Three More Car Accidents Added To Week's Toll

Ten Wrecks In One Week; Patrol Captain Again Urges More Vigilance

Three more highway accidents in Pitt County over the past weekend, brought forth a new appeal for greater vigilance by motorists from State Highway Patrol Captain David T. Lambert, commander of Troop A in Greenville.

Captain Lambert in commenting on the highway accidents in this county over the past week said this morning: "With seven persons killed to date in 1950 in Pitt County, the State Highway Patrol is asking the cooperation of motorists using the highways to use every precaution in their driving. In the past week which ended last night there were a total of ten accidents, in which a number of persons were injured and none were killed."

"The highway accidents are being caused by speeding, failure to give the proper road signals, and not using proper caution when driving on wet highways. The majority of the highway accidents this week were due to these reasons," Lambert stated.

"Last year there were 14 persons killed in Pitt County, which was a high death toll. So far this year seven persons have been slain on the roads. At the rate the accident deaths are occurring on the Pitt County highways we are likely to set a new record—in death."

The first in the trio of accidents which plagued this area over the week end occurred on the Pactious highway, one mile from Greenville, about 9:20 Saturday night.

A car operated by Wiley Evans, colored, of Route 5, Greenville, ran into the rear of a car operated by Dorothy R. Baker, 108 East 13th Street, Greenville.

According to investigating patrolman Paul C. Whitley, the accident occurred when the car driven by Baker attempted to make a left turn.

Evans' car struck the rear of the Baker car causing damages estimated at $150. Damage to the Evans car was about $50. Whitley stated.

Evans was indicted for following too close behind another car.

The second highway accident on Saturday came at 11:00 that night when a car going north on N.C. 43, being driven by Willie Aaron Thomas, route 1, Greenville, colored, was struck by a car operated by Willie James Ebron, route 2, Farmville.

Patrolmen R. H. Chadwick and Cpl. John Law stated that the car driven by Ebron collided with the rear of Thomas' car. Reason given for the accident was that Ebron

Attlee To Face Questions Over War Minister

London, April 3—(AP)—The Conservative Daily Mail said today Prime Minister Attlee will be questioned in Commons about the latest political storm revolving around War Minister John Strachey, who years ago wrote favorably of Communism.

It all started with an Associated Press report—later denied by British government officials—quoting extremely well informed American sources at the Hague as saying that Anglo-American defense chiefs had agreed to keep highly confidential military secrets from Strachey.

Strachey's immediate boss, Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell, said yesterday on his return from the Hague Atlantic pact talks that there "isn't a word of truth" in the report on the secrets ban.

War Against Religion

Soviet Goal Of Communizing World May Hinge Largely On Ultimate Verdict In Its War Against Religion; Soviet Attitude Toward Religion In Red Newspaper

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

The Red war against religion is being stepped up in Eastern Europe. We return to this subject because it is a vital aspect of the Soviet crusade to communize the world. Success or failure of the Communist offensive may hinge largely on this point.

Ten high-ranking Catholic clergymen have gone on trial in Prague, charged with high treason and spying for the Vatican. A Vatican informant in Rome says this indicates that the last of the faithful Roman Catholic leaders in Czechoslovakia are about to be suppressed.

This comes as the International Court of Justice at The Hague rules in effect that three other satellites—Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria—must appear before the bar of justice in the United Nations and answer charges of violating the human rights provisions of their peace treaties. These charges were brought by America and Britain, and were based on the trial of Cardinal Mindszenty in Hungary and the trial of other high churchmen in Rumania and Bulgaria.

Of course there is no method of compelling the three satellites to answer the charges, and they may refuse to comply. However, the

Local American Lady Plant To Discontinue Operations

American Lady, Inc. definitely will discontinue operations in Greenville in the near future, according to a statement made this morning by Robert S. Amberg, president of the company.

"We are going to discontinue our operations here," Amberg told a Reflector representative in a telephone conversation, but the company president said he could not state the exact date when the plant will be completely closed. "It won't be long though," he added.

During the first two weeks of March rumors of plans to close the American Lady operations in Greenville were widespread, and at the time Amberg declined to confirm or deny the rumors, but he promised a definite statement the first of April. The company president stated at the time that a differential between the 75 cents an hour federal wage minimum and the actual hourly production in the plant was a factor in the consideration of ceasing operations in the Greenville plant.

Amberg said this morning the local plant has on hand at the present time an adequate supply of garments and will continue to ship from the Greenville plant. "It probably will be a couple of months," Amberg said, before the local plant ceases shipping goods.

The president said the company is still producing in its Greenville plant "on a very small scale." He stated, "We have very few machine operators still on. We're practically finished."

The company produces corsets, brassiers and other ladies' foundation garments.

The American Lady, Inc. began production in the Greenville plant in September, 1948 and the company plant in Detroit gradually was moved to Greenville. In June 1949 the entire operations of the company were located in the Greenville plant. At its peak operation, the Greenville plant of American Lady, Inc. employed approximately 250 people, Amberg said.

Spokesmen at the local office of the Employment Security Commission said recently indications of curtailment of operations at the American Lady plant have been reflected over a period of several months in the number of people applying for unemployment benefits giving the American Lady plant as the place they were last employed.

Those Saucers, They Are Now Being Seen In Britain

London, April 3—(AP)—The British, who have been feeling superior to such things, have come down in great numbers with a case of flying saucer jitters.

A bus conductor was the first yesterday to report by telephone to the air ministry: "There's a flying saucer right over my vehicle with lots of little men with ginger hair inside."

The ministry laughed it off—one bus conductor doesn't count for much. But not for long. The phone kept ringing. Dozens of citizens reported variously: "It has dots on the bottom—x x x its silvery—x x x it's stationary—x x x it's moving fast—x x x the little men inside are having tea."

Dr. Alfred L. Crabb To Address NCEA Chapter

Dr. Alfred Leland Crabb, professor emeritus of education at Peabody College, will be the principal speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Pitt County chapter of the North Carolina Educational Association tomorrow night.

Fodie H. Hodges, president of the Pitt County chapter of the organization, said today approximately 250 teachers and their guests are expected to attend the meeting at 6:30 tomorrow night in the north dining hall on the East Carolina campus.

Hodges said those present at the meeting will include the teachers in the county school system and their wives and husbands and other guests. Special guests of the county organization at the meeting, he said, will be the presidents of the Parent-Teacher Associations, chairmen of the local school boards of the county, members of the county board of education, county commissioners, and Pitt County's representatives in the General Assembly.

At the meeting the invocation will be pronounced by D. H. Conley, superintendent of Pitt County schools, L. V. Godwin, supervisor for high schools, will welcome the guests, Mrs. Glenn Scott will present a musical program, Fodie H. Hodges will recognize the guests, and Dr. Crabb will be introduced by Dr. J. Beecher Flanagan.

Following the dinner meeting and program, the teachers will convene in a business session to elect officers of the county chapter for the coming year, and to consider proposed constitutional amendments which are to be voted on tomorrow night.

Tenancy 'Slack' In County Jail

Tenancy in the county jail is slack nowadays with only five persons being held pending disposition.

The oldest tenant has been there about a month, his case having been continued from last week's court term to the two-weeks court beginning here April 17.

The other four have been imprisoned since Superior Court adjourned last Thursday afternoon.

Besides those awaiting trial are six trustees who have been assigned to the jail.

British Gov't Spokesman Raps Strachey Story

Hotly Denies Military Chiefs Had Agreed To Keep Secrets From Him

London, April 3—(AP)—A spokesman for the British government issued the following statement today in connection with an Associated Press report quoting sources at the Hague as saying that British-American military chiefs had agreed to keep highly confidential information out of the hands of British war secretary John Strachey:

"The Associated Press of America were responsible for this story and if those who are employed by them in London to interpret political life in this country to America did not as soon as they saw this story inform their head office that it could not conceivably be true then they ought to have done."

"They were told by telephone that the story was obviously untrue, and if they did so inform their head office and their head office insisted on still writing the story, then I can only say that the Associated Press' boasted love of facts is nothing but hypocrisy."

The British Press Association distributed the statement to the British Press. Later it sent a bulletin correction deleting all matter following the words "obviously untrue" in the second paragraph.

But the full statement had appeared on page one of the Evening Standard, an afternoon newspaper. Still later the Press Association issued a memo stating that "after further consideration" it had decided to restate the deleted material.

A spokesman at No. 10 Downing street, the official residence of Prime Minister Attlee, said the statement could be attributed to "a government spokesman."

The Associated Press story came from Joseph E. Dymann, Paris diplomatic correspondent, writing from the Hague Saturday night.

Quoting extremely well-informed sources, he reported that after a conference at the Hague, U. S. defense minister Louis A. Johnson and British defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell had agreed to have top secrets bypass Strachey.

Vehement denials were made by Shinwell and other British spokesmen in London and the Hague. These denials were reported by the Associated Press as they were made.

Claim Evidence About 'Saucers'

Washington, April 3—(AP)—U. S. News and World report says there is competent evidence that flying saucers are real aircraft of revolutionary design, developed in the United States.

The weekly news magazine for April 7, out today, concludes that the navy is doing the development.

Expect Pilgrims To Holy City

Jerusalem, April 3—(AP)—Approximately 1,000 Christian pilgrims from the United States and other countries are expected inside the old walled city of Jerusalem this week for Holy Week observances.

