

Research Chemist Arrested As Fuchs' Aide In Espionage

Philadelphia, May 24—(AP)—A 39-year-old Philadelphia research chemist of Russian extraction is held today in $100,000 bail, charged with receiving atomic bomb secrets from Dr. Klaus Fuchs and turning them over to Soviet Russia.

Dr. Fuchs is the former top British atomic scientist serving 14 years for passing atom secrets to Russia. Arrest of Harry Gold, senior biochemist in one of Philadelphia's largest hospitals for the last two years, was announced in Washington last night by Attorney General McGrath and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

A few minutes later in the Philadelphia chambers of Federal Judge James P. McGranery, the short, pudgy Gold was given a 15-minute hearing and hustled off to Philadelphia's Moyamensing Prison in lieu of bail.

Gold's work at Philadelphia General Hospital was on federally-financed heart research.

Judge McGranery set June 12 at 10 a.m. for a further hearing. The time of his arrest was not disclosed.

The jurist told Gold during the hastily called hearing that he did not have to speak without benefit of counsel.

And Gold spoke only twice. He admitted he was the Gold named in the warrant and requested permission to telephone a brother in Philadelphia to obtain counsel.

Judge McGranery granted the request.

Later the brother, Joseph, told reporters he had received a call from Harry. Joseph said his older brother had been employed at the Philadelphia General Hospital as a civil service bio-chemist.

In announcing the arrest, McGranery said the charges were based on information supplied by Dr. Fuchs, who was arrested in February and pleaded guilty March 1.

In London, it was disclosed two FBI agents questioned Dr. Fuchs last Saturday and again yesterday.

The joint statement, issued by the Justice Department and Hoover, said Gold admitted contacts with Fuchs and had given detailed accounts of his activities since first meeting the scientist in New York's East Side early in 1944. They had subsequent contacts in Brooklyn, the Bronx, Manhattan and Queens, N. Y., the FBI said.

The FBI, which indicated it has been watching Gold for a long time, quoted him as telling bureau agents when he was taken into custody: "I thought that I would be helping a nation whose final aims I approved along the road to industrial strength. Particularly was I taken with the idea that whatever I did would go to help make living conditions far more advanced along the road as we know them here in the United States."

Gold also was quoted by the FBI as saying he "felt that as an ally I was only helping the Soviet Union obtain certain information that I thought it was entitled to."

Unions And Auto Industry Looking For Long Peace

'Big Three' Producers Sign Pacts; GM Contract Has Unprecedented Terms

Detroit, May 24—(AP)—The sudden and significant new General Motors contract left the auto industry today in its most settled condition in years.

All the "big three" producers—GM, Ford and Chrysler—and some of the so-called independents were signed up with the CIO United Auto Workers for at least two years.

Longest of all the agreements is the unprecedented five-year General Motors pact announced yesterday. It does not permit even a wage reopening before 1955.

The Ford contract allows either the company or union to ask for wage adjustments once before it expires in 1952. The Chrysler contract permits two wage reopenings by either side in its three-year duration.

All this seemed to leave both sides in the industry satisfied.

Management was looking forward to long periods free from labor strife. The UAW was hopeful of using the big three agreements as patterns at scores of smaller firms where bargaining has been held up pending the big settlements.

UAW President Walter Ruther said the union would use the GM pact as a pattern "wherever we can."

The union claimed it was far superior to either the strikeless Ford settlement last September or the Chrysler settlement at the end of a 100-day strike May 4.

Its major provisions were these: 1. Continuation of the unique escalator clause in the old two-year contract. This hitches the wages of nearly 250,000 GM workers to the cost of living as measured by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor statistics.

2. A guarded four-cent hourly wage boost when the contract goes into effect next Monday and another each May 29 thereafter for the next four years. This is known as an "annual improvement factor" unaffected by ups and downs in living costs.

3. Pensions of at least $100 a month, including federal social security benefits, with a maximum of $117.50 if the government payments are increased by Congress. Full pensions are payable at age 65 after 25 years service.

4. A modified version of a union shop. This requires all new employees to join the union within 90 days for a period of at least a year, giving them an option of quitting at the end of that time.

Little Evidence
Of Quick Parole
For Willie Rector

Raleigh, May 24—(AP)—Willie Rector may have to stay in prison a long time before he is considered for a parole. Dr. T. C. Johnson, State Paroles Commissioner, indicated today.

Rector was returned to prison last week after having lived as a good citizen in Tennessee for six years. He escaped from a North Carolina prison camp in 1944.

Johnson said that "thus far we have seen no grounds for treating this as an exceptional case."

He said that the general policy of the Paroles Commission is to require escaped convicts who have returned to serve one-fourth of their remaining sentence before they are considered for parole.

West Attempts Inform
World Of Accusations

Washington, May 24—(AP)—The western powers are taking to the air waves in an effort to spread to all the world their charges that Russia is rearming eastern Germany in violation of solemn promises.

The protests to Moscow, made yesterday by the United States, Britain and France, were broadcast over Europe and into the Soviet bloc countries by massed transmitters of the Voice of America and the British Broadcasting Corp.

The counter-propaganda stroke, agreed to at the London strategy meeting of the big three foreign ministers, was timed for a critical week in Berlin. Communist youths from the Soviet zone are planning a demonstration for Sunday. Western Berlin officials have warned Russia they will fight any effort to "suddenly overrun free Berlin."

Also the Russians are stepping up their claims to leadership in a world "peace offensive" to what they call war-mongering among the western powers.

The west for months has been accumulating evidence that Moscow is actively backing formation of the so-called "alert units" even though Russia joined the other World War II allies in repeated pledges not to permit German rearmament.

Death Takes Famed Field
Marshal, Percival Wavell

London, May 24—(AP)—Earl Wavell, the one-eyed British field marshal who crushed Italian armies in Africa ten years ago, died today.

The veteran soldier, who also served as viceroy of India in the turbulent period after the war, underwent an abdominal operation on May 5, his 67th birthday. He suffered a relapse Sunday.

A daring strategist who believed in taking calculated risks, Archibald Percival Wavell won the first substantial victories for Britain in the last war. He turned the tide, temporarily at least, in 1940 and inspired the empire with his hope in a time of deep depression.

Wavell drove Italian forces from Egypt, cleared much of China and smashed the strongest ele-

Car Demolished On Ramming Into Trailer Truck

The car shown above collided with the back end of a trailer truck on the Farmville highway about a quarter of a mile from Greenville last night, destroying the car and injuring the driver. The car was operated by Nathan Wesley Coward, 22, of Perkins street, Greenville. Coward was arrested by Patrolman Dick Chadwick on a careless and reckless driving charge. Trailer Truck Is Rammed By Auto

Young Local Driver Injured In Last Night's Accident

A car, operated by Nathan Wesley Coward, 22, of Greenville, rammed into the back of a trailer-truck last night on the Farmville highway about a quarter of a mile from Greenville injuring the driver and destroying the car.

The accident occurred around 8 o'clock last night.

A trailer-truck operated by Lee Roy Anderson of Woodlawn Avenue, Greenville was traveling in the direction of Farmville when it was struck by the Coward car. The truck then traveled 66 feet down the highway before coming to a stop.

The truck driver told investigating Patrolman Dick Chadwick that he was going at a rate of 20 miles per hour, and was just gaining a little speed when his truck was struck.

The truck was owned by W. B. Jenkins of Greenville, and was only slightly damaged by the impact.

The back end of the truck struck the car square in the middle and pushed the top part of the radiator back to the windshield. The steering wheel was shoved back into the front seat of the car, with such force as to bend it out of shape. The hood was thrown into the windshield.

Coward was taken to Pitt General Hospital where he is now being treated. No report on his condition was obtainable this morning.

Call 3356

City subscribers who do not receive their Reflector by six p.m. are requested to report same by telephoning 3356 before six and six-thirty p.m.

After that hour the circulation department will be closed and deliveries will be made of papers missed.

Regained Sight
Briefly Lost In Tears Of Joy

Uniontown, Pa., May 24—(AP)—A mother who regained her sight after 14 years of blindness happily visited today with a 17-year-old soldier son who got an emergency furlough in Germany when he heard his mother could see again.

The woman is Mrs. Mary Franz, mother of two other sons. One of them Christopher, 17, was flown home from duty in Germany for 30 days.

Christopher read of his mother's good fortune in the Army newspaper, Stars and Stripes. He declared:

"I was so happy I didn't know what to do."

Choking back a sob of joy, Mrs. Franz said of her son's arrival:

"When I heard a knock at the back door, I rushed there. I could see a soldier's cap and knew it was Chris. But when I opened the door I still couldn't see him because my eyes were so filled with tears."

Sees Danger Of
Paternal Gov't

Long Beach, Calif., May 24—(AP)—"Too many people look to the government to solve all their problems and this is a dangerous tendency," the director of the Good Citizenship Foundation told the National Congress of Parents and Teachers yesterday.

"When the government starts doing things for us, it ends up doing things to us," Dr. James Millar, of Portland, Ore., said in an address.

Significance Of Senate Race Has Nat'l Coverage

N. Y. Times Political Reporter Here For Smith Talk; Others In State

Apparent national interest in the Smith-Graham senatorial campaign and perhaps the national significance of the outcome of this week's Democratic primary in North Carolina was indicated here last night by the presence of William H. Lawrence, political reporter for the New York Times, who was in Greenville to cover the speech made by Candidate Willis Smith.

Lawrence said last night was the first time he has heard Smith speak during the campaign, and he thought Greenville would be as good a place to hear him as any.

Lawrence was accompanied to Greenville by another newspaperman, Arthur Johnson of the Greensboro Daily News.

The New York Times, however, apparently is not the only major publication in the country which is keeping close touch on the North Carolina senatorial race. Reports reaching Greenville late yesterday afternoon said Ralph McGill, a political writer from the Atlanta Journal and Atlanta Constitution who represents the far-flung Scripps-Howard publications, was scheduled to be in Greenville last night along with a representative of Time magazine.

Lawrence said last night, however, that both McGill and the Time magazine reporter had stopped in Raleigh to study the political situation there rather than coming to Greenville for Smith's speech.

Lawrence, who is one of the New York Times' top political reporters, covered the 1948 presidential election from both Truman's and Dewey's campaign trains. He recently covered the Smathers-Pepper campaign in the Florida Democratic primary, the Ohio primary, and the Republican primary in Pennsylvania. Last week he was in Chicago for the meeting of the Democratic National Convention.

He said he will do a series of articles for the Times on the North Carolina primary between now and election day Saturday. He was in the state for a few days in March to survey the situation just as the senatorial campaigns were beginning, and returned here this week to keep close touch on the campaign during the final week.

Today he was scheduled to cover the activities of Senator Graham in Lexington.

In response to a direct question, Lawrence said he is of the opinion that a victory for Smith in the senatorial campaign, coupled with the recent victory of Smathers in Florida, would represent a definite national Democratic trend away from President Truman's policies.

Support Move To Develop UN Into
New Federation

Washington, May 24—(AP)—Two groups of veterans and farmers today supported a proposal for developing the United Nations into a world federation. A third organization of retired military officers opposed it.

Russell Smith, legislative secretary of the National Farmers Union, told a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee:

"We feel deeply and instinctively that any step toward world harmony must be taken through the United Nations."

Louis C. Parkiser, national executive director of the American Veterans committee, testified:

"We must prevent another world conflict. AVC feels that to accomplish this end we must set our sights on law for all nations."

John T. Koehler, now assistant Secretary of the Navy, who will be acting chairman.

