game during the first quarter, the Ayden Tornadoes pulled into a tie with the Indians at the quarter mark, 6-6. Bethel tried countless times to speed up the action but Ayden would have no part of it, electing to work the ball in slowly.

Bethel came back after the minute rest to lead at the half, 18-14. John Nelson, usual starter, was suffering from the flu and did not begin the game. However, Coach Walter Latham substituted him in the second quarter and he was instrumental in the Indians' half-time lead.

Nelson and Frank Hemingway paced the Bethel offense with 13 and 11 points each. Both supplied the needed punch in the opening minutes of the 4th quarter to put their team out front after a split 25-24 lead at the third quarter.

On successive goals in the first two minutes of that last period by Nelson and Hemingway, the Indians forged ahead for keeps, 30-26. From there on in they were never headed.

Ayden's scoring was led by Leonard Bullock with 14 points. Next high was Mac Whitehurst with six. Both scoring leaders had a hand in the rebounding for the Tornadoes, coping defensive honors.

Route Runner by Pap

The sparkling rivalry between Fred Wilt and Curt Stone has added zest to the current indoor track season and make the track enthusiasts conscious of the distance events. The pair have taken turns in beating each other over the two and three-mile routes with amazing regularity to completely baffle the experts who have been trying to determine which of the two is the nation's outstanding route runner.

Wilt started the current season as top distance man in this country. He had wound up an impressive string of distance victories by taking the National A.A.U. cross-country championship. Fred opened the indoor season by beating Stone over the two-mile route at the Brooklyn KC meet and repeated when the pair met in the Boston KC games.

ECTC Baseball Team Winds Up Drills With Game

By Bill Lloyd
East Carolina's baseballers ended their first week of drills this afternoon with an intra-squad game.

Getting down to strenuous workouts during the past week, Coach Jack Boone's Pirate nine began to take shape, with the turnout of some 40 hopefuls being screened after this afternoon's squad tilt.

A lengthy hitting session was held yesterday afternoon, and was concluded with a spirited infield practice. Leading the Buccaneer batters in their swatting session yesterday were Leon Jones, Fred Soles, Jack Wallace and Sonny Russell.

Jones is a returning letterman from last year's nine, while Soles and Wallace are two veteran infielders. Russell, the freshman star basketball player, who donned a baseball uniform during the week, is looking good at the first base spot.

Making up the infield in yesterday's practice were lettermen Jack Wallace at third, Fred Soles at short, Frank Ceruzzi at second, Russell at first. Newcomers vying for berths in the infield were George Sauls, Bob Bailey, Bill Smith, and Hugh Hardee. These boys are expected to give the returning infielders a strong argument for a starting berth this year.

In the outer pastures, the outfield seems rounded out except the centerfield berth. Lou Collie and Stan Terrill, members of last year's starting nine, have been looking good during the week's workouts, and seem rested in the left and right field spots. However, the deep spot is wide open with newcomer Jim Corbin and footballer Dwight Shoe competing for the vacancy.

Most serious headache for Coach Boone this season will be his pitching staff. The mound corps has been weakened considerably by graduation and men going into practice teaching. Leading the pitching aspirants in this week's drills were two strong arm right-handers Martin and James Hudson, along with Larry Kincaid, Dewey Godwin and S. C. Fields. Three more right-handers. Newcomers in the southpaw chunkers who were also looking good were Carlton Fleetwood and Dick Hobbs, along with Tony Harris.

Veteran hurlers from last year's team who will be counted on heavily this year are right-handers Hall Whitehurst and Vernon Jones, who has moved in from the outfield, along with Lefty Bob McCotter, the Pirates' 1949 pitching ace. Ab Williams and John Stoffel, counted to help out in this year's twirling, will be unable to do so because of practice teaching.

East Carolina opens its 1950 season here March 20, against the Guilford College Quakers.

Fusari Willing To Skip Robinson In Picking Up Cash

New York, March 11—(AP)—Charlie Fusari rates right up at the top as a welterweight contender but right now the Jersey fighter wants no part of Champion Ray Robinson.

Not when he can pick up 10 of those crisp $1,000 bills for an easy job like last night's in Madison Square Garden. The ten G's was Charlie's cut of a $42,521 gate paid by 12,036 fans.

