Economists Say Doubled Income Prospects Good

Business Organization Says Worker's Buying Power Continues To Rise

Washington, June 14—(AP)—The Committee for Economic Development (CED) said today that prospects are good for a doubling of the real income, or buying power, of the average American worker in the next 30 years.

To do so, the businessmen's planning organization said, ways must be found to keep production per man-hour rising at the same average rate as in the past half-century.

The CED offered a formula for boosting real wages to $2.66 an hour in 1980, in terms of 1949 prices, as against the average worker's $1.33 today and the average of 43 cents 30 years ago.

Stimulating industrial growth to avoid blighting recessions, increasing imports, and reforming the tax system to encourage risk-taking investment, were among the recommended measures.

"Success in raising real wages is in the main a matter of increasing output per man-hour," said the statement prepared by CED's research and policy committee and issued by the CED chairman, Marion B. Folsom, treasurer and director of the Eastman Kodak Company.

"It is also a matter of keeping people steadily at work. The three-fold increase in the buying power of the average worker since 1900 has been built on a gain in productivity of two and one-half per cent a year. The output per man per hour has risen from 50.0 cents to about $1.83, in dollars of 1949 buying power, the statement said.

"Future advances will not be rapid," CED said, "unless we have many important scientific discoveries, good management in industry, and wise public policies."

It found that the outlook for "rapid technological progress is good" in view of a nine-fold increase in industrial research in the last decade. Workers are becoming better trained and more able each year, it stated, and the prospects are bright for improvement of management.

While it seems likely also that at least 10 per cent of net output will be saved in the past, the investment of these savings of capital in risk-taking enterprises is "less assured, and a more serious problem for public policy," the committee said.

Bus Strike Set For Los Angeles

Los Angeles, June 14—(AP)—Some 200,000 Shriners have to hoof it around this city of 452 square miles unless a threatened strike against Los Angeles Transit Lines is averted.

Negotiations between the company and the AFL Transportation Union are deadlocked and a strike is set for midnight Thursday. The Shriners begin their week-long convention Monday and there aren't enough taxis to accommodate them all.

Babies May Have Circus Careers

Los Angeles, June 14—(AP)—The only Siamese twins joined at the head may become circus attractions next year. They were born a year ago.

The girls have separate brains and are normal in other respects. Doctors have decided that death would almost certainly result if surgical separation were attempted.

Socialism Put First

Disappointment Over British Labor Party's Edict Against Participation In Schuman Plan; They Want Nationalization Of Industry For All Partners

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Surprise and shocked concern, to put it mildly, have been caused in Western capitals by the action of Britain's ruling Labor (Socialist) Party in calling for that country to eschew further plans for European political and economic union until continental nations have adopted socialism.

This would, of course, put an ideological damper on concerted rehabilitation projects like the sensational French Schuman plan for the pooling of Western Europe's coal and steel. Indeed, this sweeping proposal for unprecedented cooperation, which has aroused so much hope and optimism among the Western powers, seems to be the immediate objective of the Socialist declaration.

The French Foreign Office, which is headed by Foreign Minister Schuman, expressed astonishment at this British declaration. American officials in Washington privately voiced sharp disappointment.

Naturally the British Socialist party doesn't speak officially for the Socialist government. But that's a half-splitting distinction, because the party is master of the government which it creates. Certainly it is difficult to believe that the action

Rent Control Bill Approved By House; Senate Action Required

Washington, June 14—(AP)—House passage of a rent control bill bounced it back to the senate today—and the threat of a new filibuster there.

Changes which were voted late yesterday by the house as it passed the bill 202 to 133 make it necessary for the senate to take another look, and Senator Cain (R-Wash) who led a filibuster last week before the senate passed the bill, indicated that he wants a good, long look.

He might want to start another filibuster which conceivably could prolong final action beyond June 30, when the present rent control act expires.

Cain told newsmen he is "studying the possibility of fighting the changes."

Industrial Output Nearing Record

May Production High, June Trend Near Boom Level

Washington, June 14—(AP)—Industrial production in May climbed within one per cent of the peacetime record set at the height of the 1948 boom, the Federal Reserve Board reported today.

It figured that June output should go even higher, if present trends are sustained, probably equalling the postwar peak of October and November 1948.

A preliminary estimate by the board, given to the Senate-House economic report committee, showed May production at 193 per cent of (meaning 93 per cent above) the 1935-39 monthly average.

That was two points higher than the board anticipated in an initial figure May 27, and it was indicated the biggest volume of industrial production since the 195 turnout of October-November, 1948.

The new estimate for May reflected a two per cent rise from April, and a 20 per cent recovery from the low mark (161) of last July, the through of the 1949 "recession."

Gains in May and early June were produced by a further upsurge in production of durable goods, plus a marked recovery in output of such minerals as iron ore and oil.

There also was a small gain in production of non-durable goods—notably textiles, paper, rubber and chemical products.

In the durable field, production of steel and of passenger cars was going strong at advanced levels.

Nine Airmen Die In Crash Of B-25

Middletown, Pa., June 14—(AP)—The Olmsted field air force base said today nine airmen were killed in the crash of a B-25 plane near Elkins, W. Va.

"We definitely confirmed that the plane involved is the one missing between here and Affitt Air Force base, Nebraska," the base said in a statement.

"All nine bodies have been recovered. All aboard were military personnel."

Vote To Remain In Church Council

Masannetta Springs, Va., June 14—(AP)—Southern Presbyterians voted yesterday to stay in the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America but they made it clear they weren't too happy there.

After agreeing to restrict debate on the controversial subject, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church, U. S., balloted 243 to 120 not to sever its membership with the council.

Long Strike For Paper Is Seen

New York, June 14—(AP)—Early morning shifts of AFL mechanical Union members refused a plan today to cross CIO picket lines at the New York World-Telegram and Sun, and both sides dug in for a long strike.

The American Newspaper Guild of the CIO walked out yesterday to enforce its contract demands for editorial and commercial workers.

The management was prepared to publish both yesterday and today, using a skeleton editorial staff of executives and non-Guildsmen. But it suspended publication when the AFL mechanical Union honored the Guild picket lines.

Big Population For Mecklenburg

Charlotte, June 14—(AP)—A preliminary census report today set Mecklenburg County's 1950 population at 196,163. In 1940 it was 131,826.

The census report observed that "from all indications Mecklenburg will be the leading county" in the state in population. Ten years ago Guilford county, containing Greensboro and High Point, was the state's most populous county. The 1950 Guilford figure has not been announced.

Order Man Held In Sunday Killing

A coroner's jury at an inquest at the courthouse last night in connection with the shotgun killing of Lester T. Payton, Negro farm worker, last Sunday, ordered William Gardner, colored, his assailant, held without bail for the Pitt County grand jury. Coroner Griffin H. Rouse presided.

Witnesses testified that William Gardner had made threats of "killing somebody"; that he and his wife, Mary Payton Gardner, were separated; that he went to her home Sunday and had an altercation with her; that Gardner left, saying he was "coming back."

Tobacco Crop In Pitt Described Best Ever Seen

Wheatbee, sales supervisor for the Greenville tobacco market.

Wheatbee made the statement as he released his second crop report of the 1950 season.

"The plants are healthy in appearance and are now beginning to take on a nice spread. With the coming of warmer weather the damage from cut worms has declined and the farmers already have the yearly menace of bud worms under control," the report stated.

Wheatbee said since his last crop report which was made on May 23, "weather conditions have continued to be just about perfect. Very little resetting has been necessary, and the plants, taking root from the very day of transplanting have continued a steady and uninterrupted growth."

He added that the effect of the weather conditions has meant a uniform stand of tobacco in the Greenville market area, and continues favorable weather for the next three weeks "will mean a crop which has not stopped growing from the very day that it was set out until maturity, and should produce in this section of the state a thin smoking crop which has become so desirable in world-wide tobacco trade."

In spite of the apparent plant shortage which seemed to be developing during the transplanting season, Wheatbee said, the weather conditions caused the plant beds to develop fully, and actually there were enough tobacco plants in the area to set out two crops.

Pitt Included In New Paving Bids

Scheduled To Get 1.31 Miles Of 211.82 Mile Project

Pitt County is scheduled to receive 1.31 miles of paving out of the total of 211.82 miles of work on which bids were called for yesterday by the state highway commission.

The commission called for bids on 31 projects, 18 of which were included under the $208,000,000 secondary road bond program.

The paving in Pitt County in the letting will consist of the surfacing of roads in Greenville. The project calls for the paving of East 14th Street from Highway NS 43 to Elm Street, and then along Elm Street from 14th Street to Fifth Street.

The only other counties adjacent to Pitt which were included in the 22 counties that had projects in the letting were Beaufort county which is to receive 28.58 miles of paving and Wilson county which will receive 0.3 miles of paving from the work specified in the bids called for yesterday. The bids for the projects are to be opened on June 27.

Milk Companies Publicly Call For Arbitration

Pittsburgh, June 14—(AP)—Sixty-eight struck milk companies carried their appeal for arbitration to the public today amid new violence in the six-day-old dairy workers strike which has shut off almost all deliveries in a seven county area.

The greater Pittsburgh Milk Dealers Association inserted ads in strike-area newspapers which list the issues and urged the AFL Dairy Workers Union to accept arbitration.

A carload of pickets escaped police after hurling a beer bottle into a second plate glass window of a dairy bar in suburban Knoxville. In Westmoreland county, in Southwestern Pennsylvania, fourteen milk strike pickets have been arrested. They were charged with contempt of a court order banning interference with dairy operations.

