Rejects Talk Of Voluntary FEPC

Washington, May 25—(AP)—President Truman today rejected suggestions that a fair employment practices commission (FEPC) be set up on a "voluntary" compliance basis.

Determined in opposition thus far has blocked senate consideration of a bill to set up an FEPC with compulsory provision. The bill would bar job discrimination against any person because of race, creed, color or national origin.

Some Congress members have proposed a compromise that FEPC be set up but with compliance on voluntary basis.

Has the West Abandoned Central Europe To Russia? Containment Policy Started After Reds Gained Control; Advocates Of Helping Nations Regain Their Freedom

By SIGRID ARNE

Lord Tedder, marshal of the British Royal Air Force, has just dragged a political dead cat back into view. He thinks the western program to hold communism west mean mucus until the West makes it possible for the nations of central Europe to regain their freedom.

That means principally Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria. Russian troops and Russian-trained stoges have helped to set up Communist governments in all of them since World War II.

Only after the whole area had been grabbed by the Communists did the United States lead off in a "containment" policy. The program started with aid to Greece and Turkey in 1947, went through the Marshall Plan to help Western Europe and is now building the North Atlantic Pact.

But all the time no top political leader in the West said much about the people of middle Europe who had failed to collect what the United Nations charter promised to the whole world: the right to determine their own form of government and to preserve national independence.

This left outside the pale many people who had contributed much to Europe's old brilliance.

Prolonged Search For Accused Spy

Senator Says FBI Set Trap At Least Two Months Ago; Sifted List Of 1,200 Suspects Before Arrest

Washington, May 25—(AP)—Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) said today the FBI set its trap at least two months ago for Philadelphia Blochemist Harry Gold, who is being held on charges of aiding atomic spy Klaus Fuchs.

This disclosure by McMahon, chairman of the senate-house atomic energy committee, came on the heels of information that the FBI sifted through a list of 1,200 suspects before it finally ran Gold down.

The 39-year-old Philadelphia was arrested Tuesday night and accused of receiving secret information about U. S. atomic development from Fuchs and passing it on to the Russians.

Fuchs is the German-born atomic scientist who recently was sentenced to a 14-year prison term by a British court after his conviction on charges that he stole British and American atomic secrets for the Soviet Union.

Officials said last night that when the FBI started its hunt for the middleman in the case it had to work from a list of 1,200 suspects with whom the British scientist might have had contact.

The trail led to Gold after the list was narrowed down to a group of chemists in the New York-Philadelphia area.

The trap finally was sprung, officials said, after Fuchs (a) told agents in England that his contact was a biological chemist—whose name he did not recall—and identified Gold's picture as that of the man to whom he had passed information.

FBI agents were reported to have produced evidence that Gold admitted Fuchs in Santa Fe, N. M., in 1945. At that time Fuchs was associated with the atomic bomb project at Los Alamos, N. M., and held in high regard.

There was some speculation on Capitol Hill that the third man in the espionage triangle—the one who got the secrets Gold is charged with receiving—was a member of the Russian Embassy staff here. This person, referred to in official documents as "John Doe," is believed to be in the Soviet Union now.

Gold was charged with committing espionage during wartime, an offense which is punishable by death or up to 30 years in prison. After a quick arraignment in Philadelphia he was hurried "C" to prison in lieu of a $100,000 bond.

With an eye to the tense international situation, house members put up little resistance to the modified draft extension. At the same time, they placed the National Security Resources Board (NSRB) on notice that they would like to see a total mobilization plan as a companion to peacetime military registration.

In the house debate, Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.) voiced the hope that an M-day plan for labor, industry and manpower would be ready by January.

Vinson, chairman of the influential house armed services committee, directed his hint at W. Stuart Symington, newly named chairman of the NSRB and former secretary for Air.

The Georgian was applauded when he suggested that a standard M-Day bill be ready for the next Congress.

The present draft law expires June 24. The bill passed yesterday would continue the registration and classification of 18-year-olds until 1952. But actual inductions would be prohibited until Congress declared the existence of a national emergency.

The so-called "drafting draft law" was entitled the expansion registration act of 1950 in keeping with elimination of compulsory induction requirements. Technically it is an extension of the 1949 selective service act.

Repeated references to Russian military power studded debate on the bill. Extension of the draft law was urged to "buy time" in case of war.

Vinson declared that Congress was taking over the induction reins to "protect the nation from administrative whimsy."

"I hope," he added, "it will never be necessary for Congress to pass a concurrent resolution declaring an emergency."

SOUS-EAST ASIA MISSION Washington May 25—(AP)—The Economic Cooperation Administration today created a special mission to Communist-threatened southeast Asia to develop a program of economic aid for Indochina.

Washington, May 25—(AP)—The largest vote in Pitt was cast in the county extension of the gubernatorial primary of 1936. Senator Clyde Hoy, Dr. Ralph McDonald and Sandy Graham were the candidates at that time.

Since then more names have entered the registration books with the present figure between 18,000 and 19,000 prospective voters. After World War II veterans returned home, an influx of names on the books has been apparent in the county precincts, indicating the possibility of the largest vote in the county's history.

Stand-By Draft Passes In House; Up To Senators

Little Resistance To Measure Which Won 216-11 Approval In House Vote

Washington, May 25—(AP)—The life expectancy of the nation's draft machinery became the senate's problem today, following overwhelming house approval of a two-year stand-by selective service law.

The measure which the house passed late yesterday by a 216 to 11 vote would do little but keep the draft in readiness, so that the nation's outh would be registered and available if needed.

With an eye to the tense international situation, house members put up little resistance to the modified draft extension. At the same time, they placed the National Security Resources Board (NSRB) on notice that they would like to see a total mobilization plan as a companion to peacetime military registration.

Chairman Pitt County Board of Elections.

Voters of Pitt county will be faced with a county ballot like this to nominate county-wide officers in Saturday's Democratic primary. In addition to the above ballot, there will be a ballot for the state ticket, and ballots for the tickets in the individual township officers.

Polling Places In Pitt Prepare For Saturday's Primary Balloting

Pitt county's 20 polling places are beginning to make preparations for Saturday's balloting in the Democratic primary which some of the local political observers have predicted will be the heaviest in several years.

J. H. Harrell, chairman of the Pitt county board of elections, said things will be in readiness Saturday morning when the polls open at 6:30. The polls will remain open until 6:30 Saturday evening.

The chairman of the local elections board disclosed that he has written all the poll holders and registrars in the county advising them of the oath of office which prohibits them from working for any candidate in the election. He said he has been forced to ask several poll holders throughout the county to resign their positions because they have allowed their names to be used on committees which have been formed for individual candidates.

Harrell cited the portion of the oath which registrars and poll holders are required to take which says: "that I will not in any manner request or seek to persuade or induce any voter to vote for or against any particular candidate or proposition."

In a letter from R. C. Maxwell of the state board of elections, the individual poll holders throughout the county have been asked to comply with a request from the Associated Press to tabulate the ballots on the senatorial race first before tabulating the county tickets.

The precinct polling places of the county are as follows: Ayden, Beaver Dam, Belvoir, Bethel, Carolina, Chicod No. 1, (Grimesland), Chicod No. 2 (Cox Mills), Chicod No. 3 (L. C. Venter's Store), Chicod No. 4 (Black Jack), Falkland, Farmville, Fountain, Greenville No. 1 (Third Street school), Greenville No. 2 (court house), Greenville No. 3 (West Greenville school), Greenville No. 4 (city hall), Gritton, Pactolus, Swift Creek and Winterville.

Joint Pact For Arming Middle East

U. S., Britain And France Move To Stimulate Confidence In Security

Washington, May 25—(AP)—The United States, Britain and France today announced a joint agreement to supply arms to the Middle East—for defense alone. President Truman hailed it as a move to stimulate "increased confidence in future security in that area."

The President expressed this view in a statement commenting on the three-power accord reached in London during the foreign ministers conference early this month.

Under the agreement, arms can be sent to both the Arab nations and Israel if they give assurances they will not use the military equipment "to undertake any act of aggression against another state."

The agreement marked an end to long-standing differences among the Western powers over the question of providing weapons to the forces recently engaged in bitter fighting over the partition of Palestine.

Mr. Truman said the United States believes the action "will stimulate, in the Arab states and Israel, increased confidence in future security, and will help the progress now being made in the Near East and contributing toward the well-being of peoples there."

He added: "The participation of the United States government in the declaration emphasized this country's desire to promote the maintenance of peace in the Near East."

The President declined to answer any questions on the statement at his news conference.

The announcement of the accord was made simultaneously in London, Paris and Washington.

Although there was no reference in the announcement of the strategic importance of the Middle East in the East-West cold war, officials here were of the opinion that the Big-Three foreign ministers had this strongly in mind.

Their joint statement said the three governments recognized that the Arab states and Israel "need to maintain a certain level of armed forces for the purpose of insuring their internal security, their self defense and to permit them to play their due part in the defense of the whole area."

Coward was taken to the hospital following the accident, suffering from bruises and chest injuries. Dr. Herbert Hadley today said that the youth will probably be released from Pitt General's hospital today.

Churchmen Ask End Of A-Bombs

Cincinnati, May 23—(AP)—Representatives of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. officially ended their 162nd general assembly here yesterday with a plea that the manufacture of atom and hydrogen bombs be halted.

Delegates made a few changes in a report by the committee on social education and action but still said: "Let us with personal repentance work to stop the feverish fashioning of atomic and hydrogen bombs."

GM's Wage Contract

An Explanation Of The New Contract With CIO Auto Workers' Union; The Guarantees; Tie-In With Living Costs Index; Workers Can't Lose; Examples

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, May 25—(AP)—This is an example of the new contract between General Motors and the CIO Workers' Union.

The contract, signed on Tuesday goes into effect next Monday. It will last five years. It cannot be re-opened for any reason. It guarantees the worker a raise each year for the next five years. Suppose in that time living costs go up. The workers are protected on that. Suppose living costs go down. GM gets a break on that. But if living costs see-saw up and down may the workers wind up without any raise at all? No. The raise is guaranteed. They'll get it. The workers get a flat increase of 4 cents an hour each year for the next five years, starting Monday.

Over the five year period will mean for them a total increase of 20 cents an hour.

Suppose living costs go down. GM and the Union agree to slide by the government's thermometer or index, showing living costs. For approximately every index point that living costs drop, the workers will lose one cent—but they cannot lose more than a total of 2 cents, no matter how far living costs drop in five years.