The blond bomber from Irvington, N.J., battered game, green, 20-year-old Jimmy Flood with every punch in the book to win a 10 round decision breeze.

"We will skip Robinson at the moment, if you don't mind," said Vic Marsilio, Fusari's voluble manager. "Al Weil (matchmaker for the International Boxing Club) would like us to take on Paddy Young or Billy Graham next and we are inclined to oblige."

Crusader Stars On East Squad

New York, March 11—(AP)—Bob Cousy and Frank O'Brining, mainstays of Holy Cross' basketball team, have been added to the east squad which meets the west in the New York Herald Tribune's fifth annual Fresh Air Fund All-Star game at Madison Square Garden, April 1.

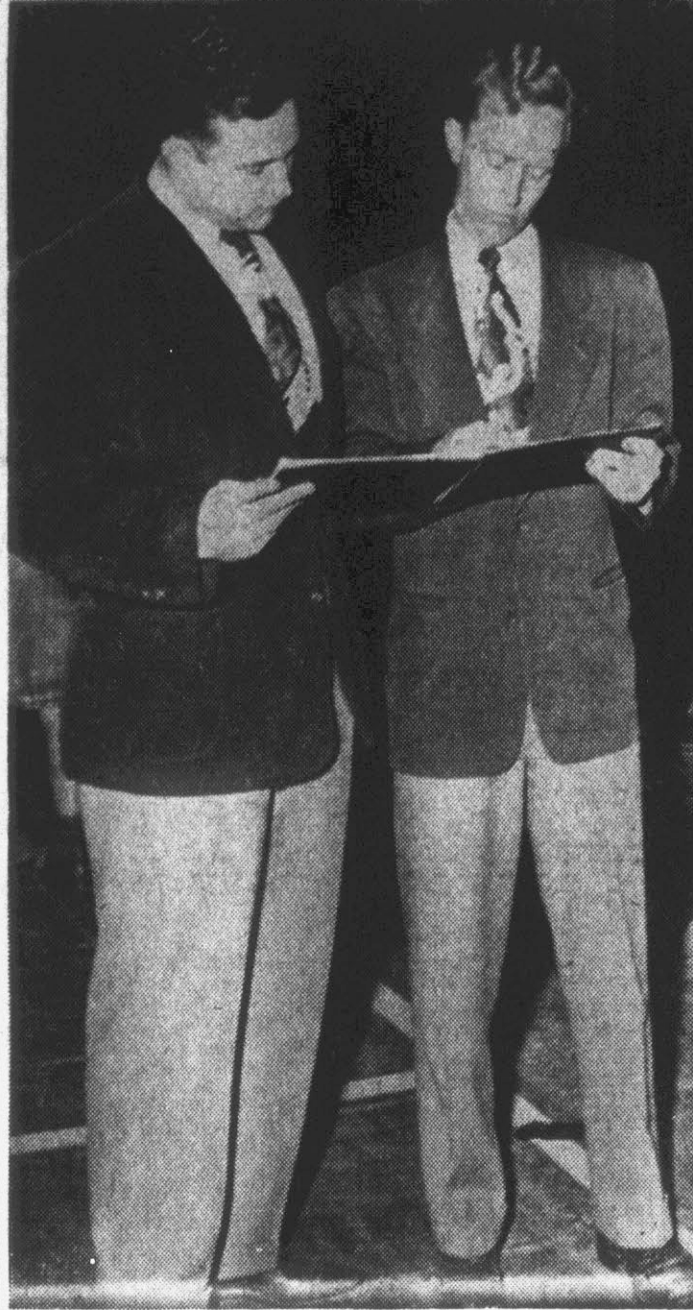

The two will join Villanova's Paul Arizin; CCNY's Irwin Dambrot; North Carolina State's Dick Dickey, and William and Mary's Chet Giermak.

Braves To Begin Exhibition Play

Bradenton, Fla., March 11—(AP)—Boston's Braves begin their pre-season exhibition schedule today against the National League pennant defending Brooklyn Dodgers and the game may help Tribal leaders answer some questions. There is much curiosity over Sam Jethroe, speedy Negro who will be in the outfield, and perhaps just as much about the effectiveness of bonus lefthanded pitcher Johnny Antonelli who is listed to start for the Tribe.

