President Reveals Plan For 'Truth Campaign' By U. S.

Program Has Goal Of Convincing World That U. S. Has No Purpose In Going To War Except In Defense Of Freedom; Will Fight Red Propaganda

Washington, April 20—(AP)—President Truman disclosed plans today for a "great campaign of truth" to convince the world that the United States has "no purpose of going to war except in defense of freedom."

He told the American Society of Newspaper Editors he has directed Secretary of State Acheson to develop a strengthened national information program to overcome Soviet Russian "deceit, distortion and lies."

He invited the continued co-operation of American newspapers in spreading the fact that this country is "wholly dedicated to the cause of peace."

"We must make ourselves known as we really are—not as Communist propaganda pictures us. We must pool our efforts with those of the other free peoples in a sustained, intensified program to promote the cause of freedom against the propaganda of slavery."

"We must make ourselves heard around the world in a great campaign of truth."

The President's address, prepared for delivery at a luncheon in the Hotel Statler, stressed the vital role newspapers can play in this phase of the cold war.

"There is too much nonsense about striped trousers in foreign affairs," he said.

"Far more influence is exerted by the baggy pants of the managing editor."

Mr. Truman chose this gathering of the nation's editors to outline a program for strengthening the government's own informational program abroad.

He said most of the editors are meeting well their responsibility as a link between the American people and world affairs "by informing them 'well and completely.'"

But, he added, "I am sorry to say a few are meeting it badly." He did not name any names, but went on to say:

"Foreign policy is not a matter for partisan presentation. The facts about Europe or Asia should not be twisted to conform to one side or the other of a political dispute. Twisting the facts might change the course of an election at home, but it would certainly damage our country's program abroad."

The President said he had asked Secretary Acheson to take action to "improve and strengthen our whole range of information and educational services."

Communist propaganda, Mr. Truman went on, is "so false, so crude, so blatant" that Americans wonder "how men can be swayed by it."

It is effective, he said, because in some countries people do not have free access to accurate information, do not hear our broadcasts or read our newspapers, and are fed only propaganda.

The President said that in the Far East, millions trying to move up from poverty and misery are hearing "glittering promises about the benefits of communism."

"Unless we get the real story across to people in other countries," Mr. Truman continued, "we will lose the battle for men's minds by default."

At the same time, he said, "We must overcome the constant stream of slander and vilification that Communists pour out in an effort to discredit the United States and other free nations."

Whether the budget brings cheers or sneers, Sir Stafford Cripps won't display emotion. He has become inured to hard knocks having to play the role of "austerity Cripps" to a hard-pressed nation since the war.

Sir Stafford is one of Britain's outstanding statesmen but, curiously enough, the general public isn't well acquainted with him. He lives within himself a great deal, which is rather a pity because he is a personality who should be known both at home and abroad.

Cripps the Socialist reputedly (or has been) a man of great means. Before the late war he was said to be the highest paid corporation lawyer in Britain, earning the equivalent of a quarter million dollars a year. However, he gave that up because, he said, he was tired

State Completes Case Against Carson Today

Last Of Six Witnesses For Prosecution Concludes Testimony, Among Them, Alleged Victim; Judge To Hold Night Session

The state rested its case this morning against Wade Carson, 24-year-old Bethel community resident, on trial for his life in the alleged rape of Daphne Bowers, Bethel high school senior, early in January of this year.

Acting Solicitor Charles Whedbee called six witnesses to the stand through the course of the prosecution yesterday afternoon and this morning, among them Miss Bowers.

Taking the stand immediately after the jury was seated at 3 p.m. in the afternoon, Miss Bowers testified that she had a date with Carson Saturday, January 7, the night she was raped.

The 17-year-old stated they were to double-date with another Bethel couple and were going to the Vets Club in Greenville for the evening. They did not meet the other people, she said. Instead she and Carson came to Greenville, stopped at a sandwich shop across the river and had some thing to eat.

They then drove across the river to another sandwich shop where she said she had two drinks of whisky. From there they drove around town, eventually driving out the New Bern highway about three miles where they stopped at a farm machinery and appliance store.

There it was she testified she was raped by Carson.

Miss Bowers stated she was bleeding profusely and asked Carson to take her home. Instead, they went to the Vets Club where she saw Mary Ella Moore, with whom she was to double-date that night, and asked her to accompany her to the ladies lounge. Two other women came in and they too helped, she testified, to wipe away the blood.

Miss Moore stated this morning from the stand that she and her date, Ralph Lewis, took Miss Bowers Patrolman D. E. Perry reported Wesley Owens, 60, of Wilson overturned his car at 10:30 this morning on N. C. 11 near Conetoe creek.

Owens was not injured but a passenger, Cleveland Webb, 65, also of Wilson, received a cut on his nose. He was taken to Edgecombe General hospital in Tarboro where he was released shortly after.

Perry said the car was a total loss.

The other accident occurred at 12:30 this afternoon. John Linwood of Bethel, overturned his car three-fourths of a mile south of Bethel on N. C. 11 as it skidded as he was rounding a curve and got out of control.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Briley of Bethel were passengers in the car and none of the three were injured. Damage to the 1948 Chevrolet amounted to about $250, Perry said.

Miami Planning All-Negro Court To Open In May

Miami, Fla., April 20—(AP)—This city's all-Negro municipal court, believed to be the first set up along purely racial lines in the South, will open about May 1.

The city commission yesterday unanimously chose Lawson E. Thomas, 52-year-old Negro attorney, as judge of the new court.

"The court will be an interesting experiment in self-government by Negroes," said Thomas. "It will give the Negro a chance to show his ability to participate in government."

The court may produce stiffer sentences for Negroes. Several Negro leaders have urged the appointment of a Negro judge in the belief he would be more capable of judging a Negro lawbreaker.

Kilpatrick and Worthington represented Pitt County in the 1950 General Assembly.

Smith is head of the Bethel Manufacturing Company and also has farming interests in the county. He has served the county in one official capacity or another since 1932. He was a member of the county board of commissioners, and was chairman of that board for three years. He was later a member of the county school board and served as a member of the state board of correction and training prior to the Scott administration.

Memphis, Tenn., April 20—(AP)—The declining years won't be a dog's life for Dixie.

The will of G. S. Richberg, a barber, was admitted in probate court yesterday after a long legal battle which reached the Tennessee Supreme Court. Richberg died Aug. 5, 1948. His relatives contested the will.

The will named Dixie, a female American pit bulldog, sole heir to the $4,500 estate. It decreed that $35 a month shall go for the dog's care for the rest of her life. Dixie is eight years old.

San Quentin, Calif., April 20—(AP)—George Vierra, convicted forger, took good care of his prison rock garden.

He was sentenced yesterday to seven years more in prison for his pains. Guards testified he was growing marijuana.

Little Political Excitement Seen For Pitt Towns

Five Will Hold Municipal Elections; Majority Of Incumbents Unopposed

People who are looking for political excitement in the municipal elections in Pitt county towns this year will find slim pickings—with possibly two exceptions—unless more candidates announce in the municipalities whose filing periods have not closed.

Five towns in the county will hold municipal elections this year, while four other towns the officials have another year to serve on their two-year terms.

Elections are slated for Greenville, Ayden, Falkland, Winterville and Grifton, while Bethel, Farmville, Grimesland, and Fountain will not have municipal elections until next year.

In Greenville the terms of five aldermen expire, and shortly before noon today four of the aldermen had filed for reelection, and a new candidate had filed for the post of the fifth alderman who announced four months ago he would not seek reelection. Seeking reelection to the Greenville board, so far without opposition, are: Aldermen C. B. Mayo, J. E. Collins, J. E. Waldrop and J. E. Jenkins. Robert Ellis has filed for the alderman post now held by L. M. Buchanan who has said he will not seek reelection.

In Grifton a two-way race has developed for the mayor's post between Roger Johnson and Melton Wiley. W. A. Evans, mayor of the town for the past term, did not file for reelection during the filing period which closed at midnight last night. Commissioners W. I. Bisette, Ed Hart and L. L. Mewborn are seeking reelection to the town board, and Walter Murphy is unopposed for election to the position on the town board which is held by Dr. E. V. Tucker who did not file for reelection.

The terms of two commissioners expire in Ayden, and a race has developed for one of the posts. For the incumbents is so far unopposed for the other post. Norwood Bradshaw and Lin Kittrell have filed for the commissioner's post held by incumbent Stancel Sumrell who has not filed for reelection. Dixie Cannon, whose term on the board also

Fire Destroys Craven Stores

Greenville firemen were called on by Vanceboro authorities about 2:30 a. m. today when three store buildings on the main street there were destroyed by fire on unknown origin.

Ray Smith, who drove the Greenville fire truck to Vanceboro, said they could not render assistance for lack of water. The only available water supply was in a creek.

Washington and New Bern fire-fighting equipment were called to Vanceboro but they were unable to render assistance.

One of the firemen who went to Vanceboro last night said Vanceboro, between Greenville and New Bern, in Craven county, did not have a fire department. Visiting firemen at last night's blaze said a bucket brigade was in operation at the Vanceboro fire last night.

Vienna, April 20—(AP)—The usually well-informed newspaper Die Presse reported today that all Roman Catholic monasteries in Bratislava and a number of other Slovakian towns were closed by Czechoslovak state police last Friday.

The report said the Communist-led regime had ousted Dr. Gustav Husak, chairman of the Slovak provincial government, for protesting the order closing the monasteries in a stormy cabinet session. Two other local government officials were said to have been dismissed with him.

Nationalists Rush Fresh Troops To Defend Hainan

Taipei, Formosa, April 20—(AP)—Chinese Nationalists rushed reinforcements today to their embattled forces on Hainan Island.

Red troops of Gen. Lin Piao, the "Mandarin Hammer," and defense forces under Gen. Hsueh Yueh, the "Little Tiger," were locked in bitter fighting for the fourth straight day.

Both sides agreed this was the Red's big attempt to take the key South China island 10 miles from Luichow peninsula.

Some Nationalists said their hopes for survival and an eventual comeback against the Chinese Communists hinge largely on the outcome.

Reports here said well-equipped Nationalist troops were on the way to Hainan. The Nationalists, who control the air and sea around Hainan, threw in more planes yesterday.

Increasing east-west tension is assured, however, by such current developments as (1) the American Soviet row over the Baltic airplane shooting incident and (2) the crack-down of the Soviet satellite countries like Czechoslovakia on the operation of western diplomats and reporters.

Evidence is increasing that the Kremlin may be aiming to shut the west out of its territories almost completely, to close the Baltic and other border areas to foreign observation and to achieve a degree of isolation which the modern world has not heretofore known.

Russian relations therefore will be one of the matters up for discussion at the London meeting of the western big three.

Approximately 2500 To Visit College On Friday

East Carolina Teachers College Preparing To Welcome Large Number High School Seniors In Annual Program

East Carolina Teachers College is preparing to welcome to the campus tomorrow approximately 2500 high school seniors from counties throughout the eastern section of the state and extending into the Piedmont area. The occasion will be the annual High School Day observed by the college.

The visitors are scheduled to arrive on the campus between the hours of 8:15 and 10:30 in the morning. They will come by automobile and by bus to engage in a celebration crowded with events of various types. Eighty students from the Greenville High School have accepted an invitation to be present.

The program for High School Day will begin at 9:00 o'clock, when tours of the campus and visits to educational exhibits arranged by various departments of instruction will get under way.

The East Carolina Band, directed by Herbert L. Carter, and the Air Force ROTC unit on the campus will stage a parade and drill on the campus driveways, beginning at 10:40. They will proceed from the west campus to the Wright building.

President John D. Messick of the college will welcome guests at an assembly held in the Wright auditorium at 11:15. Following the assembly, a band concert, Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, chairman of the High School Day committee, will preside. The College Choir, directed by Dr. Karl V. Gilbert, will give a program of music, and visitors and students of the college will join in group singing.

Other events of the day will include a barbecue luncheon served on the picnic grounds near the North Dining Hall; a program of music presented by the department of music; a motion picture in the Austin auditorium; and a tea dance in the Wright auditorium.