Relies On Force To Prevent War

Philadelphia, June 14—(AP)—Secretary of the Air Force Thomas K. Finletter told a graduating class today it can hope for a world without war only if America pursues a peace through power.

Finletter spoke at commencement exercises of the University of Pennsylvania.

For prevention of war, he said in his prepared speech, we need a force so strong, so capable of violent counter attack, as to deter any nation bent on breaking peace.

Economy Drive In Senate Falters; New Funds Added

Washington, June 14—(AP)—A proposed economy drive in the senate today to have backfired on its first test.

Reliable sources said that several million dollars had been tacked on to the funds previously voted by the house for the agriculture department.

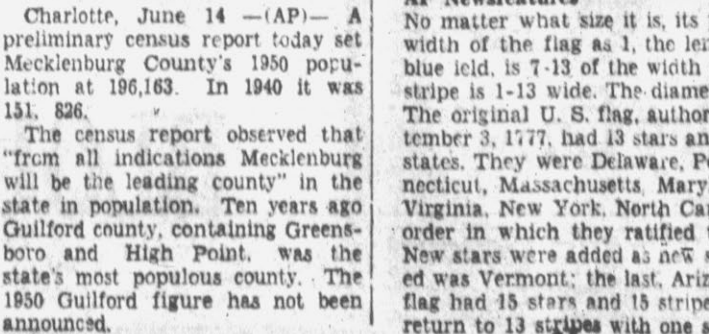

The increase was said to have been voted by the appropriations subcommittee headed by Senator Russell (D-Ga) but under an agreement among leaders of the "committee no reports are being made public now."

The house allowed $764,632,710 of new cash for the agriculture department but loans, customs receipts and other revenue sources would make a total of $1,432,000,000 available for the fiscal year that begins July 1.

Strawberry Production

Raleigh, N. C. June 14—(AP)—With harvesting almost complete, North Carolina's mid-spring strawberry production as of June 1 is estimated at 156,000 crates, it was reported today.

Three Warrants Against Farmer

Greenville police issued three warrants against J. D. Stocks, 23-year-old farmer of near Greenock, S. C.

One warrant charges him with the larceny of a Mercury automobile valued at $1,000 from the John Flanagan Buggy Company's used car lot at Fourth and Contentnea streets.

Police also charge Stocks with driving while drunk.

The third warrant charges possession and transporting of non-tax-paid whiskey.

This morning officers arrested Stocks at the airport. They recovered the stolen car and found a quantity of non-tax paid whiskey in it. He is in city jail.

Stocks will be tried in Police Court Friday morning.

Police said Stocks is alleged to have stolen the car from the Flanagan used car lot after he was permitted to drive it and try it out for a short time. If he liked the car, he was to go back and buy it. Flanagan officials said Stocks did not come back and the missing car was flashed on police and state highway patrol radio alarms yesterday.

Convicts Offer Eyes To Woman

Raleigh, June 14—(AP)—Two convicts at Central Prison here have offered an eye each that a blind woman may see.

They made their offer to help Mrs. Eddie Richardson of Cary in a letter to medical authorities at Duke University last Thursday, Warden Joe Crawford reported today.

Crawford identified the prisoners as William C. Ashe, 24, who was sentenced in Gaston county in 1948 to a life term for accessory to murder; and Bart Larkinson, 27, sentenced in Edgecombe in 1947 to five to eight years for attempted rape.

See Economical Power For N. C.

Washington, June 14—(AP)—Ben W. Grein, southeastern power administrator, said today it would be economical for the government to transmit power from the Buggs Island reservoir to several North Carolina cities.

In reply to a question from Willard Gatchell, attorney for the Federal Power Commission, he said, "it will be quite economical to transmit power to Greenville, Rocky Mount and Kinston."

ASK SUPPORT

Greensboro, June 14—(AP)—North Carolina's Piedmont industrialists were asked last night to support the proposed removal of Wake Forest College to Winston-Salem.

Wasp's Nest

Paris, June 14—(AP)—France's Socialist party today sharply criticized Britain's because of the Labor Party opposition to main proposals now being studied for economic and political unification of Europe.

What looked like the British Labor Party's split personality with regard to European unity and the Schuman plan apparently has stirred up a wasp's nest at home, on the European continent and in Europe for the government of Prime Minister Attlee.

Conservative newspapers said Attlee's followers have put socialism above European unity. The Times (Independent) had cautious praise for the government's position but called the party statement a "blundering and isolationist intervention."

Deadline Nears On Tax Discount

Tentative Budget For County Being Prepared By Auditor

All persons desiring a discount on their 1950 taxes were reminded today by the tax office of Pitt County to pay them through the month of June for a two percent discount.

The rate of discount decreases through July, August and September by one-half of one percent each month. Through October and November the rate of payment is figured at net. Beginning December 1 a one-half of one percent penalty is charged, increasing by that amount each succeeding month.

Meanwhile, Auditor Allen T. Powell announced today that all departments of the county have submitted their requested budgets for the fiscal year 1950-51. His office is busy at the present time recapping the individual budgets so the County Commissioners can approve or disapprove what parts they wish.

The tentative budget for the next year will be submitted to the Commissioners by July 1.

Total bonds and interest for the fiscal year beginning July 1 amount to $183,666, Powell reported. That figure breaks down into interest and commissions of the Debt Service Fund of $52,168, and maturely an outstanding bonds of $131,500.

Oppose Nominee For FTC Post As Unqualified

Washington, June 14—(AP)—Senators Byrd and Robertson today opposed the nomination of Martin A. Hutchinson of Virginia to be a member of the Federal Trade Commission. They contend Hutchinson is not qualified and that his appointment by President Truman was political.

The two Virginia Democratic senators said in a lengthy letter to the Senate Commerce Committee that they feel Hutchinson "lacks judicial temperament and exhibits a blind support of public policies merely because such are advocated by certain party leaders."

Byrd and Robertson expressed opinion that "Mr. Hutchinson's nomination is political and made for a definite and obvious political purpose," and added:

"This opinion was expressed by nearly every newspaper in Virginia that made comment when the nomination was first announced."

Warning System For Hurricane Area Is Set Up

Washington, June 14—(AP)—The weather bureau said today its hurricane warning system, which resumes operation Friday, will link 27 Atlantic and Gulf Coast cities by a special teletype hookup.

On the bureau's calendar, June 16 of each year marks the beginning of the storm season, although the big blows seldom come before July or August.

But I. R. Tannehill, chief of reports and forecasts, told a reporter "there've been earlier storms and we always want to be prepared."

The teletype circuit is used for assembling information on storm, and passing it along. The number of cities on the wire has been increased gradually since it went into operation a few years ago.

The Basing Point Bill

Friday Deadline For Presidential Action On Measure; What It Entails; Friends Of The Bill Say It Would Clear Up Questions On Regulation; Foes See Danger

By JAMES MARL W

Washington, June 14—(AP)—Friday is the deadline for President Truman to sign into law—or veto—the so-called "Basing Point" bill which Congress passed a couple of weeks ago.

If he does nothing, it becomes law anyway.

Some big business outfits want it to become law. A number of small business organizations want Mr. Truman to veto it; yesterday 11 members of Congress called on him to do just that.

They said it would create monopolies, help choke business competition, favor national chain stores and so hurt small businesses, and bring higher prices.

Friends of the bill, and they were in the majority in Congress, see it otherwise. They say it would help business by clearing up for businessmen some questions about government regulations and taboos.

The problem, far too complex to be told in a story like this, will be given here in a very simplified outline. But remember: the government has laws controlling business to protect the public and save individual firms from unfair competition.

Russia Plans Huge Defense Spending

Acheson Reviews U. S. Handling Of Soviet Pressure

Claims American Responsibility To Find Solution Without Conflict

Dallas, Tex., June 14—(AP)—War is not inevitable, Secretary of State Dean Acheson said last night.

"It is our responsibility to find ways of solving our problems without resort to war and to exhaust every possibility in that effort," he said in a major foreign policy review. "This is what we intend to do."

Acheson charged that Russia is using its armed might and Communist plotting in other countries as a "poised bludgeon to intimidate the weak."

How to meet the challenge of Soviet pressure? "Well, there are several ways we could go about meeting these problems," he said.

One way would be to "pull down the blinds and sit in the parlor with a loaded shotgun, waiting. I think, however, that most of us have learned that isolationism is not a realistic course of action. It does not work and it is not cheap."

"The policy of appeasement of Soviet ambitions, which might conceivably be another course of action open to us x x x would encourage Soviet aggression. It would lead to a final struggle for survival in which both our moral position and our military position would have been seriously weakened."

"There is a third course of action which might be considered in earlier times and by another type of government and people than ours. That is, we should drop some atomic bombs on the Soviet Union. This course is sometimes called by the euphemistic phrase of 'preventive war.' All responsible men must agree that such a course is unthinkable for us."

"Fortunately, there is a fourth way of dealing with these problems, and that is to work on them in cooperation with other nations, and by means of peaceful negotiation to resolve our differences. This has been and is our policy."

More than 2,000 persons heard Acheson. The auditorium at Southern Methodist University was packed. The Civic Federation of Dallas and the Community Course of SMU sponsored the address.

More than 2,000 delegates applauded Stalin, attired in uniform and looking as usual, when he took a seat in a back row of the dais, along with Deputy Premier V. M. Molotov and other Politburo members who are also members of Parliament.

There was applause, too, when Zverev announced that the 18.5 per cent total for defense contrasted with more than 32.6 per cent in 1940 and 24 per cent in 1946.

