

Dynamite Truck Blows Up; Two Persons Killed

Spectacular Blast Fatal For Curious Bystanders, Others Knocked Down

Nashville, Tenn., March 25—(AP)—A truck loaded with 10 tons of dynamite caught fire and blew up 20 miles northwest of here last night, killing two persons and rocking the countryside for 50 miles around.

The spectacular blast knocked down a dozen or more curious bystanders who approached as the truck flamed up. Seven were treated at Nashville hospitals for minor injuries and then released.

The explosion dug a 15-foot deep crater through the concrete pavement of U. S. highway 41-A, tore down power lines in the sparsely settled area and scattered bits of the truck for 75 yards around.

One of the two dead was identified as John L. O'Guin, 63, a Nashville insurance man.

The other was tentatively identified as James M. Hennessey, 32, of Big Sandy, Tenn., and Houston, Tex.

They had parked their car to inspect the burning truck when it exploded with a roar heard as far away as some south Kentucky communities.

The truck driver, listed as Lloyd L. Brantley, 39, of McCalla, Ala., brought the big vehicle loaded with 400 cases of explosive to a stop on a light signal from E. E. Minis, 27, of Nashville, driver of a two and one-half ton truck pulling up behind.

"I saw his truck smoking and flashed him a signal," Minis told newsmen.

"The driver stopped his truck and when he got out it started flaming up."

"He (Brantley) shouted out, 'This thing is loaded with dynamite. Let's get out of here.'"

"He went north on the road and I went south, stopping cars and telling them to turn around."

"I was about a fourth of a mile down the road when it exploded with a big white and red light. I was in the service overseas and saw plenty of bombs go off but I never saw anything like that."

Minis' truck, a general merchandise vehicle, heavily loaded with shoes and other clothing, was destroyed together with the dynamite truck, which was blown into bits.

Sgt. Elmer Craig of the state highway patrol, one of the first officers on the scene, said two or three cars passed before the truck exploded.

Most Fateful Moment

Today, Mac Discusses Thoughts Which Pass Through One's Mind In The Fleeting Instant That Death Seems So Close, Then Misses; His Experience In France

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

Did you ever check back to determine the most fateful moment of your life, and what you were thinking in that fleeting instant?

Your columnist has been asked to perform that operation on himself for our Saturday adventure and has found it rather a fascinating type of reminiscence. It's easy to understand the interest in the subject. For I often have wondered what has passed through the mind of some individual whom I have seen encounter a fast moving crisis.

I suppose everybody who has spent his life knocking about the world hunting thrills has encountered crises of the flash-flood sort. War naturally produces many of them and my experience in two world conflicts and some revolutions was no exception. One of the odd things I have come up against was this: William Phillip Simms (then of the United Press) and I, who were attached to British general headquarters in France as war correspondents during the first world conflict, one day climbed to the top of famous Vimy Ridge, north of Arras. From the razor-edge top of this ridge one could look for miles

McCarthy Charge Near Showdown

Confidential FBI Data On 'Principal Case' Given To Senate Probers; May Know Monday If Claims Backed Up

Washington, March 25—(P)—Senate investigators appeared today to be nearing a showdown with Senator McCarthy on the "spy for Russia" case which he calls a test of his Communism-in-the-state department charges.

That impression developed at the capitol after a justice department announcement late yesterday. It said confidential FBI data on "one principal case" had been given to the senate foreign relations subcommittee which is looking into the Wisconsin Republican's charges.

It was learned that the information provided was about the man McCarthy contends is Russia's top espionage agent in this country.

McCarthy has said the individual is connected with the state department. The department denies it.

The Washington Post said today it learned the FBI files in no way support the charge made against the individual by McCarthy.

The paper said "those files do contain some derogatory information on the individual. But it is not the sort of information that would come close supporting the sweeping charge McCarthy made."

The senator has declared he is willing to let the credibility of his general charges hang on the outcome of the "Russian agent" case.

Last Tuesday McCarthy gave the name of the man in the case to the committee in secret session. The committee immediately assigned the case top priority.

The individual's name has not been made public by the committee, but his identity is widely known in Washington.

There was speculation that there may be information available Monday on whether the FBI data on the case backs up McCarthy's charge. FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover is scheduled to go before the committee at a public hearing then. He will be accompanied by attorney general J. Howard McGrath.

Senator Tydings (D-Md) the committee chairman, has announced that Hoover and McGrath will discuss the issue of whether FBI files on state department employes accused by McCarthy should be handed over to the committee.

Living Costs Edge Down In February; Under 1949

Washington, March 25—(AP)—Living costs inched downward a bit again in February, to about 1.5 per cent less than a year ago.

New decreases in food and apparel prices brought the government living cost index down to 166.5 per cent of the 1935-39 average.

This was a decline of two tenths of one per cent between January and February. The February index is 25 per cent higher than the June 1946 price level, when wartime price controls were lifted, and 69 per cent above the pre-war August 1939 level.

Foods declined six tenths of one per cent in February to a level 2.5 per cent lower than a year ago, but 34 per cent above June 1946.

Egg prices declined 7.4 per cent to their lowest February level since 1942. Prices of fruits and vegetables, fats and oils, dairy products and sugar also declined.

Among the food price increases were slight boosts in meats and poultry with coffee showing a ninth straight monthly increase to a new high retail level of about 76.5 cents a pound.

Lower prices for men's suits and topcoats brought a one-tenth of one per cent decline in apparel prices. Clothing now has declined more than eight per cent below its 1948 record high.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, which prepares the index, said rents continued their slight rise, increasing two-tenths of one per cent from January to February.

NCEA Group In Closed Session To Count Ballots

Three Members Of Canvassing Committee Meet In Face Of Opposition

Raleigh, N.C., March 25—(AP)—A North Carolina Education Association group met in closed session today for another recount of presidential ballots.

Early in the afternoon the ballots had not been called for, however, and there was no statement.

Three members of the NCEA canvassing committee met at their own call, in opposition to their chairman, L. P. Miller of Asheville.

D. K. Pittman of Oxford, Miss. Sara Olive Smith of Winston-Salem and Miss Amy Moore of Salisbury said they called the meeting because the committee voted 3-1 last Saturday to "cooperate in every way possible in solving problems that have arisen in counting NCEA ballots."

Miller, who refused an NCEA board of directors request to reconvene the canvassing committee, called the scheduled meeting of the three members "entirely improper."

He added that he and Miss Lillian Parks of Charlotte, the committee's fifth member, would not attend.

C. Reid Ross of Lillington, chairman of the NCEA's special elections committee which investigated the canvassing group's actions, said he considered three members as constituting a quorum.

O. E. Shankle of Morganton, who lost in the race for NCEA vice president, said he had wired Ross protesting the "rump" canvassing group and any action it might take. He added that Mrs. Era Crouch of Morganton, director of the NCEA western district, had made a similar protest.

Teaching Factory Workers, Babson

Washington, March 24—Private ownership has lost the support of millions of workers. Why? Because Management has never taken the time to bridge the gap between the front office and the shop with the romantic story of the American free enterprise system.

The Workers' Attitude We have assumed that the schools have been giving our youth an understanding of various economic systems and then pointing out the advantages of American free enterprises. The schools have not done the job. Ask a few simple questions of any one in your own family and you will see what I mean. They have failed in this as in teaching spelling and arithmetic.

Get your ear to the ground in your own shop and I will warrant you will be plain scared when you find how many workers believe management is just raking in the dough. They will even quote you

Controversial Compromise On Price Supports Sent To President; Senate Approved Measure By Narrow 38-31 Vote

Washington, March 25—(AP)—Despite the powerful opposition it aroused, President Truman is expected to sign a compromise price supports bill sent to the White House after a heated Senate scrap.

After juggling it for two days, the Senate approved the measure yesterday by a 38-31 vote. Each in one of the two major parties, Mr. Truman probably will make it law. The House had approved it earlier.

The measure tightens government price supports on potatoes and eases them on peanuts and cotton. The supports are administered by the Agriculture Department under a purchase and loan program intended to keep crop prices at a level considered fair to farmers.

