Gov. Scott Opines Moore Indiscreet

Says Prison Director 'At Least Was Indiscreet' In Commenting On Probe; Matter Turned Over To SBI For Further Investigation

Raleigh, N.C., June 13 (AP)—Governor Scott expressed the opinion today that Prison Director J.B. Moore "at least was indiscreet."

This was the governor's reply when he was asked at his news conference today for comment on charges that Moore used state-owned materials and prisoner labor for work at his home.

The governor declined further comment, saying "we're getting some more information together."

The matter was turned over to the State Bureau of Investigation yesterday after a conference between Governor Scott and Highway Chairman Henry W. Jordan.

Dr. Jordan said the SBI will make "a complete investigation" of the charges against J. B. Moore, the prison director. Dr. Jordan, as highway commission chairman, is Moore's immediate superior.

Moore also conferred with the governor and presented a statement of his side of the situation. The prison boss has denied that any state-owned materials were used in construction of garage-apartment at his home here.

He told newsmen he would not deny that prisoners did some of the work, but added: "I do deny that I ordered them to do it. It was purely voluntary and of short duration."

The governor told reporters late yesterday he had not had time for a thorough study of the matter and that he would need more information before making a decision.

The chairman also released details of the report on a preliminary SBI investigation of the matter. The SBI was asked to make the preliminary study nearly three weeks ago he said.

In requesting it, Jordan declared, he was more interested in whether state materials were used at Moore's home than in whether prisoners were working there.

"If anything is worse, I think it would be the use of state-owned materials," he explained.

The SBI report said the investigation was begun May 31 and that an agent drove by the Moore home several times that day and the next.

The agent said that on May 31 he saw four men "dressed in what appeared to be prison work clothes" working on the garage-apartment.

On June 1, the agent continued, he asked where some used brick piled in the yard came from. One of two men working on the apartment, the report said, "informed agent he thought part of the brick came from the Morgan Street building (where a building was demolished to make for new highway commission offices) and part from the Totville day nursery (a building demolished on the N.C. State College campus). He (the worker) stated they were transported to Mr. Moore's residence in a state truck and he was not sure where they came from."

Vote Hearings On Enka Strike

Washington, June 13 (AP)—A senate labor committee today voted four to two to begin hearings on Thursday in the American Enka Company strike at Morristown, Tenn. National Guard troops have clashed with strikers.

Senator Murray (D-Mont) chairman of the labor subcommittee studying labor-management relations, said the hearing, which he hopes to conclude in one day, will be conducted by Senators Humphrey (D-Minn) and Neely (D-W. Va.)

Prospects Better

Raleigh, N.C., June 13 (AP)—Improved weather conditions have made production prospects "considerably better" than a month ago for North Carolina's commercial early Irish potato crop, it was reported today.

with the present set-up. The fight between communism and democracy has divided the globe into two worlds whose ways of life are so wholly different that we are engaged in a cold war which in many instances has boiled over into a shooting conflict.

President Truman has warned that the Soviets are "fomenting aggression and preparing for war." The conflict can only be avoided by making the western world so strong that the Moscovites won't dare fight.

Such is the background of the new collective military measures which the Western Allies are taking to prepare for defense. Moscow points to these developments and charges that the capitalistic nations themselves are getting ready to make war.

Certainly there is no balm in the U.N. Gilead which will cure this situation. That is true because of the cold war which is being waged for the spread of communism to all lands. So long as this situation continues, just so long will the U.N. be largely hamstringed.

The ejection of the Chinese Nationalists and the seating of the Chinese Communists in the U.N. could be made to work successfully

Labor Party Of Britain Objects To French Plan

Policy Statement Rejects Schuman Plan For Pooling Coal, Steel

London, June 13 (AP)—The nation's governing labor party called today for Britain to keep out of further programs for European political and economic union until unity-minded continental nations turn Socialist.

The strong policy statement, which rejected the Schuman plan for pooling European coal and steel, came as Prime Minister Attlee prepared to explain to the House of Commons later today why his government is staying out of the six-nation talks on the plan June 20.

Though not an official government declaration, the party statement was seen as an answer to critics that Britain is impeding the progress of European recovery by a "go slow" attitude toward European unity proposals.

The statement, issued by the party's national executive committee, made plain that the Socialist government fears mergers with Europe may jeopardize their welfare state program of full employment and mounting production through government planning.

It expressed the party's traditional distrust of capitalistic free enterprise.

It also emphasized that to the laborites European unity is not "an overriding end in itself," that national sovereignty and Britain's obligations to her globe-girdling colonies and dominions must come first.

The laborites made clear their belief that effective operation of joint international planning required "Socialism in the countries participating. Such planning, they said, "means nothing" unless all industries "fit their investment program into a European plan."

"Nothing less than public ownership can insure this fully," the party statement asserted.

Ask Increase In Telephone Rates

Raleigh, N.C., June 13 (AP)—The Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company asked the Utilities committee for an increase in its phone rates.

The company said it needed a rate increase sufficient to give it $900,000 a year in additional gross revenue plus about $78,000 to pay wage increases scheduled for this year.

Contempt Case Is Ended By Solons

Baton Rouge, La., June 13 (AP)—The Louisiana Senate dropped contempt proceedings last night against an editor and publisher whose newspaper likened some Senators to "trained seals" and "lacksies" of Gov. Earl Long.

By a vote of 30-3, with seven members not voting, the senate accepted a recommendation of a special committee that a jail term was "not the answer" to an editorial of June 5 in the New Orleans Item.

Call For Inquiry

Washington, June 13 (AP)—Twenty Republican senators today asked a congressional inquiry into the Justice Department's handling of the 1945 Amerasia secret documents case.

On behalf of himself and 19 others, Senator Capehart (R-Ind.) introduced a resolution for an investigation by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

A foreign relations subcommittee now is looking into the five-year-old case as part of its general inquiry into charges by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) of communism in the government.

The GOP resolution would direct the judiciary committee to "conduct a full and complete study and investigation with respect to the conduct by the Department of Justice of the investigation of, and prosecution of the defendants in, the so-called Amerasia case."

Tobacconist Has Optimistic View

Foreign Market Prices To Be Good Says R. M. Garrett

Tobacco prices on foreign markets will be as good as last year's if not better. That was the word from a Greenville tobacconist just returned from an inspection tour of European markets.

He is R. M. Garrett, president of Person-Garrett Tobacco Company, leaf exporters here. Garrett and his son, Ralph Garrett, Jr., returned during the weekend from a five week tour of the company's markets in England and North Ireland.

Garrett stated the price would either maintain last year's average or top it because tobaccoists he had talked with in England and Ireland saw the foreign tobacco market as "looking up."

There is more money in circulation in the British Isles now than there was a year ago, Garrett said. However, government restrictions on the amount of tobacco to be bought by any British firm have been curtailed in an effort to increase domestic empire sales.

"I look for a very active market," Garrett said, "with satisfactory prices. The persons I talked to over there indicated they want to buy all the American tobacco they can. He said they indicated they had rather buy American tobacco to the exclusion of all other types.

Although there are still some foods that are rationed, other foods are off the list and their prices are coming down, more so than last year. There is more gasoline available to the British people, Garrett said, indicating a more freely circulating pound.

Both the Garretts set up headquarters in London for the five weeks abroad. Ralph Jr. was making his first trip to the company's markets in his capacity as buyer. They spent three days in Belfast, North Ireland, and a week in Paris on a pleasure jaunt.

One-Vote Loser Granted Recount

Halifax, N.C., June 13 (AP)—The Halifax county board of elections has granted a recount of ballots to the one-vote loser in the sheriff's race in the May 27 primary.

The board, over repeated objections, decided yesterday to hold the recount for J. Reuben Daniel on June 27. Votes in all 17 precincts will be recounted.

Construction work got under way today for a new home for Bissette's Drug Store which when completed will be the most modern drug store in eastern North Carolina.

The new store will be located on the site where the Curtis Perkins store was burned two years ago and is just across the street from the present Bissette location. When completed and equipped the new store will cost approximately $100,000. The building is being erected for Bissette's by the L. B. Garriss estate, owners of the property.

Charles B. Bissette, manager of the local Bissette store, stated today that the new structure would include all the newest designs in equipment, air conditioning and lighting and that every piece of equipment will be brand new when his firm occupies its new home.

The structure will afford about three times the floor space of the present Bissette store and will enable the firm to add new departments to better serve its customers, Mr. Bissette said.

There will be more room for serving meals and the new soda fountain will be a forty-foot back-bar type of the latest design and construction. A new and enlarged prescription department of the semi-open type embodying the newest designs and facilities will be included.

State College Student Tour Speight Seed Farm

Approximately 25 agronomy students from State College in Raleigh spent yesterday afternoon and most of today in Pitt county visiting some of the outstanding farms in the county.

The students spent two hours this morning touring the Speight Seed farm near Winterville under the guidance of J. Brantley Speight, manager of the farm.

At the Speight farm the students visited the crossing plots of the hybrid seed corn which is grown there, and the tobacco fields in which are being grown Dixie 101 and

102 tobaccos and Dixie Bright 27 tobacco. The 102 and 101 varieties are new types of tobacco which are resistant to both black shank and

Granville wilt, and the 27 is a new resistant strain to Granville wilt. Speight and Sam Weeks, tobacco specialist for the county, explained to the agronomy students the tobacco variety tests which are planted on the Speight farm. The students also visited the pastures of the farm, and some of the equipment which is used in the various farm operations.

After the tour of the farm, Mr. and Mrs. Speight served the visiting students a variety of sandwiches and cold drinks and cakes on the lawn of their home.

Yesterday afternoon the group visited the farm of Howard D. Moye near Lang's cross roads where they saw general farming operations and visited the pastures where Moye has his livestock herds.

Later today the group visited the Tidewater agricultural experiment station in Plymouth and the Carolina Plant Farms in Bethel where they viewed the various types of

Little Prospect Of Large Slash In Federal Jobs

Civil Service Commission Head Says International Strife Responsible

Washington, June 13 (AP)—The head of the civil service commission said today it isn't likely there will be any large cut soon in the number of federal employees.

Taking note of some of the congressional clamor for wholesale firings of government workers, Chairman Harry B. Mitchell declared:

"The fact of the matter is that so long as the present international situation continues there is very little chance of reduction in the defense organization; and this is where increase has taken place since pre-war days.

