Six European Nations Ready To Join Pool In Coal, Steel

Paris, May 31—(AP)—Six European nations today were ready to pool their coal and steel industries but Britain maintained a "wait and see" attitude toward French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman's economic union plan.

French invitation to approve the plan before the talks start. The British, these sources said, felt they had been asked to give a binding commitment before learning how the merger would affect their industries.

Schuman at once dispatched a new memorandum to the London government designed to clear up what officials said was a British misunderstanding of the original French invitation.

Acheson's Big Task

Basically, His Job At Home Is About The Same As It Was Abroad; Reviving The Fervor For Democracy And Strengthening Resistance To Any Outside Attack

Secretary of State Acheson is trying to do in Congress today about the same thing he achieved in London early this month, talking to the foreign ministers of 12 Western European nations.

In Europe Acheson battled nearly a hundred per cent on his plan. Today he will have to sell it to Congress, and sell it well, because he must soon ask for another $1,225,000,000 for next year's American contribution to Europe's arms.

He goes before a meeting of Senate and House members to make a formal report on cold war strategy and then answer questions.

The first year of America's military aid to Europe is just closing about $1,000,000,000 worth of equipment is earmarked for overseas. The program was slow to start. Types of equipment had to be decided on. The U.S. Army had to decide what

THE DAILY REFLECTOR May 31, 1916

The fellow who flew from Albany to New York, 137 miles in two hours and 33 minutes, was certainly going some.

We do not recall a time when a town election was so near attended by such a little interest as to who are to be the candidates for aldermen. Yet there never was a time when Greenville needed good aldermen worse than now. There are conditions to be met in the affairs of the town that will require good judgment and a serious mistake can be made in getting the wrong men for aldermen. The people of the different wards owe it to themselves and to the town to select the best men possible.

Past Matrons And Past Patrons Club Elects Officers

The Past Matrons and Past Patrons club of Greenville chapter No. 149 O. E. S. met Tuesday night, May 30, with Mrs. N. C. Brooks, Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale as assisting hostesses.

Mrs. E. E. Rawl, president, presided over the business meeting.

The following officers were elected to serve through March 1935: Mrs. J. H. Randolph, president, Mrs. A. C. Tadlock, vice president, Mrs. Ernest Brown, secretary and treasurer. A constitution and by-laws were adopted. As an inspiring devotional Archibald Rutledge's "Life's Extras" was read by Mrs. Newman Lewis. Continuing some life's extras, Mrs. Meredith Posey, in a charming manner, gave her rendition of mountain ballads.

During the social hour a tempting sweet course was served by the hostesses, assisted by Mr. Brooks.

One meeting is planned in June after which the club will recess until the fourth Tuesday night in August.

Awards Night At High School Is Slated Thursday

Tomorrow night at 7:45 in the Greenville high school auditorium a Class and Awards Night will be observed. This night, the newest addition to commencement exercises in GHS, will honor 78 seniors.

A solo, "Ol' Man River," by Jack Neilson will open the program and will be followed by a brass quartet playing "Interlude." Paul Conway, Louis Clark, Jake Stauffer, and Fletcher Murray compose this quartet. Martha MacKenzie will give her rendition of "Kiss Me Again" to add additional talent to the program.

The presentation of awards by June H. Rose, superintendent of city schools, will be one of the features of the night. The various awards and honors to be bestowed are the Lanier Scholarship, Keech Distinguished Service Cup, Woman's Club Scholarship Prize, Dixon Athletic Trophy, National Forensic League Key, Dramatics Award, United Daughters of the Confederacy Essay Contest winner, and the AAUW creative writing contest winners.

Following these awards the high school Glee Club will sing "Hymn To A Hero."

Another highlight of Class and Award Night will be the presentation of "The Summons of Sarel," a drama, with cast composed of seniors. Upon the opening of the drama the Spirit, portrayed by Louise Briley, and the Clay, played by Dallas Clark, are prepared to meet a young graduate.

The Graduate, interpreted by Zelma Boyd, is the victim of a bus accident on the eve of her commencement and is summoned by the mighty Sarel, acted by Mitchell Saleed.

While awaiting the final bidding of Sarel, the Graduate meets the Suicide, portrayed by Betty Jean Allen, an old woman interpreted by Peggy Barrow, and a young mother, acted by Barbara Russell. Still other new acquaintances of the Graduate are a blind boy, characterized by Billy Ray Holbert, and a guardian angel portrayed by Betty Sue Harris.

Each of these new friends has an interesting story to reveal to the amazed Graduate as they, too, await the summons of the most respected Sarel. This drama has as its theme, graduation, and it ends on a note of serene happiness.

Mrs. Howard Mims, high school dramatics instructor, is directing the drama, and Peggy Bland is shouldering the duties of student director.

Three One-Act Plays Set For Boys and Girls

The East Carolina Players, a group of students and alumni of East Caroli Teachers College now on a tour of several towns in this section, will present here next Monday a group of three plays, especially written and produced for the entertainment of boys and girls and of those still young in heart.

Four men and four women make up the group. Five are graduates of the college and for the past year have been teaching in North Carolina public schools. Alton Finch of Roanoke Rapids is a teacher in the Wilmington schools. Dorothy Thomas of Conotoo was connected during the past year with the nursery school of the Tabernacle Baptist church of Raleigh. William Skarren teaches in his home town of Beaufort; Nell Rose Ellis of Gatesville is on the faculty of the Sunbury school; and Helen Winslow of Goldsboro has been teaching in St. Pauls.

Other members of the East Carolina Players are either graduate students or upperclassmen at the college. They are Elmer Williams of Washington, Joseph Congleton of Littleton, and Geraldina Weathers of Shelby. Mrs. Warren Winslow of Goldsboro chaperones the group.

Accused Czech 'Pleads Guilty'

Prague, Czechoslovakia, May 31—(AP)—The top-ranking defendant among 13 accused of plotting with Westerners against the Czechoslovak government pleaded guilty at the opening session of the trial today, the Prague radio reported.

The defendant, a woman named Dr. Milada Horakova, testified that "The National Socialist Party's functionaries were receiving their directives from the American, British and French diplomats," the broadcast said.

Dr. Horakova, a former deputy of the now outlawed National Socialist Party, told the court she considered herself guilty of sabotage and spying.

With the others, Dr. Horakova is accused of organizing the biggest underground group discovered in Czechoslovakia since the Communist party came to power early in 1948.

The indictment stated that "the illegal leadership had 1,400,000 crowns ($28,000) at its disposal for its illegal activities. The amount was stolen from the funds of the National Socialist Party by Hubert Ripka (former minister of foreign trade) before he escaped abroad, and given by him for illegal purposes."

Ballet Dancer Is Human Torch

Helsinki, Finland, May 31—(AP)—Turned into a human torch when his cellophane dancing costume caught fire, ballet dancer Aino Nyman burned to death Monday while other dancers stood by helplessly.

Nyman's costume burst into flame on touching a lighted cigarette. He rushed for help into the ballet girls' dressing room. Dressed in inflammable cellophane like Nyman, they could not get near the flames without setting fire to themselves.