Fifteen departments of instruction will stage special exhibits in classroom buildings to give the high school visitors an idea of the variety of instruction now being offered at East Carolina. Dormitories, classrooms, laboratories, administrative offices, the kindergarten, the nursery school, the Communications Center, the Training School, and other places of interest will be open to visitors.

Sports fans will have the opportunity to see the East Carolina Pirates in action as they meet the Appalachian State Teachers College nine in a double header during the afternoon. The games will begin at 2:30 and will be staged on the college athletic field.

City subscribers who do not receive their Reflector by six p. m. are requested to report same by telephoning 3356 between six and six-thirty p. m. After that hour the circulation department will be closed and deliveries will be made of papers missed.

Willmann, Vornholt Fill Engagements As Chorus Directors

Dr. Rudolph R. Willmann, director, and Dan E. Vornholt, faculty member of the department of music at East Carolina Teachers College, filled engagements this week as chorus directors for educational organizations in the state. Wednesday evening Dr. Willmann conducted the massed chorus of the Greene County Schools at their annual county music festival held in Maury. Participating in the program on the same occasion, he made a short address on the subject of "Music in the Public Schools."

Greenville School Band and Chorus To Greensboro Festival

The High School Glee Club, which made a No. 1 rating at the recent music contest at East Carolina Teachers College, won a trip to Greensboro to participate in the State Music Festival at the Woman's College of the Greater University of North Carolina this week end.

The soloists left here Monday. The general group left Tuesday morning at 5 o'clock. The music festival at Greensboro is sponsored by the State Choral and Band Societies, Principal O. E. Dowd stated.

James Rodgers, director of the high school band, and his soloists left today for Greensboro. The band will leave here Friday morning for Greensboro. Incidentally, the Greenville high school band received a superior rating at the music contest at East Carolina Teachers College recently. Greenville High was the only band to receive the "superior rating" at the contest.

Delia Slater And Paul Vincent Married In Gainesville, Fla.

Gainesville, Fla. — The Wesley Foundation Methodist chapel was the scene of the beautiful spring wedding of Miss Delia Ann Slater, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Adelbert Slater, Sr., formerly of Greenville, N. C., and Paul Ed. Vincent, youngest son of Mrs. Paul P. Vincent and the late Mrs. Grace Vincent of Jacksonville, Florida.

The ceremony took place Wednesday, April 5 at 5 o'clock. The Rev. Thaxton Springfield performed the double ring ceremony.

The altar was beautifully arranged with tall baskets of white gladioli, ferns and snapdragons, with a background of bamboo. Candelabras holding white tapers were lighted by the ushers preceding the wedding party.

Mrs. Floyd L. Northrop, organist, played "Claire de Lune" and "I Love You Truly" as a musical prelude and Mrs. Merle V. Slater, sister-in-law of the bride, sang "At Dawning" and "Through the Years." At the close of the ceremony, Mrs. Slater sang "The Lord's Prayer."

As the attendants entered the church, Mrs. Northrop played the "Pilgrims Chorus." The Lohengrin "Bridal Chorus" was used as the bride entered.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of heavy bridal satin, fashioned with a round neckline, with full bertha of chintilly lace edged with seed-pearl embroidery in orange blossom design. The bodice cut in basque style, formed a point front and back, and the long fitted sleeves were fastened at the pointed cuff with small satin covered buttons. From the fitted waistline, the full skirt fell in deep graceful folds into a full formal train. Her finger-ring veil was a circle of shirred tulle, fastened with fresh orange blossoms. She carried a white satin covered Bible adorned with a white orchid and a shower of orange blossoms. The bride wore a string of pearls, the gift of the groom, and carried a point lace handkerchief made by her great-grandmother. Mrs. Elvira Carter, which has been carried by each bride in the family.

Mrs. Robert A. Lynch, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and wore a gown of orchid satin with matching net yoke, fitted bodice and flanged pleated collar with button trimming. She carried a fan-shaped bouquet of purple snapdragons and sweet peas.

The bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Vincent, sister of the groom, and Miss Mary Jane Emig, who wore identical gowns of green taffeta made like the gown of the matron of honor. They carried fan-shaped bouquets of pink snapdragons and sweet peas and their headbands were of tulle rushing with matching snapdragons. They wore white silk chintilly lace mitts.

Nicholas Vincent, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. The ushers were Rodney Whidden and Arthur Saarinen.

Mrs. Slater, the bride's mother, chose a gown of dusty rose crepe with grey accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. Mrs. Vincent, step-mother of the groom, was gowned in blue crepe with tan accessories. White carnations formed her corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Slater gave a reception in the Wesley lounge of the church with about 100 guests attending. Orchid and white gladioli were used to decorate the lounge and the receiving line stood in front of the beautiful bay windows. The bride's table was laid with a hand-made lace cloth and lighted with white candles in silver candlesticks. The table was centered with a silver basket of purple and orchid snapdragons.

Punch was served by Mrs. Frank E. Wilson. The beautiful bride's cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and resting on a white satin reflector ruffled with tulle was cut by Mrs. Elmer J. Emig, who made the cake. Mrs. Northrop-Woodward assisting in serving. Miss Barbara Ann Wilson presided at the bride's book.

For her going away outfit the bride chose a navy blue Paula Brooks Original. Her hat and gloves were pink and her corsage was an orchid.

Following a wedding trip to South Florida Mr. and Mrs. Vincent will reside in Newberry, Florida.

Mrs. Vincent received her bachelor of arts degree from East Carolina Teachers College at Greenville, North Carolina and is a member of Delta Pi Epsilon honorary business education fraternity. She is presently teaching business education at Newberry, Florida, high school and is also attending the graduate school at the University of Florida, college of education working on her masters degree.

Mr. Vincent received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Florida, where he is also working for his masters degree in psychology. He is a member of Kappa Alpha Order, social fraternity; Alpha Epsilon Delta, honorary pre-medical society; Nu Rho Psi, honorary psychological society, and the North Florida Vocational Guidance Association. Mr. Vincent served with the Adjutant General's Department in the United States Army.

Mr. and Mrs. Slater entertained the bridal party for supper at their home on South 9th street after the rehearsal Tuesday evening. The tables were centered with yellow candelabras and fern with yellow candles in silver candlesticks. The bride and groom presented their attendants with attractive gifts.

Mrs. Vincent was honored at parties and showers given by Mrs. Elmer Emig and Miss Mary Jane Emig, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wicker, Mrs. Frank E. Wilson and Miss Barbara Ann Wilson, the faculty of Newberry High School, and the girls' Physical Education class of Newberry High School.

Stokes Seniors To Be Feted At Annual Banquet

Members of the Stokes High school senior class will be the honorees tomorrow night when they are feted at the annual Junior-Senior banquet given by members of the junior class.

Sam D. Bundy, principal of the Farmville school, will be principal speaker at the banquet which will be held in the Stokes High school gym.

Kathryn Taylor, president of the junior class, will welcome the seniors and the guests to the banquet, and Dennis Williamson, president of the senior class, will respond to the welcome.

Helen Futrell is chairman of the entertainment committee of the junior class which is honoring the nine members of the graduating class of the school. There are 11 members of the junior class. Miss Lewellyn Phillips is the senior class advisor and Truman Cherry is class advisor for the junior class.

Special guests who have been invited to the banquet are Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Conley, John I. Gray chairman of the Stokes school board and Mrs. Gray, Jerome Perkins, Richard Barnhill, L. S. Brown and J. B. Congleton, Sr., all members of the Stokes school board, and William Stokes of the county school board.

The menu for the banquet will consist of fried chicken, French fried potatoes, string beans, apple pie, and ice cream.

The invocation will be given by Principal Dallas Whitford of Stokes school, and Kathryn Taylor will introduce Speaker Bundy.

Members of the junior class raised money to pay for the banquet through sponsoring a barbecue supper earlier in the school year, they staged a black-faced minstrel, and they presented a junior play.

Faculty Members To Attend Meeting Of Teachers, Montreat

James L. Fleming, director of the department of foreign languages at East Carolina Teachers College, and Marguerite Z. Austin, faculty member of the department, will attend a meeting of the North Carolina chapter of the American Association of Teachers of French at Montreat College, Montreat, N. C., Friday and Saturday of this week. Fleming is vice president and program director of the state branch of the organization.

Accompanying them on a motor trip to attend the meeting will be Cornelia Keuzenkamp of Ayden; Dr. Esther Long of Atlantic Christian College, Wilson; and Imogene Riddick of North Carolina State College, Raleigh. Miss Keuzenkamp is scheduled as a speaker on the program to be presented at Montreat and will talk on "A View of the Teaching of French in the High School."

A. C. E. Officers Inducted Tuesday

New officers of the Association for Childhood Education at East Carolina Teachers College were inducted into office Tuesday evening, April 18, at a meeting held in the Graham building on the campus. Doris Pleasant of Angier, junior at the college, became president of the organization, and other new officers were installed in a ceremony before club members.

Serving with Miss Pleasant during the 1950-1951 term will be Clara Jenkins, Durham, Dowdy Hardy, LaGrange, vice presidents; Jane Gainey Dunn, secretary-treasurer; Jo Anne Grote, New York City, corresponding secretary; Anne Whitehurst, Robersonville, and Ethel Parks, Goldsboro, reporters; and Janice Meekins, Stumpy Point, Margaret White, Hertford, and Annetta Priggen, Greenville, member-at-large.

As part of the meeting last Tuesday, a report on the International Study Conference of the ACE International held last week in Asheville was given by the delegates from the local organization. These were Patricia Davis, Mantion; Frances Biggell, Kinston; and Miss Whitehurst, Miss Grote, and Miss Pleasant.

Pitt Jaycees At Morehead Event

Approximately ten Junior Chamber of Commerce members from Greenville and others from Farmville will be among the more than 150 Jaycees from east-central North Carolina gathering in Morehead City for a two-day quarterly meeting this week-end of district eight of the state organization.

A similar quarterly meeting was held in Greenville in February. Registration for the week-end affair is scheduled for Saturday afternoon at the Ocean King Hotel at Atlantic Beach, headquarters for the meeting. The Ocean King will be reserved for Jaycees only this week-end.

Following registration a cocktail party is scheduled late Saturday afternoon, followed by movies and a dance that night in the Ocean King ballroom.

Sunday morning the group will get down to the serious business of the meeting with a lengthy business session starting at 9:30 a.m. This session is expected to last as late as 1 p.m. with many district and state plans to be brought up prior to the North Carolina Jaycee convention in Raleigh in May.

The Morehead City Junior Chamber of Commerce is host club for the event. Bernard Leary of Morehead City is vice-president in charge of District Eight.

Reviews Part Of N. C. History In Snow Hill Talk

Dr. Martha Pingel, faculty member of the department of English at East Carolina Teachers College, speaking Tuesday afternoon at the Green Hill Book Club in Snow Hill, reviewed some of North Carolina's past history, read a short story written by herself and based on this material, and discussed her experiences in "Turning Fact Into Fiction."

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. James G. Exum. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. L. Lassiter. Dr. Pingel's remarks covered research work done by her in and around Bertie County, where she has been making a study of historic homes. Her short story "But the Greatest of These Is Hope," read to club members, centers around the Governor Stone House, famous North Carolina landmark now falling into ruins.

ECTC Choir Plans Series Of Performances

The East Carolina Teachers College Choir has completed plans for a series of performances to be given next week in five towns of the eastern section of North Carolina. Directed by Dr. Karl V. Gilbert of the faculty, the College Choir is an organization of 55 men and women students. Nina Abernethy of Rocky Mount is accompanist.

Last year the group presented Christmas programs in Robersonville, Rocky Mount, Farmville and Greenville, and gave a number of performances on the campus here.

This year, wearing for their formal costumes of tuxedos or white evening dresses, members will present, under Dr. Gilbert's direction, a program including religious music, folk songs, and selections from both classic and modern composers.