In a speech prepared for a tri-state convention of the National League of district postmasters, Mitchell gave this breakdown on federal workers.

April, 1940—859,972 federal employees.

April, 1950—1,917,527, not counting census takers.

But here is where the increases have mainly come, according to Mitchell: The defense department has gone up from 227,863 to 744,361 and the veterans administration from 39,681 to 189,722.

Many of the increases in other agencies, Mitchell said, have not kept up with increased business.

On the other hand, Mitchell said, the departments of agriculture and labor have shown decreases.

As to suggestions that some of the non-defense agencies be sharply curtailed, Mitchell had this to say: "Nothing substantial in the way of reduction in the number of employees in these agencies is at all likely unless congress and the President agree to do away with some of them, and there is not at present any evidence that anyone is urging that sort of policy."

"In fact, the present tendency seems to be to increase their coverage."

The meeting of the group also was highlighted by a discussion of the proposed farmers day activities which are to be held here during the late summer.

J. Ed. Waldrop, chairman of the chamber of commerce industrial committee, reported to the board that after a study of the industrial foundations in eight North Carolina towns and the proposed organizations in two other towns, the committee recommended to the board "that such an organization be formed in Greenville to promote new industry for the city."

The directors authorized the industrial committee of the chamber of commerce to continue with preliminary plans for the organization of an industrial foundation here, and to inform the businessmen of the city of the work being done by similar foundations in other cities of the state.

F. Badger Johnson, chairman of the farmers day steering committee, reported to the board progress is being made on the farmers day activities, and plans are being made to hold the second annual event sometime in August before the opening of the tobacco market. The date for the farmers day has not been definitely set, Johnson stated.

Tentative plans are being made by the steering committee to build the day's activities around a variety of entertainments for the visiting rural people, and an educational exhibit hall. Efforts are being made to secure a big name entertainment show for an evening performance, the chairman said.

The financial report of the chamber of commerce was made by Treasurer John Overton, and a report from the membership committee was made by John Webb.

The directors voted to dispense with the regular July meeting of the board, with the provision that a special meeting of the group may be called by the president if necessary.

The luncheon will be held at a downtown hotel. Mr. Truman probably will make a brief informal talk.

Truman To Lunch With Governors

Washington, June 13 (AP)—President Truman will lunch with Democratic Governors here Saturday. The affair will be a preliminary to the annual conference of all the state Governors at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., starting Sunday.

The luncheon will be held at a downtown hotel. Mr. Truman probably will make a brief informal talk.

Ground Breaking Is Held For Structure

The ground breaking ceremony for the new educational building to be built on the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church was held this morning at 10:30 with a large crowd in attendance to witness the event.

The oldest member of the church, Mr. W. R. Smith, turned the first shovel of dirt for the construction of the building. Mr. Smith was aided by his two grandsons, Jerry Walker and Guilford Smith.

Proceeding the ground breaking, a short worship service was conducted with the prayer being given by Rev. B. B. Slaughter, district superintendent of the New Bern district.

The members of the Daily Vacation Bible School of the church then sang a hymn.

The new building is the initiation of a building program at Jarvis Memorial which envisages not only the education building to be added but the expansion of the sanctuary to seat 1,000 and a modernization of the present educational building.

Each unit will be engaged in separately, and independently financed.

The education building will extend from the back of the present "James House" to the back of the present education annex.

During the period of time which the building is under construction there will be no interruption of the church and Sunday school units now in operation.

Rev. Leon Russell expressed the desire of the church to have all the members over 80 to take part in the ground breaking services. He said that the emphasis was being placed on the oldest members instead of the church officials. The pastor said that these oldest members of the church were the "Veterans of the Cross" who had acted unselfishly in the life of the church all the years that they had been members.

Among the members of the church who took part in the ground breaking were E. H. Foley, Mrs. R. M. Zahniser, Mrs. Wiley Brown, Carlos Harris, R. L. Humber, E. H. Taft, W. R. Smith, A. H. Taft, Mrs. Adrian Savage, Miss Sallie Cowell, Mrs. J. S. Norman, Mrs. James Brown, J. W. Brewer, Jack C. Foley and their grandsons.

Turning First Shovel Of Dirt In Ground Breaking

The new building will join the rear of the present educational building and extend to the James house. With Mr. Smith in the picture are the other members of the church who are eighty years and older. Each of the members took turns in the ground breaking. (Reflector staff photo by Roy Hardee.)

Farmers Day Is Talked By Board

C-of-C Directors Also Discuss Industrial Foundation

Swift Action On Rent Control Is Seen For House

Demo Leaders Predict Passage Of Bill Based On Local Option Feature

Washington, June 13 (AP)—Swift House passage of legislation continuing federal rent controls on a local option basis was predicted confidently by Democratic leaders today, after the Senate rammed through the compromise measure on a 38 to 28 vote.

The bill, which would keep alive the last of the major wartime controls, approximately 8,000,000 dwelling units, mostly in big cities, would work like this:

1. The federal rent control authority, due to expire June 30, would continue for a year.

2. But the controls would cease automatically in six months on December 31, in all communities that before that date did not decide affirmatively, through a vote of the local government body or a referendum of the citizens, to continue the rent ceiling; on June 30, 1951.

3. Any community could vote itself out from under controls any time before December 31. No community could restore controls after they were lifted.

House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) told President Truman he is confident the House will pass the bill. The administration had asked for a straight extension of the present law, but Banking Committee Chairman Spence (D-Ky.), a strong administration supporter, said the compromise local option bill "in my opinion is the best we can get through the House."

Administration leaders overrode Republican opposition yesterday to press the measure through the Senate. On passage there, 39 Democrats were joined by six Republicans in support of the bill. Opposing were 23 Republicans and five Southern Democrats.

The Senate vote came after Senator Cain (R-Wash.), who filibustered 13 hours against the bill last week, gave up his right to another marathon speech.

Additions to Pitt County's campaign workers for Senator Frank Graham were announced today by state campaign manager Jeff Johnson. These are in addition to the names published before the first primary.

New York, June 13 (AP)—Democrats of a Brooklyn district are booming Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., (Dem-Liberal) as the Democratic candidate for Governor in November.

The Manhattan Congressman was informed of the support yesterday in a letter signed by Dr. Philip J. Schupler, assemblyman from Brooklyn's 19th assembly district.

Rent Control Verdict

We'll Soon Know If Controls Are To Be Kept Or Allowed To Expire; Results Of The Senate Vote; What The Senate Measure Would Do; Decision Is In House

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 13 (AP)—We'll know quickly whether we're going to keep federal rent controls.

They're due to die in another 17 days—June 30—unless both houses of congress vote to keep them long.

The senate yesterday did just that. The house was to tackle the problem today. If the house votes "no," the controls then die June 30.

The senate approved keeping the controls another six months beyond June 30, or until Dec. 31.

Then under the senate bill—which is the same bill the house will take up—all federal rent controls die Dec. 31 everywhere except—

In any town or city which wants to keep them longer. In that case federal controls will remain on that city or town until June 30, 1951.

But such a town or city will have to act to keep them. That is, by a vote of the city's governing body or a vote of the people there.

Last April President Truman asked congress to continue the controls at least a full year beyond June 30, 1950.

On the opposite side of the fence were those who wanted all federal controls to die Jun. 30.

So the bill approved by the senate yesterday was a compromise between those two viewpoints: six months more of controls, at least, instead of a full year more or none at all.

Even if both houses vote continuation, federal controls will apply only in 40 states.

The following eight states have either eliminated federal controls, by their own action, permitted under present law, or soon will do so: Wisconsin, New York, Alabama, Virginia, Nebraska, Texas, Utah and Arizona. New York and Wisconsin passed their own rent control laws.

Rent controls were first in 1942 and reached a peak in 1946 when 160,000,000 dwelling units were under control.

Since then half of them, or 80,000,000 units, have been decontrolled.

The bill which the senate passed yesterday was recommended to it by the senate banking and currency committee.

This committee studied the rent control problem and on June 4 re-

The year's new officers, who were inducted in a special service during the morning worship hour on Sunday, assumed their first duties.

The program was presided over by Mrs. W. J. Stell, vice-president, who presented the Rev. Leon Russell, who led the devotional using as his theme, "God's Covenant—Old and New." She suggested that the members of the society begin their new year of work by making new individual covenants with God, committing themselves anew to serve more faithfully, more trustingly and more earnestly as stewards of God.

The business meeting was conducted by the new president, Mrs. Ed Batchelor. She re-emphasized the purpose of the organization and stressed for deeper consideration the society's four-point program: giving, recruiting, education and membership.

Following the president's address, all the incoming officers gave lengthy reports about the duties of their offices and formulated plans which each one hopes to accomplish. These accounts showed thoughtful observation of what has been done and presented an inspiring challenge to each member for greater, more far-reaching service in the year ahead.

Bethel, N. C.—On Saturday, June the tenth, at six o'clock in the evening, Miss Betty Maude Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jasper Smith of Bethel and David Ordway Speir, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Speir, Sr. of Tampa, Florida, were united in marriage in the Bethel Methodist church in a service marked by dignity and beauty. The Reverend Nicholas W. Grant, pastor of the church, officiated. A program of wedding music was furnished by Mrs. T. R. Andrews, Jr., soloist, and Mrs. R. H. Staton, organist.

The chancel of the church was decorated with white lilies and white snapdragons arranged against a background of palms and ferns. Tall, white cathedral candles lighted the scene.

The bride entered the church accompanied by her father, by whom she was given in marriage. Her wedding gown was of white starched chiffon, fashioned with a fitted bodice with a drop shoulder effect and a sheer yoke, outlined with imported princess lace. The bouffant skirt was shirred on very full at the waist line and was ornamented with two bands of princess lace left in near the bottom and also with a ruffle which outlined each band of lace and which continued around the entire train of the dress. Her finger tip wedding veil was of imported illusion falling from a Coronet of Brussels' lace, which was draped softly with a triangle in the back and which fell to the shoulders over the illusion. The lace was made in Brussels for the groom's grandmother. The bride wore long mitts with points over the hands and carried a bridal bouquet of stephanotis and lilies of the valley, centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Robert Reid of Rochelle, Ga., was maid of honor, and Miss Anne Nowell of Ahsokie, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were: Miss Ruth Clark of Tarboro; Miss Mary Todd Smith of Bethel, cousin of the bride; Mrs. J. C. Williamson, Jr., of Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. Ray Treleven, Sylvia, N. C.; Miss Frances Bird, Durham, N. C.; and Miss Peggy Gray, Robersonville, N. C.

