Republicans Talk Of 'Progressive' Candidate In '52

Duff Victory In Pennsylvania Primary Seen As Blow To 'Old Guard'

Washington, May 18—(AP)—Talk of electing a "Progressive Republican" as President in 1952 grew louder today among GOP Senators who like that label for themselves. The talk came from the smashing Pennsylvania Republican primary victory that gave Governor James H. Duff the nomination as Senator and a strong hold on one of the most powerful parts of the National GOP machinery. Republicans of all political shades agreed that Duff had dealt a stunning blow to what some call the "old guard" among Republicans. And most Republicans pointed to the heavy GOP primary totals in Pennsylvania as evidence that can recapture control of Congress this fall. Duff's victory over John C. Kunkel was a defeat for the veteran and long powerful Joseph R. Grundy, 67-year-old former U. S. Senator who has been a leading figure in state and national GOP affairs. It was this angle that brought smiles for Republican Senators who enjoy being called Progressives, such as Lodge and E. Stonestall of Massachusetts, Ives of New York and Aiken of Vermont. Another of the same category, who would not permit use of his name, explained it this way: "In recent years no one has been able to get the Republican Presidential nomination without the support of Joe Grundy, Joe Pew and the Pennsylvania old guard. But with that support all of them have been defeated by the Democrats. "Now a Progressive Republican can get the nomination and also be elected. All of this, of course, rests upon Governor Duff defeating Democratic Senator Francis Myers in the November election in Pennsylvania. Myers, now deputy Democratic Senate leader, discounted all Republican claims. He even suggested that some Republicans stayed away from the primary in order to vote Democratic this fall. Senator Martin (R-Pa) who backed the losing Grundy ticket, curtly announced that he was enthusiastic for the ticket nominated.

Sidewalk Project Half Completed; End In Sight

Dickinson Avenue Paving Job Expected To Be Finished In Ten Days

More than half of the sidewalk paving project which has been undertaken by the city on Dickinson Avenue has been completed, and the remainder of the project is expected to be completed within the next ten days. C. K. Beatty, head of the city street department, said this morning the Clark Construction Company, which was awarded the contract for the sidewalks, is rapidly completing the work on the project. The new concrete sidewalks which are being laid on both sides of Dickinson Avenue for about five-and-one-half blocks will be five feet wide, and will leave a wide park strip between the sidewalks and the street. New sidewalks are being paved from the Colonial Store on Dickinson Ave. to the Paris Avenue intersection. The old sidewalks on Dickinson Ave. were considerably broken up last year during the period when the State Highway Commission was widening the street. Temporary repairs were made to the sidewalks following the completion of the construction on the street, but permanent improvements were delayed until the 1949-1950 fiscal year of the city. The present project, which is being paid for from the city budget, was approved by the aldermen when they adopted the budget for the current fiscal year. The broken sidewalks along the street were completely taken up when work on the new project was begun earlier this month. Two trees which obstructed the paving of the new sidewalks already have been removed, and others probably will be removed so that the sidewalks will be uniform.

Pouring Concrete For Sidewalk Paving Project

Negro construction workers of the Clark Construction company are shown pouring a portion of the sidewalk paving project which is being carried on by the city on Dickinson Avenue. The sidewalk will be five feet wide and will leave a wide park strip between the sidewalk and the pavement. The new concrete sidewalks will replace the ones broken when Dickinson Avenue was widened recently. (Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee).

House Is Offered Another Year Of Rental Controls

Banking Committee Votes 13-4 In Favor Of More Liberalized Legislation

Washington, May 18—(AP)—The House Banking committee voted 13 to 4 today for another year of federal rent control. The bill provides, however, that controls will end December 31 in cities that do not vote to continue them until June 30, 1951. The present rent control law expires at the end of next month. The committee's action sends its bill to the house. The measure sponsored by chairman Spence (D-Ky) has these main provisions: 1. Continuation of the federal control powers to June 30, 1951. 2. Increased "local option" provisions whereby localities can determine whether they want further controls. A city would have the power at any time to vote out controls. Once taken off, no rent ceilings could be reimposed in a particular locality. 3. Rent controls to end automatically December 31 in all localities where the local governing body or the people in referendum do not decide to continue the controls to June 30, 1951. Governors of the various states would have no authority to veto the action of cities taking themselves out from under the federal rent ceilings. President Truman asked for a rental law in a special message to Congress April 21. He said "a sudden and simultaneous removal of rent controls on a national scale would precipitate a wave of exorbitant rent increases." Mr. Truman also argued that "at increased wages mean the average family would have to cut its spending for food and clothing. He said that would lead to unemployment. Labor groups also campaigned strongly for continuation of controls. Spokesmen for the CIO and AFL held the committee yesterday that if controls were dropped labor certainly would ask for a new round of wage increases. Mr. Truman said that controls are now being dropped gradually. He estimated that by June 30 only 8,000,000 rental units would be under rent ceilings. This compares with a total of 16,000,000 units controlled in 1949. Millions of rental units have been decontrolled under the present law that permits state legislatures to decontrol whole states, localities to decontrol themselves and the federal housing expediter to lift ceilings where he thinks housing pressures have eased.

Vote Cut Interest For Overpayment On Taxes

Reduced Interest Rate Said Representing A Savings Of $67 Millions Per Year; Proposed Cut Goes In New Tax Bill

Washington, May 18—(AP)—The House Ways and Means committee voted today to cut to 2 percent the interest rate the government pays on overpayments of taxes that later are refunded. The rate now is 6 percent. The committee decided to keep at 6 percent the rate the taxpayer must pay if he is late with his payments. At present, the government pays out about $10,000,000 a year in interest on tax overpayments later refunded. Staff experts advised the committee that cutting the rate from 6 to 2 percent would save the government $67,000,000 a year. Some big taxpayers are suspected in fact of deliberating overpaying their taxes in order to collect the 6 percent. Interest rates being what they are—and bond yields as low as they are—an overpayment of taxes is one of the most profitable safe investments a man with surplus money can make. The proposed cut is being written into the new tax bills the committee is drafting. It has made a number of proposed cuts in taxes. The most controversial of these, at least within the committee, is a proposed drop from 25 to 16 percent in the tax on long-term capital gains. The main argument there is whether the cut in taxes on stock and bond deals would help market speculators more than it would the nation's economy. The proposal, approved by the

Perkins. Mrs. Duff said other members of the committee throughout the county will be announced from day to day. Matter Of Evolution

Turkey's Political Upheaval No Specific Rebuke To Past Political Control; Time Had Come To End One-Party System; Its Origin Under Kemal Ataturk, Dictator

The political upheaval in Turkey, resulting in the defeat of the long dominant People's Party by the comparatively new democratic party, is another landmark in that ancient country's modernization which began under the late Kemal Ataturk a bare generation ago. The development may be interpreted, I believe, more as a natural evolution than as a specific rebuke to the past political control. The time had come for a change from the one-party system, and the voters provided that change. It was in 1921, at a critical moment in the Greco-Turkish war, that the Turkish national assembly gave Kemal—famous soldier and commander in chief of the country's forces—the powers of dictator. He already had made a great name for himself, having among other things been responsible for the failure of the Allied forces to capture the Gallipoli Peninsula in the First World War. Having beaten the Greeks and regained Thrace, he turned his attention to consolidating his political position. By some very crafty sleight of hand (to put it euphemistically) he persuaded the national assembly to abolish the sultanate. Then he toured the country and formed the People's Party, after which he again persuaded the national assembly to declare the country a republic and name him as president. Kemal Ataturk then was indisputably the big boss. And he was tough. He convicted and hanged some of his opposition, and veiled others. He abolished the Moslem Caliphate and secularized the country. He even abolished the wearing of the fez—the red cap with the black tassel—which the faithful were required to wear in the mosques. Ataturk introduced the Latin alphabet, and when I was in Turkey in 1938 I found that this tough, ruthless ruler was himself going into class rooms in the country districts and helping not only children but grown folks in their struggle to learn this strange new form of writing. So he had his kindly side, too. Thus the story runs. Kemal Ataturk remade Turkey, forcing it towards modernization in seven-league strides. His many reforms included compulsory education and

All 16 Men Aboard U.S. B-29 Killed In Azores Crash

Ponta Delgada, Azores, May 18—(AP)—A B-29 bomber crashed into flames, killing all 16 persons aboard. Unofficial reports said the U. S. Air Force plane hit an automobile parked off the field. The plane caught fire immediately and burned in a few minutes. Fourteen men were burned beyond recognition. The plane, carrying a crew of 11 and five passengers, believed to be military personnel, was en route from Bermuda to England. Its home was Barksdale Air Force Base at Shreveport, La. Capt. Salvatore Pelle, public information officer at Barksdale, said the plane had been diverted to Lages Field when it developed engine trouble. He said no high ranking officers were aboard. The bomber was en route to England as part of the Air Force rotational plan to provide overseas training for regular Air Force groups. Pelle said no list of the persons aboard could be issued immediately. The first planes of the group left Barksdale about May 5.

Flood-Weary Winnipeg Awaits Water Subside

Winnipeg, Man., May 18—(AP)—Winnipeg's flood-weary residents hopefully looked today for the first, slow drop in the Red River's muddy waters which have driven 90,000 persons from their homes in the last three weeks. The peak of Manitoba's worst flood in more than a century held steady at 302 feet, unchanged for more than 30 hours. One provincial official predicted the waters should begin to subside soon. Flood control officials continued to keep a wary, wary eye on the areas' weakening, over-strained dikes. They emphasized the surging Red and its tributary Assiniboine and Seine rivers still could break through and bring new disaster to the water-logged greater Winnipeg area. D. M. Stephens, Manitoba's deputy minister of resources, said last night that the river must fall five feet before further hazards to the area are eliminated. That would take at least 10 days after the waters definitely start receding, he added. A different attitude prevailed in the city. The need for volunteer workers on the dikes appeared sharply cut, at least for the present. Radio stations no longer blared flood warnings and official notices were wanting. Talk of repair, rehabilitation and future flood control gained momentum.

Measurement Of Crops Scheduled

Check-Up On Overplanting To Begin In Pitt Monday

Measurement of all farm crops will begin in Pitt next Monday in an effort to determine which farmers are overplanting their allotted acreages. The measuring is expected to be finished by June 30 and will be done by 75 reporters hired by the county Production and Marketing Administration office. It comes on the heels of a two-month long pre-measurement which undertook to measure approximately 500 acres for farmers throughout the county. Pre-measurement was done for the first time this year. In former years only an estimate of the farmers' intended acres for planting was required. Overseeing the 75 PMA-employed reporters will be four spot checkers who will supervise their work. They are Julius Parker, Belvoir; Macon Dale, Greenville; Eugene Smith, Ayden and Frank Parker, Falkland. James T. Meredith, secretary of the county PMA office, today urged all farmers to provide a helper for the measurer when he comes to the farm. He said that would facilitate matters and would enable most of the farms to be measured by June 30.

In Junior High, the contest was sponsored by the local National Forensic League chapter. The judges were Mrs. R. B. Starling, George Wilkerson and George Lautares.

Fish Fry Bandit Makes Escape

Raleigh, May 18—(AP)—Claude Chappel, 36, one of Wayne County's fish fry robbers, escaped last night, the Prison Department reported today. He made his getaway through bars of the prison ward of the State Tubercular Sanatorium at McCain, according to the department. Chappel was one of six men convicted in Wayne County several months ago of robbing a group of persons who had assembled at an abandoned shack near Goldsboro known as the "Hole-in-the-Wall" for a fish fry.

No Move Toward Price Supports On Early Wheat

Washington, May 18—(AP)—The marketing season is near for early harvested wheat, but the government shows no signs of setting up a price-support program. Such a price-supporting program is required by law, but Secretary of Agriculture Brannan apparently has decided to make no move until Congress votes him the $2,000,000,000 additional funds the administration has requested for farm price support operations. Because poor weather and insects have greatly reduced this year's wheat crop prospects, officials said the Department has enough money to finance presently indicated needs for wheat supports. But Brannan hesitates to announce a wheat program, they said, lest Congress interpret such action as an indication that the $2,000,000,000 request is not needed.

Social Security Act

Congress Seems Sure To Change Law Which Was Passed In 1935; Proposals Would Broaden Coverage And Increase Pensions; Why No Predictions Can Be Made

Washington, May 18—(AP)—This year congress seems sure to change the social security act which was passed in 1935. The proposals congress is considering would broaden the present act in many ways. For example: 1. Increase the size of old-age pensions. Now the minimum pension to a covered worker who retires at 65 is $10 a month. But the average pension being paid is $25. The most any retired worker can draw now is around $45 a month. 2. Allow more people to be covered by the act's benefits. Many millions of workers won't get those benefits because they're in non-covered jobs. In fact, only about 35,000,000 of this country's 60,000,000 workers are in "covered" jobs at any one time. Only about 2,900,000 people—this includes retired workers and their wives and the widows and children of covered workers who died before reaching 65—are now drawing the government pay. At this moment no one can say exactly what changes will be made in the present law except that pensions will be increased and more people will be covered. This is why no precise prediction can be made: Late in 1949 the house passed a bill to change the present law. The full senate hasn't yet tackled the subject. But yesterday, after months of work, the senate's finance committee finished preparing a bill for the full senate to act on. The senate is expected to pass its committee's bill pretty much as is. But since the bills passed by both houses will wind up being different, both house—by agreeing to changes in their respective bills—will have to agree on a single, compromise bill. Here are some comparisons on a few of the main points in the law as it stands and as it would be changed by the House and Senate bills: Old-age pension: Minimum for a worker retiring at 65—present law, $10 a month; house bill, $25; senate bill, $30. The maximum a worker retiring at 65 can get—present law, about $45 a month; house bill, $64; senate bill, $72. Since a retired, covered worker's wife gets a pension half that of her husband's when she reaches 65, the most a couple can get is: present (Continued on page three)

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winter's pet doesn't actually puff a pipe, of course. He's a sniffer. The Winters first noticed it several months ago when Sandy began lapping away at the smoke from Charles' cigar. Since then, they say, the animal has become practically a tobacco addict and likes nothing better than to sniff quietly in a corner of a smoke-filled room.