This compares with only a handful able to take part last year due to the Holy shrines is under control of Arab Jordan. The new city is mostly held by the Israelis.

Count Big Loss To Boll Weevils

Raleigh, N. C., April 3—(AP)—The boll weevil and the Tar Heel cotton grower fought it out last season and the farmer came out the loser to the tune of some $25,000,000.

N. C. State College entomologist George D. Jones said weevil damage in the state probably was worse in 1949 than in any other year during the past quarter-century.

Brothers Held For Kidnap Death

Utah Wilson (left), 21, and his brother, Turman Wilson (right), 24, are held at Sacramento, Calif., on charges of kidnaping and killing 1-year-old Jo Ann Dewey at Vancouver, Wash. The screaming girl was snatched from a sidewalk and driven away in an automobile. A week later, her body was found in a creek near Stevenson, Wash. Arrest of the brothers in Sacramento was brought about by a fingerprint on a beer bottle picked up at the scene of the assault. The FBI said the print checked with one found on an automobile owned by Utah Wilson. Turman Wilson was born at Walnut Ridge, Ark. (AP Wirephoto).

George Marshall Opposes Cuts In European Relief

Ex-Secretary of State Says 4-Year Program Should End As Scheduled

Washington, April 3—(AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall spoke out today against "proposals to emasculate and reduce" the European Recovery Program.

But the former secretary of state said that the four-year plan which bears his name should end on the scheduled date, June 30, 1952, adding:

"I feel that if this date is settled and clear it will spur the work of the European leaders and people to accomplish the extremely difficult task ahead of lifting themselves above the need for our financial assistance."

Marshall addressed a meeting of Economic Cooperation Administration officials on the occasion of the Marshall Plan's halfway point anniversary.

He referred in his prepared speech to Communist efforts to scuttle the recovery program, telling the ECA officials:

"You here may not be in the same sort of danger as troops on the battlefield, but you are engaged in a contest with a foe who has designs no less deadly than those we have ever faced."

"Make no mistake about it, the chips are down. Winning this struggle is as vital to the peace and prosperity of the world as any military campaign in history. Indeed, unless we achieve victory our great military and financial sacrifices may have been largely in vain, I fear."

However, he said the plan has succeeded thus far and should be carried out as energetically as possible for two more years.

"To those who assert that our targets cannot be reached within the short span of two more years, I would say that perfection of accomplishment cannot always be expected," he said. "But we have seen a close approach to that perfection in these past two years," Marshall added.

"Looking again at the conditions prevalent in the spring of 1947, and again considering the situation at this moment, I can only feel that one near miracle has been accomplished. We must work for, and expect, another miracle."

French Thieves Missed Big Sum

Marseille, France, April 3—(AP)—French police said today methodical thieves managed to steal 45,000,000 francs ($120,000,000) from a main postoffice here over the week-end.

They said the robbers built a scaffolding in a basement of the building and sawed through iron bars in the ceiling to get into a room where the money was.

The bandits apparently overlooked another 100,000,000 francs.

Greatest Defeat For Red Forces

Chinese Nationalists Celebrate Second Hainan Victory

Taipei, Formosa, April 3—(AP)—Nationalist China today hailed its greatest victory of 1950 . . . the smashing Saturday of a Chinese Communist invading force of more than 7,500 on Hainan Island off South China.

Thousands joined a massive parade at Hoihow, capital of Hainan. Tons of fireworks were set off. Red prisoners were marched through the streets.

"We have destroyed the Communist dream of conquering Hainan," said Gen. Li Yang-ching, chief of staff for Hainan.

The Nationalists said 5,000 Reds were killed and more than 2,500 were captured.

It was the second Red attempt in six days to land a force on the big island, separated by 10 miles of water from Luichow peninsula. The Nationalists said they "completely annihilated" 4,000 Red invaders March 27.

Some Red survivors tried to escape Sunday but Nationalist warships reported they sank the fleeing junks. Five hundred more Reds surrendered on Hainan.

The Nationalists said much equipment including field pieces, Tommy Guns and rifles was seized.

Nationalist dispatches usually flaunt the silver lining and ignore the dark clouds. But even allowing for exaggeration, their double victory gave them something to crow over.

Music, Lecture Closed Art Festival Yesterday

The closing program of the fifteenth annual Community Arts festival was held Sunday afternoon at 3:30 in the Woman's Club with the East Carolina orchestra performance and an address by Dr. Alfred Leland Crabb, author, lecturer and teacher.

Charles A. White, president of the Greenville Music Club, introduced the musical half of the program with remarks concerning the international character of the composition represented on the program. The orchestra, directed by Rudolph R. Willmann, played a brief concert including compositions by Handel, Mozart, Jarnfelt, MacDowell and Grieg.

Miners Idled By High Coal Costs

New York, April 3—(AP)—The New York Times said today that almost 3,000 miners in Pennsylvania have been made idle through the closing of high-cost coal mines in the four weeks since the industry signed its new wage agreement with the United Mine Workers.

Leading operators predicted that the number of soft coal miners idle would reach 50,000, or one-eighth of the national total of 400,000 by mid summer under the combined pressure of price resistance and higher labor costs.

President Formally Notifies Tydings Of Action; Disclosure Said Against Public Interests And Would Impair Security Agencies

Key West, Fla., April 3—(AP)—President Truman today formally notified Senator Tydings (D-Md.) that he has ordered federal officials to ignore subpoenas asking them to surrender loyalty files of accused state department employees.

"No President has ever complied with an order of the legislative branch directing the executive branch to produce confidential documents, the disclosure of which was considered by the President to be contrary to the public interest," Mr. Truman wrote Tydings.

Tydings is chairman of a senate foreign relations subcommittee investigating charges by senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) that the state department is overrun with Communists and Communist sympathizers.

The President first refused a request from Tydings for the loyalty files. Tydings countered by serving subpoenas on Secretary of State Acheson, Attorney General McGrath and chairman Harry B. Mitchell of the civil service commission calling for the files.

Mr. Truman said today he had directed the three "not to comply with the subpoenas."

"The disclosure of these files would seriously prejudice the future effectiveness and usefulness of the federal bureau of investigation as an investigative agency; the employment, and even danger, of those who have given confidential information cannot be over-emphasized," he said.

"Disclosure would not only deprive the federal bureau of investigation and other investigative agencies of the government of the availability of those confidential informants in the future, but would also gravely impair their ability to gather confidential information from other sources as well."

Disclosure of the files, Mr. Truman contended, would not keep disloyal people out of government, but "impair the very effectiveness of our now have-for accomplishing their purpose."

"The files, he added, do not contain 'proven information alone' but include many 'unverified charges and allegations, leads and suspicions.'"

"Disclosure of the files would, therefore, result in serious injustice to, and damage to the reputations of, many innocent persons," the President asserted.

He added that constitutional precedents support "without any question" his authority "to take the position I have in this matter."

"The authority of the President in this regard has been recognized since the beginning of our government," Mr. Truman went on.

"Our first President and his cabinet, in considering the first request made by a house of Congress for executive papers, concluded that while the Congress might call for papers generally, the executive ought to communicate only such papers as the public good would permit, and ought to refuse those the disclosure of which would be contrary to the public interest."

Mr. Truman said Presidents who faced the same issue "have uniformly rejected such encroachments on the constitutional power of the President," and cited Washington, Monroe, Jackson, and Cleveland.

Can Congress Do It?

The First Of Three Stories Explaining How The President Can Refuse Congress' Demands For Secret Files; Past Actions; Latest Test; Court Test Possible

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 3—(AP)—Can Congress force a president to give it confidential information he wishes kept secret?

Many Congresses have tried. None has succeeded. Seventeen presidents, starting with Washington, have refused such requests.

Every time in the past when the President turned it down, Congress has let the matter drop.

If any Congress had carried its fight to the Supreme Court, there might have been a final answer. That hasn't happened.

The problem is here again. This congress is demanding secret information—loyalty files—from Mr. Truman. He hasn't yielded.

And it is unlikely that this Congress, where Democrats have a majority, will fight him up to the Supreme Court.

A President can refuse a congressional demand to see government papers on these grounds: That in the U. S. Constitution the powers and rights of the three branches of the government are clearly separate and one can't impose its will on the other.

The three branches are: (1) The legislative—Congress—which makes the laws; (2) The Judicial—which interprets the laws; and (3) The Executive, which carries out the laws. This branch, headed by the President, includes the various departments and agencies, under his control.

This was the idea behind the separation of powers in the Constitution: To keep the government balanced, with one branch a check against the others, so that no one branch could dominate the others and thus run the government.

This question of the separation of powers comes up again now in the case of Senator McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, who has charged that the State Department harbors Communists and pro-Communists.

A subcommittee of the senate was created to investigate his accusations. He named some State Department employees.

State Department officials said those people were investigated by the FBI or the President's Loyalty Board and cleared of suspicion.

Where, then, is McCarthy's proof? He said it's in the files of the FBI, or the Loyalty Board, or the State Department. All three of those agencies are in the executive branch.