Because of far-reaching wholesale and retail price reductions early this year, Zverev said that total 1950 revenues will be 432,000,000 rubles, a drop of 5,000,000,000 rubles from last year.

New Budget Sets Aside Nearly $20 Billions For Defense; Finance Minister Says It Represents A Decline; Charges Aggression By U. S., Britain

Moscow, June 14—(AP)—The Soviet Union has set aside the equivalent of $19,250,000,000—a figure based on the official value of the ruble—for defense this year.

Finance Minister Arseny G. Zverev announced the sum—18.5 per cent of the 1950 budget—to the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) at a joint meeting of its two houses last night. Prime Minister Stalin and many members of the foreign diplomatic corps were present.

President Truman asked Congress for $13,028,000,000 for U. S. defense in the fiscal year beginning July 1. His total budget was $42,439,000,000. Defense represents a 30.6 per cent slice of the budget. It does not include about $5,000,000,000 government expenses growing out of past wars.

(There is no easy standard to compare what the U. S. and Russian governments consider defense items. The Russian total estimated defense budget is 79,400,000,000 rubles. The official rate of exchange is four rubles to the dollar. Some experts value the ruble's purchasing power at about five cents, or 20 to the dollar. Since the Russians officially insist it is worth 25 cents, the defense appropriation figure is nominally $19,250,000,000, more than $6,000,000,000 above the U. S. figure.)

Zverev said the Russian figure represents a decline in military expenditures unless the prewar year of 1940.

Zverev also disclosed a drop in expected total revenues, first since the war. He revealed that the Russian financial surplus will be sharply cut.

With American Ambassador G. Kirk and British Minister Churchill in the audience, he charged that the U. S. is spending $42,439,000,000 for 1950, and that the sum is more than 100 per cent of the total U. S. budget.

More than 2,000 delegates applauded Stalin, attired in uniform and looking as usual, when he took a seat in a back row of the dais, along with Deputy Premier V. M. Molotov and other Politburo members who are also members of Parliament.

There was applause, too, when Zverev announced that the 18.5 per cent total for defense contrasted with more than 32.6 per cent in 1940 and 24 per cent in 1946.

Because of far-reaching wholesale and retail price reductions early this year, Zverev said that total 1950 revenues will be 432,000,000 rubles, a drop of 5,000,000,000 rubles from last year.

The present problem goes back to a set-up in the steel industry called the "multiple basing point" system. Independent mills as well as those in big corporations took part.

It worked in such a way that they didn't cut each other's throat by cutting prices to win customers. It went like this:

The mills in several cities—say Pittsburgh,

Pitt H D News

Belvoir H. D. Club—There were 18 members and two visitors present at the June meeting in the home of Mrs. R. M. Manning. Mrs. J. C. Parker was co-hostess.

Mrs. Ola Ray Clark, president, presided.

Timely remarks were made pertaining to flowers and vegetables by the garden leader, Mrs. J. T. Dupree.

We decided to have a booth at the county fair this year. A committee of three was appointed to work out ideas on "Child's Food for a Day"—topic for the booth.

Instead of having an August picnic as in former years, we decided we would like a meeting for a change. Pictures pertaining to family life will be shown. We plan to meet in the school auditorium.

Miss Jean Steele, home agent, gave a very interesting demonstration on "Freezing Foods." She discussed different types of containers to be used in freezing foods, selecting and preparing certain foods for freezing, filling and sealing containers and many other helpful things.

The hostesses served delicious refreshments during the social hour.—Mrs. C. D. Clark, reporter.

Stokes H. D. Club—A regular meeting of the Stokes H. D. club was held at the home of Mrs. Lydia Barnhill, Route 1, Stokes, June 5.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. E. A. Hawkins, after which The United Nations Hymn was sung.

Devotional was led by Mrs. Richard K. Barnhill.

It was decided to have a called meeting June 21 at the home of Mrs. Roebuck.

There were 16 members present. The president turned the meeting over to Miss Jean Steele, home demonstration agent. She gave the demonstration for the month, "Freezing Foods" which was very interesting and helpful to each of us.

After the hostess served delicious refreshments the meeting adjourned.

Pin Curl Permanent For Home Beauty Fans

ROD-TYPE PERMANENT . . . Section hair first, dampen it as you wind it.

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor
You can pincurl your way to a permanent wave these days—good news for girls who do not like to fuss about it with curlers and papers.

With a batch of special hairpins and a minimum of effort, a nice soft curl can be accomplished in a jiffy. The wave is achieved with a single pincurling, thereby eliminating many of the steps which go into the rod-type curls.

The girl who is awkward with curlers, but who is used to setting her hair in pincurls, probably will prefer this type wave. However, for the woman who'd like to experiment, this new home permanent wave package contains hair rods in addition to the hairpins and curling stick for facilitating putting up pin curls.

PIN-CURL METHOD . . . Twine hair over curling stick, pin snugly.

LONG MAY IT WAVE . . . Quick and easy pin-curl home permanent.

In the home experiment wave kit is a cream shampoo scented with blue grass, a curl cap and a special oil-spun lotion to help produce a soft, salon-type permanent wave.

The instruction booklet gives directions and hairstyles for users of either method.

It is good to note that the home permanent wave is becoming more simplified all the time. Pretty soon straight-haired lasses will be dunking their heads in a basin of solution, and coming up with curly locks. It is getting as simple as that.

Dramatic Soprano And Herbert Carter In Recital June 21

Robert Carter, pianist and faculty member at East Carolina Teachers College, and Marguerite Martiniell, young Italian-American dramatic soprano of Washington, D.C., will appear in a joint recital of music at the college Wednesday evening, June 21. The program, sponsored by the college department of music, will take place at 8:00 o'clock in the Austin auditorium.

Those attending the Annual Institute of the North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers on the East Carolina campus at that time have been invited to be special guests at the recital. The public is invited to attend.

Miss Martiniell, who will come to Greenville to appear in recital with Mr. Carter, is now a senior student of music at the American University, Washington, D.C. For the past four years she has studied music on a scholarship given by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney through the Washington Chapter of the National Letters and Arts Society. She is a soloist at present in one of the large Washington churches and has appeared recently in a number of private musicals in the Capitol City.

Smith And Graham Campaigns Step Up; Talks, Handshaking

Raleigh, N. C., June 14—(AP)—A call for North Carolinians to back his fight for "Real Southern Democracy" was made last night by Senatorial candidate Willis Smith.

Senator Frank Graham has his opponent in a June 24 runoff for the Democratic Senatorial nomination, was in Morganton for a stop on a three-day "Handshaking" tour in Western counties.

In stops at Statesville, Newton, Hickory, Taylorsville, and Lenoir before arriving in Morganton yesterday, the senator in informal talks with supporters, stressed these points:

Opposition to federal legislation to end segregation, to socialized medicine, and to the Brannan plan, and support for a voluntary good health program for the nation, for the "North Carolina method of settling racial problems," and the continuation and strengthening of the present farm support program.

Supporters of the two candidates will open tonight a series of speeches for them.

J. C. B. Ehringhaus, Jr., Raleigh lawyer and son of the late former Governor, will speak for Smith tonight on a radio broadcast.

D. Hiden Ramsey, Asheville newspaper executive, will appear with Graham tonight at a rally at Marion.

Hubert E. Oliver of Lexington, former Superior court judge and former chairman of the state board of elections, will make a radio address tonight in Graham's behalf.

Dr. Beverly Lake, Wake Forest College law professor, will speak for him Friday night, and L. P. McLendon, Greensboro lawyer and former state elections board chairman, will speak on June 21. These speeches will be broadcast.

On his Western tour, Graham's schedule called for visits to Shelby Forest City, Rutherfordton, Spindale, Columbus and Marion.

Smith, speaking on a statewide radio broadcast, said he decided to call for a runoff "after the people of North Carolina convinced me they had taken my fight upon their shoulders."

"They had decided to stand up and be counted," he said, "for Democracy—for Jeffersonian Democracy—for real Southern Democracy."

He delayed his decision on the runoff, he asserted, so he could study U. S. Supreme court ruling last week in segregation cases to determine if his calling for a second primary would create racial ill will.

He didn't make the call until people in all parts of the state assured him that North Carolinians, white and Negro, "were too intelligent to allow the efforts of a few people to cause the campaign to produce bad feelings between the races," Smith declared.

He said he would continue to support the principle of separate but equal facilities for the races and, where facilities are not equal, would "work to improve them."

A. counselor; Thurman Worthington, knight; Barbara Evans, maiden; Alice Waters, princess; Patricia Hoyle, lady-in-waiting; Moye Waters and George Hazelton, pages.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Winterville Missionary Baptist Church sponsored a beautiful candelight Girls' Auxiliary Coronation and Royal Ambassador Recognition Service, Sunday evening, May 28.

The program began with a hymn, "I'm A Child of the King," followed with the opening prayer by Mrs.

J. H. Mobley, Intermediate Girls' Auxiliary Counselor.

After introductory remarks by Mrs. R. E. Davenport, president of the Woman's Missionary Union, the boys and girls entered according to their advancement in the organization.

The members of both organizations were examined and charged by Mrs. E. G. Cole and Mrs. A. M. Mumford.

Thurman Worthington was dubbed a Knight. The climax of the service was the crowning of Queens Roselyn Waters, Ruby Lee MacArthur, and Betty Jean Mobley, and the placing of the star on the crowns of Honor Queens Doris Cole and Peggy Mobley.

