The Training School team being especially effective with men on bases. Education For Citizenship Discussed At Luncheon Meeting

Mrs. Harold Stone, 1st vice president of the League of Woman Voters of the United States, and Mrs. Walters of Chapel Hill, orator for N.C. and president of the Chapel Hill League of Woman Voters, discussed "Education for Citizenship" with 25 Greenville women at a luncheon at the Woman's Club arranged by their International Relations Committee Study Group.

Since many felt that Greenville needs a league, a brief resume of Mrs. Stone's talk will be given—
Organization: The League of Woman Voters has done well with small neighborhood groups of mothers, small business, professional, factory, nurses, or other units. These units meet every two weeks in homes or wherever convenient, sending one of their number to the monthly Town League meeting. The Town League sends a delegate to the state and national conventions held each spring.

Each member pays $3.00 annual dues and the Town League sends $25.00 to the State League (the six North Carolina leagues are organizing a State League now) or to the National League.

The National League handles a budget of millions and maintains a research department, which, by the way, is consulted often on legislation by our congressmen and even the Supreme Court justices. The National Board prepares directions and studies for organization, prints literature on current bills which they back, and sends speakers to the local groups. The League of Woman Voters is strictly non-partisan.

Objectives: The purpose of the League is, first, to teach citizenship through actually working in the local community; second, to interest women in state, national, and international affairs through the number and backing of a limited number of Senate and House bills so that women will know how to express their desires to their elected representatives on any bills in which they are interested.

A league is provisional for one year and must prove itself by completing some such project as preparing hand books on the local government; interviewing the local officers, learning their duties, salaries, etc. and finding ways of helping them to gain the cooperation of all citizens, etc.; some leagues are helping with the new N.C. registration requirements and are working for a 100 percent registration.

Greenville has many women's organizations which have committees on citizenship, legislation, and international relations. Do we need another organization covering the same ground?

Mrs. Stone says that the League is a "sharper tool" because it deals only with government. Mrs. Ruth Meeks, president of Business and Professional Women's Club, says "Yes, we need a League to give us

Christianity In Japan Is Gaining

Tokyo, March 26—(AP)—Several hundred missionaries are trying to convert the 82,000,000 Japanese to Christianity. Fewer than 400,000 have openly accepted Christianity so far, church figures indicate, but missionaries regard Japan as a prom-ising field.

There is rivalry to win converts, since an outstanding Japanese brought into one fold or another brightens the prospects for getting others.

Both Catholics and Protestants have regained their prewar strength according to latest avail-able figures.

Membership in the Roman Cat-holic Church was 119,224 in 1940. The various Protestant churches claimed an aggregate membership of 200,000.

Membership and open adherence to Christianity dropped seriously during the war because, according to Japanese, "Christianity was as unpopular as pacifism" under the war lords.

But by virtue of stepped-up mis-sionary activity after the war, Christianity gained back its losses and in some cases exceeded its old membership. In 1949 the Catholics claimed membership of more than 138,388 and the Protestants claim-ed 201,321.

Winterville Scouts Take Top Honors In Fun-O-Ree

Scout troop 200 of Winterville walked away with first place and a prize of a signal set at the fun-o-ree held in the high school gym Sat-urday night for the scouts of the Pitt county district. The troop scored 39 points.

Taking second place in the total scoring for the evening's eight ath-letic events was troop 225 of Green-ville with 24 points. The troop re-ceived a hatchet as second place award. In third place was troop 33 with 20 points. A compass was pre-sented the troop as the third place award.

The mill owners are going to have to pay with dollars for whatever American cotton they get. At this time, according to the department's men, Mao's government is exerting all kinds of devious pressures on the mill owners to make them use their hoarded dollar reserves to buy cotton in the United States.

Approximately 75 scouts from sev-en troops in the district partici-pated in the evening's events which in-cluded various relay games. The scoring was done on a basis of troop participation.

Besides the three troops taking top places in the fun-o-ree, the re-sults of the program show: troop 185 in fourth place with 16 points, troop 36 and troop nine tied for fifth place with 14 points each, and troop 30 in seventh place with seven points. The results of the fun-o-ree by events:

Stick relay: first, troop 200; sec-ond, troop 30, third, troop 9, troop 185.

Paper relay race: each troop par-ticipating awarded two points.

Sack race: troop 36, troop 33, troop 185.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY THE SIMPLE BUT DRAMATIC Gen. George C. Marshall, in a recent address, described his constant striving, in his early career as a teacher of soldiers, to get the simple yet dramatic way of presenting the lesson. His success in that effort is a matter of record. He learned that clear understanding and simple language go together.

Again, not the least of Jesus' effectiveness as a teacher lies in the simplicity and vividness of his examples and parables. Socrates was clear, and full of wit, and so we hold him great. Moral truths can always be dramatized so that even the unlettered will get the point. Witness the Ten Commandments or the Sermon on the Mount. Few of us can plead ignorance if we run afoul of the moral law. On the other hand, scientific, economic, or political matters often than not need a specialist's education for their comprehension. In matters scientific it may be impossible to simplify or dramatize.

SPORTSMANSHIP IS WHAT COUNTS We aren't absolutely sure how all the other counties of the United States stack up, but the Reflector is willing to assert that during the past month Pitt county has had about as many sports tournaments for school kids as any other county in the country.

During the closing days of February and the first three weeks of March Pitt county has been the scene of no less than six distinct basketball tournaments and one boxing tournament. And the tournaments have included boys and girls of practically all school ages. Of course there were fine exhibitions of basketball and boxing ability in each of the tournaments, but most impressive of all, we think, has been the sportsmanship evidenced by the participants in the tournaments. The participants almost without exception have shown clean, hard-driving play without resorting to underhand methods of winning their contests. On the whole, the sportsmanship of the spectators has been almost as fine as that exhibited by the participants in the tournaments. The only flare-ups in the stands occurred in the Northeastern Conference tournament, and the spectators concerned were from communities outside Pitt county.

Athletics for growing boys and girls is a method of teaching cooperation and fair play which is difficult to surpass. The Reflector is proud of the conduct the boys and girls of Pitt county have shown in the various contests; and we hold to the saying, it matters not whether one wins or loses, but how he plays the game.

KEEP POLITICS OUT OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS

A number of senators, of Republican persuasion, are out to "scalp" Secretary of State Dean Acheson. The belaboring of Secretaries of State has been something of a favorite pastime among those august gentlemen... and their pointed criticisms have been indirectly and directly responsible for the rapid turnover in that office since World War II.

The most unfavorable aspect of the coming attacks is the mixing of politics with an administrative branch of government that should be above partisan quarrels, the conduct of American foreign affairs. Dean Acheson has long labored in the fields of diplomacy and his training is peculiarly well adapted to meet the requirements of his position. No one questions his personal honesty, his loyalty or his ability. Acheson's clear thinking and clear analysis of current affairs have earned him the profound respect and admiration of those who have been in contact with him.

It would be extremely difficult to hold him responsible for our admitted setbacks in the cold war. He has fought with the weapons at hand: above-board dealings with friends and foes. He has used every reasonable recourse to seek an understanding and peace, to no avail. For Mr. Acheson was not dealing with governments who used the same standards of right and wrong, of honor and dishonor.

The course he has outlined for America's future relations with Russia and her satellites recognizes them for what they are. He cannot resort to gangster methods in the field of international relations, for American policymakers are bound by tradition, public opinion and their own beliefs in honor and goodwill among nations. If a better, more realistic approach is at hand, we'd all like to hear it. But for the present, let's keep politics confined to domestic affairs. The field of international relations is already complicated enough without adding the impediments of partisan bickering.