BEARDEN TO START
Tucson, Ariz., March 11—(AP)—Southpaw Gene Bearden will start for the Cleveland Indians today against the New York Giants in the Tribe's opening spring training exhibition contest.

Coaches Conduct A 'Post Mortem'

Winterville lost to Farmville last night in the semifinals of the Pitt tournament but the loss didn't keep Coach Henry Andrews from coming over to the victors' bench after the game to give Farmville's coach a victory handshake. Shown above, Andrews, left, and Elbert Moye are looking over the run score of the game to determine just how the game was won and lost, respectively. (Photo by Roy Hardee.)

Defending NIT Champions Begin Uphill Battle Today

New York, March 11—(AP)—Defending champion San Francisco, the Cinderella team of last year, opened its uphill battle for another National Invitation Basketball Tournament title this afternoon.

The Dons were unseeded again and only even money in their game against City College of New York. But Coach Pete Newell insisted before game time that his boys were a good bet to win the glass slipper for the second straight year.

San Francisco (19-6) met CCNY (17-5) in the second game of an afternoon doubleheader.

In the 2 p.m. (EST) opener, Western Kentucky (24-5) played underdog Niagara (20-6). Of the 12 teams entered, Niagara is the only one playing its first NIT tournament.

Syracuse Coach Presented Wins On Anniversary

Syracuse, N.Y., March 11—(AP)—Roy Simmons' 25th year as Syracuse University boxing coach may well turn out to be his best.

Simmons' silver anniversary was celebrated with the customary ceremonies and gifts the other night, and last night his boxers added a present of their own. Five of them stepped out and won their opening bouts in the 27th Intercollegiate Boxing Association tournament.

Those five triumphs make it almost certain that the Edward J. Neil trophy, emblematic of the team championship, will remain in the Syracuse trophy room another year.

In addition to the five winners—Jim Huba, Tim Curle, Ben Dolphin, Jim Rollier and George Kartallan—three Syracuse boxers drew berths in last night's preliminary round, leaving a full eight-man team on deck.

Bethel Indians Go Into County Finals

The Bethel Indians basketball team will be in the finals tonight fighting for the Pitt County championship when they tangle with the Farmville quint in the main attraction of the night in Wright auditorium. The players were snapped after they won out over Ayden by the score of 37-28, last night.

Seventy-Two On Home Stretch In $10,000 Event

Miami Beach, Fla., March 11—(AP)—Sixty-two professionals and 10 amateurs start down the home stretch in Miami Beach's $10,000 Invitational Open Golf Tournament today with Slammin' Sammy Snead leading the pack by two strokes.

Snead, 1949 "golfer of the year" and current leading money winner, fashioned a blistering 32-34—66 over the Normandy Isle course yesterday to set a new course record and take the tournament lead at the halfway mark with 137 strokes.

Carding his hottest round in nearly three weeks of competitive golf, the balding White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., shotmaker exploded for six birdies and an eagle during his record-making round.

Two strokes off the pace was Chandler Harper, soft-spoken veteran pro from Portsmouth, Va., who brought in a two under par 70 to add to his previous 69. Harper and Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., shared the lead at the end of the first round with three under par 69s.

Palmer, 10th ranking money winner thus far this year, slumped to a par 72 over the 6,676-yard Normandy layout for a 36-hole aggregate of 141.

The cumbersome field of more than 200 pros and amateurs who played the first two rounds simultaneously over the Normandy and Bayshore courses, was pared to the leading 62 pros and 10 amateurs for the remaining two 18-hole rounds.