The tour for this spring will begin Tuesday, April 25, in Tarboro with a program in the high school there at 1:35 in the afternoon. That evening at 8:00 o'clock the Choir will sing in the Rocky Mount Methodist Church.

Engagements will be filled on Wednesday, April 26, at the Charles L. Coon School in Wilson at 9:30 in the morning; at the Pikeville Methodist Church at 3:00 in the afternoon; and at the Snow Hill High School at 8:00 in the evening.

The program will include, among other selections, Gretchanloff's "Lost in the Night," Leighton Lucas' "Every Wind That Blows," the "Mother Goose Suite" of Lewis Henry Horton; and Joseph Wagner's "Ballad of Brotherhood."

Award Damages To Hazel Scott

Spokane, Wash., April 20—(AP)—An all-white jury deliberated 15 hours and then awarded $250 damages yesterday to Negro pianist Hazel Scott. She had asked $50,000 in a racial discrimination suit against the former owners of a Pasco, Wash., restaurant.

Miss Scott, in private life the wife of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., (D-N.Y.) said she was refused service at the restaurant Feb. 11, 1949 solely because she is colored. She was on a tour at the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Utz, the defendants, testified in federal court she was not served because she was noisy and demanded service ahead of others.

They admitted, however, that it was not the policy of the restaurant to serve Negroes. They have since left the business.

The suit was brought under a 1909 state civil rights law that makes it illegal to deny service to persons on racial grounds at certain "places of public accommodation."

N.C. Is Earning $8,883 Per Day On Investments

Raleigh, N.C., April 20—(AP)—The state is making $8,883.48 a day on funds invested in federal securities or interest-paying bank deposits, says the state treasurer.

Brandon P. Hodges reported yesterday that the state now has investments of the two types totaling $406,478,420.25. The income from $268,824,249.06 of this—fund balances—goes to the general fund to help out with the state's everyday expenses.

The present rate of return on the total investments, Hodges said, is 1.208 per cent. This works out to $3,242,471.25 a year.

"And if you want to go further with it, the income is $328.47 an hour and $5.47 a minute," he added.

not made himself clear.
We believe a bi-partisan formation of the foreign policy of the United States can be a good thing for the country, provided the members of both parties keep their politics out of the foreign policy of the government. If, however, a bi-partisan foreign policy merely becomes another battleground on which party leaders grapple for the selfish interest of their particular groups, it may be more detrimental to the United States than the single party method the administration has followed in recent movements.

The Republicans already have told the President that a bi-partisan group should contain a cross-section of ideas within the Republican party itself. We feel that the group should contain a cross-section of the ideas on foreign policy within the Democratic party as well, and not just those which are in keeping with what the administration would like to see put into practice.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, April 20—A well-integrated program for long-term financial aid to Western European nations after the expiration of the Marshall Plan in 1952 has become the principal objective of the Truman Administration as Secretary Dean Acheson prepares to discuss new strategy in the "cold war" at next month's conference of the allies' foreign ministers at Paris.

It is doubtful if any of these discussions will be given to the press, or that consideration of this question at Paris will be admitted formally by official spokesmen.

But foreign diplomats and military experts brought up the matter at the recent rearmament meeting at the Hague, which was attended by Defense Secretary Johnson and General Omar T. Bradley. They said flatly that they cannot provide the money or raw materials for building a Western European army.

HELPLESS—Diplomatic representatives of all the Marshall Plan countries have informed President Truman, Secretary Acheson and ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman that they must receive further economic aid after 1952. Otherwise, as our own officials now concede privately, they will be susceptible to Communist infiltration and propaganda, and equally helpless in the face of an armed invasion by the Reds.

The need for utmost secrecy is obvious. The Taft-Wherry faction questions even now the necessity for giving Western Europe as much Marshall Plan funds as President Truman demands. Even top Democrats on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee are becoming restless over the size of current loans and grants.

DRAWN—But the blueprints are already drawn, and can now be revealed. Prominent Republicans of the Dulles-Dewey-Stimson type approve the general idea. They will undertake to persuade Capitol Hill Republicans generally to go along, and use their influence on powerful party members throughout the country.

Realizing that this question may become the outstanding issue of the 1952 presidential campaign, inasmuch as the Marshall Plan expires in June of that year, the same forces which paved the way for Wendell Willkie's nomination in 1940 will undertake to guarantee selection of a GOP candidate who will approve this post-Marshall Plan financing idea as a "bi-partisan undertaking."

It is understood that General "Ike" Eisenhower is the man they have in mind.

PLAN—The new support program will not be wrapped up in a single legislative package and submitted to Congress in a specific aid-to-Europe bill, however. As the Administration has done with respect to farm, Social Security and labor legislation, it will be presented to Capitol Hill and the country in a disarming, piecemeal manner. Here is the plan as tentatively framed at the White House, the State Department, National Defense and related agencies:

(1) Europe's military experts submitted an "astronomical" estimate of their needs for arms and materials at the recent Hague conference. They warned that the United States must provide almost everything in the way of weapons, with the possible exception of small arms, British fighter planes and light artillery.

Even when reduced to practical figures by our representatives, the annual military bill alone will total at least $2 billion if Congress approves. Even if we cut the amounts now being advanced to Germany, Turkey and Greece, the amount required for defense of strategic areas in the Middle East, the Mediterranean and on the Continent will approximate $3 billion for an indefinite number of years.

STOCKPILING—(2) Point Four in President Truman's "bold new program" has been advanced as a relatively small undertaking, with $45 million as the asking amount. But if private industry and finance can be induced to enter this field of foreign development under government guarantees and subsidies, this sum will be raised to several hundred million dollars in a few years.

(3) Military stockpiling is another form of contemplated aid. The National Security Resources Board, under the temporary chairmanship of John R. Steelman, White House adviser, has refrained deliberately from piling up a reserve of strategic materials.

It now plans to ask for millions of dollars worth of rubber, tin, minerals and military goods that will pour money into British, French and Dutch treasuries. These purchases will not become heavy until late 1951 and 1952.

LOANS—(4) The World Bank and the World Monetary Fund. These two agencies were created under the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's inspiration to serve the same purpose now achieved by the Marshall Plan. So far they have been conducted conservatively and experimentally. But in an emergency period such as 1952 may produce, they can be expanded in a way generally unknown to the public.

The World Bank has a subscribed capital of more than $8 billion, of which about $1 billion is now available for loans. More than $700 million has already been advanced to Marshall Plan countries. As with the fund, the U.S. puts up most of the money for use abroad. Forty-eight nations belong, with Russia abstaining from both organizations.

The bank can lend money to governments or private organizations. It is supposed to step in only when private funds are not forthcoming. It can make loans for 20-year periods at interest ranging from 3 to 4 per cent, depending on the circumstances. No repayment is required for the first five years.

CONDITIONS—Two conditions surround any advances. One is that the projects must be sufficiently practical so that they will pay off. The other is that they must contribute to the general welfare of the member nations and, of course, be made the determinative factor in passing upon applications, as it has been with respect to all postwar financial aid abroad.

The fund operates like our Federal Reserve Bank. If a nation is temporarily short of cash to make a certain purchase, it "buys" the necessary currency with its own kind of money, paying back when possible. So far the only currency bought from this central world treasury has been United States dollars. Obviously, a marshalling of all these resources will provide more American financial support than has been advanced under the original program first framed by Dean Acheson and then adopted by George C. Marshall.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

WHERE CAN WE FIND HAPPINESS?
Happiness is where the contented heart is. So many people believe that happiness is a matter of geography. They will find it in Florida or California, in a certain big city, or quiet little hamlet, near their relatives or far away from them.

There are others who are confident that they would find happiness in a new job or amid a different social set. Still others associate happiness with a big bank account. Many a person suffering from delicate health or perhaps from a physical affliction feels that happiness would come in great abundance if this thorn in the flesh could be removed.

Yet all the time these people are missing happiness by a mile because they cannot see the simple truth that happiness is where the contented heart is. If we do not have a contented heart in one part of the country, we can be sure that going to another part of the country will not give us contentment. Real happiness does not depend upon what we have. Happiness has its origin in what we are. It is a sparkling spring of gladness which flows from the center of men's hearts. It is an inner state of being which arises when we trust God with the simplicity of a child.

Census Figures Will Mean A Lot To Pitt

As the days of the census enumeration draw to a close, the people in each community in Pitt county should assume the personal responsibility of seeing they are counted in the official population of the county.

Population which is shown by the federal census every ten years means a great deal to a county during the period between the census years. It is a figure which sticks with the county and is the indicator of the county's growth, and to some extent its progress.

We believe Pitt county is one of the fastest growing counties in eastern North Carolina, and we hope the census figures for 1950 will bear us out in this belief. But the figures for Pitt county during 1950 will not be flattering unless every person sees to it he is counted in the census.

Minstrel Dollars Go For Medical Care

Two nights last week members of the Greenville Kiwanis club and other talented people of the community combined their efforts to present the annual Kiwanis Dixieland minstrel which packed the house for both performances.

Whether or not most of the people who attended the minstrel are aware of it, the approximately $2,500 which the club realized from the presentations will be spent for helping children of Pitt county who are financially unable to receive the medical attention they need. During 1949 the Greenville Kiwanis club spent over $2,300 from its minstrel funds to pay for underprivileged children's medical care. The club has financed operations for tonsil and adenoid cases, eye operations, has had glasses fitted and furnished; and it has paid for dental work and other medical expenses for children who otherwise probably would go without the necessary medical attention.

The type of work which the Kiwanis club is doing through its underprivileged child committee is the type of work which make a civic club a real asset to the community. Through the minstrel, the Kiwanians are providing good home-town entertainment for the people of the community, and through their humanitarian work they are helping Pitt county to have more healthy children.

A Cross-Section In Bi-Partisan Foreign Policy

President Truman has assured the Republican minority in the federal government that the administration will give the GOP leaders the information necessary to keep them informed on the formation of the foreign policy of the United States.

The administration has intimated it will acquiesce to the help of the Republican leaders in shaping the nation's foreign policy; but as for really granting the Republicans a voice in the formation of the United States policies abroad, the President has

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Last week at the meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Louis Gaylord confronted the Reflector's managing editor, D. J. Wichard III, about a matter of great importance. "Please tell me," Louis asked, "when is the Phantom going to land a blow on the Ape Idol?" At that time the fight had been in progress for at least a week, and neither had landed a blow.

Unfortunately I have to explain that Louis was talking about "The Phantom," a comic strip that appears in the Reflector. The shocking truth is that there are people who do not read the Phantoms; in fact, there are some people who do not read any funnies at all. What is more amazing, some of these people are perfectly normal in other respects. It's such a shame for them to miss half their lives by not reading the funnies.

Louis was confronting Dave with a sensible question. What seems like a month ago Wilson McCoy, who draws the Phantom, put his hero in the ring with the Ape Idol. The stakes are high. If the Phantom loses, there will be war among the jungle tribes, not to mention the fact that he'll be dead and McCoy will have to create a new hero.

My guess is that McCoy put the fighters in the ring and suddenly received an invitation to go on a South A. cruise. In order to make the cruise, he had to stretch this particular battle over a period of two weeks. The same principle is involved when I take a minute fact a stretch 500-word column out of it.

Tuesday I could stand this delay no longer, so I rushed up to the newspaper office. "Dave," I said, "this Wilson McCoy is getting the best of me. I've got to know how the Phantom is going to beat that Ape Idol with the lead-filled paw?"

"Dave," I said with me and started a search for the advance copy of the Phantom. When he discovered that it was gone I immediately suspected that some member of the staff was selling the advance information for a price. When we discovered that Shorty Morris of the circulation department had it, I figured that he was using it to lure subscribers. "Sign up with us," he could have said, "and I'll let you see what the Phantom is going to do."

Then Dave found the mat for me, and my curiosity was satisfied after reading the strip through Saturday. Dave made me promise I wouldn't tell, so I can't say that Wilson McCoy will have the same hero next week, and the fight will last until Saturday.
And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, N. C.