Somebody Told Me..

About a year ago today Wife Rachel and I set up housekeeping in Greenville. We rented an apartment and one night I was getting our ducks in a row for moving in while W.R. was attending a hen party. J. D. and Marguerite Wilson live next door, and on that particular night Marguerite was at choir practice. J. D. and I had known each other for years, because he was in the same class in high school with my sister, Mabel. "Come on over," J. D. hollered from next door. "Have a piece of cake." In all due respect to the best cook in town, Wife Rachel, I know that was the best coconut cake I had ever eaten. "Marguerite certainly is a good cook," I admitted. "I baked this cake," J. D. answered quickly. "As I said before I have been knowing J. D. for years and therefore I knew he was telling the truth. Nevertheless, the story needed a little clarification. "You baked this cake?" I asked. "What's the deal? Do you work all day and practice cooking all night?" "Nope," J. D. explained. "You see, I work for General Foods and sell Swansdown Instant cake mix. It's a new product that I'm introducing next week, so I gave it a try. You can't sell this stuff unless you know how to use it." J. D. went on to say that it is nothing unusual for a housewife to catch him in a customer's grocery store and pin him down about one of his products. "But I usually have a comeback," he said, "because I've used the product myself." By this J. D. had me convinced that he's a champion cook, but then I found out how the cake is made: add milk to the mix and beat 750 times. Of course the icing brings on more talk. Last week J. D. was back at his old tricks of baking cakes. This time it was a new cake mix, Devil's food, and it was even better than the coconut.

By LYNN NISBET MORALE—The word "morale" has come into common usage within recent years. Most people know what it means even if they cannot give the dictionary definition. Morale is good or bad, high or low. That means things in general are working out all right or they are getting bogged up. The office dictionary defines morale thusly: "That mental state which renders a man capable of endurance and of exhibiting courage in the presence of danger." If that definition is acceptable, "morale" in many years. HIGHWAYS—This is particularly true with respect to the highway patrol and the highway safety division. It is difficult to put a finger on specific cause or reason for this condition, or to distinguish between cause and effect with respect to recent developments. There are some facts of record, although interpretation of their relationship may be matter of opinion. First, is the incontrovertible fact that traffic accident casualties have gone up. Second, is the undisputable fact the director of the state highway safety division resigned when publicity was given to expense account padding and large amounts of time given to matters other than highway safety. Third, the commanding officer of the highway patrol is under indictment in Beaufort County through action of the grand jury for violation of traffic rules. Fourth, it is of record that highway patrolmen are resigning faster than training schools and recruitment service can replace them. GENERAL—Just how these factors tie-in for a general picture may be subject to different opinions. Quite obviously the men down the line cannot be expected to maintain the high morale when the find themselves on the fix they find themselves now. That may be one reason the men down the line are getting out before being asked to resign or being indicted by grand juries for failure in assigned duties. DATES—Whoever is chosen to complete the term in the United States senate to which the late J. M. Broughton was elected in 1948 may be sworn in on or after November 28, 1950. Whoever is elected for the other North Carolina seat in the senate, now held by Clyde Hoey, cannot be sworn in until January 3, 1951. The difference is that Senator Hoey's current term expires on that date, while Senator Frank Graham's appointment to the senate holds only until the next election results can be ascertained. Indefiniteness as to exact dates is due to

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE New York—(AP)—There ought to be a way to make business offices more efficient—and happier places to work, too. I think I know how it can be done, but I doubt if my plan will be adopted soon. It is based on the facts of life. To begin with, both the boss and his employees tend to become unhappy because they regard the office purely as a place of labor, instead of a place where everybody can live a full rounded life. The boss is annoyed because he knows nobody is giving him a full eight hours of work, and feels he is regarded as a slave driver. The employee is resentful because he must be cooped up in an office doing nothing but earning a living. And he feels guilty because he feels he is expected to give eight hours of real work a day—and knows he isn't. Examine the day of a typical American office worker. He arrives 15 minutes late cross with himself, his wife and his employer. He sees nothing but trouble—and no fun—ahead until quitting time. He makes a few half-hearted passes at his job, then sneaks out for morning coffee. When he returns, he becomes an indoor nomad, a Marco Polo wandering from desk to desk, swapping lies and sympathy with his fellow sufferers. The rest of the morning he spends making round trips from his own desk to the water cooler to the men's room and back to his desk. By noon he has done about an hour's work, he's waterlogged, he's washed his hands eight times combed his hair nine, had a shoe shine and cleaned his fingernails twice. He knows he's wasted the best hours of the day. His conscience bothers him, because he knows the boss suspects it, too. So he over-eats at lunchtime. Back at the office, he feels drowsy. But there are four hours to kill. He manages to put in an hour of sleepy work. Then he begins his afternoon lull—from desk to water cooler to men's room to desk. But most of the time he is pretending to work. And acting is the hardest kind of labor. Give Laurence Olivier the task of doing nothing on a busy stage for three hours—and he'd go home all worn out also. And so our office hero trudges out, frustrated, feeling himself a martyr, and certain he'll get little applause at home. Under this system the boss gets only a couple of hours of honest effort, nobody has much pleasure, and all feel cheated. The answer? Make the office so attractive everybody will want to come to it and hate to leave. I'd suggest this routine: The workers arrive at 9 a. m., sharp, and are shackled to their desks. They work like beavers until 10:30, when the shackles automatically spring open. Everybody then takes a half-hour stretch during which he can have coffee, make faces at himself in the men's room mirror, trade gossip, pinch the stenographers and place his horse bets for the day. At 11 a. m. They're locked back in the shackles for another hour and a half without interruptions. At 12:30 they knock off for an hour's lunch. Then follows "quiet hour," during which they slump over their desks and digest their food under the influence of soft music. From 2:30 until 3:30 they can do at any office tasks left over from the morning, visit, call friends on the phone, and make last minute bets on the horses. Then afternoon "fun time" begins and lasts for the rest of the day. They roll back the desks, sprinkle wax on the floor and dance, play canasta, lift barrels, snack, or join the boss in barber-shop quartet singing. Everybody would go home liking himself, the boss, and bragging what a swell office he lived in. Wives envy their husbands and want to go to business themselves. There may be some holes in this system. But I'm sure of one thing. It would get more real work done than is being done now.

Washington Letter By JEAN EADS Washington—(AP)—The sale of Woodley, "summer White House" of four presidents, is the "last straw" for many Washingtonians interested in preserving the capital's historic buildings. Woodley, built in 1800 by Judge Philip Barton Key, uncle of Francis Scott Key, who wrote the "Star-Spangled Banner," is described as "architecturally and traditionally the base in America." It is the most recent of a number of the city's famed estates to be sold. Now a movement is under way to organize a "Citizens Committee to Save Woodley" (at 1764 K Street N. W.) as a national shrine. Since the house was built at the time of the founding of the Federal City, committee-backers feel it is especially appropriate to dedicate it this during the city's sesqui-centennial year. The 250-year-old-estate, former home of Henry L. Stimson, was purchased by a Washington real estate syndicate from Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., for a reported $800,000. There is talk that the mansion and a portion of the property will in turn be sold to a private school. Mr. Stimson purchased the property for $850,000 in 1929, when he was secretary of state under President Hoover. He continued to live there during the Roosevelt administration when he was secretary of war. In 1938 he gave the property to Phillips Academy, of which he was an alumnus and board member. Mr. and Mrs. Stimson now live at High-hold Long Island. When Woodley became the property of the academy several efforts were made to interest the government in purchasing it for a home for vice presidents of the United States. People behind the citizens committee would like to get the real estate people to hold up any further transactions until money can be raised to purchase the property from them for a national shrine. Committee members would offer it to the National Trust, a Congressionally-chartered private organization set up last year. The trust's primary purpose is to preserve selected sites and structures "significant in American history and culture."