Senator Ellender (D-La.), who pushed the bill through on the third try, said:

"I don't think there is any doubt that President Truman will sign it because it will result in saving the farm program."

Senator Aiken (R-Vt.), who led the fight against the measure, agreed that the President will sign, out added:

"I'm afraid the whole farm support program is on the skids."

Three northern Democrats—Ben-ton (Conn.), Douglas (Ill.) and Lehman (N.Y.)—joined 28 Republicans in a vain effort to defeat the farm measure.

Awaiting Evidence

Senator McCarthy's Accusations To Stand Or Fall On Charges Brought Against One Person; State Department Files Sought; Case Is Up To The President

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, March 25—(P)—Senator McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, has made broadside charges of Communists and pro-Communists in the state department.

He singled out one man in particular as the "top Soviet espionage agent in this country." McCarthy said his whole case will stand or fall on the truth of his accusations against this man.

So far, McCarthy's charge against this person has not been made public—that is, in a way which would permit its use in public print without leaving the one who printed it, on to a libel suit.

Nevertheless, the man's name is known all over Washington because when McCarthy named him, in a non-public way, the man's identity immediately leaked out.

McCarthy's charges at first covered a couple of hundred people. Since then he's narrowed down his list of all-oddy disloyal persons very sharply.

He has claimed that if President Truman would let Congress—through a subcommittee of the Senate's foreign relations committee—get a look at the state department files, proof

58 Czechs Scorn Chance To Flee Their Homeland

Describe How Anti-Communists Seized 3 Planes, Flew To U. S. Zone

Erlding, Germany, March 25—(AP)—Fifty-eight Czechs who scorned a chance to escape their Communist homeland, told today how seven anti-Communist crewmen seized their three planes in flight and brought them to U.S.-occupied Germany.

Only 26 of the 85 occupants of the planes elected to stay in Germany as fugitives from Communism. One, an American library employe in Prague aboard one of the planes, returned to Prague by train from nearby Munich last night.

Those who stayed refused to talk to newspapermen, in order to protect relatives left behind them.

One of the planes was seized at gunpoint with the pilot, Capt. Josef Kleinl, flying the plane with two pistols pointed at his head.

"The second pilot and the radio operator pulled guns on me 17 minutes after we took off from Brno," Kleinl said. "I thought at first it was a joke, but they ordered me to change my course and threatened to shoot me if I refused. I soon realized that the course they ordered would take our plane to Germany. But what would you do under two guns?"

Two crew members of another plane and one passenger who attempted to resist the seizure of their craft had their hands tied together by the conspirators.

Earlier, an Air Force statement issued in Frankfurt said approximately 53 of the 85 had expressed a desire to return home. It said the three planes departed from widely separated points in Czechoslovakia, Brno, Bratislava and Ostrava. They were supposed to be heading for Prague.

The statement said the passengers included 67 men, 16 women, one child and an infant.

The successive landing of the three planes coincided with a flood of rumors in Prague, the Czech capital, of assassination attempts against the Red-led government there.

The spectacular escape already had been widely rumored there, although the government-controlled press as yet had made no announcement of the flight.

This report, combined with a flurry of unconfirmed reports more pointed than the usual run of stories persisting in such rigidly governed countries, added to the feeling even in Prague that "something big has happened."

The most persistent of these was that Deputy Premier Zdenek Fierlinger either had been assassinated by the anti-Communist underground or had committed suicide.

Borders Closed To Syrian Trade

Beirut, Lebanon, March 25—(AP) Lebanon closed its borders today to all Syrian trade, marking a complete break in economic relations between the two neighbors.

Neighbors Help Out Hospitalized Farmer

More than 17 farmers of the Community Chapel community of Pitt County yesterday afternoon left the shores of their own farms and turned their machinery and efforts to helping a neighbor who has been flat on his back in a Durham hospital for three weeks.

The neighboring people of Community Chapel, about four miles from Greenville, took 11 tractors to the farm of Fred Haddock, and from 1:30 until 5 o'clock the tractors ripped through Haddock's 25 acres of cleared land to get it into condition for the approaching planting season.

When Haddock returns home from the hospital where he has been recovering from an operation on his back for a ruptured disc, he will find his land ready for planting. And if he does not get back home before planting time, one of the men who helped plow his fields said the men of the community will see that his crops are planted.

She will appear on the elaborately decorated Queen's float in the festival parade, scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday, April 1, and will be one of the guests of honor at the coronation ball at Kumina, Wrightsville Beach, that evening. Miss Perry will also be among those present when the awards in the $10,000 Azalea Open Golf tournament are presented at the Cape Fear Country Club on Sunday morning, April 2.

Kings Daughters Convention Convenes In Durham April 5

The 60th annual convention of the North Carolina Branch of the International Order of the King's Daughters and Sons will be held in Durham on April 5 and 6, with the Sheltering Home, and the Sara Barker Circles of Durham as hostesses.

Headquarters for the convention, which will have as its theme this year, "Perseverance, Faithfulness, Courage, in His Name," will be at the Washington Duke Hotel, with all business sessions of the convention being held in the Crystal Ball Room.

Mrs. Z. A. Rochelle of Durham, state president of the North Carolina Branch, will preside over the business sessions of the two day meeting.

Mrs. Louis M. Richardson, International Recording secretary of Indianapolis, Indiana, will be this year's convention guest. Mr. Richardson, who has served for six years as International Recording secretary, has been a member of the International Order of the King's Daughters and Sons for more than thirty years, and has served as past recording secretary and past president of the Indiana Branch.

Prior to the opening of the convention a meeting of the Executive Board will be held on Tuesday evening of April 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the Fountain Room at the Washington Duke Hotel.

The Young Women's Department of the State Branch is sponsoring a luncheon on Wednesday, April 5. At this time a talk will be made on the theme "The Necessity of Young Women in the State Branch." Mrs. J. Dell Amcott of Durham, chairman of the Young Women's Department, will be in charge of the luncheon.

On Wednesday night a banquet will be held for all visiting delegates with the Sheltering Home, and the Sara Barker Circles in charge.

Among the important business items to be taken up at the two-day meeting is the election of officers, which includes the election of a first vice president, third vice president, and recording secretary. A memorial service for all members who have passed away during the past year will be conducted by Mrs. Thomas W. Young.

Mrs. Robert D. Holleman will present the Fifty Year citations to the eligible King's Daughters in the state.

The Snapping Turtle
When the mother snapping turtle lays her eggs she digs a hole. She lays from twenty to thirty eggs at one time. After she has laid them she buries them. She lets the sun hatch the eggs. One enemy of the baby turtle is the skunk. If the mother of the baby turtle sees them in front of her, she will eat them. During the winter turtles dig holes in the mud and sleep. That is called hibernating. — Ricky Campbell, Grade 3.

Our Art Lesson
Friday afternoon Mr. Walker came to our school room. Mr. Walker is our art teacher at West Greenville school. He came with his assistant Mr. Williamson. Both art teachers are very nice men. When Mr. Walker came in he said, "We are going to do something silly today." Mr. Walker and Mr. Williamson gave us a large piece of drawing paper. Then we folded our paper like a tent. We had to write our names as funny as we could. Then we had to see what we could make out of our name. When we had finished making them we had to color them odd colors. Some of them looked like some kind of faces. One of them looked like a Chinese dancer. I think some of them would scare you in the dark. Mr. Walker comes each Friday. We all enjoy having Mr. Walker and Mr. Williamson as our art teachers.— Shirley Morgan, Mrs. Gates' Sixth Grade.

Mr. Wolf's Talk
Mr. Robert L. Wolf came to talk to our grade today. He is an ornithologist. First he said that we should take care of birds and then he began his talk. He told us the different kinds of birds he had seen. Then he told us a little about the birds he had taken to see birds. He said that most of the time he had a friend that went along with him. They went to a lot of places to see the birds. One of the birds he said that was hardly ever seen was a Golden Plover. These birds were killed and so they are scarce. He told us the bird of our state. Our own North Carolina bird is the cardinal. He is a very pretty bird. He is red and a very proud one. He is sometimes called a "red bird." The red is very dark. Mr. Wolf said he once saw a Yellow Bellied Sapsucker. He talked to us for an hour. Then he had to leave us. We were very glad to have Mr. Wolf visit us and we hope he will come back again.—Richard May, Sixth Grade.

