Residential Mail Deliveries Halved Beginning June 16

City Mail Delivery Routes Being Changed In Compliance With Post Office Orders; Business Section Deliveries Not Affected

Greenville residential areas on June 16 will begin receiving one mail delivery a day instead of two. The announcement was made today by Postmaster J. Knott Proctor and Superintendent of Mails Joe Dudley, who said the city mail delivery routes are being changed in compliance with the recent order from the post office department.

Dudley said although the number of mail deliveries per day are being changed, and a city motor route is being eliminated, no area in Greenville which has been getting mail delivery service will be cut off under the new set-up. He pointed out that approximately 1,500 persons in the city who now are on city motor carrier routes will be receiving their mail by foot carriers on June 16.

In spite of the fact that the deliveries to the residential areas will be cut in half, Dudley estimated that the reduction of deliveries will cause a delay in the delivery of only 15 per cent of the first class mail which is destined for the residential sections. He explained that 85 per cent of the letters now being delivered under the twice-a-day system are being delivered in the mornings. The present afternoon deliveries he said, consist mostly of magazines and other second class matter.

Deliveries in the business sections of the city as far as the Atlantic Coast Line railroad crossing on Dickinson Avenue will be continued on a twice-a-day basis. The delivery routes in the residential sections of the city will begin about 8:45 in the mornings, and all the mail should be delivered by 3:30 in the afternoons according to the schedule worked out by the local post office.

"Some people are going to get their mail later than they have been getting it," Dudley commented, "but we will have to serve the business sections of the city first. In making the changes to comply with the post office department order which was issued on April 18, the local postal officials have arranged with the department to incorporate into foot delivery routes a large portion of the territory which has been included in the city motor delivery routes since they were started in April 1949.

Foot delivery routes which now stop at Elm Street will be extended out East Third, Fourth and Fifth Streets to Hill Top Avenue. Maple and Elm Streets between Fifth and Tenth Streets also will be included in the foot routes with territory north of First Street between Summit, Jarvis, Woodlawn, Harding.

Lineberger Wins Alumni Election Over J. Ficklen
Chapel Hill, N.C., June 5—(AP)—J. Harold Lineberger, textile executive of Belport, is the new president of the General Alumni Association of the University of North Carolina.

He won in a close race with James B. Ficklen, of Greenville. Results of the annual election, conducted by mail ballot of dues-paying members, were announced today at the alumni luncheon, one of the features of commencement.

Chicod School Issue Is Aired At Hearing

Dispute Between Chicod School District Committee And Chicod Citizens Over Retention Of Instructor

An alleged recent blowup between the Chicod school district committee and Chicod citizens terminated in an open hearing this morning before the Pitt board of education and over 400 Chicod citizens as they met in the courthouse to argue the legality of the termination of a teacher's contract for next year. Such notifications, Underwood said, must be made prior to the end of each school year. In Williams case, his contract had been legally terminated. As regards Lewis, his contract for 1950-51 is intact.

After Williams' contract had been ended by the committee, another vo-ag teacher was appointed effective July 1 of this year. He is Eugene James. Chairman Joseph Moyle 'entertained a motion that the citizens meet with the board again on June 21 to continue public hearing on the matter relative to James' approval. He said no action will be taken on Lewis' contract before that time. Lewis had been principal of Chicod school for over 10 years.

The petitioning citizens accused Jack Edwards, Greenville attorney, to represent them before the county board this morning. Edwards stated he was before the board because of "overwhelming sentiment" on the part of Chicod citizens and because the law had "been violated in not giving Williams proper notice" of the termination of his contract. The packed courtroom heard county attorney Sam B. Underwood state that none of the General Statutes of the state had been violated as they pertained to the hiring and firing of school personnel.

Underwood stated that Williams had been notified via letter before the end of the past school term that his services would not be required next year. The letter was dated May 19. He also said that by an act of "automatic tenure" Lewis' job was intact for next year because he had not been notified before the term's end that he would not be retained.

H. W. Tribble Is Choice Of Board
Elected Wake Forest President By Trustees Today
Wake Forest, June 5—(AP)—Dr. Harold Wayland Tribble today was unanimously elected president of Wake Forest college by the college's board of trustees.

Tribble, for 18 years professor of theology at the Southern Baptist seminary, is now president of Andover Newton Theological School in Massachusetts. Fifty years old, he is a native of Charlottesville, Va., and has been a frequent visitor to the Wake Forest campus. Tribble's election was announced by Dr. C. C. Warren of Charlotte, chairman of a committee named a year ago to select a successor to the Wake Forest college president, Dr. Thurman D. Kitchin.

Kitchin, now 64 years old, will retire effective July 1. Dr. Warren asserted that "I know of no man on earth who will do a better job of unifying our forces and leading us into the college in this crucial era of its history." Warren said the trustees are leaving to Tribble the exact date when he will arrive here, but added "We hope that he will be here for the opening of the coming fall term." Warren said that Tribble was selected for the presidency "after due and fully consideration of approximately 35 men."

Policy Of Expediency
Guiding Principle Of Maintaining Peace By Building U. S. And Allied Strength Has Its Drawbacks; Moves Pounded Upon By Kremlin As Imperialism Evidence
By CLARKE BEACH

The basic Dilemma of those who guide United States foreign policy has come into sharp focus. President Truman said at his Thursday news conference that he believed the world is closer to permanent peace than at any time in the last five years. He had been asked to comment on a poll (published) which indicated that a majority of Americans expect war by 1955; and he replied that he did not agree with that at all.

Yet a few hours earlier, in asking Congress to continue for a second year the military aid program for nations threatened with Communist aggression, he warned of dangers. In his report on the past year's program, he described "the increasingly bold and menacing character of Communist activities in many sectors of the earth."

Sec. Johnson Says Soviets Have Road-blocked Every Other Peace Avenue

Washington, June 5—(AP)—The administration told Congress today that arming Europe is the only road left open toward peace and security. "The Soviets have roadblocked every other avenue, Secretary of Defense Johnson testified before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees. The program is a "vital immediate step" toward world peace, Secretary of State Acheson told the House Foreign Affairs Committee simultaneously.

Both cabinet officers testified in support of President Truman's call for a $1,222,500,000 authorization to bolster the defenses of countries opposing Communism. Their appearance at the capital came on the heels of a statement from Senator Byrd (D-Va.) who called for an "impregnable national defense" for America itself and described the foreign arms program as a "waste of money."

"Because the Soviets speak and think only in terms of force," Johnson said, "the danger of aggression can be avoided only by the prompt development of North Atlantic treaty forces sufficient to make Soviet armed attack a risk too dangerous for it to run." Last year Congress voted $1,314,000,000 for re-arming Western Europe and other non-Communist nations. Johnson said about $1,100,000,000 will have been used by June 30.

But Johnson said no attempt will be made to match Soviet strength division for division. He said the 1951 aim is prompt equipment of a relatively small force "with the modern weapons and increased firepower made possible by today's science." Acheson in similar vein told the House committee: "It is supremely important to provide this assistance if the momentum toward the restoration of genuine strength for peace in the Atlantic community is to be maintained and speeded up."

The Western nations, Acheson declared, are "well embarked on a path to the solution" of problems raised by what he termed the threat of Soviet Russian policies. Acheson said his recent meeting with Western leaders in London impressed on him the need for the United States to measure up to its world responsibilities. The other Western countries, he said, look to this nation "to help provide a strong and clear leadership which is needed to realize the inherent strength of all."

Ask Longer Leaf Auction Season
Myrtle Beach S.C., June 5—(AP)—South Carolina tobacco warehousemen let it be known today that they want a longer auction sales season. They adopted a motion asking that there be 33 sales days between the time their markets open and the opening of the North Carolina and Virginia old belts. This would be approximately seven weeks as compared with last season when there was a spread of 28 sales days between the opening.

Ayden Man Hurt In Road Accident
Doudy Smith, of Route 2 Ayden, was taken to Pitt General hospital last night after he walked into the side of an oncoming car on the Bethel Highway in front of Duke's service station. According to information received from Police Officer W. D. Berg who investigated the accident, Smith was trying to cross the highway when he got caught in the middle of the road with lines of traffic on both sides of him.

He had been ill only a short time. At one time he was owner and publisher of the St. Louis Star-Times. He was a brother of U.S. Comptroller-General Lindsay Warren.

Super Panel?

Washington, June 5—(AP)—A White House source said today "there is a strong possibility" that President Truman will appoint a "super panel" to review the cases of 81 State Department employees whose loyalty has been questioned by Senator McCarthy.

This source, unquotable by name, said no final decision has been made but that Mr. Truman is considering the idea. He said the "super panel," if created, would not supersede the present loyalty review system, but would assist it. The President may discuss the proposal at a conference he has scheduled later today with Senator Tydings (D-Md.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee investigating McCarthy's charges. Tydings' committee now is concentrating on the 1945 Amerasia case which involved illegal removal of secret government documents from the State Department.

Jap Peace Pact Terms Emerging

Washington, June 5—(AP)—Agreement between the State and defense departments on plans for a Japanese peace settlement is expected to result from a series of conferences in Tokyo. Secretary of defense Johnson and the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, Gen. Omar Bradley, are scheduled to leave next weekend on a Pacific tour that will take them in about 10 days to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Japanese occupation headquarters. John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser whom Secretary of State Acheson has asked to work on Japanese policy, also is planning to leave Washington for Tokyo about June 14 and will be there about the same time as Johnson.