The ushers were members of the Intermediate Girls' Auxiliary. Dan MacLawnhorn served as Herald. Appropriate music was rendered throughout the ceremony by Mrs. R. T. Cox, organist. Mrs. D. D. Hobgood is the young people's leader; Mr. E. G. Cole, pastor.

There Is Security Greater Than Weapons Of War

The ground breaking at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church yesterday marked the beginning of another large church building program for Greenville.

In these times when billions of dollars from the federal government are going in to weapons of war, and billions more are being sent to nations in other parts of the world to be used for the same purposes; nothing is more reassuring than to see the individual citizens turn their money to the work of God.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON, June 14—A case involving Communists and fellow-travelers' right to penetrate our innermost defenses is now proceeding to the Supreme Court. Although it surpasses in significance the McCarthy charges that State and other departments harbor enemies of our government, it has attracted scant attention.

A 1948 law, passed quietly by Congress at the request of the White House and the State Department as a maneuver in the "cold war" with Russia, gives the Commandant of the Coast Guard the right to deny licenses to ship radio operators, if he believes that they entertain disloyal or subversive principles.

Under certain circumstances, it is obvious that a wireless operator on an American merchant marine vessel could do more damage to the United States in wartime than any of the officials Senator McCarthy has pilloried.

If, for instance, this country were rushing atom bombs to England or any other ally, he could easily notify an enemy submarine of the vital nature of the cargo.

It is almost impossible for the captain of a ship, unfamiliar with radio, to keep this part of the crew under his control. He must depend on their ability and their loyalty.

DIFFERENCE—But the difference between the three men involved in the current litigation and Senator McCarthy's targets is that the former are not employees of the government. The ships on which they serve must comply with certain federal laws and regulations, but they themselves are working for private firms.

Thus the legal controversy gives rise to an even broader question. In time of total war, every factory, every railroad, every public utility and even the grocery store on the corner may become an integral part of the national defense structure. Disloyal employees in key assignments, if there were enough of them, could sabotage our war effort.

It seems to follow that none of us may work anywhere in a World War III unless we can prove our patriotism.

DENIED—In early 1949, former Coast Guard Commandant, Admiral Joseph F. Farley, denied the applications for radio operators' licenses of three New York sailors on the ground that, in his opinion, they did not qualify under the protective act passed by Congress to bring such men under federal screening.

The three applicants' responses to questioning did not satisfy Admiral Farley, although each gave different replies. The very fact of their contrasting answers suggests, in the official view, that somebody is seeking to make a test of the statute.

ADMITTED—Earl M. Gove Jr., for instance, admitted that he was a member of the Communist Party. George W. Sayre said that he had been a member of the Communist Party and the Young Communist League, but that he had dropped his membership. He admitted that he was "currently sympathetic with certain principles of the Communist Party."

Leonard Lazar declined to say whether he was or was not a member. He admitted that he was the "Lenin Lazar" named in a Daily Worker article as a member of the "Organizing Committee of the Maritime Committee for the Defense of the Twelve."

INJUNCTION—After his original refusal, Admiral Farley granted the three a review of his action by a board of Coast Guard officers. The applicants were represented, with right to cross-examine at the hearing, by the New York firm of Neuburger, Shapiro, Rabinowitz & Boudin.

When Admiral Farley stood by his earlier decision, the sailors brought action for an injunction against his ruling.

George Morris Fay, United States District Attorney for the District of Columbia, arguing the case for the United States, in the District Court here, maintained that the government must enjoy the right to protect itself in such vital operations.

Judge Bernice Matthews agreed with him, and dismissed the petition. It must now be heard by the U.S. District Court of Appeals here, and if Mr. Fay wins again, it will then proceed to the Supreme Court.

FORECAST—The hope of another Rooseveltian President now rests in 36-year-old Representative Franklin D. Jr., as a result of the California primaries, in the opinion of impartial national political observers at the Capital.

Governor Earl Warren's unexpected strength in the Democratic race, as well as James Roosevelt's poor showing in the Republican contest, appears to forecast a whopping Warren victory. It is also expected that Representative Richard M. Nixon, whose tenacity led to the exposure and conviction of Alger Hiss, will defeat Helen Gahagan Douglas, rump-carrying Fair Dealer, in the struggle for the U.S. Senate seat.

If it should be a Republican victory, you can give the Supreme Court an assist. Its unanimous decision vesting title to tidal lands and oil properties in the federal government will damage the Roosevelt-Douglas ticket. Such good friends of the White House as "Ed" Taft, George Lucey and Dan Kimball will probably vote Republican.

BALTIMORE, MD., DAILY RECORD: "We are inclined to believe that business executives may well consider going actively into politics themselves as a matter of self-preservation."

As long as no one in Washington seems to pay any attention to the growing depth of money-pile paper, this old fellow is probably unnecessarily disturbed."

SANTA FE, N.M., NEW MEXICAN: "The continuing growth of the Federal government and the vast power of the President in granting benefits to large groups of voters makes it possible for the President to perpetuate himself in office—not by meritorious service but by patronage and favor."

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Billie Carr of Greenville, a technician at Ridgeway's Optical Company, served in the WAC's during the war. While she was stationed in Tampa, Fla., she met an Army Air Force pilot named Raymond Balise who was awaiting overseas shipment from Drew Field.

Billie and Raymond dated for two weeks, and then Raymond was sent overseas. The two last saw each other the night before Easter Sunday, 1944. The next day Billie received two dozen red roses from Raymond, but never saw him again. He went overseas and she assumed that he was killed in action.

But Raymond wasn't killed. After the war he returned to his home Springfield, Mass., and went to work as an insurance adjuster. Raymond hadn't forgotten the two weeks with Billie at Drew Field. In fact, he had wanted to get in touch with her all of these six years, but had forgotten where she was from.

Then one day Raymond was talking to a friend up in Springfield who lives in Pinehurst, N.C.

He happened to mention his desire to get in touch with Billie. "I can't remember where she's from," he said, "but I do remember hearing her mention a town by the name of Rocky Mount."

The friend perked up. "We have a Rocky Mount in my state," he said. Raymond immediately notified the Charlotte Observer, since Charlotte is the largest city in the state. The Observer printed his plea, which was headlined: "Veteran Seeks to Locate Former WAC Corporal." The story was picked up by the Greensboro Daily News: "Veteran Sull Hunts WAC After Six Years."

As soon as the papers reached the subscribers Billie started receiving telephone calls. Several Greenville readers of the Charlotte and Greensboro papers called her attention to the story. Bob Campbell, who used to be Billie's neighbor on Eastern Street but now lives in Charlotte, read the stories in the Charlotte Observer, clipped it and sent it to Billie with a note: "This was in Friday's Observer. I thought you might be the popular lady."

Soon after receiving the news, Billie composed a wire to Raymond, telling him of her whereabouts. An exchange of letters followed, and two telephone calls (one for thirty minutes from Springfield).

The entire neighborhood got wind of Billie's reunion. In fact, they even heard that she was expecting a call from Raymond. When the call came the neighbors were on hand to hear the latest news. Several of the husbands had to wait for supper until the conversation ended.

When will Raymond and Billie see each other? So far, no definite plans have been made, but negotiations are still underway. While making a living as an insurance adjuster, Raymond spends quite a bit of time on the golf course. In fact, he was a professional golfer at 18. Wonder how he would like the Greenville course?

"Have you forgotten what he looks like?" I asked Billie.

"If so, she had a picture that he sent to remind her. Sending a picture was a good reminder that he's a very handsome man. And I thank Billie for the story."

county has a second primary for all three seats in the house of representatives and for a county commissioner. That plus the termination of Smith folks to "redeem" his home county (he lost it before by 59 votes) leads to prediction by several observers the Wake county vote may approach 20,000—compared with 22,000 out of a possible 30,000 or more in the first primary. The guessers may be as badly off on these estimates as they were the first time. (They could hardly be worse.) It is a fact that elimination of local races has focused interest on the senate and the issue can be more clearly drawn between the candidates.

SCARE?—Suggestion by Judge Henry Stevens that members of the grand jury (he was talking particularly to Cumberland county jurors) attend the polls and watch for illegal practices in voter hauling and soliciting may tend to reduce activity to some extent. Further suggestion in some counties that the tax collector use the registration lists for checking up on delinquent taxpayers may have effect of scaring some voters away. North Carolina long ago removed property or poll tax requirements for voting, but it is still against the law not to list property or poll for taxation. These efforts to frighten voters are not expected to have much effect. It is noteworthy that although the vote cast was biggest in history, there was less protest of irregularities last month than in any primary election for a long time. If North Carolinians don't vote next Saturday it will not be because they are mad or scared; it will be because they just don't care enough about the issues involved to take the trouble.

RUN-OFFS—Comparison of Forsyth and Wake counties point this situation. Forsyth had no very heated local contests the first time, has no second primary for local office. A close observer of conditions there forecasts a vote much smaller than the 18,000 cast in May—out of a possible 35,000. On the other hand, Wake

The Voice Of The People

Commissioner against that Commission vining this telephone company the authority to increase our telephone bills again. Much of the time my own telephone bill has been shockingly enormous. Add to the enormous telephone rate itself the highway robber's tax that is added thereto and then you get the whole that swallowed Jonah. O yes, this company wants to raise the wages of its employees. That was what it said before when it just yesterday, as it were, went up on our bills. Possibly it doesn't mind raising the wages of its employees if it can bleed its subscribers white to do it without losing any of the already enormous profits it has been enjoying now for all these years. Now, Gentlemen and Ladies, it's about time we let the North Carolina Utilities Commission know that we don't mean to countenance it's forever and a day giving such companies as have us by the throats the authority to just keep on probing more and more money out of us. We need our phones; but what are we going to eat, and how are people going to pay house rent, and buy clothes, if it takes all they make just to pay their telephone bills?