This is how that will work: Getting four cents an hour more each year for five years, the workers will have received a total increase of 20 cents at the end of that time if living costs remain unchanged. But suppose in those five years living costs drop one point below what they are now. Then the workers will lose one cent and wind up at the end of five years with a 19-cent raise, instead of 20. If, in that time, living costs drop three points, the workers will wind up with a total increase of 17 cents, instead of 20. But they can't lose more than those three cents over the five years, no matter how far living costs drop. Suppose for instance, in those five years living costs fall 20 points. The workers can't lose more than 3 cents, so they'll still end up five years from now with no less than 17 cents an hour more.

Suppose living costs go up. In addition to their flat raise of 4 cents an hour each year for five years, the workers will get one cent an hour more for each rise of one point in living costs.

Death Date For Three Is June 9

Raleigh, N. C., May 25—(AP)—Three Negro youths will be executed here on June 9 unless Governor Scott extends mercy.

The death dates were set by decisions handed down by the State Supreme Court yesterday.

In one case, the court dismissed the appeal of the two teen-aged cousins, Bennie and Lloyd Ray Daniels, who were convicted in Pitt County last year of the brutal robbery-murder of William Benjamin O'Neal, a Greenville taxi driver and World War II veteran.

The decision marked the end of a legal fight that has seen the case before the State Supreme Court three times and the U. S. Supreme Court once.

Lawyers for the two youths contended a confession in the case was obtained under duress and that Negroes are not properly represented on Pitt county juries.

The court also found no error in the conviction in Wilson county of Frank Scriven. The youth was charged with murdering his girl friend, Nellie Gray Harris.

Scriven's appeal was brought before the court despite his refusal at the time he was convicted to sign appeal papers. He said the girl was haunting him and he wanted to die quickly.

Short Life Seen For 290 Persons

Chicago, May 25—(AP)—The National Safety Council said today that some 290 persons have a very short time left to live. That many, it estimated, will be killed in Memorial Day weekend traffic.

The estimate is based on a four-day holiday period with very heavy traffic—nearly 3,000,000 automobiles on the move—throughout the nation. The estimate covers only victims who will experience accidents and die during the period—Saturday through Tuesday—not those who will die later from holiday accidents.

Average Earning Rate Increased

Washington, May 25—(AP)—Longer work weeks boosted the average weekly earnings of 11,600,000 workers in manufacturing plants to an all-time high of $56.89 during April. The Bureau of Labor Statistics, reporting this today, said that average was $3 more than the weekly earnings just a year ago. Most of the increase resulted from lengthened work weeks in the durable goods industries such as metal, machinery, automobile and home building supplies.

For example suppose in this next year, when the workers' wages are increased four cents an hour, living costs go up five points. In that case—in addition to their flat, guaranteed raise of 4 cents an hour—the workers will receive an additional five cents an hour, or a total of nine. Car, it one step further: At the end of five years, if there's no change in living costs, the workers will be receiving a total increase of 20 cents an hour. If in that time living costs have gone up—say—15 points, the workers will be receiving 35 cents an hour more than now.

Middle European nations this must seem as though they are being conceded to Moscow. Tjader objects to such a notion. So do all the old political exiles of Middle Europe—Mikolajczyk, Dimitrov, Nagy and the rest, who have just ended a three-day conference in Washington. Mikolajczyk, in a keynote speech, urged the West to forget its old "non-intervention" policy. He warned against the use of force since that would mean "suicide" to the people living under Communist rule. What weapons does Mikolajczyk suggest? He says the West could announce a definite policy toward Middle Europe to let the people behind the iron curtain know they have not been forgotten and to put new resistance into them.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
THE GOOD NEW DAY
 Literary critics and newspaper editors all over the country are fairly gasping in astonishment over something which has happened in the last year. The general public has become interested in religion. Ten years ago religious books were a drug on the market. Most editors shied away from religious features as they would from smallpox.

Then somebody—or quite a few somebodies—discovered that people have a natural interest in religion. They discovered something further, namely, that this natural interest in religion seems at this very moment to be greater than it has been in a generation or two. Never in the memory of anyone living have so many religious books been on the best-seller lists as they have been during the past year. There is scarcely a newspaper now that does not carry a religious feature of some kind.

Today we frequently hear the statement that a great religious revival is in the offing. This is not correct; the religious revival has already started. We may expect stupendous results within the next few years. All over the world the minds and hearts of men are turning toward the things of faith. No longer is science the opponent of religion. A new day has dawned.

Your Vote Will Be An Important Vote Saturday

Saturday the people of Pitt county, along with the other people of North Carolina, will have the privilege of exercising one of their most precious rights—electing government officials.

In Pitt county alone, there are between 18,000 and 19,000 registered voters who may cast ballots in Saturday's Democratic primary. The extent to which the individuals of the county exercise their political franchise will determine to what extent our governmental officials will be elected BY the people.

In the 1948 Democratic primary in Pitt approximately 8,000 people took the trouble to go to the polls and vote for the candidates they thought would make the best office holders. That was less than half the registered voters of the county. In November of 1948 about the same number of people in Pitt county thought enough of our federal government to cast ballots in the presidential election.

In a community or a county where only a small portion of the eligible people cast ballots, it is easy for a particular group to control the election of officers. The only way to insure good officers is to have the vast majority of the people participating in the election of the officers.

No matter which candidates you favor, be sure you cast your ballot Saturday. It is your privilege to do so. It is your obligation to insure good government in Pitt County, North Carolina and in the nation.

A Liberal Viewpoint, But Hardly Radical

Taking it all in all, we are well satisfied by the political talk Senatorial Candidate Willis Smith gave in Greenville Tuesday evening. His handling of the campaign issues was on a distinctly higher level than his overly-enthusiastic critics (and his sometimes overly-enthusiastic friends) would have led us to believe.

It is our opinion that a calm and deliberate appraisal of over-liberal governmental policies and the probable support Senator Graham would give them; contrasted by a statement of liberal, though not radical, philosophy should influence a great number of the thinking electorate. A thorough explanation of his non-radical viewpoint, such as was made by Willis Smith Tuesday, cannot help but create a favorable impression.

On occasions we have noted that popular attitudes among constituents have been far ahead of their congressional delegates on important problems of the day. We think that this holds true today . . . and particularly in respect to the leftist tendency occasionally manifested by the national administration.

Democrats are born liberals, but seldom radicals.

Opposition by the sober element among Democrats to some aspects of the "fair deal" has been termed "Republicanism" by pro-administration spokesmen who have political stakes in the continued predominance of the "fair deal" clique. Such shallow contempt for divergent opinion among members of their own party demonstrates the poor view which these off-base political leaders hold for their yet docile followers.

They Deserve Recognition From Citizens, Officials

The Greenville Midgets this week won their third sports championship of the 1949-1950 school year. They are the undisputed Midget football, basketball and baseball champions in the Eastern Carolina Boys' league.

The Reflector offers its congratulations to these boys who have excelled in their team-play and sportsmanship to win these championships. We would also extend our hearty congratulations to Coach Bill Kittrell who has guided the Midget teams to their championships.

These boys and their coach have brought a great deal of recognition to Greenville in the sports circles throughout the state, although they have been taken for granted by the people of Greenville.

Never before in the history of the Boys' League have championships in the three major sports gone to the teams of a single town.

The only regrettable factor about the whole situation is that the boys who have brought honor to themselves and to their home town, have not received the support they should have either from the city officials or the citizens at large.

The boys' sports program has been run on a financial shoe string which is at the breaking point. If some steps are not taken to supply additional funds for the organized recreational program, chances are the city will be without boys teams of any sort next year—to say nothing of three championship teams.

The Reflector extends orchids to the boys and their coach for bringing three championships to Greenville during the past nine months. We have only onions for the city officials who so far have refused to supply the adequate funds to insure the continuation of a fine sports and recreational program for the young people of Greenville.

News Behind The News
 By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, May 25—An X-ray examination of House-Senate maneuvering during consideration of the $29 billion appropriation bill for 1951 discloses that Democrats and Republicans are equally guilty for their eagerness to tap the taxpayers' pocketbooks for political purposes.

Neither party deserves a medal for its shameful performance. But greater blame falls on the Republicans because of their repeated charges that they would protect the suffering taxpayer against President Truman's spending proclivities. In combination with Democratic economists, they could have made good that pledge. But the inside story is that they didn't try.

Except for the Taber-Jensen amendments, which were face-saving and possibly futile political gestures, the final House measure carried $450 million more than had been recommended by an Administration-controlled Appropriations Committee.

The general rule is for the House to accept the senatorial anti-upping by a parliamentary ruse that spares each member from going on a final record as to where he stands on the economy question.

INDIFFERENCE—The failure of the anti-Truman drive so widely advertised by the GOP is due to almost unprecedented log-rolling on pet projects, to a bipartisan agreement not to demand record votes and to place brother-members on an embarrassing spot, and to general indifference to all money-saving proposals.

RARELY has a bill of this magnitude in time of peace received such scant study and attention. A house-keeper gives far more thought to the question of whether she will pay the difference in cost between round and porterhouse steak.

UNREPRESENTED—Less than half of the 435 members of the House were on the floor when votes on the spending of many billions of dollars were taken. Several Atlantic seaboard states which make the largest contributions to the federal government were virtually unrepresented. Contrariwise, the men from areas which drag down more than they put in were always in their seats.

LOST—A motion to reduce funds for the much-criticized Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which has recently been transformed into a political hook-shop, lost by a vote of 69 to 65. Another motion to cut the State Department's allowance for administrative expenditures was defeated by 113 to 107.

Only ten of 35 motions to cut appropriations were carried. Twenty-five other economy proposals lost by less than 20 votes. Seventeen motions to fatten the appropriation kitty were adopted, mostly by an inarticulate and unrecorded shout of approval.

FACT—The Republicans could have blocked this blanket okay of Truman-Cannon spending and authorization of future expenditures if they had been sincere in their campaign denunciations of "Administration extravagance." But the fact is that they made no honest or energetic effort to keep enough of their members on hand to do the axe-work.

In a last desperate move to save their political bacon, the GOP and economy-minded Democrats put over the Taber-Jensen amendments for a prospective $500 million saving. They require the President to let that amount off the money Congress finally gives him.

Besides representing only a small reduction, there is no assurance that, as he has done in the past with respect to defense funds, he will not do as he pleases about this weak mandate.

TASK—The behaviour of three vocal advocates of economy on the Senate side offers no hope that the Republicans in the upper chamber will improve on the record of House GOP-ers. They showed in a spectacular way how a Senator can vote for big money bills, and yet pose at election time as a friend of the taxpayers.

The three are Senators Owen Brewster of Maine, Zales Eton of Montana and Robert Hendrickson of New Jersey. Mr. Brewster, incidentally, happens to be chairman of the Republicans' Senatorial Campaign

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Knowing me, Wife Rachel wasn't too surprised yesterday when I said, "I'd give my kingdom for a wart." But she did want to know the reason. "I need one," I said, "to get jubilee material. I heard that Jake Dixon, who works at the stamp window in the Post Office, is a wart doctor. If I had a wart for him to work on, I could get first-hand information."