South Trimble, Jr., now chairman of the Commerce Department's Advisory Board on the Inland Waterways Corp.

Rear Adm. Paul L. Mather, retired, the liquidator of war assets. Left without jobs were four members of the old five-man commission. The chairman, Gen. Fleming.

On Being An Indian

Tens Of Thousands Of Persons Along Atlantic Seaboard
Seeking Recognition As Indians; Ignored In The Past;
They Are After Various Forms Of U. S. Help

By CLARKE BEACH

WASHINGTON — Tens of thousands of persons in states along the Atlantic seaboard are trying to get the federal government to recognize them as Indians. This is the estimate of W. H. Gilbert of the Legislative Reference Service of the Library of Congress, who has made a study of the subject. The recent census, he says, probably will produce the names of many tribes seldom heard of before. One new question to be asked in communities where there is mixed blood concerns what Indian tribe, if any, a person belongs to.

The Western Indian tribes are well known. Nearly all of them were investigated and cataloged many years ago when the government enrolled the Indian population. All Indians so enrolled, and their descendants, have been entitled to various forms of federal assistance—education, medical care, farm guidance and so forth. That's what the Eastern Indians now would like to get.

They have been largely ignored up to now because they had never had any formal dealings with the federal government. Most of the Western Indians gained certain rights through treaties. But the Eastern redmen had dealt with the colonial governments, and their status had been pretty well settled by the time the federal government was established.

One little lost tribe is soon to have its day in Congress. Companion bills have been introduced by Rep. Poulson (R-Calif.) and Rep. Bosone (D-Utah) to grant recognition, in effect, to the Waccamaw Indians of North Carolina. They have introduced their bills at the request of James Evan Alexander, a Los Angeles banker and scholar who has made a study of the tribe. The move is sponsored also by the Association on American Indian Affairs.

The Waccamaw comprise 70 families who have remained pretty well hidden throughout American history in the Green Swamp. This is a practically impenetrable wilderness about 37 miles from Wilmington, N.C. It is sub-tropical, filled with black bear, deer, alligators, rattlesnakes and water moccasins. Alexander says it's the only area in North America where you find a flesh-eating plant. This is the Venus flytrap, which is insect-

Draft Extension Slated For House Okay Today

Passage Of Modified Two-Year Extension Bill Probable Before Nightfall; Standby Basis For Actual In- ductions

Washington, May 24—(AP)—A two-year extension of the selective service law was ticketed for House consideration today, with passage probable before nightfall.

While extending the draft until 1952, the proposed legislation would put actual inductions on a stand-by basis subject to the decision of Congress to call up men for service.

All youths between 18 and 26 would continue to register with their draft boards and be processed as at present.

But until the House and Senate, acting together, declared a national emergency existed which required an increase in the armed forces:

1. No inductions could be ordered.

2. The President could not mobilize industry or take over war-essential plants.

3. No 18-year-olds could enlist.

4. Voluntary enlistments of less than two years would be prohibited.

The draft-extension bill also authorizes the president, upon declaration of a national emergency, to order into active service all members of the military reserve for 21 months. However, 18-year-old reserves would be excused from this duty at their own request.

No large-scale opposition was anticipated by House leaders. Congress has been warned by defense chiefs that continuation of selective service is essential for the duration of the cold war.

Concedes Story

Raleigh, May 24—(AP)—Governor Scott conceded today that he once urged Senatorial Candidate Willis Smith to run for governor.

"x x x at that time I did not know he (Smith) was opposed to both the state and national administrations," Scott said. "It would be disastrous to send a man to Washington who would fight the administration."

Smith also said in his speech that Scott "evidently thought I was a pretty good lawyer, because he appointed me to head the commission to reform justice in North Carolina."

"And I still do," was Scott's reply to a question about this.

Captives Shut Off

Soviet Satellites In Middle Europe Slowly Being Cut Off
From Western Influences By Kremlin; Progress;
Diplomatic Restriction; Our Own Retaliation

By SIGRID ARNE

Little by little the Kremlin appears to be shutting its captive states in middle Europe away from western influence the West could spread in the area.

The final result could be that Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria will talk to the outside world only through spokesmen at Moscow.

No one in Washington, and in particular at the State Department, will stand for such a gloomy prediction. But State Department people will acknowledge that over the past two years the Communist governments of middle Europe have made it increasingly difficult for American diplomats to carry on their business.

This is the way the score now stands: U.S. diplomats have left Bulgaria, and the Bulgarians have left the U.S. Poland has demanded that the U.S. cut its Warsaw embassy staff of military attaches by 40 per cent. Czechoslovakia has demanded that we get two thirds of our embassy staff out of there.

Romania wants us to cut our staff. Hungary makes the same demands. When a country makes demands

Bevin Supports Red China Seat

Asserts Communist Gov't Should Have Place In UN

London, May 24—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told the House of Commons today Britain feels Communist China should be given a seat in the United Nations.

"We think it is better for the new China to be inside the U.N.," he said. "We do not want to ostracize anyone on political grounds."

At the same time, Bevin accused the Soviet Union of being "on strike" against the United Nations.

"They are holding up the work of the U.N.," he said, "and that won't do."

Bevin made his statements during a debate on British policy on the Far East and Southeast Asia.

Britain has already recognized the new Communist regime in China but thus far has been unable to establish diplomatic relations with the Mao Tse-tung regime.

Regarding British recognition of Communist China, Bevin said:

"Although it may be an unpleasant decision to have recognized the Communists, I have searched my conscience as to the alternative and have come to the conclusion that the advice I gave to the cabinet was right and in a few years to come I think it will turn out to be right."

"I don't think we took the wrong step. I think it was right at that time not to leave the Russians to assume that they were the only people who wished to do anything at all for China."

After the speech, the majority of the audience filed by to shake hands with him. Earlier he had referred to them as "many old friends, fellow lawyers and clients," the latter bringing laughs and applause.

The candidate was introduced by his own campaign manager Judge J. W. H. Roberts, who presented him as "the next Senator from eastern North Carolina, one who has fought for the Democratic party and who will carry on the spirit of the party in Washington."

Alford-Tyndall Vows Spoken In Fountain On Sunday

The Fountain Baptist Church was the scene of a wedding of beauty and dignity Sunday evening, May 21, at 6:00 when Miss Irene Tyndall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tyndall of Fountain became the bride of Mr. Zebulon Vance Alford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Zeb Alford of Tarboro.

The Rev. Richard L. West officiated in the double ring ceremony. Prior to the ceremony Mr. Wiley Yelverton presented a program of piano music and Mr. Lynwood Polard of Tarboro sang "D'Ardeois," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." Traditional wedding marches were used and "To A Wild Rose" by McDowell was played during the ceremony. "Oh Perfect Love" was sung as a benediction.

The church was beautifully decorated with Oregon fern and pedestal baskets of white gladiol, roses and larkspur. Cathedral candles in floor candelabras completed the setting.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a gown of white brocade with a wide, wide, wide heart neckline and leg o mutton sleeves which terminated with points over the wrists. The full skirt which ended in a train was worn over hoops. Her veil of illusion was attached to a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a white satin covered prayer book centered with a purple throated orchid and showered with illusion and bouvardis. Her only ornament was a double strand of pearls.

Miss Marie Tyndall, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a gown of lavender organza made with tight fitting bodice drop shoulders and a full skirt over hoops. Her head dress was a coronet of self made flowers and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations with tulle and tied with pink satin ribbon.

Frank Alford was his brother's best man. Ushers were William Owens of Wilson, Fred Davenport and Spencer Hales of Tarboro and Lehman Tyndall, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a dress of navy and grey chiffon with navy accessories. At her shoulder was a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother wore a dress of grey and yellow silk crepe with black accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

For traveling the bride changed to a dress of pink organza with a hat of the same material. Her accessories were of black patent leather and the white child from her prayer book completed her ensemble.

Pravda Again Notes Total Diplomacy Goal By West

By EDDY GILMORE
Moscow, May 24—(AP)—Pravda, indicating it had the latest Western power notes to the Soviet Union in mind, commented today that "whoever sows total diplomacy shall reap total catastrophe."

The Communist party newspaper made no direct reference to the American-British-French notes charging the Soviet Union with encouraging military-type formations in East Germany. But it appeared plain Pravda was referring to these as well as other Western measures.

Pravda means U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson when it uses the term "total diplomacy." The newspaper said American ruling circles, by total diplomacy, aim at "a new strengthening of subversive activity."

Blackmail, threats and scares are "constituent elements of total diplomacy," Pravda said, adding that such diplomacy is not, however, any sign of strength.

"It cannot change the advancing course of the powerful international movement of peace partisans," Pravda said. "The ranting and raging in the warmonger camp only strengthens the will of the peace partisans to stand for the cause of peace and the international security of peoples."

"Historical experience teaches — whoever sows total diplomacy shall reap total catastrophe. It was so in the past and will be so in the future."

Yesterday Pravda printed an article charging that West German industry is producing tanks, armor plate and other war material, and on previous occasions the Soviet press has accused the West of violating agreements for the demilitarizing of Germany and encouraging military and fascist organizations. (These are the same charges the West has made against the Soviet Union).

Etiquette Given Backseat When Acrobats Gather

Newark N. J., May 24—(AP)—Arbiters of Etiquette would have been shocked if all those people eating with their elbows on the table.

The 11th annual conference here yesterday.

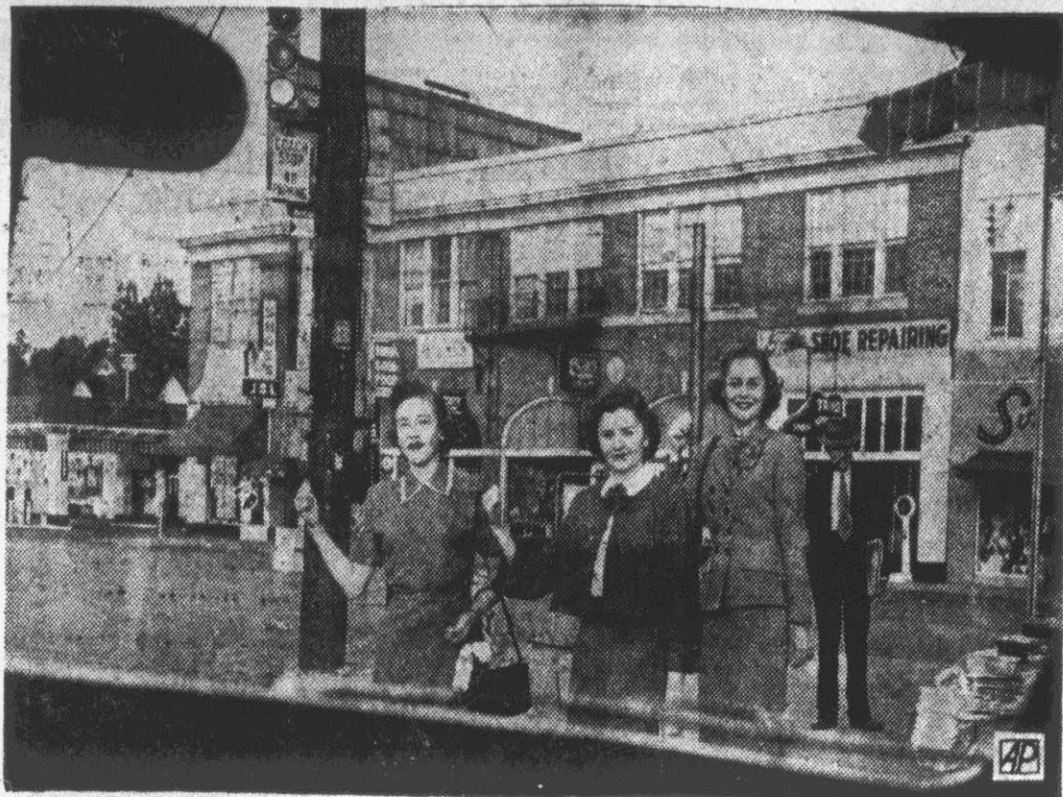

The business meeting was conducted with strict decorum. But then the luncheon bell sounded.