Men's Club In Fish Fry On Pamlico River

The fish weren't caught by the eaters but the consumption was the same as though they had been freshly caught. Above are shown a few of the members of the Presbyterian Church Men's Club as they took part in the annual fish fry at Ficklen's camp near Bath. The group went down yesterday afternoon and returned last night. (Reflector photo by Roy Hardee).

There is no truth in the statement that fish can't be enjoyed unless they are caught by the person doing the eating.

The lie was given to that statement last night as the Men's Club of the First Presbyterian Church went on its annual fish fry at James Ficklen's camp on the Pamlico River just outside Bath. There were enough fish to fill two bushel baskets and that is just about how they were brought to the group—from the fish market.

The 50-odd members present put away all but four or five pounds of trout, mullet and bream, plus enough corn and corn bread to make any self respecting eastern Carolina fish fry maintain its reputation. There was plenty of pie to settle the fish.

About half of the group went down in the early afternoon to do some fishing on its own. One group went about three miles up the river and came back with about 30 robin and redbird perch. But the group didn't eat any of them—they were for the table back home, provided the wives complied.

After all the fish were eaten the plan was to hold forth with some singing. But Bancroft, Mosley and Hunter Keck weren't alone and the singing suffered in their absence. After that many fish were consumed, most of the members were ready for the drive back home.

Reverend Leonard Topping, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, was along to oversee operations in the kitchen accompanied by Ken Beatty who acted as major-domo for the fry.

A portion of the membership of the Presbyterian Men's Club as they went down the line of fried fish, cole slaw and corn bread. The fry was held at Ficklen's Camp near Bath yesterday. About 60 members were present and put away most of the fish. (Reflector photo by Roy Hardee).

Morehead Port Engineers Said Not 'Delivering'

Wilmington, May 18—(AP)—Engineers handling design of the $2,500,000 Morehead City port development project today were charged with complete failure to deliver specifications as promised, and with "not having progressed" on them to the satisfaction of the North Carolina State Ports Authority.

The engineers are George Watts Carr of Durham and the J. E. Greiner Company of Baltimore. Charges that they have not progressed, and that they are "not delivering," came from George W. Gillet, executive director of the State Ports Authority, who has the responsibility for developing the port of Wilmington and Morehead City with the $7,500,000 bond issue authorized by the last general assembly.

These new maximums provided by the house and senate bills apply to a worker now retired or retiring now. But the maximum for a worker retiring in future years would be higher, perhaps double the present maximum.

Workers totally and permanently disabled:

Under present law there's no government pension for a worker who becomes totally and permanently disabled. The senate bill would keep it that way, leaving the present law unchanged. But the house bill would give such a worker a pension.

Workers in covered jobs:

Under the present law workers in these jobs are not covered by old-age pensions: self-employed, farm workers, domestic servants, employees of the federal and state governments, railroad workers and employees of non-profit organizations, such as charitable, religious, educational institutions.

Under the house bill about 11,000,000 of these non-covered workers would come under coverage. The senate bill would open the door to 10,000,000.

Despite his toughness and his many faults, Atatukr was greatly beloved by the rank and file of his people. As I have remarked before in this column, I was in Stamboul when he died in 1938, and that great metropolis was hushed and in tears. I saw men weeping openly and unashamed in public places.

The People's Party naturally continued in power after Atatukr's death. However, it wasn't in the cards that a single party—which was in effect a dictatorship—should continue indefinitely. And so about four years ago a new party—the Democratic—was born.

It is the Democrats who now have won a political victory which entitles them for their tenure to be the standard bearers of progress in the new Turkey.

There Is Constancy Even In The Weather

Only a short time ago we were quite convinced Eastern North Carolina was on its way to being another "dust bowl."

No rain. Lots of sun; and the wind whipped sand and dust from fields and roads in veritable clouds.

Then everything changed. We had rain; in some areas, too much. Rivers began to rise to, or near, flood stage. The sun wasn't doing its share in helping things to grow.

Only one thing remains constant about the weather... it's always a topic for conversation no matter how good, bad or indifferent it may be.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, May 18—The creeping approach of almost unprecedented price and credit inflation as a result of the Administration's past and prospective deficit financing of huge government expenditures has become a matter of grave concern at closed sessions of the Federal Reserve Board and other monetary agencies here, although it does not seem to interest or worry President Truman or Treasury Secretary Snyder.

But the fact is that retail costs are booming in almost every line, especially foodstuffs and other necessities, and are expected to go higher during the summer and early fall.

Since there are hardly any serious scarcities, in view of peak production, the basic explanation for the upward trend is an oversupply of money, credit and lending reserves, based on the tax-and-spend policies at Washington.

This is the opinion of a majority of Federal Reserve Board members, not the prejudiced conclusion of political opponents.

DANGER—The danger will become even greater after June 30, when Secretary Snyder must again borrow from the banks in order to meet an expected $7 billion deficit about that time. A year later, he will have to ask the bankers for at least another $5 billion, or a total of $12 billion in two years.

He must get his money from banks because Congress refuses to boost taxes beyond their present peak. In fact, the desire on Capitol Hill is to lower them. Every recent election return, most of which have been adverse to the Administration, has turned, in part at least, on the issue of high taxes, prices and debt.

Neither Mr. Truman nor Mr. Snyder are financial geniuses. They deny that deficit financing is a precarious policy in a time of supposed abundance, pitting their knowledge against such men as Bernard M. Baruch, Federal Reserve Governor Marriner S. Eccles, Edwin G. Nourse, James A. Farley and every reputable banker in the land.

THREATENING—The plain fact is that, in the opinion of the Federal Reserve Board, there is too much money and credit available, and it is being spent or tapped too plentifully and unwisely. The burden of debt, national and individual, now being piled up, is mountainous. It is far more threatening than the stock market orgy which led to the 1929 crash.

As Secretary Snyder must admit, the government must go to the banks for money within a month. What he does not admit—or know—is that, whenever the government borrows from the banks instead of paying its way through taxation and keeping within the budget, it fans the flames of inflation.

It does so in two ways. It spends the money it borrows, thus adding to the amount in circulation, and it increases the total which the banks can lend at low rates and on favorable terms. In short, it creates a lending-spending market and atmosphere. It invites people to borrow and spend, and it virtually compels banks to lend.

DISASTER—Although economists have argued over the matter since Adam Smith's day, too much money and credit have always meant disaster for a nation and its people. Cheap money never did anybody any good, although it may have led them to vote for its apostates at the moment.

However, below are the inflationary charts which Federal Reserve experts have been looking at for several months with grave faces. They show, graphically and mathematically, why we are paying such high prices and going so heavily into debt.

In the table presented below, every item reflects the terrific orgy of borrowing, lending, spending and incurring of debt on which the government and the American people have embarked since 1939.

It is a current report on where we all stand, financially, and it is a black picture.

STATISTICAL—Here is the bad news in a statistical nutshell:

Demand Deposits	$32 billion	$95 billion
Home Mortgage Credit	17.6 billion	40 billion
Consumer Credit	7.9 billion	18 billion
Automobile Credit	2.7 billion	6.2 billion
Currency in Circulation	6.4 billion	24.7 billion
Public Debt	41.9 billion	225 billion

TOTAL—Never before has any people, anywhere, buried itself so deeply beneath such a mountain of debt. It should also be noted that, despite an increase of population and productive facilities during World War II, the basic year of 1939 was a relatively prosperous and normal period.

Nor does the red-dish total on the right side of the table above include billions in unlisted private debt or numerous government obligations never tabulated in Truman-Snyder estimates of federal indebtedness.

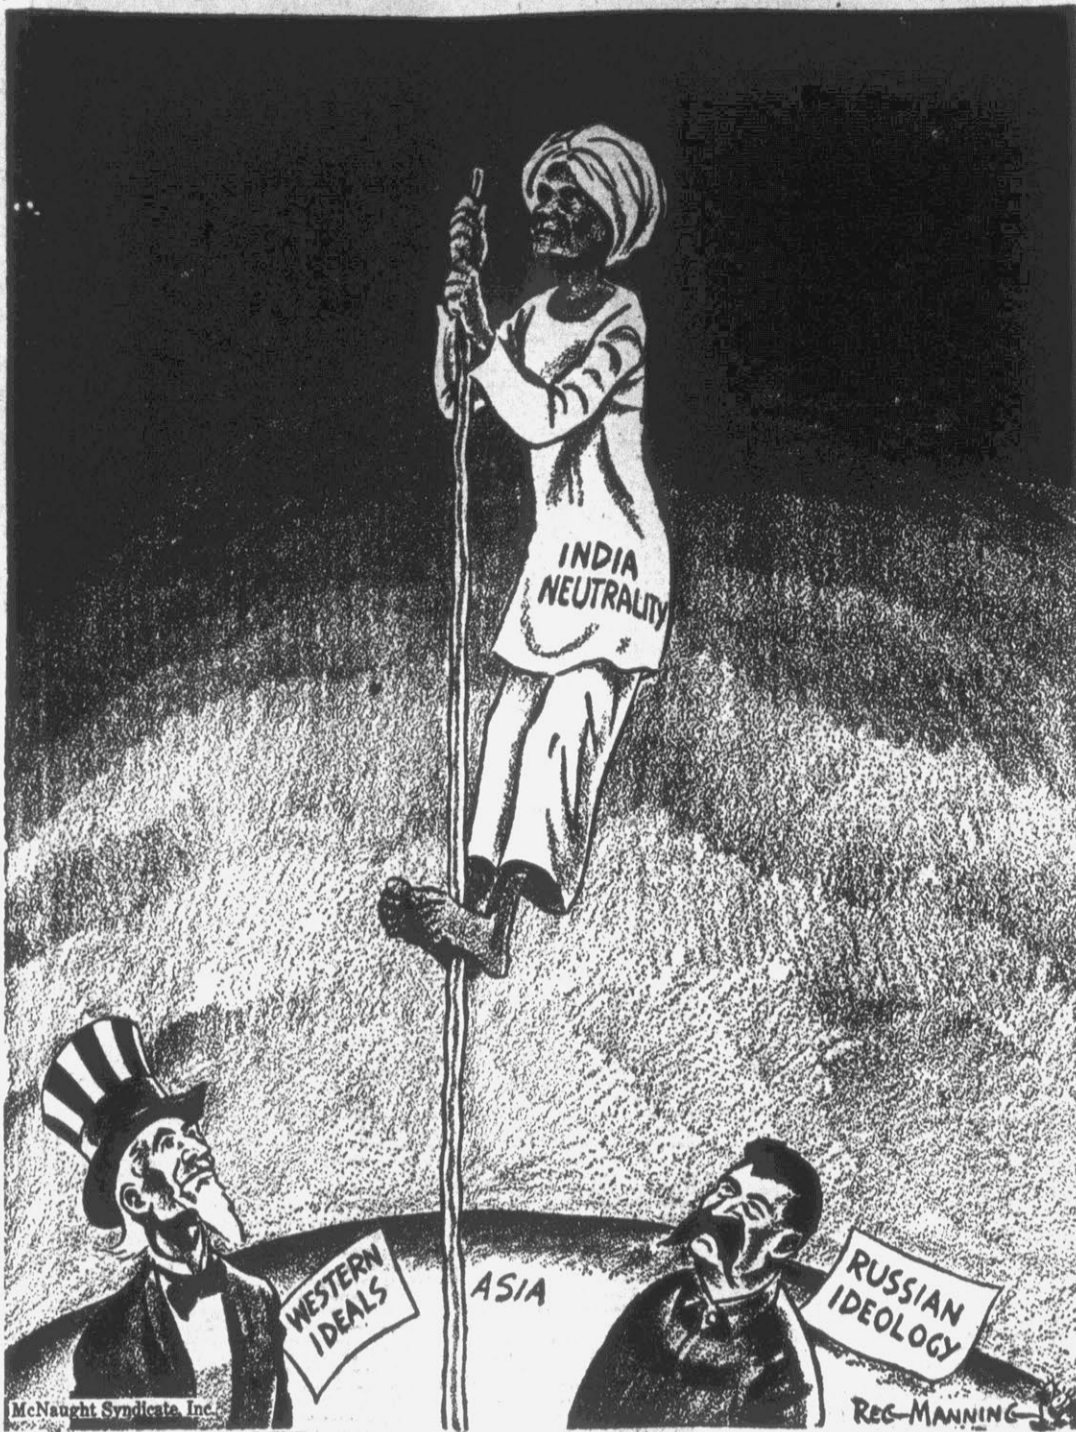

Including these amounts, the United States now engaged in a "cold war" and supporting the non-Russian world in many different ways is a debtor nation by approximately $600 billion, with no additional taxable sources in sight.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

If you don't think I work hard nine and a half hours a day, just ask my boss. Back in my college days at Chapel Hill, Wife Rachel used to wonder if she would still be eating three squares and sleeping under a roof when we got out into the cruel world. She had good reason to wonder, for all I did in my college days was to go to class, keep house, and sit in a big green chair and either read or sleep.