Johnson is said authoritatively to be making this trip partly to find out for himself at first hand exactly what MacArthur thinks about the treaty and related questions of Japanese security. He is thus assuming a direct responsibility which until recently he had delegated to former army undersecretary Tracy Voorhes, a firm opponent of any Japanese peace treaty in the near future. MacArthur's general views on the treaty project are well known. He feels that an occupation comes to the end of its usefulness after about five years, that the people against it and that anyway the Japanese have earned the right to independence by a peace settlement.

Dulles has made a preliminary study of the problem which has apparently convinced him that it is extremely difficult to find a satisfactory way out and that the defense department is right in being deeply concerned over security questions. There is no question among top officials here—Johnson, Dulles or any others—that whatever the course taken American troops will have to remain in Japan for a long time.

Davidson Drive Gains Success

Davidson, N. C., June 5—(AP)—President John R. Cunningham of Davidson College announced today that the school's $2,500,000 development program "is successful by a comfortable margin." The development program, launched in February, 1949, sought funds for a $1,000,000 added endowment with the remainder going for buildings and campus improvements. Southern railroads later adopted a policy of setting aside a table or two for Negroes in dining cars. These tables are separated from others in the cars by partitions or curtains. Henderson, however, pressed his fight against any segregation. He is now a director of the American Council of Human Rights.

The new dining car policy was approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission. When Henderson took his fight to the Supreme Court, the commission defended its action, but the Justice Department opposed it.

Truman Signs Foreign Aid Authorization In Ceremony

Offer New Regulations Affecting Leaf Auction

Proposed Rules Submitted To Bright Belt Warehouse Association Meeting; Will Be Acted Upon Tomorrow

Myrtle Beach, S.C., June 5—(AP)—Regulations to improve conditions at tobacco auction sales were proposed to warehousemen of the flue-cured tobacco area here today. One of the proposed rules is intended to keep warehousemen and their employees from speculating in tobacco. Another would forbid warehousemen from publishing false claims regarding tobacco sold on their warehouse floors. Still another is aimed at keeping buyers from changing their minds after sales are made. This regulation would make sales final to the highest bidder except where the leaf is damaged or fraudulently packed.

These proposals and others were presented to members of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association at their annual meeting got under way. They will be acted upon by the warehousemen at their final business session Wednesday morning. Regulations would leave to the association's board of governors the task of setting dates for sales to begin on the various belts in the flue-cured area. The board is expected to meet in Raleigh, N.C. soon for this purpose. Under the proposals markets would be operated this year five days a week, five and one-half hours a day, and the rate of sales would not exceed 400 baskets per hour. The maximum weight of a basket would be 300 pounds. These are the same regulations as were in effect last year.

The proposed regulations were drafted by a committee composed of representatives of farm organizations, warehousemen, and buying interests. If adopted they will be enforced by the Bright Belt Association's board of governors. The Tobacco Association of the United States, which is composed of major domestic buying companies, suggested that the markets operate five and one-half hours a day on the Georgia-Florida belt, but only four and one-half hours on other belts. It said the long sales day would overload redrying plants. Another of the regulations, intended to reduce crowding of tobacco on warehouse floors, would require that tobacco baskets be spaced at least six inches apart in rows at least 18 inches apart, and that there be at least 24 inches between ends of rows and warehouse walls.

Fred S. Royster of Henderson, N. C., president of the Bright Belt Association, referred to the rump sales controversy which raged on tobacco markets last year in making his annual report. Royster said it might not be wise to adopt such a regulation this year, but "I personally feel that we should again condemn the practice, and I sincerely hope that we will not see a repetition of rump sales in 1950."

Ban Segregation In Dining Cars
Supreme Court Rules Interstate Commerce Act Violated
Washington, June 5—(AP)—The Supreme Court today outlawed segregation of Negroes in railroad dining cars. By an 8-0 vote the high tribunal declared such segregation violates a section of the Interstate Commerce Act which prohibits "any undue or unreasonable prejudice" to any person using the railroads. Justice Burton wrote the court's opinion. Justice Clark took no part. Those who voted with Burton are Chief Justice Vinson and Justices Black, Reed, Frankfurter, Douglas, Jackson and Minton.

The dining car decision was on an appeal by Elmer W. Henderson, a Washington Negro, while serving as a field representative of the President's Committee on Fair Employment Practices in 1942 he made a railroad trip that he was unable to get a meal on a Southern Railway company diner. Southern railroads later adopted a policy of setting aside a table or two for Negroes in dining cars. These tables are separated from others in the cars by partitions or curtains. Henderson, however, pressed his fight against any segregation. He is now a director of the American Council of Human Rights.

The new dining car policy was approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission. When Henderson took his fight to the Supreme Court, the commission defended its action, but the Justice Department opposed it.

Terms $3 Billion Outlay A Contribution To Peace And Freedom In The World; Major Share Is For Continuance Of Marshall Plan

Washington, June 5—(AP)—President Truman signed the $3,121,450,000 foreign aid authorization bill today, calling it a "major contribution to peace and freedom in the world." The measure was signed at a White House ceremony. It authorizes five programs of world-wide aid including funds for the third year operation of the European recovery plan, and a start on the "point four" proposal to develop backward areas. "Taken together," Mr. Truman said of the five programs, "they add up to a broad, enlightened and typically American enterprise in the building of a safe and prosperous world."

In his statement, the President expressed special pleasure over the $55,000,000 fund approved for technical aid under the point four program. He said it is an important step toward strengthening freedom and defeating "Communist Imperialism" and expressed hope that Congress will soon pass a companion measure authorizing the government to encourage and support private investment in needy nations. "The present act," he said, "is a memorable step forward in our program for peace. I am confident that the Congress will follow through promptly by appropriating the full measure of funds necessary to carry out the programs authorized in this act."

Mr. Truman said the act is a tribute to the "wisdom and vigor of the forward-looking members of the Congress of both political parties, of both houses, and particularly to the hard work of the responsible Congressional committees." The measure's biggest authorization is $2,550,000,000 for carrying on the Marshall plan in Europe for a third year. Other programs: Aid to the free people of Korea, southeast Asia, and non-Communist China—$194,000,000. Of this total $100,000,000 is provided for the republic of Korea.

2 Technical assistance in underdeveloped areas—$55,000,000. 3 Relief and public works for Arab refugees from Palestine—$27,450,000. 4 Continuing support for United Nations program for child welfare—$15,000,000. The President said the exchange of technical assistance and skills under point four, and the fostering of capital investment abroad, are not new ideas, but are in line with the American traditions of initiative and free enterprise. "But we are now ready," he asserted, "to put these activities on an organized, sustained basis and to direct them toward the building of a more prosperous and peaceful world."

"If we can, gradually but steadily, help to replace sickness with health, illiteracy with education, poverty with a higher standard of living, for the millions of people who live in underdeveloped areas, we shall make a tremendous contribution to the strength of freedom and the defeat of Communist Imperialism." Mr. Truman said far more than government help is required in this work. He said he looks forward to the continued work of many private groups in this field, to the interest of young Americans whose technical skills can find important employment in the work, and to expanded business investment. The President said the European recovery program had made great strides in the first two years. He expressed confidence the third year

Reconciled To Times

The Hopes Of Returning To Normalcy After World War Have Apparently Been Smothered By March Of Events Since Japan Surrendered; Sacrifice Accepted
By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 5—(AP)—Like someone who has become used to a pain, we seem reconciled now to a long and troubled future. Just look back a bit to see how it was, and how it is with us now. Right after World War II we had high hopes of peace for a long time, since trouble-making Germany had been taken care of. It seemed sensible to think, after all the bloody killing in the war, we could cut our military forces. In fact, we did. We reduced them to a fragment. But, gradually our relations with Russia turned sour. Country after country was yanked under the Soviet wing. And the United Nations, that great hope of mankind, became a place for fishwife talk. East and West used it to quarrel with each other. Two secretaries of state, Byrnes and Marshall, made trips to Europe in the hope of patching up the damage before it became too fierce. When they returned, it was clear from their reports to us the skies were growing darker, not brighter. Taxes dropped just a little. But, watching fearfully as Russia moved around, we began to build up the

Ship Shelled By Chinese Warships; Six Are Killed

Hong Kong, June 5—(AP)—Six cargo of fertilizer from Hong Kong were killed and six were wounded yesterday when two Chinese Nationalist warships pumped more than 200 shells into the British blockade runner Cheung Hing off Amoy. The attack took place on the high seas some 20 miles outside of territorial waters, the manager of the shipping company here said. The Cheung Hing is an 800-ton coastal steamer. It had called at the Red port of Amoy with a most assuredly can be developed. He declared the Army is doing a great deal of work toward developing weapons that it can use with atomic materials. And he added that it is "by no means impossible" to develop an artillery piece that will fire an atomic weapon, or guided missiles which could carry an atomic warhead. The Associated Press has received authoritative information that such weapons already have been developed. Referring obviously to Russia, but without mentioning that country by name, Collins said: "We don't believe the enemy would have these weapons because there is a limit to his industrial capacity and his research and development field. We think that we can and are keeping ahead of him."