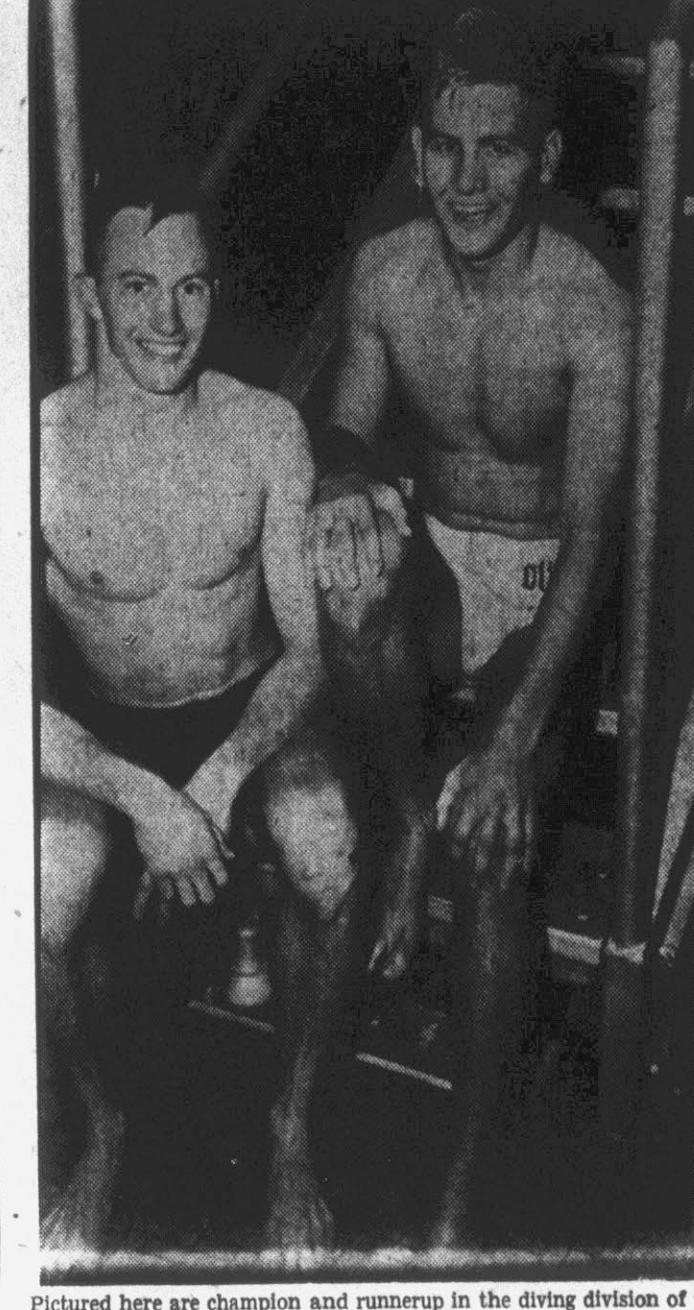

Ayden Scorer

Alice Jean Cox, one part of a sister combination playing for Ayden, was caught by the photographer last night as she sinks relay, a relay race, and a dressing relay.

Hogarth said all scouts and their parents and friends in the district are invited to attend the fun-o-ree.

Top Southern Conference Divers

Pictured here are champion and runnerup in the diving division of the Southern Conference swimming meet held this week in Chapel Hill. At left is Jack Whichard, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Whichard, Jr., of Greenville, runnerup with 97 points for Carolina's Blue Dolphins. Seated with him is the champ, John Connor of Duke and Baltimore, Md. The picture was snapped just after the diving event. Carolina went on to win the meet for the eighth consecutive time.

Greenville Student Helped Dolphins Cop Swim Title

A Greenville youth, student at the University, has had a big share this year in enabling the Carolina swimming team to cop its eighth consecutive Southern Conference swimming crown.

He is Jack Whichard, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Whichard, Jr., diving workhorse for the Carolina Blue Dolphins.

A June graduate this year, the 21-year-old Greenville youth has held down the first-berth diving assignment for Coach Dick Jamerson's Dolphins for the past two years. In nine dual meets this season, Jack has copied first place in six, getting the highest number of points against VPI, Georgia Tech, Emory University, Miami, La Salle and VMI.

In his most recent appearance on both the high and low boards Jack finished second to Duke's John Conner, Eastern NCAA champ, in the Southern Conference meet held in Chapel Hill earlier this week.

Against Ohio State, Jack Whichard placed third, competing against such diving stalwarts as Hobie Billingsley, NCAA champion in 1945, and Joe Marino, who took over Bruce Harlan's berth when the Olympics champion graduated.

One of three team captains, Jack will journey to Annapolis for the Eastern Intercollegiate meet next weekend. He will accompany other Carolina water greats Norm Sper, Jim Thomas and Cecil Milton. Sper is the Dolphins' backstroke specialist and Thomas is currently out breaking all records in the East for distance swimming.

With little opportunity to acquire diving talents hereabouts, Jack had to learn all his stuff at Carolina under the instruction of Ralph Casey, able assistant to Jamerson in coaching the Dolphins.