ISSUES—As your reporter wends his sometimes weary and generally non-productive way around capitol square with occasional side trips into other parts of the state, he hears a great deal of complaint because the current campaign for the United States Senate isn't getting steamed up. Many times a day the question is asked, "When will they get to talking about the issues involved?"

The answer to the question is because the issues are personal rather than political. Here and there a citizen is found who honestly believes Bob Reynolds will be nominated and elected to the Senate. Preponderant majority of the people think the race is a two-way contest between Frank Graham and Willis Smith. The decision which the voters of North Carolina will make between these two men on May 27—or possibly on June 24—will be made on basis of personal characteristics rather than political differences.

ALIKE—Both men are true and loyal Democrats, in that they have voted the party ticket regularly and in general subscribe to the party platform. Both are high type Christian gentlemen, long recognized for leadership in their churches. Graham as a Presbyterian and Smith as a Methodist. Each has made worldwide reputation in his professional field. Graham as an educator and Smith as a lawyer. Each has been accorded recognition and given heavy responsibility as representative of the United States government in international relations, Graham in connection with the Indonesian problem and Smith at the German war trials. Both have had important part in vital governmental policy-making inside the United States. Both are deeply rooted by ancestry, education and lifelong service, in North Carolina. In these and other respects they are so much alike, the casual observer might well question whether there is any issue in the current campaign other than choice of names.

DIFFERENT—There is real choice because the party platforms and church creeds are broad enough to include widely divergent interpretations. For want of better designation the positions are classed as right, center and left. Actually there is no such thing as center, because that connotes standing still. Again, there is lack of full meaning in the words, but by common consent those who want to go forward by building on what we have, slowly and carefully, are classed as "right of center," while those who want to move fast, without much regard for traditions are classed as "left of center." Graham made his reputation as university president and international negotiator by moving out fast and far. Smith made his reputation as a lawyer and attained the highest position the profession can give by a philosophy of building slowly in established foundations. That means that in common parlance Graham is somewhat left of center, Smith somewhat right of center. And that, in opinion of many careful analysts, constitutes the issue in the current campaign.

INACCURATE—The classification is not entirely accurate, and quite likely is unfair to both candidates. In absence of more clear-cut division the designations will have to serve.

PARADOX—The developing situation is full of paradoxes. The Graham folks attempt to bracket Smith as a corporation lawyer representing special interest as opposed to the general public good. Then they boast greatly about the fact that some of the biggest special interest men in the state, heads of tremendous industrial empires, are supporting Graham for the Senate. The Smith folks charge that Frank Graham is playing up to organized labor, and are confronted with advertisements proclaiming that Spencer Love, Hyman Battie, Frank Dowd and other industrialists with anti-labor records are for Graham. The Graham folks charge Smith with being a Republican, and are met with his long record of service to the Democratic party. The Smith folks say Graham has communistic leanings, and have to face his outstanding humanitarian philosophy.

COMPANY—There are further paradoxes in the company which the candidates are keeping Governor Scott, who boasts he is the "farmer governor," who appointed Graham to the Senate last year and is throwing the whole weight of his administration behind the senator now, has often been satirical in his reference to the legal profession and has dubbed Snuta "just a corporation lawyer." Yet, majority of the county managers named by Graham headquarters (which, incidentally has a distinguished lawyer in charge) have been lawyers. Meanwhile, Smith headquarters has announced many county organizations including outstanding farmers. With industrial moguls and lawyers backing Graham, farmers and labor unionists backing Smith, no clearcut classification can be made.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

TALL LYING OR IGNORANCE
(Williamston-Enterprise)

Somebody up Washington way is playing recklessly with the truth or they are plain ignorant.

A short time ago and on the same day that David Lawrence was writing about "flying saucers" and printing pictures of the "queer things," President Truman was quoted as saying he knew nothing "whatsoever of the mysterious flying objects reported from time to time."

VENTURE CAPITAL
(Henderson Daily Dispatch)

A new scheme to aid small business was described in an article in this paper last Saturday by Lynn Nisbet, of the Dispatch

Raleigh bureau. The proposal has been received by the State Department of Conservation and Development, and is substantially the same as a plan put into effect in the State of Maine recently. It wouldn't cost the tax-payers anything—at least not in taxes. Fifty thousand dollars worth of stock would be sold, then investments by banks and insurance companies would be solicited to build up a capital of one and a half million dollars. The money then would be available to finance establishment of small enterprises. It would be known as "venture capital" to furnish support for reasonable propositions which do not have bank credit rating.

On paper, it looks like a good thing. But is there any greater assurance that risks of this type would pay themselves out with more certainty or any sooner than risks which individuals would be willing to take in their own activities? The risk indeed is still there, but the hazards would be fewer if a new concern—or, for that matter, any concern—were not drained of earnings by the tax route. Instead of reductions in levies, to make more capital available, both Federal and State governments are calling for still higher taxes, which would further reduce funds that otherwise would be available for new enterprises. As long as present policies are in effect, the "risk" will continue for any infant industry. And when the venture becomes too great, available cash will seek other avenues of employment, and the over-all economic structure will suffer in proportion.

Self-service markets and television are forcing radical changes in trading marks.

Old marks are being refurbished or being dropped for new ones. New companies are using more care than ever before in selecting symbols for their goods. They have to pass the supermarket and television tests as well, as all the older criteria for successful trade symbols.

Because there are no sales people to speak up for brands in self-service markets, the package and its trade mark have to speak for themselves—in fact, they have to scream for attention from the shelves and racks. Trade marks that don't stand out from the growing thousands of self-service items, and which do not quickly identify themselves with their advertising are being passed over.

New trade marks are being designed with an eye to television. Even companies which plan no television advertising in the foreseeable future are keeping television in mind in changing designs just in case. "A trade mark that looks fuzzy on television isn't much of an asset. And with the prospect of color television sometime in the future, color in trade marks must also be considered.

There's another consideration in trade marks that may some day get on video channels: animation. An animated trade mark can be much more effective than a static mark. Of course, some sort of motion may be imparted to almost any mark, but a mark that lends itself to natural and varied action—such as a pretty girl or an animal—is far more valuable.

Marks that can be animated have other uses, too. They can be used better in selling films, in personal appearances and promotional stunts. A food company recently went to considerable expense to find a girl who could double for the girl on its salt package; a drug company designed a doll to duplicate the girl in its mark. Elsie (milk products) and Johnny (cigaretts) have values many other companies would like to gain by emulation.

FUTURE IS BRIGHT FOR BICYCLE TRADE
The bicycle industry thinks things look pretty good. A survey made for the Bicycle Institute of America indicates that three out of every four boys between 7 and 15 own bicycles. And within a few years the first of the bumper postwar crop of children will be entering that age bracket.

TIRE PRICES MAY GET SECOND BOOST

Tire companies have been raising prices recently. Now it begins to look as if as soon as the price hikes have completed the rounds, another one may develop. That's because natural rubber has been rising in price. It's how around 25 cents a pound. But the price spiral won't get dizzy. Synthetic rubber is still 18.5 cents a pound and if the natural rubber goes higher, both manufacturers and the public will be switching to synthetics.

MEN DIVIDED ON NYLON WEAR

Nylon shirts and underwear are getting a mixed response from men. It is indicated by a poll of retailers by the National Association of Clothiers and Furnishers. Opinions of consumer response ranged from "good" to "poor." More than half of the retailers said prices were responsible for negative reactions; some blamed the "feel."

FURNITURE BOOM SEEN CONTINUING

Another happy trade is the furniture industry. March sales at retail were 1 per cent higher than a year ago, the National Retail Furniture Association reports. This comes on the heels of a Department of Commerce report that March broke all, simply all, records for housing starts, with 110,000 new units begun that month. This means a new market for approximately 400,000 additional rooms of furniture.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Do American women really look like a row of acorns?

This question has the clothing industry in a mild tizzy. The accusations that women, by aping the body lines of movie stars, had become as much alike as so many unborn oak trees in their nutshells was made by Raymond Marneill, a well known designer.

Marneill said this sameness resulted because too many women had adopted "the universal, uplift bustline," whether or not it corresponded with their own contours.

But his charge drew an immediate and heated denial from a lady clothing designer—Cynthia. "The upstanding bustline has already gone out," said Cynthia firmly. "And the acorn look is a thing of the past. It may have been popular a few years ago. But it has been replaced by the natural look."

The trend now is for each woman to stress her own natural body line—to wear clothing with a natural shoulder, natural hip and natural bustline. And with no exaggeration anywhere.

Cynthia—lady designers, like male dressmakers, tend to regard last year's fashions as also having nothing but scorn for Marneill's contention that women would be more beautiful if they threw away their bras and girdles.

"I can't imagine a girl feeling good without a bra and girdle—or looking good either," she said. "She would feel uncomfortable and ill at ease—definitely not well groomed."

"A man wants a woman individually attractive to him. He doesn't want others to stare at her because she's improperly dressed."

But Cynthia, how about Mr. Marneill's statement that women would be 1,000 times more feminine without these undergarment fashion aids?

"Don't you believe it!" said Cynthia, a tall, slender blonde with blue eyes.

"A girl just doesn't look attractive if she doesn't wear her foundation garments. She looks unattractive—definitely. And if she is on the heavy side, she wobbles when she walks."

Cynthia gave a blonde shudder of distaste as she added: "She is like a bowl full of quaking jelly. A girl should wear her girdle and bra everywhere except at the beach or in her own boudoir."

"I'd certainly hate to see a girl wear a fashionable strapless evening gown with nothing underneath. She'd be quite sloppy. And men wouldn't like her. Men are getting more and more and more conscious of feminine styles—there have been such drastic changes. And they want their girls to be well groomed."

Cynthia said it was nonsense, too, to think that foundation garments had compressed all women into a single standard shape. "Your modern day bras and girdles don't change the figure to that extent," she said sternly. "They just control it. And they come in hundreds of different styles, shapes and sizes."

And then Cynthia gave her "Statistics show that 80 per cent of girls 15 years of age or over do wear foundation garments. That's four out of five." I guess it must have been one of the fifty girls, however, who wrote me this anonymous letter:

"More power to this Marneill guy! Girdles? I detest 'em! So carry on the crusade!"

Not me. I don't want to get caught in the crossfire between Cynthia and Marneill. It's all right with me if the girls wear chain mail, so long as it keeps them young and happy.

But do you look like a row of acorns? Well, when they wear those flat-footed ballet slippers, I always rather thought they looked more like a row of ducks, fugitive from a Barnyard.

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON—How often have you read in your newspaper of the death of a baby "apparently smothered" in his crib or carriage, and that the coroner has issued a certificate of accidental death due to suffocation? Each year in the United States a large number of babies under one year of age die of what is classified as "accidental mechanical suffocation." Dr. Katherine Bain, acting director, division of research of the U.S. Children's Bureau, says:

Dr. Bain, along with other authorities, says that a majority of these deaths signed off as due to accidental suffocation are due to entirely different causes. There is now abundant evidence," she says, "that most of these deaths are not due to any external cause but may be the result of a sudden overwhelming infection with which a young baby is unable to cope."

She says that when a careful post mortem examination is made, including microscopic study, evidence of infection is often found in the respiratory tract and elsewhere in the body. When a careful history is taken, it often develops that another member of the family had a respiratory infection and "there may be some indication that the baby himself had not been up to par." Special studies of unexpected deaths of infants in various parts of the country, she says, bear out these facts. A study of 167 such cases made in New York over a 15-year period by Drs. Jacob Werne and Irene Garrow showed that in not one case was accidental mechanical suffocation of a healthy baby by bedclothes, or other such means, evident.

"Unfortunately," says Dr. Bain, "these cases often do not come to autopsy. Often in the excitement of the discovery the exact conditions are unnoted. The physician who is called, or the coroner or medical examiner, is content with superficial examination. If he feels reasonably sure there is no evidence of foul play, he accepts the story of how the child was found and at most does a gross autopsy. Since most of the cases show nothing on gross examination, the case is assigned incorrectly to 'accidental mechanical suffocation!'"