All the attendants wore identical gowns of blue waltz net, fashioned with fitted bodices and portrait necklines which draped over the shoulders to form sleeves. The bouffant skirts were shirred on very full at the waist line, with net looped from waist to finger tips, and extending to very full skirts at the bottom. They carried cascade bouquets of American Beauty roses tied with tulle of a corresponding color.

Grace James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. James and Jo Anne Whitehurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Whitehurst were flower girls. They wore dresses similar in design and material to those worn by the bridesmaids, and they carried dainty white baskets of rose petals, decorated with American Beauty net and rose petals and showered with ribbon of a corresponding hue.

Bobby Smith, young brother of the bride, was ring bearer. He was attired in a miniature dress suit and carried the ring in a white lily.

The groom chose for his best man his father, Mr. Walter S. Speir, Sr. of Tampa, Florida. Ushers were: Walter S. Speir, Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla., and Dean Speir of Madison, New Jersey, brothers of the groom; Tommy Craft, Bethel, N. C., cousin of the bride; Brice Willford, Kannapolis, N. C.; Graham Pardee, Long Island, New York; Jimmy Smith of Bethel, brother of the bride; and Henry Smith of Danville, Virginia.

Mrs. Speir, mother of the bridegroom, chose to wear a dress of pink lace and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. P. B. Pollock of Trenton, grandmother of the bride, wore a navy blue lace dress and an orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Bethel High School. She attended Sullins College, Bristol, Va., and is a 1949 graduate of Duke University, where she was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha, national social sorority and Kappa Delta Phi, honorary educational fraternity. For the past year she has been a member of the Farmville high school faculty.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
LOOK SKYWARD FOR BEARINGS
Fear, the Arctic explorer, found on one occasion that instead of traveling toward the pole at the rate of ten miles a day, he was in reality being carried in the opposite direction at the rate of twelve miles a day by a great ice floe. He made this discovery when he looked skyward and got his bearings.
The incident is indicative of the fact that when men want to get their bearings, whether on land or sea, the best way is to look skyward. There are many other ways of doing so that in most cases are probably fairly accurate, but the only absolutely accurate way to guide one's self through a strange country or across the sea is by looking at the stars. All other signs fail. The stars in their eternal courses never waver or deceive.
All of which should go a long way toward reminding us that what is true for travelers is equally true for those who make the pilgrimage of life. The only sure way to get our bearings is to look skyward. When we take as our guides the circumstances of life, the customs of our times, and the vices of our fellows, we are liable to get lost. It is when we look to the things that are above that we really get our bearings.

Census Shows Pitt Continues To Grow

The 1950 census figures indicate that Pitt county is continuing to hold its position of leadership among the counties of eastern North Carolina. And the towns of the county, for the most part, have forged ahead of the pace set by the county at large.
The county as a whole has a population increase of 2,526 people, or 4.28 per cent, during the last ten years. Greenville has shown an increase of 4,039 people—31.8 per cent increase over its 1940 population.
The fact that Greenville's percentage increase continued to be a relatively high figure is indicative of the fact that the town is attracting more and more people by its business firms and by its educational and cultural institutions. It is growing into the educational center of the eastern part of the state, and with each passing year more and more progressive business firms are recognizing Greenville as a prosperous market.
The Reflector is particularly proud of the growth Greenville has shown, but the other towns of the county have shown rapid growth which should not go unnoticed. Ayden's population increased more than 20 per cent, and Bethel showed a slight increase. In the case of Farmville, however, the census figures showed a slight drop.
The Reflector is inclined to agree with the Farmville people who can not understand how they lost population during the past ten years. In view of the apparent growth of the town's area, and the new construction of residential areas which has taken place, we do not think Farmville officials would be amiss in asking for a recount of their population. After all, these census figures will stand for the next ten years, and they should be absolutely correct.

Is Pitt Republican? They Suggest It Is.

When it comes to politics, most folks expect a few facts to be distorted somewhat by avid supporters on each side of the fence. But the outlook of the Graham camp must be growing gloomier by the day for its mouth-piece, The News and Observer, to suggest that a vote for Willis Smith in the second primary is a vote for the Republican party.
In Southern politics, there is no other name we can think of that will cost a candidate more votes than to gag him with the name of Republican.
We have reference to the following excerpt from the editorial page of The News and Observer:
"It is significant that with few exceptions, he (Graham) met his greatest opposition in precincts which frequently vote Republican rather than Democratic. And much of the clamor for him to have opposition in both the first and second primaries came from individuals who, in the past, have voted the Republican ticket or some other ticket rather than the Democratic ticket."
That's what The News and Observer would have you believe; and by virtue of the fact that Pitt county gave Smith a 200 vote lead over Graham in the first primary, we may assume that Pitt county is typical of the counties to which the editorial refers.

You know and we know there never has been a more Democratic and less Republican county in the state of North Carolina than Pitt county. Even back in the gloomy Democratic year of 1928 when North Carolina went into the Republican column by more than 100,000 votes, Pitt county cast the banner vote in North Carolina for the Democratic party. In no other county did the Democratic candidates' majority run into a higher percentage than it did in Pitt county. Pitt was one of the few counties in which the Democratic candidates received many times more votes than the Republican candidates.

The counties of the eastern part of the state have long been known as the cradle of Democracy in North Carolina. And for the most part the counties of the east which most consistently have been heavily Democratic are the ones which gave Candidate Smith his county-basis leads.

In spite of what history and statistics bear out, however, some of the Graham leaders are ready to stamp with the label "Republican" the good people of Pitt and other eastern counties because they thought for themselves and saw fit to vote for Candidate Smith.

We have thought throughout the campaign that the Graham leaders have avoided the real issues and sought to becloud them with ill-founded suggestions. The editorial to which we refer is another indication of the very same thing.

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON, June 13—The Truman Administration's trust-busting policy, which is an inheritance from Franklin D. Roosevelt's colleague "brain trust," recently suffered such a severe and non-political setback that it has shocked the Fair Deal's radical economic advisers and their cap-and-gown colleagues in the Department of Justice.
Since President Truman and the Roosevelt-Truman Supreme Court still have a chance to offset or neutralize these rebukes, their reaction will furnish the supreme test of the general attitude of the White House toward business large and small.
Oddly, Mr. Truman recently declared that it was only his "reactionary enemies" who were handing out the idea that he was hostile to business and industry. But it is regarded as significant that he made these denials on the heels of his reversals in the courts and on Capitol Hill.
SPOT—the savage counterattack against the anti-trust program consisted of Congressional enactment of a bill reestablishing the historic basing-point system, which had been outlawed by the Supreme Court in the famous cement case, and by refusal of the U.S. Court of Appeals in New York to break up the Aluminum Company of America. Both came on the same day.
Both actions have placed the White House and the Supreme Court on an extremely embarrassing spot. They force the President and the nine justices appointed by his predecessor or himself, to say whether they believe that bigness of itself is bad, and whether they mean to continue to wage F.D.R.'s war against so-called "economic royalists."

Mr. Truman is up against it because he must approve or veto the action of Congress in overriding the Supreme Court decision in the cement case, where his own lawyers demanded a judgment against the basing point system.
If he signs the measure, he will be repudiating his previous policy on this question. If he vetoes it, he will place himself in the position of having made false promises to business and industrial leaders.
QUESTION—The President also finds himself in a political jam. And because the election or defeat of prominent Democratic leaders in Senate and House may hang on his decision, it is generally believed that he will sock the Supreme Court by signing the measure permitting manufacturers to absorb shipping costs in order to quote uniform delivery prices throughout the country.

The actual sponsor of this legislation was Senator Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania, Democratic Senate whip. He faces a tough reelection fight next November, and his chances will be damaged seriously by a veto. He is begging Mr. Truman to sign. The same plea has been voiced by almost every Democratic member from the eastern and middle western industrial sections of the country.
It is also significant that even Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, no friend of the monopolistic system which the basing-point practice is supposed to strengthen, deeply desires presidential approval.
So, the key question here is: Will President Truman, a smart politician, repudiate his own Supreme Court of the D of J philosophy in order to give a helping hand to his political buddies, or will he throw his cronies to November Republicans for the sake of ideological consistency?

It is perilous to predict about Mr. Truman save where Democratic politics are involved. He always goes Democratic. Therefore, the betting is 10 to 1 that he signs the basing-point measure, if he has not done so before this is published.
Washington knows its Harry.
STORY—The pro-Alcoa decision, however, has far greater significance, political and economic, than the Congressional rebellion against Truman-McGrath crackdowns on industry. Here is the background story.
F.D.R. hated the Mellon family. In the 1932 campaign, political writers sometimes wondered whether he thought he was running against Herbert Hoover or Andrew W. Mellon. Mr. Hoover's Secretary of the Treasury, F.D.R.'s first order to Robert H. Jackson, then an Assistant Attorney General and now a Supreme Court Justice, was to "break up those Mellons."
The suit was started in 1935 with every legal, economic and political resource of the Roosevelt Administration. It must have cost the federal government at least $5 million. But the U.S. Court of Appeals has denied the government contention that Alcoa's bigness gave it a monopoly. In fact, over Mr. Truman's lawyers' bitter protests, it permitted Alcoa to buy another $5 million firm in northern New York State.