We agreed that a wart would help, but the lack of one didn't keep me away from Jake, who proved to be an easy touch for information. Jake has been removing warts for 27 years, and had plenty of comments of interest.

"The publicity should help my business," Jake said. "But you don't charge for your service, do you?" I asked. "No," he replied, "but I can build up some good will, which should help my business here at the stamp window."

Has anybody ever tried to pay Jake? Yes, a few, and the late Frank Wilson gave him a Stetson hat in 1924. At that time the hat sold for $7.50 and was the most expensive in the store. The mother of 12 children baked Jake a cake for removing warts from all her children, and a college girl gave him an ice cream cone.

Jake learned the art from a Negro named Ken Edwards, a former slave. "I talk 'em off," he says, "if the moon is right." What's right? "I really don't know enough about astronomy to say, but I look at the moon every night that it's out to see if it's right."

"A lot of people don't believe in the supernatural," Jake continued. "Take my wife, for example. She's a trained nurse, and didn't believe in my power to talk off warts. And she was amazed when I took one off her hand."

Jake claims to be about 85 per cent successful. The man he most wanted to cure, Postmaster J. Knott Proctor, had to go to a medical doctor to have his warts removed. "The trouble was," Jake explained, "that some of the other employees here in the P. O. have been trying to learn my trade. In the process, they experimented on Mr. Proctor and broke the spell of my power."

When a customer comes in Warren's Drug Store, quite often Burney Warren Sr. will send them to Jake instead of selling them wart medicine. "He loses a sale," Jake says, "but he knows I'm better than the medicine."

Jake can perform his feats anywhere, but asked me to publish the fact that his office hours are from nine to twelve on Saturday morning, while he's working on his yard at 212 Jarvis Street. He says that the stamp business is so good that he can't remove warts during working hours. Also, Jake emphasizes that moles won't fall off, no matter how hard he talks to them. "I'm not an expert at it," he says, "but I can talk fire out."

If I get unburned this summer I'm going to get Jake to put me at ease. Wash Patrick, another Greenville wart doctor, has to practice his art over running water, like on a bridge over a river or stream. His patients have to supply an apple, which is cut into four pieces and thrown over their shoulders in four directions—north, south, east and west. When the apple decays, the warts should fall off. Jake simply talks to the warts, mumbling in secret language. But he says Wash was able to talk warts off one man whom he had failed to help.

What's the secret? If Jake told me that, he'd lose the spell of power, and what a shame that would be. Hundreds of Greenville people would have to buy wart medicine, which Jake says isn't nearly as effective as he is.

And I thank Jake, who was a cinch to interview.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
 Shoplifting is on the increase, public officials are warning merchants. Take Michigan as one example. Larceny cases involving goods stolen from retail counters and racks have increased about 60 per cent since 1945, estimates Wayne County's Chief Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, Ralph Garber. Similar reports come in from department stores, supermarkets and other retailers throughout the country.

Garber reports that one large store alone loses close to a million dollars a year in merchandise pilfered by shoplifters. And this, he points out, is during a period of prosperity.

Don't think shoplifting is merely petty thievery, or the shoplifters are all women, and from the poorer classes. Garber's experience has been that both men and women, and even children, are found among the professional shoplifters. Law enforcement officials are also apt to find shoplifters among well-to-do people as well as the poor.

Laws against shoplifting could be more strictly enforced if store protection departments would cooperate more closely with police and prosecutors. Garber complained at a National Retail Dry Goods Association confab in Detroit the other day. He finds store people often let offenders "cop" a lesser plea, so they themselves can cut down time spent in court. Often by the time a case reaches the prosecuting officials they find a deal has already been made between store representatives and offenders.

DO OVER-EASY TERMS ACTUALLY LOSE SALES?
 A New England credit manager, Harry Hartford of Paine Furniture Co., Boston, made a point recently that has made this writer ponder more than once the past few days about the credit situation. Hartford's argument is that under credit controls people were more apt to buy one big-ticket item at a time, knowing they must make a sizable down payment, and pay up within a year. But when they can buy with nothing down, they contract for so many items that all their income above the necessities is tied up. Then they're either too frightened to buy more, or are no longer sound risks.

Hartford's warning is particularly pointed at the furniture trade, where no-down payment policies, or at least much easier credit is available than from its big competitor for the consumer dollar today—the auto business. A customer overloaded with debt will hang on to his car and perhaps television set, Hartford finds, and let other goods be repossessed.

Hal Boyle's Column

New York—(AP)—The cowboy industry is big business today. And if you want to strike it rich you no longer have to discover oil—just sit down and dream up a cowboy character the kiddies will go for. He'll produce more lasting wealth than any oil well, because a good fictional cowboy never wears out or grows old.

For example, take "The Cisco Kid," who is one of the leading rivals of Hopalong Cassidy by the heart of American boyhood. Like Hopalong, The Cisco Kid began mildly enough and now is reaching epidemic proportions.

He first spilled into public view as a minor character in a short story in a book by O. Henry called "Hearts of the West," published way back in 1907. O. Henry probably got about $100 to $300 for the story, and he died in 1912 without realizing he had created a gold mine.

Today some $5,000,000 is invested in the Cisco Kid, now billed as "The Robin Hood of the Golden West." He is heard over some 300 radio stations, he stars in six movies a year, and he is also making 52 television films. Thirty kinds of Cisco Kid merchandise, ranging from coloring books to dungarees and holsters, are being marketed.

"We expect to sell $10,000,000 worth of Cisco Kid merchandise this year," said a business spokesman for the mythical border Robin Hood. "And we feel that in 1951 it may reach $50,000,000. There doesn't seem to be any limit to the interest in western characters."

The Cisco Kid has been played by four different film actors. Warner Baxter won an academy award in the role in 1931. He was followed by Cesar Romero and Gilbert Roland.

The present portrayer of the durable Kid is Duncan Renaldo, who speaks 9 languages, has 3 children of his own and is active in the Parent-Teachers Association.

The formula of the Cisco Kid stories is simplicity itself. He and his comic companion, Pancho, played by Leo Carrillo, get involved in some adventure in which they are mistaken as villains. They always clear up the mystery, after some hard-riding and bang-bang, and emerge as heroes.

"The most we can shoot is one villain a picture," said Renaldo. "That's all we're allowed. After that it gets too gory. We can't smoke, or take a drink—and we have an awful time even getting in a kiss with a girl. The kids want action and laughs—and that's what we give them."

Television has made the work more hazardous for the stars, as they no longer can use doubles. "Now we have to do our own fights to get the closeups," Renaldo said. "Last January I got into a fight with a young actor who didn't know the technique of movie fighting."

"He came too close as I clipped him, and he was out for half an hour."

"Some of the stunts are pretty dangerous. Last year I had a

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.

AUDITING—State Auditor Henry Bridges is proud of the record made by his office staff this year. It looks now like when the current fiscal year ends on June 30 his folks will have completed auditing of everyone of the ninety-three state departments, institutions and agencies which the statutes require his office to check. Each of these units receives appropriations and spends money from proceeds of taxes paid by individuals and firms living and doing business in North Carolina. They range in size from the highway and public works commission with regular annual budget, including federal funds, of approximately seventy-six million dollars (and this time there is the item of $125 million secondary road bonds to account for), down to the fugitive from justice fund with annual appropriation of $2,850 and handled as a separate account in the governor's office.

DOUBLE-CHECK—Since the budget and central purchase systems were set up more than twenty years ago the State of North Carolina cannot buy a lead pencil or sell a meal at an institutional cafeteria without having the transaction checked by the auditors office. The auditors not only have to review spending of straight out state appropriations, but they must also deal with all moneys received from the federal government and payments made by students and residents in all institutions. This means in the aggregate they work with billion dollar figures.

AHEAD—Auditor Bridges' staff is running a bit ahead of schedule. Usually it is regarded as very satisfactory if all audits for the preceding year are completed before a new fiscal period begins.

COMMITTEE—His task next fall will be to urge election of his party's candidates for the Senate on the ground that they will check "Truman extravagances."

MORAL—When a pork-barrel bill authorizing expenditure of $1.8 billion for rivers and harbors was carried the Senate, this trio voted for it because it carried money for projects within their states. Three weeks later they voted against the same bill when it returned to the upper chamber in the form of a compromise from the House-Senate committee, which had ironed out differences in the original House-Senate versions.

This year Bridges thinks he will be able to start preliminary work on 1949-50 audits of several institutions by June 15, although they cannot be completed until books are closed, probably several weeks after July 1.

SURFSIDE—"Surfside News" is a new publication edited by Isabel G. Murphy of Kill Devil Hills and devoted to publicizing the beach resorts along the North Carolina coast. The booklet of sixteen 5 x 8 pages with illustrated cover made its first appearance last week and contains a deal of information about resort facilities and attractions from Kill Devil Hills to Ocracoke. Bus and ferry schedules, high and low tide periods, where fishing is regarded as best, and where good eats can be obtained are featured. Mrs. Murphy says she is not publishing the weekly bulletin for profit, but any newspaper publisher would be happy to have the advertising percentage in the first two issues of "Surfside News."

REVENUE—Without complicating things with a lot of figures about just how much was collected from where, it can be stated that general fund revenue for North Carolina for the fiscal year ending next June 30 will come mighty close to budget estimates. One state official directly concerned with state money thinks the estimate may be not more than half a million dollars off—and that is almost a perfect score where more than 135 millions is involved.

THOROUGH—Principal reason for this condition is the thorough job done by the revenue department in collecting moneys due the state on income and sales taxes. For the first time in years the revenue department has a fairly complete staff of auditors and inspectors, and reasonably adequate mechanical equipment to do the job required. All of this has cost money, more money than past legislatures have been willing to appropriate for the purpose. Commissioner Eugene Shaw was able to sell Governor Scott and the council of state on the idea that additional money for personnel and equipment would pay large dividends through increased collections. The money was made available out of contingency and emergency funds and results have proven the wisdom of the allocation.

SURPLUS—Indications are the bank balance in the state general fund at end of this fiscal year will be between five and eight million dollars. What will be done with that balance may call for a lot of finagling. Majority opinion among state officials is the amount can be carried over to meet expenses during the next fiscal year, because it is the middle instead of the end of a biennium constitute a minority but who also have responsibility in the premises, believe that Section 20½ of the 1946 appropriation act requires that as much as necessary of the money be used to bring school teacher salaries up to the $2300-$3100 scale. There is difference of opinion about just how that section must be applied, and the attorney general has not been asked for an interpretation. Such legal opinion could not be properly requested or granted until the issue arises. There may be no issue because there may be no "surplus" money. It looks now like that may be an important question long about August.