The two fourth grades at West Greenville will give a dance at the Wright auditorium at ECTC on Friday night, March 31. The boys will wear white shirts, knee socks, short pants and black vests. The girls will wear white aprons and print dresses.

The auditorium is free to anyone who would like to go. It will start at 7:30—Sonja Godwin, 4th Grade.

We are learning geometric figures. Here are some geometric figures we are learning: right angles, left angles, rectangles, triangles, vertical lines, parallel lines, circles, semi-circles and squares.

We like geometric figures very much because they are so interesting to study. Now we can describe objects around us. My notebook paper is a rectangular shape. It has parallel lines. It has two holes that are circles. The red margin line is a vertical line.—Godfrey Oakley, Jr., 4th Grade.

Class Plays Host To Their Employers

The members of the Greenville High School Distributive Education class were hosts last night to their bosses at the Red Oak church for the annual bosses' banquet. Over thirty employers and their workers were present for the turkey supper and the program which followed. (Reflecto photo by Roy Hardee).

Annual Meeting Of WCTU In Rocky Mount

The annual meeting of the fourth district of the North Carolina Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held in the First Baptist Church of Rocky Mount Tuesday, March 21.

Mrs. E. B. Garris of Goldsboro, district president, presided with Mrs. A. L. Whitley of Bethel, acting secretary in the absence of Mrs. H. E. Nickens of Rocky Mount.

After a very inspiring devotional by Mrs. Garris and the group singing "Faith of Our Fathers," the address of welcome was given by Mrs. R. V. Mattox, president of the Rocky Mount Union. The response was presented by Mrs. Frank Andrews of Goldsboro.

The morning session included reports and election of officers climaxed with an address by Mrs. L. E. Brown, of Charlotte, state WCTU president. Mrs. Brown spoke of the great work being done in other states emphasizing with many interesting illustrations and also stressing the need for an education program for children. Mrs. W. H. Causey, of Winston-Salem, state vice president and promotional and education secretary, spoke on the spiritual attitude of the union members.

Dr. L. E. Harris, minister of music of the First Baptist Church, sang "When Jesus Walked on Galilee" by Clara Edwards and "Open Gates of the Temple" by Knapp, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. M. A. Worthington.

Mrs. F. S. Miles of Greensboro was recognized for outstanding work she has done with young people. Mrs. Miles gave an outline of her work as secretary of the Loyal Temperance Legion.

In the afternoon Mrs. Causey conducted the workshop on training for leadership. The right kind of comic books for children were discussed. The duties after which a talk by Mrs. Frank Andrews was heard over Station WCEC.

Mrs. Fleming Hostess To Kings Daughters

The general monthly meeting of the Patient Circle of the King's Daughters met on Tuesday night, March 14 at eight o'clock at the home of Mrs. V. C. Fleming, Third Street, with Mrs. Nan Moore and Miss Ellen Proctor as assisting hostesses.

The meeting was opened by the Prayer of the Order by the president. Mrs. Irma Cobb Dunn had charge of the devotional. She gave a most inspiring talk on Bible study, its relations to our every day living, simple facts of the Bible that apply to our every day life, and a guide to everything that would make our lives worth while. The roll was called by the secretary with twenty-five members present and five new members reported. The treasurer's report was given, and reports from various committees.

Mrs. L. B. Fleming had charge of the program. She began with a poem "The Coming of Spring"—Spring, the time of promise, the time of new life, all these coming from God. Her talk was mostly on Indian work. A brief discussion regarding the future prospects of the home for the aged in Greenville was very encouraging.

All business disposed of, the meeting was then turned over to the hostesses for a social hour, during which time strawberry shortcake and after-dinner coffee was served.

Banks' Security Just Backfired

Albany, N. Y.—(AP) Sometimes banks can be too well-protected. Employees at the First Trust Company were locked in for 45 minutes after closing hours. A door that's supposed to keep burglars out wouldn't open for them from the inside.

In the nearby village of Chatham, bank customers were in tears when a short circuit in the bank's protective gas system flooded the place with tear-gas.

Air R.O.T.C. And Its Place In The World Of Today

Civilians In Uniform Train In Event Emergency Arises

By CADET WILLIAM T. LLOYD

ishly, they may destroy him. "While the world remains unsettled . . . and as long as our own security and the security of the free world require, we will maintain a strong and well-balanced defense organization."

put out wholehearted efforts to gain peace throughout the universe. Yet, there has been a tendency since World War II for the majority of Americans to ignore the security of their country. Every day someone is heard to say, "No one will bother us. We were victorious in the last war. The world wants peace. We are secure."

However, military authorities state that the world still lives in an age when war must be reckoned with as the "final arbiter of international differences."

High civilian officials contend that a large military establishment in time of peace is not compatible with the best interest of the nation. In view of this, it becomes increasingly necessary to rely upon a well-trained citizenry for military service in time of emergency.

Put Belief Into Practice
The Air Force R.O.T.C. unit at East Carolina Teachers College and Air Force R.O.T.C. units at 126 other colleges and universities throughout the United States, including the University of Hawaii, are setting forth to put into practice the belief that "John Doe, civilian" must be well-trained for military service in time of emergency. The University of North Carolina, N.C. State, and Duke, as well as East Carolina, all in North Carolina, are putting this belief into practice.

For the most part, the public, in this area, is ignorant of what an Air Force R.O.T.C. unit is. Some are confused because they see no jet planes buzzing in the skies of Pitt County; others look at it with frowned expressions and think it's just another way of drafting their youngsters.

Another reason is that the Air Force R.O.T.C. is a fairly new thing. There was no AFROTC prior to World War II.

The Air Force R.O.T.C. unit is set up by the Air Force to secure a continual supply of men as reserve officers for the Air Force.

Purpose of the Air Force reserve program is to select and train students who possess characters, intelligence, and sense of duty to become Air Force officers and responsible citizens.

Unit Organized In 1948
The unit at East Carolina was organized in the fall of 1948. It has been placed in a regular department of instruction at the college and is known as the Department of Air Science and Tactics. The unit receives college academic credits just as any other course of instruction.

At the beginning of an Air Force R.O.T.C. unit at East Carolina, there were 77 students total enrollment, 35 in the advanced class, and 42 in the basic group. In 1949, the number increased to 109 total enrolled, with 64 in the advanced class, and 45 in the basic group.

"The course of instruction given in the four-year period," says Colonel W. D. Brown, professor of Air Science and Tactics at East Carolina, "is invaluable."

"It is strictly up to the individual whether or not to take the course, but the advantages are so numerous, one can not afford to pass it up."

Wide Course Of Study
The basic Air Force R.O.T.C. course, given during the first two years of training, involves aeronautics (including aerodynamics, propulsion, weather, navigation) and a study of applied air power, courses in leadership and drill, geographical foundations of national power (study of aerial structure, climate boundaries, natural resources, war potential and national aspirations of the country), evolution of warfare and military problems of the United States.

The course of instruction includes no actual flight training. Emphasis is placed on aeronautical and allied subjects.

Specialization course in Administration and Supply receives major attention during the junior and senior years. The specialized study is concluded during the senior year together with a number of short subjects, such as military administration, military law and boards, military teaching methods, Air Force management, and career development.

Ample up-to-date equipment is furnished for all types of instruction, and the most progressive principles of visual education are incorporated in the textbooks, wall charts, mock-ups, and other training aids used in the various courses. Administrative and supply students are taught specific methods which deal with individual records, base administration, transportation property accounting, publications, and special administrative responsibilities.

Top Students Offered Regular Commission

Each year a certain number of the senior class are designated as "Distinguished Military Students." They are picked because of their high academic and military standings and because they have qualities of leadership and character. Once a student is on this list, he has the opportunity of applying for a regular commission in the Air Force. When a student's application is approved, he is commissioned in the Air Force upon his graduation with the same status as a graduate of the United States Military Academy.

