Governor Considering Charges State-Owned Materials And Prisoner Labor Used By J. B. Moore; Film Evidence Given Chairman Jordan

Raleigh, June 12—(AP)—Charges that Prison Director J. B. Moore used state-owned materials and prisoner labor for building work at his home were considered by Governor Scott today.

Moore conferred with the Governor during the morning and later called on the Governor again to present a statement giving his side of the matter. At 12:30 p.m. the Governor planned to lunch with Dr. Henry W. Jordan, High Commission chairman and Moore's boss.

During the morning Jordan was presented photographs and a statement by Jesse Helms, news director for radio station WRAL. One of the pictures showed a man painting and the other showed him being interviewed by Helms.

Helms said he had watched the man painting on the front porch of Moore's home here for 25 minutes Friday afternoon. He said the man identified himself as Mark Swann of Asheville, a prisoner. He also said Swann told him it was the second day he had worked at Moore's home.

Helms said he also saw men working in a garage-apartment behind Moore's home. Two of these, he said, identified themselves as prisoners.

Moore said he planned to present the Governor evidence that he got the materials used in building the garage-apartment from his son-in-law and that he hired a carpenter to erect the building.

Moore said he would not deny that prisoners had done some of the work but "I do deny that I ordered them to do it. It was purely voluntary and of short duration."

Dr. Jordan has said that if the charges are proved true, Moore will resign.

Moore explained that prison maintenance supervisor A. W. Livengood and a crew of prisoners were brought here several weeks ago to demolish several buildings and for other work.

Livengood, he added, used Moore's home as a place to store his tools and as an assembly point for the prisoners who were divided into crews for their work. While the prisoners waited, Livengood said, they sometimes helped an honor guard prisoner assisted regularly for work at Moore's home.

Abandon Search For Four Fliers

Dereham, Eng., June 12—(AP)—The U. S. Air Force abandoned today its search for four airmen still missing after the crash of a B-29 bomber into the North Sea.

The bomber crashed in flames last Wednesday when faulty mechanism, permitted its guns to fire directly into one of its engines. Four of the crew were rescued and the bodies of three others were recovered.

President Truman's Plan To Solve Credit Problems Of Small Business; Two Key Points Of Program; Bipartisan View Of Need For Such Legislation

By CLARKE BEACH

Washington—Administration leaders have been trying for a long time to solve the credit problems of small business. Now the President thinks he's got it. The two most novel features of his idea are:

1. Capital banks, privately owned lending agencies supervised by the Federal Reserve System. They would extend long-term credit to owners of small businesses unable to borrow money elsewhere. 2. Government insurance of bank loans to small business. The loans would be up to $25,000, repayable in five years. The capital banks would lend larger sums.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), chairman of the Joint Committee on the Economic Report, for about a year has been working on a capital bank bill. Congressional sources say that these two proposals, plus several others which the President included in his recent message to Congress on small business, will probably be included in an administration bill to be called the Small Business Act of 1950.

Both Republicans and Democrats long ago concluded that something must be done to ease the credit market for small businessmen. The point was stressed in the annual

Reds Boycotting Talks On Aid To Backward Areas

Indicates Stalin's Ignoring Of Trygve Lie's Opposition To Walkouts

Lake Success, June 12—(AP)—Russia and her satellites boycotted the United Nations Conference on Technical Assistance to Backward Areas today.

The U.N. received word over the weekend that the Soviet bloc would not attend the meeting, called by the General Assembly to create an international fund for technical assistance. No places were set for them at the oval table.

The Russians previously had either boycotted or withdrawn from 29 U.N. organs since Jan. 10 in protest against continued participation of the Chinese Nationalists. They want the Chinese Communists to sit in the U.N.

The continuing Soviet walkout-boycott campaign has taken on added significance since the recent talks between U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie and Prime Minister Stalin. It shows that Stalin intends to ignore Lie's opposition to the walkout tactics of the Soviet Union.

It also is significant that point 8 of Lie's 10-point peace program calls for universal participation in the U.N.'s technical assistance efforts. Soviet refusal to take part, thus, seems to be a direct slap at Lie's program.

Seventy-seven nations were invited to attend the three-day technical assistance conference. These included the 59 members of the U.N. and 18 other countries that are members of one or more of the U.N. specialized agencies.

The main object of the conference is to learn how much money the U.N. will get for technical assistance purposes. As a result of informal

Oppose Shelving Of Rent Control

Washington, June 12—(AP)—The Senate refused today to shelve the rent control bill.

The vote was 44 to 25. The vote was regarded as a general test of Senate sentiment toward the question of continuing federal rent controls, now due to expire June 30.

But some of those who voted against putting the bill aside had announced they would vote against the bill on the question of final passage.

Bright Spots In Gov't Reports

Unemployment Dropping; Consumer Income Growing

Washington, June 12—(AP)—The nation's unemployment and consumer income pictures both showed bright in recent weeks.

The Commerce Department announced yesterday that consumer incomes in April hit a $212,800,000,000 a year rate—$600,000,000 better than the annual rate reached in March.

At the same time, the Labor Department's bureau of employment security reported a moderate April-to-May drop in joblessness among workers covered by state unemployment insurance laws.

The April consumer income figure was at an annual rate considerably above the $209,800,000,000 total of actual income payments to individuals in 1949.

Total wage and salary receipts during the month reached a $136,700,000,000-a-year rate—$1,800,000,000 higher than the rate for March.

The rise stemmed primarily from increased activity in the durable goods manufacturing industries, the department said.

The Bureau of Employment Security attributed the drop indicated in unemployment to "increased job opportunities in construction, expanding agricultural and related activities and the ending of the major (Chrysler) auto strike."

Director Robert C. Goodwin said the May weekly average of continued claims—from persons unemployed at least a full week—came to 1,152,224. The April average was 1,918,300.

The funds, which will electrify primarily Pitt County in addition to parts of Craven and Beaufort, were requested early this year. Work has been received by the local Commission from REA offices in Washington that approval could be expected. The last word the Commission had from REA offices was a letter from Kenneth Hardy, regional head of applications for loans, requesting additional data on the electrification program. Swartz said that information is in Hardy's hands at the present time.

The sheriff said Gardner and his wife (who was a Payton before marriage) were separated; that Gardner went to her people's home and had an argument or fight with her; that her brothers stopped the fight; that Gardner went home for his gun and returned.

Sheriff Tyson quoted witnesses to the tragedy as saying that when Gardner returned there in a threatening manner, Lester Payton started down the porch steps and that Gardner shot him about the legs before he stepped on the ground.

Coroner Rouse said the dead man's brother, James Milton Payton, disarmed Gardner after he allegedly had fatally shot his brother, and held him temporarily. Sheriff's officers arrested him near his home.

Payton died on the way to a Washington hospital. A physician said the fatal shot in Payton's leg and that he bled to death.

Deputies Jasper Lee Mills and Duke Andrews arrested Gardner at his home shortly after the shooting. Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse will hold an inquest at the courthouse Tuesday night at eight o'clock.

First Church To Reach Its Quota

Memorial Baptist Church in Greenville holds the distinction of being the first church in North Carolina to reach its quota, for funds for U. S. construction of a new wing on Winston-Salem Baptist Hospital.

The Greenville church has donated $1,395 to the general fund for the building after the committee of the State Baptist Convention recently asked the individual churches of the state for the money. The wing was formerly to have been financed by a government loan.

Loan For Local Utilities May Get Approval This Week

Contrary to information announced in yesterday's state newspapers concerning final approval of a $910,000 Rural Electrification Administration loan for Greenville's Utilities Commission, approval has not been made as yet but is expected this week.

Martin Swartz, superintendent of the Commission, stated this morning he has received telegrams from offices of both Senators Hoy and Graham and also representatives Barden and Bonner to the effect that final approval was expected this week.

In a telegram from John D. McConnell, administrative assistant to Senator Frank Graham dated June 9, McConnell stated, "... it is believed that a favorable decision will be reached in a few days." McConnell wired Swartz he had talked to REA administrator Wickard in Washington last week concerning the loan.

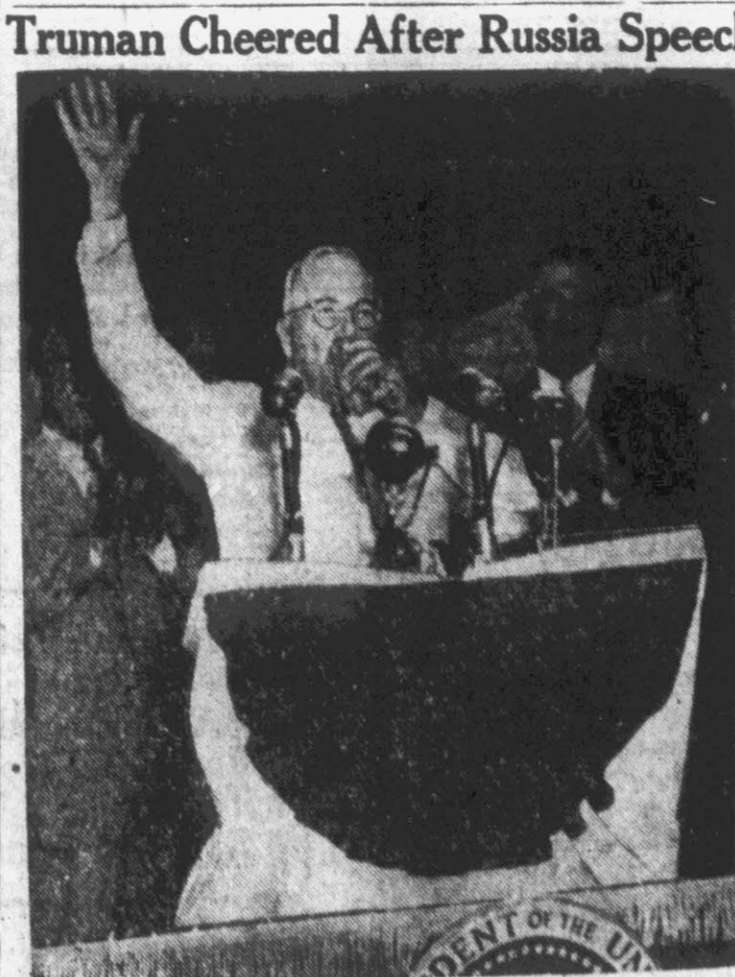

This is the initiation of a building program at Jarvis Memorial which envisages not only the education building to be added but the expansion of the sanctuary to seat 1,000, and a modernization of the present educational building. Each unit will be engaged in separately and independently financed.

The education building to be started Tuesday morning will extend from the back of the "James House" to the back of the present education building.

All But Abandon Target Date For Congress' Close

Congressional Leaders Face Too Much Major Legislation To Meet Date

Washington, June 12—(AP)—Congressional leaders have all but abandoned hope for final adjournment of the 81st congress by August 1.

There is just too much major legislation pending and many members seeking reelection this year are reluctant to go home until the performance record looks more impressive.

Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) said it would be "optimistic" to look for adjournment by August 1, although the House docket is in fairly good shape.

The outlook isn't so rosy in the Senate, where a filibuster by Senator Cain (R-Wash) last week delayed action of a bill extending the federal rent control program. The slow-down also may put off a decision on other major matters.

Four big bills passed by the House are bottled up in the Senate, and each of them is controversial enough to require lengthy discussion.

Still to be acted on are house-passed bills creating a fair employment practices commission; appropriating $29,000,000 for operation of the government in fiscal year which starts July 1; broadening the social security program and extending the draft law.

An earlier attempt to take up the FEPC bill ran into the threat of a filibuster, but Senate leaders say they still hope to get the bill to a vote.

They also want to dispose of the rent control bill this week in time to start debate on the bill expanding the social security program. A move to shelve the rent control extension was scheduled for a vote today. The House originally planned to debate the rent bill this week, also, but plans now to lay it aside until the Senate acts.

British Newsman Seeks Asylum In Russian Zone

Berlin, June 12—(AP)—John Peet, Berlin correspondent for Reuters News Agency, announced today he is asking the Communist East German government for asylum because of "American warmongering."