Hot Dog Meets Competition In Shrimphunters

HOUMA, La.—(AP)—Bite into a hot dog down here and chances are you'll be munching shrimp instead of meat.

It's one Louisiana family's contribution to the deep south's hunger for more industries—especially those that can use Dixie's own resources. They call it, temporarily, the "sea dog," a wiper of chopped shrimp, not meat.

Head of the family is Gibson J. Autin Sr., who has been in the packing business here since 1915 and whose Acadian forebears were among Louisiana's earliest settlers. He is president of the Autin Packing Co., Inc., and sons Gibson Jr., Arnold and Lloyd are the other officers.

Already, the elder Autin sees two bright possibilities in his new-type Franks—another outlet for Louisiana's shrimp catch and a chance for housewives to vary the menu on fast days.

That last item is pretty important in this area, where Catholics predominate and may not eat meat on Fridays and other fast days during the year. It was on just such a day the "sea dog" was launched.

Let Lloyd Autin tell the tale: "A fellow came to us and said, 'Here you are packing meat and we're catching shrimp out in the Gulf of Mexico. Why don't you start packing shrimp?'"

"So we did. We tried it out on a Kiwanis luncheon held on a Friday. Everybody ate them and liked them, except one man. He said they looked too much like weiners not to be meat."

"Next day he came around and ate one. He wound up buying 15 dozens."

Autin's shrimphunters are put up in cellophane (a byproduct of Dixie cottonseed, incidentally), either in long strings or in pound packages of ten priced at 60 cents. They are red and look just like hot dogs, but the tangy taste is unmistakably highly-spiced shrimp.

How they get that way is, of course, a trade secret. But the Autins gladly hand out cooking recipes. According to them, the "sea dog" is up to any of the old tricks as well as the new. If the recipe calls for meat, they say, toss in a "sea dog." If it's fish, well, what do you think?

A patent has been applied for, by the way. Lloyd says he did it by long distance telephone when the customers started queuing up for more and "people up north" got interested.

Highway Post Office Talked

Washington, May 25—(AP)—A highway post office is in prospect for towns between Durham, N. C., and Lynchburg, Va.

Norfolk and Western trains 37 and 38 between those two cities are being discontinued May 31. On that date the post office department will set up a star route.

But Rep. Burton (D-Va.) is urging that the department go a step further by providing a bus which would have facilities for sorting mail as on trains.

Postmasters In Annual Meeting

Charlotte, N. C., May 25—(AP)—About 200 postmasters gathered here today for a convention of the North Carolina chapter of the National Association of Postmasters. Sen. Clyde R. Hoey, Rep. Hamilton C. Jones of the tenth district and Burris Jackson of Hillsboro, Texas president of the National Association, will be among the speakers during the two-day convention.

PREFERS DEATH AGONY
Singapore—(AP)—Singapore's favorite poison potion is caustic soda. Not because it costs 20 cents a dose and can be purchased without difficulty, but because jilted lovers prefer to die in agony to inspire severe remorse in the ones who rejected them, say authorities.

One of the first stations to broadcast a crude form of television programs regularly was WGY, Schenectady, in 1928.

The technically-minded engineer calls black and white television "monochrome" and color TV "polychrome."

Long-Eared Mule Brings New Hope To Greek Farms

AP Newsfeature

Koula is a long-eared mule with USA branded on her flank. And according to legend, American mule-skinners would call her a "35" ("Censored!"). But not Evangelos Tertingas, a slight, wiry Greek farmer of Xenias near the rich plains of Thessaly. To Evangelos, Koula is more than a mule. She is hope.

This new darling of Tertingas and his brood is between three and nine years old. Reddish-brown in color, Koula stands between 10 and 12 hands high—about 50 inches. She is in good health and halter broken. Koula met these requirements before she was approved for shipment from the United States to Greece.

The story of how an American mule travelled 7,000 miles from her native land to labor in Greece is a story of human hope in which the average American — through the Marshall Plan for European recovery—has played a great part.

Example of Marshall Plan

The events which led to the arrival of Koula and thousands of other mules in Greece, involved deliberations of recovery planners of the Greek government and of the ECA on the needs of the more than 500,000 refugees who awaited relocation after the war. And the vital part Koula is playing today in the lives of the Tertingas—a part being repeated thousands of times over throughout agricultural Greece—is another confirmation of the Marshall Plan belief that given the means, free men will struggle to remain free and to build better, happier lives.

Scarcely more than 150 families among them the Tertingas, people the tiny village of Xenias, the torches of Italian soldiers and guerrillas had left it fire-blackened, little better than the ancient ruins on which it stood.

Evangelos Tertingas returned to Xenias and to the 62 acres of land which were his largest remaining possession. Before the war he had been well fixed for a Greek farmer. He had owned 70 head of sheep, 20 goats, 10 cows and six horses. Also two mules, two dorsettes and about 40 chickens. His house had been among the finest in the village. Only the walls remained. Blood Bank Has Balanced Budget In Appreciation

San Gabriel, Calif.—(AP)—William Curry hasn't broken the bank yet—he's seen to it that he never does. Curry's bank is the Regional Red Cross Blood Bank, and donations from its supply of plasma have been the difference between life and death for him for six years. Curry, battling for recovery from nephritis, has had more than 600 transfusions in that time. And he recently made up his mind to repay the bank for its life-giving fluids.

"I'm going to start a one-man recruitment campaign for blood donors," he said. "I'm going to do everything possible to keep an even balance on the books." He figures that to make up for the plasma, whole blood and blood derivatives he has used he will have to recruit 625 persons who will give a pint of blood.

Cycle Of Death Seen Unchanged

NEW YORK—(AP)—The oldest people now living apparently do not reach greater ages than the ancients, says Dr. Edward S. Deevey Jr., Yale zoologist, in the "Scientific American."

Deevey thinks long life runs in families, but he believes the amount of living a man can pack into a life is about uniform. Those who live longer live more slowly. The maximum life span seems to be about 115 or 120 years, he says.

Warrior At 14, Now A Marine

Camp LeJeune, N. C.—(AP)—When Marine Pfc Lawrence B. Lambert of New York City tells of fighting Nazis and Fascist at the ripe old age of 14, many of his Marine buddies are a little skeptical but his is no idle talk.

Lambert participated in many Partisan sabotage activities including bridge blowing, sniping and small scale warfare, when the Germans occupied that country.

Even though he was a native Italian and didn't enter the United States until 1946, Lambert is a fully naturalized citizen under United States law because his father came to this country in 1939 and became an American citizen before his son had reached his 18th birthday.

Special Talents Found Necessary

Washington, May 25.—A North Carolina federal official and his wife are learning that the things expected of an official attending an international conference are many and somewhat wondrous.

B. Harper Barnes of Lillington and Graham, chief of the legislative section in the office of the solicitor of the Labor Department, has been selected to attend an international conference as a representative of this government.

And as a result, he and Mrs. Barnes, the former Emmaline Henderson of Graham, one-time newspaperwoman, are learning to, of all things, samba.

It's the honest truth, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes, who will sail from New York Friday, are, by necessity, attending the Arthur Murray school of dancing here, in a feverish effort to become accomplished exponents of the art of the samba, because it has been hinted to Barnes that such an accomplishment will make him a more desirable conference official.

Barnes has been assigned for the second time as an official adviser to the United States delegation to the International Labor Organization, meeting next month in Geneva.

"Leading artists, clothing workers and consumers themselves have taken part in choosing new model fashions, which are also discussed by workers in their houses of culture and clubs."

Uncle Sam Has Hard Time Selling World His Wheat

Washington May 25—(AP)—Uncle Sam is having a hard time selling his wheat in the world markets, despite his bargain offer of 54 cents a bushel under domestic prices. The domestic price is about $2.20 a bushel, at Kansas City. An international agreement dividing export markets among major surplus-producing countries gave this country a quota of 234,899,000 bushels for the sales year ending August 1. The agreement is designed to help stabilize supplies and prices. So far, only about 110,000,000 bushels have been sold. Agriculture department officials expect sales to fall at least 30,000,000 below the U. S. quota.

and minimum prices for sales under the quota arrangement. So far, domestic prices—which are supported by the government's farm program—have averaged more than 50 cents a bushel above the maximum world market price. As a consequence, the government pays exporters this difference so that they can make sales abroad under price ceilings of the wheat pact.

One of the reasons this country is not expected to sell its full quota is the fact that production has been increasing in many countries which normally depend upon imports for a part of their needs.

The U. S. may have to make an even greater sacrifice on export prices during the new marketing year beginning August 1.

Prospects of a relatively small crop have pushed domestic prices up in recent weeks and promise to hold them at possibly higher averages than during the current marketing year.

With no change in the maximum price in the world market covered by the agreement, the higher the price in this country, the greater the cost to the government in the form of the subsidy paid exporters.

The U. S. cannot withdraw from the market unless it lacks enough grain to supply its own needs and fill its export quota. It must offer the full amount of its quota at the maximum price, regardless of the cost.

On the other hand, the government has no desire to surrender its quota, even if it is costing money to make the sales. Officials say this country must hold a sizeable portion of the world market or force many wheat farmers out of business through drastic production controls.

Israeli Gov't Now Moving To Holy City

JERUSALEM—(AP)—By the end of 1950, all Israeli government departments and ministers probably will be functioning in Jerusalem. The removal from Tel Aviv is being made as rapidly as housing is available. This is in line with the government's policy to firmly entrench itself in Jerusalem as the Israeli capital despite the United Nations decision that the city is to be internationalized.

Annual Luncheon For Service Women's League

Members of the Service League and their guests yesterday attended the annual luncheon of the organization held at the parish house of St. Paul's Episcopal church. Retiring President Mrs. James T. Little presided at the meeting. The picture above shows a portion of the group which attended the luncheon. (Reflector staff photo).

Service League Luncheon Ends Program For Year Yesterday

The Service League concluded a most successful year of work with its annual luncheon which was held yesterday at St. Paul's Episcopal parish house. Each member and guest upon arrival was presented a beautiful and colorful corsage of spring flowers. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. James T. Little, who asked Rev. Leon Russell, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church, to open the meeting with prayer. Following the invocation Mrs. Little cordially welcomed members of the League and the special guests. Guests recognized, together with the organizations they represented, were: Mesdames J. B. Kittrell, R. M. Garrett, S. J. Everett, Ficklen Arthur, members of the Advisory Council; Rev. Leon Russell, Ministerial Association; Mrs. Cora Powell, Merchants' Association; Mr. Herbert Waldrop, Community Chest; Mr. John Clark, Exchange Club; Mr. Larry Averette, Lions' Club; Mr. Rexell Webb, Rotary Club; Dr. D. B. Armistead, Medical Association; Mr. K. T. Futrell, Welfare Department;

Mr. C. S. Carr, hospital Board; Mr. David Whichard, III, Junior Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Ruel Tyson, Business and Professional Women's Club; Mr. Chester Walsh, Kiwanis Club.