Automobile Tire Prices Going Up

New York, May 24—(AP)—Automobile tire prices are on the increase and industry sources warn the motorists they may go even higher.

Major producers have hiked the price of passenger car tires 2 1/2 per cent, excepting on second line grades, and advanced truck and bus tires 5 per cent.

U.S. Rubber Co. started the series of announcements and was followed by Goodyear Tire and Rubber, B. F. Goodrich, General Tire and Rubber, Sieberling, and Firestone.

Prices of farm and industrial tires and inner tubes were not included in the increases.

A sharp rise in natural rubber costs was given by several companies for the advance. Producers pointed out that natural rubber was 29 3/8 cents a pound in New York yesterday, compared with about 17 cents last December and 20 cents on April 1.

Passenger car tire prices were boosted to $15.80 for the popular 6.00 by 16 size last November. The current increase makes the new price $16.20.

(Political Advertising) Health Board Head Backs Kilpatrick

As president of the North Carolina State Board of Health, I had opportunity to observe the records of our Representative during the last General Assembly.

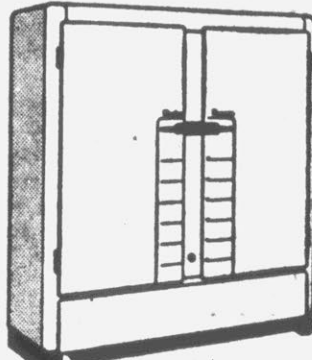

The Health Departments and Public School officials worked hand in hand for legislation that was for the betterment of the school children of the State.

During our campaigns for more and better support of these departments we found Mr. Kilpatrick, from Pitt one of our staunch supporters. Without his help, both education and health programs would have suffered.

To those of us interested in the future of our State, I do not believe we can afford to fail to return him to the Legislature.

Sincerely,
G. G. DIXON, Md.

Although final arrangements aren't complete, the GOP national committee has scheduled an east coast rally for Atlantic City June 23. Republicans expect to follow this with a western conference at Salt Lake City in July and a general roundup in Chicago late in August or September. The idea is to dramatize their fall campaign to regain control of Congress.

Senator Brewster of Maine, chairman of the Republican senatorial committee, told a reporter he thinks that even without a President as a drawing card the GOP can outdo the Democrats in Chicago.

President Truman drew an overflow crowd to the 22,000-seat Chicago Stadium, but a Sunday meeting of the presidential cabinet, presided over by Vice President Barkley, played to a small crowd and a lot of vacant seats.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

HE FOUND THE TRUTH
Horace Bushnell, who influenced religious thought in the country very profoundly, was an unbeliever in his youth. That is to say, there was a period in his young manhood when he believed only two things, namely, the existence of God and the righteousness of right. He decided, therefore, that he would take these two beliefs and living his life to the full upon them, would see what the result would be. He had the feeling that if God was as good as he believed Him to be, He would not allow any sincere man earnestly seeking for light to remain in darkness.

The result was that Bushnell was led from one revelation of truth to another until at last he entered the ministry, and at the end of his days had the satisfaction of knowing that he had lived one of the most useful Christian lives of his generation.

Jesus' disciples once asked for more faith, and Jesus' reply was, in substance, that they did not need more faith; what they needed was to begin using the faith they already had. God never intends anyone to profess a belief he does not have, but he promises more light to every earnest seeker who proceeds on the basis of what he has.

We Only Marvel At Barkley's Endurance

Today's column by Ray Tucker reveals something we have more or less been expecting: that Vice President Barkley is fed up with the glamor role he has been playing on the Washington scene.

It is easy to imagine that for a time that role was fun for the veteran lawmaker; almost a holiday from the drab routine of legislative detail and ceaseless horse-trading.

Alben Barkley was always more than a cog in the Democratic political machine, and for many years he played prominent parts in actual government . . . not as a Harlequin, but as a responsible member of the "elder statesmen" on the Senate floor.

We remember that during the 1949 campaigning, there was much discussion of making the office of vice-president a more responsible one; a post in which the president would have a true alter-ego. It was to bear a considerable responsibility as well as being of greater influence than the post had previously enjoyed. Senator Barkley was popularly regarded as being the ideal choice for that position, and the accolade given him at the National Democratic convention was thunderous.

Even today, Mr. Barkley holds a rare place in the hearts of his countrymen, both Republicans and Democrats. His influence remains great, if and when he chooses to wield his persuasion, logic, and charm.

Stubborn, forceful, quick to grasp psychological advantages; a proven politician and possessing a quality approaching great statesmanship, it is to be regretted his abilities are shunted to one side at a time when the Democratic party stands in need of its ablest leaders.

Congratulations To The High School Seniors

This week more than 220 Pitt county high school seniors were awarded their diplomas. Next week they will be joined by some 80 more seniors who will graduate from Greenville high school.

These young people all have heard messages from their respective commencement speakers. They at least have been exposed mentally to what sort of life awaits them in the realm of the world beyond the school room.

There is a great need for leadership and service among the young people of Pitt county, the nation and the world today. The need for young leadership should be a challenge to the high school graduates of Pitt county. The young people who train themselves in leadership today, will be the middle-aged people of tomorrow who will exert their mature leadership upon the people of our community, and perhaps their influence will be felt around the world.

Amid the congratulations of hundreds of other people, the Reflector would like to add its congratulations to these boys and girls who have successfully completed their high school careers.

Upon your shoulders is the obligation to develop true leadership qualities, for upon your shoulders not many years hence will rest the responsibility of leading your fellow citizens.

Will You Buy A Poppy To Aid A Disabled Vet?

Buy a poppy, Buddy?
That's a question you'll probably be asked Saturday by one of the many women and boys and girls who will be selling poppies throughout the county on Saturday.

The money from the annual poppy sales will go to aid the disabled veterans of World War II, who are in need of assistance from more fortunate people all over the United States.

When you buy a poppy, it is just another way of saying, "Thanks, Pal," to some guy who sacrificed his health and well-being so you can continue to enjoy the American way of life.

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, May 24—Southern members of Congress begin to suspect that President Truman and Secretary Brannan are staging a two-billion-dollar "squeeze play" against them in order to force them to support certain portions of the "fair deal" program now held up by their opposition.

Even if the stymied legislation cannot pass, he seeks a showdown so that he can blame its defeat on the men he calls "obstructionists" in November's Congressional campaign.

The two-billion-dollar increase in funds for the Commodity Credit Corporation is the measure on which the anti-Dixie maneuver hinges. In that bloc's opinion, although they cannot offer courtroom proof of the White House plot, they advance strong circumstantial evidence for their contention that they are victims of parliamentary and presidential reprisal. Here is the story:

"MUST"—Many months ago, Secretary Brannan warned House and Senate committees that he needed immediate appropriation of the two-billion-dollar crop.

He explained that he was nearing the bottom of the money bin, and that the payments might have to be terminated temporarily unless he obtains the additional funds. He named May 1, preferably April 15, as the date when he "must" have the money.

HASTE—Although highly critical of blue potato and dried egg losses, the House Banking and Currency Committee rushed the measure to the floor, where it was passed with emergency energy. The Senate Agriculture Committee, which is dominated by tobacco-cotton members, sent it to the floor in such haste that it had to be returned for technical revision.

Suddenly, however, the White House forces lost their original interest in the bill. Despite efforts of southern spokesmen to obtain speedy consideration, it was sidetracked for legislation on behalf of ECA, FEPC, government reorganization and other matters bound to provoke protracted and controversial debate, even filibusters.

EASED—Now Secretary Brannan hints that he may not need the money at this session, although it is doubtful if he would dare to give public testimony to Capitol Hill to this effect. But the shift in agricultural conditions in certain areas has definitely eased the demand on CCC's money bags.

Prospects of a short wheat crop have already led many growers to buy back from the government millions of bushels on which they had obtained loans. The system of supporting hogs has been abandoned. Should bad weather cut down the spring corn harvest, there would be an additional saving, perhaps a replenishment of CCC's operating fund. Other products are selling at such high prices on the open market that producers are not tapping the Brannan bank.

Instead of requiring more money for 1950 operations, Mr. Brannan might be able to squeeze through the year without Congressional assistance.

COMPETITION—But it so happens that surpluses and slightly lower prices for growers of such southern commodities as cotton and tobacco still require federal financial aid. With the support of Marshall Plan dollars, foreign countries are beginning to grow and even export tobacco and cotton in competition with the American brands.

Politics as well as economics color the canvas. It is in the corn-cattle-wheat belt that the Truman-Boyle politicians must pick up new members, if they are to retain control of the next Congress. The President's recent "non-political trip" was scheduled for the northern section of that area with this strategy in mind.

UNFAIR—He figures that the southern states will vote Democratic, anyway, and that there are no more members to be picked up in Dixie. In fact, he aims to defeat a few incumbents of the bloc that have caused him so much trouble on Capitol Hill.

And if the CCC appropriation should be stalled through the current parliamentary delay, or even if it does not emerge until the close of the session, he will castigate the "obstructionists" as "unfair to the farmers." He has already indicted them as "unfair to labor" for refusing to repeal Taft-Hartley.

HURT—Vice-President Barkley has informed his close friends that he is "completely fed up" with his role of "crown prince" for the Truman Administration. The zest with which he entered into such acts as kissing movie stars, crowning strawberry festival queens and cavorting around the countryside, has vanished from the 71-year-old Kentuckian.

The V.P. is also hurt by White House neglect of him in important affairs of state. Although he was promised an active part in conduct of government business, he has been squeezed out of the picture even more than Mr. Truman was under Franklin D. Roosevelt's reign. In several instances the President has gone counter to his earnest advice, with the result that the Senate has defied the Barkley-Lucas leadership.

Nor does the genial veteran enjoy the personal bitterness which the "fair deal" program has created among the once friendly groups on the Senate and House sides. Like Speaker Sam Rayburn, he is still loyal to the "head man," but he figures that life is too short to get involved in all the feuds the President seems to enjoy.

This Barkley-Rayburn attitude, which they no longer try to conceal from their colleagues, is largely responsible for the virtual snubbing of the "Truman fair deal" on Capitol Hill.

New York (IES)—The Daily Worker is in such bad financial shape that one good libel suit would probably knock it over, newspapersmen say. Recent attacks on John Foster Dulles are probably libelous, lawyers say. No comment from Dulles.

Washington (IES)—General Joseph Lawton Collins, Chief of Staff of the Army, bluntly declared in a magazine article that "we wrecked the greatest military machine x x x the world has ever seen," referring to our might of five years ago. The wreckers will probably be named as high issues in the next Presidential campaign.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

If you want to save a lot of money this summer, don't go to a single baseball game, because if you go once, you'll have to keep on. Is one game enough to get you started? Definitely so, because the Robins have a colorful ball team.

And if you want to steer clear of the baseball mania completely, you'd better not listen to the sportscasting of Jack Hedgepeth over WGTC. If you aren't careful, Jack will have you interested enough in the team to fork 60 cents a game cheerfully. Or following Bert Moyer's excellent coverage in the Reflector is likely to arouse your interest.