But the story does not end here, Dr. Bain emphasizes. The parents of a baby who has died in this way develop a great sense of guilt which may disturb their lives for years.

"Sometimes accusations of one parent about the carelessness of the other lead to quarrels and a break-up of the home," she says. "Occasionally the local authorities or friends or neighbors may imply intentional neglect or even homicide. The social and emotional repercussions of such an 'accident' are therefore widespread and of great importance."

442 In Pitt Get Govm't Benefits

Rocky Mount, April 20 — Edgecombe is the other fourteen counties in the Rocky Mount Social Security service area in number of Social Security Benefits in force. 647 people living in Edgecombe county are receiving a check for Old-Age or Survivors Insurance Benefits every month. Halifax comes next with 543 recipients of this Federal Insurance Program. Then Pitt County with 442 and Wilson County with 401. Other counties have fewer claimants receiving payment. Greene county has the smallest number of beneficiaries with only 23 people receiving their checks each month, and Hyde county next with 38. These figures do not represent the number of people entitled to payment, Marshall Barney, local manager stated. Many workers have filed claims with us, only to have their payments suspended when they go back to work. A wage-earner who is over 65 years old, he explained, can file a claim and become a beneficiary, then, return to work covered by Social Security and notify us to stop his checks. We do this until he stops work again. Mr. Barney warned, however, that probably many more potential recipients are depriving themselves of benefits by failing to file for them. Payments are not automatic, a claim must be filed.

Coffee Cure

Atkinson, Neb. (AP) Brother farmer, can you spare a cup of coffee for a sick calf? Albert Lerner found it to be literally a life saver. During a recent cold snap Lerner found two newborn calves almost dead of exposure. He brewed a pot of coffee and fed it to them in a pop bottle. Soon after the first calf got his coffee "it could stand up and bawl and I knew that it would make it," Lerner said. Now the cattleman brews a fresh pot of coffee whenever he finds a newborn calf suffering from the effects of the weather.

Former RFC Chairman Is Urging Agency's Demise

Washington, April 20—(AP)—Senators looking into the lending operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation got this advice from former RFC chairman Jesse Jones: Abolish it.

Jones said the agency is being misused and prostituted in making loans. "I think it should be given a decent burial, lock, stock and barrel," he said.

The Houston (Texas) publisher took his stand in a letter to Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) chairman of a Senate banking subcommittee which now is inquiring into RFC lending practices.

RFC chairman Harley Hise declined comment on Jones' letter. Fulbright, who released the letter yesterday, took a similar position. Jones, who headed the huge federal lending agency for 13 years advanced these reasons why it should be closed out:

"First, because none of the conditions which prompted the creation of the RFC and the various amendments to its powers exist today; second, government lending in competition with private business is not a proper function under our free enterprise system; third, our free enterprise system; third, because it is being prostituted when making such loans as the Kaiser-Fraser, the Lustron, the Texmas and the Waltham Watch Company; fourth, because there is ample credit for all legitimate and justifiable loans."

He said if Congress is not willing to liquidate the agency, then RFC should close its 32 branches and make loans only in cooperation with local financial institutions which would make and administer the loans and carry a participation in them of not less than 25 percent for their own account, and I would limit the RFC's participation in any loan to a few thousand dollars.

Woman's Body Is Found In Well; Believed Slain

Nassau, Bahamas, April 20—(AP)—The body of Miss Betty Renner, 38-year-old Washington, D. C., attorney, was found in an open well in a quarry yesterday and police believe she was murdered.

The body, clad only in a brassiere, was found in a well off Gladstone road in a lonely pine forest about six miles from this resort city.

Her slacks had been stripped off and were found in the well beside the body. The well was pumped out to recover the body.

Maj. G. R. Rano, police chief in this resort colony, said "it looks like murder."

He said there were "very few" clues.

"Suicide seems out of the question," Fano said, but did not elaborate on that angle. He said there was "no positive proof" that she had been raped.

Police began a search for Miss Renner after her bicycle was found in the forest. She was last seen cycling in Nassau late Tuesday morning.

Miss Renner arrived here April 8 with a friend, Miss Alice MacDonald of New York City. Miss MacDonald left for the United States Saturday.

Miss Renner was the daughter of Charles H. Renner, president of the Plaza Poultry Co., in Washington, and was a graduate of the Washington school of law and of Catholic University.

She served in Tokyo on the staff of Joseph B. Keenan during the war crimes trials and prior to that was an attorney with the Justice Department in Washington.

Death Blow For United Nations' Jerusalem Plan

Lake Success, April 20—(AP)—The United Nations plan for international rule of Jerusalem apparently got its death blow last night in a surprise about-face by Russia.

The Russians, originally staunch supporters of the U.N. plan, said in a surprise statement that "it has now become clear that the General Assembly resolution (to establish international rule) does not satisfy the Arab or Jewish population of either Jerusalem or Palestine as a whole."

"In these circumstances, the government of the U.S.S.R. does not consider it possible to continue its support x x x."

Opponents of the plan have insisted from the start that it never had a chance anyway.

Financial Aid To Group Refusing Loyalty Oaths

Los Angeles, April 20—(AP)—Faculties at the University of Chicago and Iowa State College plan to give financial aid to any University of California faculty members who are fired for refusal to sign a loyalty oath.

The plan was announced here yesterday by Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago.

Hutchins said other Universities are considering the plan and that the fund will be used for a year to help professors get relocated if they are discharged. "Any University would be glad to get men of the caliber of the California faculty," he said at a press conference.

He said professors joining the plan will subscribe two per cent of their annual salary. "From Chicago alone, that will mean a fund of $80,000," he said. Hutchins said he is contributing two per cent and "am going to do all I can in this matter."

"This plan," he said, "reflects the general attitude of the academic world toward the University of California regents' action. It is a matter of universal concern to Universities. We regard the oath as a very dangerous precedent."

The University of California board of regents is to meet at the Davis campus tomorrow. This will

Robins Meet Tarboro Tonight In League Opener

Lewey Tentative Choice To Start Against Visitors

By BERT MOYE
Manager Randy Heflin and his Greenville Robins will open the 1950 Coastal Plain League baseball season at Guy Smith Stadium here tonight when they meet Manager Joe Antolick and his Tarboro Athletics in the curtain raiser.

Prior to the start of the game, which gets underway at 7:45, there will be brief opening ceremonies starting at 7:30 o'clock. Business Manager Dallas Blackiston will introduce to the fans the present directors of the club which are Roy Dissinger, president; Russell Catalano, vice-president; Sam Ferreri, vice-president; Walter Dobush, secretary; and Russ Pilley, assistant manager of the local club. All of the above directors of the club are from the Willimantic, Connecticut.

The Robins will also have as their guests at tonight's opener, all of the former directors and their wives and Mayor W. S. Stafford and his wife.

The season will officially get underway when Greenville's most popular fan which is being chosen by the fans themselves, will be made known and he tosses out the first ball.

The Robins have announced the following tentative lineup for the opening contest tonight:

Charlie Ouzts, shortstop; Tom Minyard, rightfield; Paul Strausser, centerfield; Bruce Robbins, catcher; Fleming Platt, first base; Mat-the Hall, third base; Steve Denier or Shoer, at second base; George Banas in left field; and Jim Lewey, pitcher.

No lineup from the Athletics is known at this time, but Manager Joe Antolick has stated that he will start Bobby Zick or Bill Schiavo on the mound for the Athletics. Both of these men were with the Tarboro club last season.

Korean Distance Runners Ranked Among The Best

Boston, April 20—(AP)—Two tiny Korean schoolboys and a chunkier and more experienced fellow countryman today ranked among the world's top long distance runners after finishing one-two-three in the famed Boston A.A. marathon.

Winner Kee Yoon Song and Yun Chul Chol, who made an exceptional showing in the 1948 Olympic marathon, completely outclassed 131 rivals yesterday during the punishing 26 miles-385 yards hill course that stretches from Little Hopkinton to Boston.

Ham, a 19-year-oldster who attends Yung Chung high school in Seoul, was the first to cross the finish line in 2 hours, 32 minutes, 39 seconds. For a time he threatened to break the course record of 2:25:39, set by his famed countryman, Yuri Bok Suh, three years ago.

Out To Clinch NAB Playoffs

Syracuse, April 20—(AP)—The Minneapolis Lakers will be out to clinch the National Basketball Association's final playoff series tonight by again beating the Syracuse Nationals at the Coliseum.

The Nats, who dominated the eastern division during the league's regular season, must win all the remaining games in the playoffs. They go into tonight's fifth game of the best-of-seven series trailing the Lakers, one game to three.

Basketball Tour Is Great Success

Washington, April 20—(AP)—A fabulously successful basketball tour ended last night when the Harlem Globetrotters defeated the college all-stars 77-64 in the finale at Uline Arena. But Promoter Abe Sperstein says he'll be back next year and the years after as long as the fans want what he calls "the World Series."

The 18-day series started on April 2 at Chicago, went to the West Coast and thence to New England and wound up here.

Cage Star Turns To Baseball Diamond

Sonny Russell, this year's East Carolina cage star, has turned his duties to holding down the first sack for the Pirate baseball squad. Russell is a distance hitter and has aided Coach Boone's team this season with his hitting power and brilliant fielding. A freshman from Washington, he will start at first in the doubleheaders today and tomorrow. (Reflector staff photo.)

Make Durocher A Poor Trader

By The Associated Press
Sid Gordon and his former-tough buddies are making life tough for their old boss, Leo Durocher. So far, the New York Giants manager looks like a bum David Harum.

Leo traded Gordon, Willard Marshall, Buddy Kerr and Sam Webb to Boston last December for Al Dark and Eddie Stanky. Durocher said he was building "my kind of a ball club." He was willing to sacrifice home run power for a double play combination.

On the evidence at hand, it looks as if a good offense still is the best defense. With Gordon, Marshall and Kerr roughing the Giant pitchers, Boston has swept to a pair of double figure victories.

Gordon, a Polo Grounds hero for years, proved especially embarrassing. Sidney made Leo's face red yesterday with a pair of homers, one with the bases loaded. All told, the Gordon-Marshall-Kerr trio blasted home eight runs in the Braves' 10-6 romp.

To make matters worse, the Giants' defense was conspicuous by its absence. Stanky was the middle man on an attempted double play that got nobody out. It was critical, too. If they'd made the double, Boston would have been retired scoreless in the sixth inning. Instead they posted nine big runs.

International League Begins Its 67th Season

New York, April 20—(AP)—The International Baseball League's 67th season begins today with two night games and two day games.

Some 60,000 fans are expected to show up for the four inaugural games. This is a sharp drop in paid attendance from previous years.

The reason is that only 15,000 fans are expected to take in the opener at Jersey City between the Giants and the Montreal Royals.

In the past, under the regime of Mayor Frank Hague, more than 50,000 tickets were sold for each Jersey City opener although the park seats only 25,000.

Springfield, which has a seating capacity of 7,500, entertains the Buffalo Bisons, 1949 pennant winners in a night game.

Tops At Bat

Leading hitter for this year's Pirate nine is leftfielder Fred Soles shown above who is currently swatting the ball at a .465 clip. Soles, a sophomore, is expected to be a leader at the plate in East Carolina's two doubleheaders today and tomorrow against West Carolina and Appalachian. (Reflector staff photo.)

Hit A Single But Batter Is Out

Philadelphia, April 20—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, famous for some of baseball's weirdest plays, have come up with another rarity—a batter called out after hitting a single.

Duke Snider, fleet centerfielder, joined past members of the Dodgers who have stolen bases with the sacks loaded and stepped the ball with their heads. The Duke drove a sharp single to center and was promptly called out by Umpire Dusty Boggs.

Over anxious to hit one of Russ Meyer's bloop pitches in the fifth inning of yesterday's game with the Phillies, Snider stepped across the plate and out of the batter's box to let go with a well-timed swing.

The rules say a player cannot step out of the batter's box to hit a ball. Old times in the press box said they couldn't recall seeing a similar play.