When I finally graduated and went to work, W. R. was amazed. All of a sudden, I became a fanatic on the subject of business, selling, or just plain work. However, in one respect I lived up to my old Chapel Hill reputation, and that story is the subject of today's column. Getting me to work in the yard is still a near impossibility.

There's really no telling how much commotion a dozen tomato plants can cause. They cost only twenty cents, and it's hard to imagine how much work can come from a twenty cent investment.

"Jack," Rachel said to me in that tone that meant work was in the offing, "I bought some tomato plants. We can have plenty of tomatoes this summer."

"What's the matter," I asked, "have they stopped selling them at the grocery store?" Rachel can't imagine why one man can be allergic to working in the yard and yet be so anxious to make a living.

Two days after this conversation, I had mustered enough courage to clear the land for the plants. By the time I finished chopping down weeds and hoeing the ground, I had regretted that I didn't hire a bulldozer.

Just as I was dreading the work the most, the cloud burst out with a silver lining. Two neighbors, J. T. May and J. D. Wilson, said that I was hooked with a hard job. Immediately both jumped on my back and proceeded to tease my head off.

"Rachel," J. D. said, "I'll lend you my shot gun so you can hold it over him. That's the only way you'll keep him on the job."

Then it was Mr. May's turn. "I'm going to go in the house and get an easy chair. It'll be a treat to sit on my back porch and watch you work."

Did you ever stop to consider that all of us love to be teased? As long as people tease us, it really means that they think (1) something of us, and (2) that we have a sense of humor. In a way, teasing each other is a way we have of expressing our interest in our friends. Of course, there are those who can't take a ribbing.

Even if we don't have a single tomato this summer, the neighbors have enjoyed a good show on our back yard. And if the twenty cent investment and the sweat of my brow gave the neighbors something to joke about, the whole project was well worth while.

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, N. C.

COMICS—The big table in the secretary of state's office is the "comic section" of the capital now. It will hold the title for several days, and then will acquire it again with greater emphasis about the middle of June. That's where the financial reports of state and district candidates are placed for inspection by reporters and others interested, before being filed with permanent records in the office.

REQUIRED—State law requires that each candidate file a preliminary report ten days before the primary, and a final report twenty days after, showing all contributions received and all expenditures made by the candidate, or with his knowledge. The law also limits the amount that can be legally spent. For many years it has been of common knowledge that in real contests, such as for governor or United States senator, the limits fixed are utterly absurd. The law says candidates for these top offices may spend not over $12,000 in the first primary, $6,000 in the second if a run-off is necessary. (Personal travel expense of candidates are exempted.) Reports of the top senatorial candidates show expenditures to date of around eight thousand dollars, with contributions approximately offsetting expenditures. That means there has been spent to date an average of $80 or less per county, with $40 yet to spend within the law before May 27.

ABSURD—Of course, that is absurd. There are few counties in which newspaper and radio advertising will be less than that, (not legal) office expenses for local phones and legitimate (even if not legal) office expenses for local headquarters, travel of state and county field workers and other necessary activities to operate a campaign. The question is not one of buying votes. The honest citizen has a right to know what the candidates stand for, and he can find only if they tell him. And they can't begin to tell the story to half a million voters in 2,000 precincts. That would allow two and a half cents per voter.

WIDE OPEN—The state which limits spending in political campaigns is known as the "corrupt practices act," and its original purpose was to prevent selfish interests from buying elections. At that, it has very poor teeth. There is growing opinion among those concerned with such matters that the objective of fair elections could be more easily attained by taking the lid off amounts and putting real teeth in requirements to show where the money came from and where it went. Thee back of that opinion is if Joe Doe wants to spend fifty thousand dollars to get Joe Doakes elected, he ought to be allowed to do it. But he also ought to be required, under severe penalty for falsifying reports, to let it be known that he paid the money to Richard Roe.

DIFFERENT—Governor Scott took a new approach to the political situation in North Carolina at his latest press conference. He did not recede from his oft-stated belief that his administration had brought state government "back to the people," but he did say that what bothered the folks opposed to his particular ideas is that a different crowd is running things now. Some weeks ago he told newsmen that the state would find out that Senator Frank Graham is a much better politician than they had thought.

This week he said Graham is not a politician, but is a great humanitarian; and he thinks one humanitarian every fifty years in the senate is a good thing for everybody.

ISSUE—In those observations the governor took cognizance of the real issue in this senatorial campaign. It is largely the question of which "different crowd" is to be accorded dominance in North Carolina political administration for the next few years. So far as "the people" are concerned there are nearly as many in one group as in the other. In no event is the question one of just a few against the many. If that were true there would be no real contest. The question is which of two almost equal groups will be in position of power.

FISHING—John Marshall, secretary to Governor Scott, is out of the office for a few days. He is taking a well earned and highly deserved rest. If he really needs to be contacted, he can be; but when he left the office Tuesday he told his associates he would be away for a few days, he didn't exactly know where, but wherever he was he would be fishing.

CONGRESS—Six of North Carolina's twelve seats in the national house of representatives are at stakes in this primary. Congressmen Bonner in the first, Kerr in the second, Barden in the third, Cooley in the fourth, Dough-ton in the ninth and Redden in the twelfth are unopposed. Information reaching Capitol Square is that opposition to Chatham in the fifth, Durham in the sixth and Jones in the tenth has pretty well broken down. That leaves two real races in the eighth and eleventh districts.

The Voice Of The People

From the President of the Civic League
 To All the Negroes in Greenville Dear Citizens:

Early in the Spring I was told by a member of Recreation Commission that the Commission would supply the Negroes of this city with bats, balls, gloves, and a man to train and manage a midget baseball team for the Negroes, if the Negroes would supply the same boys with the suits. One member of the Commission made the statement that we did not have an organization or a group of organizations that would supply the suits. At that point I asked that we be given a chance and I would see, and did believe, that we could raise enough money to buy 22 boys suits which would cost about $242.00. At this writing we have only received $44.00.

If it turns up to be a fact that the Negroes in Greenville can not raise $242.00 for a cause of this nature then I wonder what can we do. I still believe that it can be done. Therefore I am asking you again, if you have not given anything for the midget baseball team this summer, make plans and do it now. We would like to know what you are going to give by May 30th. You may mail your contribution to Post Office Box 235, addressed Base-ball, or you may see Mr. J. S. Alexander who is secretary to the league.

Your very truly

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
 Currently prosperous business conditions are powered in large part by installment plans. Auto, television sets, houses—of the furnishings to go in them, are largely bought on credit, and they're the booming sales sectors right now. Auto and furniture installment sales are running 10-15 per cent ahead of last year.

But while installment debt is piling up, there's no sign yet that this is a credit binge that could bring a hangover tomorrow. For one thing, finance companies are holding the line on terms. For another, personal income is moving up this year too, and is able to support a larger load of installment debt.

There has been a sprinkling of over-easy credit terms in some sections of the furniture and appliance trades. But only a sprinkling. And the highly-vital automobile financing field by and large is still keeping terms to the one-third-down, two-years-to-pay basis. There are spotty attempts to loosen up these terms, as on the West Coast, where you can buy a new buggy with as little as 20-25 per cent down, and take 30 months to pay it off. But such terms are the exception nationally.

In fact, very easy credit is no longer considered the sales force it was supposed to be. A recent study in Oregon of customer preferences for one store as against another found "liberal credit" last on the list. (Efficient sales-people turned out to be the leading reason for customer preferences. Other reasons, in order of importance, were: quality goods, wide merchandise choice, convenient location, prompt service, low prices, dependability, broad new merchandise, attractiveness of store, good store layout, friendships in store, fair adjustments.)

The current status of personal income, as told by the U. S. Commerce Department the other day, is that even after deducting such unusual factors as increased G. I. insurance refunds, the yearly rate of personal income increased from February to March by a billion dollars. The March rate of close to $223 billion compares with a rate of $210 billion a year ago.

CUTS EXPENSES BY BUYING FROM LOCAL SOURCES
 A Boston merchant who has revealed a successful campaign to cut business expenses, said one of his chief tools was to use local merchandise sources as much as possible. Thus this man, who runs a large furniture store, reduced shipping costs from factories, which are a sizeable expense in these days of high freight rates. He also found himself able to carry less stock, which reduced his warehouse costs as well as freeing capital. He was able to rent out part of his warehouse. In many cases, the merchant reported, he was able to do business from samples and order additional goods from his local sources as needed. Admittedly this approach cut down his assortments in some instances, but the overall expenses reduction offset this by far.

"ABSOLUTE FILTER" FOR PLANTS, STORES, HOMES

New filters which make possible completely dust-free conditions in industrial operations for the first time at reasonable cost, were described at the U. S. Technical Conference on Air Pollution in Washington recently. The filters were developed by Arthur D. Little, Inc., Cambridge, Mass., engineering firm, for the Atomic Energy Commission. Specialized industrial plants, laboratories, hospitals and even theaters, stores and homes will be able to completely exclude dust, pollen and other air-borne particles when these new filters come on the market soon.

TIPS ON THE JUNE BRIDE BUSINESS

It doesn't pay to neglect bridal promotions all year. A recent study in Oregon of customer preferences for one store as against another found "liberal credit" last on the list. (Efficient sales-people turned out to be the leading reason for customer preferences. Other reasons, in order of importance, were: quality goods, wide merchandise choice, convenient location, prompt service, low prices, dependability, broad new merchandise, attractiveness of store, good store layout, friendships in store, fair adjustments.)

The Joan Fabrics Corp. of New York, which has gone into the bridal business searching, advises that it's important to have the bridal service open evenings to give the working gals a break, and also allow the groom-to-be to come along. When it comes to planning their home, they'll need help in planning present buying so they can add to it economically in the future, and also guidance with floor plans and color schemes.

Hal Boyle's Column

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

(For Hal Boyle)

Mrs. Daphne Junkett, wife of Jasper Junkett, cashier of the Upper Overcoat First National Bank, had reached a turning point. The two children were, respectively, safely married and at college, and Mr. Junkett was very busy at the bank and trying to get his golf score into the 80s. He also was program chairman of the Upper Overcoat Boosters.

The Junkett house was adequately cared for and so was Mrs. Junkett. She had a silver fox jacket and a cleaning woman—a veritable pearl. Mrs. Junkett really didn't like bridge very much and she had been putting on a little weight since the children had left home. Besides, gardening as a hobby and even flowering-arranging had never interested her particularly.

Mrs. Junkett decided that it was time she took an active interest in community affairs. She had considered taking a job, but Mr. Junkett took a step to that kind of talk—people would think he either couldn't afford to maintain his position in the town or that there was something funny about his accounts at the bank.

Thus it came about that Mrs. Daphne Junkett was duly elected chairman of the current evening section of the Upper Overcoat Women's Club, a post traditionally held by Mrs. J. Clearwater Stokes, who had home in Jacksonville. Mr. Junkett was really quite pleased about it and the local paper ran Mrs. Junkett's picture on the front page.

This was a real challenge to Mrs. Junkett. She wrote little Daphne at college, saying that "I really think we can DO SOMETHING AFFIRMATIVE" with the section, because after all we've been fiddling around for years studying one part of the world after another and occasionally having some expert talk to us, provided we could get some author whose publisher would let us have him for nothing."

Mrs. Junkett decided the current evening section had a real function in these perilous times—to make peace in our times a reality.

"After all," she reminded them, "everybody talks about peace, but like the weather—wasn't it Mark Twain who said it? Not—nobody does anything about it."

The women were very enthusiastic about the plan and unanimously voted to make "Peace" their theme of the year.

At the next meeting, Mrs. Jonathan Madison read her paper, the subject assigned by the club: "Should We Recognize Spain?" Then Mrs. David Tyler Gordon, 2nd, presented her paper on "Are We Too Harsh about Russia and Its Arms?" Mrs. Junkett read her paper, "We Really Need Another War?"

There was an interesting discussion after the papers. Mrs. Madison quoted her husband on Russia. And Mrs. Junkett quoted Mr. Junkett on peace. Then they had tea and went home and said what a fine, stimulating meeting it was.

However, playing golf that weekend, Jonathan Madison, after scoring a birdie on the fourth hole, was called a "Fascist" by Mr. Gordon, who had gone into a sand trap. Mr. Madison, stung, shouted back a sentence to Mr. Gordon which included the words "fellow traveler."

dead by six couples they knew Mr. and Mrs. Junkett were cut dead by six couples they knew quite well.

The following month Mrs. Junkett told the current events section firmly that she thought it would probably be more stimulating if they changed the year's theme to "The Romance of Britain's Shakespeare Country," and invited the author of a new Shakespeare biography to speak to them.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—A lot of anger beavers trying for a quick, sun-tan wind up painfully baked, blistered, often headed for the hospital. Begin your sunbathing with small doses. The Public Health Service says that for most folks 15 minutes is long enough for the first sunbath. Each day after that you can add another 15 minutes until you toast yourself the desired tint. But don't forget that even if you are well-tanned you can get severe sunburn.

Watch out for the noonday sun! warns the Health Service. Its rays are short, direct, burning. Late afternoon is safer for sunbathing. Even then, take it easy! You can get burned on cloudy days too. And some of the worst burns come from reflection of sun on sand and water.

The Health Service suggests using a good suntan lotion, oil or cream: "They are all intended to promote a tan and discourage a sunburn, but even the best preparations give only partial protection." The Red Cross points out that burns are classified in three degrees: first, when skin is reddened; second, when blistered; third, when deeper destruction of tissues occur. Chief dangers are shock and infection.