If a graduate wants to fly and is physically qualified, he can apply for pilot training at Randolph Field, Texas. If he does not want to fly, he accepts a reserve commission in the Air Force and remains inactive until such a time as he is needed.

Cadets do not usually wear their uniforms, except during drill, but may wear them any time they please. Uniforms and textbooks are supplied by the government.

The junior year advanced course at East Carolina has already donated the new regulation Winter blue uniform of the Air Force.

Requirements

Requirements for a student to become a cadet in the U.S. Air R.O.T.C. are:

1. Be a male citizen of the United States.
2. Be physically qualified under standards prescribed by the Air Force. (Due allowance is made for defects which are correctable prior to the student's eligibility for appointment as a commissioned officer.)
3. Be accepted by the institution as a regularly enrolled student.
4. Be not less than 14 years of age and not have reached 23 years of age at time of enrollment.
5. Successfully complete such general survey and screening tests as may be prescribed.

Veterans who have accumulated at least six months of honorable active military service in World War II receive credit for the first year of the basic course. Veterans of twelve months service or more may receive credit for the two-year basic course, and enroll in the first year advanced course.

Not All Work

Many extra-curricula activities are carried on by the Air Force R.O.T.C. unit at East Carolina.

In the fall of each year, the Cadet Officers' Club, made up of members of the junior and senior advanced classes, sponsor an annual Military Ball, which is looked forward to by all the students at East Carolina.

The Air Force R.O.T.C. unit participates in many civic celebrations in Greenville such as parades, commencements, etc., and is frequently called upon to perform various other civic duties.

A newly formed rifle team, made up of members of the AFROTC unit, recently competed in the National Intercollegiate Rifle matches which included many other major colleges and universities.

Messick Endorses Program

In endorsing the Air Force R.O.T.C. program at East Carolina, President John D. Messick declares, "Government officials, college administrators, and others became keenly aware during and following World War II of the vital part played by higher educational institutions in the national defense structure of our nation. Close liaison has been maintained between the colleges and the Army, Navy, and Air Force."

"The Air Force R.O.T.C. unit on our campus has helped qualified young college men interested in the Air Force to receive commissions following graduation."

"The unit on the East Carolina campus has proved very effective. Through this instruction, young men learn poise, strength of character, mental alertness, and to assume responsibility. The total program is slanted more toward development of the personality, physical fitness, and academic training than toward militarism. We are glad to have this unit on our campus and have found the Air Force personnel most helpful and cooperative."

Strength FOR THE DAY

A MISERABLE BUSINESS
During the past war it was customary among different armies to change road signs in order that the invader or the pursuer might be thrown off the track.

Have you ever thought how many people there are today who are engaged in the miserable enterprise of changing road signs? The communists, for instance, are changing road signs, and a lot of sentimental and sometimes bitter and disappointed people are plunging down that mistaken highway. Skepticism is another road which many people are traveling. And the reason they are traveling that road is because in school and college they encountered a type of teacher who taught them that the old moralities were superstitions and all they had learned in godly homes was bunk. These teachers switched the road signs, and a lot of the youngsters are in the toils of bewilderment and bad habits as a result.

The highway which is natural for decent, right-thinking people to follow is more clearly marked than most of us are willing to admit. The wholesome customs of mankind, the teachings of the Bible, the sanctifying influence of the church, have succeeded in marking out that highway with such definiteness that one cannot miss it unless he wants to.

Watch out for the people who are changing the road signs.

YOUNGSTERS MAKE DEMOCRACY WORK

Democracy at work in the younger people of Eastern North Carolina was demonstrated in Greenville Friday as more than 100 high school students from 20 towns gathered for a student council congress.

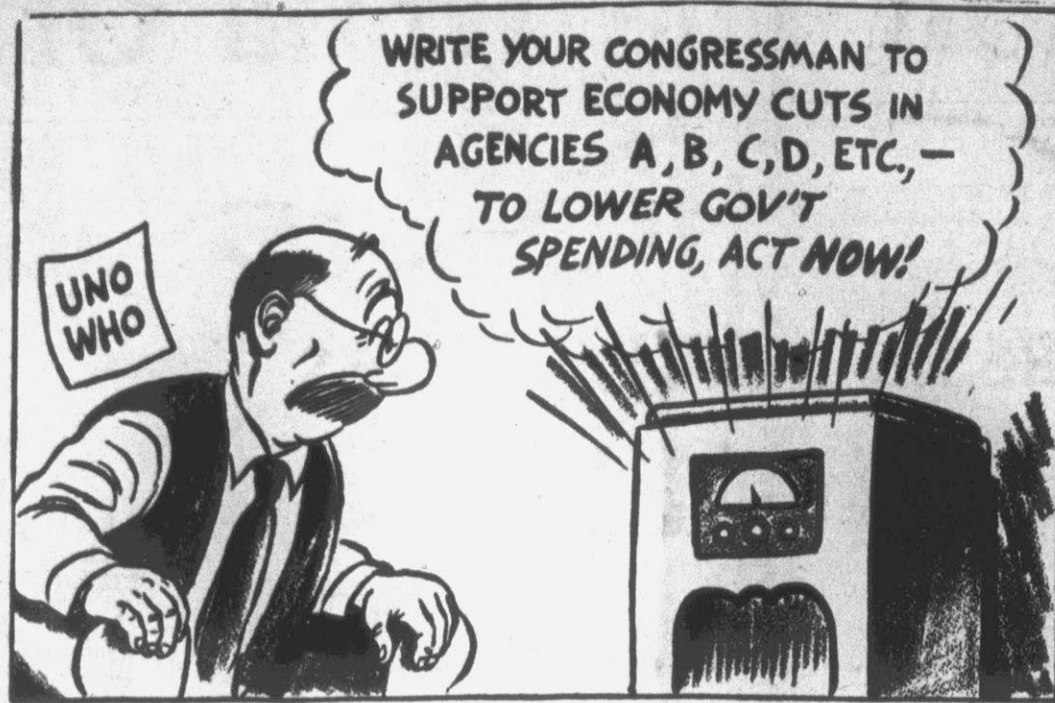

The delegates to the student congress discussed the problems which are confronting the self-governing high school student bodies throughout this part of North Carolina, and by these discussions profited from each others experiences.

The younger people are following in the footsteps of the adults in making democracy work in their day to day lives. In some ways, however, they seem to be reaching a higher pinnacle in practicing democratic principals than are the older people of the nation.

When the students got around to the politics of their brief congress, the campaigns were conducted on a high level, with the genuine qualifications of the candidates being the only issue involved. There were no slur campaigns, and no whisper campaigns directed at diverting attention from the real qualifications a particular candidate had to offer.

These young people will make the nucleus of the politically minded people of this state in the years to come. If they continue to cling to their present high standards of obtaining votes for their candidates, perhaps they will help bring about the reform which is sorely needed in the political campaigning for government positions in this nation today.

Whee! The People

TOMORROW LOOKS LIKE A NICE DAY

This is truly an age of wonders in which we live!

Put a mental check mark on the date of March 24, 1950, for on that day it was announced by a responsible scientist that aerial flight by atomic power was not only possible, but probable. The source even went so far as to estimate a practical test at a comparatively early date.

The importance of such a development rivals the first successful atomic explosion at Los Alamos. There, atomic energy was applied for use as a military weapon; and while atomic power may be initially used applied for military aircraft its eventual application to peaceful and beneficial purposes of transport will follow.

There are virtually limitless benefits for mankind in the harnessing of atomic power to meet the needs of the World of Tomorrow. That World of Tomorrow is already here in many aspects, but fortunate as we may be in our increased knowledge and application of science in the fields of medicine, transport, food production and power... we are only tasting crumbs of what the future has in store.

Just as the first flight of the Wright brothers at Kitty Hawk marked the beginning of a new era, and Edison's incandescent lamp brought new light to the world, so too, will the first flight of an atomic-powered aircraft turn a new page and start a new chapter in the history of mankind. The utilization of atomic power for transport will not be limited to the skies... such power can be implemented in many ways; and from what we have been told, application of this power to flight was the most difficult attainment of all.