In its decree denying the government's petition for dissolution, the court mentioned in favorable terms Alcoa's low prices, its efficient distribution system, its research facilities and its admitted contribution to national defense in World War II and prospective conflicts.
DIFFICULT—What makes it more difficult for the Supreme Court in upstating this ruling is the bar's general belief that the New York court is a far more learned and judicial body than the high tribunal itself. There is not a man on the Supreme Court to match the men who heard and judged the Alcoa case, in the opinion of lawyers who have appeared before both groups.
But will the Supreme Court dare to reverse its attitude in the cement and other litigation reflecting its anti-business prejudice? And what will be its position if Mr. Truman, in the basing-point matter, performs a political somersault? If he can do it perhaps they can, for no Supreme Court was less judicial and more partisan than the men now gracing the highest court in the land.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.
The single man misses a lot. For example, tell me one single man who knows anything about pressure cookers. Maybe a single man who sells them knows the selling information, but I doubt if even a salesman has had actual cooking experience.
When Kathryn's accident happened W. R. and I lost interest in pressure cookers and put ours on the shelf. But when we kept on hearing how safe they are, and how much time they save, we had to drag it out again.
This had to be done, said W. R. when I was home to observe. Our target for the first cooking: snap beans. In an ordinary pot it takes snaps about two hours to cook. In a pressure cooker: four minutes.
On the surface, this looks like a big saving of time. But hold on! Before cooking, it takes two hours to read the instruction book. And while cooking, it takes two people: one to read while the other carries out the instructions.
But let's assume that after using the pressure cooker for a while, it becomes a cinch and no more reading is required. This means that your wife is a genius and should stop housekeeping. She should hire a cook and get a job paying at least $10,000 a year. Anybody who can learn that book deserves to earn at least that.
As W. R. was trying out the cooker I was blurted out instructions right and left. Our neighbors, J. D. and Marguerite Wilson, walked by the window and stopped dead in their tracks. They had never seen such a demonstration before.
"What in the world are you doing?" Marguerite asked me.
"Cooking, what else?"
Marguerite had never seen a cook like me before. All I was doing was sitting on a stool and shouting instructions.
When the four minutes of cooking time were up, we were amazed at the results. Beautiful, tasty snap beans, and no explosion. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.
TIME—A popular song of a few years ago began with "Ninety-nine years is a mighty long time." One year can also seem like a long time, and it is surprising how quickly people adjust themselves to change. So far as North Carolina government administration is concerned many changes occurred just about a year ago. Exact dates are not significant, but within a few weeks of a year a new highway commission took over, the people voted 200 million dollars secondary road bonds, and since then $125 millions have been sold and largely spent on improved country roads.
CHANGES—Just about a year ago Waldo Cheek was named commissioner of insurance; Eugene Shaw commissioner of revenue; David S. Coltrane assistant director of the budget; Charles M. Williams director of purchase and contract, and Ben Roney was made special assistant to the governor. Harry Caldwell and Alonzo Edwards were named to the advisory budget commission, and numerous boards of administrative commissioners and institutional trustees were almost wholly changed. Nearly all the new appointees succeeded men and women of long tenure, thus accentuating the feeling of change. Some of the changes occurred a bit earlier, some a bit later, but for all intents and purposes the new groups were ready for activity at beginning of the fiscal year July 1 of last year.
FAME—Political fame is fleeting. There are some folks who think Edwin Gill is still revenue commissioner and Bob Deyton is still running the budget; but there are a good many who can not name the predecessor of Shaw and Coltrane in those posts. Your reporter asked a fairly high ranking employee of the department of agriculture who was lieutenant governor during the Cherry administration. He said it was R. L. Harris—forgetting that his own current big boss, L. Y. Ballentine, held the position which Harris relinquished early in 1945. It's an interesting — and enlightening — experience to question folks who think they know state political history about who was lieutenant governor or speaker of the house during legislative sessions of several years back.
HISTORY—Most seventh grade school children can name the presidents of the United States from Washington to Truman; very few people of any age or education level can name the vice presidents. Far fewer school children can list the governors of North Carolina, even for fifty years back, and a dollar to doughnut bet will win the doughnut 99 times out of 100 that nobody can name lieutenant governors since 1900. The fellow who can name ten of the twenty-six speakers of the house of representatives since 1900 is really a whiz. (That 26 number is a gimmick because one session had two speakers — remember that?) Yet in many respects, because of his power to name committees and steer legislation, the speaker of the house can exert more influence upon state government than any other public official.
PRO TEM—Your reporter tried out a stunt the other day and asked half a dozen state elective officials, about a dozen former state senators and several others, if they could name the presidents pro tem of the senate for the past five sessions. Not a single man could name them without checking files. Yet, the president pro tem of the senate is second in line of succession to the governorship. If the governor dies, resigns or becomes disqualified for any reason, the lieutenant gov-

What Other Papers Are Thinking

SEGREGATION FADING (Henderson Daily Dispatch)
The Supreme Court's decisions ordering Texas and Oklahoma universities to admit Negroes struck the South with a thud. Yet it was to be expected, in light of composition of the court and of the policies of the Roosevelt and Truman administrations which put on the high tribunal every one of its present nine members. Presidents usually appoint justices of the court who are sympathetic to their thinking and their programs, and racial equality in many respects has been something of a hobby of the present chief executive and his immediate predecessor.
Even in the wake of the court's ruling, this age-old custom will not go out overnight in all of its aspects. Inbred convictions are not legislated out of the minds of people—they have to be gotten rid of by education, thinking and habit. A court decision cannot effect that transformation in the twinkling of an eye.
The Texas and Oklahoma issues, along with other similar racial challenges, were in the minds of many, deliberately and specifically trumped up as a means of forcing a showdown. The universities involved had two alternatives. One was to comply, the

Business Today

By HENRY ROSENBERG
Spurred on by sales or petition as well as the need for containers that sell themselves under expanding self-service systems, manufacturers are seeking new and more effective ways to package their goods.
The effort is taking several directions:
More colorful packages—showing the goods in use, and making it stand out on the shelf.
More informative labeling—telling how to use the goods for best results, suggesting recipes, etc.
More convenient packaging—so the product is easy and pleasant to use.
More useful packaging—so the package itself is a premium.
The... plenty of room for improvement in packages. Take coffee. It's no secret that many housewives don't know how to brew a good cup, points out O. M. Gale, of Procter and Gamble's public relations division. Yet less than half the coffee packages make any suggestions for making good coffee.
Another of the ways a package can convert a purchaser into a regular customer is by its convenience, Gale points out. Perhaps it's more convenient for a manufacturer to pack a hand lotion into a tall thin bottle. But will it fit into the bathroom cabinet? If not, you may lose a customer no matter how good your product. "Make it hard for a woman to get the last tablespoon out of your mayonnaise jar," says Gale, "and however attractive the shape may be, you'll find her buying the brand of a more thoughtful manufacturer next time."
Two interesting examples of ways manufacturers are increasing the appeal and usability of their packages: A rubber manufacturer is now packing tennis balls in a combination counter display and shipping carton which has a tennis score card printed on a removable panel; another manufacturer is testing shaving cream in aerosol-powered containers.

TV COMPETITION CUTTING INTO OTHER TRADES
Most other sectors of the entertainment business are feeling the bite of television, reports Music Business magazine. Complaints editor Lyle Stuart: "The music sales business has never been in a weaker state. People are not playing the piano or listening to phonographs in homes where they can see TV. They aren't buying books; book business is way off. They're attending movies; theater receipts are down 25-75 per cent. They aren't going out so much—and so wear and buy fewer clothes—eat at fewer restaurants—consume less gasoline—buy fewer magazines."
AIDS OTHERS WHO WANT TO BID ON GOVERNMENT JOBS
A small businessman who has made a success of manufacturing for government contracts exclusively, has publicly offered to help other small businessmen learn how to get such work. Harry Hirsch, president of Utility Electronics Corp., Newark, N. J., in 1947 converted his plant into an organization to manufacture electronic equipment on government contract. He built up his contract business from $180,000 in 1948 to an estimated $4 million this year. His secret: He follows up all invitations to bid on government jobs by very exacting figuring estimated cost and bidding as low as he can, all the time "building recognition as a responsible low bidder who delivers the work according to specifications — on time."
Hirsch says he's willing to share the secrets of his methods with others because "the more small business firms that compete for government contracts, the more contracts will be open to the small business man."

CLEANER: A tank-type vacuum cleaner with a motor-driven swirl rug tool so it has the advantage of an upright has been developed (by Charles W. Heller, Vac-Mart Stores, 1007 Locust, St. Louis).

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—The greatest home-lovers are those who never bought a house.
Or so it seems to them.
Owning a place of his own is one of man's oldest dreams, and nothing proves more surely that, to this extent at least, he is a capitalist by nature.
It begins in childhood. And a growing boy relives the history of the human races desire for a better shelter.
Soon after he learns to walk he starts crawling under the table and piling chairs around it to build him a kind of lean-to home. Next he digs a cave in the backyard, roofed over with tin, where he can roast potatoes over a smoldering fire and eat them half-jaw in smoky, savage dignity.
Then he risks breaking his arms, legs and neck to build a tattered tree house in the nearest elm or oak, and feels he is indeed monarch of all he surveys. And, finally, he comes down into the backyard again and constructs a wooden shack as a kind of club-room for his pals. He posts a sign on the door: "Grownups—Stay Out! This Means You!"
He usually has a lock on his shanty, too. And that shows he now has a personal sense of property.
For a few years he doesn't do any more building. He is busy with finishing school and going through the cocoon agony of becoming an adult.
After he gets a job and marries, he starts dreaming again of a place really his own. Whether he actually does buy a home or stays a renter the rest of his days, he never forgets the thrill of that first jungle lean-to in his parent's living room, the cave, tree house and shanty in the backyard. The yearning is there, inherited across the ages. For home stands for security much more than it does for mere pride of possession.
And the longer he goes without his own home the more he wants it—in his heart, no matter what his mouth says.
My trouble is I can't make up my mind what kind of a home I really want. At first all I wanted was a log cabin like the one Thoreau lived in at Walden Pond. But this was impractical. I couldn't build it. I knew if I went into the woods and cut down a tree—it would fall on me. That's how inept I am. Once I even was run over by a milk wagon.
Later came the grandiose period. I wanted an estate with formal gardens and a huge 46-room mansion with 47 bathrooms—something crawling with 17th century draperies and Italian Renaissance marble. I didn't give up this dream merely because it would require $2,000,000. Who knows—a kind millionaire might leave me that.
"Why, it would take 30 servants to staff a place like that," a friend told me. Well, that ended that. Who wants 30 maids and butlers pad-paddling about his halls?
Every Sunday for the last 13 years I've spent most of the day going through the real estate sections, mentally buying a home one moment, discarding it the

Washington Letter

By JANE SAYS
WASHINGTON — Some 2,000 high school girls, eagerly interested in homemaking as "a foundation for a happy and successful nation and a peaceful world," are going to hold their own convention at Kansas City the last of June.
Ranging in age from 13 to 18, they represent some 288,000 students studying home economics in high schools of 46 states, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and Guam. They are members of the Future Homemakers of America, which has national headquarters in Washington. It is sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education and the American Home Economics Association, but gets its financial support solely from membership dues.
Pretty, curly-haired Betty Ruth Eberidge, 17-year-old national president, from Crossett, Ark., will preside over this convention, the organization's second. Mary Lee Hurt, formerly assistant professor of home economics at Michigan State College and now national adviser to Future Homemakers, says Betty presides over a convention "like a veteran" which she is. She has been a principal speaker at FFA rallies in Kentucky, Texas, Oklahoma, Tennessee and other states.
In addition, Betty has had time to make honor grades in school; is active in her youth organizations in her home town, the "Y-Teens," the Glee club, the church choir, the 4-H. She also edits her high school paper and last month authored a place for a national magazine. "Toward New Horizons" is the organization's motto. Its eight-sided emblem has in the center a house supported by two hands to suggest that the future homes of America are in the hands of its youth.
The FFA creed reads: "We are the Future Homemakers of America. We face the future with warm courage and high hope, for we have the clear consciousness of seeking old and precious values; for we are the builders of homes; homes for America's future; homes where living will be the expression of every thing that is good and fair; homes where truth and love and security and faith will be realities, not dreams."