Tidelands Ruling

Washington, June 5—(AP)—The Supreme Court decided today the federal government has chief rights to the oil-laden tidelands off the coast of Louisiana. Justice Douglas delivered the 7-4 decision. Justice Jackson and Clark did not take part. The court presumably will rule later today on a similar government suit for control of tidelands off the Texas coast. The government sued for the multimillion-dollar gulf oil prize after winning a similar suit in 1947 power and for "full power" over California tidelands.

armed forces again. There was an end to hopes for a big cut in taxes. It meant an end, to any hope of making a real cut in the national debt. We were well on our way to making bigger and worse atomic bombs, hoping it would be years before Russia could make even one. The Marshall plan started. The plan for helping Europe and so help us by staying off communism. There were screams about how much it cost and would cost until it was to end, or supposed to end, in 1952. Things got worse, not better. All China, with its 400,000,000 people, was falling to the communists, communism's greatest prize yet. Then we entered the Atlantic Pact: an agreement among the western democracies to stick together against communism. There seemed less talk of cutting taxes, a sign the country was getting reconciled to a long struggle with Russia. And then we entered the arms pact with western Europe, to back up the Atlantic Pact. There were some screams in Con-

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER
A new lay semi-religious order for women less professional than deaconesses but equally devoted to service "within their environment" is growing up in Germany out of the great preponderance of women in the post-war population, the realization that marriage is impossible for millions, and the need to fill the hours of loneliness with life-enriching activity. According to reports made by social workers to the World Council of Churches, the new order grows out of the fact that 9,000,000 German men were killed, permanently disabled, or are missing because of World War II, and that there are almost as many German women who will never marry, never have families, and always be lonely and frustrated. Elsewhere in Europe the situation for women is little better. Says the report, "Women are facing the future with both resignation and an inner bitterness which may foster moral decay."

CELEBRATING WITH FIRE—A soldier leaps through a ring of fire during an athletic display at a feast-day celebration by the Italian Army motorized center near Rome.

NEW VIEWPOINT—Three pug pups that wandered from their owner found something to wonder about as they lined a rail to stare at the goings-on in Sydney Harbor, Australia.

Large numbers of women, it is said, have sought to join the deaconess orders of the German churches, but because of economic and other reasons the churches have been able to accept only those with nurse training.

But the Rev. Lydia Prager of Murttenberg, who for years has worked in the vocational field among women, decided that the solution would be a religious order free enough to permit them to enter secular professions, but strong enough as a community to be a firm support for each member. The result was the formation of the lay order of "Irenening"—named from the eighth century Roman Empress Irene who achieved Orthodox sainthood. The only emblem of the order is the "Ring of Orene" with Byzantine Christian symbols. At the simple consecration services, the sisters in prayer, in the sacraments, in joy over the Resurrection, and to serve whomever and wherever they are able. They plan to establish schools for children, homes for the aged, homes for girl apprentices. Several units of the order have been established in key German cities. The Rev. Lydia Prager has been elected "Mother Superior." The Irenening has affiliated itself with the women's work of the Evangelical Churches of Germany.

Death Toll Over Weekend Rivals Holiday Period

By the Associated Press
The violent accidental death toll during the current weekend trails that of the Memorial Day weekend by a narrow margin.
Twenty-two fewer persons had died in traffic accidents at 4 a.m. (EST) today, after 58 hours of counting, than died in traffic mishaps during the comparable period on the Memorial Day weekend.
The toll of all violent deaths, however, was only 12 less than in the Memorial Day weekend at this stage.
The tally is being made by the Associated Press to compare figures for an ordinary weekend with a holiday weekend of similar length—6 p.m. Friday to midnight Tuesday.

Lina Worthington Becomes Bride Of Robert Mays, Jr., On Saturday

Miss Lina Hackett Worthington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Worthington of Greenville, N. C., became the bride of Robert Arthur Mays, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Mays of Hopewell, Va., in a double ring ceremony Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock in St. Paul's Episcopal church. Rev. Ernest H. Williams, pastor, officiated.

A program of wedding music was rendered by Mr. Carl Anderson, organist, and Mr. Al Livesay, soloist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown in white chantilly lace and marquise fashioned with a Chinese collar and empire bodice of lace over marquisette, long pointed sleeves, cuff shape of lace edging the wrist. The full skirt with embroidered flounce fell into a sweeping train. Her finger tip veil fell from a bonnet of sheer net and seed pearls. She carried a white orchid centered in a back ground of illusion and lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Geraldine W. Pearce of Mt. Cro, N. C., was the bride's maid of honor. She was gowned in a velvety organdy dress white over blue taffeta. She wore a picture hat of blue horse hair braid and she carried a bouquet of painted daisies.

Bridesmaids were Miss Mildred Mays, sister of the groom, Miss Eloise Tucker, Miss Muriel Shotwell, both of Greenville, N. C., and Mrs. Pat Dayson of Cherry Point, N. C. The attendants wore velvety organdy dresses white over pink taffeta and picture hats of horse hair braid in pink. They carried bouquets of painted daisies.

J. E. Johnson of Newport News, Va., attended as best man. Grooms-men were Junius Rose of Greenville, Russell Tatum of Hopewell, Jimmy Mellon of Winterville, and Abner Butterworth of Hopewell.

Mrs. Worthington wore for her daughter's wedding a gown of aqua crepe and lace with a hat of aqua illusion and white accessories. She wore a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Mays, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of asher of rose crepe with matching hat and white accessories. She wore a corsage of white roses.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home.

Guests were welcomed at the door by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rose and directed into the living room where the parents of the bride and bridegroom and the bridal couple received, with the attendants grouped informally in the room.

Receiving in the dining room were Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Snipes. The bride's table was centered with a crystal bowl filled with an all-white arrangement of snap-dragons and roses and white tapers in silver candelabras. Punch was served at opposite ends of the table.

Presiding over the punch table were Mrs. D. M. Clark and Mrs. Fred Haar. Assisting in serving were Misses Marion Brown, Jean McGowan, Sarah Kirkpatrick, Ann Oakley, Ann Beatty, Frances Aman, and Jane Dail Laughinghouse.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Mellon invited the guests into the gift room and directed guests into the hall where Mrs. William Walker presided over the bride's book. Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Stokes.

Following the reception, the bridal couple left for their wedding trip. For traveling, the bride wore a blue linen suit, hat to match and white accessories and the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Mays will make their home in Greenville where they both are students of East Carolina Teachers College.

Misses Sarah Kirkpatrick, Jean McGowan and Ann Oakley were hostesses at a lovely coffee hour honoring Miss Lina Worthington Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock in the home of Miss McGowan. Upon arrival the bride and her mother, Mrs. Sam O. Worthington, were presented with baby orchid corsages.

The spacious home was beautifully decorated with spring flowers. The guests were invited into the dining room where a lovely appointed table was decorated with pink shasta daisies and pink candles.

Mrs. S. O. Worthington served theiced coffee, hors d'oeuvres and bridal cakes.

Miss Worthington was remembered with silver in her chosen pattern. Misses Ann Beatty and Ramona Rouse, brides-elect, were also presented with gifts from the honorees.

Around 45 guests called during the afternoon.

Miss Ann Beatty and Miss Jane Dail Laughinghouse were hostesses at a Coca-Cola party on Thursday morning at the home of Miss Beatty as a prenuptial courtesy for Miss Lina Worthington.

Mixed summer flowers were used to decorate the living room and dining room.

Mrs. C. K. Beatty, Mrs. Charles Laughinghouse and Miss Lucille Laughinghouse assisted in serving Coca-Colas, party sandwiches, cookies, nuts and mints.

Miss Laughinghouse presented the honor guest a gift of china. Miss Beatty's gift to Miss Worthington was of crystal in her chosen pattern.

occurred shortly after midnight (EST):

Flemming—on a day off and dressed in sports clothes—announced to the bartender and a dozen patrons that "this is a stickup."

He then pulled his service pistol and fired a shot into the back of the bar, narrowly missing the bartender.

Sheerin, who had been playing shuffleboard with friends, backed out a side door, apparently to summon police. Flemming, seeing him leave, sped out the front door and killed him with a shot through the head.

In the meantime the man with Flemming—later identified as Harold Blanch, a 24-year-old Brooklyn lather—had pulled a gun and disappeared through the side door.

Flemming left Sheerin dead on the sidewalk and walked back into the bar, gun in hand. Two brothers knocked the gun from his hand and started pummeling him. Other patrons joined in beating Flemming.

Two policemen, attracted by the gunfire, pulled Flemming away from the customers, and discovered he was a policeman, 14 years on the force.

New Lava Flow For Mauna Loa

Honolulu, June 5—(AP)—Mighty Mauna Loa, a mountain with a stomach ache, continued its greatest eruption of the century today, spewing a lava flow toward the sea that endangered 35 homes and a large area.

Police at Kona, a village on the big island of Hawaii, said all residents of the endangere area had been evacuated. The new flow began about nightfall and raced at breakneck speed toward the sea.

The lava's path transcends the southwest slope where the second and third flows of last week tumbled into the Pacific. Police said it endangers Ohia lodge and four or five houses clustered around the lodge, and village of Opihail, which consists of about 30 houses.

Residents of the village were evacuated Thursday and Friday. The lava was expected to reach hihe sea in a short time.

On the other side of the volcano Foreman Ernest Morton of the Kahuku ranch said the flow there seemed to be dying out. Cowboys were stationed to watch it all right.

Cop Accused In Robbery, Slaying

New York, June 5—(AP)—An off-duty policeman was accused of holding up a Brooklyn bar and grill at gunpoint early today and shooting a customer to death when he slipped out to summon help.