Debatable Which Pet Can Cause Most Trouble

Los Angeles, May 31—(AP)—Which do you think can cause more trouble—a pair of monkeys or a parakeet?

Either way, it's no picnic. Ask Joseph La Valle. When he got in their cage to clean up, his pet Rhesus monkeys, Amos and Mandy, jumped out and shut the door on him. They would have locked it, La Valle said, if he hadn't yelled. He was still trying to coax them out of a neighborhood tree today.

Or ask Mrs. William Ferguson. Butch, her parakeet, escaped his cage last week. For six days he flew about the block giving everybody the bird. Yesterday, for reasons apparent only to a parrot, Butch swooped home.

Made a perfect two-point landing on Mrs. Ferguson's head.

Engineers Plan Tour Of Plant

Raleigh, May 31—(AP)—A party of 44 foreign highway engineers went to Durham today to tour the Nello L. Teer Construction Company plant.

The engineers, who arrived here Monday night, were welcomed officially yesterday on their trip to study roads and road-building methods in this country.

Baptists Ready For 'Big Push'

Winston-Salem, May 31—(AP)—North Carolina Baptists were set today to make the "big push" to move Wake Forest College to Winston-Salem.

Hubert E. Olive, general chairman of the campaign, announced that fund-raising committees are functioning in 32 cities throughout the state. Four others are being organized, he said.

Appeals are being made to all the principal corporations located in the Piedmont and western sections of the state, he said. At the same time, special drives are being carried on among alumni and in the churches.

The appeal is aimed at raising $2,300,000.

"We have been given the assurance that construction of the initial campus will begin when this amount has been raised," Olive said.

No figures were available as to how much of the money is in hand, he said.

Safety In . . .

And—starting next Monday and lasting for three days, a second National safety conference has been called here to look over what's been done in a year and try to do more.

By law, the labor department—The general chairman of next week's conference will be secretary of labor Tobin—has the job of promoting workers' welfare.

The department, through its bureau of labor standards, has worked with the state, for years in the development of safety programs, safety codes, and training.

Guardsmen Leave Strike Scene As Disorders End

Morristown, Tenn., May 31—(AP)—A battalion of National Guardsmen has been removed from the strike-ridden American Enka Corporation's plant here.

Brig. Gen. D. L. McReynolds ordered the Guardsmen from Maryville—56 enlisted men and eight officers—to return to their homes last night.

Withdrawal of one battalion of Guardsmen from the strike scene left some 240 officers and men here to preserve order.

The troops were sent here Monday to put down disorders after Sheriff Robert Medlin told Gov. Gordon Browning that the situation was out of hand.

The company meanwhile announced that it had resumed shipping rayon products from the plant.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
 A BASIC TRUTH

There is a very arresting statement in the first chapter of the Gospel of John: "In him was life." This means that in Jesus was life. If the writer of this gospel had said that in Jesus was power or wisdom or perfect goodness, the statement would not be nearly so arresting as it is. But it says that in Jesus is life.

The Gospel of John from that point on continues to show that there is a reality in the universe which it terms "life," and this "life" is characterized by unlimited power, a perfect sense of peace, and a joy indescribable.

When diseased and afflicted people came in contact with Jesus, they were healed of their diseases. Those who listened to him were enlightened. But those who made real contact with him through faith received from him something that the Fourth Gospel calls "life." It is as if this life which resided in Jesus was a contagion which men "caught" under certain circumstances. And when they did catch this life, they were forthwith equipped to become citizens of an eternal spiritual empire.

The conception of life which runs through the Gospel of John is very marvelous. In fact it is the basic teaching of the New Testament. Many people try to interpret the teaching of Jesus purely from the ethical standpoint. But then this statement confronts them, "In him was life."

Everyone makes mistakes, we're told; but nevertheless, it is embarrassing to find one in our editorial columns as happened yesterday.

In the editorial "The People Are Getting a Much Needed Rest," it was stated that Graham had only 40 per cent of Saturday's primary vote. Graham actually received 49 per cent of the votes cast in Saturday's primary.

They're Building Up A New Horde Of Followers

The Berlin demonstration is a thing of the past. Everyone, apparently including the Communist leaders of the show, is thankful it turned out to be nothing more than a propaganda event.

We do not seriously believe that the majority of 500,000 young Germans were the Communists they were painted; but the crowd undoubtedly had a number of young fanatics in its midst. However, it is an ominous portent that the leaders of the gathering were able to turn on the cheers, and turn them off, at the "proper" intervals.

It would indicate that the leadership was not lacking in quality, and that there was an element of subservience which could be molded into bright-eyed followers of the Soviet system.

As Associated Press Reporter Wes Gallagher noted, the whole affair was reminiscent of the Hitler era. Lukewarm followers in the early days of Nazism were whipped up into frenzied believers in the little paper-hanger. The process can, and probably is, being repeated.

Before our eyes, the enemies of freedom are training hordes of new recruits in their unceasing battle against the western democracies.

While we talk of "total diplomacy," an example of the strategy is being put into effect by Russia.

Now Is The Time To Make Plans For A Negro Pool

With the presence of these warmer days, our thoughts turn to the cooler pastimes which usually come with the hot summer.

In particular, we have in mind the proposed swimming pool which the members of the Greenville board of aldermen said in March they were in accord with providing for the Negro children of Greenville.

Since the meeting when the matter was discussed rather briefly, nothing more has been heard from it.

June is the time of year when children begin wanting to go in swimming—either in a pool or at the river or nearest stream. Likewise, June is the month in which the city officials begin to make up their budget for the coming fiscal year.

Of course it is out of the question to propose that a pool be provided for the use of the Negro children of Greenville this summer, but this seems the time to begin taking the necessary steps to see that these children have a swimming pool ready for their use when June rolls around with the hot days of 1951. A pool for the Negro children of Greenville would cost several thousands of dollars, but it would be a good investment for the city of Greenville. It would not only provide additional recreational facilities for the Negro children, but it would afford protection from the hazardous river which has claimed the lives of many Greenville youths.

The Reflector would suggest that if possible the construction of a swimming pool for Negroes be financed out of the city budget, or at least partially so. If that is not feasible with the present financial condition of the city, money could be secured through a bond issue. It must be considered, however, that Greenville at the present time has a bonded indebtedness of slightly over $3,000,000 in administrative, school and utilities bonds. The administrative and utilities divisions of the city government during the 1950-51 fiscal year alone must pay $81,958.75 in interest on these bonds, and the three divisions together must retire approximately $125,000 of the principal of the outstanding bonds.

Because of the payment of $82,000 in principal on administrative and utilities bonds during the current fiscal year, the board of aldermen legally can issue up to two-thirds that amount in bonds during the coming fiscal year without a vote of the citizens of Greenville.

We believe a sound, satisfactory financial program can be arranged by the city for providing an adequate swimming pool for the Negroes of Greenville by the summer of 1951. The city administration must plan for the project now, however, if it is to be carried out during the next 12 months.