Hotel Men Say Rates Are Kept High By The Guests

Denver, June 12—(AP)—Take it from the men who should know, the average hotel guest is a great spender. He pays the bills for a billion-dollar business. But he can drive you stark raving mad.

He can be—and often is—a tippler, a thief or a sentimental slob. He'll keep other guests awake, flood their rooms from his overflowing bathtub and chase them down the hall.

That's one of the reasons hotel rates are high. The guest not only is paying for a room, service and convenience. He's paying for towels, ash trays and light bulbs he loads in his suitcase. He's helping repair the furniture he burns and stains. He's paying for detective services, damage suits and business lost from bad publicity.

You'd think to hear them tell about it that the 500 delegates to the 40th annual convention of the Hotel Greeters of America—the men who should know—are in the worst business in the land.

Not at all. Most of them wouldn't trade their jobs and ulcers for any other way of losing sleep and making a living.

Take A. F. Spatafora. He's the manager of the Hotel Monteleone in New Orleans. He started in the business as a 13-year old bell boy 46 years ago. Spatafora claps his hand dramatically to his forehead when you mention troubles—but he plans to stay in the business a while more.

Spatafora still is afraid of ghosts. A hangover from his bell hopping days when a seven-foot character with a long beard used to call for service, then wrap himself in a sheet and jump out at the boys from unexpected corners.

Then there was the guest that called in from a bar in the middle of the night and demanded that Spatafora find his teeth. Spatafora finally located them—in a spittoon.

Of course, the managers insist, the guests in their own particular hotels aren't like the others; they're all very nice. The delegates—guests themselves for four days—also are models of propriety. They admit it.

Rivermen Saved Four In Face Of Terrifying Odds

Pittsburgh, June 12—(AP)—The waters of an Allegheny river spillway took four levees yesterday but rivermen who refused to quit rescue efforts in the face of terrifying odds pulled four others to safety.

One riverman, 50-year old Hui Wright, died a hero.

He tried desperately to save six persons who rode over a 11-foot dam in their 28-foot cabin cruise 15 miles northwest of Pittsburgh.

The four who survived a night of horror were battered and beaten inside and out.

They clung to the cruiser as it robbed furiously in the foaming swirling spillway. For seven hours they watched scores of rescue attempts fail.

A blimp, a seaplane and even men in a rowboat tried to reach them.

Delays Transfer Of Harry Gold For Early Trial

Philadelphia, June 12—(AP)—Federal Judge J. P. McGrenery today delayed action for an indefinite time on the government's request to transfer Harry Gold, accused of delivering U. S. atomic secrets to Russia, from Philadelphia to New York where he would have been brought to immediate trial.

The judge, who originally issued the warrant that resulted in the arrest of the 39-year-old Philadelphia chemist, granted request of defense counsel to investigate the background and character of Gold in "a city where he lives."

John D. M. Hamilton, former chairman of the Republican National committee and Gold's court-appointed attorney, said "I don't think it is asking too much that I might be given the opportunity to further examine Gold in this jurisdiction."

Hampshire Red Hen, Hitchhiking, Now In Hands New Owner

C. Vincent, subscription solicitor for the Greenville Daily Reflector, unintentionally commandeered some farmer's hen yesterday and now he is looking for the fowl's owner.

The Reflector solicitor has a habit of leaving the door of his car open when he parks in farmers' yards. He was at a lot of homes yesterday morning. He says he does not know whose yard he was in when the Hampshire Red hen took refuge there. "I didn't know the bird was there until I got to Greenville," he added.

Any farmer missing a Hampshire Red hen should notify Vincent at the Daily Reflector office in Greenville. Or else—chicken stew!

Dusting Advice

Charlotte, N. C. June 12—(AP)—Something new is being added to the weather forecast.

It's aimed at helping the farmer.

From now on through the cotton growing season the Carolinas forecast will include from time to time advice on whether the weather is right for dusting with insecticides.

Both the Carolinas have heavy infestation of cotton boll weevils. That has prompted some county farm agents to ask the weatherman to include the advice on dusting in his forecast. Dusting is best in dry, calm weather. A heavy dew helps hold insecticide on leaves.

a field trip to the Fountain school in Pitt county. Approximately forty students registered for the course will observe there a series of recent improvements in the physical facilities of the school.

The Fountain school was chosen for the field trip because of successful work there in re-landscaping grounds, modernizing parts of the interior, and redecorating various rooms of the school. Mrs. Ed. Earle Baker of Farmville, teacher in the Fountain school, with the cooperation of other school personnel, directed the improvement project.

Dr. Allen H. Hurlburt, chairman of the department of education and administration at East Carolina, will accompany the students on the field trip.

Mrs. Bill Dole, will include no talent outside the East Carolina campus.

One of the highlights of the program will be a midget show performed by the midgets now studying at the college. According to Mrs. Dole the names of the midgets cannot be announced until the night of the program.

The show will be presented in Austin Auditorium free to the public.

Robins And Wilson Play To 17-Inning Deadlock

Contest Is Ended With 5-5 Score

By BERT MOYE
The Greenville Robins and the Wilson Tobs battled for 17 innings to a 5-5 deadlock over in Wilson last night, before the midnight curfew halted the contest.

Greenville took a four-run lead in the first stanza on a hit batsman, walk, double, triple and a single but the Tobs came back to score singles in the first, third, fifth and eighth frames to knot the count at four-all and force the contest into extra innings, as both teams were unable to score in the ninth.

In the first for the Robins, Paul Strausser was hit by Pitcher Sexton, John Tepedino was walked, Guidice forced Tepedino at second with Strausser taking third, George Hallow then came through with a double, scoring Strausser, and John Baktis followed with a triple into right field to bring home Guidice and Hallow. Mat Hall's single plated Baktis.

The Robins' final run of the game came in the eleventh inning when Vince Lautato walked, Hall sacrificed him to second and Frank Dempsey singled into left field to bring home Lautato.

The Tobs scored in the first frame on walks to Dingler and Smith and a single by Stan Wilcox; scored in the third on Dickens' single, Harbaugh's infield out and Jim Smith's single into centerfield; scored in the fifth when Pitcher Allan Draughn reached first on Lautato's error, Dickens walked and Bobby Dingler came through with a single into centerfield.

The Herring boys came back in the eighth to score another single and knot the count at 4-all and force the contest into extra innings. Harbaugh singled, Smith forced Harbaugh at second, but Vince Lautato bough at second, but Vince Lautato errored on the throw to first, Harbaugh took second, Wilcox beat out an infield hit with Smith taking third and then with Hayes followed with another infield hit to bring in Smith.

After the Robins had gone ahead in the eleventh inning with a run, the Tobs came back to knot the count at 5-5 in the bottom of the ninth to end the scoring for the two teams as they battled for six more scoreless innings.

Manager Bill Herring used four hurlers in last night's contest and they were pounded for a total of 16 base knocks including doubles by Hallow and Strausser and a triple by John Baktis.

Mat Hall was the big gun in the 16-hit attack, collecting four singles in six trips to the plate and a sacrifice addition made two perfect sacrifice hits and drove in one of the Robins' hits and drove in one of the Robins' hits. Paul Strausser got a double run and Vince Lautato with three singles in seven trips to the plate to lead the attack.

Vince Jones started on the mound for the Robins and pitched 10 innings of ball, giving up nine hits and four runs by the Tobs. Ray Keys and Draughn in the 11th frame relieved Jones but he loaded the bases and held the Tobs to two hits for the remaining seven frames.

Oarsmen Mixing Practice With Final Exams

Marietta, Ohio, June 13—(AP)—California's Oarsmen—National colic lat, rowing champions in 1949—mixed practice with final examinations today as they worked out on the new site of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta.

The Golden Bears' coach, Carroll M. (Ky) Ebbight, who was not too happy about moving the big rowing event here from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., thinks his varsity crew is in pretty good shape.

But he doesn't like the mixture of rowing and study, he told newsmen. The double duty was occasioned by the June 17 date of the regatta. California's examinations are held June 6-15, and Oarsmen are not an exception.

Training School's Wildcats scored in every inning to give the Robins of Third St. their first defeat in the Junior Division yesterday at Third St. Park. Ike Riddick, with a single, double and triple, and Edwards with two doubles were the leaders for the Wildcats. Buck Fife got two for four to lead the Robins. Training School's Braves won over the favorites, the Cards, to take the lead in the Intermediate Division. The game was all tied up at 6 to 6 until the final inning. In their final time at bat, the Braves scored three times to take the win. Hal Edwards' double and Jorgensen's homer featured the rally. Both teams played well in the field for the first game and some lusty hits were made during the game. Speight, Edwards, Bill Taft, Jorgensen and Haddock led the hitting for the Braves. Bobby Howell with two doubles and Pat Sawyer with a single and triple led the Cards.

Third Street's Cubs won over the Tigers of Training School yesterday in the first game played in the Mite Division. These two teams took up just where they left off last summer, that is they had another spine tingling game just as they played every time they met. The Cubs led from the start until the fifth when the Tigers scored twice to tie up the game at 4-4. The Cubs came right back to score two of their own to again take the lead which they kept for the remainder of the game. Joe Moyer, Johnson, John Laws and Hamp got the hits for the Cubs.