We of today can have no true concept of what Friday's announcement entails for the bright future. Only our children, and our children's children will comprehend its true significance. And while we build for that future, we must prepare tomorrow's citizens for the role they will play "tomorrow."

It is a great and glorious task, this building for the future, and the responsibilities we bear are small as compared with the challenges to be faced by today's babes in arms. They must be ready to Somebody Told Me..

By L. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

How well do you keep up with world news? Or even national news? A sophomore of Mills College in Oakland, Calif., decided to survey her fellow students on world events. Her findings were a shock to the campus: of 100 girls, 70 said they had no idea what bi-partisan foreign policy is, 28 were "totally uninformed" about the Atlantic pact, 39 could not name the President of Argentina (one girl said "I don't know his name, but he has a pretty, young wife"), nine never read the papers and 56 just glanced over the headlines.

The Mills College Weekly regarded the survey with considerable alarm: "It costs our parents $1,800 a year plus transportation, clothes, allowance and incidentals to send us here to be educated. Educated for what? To become a nation of bridge and Canasta players?"

So much depends on that big question, "how's business?" that once in a while I investigate. This week's "Time" magazine reports good news. A good yard stick is the stock market. Last week blue-chip stocks went up as much as eight points and pushed the Dow-Jones industrial average to 208.09, the highest since June 1946.

"Time" says, "there was good reason for the bull-throated roar. Many companies were passing up bigger dividends, and earnings in general had held steady. But more important, the 8-year-long boom, after being prematurely buried time and again, was surging up bigger than ever in many segments of the economy."

Housing was a good example of the continued boom. In the first two months of 1950 around 160,000 new housing units were started, 60 per cent more than a year ago. Television manufacturers have set up their production to a level 18 per cent above last year. The automobile industry was still breaking all production records. The U.S. and Canada turned out 133,462 cars and trucks last week.

Despite the continued boom, there were still dark spots. Unemployment was way down to 4,684,000 in February as reported by the Department of Commerce. Easter shopping had also been disappointing for department stores; soft goods were moving so slowly that the textile mills saw trouble ahead.

But there was no let-up in the heavy sale of durable goods. Consumers had more money to spend. In January, the Department of Commerce said, personal income reached an annual rate of $212.9 billion, the highest in 12 months. The big question still remains, as far as you and I are concerned, How's business in Pitt County? Good, I'd say, considering the season of the year.

And I thank you. be a chance to pass and all 960,000 cars would have to move at the same speed—as set by the lead car in the state-long procession. Of course the cars are not equally distributed over state road mileage, and of course some drivers take chances on passing. That keeps repair garages, hospitals and undertakers in business.

INCOMPETENTS — Principal cause of the increasing traffic accident rate is bad driving. Most of the bad driving is due to carelessness or indifference, some of it is because the drivers just do not know how, cannot learn, or because of some physical handicap. In February for instance there were 2,195 persons who had old type driver licenses denied renewal, for following reasons: Signs, 618; eyes, 326; rules, 692; road test, 520; equipment, 39. During the same month, 2,778 new applicants were denied driving permits for the same reasons—although failure in road tests was responsible for a much larger share of the original failures. At that, 23,335 motorists were successful in obtaining licenses to operate cars on the highways of this state.

EXCESS — Excess speed and excess loads are causes of many accidents. During last month the theft bureau of the motor vehicles division stopped 3,509 trucks on the highways for various reasons. Of this number 488 were found to be overloaded. The highway patrol finds many overloaded trucks, despite the fact truck operators made tacit trade with the general assembly last year that if the load limit were upped they would stay within the law.

GAS—Rivalry among several pipe lines seeking to bring natural gas from the southwest into or through the Carolinas has gotten pretty hot. One phase of the question hasn't been widely publicized. That is the Piedmont pipe line is understood to have made tentative agreement to sell Duke Power Company gas for its steam generating plants. That looks like good business, but estimates are the Duke demands might amount to 90 percent of total volume of gas brought in, leaving very little for other industries. Railroad and coal interests are opposing the pipe line projects. Governor Scott and several state departments have filed pleas for favorable consideration of the Piedmont application.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
New York—(P)—I never knew how detestable the word "boss" was until my wife became one. I don't mean the first time—when we were married. I mean the second time, when she hired me a secretary. This indirectly made me a "boss," which is certainly a four-letter word any way you spell it. Actually my wife, Frances, is the real boss. But I can't make anybody else believe it.

It all began about a year ago when Frances came in and saw my cluttered desk top. It was a wastebasket, three-around-the-rapple wiscracks, letters from indignant readers (all signed "X"), a flag from Guatemala, a wellwused coconut demanding the admission of Hawaii as the 49th state, eight lumps of sugar and five used paper coffee containers.

"This is a disgrace," said Frances. "What do your employers say about it?"

"You know how employers are—just daylight wives." I made the mistake of replying, "They think it's a disgrace, too."

"What you need is a secretary," said Frances. Personally I would rather have had a dancing girl. But a couple of days later in strode the wife of a friend of mine, and I asked her, "Why, Laurie Wells, what are you doing here?"

"I'm your part-time secretary," she said. "Frances hired me." Well, if I have learned one thing from 12 years of marriage it is never to question what my friends say my wife said, so I took her at her word. In a day or two she had cleared off the debris. By then I was in the same situation as my employer. I had reached the peak of business efficiency. The old mess on top my desk, into which I could burrow and find anything I wanted, was ordered by filed inside my desk in so many confusing folders that Stanley could have spent his lifetime searching there without ever being able to find Dr. Livingstone.

Now when I ask for something, Laurie says, "Just a moment, boss," and disappears into the desk. Three hours later I go to lunch, and when I come back she has forgotten what she was looking for—and I have forgotten what I wanted. But, boy, it's a neat-looking desk.

The phone used to ring, and I'd say, "he's gone." Now when it rings Laurie answers and says, "yes, here he is." That has forced me to give up a lifelong belief that of every 10,000 phone calls a man gets only one is worth saying "hello" to.

When I pick up the phone myself, it isn't for me. An indignant female voice says, "why aren't the children of public school 41 getting pomegranates for lunch? I hear they are serving them at public school 1,312."

It turns out that she really wants Laurie. My "sec" is a P. T. A. president, and she is active in every good cause from the Society To Put More Cottages In Cottage Cheese to the Association For Equal Rights For Confederate Dollars. "Why don't you strike a blow more often for worthwhile things, boss?" asks Laurie. "You can make a better world!" Me with only one typewriter and worout ribbon Ah, if it were possible!

But she shouldn't call me "boss." That word revolts my whole nature. I don't want to control anything or boss anybody, myself included. I want everything to be absolutely free. I dislike the exercise of power so much that I wouldn't put a mthball in a drawer and tell it how many hours to stay on duty.

Laurie — "my sec" — is a wonderful, great-hearted, sweet-faced mother who has lived up to the desk I labor from a great deal. Her smile kindles up the joint.

But she shouldn't call me "boss." I know my place—just the friend of the husband of my wife's office wife.

Voice Concern On Missing Man

Raleigh, N. C., March 25—(P)—Concern over the absence of Ray Reeve, well-known sports announcer, has been expressed by officials of radio station WRAL.

They said Reeve was last seen when he checked out of a Fayetteville hotel on March 16. They added that since then police agencies over "we have asked the state bureau of investigation to probe fully the possibility of foul play."

Free On Charges Of Unjustified Punishment

Beverly Hills, Calif., March 25—(P)—Lora Lee Mivneh's foster mother was free today of a charge of unjustified punishment of the nine-year-old child actress.

A justice court jury of eight women and four men returned a verdict of innocent last night after more than seven hours deliberation.

Mrs. Lorraine Michel shed a few tears of relief when she heard the foreman announce the verdict. About 30 persons who had awaited the jury's decision cheered. They almost smothered Mrs. Michel and her husband, Ott, 61-year-old cotton buyer, with congratulations.

Mrs. Michel, 55, said they might take Lora Lee to Europe for a three months vacation trip.

KILLED IN MINE

Berlin, March 25—(P)—The U. S. high commission newspaper Neue Zeitung claimed today that 29 workers were killed when a soviet-controlled uranium mine in Saxony flooded several days ago.