The work for the month of May was reviewed as chairmen of the standing committees gave their monthly reports.

This being the first meeting of the League as a corporation, officers were elected.

Highlighting this annual meeting was the president's report which always is heard with interest and amazement, for in writing a year's report summarizing each officer's and committee's report it makes a thesis in itself. In reporting on the Thrift Shop, of which Mrs. Jesse Moye is chairman, Mrs. Little stated it is difficult to grasp the fact that business in the Thrift Shop has jumped 700 per cent this past year as compared to 1949-48. Nearly 800 articles of used clothing have been sold at a nominal price through the Thrift Shop.

Finance chairman, Mrs. John Warner, was praised for her guidance in raising so much money for the Hospital Bed fund, almost triple the amount last year's record showed.

Commenting on the League's major project, the Laughinghouse Hospital Bed, of which Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Jr., is chairman, Mrs. Little pointed out that the league had paid for the hospitalization of 11 patients a total of 101 days. Since February, 1939, hospitalization has been given to 205 patients with an expenditure of $6,439.39. In cold figures that seems quite a worthy undertaking, but figures can never bespeak what this fund has meant to many people it has served.

As Emergency Charity Fund chairman, Mrs. W. S. Bost reported 13 cases cared for this year.

It is necessary to replenish the Lending Chest this year with a new wheel chair reported the chairman, Mrs. Lyman Ormond.

Layette chairman, Mrs. David Evans, set a record this year in supplying 21 layettes as compared with 15 last year.

Six members of the Service League serve as Girl Scout troop leaders and one as Cub Scout Den Mother. Mrs. B. B. Sugg, Jr., chairman of this work, reported that the campership this year goes to Alice Fyfe, a member of Troop 19. Alice is considered one of the most outstanding and cooperative girls in her troop.

Mrs. L. T. Shotwell has served as chairman of the Hospital Tray Favors and reports that favors for five occasions, totaling 265, were made.

The Projects chairman, Mrs. W. L. Whedbee, reported that the League sponsored the distribution and collection of the iron lung banks for the March of Dimes, sponsored the 1949 T. B. seal sale, Red Cross drive, Community Chest drive and the recent Cancer drive.

Mrs. J. B. Cummings as Publicity chairman, reported full cooperation from the Daily Reflector, and radio station WGTC. Mrs. Cummings had 75 articles in the Daily Reflector and several in the News and Observer this year.

Mrs. J. H. Thomas, secretary, reported a total of 4,763 hours as of May 1 from League members for carrying on the above projects.

Mrs. Ed Williford as placement chairman reported a total of 724 volunteer hours at the Thrift Shop. Twenty-eight workers have given 221 hours in rolling bandages at the hospital.

As Membership chairman Mrs. Tyson Bilbro and her committee have submitted 27 names for membership.

As chairman of the May Luncheon committee, Mrs. Bryan Brown brought a beneficial and entertaining program.

Mrs. Little thanked Mrs. E. K. Whitley for her busy year as corresponding secretary, and in summing up her yearly report was kind in her remarks to each and all the membership.

After this glowing annual report the new officers were installed with impressive ceremony. Upon accepting the presidency Mrs. J. H. Thomas asked a rising vote of thanks be given Mrs. Little.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned to the Guild room where a delicious luncheon was served.

Preceding the first course Mrs. Hoyt Minges, one of the new members, sang two beautiful numbers. Mrs. Little recognized and presented Tricey Brown, only honorary member of the Greenville Service League who responded with a touching tribute to the league.

The long anticipated highlight of the luncheon meeting came when Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, a member of the Advisory Council presented the silver trophy for outstanding service to Mrs. Badger Johnson. This bowl goes to a member at large. A happy surprise came when the out-going president, Mrs. J. T. Little, gave a silver tray to the board member who gives most willingly and joyously of her time to the Service League. This silver tray was awarded to Mrs. Bryan Brown. Mrs. Ficklen Arthur, member of the Advisory Council, in making this presentation paid glowing tribute to Mrs. Brown and other board members.

Urges Action To Curb Mosquitoes Now Multiplying

A plea was issued today by Heber B. Tripp, chairman of the City Sanitary Committee, for the citizens of Greenville to take all steps possible to reduce the large number of mosquitoes in Greenville.

Tripp pointed out that even though summer is not here, more than the usual number of mosquitoes have been noticed in certain sections of the city.

The county health department has started spraying in an effort to keep down the number of breeding places for the mosquitoes in the city, but the cooperation of everyone is needed to make the drive work, Tripp commented.

Any trash such as old bottles and tin cans which gather water form ideal breeding places for mosquitoes and should be destroyed as soon as possible. In certain sections of the city large fields have grown up in weeds, making good harboring places for the mosquito, said Tripp.

If anyone wants to have a place sprayed, contact C. K. Beatty at the street department and the matter will be handled.

TO THE VOTERS OF PITT COUNTY

I solicit your vote in the Primary Saturday, May 27th, for County Commissioner from the Fourth District (Winterville, Chicod). It is my sincere purpose, if elected, to serve the citizens of Pitt County as a whole. I will greatly appreciate your vote and support.

Farmers Need Representation

Being a farmer myself, it is certainly gratifying to me to know that we have a man in our county, who devotes his entire time to farming, and yet is willing to spend three or four months at the time for the interest and advancement of agriculture. Since agriculture is the source of practically all of our country's wealth, it is certainly fitting and proper that we be represented in Raleigh by a man who has given farming his entire time and thought. Knowing Frank Kilpatrick's record from the various agriculture boards through the past several years, it makes me very happy to help send him to the General Assembly where the law-making forces of our State sit around committee tables and argue various problems. The records show at these meetings that Frank Kilpatrick has proven to be a friend to Pitt County and to our State as a whole. I know his policy is one of going forward—yet his record shows economy in government spending. I believe the farmers and business people will be serving well the interest of Pitt county in supporting Frank Kilpatrick in Saturday's Primary.

Predicts Revolt By China Masses

Wu, Princeton-educated former mayor of Shanghai, delivered his prediction in a broadcast. He declared the revolt would pave the way for Nationalist Chinese counter attacks in November and a full scale mainland assault next year.

He charged Mao Tse-Tung, Chinese Red leader, was ready to reduce the population of China from 450,000,000 to 150,000,000. He did not explain, but asserted "transport of food from Red China to Manchuria and communist refusal to accept American famine relief prove this is true."

Red leaders have said they can combat famine among some 50,000,000 mainland Chinese without outside aid. Formosa, site of the Orient's largest manpower pool against communism, awaits an expected Red invasion with undisguised concern—despite official boasts that it will be beaten off. Chiang Kai-Shek told tea guests Wednesday the first stage of this island's defense preparations had been completed. The day before, he said Formosa's nearly 800,000 troops make it impregnable.

This is the first time I have been a candidate for an elective office and I have no political connection or obligation to any person or group. Smaller Airlines Ask Congress
To Go Slow On Subsidy Change

Washington, May 25—(AP)—Several small airlines have asked Congress to go slow in changing existing air mail subsidy arrangements to prevent possible economic disaster to a large part of the industry. They urged a full investigation by the Civil Aeronautics Board to consider over-all financial needs of the carriers before congress attempts any outright separation of subsidies from straight cost payments for carrying the mail.

A House Interstate Commerce subcommittee now has under study proposals to eliminate airline subsidies, limiting payments to the actual cost of mail transportation plus a fair and reasonable return.

Also before the committee is a proposal for a CAB investigation of the whole subsidy problem as a preliminary to any attempt to revise the long-standing policy of Congress to assist the U. S. air transport industry.

The latter course was urged on the committee by John L. Sullivan, representing 17 of the smaller airlines. The proposal to separate mail pay for subsidies "represents a basic change in the government's policy toward aid to aviation—a change which could conceivably drastically affect the financial position of the industry," he said.

Sullivan contended that "no one has been able to devise a formula for practical segregation of mail pay and that "is in itself proof of the difficulty and delicacy of the problem and of the necessity for making a thorough study before legislation is enacted."

Sullivan spoke for all American aviation, Bonanza Airlines, Braniff Airways, Capital Airlines, Chicago and Southern, Colonial, Delta, Empire, Northeast, Northwest, Piedmont Aviation, Pioneer Air Lines, Robinson Airlines, Roscoe Turner Aeronautical Corp., Southern Airways and Southwest Airways.

Senatorial Campaign Has Sunk Into Lowest Depths

By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh, May 25—The 1950 campaign for the United States Senate will leave a bad smell in North Carolina for many years. It is winding up deeper in the mire than most North Carolinians had thought possible in this state—which has a record of fairly clean campaigns. So far as can be ascertained none of the candidates nor any of their responsible staffs have been party to use mud.

Most people do not regard publishing the records of the men running for office as mud-slinging, whatever the record may be and whether made on a university campus or in a court room, in the Senate or before legislative committees. Some features of the record may have been over-emphasized, having the same element of distortion that a biased headline gives to a factual news story. And it is recognized that men change their minds, and do not necessarily hold identical opinions now as they did twenty or ten or three years ago. The value of the record as evidence must be appraised by the jury which in this case is made up of the Democratic voters of North Carolina. Stating facts about matters pertinent to the campaign is not mud-slinging.

There is another type of literature that can be classed only as filthy—it is too smelly to be dignified by the name of mud. Scurrilous statements mailed in plain envelopes and bearing no sort of identification have been widely distributed over the state. Vicious cartoons unsigned and anonymously distributed have flooded some sections. Newspaper offices have received hundreds of unsigned and undated letters and postcards. All of that is very bad, but it isn't the meanest part of the mud-slinging. Recipients of anonymous mail or telephone calls know what to do—just ignore them.

Far meaner is the literature or letters signed with fictitious names and carrying false addresses seeking to give validity to the missive. Newspapers have been victimized by letters, hand-signed and bearing what looks like honest address, only to learn later that no such person exists. Much of this falsified mail is harmless, with only occasional slant. It is nonetheless crooked and low business.

Several people around Raleigh received this week regular government postcards mailed in New York and urging recipients to vote for Senator Graham. The cards bore the name of W. Wite, executive secretary, National Society for the Advancement of Colored People, and carried a spurious return address. Obvious purpose was to confuse recipients by similarity of the title with the perfectly legitimate National Association for Advancement of Colored People, of which Walter White is the well-known secretary. (White is now on leave of absence.) Further apparent purpose was to imply that NCAAP is putting on a mail campaign in behalf of Dr. Graham.