Wife Rachel and I managed to stay out of Guy Smith Stadium until Sunday, but we decided that we could stand it no longer. We had to give the Robins the once-over. What we saw pleased us. The Robins beat New Bern, 7-2.

After the game I went to see Russ Filley, the Robins' business manager. The question I had for Filley was: Is the personnel of the club reasonably set now? The answer: Yes.

At first the owners said they would shift personnel until they found a winning combination, and week after week players came and went. Mr. Filley says the team roster is now "pretty well settled."

The Robins are owned by Roy Dissinger, who owns four other minor league clubs. (Anderson, S. C.; Mooresville, S. C.; Hammonton, La.; and Lumberton.) Roy was with the St. Louis Cardinals for 17 years, as a player, scout, and one of the organizers (along with Branch Rickey) of the farm system. During the next few years Roy hopes to buy five more clubs. Along with his independent chain system he conducts a school in Florida. The last season enrolled 160 players, almost 40 of whom were signed to contracts.

In compliance with the rules of the Coastal Plain League, the Robins have two veterans or class men (players in their third year of play), nine limited service men in their second year, and six rookies (men in their first year.)

The Robins' class men are Manager Randy Hefflin, a pitcher and George Hallow, first baseman. The nine limited service men include Vince Lautato, second base; John Bakits, catcher; Vince Jones, pitcher; Ray Keys, pitcher; Jim Lewey, pitcher; Bruce Robbins, outfielder; John Tepedino, shortstop; Paul Strausser, outfielder; and Bobby Harrison, pitcher and outfielder.

The rookie roster includes Joe M. Allegretti, catcher; Joe Guidice, outfielder; Matthew Hall, third base; Angelo Scarpa, outfielder; Frank Stephens, pitcher; George White, pitcher; Francis Buckshon, pitcher, and George Ash, pitcher, who is on the disabled list at present.

Business Manager Russ Filley says, "Greenville is a good baseball town. Any town that draws 91,000 fans in a season, which is the season's attendance last year, is bound to be baseball minded. We like Greenville very much and hope to come back next year."

Roy Dissinger, the owner, travels among his five teams during the season. His Lumberton team is leading the league.

If you are like me, you can't enjoy a ball game without knowing who the players are. Now that I've given you the roster, there's no reason to stay away from Guy Smith Stadium any longer. But let me warn you, once you go I doubt if you'll be able to quit.

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.

GUESSING—With the hottest campaign for the United States Senate since the primary was established 35 years ago almost at its close, most popular sport around Capitol square is guessing election results. Majority of experienced operators are very cagey about making predictions for publication. A few hardy souls are sticking their necks out. Clear majority in Saturday's voting is claimed by Frank Graham, Robert R. Reynolds and Willis Smith. So far Olla Ray Boyd hasn't publicized any such hope. At least two and very probably all three of the claimants are wrong. Then there are the out-of-state experts who profess to know everything, headed by Drew Pearson. Pearson predicts a Graham nomination Saturday. (He also predicted a Dewey victory over Truman in 1948 and a Pepper victory over Smathers in Florida two weeks ago.)

TOTALS—Many prognosticators who decline to apportion the vote are making guesses on how many Tar Heels will march to the polls and cast their ballots Saturday. Majority of these estimates are around half a million, perhaps just a little below. Governor Scott, who can almost qualify as an expert at home on basis of past performance, told his press conference Tuesday he thought the vote would run between 425,000 and 450,000. His estimate also contemplates clear majority for Graham. Practically all of the guessers expect 475,000 to 500,000 and most of them expect a run-off between Graham and Smith. Most of them also think that if Graham's lead is more than 60,000 a second primary will not be called. If his lead is less than 20,000 there will be a run-off, although he will have to go through with it. Anything between the 60,000 and 20,000 margins will call for calculations on part of the second man and his counselors as a wisdom of calling another vote.

TENURE—How long does the average farm owner hold title to his land? There are some pieces of land in North Carolina which have never been deeded or willed

Business Today

The effect of pension plans on a firm's tax rate, and possibilities of increasing yields of pension funds by investment in common stocks, are two questions employers are currently exploring.

The tax implications were raised last week by David B. Lichtenstein of St. Louis, executive vice-president of American Investment Co. of Illinois, at a meeting of the Kentucky Consumer Finance Association. He pointed out that contributions for past service in connection with pension plans, formerly charged to past-year earnings which had been added to surplus, now must be charged to current income. The Government has ruled such contributions may no longer be considered as surplus adjustment items. While his and other firms who have pension plans already in effect wouldn't be without them, Lichtenstein says, the new basis would make him shudder at the thought of launching one today.

For those firms with plans in effect, financial circles are urging that a portion of the funds be invested in common stocks. While the risks are admitted, financial spokesmen argue that the higher yields from equities than from bonds will reduce the burden on employers of financing a given level of pensions. Furthermore, the argument runs, for some years at least, until a large percentage of present employees are ready to retire, the ability to liquidate the investments of a fund without loss at any time, is not an urgent consideration.

The arguments against such investment of pension funds are, of course, the variability of dividends, and the risk of the capital itself. One partial cushion against such risk is to set aside a portion of the dividends received as a reserve against depreciation. But don't construe that suggestion of a safeguard, as a recommendation by this department to invest pension funds in common stocks.

CAN DISPENSE WITH TIME CLOCK AT LUNCH HOUR
You can speed the lunch-hour traffic of employees by dispensing with punching in and out at noon if you want to, a new Wage Hour Administrator's report suggests. The lunch period time is not mandatory, and while the Administrator requires employers to keep accurate records of working time, it does not specify the method to be used.

THE CURIOUS DILEMMA OF GENERAL MOTORS
General Motors is in a curious dilemma, according to Prentice-Hall's business report. Its 1950 profits are reaching for an all-time high as its share of the auto market approaches the 50-percent mark. The giant of the auto industry is thus in a position to cut car prices significantly. But if it does, it will undoubtedly get a still larger share of the market, which the Prentice-Hall experts believe, would expose it to possible anti-monopoly attack by the Department of Justice. In response to public and union criticism that its profits are "too high," GM may thus choose to raise wages rather than cut prices.

ALTERATION DEPARTMENT HEADACHE FOR STORES
Alterations have been one of the most troublesome aspects of the dress operation of both specialty shops and department stores for many years, Martin O. Kahn, retail consultant, points out. He suggests this possible solution: lease the department to a skilled alteration hand, who wants to be in business for herself. In one such venture, the alteration specialist paid the store 7 percent on all her charges, and the store was given the rights to govern her relationship with customers as far as quality of work or complaints were concerned. The department came into the black the first year, Kahn reports.

SEEK TO IRON OUT TV SERVICES, COMPLAINTS
The many complaints about television service from recent buyers of sets have led members of the trade to schedule a conference in Chicago this week on how to stabilize such operations. The Television Installation and Service Association says retailers and manufacturers can both help straighten out these difficulties. Some of the trouble comes from retailers who sell service contracts at full rates, and then shop around for cut-rate sub-standard service, the association asserts. Manufacturers will be asked to make available an ample supply of replacement parts.

Hal Boyle's Column

New York—(AP)—After helping 60,000 newlywed couples arrange their honeymoons, Betty White thought she had met every problem that could arise.

And then a young couple strolled in and said:

"We want to take a dog on our honeymoon—can you fix that?"

"Why not leave him behind?" urged Miss White.

"No, I've never been anywhere without my dog—and I'm not going to start now," said the bridegroom. "Besides he'd be lonely."

His bride said, yes, she wanted the dog to go along, too. So Miss White found them a resort where they could smooch with a pooch in tow.

In fact, this is one of the less many experiences she has had in a 15-year career as a honeymoon consultant. One of her recurring tasks is to persuade mothers-in-law not to try to accompany the bridal company on their honeymoon. Somehow fathers-in-law don't seem to want to.

"I don't approve of three on a honeymoon," said Miss White, "but sometimes it is necessary. Usually, in such cases, it's the bride's mother—if she's old or infirm."

A problem of another type was the 83-year-old woman preparing to marry a 56-year-old man. Objecting to pay a $25 deposit for her hotel reservation, the dear old bride-to-be said practically:

"The wedding isn't for six weeks, and I may not live that long."

She finally put up the $25 on being assured it would be paid her heirs if anything went wrong.

"Later she wrote me she had had a very enjoyable honeymoon—even sent me a poem she had written," smiled Miss White.

She says that brides, rather than bridegrooms, generally select the honeymoon site today. And they don't want a quiet place where they can be alone. They prefer resort where they can meet with recreational facilities, such as dancing, swimming, golf and tennis.

Above all, they don't want to be tagged as honeymooners, and stared at by the rocking chair brigade," she said.

Miss White, a slender, honey-haired woman, understands this feeling. She went on a honeymoon herself last year.

"I changed my mind three times about where to go," she recalled. "I didn't want to go where anyone would know who I was."

Over the years she has figured out a few pointers to help newlyweds have a honeymoon that is sensible as well as romantic:

"1. Brush the rice out of your hair before you start.

"2. Don't take too much luggage. Often the bride would like to bring along her entire trousseau.

"3. Don't over-tip. Inexperienced young couples often do this because they are afraid to be thought cheap.

"4. Start to co-operate on the honeymoon. It's a good time to begin overlooking each other's

There were only five billion-dollar states in 1949, says a report from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. This was shown in records of cash receipts from farm marketing. Eleven states topped the billion dollar mark in 1948.

"The lower total of cash receipts reflects the decline in farm prices," says the report. "The five states that had higher cash receipts in 1948 than in 1949 were Texas, Arizona and New Mexico, on account of beef and cotton marketing; Florida, as the result of higher citrus prices, and Delaware, with a heavy output of broilers."

New Japanese Freedom Is Not Yet Fully Understood

By RUSSELL BRINE
Tokyo—Japanese pride and gullibility, massaged by Communist propaganda, have raised a threatening problem for the United States. The issue is whether American military bases will be maintained in Japan after a formal peace treaty is negotiated.

Six months ago, only the Communists opposed post-treaty bases. The rest of the Japanese wanted the Americans to stay to guarantee protection against external attack or internal troubles. Now, however, the country is debating the point.

The people themselves seem bewildered. Most of them want to avoid involvement in another war.

but they lack the ability to discern the flaws in arguments that they can remain neutral merely by saying so. American military authorities say that bases in Japan will be essential indefinitely, both for the protection of Japan and of the United States. They do not want a treaty without clear rights to maintain the bases now held under the occupation.

On the other hand, they say they could not continue to occupy these installations against a majority of Japanese opinion. This apparently is what the Communists are trying to arouse.

Some Americans cite this as one of several reasons for concluding an early peace treaty with Japan. The government today could put across the policy of granting post easy in another year or two. The Japanese are showing increased desires for independence and international equality. So far, this is neither aggressive nor militaristic. It signifies, however, that in its fifth year, the occupation has reached a declining curve in the effect of the policies and perhaps in its welcome.

General MacArthur said in 1945 that any military occupation begins to lose its influence after three to five years.

Recently Japanese politicians bypassed an important local tax bill despite the most positive type of indirect occupation pressure for it. In the past they have delayed or sabotaged several reform measures, but this is the first one they have refused outright.

Not long ago a group of influential industrialists presented American officials with a virtual list of demands for far eastern trade. "These men," said one Japanese official sadly, "do not understand that the world has not forgotten the war. They think they are welcome everywhere and that the world depends upon Japanese goods."