If burn is severe, call a doctor. Keep victims lying down and warm. If mild, use calamine lotion or dusting powder of equal parts zinc oxide, boric acid, talcum. If "moderately bad" use dressings of sterile petrolatum gauze, or gauze soaked in cold white mineral oil. If emergency care is needed treat clean, freshly laundered cloth into strips. Dip into a solution of three tablespoons baking soda, or same amount epsom salts to quart of warm water. Apply to burns, and keep wet.

You can get sunstroke by too long exposure to sun. You can get headache from prolonged oppressive heat, often indoors. Both can be fatal. Both commonly start with a splitting headache. Everything looks red. You lose consciousness. Your temperature rises dangerously. In extreme cases you collapse suddenly and die within a few minutes. Heat prostration is equally serious. It's caused by prolonged heat and humidity too. But the victim's temperature falls instead of rising. He's cold and clammy.

Approve Loan To Argentine Banks

Washington, May 18.—(AP)—The export-import yesterday announced approval of a $125,000,000 loan to a group of banks in Argentina. The approval was disclosed in a statement which said the credit is being made after lengthy consideration of the Economic and Financial position of Argentina and its trade relations with the United States.

The export-import bank said unpaid debts owed by Argentine business firms have put a heavy crimp in that country's dollar reserves.

Long Testimony On Peanut Bill

Washington, May 18.—Although more than 100 North Carolina and Virginia peanut growers pleaded for nine and a half hours with the House Agriculture Committee for legislation helpful to them, it appeared today the bill will have rough going in the committee.

The Carolina-Virginia group appeared before the committee Monday to urge passage of the Abbtitt bill to provide for making of acreage allotments according to types, in much the same fashion that tobacco acreage now is allotted.

In connection with their testimony, they presented what Rep. Herbert C. Bonner called "overwhelming evidence" of a shortage of Virginia-type peanuts, grown extensively in the Carolinas and Virginia, but now threatened with an acreage cut because of the overall surplus of peanuts.

The bill, however, met with opposition from Spanish and runner-type peanut producing areas—and more important, from two influential committee members, Reps. Stephen Pace of Georgia and Welch R. Pogue of Texas—and persons close to the committee said there was no certainty that influence of Rep. Harold D. Cooley, chairman of the committee, would be sufficient to counteract the Pace-Pogue attack. Among the North Carolinians here for the session Monday were L. E. Hassell of Roper, W. W. Byrum

Charles Overman, C. B. Potter, L. C. Bunch and Louis Francis, all of Edenton, and E. P. Story, W. L. Askew and John W. Ariz of Gates County.

Claims Scott Is Using Office To Swing Election

By The Associated Press
U. S. Senatorial candidate Willis Smith says Governor Scott is using the power of his office to try to force the election of Senator Frank Graham.

Smith, Raleigh attorney, is in a race with Graham, former Senator Robert R. Reynolds of Asheville, and Olla Ray Boyd for the Democratic Senatorial nomination.

In an address at Statesville last night, Smith said of Scott's appointment of Graham last year:

"Under the law, Governor Scott had the right to appoint Dr. Graham to the Senate, but he has no right to use the power of his office to force upon the people of this state the election of his appointee. The secret ballot, which I had a hand in legislating will give the people themselves the opportunity to decide."

Scott, meanwhile, was speaking for Graham at a meeting of Johnston county farmers at Smithfield. Graham still is confined by a virus infection which put him to bed eight days ago.

Graham, Scott declared, has always supported programs for services to the people, and his campaign for the senatorial nomination is a continuance of the governor's own program to give the party back to the people.

The governor said programs favored by Graham included more hospitals, better schools, and extensions of rural electrical and telephone service. Graham, he continued, had a hand in Congressional enactment of a bill to provide federal aid for expanding rural phone service.

Another of a group of speakers who have been substituting for Graham during his illness will make a state-wide radio address tonight. Mrs. W. T. Bost, former state superintendent of public welfare, will speak from Raleigh.

Smith is scheduled for a speech at Winston-Salem tonight.

Reynolds will speak at the courthouse in Marion tomorrow night, and talk over a state-wide radio on Tuesday night.

Pactolus Senior Class To Stage Play On Friday

The Pactolus Senior class will present Almatata's Children as a part of their graduating exercises Friday, May 19, at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the Community building. Helping the seniors with the program will be John Langley, Howell Bone and Joe Johnston.

The setting is around a large shoe in which the entire family lives. The seniors participating in the program are Billy Wynn, Mary Heath, Bob Edwards, Fannie Buck, June Mobley, Mattie Beacham, and Erlene Copeland.

The public is invited to come out and enjoy an evening of fun. There will be no charge to see this program.

Eleven Projects For 2 Carolinas

Washington, May 18.—(AP)—One South Carolina and 10 North Carolina projects are included in the flood control, navigation and reclamation projects bill signed yesterday by the president.

Total cost of the measure is expected to run to $1,730,251,825. However, it carries no actual appropriations. It only clears the way for future appropriations by Congress for the various projects listed.

Projects in the Carolinas:

Rivers and Harbors: Inland Waterway in vicinity of Fairfield, N. C., $112,400; Far Creek, N. C., $80,600; Channel from Manto to Oregon Inlet, N. C., $860,500; Waterway from Pamlico Sound to Beaufort Harbor N. C. Harbor Improvement at Marshallberg, $19,400; Taylor Creek N. C., $92,200; Masonboro Inlet to Ocean, N. C., $1,980,000; Cape Fear river at and below Wilmington, N. C., $1,331,000; Savannah river, Ga., and S. C., $313,700.

Rivers and Harbors surveys: Top-sail inlet, N. C., no amount.

Flood control: Pasquotank River N. C., $110,000.

Flood control surveys: Perquimans river N. C., no amount.

The bill also carries a $50,000,000 item for flood control on the Savannah river basin by construction of the Hartwell dam.

Life Expectancy Of Quints Grows

New York, N.Y.—As the Dionne quintuplets reach sweet 16 on May 28 the chances are two in three that they will all live to celebrate their 50th anniversary together, statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company calculate.

The chances are 97 in 100 that all five Dionnes will attain their majority, and 27 in 100 that they all will live to their 65th birthday.

These figures are based on the average survivorship for girls in the general population of Canada. But because of the special care being given the quintuplets, their prospects for exceeding the average figures are excellent.

The Dionnes and the Diligentis of Argentina, born in 1943, are the only known cases of quintuplets in all medical history who have survived infancy.

A TASTY SANDWICH-STYLE SHOW STARRING MOR—"a tasteful meat so good to eat!" Whether it's Barbecued MOR on a bun (made by shredding MOR to heat in Barbecue Sauce and sandwiching in hot buns) a toasted Triple Decker Club Sandwich of MOR and Wilson's Ol' Fashund Cheese for the elite luncheon, a humble MOR, hot-dog style in a Long-John-Bun with the usual mustard, green onion, piccalilli (or what Junior calls the works), a piping hot French Toasted MOR sandwich from your waffle iron or just good, old fashioned picnic sandwiches, MOR (Beef or Pork) has all the qualities needed for mighty good sandwiches your family will enjoy. It's all meat (solid meat) to slice in squares oblongs, or hot-dog chunks. MOR shreds in a few seconds to alternate for ground meat. It's tasty and an ideal cut that's as handy as your quickie shelf.

For Make-Your-Own Sandwiches set out a plate of alternated MOR and Cheese plus buns or bread . . . and, if you like, also a toaster.

For quickie MOR Picnic Sandwiches, make up the whole loaf of bread at once. Spread huge sandwiches the long way, then cut up.

Dip 2 or 3 sandwiches in a mixture of: 1 slightly beaten egg, 1/4 cup milk, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/4 tablespoon sugar and then brown in hot waffle iron.

Some cooks omit the French Toast dip and instead tastily butter the outside of the sandwiches with Wilson's Clearbrook Butter before waffling. (These are good ideas for use on leftover sandwiches as well as fresh ones.)

Legislative Race Drawing More Than Local Interest

By LYNN NISBET
 Raleigh, May 18—Theoretically only the county or district voting on members of the general assembly are concerned with selection of candidates. Actually, a legislator is a state official. The oath he takes has no reference to his county or home halliwick. For that reason several legislative contests have assumed far more than local interest.

For the house of representatives Rowan, Wayne and Wilson hold spotlight from state viewpoint.

In Rowan two veteran legislators contest with a newcomer for the two seats. George Uzell, member of every legislature from 1931 through 1947 except one and twice a contender for speakership of the house, is in the race. So is Kerr Craig Ramsey, member since 1941 and speaker in 1949. The newcomer is L. F. Cox, Salisbury alderman. State interest in that contest is based on Governor Scott's singling out Ramsey for special criticism for speaker with double-cross dealing.

The situation in Wayne is somewhat similar. Frank Taylor, leader in every legislative session since 1939, chairman of the powerful appropriations committee last time, has two opponents. Taylor also has been singled out by Governor Scott for special castigation as a non-cooperator with his program. Whether the Scott forces are actively backing either of the opposing candidates, William H. Garter and Hayden Stuart, cannot be positively ascertained. State interest in the Wayne contest is largely because Frank Taylor is an avowed candidate for speaker of the 1951 house.

In Wilson county another recognized leader faces vigorous opposition. Larry Moore, seeking his seventh term, is challenged by Roy Wilkerson, who was a clerk in the 1949 house. Moore headed the finance committee last session and is a member of the advisory budget commission.

Burl Hardison, the man who introduced the bill repealing automobile inspection last time, is opposed for a fourth term from Craven county by I. H. Britte.

In Dare county R. Bruce Esheridge director of conservation and development from 1949, and with prior legislative service dating back to 1937, is challenging Dewey Hayman, who is seeking a second term.

In each of these instances the veterans with longest service appear to be leading, on basis of information reaching Raleigh, but heated contests are expected to continue until the voting is over.

Senate

Interest centers chiefly in seven senatorial contests.

Both fourth district seats are at stake. Julian Alcock, veteran of both senate and house service, and long a factional leader in Halifax county, is opposed by William Lunsford Crew, in another battle of the long drawn out political war in Edgecombe county. Laurence H. Fountain seeking a third term, is challenged by Gene Simmons.

In the seventh district John D. Liggins, Jr. is expected to return but there is a hard fight between Jesse Jones of Lenoir and Carl T. Hicks of Greene for the other seat. Jones, a Kinston lawyer, is running of an anti-ABC pro-Scott-Graham platform. Hicks, an outstanding farm leader, is making strong appeal to that group.

The twelfth district contest, is among three men in Harnett. Charles Ross, former general counsel and acting chairman of the highway commission, was first to announce. Other contestants are James R. Young and Mack M. Jernigan of Dunn. Issues here are largely local and personal although the Scott administration is indirectly involved.

The thirteenth district is scene of a hard battle between scions of two great state leaders. James H. Pou Bailey, son of the late Senator and Charles Poe, grandson and namesake of Charles Brantley Aycock, are running nip and tuck, with personal appeal, local factions and the state administration as main issues.

In the nineteenth district R. E. Little of Anson is opposed by W. Erskins Smith, veteran of many sessions and president pro tem in 1939, in a hard fight with James P. Lowder and Staton P. Williams in Stanley.

Burcombe county, which comprises the thirteenth district, has Oscar T. Pitt former director of state prison, and Zebulon Weaver, Jr., son of the former congressman, in a contest featured mainly by local factional alignments.

There are other contests of interest. These districts are being watched more closely by capitol square, because of the past leadership and connections of participants.

Pool Will Open Either June 3, 5

Greenville's municipal swimming pool is scheduled to open either Saturday, June 3, or Monday, June 5, it was announced this afternoon by Alderman Heber B. Tripp, chairman of the city parks and playground committee.

Bill Kittrell, coach of the midget and intermediate football, basketball and baseball teams of Greenville, will be manager of the pool again this summer. David Jones has been named assistant manager and cashier of the swimming pool.

Three life guards, two for the large pool and one for the baby pool, have been employed by the city for the summer months. Charles (Red) Septer and James Harvey Ward will be the life guards for the big pool and Bettie Sue Harris will be life guard for the baby pool. Tom Smoot and Sam Hux will be check boys at the pool.

Tripp said tentative hours for the swimming pool will be from 9 to 12 during the morning, 2 to 6 in the afternoon and 7 to 9 at night Monday through Saturday. Sunday hours will be 2 to 6. Tripp pointed out, however, that the hour schedule is only tentative and may be changed before the pool actually opens.

Bonn, Germany, May 17—(AP)—The Western Allies announced today they have decided to give the west German government at some future date power to fix the form of ownership of the Ruhr steel and coal industries.

Big Three Tied Up On Proposed Protest To Reds

Washington, May 17—(AP)—Western diplomats said today the big three foreign ministers are stalled over an American proposal that they protest Russia's arming of an east German police force.

Secretary of State Acheson took to London a suggestion for three-power action to call world attention to what he believes is creation of a new illegal army in Eastern Germany.

Informed officials said today the Acheson proposal has been discussed thoroughly and that Foreign Minister Bevin of Britain and French Foreign Minister Schuman opposed making any public statement about the situation at this time.

It was learned that Bevin, ported by Schuman, is the point that public protest at this time might arouse fears in western Germany.