WASHINGTON, May 31—Almost every trail so far uncovered by national, state and local investigators of syndicated crime points toward Frank Costello of Park Avenue, New York City, erstwhile convict, bootlegger, gambler and racketeer, as the overall commercialized vice, despite Attorney General J. Howard McGrath's statement that he does not know of the existence of such an individual.

The Italian-born Costello admits frankly that he was associated with rum-runners and bootleggers during the prohibition era, but the records show that the only major indictment of him on this score was not pressed simply because repeal intervened.

TAKE—He ran the lucrative slot machine game in New York City until the late Mayor La Guardia dumped his one-armed bandits in the East and Hudson Rivers. Then he transferred his operations to the wide-open precincts on the outskirts of New Orleans, where his partner once had the effrontery to sue for recovery of machines confiscated by the police. His take there is estimated at $50 million annually.

Evidence indicates that he has been tied up with several racketeers and bookmaking syndicates in New York, Nebraska and Mexico. He has also had connections with rings in Chicago and Kansas City.

The California Crime Commission has reported that he heads a slot machine business which grosses $2 billion a year, of which $400 million is reserved for bribery of public officials and police officers. A Chicago commission insists that he has been linked with remnants of the Capone gang.

News Behind The News
 By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, May 31—Almost every trail so far uncovered by national, state and local investigators of syndicated crime points toward Frank Costello of Park Avenue, New York City, erstwhile convict, bootlegger, gambler and racketeer, as the overall commercialized vice, despite Attorney General J. Howard McGrath's statement that he does not know of the existence of such an individual.

The Italian-born Costello admits frankly that he was associated with rum-runners and bootleggers during the prohibition era, but the records show that the only major indictment of him on this score was not pressed simply because repeal intervened.

TAKE—He ran the lucrative slot machine game in New York City until the late Mayor La Guardia dumped his one-armed bandits in the East and Hudson Rivers. Then he transferred his operations to the wide-open precincts on the outskirts of New Orleans, where his partner once had the effrontery to sue for recovery of machines confiscated by the police. His take there is estimated at $50 million annually.

Evidence indicates that he has been tied up with several racketeers and bookmaking syndicates in New York, Nebraska and Mexico. He has also had connections with rings in Chicago and Kansas City.

The California Crime Commission has reported that he heads a slot machine business which grosses $2 billion a year, of which $400 million is reserved for bribery of public officials and police officers. A Chicago commission insists that he has been linked with remnants of the Capone gang.

PUZZLING—Despite this shady record, the puzzling feature of the Costello career, in the opinion of the investigators of nationwide racketeering, is that his only conviction and jailing occurred in 1915. He has kept free of the law ever since, largely due to his political connections, according to the sleuths now on his trail.

The strange fact is that he was able to obtain citizenship in 1925, even in the face of these activities. It will be one of the tasks of the Senate committee now studying the underworld's political grip throughout the country to discover what influences and individuals sponsored his naturalization at a time when he was, by his own confession, a large-scale bootlegger.

ATTENTION—Costello's political activities will also engage the attention of the Kefauver committee under the terms of the Senate resolution, which authorized it to find out why nationally organized gangs can plunder the public and commit crimes without any hindrance by local authorities.

As a result, Tammany Hall may suffer from a raking-over such as it has not witnessed under since Tweed and Croker days.

It may be that New York will share the sinister limelight of the inquiry along with Kansas City, where both survivors and rivals of the old Pendergast crime-and-politics machine are now under fire.

FRIENDLY—Costello has long had friendly relations with Democratic politicians, officials, judges and hangers-on in Manhattan.

Despite Mayor O'Dwyer's supposed cleanup of "the hall," the racketeer is reported to be on good terms with the new leader, Carmine G. De Sapio, and numerous district bosses. He has also been host to Hugo E. Rogers, prominent Democrat and Borough President of Manhattan.

When Senator Kefauver begins open hearings, they may be summoned to tell of their relations with the gangster. Even Mayor O'Dwyer himself may be called.

TIMING—Senator Kefauver's timing of open hearings on criminal and political operations in such centers as New York City, Kansas City, Chicago and California may have a definite and possibly anti-administration effect on next November's important state and Congressional elections.

Should the testimony tend to link the underworld with party and City Hall rulers in these places, where the Democrats are generally in control, the candidates for U. S. Senate, Governor, Congress and local officers in those key commonwealths and cities might be hurt.

It is already evident that the GOP plans to highlight the issue described by Senator Taft in his recent reply to President Truman's western speeches as "political immorality."

HEARINGS—Numerous Senators likely to suffer have tried to ascertain whether the young Tennesseean expects to open the doors and the record to the public and the newspaper reporters during the summer or early fall. They would prefer that he defer actual hearings until after the elections.

As of today, he does not seem able to give them any satisfaction. He has not yet known whether the vast work of preliminary investigation and examination will permit him to provide headlines and "hot copy" before November. It is generally believed that he can, if he and fellow-committee members are willing to work through the humid summer months.