The week beginning Sunday, April 23, is to be observed by churches of all faiths, by civic and community agencies, and by more than 2,500 Young Women's Christian Association city and rural groups as "National Y.W.C.A. Week." It will be observed also by groups of women in some 65 lands served by the Y.W.C.A. "A better world begins with you—join the Y.W.C.A." is the slogan of the week. April 23rd will be observed as "YWCA Sunday" in the churches. Open house receptions will take place at the YW's on the 24th. Community Day, the 25th, will find "inquiring reporters" in many towns asking the views of citizens on the Declaration of Human Rights, and there will be "clinics" on human rights in many centers. The world's YWCA Membership Day is set for the 26th; Wives' Achievement Day for the 27th; Y-Teen Day, the 28th.

In Argentina and Uruguay, the National Federations of Methodist Women each provides a scholarship for a woman student in Union Theological Seminary. Buenos Aires; the societies of Buenos Aires District has a scholarship at the Seminary for a young man; and the women of the American Church in the same city have another scholarship for a young woman. The Argentine Federation has a "Susanna Wesley Fund" to help girls complete preliminary studies preparing to enter the Seminary. In addition to this, the Confederation (conference of both Federations) maintains a home missionary among the Indians in the high plateau area of Bolivia, and another among the Mapuche Indians in Southern Chile.

From India and Iowa comes a story of gratitude—and of return of "bread cast upon the waters." Sushila Soule was graduated from Johnson Girls' High School, Jubulpore, India, longing to be a doctor and to serve her people. There was no money for a college education. But, through a missionary, Dr. Matt Ware, West Branch, Iowa, heard about her and began sending money to put her through the Lady Hardinge Medical College, Delhi. At times Dr. Ware had to borrow on his life insurance to meet his assumed obligations for Sushila's tuition fees. Dr. Sushila Soule's feeling of owing an unpayable debt of gratitude now motivates her service in India. When she learned recently of Dr. Ware's death, she sent two hundred rupees to the American Heart Association as a tribute to her friend who was interested in heart research.

And from the Christian Science Textbook by Mary Baker Eddy: "All reality is in Good and His creation, harmonious and eternal. Page 472."

DOES IT MAKE ANY DIFFERENCE?
Sometimes as we listen to the preacher we get the idea that religion is a lot of fancy theories. It deals with realities—if we can call them realities—which have no connection with life. What the preacher says may be true but what difference does it make?

Someone has said that the heart of religion is in its personal pronouns. Take the personal pronouns out of religion and you have philosophy. Take the personal pronouns out of the Christian gospel and everything that makes the New Testament a gospel (or good news) evaporates and blows away.

God, from the philosophical standpoint, is the object of man's contemplation and speculation; from the religious standpoint He is the beneficent and all-powerful Father. From the distinctively Christian standpoint He is the Saviour who has redeemed us from ourselves and our sins through Christ.

We Hope You Like It

The Reflector today makes another of its promised improvements by a complete change in the appearance of this editorial page and the inclusion of new editorial features.

In addition to features previously carried on this page we are adding Ray Tucker's "National Whirligig" covering news behind the news, and Elmer Roessner's "Business Today" and from time to time reprinted editorials from other newspapers to let you know others are thinking about the issues of the day.

Today's editorial page is another of the many improvements that The Reflector has been making during the past several months. Within less than a year we have added some new daily comic strips, a complete color comic section has been added to the Saturday issue, a photographer and more reporters have been added to our staff and about a month ago the latest engraving equipment was added.

With this added help and equipment The Reflector is giving more local news than ever before and along with it is able to give spot news picture coverage along with the stories. Our Saturday feature page covering many interesting subjects in Greenville and Pitt County has brought us much favorable comment.

As a result of these improvements we are enjoying the largest direct to subscriber circulation in the history of the paper resulting in better coverage for our advertisers.

We are calling your attention to these improvements not to brag on what we are doing, for we never hope to reach perfection, no matter how hard we try. We do, however, feel that it is not amiss to remind you that we are endeavoring at all times to make The Reflector better and better and give our readers what they want and expect from their home newspaper.

Cooperation Will Mean A Successful Census

Once every ten years the federal government of the United States sets about to count the people under its domain, and determine by actual figures just how these people are getting along.

Saturday, Pitt county was touched by this federal census as specially trained workers began pounding the paved sidewalks and tapping on doors in the by-ways and hedges in an effort to be sure every person in Pitt county is counted in the federal census.

These enumerators are doing a job not only for the federal government, but in just as real a sense they are doing a job for the people of each community.

Just how accurate this 1950 census is will largely depend upon the cooperation which the enumerators get from the people in each community. Sure there are a number of questions to be answered, and there is some time involved in having the answers ready for the enumerators; but the people of Pitt county stand to gain a great deal by making sure enumerators get all the information they seek. After all—the census comes only once every 10 years, and surely the head of each household can spare 15 minutes every ten years to help count the population of this great land.

Upon the federal census is based a portion of the representation each state has in the federal government, and upon the federal census is based the presentation each community or district has in the state or federal government. Then too, revenue which is distributed to the various governmental levels on a basis of population makes up a large portion of the income of local governments. The more population a community can show, the more revenue it will receive from this distribution of tax money.

The advantages of a good census are practically innumerable, but the advantages of a poor census are few.

The success of the census in Pitt county, and the value the people of the county will receive from the census report during the ten years after it is released by the government, will depend on how well our people respond to the request for ready answers to the necessary questions.

The Reflector is anxious for each community in the county to show an increase in population over the 1940 census, and for the county as a whole to enhance its position among the counties of the United States. The Reflector urges every family in Pitt county to cooperate in every way possible with the enumerators, and so doing assure not only accurate information in the census, but expedite its progress.

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, April 3—"Seeds of Treason," an inside story of the "Hiss-Chambers tragedy" appearing today, constitutes a far more devastating indictment of Communist infiltration and influence on American foreign policy during the war and postwar years than all the charges which foes of the Roosevelt-Truman Administrations have voiced on and off Capitol Hill for the past decade.

Although based on the trial and convictions of Alger Hiss, the volume contains documented material drawn from original research and hitherto unpublished. It is the product of two brilliant reporters and writers—Victor Lasky of the New York World-Telegram and Ralph de Toledano of Newsweek magazine. Reading of advanced copies has created a sensation at the Capital, and has brought deep furores to the brows of President Truman, Secretary Acheson and Democratic National Chairman William Boyle.

FACTUAL—It proves in factual form that a widespread group of once honored and prominent New Deal officials, chiefly in the Department of Agriculture during Henry Wallace's regime, conspired to infiltrate pro-Moscow men into all branches of the government with the objective of influencing our foreign policy in favor of the Kremlin.

It gives names, dates and facts of repeated warnings against the conspiracy that was "laughed off" by the late President Roosevelt, President Truman, Secretary Acheson, Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter and Warren Austin, United States delegate to the United Nations.

It also suggests that the famed FBI was asleep at the switch, delinquent or susceptible to political influence for its ten-year failure to uncover the cells and rings involved in this effort to weaken the United States vis-a-vis Russia.

WARE—The original Russian agent was Hal Ware, described as a "cross between a college professor and race-track tout," but extremely able. He was the son of Ella Reeve Bloor, who is still known to Communists everywhere as "Mother Bloor."

Oddly enough, Ware had been a 31-a-year man with Agriculture from 1925 to 1932, making frequent trips to the Soviet to study their work in this field. But he did not dare to engage in pro-Communist activity here until the Roosevelt Administration's recognition of Russia in 1933.

Lee Pressman, then a lawyer at Agriculture and later a CIO official during its Communist-dominated period, is charged with mobilizing young New Dealers for Ware's purpose. Among the members named are Nathan Witt, John Abt (who subsequently married Ware's widow), Henry Collins, Charles Kramer, Alger Hiss and the late Harry Dexter White of the Treasury.

IMPORTANT—Each of these individuals had an important part in framing or influencing domestic or foreign policy. Witt helped to write the original National Labor Relations Act that gave such preponderant power to the leftist CIO, so much that the A. F. of L. entered official complaints. Abt was a key man at Agriculture during the Wallace regime.

White wrote the Morgenthau plan for pastoralizing Germany, thus making both eastern and western zones susceptible to Russian conquest. Hiss' role is well known, but "Seeds of Treason" throws new light on his behind-the-scenes influence at Yalta, Dumbarton Oaks and at the San Francisco conference which organized the United Nations. All his advice favored Russia.

Incidentally, most of these men, in appearances before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, have declined to admit that they knew each other on the ground that it "would incriminate and degrade them."

HISS—It was Pressman who got Alger Hiss named as legal counsel for the Nye Committee that investigated American munitions makers of World War I. In describing Hiss' "cross-examination of the du Ponts, Curtis-Wright airplane officials, the House of Morgan and Bernard M. Baruch, newspaper reporters praised him highly.

He was depicted as a "verbal battering ram," whose surname, a "sinister, sibilant monosyllable," was an "echo from moist and somber Stygian darkness." Hiss tried to prove that America's leading financiers, manufacturers and allied interests had forced the U. S. into World War I simply for the sake of the profits there were in it. A noted editorial writer commented: "The Communists must have uttered a resounding whoop . . . at the conclusion of the investigation of the Morgan firm by the Nye Committee!"

The chief exposé was Alger Hiss!

ESCALATOR—Hiss' next move on the Moscow-directed escalator was to the Department of Justice. There, as aide to then Solicitor General Stanley Reed, (who appeared as a Hiss character witness in the first trial, but not in the second), he was extremely happy in preparing briefs defending the constitutionality of New Deal legislation.