Peet, 34 made his announcement to a news conference especially arranged by Gerhart Eisler, information chief for the East German government, at the former Nazi propaganda ministry on Wilhelmstrasse.

He said he expected that with this announcement his connection with Reuters, a worldwide news agency with headquarters in London, would be ended.

"I'm looking for a job now in the German Democratic Republic," he said with a smile at Eisler, who stood at his side during the interview.

Peet, London-born, read in German a five page denunciation of the United States, accusing Americans of war preparations, lies and imperialism, and of turning Britain into a vassal state.

The curly-haired, bespectacled correspondent, who said he fought in an International Brigade in Spain 14 years ago, replied "never" when asked if he was a member of the Communist party.

Eisler packed the conference with 200 East German representatives. Only one American and one British

Group Accuse Co-Op Head Of Using Funds In Politics

Charlotte, N. C., June 12—(AP)—Ten Mecklenburg county men today accused the head of the Farmers Cooperative Exchange of Raleigh of spending corporate funds on a letter supporting Senator Frank P. Graham.

The group wrote a letter to U. S. Attorney General Howard McGrath demanding an official investigation.

They contended that the FCX, a Corporation, violated provisions of federal corrupt practices act "by utilizing corporate funds to promote the political candidacy of U. S. Senator Frank P. Graham."

The letter was signed by R. S. Dickson, investment broker; W. S. Tate, merchant; J. Bryan Wenz, merchant; W. A. Richard, accountant; R. M. Debb, real estate operator; Earle Whitton, construction company executive; Dr. Glenn W. Pennington, medical physician; Lee A. Folger, automobile dealer; W. A. Montgomery, auto supply dealer.

Vets' Insurance Plan

Proposed Legislation To Cut Cost Of National Service Life Insurance May Be Introduced Soon; Likely Recommendations; Arguments, Both For And Against

By DAVID G. TYSON

WASHINGTON—Legislation to cut the cost of the veterans' insurance program may soon be introduced in Congress. A House Expenditures subcommittee has ended hearings on National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) and hopes before Congress adjourns to come up with specific recommendations for ironing out wrinkles in the program.

Rep. Porter Hardy (D-Va.), subcommittee chairman, made it clear however that the insurance protection of veterans and servicemen who now hold policies cannot be affected. "NSLI policies," he said, "are definite, irrevocable contracts between the government and the insured." But Rep. Hardy may recommend changes in the types of policies to be issued from now on. What they will be he isn't saying until he can study the evidence further.

One likely recommendation might reduce dividends slightly on present policies. During the hearings the subcommittee questioned whether the three per cent interest paid by the government on an invested NSLI fund was not too liberal a subsidy. The secretary of the treasury, now Congress, could bring this interest rate into line with the current market rate of 2.2 per cent. The subcommittee said the government in this way could have saved $210,000,000 up to October 1948 and still kept the NSLI fund intact.

It also said the high administrative cost of NSLI—which the government pays—could be reduced only by the Veterans Administration (VA). It is estimated that handling each NSLI policy costs $14 a year compared to $8.49 for policies in the five largest commercial companies. It questioned whether the VA should not pay dividends to the government when premiums were paid by the government. As an inducement for enlistment, aviation cadets since 1946 have been granted $10,000 free insurance with the government paying all premiums. However, when those premiums were discovered to be excessive, dividends totalling $16,000,000 were paid back not to the government, but to the cadets.

Two significant recommendations were laid before the subcommittee by the VA insurance chief, Harold W. Breining. He said if Congress

County Gains 2,526 Since 1940; Greenville Increases 4,039 As Ayden's Total Is Set At 2,277 And Bethel Gets Credit For 1,398

Pitt County's population for 1950 stands at 63,770. The preliminary census returns for the county were released today by F. Webb Williams, census supervisor for the first congressional district.

The county's population in 1940 was 61,244. Greenville showed a population of 16,713 which is a 4,039 increase over the 1940 federal census and an increase of 1,545 over the special federal census which was taken in the city in 1948.

The county as a whole showed an over-all increase of 2,526 over the population which the county had at the time of the federal census ten years ago.

A considerable gain was shown in the population of Ayden while a small gain was shown in Bethel. Farmville, according to the census figures released by Williams, showed a loss in population of 39 people during the ten-year period.

The figures released by the census officials gave the individual populations of only the towns in the county which have census populations.

In releasing the report, Williams stated, "These figures are believed to be substantially correct but are subject to revision after returns for nonresidents are credited to their proper locality and other routine checks have been made. Although material revision of the preliminary count is unlikely, it may possibly occur after careful examination of the returns." He added that the official announcement of population will be made at a later date by the director of the census bureau in Washington.

Farmville, according to the census figures, has a population of 2,941 compared with a population of 2,900 in 1940—a decrease of 39. Ayden was credited with a population of 2,277 for 1950 compared with 1,311 in 1940—an increase of 966 people.

The census report gave Bethel 1,398 people this year compared with 1,333 people ten years ago—an increase of 65 people.

Although Mayor W. S. Stafford was out of Greenville today and could not be reached for comment on the census report for the city, Manager W. T. Kyezer of the Greenville chamber of commerce expressed satisfaction with the population which the census report gave the city.

Reaction to the census figures were not so favorable in Farmville, however, where the report showed the town has a net loss during the ten year period. Mayor Walter Jones commented on the report: "To say the least we are somewhat disappointed and surprised at the census figures. Even the most conservative observers familiar with the situation locally had estimated an increase of five to ten per cent over the 1940 population rather than a decrease of 39 people."

In Bethel, where the population rose 65 people according to the census figures, Mayor J. W. Rook said he thought the townspeople would be satisfied with the population of 1,398 which the census showed. He added however, "I thought it would be a little more than that."

Mayor J. R. Taylor of Ayden could not be reached for comment on the census figures.

Miss Van Dyke Is Hostess To Book Club

The Clio Book Club met Thursday evening with Miss Annie Shields Van Dyke at her home on East Fifth street. Miss Van Dyke's lovely new home was decorated throughout with artistic arrangements of summer flowers.

The program chairman introduced Mr. Gaither Frye, of the Greenville High School faculty, who discussed Distributive Education. There are two phases of the Distributive Education program, said Mr. Frye: one is the adult and the other the cooperative, which trains high school students. This program, which is financed partly by federal and state governments and partly by the community in which the work is carried on, has as its purposes preparation for careers in distribution, to prepare students for socio-economic adjustment, to promote community-school-business relationships, encourage in initiative and leadership, develop in those who work in distribution a realization of the need for further training, and to stress the dignity and importance of all work. It is estimated that 49 per cent of the price to the consumer, Mr. Frye said, is for distribution, which has led to study of methods and training of those people who work in advertising, selling, and all phases of distribution. He explained the adult program, financed by the Department of Public Instruction, for the regularly employed wholesale and retail personnel.

Guests of the club were Mrs. A. F. Smith of Raleigh, a former member; Mrs. Zack Van Dyke, Mr. and Mrs. Frye, Mrs. Bryce Sigmon, and Mrs. Carl Pierce.

Miss Van Dyke served a delicious salad course followed by dessert.

Dessert Bridge Honors Bride-Elect

Mrs. Robert W. Fennell entertained Thursday evening at her home on West Second street at dessert bridge honoring Miss Mary Bardeen Taylor, bride-elect. The lower floor was decorated throughout with summer flowers of pastel shades.

Upon arrival the honoree was presented a corsage of painted daisies.

An ice course of pink and green was served by the hostess assisted by Mesdames Arthur Corey and Mrs. J. Hicks Corey.

High score for the evening was made by Mrs. W. S. Stafford and second high by Miss Peggy Rose Smith.

Silver corn holders were given the honoree by the hostess.

Women In The Church

Miss Irma Highbaugh of Coffeyville, Kan., who has given a quarter of a century as a Methodist missionary, to the improvement of home and family life in China, is now in Japan, carrying on similar work under the National Christian Council of Japan and the Foreign Missions Conference of North America. Some of the family and home problems that are perplexing the older and the younger generations of Japanese—problems growing out of the recent war, the collapse of the religion of emperor-worship, and the striving for democracy—are listed by Miss Highbaugh: Women are learning the new ways faster than are the men—hence family conflicts. Youth has taken to "freedom and democracy," and parents fear to make suggestions to them. Teen-agers who cannot go beyond primary classes often become delinquents. Mother-in-law and daughter-in-law gaps are widening because of the new ideas. Shall parents guide the children, or shall grandparent—as heretofore? With only 67 men to every 100 women, in the 20 to 25-year group, what can the church do to help young widows to a satisfying life? What can be done about the growing suicides of youth, and the suicide pacts of whole families? How to teach respect versus obedience to elders? What can be done when a Christian girl marries a Buddhist, and the new family does not permit her to go to church?

A young woman psychiatrist from Sweden, who recently completed a year's post-graduate study in the Michael Reese Hospital, Chicago, will go to India in September as the first missionary psychiatrist of the Methodist Church. She is Dr. Dagmar Norell, of Stockholm. The 33-year-old psychiatrist will begin her work in clinics under the Ashrams led by Dr. E. Stanley Jones at Sat Tal and Lucknow. From this small-scale beginning, where only neurotic patients will be treated, she will set up and direct a program of psychotherapy in North India which will eventually require a hospital building and a staff of specialists. Dr. Norell says, "The rapid changes which are being made in the structure of the culture of India have created a great need for this type of work. The influence of Western civilization, migrations, the breaking up of the old family system have all added to the problems of the Indian people."

AT SITE OF SISTER'S MARTYRDOM

BROTHER OF MARIA GORETTI who was attacked and slain by a farm worker in 1902, Angelo Goretti, 62, of Union City, N. J., visits the site in Anzio, Italy, where the 11-year-old girl was murdered. Pope Pius XII will raise Maria to sainthood shortly and Goretti will have the distinction of being the only man in the history of the Roman Catholic Church ever to witness the canonization of his sister. Cole-Sumrell Vows Spoken In Duke Memorial Chapel

MRS. WILLIAM L. COLE, JR.

Durham, N. C.—Miss Dorothy M. Sumrell, daughter of Mrs. Hugh A. Sumrell and the late Mr. Sumrell of Greenville, became the bride of William L. Cole, Jr., son of Mrs. William Lemuel Cole, Jr., and the late Mr. Cole, of Durham, Saturday evening at 7 o'clock in Duke Memorial Chapel in Durham. Dr. R. E. Brown was the officiating minister.

The altar was decorated with wrought iron candelabra holding Cathedral candles and arrangements of white gladioli, carnations and calla lilies.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Samuel Angier, organist and Dr. Robert Pope soloist, who sang, "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawnings." During the ceremony, Mrs. Angier played "The Rosary."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Hugh A. Sumrell, Jr., of Greenville, chose for her wedding a gown of pure white satin. The open faced neckline was outlined by charmingly lace and dropped low off the shoulder. Long sleeves of satin formed calla lily points over the wrists. The bodice fitted smoothly and opened down the back with a row of tiny satin buttons. The voluminous skirt accented a broad hip-line with two piping inserts and flowed gently into a full court train in back. Veil of imported illusion fell from a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a prayer book covered with white satin, topped with a purple and white satin ribbons cascaded. She threw a bouquet of white flowers showered with white satin ribbons.

The maid of honor, Miss Martha Cooper of Mt. Giléad, N. C., wore a dress of white velvety over rose taffeta. The gown featured an off the face neckline with a scalloped bertha affect accenting a broad shoulder. The bodice fitted smoothly and the skirt was very full being worn over a hooped skirt. Complementing the dress were white velvety gauntlets and a small maline hat. She carried a cascade hand bouquet arrangement of blue painted daisies, talisman roses and gurbars.

The attendants, Miss Betty Kelly, Miss Vertelle Cameron, Mrs. Marion Long, and Mrs. Elwood Rose wore gowns of white velvety over blue, same style as the maid and matron of honors. They wore white gauntlets and small hats of blue maline. They carried cascading hand bouquets of pink roses and yellow daisies and the flower girl, Miss Carolyn Sumrell of Greenville, N. C., wore a gown of white organdy ruffled to the floor. She carried a pink basket of rose petals.