The accused patrolman, Vincent Flemming, 44, was disarmed and badly beaten by bar patrons after the slaying.

From a hospital bed he gave information which led to the arrest at dawn of a drinking companion who accompanied him into the bar. The companion, although carrying a gun, denied complicity in the bungled stickup. No money was taken.

The slain man, John Sheerin, 23, of Brooklyn, had passed his examinations for the police force and was awaiting appointment.

Brooklyn District Attorney Miles F. McDonald gave this description of the stickup and slaying, which criminal docket for Superior court has been carrying a heavy backlog. As of May 18 there already were approximately 150 criminal cases on the court docket which were scheduled for a hearing in August. To these 150 cases will be added all the cases which are transferred from lower courts of the county to Superior court during the next three months.

With the deplorable condition of the Pitt Superior court docket at the present time, there are many people who are guilty of infractions of laws who are going scot free, simply because the cases lag so long before they are ever brought to trial. Just recently a case which had been on the docket for more than two years was finally heard before the court.

There are excuses offered at every hand from the people whose responsibility it is to see that cases are pushed through the court and that justice is received by the defendants and the public at large. We feel that these are only excuses which are pointed to alibi for people who are not doing the efficient job they should with the courts of this state. The same situation which we have in Pitt county applies in other counties of North Carolina.

Special terms of court have proved of little benefit in clearing the large backlog of cases. Even the special terms of court are so overloaded that they are able to make but a small dent in the maze of pending court cases.

With each passing court term in this county, we see more cases which are passed over and postponed, and even more disturbing is the increasing number of cases which are not pressed each term because witnesses have disappeared with the long waiting for trial, or time has so hampered the memories of the state's witnesses that a strong case can not be built up against the defendant.

The situation is serious. Positive and immediate steps should be taken to remedy this degenerate Superior court which is masking under the guise of handing out justice to all the people in Pitt county.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

IT DOESN'T PAY TO COMPROMISE
 When the royal scawbag Charles II went on one occasion to Southampton, he ordered the great churchman and hymn writer, Thomas Ken, to vacate his house and let the notorious Nell Gwyn occupy it. Old Thomas indignantly refused and said some pretty frank things about the immoral conduct of the royal rake. To the amazement of everyone, the king neither resented Ken's remarks nor insisted on the carrying out of his plans with reference to Nell Gwyn. Several years later there was a bishopric vacant in the Church and Charles II would consider no one for it save Thomas Ken. "I am not virtuous myself," he said, "but I admire those who are." When Charles was on his deathbed, he sent for Ken and was comforted by his counsel.

The idea is a mistaken one that we can gain favor of worldly-living people by imitating them. It often happens that people who have little goodness in their own lives tremendously admire goodness in others. The way to command the respect of people, both good and evil, saints and worldlings alike, is to take a stand for what we believe is right, and without fanaticism, but with unyielding purpose, to hold to that position. No king ever did more to corrupt the morals of his people than did Charles II, but no one ever accorded more earnest praise to virtue, when it was genuine, than did he.

Start Their Training While They're Young

Automobiles play an important role in our everyday lives. A one-time luxury item has come close to becoming a "necessity" in many ways, and ownership of an automobile no longer distinguishes a family of wealth.

They have become an accepted part of the American scene, and because of their importance in terms of service, pleasure and convenience, reasonable steps should be taken to keep those values foremost in our minds rather than judging autos by the ghastly toll exacted when careless or poorly-trained drivers are at the wheel.

A thorough respect for the power and capabilities of an automobile, with emphasis on the fact that in most instances it is the driver's fault when a highway accident occurs, should be a part of every motorist's training.

Qualified driving instructors are an obvious prerequisite for attaining this goal; and while most of today's motorists learned to drive in a rather haphazard fashion... the record shows their school of experience included, and apparently still includes, some hard knocks.

If we are to make the highways more safe, the first people with whom we must deal are the motorists of tomorrow; and in this respect we are happy to note that positive action is being taken.

Teachers who will act as driving instructors have received special training at East Carolina Teachers College. Their work in the high schools of Pitt county will, we hope, result in safer driving by young people and the saving of lives.

Driver training courses were conducted during the past school year in the Grifton, Chicod, Farmville and Arthur high schools. By next fall, there will be qualified driver instructors at the Ayden and Stokes schools. So far, Greenville high school has not yet participated in the instructors course.

In the Reflector's optimistic view, the program is worth many times the moderate cost and effort it took to put it into effect. We only regret that it was not instituted earlier and that it is not a part of training available for future drivers in every high school in the country.

Action Should Be Taken On Our Superior Court

Pitt county does not have another criminal term of Superior court scheduled until August 21.

Between now and then, we think it would be an opportune time for Solicitor W. J. Bundy, the judges who ride this circuit, and the Pitt county court officials to get their heads together and see if they can work out a plan to clear the large backlog of cases of the Pitt Superior court docket. For the past several years the county

REG-MANNING

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.

BIG BUSINESS—One of the biggest dealers in leaf tobacco in the world is the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation. At the end of its fourth year the corporation reports it has bought 507 million pounds of tobacco, sold 427 million pounds, and has 80 million pounds on hand. This tobacco was bought on warehouse floors at just below government support prices when the regular market would not absorb it. The corporation is owned by tobacco growers in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. It is chartered in North Carolina and housed in its own building on Fayetteville Street in Raleigh. Annual stockholders meeting is scheduled for Pullen Hall, State College, June 30.

UNIQUE—One of the most interesting political advertisements of the year, believed to be unique in character, was the card of thanks inserted in Winston-Salem papers by Joe King, leader among candidates for the general assembly from Forsyth County. Illustrated with a picture of the nominee the ad reads: "Thanks to all you Cornbread and Butter Milk Lovers! I'm powered and perfumed and waiting for Eric McMichael."

BACKGROUND—Story back of the advertisement is that at an election night party McMichael had promised to kiss King in public if he should lead the ticket. Evidently King was so elated over his high vote he was willing to go on with the show—using McMichael as his foil instead of his "Brandywine." Joe King and Brandywine are almost as famous in North Carolina as Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, and are much in demand for public entertainments.

REASON—Willis Smith advisers offered Saturday the best reason yet given for delaying formal announcement about a second primary. Complete but unofficial tabulation of votes gave a total of $19,131 votes cast, with Graham leading Smith by approximately 53,000, and lacking less than 8,000 of a clear majority over the field. Recalling that official certification in 1948 increased Johnson's unofficial lead over Scott by more than four thousand, the Smith folks recognize possibility that official certification this year may either spread the difference or result in nomination for Senator Graham. With that possibility, and feeling that a day or two more waiting would not change status of things, Smith's advisers counseled waiting for official returns before calling for a run-off. That was the course followed by Dick Fountain in 1952, when he waited until the last day allowed by law to make the call. J. C. B. Ehringhaus had substantial lead in the first primary for governor, with A. J. Maxwell following close to R. T. Fountain, who was second. Fountain did not win but in a short reorganized second campaign he reduced the 47,000 lead to 13,000. Smith himself was not talking, but his lieutenants insist "we have the money necessary for a real campaign."

HOW MUCH?—How much is enough has never been fully determined. There has been a lot of loose talk about spending money in campaigns ever since law was enacted thirty-five years ago. Candidates themselves and public officials have been reluctant to use figures. Governor Scott has been very frank about the subject all along. He said before entering the race for governor two years ago he would not start with less than $200,000 in sight. There is reason to believe he did start (and perhaps finish) with less than that. At his press conference last Friday, he said it cost about $60,000 to operate state headquarters and that a lot of money was spent in the field the candidate could not know about. V. O. Keys Jr., in his popular book "Southern Politics," cites instances of half a million dollars spent in behalf of candidates for governor or senator in some southern states, with more than $100,000 commonly accepted as minimum.

REPORTS—State law limits amount to be legally spent in North Carolina to $12,000 in the first primary, $6,000 in a run-off. Detailed reports of source and purpose for which spent are required to be filed under oath. Such statements always keep the figures below the legal limit, although it is common knowledge that many times that amount has been spent. In most instances the very little money is used for buying votes or corrupting the electorate. It is used for newspaper and radio publicity; postage, telephone and telegraph; travel of representatives and clerical work incident to getting and servicing mail lists.

SUPPER—Long standing custom among officers of Hawfields Presbyterian church in Alamance County is that each year they get together with their wives for a Sunday night supper at the home of a member. This year it was the time for Elder Kerr Scott, who is doubling as governor of North Carolina, to entertain the group. The governor confessed the occasion calls for change in routine, since the Hawfields community generally observes the ancient Presbyterian custom of little cooking on Sunday, none at all for the evening meal. All that company requires some extra cooking and the guests got an unusual hot supper Sunday night.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

SOME CHANGES NEEDED

(Washington Daily News)
 We have said before that the theory of unemployment insurance is sound. But we owe it to the taxpayers to see that unemployment insurance does not encourage loafing.

Every week in the courts on Beaufort county we find many cases of individuals who are drawing the unemployment insurance and at the same time in court for committing crimes.

Whisky charges, affrays, and assaults lead the docket. An official of the unemployment insurance office in Raleigh came to see us recently. He wanted specific cases of abuses.

Anyone interested in such abuses should talk to the law enforcement officers of Beaufort county. He should then go to a session of Recorder's court and his eyes will be opened.