Gallantry Is Perilous For Traffic Officer

Chicago—(AP)—Police Lieut. Thomas McCann saw the old lady on the platform of a south side railroad station. He perceived that she was afraid to come down to the street level because the stairs were wet. The gallant officer went up and helped the lady descend safely to the sidewalk. But on the last step he slipped, fell and sprained his back.

War unto death faces the boll weevil, scourge of cotton, in Moultrie, Ga., and here are pictures to show what irate citizens have in store for him. They're hanging him in effigy (left) at the Colquitt county court house in the heart of Moultrie. After the hanging they make certain he's dead by plunging a knife into his troubled breast (right). Milton Fletcher (left), manager of Moultrie Chamber of Commerce, does the stabbing and County Agent Harold Brown holds the critter. Heavy Military Spending In N.C. Given Approval

Washington, May 24—(AP)—Construction totaling $1,367,500 at military installations in North Carolina was approved yesterday by the house.

That was included in a $930,000,000 military construction bill passed by a voice vote and sent to the Senate.

No housing is included for posts inside the continental United States, but the authorizations cover a wide range of military building and public works.

Graham Office Raps Postcards

Raleigh, N. C., May 24—(AP)—A denunciation of what it called "inflammatory postcards" against Senator Frank Graham has been issued by his campaign headquarters.

Jeff D. Johnson, Jr., Graham's state campaign manager in his race for the Democratic Senatorial nomination, said yesterday that white voters of the state are being "deluged" with the cards.

"The cards, dated May 22, are being mailed from New York and are designed to make their recipients believe they are from a Negro organization," said Johnson.

"They are crude frauds, and I don't believe any North Carolinians can be so easily taken in."

Johnson said the cards bear the address "30 West 40th street, New York 18, N. Y." and the printed signature of "W. W. White, executive secretary, National Society of the Advancement of Colored people."

He added there is no such address and no such organization.

"Obviously the perpetrators of this fraud were seeking to fool North Carolinians into believing the cards were from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored people, whose address is 20 West 40th street, New York, and whose secretary is named Walter White. This organization is not circulating North Carolina voters in behalf of the candidate."

Opium Problem In Iran Is Growing

Teheran—(AP)—The poppy bloom white in Persian fields. The result: Opium— "living death" in the colorful Chinese phrase.

Each year's crop is good news to Medicine makers of America and Europe. From opium they derive pain-easing morphine and codeine. For narcotics men it's a new headache. Perhaps half of Persia's annual production of from 1,000 to 1,500 tons is slip into illegal channels. It ends up in the pipes of addicts in sickly-smelling dens from San Francisco to Singapore. Persia, or Iran, is a great opium producing nation along with Turkey and Yugoslavia.

No Radical Auto Models Known in Store For 1951

Detroit, May 24—(AP)—If there is anything really startling coming in 1951 model autos it is being kept more of a secret than usual.

Actually no car maker right now is planning anything radical in design or engineering changes for next year's vehicles. Many radiator grilles will be altered; most hoods will be pitched a bit more sharply forward to improve driver vision and some rear fenders that round off somewhat sharply will be straightened out.

Generally that will be about the extent of styling changes as they currently are planned.

Most mechanical advances will be in engines and a wider application of automatic transmissions. With a few exceptions the car makers generally expect to introduce more powerful engines without greatly increasing their weight.

Experience has shown that automatic transmissions, gradually coming into wider use in today's cars, function much better with higher power output. So it is a safe assumption that most of next year's car engines will turn up considerably more power. There may be a further increase in compression, although most engines now are at the top ration suitable to fuels commonly available.

Throughout most of the early postwar period the car manufacturers heard numerous complaints about scant headroom in many of their new models. The criticism was heard particularly in reference to two-door sedans with long sloping backs.

Many of this year's models and most of those planned for 1951 show the manufacturers' effort to overcome these objections. They probably reflect also the trend of motor-car design well into the future.

Excepting automatic transmissions nothing the industry has developed in recent years has been as popularly received as the new hard-top convertible type cars.

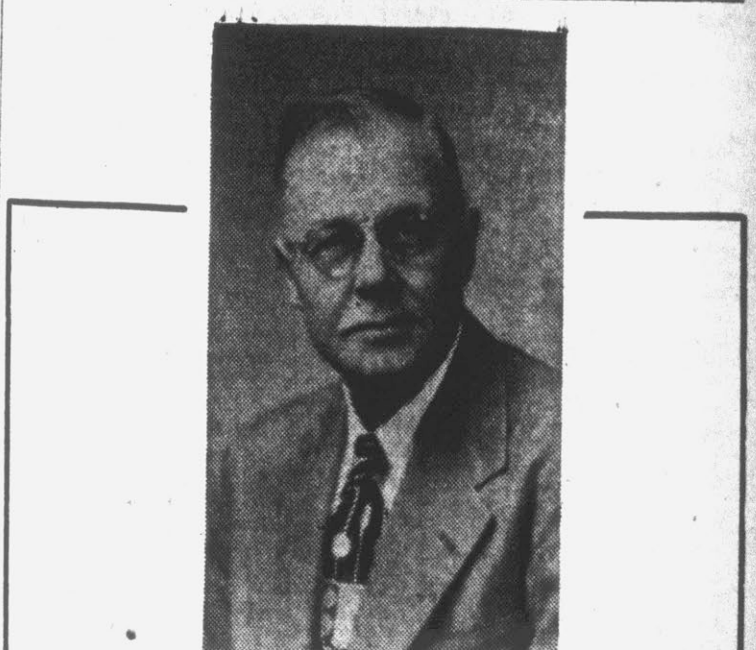

The changes to be made in the 1951 models were decided upon more than a year ago, just as was the introduction of some smaller wheel-base cars. That's the way new model planning is carried out in the car industry. The engineers and stylists already are at work on 1952 models.

Tuneful Whistles Replace The Kind Old Casey Played

Baltimore, May 24.—(AP)—They're tooting tuneful whistles on the B and O line.

The Baltimore and Ohio has installed musical whistles on one train and put single-chime whistles on eight yard engines. It has ordered more.

And it must have brought great sadness to the ghost of Casey Jones. The famed Casey could sign his name through the Tennessee night with a locomotive whistle.

If his ghost looks with contempt on his modern railroad brethren speeding down the rail to the tune of musical chimes, the B and O at least has a good excuse.

"There are a lot of people who shudder at the harsh blast of the modern diesel locomotives horn," a company spokesman said.

To ease the sleep of residents in earshot of the B and O and to cut down on the gripes, the railroad arranged with a New York concern to produce a chime whistle for its diesels.

The result, company officials say, is one with a "sound that is pleasing, but penetrating."

The B and O contends the new fangled warning device reduces an effect similar to the traditional steam whistle that Casey played.

Although different models can produce from one to five chimes, each plays but one tune. And the volume never changes.

Widening Of 300 Miles Of Road In State Required

Raleigh, May 23.—(AP)—Some 300 miles of highway in North Carolina need to be widened from the standard two-lane to three or four lanes.

This was reported today by James S. Burch, engineer of statistics and planning for the Highway Commission.

Burch said that in 1948 some 126 miles of primary roads were carrying as many as 8,000 vehicles a day,

Pope Field Will Be Headquarters

Washington, May 24.—(AP)—Pope Field, N. C. will be the new headquarters for the 9th tactical Air Force under a major reorganization announced yesterday by the Air Force.

The plan, to be carried out within the next few months, eliminates the Air defense command. This will make the continental Air command directly responsible for the Air defense of the United States. The plan also cuts from six to four the number of regional Air Forces. The 9th Force, with headquarters at Langley Field, Hampton, Va., will be renamed the 9th Tactical Air Force and moved to Pope Field.

HERE'S HOW FRANK P. GRAHAM STANDS

The people of North Carolina are entitled to my views on the important questions which will be faced by me as United States Senator.

I believe:

1. In the preservation and strengthening of the American system of free competitive capitalism, with its freedom, opportunities and benefits open to all as the best answer to Socialism, Communism and Fascism.

2. In responsible economy in government without wasteful sacrifice of productive investments in the essential services of civilization, and in working toward balancing the budget and eliminating deficit spending.

I have voted for all the first seven of the Hoover recommendations for economy and efficiency. I favor many more of these proposals for economy. I am opposed to only two of these proposals. These two involve the present independent status of the economically effective General Accounting Office administered by Lindsay Warren of North Carolina, and the breaking up of the wise unification of the Veterans Administration.

3. In intelligent reduction of Marshall plan funds and other wise economies. I am opposed, however, to such drastic cuts as would lose the value of past investments in European recovery and democratic defense. This would only encourage Russia to try to dominate the whole world and start the third World War.

In this critical situation of American leadership of the free peoples of the earth, we cannot pinch our way out; we must create our way out to stop Communist aggression, save freedom and prevent the third World War. Such a third World War would be the most uneconomic and inhuman waste in history by its potential destruction of uncountable billions of dollars of wealth and millions of human lives, and would add probably $500 billions to our national debt.

4. In federal aid to the states for education, with state and local control, for more equal opportunity of children in all the states as a chief source of the freedom of the people, upon whose trained intelligence depends, in the long run, a more productive economy, the balancing of the budget, the paying off of the national debt, and the well-being of all the people.

5. In the recognition of agriculture as one of the main pillars of our economic society. I stand for the continuance of the parity price support program for basic agricultural commodities under democratically imposed controls, so that the producer will receive a fair price for his commodities in the market place, with such adjustments as facts, experience and study make wise in the sound and fair interest of our farm people. I stand for adequate support of agricultural education, research, extension, and home demonstration.

6. In the conservation of soils, forests, and water power as permanent sources of national strength and welfare.

7. In the lawful freedom of self-organization of workers and businessmen and in the establishment of equality of bargaining between responsible labor and management. I supported the Douglas-Aiken amendments to the Thomas Labor-Management Bill for (1) equal freedom of speech for management and labor, (2) non-Communist provision, (3) responsible financial reports by labor unions and companies, (4) requirement that both management and labor bargain in good faith, and (5) prompt and temporary seizure of plant by the government when a strike or lockout threatens the health or safety of the nation.

8. In reasonable minimum wages and social security against the hazards of old age and modern society to relieve fear, to increase purchasing power, to cushion a recession and to promote the general welfare.

9. In a continuation of the improvement of race relations on the North Carolina pattern. I oppose the use of federal power in race relations, which would cause setbacks in the fine progress of relations between the races. I favor the more fundamental approach to the problem through the slower but the more enduring influence of education and religion, making for progress in the minds and hearts of the peoples of both the majority and minority race in the states. I favor local, federal and state cooperation for the elimination of the poll tax (already long achieved in North Carolina) and prevention of the few remaining instances of lynchings by mobs in the South and gangs in the North.

10. Instead of socialized medicine or the Murray-Dingell Bill, which I oppose, I favor the extension to the national level of the principles of the North Carolina Medical Care Program, sponsored by Governors Broughton, Cherry and Scott and the leaders of the North Carolina Medical Society, with whom I actively cooperated. This plan is based on private and public, lay and professional, state and federal cooperation to provide more hospital beds and to train more doctors, dentists, nurses and medical technicians, without federal control. I believe physicians should take the lead in the scientific study and development of the program so that the freedom of the medical profession will be preserved on the highest levels of science and service and so no person of honest need will be without adequate medical care.

11. In the extension of rural electrification and rural telephones through private capital, where available, supplemented by farmers' co-operatives on a sound, business-like, self-liquidating basis, in the development of rural life.

12. In this critical period in a strong national defense through Selective Service, the strengthening of the National Guard, the R. O. T. C., naval research and the National Science Foundation to keep our people on the farthest frontiers of knowledge, technology and power.