The U. S. Bureau of Land Management says about 116,000,000 acres of public land is unsurveyed in continental U. S.

Will Call India By Its New Name
Karachi, Pakistan—(AP)—Pakistan newspapers have announced that henceforth they will call India by its new name, "Bharat." The new Indian constitution adopted "Bharat" as an alternate name to India. But "India" continues to be used in English while Indian language newspapers and books use "Bharat" or "Hindustan."
Pakistan previously has objected to India's continued use of the old name after partition. M. A. Jinnah, founder of Pakistan, preferred always to say "Hindustan," even in English. Pakistan Prime Minister Liaquat Khan recently has referred to India as "Bharat" in his public statements.

Radio Patent To Edison In 1871
New York—(AP)—The records indicate that what might be termed the "first radio broadcasting patent" in this country was issued to Thomas A. Edison on Dec. 29 1871.
His application, granted as patent No. 465,971, said: "Signaling between distant points can be carried on by induction without the use of wires connecting such distant points." This is an apt description of today's method of radio transmission.
"This is The Place" monument, just east of Salt Lake City, is where Brigham Young decided he and his Mormon followers would end their westward trek and settle in 1847.

WHERE THE CHURCH IS THERE'S LIGHT!

If you are living your life and bringing up your family without any Church connection, here is a question worth considering.

Have you ever noticed how a Church—no matter how unpretentious—seems to light up the spot on which it stands?

Somehow one feels more comfortable, more contented, when looking at a Church. It speaks words of reassurance. Its very presence breathes hope.

You are not religious, you say? Even so, the Church at the side of the road makes the way brighter. It lends dignity and safety. It is a place where everyone is welcome in time of trouble.

No doubt you will admit that this is all true. Then why not go farther? Take an active interest in the institution whose mission it is to carry light into dark corners and bring hope to heavy hearts!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Twelve Title Bouts Carded For Tonight's Ring Finale

Second Annual Pitt County Amateur Boxing Tournament Closes Tonight With Twenty-Four Ringmen Gaining Final Round

By BILL LLOYD
Twelve thrilling title matches will be decided in tonight's finals of the second annual Pitt County Amateur boxing tournament being held in East Carolina's Wright gymnasium.

First bout tonight gets underway at 8 p.m.
Seven fighters from Belvoir, three from Winterville, two each from Greenville, Bell Arthur, and Ayden and one from Grimesland reached tonight's finals in the seventeen semi-final bouts held last night.

A larger turnout for the fights last night, sponsored by the Carolina Athletic Department under the direction of Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, saw plenty of action which was featured by two knockouts.

Wallace Conway, heavyweight defending champion from Greenville, added to his ring laurels with a knockout over George Ross of Grimesland in 50 seconds of the second round.

Getting things under way with a bang, Glimmer Craft of Ayden and Leland Evans of Winterville started slow with the real action warming up in the second round. The two mosquito-weighters staged a real mix-up with both fighters landing repeated blows to the head. Evans gained the judges' decision by a narrow one-point margin.

McEroy-Thomas
The first round saw Robert Thomas of Belvoir in pursuit of Billy McEroy, Grimesland contender. Thomas took the second round with punches to the head and repeated clinching by McEroy. The final round was all Thomas; getting in a number of solid blows to the head and body. The mosquito-weight bout went to Thomas.

Blount-Arthur
Two little 70-pounders from Greenville stole the show in the third bout, as both boys banged away at each other from the first sound of the bell. Blount gained the decision in the final round as he showed a bit more than the game Arthur.

Eason-Sutton
In the paperweight division, Abner Eason of Greenville and Jimmy Sutton of Bell Arthur banged out a battle royal. Freckle-faced Sutton went into Eason fast. The decision went to Sutton as he was aggressive all the way.

Hunt-Briley
James Hunt of Grimesland and Walter Briley of Belvoir gave the fans just what they wanted in the lightweight match, as both sluggers whammed away at each other from the sound of the first bell to the final bell ending the match. Hunt kept up his onslaught to the head and body of Briley in the third round, and dodged Briley's blows with a ducking and weaving motion, to gain the bout decision.

Teel-Sutton
Tall Charles Sutton from Bell Arthur continued his winning ways in the tournament as he gained a decision over Earl Teel of Grimesland. Using his arm length to an advantage, Sutton was the aggressor throughout the fight, landing several blows to the head of Teel.

Mozingo-Langley
Floyd Langley, flyweight from Belvoir, won in the exchange of blows with L. B. Mazingo of Bell Arthur. Gaining momentum in the final round, Langley gained the judges' decision with his aggressiveness.

Hathaway-Watson
Two Belvoir boxers squared off in the other flyweight match, with Melvin Hathaway gaining the decision over his school buddy, William Watson. The fight was close down to the final round with both lads swapping hard blows continuously.

Hancock-Hathaway
Getting into the heavier divisions, Lynwood Hancock of Belvoir battled fiercely with Jerry Hancock in the Bantamweight class, with Hathaway landing hard head and body blows against Hancock. Hathaway gained the decision by a very close margin.

Hammill-Dennis
Ayden's Curtis Dennis used a straight left jab effectively in his featherweight match with J. C. Hammill of Belvoir to gain his division win.

Jones-Bright
First of the two knockouts of the night came when Leighton Jones of Winterville KO'ed Robert Bright of Belvoir in 40 seconds of the second round. In the opening round Bright gained a one-point margin. However, Jones made quick work of the Belvoir pouter in the second round as he connected with a hard right to the head of Bright that sent the Belvoir fighter down for the count.

McEroy-Hathaway
Lightweight contender Howard Hathaway from Belvoir received a wide margin decision over Jack McEroy of Grimesland in the twelfth bout of the evening.

Baker-Moore
In the best slugging fight of the night, Joe Baker of Winterville outslugged Alfred Moore of Belvoir in a thrilling lightweight clash. Moore put Baker against the ropes several times. Baker countered with hard blows that sent Moore to the mat for the count of five in the second round. Baker gained the decision by a very close margin.

Manning-Edwards
A rapid swinging Wes Manning of Belvoir gained a decision over Bob Edwards from Patachus in the welterweight division.

Conway-Ross
Walloping Wally Conway, defending champion from Greenville, made quick work of George Ross of Grimesland in the second round after the two boys had slugged it out during the first round, Conway

Rising Stars

New York, March 25—(AP)—The improving young tennis players—Fred Kovaleski of Hamtramck, Mich., and Althea Gibson, a New York Negro girl—were the ones to watch in today's singles finals of the national indoor championships.

The 25-year-old Kovaleski, seeded fifth in the indoor, last night sprang the upset of the tournament by ousting top-seeded Billy Talbert of New York, third-ranking star in the country and a Davis Cup player, in a five-set semifinal, 7-9, 3-6, 7-5, 6-2, 6-3.

Kovaleski was to meet another veteran, third-seeded Don McNeill of Bellerose, N.Y., in the final today.

Close Battle In Swimming Event

Columbus, O., March 25—(AP)—Yale and Ohio State snuggled closer than a swimmer's ankles today in the battle for team honors in the 27th annual NCAA swimming championships.

The Ohioans led by eight points as the meet moved into its third and final day—but take the word of coach Mike Peppe that doesn't mean a thing.

"I think the team tie is going to hinge on the last event—the 300-yard medley relay," said the jaunty Bucky coach.

Ohio State owned 31 points at the end of yesterday, principally because of the individual brilliance of sophomore freestyler Jackie Taylor and Bruce Harlan, the Olympic diving champion.

Yale had 23 points, principally because of a raft of speedy free-style swimmers who swept one-two in the 200-yard freestyle and combined for first place and 12 points in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

A 19-year-old sophomore from Princeton all but buried the team tie race last night with a new NCAA meet record in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Robert Brawner swam the bouncing breaststroke race in 2:14.2—four-tenths second under the old mark set by Joe Verduer of LaSalle (Philadelphia) in 1948.

Russ Meyer Is 'Right' Again

Clearwater, Fla., March 25—(AP)—Manager Eddie Sawyer felt years younger today as he sent his Philadelphia Phillies against the Boston Braves. Why?