Cash Income For Farm Marketing Off In January

Raleigh, March 28—(AP)—Cash income from farm marketings in the state skidded off 35 per cent in January, says the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

The drop brought an expression of grave concern from Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine. He said he feared the declines showed a trend rather than a temporary phase.

The Reporting Service said yesterday that January receipts of farmers were estimated at $19,747,000, compared with $30,615,000 in January, 1949.

Principal factors contributing to the drop, Ballentine said, were lower prices and smaller acreage allotments for some crops.

"If this trend is hastened by reduction of price support levels and further acreage cuts," he added, "our whole economy will surely suffer serious consequences."

January cash receipts from the sale of crops were down 44 per cent from a year ago, the Reporting Service said, while receipts from the sale of livestock and livestock products were off about 10 per cent.

Cash receipts from crops were set at $12,684,000, compared with $22,278,000 a year ago, and receipts from livestock and livestock products at $7,063,000, compared with $7,887,000.

For the nation, cash receipts from farm marketings were down an estimated two per cent last January.

Urges Survey Of Required Help

Washington, March 27—(AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) joined Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) today in calling for a non-partisan survey to learn what future American help may be needed by the world's Democracies.

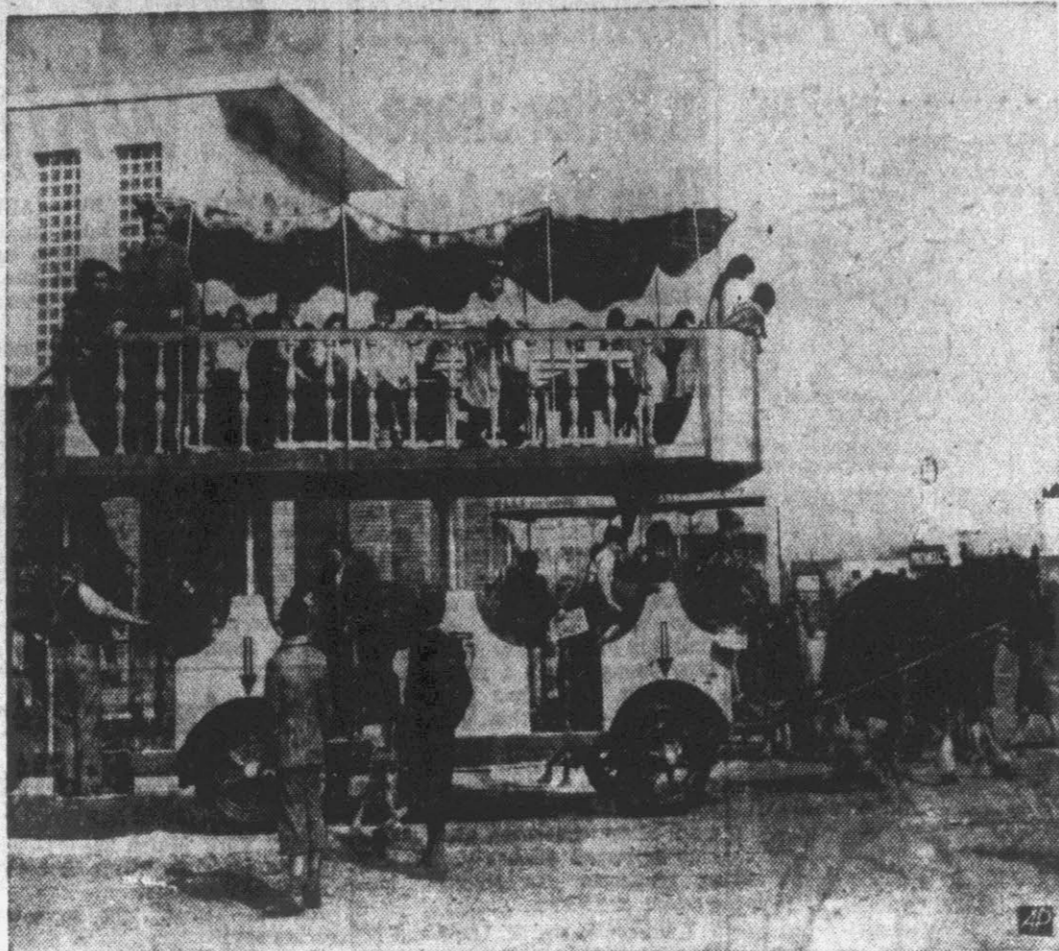

Taft suggested that such a survey could well include an investigation or President Truman's "point four" proposal for aid to the world's backward areas as one of the possible vehicles for carrying on the anti-communist cold war after the Marshall plan ends in 1952.

Greenville Model Poses For Styles On Island Bermuda

Personal Thanks For 2 Rescues

New Bern, March 28—(AP)—The commander of the Cherry Point Marine Corps Air Station was scheduled to pay a visit here today to the daughter of a North Carolina congressman who rescued two Navy pilots.

Brig. Gen. Ivan W. Miller said he wanted to personally thank Miss Agnes Barden, a daughter of Rep. Graham A. Barden.

The pilots crash-landed their trainer plane in a lake near Cherry Point Sunday. A small boat, skip-pered by Miss Barden, reached them first.

Bangkok, March 27—(AP)—In solemn splendor Thailand started today the funeral of its boy king, who died of a gunshot four years ago.

A new king—brother of the old—will set a torch Wednesday to a pyre that will reduce the remains of Ananda Mahidol to ashes. Perhaps a million persons will throng into the area of the Royal Palace and parade grounds for that climactic moment of the six-day ceremonial.

Graham Urging Early Start On Gov't Building

Washington, March 28—(AP)—Senator Graham (D-NC) is urging that government agencies do all in their power to hasten a start on actual construction of a new federal building at Fayetteville, N.C.

The senator's office today made public a letter to the Public Buildings Administration and the Post Office Department urging that if no suitable site is submitted by the April 10 closing date inspectors immediately be assigned to make further surveys and develop satisfactory proposals.

Graham said that Rep. Carlyle (D-NC) joined in his request. Fayetteville is in Carlyle's district.

The government announced recently that Fayetteville was included for a $2,145,000 federal building under a site acquisition and planning program now underway.

Eight Lettermen In Friday's Lineup

Greenville High School Opens Baseball Season Against Kinston With Experienced Crew; Contest To Be Staged On Kinston Field

Eight returning lettermen will be in the starting lineup Friday when Greenville high school opens its baseball season with Kinston in a game there.

Bo Farley, veteran coach of the high school nine, announced the starting lineup this morning for the game which has been transferred to Kinston because of playing conditions at the Robins' ballpark.

The infield will consist of Leon Moore behind the plate, Sid Briley at first, Billy Jordan at second, Larry Flye at short and Eugene Ayers at third. Bobby Flye, last year's regular pitcher, will start on the mound for Greenville Friday. All of the infielders are lettermen except Larry Flye, who is taking his starting turn this year for the first time.

In the outfield will be two returnees, although Farley hasn't made up his mind which spots they will fill. Rilly Holbert and Richard Joyner are the returnees along with Bobby Perry who, Farley said, looks better at bat than anyone out this year.