Starting at the University in 1946, Jack Whichard started his diving career with the assistance of Buddy Crone, for two years Southern Conference champion, and Sper, National AAU competitor who is putting all his time now on the backstroke.

As Jack developed his style, Jamerson realized he could divert Sper's talents to swimming entirely, leaving the board work to the Greenville youth. To date it has paid dividends in the final point total for the Southern Conference champs.

Gussie Moran Wins Net Title In Cairo Match

Cairo, March 11—(AP)—Gertrude "Georgious Gussie" Moran, who got an editorial spanking for wearing black panties in an international tennis tournament here yesterday won the championship today—wearing traditional white ones.

She whipped Mrs. Herold Weiss of Argentina, 6-2, 6-3, to run her string of singles championship victories on her world tour to four.

Gussie wore black shorts—not regulation white—when she and Mrs. Patt-Todd won ladies doubles in the Egyptian International Tennis Tournament yesterday.

The audience included Egypt's beautiful Princess Faiza, who presented the cup to the winners.

Home Girl

By Carol Holliston AP Newsfeatures

Chapter 30
It was over two hours before Don came and let himself into the house with his key. Anne sat very quietly waiting, or perhaps just daydreaming, because she didn't know he had arrived until he put his arms about her and kissed her.

"Sorry I'm late, but I had a little business to attend to that simply couldn't be put off under any circumstances. Were you getting impatient?"
She took his hand and drew him down on the seat beside her. She held his hand so it seemed that one warm life stream flowed through both their bodies. Her voice was a little unsteady.

"I hope I shall never be impatient with you, Don. I am sure you will never give me any justification for it."

"Remember I told you about Le-nore? You had every reason to drive me out of your life then."

"I have a confession to make, Don, before I talk to you very seriously about something else."

He squeezed her hand. "Must be so very serious on this beautiful day? Can't we save it for the country? You know, today Mother is going to show us the part of the house she had set aside for us and prepared as our home with her. It is a separate wing, so we can lock her out any time we want to, she says."

"We will never want to, Don. But—"

He kissed her quickly. "There aren't any buts at all. There aren't going to be any from now on. I have been very busy this morning. I have surprises for everybody—even Mary."

"You're very kind. Mary is thrilled to death at going. She wanted to bake a cake for fear your mother would run short because we all ate so much. And she is taking a small apron so she can be helpful by being in my house. Now for my news. She put a hand over his mouth. "I insist on mine first. I claim a lady's privilege."

"First of all, about Lenore. Tony came to see me and told me about her. He wanted me to ask you things. I never would have done so. I told him my love for you was big enough to include complete acceptance of you."

Countess Riding Horse To Rome

Countess Ellen von Hohenau, 58, leads her horse back to Rome on her long horseback trip to Rome. The purpose of her journey is to convey the regards of German horsemen to Pope Pius XII. Her route leads through celebrated Brenner Pass. She hopes to reach Rome in five or six weeks. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Frankfurt.)

Canned Boy! Firemen Free Him

Getting in was easy—but it took firemen armed with hacksaws and bolt cutters to free Leo Sanchez, 6, from the family garbage can in San Jose, Calif. Leo thought it would be a fine place to hide during a game of hide-and-seek, and so he crawled into the can. Firemen Jim Anderson (left) and Ralph Santoro spent quite a while getting him out. (AP Wirephoto.)

let them ride the pony as they did last summer."

"Pony? Darling, you mean two ponies. Two boys, two ponies. And cowboy outfits. Wasn't I on a ranch? We'll all go on a ranch. They have to start learning to ride today. All Carneys have to ride well, and you know they are going to be Carneys now."

She clung to him, laughing a little crazily in her happiness. "And I'll be a Carey too."

He laughed and hugged her. "Want another hanky to cry in?"

"Certainly not. I'm laughing."

"Splendid. Collect your family. The country is waiting for us."

(THE END)

Wasn't A Joke
Houston, March 11—(AP)—"This must be a joke," said a man who called the sheriff's office. "I've got a good boy working for me and he's got a ticket for speeding. But it is signed Yawn and Goodnight."

It was no joke, he was assured. Deputy Sheriffs Sid Yawn and Steve Goodnight, working together recently, had signed the ticket.