Graham Advised To Extend Rest

Hillsboro, N. C. May 18—(AP)—Senator Frank Graham rested here today at the home of his sister-in-law Mrs. Cheshire Webb. Graham was moved here yesterday from Raleigh, where he had been confined for a week in his room at the Sir Walter Hotel with a virus infection. The Senator, who is seeking the Democratic Senatorial nomination in the May 27 primary, will get campaign action next Tuesday night. Graham's campaign headquarters said he will make a radio address that night over a statewide network. Dr. Herbert B. Haywood of Raleigh, the Senator's physician, released a statement yesterday in which he said: "Dr. Graham has had virus pneumonia, from which he is making a very good recovery. I have asked him not to engage in any activity before the first of next week x x x"

Missing Coed Is Found By Friend

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., May 18—(AP)—Alice Lindabury, 22, Vassar College senior missing since May 6, was found in midtown New York City last night and taken to her home in Princeton, N.J. A statement issued by her father, Richard V. Lindabury, associate editor of Crowell-Collier Publications in New York, said she was recognized by an acquaintance at eight o'clock last night in a Child's restaurant. "She was in a state of nervous exhaustion and mental confusion," the father's statement, issued from his home in Princeton, said.

$10,000 Raised For Scholarship

Durham, May 18—(AP)—The University of North Carolina has $10,000 to start a Charlie Justice scholarship fund. That amount was presented the university yesterday by a fund committee from the Tar Heel Club of Durham. Contributions came from university alumni and friends. Interest on the principal will be used to award a scholarship to outstanding North Carolina high school football seniors.

Parole Is Given Pitt Prisoner

Raleigh, May 18—(AP)—Paroles Commissioner T. C. Johnson announced today that ten prisoners serving short sentences had been paroled by Governor Scott. All the parolees have served a substantial part of their terms, Dr. Johnson said. Among those paroled, was: Earl Chauncey, 22, sentenced last September in Pitt Superior Court to 18-24 months for bigamy.

Mail Delayed By Swarm Of Bees

Ballston Spa, N.Y., May 18—(AP)—A swarm of bees delayed the mail yesterday. The bees gathered on the rear of a mail truck as John Lummianick drove from the postoffice to the railroad station. Lummianick hurried back to the postoffice. Two beekeepers collected the insects and the mail moved again, nearly an hour late.

Israel Plans Arm All Her Citizens

Tel Aviv, Israel—(AP)—The Israeli army intends to put a rifle in every home in Israel. Colonel Mordecai, deputy chief of staff, says the army wants everyone to know how to defend himself. He told a press conference that a new law is being proposed to make it easier for Israelis to obtain small arms and to buy them at lower prices.

Centuries-Old Passion Play Is Staged By Oberammergau; Big Crowd Watches

By JAMES DEVLIN Oberammergau, Germany, May 18—(AP)—The centuries-old Passion Play was staged today for the first time in 16 years, with a schoolgirl playing the Virgin Mary and an innkeeper cast as Christ. A capacity audience of 5,200 watched the cast of 1,500 villagers put on the dazzling spectacle with all its 300-year-old pageantry. Dignitaries attending the premiere included West German President Theodor Heuss, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and American and British High Commissioners John McCloy and Sir Brian Robertson. The officials sat in a special rear box of the arch-roofed amphitheater. From there they looked over the audience and out upon the open stage backdrop by the Bavarian Alps, dotted with cottages. The attention of the audience was focused chiefly upon Anton Preisinger, brown-bearded village innkeeper, in the role of Christ, and Annelie Mayr, 16-year-old wood carving student portraying the Virgin Mary. Christ, clad in a pale yellow robe with a crimson cloak thrown over his right shoulder, appeared in the first scene—driving the money changers from the temple. Preisinger's performance was forceful. Mary was saintly when she stepped onto the stage for the first time a short while later. One American boy has a part in a crowd scene. He is six-year-old Johnny McMahan, son of Major and

Mrs. John McMahan of Boise, Idaho. Major McMahan is stationed here with the U.S. Army. The voices of the cast rang clearly from the open stage into the huge covered theater. No microphones or other mechanical aids were used. The play which lasts from 8:30 a.m. until 6 p.m. opened with a prologue read by Alois Lang, who played Christ in the last Oberammergau play. Now gray haired, Lang wore a golden robe. He was accompanied by a gray-robed choir of 50 men and women lined up across the 60-yard wide stage. As they filed from the stage the curtain fell back revealing a street scene in Jerusalem. Hundreds of inhabitants strolled into view. They are clad in a colorful array of red, blue, green and yellow costumes. Among them were the children of the town, bare-footed despite the early morning chill. Both the men and boys in the cast had gone without haircuts for a year to obtain a Biblical appearance with hair falling to their shoulders. As Christ stepped into the milling scene his first words were: "What do I see here? Is this the house of God? Or is it the market place?"

For-Hire Tags Still Required N. C. Truckers

Raleigh, N. C., May 18—(AP)—Attention all truckers! You still need those for-hire tags to haul highway materials. The state utilities commission explained yesterday that some confusion has resulted from an order it gave last week making a special exception for truckers carrying rock gravel and other road aggregates. This order, the commission said, merely waived the need of an operating certificate. Spokesmen said the commission took it for granted that truckers would understand they must have for-hire licenses to haul any paid cargoes.

Valued Gift For Good Will Home

Hinckley, Me., May 18—(AP)—A Southern Pines, N. C., resident has been revealed as the donor of $55,000 for a hand-loom weaving room at the Good Will Home here. Carleton P. Merrill of Skowegan, Good Will Home Association vice president, said at dedication exercises yesterday that the gift was made by his brother, Arthur W. Merrill, in memory of his wife, Alice. She died in 1949. The gift was announced several months ago as anonymous. The institution conducts schools for homeless boys and girls.

Willing To Share

Winnipeg, May 18—(AP)—A jug of muddy Red river water was sent today to Mayor William O'Dwyer of water-short New York City. With it went the message: "We've got millions of gallons of what you haven't got." It was an appeal by the Manitoba flood relief fund for a contribution from New York.

Admits Britain Has Coldest And Dampest Homes

Eastbourne, England—(AP)—A British expert admits that Britain has "the coldest, draftiest and dampest homes of any civilized nation." Donald V. H. Smith, a heating expert, owned up to what many foreign visitors have been saying for ages when he spoke to the housing section of the Royal Sanitary Institute. Americans think 69 degrees is the best room temperature. Smith said most authorities agree that for Britain 63 to 64 is desirable in living rooms and 50 to 55 in bedrooms. "These temperatures cannot be obtained by normal and traditional means," he said, "without a larger consumption of solid fuel than the present restricted amounts."

Most American coal is produced in eight states.

Marine Air Station Prepares For Armed Forces Day

Open house festivities at the Cherry Point Marine Air Station in celebration of Armed Forces Day, Saturday, May 20, will include the many highlights depicted. Perhaps the most exciting of these attractions will be the all-day air show in which all types of Marine aircraft will be flown and displayed. There will be a model airplane show and contest with prizes to winners, and a double header baseball game will bring together the Marines and the Air Force team of Eglin Field, Fla. In addition to the live shows, the giant overhaul and repair shop, the largest installation of its kind in the state, will be open for inspection, as the Marines endeavor to show the taxpayers just what they are accomplishing with their defense dollars.

The Rev. Harrison Ray Anderson (above) of Chicago's Fourth Presbyterian church fired a verbal broadside from his pulpit at President Truman and his fellow-Democrats. He said the President should "quit playing with the truth" and the people should cease "state idolatry." Pastor Anderson also declared Chicago Democrats offended Christians with their ballyhoo for Monday's national party conference by using "Hollywood beauties" and movie cowboys to build up political rally crowds. WONDER-WORKING HADACOL

suffering from B Vitamins and Mineral Deficiencies

Most mothers don't realize that! When your child won't eat, is pale, sickly, puny, backward at school, nervous, has an easily upset stomach — it's often because he's suffering from such nutritional deficiencies. Kiddies need two to three times more of these disease-fighting, health-building elements than adults. So start your children on HADACOL at once.

HADACOL is almost a miracle-working nutritional treatment for kiddies troubled like this. HADACOL helps build strong spines, muscles, sound teeth. It improves the appetite, aids digestion and relieves upset stomachs. HADACOL even helps build up red blood to course through their little bodies, bringing unbelievable new strength and energy. Watch school marks improve!

Mrs. C. R. Reeves of Anniston, Alabama, writes: "I've been giving my little girl HADACOL for about eight weeks and it's done her so much good. She eats more and is more playful. She doesn't mind taking it at all. No matter what you've tried — give HADACOL a chance to help your kiddies. Trial size only $1.25 a bottle. Large family or hospital size for $3.50.

The regular meeting of the Pleasant Place Home Demonstration club was held May 4, at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Omata Allen with Mrs. Mary Williams president, presiding. Twelve members answered to the roll call and made reports on home gardens. Twenty-nine dollars and eighty-five cents was reported raised on the moving picture machine.

Final plans were made for attending church service in a group at the Disciples church in Grifton May 7.

Mrs. Amelia Capehart, home agent, gave a lesson on "Canning Tomatoes." She stressed the importance of each family filling the canning budget this year due to the fact there will be less money for buying food. Be on the safe side by producing and conserving the family food supply. After the social hour the meeting adjourned.—Mrs. Omata Allen, secretary.

Grifton Home Demonstration Club
Eight members were present when the Home Demonstration club met at the home of Mrs. Geneva Brooks on Route 1, Grifton, Wednesday afternoon. Acting president, Mrs. Lillian Dudley, called the meeting to order. Song of the month, "Church in the Wild Wood," was sung and the club collect was read. The members reported various improvements around the home with Mrs. Dudley reporting the highest number of eggs and butter sold during the month.

Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart, home agent, demonstrated the continuous use of vitamin C foods, showed a new and better method of canning tomatoes, and urged the members to set as many plants as possible in order to be able to fill their canning budget.

Members present were Mesdames Lillian Dudley, Luvena Level, Maybelle Jackson, Jennie Freeman, Lula Cox, Ethel Williams, Olivia Dixon and one visitor, Mrs. Fleming of Ayden, who gave a short talk.

After the demonstration the hostess assisted by Mrs. Jackson served cake topped with strawberries and punch.—Mrs. Geneva Brooks, Secretary.

PITT SHERIFF STILL HOLDING WITNESS CHAIR

Admits Irregularities In Keeping of Office Records

BEING EXAMINED BY PROSECUTION

Day's Hearing Regarded by Court Observers as Most Damaging So Far in Case

Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst continued on the witness stand in his ouster trial this morning under cross examination which was begun yesterday after the sheriff had consumed a day and a half with his direct testimony.

Admissions by the sheriff this morning as to irregularities in the keeping of the records of his office as they pertained to fees and money he admitted he knew belonged to the county were considered by court observers as probably the most damaging testimony so far in the case.

This morning's cross examination dealt with jail and turnkey fees, land sale executions and civil executions by the sheriff and execution of homestead on which the fees either had not been collected or had not been paid over to the county.

On the jail key fees items, the sheriff testified that such fees belonged to him as jailer and were not a part of the county's fees, and therefore he was not accountable to the county for the same. He said that in instances where the bills of cost were collected by the various magistrates courts the fees, if collected, were turned over directly to him. He said that in most instances the bills of costs from criminal court actions as prepared by the clerk of court, had not included such jail fees and as a result the fees were not collected. In such instances, he said, he had collected from the county for board of the prisoners for the number of days they had remained in jail.

Questioned as to collection of the two and one-half per cent county fee on executions by his office, the witness admitted that there probably were many instances in which such fees were not collected. He declared that in many instances it was impossible to collect the full amount of the judgments together with the fees and that he had made collection without such fees and had marked the judgment settled in full. In other instances, he said, it was possible that the commissions had been collected but that the fees had not been paid over to the county. Of 114 civil executions listed on one of the schedules of the audits previously presented into evidence, the sheriff testified that upon the face of the executions the commissions had been collected. Questioned as to whether all these commissions had been paid over to the county, the sheriff replied that he could not say. Asked if he had not previously testified that all fees paid over to the county were entered upon his process of his bills of cost book, he replied that he had so testified. He was then asked to ascertain from the book how many of the 114 items had been listed. While the sheriff stated that he had not had time to check the book closely for these items he admitted that so far he had not found but one of the 114 items listed thereon. There were certain other executions upon which the sheriff said his records showed he had collected commissions to the total of $33.89 which had not been paid over to the county.

Questioned as to the payment to the county of fees due the county from the execution of homesteads, the sheriff declared that during his eleven and one-half years in office he had never known how to apply these funds until he was told recently by D. R. Hollowell, one of the auditors who had been working in connection with the investigation upon which the ouster proceedings are based.

The sheriff admitted that while County Auditors Coppedge, Clifton and Coward had made monthly checks of his office during the past 11 and a half years, and that while regularly employed officers had checked his office every two years, his sheriff's fees or trust fund book had never been checked until by Hollowell. He declared that he had told Hollowell that he wanted this book checked, too, so that if there were any items he owed the county he could make settlement. He said he also told Hollowell he wanted the affairs of his office put into shape with such records as were needed to accurately account for the transactions of the office as it pertained to the county's affairs. He admitted that neither the county auditors nor the other auditors prior to Hollowell had requested nor had they received his "sheriff fees or trust fund" book for checking. All his settlements, he said, had been made with the county on the basis of his process fees and his bills of cost books which had been checked monthly by the county auditors.

Asked how many homestead executions had been handled by his office during the 11 1/2 years he had been sheriff he replied that he did not know, but there probably had been many. He admitted that his records showed but 24 such executions and that he owed the county its $48 fees on these items. He admitted he knew that the county was entitled to fees of $2 on each homestead, execution, but declared that he had retained the fees pending finding out how to apply same in making his turnovers. Asked if he had sought the advice of the county attorney or any other attorney on this matter during his tenure of office, he admitted that he had had no advice nor information on this subject until it was furnished him by Hollowell sometime early this year.

Asked if he had not left it up to attorneys to handle land sale executions and retain the two and a half per cent commissions themselves, or not collect them at all, he replied that in many instances he had left the sales to the attorneys and he had not collected the county's commissions.