In fact, he wanted to decline an invitation to shift to State to frame briefs supporting the constitutionality of the Trade Agreements Act. He was offered this job by former Assistant Secretary Francis B. Sayre, one of Hiss' law professors at Harvard, and son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson.

But Whittaker Chambers, then running the Soviet cell at Washington, ordered Hiss to change over to State because of the espionage opportunities it would offer.

Former Secretary Edward R. Stettinius, who was not too bright, fell for Hiss, and leaped on him at Yalta, Dumbarton Oaks and San Francisco. It was at these conferences, as events have since demonstrated, that a United States which had sacrificed so to win the war lost the peace for which that war was fought.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.

REVENUE—The report on revenue collections for the month of March, particularly income taxes, does not afford as much information as had been hoped. Total receipts for the month and for the nine months of the fiscal year were just about what estimates forecast, but there were some complications which make further prediction very hazardous. Sales taxes were up about $300,000, which surprised most people. Income revenue was way down, which did not surprise anybody.

UNCERTAIN—What makes it extremely difficult to make accurate comparison between this and former years is the changed policy in the state revenue department. Commissioner Shaw reports that the new mechanized system has made it possible to process returns much faster, and therefore the final report as of March 31 more nearly covers all money actually received at the department. That means there is less prospect of "pick up" amounts later. On the other hand, he notes more extensions of time for filing and a larger percentage of partial payments. That means more money for later.

PERCENTAGE—It is admitted—the factors mentioned make it a big "if"—collections for the next three months follow same percentage proportions of the past two years the state will collect for its general account this fiscal year about $129,800,000. In 1948 and again in 1949 the collections through March 31 represented the 82 1/2% of this year's receipts. The total will be $129,800,000—almost ten millions under last year's total but very close to original budget estimates of general fund revenue. Indications as of now are the budgeteers did a better job of estimating income last time than in many years before.

DEFENSE—Proposed by Adjutant General J. Van B. Metts for establishment of a civil defense program came as a shock to some Capitol square observers who have discussed it since Friday. The council of state heard the proposal then and the governor named a special committee to confer with national defense authorities in Washington before going further with plans. The shock was occasioned by suggestion that a war is imminent enough to require such elaborate and expensive regimentation of civilian activities.

REACTION—Following the first surprise came unfavorable reaction. Objection was raised to establishment of still another state government agency with high payroll. Such groups have pyramided during the past year or so, while existing regulatory agencies have tightened control over activities of the citizens. In addition to natural resentment at militarization of the state, was fear that this is another step toward surrendering more state responsibility to federal authorities.

O.C.D.—Several people recalled experiences of the Office of Civilian Defense during the late war. Recognizing that this agency cost a lot to public morale and enthusiasm in its early days, there is also recalled the waste and extravagance in purchase of use-less equipment and turning down many people doubted then and now whether the O.C.D. really justified itself and at that time there was a real shooting war going on.

PREPAREDNESS—Argument for the proposed set-up is that if war comes it will come with such suddenness and destructive forces as to leave no time for defense preparations. The state officials who will confer in Washington this week may be able to throw light on the real need or lack of it for the program now. Effect so far has been to increase rather than to alleviate the jitters of those who are sure another war is inevitable.

ASSET—Economic significance to North Carolina of the several large military establishments is emphasized by an editorial in the Wilmington News. It is common fallacy to refer to eastern North Carolina as having no important payrolls comparable to the big industrial centers of the Piedmont. The Wilmington paper points out that some 1600 civilians are employed at Cherry Point, almost as many at Camp Lejeune, and that total payroll of these two Marine bases runs more than three and a half million dollars a month. Less authoritative figures indicate that when Fort Bragg and Pope Field installations are added, the total civilian employment at the big marine and army stations is well above 4,000 and the aggregate payroll for civilian and military personnel in excess of sixty million dollars a year. Activities of the coast guard and numerous small units scattered throughout the east, increase the aggregate value as an economic asset of the military operations in this state.

UNKNOWN—Reason the extent of these activities have not been more fully appreciated is that during the time of their construction national security demanded secrecy. It is still necessary to keep quiet about numerous specific activities and equipment, but the News suggests it is now "time Eastern North Carolina developed a better appreciation for these facilities, not only from the standpoint of national security but their economic meaning to the locality."

WHAT REALLY COUNTS (Greensboro Daily News) Under the general heading of "Speed," the Raleigh News and Observer observes in its "Speed in the Dome" column that "speed limits apparently can't be assigned much of the blame for North Carolina's disturbing highway death rate." Of course they can't.

But before going into the matter further, let's let our Raleigh contemporary go on with what it has to say: "A new survey shows that the state's 55-miles-per-hour limit on the open road is well in line with, and even a bit below, the national average."

"Taking the nation as a whole, open highway limits run all the way from Kentucky's 35 miles per hour to no speed limits at all for Indiana and Nevada. Two states have daytime limits of 65 miles, and 18 others have the 60-mile limit that North Carolina had unofficially a few years ago."

Now, then, may we inject or append a few thoughts of our own? Speed limit or no speed limit, the official figures and finding show that it is speed that kills. The question thus becomes not so much what a state's speed limit is as how that speed limit is obeyed or enforced and the circumstances and conditions under which drivers do their fast death-dealing driving. Taking a curve too fast, speeding up to pass another car, especially on a hill or where visibility is otherwise bad, dashing ahead and through heavy traffic, not paying close attention, even for a split second, to your car while zipping along, these are the factors which enter into and cause death and destruction. No cold figures on mere speed limits can or will get at them and their elimination or even reduction. Safe operation of a motor vehicle means having it under control under varying conditions and circumstances.

Setting up a speed limit, whatever it may be under different and more or less arbitrarily arrived at figures, is part of the law enforcement pattern; but how effectively that pattern applies is determined by law enforcement itself. If the man or woman under the wheel could be under an officer's eye at the same time, you'd see these mounting casualty statistics start sliding down the other way immediately.

Setting any speed limit and then expecting that to suffice is about the surest way we can think of to send the highway death toll soaring.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

The retail price maintenance contracts permitted by the "fair trade" laws existent in most states are now headed for one of their stiffest court tests yet.

Under the fair trade laws, the manufacturer of a product is allowed to set the price the retailer charges. But policing such prices is another matter. The manufacturer can watch the big department stores easily enough, especially those known to be price-cutters, but observing the millions of transactions of thousands of small retailers is a mighty tough task.

Recently several of the largest New York department stores, notably Macy's, publicly cut the list prices of some of the best-known brands of toasters, irons, roasters, kitchen mixers and other products, and announced that if their smaller competitors could sell below the manufacturer's retail tag, so could they. In effect, the department stores said to the manufacturers, take us into court.

For several weeks the producers of the items chosen for price-cutting viewed the new situation cautiously. Last week, one of the largest appliance manufacturers (General Electric) stepped into the ring and brushed the chip off the Macy's shoulder with a suit to enjoin the store from selling its products below the official list. Macy officials have let it be known that they intend to appear in court as directed April 10, with well prepared arguments. They'll be aimed at upsetting the Fair Trade Law itself, other retailers believe.

Even if the big store is successful in breaching the law in New York, similar statutes in other states will, of course, still stand. But the breach would have strong influence on retailers and courts elsewhere. The Fair Trade structure in neighboring states, for example, could hardly stand up if New York stores were permitted to set any prices they want on such items.

At least one large manufacturer of steam irons has embargoed shipments to New York pending a settlement of the open price war there. Several other makers of famous household appliances have notified dealers they intend to take all steps necessary, as provided by the law, to maintain resale prices. A number of other smaller dealers have gotten summonses from manufacturers recently charging violations of fair trade contracts on various items.

Most GI Insurance Money Out; Bulk Went To TV, Autos Most of the close to $3 billion that will eventually be paid in servicemen as refunds on their insurance had gone into the mails by the end of March. A small but sizable batch of payments will continue from now until June. After that some checks will continue to go out to late applicants for the rest of 1950 but these will be just a sprinkling compared to the heavy payments that provided so important a business prop the first three months of the year.

Did the refund help business much? Many retailers think so. Department store sales felt the impact almost immediately, as witness Federal Reserve reports on sales late in January and early February. Dealers seem to think television sets and autos captured more of the money than other goods, with other appliances and new homes also feeling the impact. If recent clothing sales are any criterion, not many of the vets spent their checks on new outfits, as had been hoped. Did the boys save much of their windfall? No one knows yet, but when the terminal-pay checks were issued, only an insignificant portion went into savings accounts and bonds.

ADVISE EARLY SUMMER APPAREL PROMOTIONS With the Spring apparel business considered disappointing what with competition from TV and home goods, buying offices are advising stores to attempt to recoup by starting Summer promotions early this year. Especially recommended for needing early feminine interest are promotions of blouses and tee shirts (volume on both has been holding up well), and displays of chintz skirts and denim separates. Denim playclothes are expected to be an important style note this year now that they'll be available in bright colors besides the traditional faded blue.

New Business Frontiers Art Just Down The Road In almost every case, large department stores are reporting that while their big downtown locations are falling behind, their new suburban branches are forging ahead. Have you visited any of the new shopping centers of the new neighborhoods on the outskirts of town? In some of the stores, you have to queue up to get waited on.