For reserves this year Greenville will have Joe Sawyer ready to catch. Sawyer wasn't a letterman last year but has shown ability behind the plate in the past weeks of practice and will definitely pull his four. Backing up Ayers at third base will be Walter Perry. Others in the outfield will be Wiley Gardner, Hilton Quinn and Jody Taylor. All are fairly good hitters, Farley said, and should supply the punch in the pinches when needed.

Slated to lead the hitting are Sid Briley and Bobby Perry. Briley, the big basketball center who was runner-up for scoring during the hardwood campaign, is big enough to take care of "most anything thrown. His height will come in handy as a target at first base.

Besides Flye on the mound, Farley has another returnee for pitching chores in Julian Valright. He is a knuckler, although he doesn't have the experience Flye has. Backing up the front line pitching staff is Joe Clark, brother of the high school wartime coach, Edwin "Snag" Clark. Joe is a big boy and has shown a lot of stuff in his practice pitching assignments this month.

The game Friday is to be played at Kinston, provided it is agreeable with Kinston officials. It had to be transferred because the local ballpark's sod has not come up yet. Farley stated officials of the Robins had been very glad to have the high school play on the field but not for a week or so, giving the new grass time enough to show.

The second game of the season will be with Rocky Mount next Monday and will be played there instead of originally-scheduled here. Both the Kinston and Rocky Mount games will be played here on the return games when the park is ready for play.

Playing a 14-game schedule this year, Greenville plays only one non-conference foe—Rocky Mount. Farley said he hopes Greenville can pull up its last-season standing, which was close to the cellar. He said he believed the team was better this year than last because of the stronger hitting, particularly in the outfield positions.

Charles-Beshore Title Bout Put Off Indefinitely

Buffalo, N. Y., March 28—(AP)—The twice-scheduled NBA heavyweight title bout between Ezzard Charles and challenger Freddie Beshore was definitely "off" today.

The New York State Athletic commission announced last night the fight had been "postponed definitely" because a rib injury had bruised one of the champion's heart muscles. The commission said Charles would be able to fight in two months.

But, promoter Dewey Michaels of the Fairview Athletic Club washed his hands of the whole thing and said the fight was cancelled.

Michaels had sunk about $10,000 into trying to promote Buffalo's first heavyweight championship fight and apparently wasn't willing to go along with another postponement.

Even a sell-out at $80,000, with Charles collecting 40 per cent and Beshore 17 1-2 wouldn't leave Michaels with much of a margin over the additional outlay.

The Fairview A. C. said it was advised of the commission's decision in a telephone call from New York "after an assortment of unusual antics by the champion and his co-managers. Jake Mintz and Tom Tannis."

"Apparently Charles and his managers left for New York last evening (Sunday) after Ezzard's workout, at which some 200 spectators and veteran newspaper observers failed to detect anything wrong with him."

Mintz commented that "we had no other choice than to do what the doctors and the athletic commission said."

Then, apparently recalling charges of "run-out" hurled by Beshore's manager, Ralph Gold when the rib injury caused postponement of the original Feb. 28 date, Mintz added:

"If after the two months Beshore wants a shot at my man, he will get it. We're not running from anybody."

Jackie Robinson Has Batting Eye

Vero Beach, Fla., March 28—(AP)—Second baseman Jackie Robinson is making the Brooklyn Dodgers forget about that overweight he brought to camp for the training grind.

The Negro star, by belting two hits in yesterday's 8-4 defeat by the Philadelphia Athletics made it five straight games in which he has registered at least two hits per game—four against Major League teams and one against Mobile. Nothing wrong with Jackie's famed batting eye.

Making It Tough To Pass Him Up

Clearwater, Fla., March 28—(AP)—Dick Whitman is making it tough for Manager Eddie Sawyer to put the ex-Dodger on the Philadelphia Phillies bench.

How can you bench a guy who is belting the ball at a 444 clip? Whitman led the Phillies to a 13-8 victory over the Washington Senators yesterday with four hits in six trips to the plate.

In nine games this spring Whitman has collected 12 hits in 27 times at bat, including one home run.

Sport Slants By Pap

Ray Famechon is a stubborn and purposeful fighter. His mission is to gain the featherweight championship and for this reason, and only this reason, he journeyed here from his native France. The little featherweight champion of Europe came over to this country at his own expense, seeking a title bout with Willie Pep. No other bouts could interest him.

A rangy featherweight with a shock of curly brown hair, Famechon is rated a skillful and experienced fighter. His record shows 43 knockouts in 63 contests to indicate he is a potent puncher. He fought as an amateur during the war years and did not lose one of his 175 bouts.

An aggressive body-puncher, some rate him a small edition of Marcel Cerdan. Ray himself purrs like a kitten when he hears the comparison with the late middleweight champion.

Famechon comes of fighting stock. Ray and his two brothers were marked for death by the Germans in 1942. Numbered among the forty hostages who were to pay for the knitting of a Nazi policeman in Famechon's home town, the boys escaped to Paris when the underground informed them of their impending fate. After his war experience, it is unlikely that Ray will encounter anything in the ring that he cannot cope with.

Basketball Coaches Hold Talk On Two-Minute Rule

New York, March 28—(AP)—College basketball coaches discussed the controversial two-minute rule in a closed session today, with indications they would urge its removal from the books.

The rule provides that the team fouled in the last two minutes keep possession of the ball. Its purpose is to reduce intentional fouls near the end of a game.

Opponents of the regulation declare the rule not only has failed in this, but has created these other flaws:

- 1. It drags out the game.
2. It virtually reduces the game from 40 to 38 minutes.
3. It favors the team in front at the time it goes into effect.

College coaches are expected to recommend a change in rule to the National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada, which meets here tomorrow and Thursday.

The National Committee is made up of representatives of the colleges, the Amateur Athletic Union, Y.M.C.A., the National Federation of High Schools and Canadian amateur groups.

The two-minute rule is just one of the changes to be studied by the governing body. The others deal with substitutions and basket standards.

For the high school game, consideration will be given the question of whether the official's time-out in the second and fourth quarters could be eliminated on the grounds there are now a sufficient number of game stoppages to take care of health needs.

Brownies Appear In Better Shape Than Year Ago

Burbank, Calif., March 28—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns appear to be in a lot better shape this year than they did as they broke camp and headed east a year ago.

As it turned out, the 1949 club finished seventh, which is about one under par for the club. Zack Taylor's 1950 Brownies should do no worse than seventh this year and they might just possibly sneak by another American League entry.

This will take some doing, of course, because the sixth place Chicago White Sox and the fifth-finishing Philadelphia Athletics appear stronger than a year ago.

But St. Louis has played and performed better this spring despite the loss of such valuable articles as infielders Bob Dillinger and Gerry Priddy. This may sound confusing, of course, because a team seldom improves, even if the club exchequer does, with the sale of gentlemen like Dillinger and Priddy.

You have to see St. Louis and its host of youngsters to understand this paradox. The kids seem to want to play ball. Credit this to them, to Taylor or quite possibly to Dr. David Tracy, the eminent psychologist who has been persuading the lads they can play giant killer and get away with it.

Who ever is responsible, the Browns have refused to roll over and play dead to anyone on the citrus circuit here. "I honestly believe we're going to make more trouble than most people suspect," promised co-owner Charley De Witt in a final orator just before the outfit departed.

Reds Have Won 10 Of 14 Games

Tampa, Fla., March 28—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds have won 10 of their 14 spring training exhibition games but Manager Luke Sewell saw little yesterday to brighten his long-range viewpoint for the season.