Mr. Richard T. Sanders, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man and Raymond Proctor, Edgar Huckabees, Mowling Huckabees, William Fowler and L. C. Sumrell of Greenville were ushers.

Richard Tatum Sanders, Jr., was ring bearer.

Mrs. Sumrell, mother of the bride, wore a floor length gown of aqua crepe with lace aqua accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Cole, mother of the groom, was gowned in a floor length dress of grey lace and an orchid corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony Mrs. W. L. Cole entertained at a reception at Forest Hills club house.

Guests were greeted by Col. and Mrs. M. B. Fowler and introduced to the receiving line by Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Sanders. Directing the callers to the dining room were Mrs. R. J. Rutherford and Miss Margaret Lawrence. In the dining room Mrs. Paul Stack, of Raleigh, and Mrs. C. T. Council, Sr., assisted by Misses Pat Fowler, Bary A. Ward, Martha Proctor, Mrs. Edgar Huckabee and Mrs. William Fowler served punch and other dainty refreshments.

Mrs. Carey Lowe presided over the bride's book. Goodbyes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Vergie Cole and Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Rose.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, Mr. and Mrs. Cole will be at home 2113 Sprunt street.

For traveling the bride changed to a white pique suit with which she used white accessories and an orchid lifted from her prayer book.

The bride was educated at Grimesland high school, Watis hospital and Duke University.

Mr. Cole attended Durham high school, The Citadel, in Charleston, S. C., Darlington School, Rome, Ga., and Duke University. He had three and a half years of army service.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Cole, Raleigh, uncle of groom; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stack, Raleigh, cousin of groom; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Sumrell, Greenville, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sumrell, Jr., Chiloc, N. C.; Mr. Gene Sumrell, Chiloc, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Austin of Charlotte; Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Cole, Mr. Ed Cole, Craig Harrington.

Meeting O'Neal Foundation Here

By CHESTER WALSH
The O'Neal Foundation established here nearly two years ago for the benefit of the widow and child of William Benjamin O'Neal, is a continuing organization.

At a recent meeting with J. H. Boyd, Jr., the founder, presiding, gratifying reports were made.

O'Neal, a taxicab driver, was murdered at a rural point between here and Grimesland, in February 1948. The killing was one of the most brutal murders in the history of Pitt county, authorities declared.

O'Neal's wife, expecting to become a mother shortly after her husband's death, was left in destitute circumstances.

Under the leadership of then Mayor J. H. Boyd, Jr., the O'Neal Foundation was organized by public spirited citizens. Funds and materials were donated for building a home for O'Neal's widow and child on a lot the O'Neals partly owned.

A trust fund was established, with the plan to keep the house and lot intact for the benefit of the mother and child, until the child is grown.

At the Foundation's recent meeting JoJo Moyer, Jr., explained the purpose of the foundation and read its charter.

A resolution thanking the late Arthur B. Corey for his part in helping to establish the O'Neal Foundation was passed.

A vote of thanks was extended to C. B. West, contractor, for his good work.

Those present at the meeting were: J. H. Boyd, Jr., Joe S. Moyer, C. B. West, Jr., Carrie B. West, TY Wagner, Howard Moyer, Earl Alder, S. J. Vincent, Mrs. Gilbert Winters, Mrs. Marg S. Brown, Mrs. Ruth Garner, Mrs. Jo Dees and Mrs. Marion Perry, and others.

loans, because they must keep a large proportion of their funds liquid. A few large banks in some cities do make such loans on a substantial scale. But they serve only a minor proportion of the nation's small businesses.

Selling stocks or bonds to get capital—a method used by large corporations—is not feasible for small business. Borrowing equity capital from small investors isn't practicable, because most people would prefer to use their savings to buy homes, government bonds or insurance. Insurance companies and other large investors don't like to invest in small firms—unless they thereby gain control of them. They prefer the securities of large, well-established

Large Delegation To Shrine Meet On West Coast

Strength for the Day

BY EARL L. DOUGLAS
THE ASTOUNDING FUTURE
If we had the least idea how much power there is in every one of us and how little we utilize our latent possibilities, a veritable revolution would take place in the careers of every one of us.

What a new world opened with the discovery of atomic power! We are told that a few ounces of matter transformed into energy would be able to take the most powerful airplane around the world on a non-stop flight.

In human personality there are powers infinitely greater than the physical powers which atomic fission releases. Jesus said that if we had faith we could pick up mountains and cast them into the sea, or uproot the sycamore tree and say, "Be thou planted in the sea; and it would obey you." Some people regard this language as oriental imagery, but our Lord was speaking in terms of solemn realism. There is no limit to what the human personality can do, provided it is in proper adjustment with the Divine Personality. The Spirit of God is within us at all times; all we have to do is to work it out, channel it into acts of creative usefulness.

Great days of spiritual awakening are ahead of us. What Einstein did for the physical world can be done also in the spiritual world. We stand only on the threshold of unprecedented spiritual discoveries.

Spuds For U. S. Livestock And German People

Even though the people in Pitt county and the people in East Germany are thousands of miles apart, they have at least one thing in common. They can purchase potatoes from the United States government for one cent per hundred pounds.

The government farm subsidy program has become so complicated, that often it is difficult to follow the reasoning behind the actions of the particular government agency which controls the vast supply of surplus farm commodities which the government has.

Just a few days ago it was announced that the farmers of Pitt county could purchase surplus potatoes from the 1950 crop at the cost of one cent per hundred pounds. It is stipulated, however, that these spuds can be used only for livestock feed.

Saturday it was disclosed that 50,000 tons of American potatoes were being sold to the East German officials for the same price—one cent per hundred pounds. The only difference is that the potatoes which go to Germany will be used to feed humans rather than farm livestock.

The United States government is no doubt taking a loss on the potatoes it is selling to Germany the same as it is taking a loss on the potatoes which it is selling to the farmers of Pitt county.

There are numbers of thousands of people in the United States even today who do not get enough food to eat from day to day, and who would like to purchase surplus potatoes at one cent per bushel to fill their hungry bellies. But in this country surplus potatoes sold to the public must be used for livestock, while our government sells other surplus potatoes for the same price to foreigners to be used to feed the subjects of a nation unfriendly to ours.

The arrangement is just another policy figured out by the Wonderful Wizards of Washington which we are unable to comprehend.

When Marshall Plan Ends, Then What?

The President has confirmed what a lot of people have been long suspecting; that after the Marshall Plan reaches its end, some other means of bolstering European economy must be given further assistance.

In other words, the Marshall Plan did not perform all that its advocates predicted; but neither has the Marshall Plan been the failure that its opponents foresaw.

Obviously the Administration is going to use every bit of salesmanship available to sell this continued underwriting of the European economy to the growing number of conscience-stricken (budgetarily, that is) lawmakers. That this is realized seems apparent in Mr. Truman's early discussion of what is to be done.

No attempt to set time limits on the proposed new program has been made. For one thing, it's still in the talking stage; for another, Communist tactics of obstructionism might well slow the success of the program just as it is largely to blame for preventing quick success through the Marshall Plan. Naturally, we do not want to continue our extraordinary financial assistance to other countries any longer than necessary; on the other hand, our interest in a healthy world economy will be just as necessary after 1952 as it is today if there is to be a sound foundation for world peace.

This early consideration of action to be taken when the Marshall Plan ends, underscores a point frequently forgotten: that we are fighting, without guns, to preserve the element of freedom still alive in western Europe. The fight is cheaper now than it would be if the front lines of freedom were pushed back to our own shores.

The strength of the American dollar has re-vitalized great areas of the world, but the task is not yet complete. Are we going to let past accomplishments go by default?

The Morning-After Vows Usually Are Forgotten

Every year about this time hundreds of people from all parts of North Carolina shake their heads and breathe a sigh, "Never again for me." And just one year later they are doing the same thing over again.

We are referring to the attendance at the June German which has become the foremost of North Carolina's social activities. Thousands of people from all parts of the state throng to Rocky Mount each June to spend a whole night dancing, greeting old friends and making new acquaintances. When the morning sun peeks up bringing the evening to a climax, there are hundreds who vow they'll never return for another June German—but usually they do.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News BY RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, June 13—President Truman has maneuvered into the role of a friend of the nation's greatest oil companies and a foe of important organized labor elements in a Capitol Hill drama that has not enjoyed sufficient advertising or box office notice, in view of its high elements of politico-economic interest. For the chief anti-White House conspirator is that ancient presidential scold and enemy, John L. Lewis.

The stage for their latest encounter is a Senate subcommittee charged with investigating reasons for unemployment in such key industries as coal, oil, railroads and allied fields, including corner-grocery commerce in the areas affected.

Their principal complaint is that heavy oil imports from South America and the Middle East are throwing men out of work in the bituminous mines, on railroad and inland shipping lines, and in the independent, domestically owned and operated oil fields of the Middle, South and Far West. It is one of the few times that John L. has found himself in utter agreement with the coal operators or other "phantom kings of wealth," as he would say.

Complainants demand a tariff increase from $2 1/2 to $1.05 a barrel, preferring that remedy to the alternative proposal of limiting imports to five per cent of domestic production. Incidentally, it is the heavy fuel oil for firing factories that is involved principally, instead of the home-heating variety.

CURIOSITY—For an Administration so avowedly devoted to the welfare of the "little fellows" and against what President Truman calls "the selfish interests of Wall Street," it is curious to hear every so often the soft suggestion that the State Department's present personnel is unusually solicitous of certain established oil, financial and legal interests centered in downtown Manhattan.

As at similar proceedings before the House Interstate and Commerce Committee, there are recurrent references to the fact that Secretary Acheson's former law firm represents a government in the Middle East which profits heavily from leasing its oil lands.

It is pointed out that Special Ambassador John W. Dulles used to be top international expert for Sullivan & Cromwell of New York, frequently a director and maker of official foreign policy, and that his brother, Allen W., is still with that firm.

In fact, Edward G. Miller Jr., Assistant Secretary of State, handled foreign oil matters for this house before Mr. Acheson brought him to Washington a few months ago.

SPOKESMAN—In view of Mr. Miller's professional connections in the past, Willard L. Thorp appears before the unemployment committee as State's official spokesman. He bitterly opposes the proposed tariff boost, maintaining that it would tend to break down the Administration's basic program of encouraging overseas commerce through the reciprocal trade agreements.

He insists that large imports bolster national defense, permitting us to conserve domestic resources against the day when Russian submarines might sever our sea lanes through the Mediterranean or Caribbean.

Paralleling the arguments of Standard Oil of New Jersey, he notes that almost all the incoming petroleum is owned by American firms, and "is just as American as oil raised in Ohio or Texas."

Owners of domestic wells join with John L. in asking why they should be "crushed" and "wiped out of business" by the government's tariff policies. They also insist that national defense is harmed instead of hurt because low domestic prices, due to import competition, destroy any incentive for new exploration and development. And so it goes.

DISTRACTION—As usually happens when the unruly and mischievous John L. barges unwittingly into an official brawl, he had driven normally loyal Trumanite members into distraction. He has aligned Democratic political members against the Administration in a politically hilarious manner.

Committee Chairman Matthew M. Neely halls from West Virginia, where there are approximately 80,000 members of the United Mine Workers. His eyes popped when a Lewis spokesman charged that these oil imports had cost the jobs of 25,000 coal miners and 25,000 transport workers. Another usually subservient White Houseer, Senator Martin W. Kilgore, found it advisable to testify in favor of a limitation. He is a West Virginian.

So did Representative John W. Kee, although he has helped to underwrite the reciprocal trade program as chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. But he, too, is from West Virginia. Another Administration humanitarian, when and if his state's interests are not jeopardized, is Senator Elbert Thomas of Utah. But there are some United Mine Workers in that state.

DELIGHTED—Naturally, the petroleum trio which Mr. Truman fooled when he refused to sign the Kerr National Gas Bill—Speaker Rayburn and Senator Tom Connally of Texas, as well as Senator Bob Kerr of Oklahoma—are embarrassed. Although they have "big oil" connections, there are many independent operators in their southwestern bailiwicks.