13. In a more adequate housing program for veterans and other people of low income and middle income groups to enable them to have homes in which decently to raise families with all their meaning to the stability of America and freedom in the world.

14. In the leadership of the United States in the United Nations for the strengthening of the United Nations toward international disarmament, international control and inspection of atomic power, and the prevention of a third World war.

15. In local-state-federal cooperation in the development, of our seaports, fisheries, soils forests, water resources, natural gas lines, minerals, national parks, parkways, tourist facilities, diversified agriculture, and diversified industries for building a more productive and nobler North Carolina in her leadership of the South as the fresh hope of America, now the chief hope of freedom and peace in the world.

Sing Convention Expecting Crowd

Wilson, N. C. May 24.—Wilson's Municipal stadium has been filled on several occasions to more than its 5,000 person capacity but the largest crowd ever to file into the stadium here was registered last year when the annual Eastern Carolina Singing Convention drew 12,000 folks.

That record may be broken when the ninth annual Eastern Carolina Singing Convention is scheduled. A crowd of 15,000 or more is expected to listen to more than 500 voices taking part in the event.

More than 100 singing groups are scheduled to appear here that day in the singing convention which runs from 10 o'clock in the morning until late afternoon.

The convention is sponsored in Wilson by the Jaycees. However the voice department of the convention is supervised by the organization formed to present the Eastern Carolina Singing convention. This organization is headed by L. A. Hagwood formerly of Middlesex, now living in Newport News, Va.

Queen Is Court Of Last Appeal

Bebington, England, May 24—(AP)—Queen Elizabeth today appeared to be the court of last appeal for the garbage collector who got fired because he shared Royalty's applause.

The Bebington town council last night upheld the dismissal of garbage truck driver Sidney Cooper, who Lystanders said drove his bright orange truck behind the Queen's car and took bows as a local crowd cheered. The Queen had been en route to a ship unloading.

The local branch of the Labor party said it would appeal to the Queen to intercede for Cooper 46-year-old father of eight who also was stripped of his pension rights after 17 years of service.

One Bebington housewife, Mrs. Mabel Edwards, said she already had 1,500 signatures on a petition asking the Queen to give a good word for Cooper.

Heavy Buying Of Furniture Noted

Washington, May 24—(AP)—Americans are buying furniture at the unprecedented rate of $3,000,000,000 a year, the commerce department said today.

The department said the chief causes are (1) fat pocketbooks, with personal incomes at a $201,000,000 a-year rate, after taxes, and (2) the record home-building boom, providing vast acreages of living space to be furnished.

Credit was rated of minor influence in the furniture sales boom. Actually, the department said, a smaller proportion of furniture is bought on the installment plan now—around 45 per cent than in the last three years before the war.

The department's $3,000,000,000 a year furniture sales figure excludes outlays for household appliances and equipment. It compares with the previous peak of $2,900,000,000 in 1948 and $2,800,000,000 last year.

Middle-Of-Road Democrat Again Wins In Florida

Tampa, Fla., May 24—(AP)—Florida's first congressional district will send Chester B. McMullen, the calm and collected middle-of-the-roader, to Washington in preference to fiery Tom Watson, outstanding champion of state's rights.

McMullen, state attorney from Clearwater, made a walkaway of what was expected to be a close Democratic primary yesterday. With returns in from all except seven of the district's 335 precincts he led the Tampan 55,558 votes to 37,924 for the post being vacated by the veteran Rep. J. Hardin Peterson of Lakeland.

Nomination in the Democratic primary is tantamount to election in Florida.

Ancient Vermont Statute Keeping Mother In Jail

St. Albans, Vt., May 24—(AP)—For 87 days, Mrs. Hattie Cooke, 36-year-old mother of six, has been in Franklin county jail under Vermont's "closed jail" statute governing damage suits.

The wife of a $20-a-week farm-hand, Mrs. Cooke was jailed for failure to pay a $1,886.75 judgement against her in an auto accident damage suit.

Her husband Stanley said last night he was caring for the children, ranging in age from eight to 18, at the Cooke home in nearby Georgia.

The 142-year-old statute provides for indefinite confinement for defendants in damage suits based on a "wilful or malicious act, or neglect," where judgment is not paid.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

PLANNED FOR THE FUTURE this house includes features the architect expects to be in demand for the house of tomorrow. This is Plan 4851 by Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 2, N. Y. The house covers 1,263 square feet and has a basement with stairs opening from rear kitchen vestibule. Third bedroom is convertible to a study or den when family grows up.

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor

What will the house of the future look like?
Home buyers would like to know. No one wants to buy a house set to go out of style in a few years. Bankers would like to know. Making long-term mortgage loans, now ranging up to 30 years, they do not want their money tied up in houses people may not want.

The men who design homes have been trying to figure this out. The task involves much more than crystal gazing. A house that is merely different from anything ever seen before is not the answer.

A group of New York mortgage financiers—the Metropolitan League of Savings and Loan Associations—recently asked architects for their ideas. One of the first warnings received was to beware of designs claimed to be 20 to 30 years ahead of their time.

"Examine such extreme designs of 20 or 30 years ago," the mortgage men were advised. "Are those homes, once called modernistic, still modern today? Are their rooms small? What about the windows, the heating, plumbing and other equipment?"

Rudolph A. Matern, Long Island architect specializing in small houses, told a meeting of the league "you will find as much obsolescence in such homes as in any other house of the period."

"Today's preferences could not be anticipated," he said, "because those designs were based on theory rather than living practice." Matern contends that the house of tomorrow can be anticipated to some extent by planning for livability.

"On changes of preferences among home buyers in all parts of the country since the war, some predictions can be made for the house of tomorrow," he observed.

1. "The average house will continue to have a pitched roof. The pitch will tend to decrease. There already is an increasing market for flat roofs.

2. "Currently there is a $1,000 to $1,100 difference in slab construction as compared with a full cellar. This differential will become less as utility rooms become larger.

3. "There will be more blending of living room and dining room to a point where the division will not be recognizable.

4. "There will be a growing demand for a rear vestibule to serve kitchen, cellar and outside.

5. "The trend away from 1½-story, two-bedroom expansion attic houses will continue.

6. "The front living room with picture window is giving way to a front-to-rear living room with big windows front and back. Next will be the rear living room, but with some visual contact with the front yard.

7. "The trend toward more and more equipment covered by the 'package mortgage' will continue.

8. "Houses will be set low in contrast to the high out-of-the-ground, half exposed basement type.

9. "Accessories will remain on exteriors—cupolas, shutters, flower boxes, etc. Their forms may change, but people cling to them just as you and I continue to wear neckties and useless buttons on our coat sleeves.

10. "There will be more closet and storage space.

11. "More furniture will be built-in.

12. "Houses will be more colorful, outside as well as in.

13. "Kitchens and baths will tend to be larger, with a greater number of appointments.

14. "The use of wet materials—plaster and masonry—will decrease.

15. "There will be more open planning, flexibility in the use of rooms—multi-use rooms and movable partitions."

Union County Is Seeking Phones

Raleigh, N. C. May 23—(AP)—A delegation of approximately 20 persons from Union county called on Governor Scott today to ask for more rural telephones in the county.

The governor was told that some 2,530 rural phones are wanted in the county.

Members of the group had an appointment to meet with the Utilities commission at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Vagabond Drama Group Will Move

Baltimore—(AP)—The historic Vagabond Players, with the longest continuous production record in the country, are being turned out of their old carriage house home. The owners are not renewing the lease. But the Vagabonds say it doesn't mean the end of their string of performances that reaches back 34 years. They're looking for a new location so their season's productions won't be interrupted.

They started in 1916. Their original "home," a vacant store, was a weird triangular playhouse with 60 uncomfortable seats and a steam pipe which rose through the floor of the stage and disappeared in the flies. It had to be camouflaged as a tree or a column, depending on the nature of the play.

The first play was "The Artist," by H. L. Mencken. That season they also had the original production of "Bound East for Cardiff," by Eugene O'Neill. O'Neill was paid $15 to produce the play. The players soon moved to a hotel ballroom, then in 1922 to larger accommodations. But it was in 1930 that they made their big plunge. They took over the old carriage house of the Preston estate.

PARIS—(AP)—The governments of France and Switzerland have concluded an agreement under which French citizens may visit Switzerland and the Swiss may visit France without the formality of passports or visas. Under the new regulations a valid national identity is sufficient for visits not exceeding three months.

Robins Take Early Lead To Drop Rocky Mount By 5-2

Keys Chalks Up Third Win, Holding League Leaders To Six Hits; Lautato Starts Batting Assault With Homer In First

By BERT MOYE

The Greenville Robins picked on their favorite "cousins," the Rocky Mount Leafs, at Rocky Mount last night and defeated them, 5-2, for the second time this season. Ray Keys, chalking up his third win against three defeats, and his first over the Leafs, as he held the league leaders to six hits.

The Robins went out in front in the first frame when Vince Lautato belted his third homer of the season over the leftfield wall.

The Leafs knotted the count at one-all in the bottom of the first when Stanton reached first on a fielder's choice and Jim Reges tripled into right field.

The scoring for the Leafs ended in the third frame when Wade Martin slammed a 350-foot homer over the centerfield fence.

The Robins came back to knot the count at 2-2 in the sixth frame when Joe Guidice doubled, advanced to third on Robins' long fly to right field and Mat Hall singled to bring him home.

Two runs in the seventh proved to be the winning margin. Lautato walked, Tepedino singled, Hallow forced, Lautato at third, Bakits singled into centerfield to bring Tepedino and Hallow scored on an infield out.

Bruce Robbin's 350-foot homer over the left field fence, his first of the current season, gave the Robins their final tally in the ninth frame.

Ray Keys pitched another great game for the Robins and held the Leafs to two one singles after the third frame and no runners got as far as second base.

Lefty Tom Marshall, who went the route for the Leafs, suffered his first defeat after six mound victories. He struck out a total of 13 Greenville batters, but he gave up 10 bases on balls and allowed eleven hits.

Joe Guidice with a double and a single and Mat Hall and Johnny Tepedino with two singles each and Vince Lautato and Bruce Robbin with a homer, paced the 11-hit attack off Marshall.

Wade Martin with a homer and a single in four trips to the plate led the six-hit attack off Ray Keys.

The Robins journey over to Wilson tonight to meet the Wilson Leafs in the first of a three-game series, returning home tomorrow night when they play a doubleheader with the first game slated to get underway at 7:00 o'clock.

Midgets And Junior Nines Win Twin Bill

Mites Edge Kinston 6-5 To Add More Laurels To Baseball Crown; Juniors Clinch Second Place With 7-1 Score

Greenville's midgets added another win to their baseball crown in the Northeastern Boys' League last night as they edged Kinston for the third time this year, 6-5, in the first game of a doubleheader. The high school Juniors took the night as 7-1, to assure themselves of second place in the race behind one hit ball by Doug Morgan.

Leaving won the league championship on the strength of last week's win over the same Kinston team, the Midgets of Bill Kirtrell's coaching added insult to injury as they played errorless ball for the seven innings while collecting nine hits off Kinston's pitching.

Harry White Scott started for the locals and set the first six men down on strikes. Kinston nipped him for four hits and three runs but Scott's teammates stayed one run ahead. He faltered a bit in the sixth when he put two men on base with one out. Pat Sawyer came in to relieve him and pitched three hit ball the rest of the way. The two runs on base scored but they were larged to Scott.