What should we do about such abuses? That is a question which demands some real thought. If we set down rules and regulations which deny the deserving just to hit at the loafer, then we have not solved the problem by any means.

There is something which the legislature of North Carolina could do. Any person found guilty of a misdemeanor in court could be put on a black list and be made ineligible to receive unemployment benefits for a certain length of time. The length of time could be determined by the record of the individual and the seriousness of the crime for which he has been convicted.

We should do something. It is not right for a man to get a government check each month or week and then use it for things which lead him to crime. We all agree to that. That money is being paid for by the taxpayers of our state. Should they not expect their money to be handled better than it is now?

When a man is fined in court and he tells the court that he will pay the fine just as soon as he gets his insurance check, is it not disgusting to law abiding taxpayers who are footing the bill? Are there any arguments on the other side? If there are, will they come from anyone except those drawing money under the program or those administering the program? We have not heard of one man or one woman, benefit those who receive some benefits from the program, who have not applauded efforts of the newspaper to put the unemployment insurance on a sound and practical basis.

We do not wish to hurt the deserving man or woman who is drawing the money. We do wish to eliminate the chisel who looks upon it as something that is owed him. We do say that some people are drawing insurance rather than trying to earn a dollar on their own.

If any further proof to our statements are needed, then a trip to the court, or a talk with some of the law enforcement officers will be convincing.

Carolina, failed to obtain a clear majority in a primary contest with an anti-"fair-deal" candidate, and may have difficulty in a run-off contest. The Democrats of that state did not respond wholeheartedly to White House eulogies of FEPC, national health insurance, the Brannan Plan etc. In fact, Mr. Graham felt it necessary to repudiate all three proposals.

With Southern Democrats taking the lead, Congress continues to shelve most of its legislative program. The legislators are even musing up the portions they may pass, such as Social Security revision tax reduction and 1951 appropriations.

Capitol Hill mailbags reflect tremendous interest in only two questions: Larger Social Security benefits and elimination or reduction of excise levies, both bread-and-butter problems.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
 You may have noticed the word "Torquay" in the business news lately. It's not a typographical error in the name of a popular type of wine, but the name of a hitherto-obscure town in England.

What happens in Torquay, England, late this September may well affect your business and livelihood in the next few years. The U.S. and 17 other countries will get together there next Autumn and discuss reciprocal tariffs.

You can expect plenty of pressure for cuts in present U.S. duties at Torquay.

Basis for U.S. participation in the Torquay talks is the 1945 Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act empowering the President to cut 50 per cent off any duty in effect in 1945. The law expires in June, 1951.

Britain, particularly will ask tariff reductions on certain goods they'd like Americans to buy in larger quantities, especially clocks, instruments, mechanical toys, textiles, whips and lawn mowers.

Other goods on which the U.S. may make tariff-cutting deals include chinaware, chemicals, autos, sewing machines and printing machinery. As well as the English and Canadians, German trade representatives will figure prominently in talks with the U.S. delegates. Leading U.S. imports from Germany include steel products, optical instruments, machinery, chemicals and toys.

Some industries have already expressed worry over the prospective cuts. In the food trades, cheese manufacturers and meat packers especially will watch what happens at Torquay. Textile men are quite involved, with a number of fabric and clothing items up for talks.

Ray Bell, president of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York, already is calling attention to "authenticated instances of mens shirts from Japan selling in New York stores at 79 cents and less, and childrens dresses from Japan retelling here at three for $1."

Even the expanding U.S. chemical industries are expressing concern.

Yep—Torquay will be quite a household word pretty soon.

AD COUNCIL WILL PUBLICIZE HOOVER REPORT
 The public will soon know more about the Hoover Commission recommendations for government reorganization than it does now. The Advertising Council will start a national non-partisan campaign to promote familiarity with the report, which recommends principles of efficiency and economy in government.

AIR CONDITIONER SALES BOOM WITH BIGGEST BUSH
 Small air conditioners for homes, stores and offices are really catching on. One of the largest manufacturers of room coolers (Phico) announces its sales so far this year are 57 per cent ahead of 1949, which had been the best previous year in air conditioning sales.

TELLS HOW TO MAKE FARM CREDIT SUCCESSFUL TOOL
 Two men who ought to know the subject, have written a book called "Financing the Farm Business, designed to help agriculturists manage their credit needs soundly. I. W. Duggan, governor of the Farm Credit Administration, and Ralph U. Battles, of its Economic and Credit Research Division are the authors, (published by John Wiley and Sons, Inc., New York, at $4). The book seeks to alert farmers to pitfalls that caused a large proportion of the two million or more farmers to lose their farms and savings between the two world wars. Their basic lesson: debt acquired during periods of high prices is difficult, if not impossible, to repay during periods of low prices. This book is also worth the attention of bankers, mortgage specialists, and businessmen who sell to and buy from farmers.

Hal Boyle's Column

New York—(AP)—Many women love to yell, but modern civilization hasn't offered them much of a chance.

The discovery of this simple little truth about the ladies is going to make Leo A. Seltzer a nice big pot of gold. He has given them something to yell at.

Leo, who in 46 years has promoted things ranging from theater to hockey and walkathon contests, is the "Mr. Big" of the roller derby.

"Seventy per cent of our fans are women," said Leo, whose various roller derbies this year will probably gross more than $7,000,000.

Just what is a roller derby? Most Americans haven't yet seen one, and therefore aren't sure. And many of those who have seen one aren't sure either.

It was the elements of a track meet on roller skates, with both men and women teams, and also the more homicidal aspects of wrestling exhibitions and a good, old-fashioned hair-pulling between fishwives.

Whatever it is, it drives the ladies nuts. Teen-age bobby sockers and staid old grandmothers whoop for blood when the racing feminine skaters tangle and maul and spill each other on the skin-shredding track.

The roller derby is the only body contact sport today a woman can go to and get personal release," said Leo, who is something of a philosopher.

"She can't see herself as a boxer or a football player, but she can picture herself as one of the woman skaters. And so it is an outlet for her. She gets rid of her own aggressive impulses in the excitement of watching the derby."

"That's a darn healthy thing for her. And, of course, it's a good thing for her husband, too. She won't have to take out her aggressive impulses on him."

Seltzer says he heard the game up in a cafe table cloth in Chicago back in 1934.

"I had acquired a half interest in the Chicago Coliseum," he recalled, "and needed something to fill it. I read in a magazine that something like 90 per cent of Americans had roller skated at one time or another. That gave me the idea for holding races on roller skates."

Since then the game has grown and developed its own rules—rules that don't altogether rule out mayhem. Today there are about 200 professional roller derby racers, half of them women.

"We have our own training school in Chicago," said Leo, "and it takes about three years to develop a skater to the point where he is ready for competition."

The derbies will draw an estimated 6,000,000 fans this year, and Seltzer believes in another two years they will be the nation's top-ranking indoor sport.

By that time he expects to have three leagues operating—one in the east, another in the midwest, a third on the west coast. He also is planning to create leagues in Italy, France and England.

"The key to the whole thing is the women," he said. "Women spend the entertainment dollar, and where they want to go the men will follow."

usual in the blood-curdling enthusiasm of female fans.

"Let's face it—women aren't the weaker sex," he said happily. "Nature made them stronger. They are far sturdier than men."

He only wishes he'd found that out twenty years before.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Estes Kefauver, the towering, soft-spoken Tennesseean who is directing the Senate's far-reaching investigation of interstate crime, gambling and racketeering, is one of the busiest men on Capitol Hill. Not only is the 46-year-old freshman senator chairman of the newly set-up crime investigation committee, he's also a member of the armed services, judiciary and District of Columbia committee, a record number of assignments for any member of Congress.

But busy as he is in the halls of Congress, the senator is just as busy at home. There's Eleanor, 8, David, 4, and Diane, 2, plus all the children in the neighborhood and what Mrs. Kefauver calls "the livestock" to cope with. On Capitol Hill the bookish-looking lawyer is noted for his patience, tact, even temper and unbridled energy. These same characteristics stand him in good stead at home.

"He's a wonderful father, the best-natured man I've ever known," Mrs. Kefauver told me. "He's a terribly hard worker on the Hill, but he's an equally hard worker at home, and he enjoys every minute of it." The children are the busy senator's recreation, she told me. The "livestock" Mrs. Kefauver spoke consists of cocker spaniels "Blarney" and "Heidi" and five angora rabbits. A pair of the last were "sent by a kind constituent and keep multiplying."

"Mr. Kefauver helps with the chores and built a hutch for the rabbits," Mrs. Kefauver said. "He loves carpenter work and built trellises for the flowers and an outdoor fireplace. In addition, he flies kites with the kids, takes them bike riding, keeps them occupied. Mrs. Kefauver says all the parents on the block are happy when the senator's home. He looks after their kids too."

The senator's wife, the former Nancy Patterson Piggott of Glasgow, Scotland, daughter of the designer of the ocean liner "Queen Mary," is a talented, prize-winning amateur artist. She has won prizes for her portraits of the children but has never "done" her husband. "I can't get him to sit still long enough," she told me. "He would be fun to do. He has such a fine head."

The Kefauvers do find time to get around to many of the Washington parties but prefer small dinners to receptions and cocktail parties. They themselves entertain very informally "in the southern way, with buffet suppers of baked ham and hot biscuits" prepared by the children's mammy "Bobby," who is also the gardener.