Such tactics invariably backfire and result in helping rather than injuring the person attacked. That is why responsible management will not participate in these methods. It also occasions the charge that the hoax might have been planted by foolish friends of the alleged victim. That would be the theory of the litigant in court who sent the judge a big ham—but put his opponent's card on it. Whatever the source or purpose of this slimy material, fact is there is disgusting more of it than ever showed up in any previous campaign, and during the closing days the people are not permitted to think

Governorship In Waynick's Mind

Washington, May 25—(AP)—Capus Waynick is still interested in running for Governor of North Carolina in 1952.

That's what the former North Carolina Democratic State chairman declared here yesterday. Waynick, who is now Ambassador to Nicaragua, came here to begin preliminary organization of a $35,000,000 program proposed to aid undeveloped areas of the world.

Waynick told a reporter he would go to his High Point, N. C. home Saturday to vote in the Democratic primary. Later, he will go to Raleigh for a talk with Governor Scott, returning to Washington Tuesday.

The so-called four-point program Waynick is to direct has been approved by a house-senate conference committee and is under debate in the senate. It must be approved by the House and senate before it goes into effect.

Waynick said he was called from the Latin American post "for a three-month assignment by the state department to do this organizing job in anticipation that the program will be approved by Congress."

Champion Of All Woodchoppers Is Retired At 68

PHILADELPHIA—An Australian who made wood chopping such an art that three kings commanded performances is retiring—at the age of 68—and going home.

Peter McLaren was called to entertain kings, but colleges and universities hired him as the scientist of the axe.

The Melbourne-born king of the wood choppers became world champion in contests at Melbourne and Perth in 1905. He last participated in Australia's annual world championship axe swinging contests in 1910. Later, he became such an undisputed master that he gave challengers a 50 per cent time bonus. In thousands of contests he was defeated on that basis but three times McLaren has never been beaten in the United States.

In 1908 his fame was so widespread that Kaiser Wilhelm, of Germany, commanded a performance in Berlin. Three years later McLaren chopped wood at the behest of King Edward VII of England, and later made a command appearance before King George V.

Cornell and Yale universities and Pennsylvania and Michigan State colleges engaged him as a forestry instructor. Yale's famed coach of championship swimming teams, Bob Kiputh, had McLaren teach his swimmers the use of the axe to harden their bodies.

McLaren has been a winner in

'Oldest' Man Is Expecting Death In Another Year

RIVERSIDE, Calif. — (AP) — A black-eyed Indian chief, who thinks he must be the oldest living human being, has told his descendants to prepare for his death. No one, including Louis Levi himself, is certain how old he is. But several of his grandchildren are over 65—and drawing old age pensions. His children are nearing the century mark.

The chief, who lives with his family on the Torres Indian Reservation in the nearby Coachella Valley, recently announced that he was going to die in one more year. Records at the Indian agency office show he was one of the oldest old-timers when tribe members' names were first listed 75 years ago.

Ridicule Idea Of 'Fifth Column'

Bangkok — (AP) — Siamese police carried out a probe following publication in Siamese language newspapers of reports that American "fifth columnists" had set up a network in Siam "under the supervision of General MacArthur."

A General Phac Briyanonond deputy director-general of the police department, announced after the investigation that special agents questioned Siamese editors and reporters attached to the newspapers concerned. They extracted confessions that the reports were based on hearsay and imagination.

"Stupid and ridiculous," police branded the stories.

Smallpox Taking Many Lives In City's Epidemic

RANGOON — (AP) — An epidemic of smallpox which hit Rangoon last November took a toll of 500 lives within five months, according to the Health Department of the Rangoon Municipal Corporation. A department statement said the disease is still raging in epidemic form in the heart of the city.

It stated that teams of municipal vaccinators sent into stricken areas were hampered in their work by people who barred entry to their homes, fearing the vaccinators were bandits in disguise. Nearly 10,000 people had to be vaccinated forcibly.

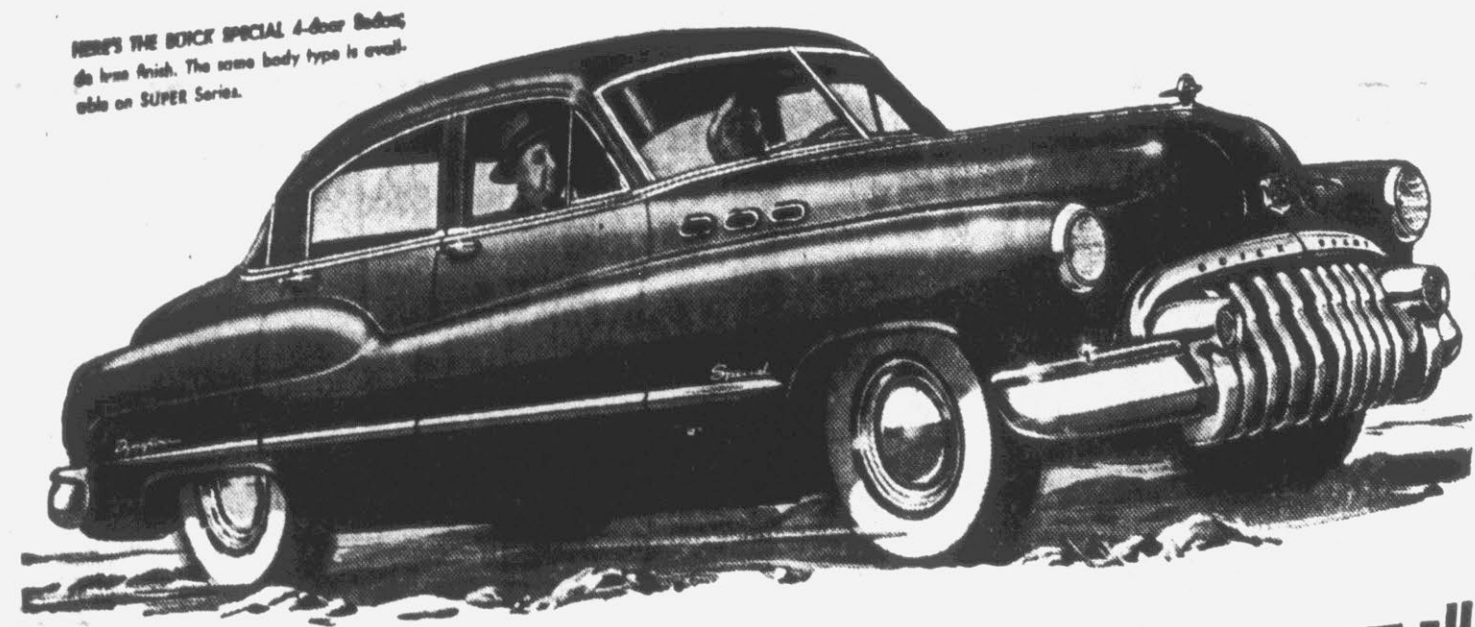

The statement added that presently 300,000 of Rangoon's 750,000 population have been vaccinated by the Health Department.

50-State Flag Ready For Use

ONTARIO, Calif. — (AP) — If the Union is increased from 48 to 50 states by the addition of Hawaii and Alaska, this city will not be caught napping. Miss Laura Stroud's 44 sixth grade pupils have seen to that.

The youngsters have proudly presented Mayor Roy D. Boles with a handsome five by eight foot American flag to be flown on the day the union numbers 50 states.

"YOU HARDLY KNOW THE ROAD IS THERE!"

YOU won't be the first to say that—not by a long shot.

One of the first things you notice, when you step from another make of car into Buick, is the wonderful difference in the Buick ride.

There are good technical reasons, if they interest you...

Soft coil springs all around, the gentlest type of spring man knows how to make.

A stout torque-tube, acting like the husky keel of a battleship to steady the whole carriage.

Low-pressure tires on wide, Safety-Ride rims, that stop heel-over and sway on curves.

Firm, sure, quick-acting shock absorbers, promptly snubbing the after-bounce of the bigger bumps.

The important thing is what these all add up to.

Freedom at last from jounce and jiggle. A level, floating, road-free passage over almost any kind of road, with even the worst of them tamed and gentled as never before.

Add Fireball power to all this — the roominess of wide, deep seats—the lightness of Buick controls and the liquid silkiness of Dynaflo Drive*—and you have a car just too good to miss.

Come try one, won't you? Your Buick dealer will be delighted to demonstrate without obligation —delighted to show you that if you can afford a new car, you probably can afford a Buick.

ONLY BUICK HAS Dynaflo AND WITH IT GOES: HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball, valve-in-head power in three engines. General Heckled
In 'Hold Berlin'
Talk To Audience

New York May 25—Heckled and picketed, Gen. Lucius D. Clay cast aside a prepared speech at an anti-Communist "hold Berlin" rally last night and issued a rallying call to the people of the German capital and a warning to the Russians.

To the people of Berlin, the former American military governor in Germany said: "You have within yourselves the moral strength to stop any attempted uprising among the youth of Germany which would destroy freedom. Be patient—the time of freedom is rising."

A long heckling disrupted the rally and caused brief disorder after police had routed 1,000 chanting pickets out of town hall.

A loud murmur arose from the audience as a young man began heckling Clay because he had cut the prison sentence of the notorious Elsie Koch of Buchenwald.

Many men and women jumped to their feet, some of them shouting. The heckler continued shouting above the noise until two detectives escorted him out of the auditorium. About 100 persons followed. Some of those who left the auditorium with him cried "let him speak."

After Clay had answered the heckler in unsteady voice, the General told the audience:

"I came here tonight with a prepared speech, but now I am not going to make that."

Referring to the noisy, sign-carrying pickets who had been dispersed outside the hall, Clay said: "Having lived through the blockade of Berlin, I am not dismayed by a blockade in New York."

Just as Clay was about to begin his speech, the heckler questioned him on the issue of Mrs. Koch, wife of the commandant of the Nazi extermination camp at Buchenwald.

"How about Elsie Koch and human skin?" the heckler demanded of Clay, who had cut the woman's penalty to four years after a military court had imposed a life sentence for her part in Buchenwald atrocities.

Mrs. Koch was accused of making lampshades from the skin of prisoners. German authorities now are holding her in an asylum for mental examination prior to facing trial by a German court on war crimes charges.

"I am never unwilling to give anybody his viewpoint on any question, but I also believe that any fair-minded American is willing to listen."

The unidentified heckler, who told newsmen "I'm just a plain GI," was not arrested. "This is a Nazi meeting," he charged.