With increasing traffic congestion, many suburban families are reluctant to come downtown to buy, especially if they have to drag kids along. In fact, some branch stores report they find women coming from downtown to shop in the compact branch stores. Downtown retailers without branches are still bucking the drift to the suburbs by more night openings for wage-earner shopping, and strong newspaper advertising that relies less on institutional copy, and more on specific item promotion.

Hal Boyle's Column

New York—(AP)—The season of airy madness is upon us. It is the time to find a home on the loam and begin a begonia.

With bulk and seed the spring gardener goeth forth to sow the good earth in his backyard, and he cometh in at eventide, raked by his own growing pains and covered with topeoil.

And to save my life this is one class of citizen I cannot understand. I have a dim appreciation of why people become birdwatchers, and my soul knows a sense of sympathy for horseplayers, butterfly collectors and that strange kind of fauna that gets up before dawn to prowl beaches in search of the better seashell.

Their passion for these strange pursuits I don't share, but at least I can sense what makes them what they are. But the spring gardener—there's an odd one beyond my grasp comprehension.

What primordial urge each spring sends him out to duel the landscape, convinced that this year he can conquer crabgrass, gladden the heart of a gladiolus and grow a five-pound strawberry? Why does he want to anyway?

All I can see he does is annoy the balance of nature. There he stalks, this man without a hoe, giving hormone shots to geraniums that don't want them, ambushing innocent potato bugs with deadly spray guns and interfering with the home life of robins.

Yes sir, from the minute the spring gardener sticks his big green thumb into the backyard there's no rest for bird, bug, tree or plant until snow flies.

By autumn he will total up his victories and find he has raised about $25 worth of vegetables. To do this he will have spent about $500 in fancy tools—he needs more equipment than a paratroop battalion—$50 in doctor bills, sunburn lotions and liniment, and about $100 in labor. This is figuring his time at a nickel an hour, which may be more than it is worth.

All this wouldn't be so bad if these frustrated farmers would stay in their own back yards. But they bring small triumphs from ant-palooza dinners—a pea plant that podded a rose that blighted into the office. All they'll talk about is whether they should have the azaleas with peat moss and lime, or just good old-fashioned hyper humus, whatever that is.

They prattle endlessly on the supposed merits of the outdoor life, the fine exercise they get, and how much better they sleep at nights. I guess that's hyper humus, too. Anyway, I don't want any of it.

All I want to do with the good earth in the wonderful season of spring is to wander across it or lie upon it and read a poem or listen to the birds call. I don't hate the worm, and if a bug doesn't bite me I won't DDT him. Nor do I have any desire to hurry the grass—or curry it either.

And I think it would be a fine thing if all spring gardeners at this magic time would either go climb a rhododendron or quit bragging and grow something really impressive—say a redwood tree.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Beware of the high pressure salesman who may try to enter your home on this year's "golden gimmick"—the census. The National Better Business Bureau recommends that door-to-door salesmen representing themselves as census takers be reported to police immediately. Census takers show their credentials. Any persons unwilling to do so should be reported.

In the "golden gimmick" game, as it is known to high-pressure salesmen, door-to-door canvassers represent themselves initially as "making a poll." They represent: that the "sponsors" will give the housewife some commodity if she will send in a dollar with her "vote." A variation of the scheme is to require box tops or labels with the "votes"—plus cash payments. "Legitimate research firms have nothing to sell and no contracts for housewives to sign." The Better Business Bureau insists.

Uncle Sam's 140,000 census takers all have a card which they'll show you the minute they ring your doorbell. They'll also have a big schedule "kit," across the top of it you can read "1950 Census of the United States." The card bears a seal of the U.S. Department of Commerce printed after the name of the enumerator. After he shows his credentials the man or woman census-taker will ask the following items of information about each member of the family:

Name? Relationship to head of family? Race? Sex? Age? Marital status? State or country of birth? Citizen? Of those over 14 years of age, the census-taker will ask employment status last week, occupation or industry class of worker. The enumerator also will ask of every fifth individual four additional questions: State, county, farm or non-farm residence a year ago (to measure immigration from farms to cities, or vice versa), country of birth of father and mother, highest grade of school attended and school attendance.

Another group of questions will be asked every fifth person 14 and over: If unemployed, duration of unemployment in 1949 from (a) wages or salaries; (b) own business, profession or farm; (c) interest, dividends, rents or other income? Income received in 1949 by relatives in same household in same categories? Veteran status of males?

The Better Business Bureau participated in a national campaign to curb activities of salesmen pretending to be taking surveys in order to gain entry into homes. Officials point out the campaign was successful but warn that salesmen or bill collectors may begin using the word "census" to gain entry during the 1950 census.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

PRESS STANDARDS (Editor and Publisher)

ONCE AGAIN it has been suggested that American newspapers establish a board of standards for the press. This time it was made a day by Leo Rosten, lecturer and author, during the Public Affairs Conference of the Yale University Law School.

"Doctors and lawyers must meet certain standards; why not the press?" he asked. "The answer to the question is as follows: The right to use a printing press is guaranteed by the Constitution. Newspapers' codes and standards are purely voluntary, and must be so. Any compulsion to require observance of standards of necessity requires someone to write the code and act as policeman.

Who is to be entrusted with that job? A government agency? Lawyers? The newspapermen in New York, or Chicago? Or those in San Francisco? Who is so unimpeachable that he, or they, can divine when the press is right or wrong?

Once compulsion of any sort if written into the Constitutional guarantee we may as well delete the word "free."

COW SENSE IN COURT (The Hartford, Conn. Courant) "Warning, Cattle Crossing" is a familiar sign along highway in northern New England. Vermont in particular has quite a general supply of them. Connecticut does not need that kind of protection. Or is the sign for the safety of the motorist? At any rate, our cows have an inalienable right to use our highways. No less an authority on rights human and bovine than the Supreme Court of Errors has decreed immunity for cattle.

It seems that an unwary motorist, according to the Court, sued as the result of a collision with a cow crossing the highway. The plaintiff alleged that the cow, without warning, ran into the path of his car. He thought the owner was negligent in not having the animal secured and under control by a halter.

The Court took judicial notice of the bovine nature. It is difficult to drive or lead cows "because of their propensity for stopping and turning suddenly and without warning." This cussedness of cattle, with which farmers have to contend, also constitutes a hazard against which unwary motorists must guard. Beware of the cow. While they are on the loose, you use the highway at your own risk. All this may not seem like good law to the motorist speeding to his destination. But it is good plain horse sense, or should we say, cow sense?

Man Convicted Of Treason Missing From Small Boat; Sub Seen In Area

Avalon, Catalina Island, Calif., April 3—(AP)—A man identified from a photograph as one convicted of wartime treason, vanishes from a small boat at sea.

A few hours later, a mysterious submarine is sighted off the southern California coast.

And the convict, tall, saber-scarred Theodore Donay, 51, Detroit, is reported missing from his home since Wednesday.

These coincidences were pieced together today by authorities investigating the disappearance of a man who rented a boat here Saturday and never returned.

Constable K. McDavid said Ray Dodge, boat rental dock attendant, had identified an Associated Press wirephoto of Donay as his mysterious patron. A wallet left as security for the rented vessel contained a driver's license issued to Donay, McDavid said.

Wreck In Britain Killed Tar Heel

Burtonwood, Eng., April 3—(AP)—Francis M. Burns, 20, of Lakewood, N. J., was killed last Friday morning when a motorcycle on which he was a passenger crashed into a bridge four miles from this U. S. Air Force depot, the Airforce announced today.

The driver, Corp. Billie Fore of (10 Symre Mill avenue) Gastonia, N. C., suffered a fractured right ankle and head injuries. Officials at the base said heavy fog and the slippery condition of the pavement caused the accident.

at 6:20 a.m. yesterday. The Navy said no American submarines were in the area at the time.

McDavid said officers had noted the coincidence of the two events, but there was "no concrete evidence" they were connected in any way.

McDavid said a torn half of a printed form found in the man's hotel room here contained the following words:

"Delivery over the counter in Berlin or by parcel post in Berlin to the Russian zone from stock in Berlin by parcel post from New York."

"No. 265, hard in tins, sugar, rice, roasted coffee, cocoa, whole milk powder, $5.50 lbs."

In Detroit, Donay's brother Felix told newsmen he had not seen Theodore since last Wednesday. Donay, he said, left to go to Caro, Mich., to see his former wife and son.

Donay, born in Germany, was the first man in the history of the United States to be convicted of misprision (concealment) of treason. He was accused of failing to report the presence in Detroit in 1942 of an escaped Nazi flier, Hans Peter Krug. He was convicted there in 1943 and sentenced to six and a half years.

A new trial was ordered Saturday after a Lee county superior court jury failed to agree on a verdict.

Robins' Games Will Not Be Broadcast In Season Ahead

Neither Away-From-Home Games Nor Home Games To Be Aired; Previous Commitments By WGTC And Club's Concern Over Attendance Is Reason

Greenville baseball fans will have to attend the games this season if they are to know just what sort of ball club the Robins have.

Word from station WGTC has it there will be no broadcast of the Robins' games, either the ones played at home or away from home.