His "B" team whipped Syracuse of the International League, 8 to 7, but it was strictly sandlot baseball. There wasn't much to indicate that Redleg rookies are ready for big time competition.

Bilko Benched By Eddie Dyer

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 28—(AP)—Big Steve Bilko has been benched as first baseman for the St. Louis Cardinals—which leads to speculation the rookie has muffed his chance, at least for the moment.

Manager Eddie Dyer says it isn't so. But the nod has gone to Glenn Nelson, who yesterday made three clean hits and handled 10 chances with ease.

CCNY Is 2-Point Favorite To Whip Bradley For Title

New York, March 28—(AP)—City College of New York rules a two-point favorite tonight to subdue Bradley for the NCAA championship and thereby gain basketball immortality.

A victory for the once-unsung Beavers, who have been hot as a stove lid for the past two weeks, would make them the first team to win the sport's fabulous "double"—the two big national tournament titles in a single season.

It would be the hardwood equivalent of Bobby Jones' "grand slam" in golf, or, say, Citation's "triple crown" in racing.

The championship game will take the floor at Madison Square Garden at approximately 10:15 p. m. (EST) following the third place consolation tilt between Baylor and North Carolina State (8:15).

The game has been a sellout for weeks and ticket demands indicate it would draw 100,000 if space permitted. But the famous midtown arena accommodates little more than 15,000.

The fact that Bradley is the nation's No. 1 team based on season's play and CCNY wasn't even regarded highly enough to rate in the first 20 has become immaterial. Since the boys started knocking each other over in the post-season eliminations, the aroused CCNY sophomores have acted as if they owned the place.

Spectator Coaches Look For Top Flight Contest

New York, March 28—(AP)—Who will win tonight's NCAA basketball championship game?

Here is what the spectator-coaches say:

Hank Iba (Oklahoma A and M)—"I pick Bradley, especially if they're hitting. I think the two clubs have the strongest reserves in college basketball. Squeaky (Melchiorre) should be the difference."

Tippy Dye (Ohio State, which lost to both teams)—"CCNY. It should be close."

Clair Bee (Long Island U.)—"City's the best team in the country. They just have too many guns."

Sperry Stalcup (Missouri)—"Bradley, if they're not too tired."

Pete Newell (San Francisco)—"I think it can be either way."

Jack Gardner (Kansas state)—"Bradley will have to look better than at Kansas City."

Tom Scott (North Carolina)—"City College. They're riding a crest."

Wilmington, March 28—(AP)—Slammin' Sammy Snead heads the roster of top-flight professionals who tee off here Thursday in the second annual Azalea Open Golf tournament.

The $10,000 four-day test will be staged at the Cape Fear Country Club.

Meanwhile, Snead and National Open champ Cary Middlecoff hooked up with Clayton Heffer and Johnny Palmer in an exhibition match today at Pinehurst.

From there they go to Wilmington for the Open, last seven before the Augusta Masters'.

A field of about 125 is expected at the Cape Fear club course, a 6,600-yarder with par 72.

It Takes Time, But They'll Win

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 28—(AP)—Patience is a wonderful thing as the Philadelphia Athletics have proved many times.

The A's proved it again yesterday by turning six walks and Sam Chapman's double into a five-run rally in the eighth inning to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 8-4.

Lucky Number?

Syracuse, N. Y., March 28—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Clark don't believe the number 13 is unlucky.

Yesterday was their 13th wedding anniversary. They celebrated by obtaining a State Supreme Court order setting aside a divorce decree.

"It must be spring," commented Justice D. Page Morehouse. The Clarks, who live in Skaneateles, have two children. Mrs. Clark had obtained the divorce decree, which would have become final April 4.

Golfers To Play Here Wednesday

Greenville's golf team, winners of their first two matches this spring, meets the strong Smithfield club tomorrow on the Country Club course for the third match of the Coastal Association schedule.

Playing the second strongest club among the six-town members of the Association, Greenville should follow through tomorrow as they did last year with a win.

During the schedule in 1949, the local sharpshooters split a twin match with the Johnston Country Club, losing the one there and taking the return match here. For that win, the last one of the 10-match schedule, the local club copped the cup for the second year in a row and avenged the only loss of the season. The win at Smithfield last year marked only the second loss in three years the Greenville golfers had suffered.

The locals are looking for at least a 20-member team from Smithfield in order to take wins in the higher-score bracket tomorrow.

Last Wednesday Greenville beat New Bern 37-29 on a rain and wind swept course which saw low scores soaring along with the wind. However, Reynolds May was medalist; for the locals with a low score of 73. Bruce Baker was runnerup with 74, both scores tied with or one under New Bern medalist scores.

Elephant To Die For Killing Child

Sarasota, Fla., March 28—(AP)—Dolly, a circus elephant, must pay with her life for crushing a five-year-old child to death.

The 27-year-old work animal stamped the child's head beneath Brothers and Barnum and Bailey quarters here Sunday.

The child, Roger Schooley was feeding peanuts to several elephants when Dolly seized him with her trunk and dashed him to the ground. The animal had a reputation for gentleness.

Civilian Atomic Defense Program Far From Ready

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Washington, March 28—(AP)—A civilian atomic defense program that just isn't ready to handle atomic attack tomorrow would be a disaster, officials here said today.

Yet officials concerned with civilian defense say we are far better off now than we were at the time of Pearl Harbor. They say, for instance, that it is pretty well known what detectors and medical supplies will be available and where they can be found.

And they say prospects for improvement in civilian defense in the next few months look good.

But how much time do we have; that's a big question. Nobody in Washington has the answer. While atomic attack tomorrow isn't probable, it is possible.

Civilian defense is a team job, with the federal government doing most of the quarterbacking and the state and local governments doing most of the ball carrying.

Some congressmen have complained that the federal government has been too slow in calling the game. And maybe you've read in the papers about complaints that congressmen can't find out what their constituents are expected to do about

Early Report On Elections Probe

Raleigh, N.C., March 28—(AP)—The State Bureau of Investigation expects to have its report on alleged election irregularities ready next week.

SBI Director Walter Anderson said so yesterday in reporting the investigation was still in progress. He added that the report will go to Attorney General Harry McMillan.

The inquiry is linked to a State Board of Elections move several days ago in disregarding political party chairmen's recommendations when appointing elections boards in eight western counties.

After McMillan ruled the state board had to accept the chairmen's recommendations, the board withdrew its appointments and said it was asking the attorney general to investigate numerous charges of election irregularities.

To Demonstrate Terracing For Pitt Farmers

The Pitt County Soil Conservation Commission will conduct a terracing demonstration for all the farmers of Pitt County on the farm of Hilton Carson near Stokes Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, W. C. Eagles announced today.

Eagles said the group will give a demonstration of the correct methods of preparing land for terracing, and will perform the operation step by step actually building one part of the terracing job so that all present will be able to understand the operation.

"We will survey the land, prepare it, and lay off the project from start to finish and we hope that the farmers will be helped by the demonstration."

'Reckless'

Jacksonville, Fla., March 27—(AP) Caught in a line of traffic on a railroad track, Mrs. Jayne Edwards saw a passenger train come roaring toward her car. She simply let out the clutch and stepped on the gas.

Her car hit the one in front of her. It hit another and that one yet another. But the train missed the rear of Mrs. Edwards' car as it roared by.

City police charged Mrs. Edwards with reckless driving.