The rally was sponsored by Common Cause, Inc., an anti-Communist organization. The pickets, who chanted phrases often used by the Reds, represented the American Jewish Labor Council and other groups.

Scientist Lists
Signs Of Health

Memphis, Tenn., May 25—(AP)—A noted medical scientist lists three important things to look for in determining whether a patient is ready to be discharged from a hospital.

Dr. Alan Gregg, medical director of the Rockefeller Foundation in New York, listed these "signs of health" in a speech here yesterday:

How often does a patient laugh? What interest does he take in games? And what attention does he pay to personal appearance?

'Sailing Satkos' Of 1940 Are Landlubbers Today

By Harry L. SMITH

Richmond, Va., May 24—(AP)—The "sailing Satkos" of 1940 are strictly landlubbers now.

Fifty-nine-year old Paul Satko who took his wife and children on the "voyage to Alaska" 10 years ago is working as a steamfitter on a construction job near Richmond.

And he's about the seven children who sailed with Mr. and Mrs. Satko on his homemade ark from Tacoma, Washington, to hack a new home out of the forests near Juneau Alaska?

Two of the girls are married and are living in Juneau. Edward and Joe Satko are working on pipeline construction near Seattle, Wash. with them is another brother, David Two youngsters, William and Betty, are at home along with Charles, Northsea and May Esther, who were born in Alaska.

One child died in Tacoma while the Satkos were on their way to Alaska. Two elder sons of the Satkos remained in Richmond when the family left for the west coast. The Satkos have had 13 children.

Each 1940, sturdy-spoken Paul Satko attracted nationwide attention by his determined efforts to reach Alaska, where he hoped to start a successful farm for himself and his family.

It was in April of that year that the jobless machinist loaded his family on the 40-foot, home-made ark (his own name for it) he had hauled on a trailer across the United States, and slipped out of Seattle under cover of darkness.

Such a departure was necessary because, after Satko's 15-ton craft struck a sandbar off Seattle, people petitioned the juvenile court there to prevent him from sailing the odd-looking boat, which they felt endangered the lives of the family.

Satko ignored the court order and sailed anyway. The Ark, with the family aboard, later turned up at Niamo, B. C. and then began a 56-day voyage to Alaska.

Although Satko had left Richmond in 1933 with the family aboard, later turned up at Niamo, B. C. and then began a 56-day voyage to Alaska.

Richmond in their 1939 model car. Satko blamed the United States forest service for the poor farming land he tried to work. The forest service said he offered advice which the Richmonder had failed to heed and disclaimed any responsibility for his farming failure.

But Satko's experience didn't completely kill his pioneering spirit. If he were younger and things were different financially, Satko admits he would still "kind of like to make something new."

But he added, with a shrug of his head, "I am older now and working, and expenses are high. It costs a lot to live."

"But, you know," he added, "I still like to go—and sometimes I get mighty itchy feet."

Robins Rally For 3 In Tenth To Top Tobs By 9-6 Score

Both Teams Get Off To Fast Start; Wind Up In 6-6 Deadlock At End Of 9 Innings

By BERT MOYE

Tonight's Games
Wilson at Greenville (2)
Tarboro at Goldsboro (2)
Kinston at Rocky Mount (3)
Roanoke Rapids at New Bern (2)

Be sure and make your plans to attend the doubleheader to be played out at Guy Smith Stadium tonight with the Wilson Tobs. The first game, a seven-inning affair, is slated to start at 7:00 o'clock. The second game, a nine-inning contest, will start immediately afterwards. Also at tonight's game the winner and the runner-ups in the Miss Bright Leaf Contest which closed here yesterday will be guests of the local club. Also, the Greenville High School band will be on hand to furnish music for the festive occasion. The contestants will be presented to the fans by Business Manager Russ Filley between the two games tonight.

On Ladies Night observed by the baseball club on last Monday evening, Mrs. Willie Robinson, of Ayden, Route 1, was chosen as "Queen for the Night" and as a remembrance of the occasion was presented an orchid corsage from the Allied Florist Association of Greenville and a bill fold from the Blount-Harvey Company. Business Manager Russ Filley made the presentation.

In giving the record in Tuesday's column on Bobby Harrison, the hitting power of Bobby was erroneously omitted and for you fans here is his record at the bat with the Greenville club last season. In 52 games he was at bat 110 times, scored 15 runs, collected 27 hits for 40 total bases including two doubles, one triple, and three home runs. He made one sacrifice hit, batted in 15 runs, struck out 28 times and had ended the season with a 245 percentage for the season, which isn't bad for a pitcher in this CPL.

The decline in attendance at baseball games is getting quite a bit of attention these days. No, the slump is not in Greenville alone. It's been noted by most clubs in the Coastal Plain League and in other leagues in the area.

Up in Raleigh, for example, the attendance is averaging only about eight or nine hundred per game, according to one source. Dick Herbert, sports columnist for the News and Observer, devoted a large section of his column to the low attendance at games which ordinarily would prove major attractions.

Greenville was hit hard by the early season slump. At several of the games the attendance was below the 400 mark, with 1,300 last Sunday being the largest number we have had this season.

There were many reasons advanced for the fall-off. One, by a man who should know baseball thoroughly, was that the network broadcasts of major league games in the afternoons were getting fans "fed up" with baseball before the night contests came along.

The obvious reason in Greenville was the poor brand of ball shown in the local park during the first few games. There's nothing like that

The Greenville Robins rallied for three runs in the tenth inning on three walks and two singles to break a 6-6 deadlock to gain a 9-6 win over the Wilson Tobs over in Wilson last night for their first win of the season over Manager Bill Herring's boys.

The Robins started off with a bang by scoring three runs in the first frame on five hits. Strausser led off with a single. Lautato forced Strausser at second. Tepedino singled to advance Lautato to third. Hallow doubled into right field to bring home Lautato and Bakits following with a single into centerfield to bring home Tepedino and Hallow.

The Tobs, in the bottom of the first, put across four runs on four hits and took the lead 4-3 at this point. Dinger led off with a double. Collias singled. Smith walked to load the bases. Gay was safe on a fielder's choice, forcing Smith at second with Dinger scoring. Harbaugh singled to bring in Collias. Gay and Harbaugh pulled a double steal with Berry following with a single to bring home Gay and Harbaugh.

The Robins knotted the count in the third frame when Bakits walked. Guidice singled and Hall doubled into left centerfield to bring home Bakits with Guidice being caught at the plate.

The Tobs took the lead again in the fifth when Williams singled, stole second, advanced to third on Smith's infield out and came home on a passed ball by Catcher Bakits.

The Robins again knotted the count at five-all in the top of the seventh when George Hallow led off with a 350-foot homer over the right field wall.

For the first time in the contest the Robins went out in front 6-5 in the top of the ninth when Guidice, taking third. Manager Heflin then drove a long fly to deep centerfield with Guidice coming home easily from third.

The Tobs, in the bottom of the ninth, knotted the count at 6-6 and forced the game into extra innings. Bobby Dinger led off with a double into right field and after two men were out, Jim Smith hit a ball to Heflin who threw wild to first with Dinger racing all the way home from second base with the tying run.

The Robins then came back in the tenth frame to put across three runs for their margin of victory. Tepedino and Bakits were issued free passes to first and then Joe Guidice singled into left field to bring home Tepedino with Bakits taking third. Robins was walked, loading the bases, and then Matthew Hall singled into right field to bring home Bakits and Guidice.

Manager Heflin in registering his fifth win of the season and his first against the Tobs scattered 10 hits very effectively with the exception of the first and fifth frames.

The Tobs used three hurlers who gave up a total of 17 base hits including a homer and three doubles. George Hallow with a homer, a double and two singles in six trips to the plate and Matthew Hall with a double and three singles led the locals' attack. The Robins hit safely in every frame and every man on the club hit safely with the exception of the first and fifth frames.

To drive the fans away. Now that the Robins are playing much better ball a pickup in attendance has been noted. A little more than 700 fans witnessed Monday night's contest, which was threatened by rain. Let's make it 1,500 fans at tonight's doubleheader with Wilson.

The two clubs meet tonight at Guy Smith Stadium in a doubleheader with the first game starting at 7:00 o'clock.

Jimmy Dillingham and Sydney Briley got four of the Tigers' five hits. Captain Ayers was the only Dodger to hit safely twice.

John Aman's Cards nosed out the Red Sox yesterday in the final inning to stay tied for the top spot in the league. After trailing the Sox during the whole game, the Cards scored two runs in the sixth and one in the final inning to take the win. Billy Brady with three hits and Bill Kittrell with two were the leaders for the Cards. Tommy Lupton and Wallace Conway with two hits each led for the Red Sox. Chapman Coasts To 6-5 Victory

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 25—(AP)—Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N.C., coasted to a 6 and 5 victory over Britain's Harry G. Bentley in the fifth round of the British Amateur Golf tournament today.

The Carolina veteran who formerly held the U.S. Amateur crown reached the turn five up on the former British Walker Cup player. The Briton bunkered his drive to lose the eleventh and again obliged on the thirteenth with another drive into the bunker that cost him the hole.

Dropo is a young giant of tremendous potentialities. He stands five inches over the six-foot mark and is a natural athlete. At Connecticut University, Walt was a great all-around athlete. The Chicago Bears made him their initial choice in the football draft but Dropo felt that his future was in baseball. His bulk does not hamper him in the field for he is rated an excellent fielder. With Sacramento last season, Dropo made only ten errors all season, his mark of .992 being only a point off the league-leading percentage.

Six foursomes, one each from Greenville, New Bern, Kinston, Tarboro, Farmville and Smithfield, will play tomorrow to kick off the three days of windup golf for the spring tour. Composed of the pro and three amateurs from each club, the six will compete for championship honors among them.

Greenville Women Golf Entries Are Shut Out

Frances Stevens of Rocky Mount currently the hottest thing on the links among the women of the Eastern Carolina Women's Golf Association, again led the pack during the play at New Bern Tuesday when she brought home low gross score honors for the third time this year.

However, Mrs. Stevens card was tied by Doris Whitfield of Kinston when both shot a 90. Second low honors went to Thelma Lewis of New Bern with a card of 94. Selma Barnes of Wilson came home third with 96.

Cesar Brion New Argentine Hope In Boxing Game

New York, May 25—(AP)—Every Argentine heavyweight is "the new Luis Firpo." Maybe Cesar Brion will come closer than the rest.

They were talking about Firpo last night in Brion's dressing room. Cesar, a rangy 22-year old corner had just knocked out Charley Norkus of Rayonne N. J. at the St. Nicholas arena.

"I remember Firpo well," said Charley Goldman, a veteran trainer who now handles Brion. "Firpo was a much better puncher than this kid. He'd hit you with a triple right hand punch. Three times in a row—boom, boom, boom, like that. But 'his kid' has 10 times more natural ability."