A Hartwell Campbell, manager of the station, said this morning the away-from-home games could not be broadcast this season because of previous commitments with the Mutual Broadcasting System, which WGTC became affiliated with April 1.

Prior to Campbell's announcement it was learned that the management of the Robins would not allow the station to broadcast home games because it would hurt attendance.

In an interview Campbell said the station was seriously considering the broadcast of all games, but when the Robins' management indicated they wanted no home-game broadcast, the station decided to do away with the air time entirely.

He stated since the Mutual hook-up was effected last Saturday the station would be able to air only a few innings of the out-of-town games because of previous commitments to network programs.

He stated there is "no disagreement between the station and the local owners of the ball club. We will work with them in the future for the general welfare of the club."

It was his opinion, however, that broadcast of home games would not hurt the Robins' attendance. He expressed the belief that it would increase interest on the part of local fans in actually seeing the games.

Campbell announced, though, the station will carry broadcasts of major league games through its Mutual affiliation. The broadcasts will be in the afternoons, he said, between the major league clubs having the most popularity hereabouts.

Pat Dougherty, Michigan boxer, must have set some kind of a record for weight changes when he fought at 155 pounds in 1947 and 1948 and dropped to 135 pounds in 1949. He is fighting at 145 pounds this season.

Green Phantoms Travel To Rocky Mount Today

Baseballers In Second Outing Of Season; Farley Says Team Looked 'Pretty Good' In Loss To Kinston

Greenville high school baseballers are out for their first win this afternoon as they journey to Rocky Mount and their second outing of the 1950 season.

Bo Farley's varsity bowed to the Kinston Red Devils last Friday afternoon in a close but loosely-played contest, 2-1. The locals could garner only one hit—a single—off Kinston pitching and in turn, Kinston could get only two off the offerings of Greenville's Bobby Flye and Julian Vainright.

Farley said this morning the team looked pretty good, considering the practice it had had during the cold and rainy weather of the past two weeks. He said he expected them to improve with a few games under their belts, particularly in their fielding.

Derby Hopeful In Jamaica Debut

New York, April 3—(AP)—Hill Prince, rated with the top two-year-old colts of 1949 and Virginia's big hope in the Kentucky Derby, is scheduled to make his 1950 debut Wednesday in the Experimental Free Handicap No. 1 at Jamaica.

From now on the Derby warm-ups will be coming in rapid-fire order, leading to the Churchill Downs classic at Louisville May 6. A lot of the candidates will be weeded out in the process.

Hill Prince, bred and owned by C. T. Chenery, has been away from competition since last September when he won the Cowdin Stakes at Aqueduct and cracked the track record with a 1:16 3-5 clocking for six and one-half furlongs.

Just what the bay son of Princesquillo will meet in the $20,000-added Experimental, over the six furlong route, remains to be seen.

It is expected that Greentree Stable will send out Guillotine winner of the Belmont Futurity last fall. Guillotine sharpened up for the Experimental by winning the Cedar Manor Purse Saturday, his first start of the year.

Hill Prince, which will be ridden by Eddie Arcaro, drew 124 pounds in the Experimental ratings of John B. Campbell, handicapper and racing secretary of the New York tracks.

Sport Slants

Wayne Twigg Terwilliger was brought up from Los Angeles late last season and played in 36 games for the Chicago Cubs.

The rest of the lineup will be the same as last Friday. Sid Briley will hold down first base, with Billy Jordan on second, Larry Flye at short, and Gene Ayers at third.

The outfield will be intact for this second game—Bobby Perry in left, Hilton Quinn in center and Jody Taylor in right field. None in the outfield could get a piece of the ball Friday but are expected to come through with hits during the next games.

Bob Has Heard It Before, 'Feller Is All Washed Up'

El Paso, Tex., April 3—(AP)—It happened in 1948 and in '49, too, so it won't surprise Rapid Robert Feller if he hears and reads again in the next few weeks that he's "all washed up."

It won't surprise the Cleveland Indians' one-time boy wonder pitcher, and it won't hurt him as much as it did before. But Feller is a proud and sensitive athlete, and it will hurt a little.

This is the big righthander's 12th season hurling for the Tribe. His fireball doesn't give off sparks anymore, and a touch of silver shows near his temples. He will be 32 this year.

red at shortstop for Western Michigan University and sent to Des Moines for the remainder of the 1948 season. Last season he started with Los Angeles and played in only 115 contests before the Cubs called him up.

Few ball players, work harder to succeed in their field than does Terwilliger. When the young second baseman isn't tossing a baseball around, he is squeezing a hard rubber ball which he carries constantly, to strengthen his hand and arm muscles. Twigg passed up several more tempting offers to sign with the Cubs, because he figured his chances for advancement were best with the Chicago Cubs. It turned out to be a fine guess.

Bob Has Heard It Before, 'Feller Is All Washed Up'

Feller did his first exhibition-game hurling of the season against major league batters yesterday. The Chicago Cubs lambasted him for 12 runs and 14 hits in six innings.

He struck out two, walked five and served up home run pitches to Catcher Mickey Owen and Second Baseman Wayne Terwilliger. The Indians barely managed to win the game, 13-12, on a four-run rally in the ninth.

Does it mean anything? Not much, for Feller obviously was taking it easy, as he said he intended to do during the training season. And it was his first mound duty since March 20, because a virus infection had him sidelined.

Impressive Start By Young $100,000 Bonus Pitcher

New Orleans, April 3—(AP)—Paul Pettit, Pittsburgh's $100,000 bonus pitcher, has made an impressive beginning in his professional baseball career.

The 18-year-old California southpaw rookie was farmed to New Orleans of the Class AA Southern Association for one year's seasoning. Yesterday Pettit went to the mound for the third time during exhibition play and inherited the tough job of preserving a no-hitter.

Another New Orleans rookie, Bob Purkey, had pitched the first four innings against Nashville, another Southern Association team, without giving up a hit. And Purkey had singled in the only run.

But Pettit came through in fine style and New Orleans won the no-hit game, 1-0.

Shotton Prefers Good Sleepers

Mobile, Ala., April 3—(AP)—If you want to play with the Brooklyn Dodgers, get plenty of sleep.

Burt Shotton, the Dodgers' manager, has cited clean living as a vital factor in winning a job with his club.

"If two players are of equal ability, I'm going to take the one that goes to bed earliest," Shotton said. "More pennants have been lost through dissipating, than anything else."

Bengal Pitchers Are Improving

Lakeland, Fla., April 3—(AP)—Slow to start, the Detroit Tigers' mound staff has shown some fine improvement lately.

In the last four games, Bengal hurlers gave up only seven runs and 27 hits. Yesterday Ted Gray and Paul (Dizzy) Trout gave the Boston Red Sox just seven hits and set the Sox down 6 to 3. Virgil Trucks, Marvin Grissom, Saul Rog-

N.C. State Wins NCAA Consolation

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 3—(AP)—Al Brazle and Max Lanier, who have pitched less than any St. Louis Cardinal hurlers this spring, are scheduled to work today against the Boston Red Sox.

Brazle has had a sore arm and hasn't pitched since March 12. Lanier, bothered by back trouble, last pitched on March 17.

Reds Make Final Start In Florida

Tampa, Fla., April 3—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds, who lost two week-end exhibition games, were to make their final Florida start today against the New York Yankees.

Kent Peterson was scheduled to try for a seven-inning stint with Ken Raffensberger and Herman Wehmeier slated to divide duty in the last two frames.

Robins To Stage First Exhibition Here April Ninth

Easter Sunday will be opening day for the Greenville Robins so far as local fans are concerned.

Although Coastal Plain League play doesn't get underway until April 20, the Robins will appear here next Sunday for the first exhibition game of the year.

Playing a nine-game slate prior to the 1950 opening day the Robins take on Lumberton, their blood brothers in the Tobacco State League, at 2 p.m. Sunday. On Saturday the two clash in a game at Lumberton, a warmup affair for the opening one here.

The rest of the schedule for exhibition games, as announced Saturday by Dallas Blackiston, Robins' business manager, has five games played at the Guy Smith stadium.

Easter Monday night there is an open date for the club but the schedule will resume Tuesday night with the Robins playing Petersburg, Virginia, here.

Another open date comes on Wednesday, April 12, but on Thursday the team begins the remaining six-game slate. That night they take on Amsterdam, N.Y., at Windsor where the up-state New York team has been training.

On Thursday Wilson's Tobs play here in the first Coastal Plain competition for the Greenville team and the locals return the game on the 17th.

The remaining games here will be with East Carolina's varsity on the 15th and York, Penn., on the 16th. For their last game on the exhibition slate, the Robins take on Norfolk at Edenton April 18th.

Villemain Meets 'Spoiler' Tonight

Philadelphia, April 3—(AP)—Robert Villemain, the colorful Frenchman who considers it his patriotic duty to return the middleweight boxing crown to his homeland, meets a "spoiler" tonight in young Otis Graham.

The pint-sized Frenchman — he stands but five feet six — is filled with a consuming ambition to bring home the crown he insists his countryman Marcel Cerdan, would have regained had not fate cancelled the opportunity. Cerdan was killed in a plane crash while flying here for a return bout with Champion Jake LaMotta. LaMotta won the title by beating Cerdan in Detroit.