Money Angle of Case
While the present hearing is on the ouster of the sheriff from office and not a case of accounting, the accounting angle of the case upon which the petitioners are basing their ouster plea alleges shortages or failure to pay over by the sheriff amounts totalling approximately $10,000.

As previously introduced in audits and brought out on cross examination the amounts are as follows:

Uncollected bills of costs on criminal cases from Superior and County courts as shown by the audit of Williams and Wall, $3,035. The sheriff denies responsibility for this item on the grounds that the court permitted the defendants to go free without making payments and had given additional extensions to the defendants from time to time making it impossible for him to collect these fines and bills of cost. The district solicitor and former solicitors and a former judge of the County court also testified as to the leniency of the courts during the depression along these lines, supporting the sheriff's testimony as to why he had been unable to make collections.

Another item of the Williams and Wall audit charges the sheriff with failure to turn over to the county $100.95 in civil cases. The sheriff contended in his testimony that these fees went to the various constables or other officers serving the papers and that the county was not entitled to this item.

The Hollowell audit tends to show that the sheriff is indebted to the county $341.38 as commissions on civil executions and $316.95 commissions on land sale executions. While the sheriff generally denies all the claims, these items are those upon which he was cross examined this morning and admitted that he could find no record of payment to the county with the exception of one of the items.

On a charge that he owes the county an item of $82.35 turnkey and jail fees collected through magistrate cases, the sheriff contended that as jailer such fees went to him and not to the county.

Under homestead executions the Hollowell audit tends to show that the sheriff is indebted to the county or others $350.43 in unremitted or unreturned fees. The sheriff testified that in cases of return of unused fees to persons who had deposited same all such payments had been made to the proper parties. He did admit that he was indebted $48 to the county as fees of $2 each on 24 homesteads that were allotted.

The Hollowell audit also charges the sheriff with diversions of trust funds for personal or other use as follows: Criminal court cases, $544.67; bills of cost, $483.62; check to Joint Stock Land Bank, $508.70; Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co., $580; transfer to sheriff's personal account $150. With reference to the three checks the sheriff admitted that these checks were for his own personal use but that he drew upon the fund because of the fact that he had personal money in the fund to cover same.

On the collection of 236 bad checks by the sheriff's office the sheriff is charged with approximately $350 fees due the county. On the service of foreign process the sheriff is charged with approximately $300 fees due the county. On process from Justice of the Peace courts the sheriff is charged with $1,235.90 from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses the sheriff is charged with $9.31. Each of these items the sheriff denied on the grounds that through an agreement with a former board of county commissioners such fees were to go to his office to be paid in salaries to J. Gus Stokes and others for aiding in the work of service of the papers. The prosecution on this point contended that the board of commissioners had no legal right to agree to give the sheriff or anyone else fees that the law said belonged to the county and that the sheriff was rightfully indebted to the county for those items.

SHERIFF BEING QUESTIONED BY PROSECUTION

Admits Further Irregularities in Records of Office

COURT TO RECESS 'TIL MONDAY A.M.

Opinion Expressed by One Attorney Case May be Concluded Late Tuesday

Continuing under cross examination in his own ouster trial, Sheriff Sam Whitehurst yesterday afternoon and this morning made further admissions of irregularities of the books of his office, and in answer to a question if he did not know that the law required him to keep proper books he replied, "There are a lot of things supposed to be done that we don't do."

The sheriff's cross examination by Woodus Kellum of the prosecution counsel, had been under way since before noon Wednesday. When the hearing was recessed for lunch at one o'clock today it was not indicated whether the cross examination would be completed this afternoon or continue on Monday.

Judge G. Vernon Cowper said that he would recess at 5 o'clock this afternoon until Monday morning. While in view of the fact there will probably be redirect examination of some witnesses and rebuttal testimony, no one could definitely say when the hearing might come to an end, one member of the petitioners' counsel expressed the belief that the hearing might be ended by late Tuesday afternoon. The hearing has been under way here since Monday, May 9th, and is the longest court proceeding ever conducted in this county.

Yesterday afternoon the cross examination continued on details of the sheriff's fees or trust fund account. The sheriff admitted that the account would show an overdraft if all outstanding checks were paid by the bank, and at the same time admitted that he was due some money to the county from the fund. He repeated, however, that he had asked for a clean audit of the account and stood ready and willing to pay the county whatever he owed whenever he could be shown by such audit how much he owed.

"You admit," queried Kellum, "that you have held back county funds over long periods of time, and now that you are caught, you want to pay?"

The witness replied that about two years ago he told D. R. Hollowell, auditor that he wanted the fees and trust fund account audited in order that he could settle with the county. "I thought it best to get the whole thing cleaned up at once and make one payment to cover it all," he said.

The questioning regarding the fees and trust fund account continued this morning. The cross examiner handed the sheriff a check for $483.62 drawn on the sheriff's fees or trust fund account and the sheriff identified it as payment to the county for a bill of cost collected in that amount. He admitted, however, that the bank account of the fund showed no record of a deposit to cover this item. The question by the prosecution was in support of its contention that funds from the trust fund account had been diverted to pay bills of cost to the county.

Shown a check for $150.00 drawn on the trust fund, or sheriff's fees account by the sheriff in his own favor, he said the check was for feeding prisoners but admitted that check stub for same showed it as a transfer to his personal account. There was no record to indicate that a deposit to cover this item had been made to the trust fund bank account, he said.

Another check, dated February, 1928, on the trust funds account drawn in favor of Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company, the sheriff admitted was for his own personal use. He admitted that his records disclosed no deposit in the bank account to cover this item and that total deposits to the account during the month of February had been but $370.26. He contended, however, that he had sufficient funds of his own already in the account to cover the item.

A check for $315.00 dated August 7, 1929, drawn in favor of the North Carolina Joint Stock Land Bank, the sheriff also admitted was his own personal use and that there was no record of deposit of money to cover this specific item. Another check for $508.70 drawn in favor of the same parties had already been admitted by the sheriff to have been for his own personal use and not that of the county.

Having his attention called to the fact that the sheriff's fees and trust fund book shows the first entry as May 25, 1934, the sheriff was asked if the book had been kept correctly to cover every item since that time. "I don't know," he replied, "I don't always keep the books."

"Did you state in your testimony that you had filed itemized statements of county fees and sheriff's fees accounts and bills of costs each month with the county commissioners?" asked Kellum.

"I think I did," the sheriff replied, "or rather I filed a report of the standing of the accounts of my office with the commissioners and the itemized statement with the auditor."

"Did you file a sworn itemized report on any of these accounts with the Board of Commissioners each first Monday?" Kellum asked.

"The reports to the commissioners were not itemized and not sworn to," was the reply. "I was following instructions as I thought they applied to my office," the sheriff said.

"If you had kept books, you could have furnished an itemized statement?" asked Kellum.

"Yes," replied the sheriff.

"Did you ever file an itemized statement with the board?" asked Kellum.

"No," replied the sheriff.

Shown 14 reports of totals of his office filed with the board of commissioners between March, 1935, and July, 1937, the sheriff identified them as his reports.

"You stated a few minutes ago that you filed a report on both your sheriff's fees as well as your county fees and bills of cost books, and yet you stated that no county auditor or other auditor had ever seen your sheriff's fees or trust fund book until it was examined by Hollowell?"

"That is correct," was the reply. "Did you state that you were familiar with the Salary Act of 1927?" asked Kellum.

"Yes," answered the sheriff. "Then you are familiar with the clause that says the sheriff shall be allowed nothing in addition for the performance of the duties of his office, and with a similar clause of the 1921 Act?" asked Kellum.

The sheriff replied that he was familiar with the law.

"And you now claim that you are entitled to all fees for serving process issuing from counties other than Pitt county?" asked the questioner.

"Yes," replied the sheriff. "Does that not increase your salary?" asked Kellum.

It increased the compensation of the office," the sheriff said. "You claim all fees from magistrate courts both in and out of Pitt county that come through your office all of which enures to your benefit?" asked Kellum.

"Yes, sir. They increase the compensation of the office but also the expenses. Out of them I pay the gas and expenses of the deputies for trips outside of the county," the sheriff said.

"You claim all the jail fees and turnkey fees, that increases your salary, doesn't it?" asked Kellum.

"Yes," it increases the compensation of the office," he replied.

"The jail and turnkey fees collected by you will exceed $4,200, will they not?" Kellum asked.

"Yes, if they are figured out," the sheriff replied.

"You testified yesterday that prisoners fees paid directly to you will exceed $3,742, didn't you?" asked Kellum.

"Yes," replied the sheriff, "but that was a separate contract as jailer and did not apply to the sheriff's office."

Under further questioning the sheriff admitted that during his term of office he had served papers from various magistrates in this and other counties, and many processes from other counties, and that with the exception for few such items as appear on his process book there are no records of the fees collected.

"Did you have to make an income tax report?" Kellum asked.

"No, I didn't come under that bracket," said the sheriff. "I made inquiry but found that I did not have to make one."

"Could you have made a correct report not knowing how many fees you had collected?" asked the questioner.

"I suppose so. After deducting the expenses the extra fees would have made but little difference in the taxable income," he replied.

Shown five checks from Martin county, four of which were paid to Pitt county through endorsement by the sheriff, the sheriff admitted that unless the items appeared on his fee book they were paid to the county for purposes other than the process which they were supposed to cover.

Just prior to the midday recess, the sheriff was asked if he had not collected from both the justices of the peace and the county for 294 jail days covered in one schedule of the audit. The recess was taken while the sheriff was checking the schedule against the jail fees record book preparatory to answering the question.

Officials Start Puzzling Study Of Asylum Plea

Washington, May 18.—(AP)—Puzzled officials started conferences yesterday on the plea of Vladimir Houdék, Czechoslovakia's chief delegate to the United Nations, to remain in this country as a political refugee.

Houdék resigned Tuesday, denounced Russian pressure on the homeland and appealed to President Truman for asylum.

Permission in such cases ordinarily is granted promptly as a matter of routine, in accordance with American tradition. In Houdék's case, however, government authorities have evidence he is a Communist party member of long standing, and therefore ineligible under immigration laws and judicial rulings.

Also anti-Communist Czech leaders in this country, including former Ambassador Juraj Slávik, are urging the state department to deny the plea.

Officials said the issue was believed to be the first of the kind

If Houdék is allowed to remain, they said there will have to be an order by the Attorney General.

The 30-year-old Houdék has followed the Soviet bloc line faithfully at Lake Success and has taken part in recent Soviet walkouts from U. N. agencies. He announced his resignation a few hours before he was scheduled to sail on his return to Prague amid indications he might have fallen from favor with the Czech regime.

Houdék was known as a protégé of Vladimir, who was ousted March 14 as Foreign Minister and since has dropped from sight. A Czech Communist purge trial is being prepared in which officials look for Clementis to play a leading role. Their suspicion is that Houdék feared he also was about to be purged.

Micah Pleads for Human Rights

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Micah the prophet called woe upon the people who coveted others' fields and took them by force, taking even houses and oppressing the inhabitants.

The seers, too, Micah threatened with shame, and the diviners were to be confounded, for they got no answer from the Lord their God.

Micah rebuked the "heads of the house of Jacob, and rulers of the house of Israel, that abhor justice, and pervert all equity."

"As for me," declared Micah, "I am full of power by the spirit of Jehovah and of judgment and of might."

MEMORY VERSE—Micah 6:8.

Micah Pleads for Human Rights

REBUKES LEADERS FOR THEIR UNRIGHTEOUSNESS

Scripture—Micah 1:1, 2; 3:5-12; 6:6-8.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL IN 722 B. C., the kingdom of Samaria was conquered by the Assyrians. It may be that not all the inhabitants were carried away captive, but the ten "lost tribes" vanished from history.

Extermination threatened also the two tribes of the southern kingdom. In this unhappy period Micah, the Morastite, arose and prophesied. He told his people that God would surely punish them for their many sins, but that there was a chance for them if they would renounce their evil ways and turn again to Jehovah.

Micah had a vision of a world without wars (about 725 B. C.), when the condition of his world was even more precarious than ours is today. His hope must have seemed very wild and improbable to the people living in that dangerous era.

Like Hosea, Micah pointed out the many sins of his generation. "They covet fields, and seize them; and houses, and take them away; guard ancestral lands for their original owners. Micah spoke as one of the people when he told of the oppression home owners were subject to when evil men in power planned to take their lands from them.

Micah had his say about the prophets or religious leaders of Israel who misled the people, lied to them, were spiritually blind. Then there were also seers (supposedly wise men) and "diviners," who were supposed to foretell what was in store for their people, but received, says Micah, "no answer of God."

Micah himself was "full of power by the Spirit of Jehovah, and of judgment, and of might, to declare unto Jacob his transgression, and to Israel his sin." He knew that Jehovah had called him to do this work of warning and attempted redemption to men.

What does the Lord ask of His people on earth? Micah asks the question and answers it: "Wherewith shall I come before Jehovah, and bow myself be-and they oppress a man and his house, even a man and his heritage."

We of this age can appreciate that accusation. We know that in the past few years, especially during the second great World War, millions of innocent people were dispossessed of their homes and driven into strange countries, or left to wander about their homelands to suffer hunger, lack of proper clothing, knowing not where they might lay their heads.

Children usually wake up early in the morning. They may even plan some mischief that they carry out when they get up. That mischief never brings them happiness any more than ill-gotten riches make an adult happy.

In ancient times the loss of ancestral lands was more deeply felt than is often the case today, although there are many now who, after many generations, still cling to the land that their fathers settled years ago and which they deeply love and would be greatly grieved to lose.