Mrs. Larry James Turns In Low Card At New Bern

Mrs. Larry James of Greenville burned up the New Bern golf course during the weekend tournament of Eastern Carolina Women's Golf Association when she turned in a back nine card of 38 to beat her opponent, Mrs. Thelma Lewis of New Bern, in Saturday's semi-final round.

Mrs. James' 38 was the lowest women's score ever carded on the course and came after she had carded a 48 on the first nine.

The Greenville golfer, who had led the local team during regular loop matchplay with 13½ points, lost to Mrs. Frances Stevens, Rocky Mount, in the morning round's 18 holes. But her sizzling display of shots in the afternoon earned her a berth in the consolation finals Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. James was four down when she began the final nine but picked it up to go into a tie with Mrs. Lewis on the 18th. The sudden death play-off hole resulted in the win and a shot at Sunday's final.

Frances Stevens won the trophy for the tournament by beating Mrs. James Saturday morning, Margaret Livengood, Rocky Mount, Saturday afternoon, and Miss Doris Whitfield, Kinston, in Sunday's final round.

The eight tournament players gained their berths by getting the highest point totals during the late winter and spring play among the five towns of the Association.

Mrs. Stevens entered with 39½ points, followed by Miss Whitfield with 27½, Mrs. Margaret Livengood with 20½, Mrs. Ed Bryan, New Bern, 14, Mrs. James and Mrs. Watson with 13½, Mrs. Lewis with 10, and Mrs. Marie Groom, Kinston, with 8½.

Net Tourney At Davidson Opens

Davidson, N. C., June 13—(AP)—All-out action—32 matches to be exact—got underway here today in the southern junior and boys tennis championships.

Altogether there are 82 entries, 42 the junior and 40 in the boys division. Today's play, was limited to singles matches. Doubles play begin Wednesday.

Detroit Bowlers Take Team Title

Columbus, Ohio, June 13—(AP)—Detroit's Pepsi-Cola entry is the team champion of the 1950 American bowling congress tournament.

By rolling games of 987, 976 and 989 for a 2952 total on May 18, Pepsi Cola managed to win the ABC tournament's team event with the lowest score since the Commodore Barry square from Chicago turned in 2905 total in 1916.

Tonight's Games

- Wilson at GREENVILLE
- Roanoke Rapids at New Bern
- Kinston at Rocky Mount (2)
- Tarboro at Goldsboro

Don't forget that tonight is Ladies' Night out at the ball park and all ladies will be admitted for half price, 30c, whether they are accompanied by a man or not. So you ladies get together and come out tonight and see the Robins in action.

Make your plans to be out at Guy Smith Stadium by 6:30 tomorrow (Wednesday) night so that you can see Johnnie Price, the clown prince of baseball, with his famous bags of tricks prior to the start of the doubleheader with the Kinston Eagles. The ball game will get underway at 7:00 o'clock sharp, with the first game being a seven-inning affair and the second game a nine-inning regulation game.

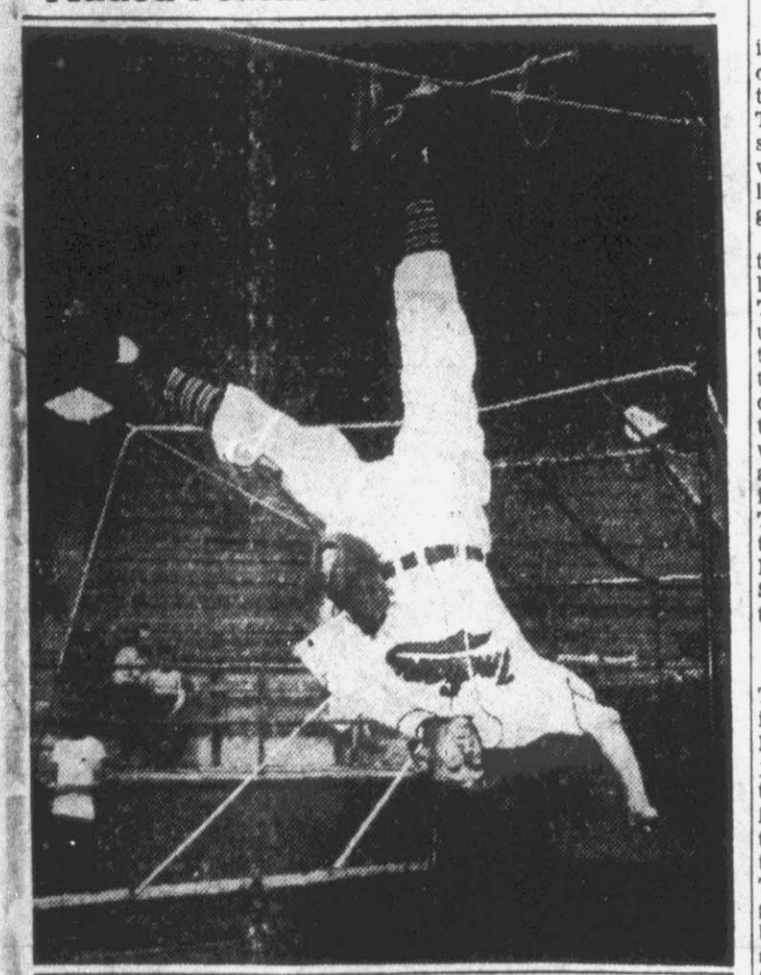

What do the umpires, managers and team captains talk about in the huddle at home plate before each game? Well, to begin with, they exchange Batting Order cards. Two cards are made up by each manager. These are matched by the umpires who keep one from each team and exchange the others.

This done, the ground rules are discussed. An outline of the ground rules is printed on the reverse side of the Batting Order card, but they are discussed more thoroughly in the home plate huddle. So as to clarify rules made during the season, the Robins herewith submit the ground rules for 1950:

1. Thrown ball over 1st or 3rd in play unless it goes past line drawn on fence, one base.
2. Batted ball hitting wire in play unless it hits foul.
3. Book rules on ball going into dugout.
4. Thrown ball off rubber in play unless it sticks in wire. One base if it sticks in wire.
5. Hitting top of scoreboard out of park and a home run.
6. Two bases if ball bounces over fence or rolls under the fence.

Two players have been released and two were signed by the Wilson Tobs during the weekend by Manager Bill Herring. Ronald White, rookie righthander, who played with Atlantic Christian College this year, and Jesse Tobias, rookie catcher, were given their releases. Signing with the Tobs was James A. Walker, rookie righthander, who played with Lake City, S.C., earlier in the season and "Pancho" Gonzales, a Spaniard and left-hander, who should go well with the club since he cannot speak a word of English. The Goldsboro Cards have added one pitcher and a third baseman to their roster. The hurler is Bill Mackel, limited service pitcher, who played with Bristol, Tenn., in the Appalachian League last season. The third baseman is James Orlando, a rookie.

Added Feature To Wed. Twin Bill

Greenville baseball fans are in for a rare treat at Guy Smith Stadium on Wednesday night when Jackie Price, the Cleveland Indians' impresario of the impossible in baseball, will make his appearance here with his antics before and during the game. In fact, a double treat is in store for fans, as it is on this night that a doublerender will be played with the Kinston Eagles, with the first game starting at 7:00 o'clock. However, it would be wise to get out to the park not later than 6:30 Wednesday as Price will start his doings at about this time. Price, who can easily qualify as one of the few legal monopolies in the United States is one of the outstanding comedians in the baseball world. But this is one monopoly which is not likely to be broken up unless, using the verb literally, you refer to the countless fractures he has suffered while perfecting his amazing repertoire of some 140 fantastic maneuvers with a ball bat and glove. Actually he possesses this monopoly simply because no other athlete has ever been able to match his unique talents.

Although he has already performed before some five million baseball fans from Alaska to South America, he manages to keep his seemingly endless bag of tricks eternally fresh. By constantly adding new stunts to an already inexhaustible group he is constantly in demand for repeat performances and has been able to accept only a fraction of the engagements tendered.

The report shows that during the month, a total of 3,804 courtesies were rendered by the members of the Patrol.

Seven vehicles were stored and 17 cars were recovered and returned to their owners. In addition to the arrests, 1,710 citations were given out and 22,024 drivers license examined.

The men of Troop "A" traveled a total of 486,017 miles in the month of May and arrested 113 persons for being drunk.

Of the persons arrested, 1,546 were found to be guilty and 208 were adjudged not guilty. Sentences imposed totaled 24 years, three months and five days.

Value of cars and property returned to individual owners amounted to $11,120.24; fines turned over to county school fund amounted to $34,178.96 and the costs turned in to county general fund in the counties in which the cases were tried were $20,127.28.

Claim Lamour To Teach Manners

Berlin, June 13—(AP)—Taegliche Rundschau, East Germany's official Soviet newspaper, said today it has found out why screen star Dorothy Lamour is in Germany: to teach manners to "Rowdy American Colonial soldiers."

Miss Lamour arrived a few days ago by plane in the U. S. zone of Germany.

Cucumber Vines Facing Mildew

Pitt's cucumber growers were today warned of the presence of downy mildew which has recently been detected on some of the 2,000-odd cucumber acres.

County Farm Agent Sam Winchester reported yesterday the mildew had been spotted in the county and was urgent that farmers practice latest recommendations for control.

As recommended by the North Carolina Experiment Station, the use of tri-basic copper sulfate in dust form is the best means to use for poison. The dusting should take place once every ten days and immediately after each heavy rain.

The dosage recommended is 18-20 pounds to the acre while the vines are in their present stage of development. That should gradually be increased to a maximum of 35-40 pounds per acre when the vines are full grown. A small rotary hand duster is sufficient for small areas. Anything from two acres up, equipment drawn by tractor or mule should be used. Winchester urged farmers to train their vines to grow with the row rather than spreading over into others so that mechanical equipment can be used.

Last year the mildew caused considerable damage. Just how much has not been estimated. Winchester stated that if farmers don't dust the vine right now, the results can be disastrous, particularly if damp weather prevails for any length of time.

The Experiment Station reports that during the years when downy mildew is severe and prices are high, dusting is very profitable to cucumber growers. For example, in 1946 when the average price of fresh cucumbers was $2.20 per bushel, the profits from dusting were about $190 per acre.