Villemain already has defeated LaMotta in a non-title match and now is pressing for a meeting at championship weights. Two things stand in the Frenchman's way. The first and most immediate problem is tonight's 10 rounder at the Arena against Graham. Should he lick Graham, Villemain then probably would have to face Ray (Sugar) Robinson with the winner emerging number one challenger to LaMotta.

Clint Hartung To Get Chance

El Paso, Tex., April 3—(AP)—Clint Hartung, hitter-turned-pitcher for the New York Giants, will be given a trial in the coming exhibition games to see, once and for all, if he can pitch in the major leagues.

Tooted as the "Hurricane" from Hondo, Tex., Hartung never quite has lived up to expectation. He had a mediocre 9-11 record with the Giants last season.

But during the new workers' traditional games with Cleveland, Hartung will be used freely. The tour, incidentally, will swing through seven states during a 14-game run.

Lane To Join His White Sox

San Antonio, Tex., April 3—(AP)—General Manager Frank Lane was scheduled to fly here today from Chicago to join the Chicago White Sox on their exhibition tour.

Lane will miss Luke Appling's birthday celebration by one day. Luke, the "Iron Man" shortstop who is being tried out at first base, was presented with a cake with 73 candles yesterday—his true age being one of baseball's humorous mysteries.

Gustine Ready To Play Again

San Antonio, Tex., April 3—(AP)—Frankie Gustine, veteran third baseman, is ready to play for the St. Louis Browns. He made the decision yesterday, much to Manager Zech Taylor's relief.

Gustine reported late at the Browns' training camp and said he didn't know whether he could ever play ball again. His doctor diagnosed his illness as nervous fatigue.

Taylor plans to use Gustine in today's game against the Chicago White Sox.

Hawaii Prepares For Statehood If Action Taken

Honolulu, April 3—(AP)—Like a girl hopeful of a proposal from "that man," Hawaii will begin filling her hope chest tomorrow.

"That man" is Congress. Sixty-three delegates elected by the people of Hawaii will convene tomorrow to prepare the hope chest—a state constitution. They want it ready if Congress invites the territory to become one of the United States.

Twenty-nine are Republicans, 21 are Democrats, and 13 have not been identified with either party.

The convention is expected to last two months. The legislature has appropriated money to pay each delegate $1,000 for 60 days' work.

Ty Cobb and Rogers Hornsby hold the top lifetime batting averages in organized baseball with .367 and .358 averages respectively.

Seeking Private Homes For Aged After Report

Kinston, N.C., April 3—(AP)—Officials of the Lenoir County Home were looking for private quarters today for their 18 charges.
 The action was an outgrowth of a grand jury report terming the home for the aged a "firetrap" and which urged that immediate steps be taken to make the dwelling "at least reasonably fireproof."
 On Friday, Welfare Superintendent G. B. Hanrahan and a representative of the state welfare department conferred over the report. Following the conference, Hanrahan assigned each of his caseworkers a certain number of the home's residents with instructions to find private homes for them immediately.
 Half of the home's residents are over 65. Oldest are Mr. and Mrs. Will Harrison, both 84.

Weed And Pest Killers Backfire

Washington, April 3—(AP)—Some of man's newest weapons against weeds and animal pests are backfiring, the Fish and Wildlife Service said today.
 In the Service's annual report, Director Albert M. Day mentioned, as one example, the heavy loss of birds and other wildlife resulting from the spraying of bark beetles with the insecticide DDT.
 He told Secretary of the Interior Chapman that other examples include the new chemical herbicides or weed-killers now widely used.
 "In Iowa alone, more than 20,000 acres of cornland were treated with 2-4-D for weed control," Day said.
 "Since weed seeds constitute an important and frequently the sole source of foods for songbirds and important game birds, this rapidly expanding substitute for cultivation requires careful appraisal.
 "The chemical control of pest plants has resulted also in serious kills of fish and marked modifications of aquatic habits."
 On the brighter side, Day said stockmen and sportsmen alike report greater benefits from the control of predatory animals than in any previous year.
 "Throughout the United States and Alaska there have been fewer losses of game, livestock and poultry from predatory animals and lessened damage to stored foods, crops, orchards, range lands and forest plantations by destructive rodents," he said.

Expect N. C. Senate Campaigns To Shape Up During This Week

(Reflector Raleigh Bureau)
By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, April 3—There is a sort of feeling, without much basis in factual information, that the senatorial campaign will begin to take definite shape this week. That may be simply because time is running out. The primary will be seven weeks from Saturday, and fact is the campaign hasn't "jelled" up to now.

Last week was rather uneventful, so far as indication of trends or concrete results were concerned. Biggest single item of news was retirement from the race for the full six year term of Marshall Kurfess of Winston-Salem, leaving Senator Clyde Hoy unopposed for renomination. That incident made headlines but had little effect upon the situation because Kurfess himself has rated his chances to win at approximate ratio of one in one thousand.

Former Senator Robert R. Reynolds, one of four candidates for the seat now held by Frank Graham, got little mention in the news. He didn't make any speeches, but said he was busy catching up with correspondence and he promises to "open up in a big way" this week. Olla Ray Boyd, another announced candidate, didn't even scratch the publicity board.

That leaves Senator Frank Graham and his principal challenger, Willis Smith. Both have been very busy, mostly in the western half of the state, although both showed up at Wilmington for the azalea festival. Their headquarters offices in the Sir Walter Hotel, Graham on the fifth floor and Smith on the first, have been busy, too. Typewriters, mimeograph machines, telephones, letter folders and proof readers have been working night and day. Each office turned out an average of a thousand letters or more a day. With other mailings of campaign literature, that means Uncle Sam's postoffice took in some $500 for postage.

There was, of course, a lot of duplication in these letters. Most of them went to "lists" of doctors and lawyers and druggist and Rotarian, Kiwanians, Civitans and Jaycees, and what have you. There is duplication in these lists, and about one third of them are Republicans. But that's the way campaigns have to be run when candidates must seek votes from every citizen in the state. The letters cost about a dime apiece for stationery, printing, typing, compiling mail lists and postage. That figures out to around a hundred bucks a day for each candidate for letters alone—and there are nearly fifty days yet before the primary on May 27.

Meantime, respective managers of the candidates are completing county organizations. Here is where some very cagey political maneuvering comes in. Lists for local county and legislative candidates will not close until Saturday of next week. Until then all states candidates and managers are being very careful not to offend the "wrong" people; but they can't wait always.

Governor Scott has thrown full force of his administration behind Senator Graham. So has National Committeeman Jonathan Daniels and his News and Observer. This all out personal partisanship breaks long time precedent. Its effectiveness cannot be determined until election day. North Carolinians like to ride the bandwagon, but they proved two years ago they do not like for big shots in the party and in state government to attempt to give orders about how they should vote. As of this date Senator Graham is undoubtedly in the lead, because he is so much better known and because he is a part of whatever "machine" there is in state politics. Whether he holds that lead will depend upon ability of Willis Smith and his organization to acquaint the voters with his personality and political philosophy, and also the degree of resentment against machine domination.

Events of this week will not settle or determine this issue, but they may well indicate the trend.

Bid For Peace In PGA Parley

Chicago, April 3—(AP)—Attempts will be made in a PGA parley today to get the Nation's headline golfers of the warpath and back contentedly on the tournament trail.

The players' battle cry being carried to PGA officials by representative George Schnitner is "return to the tourney golf to the tourney player."

The top-drawer pros want to conduct their own legislation under a separate division within the PGA structure. They demand that such a setup be written into the organization's constitution.

Schnitner, the PGA tournament bureau manager and playing pro from Utah, is firmly supported as spokesman in the uprising against legislative power of PGA delegates by such stars as Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, Jimmy Demaret, Lloyd Mangrum, Gary Middlecoff, Clayton Heathner, Johnny Palmer, Bob Hamilton, Toney Penna, Jimmy Thomson and Lawson Little.

Under the new plan, these players make up a board of governors for execution of tournament business, including the negotiating and signing of agreements and control of the tournament bureau fund.

Schnitner aid legislative control now rests mainly with country club pros with playing pros being frozen out.

"These delegates, without malice and with the sincere thought they were doing a good thing, have overstretched the distribution of tournament prize money said Schnitner in explaining one of the main issues.

Raymond Hair's Murder Trial To Begin Wednesday

Raleigh, N. C., April 3—(AP)—Raymond D. Hair's murder trial is scheduled to begin Wednesday in Wake Superior court.

Hair, 23-year old pre-medical student at Wake Forest, is accused of murdering Roy Coble, 20, on the college campus last December 15.

Coble, a former student at the college, was found shot in the head and bleeding in the front of Hair's car after a minor accident on the campus.