The Mosaic law tried to safeguard the rights of the poor and the widow, and the orphan.

fore the high God? shall I come before Him with burnt offerings, with calves a year old?

"Will Jehovah be pleased with thousands of rams, or with tens of thousands of rivers of oil? Shall I give my first-born for my transgression, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?"

"He hath showed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth Jehovah require of thee, but to do justly, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with thy God."

It seems very simple, does it not, for all of us to obey this command? Centuries have passed since Micah preached this doctrine to his people, and still men lie, covet their neighbors' lands, deceive others, kill and maim, and do all manner of evil.

All know better—all can understand God's requirements to earn His approbation, from the least to the greatest. We can at least try, as parents, teachers, men in public office, from humble posts of trust to the greatest, to follow His commands and teach them to the young.

Queries Theory On How Germs Build Resistance To New Drugs

Baltimore, May 13—(AP)—A government scientist says there's reason to question the prevalent theory as to how certain germs develop resistance to the so-called "wonder drugs."

The general theory has been, Dr. Harry Eagle of the U. S. public health service told a reporter, that resistance is a kind of built-in characteristic of certain bugs. That is, they have genetic qualities differing from other bugs of their same type—and these differences, or mutations, can be passed along to their offspring.

This theory holds that resistance is built up entirely independent of the drug itself.

But Dr. Eagle, in an interview at the golden jubilee meeting of the Society of American Bacteriologists, said there are some indications that the development of resistance to drugs like penicillin and streptomycin may be just a matter of the bugs adapting themselves to the substance as a matter of environment.

In other words, they may just become accustomed to it gradually, with each generation building up more and more resistance.

The work prompts the conclusion, "Our work indicates," said Eagle "that it's an open question whether the development of resistance of germs to antibiotics (like penicillin) is simply one of genetic change, or adaptation to environment."

"It should be emphasized that our studies are concerned with only one form of living system. Any definite conclusions from it would not necessarily apply to heredity in plants or human beings."

he said, that the whole matter of the cause of resistance to the wonder-drugs is an "open question."

Dr. Eagle declined comment as to whether this conclusion had any bearing on the heredity controversy between Russia and the rest of the scientific world.

The Russians contend—and they have disciplined scientists who change from one generation to another are a matter of the influence of environment.

This theory is directly opposed to the Mendelian law of heredity—generally held outside Russia—that any hereditary changes from one generation to another are due to changes in cell "genes" transmitted from parent to offspring.

"Our work indicates," said Eagle "that it's an open question whether the development of resistance of germs to antibiotics (like penicillin) is simply one of genetic change, or adaptation to environment."

"It should be emphasized that our studies are concerned with only one form of living system. Any definite conclusions from it would not necessarily apply to heredity in plants or human beings."

Baktis' 350-Foot Homer Is Decisive Hit In 3-2 Victory

Fourth Inning Circuit Clout With Two Aboard Provides Robins With All The Scoring Needed To Edge Rocky Mount

By BERT MOYE
John Baktis' 350-foot homer over the left field wall to bring home George Hallow, who had reached first on an error, and Joe Guidice, who had been walked, in the fourth inning provided the Greenville Robins with all their scoring and enough margin for a 3-2 win over the Rocky Mount Leafs here last night.

The Leafs had gone out in front with a 1-0 lead in the third frame when Frank Gardner walked. Wade Martin hit a Texas Leaguer. Bill Stanton forced Center at third with Martin taking second and Jim Reges' timely single brought him home for the first run of the game. They added another singleton in the fifth frame when Gardner singled. Wade Martin forced Gardner at second. Stanton was safe on a fielder's choice when Pitcher Jim Lewey threw wild to second on an easy double play ball and Jim Reges came through with his second single of the night to bring home Wade Martin.

Jim Lewey went the route for the Robins and gained his second win of the season and his first over the Rocky Mount Leafs. He has lost three, one of these being to the Leafs. Lewey scattered eight hits very effectively and struck out nine men during the contest to keep himself out of hot water most of the game. He walked two men.

Jim Reges with three singles in four trips to the plate and Pete King with two for four led the attack for the visitors.

Lefty Bill Anders, who pitched the Leafs to a 3-2 decision over the Robins in the first meeting of the two clubs this season, gave up a total of seven hits, walked three and struck out a like number.

Big John Baktis was the big gun in the Robins' attack as he came through with a homer and a single in four trips to the plate to pace the Robins hitters.

The Robins journey over to Kinston tonight to meet the Eagles in a single game and then return home Friday night when they play the Eagles a double-header here with the first game starting at 7:00 o'clock.

Golfers Defeat Smithfield, But Came In Second

Greenville's golf team, last year's champions of the Coastal Golf Association, did their duty yesterday in beating Smithfield, but wound up in second place among the six town loops when New Bern beat Kingston for the championship.

Playing in Smithfield, 28 Greenville golfers came through with an ever-so-thin margin, 58-54, the closest win for the locals this season. Captain Dave Mosier's boys were down two points after the 13th four-hole match had finished. But Billy Morton and Curtis Perkins came through with seven points, which provided the margin of victory.

Greenville was behind all the way until the last foursome, a situation that Mosier had been worrying about before the match yesterday began. After 10 foursomes had begun the 19th hole, Greenville was trailing 14 points. The remaining four picked it up little by little until the last two had finished.

Bo Welch, 20-year-old Smithfield golfer, was medalist for the two yesterday as he carded a two under par 70 for the twin nine hole rounds. Dee Larkin of Greenville brought in the best round for the locals with a 76. He was followed by W. L. Allen with 77 and Billy Morton with 79. H. H. McCormick, president of the Association and formerly of Greenville, turned in the next best card for Smithfield with a 73, one over par.

Greenville emerged from the 10-week matchplay in second position, one loss more than New Bern's champs. Both Greenville and Kinston were tied for second spot prior to yesterday's matches. But Kinston dropped the decision at New Bern, 63-48, losing their third match for the season which put Greenville in runnerup position with eight wins and two losses.

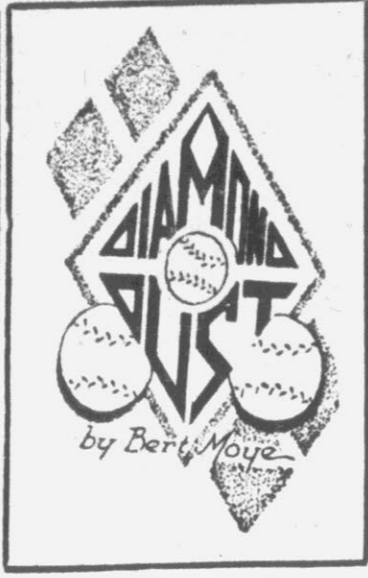

Local golfers playing yesterday were: Larkin, Allen, Morton, Erceel Webb, J. M. Barrett, Joe Exum, Raymonds May, M. B. Massey, Mout Massey, Tom Smoot, Dave Mosier, Rev. H. G. Haney, Bob Lang, Jack Gates, Milton Harrington, Hunter Jack, Cecil Edwards, R. E. Corbett, Jack Edwards, Sr., Jack Warner, Herman Duncan, Bill Goodwin and Carlos Murray.

The Tarboro Athletics will conduct a baseball school for boys 17 years of age and under at the Tarboro park each Saturday morning during the season, starting this Saturday. Manager Joe Antolick and Tommy Clark will be in charge of the school and will be assisted by the entire personnel of the Athletics. Individual instruction will be given to the boys and they will be taught the fundamentals of any position they may choose to play as well as generalities about the game.

Winterville wound up 1950 baseball season with 12-4 win over Pactolus

Winterville, May 18—The Wolves wound up their 1950 baseball season last Friday when they beat Pactolus 12-5 for their fifth win of the campaign. They have lost three.

The second inning of the seven-frame tilt was sparked with duplicate batting speers with each team collecting five runs during its turn. Pactolus chased starter Buck in that frame and Hill came in to relieve him. He performed superbly thereafter, snuffing out all other Pactolus rallies and allowing them three hits.

Winterville scored three runs in the initial frame and four in the sixth to ice the game. Leading the Wolves' attack at the plate was second baseman Robinson with a triple, double and single in four trips. Edwards and Wynne paced Pactolus with two for three and four respectively.

Line score:

Pactolus . . . 050 000 0-5 8 4

The first victory Pitcher Al Widmar chalked up this season was at the expense of the St. Louis Browns, the team for which he is now trying to fashion triumphs. Widmar won his contract battle with the Browns after he threatened to take action against the club in the civil courts. Al was listed as a stubborn holdout by the Browns but the player insisted that he had a case for the courts under the Anti-Trust Act when he was forced to sign with the Browns or drop out of organized baseball.

Farmville Takes 15-2 Win Over Stantonburg Team

Farmville, May 18.—Farmville continued to lead the Bright Belt League as it routed Stantonburg last night, 15-2, in a wild game that saw 12 errors committed by both teams.

Albert Moyer went the route for Farmville, allowing the visitors ten hits. His mates could get but one more hit off two Stantonburg pitchers but the extra runs were scored on errors.

Centerfielder Tugwell was the big gun at the plate for Farmville, collecting a triple and two singles in five trips. Tugwell was runner-up in the hitting department with a triple and a single in four times. Willie Mauney, last year's Greenville Greenie player, got two singles in five times.

Low Scores For Rocky Mount Women Golfers

There is no getting around the fact that Rocky Mount women golfers are the hot wires of the Eastern Carolina Women's circuit.

Tuesday Mrs. Frances Stevens of Rocky Mount again proved she could dominate the field as she pulled in honors in the low gross score, carding a 94.

In two previous outings for the women of the five town loop Mrs. Stevens has come home third, second, and first in past matches. She has either beat out Mrs. Stevens or placed second to her score. They are Mrs. Margaret Livengood, who took low net Tuesday, and Mrs. Cherry Watson, who placed second a month ago.

In Tuesday's rounds Mrs. Fred Sauve of Greenville tied for second with Mrs. Turnbull of New Bern, marking the first time in the three previous matches that a Greenville member has placed in the low gross bracket. Both carded 103's.

Mrs. Livengood came home with the low net score which was not recorded. Mrs. Thelma Lewis of New Bern placed second. (Net score is two-thirds of the difference between par and gross score and subtracted from the gross.)

Least number of putts went to Mrs. A. W. Alley from Rocky Mount.

In all 58 women participated in this golf-if-the-sun-shines, bridge-if-it-doesn't circuit. Next week the group plays in New Bern to wind up the loop play this spring.

Women playing Tuesday from Greenville were: Mrs. Sauve, Mrs. James Smith, Mrs. Garrison, Mrs. Matt Long, Mrs. Larry James, Mrs. Lee Hannah, Mrs. Graham Flanagan and Mrs. Harold Thomas.

Dodger Pennant Hopes Are Brighter; Newcombe Wins

By RALPH RODEN
AP Sports Writer
The pennant hopes of the Brooklyn Dodgers are brighter today. Big Don Newcombe is back on the beam.

Newcombe once again looks like the pitcher the experts said would be a cinch to win 20 games and the best bet to become the first National League pitcher to cop 30 since Dizzy Dean of the 1934 St. Louis Cardinals.

The husky Negro righthander stirred the hearts of Flatbush last night as he pitched the Dodgers to a 6-2 five hit victory over the Cardinals.

Newcombe, who complained of a sore arm as he was batted from pillar to post in his three previous starts, showed no trace of the ailment as he went the distance for the first time this season.

The sophomore mainstay not only choked off the Cards on five hits but also fanned eight and climaxed a game winning four run eighth inning rally with a two run single.

Newcombe's victory was doubly sweet to the Dodgers for the losing pitcher was Chunky Max Lanier who owned a string of eight straight victories over Brooklyn.

The triumph enabled the Dodgers to remain within a game of the league-leading Philadelphia Phils. The Phils edged the Cincinnati Reds, 5-4, in a night game at Philadelphia. Willie Jones singled home Ed Waitkus, who had tripled, with the winning run in the last of the ninth.

The Pittsburgh Pirates turned back the Braves, 4-1, in another night game in Boston. The Pirates snapped a 1-1 tie and drove Vern Bickford out with a three run attack in the sixth inning.

Sheldon Jones pitched the New York Giants to a 4-1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs in the National's only day game. He was helped by an inside park home run in the first inning by Bob Thomson with one on.

The New York Yankees outlasted the St. Louis Browns, 11-9, but fell into a first place American League tie with the Detroit Tigers. The Tigers, who began the day two percentage points behind the Yanks, knocked off the Boston Red Sox, 6-3.

Entering the ninth squared at 8-8, the Yanks showed three runs home to win on three singles, two walks and a hit batsman.

Second Division Scrap For Industrial League

White Chevrolet . . . 18 24 428
Flanagan Buggy . . . 18 24 428
State Highway . . . 15 27 357

Chicago, May 18—(AP)—Rapid Robert Satterfield, Chicago's unpredictable light heavyweight, has battled his way to the threshold of two championship matches.

The dynamic Negro puncher dramatically scuttled Lee Oma as the NBA No. 2 heavyweight contender last night by knocking him out in six rounds in a startling upset in the Chicago stadium.

Now at the age of 26 Satterfield moves up as a challenger for the world's light heavyweight title and possibly a crack at the heavyweight crown.

Satterfield gave only 6,318 spectators a thrilling reminiscence of Joe Louis' pralling when he got up off the canvas to knock out Oma in 41 seconds of the sixth round.