Pitcher Russ Meyer, chipped elbow and all, pitched five innings yesterday and allowed five hits and one run as the Phillies walloped the Washington Senators 13 to 3. Only a week ago it had been feared Meyer—a 17-game winner last year—would be out for half the season with a fractured elbow. The slim pitcher said he felt fine after the game and that the elbow didn't bother him.

Castoff Pitcher Shows Up Well

Miami, Fla., March 25—(AP)—Bill McCahan, a Philadelphia Athletics castoff, felt more confident today that he'll stick with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The veteran righthander was hampered by an ailing arm the last couple of seasons with the A's and was now trying to make the grade with Burt Shotton's squad. He made his second appearance of the exhibition game series yesterday and allowed only one hit in three innings as Brooklyn smothered Mobile, 10-2.

Joe DiMaggio Is Back In Lineup

Miami, Fla., March 25—(AP)—Joe DiMaggio, the New York Yankees biggest bomber, is back in the lineup and apparently none the worse for a charley horse that made him rest a week.

Joe scampared around for half of yesterday's 10-6 loss to Detroit, showing no effects of the pulled leg muscle. He smacked two flies that were caught by Tiger outfielders and got a walk with the bases loaded.

Blackwell Ready To Turn On Heat

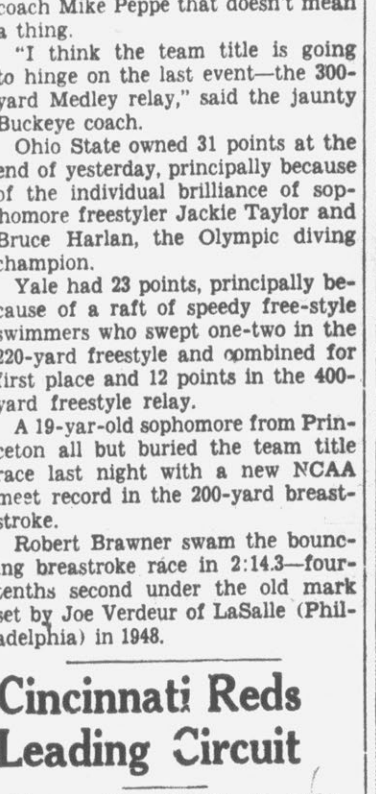

Tampa, Fla., March 24—(AP)—Ewell Blackwell says he's ready to "turn on the heat."

Defending Champion Scores A Knockout

Defending Champion, Wallace Conway, of Greenville made fast work of George Ross of Grimesland, in the semi-finals of the Pitt county boxing tourney held last night as he sent a hard right to Ross's jaw for the knockout in 50 seconds of the second round. Ross lies stretched out for the count while his trainer looks glumly on. (Reflector photo by Roy Hardee).

Provide Example Of Rugged Tournament

Two of the 34 fighters taking part in the semi-final rounds of the Pitt county boxing tourney last night, which will end tonight in the Wright auditorium, were caught by the photographer as they exchanged blows, with one of the lads seeming to be coming out on the short end of the deal. Cincinnati Reds Leading Circuit

Tampa, Fla., March 25—(AP)—Don't look now, but the Cincinnati Reds, recent perennial dust-eaters of the National League, are leading the pack in the Florida Grapefruit circuit.

They moved into the No. 1 spot at Sarasota yesterday by thumping the Boston Red Sox, 8-2, for their eighth victory in 12 training contests.

Potential Trade

Bradenton, Fla., March 25—(AP)—A possible trade may be brewing between the Boston Braves and the St. Louis Cardinals. Owners Fred Saigh of the Cards and Lou Perini of the Braves and their managers went into a long huddle yesterday after the Tribe belted three St. Louis pitchers for an 11-1 victory.

Waco, Tex., March 25—(AP)—Joe Louis acts like he'll try to come back as heavyweight boxing champion of the world, talks like he will, and tonight may actually announce that he will.

"Joe Louis is retired right now," he said yesterday at Austin, Tex., "tomorrow night—we don't know." Louis retired as undefeated heavyweight champion. Ezzard Charles became his successor.

But the former champion has flirted with a comeback ever since he quit. Tonight he winds up an extensive exhibition tour. After this last exhibition, he says, he'll say whether he really means to come back.

Reporters yesterday pinned Louis down on practically everything but "Yes, I am coming back."

Louis Acts Like He May Begin Comeback Tonight

The former champion admitted he is considering an offer to tour Canada with the Dalley Brothers Circus (at a reported fee of $1,000 a day which Louis says is "about right.") He said this tour would end in plenty of time for him to train for a fight with Charles in New York in late September. The champion said, yes, he'd like to meet Charles then.

"I think a comeback to win the championship would be as great an honor as retiring undefeated. Nobody has ever done that," Louis said. Money may be a block to any Charles-Louis fight.

"I wouldn't take less than 35 per cent" of the gate, Louis bluntly said.

Black Ian Walks Again

By Florence Kerrigan

Chapter 6

"Tell me about it," said Iris, and her face had whitened.

"My daughter Maggie was stayin' late the night. They were given a party at the big house and Maggie had to be there bringin' and fetchin' in. She comes home off late and naebody's e'er troubled her at all. But last night she crossed the bridge and thought she saw Jack, her young man, come to fetch her there. Then she saw a man in outlandish clothes like the men wear in the family portraits in the castle. Maggie, she gave a wild shriek and ran for home. She said the man stood and laughed. So I thought it best to be comin' to ye, since 'twas in the family, like—Black Ian an' all."

"Black Ian is just a superstition, Mrs. MacLeod," Iris said, gently. "It was no doubt one of the village boys dressed up to play a trick on someone."

Mrs. MacLeod's face brightened. "Now that never occurred to me," she said. "After what Big Angus has been sayin'—"

"... hat has Big Angus been sayin'?" Iris encouraged.

"Oh, he's been sayin' for the past week he's walkin' again. Sword and big hat and boots, he says. 'Course Big Angus spends too much time at the tavern and drinks enough to fuddle his wits so nobody pays too much mind to him."

"I'm sure your daughter was the victim of a harmless joke, most likely," soothed Iris.

She drew Mrs. MacLeod off in the direction of the kitchen where I know she departed in a few moments with a present for her pains.

Iris came back to me with an attempt at a smile, but evidently saw something in my face which drove the smile away.

"What's the matter?" she whispered.

"Where's Greg?" I countered.

"Around somewhere. Why, what's happened?"

"Do you know a man," I began, trying to break it to her gently, "swart, thickset, tall, with a jagged scar on his left cheek?"

Iris thought. "I don't seem to place him, why?"

I saw Greg coming downstairs and decided to wait and tell him also.

He halted me with a laugh. "Did I walk last night?" he exclaimed. "I found myself in bed all right this morning, but my boots were covered with red clay, and I had cleaned them before I went to bed! How's that for wasted effort?" He looked at me. "You look as if you'd seen a ghost," he said. "What's up?"

"There's no red clay around the castle," I said, swallowing hard and feeling a little sick at the thought of the clay on the dead man's boots.

"No," said Greg. "There's red clay at the bridge, though—the only place near here that I know of."

"And—on a dead man's boots—" I gasped, and sat down suddenly.

"What?" cried Iris and Greg together.

"Down in the cove," I said, looking at Greg. "A man with a jagged scar on his left cheek."

"Did he go over the cliff?" breathed Iris.

Greg patted her arm. "Better go lie down, Iris. Hugh and I will see what we can do." In truth, Iris looked the way I felt—sick, frightened, and horrified, all at once.

It was all I could do to force myself to follow Greg through the panel and down the Smugglers' Stairway again to the cove.

"Don't recall anyone of that description," said Greg, as we went along. "Sure he was dead, Hugh?"

"Yes," I said. "There were two full inches of Florentine dagger in his back when I pulled him up to shore."

We went along the corridor, past the heavy doors and into the cave. The sun had broken through the fog, and reflections of its light on the waves made dancing ripples on the walls.

"I drew him up out of reach of the waves," I explained. "I know the body shouldn't have been touched until Scotland Yard men—" I broke off and stared at the spot where I had left the body. It was not there!