There have been arguments by managers that an opposing batter violated the rule, usually on an attempted bunt but it took scratching of heads to recall anything like Snider's violation.

Greenville Golf Team Scores Win Against Tarboro

Greenville's golf team went all out yesterday afternoon on the Country Club course, taking Tarboro into camp by the highest score to date, 107-12.

Winning for the second time over the Edgcombe club this season, the local golfers, captained by Dave Mosier, won their fifth match in the Coastal Golf Association.

Greenville matched 90 golfers with the Tarboro crew and for the first time this year, the locals' scores topped 100. Tom Smoot and Dr. M. B. Massey were medalists for Greenville, both shooting three-over-par 75's. Bud Day was one over their scores with a 76 for the best card for the visitors.

Tarboro brought four young boys, ages 12-14 years, and they made the rounds with their elders in order to get the swing of matchplay for future play in the years to come. All went over the 100 mark with D. Fountain, Jr. carding the best of the four at 101.

Derby Test In Wood Memorial

New York, April 20—(AP)—A dozen three-year-olds loom as starters in Saturday's Wood Memorial at Jamaica and half of them probably will earn a fling at the Kentucky Derby two weeks later.

The big show in the mile and a sixteenth, $40,000 added weekend special—last of the east's major Derby tests—will be the long awaited first clash between C. T. Chenery's Hill Prince and Robert J. Kieberg's Middleground. They are rated the top Derby candidates this side of Kentucky.

Two Twin Bills

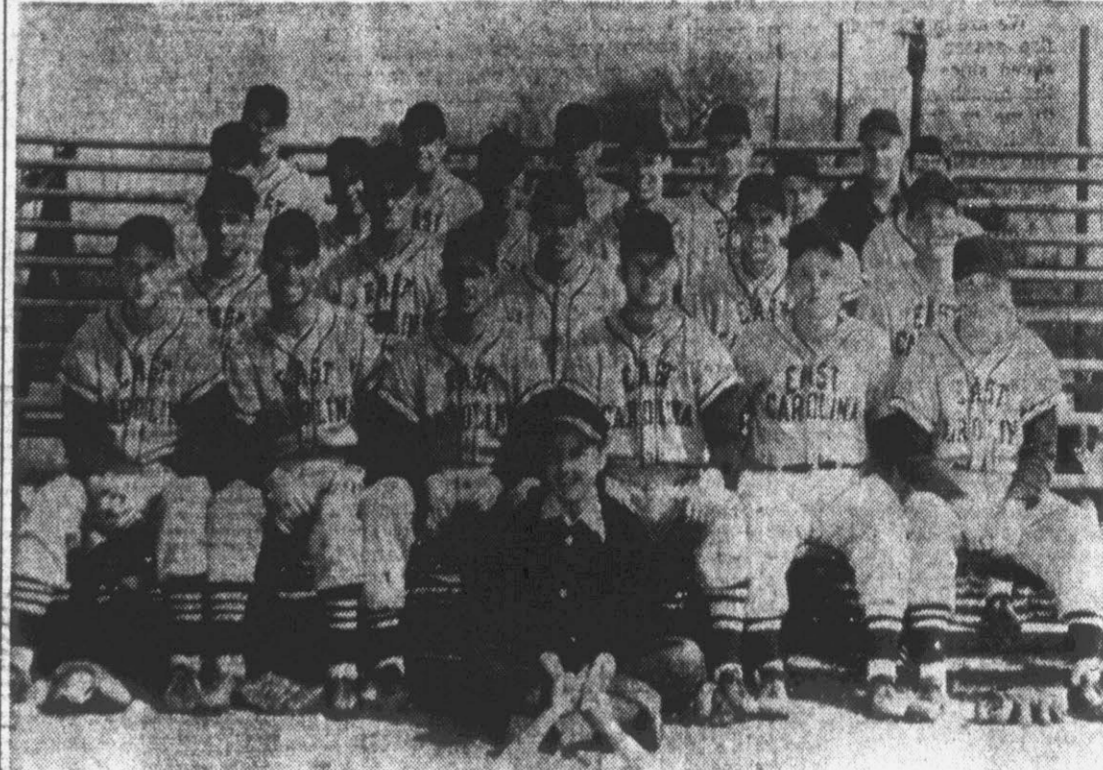

Beginning two days of nothing but doubleheaders, Coach Jack Boone's East Carolina Pirate nine takes on Western Carolina this afternoon in a twin-bill beginning at 1:30.

Stated for mound detail today in the first game is Bob McCotter. The southpaw won his last outing, beating the professional Greenville Robins last Saturday.

Boone stated he would probably call on one of his freshmen pitchers for the nightcap today. Jim Hudson, Dick Hebbes or George McMullen will get the nod, Boone indicated yesterday.

Tomorrow the Pirates take on Appalachian in the last two games of the two days' work. Those two will be the last home appearances for East Carolina until the first of May when they show here against the Norfolk Air Station.

Players Face Two Days Of Doubleheaders

Shown above are East Carolina's 1950 baseball squad which will play two doubleheaders this afternoon and tomorrow. Pictured left to right are: front row, George Woods, c.; Fred Soles, lf.; Jack Wallace, ss.; Bob McCotter, pitch.; George Sauls, 3b.; Bob Bailey, 3b. Second row—Dick Hobbs, p.; Vernon Jones, p.; J. Nine Lives Appear To Be Challenging Loop Leaders

There were indications early this week that there may be a race of it yet in the Carbon League's day shift. The third-place Nine Lives laid two lickings on the Penites, leaders for many weeks, taking the first and second games of the brace and losing the third.

Between the two other teams, the Evereadys copped two from the cellar-dwelling Black Cats by substantial scores.

The Nine Lives called on what their name implies in taking the two from the leaders. All but one of their bowlers kept their averages, contributing to the double win. Bill Bryan, still the individual leader, dropped two pins from his 157 of last week to mark the only noticeable difference in scores.

As it stands now the Penites hold only two games over the Evereadys in second place. The Nine Lives standing only one game behind in third place, with two games over the Cats, the league is pretty well tight in games won and lost. With six more games to be rolled—two nights—there is the possibility the one-two teams will wind up in a tie.

Should the Evereadys continue their pace of recent weeks, winning three here, two there, they can tie up the race. The Penites have slumped somewhat since the middle of March and unless they improve there will have to be a playoff.

Action this week in the Industrial League was rather lackadaisical with the Post Office the only team to clean-sweep its opponent. They took three from the eighth-place State Highway team and in doing so jumped into fourth place, one notch higher than last week.

In other games Imperial Tobacco took two from Carolina Dairy, Bilbro Wholesale took two from the Independents, and Flanagan Buggy won two over White Crevelier.

In winning two games Imperial, the leaders at the present time layed in a new team total for a single with 898. That places their new score in third place behind the Independents with 946 and the Post Office with 958.

Dan Gordon of the Independents rolled the highest line of the evening with 211 to better his preceding two games' scores of 125 and 113. Bill Harrington, rolling for the Dairy outfit, rolled next high with 203 on the third lineater scores of 160 and 181 for the night's high total of 544.

Forest Fire Prevention Urged By Governor Scott

By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh, April 20—Governor Kerr Scott yesterday issued the following warning and appeal with respect to prevalence of forest fires:

"We are in the middle of the worst fire season this State had experienced since 1941 and 1942. During the month of March, it is reported to me by the Division of Forestry of the Department of Conservation and Development, that more than 40,000 acres of timberland have burned.

"With the month of April only half gone, it is estimated that 12 large fires reported in the eastern part of the State have burned over more than 80,000 acres of land.

"P. W. Tillman, Assistant State Forester in charge of Fire Control work, states that these fires are caused mainly by brush and field burning, intentional setting of fires and careless smokers.

"The U. S. Forest Service has closed their woods for trout fishing in Western Carolina and the seriousness of the situation has been brought to the attention not only by the State Forester but by the State Wildlife people and by the Federal Regional Forester, Mr. J. Herbert Stone from Atlanta, and Mr. Don Morris, Supervisor of the Pisgah National Forest.

"I regret that I do not have the authority to close the woods during this critical period when the high winds and dry weather make it so very dangerous for life and property.

"I do appeal to all of the people of the State, especially the press and all communication systems, to cooperate in keeping everyone conscious of this present hazardous situation.

"Refrain from burning trash or entering the woods, if possible, until we have rain. Find out who your nearest Forest Warden is, and notify either him or other public agencies and volunteer in every known way to protect the life and the forests and the wildlife that will most surely suffer unless these fires are kept under control."

Found Coins Of Fourth Century

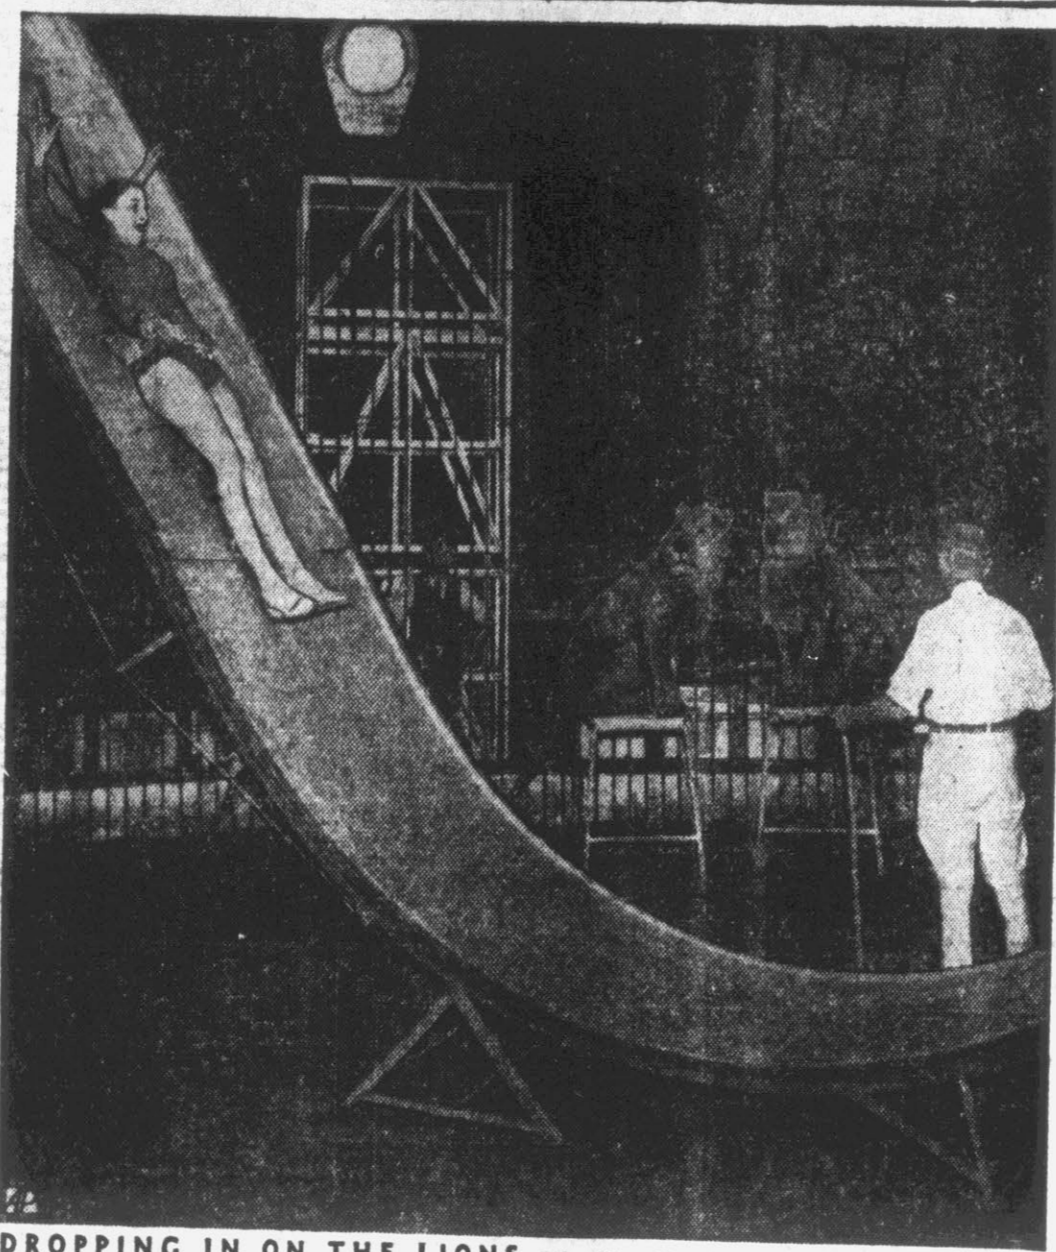

PAVIA—(AP)—An important discovery of 4th century coins has been made here. The Fine Arts Commission, which classified some of the finds as unique, described the discovery as "the most important made in Europe for the last 100 years."