One Of Fugitive Trio Captured; N. C. Hunt Scene

Shelby, N. C., June 5—(AP)—Highway patrolmen today pursued a man and woman who are believed to be Georgia and Tennessee fugitives. The patrol said the couple wrecked a stolen car early today at Lattimore, eight miles west of here, and then managed to get another. They were believed to be between here and Gaffney, S. C. They were sighted here, Constable C. O. Lee said, after a pre-dawn chase at Spartanburg, S. C. The Sheriff's office at Spartanburg said a man who identified himself as Edward Clyde McAllister of Hurtsville, Ala., was arrested in a truck. A car was traveling ahead of the truck, officers there said, and the car's occupants escaped. In Atlanta, Chief of Detectives E. I. Hildbrand said McAllister was believed to be one of the trio which had led Tennessee and Georgia officers a wild chase since last Thursday. He said Chattanooga police and the Georgia highway patrol had identified the three as McAllister and William R. Parker, both of whom were released from the federal penitentiary in Atlanta last April, and a woman named Mary Louise Hensley. He said detectives believed the woman is McAllister's wife. Hilderbrand said the women was identified through photographs found in an automobile the fugitives had abandoned. The chase started between here and Gaffney, S. C., then turned toward Chimney Rock. The pair were sighted between Chimney Rock and Rutherfordton, traveling at high speed. The patrol radio urged its men to use extreme caution, advising that the couple were believed heavily armed. The fleeing car was believed to be an oldsmobile. The patrol said it was stolen either at Shelby or Spartanburg, S. C. The man and woman were sighted here after a pre-dawn race at Spartanburg. Louisiana, Texas, California and Arkansas each grows about one fourth of the U. S. rice crop.

Byrd Opposed To Arming Of Allies

Washington, June 5—(AP)—Senator Byrd (D-Va) called today for an impregnable National defense instead of the "waste of money" which he said is involved in arming foreign nations. Byrd, a member of the Senate armed services committee, told reporters he will fight the $1,222,500,000 authorization sought by the administration to help bolster the defenses of countries opposing Communism. "I believe in an impregnable defense here at home and will work for it, but I don't believe we can arm half the world as a permanent peace time proposition," the Virginia Senator said. "I think we are wasting money with this program—money that might better be spent perfecting our own military forces, for it is those forces which will have to save us and the western world if Russia attacks." Byrd alluded to the statement last week by Secretary of State Acheson that the foreign arms program may cost more, and not less, as time goes on.

Wake Forest's Board To Meet

Wake Forest, N. C., June 5—(AP)—The board of trustees of Wake Forest College was scheduled to meet in routine session today prior to tonight's graduation exercises. There was speculation that the trustees would name a college president to succeed retiring Dr. Thurman D. Kitchin, head of Wake Forest for 20 years. About 455 diplomas are expected to be awarded at the graduation exercises tonight. Making grindstones from sandstones quarried nearby is an important industry in Marietta, O.

Robins Win One, Drop Two During Weekend Contests

Hallow Homers To Provide Victory Over Goldsboro Saturday; Cards Rack Up 18-8 Score In Second Game; Kinston Takes 2-0 Decision

The rains over the weekend did a lot of damage to Coastal Plain schedules for future games but not before Greenville's Robins had dropped two games out of three in two scheduled doubleheaders Saturday and yesterday.

The Robins' only bright spot on the weekend record was a 6-5 win over Goldsboro in the first game Saturday night. The Cards roared before Greenville's Robins had dropped two games out of three in two scheduled doubleheaders Saturday and yesterday.

For their only win the Robins' first baseman, George Hallow, punched in the tying and winning run in the opener Saturday when he hit a homerun in the seventh inning of a replay game.

After two were out, John Tepedino walked and then the stellar first baseman sent the ball over the right-field fence for the winning run.

Billy Smith hit a homerun for the Cards in the top of the seventh to produce two runs, sending Goldsboro out in front momentarily.

The nightcap Saturday was a wild and woolly affair that saw both teams throw the book away and commit 16 errors between them. Greenville used four pitchers and among the quartet they gave up 18 hits to the Cards.

Jim Lewey started the game and was relieved in the first inning after letting six runs score. Shoes Scarpa took over from there, pitching until Hallow replaced Stephens in the sixth and remained until the finish. Bakits worked the game behind the plate.

In yesterday's initial game of a scheduled doubleheader a two-run splurge and a heavy downpour of rain in the sixth inning assured Kinston's Eagles of a 2-0 win before 797 fans who were soaked before they left the stadium.

The second game will be played June 14.

The Eagles scored twice in the fourth when John Minarcin opened the inning with a double and scored on Brigham's single. Brigham went to third on an infield out and scampered home on a passed ball chucked up to John Allegretti, utility catcher for the Robins.

Jim Lewey again pitched his second inning in 24 hours, and gave up five hits before the deluge. Doug Payne limited Greenville to a single hit in his five innings on the mound. Lautato was the only man who reached first legitimately, getting a single for the only Greenville blow.

Minarcin batted 1000 for the Eagles as he collected two hits in two times at bat.

Saturday's line scores:
First game—
Greenville 300 010 2-6 4 3
Goldsboro 030 000 2-5 8 3
Batteries: Greenville—Jones and Allegretti; Goldsboro—Umlert, Ferrell and Watts.

Second game—
Goldsboro 601 317 000-18 18 5
Greenville 000 000 602-8 11 11
Batteries: Goldsboro—Owen, Watts (8) and Ferrell; Greenville—Lewey, Scarpa (1), Stephens (4), Hallow (6) and Bakits.

Sunday's game:
Kinston 000 20-2 5 0
Greenville 000 00-0 1 1
Batteries: Kinston—Payne and Baker; Greenville—Lewey and Allegretti.

Robinson Strives For New Title In Villemain Bout

Philadelphia, June 5—(AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, king of the world's welterweights, goes after another title tonight in a 15-round bout with the "indestructible" Frenchman Robert Villemain.

The Municipal Stadium match is billed as a middleweight championship fight by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission. And the winner stands a chance to win National Boxing Association sanction as the titleholder if certain conditions are met.

The middleweight boxing division has been a muddle for a long time, ever since Jake LaMotta won over France's Marcel Cerdan after Cerdan injured his hand.

Robinson and Villemain, regarded by the NBA as the logical challengers, have repeatedly bid for title bouts with LaMotta, but the Bronx Bull has turned them down.

Now LaMotta is matched with Rocky Graziano, former middleweight champ, for an NBA-sanctioned title go at New York June 28.

The NBA said the winner of that New York fight must meet the winner of the Robinson-Villemain bout within 90 days or forfeit his NBA-recognized title.

Robinson is a prohibitive favorite to win tonight's match, but Villemain has plenty of backers.

The quiet Frenchman stands only five feet six—has never been knocked out and in 44 fights has hit the canvas only once.

On the other hand, Robinson is the kind of boxer who hits hard and often and most of the time sends his rival down for the kayo count. The Harlem Sugar has knocked out his opponent in 69 of 111 fights. Once he lost—to LaMotta—and once he fought to a draw, with Jose Basora.

Villemain also has been beaten by LaMotta, but the decision was questionable and the Frenchman later scored over Jake. He also has lost to Steve Beloise and Dave Sands.

Bookies Bet On Aging Lee Savold

London, June 5—(AP)—The British press picks local boy Bruce Woodcock to whip Lee Savold tomorrow night in their fight for the British and European versions of the world heavyweight title.

Woodcock got the edge by 6 to 4 in an informal poll of London boxing writers.

Three of the four who named Savold and four of the six who liked Woodcock predicted the bout would not last the scheduled 15 rounds.

The bookmakers are betting that the writers picked the wrong winner. The money men rate Savold a 4 to 7 choice and the odds against Woodcock 5 to 4.

Most of Woodcock's supporters are counting on youth to beat age.

The unpredictable Englishman is 29 years old. Savold is three months past his 34th birthday.

Neither has had a fight in the last 12 months and Savold hasn't a half ago.

Citation's Next Coal Uncertain

Albany, Calif., June 5—(AP)—Where does Citation go from here now that he's set two world records?

That's the question in the minds of turfmen throughout the country.

The Calumet Farm filly won the Golden Gate Fields Saturday in 1:33 3-5 to break the world record of 1:34 set by his stablemate, Coal-town, at Washington Park, Chicago, last summer.

He also became the all-time money-winning horse. His $14,550 share of the $20,000 purse, boosted his earnings to $924,630, Stymlie, the previous record-holder and now retired, won $918,485.

But again, the big question is will "Big Cy" go for the $1,000,000 mark?

His trainer, Jimmy Jones, isn't sure.

He doesn't know if he'll send Citation against Noor—two-time conqueror of Citation at Santa Anita—in the $50,000 added Golden Gate Handicap June 24.

COACH'S REWARD

Roy Johnson, the veteran coach of the Chicago Cubs, was standing at the edge of the visiting club's dugout with his eyes glued on the Cub batters in their pre-game practice sessions. He didn't say a word until Andy Parko stepped up to the plate.

"I've been watching Parko since he came up late in the 1943 season," said Johnson, "and right now he looks better than he ever has. Andy doesn't usually get off to a good start in the spring, but this season he'll maintain his present pace. I think he'll be a flying star. I think he'll maintain his present pace, because he always loosens up when it warms up. Andy is one of those thick-chested athletes who seem to need time to get loose."