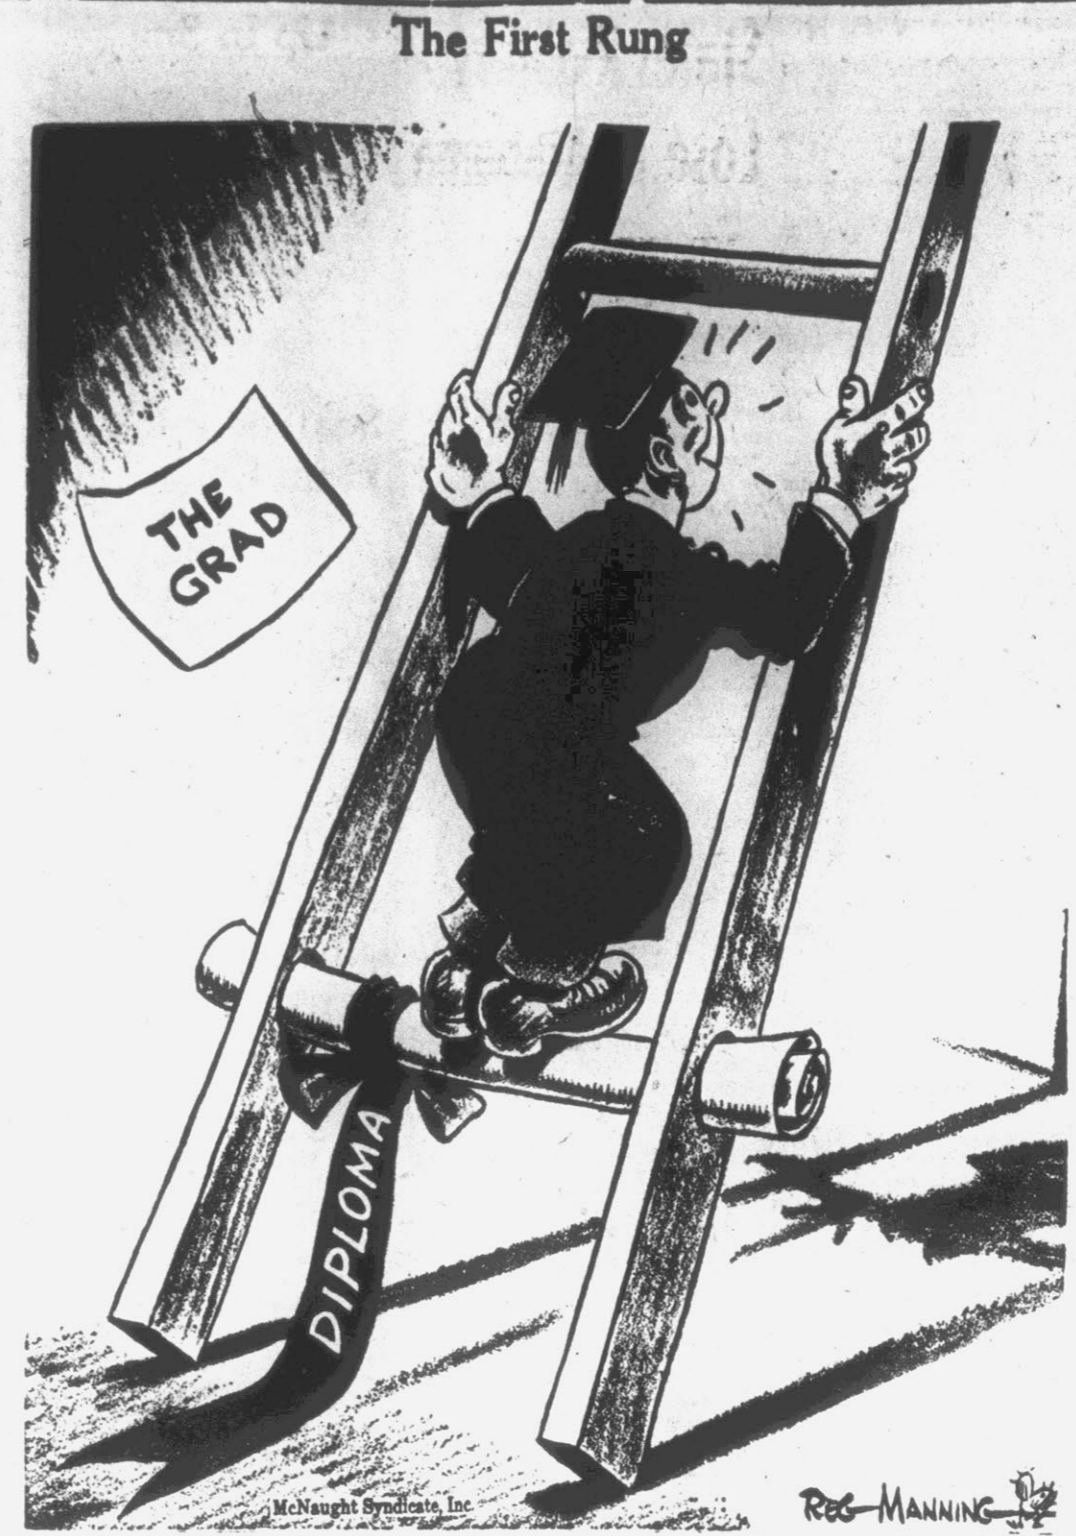

But there will be a definite attempt to persuade him to hold off until late November's more comfortable weather.

The First Rung

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Like every other journalist, I've had my fling with the flying saucers. The column I wrote about them was a brush-off, which ended something like this: "Five hundred years ago the people of England were seeing flying dragons in the sky. Now Americans are seeing flying saucers, and in 500 more years people might be seeing knives, forks and spoons afloat."

Since that column, I've seen more about the saucers—almost enough to change my mind. One influence has been "Scorchy Smith," the comic strip character in the Reflector's Saturday funny paper. Scorchy is now in a tangle with the saucers.

A more serious influence is a radio talk carried over the American Broadcasting System stations by Henry J. Taylor, the noted economist, author, and journalist, who is sponsored by General Motors. Henry says:

"I spoke from Dallas about a saucer found on the ground in Texas three years ago, and hushed up."

"It was real, all right. But nobody was in it, and it did not come from Russia. It came from right in your land and mine. I'm glad to say. Further, any flying saucer is as harmless as a dove."

"We have them. They do exist. They're ours. They're wonderful news—and they come from right here in the U.S.A. Further, if they succeed in doing what they are designed for — they will be of utmost importance to America. As incredible as these objects may seem, let me cover the whole range, and without, I assure you, revealing any military secrets.

"There are several types—but nobody is inside any of them. They vary in size, as authentically reported, from small white discs, 20 inches in diameter and six inches thick (such as was found in Galveston Bay, Texas), to 250 feet in diameter — and that's very big.

"There are several shapes—but nearly all of them are round. Some are flat and edged upward like saucers. Others are raised in the center more like a pie. The latter type, photographed near Wildwood, N.J., at the edge of the sea, was shown in the Miami News.

"Some are guided. Others are not. They have no stream of light or smoke, no indication of a propelling mechanism, and no sound. They can stand momentarily stationary in the air. Then they dash off to left or right, wobbling and picking up speed, in a lazy sort of way, until they move like lightning.

"Flying saucers are a military secret. Until the U. S. Air Force sees fit to release the information, I don't believe it is the proper business of anyone to say how they are flown, why they are flown, where they come from, or what they are used for.

"But when the proper military authorities are ready to release the information, it will be a joy to tell you the whole story. For it is good news—wonderful news—for our country.

"If you find an original and genuine saucer—and the chances are slight, because most of them are made of material which disintegrates in the air and disappears after a given time — you would find a notice printed on it: 'Military Secret of the United States of America. Air Forces (and a number) Anyone Damaging or revealing description or whereabouts of this missile is subject to prosecution by the United States Government. Call collect at once (and a phone number of a U.S. Air Base). Non-explosive.'

"And I might add, if you find one, let me know. And I'll thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.

TANGLED-UP — The office of the Raleigh Bureau of the North Carolina Association of Afternoon Dailies is located in room 101 in the Sir Walter Hotel, where it has been for more than two years after ten years tenancy in room 105, two doors down the hall. This is right across from the Manteo room, traditional location of political headquarters. The Manteo room was occupied by Ralph McDonald headquarters in 1944, by Charles M. Johnson in 1948, and is now site of operations for Willis Smith's senatorial campaign. It is sometimes amusing, sometimes embarrassing when strangers mistake the newspaper office for a part of the political set up. It is convenient for visiting politicians to stop by the newsroom for a chat. They are always welcome. Visiting newspaper folks are urged to use facilities of this office when around the hotel. Many of them take advantage of the reference books and telephones.