Perhaps the only individual really thrilling to this trigamety is Committee Member Robert A. Taft of Ohio. With rare humor—for him it was a gusty outbreak—he said at a recent hearing, in effect:

"I am all with you against this flood of imports but in a sort of devil discipline way. I am delighted to see these leading advocates of reciprocal tariffs and overseas assistance to foreign nations so upset when the question is laid on their own political doorstep."

The Democrats growled and groaned, but had to agree that "Bob" was right this time at least.

The Music Lesson

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau BY LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.

PRISONS—The next general assembly will almost certainly do something about prison administration in North Carolina. Developments of the past few days have made some action necessary for political reasons as well as for nobler reasons of improving conditions.

The preliminary report of Austin J. McCormick, nationally known expert who had been asked to analyze the set-up, pointed out some weaknesses and was sprinkled with highly caustic criticism. Some folks around the capitol thought this report wouldn't get much attention. It was recalled that a similar investigation of mental hospitals made during the Ehringhaus administration was pigeon-holed and forgotten until the Jimison letters led to another commission study under Governor Broughton, which was basis for the improvements about which the state now boasts.

SCANDAL—Before the McCormick report had been put into final shape for permanent printing, came reports that the director of prisons, top man under the highway and public works commission with respect to prison administration, had been using convict labor and state-owned materials for private profit. First rumors occasioned investigation by SEI, resulting in disclosures that required explanation—to say the least. Prisoners undoubtedly had been working on a garage-apartment building on the home

lot of Prison Director J. Price Moore.

PERQUISITES—Moore says it was on the up and up, that the worker was a trusty assigned to him as yard-man. Chairman Henry Jordan of the highway commission says it has been customary to assign such help to the head boss of the prisons. A few years ago this practice got so bad the state built an apartment house near central prison to house the director, the superintendent of central prison, the physician and the chaplain. Principal reason assigned was to have these key men close at hand, because they were subject to emergency calls. Another reason was to eliminate some of the inequities in perquisites allowed high ranking prison personnel.

DEFEATED—When Moore was appointed director about a year ago he did not want to move into the apartment, preferring to continue in his home in a better residential district, largely defeating the purpose of its erection. So the apartment was rented, at relatively low cost to Dr. T. C. Johnson, commissioner of paroles, and a trusty prisoner was assigned to help Director Moore's family with work about the home place. Trustees have been used for years as servants at the governor's mansion, as operators of elevators and motor vehicles owned by the state; but the practice of assigning them to private premises has been frowned upon.

CHANGES—Publicity given the Moore incident, following closely the McCormick report charging inefficiency and political manipulation, makes it impossible for the people and the general assembly to ignore the situation. Whether the accusations are sustained or disproven, opinion grows that there is something wrong with a system susceptible to such abuse. Prison reorganization will be one more headache for members of the 1951 general assembly—which already had a Pandora box full of troubles facing it.

GARDNER—By way of Holt McPherson's personal column in the Shelby Daily Star it is learned that O. Max Gardner Jr. has practically licked the attack of myelitis which he suffered early in the spring, and is coming home. Not only because of his distinguished father, but in his own right young Max is a sturdy character. He had to forego certain prospect of service in the state senate and defer his graduation from the university to enter a hospital in Albany, N.Y., the last of March. Doctors there phoned the Shelby paper that young Gardner had made exceptional improvement and had won the hearts of all the attendants at the institution—and was able to come home to complete rehabilitation.

Babson: Investment For Businessmen

Babson Park, Mass., June 9—Many of the letters which come to me are from small investors who have not funds enough to subscribe to a reliable Investment Advisory Service. These, I try to answer frankly and freely. Recently, however, letters are coming from businessmen who haven't had any investment experience, although successful in their own business. With such letters in mind, I am writing this column.

Cash In The Bank Unless World War III suddenly comes, I see no "business bust" in sight. In fact, so long as the Cold War continues, President Truman may be justified in artificially inflating business to avoid unemployment. Therefore, I see nothing for the businessman to worry about at the moment. On the other hand, someday there will be a "bust" in stock prices and many commodity prices may sell for only half what they are selling for today. This means that a good bank account is the best insurance and investment for a businessman.

Government Bonds Many successful businessmen have all their money in a factory, or store or real estate. They have made no provision to enable their family to pay their "death taxes" so-called. As a result the family has been obliged to sell, or mortgage, the business in order to pay these taxes. If the death should come during a depression, this could be very serious.

Merchandise Stocks Businessmen who want to buy stocks at this time might well consider merchandising stocks, especially those of the leading chain stores. Such corporations have few labor troubles; they do a cash business and have a turnover of 4 or 5 times a year, and if out of debt, they can take care of themselves whether we are entering inflation or deflating. Let me take this occasion to say that during the next few years the greatest opportunities will come to those employed in selling. It will be easy enough for businessmen to get goods manufactured but the difficulty will be to sell them. Young people who are graduating this month from college and high school will be wise to train to sell, even if it means house-to-house peddling.

Productive Real Estate As a rule, most businessmen have enough in real estate, but I still feel it a prime investment. Well located suburban acreage should be the most desirable. Small fertile farms near settled communities should be good investments. I like growing woodland which belongs to "no union," and "works" day, night holidays and Sundays! I don't care much for buildings or houses. Most well located land is constantly growing more valuable, but nearly all buildings thereon are constantly growing less valuable.

Education And Churches Wise businessmen will liberally invest in the family's health, education and spiritual development. In fact, to be niggardly regarding these things is very dangerous. The truly most important investments are those in the unseen and intangible. There is no use in working hard to make and save money and then have it dissipated by children lacking in good judgment or good religion.

property in the Long Beach-Caswell Beach areas, for a discussion of the establishment of a park there. The division of parks has been asked, Mr. Ross continues, to prepare a blue print of development and to submit it to the Parks Committee at a meeting to be held early in June. Following that meeting recommendations will be made to the full board of Conservation and Development at its summer meeting to be held at Morehead City in July.

There have been many interruptions, including a World War, in plans for the National Seashore. Residents of the outer banks, which would become the National Seashore, are not fully decided on the matter. It is only recently that they have willingly acquired the first stretches of paved highway, but few object to that convenience now.

Creation of the National Seashore might be expected to bring considerable change to the outer banks. But it is a change which began with the erection of the Wright Memorial and the staging of the Lost Colony at Manteo is one which will continue. The coastal area is one too fine to be ignored by the thousands of visitors to whom it is just being opened.

At the end of three days—when he can no longer hear the yelps for help inside—our man opens the door. The sleepy backlogs, snake-frightened, nettle-backed, mosquito-chewed, bee-bitten, sun-fried, ivy-poisoned, anti-tick, pneumonia-lacked, cobweb-covered members of the family are then carried out and put into their own beds.

Who is there to attend their aches, pains and ills? Why their own good old cheerful family doctor. In four days he has them all back to their feet, and they go on around bragging to friends: "You think we had a rough vacation? Let me tell you what happened to us. . . ."

And they'll still have a week—before going back to work—wonder why they never appreciated before how nice it is just to be at home, and comfortable.

Couldn't you use a modern vacation room in your house?

Washington Letter

BY JANE ADAMS WASHINGTON—Altogether too many bright young people in this country are not getting educational opportunities equal to their abilities. As a result the nation is the loser. This is the opinion of Dr. Elise Martens, chief, Section of Exceptional Children and Youth, U.S. Office of Education. She says that it is society's responsibility to make use of whatever talents the young may have, "both for their own happiness and the good of the world."

"We feel that every child is unique, that each needs the type of educational opportunity which will help him most and bring out the best in him, whether he is below average, average or superior in intellect," she told me.

My talk with Dr. Martens was in relation, however, to a recent statement of the educational policies commission on "Education for the Gifted." The statement said to many gifted youth drop out of school too early, that only half go to college—"evidence that the nation's intellectual resources are not being fully used." Main reason for failure to go to college: "They can't afford it."

Dr. Martens says that often the gifted are either not discovered early enough and just "mark time" in school, or perhaps they leave to support the family, or the whole school curriculum is not enriched to challenge them.

The commission's statement goes farther. It insists that "the American ideal of an open, casteless society is endangered by social and educational practices which tend to recruit leaders from "upper-class" families without regard to individual ability. The commission recommends: "All gifted youth (the top 10 per cent in intellectual ability) should be educated with the expectation that they will go to college. All highly gifted youth (the top 1 per cent in intellectual ability) should be educated with the expectation that they will continue higher education beyond college graduation."

Dr. Martens, who was among the distinguished educators who helped prepare the statement, says: "We would like to see these young persons working part of the day with children of equal brightness, thus giving them a challenge to their best effort. Along with this we'd like to see them part of the day—in art class, shop, physical education, social studies—be in contact with the average, so they will realize it takes all kinds of people to make a world and each has a distinct contribution to give."

What Other Papers Are Thinking

SEASHORE PARKS (New Bern Sun-Journal) With the success of the National Seashore project from Manteo to Cape Hatteras not yet assured, but with preparations for the building of a toll highway from Norfolk to Manteo progressing, Director George Ross of the State Board of Conservation and Development recently announced the possibility of the establishment of a state seashore park at Long Beach in Brunswick county.

Such a project is now under consideration, he said. The Parks Committee met recently with officials of the Income and Home Association, which has acquired the Long Beach-Caswell Beach areas, for a discussion of the establishment of a park there. The division of parks has been asked, Mr. Ross continues, to prepare a blue print of development and to submit it to the Parks Committee at a meeting to be held early in June. Following that meeting recommendations will be made to the full board of Conservation and Development at its summer meeting to be held at Morehead City in July.

By ELMER MOESSNER

One of the opportunities recommended by business experts after the war was that of supplying accounting services for small businesses, which need much help keenly nowadays, but can't afford full-time personnel. A number of ambitious accountants scored successes by fitting out trucks and station wagons with accounting equipment.

One of the best achievements along these lines is the business set up by a comparatively obscure ex-county comptroller from Phoenix, Ariz., Joe L. Schmitt Jr. Using punched-card accounting equipment, he developed a method of double-entry bookkeeping by machine methods which he says cuts accounting costs in half and reduces time to one-fifth of the manual method.

Schmitt's system reduces accounting to recording daily entries on a special form which he supplies. This data is converted to double-entry bookkeeping on the punched-card method.

Schmitt does a job for a small businessman for as little as $21.50 a month, less than the wages of a part-time bookkeeper. The monthly accounting can be completed and returned to the businessman within ten days of closing his books for the month. He could do it in five, Schmitt reports, but he allows a margin for weekends and mail delays.

Schmitt's goal is to establish one of his central bureaus in every state, either on a franchise or Schmitt's operated basis. He already has accounting bureaus in operation or ready to go in 18 states.

The clients? They range from vegetable stands and lunch counters to small insurance companies and banks.

Heart of Schmitt's system is the use of a single punch card to develop details of each transaction recorded on the daily journal. By coding the punched-card, he can use the same card for eight different reports of the information as compared to usual methods requiring eight different cards.

BUYING POWER DOWN THIS YEAR BUT IMPROVING

The typical consumer has only 98 cents now in real income compared to $1 a year ago but recent months have shown a steady gain, according to the monthly Real Income Index maintained by Investors Diversified Services, of Minneapolis.

Chief reason why real income is still not up to 1949 par is lower farm income. Real income of industrial workers is a little ahead, although slightly few workers are employed in manufacturing establishments.

WHY STORES LEASE OUT VALUABLE DEPARTMENTS

Why is it a large store will sometimes flop with a department, so leases it, and the specialist proceeds to make a living out of it? Among departments you often find leased out are millinery, shoes, and wallpaper. Others you find not and then are floral and food departments.

The specialist sometimes makes a white elephant perform "new profit tricks, because he installs better-qualified management; in the department, an official of a wallpaper leased department chain told the writer recently. A leading department-store president confirmed that situation in his store's annual report. "We would like to run all our own departments," he said, "but the difficulty is in getting good management for them. We believe it is better to lease out certain departments in order to gain the advantages of better management."