Sincerely,
W.T.C. BRIGGS

By ELMER ROESSNER

The old-time wholesaler is particularly in the grocery field, learning new tricks to meet the competition not only of chains but of the rapidly growing retailer-owned warehouses.

The wholesaler has plenty to think about when he hears, for example, that Independent Grocers' Alliance already has close to 10,000 affiliated retailers and is out to get 5,000 more. Not only does IGA cover a large part of the country, but a number of lusty young regional cooperatives are springing up. Take Associated Cooperative Grocers Co. which recently opened a modern warehouse in Worcester, Mass., to service over 100 member retailers and some 650 non-member grocers. Associated started in 1930 with just 37 members.

To compete, privately-owned wholesalers are trying to give retailers more merchandising services. Jobbers are beginning to practice "follow-through" to the consumer—something they never had to worry about in the old days. Here are follow-through techniques jobbers are increasingly using:

- 1—Sales training for retailers' clerks.
- 2—Cooperative newspaper advertising for retailers.
- 3—Procurement display of fixtures at or near cost.
- 4—Weekend specials with which to compete with the chain store leaders.
- 5—Advice on and systems for accountancy procedures.
- 6—Aid in modernization, including plans for store layouts, suggestions on purchasing equipment, even aid in financing renovations.

BUS RIDERS CAN NOW WATCH TELEVISION PROGRAMS

The bus companies are now testing a new device for capturing a larger share of the travel market. Buses operating between San Francisco and Los Angeles are now equipped with television sets mounted in front so every one can see but the driver. The sets bring in good reception for about 40 per cent of the trip, an official of the bus line reported. In Making Up A Business Budget, Start With A Forecast Of Volume

A survey of 45 major companies, by the National Association of Cost Accountants, indicates that a forecast of volume generally is the starting point in planning costs of manufacturing, selling, financing and administrative activities. The accountants report there are usually three kinds of budgets, long-range: based on a projection of volume for several years in advance, and concerned primarily with the direction of capital investment in facilities and equipment; fiscal budgets, forecasting the volume of sales and production for the fiscal year in order to coordinate activities of various departments of a company; individual department budgets, used to control divisional expenses.

Can Buy Your Requirements More Favorably On Yearly Basis

Can you get a better price for supplies, equipment or even merchandise for re-sale if you negotiate a price on the basis of your over-all yearly business? That's a technique recommended by the National Association of Purchasing Agents. Negotiating a price takes time and effort, but part of the salesman's call time can be used to lay the groundwork for purchasing experts advise their members. The buyer may have to do a little "selling" himself to convince the supplier his yearly business is attractive.

SELF-SERVICE DISPLAYS FOR HOT-WEATHER ITEMS

Self-service displays sell hot-weather items: drugs, toiletries, insect repellents, deodorants, etc. Stores who use this technique are finding customers buy more of such items if they browse among them. Most popular price line for summer toiletries is reported to be the dollar bracket.

CLOSET LIGHT: A complete one-piece closet-light unit that can be installed in a few minutes in a closet door, operates automatically by the action of the door on a push button. The cord is flat enough to go under the door and be plugged into a convenient existing outlet. (It's made by Syster Electric and Manufacturing Co., Woodside, L.I., New York.)

CHROMED RODS: A new type of chromed steel rod that can be bent, formed, or welded without damage to the chromed surface has been announced (by Kenmore Metals Corp., 380 Ninth St., Jersey City, N.J.).

BOAT: A lightweight, collapsible boat that can be packed on your back and opens for launching in one minute, is made of resin-impregnated duck cloth over a frame of hinged aluminum. (by the Portis Co., Box 18, Boston.)

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—Is the theory of the American melting pot wrong?

Dr. Rachel Davis-DuBois, a South Jersey Quaker who has pioneered in developing techniques for intercultural relations, believes it erred in one respect.

"The melting pot theory, as it was interpreted years ago," she said "meant that people coming here would cut themselves off from their cultural pasts."

"There was a pressure to think alike, do alike, and be alike. That would make our American culture thin indeed."

And what troubled Mrs. DuBois most was that children of minority groups grew up secretly or openly ashamed of the ways and customs of their parents. Thus this created tension at home and at school.

The answer? Mrs. DuBois felt it lay in creating a feeling of pride in the child for his own cultural background, and a feeling of respect for the differing cultures of others.

She got an opportunity to test her beliefs in action several years ago at P.S. 165, a public school in Upper West Manhattan attended by children of 48 different nationalities. It was a tension area, and the melting pot wasn't melting very well. After two years she was killed near the school, the aroused Parent-Teachers Association asked Dr. DuBois for help.

"I thought if I could just get the children to understand each other's background, the tension would be reduced," she said.

But how to do it? Preaching tolerance to children doesn't work any better than preaching it to grownups. Dr. DuBois' solution was "The Parranda."

"The Parranda in Puerto Rico," she explained, "is a kind of progressive party in which people go from one house to another."

She worked out a program under which a dozen or more children of varying nationalities were released from school once a week from noon until 3 o'clock. During this time they had lunch at the home of one parent and went on to dessert at the home of another. The first home might be Finnish or Puerto Rican. The second might be Irish or Jewish.

"In each home," she said, "the children sample the food, sing songs, engage in games and dances and learn about the customs of their host."

"A teacher goes along, but just as another participant. The kids think of it as a real party. No sermons against prejudice are made. They experience brotherhood—so there is no need for talking about it."

After each parranda the children report to their social study classes what they have learned. The parranda has proved so popular with both children and parents that Mrs. DuBois has another tenon area school.

Here in white a few students have written about the parranda in their own school papers: "We may do things differently but we do them for the same reasons."

"You thought at first you did not like them, but you found out differently after you met the people."

"We are more alike than different."

But Mrs. DuBois, a dark-eyed, graying woman of middle age, treasures most the tribute given her by a policeman stationed near

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — This is the polo season. Already some 1,884 cases of the dread disease—poliomyelitis — are recorded for the period from Jan. 1 through May 27. For the same period last year, when a record high of 42,375 cases was reported, the virus had attacked 1,619.

Despite this seeming head-start, however, a government expert says the picture looks better this year. Public and private forces already are preparing to fight against possible epidemics. In some 26 states special state polo planning committees have been set up. To promote even closer teamwork, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and the U.S. Children's Bureau have joined in the cooperative attack on the disease.

Dr. Clara Arrington, polio expert and physical therapy consultant of the U.S. Children's Bureau, tells me prospects for fighting against epidemics and for providing more adequate care of those stricken are better than last year, especially in states where these state polo plans are in effect.

"Some of the plans are very good—some not so active as we would like," she said. "We'd like to have more states cooperating for if the care of patients with polio is to be planned effectively, particularly when there is a great increase in the incidence of the disease, cooperation is necessary among agencies—state and local, public and private — that make poliomyelitis their direct concern."

"This cooperation, she said, can best be obtained through state committees. "Only through this plan can we have personnel and equipment available to insure good and complete care for children and adults with polio," she said.

A Public Health Service pamphlet says that at the start polio is often hard to distinguish from a severe cold, influenza or some of the diseases of childhood. Among early symptoms are fever, headache, vomiting, fretfulness, drowsiness, sometimes a sore throat. Stiffness and pain in the back and neck may give warning.

If there is polio in your community and your child shows these symptoms, he should be carefully watched and put to bed. Others, especially children, should be kept away from him. However, many illnesses of children start this way, so chances are good it is not polio. But, warns the pamphlet, call the doctor and ask his advice. If the child acts or looks "very sick" have the doctor come without delay. "The illness may not be poliomyelitis, but if it is the medical and nursing care he receives from the beginning may have a great bearing on how he comes through the illness," the pamphlet says.

GET READY

Writing in 1881, De Tocqueville said that two great nations of the world, the Russians and the Americans, seemed to be tending toward the same end. Both of them, he asserts, grew up almost unnoticed while the attention of mankind was directed elsewhere. They surpass all other nations in natural resources, and they are proceeding (he said one hundred nineteen years ago) with ease and celerity along a path to which no limit can be perceived.

Both these countries, he said, advanced by struggle—America against the obstacles of nature, the Russians against men. "The conquests of the Americans are therefore gained by the plowshare; those of the Russians by the sword. The American relies upon free enterprise to accomplish his purposes while the Russian centers all the authority of society in a single arm. The principal instrument of the American is liberty; of the Russian, servitude. There still is a difference and their courses are not the same; yet each of them seems marked out by the will of Heaven to sway the destiny of half the globe."

The warning to us is that if the world is to be divided between Russia and America, we had better prepare ourselves spiritually for our great responsibility.

Rural Electrification Delay Is In Federal Government

Rural electrification is something which is extremely important to the people who live in this section of the state, and something which the federal and state governments have been verbally pushing for many months.

With all the government talk, however, Pitt county is beginning to wish for a little more governmental action and less political promises on rural electrification.

More than 1,200 people in rural areas served by the power lines of the Greenville utilities commission have long been waiting for electricity to be made available to them. The local plant has been equipped with the capacity to serve these rural people with electric power. But since last December, the Greenville utilities has been waiting on the federal government's approval of a loan to begin work on the rural electrification project.