AMUSING—One of the amusing incidents was reported in the Raleigh morning newspaper that your correspondent had been seen coming out of a room where a high powered conference about strategy for a second primary had been held. Whether this was in adventure, poor reporting or something else, fact is no such conference was held in 101, your reporter was not in any other room in the hotel during all of that day, and some of the alleged participants have never, to the knowledge of this writer, set foot inside the newspaper office. Some others have been frequent visitors for years, their friendship and visits have long been appreciated, and it is hoped they will not be embarrassed by continuing the practice. Tenancy of the afternoon newspaper bureau is permanent; the political operations are temporary, and any "contamination" suffered can be quickly overcome.

MAJORITIES — Nearly all of the state's 100 counties gave fairly well divided votes in last Saturday's primary for the United States senate. Only in a few instances did any candidate get as much as sixty per cent of the total, and clear majorities were not run up in very many. The story is different with respect to some precincts. Prize winner for solidarity seems to belong to Hillsdale High School precinct in Durham where registration is almost entirely Negro. The vote there was Boyd 2, Graham 1514, Reynolds 6, Smith 7—giving Senator Graham a clear majority of 1499 out of a total of 1529 votes cast. Runner up for honors may be claimed by Greensboro's No. 5 precinct, also with practically solid Negro registration. The vote there was Boyd 3, Graham 1231, Reynolds 15, Smith 12—a clear majority for Graham of 1201 out of a total vote of 1261.

HOME COUNTY—Graham led Smith by 64 votes in Wake county, where most of the precincts were fairly well divided. But in Raleigh's solid Negro precincts the votes were: No. 10—Boyd 1, Graham 493, Reynolds 5, Smith 18, and in No. 16—Boyd 1, Graham 518, Reynolds 7, Smith 18, a clear majority of 970 out of 1052 votes cast in the two boxes. Raleigh No. 16 is known as the Shaw University precinct. Senator Graham also led in each of the three so-called State College precincts the aggregate vote being Boyd 18, Graham 1912, Reynolds 86, Smith 1691. In Raleigh's 22 city precincts the candidates split even, each leading in eleven. The 26 rural Wake precincts went 18 for Smith, 7 for Graham and one tie-vote, an overall score of 29 to 18.

STATEWIDE—There is no controlling pattern with respect to county margins throughout the state. Generally Graham led in industrialized centers, although Smith took Gaston and Mecklenburg. Generally Smith led in rural areas, although Graham took a number of counties where the voting strength was made up almost wholly of farmers. Apparently North Carolinians voted this time as they have done traditionally as citizens first—except gro precincts.

of the business establishments in the country. We know that women do most of the household buying.

We've read the advertisement that always says "Never Underestimate the Power of A Woman."

In short, we are aware of their power.

Any day they'll be invading the law-making bodies of our land en masse. So far they've considered politics, nasty business that it sometimes is, a little beneath them. But here, even now, they're overcoming their natural revulsion and going to Congress and lesser legislatures — probably out of sheer awareness of the mess we're in.

Man, of course, will always have his place, not only as a biological necessity but to do the rougher tasks, handle the more disagreeable details, and just maintain a balance. Women are not unjust.

But at present the male of the species is hitting the skids. Definitely on his way down—and out, we suppose.

Say, fellows, let's get in there and pitch!

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

The jubilation among businessmen several weeks ago over prospective repeal or at least alleviation of the wartime excise taxes, is rapidly changing to dismay and concern.

Nothing is happening, and the time before Congress may adjourn is growing shorter. The prospective legislation, at this writing is still in committee.

Retail spokesmen have confided to this writer that they have about given up hope the remedial excise measure will be enacted by Congress before July, and they wonder if anything at all will happen this year.

There are two obstacles to excise relief, businessmen think:

1—The Federal deficit bulks so large that Congress is unwilling to give up any existing revenue. If the proposed legislation remains in committee, Congressmen can eat their cake and have it. They can say to the home folks: "Well, I'd have voted for the bill if it ever came on the floor, but it didn't."

2—Another theory is that the inclusion of excise repeal advocates in the present investigation of lobbyists has damaged the case of the pro-repealers with Congress.

Some businessmen are even worrying that if action isn't taken this session, the excise taxes may become a permanent fixture.

The fur trade, which has languished in the doldrums for several years now, is especially concerned. Fur men feel women have heard so much about possible removal of the tax that they won't buy until it is lifted.

"If it isn't," a leading fur retailer said the other day, "we might as well close up shop and go home."

"HOLLAND FAIR" CALLED BIG TRAFFIC BUILDER

The two-weeks half-way point in the unique promotion of Holland goods staged by Gimbel's department store in Philadelphia found the Fair had pulled 150,000 visitors, a spokesman for the store reports. In fact, store executives call it the strongest traffic promoter they have ever had. This is believed to be the first time a national group has gotten together to put on its own trade fair in this country, except for the British automobile shows. Some 150 Holland manufacturers, coordinated by the Netherlands Ministry of Economics, showed about 1000 products. Among the best sellers were the foods: cheese, canned goods, chocolates and other confections.

The Holland ceramics are selling well in the Fair too, and the store also reports noticeable interest in the fabrics and toys.

From the point of view of the Netherlands, that was the chief aim of the exhibit: to learn which of their products most interested the American public.

MORE BABIES MEAN MORE DRUG SALES

For druggists—especially those who make a play for it—the continuing high birth rate means continuing good sales. Last year's crop of infants rose above 3 1/2 millions to make the second biggest year for births in history.

Each baby requires $84 worth of drug-store goods and services its first year, estimates the Advertisers Exchange drug newsletter. Also: drug store purchases of a family with a baby are two-thirds more than those of a family without.

How do you get the baby drug-and-toiletary trade? For one way, by setting up a department of baby needs.

Druggists already are able to congratulate themselves on the current rise in prescriptions. The number and dollar volume of Rx's made a new all-time high last year. Drug Topics magazine reports. Especially helpful: the ratio of refills total prescriptions also increased to a new high.

SHORT AND SIGNIFICANT BUSINESS NOTES

The National Association of Purchasing Agents still considers the present advance in prices selective, rather than a resumption of over-all inflation, its latest bulletin says. New York—(AP)—Wilbur Peeble came home the other night and said briskly:

"Hello, Hon. When'll dinner be ready? I'm hungry as a grizzly bear."

His wife, Trellis Mae, looked at him sternly and replied:

"Wilbur. You forgot something. You go right back out that door and come in again."

So Peeble went outside — and then he remembered. Annoyed, he came back in and gave his wife a kiss-peck on her ear, a custom he sometimes wished he hadn't started on their honeymoon 15 years before.

"That's better," said Trellis Mae.

"I still want to know how long it'll be before dinner."

"Dinner will be ready as soon as I thaw it out—and heat it up again."

"What do you mean—thaw it out?" grumbled her husband. "What are we having—icicles?"

"Something good—frozen steak, frozen peas and carrots, iceberg lettuce salad, and frozen strawberries for dessert."

"Frozen this, frozen that—what am I, a man or a refrigerator?" demanded Wilbur.

"Now, don't be angry dear!" Wilbur stormed over to his favorite chair and shook open his evening newspaper.

"A man works hard all day at his office, he comes home to eat, and what does he find???" said Wilbur. "He finds his wife sitting in the living room waiting for the dinner to thaw out in the kitchen. Father never had to twiddle his thumbs while his dinner melted. Mother had it there — hot and ready."