COFFEE TRADE HARD HIT AS RESULT OF PRICE JUMP

The drop in consumption of coffee may continue indefinitely even if the recent run-up in prices is corrected, as it has been to some extent a review by the Bureau of Standards and Supplies indicates. "The Bureau notes in its review of the coffee situation that sales have decreased to 46 per cent of normal, according to a Congressional committee. People are drinking less coffee, wasting less and using substitutes," the Bureau comments.

Employment Office Registers High School Graduates Looking For Work

The Employment Security Commission, Greenville, has announced to employers in Greenville that the 1950 class of high school graduates are now available for work.

All Pitt County and Greenville High School graduates who are seeking work are registered at the Employment Office.

"Those who are available for permanent employment are tested for their predominant aptitudes. The degree of ability or the potentiality can be measured by this battery and the applicant can be placed in specific occupational aptitude patterns. Employers can save many dollars by hiring only those applicants who have potentialities for their specific field of work. This is not a theory, but a fact. One of the larger manufacturing companies actually cut down training expenses from a $300 cost before reaching acceptable production level to $100 per trainee. Your business may not warrant such a large figure, and yet, even you may save money by hiring adequately screened personnel. Why not scientifically hire only those who have a specific aptitude for the work you want done?" a commission official stated.

"Call 3147 and place your order for any job opening you have. You are the man who does the hiring. We would appreciate the opportunity of screening the mass group for you. These boys and girls need jobs. Help us help them—and by helping them, you may help yourself more than you think.

"If you need a college graduate, the Employment Service has those too. Did you know ECTC produces many well qualified non-teachers, even though they are renowned for their teaching? The business education field is especially good for filling sales or office jobs. Perhaps you need a man with good training capable of advancing to future promotional positions. All leading colleges in North Carolina are represented in our files. We have graduates from the University of North Carolina, Duke, State, Davidson and other institutions. These are forwarded to our office with the employers having the privilege of consulting the college personnel folders for confidential information, if sufficiently interested in hiring one of the college graduates," the commission official stated.

Boys' State To Begin Studies

Chapel Hill, June 12 — (AP) — Boys' Staters began to get a thorough indoctrination today in the ways of governments.

All week long the 300 rising high school seniors will study federal, state, county and local governments.

This 10th annual program began here yesterday. It is sponsored, as in past years, by the North Carolina Department of the American Legion. Conducting the program is the Institute of Government.

Among the topics the boys heard discussed today were "Basic Court Procedures," "Our Constitution," and "Our Bill of Rights."

James H. Warren Named Instructor

Athens, Ala., June 12 — James Herndon Warren, of Greenville, N. C., has been appointed an instructor of speech and drama at Athens College, and already has begun his duties.

In addition to teaching courses in speech and drama, he will supervise Athen College dramatic presentations.

Mr. Warren, who is unmarried, was born in Greenville, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Warren, of Maple Street, Greenville, where the senior Mr. Warren is a pharmacist. The son was graduated in 1941 from Greenville High School, and during the next three years attended East Carolina Teachers College in his home town. In 1945-47, he attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill receiving in 1949, a degree of Bachelor of Arts in drama. There and in Greenville he was active in campus theatricals as actor and director.

In 1947-48, he attended Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., receiving a degree of Master of Arts in dramatic and radio fields. The following two years, he attended the Scarritt College for Christian Workers, Nashville, Tenn., receiving a degree of Master of Arts in Religious Education. During the summer of 1944, he took drama courses at Columbia University. While at Scarritt, he was President of the National Society of Wesley Players, official drama organization of the Methodist Student Union.

His varied magazine writings on dramatic subjects include a dramatic worship service, published in 1948 in the International Journal of Religious Education. He also has had varied experience on the stage and had a part in the historical pageant, "The Lost Colony," presented for a long period of 1946 at Roanoke Island, N. C.

Largest Number Of Graduates At State College

Raleigh, June 12 — (AP) — N. C. State College yesterday held commencement exercises for its largest graduating class in history. Governor Scott presented diplomas to 1,222 students.

Gordon Gray, president-elect of the Greater University, told the graduates and the thousand assembled in the mammoth Will Neal Reynolds Coliseum for the exercises that he has "pledged his best efforts toward making State College and the other branches of the consolidated university outstanding in their fields in the nation and the world."

Those presented honorary degrees included Senator Frank Graham, former president of the Great University. He was awarded a doctor of humanities degree.

Increase In Telephone Rates Required

Some of the Reasons Are—

- (1) Further increases in salary and wage costs during 1950.
- (2) Continuing high cost of facilities required to provide more and better service.
- (3) Insufficient rate of return to raise capital from investors to carry on improvement and expansion program.

For the reasons outlined above and others we have petitioned the North Carolina Utilities Commission to authorize an increase in our rates at the earliest possible time.

This company has increased its plant investment by more than $4,600,000 during the period December 1, 1948, to April 30, 1950, and expects to further increase such investment during the balance of 1950 by about $3,600,000. During the period December 1, 1948-April 30, 1950, telephone installations numbered 40,189 with a net gain of about 14,900.

Congressional Delegation Votes On Bills Last Week

(From The Reflector's Washington Bureau)
 Members of the North Carolina Congressional delegation last week cast the following votes of record: Senate Conference report on an amendment to the Foreign Trade Zones act which would ease restrictions on assembling and fabricating foreign goods in the "foreign trade zones" set aside in major U. S. ports: Sen. Clyde R. Hoey, in favor; Sen. Frank P. Graham, not voting. (Approved) by Senate after the vice president cast his vote to break the 30-30 tie.)

 Amendment which would repeal the present 90 per cent of parity price supports on basic agricultural commodities and shift to a flexible support schedule: Hoey, against; Graham, not voting. (Rejected, 18 to 50.)
 Amendment to Commodity Credit bill which would allow Agriculture Secretary to dispose of surplus perishable commodities for foreign relief purposes: Hoey, in favor; Graham not voting. (Rejected, 20 to 37.)
 Amendment to CCC bill which would increase the borrowing power of CCC by one billion dollars instead of the two billion provided for in the original bill: Hoey, against; Graham, not voting. (Rejected, 21 to 36.)
 Aiken amendment to CCC bill, would require CCC to reserve a certain amount of borrowing power to cover liabilities other than price supports: Hoey, against; Graham not voting. (Rejected, 23 to 29.)
 Cain motion to adjourn—thus delaying vote on CCC bill: Hoey, against; Graham, not voting. (Rejected, 19 to 28.)
 Williams motion to send the CCC bill back to committee for further consideration: Hoey, against; Graham not voting. (Rejected, 21 to 30.)

Bill which would increase the borrowing power of the CCC by two billion dollars—thus allowing continuance of price supports on agricultural commodities: Hoey, in favor; Graham, not voting. (Passed, 46 to 5.) Goes to House for adjustment of differences between House and Senate versions of bill.)

Video Captures Gunshot Suicide For Its Audience

Houston, Tex. June 12—(AP)—Houston television followers heard a 50-year old laundryman commit suicide last night at a Texas League baseball game.

Stanford B. Twente shot himself to death as he sat beside telecaster Dick Gottlieb in a press box at Buffalo Stadium. The shot was heard over television and throughout the stadium.

A moment later a TV camera focused on Twente's slumped body. Justice of the Peace Tom Maes was among those watching the game on television. He returned an inquest verdict of suicide without leaving his home.

"I saw the man on television," Maes told detective George Chapman.

A note addressed to "whom it may concern" and dated June 3 was found on Twente's body. It read: "I leave all my possessions to my boy, Bailey Twente, Anderson, S. C. My wife has my insurance policy."

Police had a report a half hour before the shooting that Twente had told a waitress he was going to kill himself and "to watch me at the end of the fifth."

Twente died in a hospital about two hours after the shooting.

Twente appeared at the television booth and told Gottlieb, "I got something to tell you."

Gottlieb waved the man away and continued narrating the game. Twente was seated between the announcer and the TV engineer, Lee Bennett. Just as Bennett tried to get Twente to leave the box, Twente pulled a pistol, shot himself and fell across the engineer.

The TV camera was focused on the Houston dugout and listeners saw the Houston players suddenly turn and look toward the press box.

The camera then swung toward Gottlieb who told his audience:

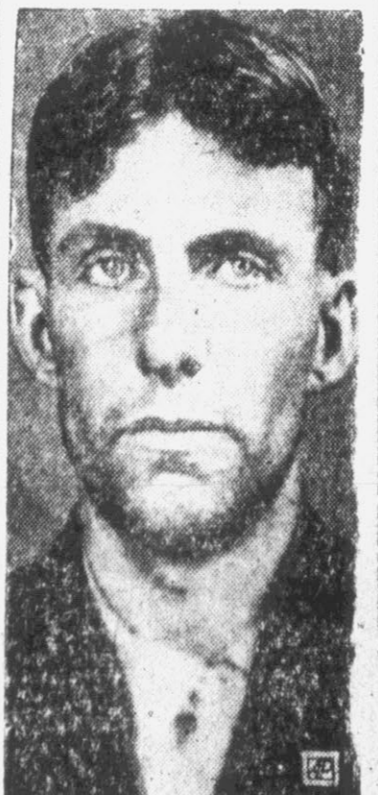

"Ladies and gentlemen, a tremendous thing has just happened. A gentleman has just shot himself. I return you now to the studio."

Two minutes later the telecast of the baseball game was resumed.

Transport Costs Of Nation's Food Hit $2.5 billion

Washington, June 12 (AP)—It cost $2,500,000,000 to transport the nation's 1946 food supply from farm to retail store, or more than double the prewar cost.

The Agriculture Department, reporting this, said it represents an average of about $16.87 for each American.

About 77,000 was spent, the agency said, in transporting all agricultural products.

The big boost over prewar costs largely reflected higher rates.

The Department said railroad rates on farm products as a whole have increased about 87 per cent since July, 1946.

However, rates on agricultural products apparently have increased somewhat less than rates for "commodities combined."

The Department said rates charged by regulated motor carriers apparently have increased almost in proportion to railroad rates, although numerous instances are reported in which selected farm products are diverted from rail to motor trucks because of lower rates.

The postwar boost in freight rates, the Department said, is forcing readjustments in the agriculture economy. Previous competitive balances are being altered.

The agency said some food processors for example, are decentralizing their operations to avoid long hauls. Others are said to be virtually discontinuing the products that previously moved to distant markets, and aiming their production for nearby points.

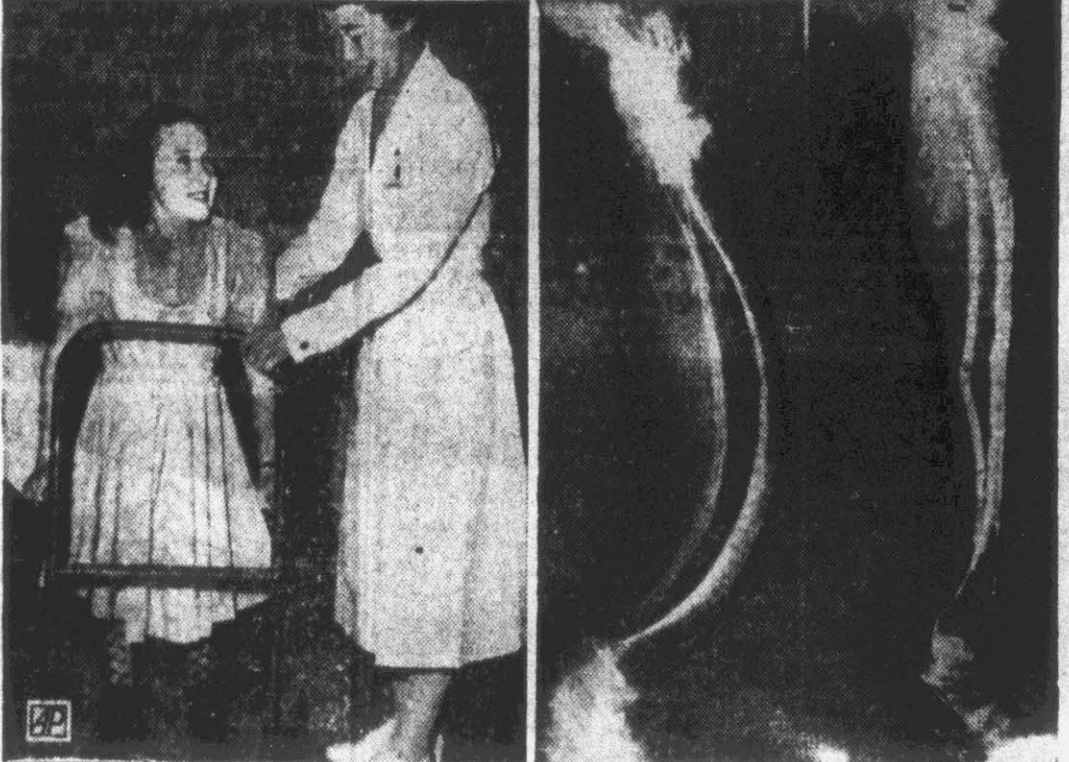

The Department also reported that it cost $18,200,000,000 to market last year's food supply—that is, to sell and process raw materials, and transport and distribute finished products. This cost compared with $8,690,000,000 in 1939.