Brion goes to night school in mid-Manhattan, polishing his English. Even now he robs and waxes with the language enough to make himself understood most of the time. An interpreter lends a hand.

Brooklyn Adds Novelty: 3-Man Race To Plate

By JACK HAND (Associated Press Staff Writer)

Everything happens in Brooklyn: It's corny but it's true. Remember the day three men wound up on third base? The fly balls that bounced off Babe Herman's head? The sparrow that flew out of Casey Stengel's hat?

The 1950 Dodgers last night added the novelty of a three-man race from third base to home plate that wound up an "interference" double play by the Chicago Cubs. Sound complicated? Well, it is.

Jackie Robinson was on third base and Gil Hodges on second in the eighth inning. Eddie Matis hit a ball to third base. That set it up. The third baseman threw to the plate and catcher Mickey Owens chased Robinson back to third.

When Robby arrived he found Hodges also standing on the bag. Owen touched both men and the umpire ruled "Fodges out."

Then Mikis headed for second base and Owen threw to Wayne Terwilliger. Although he had been ruled out, Hodges started for the plate in a three-man race with Robinson and Owen.

Down the stretch they came virtually going the route for the first time. Robinson hit Hodges second and Owen third. But the finish was not official. An objection was lodged.

The official scoring was a double play—third baseman Bob Ramazotti to Owen to Terwilliger to Cavaretta. Owen got the putout at third and Cavaretta the one at home.

Oh yes, the score. Brooklyn won 6-1, with rookie pitcher Dan Bessinger leading the way for the first time. It was the Negro outfielder's fourth straight victory, breaking a five-game win streak by the Cub's Bob Rush. Duke Snider, George Shuba and Roy Campanella scratched homers off Rush. He hadn't thrown a gopher ball in all his previous games. Lady Paffo ruined Bankhead's shutout with a homer.

Down the stretch they came virtually going the route for the first time. Robinson hit Hodges second and Owen third. But the finish was not official. An objection was lodged.

To The Voters Of Pitt County:

I am a candidate for renomination to the office of Sheriff of Pitt County in the Democratic Primary to be held May 27.

I am making every effort to see as many voters as possible in person before the Primary. However, as you know, Court is in session, and that, with my other official duties, leaves me only so much time for contact work. Should I miss seeing any of you, I use this means of explaining why I could not call personally on every voter. I would appreciate your vote and support.

If I am re-nominated and elected as your Sheriff, I will continue to discharge the responsibilities of the office in a fair and impartial manner.

I sincerely appreciate the confidence and trust placed in me by the people of Pitt County for the past six and a half years during which time I have served as Sheriff. I assure all citizens that in seeking re-nomination is to serve all citizens of Pitt County to the best of my ability.

SMOKY JOE

AP Newsfeatures By W. F. BRAGG

Chapter 10

He didn't waste time telling about the fight. Instead he hurriedly explained that he had overheard a conversation between beef rustlers, and the launching of a plot to lease land to Long John Hale, then steal his cattle.

"You must trust me, Connie," he wound up. "They talk like they've got their hooks into Rance."

She forgot her anger, frowned and shook her head. "Rance! I knew it. I'm worried half sick about Rance. Dad gave him this chance to prove he could get a good lease. But this town has wrecked all his good intentions. He's on the loose tonight, somewhere, Joe." She almost wept. "I don't know where."

"What about a lease? Has he told you about signing up for range?" For the name of the man who leased land to the Hales would be that of a leader in the cattle rustling combine.

"He told me this afternoon to quit worrying. Said he was on the trail of some good grass."

"Leasing from what outfit?"

"He didn't say. Just said not to worry."

Joe took a cattle tally book from his vest pocket. He tore out a page, planted it against the wall, and hurriedly wrote a few words with a stub of pencil. He passed it to Connie.

"You've just leased about two thousand acres of good grass land in the foothills at the mouth of Antelope Canyon. It's land in my father's name, but he's away. I'm competent to handle this deal for him. It's an opinion, Connie, for a dollar and other valuable considerations."

Her eyes sparkled, and before Joe could step back, she threw her arms around his neck and kissed him heartily on his battered cheek. He cared startled him, but he returned instantly by returning the kiss.

"I will always tell the truth to you, Connie," he vowed. He tightened his arm around her slim young body. This was it.

"Come back after you've seen Rance," Connie said softly.

"You stay inside and keep your door locked," he commanded. "Don't let anybody in. Some of the boom town riffraff would go all the way to get off that wad of cash you're carrying."

She smiled and shook her head. "Nobody will get that cash," she said, "unless they can shoot straighter than I can line a gun."

When he walked away from the hotel, he hoped to cut the trail of two men—Pecos Shay and Rance Hale. But where to find them in this swirling noisy bedlam of lights and music and the hoofbeats of galloping oop ponies?

Nearing the Silver Hill, he caught sight of a lanky gray-haired man attired in sedate dark garments and low-crowned hat.

"Judge," he called. "Judge Boots!"

Boots wasn't on the bench. Cattieland had given him an honorary title. But he has long been old Munro's lawyer. He stopped and greeted Joe with a smile on his long-pawed, smoothly shaven face.

"I heard you had come home," he said.

Wildcat Strike Halts Construction At Mammoth Atomic Plant Project

TODAY & FRIDAY

Thrills Based On Facts!

POST OFFICE INVESTIGATOR

AUDREY LONG
WARREN DOUGLAS

Oak Ridge, Tenn., May 25—(AP)—A mammoth atomic plant construction project was shutdown completely today by a wildcat walkout of AFL workers.

The strike, which members of the Laborers and Hodcarriers Union began yesterday without warning, spread to all other crafts working on the project, the Atomic Energy Commission reported.

"The project is completely shut down," said an AEC spokesman. "We haven't been informed by the union or anybody else as to what the walk-out is all about."

"The laborers started the strike yesterday and today the craftsmen joined them," the spokesman, who withheld use of his name, added.

The strike came a day after an arbitration board had ended a hearing on a wage dispute involving the Laborers and Hodcarriers' Union.

Some 3,000 workers are affected by the walkout. The AFL crafts involved are members of the Knoxville Building Trades Council, whose officials were not immediately available for comment.

Picket lines were established outside the various entrances to this atomic city early today, and by mid-morning pickets also appeared near a gate to the restricted area.

One union official, John S. Turner, a conciliation consultant for the hodcarriers, joined the AEC in saying he didn't know what brought about the walkout.

"I haven't the slightest idea who the instigators of this thing are," said Turner, adding that the union did not authorize the strike.

Garrett Elected Head Of League

D. D. Garrett, Greenville insurance and real estate agent, this week was elected president of the North Carolina Negro Business and Professional Men's League.

The one-day annual session of the organization was held in Goldsboro Tuesday.

The theme of the meeting was The Negro Market, and was divided into discussion groups on chain store competition, responsibilities of business and professions to the community, and the problem of growth in business.

Other officers elected, in addition to Garrett were first vice president E. R. Williams of Goldsboro, second vice president Lem Long, Jr. of Charlotte, secretary Mrs. J. Deshazior Jackson of Durham, assistant secretary Albert Johnson of Raleigh, and Dr. I. A. Daves of New Bern.

Better Alibi

Amesbury, Mass., May 25—(AP)—The fish story Alexander Waskiewicz told his two young sons caused a false alarm of fire.

Waskiewicz returned empty handed from a fishing trip yesterday. He told the disappointed three and four year old boys he left his fish in a red box up the street.

They shuffled off to find the box. When they came to a red one on a pole, one youngster boosted the other who pulled the knob. It was a fire alarm box.

Fire Chief George A. MacDougall suggested Waskiewicz improve his fishing luck or find a new alibi.

Flat Denial Of Treasure Rumor

Tokyo, May 25—(AP)—General MacArthur's chief of staff flatly denied today that his boss has an Oriental treasure chest.

MaJ. Gen. E. M. Almond issued one of his rare statements after a day-long study of Washington reports that MacArthur holds a key to a chest full of gold and jewels.

Almond said there is no similarity between occupation headquarters holdings of impounded property and the reported chest.

Almond did not report how much headquarters holds, and no other source ever has announced it.

Earlier, lacking official comment, it was assumed the "chest" report was based on impounded property in the Bank of Japan.

Former Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson told a House Interstate and Foreign Commerce subcommittee of a fabulous treasure chest to which MacArthur had the key.

Anyway, if it isn't the Bank of Japan, the army hereabouts showed no inclination today to let the congressmen in on the secret. A Washington dispatch yesterday said the House group had assigned an investigator to get to the bottom of the mystery.

Poppy Day Sale Set For May 27

Saturday, May 27, was set aside as Poppy Day in the city of Greenville in a proclamation issued today by Mayor Stafford. The proclamation urged all citizens to observe the day by wearing memorial poppies in honor of those who gave their lives in the two world wars. It stated:

"Whereas, the City of Greenville in 1917 and 1918, and again in 1941 to 1945, sent many of its finest young men and women to serve in the defense of our country; and

"Whereas, many of these made the supreme sacrifice in that service; and

"Whereas, the memory of their service and sacrifice should be forever kept bright for the inspiration of our own and future generations; and

"Whereas, the wearing of memorial poppies on the Saturday before Memorial Day brings to our minds and hearts the memory of these gallant dead;

"Now, therefore, I, W. S. Stafford, Mayor of the City of Greenville, do hereby proclaim Saturday, May 27, to be Poppy Day in the City of Greenville, and I urge that all citizens observe the day by wearing the memorial poppy throughout the day."

You'll want to investigate the BACK SUPPORTER MATTRESS

The BACK SUPPORTER is not just another "firm" mattress

Many brands of commercial mattresses have "extra firm" models. Do not confuse these with the advantages and benefits that the special construction of the Back Supporter Mattress may afford you. The reason for this is the correct functional use of materials and construction methods in a mattress as attractive as it is beneficial to many users.

The BACK SUPPORTER may be what you need

The Back Supporter Mattress and Box Spring (built as separate units) are constructed to act together to provide proper support and relaxing comfort. The Back Supporter box spring is a level, sturdy foundation spring built as the correct base for this mattress only. The Back Supporter Mattress, with its high density construction of tightly compressed coils of extra large diameter, gives restful, healthful body adjustment... buoyancy without bounce... not just extra firm, but designed to provide positive, extra back support. And the Back Supporter is a fine looking product, too.

On ordinary "firm" mattresses, or when bedboards are used, many people complain of their arms "going to sleep"—apparently because the harsh surfaces interfere with circulation. This does not occur with a Back Supporter mattress—there is sufficient surface flexibility to give you fine sleep comfort as well as adequate back support.