The coins, nearly 100 large gold and silver rarities, were in an urn unearthed by peasants working in a field. Authorities said one big gold coin bore the name of Constant II. Six large silver ones bore the names of the Emperors Valente, Gratiano, Valentinian I, and Theodore I.

Mussolini Curios Fill Seven Rooms

ROME—(AP)—Benito Mussolini was an enthusiastic collector of curios. His left-over knick knacks fill seven rooms of a mansion at Brescia.

Custodians of the collection say it includes a portable prayer-stand, a rare old violin, Japanese vases donated by the Mikado, a Roman gladiator's sword donated by Hungary and about 1,000 books. Mussolini's widow, Rachele, is seeking to recover the collection from the government.

DROPPING IN ON THE LIONS—Miss Nina Mavel, an elephant trainer, swoops into the Lions' cage on a fifteen-foot slide, during a circus rehearsal in Luebeck, Germany.

A&P's Big Values Every Day Make a Big Difference in Your Total Food Bill!

There's a big difference between the occasional values you get by shopping from store to store and the daily values you get by shopping at your thrifty A&P Super Market. Want to see that difference? Buy all your foods at A&P for just one week. Then compare your total bill with what you've been paying elsewhere. You'll get a surprise that will open your eyes and prove to you that A&P hasn't forgotten its founder's formula: "Give the people the most good food you can for their money!"

A HONEY of a Cereal! New! Post's SUGAR CRISP

FOR BREAKFAST IT'S DANDY!

OR EAT IT LIKE CANDY!

It's fun to eat plain—right out of the bag. It's so sweet and crisp you'll keep on nibbling and nibbling. You just can't leave it alone. Put Post's Sugar Crisp on your grocery list now. It's the new cereal that has everything!

Fluffy Puffed Wheat with a special honey flavored coating toasted on—so sweet you don't need to add sugar. Just pour on the milk or cream and watch the whole family go for this "honey" of a new cereal.

FOR SNACKS IT'S SO HANDY!

So quick, so easy. Perfect for 'tween meal, after-school or bedtime snacks. It's good for kids too—wholesome wheat for nourishment, the special honey and sugar coating for flavor, plus quick energy. What a combination!

Blight Menaces Dogwood Glamor

ATHENS, Ga.—(AP)—The dogwood, loveliest of the spring flowering trees, faces a dreary and blighted future because of a newly discovered fungus disease.

The disease, which attacks only the dogwood, withers or splashes the delicate bloom.

Dr. Julian H. Miller of the University of Georgia, one of the nation's top plant pathologists, reports the disease now has been found in Florida, Georgia, the Carolinas, Virginia and Maryland.

The great tragedy is, says Miller, that the disease can be controlled, but who is going to look after the wild dogwood which each year turns the forest into white and pink fairylands?

To those fortunate enough to boast a dogwood on their private patches, Miller wants it known that he has found the fungicide called the Bordeaux Mixture most effective in controlling the disease.

The best time to spray, he continues, is just before the trees begin to bloom.

How the disease first came to light in 1948 is a story in itself. Dr. A. A. Bitancourt, plant pathologist from Sao Paulo, Brazil, was passing through Savannah one day en route to Washington.

With time to kill between trains, Dr. Bitancourt went for a walk. The walk took him past a dogwood tree—and that was about as much as he saw of Savannah on that trip. He found the tree blighted and, like any scientist, wondered why.

Dr. Bitancourt took samples and found to his surprise upon arrival in Washington that the fungi had not been classified previously.

Since then Miller has gone to work on the problem and found that the disease lives over the winter in the buds, twigs and dead leaves of the trees from New England to Michigan and southward.

ABC Officers Raid Still In Stokestown Area

Pitt county ABC officers J. M. Ward and Claude Manning Tuesday afternoon destroyed an illicit distillery in same section and only about four hundred yards from the outfit destroyed Saturday afternoon. The still similar to the one destroyed Saturday between Venters cross roads and Stokestown was a 100-gallon copper "POT" type still complete with cap and two condensers, 13-gallons of non-tax-paid whisky, 12-50 gallon barrel fermenters containing 300 gallons of fermented mash.

The still was being heated with oil burners. When the officers arrived they found the still hot but no one was present. Officers stated that some one had been operating the still Tuesday morning.

The still and equipment was being prepared for moving when the officers found it. Officer Ward stated both stills appeared to have been operated by the same operators, as both were of the same type construction.

Pitt Men Slated To Visit Naples

Two Pitt county men are aboard the destroyer tender USS Sierra, which is scheduled to arrive in Naples, Italy, on April 22. They are George A. Baker, chief machinist's mate, husband of Mrs. Darrel L. Baker of Bethel, and George H. Brannon, seaman and apprentice, of Greenville Route four.

The U-S Sierra has been engaging in fleet maneuvers with the sixth fleet in the Mediterranean. Its visit to Naples was arranged to afford the ship's crew a period of relaxation ashore. Leave parties have been arranged which will enable a large number of men to visit Rome.

Perjury Case Is Put In Recess

Washington, April 19—(AP)—A major part of the government's perjury case against John Maragon, once a White House intimate, appears to be tottering today.

A recess was taken suddenly until tomorrow to give prosecutors time to decide whether to offer confidential government records as evidence or drop one of their chief accusations.

Explodes Myth Of Tropic Clime

Singapore—(AP)—A University of Malaya physiologist has exploded the myth that Europeans must have a change of climate after three years in the tropics.

Mr. Lee Teow Seng says, "I think the reason is just psychological. Climatic conditions here are not in the least harmful to Europeans. They perspire more than local-born people, but the effects of this can be offset by taking plenty of salt."

Modernizing The King's English

New York—(AP)—Got a cubby in your droptop?

That's not double-talk. It's King's English—automotive variety—and to an Englishman it would mean have you a glove compartment in your convertible.

A Ford Motor Company representative at its exhibit of British-built Ford products in the British Automobile and Motor Cycle show here came up with a glossary translating English automotive terms into their American counterparts.

For example, when an Englishman talks about his car's mascot, he simply refers to his radiator ornament. A wing is a fender, and a bog is a trunk. Don't think a tipper is a butter and egg man in nightclub mood; it's what

California Gulf Has Rare Fish

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The Gulf of California may some day be a great commercial fishing area, says Dr. Boyd Walker of the University of California at Los Angeles.

Little is known about the fish in the Gulf, he says. On a recent trip he brought back a large catch. Among those first examined he found 38 species and said 11 had never before been identified. Both the known and unknown species might well become important food sources in the future, he says.

Wilson's Weekly Bulletin

from the RECTOR'S KITCHENS

Among the smartest Spring and Summer food buys is Wilson's Certified Bacon. Its tempting, tantalizing aroma and rich smoked appearance invites you to buy it. Its brand new cellophane cardboard-back package seals in and protects its quality, and is convenient to keep in refrigerator as a reserve food supply. Ask your dealer for the Self-Service Package.

For Better Bacon Results!

Crisp, slightly-curved, evenly-cooked bacon requires SLOW cooking no matter what method:

In a Skillet: Put Wilson's Certified Bacon slices in a cold skillet (unless in a hurry). Cook slowly, turn frequently, and drain off fat as it accumulates. Drain cooked bacon on absorbent paper and serve on hot platter. Ummmm!

In the Broiler: Place cold Wilson's Certified Bacon on cool broiler rack, insert 3 inches under broiler heat and with regulator turned medium to low (325°-350°F.). Broil slowly, with frequent turning, as it lightly browns from end-to-end. Drain on absorbent paper and serve on hot platter.

In Baking Oven: Large quantities of Wilson's Certified Bacon slices are easiest cooked in the oven. Set bacon on a rack over a shallow pan in 350° F. oven. Cook 14 minutes or at 375° F., 12 minutes. NO TURNING—it browns on all sides at once. Here it slowly bakes to a perfect end-to-end browning.

Here's a Zestful recipe for Wilson's Clearbrook Eggs to accompany that generous serving of Wilson's Certified Bacon.

ZESTY BAKED EGGS

Combine: 1/2 cup Wilson's Salad Dressing or Mayonnaise
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Gradually add, stirring smooth with each addition:
1/4 cup milk and then 1 cup sharp Wilson's Old Fashioned Cheddar Cheese, grated.

Stir and cook over low heat until cheese is melted about five minutes. Pour two tablespoons of the sauce into each of four buttered individual baking dishes. In each dish break:

2 Wilson's Clearbrook Eggs

Top with remaining sauce and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) until eggs are done to your liking—12 to 15 minutes. Serves four.

The Wilson label protects your table

Chapter 12
Andrew wakened early next morning from a restless dream in which jugged hare weighed upon his stomach. He washed and dressed, bending his tall head and swearing a little as he avoided the sloping ceiling, packed his bag, went down into the kitchen and made himself some coffee and lit a cigarette.

He swung out of the main road into the little inclose to the station. Along the fruit-lined valley, the train was whistling a mile away. William was walking in front of him, wearing a brown suit of a light summer tweed, the immaculate cream-colored shirt that Katherine had ironed for him and a red Paisley tie. He carried his soft dark felt hat and swung along in the morning sunlight with his athletic, graceful walk, light as a cat, wary as a panther.

Andrew was conscious of a sudden change in the air. Andrew's office was comfortable and arty in a self-conscious way. The Hamlyn's were there. Father Hamlyn, immaculate and imperious, was watching, listening everything in. The only thing he did not watch, Andrew thought, irritably, was his daughter, and probably she would bite him if he did. He listened like a suspicious Buddha, while Andrew told them of his week-end, the arrangements he had made for their comfort and amusement at Broadview, although he had terrifying presentiments about any meeting between Morton and G. Arthur Hamlyn. He told them cautiously that Sydney Blount was now acting for William Brody, and a bleak smile of congratulations appeared on Hamlyn's face.

"That's quick work, Nolan! Maybe I'll get you working for me one day. But we have to see this kid, you know. Madga's sold on him, and so, apparently, are you, but we've got to see him work. We don't want just a handsome face with no intelligence behind it for this part."

Madga stirred and said slowly, "They tell me he is most intelligent, Daddy," as though she were contemplating buying a pedigree dog.

His office rang, and the receptionist told him with bated breath that Mr. William Brody was waiting in the hall. Her tone suggested that she should have been warned about this Andrew rose.

"Brody's here," he said. "I thought he might come in, as I knew he was in town today. Would you care to meet him now?"

Mr. Hamlyn opened his mouth, but Madga said, "Why, that would be wonderful, Mr. Nolan," and Andrew, caught again that glint of wicked, child mischief that took the edge off her tiger power. He went out into the hall and found William looking at the pictures, bored and graceful. His face lit with pleasure when he saw Andrew.

"Hello, Nolan. I brought the letter that you asked me for last night. I thought I might as well, as I was in town."

Nolan! This unknown youngster, because he was potential star material, had been taken up by the most successful agent in town. Well-known actors would have given their ears for the opportunity. But not our William, thought Andrew, with an incredulous sort of pride.