Trellis Mae came and stood over him ominously.

"Don't start telling me again about how your mother used to cook over a hot stove. Your father had ulcers at 40 from eating all that greasy food she served him."

"My father didn't have ulcers until he was 43," said Wilbur, with dignity.

Trellis Mae muttered something that sounded like, "Oh, dry up, Junior," and went back to the kitchen. Wilbur could hear her beating the thawing steak with a wooden mallet.

"A man gets tired of all this pre-heated, vitamin-stuffed, pre-frozen, dehydrated stuff that passes for food," he said. "It's everything but pre-digested, and I suppose they'll get to that next. I'm tired of being treated like a chemical formula."

"You eat better than your father did," barked Trellis Mae. "What's wrong with frozen food?"

"Nothing," said Wilbur, getting up and going into the kitchen. "I just get tired of waiting for the summer thaws to set in. Give me an icepick. I think I'll hack off a snack now to keep from starving."

"You will not, Smart Alec!" said his wife. "Now you get out of my kitchen, and be still!"

An hour later, groaning and patting his stomach Wilbur got up from the dinner table and started back to his easy chair.

"How was the meal, dear?" asked Trellis Mae.

"Wonderful, wonderful!"

"Before you sit down will you run across the street to the grocery store for me? I forgot something."

"Sure. What do you want?"

"Some frozen orange juice for your breakfast," said Trellis Mae brightly.

"Yes, dear," sighed Wilbur. "But please... please... no powdered eggs."

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON—Most books, pamphlets and magazines are too difficult for millions of adult Americans to read. This was shown in a recent inquiry among librarians and educators throughout the country. "In a nut shell, 50,000,000 adults would appreciate easier reading materials," Dr. Homer Kempfer, adult education specialist, U.S. Office of Education, told me.

There is a dearth of reading material easy enough for the large percentage of the population who have not gone beyond the sixth grade at school. Much of the need, Dr. Kempfer says, is in the non-fiction field for those adults who can read only at the third, fourth or fifth-grade levels and for adults who cannot handle normal "adult" materials of eighth grade level or higher. The survey shows a wide demand for material on citizenship, homemaking, family life and parent education, science and technology, health, business, consumer education, public speaking, elementary education and letter-writing.

"The new census will say 8,000,000 or 9,000,000 adults have only gone through the fourth grade at school," Dr. Kempfer told me. "Nearly half of all adults have not finished ninth grade and can usually read comfortably only at two or three grades below this, because of forgetting or other reasons." He added that two-thirds never frequent libraries, that annual sale of adult trade books never exceeds one for every four adults, that only 25 per cent of the population reads books, as against 50 per cent magazines and 95 per cent newspapers. "About 4,000,000 can't handle much more than comics, or struggle over headlines," he told me.

What to do? Dr. Kempfer says the best answer, of course, would be to eliminate illiteracy entirely and raise the reading skills to full adult level. Dr. Kempfer himself believes preparation and distribution of materials of diverse content, slanted for those of low reading ability, would be an answer.

"There is a vast market of 50,000,000 readers awaiting writers and publishers who can solve the problem," he suggested. "Further invention in the publishing field seems needed. The answer may lie in some combination of pictures and line drawings, controlled low reading level, attractive format, large type, color, pocket size, pamphlet thickness, low cost."

Still Paying For Help He Gave Family 8 Years Ago

Winston-Salem, N. C. May 31—(AP)—William Monroe Cameron isn't a philosopher. But he could become one very easily.

It all began more than eight years ago when the husky, jack-of-all-trades played good samaritan for some of his relatives.

When no one else dared venture into a deep snow to cut the firewood for the home on the outskirts of Winston-Salem, Cameron did it. Last week, one of his "sons" dropped off at the joint. Pain came with it, but he was accustomed to aching pain.

In the intervening eight years Cameron's afternoon of chopping wood has cost him:

1. The loss of his right leg, four inches below the knee.
2. The loss of his left leg six inches below the knee.
3. The loss of nearly half of his fingers and the prospect that all of them will be gone within a year. And perhaps his hands, too.

Doctors called it gangrene, blood poisoning—the price paid for an evening in the snow. Cameron calls it "a dirty trick."

"I'll always be paying for that afternoon," the 45-year-old inmate worker said from his wheelchair yesterday.

Cameron has lived a lonely life for eight years, brightened only by the sound of his wife's footsteps on the porch each evening.

Sometimes in that life, at his hands and the stubs of his legs gets the best of him. When that happens, he tries to summon neighbors who call Mrs. Cameron home from her job at a local laundry.

The lousy-haired Tw... Citizen will never forget that afternoon eight years ago.

After he had finished chopping the wood for his relatives and started the long walk home, he felt something was wrong. The wrappings around his feet were wet and then suddenly dry. His gloves were the same.

A quarter of the way home, he couldn't walk any more. He fell and built a fire and warmed himself. A series of walks and fires finally got him home.

The doctors took Cameron's right foot and lower leg off first. They shook their heads over the prospect of saving his left leg. It came off a few months later.

His wife put him in his wheelchair and became his legs for him, lifting him in and out of bed. They have no children.

Ironically, just about the time that Cameron was getting ready to have his second leg taken off, the army sent him a notice for examination under selective service.

It wanted to see if he was physically fit for service. He wasn't. And that was another blow for which he had to cushion himself.

"There wasn't anybody that wanted to get in the arm, any worse than I did," he said. "I just wanted to die right there in the hospital when they called me and I couldn't go."

Monday afternoon, there were tears in his eyes. A close relative had died and been buried and no one had bothered to tell him.

States Righters Lose In Alabama

Birmingham, Ala., May 31—(AP)—Alabama Democrats loyal to the National party have clinched control of state party machinery they wrested from "states righters."

Regular Democrats won five of seven places on the state Democratic executive committee in yesterday's runoff primary, on the basis of an official but apparently conclusive tally.

Loyalists captured 38 seats on the 72-man committee in the May 2 primary, but four places were contested by states righters.

By taking five places in the sixth district runoff yesterday, the regular Democrats were assured 29 seats—for a majority—even if the contested seats were lost.

States righters added the two runoff seats in the ninth district to the 26 won in the first primary. One other member May 2 was committed to neither side.

The majority membership on the state committee thus reverts to regular Democrats. The committee controls party machinery in Alabama.

Up In Smoke

Danville, Calif., May 31—(AP)—It took George Helebrandt two years of hard labor to remodel their six room frame house.

They finished it yesterday in the heat of the day.

As they sat in the patio resting from their hard work, they heard a crackling sound inside the house. Rushing inside they found the house afire.

It burned to the ground.

Two Claim High Insurance Post

Greensboro, May 31—(AP)—Two men claim the presidency of the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company, one of the nation's largest.

On Monday the board of directors shifted Ralph C. Price from the presidency to the chairmanship of the board. At the same time, Howard Holderness, a former vice president, was elected president to replace Price.