Officers Bored, Captured Thief

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—As officers James Appel and Frank Dyer tell it, they captured this thief because they were just plain bored.

Cruising along at night in a patrol car they spotted a lone pedestrian. They trailed the man. When he turned into a home, they questioned him. They found more than $1,500 in the man's possession. The bewildered thief admitted robbing a cafe but couldn't understand how the cops got wise to him.

Tobaccomen See Competition By Rhodesian Leaf

Raleigh, March 28—(AP)—Tobacco Associates expects the greatest competition to U. S. flue-cured tobacco this year to come from southern Rhodesia.

Production in southern Rhodesia is expected to rise from 82,000,000 pounds in the crop year starting July 1, 1948, to 90,000,000 pounds in the year that started last July 1, the organization said yesterday.

Since this tobacco can be bought for sterling, European countries are taking large amounts, Tobacco Associates said. Britain is by far the biggest customer, it added.

Tobacco Associates, which promotes flue-cured exports, made the prediction in its March report.

The organization also reported that Marshall Plan authorizations of fluecured tobacco in the period from Feb. 7 to March 15 were 12, 627,000 pounds. Total authorization for the period were 28,357,000 pounds of all types of tobacco, it added.

The largest allocation of flue-cured—7,216,000 pounds—went to the Netherlands.

In addition to the clippings, some members of the class are writing their own articles about the state, and making their own sketches to illustrate the articles.

Could Not Meet Dental Demand In Federal Plan

Rochester, N. Y., March 28—(AP)—The president of the North Carolina Dental Society estimates it "would take 26 years with an accelerated educational program to turn out enough dentists to meet the patient demand under the proposed federal program of compulsory health insurance."

Dr. Walter McFall of Asheville made that statement yesterday at the annual meeting of the seventh district dental society. The district is made up of eight counties in the Rochester area.

In reference to child dentistry alone, he said "if every dentist in the United States devoted full time to the school population alone, there would be less than two hours a year spent on each child."

Solon Says Narcotics Shipped Hollywood, Rossellini An Adict

Washington, March 28—(AP)—Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) says that narcotics are being smuggled into Hollywood from Communist China.

Johnson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, made this statement on the Senate floor yesterday in the course of a fresh attack he launched against the movie capital's distribution of the film "Stromboli."

Lashing out at RKO studios for backing Roberto Rossellini, Italian director of the film and father of actress Ingrid Bergman's son, Johnson said:

"He (Rossellini) has been for many years and is now a notorious cocaine addict. He associates habitually with an international gang of narcotic smugglers and dope runners. This criminal gang is credited with being the pipeline through which the supply of narcotics is smuggled into Hollywood from Communist sources in China."

Arguing that RKO had full knowledge of Rossellini when the studio entered into an arrangement with him for production of "Strom-boli," Johnson added.

"Rossellini sold them on the idea that he would produce just what they were looking for, a red-hot, sexy film, lurid and devastating. Johnson said he made the statements because "I wanted the American public to understand clearly what types of individuals are making pictures for them."

Besides the drug addiction allegation, Johnson accused Rossellini of black marketeering and wartime collaboration with the Nazis.

Johnson, who has proposed licensing of actors and actresses and regulation of the interstate transportation of motion pictures, told the Senate that Rossellini "admitted" his drug addiction in open court while seeking an annulment of marriage to his last wife in Austria.

Derides Charge

Rome, March 28—(AP)—Italian Film Director Roberto Rossellini, target of charges by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) that he was a Nazi collaborator, black market operator and drug addict, said today he would make no reply until he had seen the official record of Johnson's speech.

Rossellini laughed when the senator's charges were read to him. "Such statements speak for themselves," said Rossellini. "I will wait for the official record of the Senate for any reply. I am not like Senator Johnson."

Notables Coming

Other notables to appear on the program are Dr. Orrin F. Crow, of the faculty of the University of South Carolina, Columbia, S.C., who is governor of the Carolinas Kiwanis District, and Judge Herb Hennig of Darlington, S.C., secretary-treasurer of the Carolinas Kiwanis District. Lieut.-Gov. B. J. Holleman of Jacksonville, Kiwanis officials of other eastern Carolina towns are being invited to attend the Greenville meeting. The banquet will be strictly a stag affair, except that the international president and his wife are touring the Kiwanis Clubs of the country together, and the governor of the Carolinas Kiwanis District and his wife make many of the club visitations together.

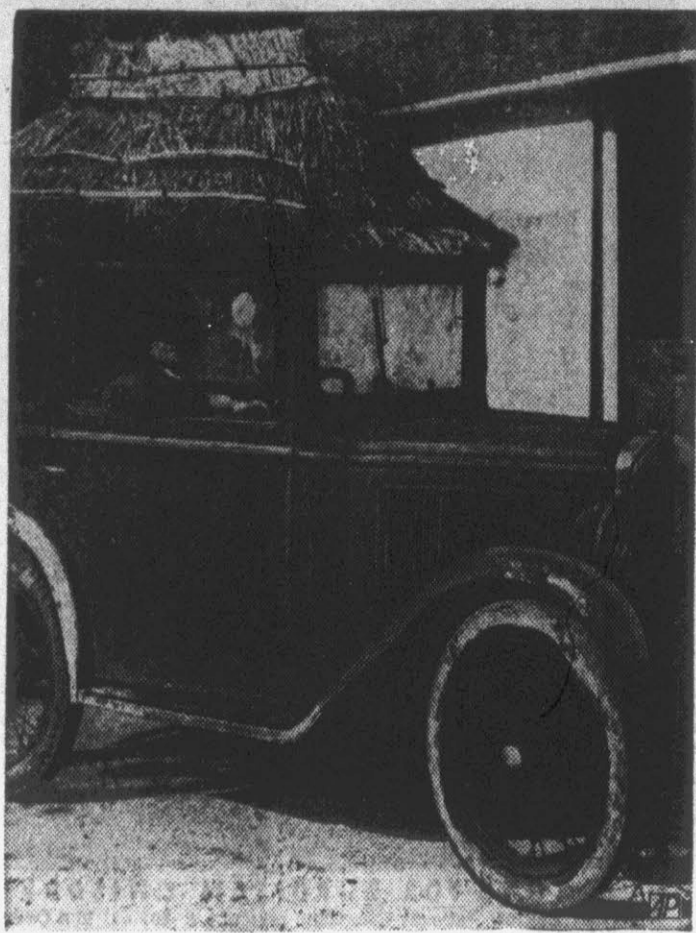

Past Lieut.-Governor Ed E. Rawl of Greenville, chairman of the Inter-Club Relations Committee, is arranging for the April 24 meeting. President Tige Gardner will preside.

Find Bodies Of Polio Victim And Mother

Winston-Salem, N.C., March 28—(AP)—The bodies of a three-year-old polio victim and her mother were found in a pond here yesterday.

It was near the site where another Winston-Salem mother admitted she drowned two of her children last Thursday.

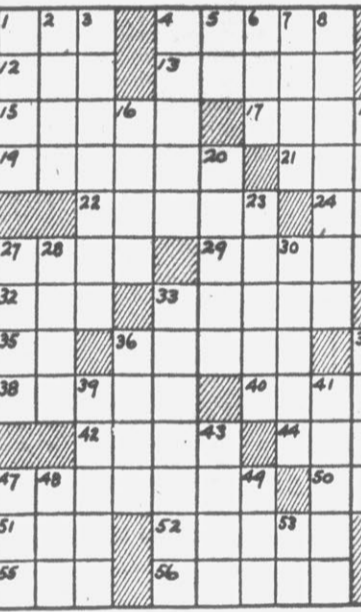

Coroner W. N. Dalton said yesterday's deaths apparently were suicide and homicide. There were no signs of violence. The victims were Mrs. Mattie L. Trivett, 26, and her daughter, Nancy, who wore a brace on her left leg. The coroner said he was told Mrs. Trivett had been "pretty nervous" recently.