"He calls me Nolan as though I were the doorman, and Sydney and I and the whole office were his employees. Which," his mind added, because he was honest, "is probably quite true, if he clicks with Hamlyn, we'll all probably be working for him from now on. And he'll click all right."

He affected the same type of superior graciousness, amused at himself for doing it. "Glad you called. As a matter of fact, Mr. Hamlyn and his daughter are in my office now. I'd like to have you come in and meet them."

He led the way to his office. He heard himself making the formal introductions, and stood back mentally, watching the general effect. William gave Madga a little smile, ingeniously frank and admiring, with a touch of shyness that was admirable. Almost as subtle as Morton's dog, thought Andrew. William turned to Mr. Hamlyn and extended his hand, and Mr. Hamlyn rose sharply to his feet as though he were being presented at court.

"This is awfully nice," said William. He looked very young and charming. It was most beautifully done, completely studied. One look at Madga Hamlyn told him that a swift and sincere homage was the best line of approach to that royal beauty. Mr. Hamlyn regarded William with intense suspicion. He knew this was what he was looking for, but he also knew that if anyone could put anything over on anyone, it was this young man. If Madga took him up it was going to cost everyone, including World-Wide, a pretty penny, and it was quite obvious to Mr. Hamlyn that Madga was going to do just that.

Whale Tale
Newport Beach, Calif.—(P)—Gilbert Austin, of Alhambra, Calif., was cruising offshore with his sons, Gordon, 12 and Stevie, 8 in a borrowed 21-foot cabin cruiser. A whale surfaced nearby, then disappeared. Moments later an underwater blow lifted the craft clear of the water. As it fell back they saw the whale again, disappearing into the murk.

Record Breaking Number Of Road Projects Slated
Raleigh, N. C., April 20—(P)—The State Highway Commission says it has a record-breaking 399 road projects under contract.

Of these, 152 are work under the state's $200,000,000 secondary road bond program, the commission reported yesterday. It added that the program is expected to reach its peak operational capacity this summer.

As of April 1, the commission said, it had allocated $41,125,000 of the $50,000,000 issue of road bonds for specific projects and actually had spent $18,250,000.

Allocation of funds under the $75,000,000 second issue of bonds has begun in some sections of the state, it said.

New York City began getting water from the Croton River, 40 miles north, in 1842.

Students Join Red Movement
HONG KONG—(AP)—Reports from Communist Shanghai say that thousands of university students are joining Red indoctrination camps. There they are fed on rice and Marxism.

These camps, operated in many parts of China, train students in Communist political theory for three months to two years in preparation for jobs helping control the peasants and industrial workers.

Twelve Troops Of Pitt Scouts Begin Encampment Here Friday

Twelve troops of Boy Scouts of the Pitt County area will go into an encampment at West Greenville school Friday afternoon. Camp exercises will continue through Saturday. District Commissioner Jack Dowdy stated. The encampment was scheduled for last weekend, but was postponed a week because of cold weather.

The Boy Scout commissioner said the encampment here will provide experience for the youngsters to enable them to function more efficiently when they go to the Boy Scout Camporee in Kinston April 28-30.

Scouts participating in the Greenville encampment are expected to register by patrols at Scout headquarters, near the Curb Market, in West Greenville, between 4 and 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. After registration Boy Scout patrols will be assigned camp sites.

Friday night's activities will be highlighted by a campfire which will begin at 7:30 and last until 9:15.

Commissioner Dowdy said Camping and Activities Chairman Sherman Parks who is in charge of the arrangements for the outing has asked that each patrol participating in the camp prepare a short skit to be presented at the campfire.

Saturday's activities will consist mostly of competitive events in which each of the patrols will participate.

Eight scoutcraft events have been placed on the schedule for the camp, and will be the same events the scouts will participate in at the council camporee.

Following the afternoon events Saturday, the scouts will break camp, and the points accumulated by each patrol during the two-day outing will be announced at a mass meeting of the scouts.

A complete schedule of the camp activities follows:

Friday: 4:00 to 6:00—Report to Camp Headquarters, obtain camp site and set up camp.

6:00 to 7:00—Supper and clean up. 7:30 to 9:15—Camp Fire. 9:35—Signal Event. 10:00—Taps.

Saturday: 6:30—(Bugle) Reveille. Complete all breakfast details including clean-up by 8:00.

8:15-9:00—Knot tying and rescue event. 9:00-9:45—Flag pole raising. 9:45-10:00—Morse signal event.

10:00-10:45—Signal hand signaling. 10:45-1:30—Dinner, clean up, free time. 1:30-2:15—Compass event.

2:15-3:00—First aid event. 3:00-3:45—Pioneer event. 3:45-4:30—Break camp and clean up camp site.

Chief Page Goes All Out Safety Measures In City

Greenville Police Chief Lester D. Page said today his work with the boys of the Training School, Miss Frances Wahl, teacher, for safety on the school grounds and the city streets, had been gratifying so far.

After having a Daily Reflector photographer snap a picture yesterday of a dozen boys, who combine to form a safety patrol at that school.

The chief while talking to the youngsters this morning reminded them of many ways they may provide safety for children. Page advised the boys to watch out for anything which may cause an accident.

He reminded of the dangers of fire. He told about the many ways accidents can happen as a result of people's carelessness. "The youngsters — and they are a fine lot — opened their eyes wide when I told them that the word 'policing' means to maintain and keep order."

Chief Page's plans provide for talks during the next few weeks and before heavy traffic sets in when the tobacco market opens in late summer.

Little Political . . .

In Falkland new candidates have filed for the office of mayor and board of commissioners, but there will be no contests for the positions. J. Frank Parker, Jr. filed for the office of mayor, and is unopposed. Mayor H. A. Nelson recently resigned from his office to become registrar in Falkland township for the county board of elections. Woodrow Wooten and W. J. Little are unopposed for reelection to the town board, and J. E. Watson is unopposed in his bid for the seat on the board held by T. K. Fountain who did not file for reelection.

In Winterville only one officer, Graham Olive, commissioner of streets on the town board, is up for reelection; and he is unopposed for his position. The terms of Mayor Burney L. Tucker and Commissioners Walter Dail and W. G. Worthington have one more year to run.

Sending Student To 'Boys State'

Pitt County Post 39 of the American Legion will send a high school boy to represent the post at Boys State which will be held this summer.

The action was taken Tuesday night at the monthly meeting of the organization. The selection of the boy who will go to Boys State was left to high school officials.

Rodney Fulcher, who won the Legion Oratorical contest in the county and went to the state finals, made a talk to the members present at Tuesday's meeting using a portion of the speech he used in the contest.

A film on cancer was shown the group, and Coach Bill Doie of East Carolina showed movies of the ECTU-High Point College football game.

Herman McLawhorn, chairman of the membership committee, reported the post already has 612 memberships for 1950—twenty less than the post had during 1949.

A motion was made and passed that the dining room of the Legion home be closed to everyone but Legionnaires on the night of May 16 when the Legion will hold its next meeting and have the election of officers for the new year. The motion was passed.

Commander Ty Wagner presided at the meeting.

Noted Kiwanians Coming Here For Meet April 24

The Greenville Kiwanis Club will not meet Friday night. The club will meet at the college next Monday night at 6:30. President Tige Gardner will preside.

Seventh Division Lieut.-Governor B. J. Holleman of Jacksonville will be master of ceremonies.

Kiwanis International President J. Hugh Jackson, of Palo Alto, Calif., will be the speaker at a banquet. Carolinas Kiwanis, Governor Orin F. Hennig of Darlington, S. C., and Herb Hennig of Darlington, S. C., Carolinas secretary-treasurer, will be special guests.

The Greenville Kiwanis Club will be host to the visiting dignitaries and Kiwanians from the nine cities of the Seventh division—Greenville, Wilson, Goldsboro, Washington, Farmville, Kinston, Jacksonville, Wilmington and Stantonburg.

The Asheville Kiwanis Club, in the Sixth Division, is expected to send a good delegation to the Divisional Kiwanis meeting in Greenville.

No Fatality On Recent Weekend

State Highway Patrol, Troop A, officials today reported to a newspaper reporter that in all of the 27 northeastern counties had there been a highway fatality during the last weekend.

Sgt. Tom Brown, veteran State Highway Patrol officer, speaking for Capt. Dave Lambert, who goes to a higher office in the department at Raleigh May 1, said the patrolmen of the six divisions of the Northeastern area had not reported any tragedy during this weekend.

The state patrolmen here and elsewhere in the Troop A area are co-operating to provide safety on the highways and prevent accidents rather than arrest highway violators. Sgt. Brown told a Daily Reflector reporter.

Religion plays a great part in Cripps' life. He is a devout member of the church of England and often preaches in Parish churches.

I met Sir Stafford in London in October of 1942 when he was a member of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's war cabinet. At that time Cripps was the most talked of man in Britain, next to the great Churchill, and there were many who predicted that Sir Stafford would one day be Premier himself.

My outstanding impression of Sir Stafford was that he was frank. I looked him squarely in the eye and read sincerity there.

Churchill summed Cripps up in 1947, when the latter was made Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Socialist government, as "the greatest brain in the (Socialist) administration." The famous wartime Prime Minister was then leader of the Conservative opposition in the House of Commons.

Reached . . .

The 61-year-old Cripps is a six footer and has a pleasant smile. However, he is reserved and lacks the warmth of a "milkier." He never touches alcohol and is a vegetarian.

State Completes . . .

(Continued from Page One) ers home when they could not find Carson about the club. "They went to Miss Bowers' home and saw her mother, and then took her to Dr. C. G. Carrington who ordered her to the hospital in Tarboro, Miss Moore stated.

Miss Bowers stated she was given two blood transfusions during the time she was in the hospital, Saturday night through Tuesday afternoon, January 10.

Miss Bowers finished her testimony about four o'clock yesterday afternoon and defense attorney J. B. James cross-examined her for about 30 minutes. The rest of the afternoon's proceedings were taken up with testimony from Dr. Garlington in Bethel and Dr. Edward Roberson who attended her in Tarboro.

Dr. Roberson testified she had lost a great amount of blood, hence the transfusions, and there were no bruises or scratches on her body.

"This morning's proceedings were mostly the testimony of character witnesses for both Miss Bowers and Carson. The state rested about 10:30 and the defense called the two women who assisted Miss Bowers in the lounge of the Vets Club.

At noon today defense called Mayor J. W. Rook to give character testimony on Carson. Rook stated it was "good." When asked by the state what sort of character Miss Bowers had, he replied "good."

Judge Frizzelle stated at the end of yesterday afternoon's proceedings he would order the resumption of the trial tonight in an effort to finish the case and get to others before the week's end.

The courtroom was packed yesterday afternoon with the sheriff having to clear the seats behind the railing so lawyers could have a place to sit. There were considerably more women in the room in the afternoon and this morning's court than there were when the jury was being chosen.

The final juror and the alternate were chosen at 3 p.m. yesterday after the entire list of regular jurors was used and a part of the special venire of 100 chosen for the case.

Object To . . .

"The committee believes that sizeable savings could be made by a reduction of the number of deliveries per day to many areas, particularly on those routes serving residential areas exclusively.

"Residential areas receive from one to three deliveries a day: Rural patrons receive one delivery a day. The committee urges the Postmaster General to provide for the rearrangement of city delivery service so as to reduce the number of deliveries wherever possible." Donaldson took the committee at its word and ordered the number of deliveries cut, plus other cuts in the postal service, such as shutting down earlier at night.

Within a few hours this cry of anguish came out of Congress. "Outrageous. Fifty million taxpayers have been hit in the mailbox by this ruling."

(This lawmaker might have added: "Those are 50,000,000 votes.")

Part of his job, Budenz said, was virtually to memorize a list of some 1,000 names of persons identified with the party.

This list, he said, was not put down in writing for fear it might be disclosed.

"I was required to keep it fresh in my mind," Budenz said. The names, Budenz continued, included those of persons who were being "infiltrated" into various organizations. He said he was not advised of the "small fry," but only of the "large-sized names."

He mentioned in this connection that infiltration was directed at the wartime office of strategic services.