Key Norris, the Midgets' shortstop, provided the fireworks at the plate for Greenville when he hit three slugs in three trips to the plate. Edgar Moore got the only extra base knock for Kirtrell's boys when he connected for a double in addition to a single four times. Shortstop Harper for Kinston got a triple for his team but caused no damage since no runners were on base.

Gene Hudson led Greenville with two singles in three times, the only Junior to get more than one hit. The win last night put Greenville in second place. If Kinston beats New Bern in its last game of the season, a three way tie for first will result. Greenville finished the regular season with four wins against three losses. June 3 the Juniors played Cherry Point in the opening game of the Eastern Juniors playoffs.

The line score (Midgets):
Greenville 020 112 x 6 9 0
Kinston 001 202 0-5 7 1
Juniors:
Greenville 130 x 7 8 0
Kinston 010 000 x-1 1 1
Batteries: Greenville—Mo and Nunn; Kinston—Ficht and Nunn.

Tookie Gilbert made an auspicious debut with the New York Giants by polling out a three-run homer against the Pirates. The Giants failed to continue the rally started by Gilbert, so they didn't win the ball game. But the coming of Gilbert was soon the signal for them to get off to winning ways and Manager Leo Durocher was quick to note that Gilbert gave the team a sorely needed spark in the field and helped no little at the plate.

Gilbert was called up by the Giants after Manager Durocher was forced to give up on Hack Harshman when the youngster failed to look impressive against major league hurling. It was expected that Gilbert would help the Giants with his bat, but his excellent work in the field has been a most pleasant surprise to all concerned. The youngest of the Gilbert baseball family is only 21 years old. He was signed as a free agent by the Giants for a reported sum of $50,000. At the time he seemed to be several years away but the collapse of Harshman at the plate created a serious emergency, forcing his recall.

Tookie is a mobile 185 pounder who stands two inches over the six-foot mark. He packs plenty of power at the plate and will get stronger as he fills out. He is a fine target for the infielders and makes all sorts of fancy stops with the greatest of ease. He's a winning ball player—that's what Manager Durocher likes most of all about him.

Young Righthander Fits In Pittsburgh Tradition

Young Bill MacDonald Hurls Shutout Last Night In First Major League Starting Assignment; Follows A Pattern

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Young Bill MacDonald, rookie bonus righthander, fits right into the Pittsburgh pitching tradition.

When the 21-year-old native of Alameda, Calif., first bonus player in the Pirates organization, hurled a shutout last night in his first major league starting assignment, he followed a Pittsburgh pattern set by Nick Maddox 43 years ago.

It was on Sept. 13, 1907 that Maddox became the first National Leaguer since 1900 to pitch a shutout in his big league debut. He blanked the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-0, striking out 11.

MacDonald became the 10th National Leaguer to turn the trick—and the sixth to wear a Pittsburgh uniform. He joins such Pirate notables as Babe Adams (April 4, 1909) Wilbur Cooper (Sept. 9, 1912) Carmen Hill (Sept. 17, 1915) and Otis Swartz (Sept. 21, 1939).

MacDonald, who won 13 and lost 11 at New Orleans in the Southern Association last year, limited Philadelphia to three singles as the Pirates defeated the Phils, 6-0.

The defeat prevented the second-place Phils from gaining ground on the league-leading Dodgers, who dropped a 5-4 decision to the Chicago Cubs. Johnny Schmitz' fine clutch pitching and a pair of sixth inning homers by Andy Pafko and Roy Smalley won for the Cubs. Losing Pitcher Ralph Branca was the victim of the four batters.

The seldom-winning Cincinnati Reds celebrated the 15th anniversary of the first night game in the major leagues by beating the Boston Braves, 6-2, behind the effective twirling of Willie Ramsdell, former Brooklyn righthander.

The Washington Senators, shut out with four hits through eight innings, broke loose with an eight-run barrage in the ninth to whip the Detroit Tigers, 8-2.

Hill Prince Bids For Big Handicap

New York, May 24—(AP)—If Hill Prince tackles the tough Suburban Handicap at Belmont Park on Memorial Day, he'll be trying to cop a race that no three-year-old has won in 24 years.

The rugged cavalier from Virginia was listed as a probable starter today for the $50,000-added classic, one of the nation's premier Handicap races.

Trainer Casey Hayes, who sent Hill Prince out for his impressive Preakness victory last Saturday at Pimlico, hasn't given the definite word on the Suburban. An alternative is the $25,000-added Jersey Stakes for three-year-olds exclusively the same afternoon at Garden State Park.

However, Hayes has said the colt needs a good workout before he goes after the tough Belmont Stakes June 10. So, Cris Cheney's star cash collector might just as well get paid for his efforts.

Hill Prince is in peak form, and wouldn't stand to lose any glamor if beaten by older horses. Three-year-olds aren't supposed to do that, although Greek Ship pulled a major surprise last week by knocking off his elders in the Metropolitan Handicap here.

Softball League

Tommey Lupton's Red Sox came from behind yesterday to win their first start in the league with a 7-6 win over the Dodgers who also were playing their first game. The Sox scored four runs in the first inning to take the lead but the Dodgers came back in the middle innings to take a 6 to 4 lead. After scoring a singleton in the sixth the Sox scored twice in the bottom half of the final inning to win. Lupton, Fletcher Murray and Wallace Conway were the leading hitters for the Sox with two hits each. Joe Clark and Jack Garrison with two hits each led for the Dodgers.

Graziano Signs For Title Bout Without A Manager

New York, May 24—(AP)—Rocky Graziano, center of many boxing storms, stands in the midst of a new blow.

The former middleweight king signed yesterday to fight his old boyhood pal — Champion Jake La Motta—for the 160-pound title June 28 at the Polo Grounds. He signed for himself — without benefit of manager.

As the New York Boxing Manager Guild agreed to hold a solid line against the International Boxing Club until a new radio-television contract is signed, this weakens their stand. No contracts were to be signed after May 31, when the current TV pact expires.

Irving Cohen, the manager who used to exorcise Rocky's mistakes with "He's just a baby," was not present at the signing. Cohen is under technical suspension in New York for failing to renew his managerial contract with Graziano while still acting as manager.

La Motta, who does his own business, also signed for himself. His manager of record, Joey La Motta, is under suspension too.

"I'm taking it upon myself," said Graziano. "I've told me 'Do as you want.' He has to stick to the Managers' Guild. But he and Jack Healy are still my co-managers."

"I want to make money. I want my annuity to be that big," he demonstrated.

It was announced by the IBC matchmaker, Al Weil, that each boy gets 30 per cent. They agree to a rematch at the same percentages if Rocky wins. Also, if Rocky wins, he will fight exclusively for the IBC for three years.

The series opened Tuesday at Tuscaloosa, Ala. During the regular season, Kentucky, SEC runnerup to Mississippi State in 1949, won nine and lost two league games. Alabama took the western title with a 9-3 record.

In the Southern Conference, Wake Forest, the defending champion and finalist in the NCAA national playoff, is set for a four-team playoff starting tomorrow at Greensboro.

Big Ten Plans Study Renewal Rose Bowl Pact

Chicago, May 24—(AP)—Renewal of the Rose Bowl football contract, which has been under fire from some quarters since it was signed in 1946, will be studied by Big Ten faculty men tomorrow.

Their first consideration will be whether or not to continue the series, which ends under the present pact with the playing of the 1951 game.

If the majority of Big Ten schools wants a renewal, a committee will be appointed to confer with Pacific Coast conference officials on revisions.

Perhaps the policy-making faculty will not deem a large majority sufficient agreement to go ahead. They may want a clear-cut majority. It may not be forthcoming.

Chapman Easily Wins His Match

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 24—(AP)—Sham-shooting Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N.C., won his morning match easily here today in the third round of the British Amateur Golf Tournament.

He bested Britain's W. S. Whitelaw 4 and 5, taking only 13 putts on the first nine holes. That was enough to ensure his victory.

The American went 5 up at the 12th with a birdie 3 and won on the 13th green with a par 4.

To The Voters Of Pitt County:

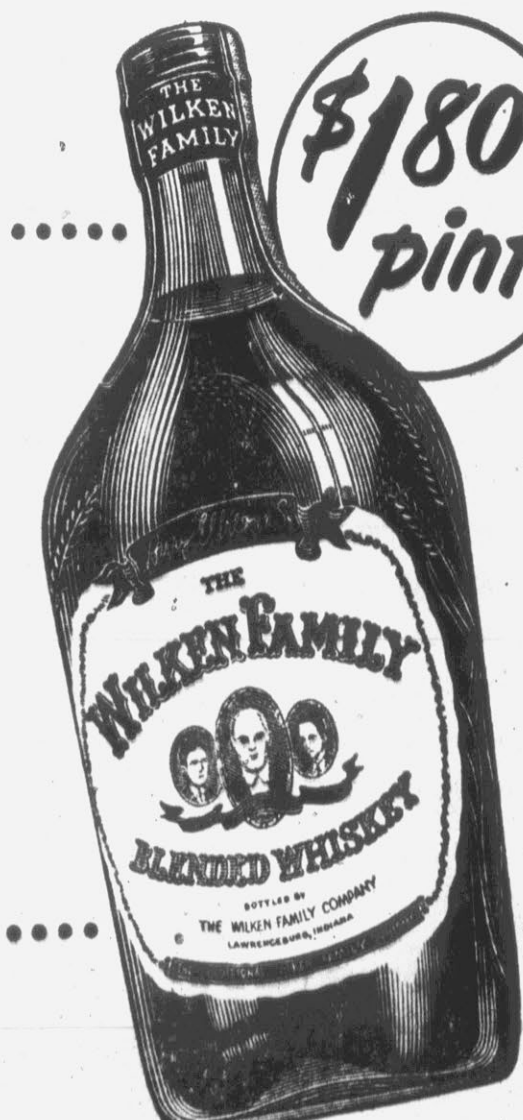

I am a candidate for renomination to the office of Sheriff of Pitt County in the Democratic Primary to be held May 27.

I am making every effort to see as many voters as possible in person before the Primary. However, as you know, Court is in session, and that, with my other official duties, leaves me only so much time for contact work. Should I miss seeing any of you, I use this means of explaining why I could not call personally on every voter. I would appreciate your vote and support.

If I am re-nominated and elected as your Sheriff, I will continue to discharge the responsibilities of the office in a fair and impartial manner.

I sincerely appreciate the confidence and trust placed in me by the people of Pitt County for the past six and a half years during which time I have served as Sheriff. I assure all citizens that in seeking re-nomination is to serve all citizens of Pitt County to the best of my ability.

SMOKY JOE

By W. F. BRAGG

Chapter 9

Dazed as he was, Joe's thought as he sprawled in the dust was that now the man in black would pitch in a killing bullet.

"Finish him up," a man panted

"Never a better chance."

"Come on," snarled the other in the gloom. "Let's get out of here fast! They're comin' with lanterns!"

The fat hostler was the first man into the shed. The flashed light in Joe's face. The latter licked the blood off his lips, blinked his eyes against the light, and rasped, "You run a fine hotel! I left a call. You forgot it!"

Shaking his head, the hostler said, "Sorry, bud!"

Shorty Dike, the deputy sheriff, stepped into the office. He sized up Joe. "Always shootin' around you. Why didn't you show up to talk to the sheriff this afternoon?"

"Ask the hostler. He forgot to call me. I was dead for sleep."

Joe stood up groggily. He asked Shorty to take him to the wagon shed. He wished to get his gun and war sack. Shorty held the lantern high while Joe crawled up into the wagon where he had slept. He buckled on his belt. By the lantern's light he saw a small silvery object about the shape and size of a quarter resting in the dust where he had fought for his life. He picked it up, recognized it as a concho. Cowboys adorned their hat bands and riding gears with such decorations.