Have Additional Teachers Aiding Summer Courses

The faculty of East Carolina Teachers College for the first summer term, now in progress, includes in addition to approximately forty members of the regular college staff a number of additional teachers who are conducting classes in various departments of instruction.

Work on both the graduate and the undergraduate levels is being offered. Fifteen departments of instruction are giving courses carrying college credit. Instruction in such fields as music, art, industrial art, library science, health, home economics, and business education, as well as in other academic subjects, is included in the curriculum. Special workshops in supervision, language arts, and the training of exceptional children are now being held or will be offered during the present, six-week term. The Training School is in operation, and observation work for teachers in primary and grammar grades is available to students.

The staffs of the education and the psychology departments include in addition to members of the regular college staff, Dr. Edgar M. Finch, author for "Parents Magazine," former superintendent of the Toms River, N. J. schools, and nationally recognized authority on guidance and family relationship; Dr. Mildred Babcock of the Appalachian State Teachers College faculty; Oliver L. How SMOOTH can a ride be?

THAT'S a question well worth answering before you settle on your next automobile.

For what fun is there—what thrill—in a car that is prisoner to the city streets, slowed down by roads a Buick is built to take in stride?

So we'd like to show you just how much smoothness your money can buy. How levelly you float over cobbles and car tracks—over rutty gravel and wavy black-top—in this stunning traveler.

The car will be any Buick you prefer—SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER. You can name the place—pick a spot or a stretch you know so that you can measure Buick's smoothness against your own experience—and we'll promise you a new sensation in riding comfort.

The time can be any time you want to arrange with your Buick dealer—who is ready to show with actual figures that "if you can afford a Buick."

See him, will you, and treat yourself to some real comfort?

Only Buick has Dynaflow and with it goes:

Robins Top Rocky Mount Nine In Weekend Series

Win Games By 5-3 And 6-3 Scores

By BERT MOYE
 Manager Randy Heflin's Greenville Robins swept both games of their weekend series with the league-leading Rocky Mount Leafs by taking a 5-3 win here Saturday night at Guy Smith Stadium and then going over to Rocky Mount Sunday afternoon to whip the Leafs, 6-3. The wins for the Robins was their fourth straight, while the double loss for the Leafs makes it five in a row in the loss column for the league-leaders.

Saturday's Game
 Manager Randy Heflin limited the Leafs to six hits as he hurled his fourth place Robins to a 5-3 win here Saturday night. It was his eighth win of the season and was his first over the Leafs. He has lost three games this season, one of which was to Rocky Mount.

The Robins got a two-run advantage in the first stanza when Paul Strausser drew a walk and stole second. John Tepedino fanned and Joe Guidice was out, pitcher to first, with Strausser taking third. Hallow hit to Pitcher Kopyach who threw to first where King dropped the ball, allowing Strausser to score.

Hallow then stole second and Big John Baktis hit a slow roller toward third where Babe Johnson overran the ball, allowing Hallow to score all the way from second.

Rocky Mount came back with one run in the second. Johnson walked and Pepper Martin singled. Walt Cleply lifted a high fly to right field, allowing Johnson to tag up and score from third.

The Robins scored a singleton in the fifth when Tepedino led off with a double into centerfield, went to third on Guidice's infield out and scored when Hallow hit a line drive through the shortstop.

John Tepedino's two-run single in the sixth provided Greenville with their winning margin. With two out, Pitcher-Manager Randy Heflin singled and Paul Strausser followed with a ground-rule double. Tepedino then came through with a two-run single.

In the seventh Rocky Mount tallied twice more. Johnson singled and advanced to second on Heflin's wild pitch. Pepper Martin doubled to score Johnson. King was out third to first, advancing Martin. Then Cleply singled to score Martin.

A crowd of 1,325 watched the game Saturday night, the largest crowd of the season here.

Visiting Golfers Praise Local Hospitality; Return Is Assured

Eighty-three members of the Southern Seniors Golf Association came to town for the tournament yesterday and went away singing Greenville's praises for hospitality, indicating they will not miss next year's tourney here.

Their individual scores were another indication that the proponents of Greenville's nine hole course have plenty of golfing know-how when it comes to preparing for this 40 years-and-up golfing group.

Representing many towns in North Carolina, the Seniors yesterday played the two rounds under sunny skies and ideal golfing conditions for the one day stand, fifth in the series of tournaments played in the South.

Chester Williams, executive secretary for this 20 year old Simon pure club, expressed the sentiments of the oldest to the youngest person present when he said that "never before have we known of a Seniors' tournament to go off so smoothly—the attendance was the next to the highest in our history and the prizes set new records over tournaments in the past."

Williams stated Greenville will definitely be on the itinerary for the 1951 tournament which will be classed as a feature event of the 14 to be held next year. Greenville is one of five of the feature events; the other nine will be regional and sectional tourneys.

Winners of prizes in the two round event ranged all the way from the oldest member present to the owner of the highest gross score in the field. W. D. McMillan, Wilmington, copped the prize for being the oldest player. He is 78 years old and carded a 74 for the two rounds.

Williams said because he left for Pinehurst, the Association's home base, that he had never known hospitality in a town in which the group had played as it was displayed in Greenville during the weekend. He said for the first time in Association history he was going to write a letter to all the Seniors of the 13 represented states telling them about the Greenville tournament and to miss the one here next year.

After the last foursome had turned in his card, the group held its "happy hour" when prizes were presented. Dr. Dan Wright, vice president of the Country Club, sub-

Sunday's Game

Bobby Harrison's jinx against the Rocky Mount Leafs continued to work Sunday afternoon in Rocky Mount as he pitched the Robins to a 6-3 win, although he had to have help from his teammate Jim Lewey in the last two innings. The win for Harrison was his first of the season. He has suffered one defeat.

The Robins jumped into a three-run lead in the first frame when Strausser walked, advanced to second on Guidice's infield out and scored when George Hallow singled into right field. John Baktis followed with a double into left centerfield to bring home Hallow and Vince Lautato's single plated Baktis.

The Leafs scored two runs in the second when King singled and Andy Anderson followed with a homer over the left centerfield wall.

The Robins scored what proved their winning run in the third when Tepedino walked, stole second, advanced to third on Guidice's single into right field and came home on Hallow's fly to the outfield.

Both teams scored again in the seventh frame. Big John Baktis lined one over the left field for a homer.

The Leafs one run in the seventh, their final of the game, came when Pepper Martin and Stanton were walked and Jim Reges singled into right centerfield to bring home Martin.

The Robins scored their final run in their half of the ninth when Hallow singled, stole second and Mat Hall brought him home with a single into centerfield.

Bobby Harrison started on the mound for the Robins, and although he was relieved in the seventh frame after giving up three runs and eight hits, by Jim Lewey, who held the Leafs to two singles and no runs in a fine relief role, gained credit for the win.

George Hallow with three singles in five trips and Johnny Baktis with a homer and a double in five trips were the big guns in the Robins' power at the plate.

Ladies Night will be observed at the ball park tomorrow (Tuesday) night when the Robins play host to the Wilson Tobs. All ladies will be admitted to the game for half price, which is 30c, whether accompanied by their husband or boy friend.

Attention Boys—Those Blount I shirts have at last arrived at Rocky Mount. They are on sale this morning for $1.50 each. All children, 12 years of age or under who purchase one of these shirts and wear them to the home games of the Robins will be admitted free of charge, provided they are accompanied by their parent or some older person.

Business Manager Russ Filley stated that starting last Saturday admission tickets to all the home games of the Robins will be made available to the ECTC summer school students for a special price of 40c each. They are on sale at the "Y" office, over at the college.

Pappy Williams is doing all right for himself with Berger, Texas, of the West Texas-New Mexico league, according to a letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Harrison from Mrs. Williams, which was dated June 5th. In her letter she stated that Pappy got his 17th home run of the season on Saturday night, June 3rd. In the hitting department he was plastering the ball at a .407 clip, has 45 runs batted in, has stolen 11 bases. She stated that on Thursday night, June 1, he stole three bases in a single game, even to stealing home. He is currently leading the league in the home run department. Pappy was named "Star of the Month" by the league president last weekend as being the outstanding player for the month of May in the league. The "Star of the Month" is determined by votes sent in from sports writers all over the league. Quite an honor for Pappy, and really shows the stuff that good baseball players are made of. Congratulations to you, Pappy, and may you continue to show the boys deep down in Texas. The writer also wishes to thank Bobby and Mrs. Harrison for their courtesy in allowing him to use the letter received from Mrs. Williams.

Business Manager Russ Filley announced during the weekend that the Robins have purchased outright from Mooresville of the N. C. State League Robert Montgomery, a rookie righthanded hurler who is said to have a very fast ball with plenty on it. Also placed back from the disabled list to the active list is George Ash, a rookie righthander.

The Greenville Robins have made all the other clubs in the league sit up in surprise during the past weekend, after pounding two of the top clubs in the league for two straight defeats—the Roanoke Rapids Jays and the league-leading Rocky Mount Leafs.

One of the biggest changes in the club's spirit. They stay fired up now before each game, and "point" from one game to the next one. This is as much responsible for their winning ways now as any other angle. Their added confidence in themselves is also paying dividends.

President Roy Dissinger stated when he purchased the club that he would put a winning team here

Auto Racer Dies Of Crash Burns

Atlanta, June 12—(AP)—Skipper Hershey, auto race driver, died early today, 12 hours after he was thrown from his flaming car into a pool of blazing gasoline.

The 37-year-old St. Augustine, Fla., driver had sat in the flames yesterday, stunned and helpless, for about five minutes. All his clothes except underwear burned off before firemen could get to him.

Hershey's modified stock car burst into flames on a curve on the 81st lap of a scheduled 100-mile race at Lakewood Park's dirt track. Out of control, the machine slammed into a fence, bounced back on the track and dumped Hershey into a flaming pool of gasoline.

Before a fire truck and ambulance could reach the stricken driver, course officials had to flag down the other cars. By that time Hershey had managed to roll over and was at the edge of the burning fuel when firemen got to him.

The racer, which stopped upright, burned 10 or 15 minutes before the flames were extinguished.

Call Meeting Of Team Managers

The managers of all the softball teams in the city, including both civic and industrial leagues will meet tonight at the High School to clear up all details before the season starts. The meeting will be held in the High School auditorium at eight.

Both leagues are all set to go now that the Civic League has got its fourth member. The American Legion came into the league last weekend and expects to give the other members a tight run for the championship.

Games definitely scheduled for Tuesday are: Scott Motor Sales vs Post Office, No. 1 Field, Third Street; National Carbon Co. vs Ormond Wholesale Co., No. 2 Field, Third Street; Bilbro Wholesale Co. vs Wagner-Waldrup Motors, West Greenville School.

Schedule for Boys Summer League games for Tuesday:

National League Plans Playoff For Divisions

New York—(AP)—The 13 teams of the National Football League this season are divided into two divisions with the leading team in each meeting in the championship game, Dec. 17.

Comprising the American Conference are the Chicago Cards, New York Giants, Washington Redskins, Pittsburgh Steelers, Philadelphia Eagles and the Cleveland Browns. In the National Conference are the Chicago Bears, New York Yanks, San Francisco 49ers, Los Angeles Rams, Detroit Lions, Green Bay Packers and the Baltimore Colts.