Scoutmaster Is Red-Faced Man

Lawton, Okla., March 28—(AP)—Boy Scout Leader J. A. Pierce took eight members of his troop on a camping trip to give them some experience in outdoor lore—such as trail blazing.

And who got lost? Scoutmaster Pierce.

He couldn't find his way back to their camp in the Wichita Mountains for nine hours. The boys thought their leader was trailing behind them—so they wouldn't get lost. They reached camp but no scoutmaster. They notified the Wichita Mountain Wildlife Refuge Headquarters.

Pierce said he finally found his way to the headquarters by following a fence row to a road—then hitched a ride with a motorist.

The boys said they would let Pierce keep his trail-blazer card.

Refugees Worry Kashmir Gov't

Srinagar, Kashmir—(AP)—Some 600 persons who trekked through 18,000-foot mountain passes to escape from Sinkiang pose several problems for Kashmir authorities. Officials say the refugees are unwilling to return to their homeland, now controlled by Chinese Communists, and do not wish to go to Formosa, held by Chinese Nationalists. The government of India originally proposed to repatriate the refugees in October, but Kashmir officials asked a postponement. Meanwhile, many refugees have become destitute. The Indian Red Cross plans to give relief and refugee leaders are trying to get aid from the United Nations.

Black Jan Walks Again By Florence Kerrigan

Chapter 8 I moved toward him and spoke. He swung around with an almost animal sound of terror, and his eyes gleamed through his matted hair. I spoke again, reassuringly, but he backed away, crossed himself, and slid sideways out of the cave entrance. I saw him go scrambling up the side of the cliff. Evidently he was in the habit of helping himself to the boat, for the trail he followed was easily traceable up the cliffside. As I came into the cave again I had an overwhelming sense of relief. He might explain the missing body, then. It was not absolutely certain that Greg had murdered the man if others had access to the cave. I told Greg of the encounter later and he smiled. "He is a startling person to meet without warning," he admitted. "He is Malcolm Feir, and he's a natural, as they say here. That is, he isn't altogether normal."

"That was apparent," I said. "But he had the boat out. Does he just help himself to it whenever he pleases?" "Oh, yes. He has the run of the place. He's harmless." I remembered the ferocious look in his eyes and wasn't so sure. I still wanted to keep watch on Greg's nocturnal wanderings, however. Unknown to him, I had arranged a simple signal between my door and his in the tower stairs, so that when he left his room in the night I would be warned and could follow. It was several nights before the warning sounded. I hurried down the corridor at a safe distance behind him, and took my stand outside the door, watching him as he made his preparations. He was unnaturally white, and his eyes burned like live coals, and his hands seemed to tremble as they poured some powder out upon a paper and set it upon the floor. He stepped back a few paces and said in measured tones: "Spirit of air, I command you! Spirit of earth, I command you! Spirit of water, I command you! Spirit of fire, I command you! My slaves shall you be henceforth and forever, mine to command, mine to do my bidding!" Then followed an incantation I could not catch. At the end of it he bent and touched his cigarette lighter to the pile of brown dust. It smoldered for a second and then burst into a tiny flame and a puff of smoke which spread until it filled the room with a dense cloud. I was reminded of the way the gen appeared to Aladdin in the Christmas pantomimes, and remotely of the appearance of Mephistopheles in Faust. The smoke cleared away and Greg stood there, even whiter, and more strained, his eyes big and glowing, and fastened upon a corner of the room. A shadow seemed to be there, a large, shapeless blotch, which moved toward the center of the room. A shadow among other moving shadows, but somehow terrifying. Greg stood there a moment, then he sank to the chair before his desk and dropped his head on his balded fists. "Oh, my God," he groaned. "What have I done?"

Although I heard no sound I had an impression that there was laughter in that little room, horrible, swelling laughter, with a hideous mockery in it. He seemed to be aware of it, too, for he raised his head. "Jan-Jan-don't! I told you I am yours-body and mind and soul! I can't, Jan-I can't! Release me from my promise. I didn't understand when I made it. Oh, Jan-Ian!" He raised his face and it was the face of a soul in torment. "I can't, I can't! It will cost me everything, Jan. All that is dearest in the world. -Ah, no, Jan, not dearer than you. You are as a god to me. You know that, Jan. Nothing else matters but you.-You've beaten me, Jan. There's nothing else I can do now. Yes, Jan, with the help of the Devil-I'll do it!" He dropped his head on his arms again and the little room was filled with the terrible sound of a man sobbing, the wrenching sobs of a spirit in mortal agony, which died down to half frightened whisperings and ceased. I had seen a valiant soul make its last stand and surrender to the universe reeled around me, and the universe reeled around me. Back in my own room I thought it over. Demon possession, hag-ridden peasant, I had thought of them all as old wives' tales, but now I was not so sure. I had seen Greg-had seen-Hadn't Greg himself told me not to believe everything I thought I saw? The likeness to the gent and to Mephistopheles in Faust struck me again, and I remembered that Greg had attained quite a little acclaim in school as an actor. Had that been a smooth piece of acting? Did he know I was outside the door looking on, and if so, why did he do it?

The time had come. I decided to do something about all this! (To be continued)

Pitt 4-H Club Council Is Shown Movie On Safety

Safety precautions for pedestrians was the subject of a movie shown to the 4-H Club last night at its regular bi-monthly meeting at the County Office building.

Martin Swartz, superintendent of the Utilities Commission, presented the movie, called "Are Your Feet Killing You?" an educational film directed to the officers of the Pitt clubs in the interest of pedestrian safety on the highways and streets.

The 65 persons present at the meeting were shown the do's and don'ts of pedestrian traffic, underlined by the title of the film which showed forcibly how a person's feet lead him to places and into situations where he shouldn't be. The film stressed such things as wearing white clothing or a white arm band when walking on the highway at night.

During the meeting Howell Bone was awarded a certificate for being the Pitt Junior Farm champion, an award gained two weeks ago for his correct answers on farm topics during a radio program in the interests of National 4-H Club week.

The Paolius Junior club was awarded $2.50 for having the highest percentage of mailbox improvements among members of the club.

The Paolius Intermediate club was second with honorable mention and Grimesland was third. New posts and paint jobs were stressed in the improvements.

Reverend Nickens of Plymouth highlighted the recreation with a program of magic, following the usual routine of such exhibitions.

Mrs. B. L. Tyson of the Red Oak club directed the recreation in the Woman's Club, which included games and songs.

Two Patrolmen Are Suspended

Captain David T. Lambert, commander of Highway Patrol Troop A, stationed in Greenville, revealed yesterday afternoon that two officers of Troop A, Sgt. A. W. Welsh and Cpl. Logan B. Lane had been suspended from duty pending investigation of their failure to have men under their command on duty during hours in which they were supposed to be on patrol.

Welch is in charge of District One of Troop A stationed at Ahoesike and Lane is in charge of one section of the district with headquarters in Roanoke Rapids. Both officers have long service records with the patrol.

Lambert stated that a radio check was made Friday night as a matter of routine to determine whether personnel was on duty. Certain men who should have been on duty at the time the check was made did not respond to the call the patrol captain said.