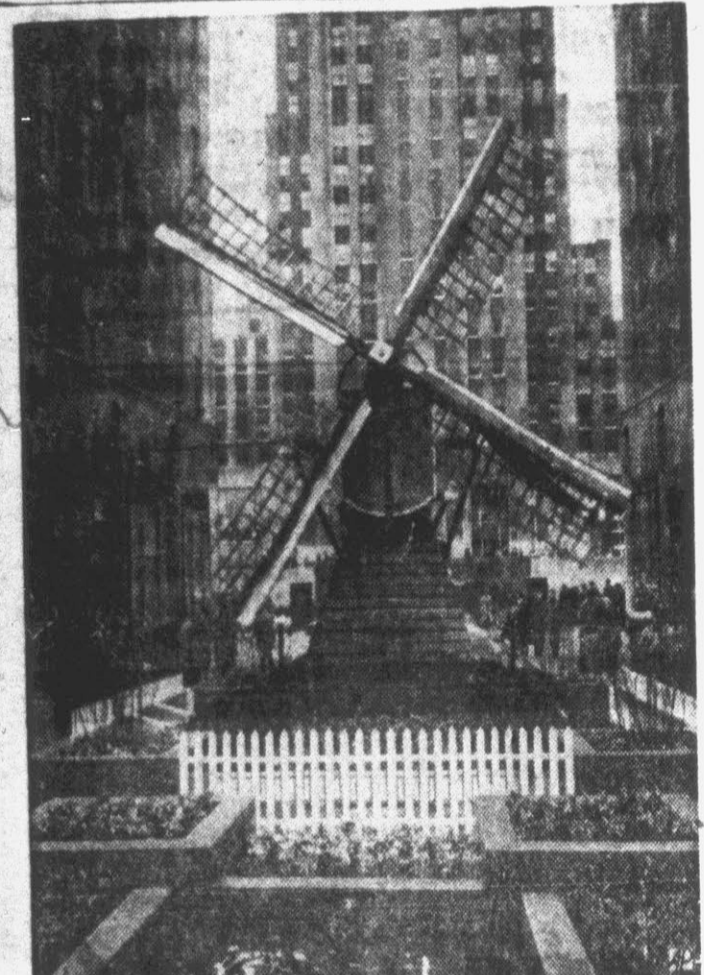

Hair fled from police when they discovered Coble's body while investigating the wreck. Coble died within a few hours. Hair was captured in Los Angeles, Calif., 28 days later.

Postmaster General Jesse Donaldson announced Tuesday that this three-cent commemorative postage stamp will be placed on sale April 29 in honor of the nation's railroad locomotive engineers. First day sales will be made at Jackson, Tenn. The central design is a portrait of Engineer "Casey" Jones who was killed in the famous wreck of his Illinois Central passenger train near Vaughan, Miss., about the turn of the century. At the left is a drawing of "Sasey's" locomotive, and at the right is a modern Diesel. (AP Wire-photo).

Dairy Barn Fire Cost $40,000

Asheville, April 1—(AP)—Fire-blackened milking stalls, smoldering hay and charred rubble are all that remain today of a dairy barn at Fanning Creek farm.

Fire, with damage estimated at approximately $40,000, roared through the frame and concrete structure early last night, causing baled hay to burn with intense heat. Sixty head of purebred cattle were taken safely out of the barn.

Black Jan Walks Again

By Florence Kerrigan

Chapter 13

I looked at Steve searchingly, hoping to find some spark in his eye that would tell me he was joking, or give me some hope that he was not believing his own accusations. But he was grave and implacable.

"Poor Malcolm," I said. "How did he die?"

"He was shot, as you know."

I sighed. There was nothing to do but go along with him and hope I could make a more convincing impression on the men at headquarters in the morning.

We were just about to retire a half hour later when Greg rapped on the panel.

"Hugh!" he cried. "I've just discovered another passageway. It must be much, much older than the other one. Come and help me explore it!"

"Now?" I protested. "It's almost midnight, man!"

"Yes, now. I can't wait to find out what's there—where it leads—"

"I'll get dressed again then."

I sighed, catching Steve's nod. "I'll meet you on the Smugglers' Stairway."

He paused and chuckled. "He was your kind. After his wife died, I really believe he went mad. He accused me of killing her. I don't know why he died so quickly. I should have thought he would have lasted for years. But when some men have no resistance."

My mind went to Charles and our suspicions of him in connection with the murder of Lansing. What part had he really played in it? How loyal was he to his master, and how much of that bank account of his was really blackmail money? Had Greg been the murderer of both Lansing and Malcolm? Had Malcolm really seen Greg kill Lansing?

My hand caressed the handle of my revolver, an was flesh and blood, but he was Greg, my childhood friend. I knew with a chill of foreboding, that it had not been a good idea to follow Greg into this passageway. He could make away with me, and I would never be found. Perhaps that was his intention.

Patrice Munsel Here April 24

Patrice Munsel, leading coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, will sing at East Carolina Teachers College on April 24th at 8:00 o'clock in the Wright auditorium, according to an announcement by Ellen R. Caldwell, chairman of the college Entertainment Committee. The appearance at the college of the glamorous, twenty-four-year-old star of concert, radio, and opera has just been announced as an addition to the series of programs scheduled for the present school year.

Miss Munsel is currently on her seventh national concert tour under the direction of Impresario S. Hurok. The noted soprano became a national figure in 1943 after winning the Metropolitan Opera auditions of the Air at the age of seventeen. At her debut in December of that year in "Mignon," she received an ovation which lasted for seven minutes. She was at that time the youngest singer ever to be honored with a contract by the Metropolitan Opera for appearances in leading coloratura roles.

Since her debut, she has sung in "The Tales of Hoffman," "Rigoletto," "Lucia di Lamermoor," "The Barber of Seville," "Romeo and Juliette," and "Lakme."

In the summer of 1948 she made her first trip abroad and was accorded an enthusiastic reception on a tour of the Scandinavian countries.

Orders Re-Trial In Pitt; Affirms Another Decision

The North Carolina Supreme Court last week ordered a new trial in one case originating in Pitt County and affirmed another decision by Judge Walter Bone in February's Superior Court.

The high judicial body ordered a new trial for Miles Herndon Davis, convicted for a crime against nature in Pitt's October 1949 term of Superior Court. Davis was sentenced to 5 1/2 years in prison and appealed his case just after court adjourned.

The appeal was made because of failure of Judge R. Hunt Parker to charge the jury in the dual aspect of the evidence involved.

Albion Dunn, Greenville lawyer, appeared in Davis' defense, saying the judge neglected to charge the jury on the "substantive evidence bearing on the innocence or guilt of the defendant." The judge did charge the body as to the credibility bearing upon the defendant as a witness.

The new trial will come up during the term following the April term, Dunn said today.

The other case originating in the county in which the Supreme Court affirmed the lower court's ruling concerned the construction of the will of R. E. Harris Jr., deceased.

Other officers will be installed and several appointive officers will be recognized by the new exalted ruler.

The Greenville Elks' Lodge, organized in 1941, now has more than 200 members from various parts of Pitt county.

Three More . . .

(Continued from Page 1) was meeting a car; the lights from the oncoming car blinded him and caused him to strike the rear of the Thomas car which was stopped on the highway without lights.

Thomas was arrested by the officers on charges of having no operator's license and parking on the highway without lights.

Damage to the two cars was estimated at about $450.

The tenth highway accident in the county in the past week came yesterday afternoon on the Old River road.

A car driven by Ernest J. Brown, colored, ran into the rear of a car driven by Kenneth Sutton of 208 Green Street, Greenville, causing damage estimated at $200 to the two cars.

Brown was arrested by Patrolman Paul Whitley on a careless and reckless driving charge.

Supreme Court Considers Issue Of Segregation

Washington, April 3—(AP)—The Supreme Court today takes up the question of whether enforced segregation of Negroes violates the constitution.

Up to now the legal doctrine has been that if "separate but equal" facilities are provided there is no unlawful discrimination against Negroes.

Three Negroes, with the support of the justice department, now ask the highest tribunal to rip out the judicial props to segregation with a ruling that "equal rights" must always mean the same, identical rights.

Some lawyers say such a ruling could mean that Jim Crow would be legally dead in this country. Most racial segregation in the United States has been based on the "separate but equal" doctrine.

Can Congress . . .

(Continued from Page 1) But McCarthy said that if the subcommittee, which is part of the legislative branch, could see those files his charges would be proved.

At last, Senator Tydings, Maryland Democrat and chairman of the subcommittee, asked President Truman to let his subcommittee see the secret files of the accused people.

Mr. Truman wrote Tydings a long letter which, in effect, said "No," although nowhere in his letter the President flatly say "No." His reasons?

Generally, his reasons for refusing were those given by other Presidents when they refused similar congressional requests: it would not be in the public interest to open the files.

But more specifically, Mr. Truman said innocent people would be hurt. Confidential informants of the government would be revealed and betrayed, and the work of the FBI would be injured.

At once Tydings issued a subpoena—a formal demand—for the secretary of state Dean Acheson, the head of the Civil Service Commission, Harry Mitchell, and the attorney general J. Howard McGrath to turn the files over to the subcommittee.

Since all three work in the executive branch and are under the President's orders, none of the three could be expected to go contrary to the refusal already made plain by the President.

If, upon their refusal to obey the subpoena, the subcommittee should drop the matter, that would be the end of that. All other committees in the history of congress have stopped right there.

But—suppose the subcommittee and the whole senate should refuse to take "No" for an answer and decide to take the case to the Supreme Court for final decision. What would happen? That will be discussed tomorrow.

War Against . . .

(Continued from Page 1) advice: "I intend to marry a girl who is not a member of the Komsomols and who wishes we should marry in church. Please tell whether I can marry in church."

The newspaper published a reply that a church marriage would be in direct violation of Komsomol statutes and would be an unpardonable step according to Communist morals. It added:

"It is clear that religious beliefs are deeply alien to our convictions and basically opposed to the tasks of Communist education."