Price said last night that he doubted the legality of the board's action and was going to remain as president until the issue was settled. He issued a letter to that effect to stockholders, "purely as a matter of information," he said.

"I am still the president," he declared.

Holderness maintained: "I was elected president of the company Monday, May 29, by the board of directors. It was effective immediately."

Price has been head of the company since 1946 when his father, Julian Price, founder of the company, was killed in an automobile accident.

Still No Answer To Big Question On Vote Scene

Raleigh, May 31—(AP)—There still was no answer today to the top question left by last Saturday's Democratic primary:

Will Willis Smith demand a runoff primary against Senator Frank Graham?

Smith headquarters had no comment yesterday, and campaign workers said they had no idea when an announcement might be made.

Meanwhile, headquarters for Graham, who led Smith by about 50,000 votes in the race for the senatorial nomination, said the senator had received supports from two county managers for former Senator Robert R. Reynolds, who ran third Saturday.

Registrar Faces Violation Claim

Lexington, May 31—(AP)—Registrar Darol Morgan of Precinct Eight, Lexington, has been charged with violation of the state election laws.

Oliver A. Farabee, losing candidate for Democratic nomination for sheriff, made the complaint. He alleged that Morgan offered to help mark the ballots of two voters and asked them to vote for Farabee's successful opponent, Thurman Briggs.

The warrant was served Monday. Morgan has furnished bond for appearance in court Friday.

Robins Make Sweep Of Memorial Day Contests

Trim Tarboro By 6-2 And 5-4 Scores

By BERT MOYE

Manager Randy Heflin and his Greenville Robins made a clean sweep of the Memorial Day games with the Tarboro Athletics yesterday, taking the afternoon contest over Tarboro by a 6-2 score and then returning home last night to edge a 5-4 win. The double win for the Robins now gives them a record of four wins and two losses with the Athletics for the current season.

Afternoon Game
Vince Jones, the loser in an extra inning contest with the Athletics earlier in the season, pitched the win yesterday afternoon as he throttled Joe Antolick and his boys with seven scattered hits. The win for Jones was his fourth of the season. He has suffered six defeats.

The Robins got their margin of victory in the first frame when they scored three runs on three hits and an error. After Paul Strausser had come out pitcher to first, Vince Lautato singled into centerfield, Johnny Tepedino hit a line drive over second base, George Hallow hit to second sacker Ken Hartman, who booted the ball, with Lautato scoring. Joe Guidice then doubled against the fence in right centerfield to bring in Tepedino with Hallow taking third. Bruce Robbins' long fly to rightfield scored Hallow.

In the fifth inning the Robins scored two more runs on two hits, a walk and a balk. With one out, Lautato singled into right field, Tepedino singled into right centerfield, Hallow was walked, leading the bases. Guidice forced Hallow at second with Lautato scoring and Tepedino advanced to third, and then when Pitcher Bobby Zick balked Tepedino came on home.

In the seventh a single by Paul Strausser, Lautato's sacrifice, a wild pitch by Zick, advancing Strausser to third, and Tepedino's long fly to left field gave the Robins their final run of the game.

The Athletics were held scoreless until the sixth inning when they scored a singleton on a walk to Drake and Marvin Donaldson's triple to right centerfield. With the aid of two singles and an infield out the Athletics scored another tally in the eighth frame.

Vince Lautato and Johnny Tepedino with two singles each led the six-hit attack off Bobby Zick.

Marvin Donaldson with a triple and a single and Red Beck with two singles paced the seven-hit attack off Jones.

Night Game
The Robins returned home last night to edge a 5-4 win over the Tarboro A's to make a clean sweep of the holiday ball.

The Heflin boys bunched together six of their eight hits in three straight frames to do all their scoring. A double by Bakits, three errors, a walk and a balk gave them two runs in the fourth frame. Singles by Tepedino and Bakits, a double by Guidice and two errors gave them two more runs in the fifth frame.

Ray Keys went the route for the Robins and was credited with his second win of the season over the Athletics and gave him a record of four wins and four losses for the current season. Although he gave up a total of 10 hits, he kept them well scattered with four of them coming in the third frame.

Dal Orf, Hal Crofts and Manager Joe Antolick got two singles each to lead the attack off Keys.

John Bakits and Mat Hall, each with a double and a single, led the eight-hit attack off Pitchers Joe Jelly and Dan Martin of the Athletics.

The Robins travel to New Bern tonight to meet the Bears in the first of a two-game series and return home on Thursday night for the second contest.

dice and two errors gave them two more runs in the fifth frame. A singleton in the sixth frame gave them their margin of victory. Mat Hall led off with a double and after Keys had popped out to Catcher Joe Antolick, Paul Strausser came through with a single into centerfield to bring home Hall for what later proved the winning marker.

The A's scored two runs in the third to go out in front 2-0 at this point on singles by Antolick and Orf and a double by Billy Carr. They came back in the fifth to score a singleton on a single and two errors, and put across their final marker in the eighth on two singles and a fielder's choice.

The Rochester Red Wings baseball team joined the International league in 1950.

They're Young, But Play Like Hardened Champs

They may be only 12 years old but they play like hardened champions of the ball diamond—so much so, in fact, that they took the championship of the Northeastern Boys' League, their third athletic championship of the past school year. They are the Greenville Midget baseball team, shown above, when they won the league race after beating Kinston for the second time this year. Besides coping top honors in baseball, the boys won the basketball and football championships during those respective seasons. Coached by Bill Kittrell, East Carolina student from Greenville (who is not shown in the picture) the Midgets are left to right, front row—Charles Rumley, Aiton Flye, Johnny Barnhill; second row—Garrett Folger, Edwin Williams, Pat Sawyer, Ike Riddick, Mike Riddick, Tommy Key Norris; third row—Harris Northrup, Harry White Scott, Hall Edwards, Bob Corwin, Dale Brooks. Team members not pictured are Tommy Smith, Jim McGee, Billy Gardner, Billy Johnson and Tilman Keel. (Photo by Roy Hardee).

Musial Homers In Forbes Field

Pittsburgh, May 31—(AP)—Stan Musial, baseball's top hitter, is limping back into the National League's more sunny climes today, after a brief holiday at home that cost him a neat 27 percentage points off his .442 batting mark.

Stan the man had succumbed once more to one of the unexplainable jinxes of baseball.

Musial never has been able to hit in Forbes field, which is just 20 miles north of his Donora, Pa., home.

His St. Louis Cardinal mates swept the Pittsburgh Pirates in two holiday games, 17-13 and 8-5. The rampaging Redbirds collected a total of 30 hits in the process.

Musial, who's leading both major leagues in hitting, rang up Cardinal biog No. 29 after nine hitless turns at the plate.

Ironically, it was a goofy inside the park homer which bounced off the glove of Wally Westlake after he collided with rookie Gus Bell in right field in the ninth inning of the second game that prevented Musial from being blanked.

Last year Musial batted a puny .122 in the Buccos' Bastion, although his average for the season was .338.