It was not anywhere in the cave. I looked out to sea, shading my eyes with my hand, but saw no floating body on the outgoing tide. It had vanished completely.

Greg and I looked at each other.

"I left it right there," I said stupidly, staring at the sandy floor. Then I noticed something. The bottom of the boat which had been drawn up inside the cave, high and dry out of reach of the waves, was wet. It had been out on the sea since I had left the cave!

"But you'll—send for the police?" I asked.

Greg thought a moment. "Police have an annoying habit of wanting to see the corpus delicti," he said. "In fact, I'm not sure that you can prove a murder has been done unless you can produce the body. No, I don't think we'd better do anything. Unless, of course, someone is missing in the village answering to that description."

I looked at him, puzzled. He did not seem at all concerned. In fact, he seemed a little amused.

"Do you think I'm playing a joke on you?" I demanded hotly. "I tell you, I saw a body with a knife in its back!"

Greg laid a hand on my arm in much the same fashion that he had touched Iris, up in the library.

"Hugh, I haven't said anything before because I haven't wanted to alarm you. You are in a weird place. It doesn't do to believe everything you think you see in Castle Quayle!"

Boy With A Water Gun Trapped

Police officers at East Point, Ga., say they trapped this 16-year-old Negro boy trying to open a safe in an auto repair shop—and he was armed only with a water pistol (arrow). The youngster gave his name as W. C. Weaver. Officers C. L. Lee (left) and Kenneth Stephens (right) say the youth is showing how he tried to cut through the safe door with an acetylene torch. The owner of the shop said the safe held about $300. (AP Photo).

Hicks Convicted Of Damage Plot

Charlotte, N.C., March 25—(AP)—A jury last night convicted Sterling L. Hicks of conspiracy to damage property in an attempt to dynamite the transmitting tower of radio station WBT here.

He was sentenced to 18 to 34 months imprisonment and released in $1,500 bond pending appeal. Hicks, former WBT technician, had been fired three months before the alleged bombing attempt.

The Mecklenburg County Superior Court jury acquitted him of a felony charge in a two-count indictment, conspiracy to damage property with explosives. Conviction of the felony count would have made possible a sentence of up to 15 years.

The jury was out one hour. Chesley M. (Chud) Lovell, Columbia, S.C., house painter and cook, also had been indicted on the two counts. He pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence. Judge Harold K. Bennett also sentenced him to 18 to 24 months.

The 435-foot steel tower outside Charlotte was not damaged. Police said they had been tipped off, removed the dynamite cache, and trapped Lovell near the tower last January.

New Warnings Of Blue Mold

Raleigh, N.C., March 25—(AP)—Renewed warnings to take steps against blue mold have been sent to Tar Heel tobacco growers in the wake of new advances of the disease.

Blue mold now has been found as far north as Wake County and as far west as Hoke. It was reported yesterday at N.C. State College.

The early appearance of the disease, and predictions of below-normal temperatures and heavy rainfall for the next month, prompted college officials to warn that a severe epidemic of blue mold may develop.

Local Group To Visit Planetarium Today

Over eighty students from the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church left this morning for Chapel Hill, where they will visit the Morehead planetarium, after a brief stop at Duke University.

The group left Greenville about eight o'clock in private cars, and will return tonight. They were accompanied by the director of Christian Education, Miss Rouse.

The farmers of the community were contacted; and yesterday afternoon at 1:30, 11 tractors, some operated by their owners and some operated by other men of the community, roared into Haddock's fields and broke the ground in 25 acres of land. Before 5 o'clock the job was finished, and the men pulled their tractors up beside the New Bern highway where the Reflector photographer snapped their picture.

The men expressed satisfaction at their work as they looked back over the field when the job was completed. As one of them said, "It makes you feel mighty good to know you live in a community where your neighbors will do something like this for you." Another added, "We'll never miss the time it took us to do it, and none of us ever can tell when the time will come that we'll need somebody to do the same thing for us."

Yesterday's plowing project, however, was not the first one of its kind to be undertaken by the men of Community Chapel. Last year they took time from their own work to do a similar chore for Elbert Stokes.

Taking part in the project yesterday afternoon were: Fred Haddock's tractor driven by Iver Lee Haddock; C. P. Stokes' tractor driven by Guy Evans; Luke Page's tractor driven by Luke Page; Miss Ada Hardee's tractor driven by T. J. Cox; S. T. Porter's tractor driven by E. J.

Class Is Host To Employers At Friday Banquet

The members of the Greenville High School Distributive Education were the hosts to their employers last night at a banquet held in the Red Oak church about three miles from Greenville on the Farmville highway.

About thirty bosses and their employees were on hand for the banquet, consisting of turkey and all the trimmings, followed by a musical program and salesmanship sketch.

The invocation was given by Mac Crawford, and the welcome was given on the part of the students by Joyce Buck. Mrs. Herman Nobles gave the response on the part of the bosses present.

Jake Standley served as master of ceremonies.

A duet composed of Arlene McKell and Ellen Earle Sawyer, sang

"Forever and Ever." A double quartet made up of members of the class sang "I've Been Working on the Railroad." Lorraine Hines gave the emcees dream in verse telling of the qualities which an employer desires in a worker.

After the supper, Barbara Smith gave a recitation.

The group then joined in singing several songs which were led by J. H. Rose.

Light Damage In Cleaners' Fire

Greenville firemen were called yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock to the Suburban cleaners when the boiler set fire to the building.

Damage was confined to a small area and did not reach the main portion of the cleaning department nor a billiard room which adjoined the building.

Firemen using a booster line from the small truck brought the blaze under control, although a large hose was stretched as a safe-guard against the blaze spreading.

Says Discovery Of Penicillin Was 'Pure Luck'

Baltimore, March 25—(AP)—Sir Alexander Fleming last night ascribed the discovery of penicillin which brought him the 1945 Nobel peace prize to "pure luck."

The grey-haired Scotsman told an audience at the Johns Hopkins University school of hygiene and public health the only important part he had played in discovering the powerful, germ-killing drug was that "I noted something."

"It was pure luck that a culture plate of staphylococci got contaminated with some mold spores, and it did something to the staphylococci which was very unusual," Fleming continued.

"There are thousands of molds, but this happened to be the right one. There are thousands of bacteria, but this happened to be the right one."

"I might have been in a bad temper and missed it."

ABC Officers Assist In Raid On Liquor Still

Pitt County ABC Officers J. M. Ward and Claude Manning assisted Beaufort County ABC Officers Clyde Stubbs and Francis Eddings Friday afternoon in the seizure of a 50-gallon copper "pot" type still contained in the Mallison town section of Beaufort County and arrested Lindsey Lee Lodge, Negro, of the same section.

The still, together with 150 gallons of mash and five gallons of fresh made spirits, was destroyed along with other equipment.

Lodge was given a hearing before U.S. Commissioner Buck Taylor in Washington this morning and released under $300 bond pending U.S. District Court in April.

ABC officers of the two counties often work together in trying to stamp out the flow of illegal whiskey as booze made in the adjoining counties often finds its way into Pitt County, Ward said.

Offers Apology

Raleigh, N. C., March 25—(AP) Highway Patrol Commander C. R. Tolar said today he went to Chocowinity last night and apologized to the widow of the man whose funeral he disturbed.

Col Tolar said he offered his verbal apologies to Mrs. O. E. Moore and also presented her a letter of apology that he wrote yesterday.

Revival Service To Close Sunday

Most Fateful . . .

(Continued from Page 1) dirt over us. I don't know what Phil was thinking, but in the split second as that shell landed I wondered vaguely what it was going to be like to be blown to pieces. It was purely an academic appraisal.

This was followed instantaneously by realization that the shell hadn't exploded on contact as it was supposed to do. I looked up at Phil and he looked at me. With one accord we jumped out of the shell hole onto the skyline and ran for the back of the hill.

The Germans spotted us and clamped a barrage around us. Things were hot, and our emotions certainly were those of unhappiness and self-preservation.

The shell which landed in our hide-out was the only dud the enemy threw in our vicinity that day.