The championship game will be played at the home grounds of the American Conference winners.

Hilda Avery Has Top Score, 492

Hilda Avery's singles score of 492 reigned supreme through the final day of the Women's City Bowling Tournament when four more players tried to best that mark but fell short.

Ann Heap rolled better games than did any of the other participants in Friday's final night but could get only 441 for the three lines. Her score moved her into fourth place in the singles end of the tournament. Av y copped the first place trophy, followed by Edith Nisbet and Eloise Warren.

Only one doubles team entered the play the final night. Ramona Gray and Nina Baker teamed up for a score of 710, well back of the leading team of Hilda Avery and Eloise Warren with a total of 888.

The two posted games of 192, 225 and 223 for a total of 630. A handicap of 80 pins made up the rest.

The other three singles entrants were Marge Wells with 411, Katie

Farmville, June 12.—Farmville split a doubleheader with Ormondsville during the Saturday and Sunday play and dropped into a tie with Macclesfield for first position in the Bright Belt League.

Ormondsville won Saturday's game, 10-4. Farmville came back here yesterday to shut their opponents out by a 2-0 score.

Manager Norm Clark went the route for Farmville yesterday, setting the visitors down with six hits. The game was a clean one with only one error chalked up to either team.

The Farmville scoring was done when they bunched two hits plus a walk for single runs in the first and fifth innings.

In Saturday's tiff, Ormondsville won the game on J. R. McLawhorn's grand slam homerun in the third inning. They scored seven runs in that frame which saw starting pitcher Pollard lifted in favor of Elbert Moye who lasted the rest of the route.

Clark, playing outfield in Saturday's game, collected half of the locals' runs when he blasted two roundtrippers, one in the sixth and the other in the ninth.

Macclesfield won both ends of their doubleheader at the expense of Pinetops to move them into a tie for first with Farmville.

Line score (Saturday's game):
 Ormondsville 007 000 21x—10 11 4
 Farmville ... 000 002 00x—4 4 4
Batteries: Ormondsville—Little and McLawhorn; Farmville—Pollard, Moye (3) and Hardee, Manney Sunday's game:

Farmville ... 100 010 00x—2 6 1
 Ormondsville 000 000 00x—0 6 6
Batteries: Farmville—Clark and Hardee; Ormondsville—Dixon, Chapman (2) and McLawhorn.

Durable Players In American Loop

New York (AP) A total of 28 players in the American League are 10 year men this season, and another 10 will achieve that status before the campaign is over. Luke Appling of the Chicago White Sox leads the list—he has been in the league since 1930. He is the only Chicago representative. Cleveland and Boston each have seven 10-year players, Detroit has four, Washington, Philadelphia and New York three each, and the St. Louis Browns haven't any.

Caught Big One

Daytona Beach, June 12—(AP)—City lifeguard Bill Chamberlain caught a 27 pound Sea Bass here yesterday with his bare hands.

The big fish was trapped in shallow water behind a bar on an outgoing tide. Chamberlain taking advantage of the situation plunged in after the fish, straddled him with his legs. It took 30 minutes to land him.

No Hits-Runs In Virginia League

Petersburg, Va., June 12—(AP)—The Virginia League turned up with a no-hit, no-run game here yesterday.

It was at the expense of the Elizabeth City, N. C. Club. Charlie Hiden, 23-year-old Petersburg righthander, was the hurler in the seven-inning first game of a doubleheader.

Hiden pitched a no-hitter against Lawrenceville while with Emporis in the league in 1948.

N. C. Women In Collegiate Event

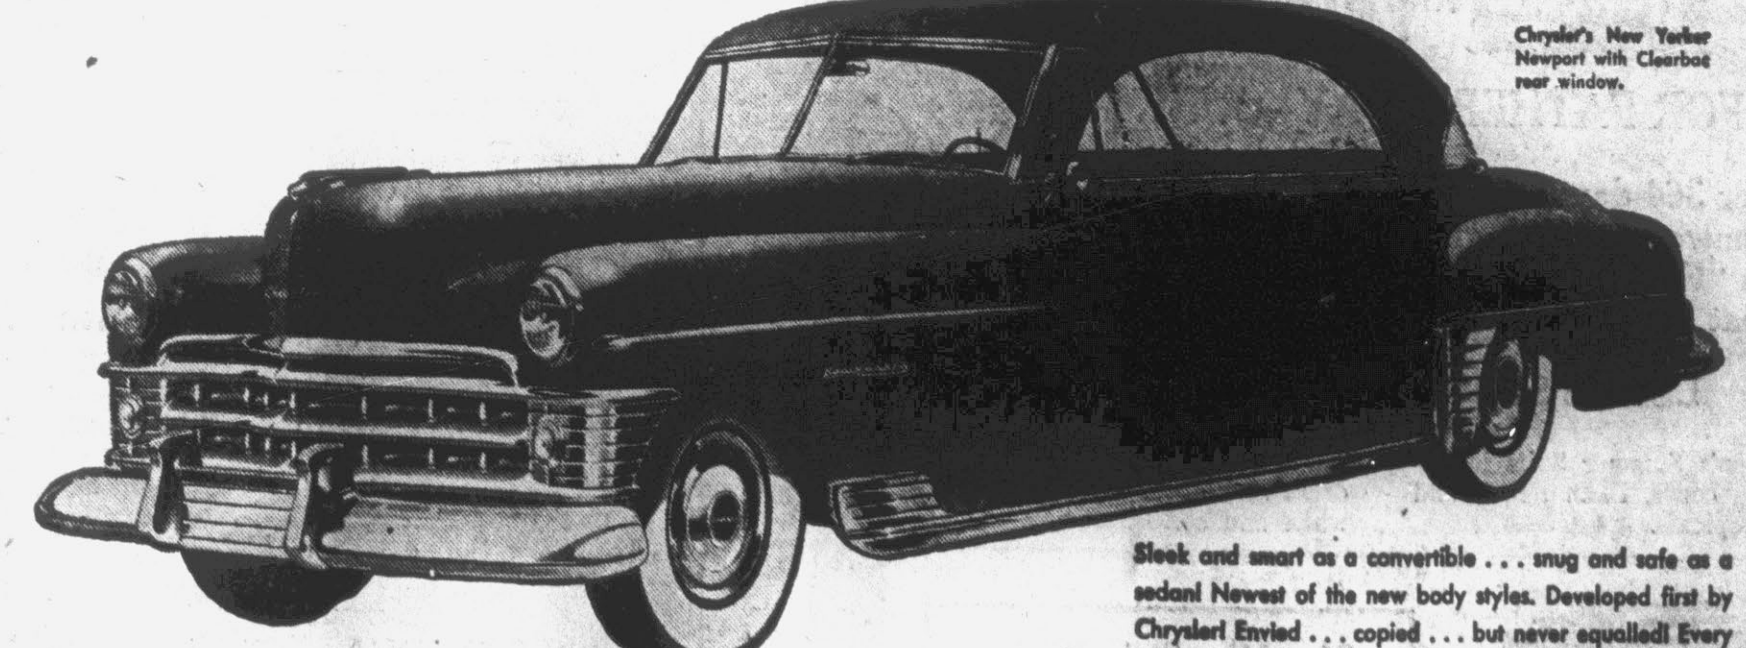

Columbus, Ohio, June 12—(AP)—Three North Carolina women are entered in the sixth national collegiate golf tournament for women opening here tomorrow.

They are Frances Fowler of Mount Airy, Nancy Maples of Rocky Mount and Jane Thomas of Salisbury. Match play will continue through Saturday.

Senate Campaign Ripples Begin To Swell Into Full-Fledged Race

Raleigh, N. C. June 12—(AP)—Campaign ripples which give indications of becoming deafening swells emerged today from the headquarters of Senator Frank P. Graham and Willis Smith.

With less than two weeks until June 24, the date of the runoff senatorial primary, both sides said they were priming their guns for full charges.

Smith said he will make a statewide radio address tomorrow night. Graham's headquarters said the only definite major speech lined up is that of Judge Hubert E. Olive, also over the air, Wednesday night.

However, Graham's headquarters let it be known that an itinerary is being mapped for Graham, speeches are being prepared, and speakers are being lined up.

The same word came from Smith's headquarters. Yesterday Smith announced the addition of State Senator John C. Rodman of Beaufort to his campaign headquarters staff. Graham defeated Smith by 53,000 votes in the state's Democratic Senatorial primary May 27. However, Graham missed clinching the nomination with a majority by more than 5,000 votes and Smith called for a runoff.

In the May 27 race, one of the bitterest senate races in the state's history, Graham polled 203,605 votes and Smith 250,222. Former Senator Robert R. Reynolds got 58,752 and Olla Ray Boyd, the perennial candidate from Pinetown, 3,900.

Since Smith has called for a runoff, Reynolds has thrown him his support. On the other hand, some Reynolds county managers have announced they are supporting Graham.

Smith, 62, is head of one of the state's best-known law firms, Smith, Leach and Anderson, and has taken many pokes at the administration of President Truman. Graham, 63, is a former president of the greater University of North Carolina and is a Truman supporter.

Graham was named to the senate 15 months ago by Governor Scott upon the death of Senator J. Melville Broughton. The current campaign is for the right to serve out the four years remaining of Broughton's unexpired term.

Sisters Thrown While Riding Die In Reservoir

Arcadia, Calif., June 12—(AP)—Two teen-age sisters whose frightened horses tossed them into a reservoir died yesterday despite frantic rescue attempts by a boy companion.

The equestrian trio, all experienced riders, were returning from a day-long ride part way up Mt. Wilson. The sisters were Aileen, 17 and Alice Young, 13, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Noah H. Young of nearby El Monte. With them was Edward Dean Patterson, 16 also of El Monte.

Patterson said Aileen tried to swim her horse across the reservoir and was thrown into the water. He and Alice tried to rescue her but Alice drowned in the attempt.

Whales often "hold their breaths" for as long as fifty minutes. Like other animals, however, they can drown if they get water in their lungs.

Camp Expecting Big Enrollment

Wilson, June 12—The largest enrollment in the history of the camp is expected this summer at Camp Charles, Boy Scout Encampment for the East Carolina Council which comprises twenty one counties in the eastern part of the state.

The largest council in area in the southeastern part of the United States there are over 4,450 Scouts and Explorers in the council and a large part of these boys is expected to attend the camp which will open officially June 11 for eight one-week periods.

The scouts and Explorers who attend the camp this year will also find a brand new Camp Charles on the 140-acre reservation on the edge of Nash county, near Bailey.

Though the new camp opened last year for scouts in the council it was not entirely completed at that time. Now the work in doing over the camp site is completed and the camp is one of the most modern and complete in the Eastern part of the U. S.

Scouts from the twenty one eastern counties in the Council are now registering for the camp through their leaders for the camp program which includes features in training in Scout skills and fun on the 140 acre reservation.

FLAG DAY SALUTE

"I PLEDGE ALLEGIANCE to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

The proper salute for civilians is right hand over the heart

On a car, the flag must be staffed. Never drape it over top, hood, sides or on the back.

Hung vertically, the stars are to the north on an east and west street

If crossed, with another, flag is to its own right, its staff is over the other.

On speaker's stand it is never draped below. Above, the stars are to the left.

Raleigh, N.C., June 12—(AP)—North Carolina's boll weevil infestation is now the worst on record. In fact, the infestation now is almost 12 times as heavy as it was at this time last year.

A report on this scourge of the cotton farmer was released by entomologists of N.C. State College and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The report covers a survey taken last week.

It pointed out that in addition to the infestation being the worst on record, "the 1950 cotton crop is unusually small for this time of year."

Enormous numbers of weevils survived last winter's hibernation because of the mild weather, the entomologists stated.

George D. Jones, entomologist for the State College Extension Service, advised growers to begin poisoning immediately even though squares are not yet formed.

He advised that one or two applications of poison should be made during the pre-square period and additional applications should be made throughout the next several weeks.

The average elevation of Colorado is 6,800 feet.