Brooklyn Scout Cheers On Philadelphia Star Sisler

Brooklyn, May 31—(AP)—Dick Sisler, Philadelphia left fielder, caught the ball on the fat of his bat and banged it against the right-field scoreboard for a triple.

Over on the Brooklyn side of the field, the Dodgers' chief scout, a slender fellow with a weather-beaten face, beamed.

Sisler later connected again and this time the ball was out of the park. Then Dick lined a screaming single.

The old Dodger scout couldn't contain himself. He broke into a wide, happy smile.

In the seventh inning, the Philadelphia flycatcher made a diving, sprawling catch of Gene Hermanski's low liner.

The Brooklyn operative rose to his feet and, with a great show of self control, managed to restrain applause.

"I sure do love to see that kid hit," he enthused. "That catch wasn't bad either, was it?"

Treason? Naw, just family pride. The old Dodger scout was George Sisler, diamond hero of another era.

The star of the first Brooklyn-Philadelphia game at Ebbets Field yesterday was his son.

Precedent-Shattering Score By Postal Team

Post Office bowlers last night set a mark for the rest of City Tournament teams to roll at when they rang up a precedent-shattering 2,328 three game score to lead the other six which had rolled previously.

The precedent was White Chevrolet's high three game total of 2,270 pins established Monday night in the opening round. That score reigned supreme until a little shorter 10 last night when the letter carriers opened their one night stand.

With one of their ace bowlers in the hospital, the team rolled games of 714, 812 and 802 to set a sizzling pace reminiscent of some of the hotter nights on which teams in the Industrial League had bowled.

Bob Matthews set the pace for his four kegging mates when he broke 200 twice and fell back sharply in the third game. Matthews' game were 208, 213 and 167.

Only five teams bowled last night, the other two having to wait until tonight to wind up the team rolling event. The Independents rolled third best of the two nights' bowling with a total score of 2,212 pins, shortly 16 pins of White's score.

Bilbro Wholesale rang up fourth place high with 2,203. Following the first four were State Highway and Public Works Commission with 2,126 and Flanagan Buggy with 2,046—lowest mark to date.

Matthews was far and away the hottest man on the alleys so far. His three game total added up to 588. Next best was a Post Office teammate, Dave Mosier, with 552.

Three others broke the 500 mark last night. Tyson Bilbro hit 524 for third high, followed by Jack Teel, Independents, 519, and B. Smith, State Highway, 504.

Tonight Carolina Dairy and Imperial Tobacco enter for their respective three games to wind up the team event. It is expected that a handicap from the Post Office score will be set. This is figured at 70 percent of the difference between Post Office score and the other teams' scores. It is then added to the lower scores to bring them up to more or less par with the Post Office.

President Ray Goodman of the Coastal Plain League is right on the ball. Taking cognizance of the complaints that the ball games were being drawn out too long, with most of the delays being unnecessary ones, he has sent a directive to all managers, umpires and club presidents in the league, telling them that the delays must be cut out. The fans should be mighty grateful to President Goodman.

Perhaps this has been the direct cause of attendance being so low in the various parks during the current season. No fan likes to go out to a game and watch a game that lasts well over two hours when it could have been reeled off, in most cases, in less time than that. Especially noticeable is attendance out here at Guy Smith Stadium to witness a team that is now playing 500 ball at the present time.

Business Manager Russ Filley and Player-Manager Randy Heflin are doing everything in their power to get a winning combination by making changes in the roster from time to time. They need your support at the ball park so why not plan now to attend the home games. Financial as well as moral support are needed to give the Robins a winning combination this season.

Below is the letter sent out by the League President:

"To All Club President and Managers, Umpires of Coastal Plain League,
"Gentlemen:
"Too many complaints are reaching this office concerning the slow manner in which our games are being played. Most of these complaints are justified.

"Pitchers are taking entirely too much time. Players are calling time too frequently and unnecessarily. For instance, infielders are taking relays from the outfielders—calling time—and walking to the mound with the ball and handing it to the pitcher. This practice must stop.

"It was agreed that we would not have any protests on ball and strike decisions, and it has been my observation that managers have left the benches and coach boxes and gone to the plate to protest the umpire's ball and strike decisions two or three times during an inning. This procedure slows up the games, and will no longer be tolerated.

Every effort on the part of all concerned must be exercised in eliminating this violation of the playing rules.

"In some cases hitters are slow in taking their positions at the plate, and this is particularly true of pitchers. There is no reason why a pitcher should not be ready to take his turn at bat promptly.

"There is no excuse for a ball game to last three hours or longer in this league, unless it goes into extra innings or is delayed by rain, and in the future, I will expect your full cooperation in every way to speed up our games. From the reports that I get, these long drawn-out ball games are certainly hurting our attendance, and, if our league is to survive financially and sustain its popularity, we must do everything possible to bring people into our parks.

"Your attention is directed to the confidential letter from Mr. Tautman's office, dated May 25, 1950, concerning profane and obscene language on and off the field. Please be governed accordingly.

"Sincerely,
"Ray H. Goodman, President."

SMOKY JOE

By W. F. BRAGG

Chapter 15
On a moonlit night, as he lay on his hard bunk, he heard a harsh whisper just outside his window.

"Smoky? You awake? It's me! Whisperrin' Johnson!"

Springing from the bunk, Joe carried his stool over and placed it beneath the window. There was joy in his heart. His saddle mate lived. He hadn't deserted him. He had come to his aid.

The man who had whispered to Joe was not crouched against the wall just as he had stepped forward. Nor could Joe see any sign of Whisperrin' Johnson's stumpy figure in the yard.

But he did see a man suddenly step into the moonlight. The man was tall. He wore dull black garments. His face was a white blur beneath the brim of a low-crowned black hat.

The instinct of self-preservation which, at times, operates more swiftly than the conscious processes of thought almost forced Joe off the stool just as a shotgun boomed. Buckshot whizzed through the bars. Some bored holes through the window pane which Joe had raised for fresh air.

Not content with thrusting him into jail, the murder combine had determined to kill him like a rat in a trap.

But when Hard Hat Bulvane was informed of the attempted killing by the man in black, he scoffed at Joe's account. He declared that some careless citizen who wished to save the county the expense of Joe's trial had waited his chance and fired a load of buckshot at Joe.

"Why call him careless?" Joe asked angrily.

"If he hadn't been careless," Bulvane answered brutally, "he'd have taken his time and made sure he's taken care of."

Road Work Bids 'Good' Despite Competition Off

Raleigh, N.C., May 31—(AP)—Highway commission officials rate the low bids on its newest group of projects as generally good, despite a slackening of competition.

Contractors yesterday went $199,684.56 below commission estimates on a list of 25 jobs. Low bids totaled $2,248,315.45. There were no bids on a 26th project, and one job drew only one bid.

State Highway Engineer W. H. Rogers Jr. observed that competition was "not very keen," despite generally good prices. The total of bids was 122, fewer than for any similar list of projects this year.

The Santa Fe railway was named for Santa Fe, New Mexico but never ran through it. Instead, a spur line of that railroad serves Santa Fe, capital city of the state.