"Andy has more confidence this year," Johnson continued, "and since he has settled down to one position center field, he is concentrating on one thing—making life miserable for opposing pitchers. The years he has been studying them, he's paying dividends. He knows the pitchers and is swinging away. Maybe he isn't colorful because he tends to be business but show me a better fielder or one with a better arm. Ball players appreciate his greatness and the fans are beginning to see him in his true light. At 29 Parko is right at his peak."

Team Managers For Civic Softball League Schedule Meeting Tonight

All interested persons and especially the managers of softball teams that plan to enter the City Leagues this summer are asked to meet at the High School tonight at 8:00 p.m. The meeting is being called by Boley Farley of the Recreation Department to make plans for the opening of the leagues. The leagues will be organized, regulations set up and schedules will be adopted. The meeting will be held in the auditorium at the High School.

Farley said this morning that he hoped the teams would adopt a schedule calling for each team to play twice a week, in the Industrial League and at least once a week in the Civic division.

Several new entries in the League are already making plans to enter a team. Three new entries coming in are the Carbon Co., Post Office and Scott Motor Sales.

Kirkland Coach Of All-Star Nine

Charlotte, N. C., June 5—(AP)—The North Carolina team in the Carolinas all-star boys' baseball game will be directed by Gordon (Chubby) Kirkland.

Selection of the former Catawba College coach was announced here this weekend.

It will mark Kirkland's fourth straight year at the helm of the Tar Heels in the seventh annual tussle with their South Carolina rivals.

Frisch Mistaken, But Tribute Due

Summer Baseball Nines Organizing

One hundred and fifty boys have signed up to play baseball this summer in all sections of town are being organized this week in preparation for the opening of the League next week.

Teams in the several divisions had a meeting this morning at West Greenville and Training School for the purpose of organizing and making plans for team practices which will begin this week. Coach Boley Farley who will direct the league plans to work with the teams during the week.

The league will be set up in different divisions, according to age, so that all the boys will be playing with and against boys of their own age and ability. All games for the first two weeks of the season will be played in the afternoon, so as not to conflict with the Bible School that will open next week.

Any boys that have not signed up and who want to play ball this summer should get in touch with Boley Farley and they will be assigned to a team.

Who's leading the team? Take a look. Hank Edwards is the club's batting leader with 368. He's 31 years old. Hank Sauer is the league's runs-batted-in pacesetter, with 36. He's also 31. Andy Parko is tops in home runs with eight. He's 29. And then there's 33-year-old Phil Cavaretta, who is hitting 328 and doing a grand job at first base in his 17th big league season.

On the pitching side, Johnny Schmitt, Dutch Miller and Walt Dubiel, all past 29, have won 10 games among them, or more than half of the team's total of 19.

And the youngsters? Well, there are only six left. Outside of Bob Borkowski, who hasn't played much, not one is hitting 300.

Edwards, Cavaretta, Sauer and Parko all had a hand in yesterday's 13-8 triumph over Brooklyn that dropped the Dodgers into a first place tie with the St. Louis Cardinals. The Cards gained a full game by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-2.

Edwards batted in four runs with two doubles and a single. Cavaretta smacked two singles and his second home run. Sauer tied Bob Elliott of Boston for the league's runs-batted-in leadership by driving in a tally. Parko got a couple of hits and two walks in five times at bat.

Only about 1-15 of Africa has no imperial powers—Egypt, Ethiopia and Liberia.

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 5—(AP)—Because he was steady over the long route and superb in the clutches. Sauer, Lloyd Mangrum was $2,600 richer today and king of the first Fort Wayne open golf tournament.

The Chicago clouter won the first $15,000 Fort Wayne meet at the Orchard Ridge Country Club yesterday as his one-under-par final round gave him a 72-hole total of 271.

Rotund Ed (Porky) Oliver of Kenmore, Wash., put the squeeze on Mangrum in the final test yesterday, and his grasp might have been fatal except for Lloyd's magnificent finish.

The estimated 4,000 fans who turned out say Johnny Palmer (Badlin, N. C.) finish with a rush to grab third place and $1,400 for his prize $500 less than Oliver received second.

Price Support Program Is Under Sharp Senate Test

Washington, June 5—(AP)—The government farm price support program faced a sharp attack in the Senate today.

At issue was a House-passed bill adding another $2,000,000,000 to the present $4,850,000,000 used to keep major farm crops up to certain price levels.

Senators Williams (R-Del.) and Ives (R-NY) lined up as leaders of the assault on the present price drop program, with two main courses of action:

1. They question the need for the additional funds in view of widespread reports of short crops this year.
2. They are asking that the system of pegging support prices at 90 per cent of parity (a figure calculated as fair to both buyer and seller) be dropped in favor of a flexible, lower system of price props.

Williams and Ives were counting upon help from other lawmakers who represent populous eastern states and who get many complaints about high food costs from consumers.

Senator Ellender (D-La.), floor manager for the price prop measure, was not worried.

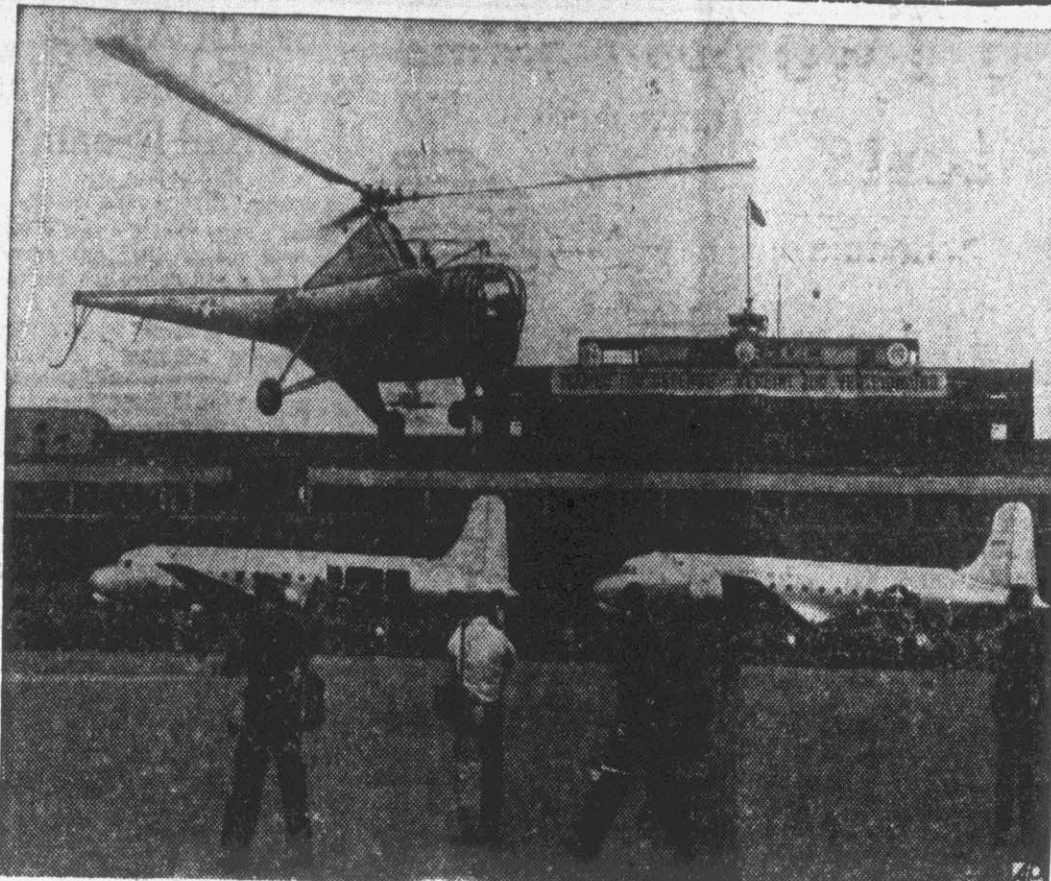

"I'm pretty confident the Senate will approve this by a wide margin," he told a reporter. "Unless it does there may be no funds for supporting cotton, wheat, corn and rice crops this year."

"When cotton, wheat and corn are involved a lot of senators are interested," Ellender said. "These same things have been before the Senate many times and we've always beaten them."

Avers World Is Moving Toward Era Of Freedom

Syracuse, N.Y., June 5—(AP)—Undersecretary of State Webb said today the world is moving toward an era in which totalitarianism will "decay" before a mounting demand for freedom—even within Russia.

"The American program of today seeks a better world for others as well as ourselves," Webb said in a speech prepared for commencement exercises at Syracuse University.

"What it will be in the future is something you will have to help decide."

"I think the sum total of our actions is carrying us steadily toward the beginning of a new era—an era in which we shall see the decay of totalitarianism and a mounting demand even in the Soviet Union and its puppet states for cooperation with the free nations of the world."

"I believe we are moving toward the day when the entire charter of the United Nations can be translated into action, a day when a worldwide democratic community of free nations can operate on principles of justice and shared peace and prosperity."

The State Department official added, however, that "the burdens of that journey are heavy."

At present, he said, "peace is constantly endangered by the direct or indirect aggression of Soviet Russia. This threat is worldwide, although its form and immediacy vary somewhat from area to area.

The answer to this menace, Webb said, is cooperative defensive action by the Western world—a venture in which "the United States, as the wealthiest of the free nations confronted by this threat, must, for its own national security, play its share."

He said the present world situation is "characterized by two clashing concepts of political and social organization. One is based on freedom, the other on authoritarianism."