Honeymoon Has Abrupt End In Highway Crash

Petersburg, Va., June 12—(AP)—The condition of H. Fred Rush, Jr., 22, of West Columbia, S. C., injured yesterday in an automobile accident in which his bride of a few hours was killed was described as "serious" today by Petersburg hospital attendants.

Rush was injured when the car he was driving struck a gutter beside the highway and crashed into an abutment of a railroad overpass.

Officers said he apparently was blinded by lights of an approaching vehicle. The accident occurred seven miles north of here on U. S. Route

ONE Look
Yes, a look will show you why it's Ford for Fashion, again for '50! Once again Ford's smart, modern styling earned it the New York Fashion Academy's coveted medal as "Fashion Car of the Year." No other car at any price has received such an honor 2 years running.

ONE Listen
You can hardly hear the '50 Ford's powerful V-8 engine. For with all its road-mastering power it never raises its voice. Your ride is quiet, too, because "sound-conditioning" throughout Ford's roomy and sturdy "Lifeguard" Body keeps noise out!

ONE Ride
A "Test Drive" and you will learn Ford's quality firsthand! You'll marvel at the performance of the 100-h.p. V-8, or its companion-in-quality, the 95-h.p. Six... the comfort of its "Mid Ship" Ride. You'll feel the safety of Ford's 36% easier-acting King-Size Brakes. And after you've come to know this car, you'll thrill to its complete economy—low first cost, great gas mileage, low upkeep and high resale value. You'll recognize that Ford's the "Big Economy Package" of the low-price field.

SMOKY JOE

By W. F. BRAGG

Chapter 25
Under the fiercely whispered commands of the old man, the six lanky McDevitts fanned out, ghost-like, in the timber.

The canyon widened into a grassy meadow with Lost Creek cutting through the middle. Kneeling behind a mossy log, Joe peered ahead and saw many cattle and horses grazing in the rank grass.

Old McDevitt flung back his head and sniffed like an old hound on the trail.

"You get that smell?" he asked, Joe picked up the faintest acrid odor of burning wood on the soft breeze. He nodded.

"Got a corral in there," McDevitt explained. "They're doin' a little brand burnin'. But it won't last long!"

"Listen, McDevitt," Joe began angrily. "I've got a bigger stake in this than you. I want to take Shay alive. I want him to talk. He's the right handy man to Pack Rogan. I think they know who killed Chris Elven and Jane Morgan's father."

McDevitt curled his thin lips. "That painted hussy," he sneered. "Hussy? You're dead wrong. She went to town to find out who killed her father. She thinks, same as me, that Rogan knows."

"Don't call me a liar, Munro. She threw in with Rogan, after she'd let my boy, Monty, make love to her." He eyed Joe fiercely. "I don't trust her any more than I do you Munros. Your dad was always tryin' to hog all the land in sight, threatenin' me an' my boy. Why, he got mad when he found out Monty's land took in this canyon here."

"So Monty owns Lost Creek Canyon?"

"Yeah. And got a first water right on it. I signed it over to him. Didn't need much water up in the Basin for the little garden sassa I raise. But Monty was always dead set on irrigatin' an' the like. So we're here now on his land."

McDevitt stopped talking, tensed, as a low signal sounded.

"That's Monty," he whispered. "He come down early to scout out things. We been figurin' fer days on a cleanup." He stepped over the log, buckskin shirt fringes fluttering, long rifle gripped tightly. Joe followed.

He began thinking of old Whisperrin' Johnson. The old man must somehow be given a chance for his life. If the McDevitts opened fire without warning, Shay would undoubtedly kill Whisperrin' at first fire, or shove him into bullet line.

Then, on the edge of the timber where it flanked the meadow, a gray instruction, MALE SPECIAL offer to Veterans. Will train reliable, ambitious men who want to get into AUTO BODY and FENDER REPAIR. Learn welding, metal work, refinishing, power tools, spare time. Actual shop practice included. If mechanically inclined, write for full information. Auto-crafts Training, P. O. Box 408, Greenville, N. C. 12-2

Joe pointed to the hogtied guard. "He's about my build. I'll change shirts with him. I'll walk over toward that bunch of quakers where the corral is. They'll think it's one of their men comin'. I'll be close up before they know the difference."

"Would you jump 'em barehanded?" asked the old man.

"You hate the Munros. But you got to forget that hate for a minute. You got to loan me a gun and let me run this chance because

"Monty," old McDevitt whispered. "Hunker down! Let's hear what he has to say."

But Monty waved his father forward and Joe Tagged along. Monty had been a long look, then pointed to something sprawled at his feet. It was a man. He lay on his face.

"Their lookout," whispered Monty. "I had him spotted. After the last bunch of cattle went by, I figured you'd be along. So I snuck up an' slapped him down with the bar'l of my rifle. They're wide open to us, Paw!"

Joe broke in, questioning Monty. "That last gang that you saw—wasn't Whisperrin' Johnson with 'em?"

"Yeah," Monty answered coldly. "But he was ridin' straight up. Looked like he had thrown in with 'em. Surprise me some. For I had counted Whisperrin' as a white man."

That made Joe burn with a white glow of rage. "Monty," he rapped out, "Whisperrin' told me that he met up with you when you got away from Rogan's gang the other day."

"He sure did. My horse carried me into the brush. My hands were tied. Whisperrin' showed up and untied me. Figurin' he was in our side, I showed him the trail down to this rustler's hangout!"

"Listen, you all," Joe snarled. "Whisperrin' Johnson is square. They probably untied his hands so he could guide a horse down that bad trail. Legs, too. But they'll kill him the minute the first gun goes off. I know that Pecos Shay too well. Here's what happened to me an' Whisperrin' since we talked to you."

And briefly, because time pressed, he told them the highlights of the Rawhide Gap fight, the flight from town the stampede of the Hales herd. When he spoke of Jane Morgan, Monty McDevitt's eyes flashed, then became somber.

"They've stole half my cattle," said old McDevitt. "They've raided all along the Antelope valley too. They've got some of Rogan's critters here with blotched brands, but I think that's just a cover-up for Rogan. How in Tophet can we clean 'em up without puttin' Whisperrin' in danger?"

Joe turned on Monty. "You know I kept Shay from shootin' you through the back. I don't know what locked ideas come into your head. But I'll take a gamble on tryin' to reach Whisperrin'."

Old McDevitt laughed shortly. "No chance."

Joe pointed to the hogtied guard. "He's about my build. I'll change shirts with him. I'll walk over toward that bunch of quakers where the corral is. They'll think it's one of their men comin'. I'll be close up before they know the difference."

Whisperrin' an' me saved your damn fool son from bein' hung."

Monty growled. "Why you callin' me a damn fool?"

"Any man," snapped Joe, "who'd turn down a girl like Jane Morgan is worse than that."

"She threw in with Pack Rogan."

"Yes. To find out who killed her father. She wants to know who killed Silvertip Morgan same as I aim to find out who killed my father."

Old McDevitt cocked his eyes in a peculiar way. "Are you sure," he asked dryly, "that somebody killed your dad?"

Churchman Plans Conciliate Reds

Budapest, Hungary, June 12 — (AP)—Hungary's largest diocese of the Lutheran Church has a new bishop who favors cooperation with the country's Communist-led government.

The new prelate, the Rev. Laszlo Dessery, 36, succeeds former Bishop Lajos Ordass. Ordass last month was released from prison after serving almost 20 months of a two-year sentence for currency speculation. He had been removed from office by a special church court on April 2.

Both Ordass' conviction and his removal from office were protested by the Lutheran World Federation. He was convicted of failing to report a $500,000 gift from U.S. Lutherans. The Federation said the gift amounted $200,000, that it was transmitted through the National Bank, and that it thus became a matter of record.

Dessery in 1948 attacked Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, head of Hungary's Roman Catholic hierarchy, as a representative of "royalist, feudal absolutism." Mindszenty now is serving a life sentence for treason.

The new Lutheran bishop, one of the youngest ever to hold such office in Hungary, in a 30-page "open letter" in 1948 urged his church to seek conciliation with the country's Communist led government. It was considered apparent here that he had been named to succeed Ordass because of the views expressed in the widely circulated pamphlet.

Their son George died yesterday after a three-month illness.

False Alarm Is Second In Period
The second false fire alarm to be turned in in Greenville in the past several weeks was pulled last night around 7:30.

The fire alarm was turned in from box 41 at the corner of Fourth and Cotanche streets at about the height of the evening traffic.

There is a city ordinance which makes any person who turns in a false fire alarm liable for a fine of $50 if convicted on the charge. There is also a standing reward of $25 for the reporting of any person who turns in a false alarm.

Mule And Cart Struck By Auto; Motorist Fined

A mule and cart driven by Lee Williams of Route 5, Greenville was struck by a car Friday evening causing minor damage to the cart and mule with slight personal injury to the driver.

Williams stated he was needed in the direction of Greenville with his cart partly on the highway on the right side. A dog along the road scared the mule causing him to pull back onto the highway.

The car then struck the cart but the driver of the car did not stop according to Williams. The force of the impact threw the driver from the cart, injuring him slightly.

Patrolman Dick Chadwick who investigated the accident issued warrants charging the driver with failure to stop at the scene of an accident and driving with improper equipment.

The driver of the car, James Mack Edwards, colored, of 407 Cadillac Street, Greenville, was arrested by the patrolman and tried in City Police Court today.

The judge gave the Negro man a six-month road sentence, suspended, on payment of $50 and costs on the failure-to-stop charge, and $15 and costs on the improper equipment charge. The judge also ordered that the man pay $15 to Williams for repairing his cart.

talks, U.N. officials estimated in advance that the total would be something in excess of $20,000,000 for an 18-month period.

A year ago U.N. officials mapped out a technical assistance program that would cost $35,000,000 the first year and $50,000,000 the second year. Long ago, however, they acknowledged they would get nothing like this amount.

The United States, as usual, was expected to be the largest contributor, with an offer of $10,000,000 to $12,500,000. Britain was reported ready to contribute about $1,700,000. U.N. officials said they expected contributions from at least 30 countries.

There has been no indication that Russia will contribute anything, although the Soviet delegation voted along with all the others in the General Assembly in favor of the program last fall.

did not extend NSLRI five-year term insurance it would be "a very desirable thing" for veterans and the government. He pointed out that World War I vets who kept term insurance are getting to the point where annual premiums are prohibitive. (Renewal of term insurance costs more as the insured gets older.) Congress has already extended twice the World War II term insurance (carried by more than 3,000,000 veterans.

Bretling also said that in another national emergency an NSLI scheme "would not be satisfactory." He recommended some form of death gratuity instead of insurance. A Defense Department spokesman disagreed and said of a serviceman becomes uninsurable during service NSLI gives him a certain amount of insurance he couldn't get on discharge. He said enlisted men cannot afford adequate commercial coverage and each year in service penalizes them.

and J. L. Crouch hardware dealer. The group told McGrath that M. G. Mann, the Cooperative's general manager, sent out a letter on the Corporation's stationary. In it, they said, Mann "lauded Senator Graham." They said it was sent just prior to the May 27 Democratic primary in which Senator Graham led Willis Smith, Raleigh lawyer, and two other opponents. The Mecklenburg group said the letters were financed with FCX money.

The 10 men asked McGrath to investigate and "advise the complainants and all citizens of North Carolina as to the legality of the Cooperative Corporation's political activities and take steps to commence prosecution."

Greenville's . . .

According to the urban and rural breakdown of Pitt County's total population, the communities with populations of 1,000 or more gained a net total of 4,497 people while the entire county showed a net gain of only 2,526 people. The figures indicate the rural areas of the county have lost approximately 1,971 people who have moved to the towns of the county.

Greenville showed a population increase of approximately 31.8 per cent over the 1940 census. The percentage increase was slightly less than the approximate 38 per cent increase in the city's population between 1930 and 1940.

Manager Kyzer of the chamber of commerce said building permits for Greenville showed 508 residences were built within the city limits between December 31, 1939 and December 31, 1949. Kyzer said these new residences did not include those which were constructed in Hillsdale, North Greenville, and in the eastern areas of the city before those districts were taken into the city a short while ago.