Private and municipal utilities have been under fire from state and national quarters for not affording power to rural people; but in the case of the rural people in the Pitt, Craven and Beaufort counties, the delay has been caused in the federal government.

It was just before Christmas that the Greenville application was approved by the state REA body and forwarded to Washington. Since that time the application has been well wrapped in government red tape.

It may be unwrapped in the very near future for political reasons, or perhaps simply because it has run the gauntlet. But in the meantime, the rural people who are awaiting electricity from the Greenville plant should bear in mind it is the government which is causing the delay—not the Greenville utilities.

A Symbol Of Man's Greatest Achievement

A street lined with American flags is something to stir the imagination of anyone. There are a lot of attitudes to be taken toward the familiar red, white and blue... but to countless millions it represents freedom and the hope of freedom.

Sometimes it appears foolish to attach such great significance to a mere flag until we remember it is not the tri-colored bit of cloth we honor, but the ideals for which it stands. Those ideals somehow become so intermingled with the flag that we confuse them, and that flag of our fathers takes added importance.

The heroism and sacrifice that our flag has inspired, together with the defeats and triumphs... the constant promise of life and hope which it extends to those who need such assurance; these things have made of our flag a truly great symbol of the things to which men aspire.

It is fitting that we should remember the blood that has been shed, the lives that have been given, the lives now dedicated and those yet to be dedicated to the preservation of all those things for which our

Fresh Fears Of Inflation Prompt Budget-Balancing

Washington, June 13—(P)—Fresh fears of inflation prompted bipartisan proposals today that Congress get busy on the job of balancing the budget.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) told a reporter he regards the threat of inflation caused by rises in wholesale prices as serious, but possibly not dangerous.

"It strengthens the case for reducing expenditures and balancing the cash budget—that's the best inflation brake," said Douglas, who agrees with the Truman administration on about everything but its monetary policies.

Senator Taft of Ohio, Chairman of the GOP policy committee, said in a separate interview that a vigorous drive is going to be made in the senate to cut appropriations back to the point of government revenue.

"We are adding steadily to the inflationary trend with a deficit that is running about half a billion dollars a month," he said.

Dr. ... suggested that the federal reserve board wait a month or two to see how the price trend progresses. If prices still are going up then, he said the board ought to sell securities in the open market to force government bonds down slightly.

... would hope that the treasury, on the other hand, wouldn't insist on supporting bond prices and would let them fall slightly," he said.

Light Docket In County Court At Tuesday Session

In Pitt County Recorder's Court Tuesday, Judge Dink James transferred the case of Thurman Henderson, charged with manufacturing non-tax-paid whiskey, to Superior Court.

Asa Earl Smith, possession of non-tax-paid whiskey, four months on the roads, suspended on payment of $50 and costs and his truck was ordered to be sold by the sheriff for the benefit of the state.

Driving drunk: Asa Earl Smith, four months on the roads, suspended on payment of $100 and costs and his license is to be suspended for a year.

Reckless driving: Richard Watkins, colored, pay $25 and license to be suspended for 15 days; Bryant Whitehurst, colored, pay $25 and lose license for 15 days; Guy Wilson Moore, not prosed; Ashley Briley, not prosed.

Abandonment: Homer McLawhorn, pay $50 now and keep up payments.

Non-support: Herbert L. Little, colored, pay $5 a month and more in the fall, October; Herman Tyson Jr., colored, pay $10 now; Perry Little, colored, continued.

Chinese Woman Plans Carry On Guerrilla Fight

Singapore—(P)—A 72-year-old Chinese woman, who led 1,000 volunteer soldiers in a last battle against the Japanese on Singapore in 1942 and won three war medals, wants to return to her native China to organize an underground movement against Mac Tse-Tung's Communists.

Tall, lean and bespectacled Madame Cheong Hoe, at that time 64, shouldered a rifle and headed the force which included her three sons and husband. Her sons fell in the battle.

Before Singapore surrendered she escaped across the mile-wide Johore Strait into Johore state, on the Malayan mainland. She joined the Dalforce guerrillas and at the risk of her life went round collecting money food and medical supplies for the underground fighters. The Japanese put out dragnets and finally caught her husband whom they killed.

RIVAL RED GROUPS CLASH IN PARIS

INFILTRATING A MEETING of 250 members of a Titoist organization in Paris, 100 pro-Russian Communists attempt to "work over" their rival group with a few chairs and whatever else comes to hand. The sortie ended with the Titoists ejecting the blood-smeared pro-Moscow Communists before the police arrived. Fourteen of the rioters were injured and ten others were taken into custody. ### Talk Expansion Atomic Program

Washington, June 13—(P)—A still larger expansion of the A-bomb and H-bomb program may be recommended by the Senate-house atomic committee.

This was indicated by lawmakers who reported that the subject had come up in a closed door meeting of the committee with members of the atomic energy commission.

One member predicted the committee would go along with any new request from the commission. He asked not to be quoted by name.

Senator McMahon (D-Conn) chairman of the committee, has said in public twice recently that he thought the nation ought to spend more of its defense money on atomic weapons.

The atomic program cost an estimated $2,000,000,000 to perfect the first bomb, and billions more have been spent since. Last year, after the announcement of the Russian atomic explosion, President Truman approved an accelerated atomic expansion program costing $300,000,000. Since that expansion go ahead, Mr. Truman has also directed continued work toward the more powerful hydrogen bomb.

Honolulu, June 14—(P)—A vast cloud of mysterious origin has blanketed 1,200,000 square miles of the Pacific. U. S. weather bureau meteorologist R. H. Simpson said yesterday it might last a day or week.

At Wake Island, 2,000 miles west of Hawaii, the cloud rose to 16,000 feet. At Hawaii, near the eastern limit, it had a 7,000 foot ceiling.

What caused it? Maybe wind-blown African desert sands, said Simpson. Or an explosive eruption down around New Guinea. Or—an atomic explosion.

"A concentration of ions in the air could result in such a condition," Simpson explained. Ions are electrified particles jarred loose when an atom is split.

The Eniwetok proving grounds, where new atomic tests are expected this summer, lie about 600 miles southwest of Wake.

Dairy Program In Puerto Rico

San Juan, Puerto Rico—(P)—Puerto Rico has set out to double the island's milk supply through a dairy cattle breeding program. High grade mainland dairy cattle are being bred with both the native and Asiatic Brahma cow resistant to tropical pests which gives large quantities of milk. The average milk yield per cow on the island now is less than half the mainland average, said Commissioner of agriculture Ramon Colon-Torres. But he expects the average yield to be doubled in the next 10 years, with an increase also in the number of producing cows.

MONEY NOT MISSED
Decatur, Ill.—(P)—Macon County Clerk Laurence Tangney doesn't subscribe to the theory that everybody is out to "make a fast buck." He holds hundreds of dollars in checks that citizens just haven't bothered to pick up. Most of them are for people who worked as judges or clerks in elections. The oldest is dated April 1932.

Six Americans Survived Crash

Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, June 14—(AP)—Six Americans, including one woman and a child, escaped death Sunday when their plane crashed in the steaming lion-infested jungle near the Somali border, according to weak radio signals for help.

Names of the passengers are unknown but a radio message from the downed plane yesterday said that all were alive.

Rescue parties in high-powered cars fought their way slowly through the rainy, roadless jungle in the wild lion and leopard country to try to reach them. Capt. Donald C. Collins of Los Angeles, Ethiopian Air Force pilot, dropped medicine and food at a spot where he believes he sighted plane wreckage.

The plane was piloted by K. L. Horton who managed to get the radio working after the crash.

The plane was a single-engine Norseman type chartered by the Rogers Ray Company, an American firm which transports supplies and personnel to the camp of the Sinclair Petroleum Company in distant Ogaden desert.

The plane left Mogadishu Somalia, Sunday morning. Nothing was heard from it until faint garbled radio messages were picked up by the camp, which relayed them to Addis Ababa, capital of this country.

Charge Negro With Assault Intent To Kill Willie Carr

Greenville police are holding under $500 bail Lewis Richardson, 28-year-old Negro, on the charge of assaulting with a deadly weapon (a shotgun) with intent to kill Willie Carr, 33-year-old Negro, late last Saturday night.

Carr is in a serious condition at Pitt General Hospital. The blast from the shotgun wounded Carr's right arm and right leg.

Detective Lieut. M. E. Corbett and Identification Specialist S. B. Dorsey made the arrest after Carr was taken to the hospital. They are continuing their investigation.

Who-Dun-It?

Taipei, June 14—(AP)—The Nationalist control Yuan wants to know what happened to $5,000,000 worth of pearls, diamonds and other precious jewels supposed to have been transferred from Shanghai to Formosa.

Neither the jewels, seized from the Japanese Puppet government, or the tank landing ship on which they were transported ever reached Formosa, the control Yuan charges.

It wants somebody in the central Trust Company of China arrested for graft, but did not name the person suspected.

Record Number At Reedy Branch Bible School

The third annual Daily Vacation Bible School conducted by the Reedy Branch Church swung into full swing Monday with a record attendance of 86 pupils attending the afternoon session.

The school opens in the afternoon instead of having morning sessions as most schools.

A commencement program is planned for Friday night at eight o'clock at which time the students will have a chance to show what they have learned in the past week. The program will be directed by Mrs. Russell Little.

Each student attending regularly will receive a certificate of attendance at the program and a short play will be given by students.

A breakdown of the attendance at the school the first day shows that the Adult class had a total of 19 in attendance, Junior class, 18, the nine to 12 year old class, 17, nine in the nursery, and 23 in the two younger classes.