Out of the events of the recent years, Webb said, "has come the inescapable conclusion that the USSR, moved by a fanatic doctrine, is engaged in an all-out effort to impose its absolute authority over the rest of the world." He added: "Peace for the United States cannot be separated and isolated from peace in the world as a whole. Our security and well-being now depend upon, and are completely bound up with, the security and well-being of peoples everywhere."

Story Of Attack And Robbery Was Just 'Bad Dream'

Asheville, N. C., June 5—(AP)—A woman's story that she saw a man slug and rob another has turned out to be a bad dream for her and policemen.

Mrs. Frances Erwin, 38, of Atlanta, Ga., finally admitted Saturday, police said, that she had "dreamed" her story of the incident. That closed the books on a three-day wild goose chase for officers in Asheville and nearby South Carolina cities.

She had told police that she saw the robbery-slugging on Beatch Mountain here last Wednesday. But this was the amended version she finally gave.

She accepted a ride to Greenville S. C., with a truck driver. Near Greenville she blacked out, dreamed the Asheville incident, and notified police.

Spoils Hunt For Accident Victim

Middletown, O., June 5—(AP)—Harold Heath innocently asked by-standing what all the commotion was about. His wife, who was looking on horror-stricken as rescuers started to dig in some debris, heard his voice turned around and fainted.

Heath had been believed buried in a cellar cave-in of a house he was building at nearby Oneida. It turned out he had gone to visit a neighbor a few minutes before the cellar collapsed yesterday.

SMOKY JOE

By W. F. BRAGG

Chapter 19
As Joe dodged past the wooden chopping block which occupied the center of the cooler, Jane slammed the door. Through thick wood, he heard the outside bolt click into its slot. For an instant, he believed she had imprisoned him to betray him.

The girl broke up Joe's train of thought by entering the cooler. She carried a long white garment over her arm and wore a cook's white hat on her shining black hair.

"Put these on," she said curtly. "Cook's apron and cap! Grab a cleaver! Get down a chunk of beef and start cutting off steak."

Arrayed as a cook, Joe shouldered a beef quarter, lowered it to the block. With back turned to the doorway, he began crunching bones with the cleaver.

Then a voice, smooth as maple syrup, checked the cleaver on a down swing. Pack Rogan was in the kitchen. He was talking to Jane. He had entered through the rear door.

"Sweet," Joe heard Pack drawl, "has that bum from the jail been around here tonight? We traced him up the alley to your place, then lost him."

"Jail bums aren't allowed in my kitchen. Nor anybody else—uninvited," Jane replied tartly.

Putting aside the cleaver, Joe selected a slicing knife and began to pile up round steaks in a pan. The steel was razor sharp. Joe almost cut off his thumb when he heard the light quick steps of Pack approaching the cooler door.

"You hire a new cook?" Pack called to the girl.

The answer came after what seemed hours to Joe, in an indifferent voice.

"Business picking up. Came in on the stage. That flunky in the cooler! He's getting out meat for breakfast!" Then she asked, in a softer tone, "What's your order, Pack?"

Pack didn't answer for a moment. Joe could hear his breathing as he stood at the door, peering at the white-coated back of the new cook. It was touch and go.

The nasal whine of the water broke up the tense spell of silence. "Sinnuagun stew! And java with cow!"

Pack's boot heels clicked. He stepped away from the cooler door, saying with a laugh, "What's that?"

"Wet corned beef hash. With coffee and canned cream!"

"Sounds good! Im hungry. Fix me up an order with a couple of eggs. I'll eat it here at your kitchen table."

"You better go out front, Pack," Jane objected. "Not much room in here."

"I like to sit where I can watch you, sweet," he said fondly. And Joe heard a chair creak as Pack took a seat at the table.

Inwardly Joe cursed this turn in the game. His enemy held the kitchen. He could not leave the where near this place Silvertip Morgan had been killed. He heard somebody in the hall trying the door, and had just time enough to step behind the swaying curtain of an alcove in the corner where Pack hung his clothing before the door opened and Nevada Kate stepped in as though she owned the place.

Pool Opens With Good Attendance

The Greenville swimming pool opened Saturday with a capacity crowd of 400 persons in attendance. Cashier David Jones announced today that the pool will keep its same hours it had last year. The pool will open on all week days from 10-12 in the morning, 2-5 in the afternoon and be open from 7-9 at night. The pool will not be open on Saturday and Sunday nights.

Also, the pool will only be open on Sunday afternoon from 2-5, Jones stated.

Attendance took a drop on Sunday when weather forced the crowd at the pool to drop to 75 paid admissions as compared with the 400 for the opening day.

Once each month the pool will be open free to the rural youth of the 4-H clubs in the county. The 4-H club members will be admitted free next Saturday, it was stated.

Stole Girl Scout Cutlery, Dishes At Camp Hardee

The Greenville Girl Scout's summer camp, Camp Hardee, on a high bluff overlooking Pamlico River, below Chocowinity, was robbed of all of its knives and forks and spoons while it was closed.

Further information from Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, Girl Scout commissioner, revealed that the robbers also carried away Camp Hardee's china plates and pitchers.

The summer camp, scheduled to open for its first two-weeks period on Sunday, June 18, needs some cutlery and some chinaware.

The Girl Scout council members have extended an invitation to generous and public-spirited citizens of Pitt County to make donations of cutlery and chinaware to the camp.

Telephone Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, 600 East Fifth street, phone 3553, or to Mrs. E. L. Henderson, Girl Scout headquarters, City Hall, telephone 2229. Donations of cutlery and chinaware will be announced in the press, Girl Scouts officials stated.

Heavy Rainfall During Weekend

The heaviest rainfall in the Greenville area this year was recorded at the local Weather Bureau station Sunday.

Mrs. Carl E. Maiden, representing the U. S. Department of Commerce, reported that 1.23 inches of rain fell here during the afternoon.

Incidentally, the weather observer passed along the information that when the instruments record one inch of rainfall, it means 27,000 gallons of water is precipitated on one square acre of ground.

Highest temperature recorded by the Weather Bureau Sunday was 80 degrees. Lowest last night was 57, and at 8 a.m. today the mercury stood at 63.

Insurance men contacted this morning stated that they had reports from various sections of the county that they had nothing definite at that time.

Boy Scouts And Girls Will Be Guests At Pool

Greenville boy scouts and their lady friends are to be feted by the city recreation commission Thursday afternoon from 5:15 to 6:30 with a swimming party at the swimming pool.

Alderman Heber B. Tripp, chairman of the city recreation commission announced today that the scouts and their dates will be admitted free to the swimming pool for the party. Each boy and girl must bring a towel, Tripp stated.

In the near future, he said, the recreation commission is planning a similar party for the girl scouts brownies and cub scouts. On the second Saturdays of June, July and August, members of the 4-H clubs of Pitt county will be guests of the city of Greenville at the municipal swimming pool.

In the western part of Greenville the delivery on Fairfax Avenue will be changed to foot carrier as will the portion of Colonial Avenue, Third, Fourth, Ward and Fifth Streets beyond the 1400 blocks. Battle and Davenport Streets will be served by foot routes. Foot routes will be used on Dickinson Avenue as far out as the intersection of the Farmville and Ayden highways; on Chestnut Street and Myrtle Avenue, beyond the 1600 block, in cotton mill village and in the Cooperfield and Bama sections of the city.

The only mounted routes which will be continued will be those serving the section of the city north of the river, Hilledale, the section near the Greenwood cemetery, and the Rock Springs drive section.

Dudley said the delivery system will be permanent as far as is known in the local post office. He said the savings which the program is supposed to produce will be effected by cutting down on the time of the postal workers on the routes rather than by discharging some of the postal employes in the local post office.

Tag Day Brought $206 Saturday

Tag day for the Negro midget baseball team which was held Saturday brought in $206.82 to be used to purchase uniforms for the members of the midget team.

George Garrett, chairman of the Negro civil league and church organizations which sponsored the tag day, said the money will be enough to purchase uniforms for two complete teams. The equipment other than the uniforms for the Negro midget teams is being supplied through the city recreation commission.

Garrett said this morning, "We wish now to thank Mayor W. S. Stafford for proclaiming this our first Tag Day. It is only through this type of cooperation that we can hope for a strong civic-minded people. We also want to thank every citizen both white and colored who contributed so willingly to this worthy cause, along with every person who helped collect the funds."

Working on the tag day were members of the Negro boy and girl scout organizations, Sunday school classes, and adult leaders of the groups and members of the Negro civil league.

Reconciled To . . .

(Continued From Page One) gress about this because of the cost—although Congress went along—and because for the first time in our peacetime history we were entering a military alliance.

But nothing showed better than the Atlantic pact and the arms program how far and how fast this country had moved in 10 or 11 years. We were getting up to our necks in the world now, and we knew it. Meanwhile, we learned the Russians had moved more quickly than our experts thought they would: They had an atomic explosion, sure news they had the atom bomb or soon would have.

This news both chilled and stiffened American thinking: We knew at last how truly important time was, time to get ready for the worst, if it came.

We might still hope the future could be worked out peacefully but we knew now we couldn't depend on hope alone. If we wanted peace we had to get ready for war to make peace possible—maybe.

All this—the constant piling up of new steps in the struggle with Russia, of widening responsibilities, of new sacrifices—made Americans used to the idea that future might be dark for a long time.

It meant we were going to continue to spend money, a lot of it.