It was one of the most dramatic fights seen in the stadium in six years. The upset ended Oma's winning streak of 13 consecutive victories, throwing out the "no-contest" in which he recently engaged Bill Weinberg in Cincinnati.

Floored for the count of nine with less than a minute of the fifth round left, Satterfield regained his feet and pitched a long right hand which landed flush on Oma's chin. Oma dropped flat on his back under the ropes and was unable to move as Referee Frank Gilmer started to count ten. Then the bell clanged ending the round.

While Post Office was moving up for final third place, the Independents took the same cue and immediately set Flanagan Buggy down in three games. The Independents obviously weren't satisfied with their seventh place rating and showed it as they bowled one of their higher games, the second with a total score of 814 pins.

Flanagan didn't get the word because they couldn't bowl higher than a 665 third game while the Independents weren't bowling lower than 759.

And State Highway, the thorn in the flesh of this league, knocked White Chevrolet out of possible contention for fifth place when they dropped three games to the Highway team. That team also had an 810 game, which was high for the night among the eight.

So three games won by three teams spelled the difference in last week's standings and this.

Bill Harrington of Carolina Dairy walked off with the leadership of the high average group with a league busting 170. The others in the first ten are: Joe Smith, Post Office—159; Dave Mosier, Post Office—158; Tyson Bilbro, Wholesale—158; Bruce Bilbro, Wholesale—157; Bob Matthews, Post Office—153; Jack Teel, Independents—153; Allen Stokes, Independents—152; Spooky Morgan, Imperial Tobacco—151; and Waldrop, Post Office—150.

Bilbro Wholesale	27	15	.642

Imperial Tobacco	21	21	.500

One-Two Bowling Leaders Finished As Expected, But Decisive Games Upset Standings Within Ranks

The Industrial Bowling League finished its spring competition Tuesday night with Bilbro Wholesale leading the pack and Carolina Dairy finishing in the runnerup spot.

But although the one-two leaders finished as expected, there was mayhem in the ranks of the second division with the Independents moving up to fifth position and State Highway providing the derring-do that placed White Chevrolet in a tie with Flanagan Buggy for sixth place.

Bilbro, which needed only one game to clinch the championship, proceeded to drop the first one to the Dairy team. However, the wholesalers won the second by 754-709 for the leadership. It was all over but the shouting then and the leaders dropped the last game.

The games between Imperial Tobacco and the Post Office began as a toss-up between them, both having identical records of 21 wins and 11 losses. The Post Office crew, which on occasion has bowled like a bunch of ringers, came out on top by thrashing the tobaccoists three games to zero. All three games were decisive ones when Imperial couldn't break the 700's.

While Post Office was moving up for final third place, the Independents took the same cue and immediately set Flanagan Buggy down in three games. The Independents obviously weren't satisfied with their seventh place rating and showed it as they bowled one of their higher games, the second with a total score of 814 pins.

Deacs Are First 2-Time Winners Of Big Four

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wake Forest's Deacons are the first two-time winners in the Big Four's five-year baseball history.

They earned that honor yesterday, whacking out a 16-5 win over the University of North Carolina. The victory also clinched a spot for the Deacons in Southern division playoffs in the Southern Conference.

It was a big team victory. Wake Forest collected 16 hits off five Tar Heel pitchers. All but one Deacon got at least one safety and every man batted in at least one run.

Pinch Hitters Are His Meat

NEW YORK—Robin Roberts, possibly the Phillies' best bet to win 20 games this season, set some sort of a record against Brooklyn Dodger pinch hitters. He got eight outs against the first seven Dodger pinch swingers.

In the Philadelphia opener he beat the Brooks, 9-1. Pinch hitters Wayne Belardi and Cal Abrams struck out and Gene Hermanski hit into a double play. In Ebetts Field, Roberts faced four pinch hitters in a 9-2 victory. They were Abrams, Belardi, Hermanski and Jim Russell, all batting left-handed. Roberts had four strikeouts in the game.

Chapter 4
Pack Rogan strode over. "Get away from that prisoner, Pecos. You got no right to slap a man when he's helpless. Go after Joe's horse before he gets away again." The deputy sheriff, now forcing his mount between Monty and Pecos, gave Pack a quick nod. "Thanks," he panted. "I know you stand for law and order, Pack!" Pack threw back his head with a laugh. "Law and order!" he sneeringly. "Sure I'm for it, Shorty. But I'd string up this McDevitt in a second if I knew what he knows."

Pecos never got home the shot. Joe Munro stepped into the trail, and put a slug past Shay's right ear. Shay flinched so sharply that the bullet intended for Monty went wild across the canyon. "Turn back!" Joe yelled. "Pecos—turn your horse!" Pecos swung around, short-reined. Monty galloped into hiding in the thick brush. Only Pack, still senseless where he had been tossed by Monty's horse, and the fat man remained with Joe. The fat man lay sprawled in the dust fighting for wind, and blood was oozing from a big bump on the side of his head. Pecos Shay reined in his horse, a dozen paces from Joe. "You're a fast mover, kid," Pecos said sadly. "When I got more time I'd like to come to a real showdown with you." "Any old time, Pecos," Joe answered, just as leisurely. (To be continued)

Hart Cotton Mill To Appeal Ruling

Tarboro, N. C. May 14—(AP)—An examiner for the National Labor Relations Board has ruled against the Hart Cotton Mills here in a case growing out of last year's prolonged strike.

Marcus W. Carter, vice president and general manager of the mill, announced that the ruling by examiner Thomas S. Wilson of Washington would be appealed.

Wilson found in his report to the NLRB that the mill had violated the labor relations act by "coercing employees, refusing to bargain with the textile workers union of America (CIO) and discriminating against its employees."

The ruling, Carter asserted, "is thoroughly biased and one-sided and the company will, of course, take exception to it and appeal the case."

The strike ended last November after more than six months when the strikers returned to work without a contract. The dispute was marked by sporadic violence.

Wilson recommended that the mill be required to:

1. Bargain with the union on wages rates of pay, hours and other conditions including housing, and

2. Offer each employe immediate and full reinstatement to the positions they held prior to the strike with compensation for loss of pay they may have suffered.

Carter asserted that the company had "already bargained with the union for weeks and months without any success in achieving agreement, and as to reinstating those who were out on strike, all who desired their jobs back with the exception of the ones involved in criminal cases have been reinstated long ago."

Trying Again

Greenville's midget baseball team meets Kinston tonight at 7:30 at the ballpark in a belated effort to play the game which has been postponed for three times during the past three weeks.

Coach Bill Kittrell has finally arranged the date for play and unless it rains this afternoon or early tonight the game will be played.

Kittrell has a choice of three pitchers which he may use tonight. They are Harry White Scott, Ike Riddick and Pat Sawyer. The lineup behind the starting pitcher will be: Harold Edwards, c; Billy Johnson, 1b; Tommie Key Norris, 2b; Pat Sawyer, ss (provided he doesn't pitch); Tommie Smith, 3b; Pee-wee Rumley, lf; Edgar Moore, cf; and Jim McGee, rf.

No Speculation Over Outcome Of FEPC Test

Washington, May 14—(AP)—Neither side was doing much advance speculating today about the size of the vote on the question of getting a Fair Employment Practices bill before the Senate.

For almost two weeks, the Senate has been carrying on a sporadic debate over the question of whether the civil rights measure should be taken up for action.

A petition to put a halt to the talk—a so-called cloture petition—has been signed by 40 senators—26 Republicans and 14 Democrats. To clamp a time limit on the debate will take the votes of 64 of the 96 senators.

The vote is scheduled for noon tomorrow.

Woman Sent To State Hospital

Winston-Salem, May 14—(AP)—A Winston-Salem mother accused of drowning two of her youngest children has been committed to the state hospital for the criminally insane.

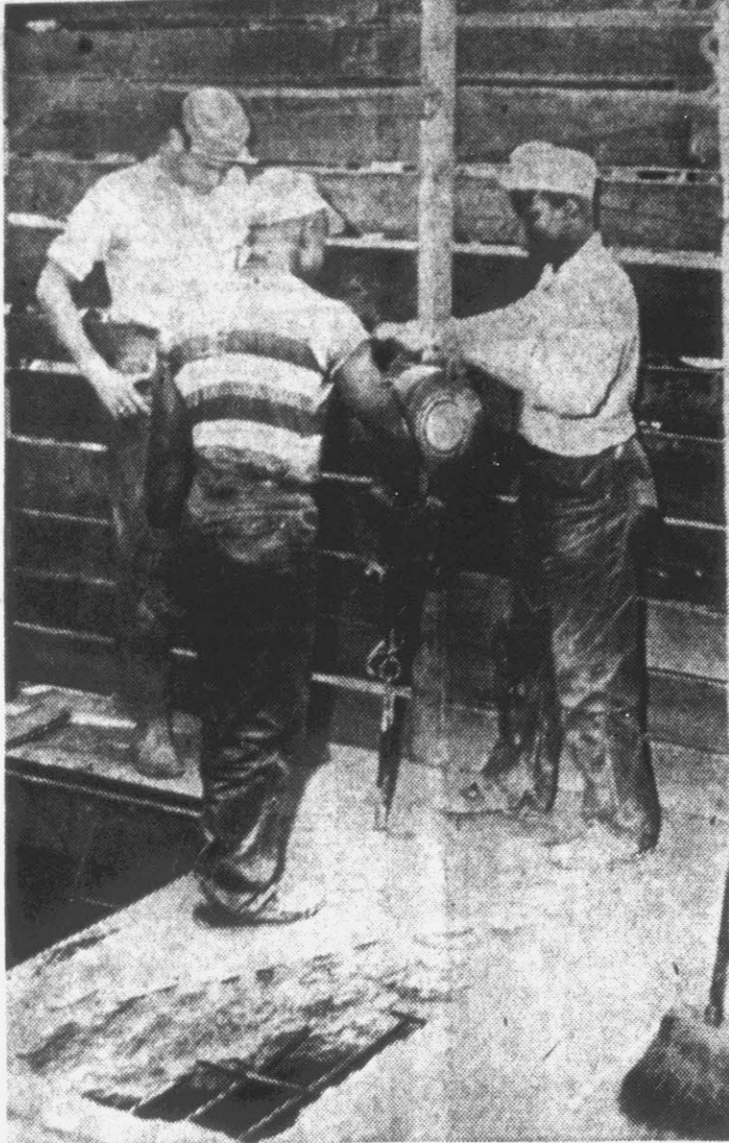

An all-male jury ruled yesterday that Mrs. Enyc Widener Debusk, 41, wasn't mentally capable of pleading to a murder indictment. If she regains her sanity she will be returned here for trial.

Burmese Envoy Returns Home

Rangoon, Burma, May 14—(AP)—U So Nyun, Burma's ambassador to the United States, returned by air from Washington today. He had been forced to leave his post because of illness, now diagnosed as cirrhosis of the liver.

The ambassador had to be carried from the plane. An American nurse, Mary T. Rudolph of Thomasville, N.C., made the plane trip from the United States with the ambassador, his wife and family.

Begin Sub-Station Installations

Workers of the R. H. Boulligny Company, Inc., of Charlotte are pictured here as they break the cement covering over the Fourth Street sub-station, which is to be enlarged and new equipment placed there. The present sub-stations located on fourth street have three small units which are unable to take care of the up-town load. New transformers arriving in Greenville Monday will be installed in each of the sub-stations. (Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee.)

Bus Rammed By Car; None Hurt

A Pitt county school bus loaded with children from the Bell Arthur school yesterday was struck in the rear by a car which was following close behind it.

The accident occurred shortly after 12:30 on a rural road about one-half mile from Frog Level.

The bus driver, Charlie R. Young, 17, Route 2, Greenville, stated to Patrolman Paul C. Whitley that he was preparing to discharge his passengers when his bus was struck.

There was no damage to the school bus and none of the passengers on the bus at the time were hurt.

The car which rammed the bus was operated by Herbert B. Randolph, of Route 4, Greenville. Damage to the Randolph vehicle was estimated by the patrolman as being about $200. The front end of the vehicle was the only part of the car damaged.

No charges were brought against either of the drivers.

This is one of two pictures published by the Berlin magazine Illustrated Telegraf, which reports it found them by chance amid discarded material taken by a representative of Adolf Hitler's personal photographer. Illustrated Telegraf describes them as the last pictures taken of Hitler, showing him with his adjutant (left) surveying war damage to his chancellery in Berlin about April 20, 1945. The other picture was similar to this one. (AP Wirephoto).

Phone Contract Is Agreed Upon After Long Talk

Atlanta, May 14—(AP)—After more than four months, negotiators have agreed on a new contract between Southern Bell Telephone company and the CIO Communication Workers of America. It may mean an increase in phone bills in the southeast.

The more than 43,000 non-supervisory workers affected in nine southeastern states do not get a general wage increase, which the union had been demanding. They do get a revision in wage scales to allow a worker to reach top scale in six and a half years instead of eight years. In addition, Southern Bell agreed to reclassify employes in 27 cities and towns to put them in higher wage schedules.

In announcing the agreement yesterday, the company said it will have to have additional rate increases to pay for the new contract.

One-Time Demo Official Said Financed Trek

Washington, May 14—(AP)—Senator Brewster (R-Maine) said today expenses of the Republican "shadow" who trailed President Truman on his cross-country tour were paid by a former Democratic Administration official.

Brewster—who is Senate GOP chairman—told the Senate that Victor Johnston's "shadow" trip was financed by John W. Hanes of New York and North Carolina, a former undersecretary of the treasury. Brewster referred to Hanes as a "very distinguished Democrat."

Johnston became a much publicized figure as he turned up at whistle stops and other places on the President's tour, observing the reaction of the crowds.