"I ordered temporary suspension pending the investigation of why the men did not answer the radio call when they should have been on duty."

There are 15 men in the district under the supervision of the two officers.

Humber Talks In Kinston Church

W. Spillman Bible Class at the First Baptist Church here. In attendance were members of the Fellowship Class and several guests from the women's classes.

Dr. Humber reviewed the history of Christianity and the programs for world peace. He cited the Christian faith as basic to any lasting program of peace and observed that world government under Christian principles their best opportunity to advance peace and brotherhood. He cited the progress of the world government movement, its inception in his studies in Paris after World War I, and how he came to believe that best chances for success lay in getting Americans to back the movement first and fullest. Debaters Stage Practice Session

The Greenville High school debate squads will hold two practice debates this week in preparation for the state triangular eliminations to be held at several points in the county this week, R. B. Staring announced today.

A practice session was held in the high school this morning with a negative and affirmative debate team from the South Edgecombe high school.

The debate which was only for practice was not judged.

The Greenville debaters will meet the Kinston debate team in another practice round on Wednesday night at eight o'clock in the high school here.

The negative debaters are Rodney Fulcher and Harvey Bradshaw, with the affirmative team composed of Ray Sears and Mitchell Saleed.

This year, on Friday of this week, the Greenville team will travel to Washington and Williamston for the sectional eliminations which will determine the teams to go to East Carolina Teachers College for the district division contest.

The high school this year has a second string debate squad in reserve composed of Ralph Smiley, Betty Lou Small, on the negative and Milton Foley, and Jimmy Dillingham making up the other.

Lineman Nearly Electrocuted In Monday Mishap

Jimmie Burgess, a Grimesland Light Department employee escaped being electrocuted late yesterday afternoon while working on a section of power lines near Chocowinity on the Washington-Greenville highway.

The lineman was attempting to repair a transformer when the accident occurred. His arm struck a wire carrying 2,300 volts.

According to State Highway patrolman R. A. Tripp who arrived on the scene shortly after the accident, Burgess' left arm accidentally came in contact with the live wire as he repaired the transformer. He was knocked unconscious and remained dangling on the pole, but his arm fell away from the wire, possibly saving his life.

When Burgess regained consciousness, he managed to reach the ground and a co-worker rushed him to a Washington hospital.

An attending physician, who treated the man at Tayloe Hospital stated that Burgess suffered second degree burns on his right leg and third degree burns on his left foot and second degree burns on his forearm.

Prefers Jail To Revealing Files

Washington, Mar. 28—(AP)— Given a choice between opening up the FBI's investigating files to public inspection, or going to jail, J. Edgar Hoover would rather go to jail.

He almost risked just that last year, but attorney general Tom Clark, now on the Supreme Court, vetoed the idea.

High government officials recalled the closely guarded incident with a chuckle today in connection with the FBI director's emphatic declaration before a senate foreign relations subcommittee that the bureau files must remain confidential.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 28—(AP)—Radio-television stocks boomed again today. While the balance of the market steered a narrow course, TV issues advanced decisively for gains of fractions to around a point. Zenith Radio and Radio Corp. were particularly active.

TV stocks surged ahead yesterday morning but heavy profit taking sales gave them a mauling before the close.

Zenith dropped 1 1/2 points this morning, bounded back for a net gain of two and then eased a bit.

Ready To Accept General's Word

Washington, March 28—(AP)—Economy advocates conceded today Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has only to say the word and Congress probably will respond with a boost in military spending.

This viewpoint was made clear by interested Senators despite the Key West, Fla., statement yesterday by Secretary of Defense Johnson that the Nation's defenses are "adequate" for the present.

Senator McClellan (D-Ark) who headed an unsuccessful drive last year to cut President Truman's budget 10 per cent, told a reporter that if Eisenhower thinks the military setup needs more money he will vote for it.

"That's a matter of life and death," McClellan said. "I think we can make substantial cuts elsewhere in the budget if General Eisenhower says that our defenses are not being kept adequately, Congress is almost sure to do something about it."

Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said he hopes that when the General testifies before a senate appropriations subcommittee, probably tomorrow, Eisenhower will clear up what the Virginian Senator said he thinks may be a misconception about a recent speech.

Eisenhower said then that this country has "disarmed to the extent—in some directions even beyond the extent—that I, with deep concern for her present safety, could possibly advise."

Byrd said he thinks the General was not necessarily talking about $13,028,000,000 military budget for the year beginning July 1. Byrd suggested Eisenhower may have been speaking of the speedy demobilization after the war and its after effects on the defense setup.

Bridges Claims Soviet Has Spy In State Dept.

Washington, March 28—(AP)—A new contention that Russia has slipped a master spy into the American government added today to the troubles of Senators investigating charges of Communism in the state department.

Those troubles, all surrounded by controversy, also included a report that President Truman has decided to reject a Senate committee's request for government loyalty files of department employees accused of Communist leanings.

Republican Senator Bridges of New Hampshire told the Senate last night that a servant of Russia is "using our state department as he wills." Bridges did not name the master spy he spoke of but he demanded that Congress find out: "How did Stalin manage it?"

Will Not Call Board Meeting NCEA Directors

Asheville, N. C., March 28—(AP)—Mrs. Lucille Allen, retiring president of the North Carolina Education Association, said today she will not call a meeting of the organization's board of directors.

She said she had received a request from three members of the canvassing committee who met in Raleigh Saturday in an attempt to iron out a dispute over the presidency of the NCEA.

Mrs. Allen said she told Mrs. Ethel P. Edwards, NCEA executive secretary, by telephone this morning that "I am not president of the NCEA... and shall not assume authority to call a meeting of a board, four of whose members have been replaced by a duly-constituted election, and two of whom were elected last fall and installed at the final session of the delegate assembly on March 11."

Water Shortage Hits Singapore

Singapore—(AP)—Economy measures introduced by the Municipal Water Department have saved 700,000 gallons a day. But the water position still remains critical. Huge pipes convey water from the reservoir at Pontian, some 30 miles from Singapore, on the west coast of Johore.

As part of the campaign to conserve fresh water, 300,000 gallons a day have been saved by substituting salt water for the flushing of drains, cleaning of markets and for general purposes.

Temptation . . .

If Russia were in possession of all Germany, the story might be different. That would give Moscow the key position in continental Europe.

However, the only way the Muscovites could get possession at this juncture would be through a shooting war, which most observers feel the Soviet Union doesn't want. Therefore it is likely the Communists will confine themselves to fifth-column assaults on western Germany. The current preparations for youth demonstrations are part of the fifth-column offensive which daily gather strength.

There's no reason to anticipate sweeping changes in the European situation pending further developments in the Asiatic theatre. As this column has indicated previously, the balance of power in Asia will go far towards determining the conflict of the ideologies.

Still as Chancellor Adenauer says the temptation is there for Russia to make war in Europe. The answer to that is preparedness by the western allies.

Truman Said . . .

Some of the men close to the President say he is gravely concerned about criticism of secretary of state Acheson.

Mr. Truman has made clear his determined stand against McCarthy and his charges that many state department employees have pro-Communist leaning by:

1. Asserting Acheson is running the department "admirably" and will stay on the job.

2 Declaring, through associates, he considers "pretty flimsy" McCarthy's statement that Owen Lattimore, former state department associate, is the top agent of Soviet Russia in the United States.

3 Persuading Philip C. Jessup to continue on the job as Ambassador-at-large and chief state department spokesman. Jessup has been accused by McCarthy of having peculiar affinity for Communists.