Kentucky Votes Federation Plan

Kentucky became the sixteenth state of the American Union today to pass the World Federation Resolution approving the principle of World Federation and calling upon the Kentucky delegation in Congress to support and vote for a Resolution in the Congress of the United States, approving the principle of World Federation and requesting the President of the United States to initiate the procedure necessary to formulate a Constitution for the Federation of the World, which shall be submitted to each nation for its ratification, by implementing Article 109 of the United Nations Charter, providing for the calling of a general conference to revise the Charter of the United Nations, so as to transform that institution into a world law-making body with powers adequate to assure peace and to enforce justice on individuals.

The Resolution was passed overwhelmingly by the Senate and the House with the active support and sponsorship of the Lieutenant-Governor, the Speaker, the majority leaders of both houses and other influential members of the Democratic and Republican parties.

This Resolution which was first passed by the General Assembly of North Carolina in 1941 has now been passed by one-third of the states of the American Union.

Jaycee 'Ladies' Night' Will Be Held March 23

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce ladies' night committee said today the annual ladies' night meeting of the club will be held March 23 at 7:30 at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

The date of the annual affair tentatively was set for Thursday, March 16, but members of the committee found arrangements for the occasion could not be completed for that date.

Jaycee President Bancroft Moseley said the regular meeting of the club which was scheduled for March 16 will be postponed for one week and held in conjunction with the ladies' night.

The committee which is making the arrangements for the Jaycee ladies' night is composed of Quinn Bostic, chairman, George Shoe, Bob Russ and Henry Brown.

Pactolus Youth Wins 4-H Title

Howell Bone, Pactolus 4-H youth, this morning was crowned Pitt County Junior Farm Champion in winning the quiz contest on farm subjects held at the radio station this morning.

The quiz and subsequent broadcast was a duplicate in miniature of the national hookup program, RFD America, and was conducted by the 4-H clubs of the county.

Miss Marjorie Shearin, assistant home demonstration agent, acted as moderator of the questions and C. J. Goodman, assistant county agent, was judge.

Thirteen club members throughout the county participated in the first-round questions. Those entering the second round were Teddy Allen and Hazel Garris of Farmville, Milton Spain of Belvoir, Howell Bone and Mac Jones of Stokes. All but Bone and Jones were eliminated in the second round, and Jones was runnerup in the third.

of the royal family. But only once were shells dropped near the farm house. That was on April 8, 1918—His Majesty's birthday. At high noon the enemy fired a salute of three shells.

Finally came the armistice, and eleven days later—November 22—the royal family returned to their capital. It was a triumphal procession, for the whole country was in a frenzy of rejoicing.

Brussels was jammed. Hundreds of thousands flocked into the capital from outside points. Not only was the available standing room in the streets taken but windows were full, and even the trees held their share.

The royal family made their entrance on horseback. First came King Albert and Queen Elizabeth, side by side. Behind them, riding abreast, were the three children on ponies—Crown Prince Leopold, 17; Prince Charles, 15, and Princess Marie, 12. The crowds went wild.

That was the heritage of love and loyalty which came to Leopold when his father was killed in a fall from a precipice in 1934. Yes, tomorrow will be a day of memories for king and subject alike.

If anyone dealing in oleomargarine that is made and sold entirely in one state wonders whether the federal law applies to him, the only way he can find out is when, and if, the federal government takes action against him. Then the problem will have to be settled by the courts.

But the writer then asked the Federal Trade Commission's attorneys, whose job is to see that the law is carried out, and was told that the FTC deals only with margarine that crosses state lines.

There is a penalty for disobeying the law. The FTC finds you have violated the law on oleomargarine, it will tell you to stop. You have then 60 days in which to fight the decision by appealing to the U. S. Court of Appeals.

On the other hand, the money which you save will double every 12 years if properly invested. Ten dollars saved weekly at 6 per cent (which most good stocks now pay) can become $23,746 in 20 years. Next Premier Of Greece To Work With America

Athens, March 11—(AP)—The moderate leftist leader who is slated to be Greece's next prime minister said yesterday his government would coordinate its foreign policy with that of the United States and Britain.

This statement by Gen. Nicholas Plastiras followed widespread local rumors that his new centrist coalition might draw Greece closer towards the Soviet Union. Plastiras reportedly had some Communist support in last Sunday's election.

"We want the friendship—economic and political—of all, but our policy will always be towards the West," Plastiras declared in an interview.