Joe slid the concho into his pocket where it rubbed against the spring blade knife. He wasn't certain, but it resembled the concho
Pecos Shay had sported on his hat band out at the homestead on Antelope.

Hard Hat Bulwain was a barrel-shaped man with coal black hair and a thick mustache. He gripped the stub of a cigar between his large white teeth, rumored to be false, while he roared questions at Joe.

"I didn't know you jumped me,"
Joe insisted.

He didn't trust Hard Hat. He wanted to get away from this office and search the dives of Rawhide Gap for Pecos Shay. The concho indicated a connection between Rogan's foreman and the man in black.

"Too much is happenin' around you," rasped the sheriff. "I got a good mind to throw you in the jug!"

"You better get out a warrant first," said Joe.

"Well, get out of here for now," snarled Hard Hat. "I got work to do." And he threw away his dead cigar stub and bit the end off a fresh smoke.

Shorty said that he was dropping into Jane Morgan's joint for a cup of coffee. That reminded Joe of the death of Silvertop Morgan.

Shorty shook his head. All he knew was that Morgan had been found dead on the range, half his back blown off by the blast of a shotgun.

"Chris Elven was killed the same way," commented Joe.

Begin Patrol Of Berlin Highway As Reds Gather

Berlin, May 24—(AP)—A fleet of 36 American, British and French military police jeeps today began an intensified patrol of Berlin's main road link with the west, the 100-mile superhighway through the Russian zone.

The patrol was part of a "preliminary alert" to which 8,000 allied troops and 13,000 West Berlin police were ordered as more and more young Communists headed for East Berlin's rally of Red youth this weekend.

Allied-controlled forces will go on a "full alert" Saturday when the final contingent of 500,000 young Communist demonstrators from the Soviet zone is expected in the eastern sector of the city.

The East German Communist government has warned that regular traffic on the autobahn will be subjected to a 36-mile detour from tomorrow on to allow unrestricted movement of Communist youth convoys.

Allied officials said they would not tolerate interference with vehicles of the Western powers. Allied military police were under orders to ignore highway commands of the East German police but if Soviet troops enforced the detour, they were to follow it subject to protest.

Soviet-licensed newspapers bitterly complained at the arrest of 11 Leipzig delegates in a Communist-banned truck in the American sector of Berlin yesterday.

But the West city attorney-general announced that rigorous prosecution faced all who might violate allied sector laws against resistance to state authority, rioting or disturbing the peace.

Communist leaders appeared elated at the prospects of worldwide publicity for the "march on Berlin," which they contended would prove Germany's younger generation is wholeheartedly behind their political program.

The rally is dedicated to "peace" with Western powers accused of

Poppies To Help Disabled In War

How disabled veterans of both World Wars are aided by Poppy Day contributions was described by Mrs. Walter Cherry, Rehabilitation chairman of Greenville unit of the American Legion, as the Auxiliary continued preparation for the observance of Poppy Day here on Poppy Day here on Saturday, May 27.

"The dollars, quarters and dollars which people contribute in exchange for their memorial poppies form the backbone of the financial support for the extensive activities carried out constantly by the Auxiliary for the welfare of the disabled veterans," Mrs. Cherry said. "If it were not for the generosity of the millions of people who wear the little red poppy each year in memory of the war dead, the many services of the Auxiliary to the living victims of the two wars could not be carried out."

"Poppy Day contributions are used to bring comfort and cheer to disabled veterans in the hospitals. They provide aid for disabled men outside of the hospitals who are having difficulties in establishing themselves. They help care for the children of disabled veterans while the veterans are undergoing hospital treatment. They pay the wages which mean so much to the veterans who make the poppies. The coin dropped into the collection box of an Auxiliary volunteer on Poppy Day works for the disabled veteran through the year."

White House Is Picketed Over FEPC Measure

Washington, May 24—(AP)—Members of Henry A. Wallace's Progressive party marched back and forth of the White House today with signs demanding practice of Fair Employment Practices legislation.

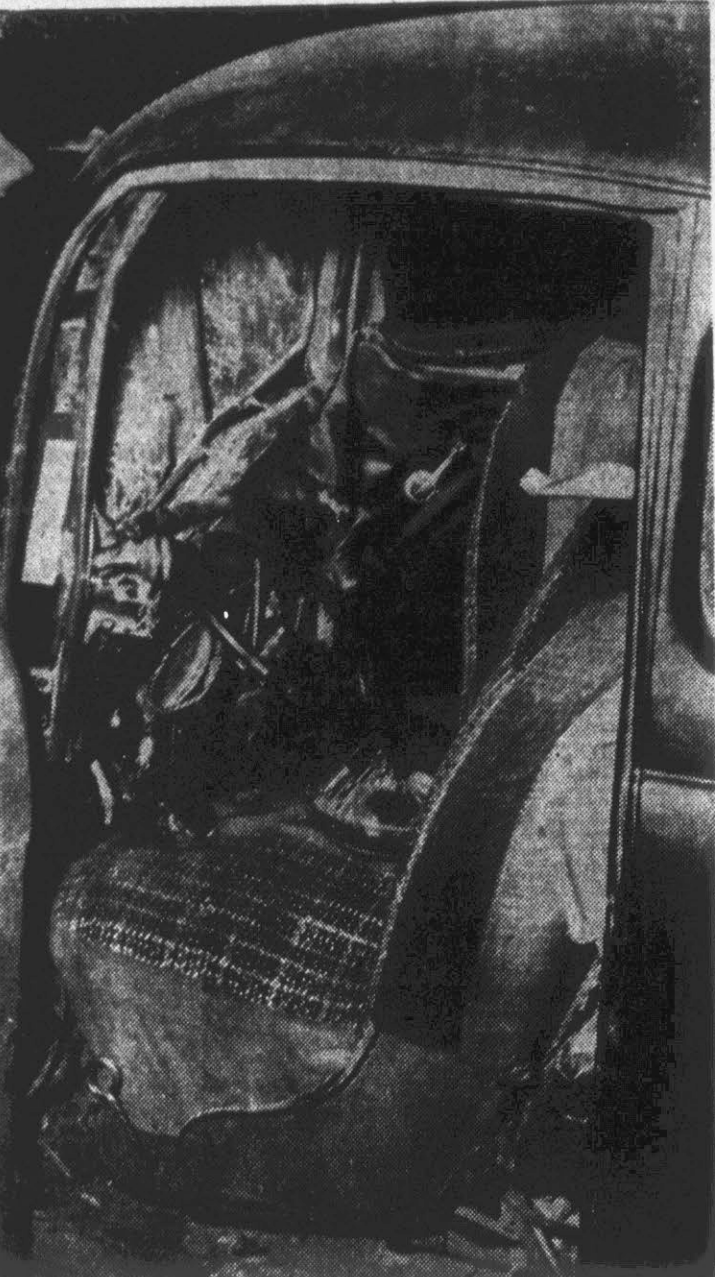

George B. Murphy, Jr., assistant to the Progressive party's national secretary, said the members will picket daily from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. excepting Saturdays and Sundays, until the senate acts on the FEPC bill.

Reporters asked him why the group was picketing the White House in view of President Truman's long-time backing for FEPC and other civil rights laws.

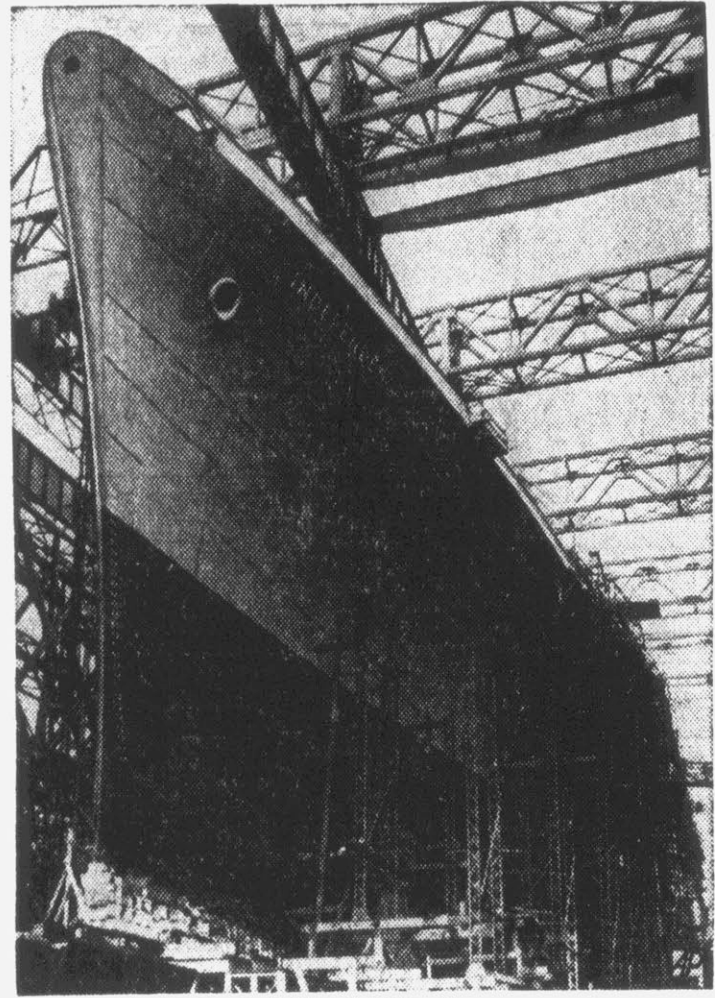

"We consider the President's advocacy of the law purple lip service," Murphy said. "We don't think he is doing everything he can to obtain passage. He should go on the air and talk to people and exert other pressure for the bill."

Interior Of Car In Tuesday Wreck

Workman Left Estate To Boss

Elizabeth, N.J., May 24—(AP)—A helper on a coal truck has bequeathed his entire estate to his boss "as partial repayment for many kindnesses, courtesies and financial assistance."

Michael Andriczyk, 71, who died May 16, left his estate to Conrad S. Weimar, president of the Weimar Coal Company in a will probated yesterday. Size of the estate was not disclosed.

Andriczyk had been with the company 25 years. The firm is one of the largest in this city.

Kiwanians Plan Special Program Friday Meeting

President Tige Gardner and Dr. John O. Reynolds, who were delegates to the recent Kiwanis International convention at Miami Beach, Fla., will make reports to the Greenville Kiwanis club at its supper meeting Friday night at 6:30.

Secretary David C. Moore, Jr., in his report to the president, will say that attendance at recent meetings has been gratifying and attendance has been above average.

The Greenville Kiwanians and other civic groups are encouraging the Merchants Association contest for a candidate to be "Miss Bright Leaf" of Greenville at the Hollywood premiere showing of "Miss Bright Leaf," the story of tobacco in North Carolina, in Raleigh May 31.

Dr. John D. Messick, head of East Carolina Teachers College, will have charge of the program Friday night.

Maleolm E. Lafargue (above) of Shreveport, La., has qualified as a candidate for the U. S. senate and will oppose Louisiana's Senator Russell Long in the forthcoming Democratic primary. Lafargue resigned as U. S. district attorney at Shreveport to enter the race. He is best known for having prosecuted and convicted a former governor and other high state officials in the Louisiana scandals in 1939. (AP Photo).

The council put off a vote.

The Waccamaws for decades have been stoically resisting the efforts of surrounding citizens to classify them as Negro. The fight has centered mainly on the question of school facilities. County officials have been trying to force them to accept Negro teachers and a Negro designation. At present, however, they do have a four-room school.