The leaders of the classes are as follows: Class No. 1, Alma Averitt; Class No. 2, Mrs. McCoy Tripp; Class No. 3, Mrs. Elwood Davenport; Junior class Mrs. Charlie Davenport; and the Adult class, led by Mrs. Carrie Cannon.

Farm And Home Week Plans Set

Two national figures will highlight proceedings during the North Carolina Farm and Home Week in Raleigh July 31-August 3.

They are Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark, Treasurer of the United States, and Dean Rusk, Assistant Secretary for Far Eastern affairs, Department of State.

Both will speak to the gathering of farmers and their wives during the three day and night meeting on the State College campus.

Also on the program in a speaking capacity is Governor Scott who will address the gathering the night of August 2.

Heading up the program of events is Henry G. Shelton, president of the organization and state highway commissioner. Aiding him is Mrs. J. S. Gray.

The men and women will visit Governor and Mrs. Scott in the mansion in addition to making a tour of Duke University and the Morehead Planetarium in Chapel Hill.

Demonstrations on farm crops and related subjects will be conducted as will classes on crops, livestock and homemaking. Recreation will consist of contests and dances.

A feature of the program for the women will be a cotton style show conducted by Miss Elizabeth McGee, last years Maid of Cotton.

Reservations are now available for the meeting. Those wishing to reserve a room in one of the college dormitories should write Miss Maud Schaub, P.O. Box 5157, State College Station, Raleigh. Registration for the meetings will be at William

Million-Dollar Program Deal

Hollywood, June 14—(AP)—Radio's Ralph Edwards, an NBC star for 10 years, is taking his comedy quiz show "Truth Or Consequences" to CBS.

In a deal reportedly involving $1,000,000 a year, the Philip Morris Cigarette Co. bought both television and radio rights to the program from the Proctor and Gamble Co. Edwards will begin his CBS programs in September.

The quiz-master's other show, "This Is Your Life," already on CBS for Philip Morris, will end June 30 and be sold to another sponsor.

Soft Jap Treaty Nears Approval

London, June 14—(AP)—Diplomatic officials say that only formal approval now stands in the way for a British Commonwealth soft peace policy for Japan.

The policy is intended to induce Japan not to enter any alliance with Russia and Red China, they say. It was agreed on in detail at a 11-day conference of Commonwealth Governments here last month. It reverses the harsh punishment Japan talked of two years ago at a conference in Australia.

The program favors a peace treaty that would deny Japan an army, a secret police force, or secret blood-bond societies, but it would allow Japanese police to be armed. Japan would be confined to her main four islands, giving up prewar overseas possessions.

Japan would have her Sovereignty restored and would not have to pay reparations, under the Commonwealth plan.

Army Is Hunting Ex-GI Escapee Who's In Love

Munich, Germany, June 14—(AP)—Homer Cook, husky former GI boxer from Muskogee, Okla., whose love for a Fraulein landed him in a U. S. army jail here, was still at large today after his third break for freedom.

Hundreds of U. S. constabulary, military police and more than 1,000 German police manned road blocks and thrashed through forests around Munich throughout the night. They couldn't find the blond 26-year-old former soldier, who was to have gone on trial before an American military court next week on 16 charges. They include illegal entry into Germany, attempted armed robbery, resisting arrest, escaping jail—twice before—and posing as an American agent.

Ann Storer, the 23-year-old Fraulein for whom Cook stowed away in an army transport so he could get back to Germany, isn't sure about her love for him now. "Maybe it's true he's a bad man," she said.

Police found him hiding at home after he escaped from the Munich military stockade at nearby Dachau last April by picking a lock.

They put him back in jail. Several days later, he bent back the bars on his cell window and it took American and German police two days to find him. Tracking him down with a police dog to a freight yard in Munich.

Last night he was with a guarded work detail in a building which is surrounded by a stockade, an army spokesman said.

The soldier guard went out for three minutes to look for his replacement, who hadn't appeared. Cook vanished in that time. An army investigating board has been set up to find out how he did it.

States Righters To Fight Ruling

Montgomery, Ala., June 14—(AP)—A plan of attack against the U. S. Supreme Court's racial segregation ruling was the center of attention for an Alabama States Rights meeting here today.

All citizens who are alarmed over the ruling were invited to attend the meeting which is designed, says Editor Tom Abernethy of Talladega, to "chart a course for the preservation of Southern civilization."

In line with a plan adopted at a national States Rights meeting last month in Jackson, Miss., Abernethy said permanent States Rights organizations will be set up in each of Alabama's 67 counties to help in the campaign.

Abernethy's Alabama's States Rights chairman, called today's meeting after the U. S. Supreme Court ordered the University of Texas to admit a Negro student to its white law school and outlawed segregation on railroad dining cars and at the University of Oklahoma. The decisions are "a monstrous invasion of States Rights," Abernethy said.

Airline Objects To Cancellation

Miami, Fla., June 14—(AP)—A charter airline president says Gov. Luis Munoz Marin acted prematurely when he cancelled the contract between Puerto Rico and Westair Transport Company after one of its planes crashed into the Atlantic and killed 28 Puerto Rican farm laborers.

President J. H. Patterson of American Air Transport, which pioneered non-scheduled flights from Puerto Rico to the United States, said the contract cancellation was made without fair trial.

In a letter to Governor Munoz, Patterson said that "neither the government nor the Civil Aeronautics Administration had made any investigation of this accident when the contract was cancelled."

"It is the law of this country that a man is presumed innocent until he is found guilty," Patterson wrote. He emphasized that his airline had not flown to Puerto Rico for two years and he wrote in the "interest of fairness."

(Following the crash about 775 miles northeast of Miami June 6, Governor Munoz cancelled Westair's contract and asked scheduled airlines to carry 3,500 migratory farm workers to Miami.)

"From all appearances," Patterson wrote, "the crash was the result of a mechanical failure which could happen to any plane. It has happened to scheduled airlines any number of times."

Wilson Tobs Edge Locals 4-3 In Hard-Fought Game

Strausser Accounts For Triple And Double In Four Trips To Plate Against Rivals

By Bert Moyer

An unearned run in the fourth inning as the result of two errors and a walk provided the Wilson Tobs with their winning run margin as they edged a 4-3 win over the Greenville Robins here last night before 1,308 Ravid fans.

The Tobs had put across three runs in the second frame on two singles, a double, walk and an error to take the lead at 3-3 at this stage of the game and then in the fourth after Sam Berry had lined out to Shortstop Tepefino, Luke Tucker walked. Then Ray Parker laid down a perfect bunt and when first sacker Hallow dropped the ball, Parker was safe. Irv Dickens forced Parker at second with Tucker advancing to third. Then Dickens and Tucker worked a successful steal when Catcher John Bakts dropped the ball, allowing Tucker to cross the plate.

The Robins jumped into a 2-0 lead in the first frame when they put across two runs. Paul Strausser led off with a double into right field, Tepefino walked. Joe Guidice sacrificed the runners around. Then on a wild pitch by Parker, Strausser raced home with Tepefino taking third. George Hallow then flew out to deep right field with Tepefino scoring on the out.

Greenville's other run came in the eighth frame when Tepefino walked, advanced to second on Guidice's infield out and came home on Hallow's double to right field. Lefty Ray Parker, whose record against the Robins this season was one win and one loss, went the route for the Tobs, doing a neat four-hit hurling job to gain his second win over the Robins this season. He now has a record of 6 wins and 5 losses in league competition.

Citation, Noor Weight Gap Is Cut For Event

Albany, Calif., June 14 (AP)—Citation, top money-winning horse of all time, today was assigned 128 pounds to 123 for his nemesis, Noor, in Saturday's $10,000 added 49er Handicap at Golden Gate Fields.

That five-pound difference narrowed the weight gap between the two considerably from the assignments at Santa Anita last winter, when Noor whipped Mr. Money Bags twice.

In the Santa Anita Handicap, the Calumet Farm champion had to give Noor a 22-pound advantage—132 to 110. The C. S. Howard horse beat Citation a length and a quarter.

In the San Juan Capistrano Handicap, the difference was slashed to 13 pounds—117 to 130. Noor nipped Citation by a nose in that thriller.

Two More Boys Enter Soap Box Derby From City

Greenville's entries in the eastern North Carolina Soap Box Derby took place today with the announcement that two more local boys have registered for the event.

Graham Tucker, 13-year-old who lives at 806 E. Ninth Street and is a student at the Training School and Fred Haar, 14-year-old who lives at 606 E. Ninth Street and is a student at Greenville high school, entered the event yesterday.

The ten Greenville entries so far registered for the derby will be required to construct their own racers which will compete with those of other eastern North Carolina boys in the derby which will be held in Kinston on July 12. The winner of the Kinston derby will be given a free trip to Akron, Ohio where he will drive his racer in the National Soap Box Derby.

Industrial Loop Softball Season Gets Fast Start

Industrial League softball season began with a bang last night when Wagner-Waldrop Motor Company punted an 18-7 count on Bilbro Wholesale for the opening win of summer play.

The Motors team collected 16 hits off Garris, pitching for Bilbro, in the seven inning game. McLawhorn hit two homers to lead the winners' attack. Garrett and Mosier both got a triple apiece. Dees, playing third base for Bilbro, hit a homerun for his team. A double by Jones was the only other extra base hit Bilbro got.

Bilbro Wholesale 040 002 1-7 7 0

In the most exciting game of opening day play, Scott Motor Sales won a one-run decision from the Post Office, 3-2, in one inning of over time.