The Station reported, though, that such returns should not be expected each year because the severity of mildew as well as market prices vary widely. Every grower, it says, should be prepared to start dusting when the disease threatens and to continue as long as market conditions warrant.

New York, June 12—(AP)—Totally blind and deaf, Robert J. Smithdas 25, newly graduated with honors from St. John's University in Brooklyn looked forward today to his next objectives—a lecture tour and graduate work at the University of Michigan.

Smithdas "saw and heard" his commencement exercises yesterday through the eyes and ears of his college pal, John Spanier, 22, his constant companion for four years. Smithdas lost his sight and hearing at the age of six as the result of spinal meningitis.

He is the son of a steelworker, Joseph Smithdas of Pittsburgh, and one of six children.

Anticipates Big Gathering Of Shriners Ahead

Los Angeles, June 13—(AP)—Imperial Potentate Harold Lloyd anticipates "the biggest and best convention in history" when the National Shrine convention opens here Monday.

Housing will be a major problem for the 200,000 Shriners and their families. Hotels expect to be jammed to the rafters. The Santa Fe Railway is completing arrangements for housing around 2600 Shriners in Pullman cars on sidings in the railroad yard.

We'll have to go some to surpass Chicago and Atlantic City," Lloyd observed yesterday. "But it looks as if we will."

First member of the Imperial Divan to arrive was George Sanders, Imperial Recorder. He came in from Chicago to meet with Lloyd and prepare for the arrival starting Thursday of high Shrine officials.

Charlotte Now Is Biggest City

Charlotte, N. C., June 12—(AP)—Charlotte's population is 133,212.

The 1950 count was announced today. The 1940 population was 100,899. The population gain in the decade was 32 per cent.

That leaves Charlotte the biggest city in the Carolinas and the only one above 100,000.

Digest Of Opinions Given On Variety Of N. C. Laws

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, June 13—Attorney General McMullan today released a digest of nineteen opinions his office had furnished during April and interpreting statutes covering a wide variety of subjects. Local government administration, conduct of elections and court procedure received major attention.

The state's top legal authority says there is no law prohibiting a person from installing electric wiring in his own property without obtaining a license.

The six percent maximum interest rate applies to loans made by finance companies for purchase of automobiles and other equipment.

Even though private detectives are licensed by the state, they have no more right than other citizens to make arrests.

There is no statutory authority for refunding beer or wine license fees when the holder of the license goes out of business for any cause during the license year.

The attorney general deals with five phases of local government administration: Municipalities have specific authority to convey real property to the state for armories or other uses of the National Guard, a police officer must be a legal resident of the town he serves, county commissioners must provide necessary medical attention for prisoners held in county jails; a city or town is liable in damages for torts committed by it in operation and maintenance of a municipal airport, that being a proprietary rather than a governmental function; there is no law requiring a city, town or other governmental unit to advertise for bids on insurance coverage.

Respecting court procedure the attorney general holds that the fact of change or repeal in wildlife regulations subsequent to violation, does not excuse the violation or constitute legal defense; every justice of the peace is required to collect two dollars additional cost in every case of conviction or plea finally disposed of by him, and remit same to the clerk of superior court of the county in which the case was tried; law enforcement officers, except those on fee basis, are not entitled to collect witness fees for attending court in the jurisdiction where they have authority to make arrests; clear proceeds of all fines and forfeitures are required to be paid into the school fund of the county in which collected; defendants have the right to appeal to the superior from any judgment rendered in a criminal action before a justice of the peace or other inferior court; except in cases where defendants are bound over to a higher court and are entitled to a de novo trial by a jury, without prejudice from the former judgment and irrespective of any plea entered in the lower court.

Opinions affecting elections include: A minor becoming of age between dates of the primary and general election is entitled to file as a candidate in the primary if otherwise qualified and if elected in the general election may qualify for the office; a holder of public office is not barred by that reason from becoming a candidate for another office, but upon assuming a second office he automatically forfeits his former position; a person is not disqualified to vote in North Carolina by reason of conviction and sentence in a federal court; a candidate who has filed for office and who gives formal written notice of withdrawal of candidacy to the board of elections after filing time has expired cannot thereafter be allowed to re-instate himself as a candidate; a this would amount to allowing him to file after the period for filing was past.

Coroner's Inquest About Negro's Death Courthouse Tonight

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse will hold an inquest at the courthouse tonight at 8 o'clock in connection with the death of Lester Payton, 33-year-old Negro farm laborer of the Grimesland community.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson is holding without bail William Gardner, 32-year-old Negro farm worker of the Grimesland section, on the charge of murder.

Coroner Rouse quoted officers as charging Gardner with fatally shooting Payton, his brother-in-law, with a shotgun last Sunday afternoon during a family row. Payton died on the way to a Washington hospital.

Authorities quoted a physician as saying that Payton bled to death from a ruptured artery in his thigh on the way to the hospital.

Patrol Roads To Prevent Violence

Pittsburgh, June 13—(AP)—State police, acting on orders from Governor James H. Duff put reinforced patrols on the road early today to protect milk truck movements in a seven-county dairy strike area.

The governor acted quickly yesterday after reports of dumping of truckloads of milk by armed picket bands in the five-day-old walkout.

The violence occurred between Vanderbilt and Flat Woods, Fayette County, and near Canonsburg, Washington County.

Truck driver O. W. Rittenhouse reported he was halted by armed pickets at Vanderbilt.

Rittenhouse said the men forced his truck onto a side road and dumped its load of milk. Burlap bags covered license plates on the pickets' autos, he said.

Gov. Duff declared in a statement: "These were acts of criminals. They were as criminal as the acts of bandits and will be treated as such."

At Greensburg, Pa. 30 miles from Pittsburgh, Sheriff Howard Bud Thomas had court authority to organize a posse to prevent any violence.

The court granted a preliminary injunction to prevent striking milk workers from adjoining counties from interfering with non-strikers in Westmoreland County.

Hungary Closes Freemason Units

Budapest, Hun., June 13—(AP)—Hungary's freemason lodges, which celebrated their 200th anniversary this year, have been dissolved.

The interior ministry, which carried out the dissolution of the secret fraternal society early yesterday, charged the lodges were "meeting places of the enemies of the people's Democrat (Communist) Republic, of capitalist elements, and of the adherents of western imperialism." There were 16 lodges in Budapest, and three in other parts of the country.

SMOKY JOE

By W. F. BRAGG

Chapter 25
Under the... fiercely whispered commands of the old man, the six lanky McDevitts fanned out, ghost-like, in the timber.

The canyon widened into a grassy meadow with Look-Creek cutting through the middle. Kneeling behind a mossy log, Joe peered ahead and saw many cattle and horses grazing in the rank grass.

Old McDevitt flung back his head and snuffed like an old hound on the trail.

"You get that smell? he asked.

Joe picked up the faintest acrid odor of burning wood on the soft breeze. He nodded.

"Got a corral in there," McDevitt explained. "They're doin' a little brand burnin'. B... it won't last long!"

"Listen, McDevitt," Joe began angrily. "I've got a bigger stake in this than you. I want to take Shay alive. I want him to talk. He's the right hand man to Pack Rogan. I think they know who killed Chris Ewen and Jane Morgan's father—"

McDevitt curled his thin lips. "That painted hussy," he sneered. "Hussy? You're dead wrong. She went to town to find out who killed her father. She thinks, same as me, that Rogan knows."

"Don't call me a liar, Munro. She threw in with Rogan, after she'd let my boy, Monty, make love to her." He eyed Joe fiercely. "I don't trust her any more than I do you Munros. Your dad was always tryin' to hog all the land in sight, threatenin' me an' my boy. Why, he got mad when he found out Monty's land took in this canyon here."

"So Monty owns Lost Creek Canyon?"

"Yeah. And got a first water right on it. I signed it over to him. Didn't need much water up in the Basin for the little garden sassa I raise. But Monty was always dead set on irrigatin' an' the like. So we're here now on his land—"

McDevitt stopped talking, tensed, as a low signal sounded.

"That's Monty," he whispered. "He come down early to scout out things. We been figurin' fer days on a cleanup." He stepped over the log, buckskin shirt fringe fluttering, long rifle gripped tightly. Joe followed.

He began thinking of old Whisperin Johnson. The old man must somehow be given a chance for his life. If the McDevitts opened fire without warning, Shay would undoubtedly kill Whisperin at first fire, or shove him into bullet line.

Then, on the edge of the timber where it flanked the meadow, a gray figure slowly arose and held up a hand.

"Monty," old McDevitt whispered. "Runker down! Let's hear what he has to say."

But Monty waved his father forward and Joe tagged along. Monty had been hiding behind a log. He gave Joe a long look, then pointed to something sprawled at his feet. It was a man. He lay on his face.

"Their lookout," whispered Monty. "I had him spotted. After the last bunch of cattle went by, I figured you'd be along. So I snuck up an' slapped him down with the bar'l of my rifle. They're wide open to us, Paw!"

Joe broke in, questioning Monty. "That last gang that you saw—wasn't Whisperin Johnson with 'em?"

"Yeah," Monty answered coolly.

"but he was ridin' straight up. Looked like he had thrown in with 'em. Surprise me some. For I had counted 'Whisperin' as a white man."

That made Joe burn with a white glow of rage. "Monty," he snapped out, "Whisperin' told me that he met up with you when you got away from Rogan's gang the other day."

"He sure did. My horse carried me into the brush. My hands was tied. Whisperin' showed up and untied me. Figurin' he was on our side, I showed him the trail down to this rustler's hideout!"

"Listen, you all," Joe snarled. "Whisperin' Johnson is square. They probably untied his hands so he could guide a horse down that bad trail. Legs, too. But they'll kill him the minute the first gun goes off. I know that Pecos Shay too well. Here's what happened to me an' Whisperin' since we talked to you." And briefly, because time pressed, he gave them the highlights of the Rawhide Gap fight, the flight from town, the stampede of the Hale beef herd. When he spoke of Jane Morgan, Monty McDevitt's eyes flashed, then became somber.

"They've stole half 'ay cattle," said old McDevitt. "They've raided all along the Antelope valley too. They've got some of Rogan's critters here wit' blotched brands, but I think that's just a cover-up for Rogan. How in Tophet can we clean 'em up without puttin' Whisperin in danger?"

Joe turned on Monty. "You know I kept Shay from shootin' you through the back. I don't know what looted ideas come into your head. But I'll take a gamble on tryin' to reach Whisperin."

Old McDevitt laughed shortly. "No chance."

Joe pointed to the hotted guard. "He's about my build. I'll change shirts with him. I'll walk over toward that 'unch of quakers where the corral is. They'll think it's one of their men comin'. I'll be close up before they know the difference."

"Would you jump 'em barehanded?" asked the old man.

"You hate the Munros. But you got to forget that hate for a minute. You're to loan me a gun and let me run this chance because Whisperin an' me saved your damn fool son from bein' hung."

Monty growled. "Why you callin' me a darn fool?"

"Any man," snapped Joe. "who'd turn down a girl like Jane Morgan is worse than that."

"She threw in with Pack Rogan."

"Yes. To find out who killed her father. She wants to know who killed Silvertip Morgan same as I aim to find out who killed my father."

Old McDevitt cocked his eyes in a peculiar way. "Are you sure," he asked drily, "that somebody killed your dad."

City's Benefits In Ownership Of Utilities Told

By WYATT BROWN The tangible benefits derived by the citizens of Greenville from their ownership of their own utilities were pointed out last night by Larry Brown of the Greenville Utilities Commission staff. In dollars and cents he reported $1,562,259.55 has been given to the city in outright money donations and service in the last 21 years.

The question raised by Mr. Brown was whether it was advisable to spend money faster than the utilities commission made it? He offered the record of benefits accruing to the ownership but left it up to the audience to answer the query.

It was brought out that electricity sold by the commission was the main source of revenue though sales of gas and water netted some income. The commission has the responsibility of the sanitary sewers which are non revenue producing and instead are an expense.

The utilities have netted a substantial profit for the last 20 to 25 years, Mr. Brown reported. Profits have continued to accrue in substantial sums even though a depreciation schedule in line with approved bookkeeping methods was started in 1941.

Disposition of these profits over the last 21 years used the major portion of the speaker's time. He told how each year cash goes to the city. For the last several years the check has been for $80,000. It has cost the commission $413,839.14 for installation of sanitary sewers. The fire alarm and traffic signal system ran to $13,003.69. Since the swimming pool was built in 1935 the water furnished by the commission has been worth $6,103.09. The library has received $3,513.63 from this source in the last nine years. From this comes the total of $1,562,259.55.

Next Mr. Brown explained that minor improvements from year to year are done with money from current earnings. Things like extending the sewer, putting in a water tap or extending the line, or connecting a new home to the electric lines. It takes a lot of money to provide these extensions and connections. He made the point that utilities have to grow before the city can grow. One cannot tell a new householder or business firm that they cannot get connected to utilities services until a new budget can provide the funds.

Thus having indicated financing of smaller items, he launched into the financing of major improvements by the utilities commission. Bonds are issued. The commission must look ahead. It takes careful study to determine the need. After the commission has decided some major improvement should be made, the board of aldermen are requested to hold a bond election. The bonds pledge the taxable property of the community. In event of default on such bonds the city hall nor the utilities can be sold to cover because they are not taxable property.

Mr. Brown gave as his suggestion that the state legislature be approached to pass a law to permit the pledging of the utility to secure bonds. He called this idea the practical solution for cities owning their own utilities.

Next a breakdown of the disposition of the gross income of the Utilities Commission over the last 21 years was presented. Of the gross income of $9,132,142.95 for the past 21 years 32 per cent has been used for additions to plant and equipment—$2,930,063.13. Cash services to the city represented 17 per cent or $1,562,259.55. The 49 per cent—and 32 per cent for additions plus 17 per cent given to the city—thus used left 51 per cent as having been used for materials, supplies, fuel and bond interest.

In concluding Mr. Brown posed again the query of which was better for a growing prosperous Greenville: spend as it is earned or spend faster than it is earned?

Guests of the club last night were all from Greenville except Ralph Mosso of Wilson. Other guests were Lyman Ormond, Jr., J. C. Lanier and D. H. Conley and Harper Darden. Visiting Rotarians were Leo Grutch of Graham and Leroy Rollins and Joe Rasberry of Farmville.

The Rotarians are to have dinner Wednesday at 6 o'clock at Camp Hardee as guests of the Girl Scout Council. Some Rotarians will go to camp as early as 3 p. m., but others will leave Greenville as late as 4:30 p. m. The program was presented by Rev. Leon Russell, chairman of the Program Committee. President Ercell Webb presided.

Veterans Center At High School

By CHESTER WALSH The Veterans' Advisee Center, in the basement of the Greenville High School, with J. Duke Haynie, vocational adviser in charge, will be of great service to veterans in Eastern Carolina taking vocational training under the GI Bill, June 8, Rose stated.

Heretofore, veterans who desired to change their vocational training under government supervision, have had to go to Veterans Administration headquarters in Winston-Salem for testing as to their talent and ability for the vocation to which they wished to change.

Establishing of the Greenville office for the Eastern Carolina region will provide great convenience for veterans who plan to change from one vocational training course to another field more suitable to their talents.

For instance, if a veteran is at college studying for a profession under the GI bill, and believes that he would be better off as a farmer, then he applies to the Veterans' Administration office at Winston-Salem and that office will make an appointment for the applicant at the nearest Veterans' Advisee and Guidance Center and so notify him. There he will be tested and appraised as to his talents and qualifications for the change to another field of vocational training.

Members of Vocational Adviser Haynie's staff are Gailther C. Frye of Greenville, James N. Smith of New Bern and Mrs. Gailther C. Frye of Greenville, appraisers and psychologists, and Miss Mattie Perkins, secretary.

June H. Rose, superintendent of Greenville schools and a former commander of the North Carolina Department of the American Legion, was instrumental in having the Veterans' Administration establish the regional Veterans' Advisee and Guidance Center in Greenville. Rose also arranged for providing office space.

Fear 45 Lost In Airliner's Crash

Paris, June 13 (AP)—Air France said today "it is feared that all hope is lost" for all but six of the 51 passengers and crew of a C-54 Sky-master plane that ditched into the Sea near Bahrain in the Persian Gulf last night.

Survivors include four men passengers, a radio operator and the chief pilot Jean Fladek who was seriously injured when the plane came down into the Sea three miles off the runway at Bahrain Island after it had already been given landing instructions.

The bodies of four men and two women—all still unidentified—were recovered by fishing boats. All missing are 39 persons, including one infant.

On a flight from Saigon to Paris, the plane was making a hop from Karachi, Pakistan, to Cairo, and had been scheduled to make a landing at Bahrain. The pilot radioed the airport for landing instructions 10 minutes before its scheduled arrival. After that nothing was heard from the plane.

Air and surface craft took part in the search for survivors. An Air France spokesman said here he believed a British Royal Air Force rescue unit at Bahrain had joined the search. U. S. Air Force officers in Cairo said the American Air-Sea rescue unit at Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, presumably would join the operations if this was requested.

Czech Permitted To Stay In U. S.

Washington, June 13 (AP)—The United States today gave Vladimir Houder, former Czech representative to the United Nations, permission to remain in this country.

The action was taken on grounds that Houdek might have to pay with his life if forced to return to Communist-run Czechoslovakia.

Houdek broke with the Czech government and resigned his UN post on May 16.

Houdek's case differed from that of other Soviet satellite diplomats who have been given asylum in this country.

Although breaking with his government, Houdek himself has not openly renounced Communism and U. S. immigration laws forbid admission of Communists.

However, there is also a section of the immigration laws which says no official of a foreign government may be forced to leave this country unless the secretary of State consents.

Acting under it, Secretary Acheson withheld consent for Houdek's deportation and so gave him permission to stay here.

The State Department threw safeguards around the action. In effect, it told Houdek that he may stay here so long as he is on good behavior.

Another UN . . .

(Continued from page one) couldn't alter the position materially. It is purely incidental as compared with the Soviet program of communizing the whole world.

All this naturally is confusing to the average citizen, and the question arises as to whether the U. N. should continue to try to operate under such conditions. The answer to this perhaps is that we never should stop trying to achieve what is right, even if the obstacles seem unsurmountable.

Heavy Penalties For Larceny Gas

In Police Court yesterday, Judge J.W.H. Roberts convicted three marines from the Cherry Point marine base of larceny of gasoline and imposed heavy sentences on them.

Donald C. Coven, larceny of gasoline, was fined $50 and his Chevrolet coupe was ordered confiscated and to be sold for the state.

Ennis J. Chouvin, larceny of gasoline, three months on the roads and $50.

All applications for attendance at the annual 4-H boys' and girls' camp this year should be made by Monday, June 19. The camp will be held at Fisher's Landing near New Bern during the week of June 26 to July 1.

C. J. Goodman, assistant county agent in Pitt, stated yesterday a full camp is expected, hence the early date for accepting applications.

Camp personnel this year will consist of Goodman; Marjorie Shearin, assistant home agent; Ann Parker, assistant home agent; and W. G. Kelley, Extension Department forester.

Classes during the one week outing will include swimming, forestry, first aid and handicraft. Recreational programs are scheduled each day, including a day spent at Morehead City and Atlantic Beach.

Fifth Street, signed for their regulation wheels and axles at White Chevrolet Company. Log Market Raleigh, June 13 (AP)—(NCDA)—Log prices steady to slightly weaker. Tops of $19 at Tarboro, Robersonville, Kinston; $18.75 at Goldsboro, Washington, Greenville and Rocky Mount; $19.50 at Richmond.

Rent Control . . . (Continued From Page One) sued a report to the full committee suggesting controls be kept. It said: "after careful study of all the testimony your committee has concluded that the housing shortage growing out of the dislocations of world war II is still acute in so many communities throughout the nation as to constitute a national emergency requiring the continuation of federal rent control for a further limited period. . . .

"By the middle of 1950 only 249 incorporated localities had exercised their right to decontrol themselves, under the present law which ends June 30.) Well over 3,000 incorporated places have not chosen to decontrol themselves and then remained under federal control.

It is generally assumed that rent control is needed only in the large cities, yet rent control boards in over 500 communities under 25,000 population recently advised the expediter (b-s of the rent control program) that housing shortages still existed in their communities and urged him not to decontrol their areas."