Scott got two runs in the third only to have the game tied up by the Post Office when it collected single runs in the fifth and sixth. Scott then took the game when it scored one run in the eighth after shutting out the Malmen in their half.

Ormond Wholesale won the third scrap of the evening when they clouted the ball a bit more than did National Carbon winning 12-8.

The Wholesalers collected 16 hits off Fred Edwards during the regulation seven inning tiff while the Carbon team was getting 10 hits off Riggins and Berry.

Ormond got four runs in both the second and sixth frames, plus singles in the first, third, fourth and seventh. The Carbon team got four runs in the last of the seventh but not enough for victory. They also scored two in the first and one each in the second and fifth.

Business Manager Russ Filley announced last night that Robert Montgomery, a limited service pitcher, who was purchased from the Mooresville Club of the N. C. State by the Robins, has been optioned to the Lambert Club of the Tobacco State League. Bruce Robins, a limited service outfielder, has been given his outright release by the Robins to make room for Francis Dempsey, the new outfielder.

Red Sox Well On Way To Title In 'Arnica League'

Boston, June 13 (AP)—If Boston's Red Sox don't win any other title this season they probably will succeed the New York Yankees as champions of the Arnica League.

The only regular who has not missed a game so far is Walt Drogo, the big first baseman who got his chance to play for the Sox only because of an injury to another player.

Big Walt has played in all 40 games since his emergency recall from Louisville because of an injury to Billy Goodman.

Goodman replaced Drogo last season after the big guy had trouble with American League pitching.

Good Attendance At Swim Pool

More than 2,557 persons were in attendance at the Greenville swimming pool last week, a report issued today by Cashier David Jones revealed.

The attendance was one of the largest in recent years, Jones reported.

On several days the attendance at the pool went near the 400 mark, but Saturday was the big day as 400 persons used the pool. The day was observed as Rural Youth day and all club members from the Pitt county 4-H clubs in the county were admitted free, as the guests of the city recreation committee.

The figures show only one day, that of last Sunday at which time the attendance went below 100. Only 74 paid admissions were recorded on that day.

Graziano Nears 160-Pound Limit

Greenwood Lake, N.Y., June 14 (AP)—Rocky Graziano, former middleweight king training here for his June 28 bout with current champion Jake Lamotta, is nearing the 160-pound limit.

That's what his handlers said after Rocky boxed three rounds yesterday—with Chief Red Arrow of Tulsa and one with Jackie Burke of Pittsburgh.

Sidelights—Greenville's loss to the Tobs was their fourth of the season as against three wins. It was the Robins ninth loss of the season by a one-run margin. . . It was certainly not Wilson's fault, or should credit be given to Pitcher Ray Parker, that the Robins didn't take last night's contest. The Robins were just unable to hit when hits would have meant an RBI. . . In the third frame Paul Strausser led off with a triple and died there as his teammates failed to get a ball out of the infield to bring the lad home. . . It also happened during several other frames during the contest. . . The Robins had six men stranded on the bases and the Tobs had seven. . . Wilson pulled the only double play of the contest. . . 0-0-0

Make your plans to be out at Guy Smith Stadium by 6:30 tonight and not only assure yourself of a good seat for tonight's doubleheader, but Johnny Price, the clown prince of baseball, will be there to amuse you with his antics, prior to the start of the twin bill at 7:00 o'clock. Man-ager Randy Heflin with an 8-3 record for a 2-1 record are slated to hurl in tonight's twin bill against the Kinston Eagles. . . 0-0-0

Boys' League Baseball

The Dodgers and Cards of the Boys' League battled to a nine-inning deadlock at 5-5 yesterday afternoon. Both clubs collected only three hits apiece in addition to five runs apiece.

Both scored four in the initial frame. The Cards picked up their extra run in the third and the Dodgers did the same in the fifth. Hudson of the Cards got the only extra hit for either team, knocking two singles in three trips.

The Pirates beat the Giants by a 9-6 score on Bobby Flye's nine-hit pitching job. Watson, Giant catcher, got the only extra base knock—a double—for his team. He added two singles to that for a perfect day at the plate.

Jordan, Buc first baseman, collected four runs for his team, the only man to score more than once. The Pirates got 12 hits off Haynes, Giant pitcher, in the seven inning game.

The Tigers beat the Indians 7-3 for their initial win of the young summer season. Edwards pitched two-hit ball for the Tigers, giving up a triple and a single for the Indians' only base knocks.

The Tigers scored in the second and third on lone runs, two in the fourth and three in the sixth. The Indians waited until the fifth for two runs, adding another in the sixth for their three tallies.

The Red Socks, playing ball reminiscent of their Boston namesakes, shellacked the Robins 14-1 for their first win of the summer. With the 14 runs the Socks got only 11 hits but errors and walks aided and abetted the scoring.

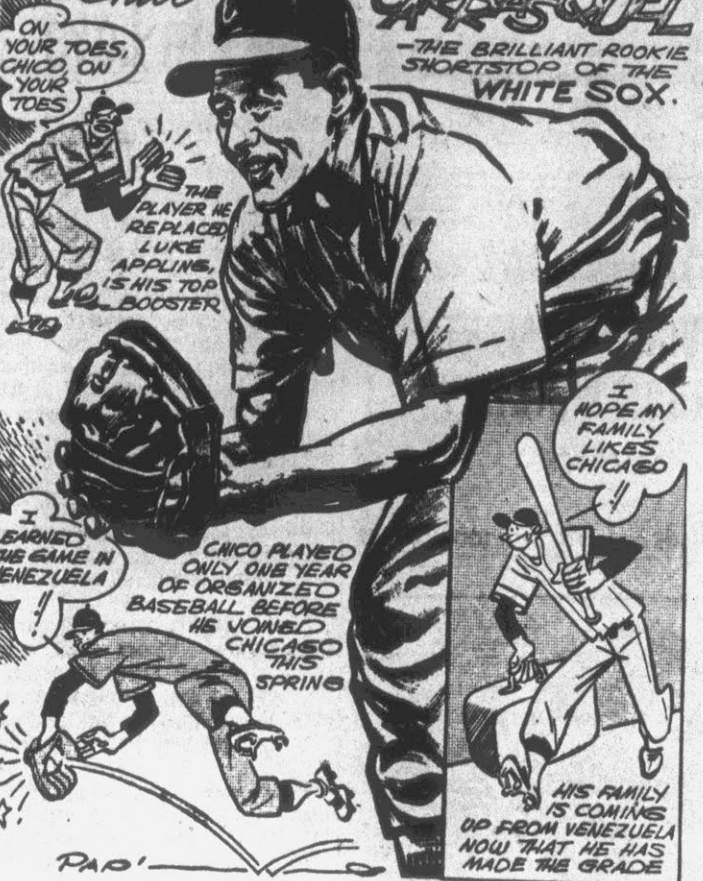

Pollard, on the mound for the Socks, set the Robins down with but three hits, one of them a double by McArthur, one apiece by Powell, Pollard and Strickland. Norris collected two doubles for the winners.

Miller was the only Robin to score, his run crossing in the fourth inning. The Socks got four in the first and second, three in the third and three more in the fifth.

Chico Clicks . . . . . by Pap

About the only thing the Chicago White Sox fans have had to cheer about this cheerless spring has been the brilliant play of Chico Carrasquel at shortstop. Chico has been sensational, and the Chicago fans are wild about him. White Sox fans have long been accustomed to the finest in shortstop play, Luke Appling having held forth in the berth for many, many years. All around the American League circuit the 22-year old Venezuelan rookie is being hailed as just about the finest bit of fielding machinery to come along in years.

It is no mean trick that Carrasquel has performed in stepping into Appling's shoes and making the Chicago fans love it. Chico is

Virginian Won Thrilling Pamlico Track Opening

Regland Willis, a Virginia stock car driver, won the 35-lap feature race in Sunday's opening day of Pamlico Race Track in Washington.

Willis, driving a 1949 Mercury, began the 10-car race in the outside position and overcame an early lead by Earl Lancaster, of Black Jack, to lead the field for the last five laps and win.

The race had to be stopped for a short while after the fourth lap so two of the drivers could repair their cars. The lapse arose when Hobo Woolard, of Washington, and Jennis Thomas, Negro driver from Wendell, collided on the north turn and had to remove their cars for the time being. Woolard was driving a 1939 Ford and Thomas a 1941 Packard.

After the 25th lap, only four cars remained, six having had either engine trouble or loss of parts. Lancaster was in the lead at that time but slipped on the north turn and Willis was able to pass him and remain ahead for the finish. Lancaster finished in second place and W. R. Beach, driving a 1941 Mercury, took third.

Willis placed second behind Lancaster in the 10-lap second heat. With four cars entered, Lancaster took the lead during the eighth lap when he passed both Beach and Willis after Beach had slipped on the north turn. Beach placed third. Thomas copped the first 10-lap heat during the time trials when he survived a challenging race from Beach. Thomas finally won the first event of the season.

There will be races at Pamlico Track each Sunday afternoon, beginning at two o'clock. Any stock car driver who wishes to enter any of the summer's races should contact Carlton Joyner at Joyner's Garage in Greenville.

One Of World's Largest Passenger Trains To Carry Regatta Spectators

Marietta, O., June 14 (AP)—One of the world's largest passenger trains—42 cars and two diesel engines—will carry spectators along the Ohio river Saturday for the International Rowing Association regatta.

Some 5,000 passengers will watch rowing crews from 13 colleges from the observation train, believed to be unique in the history of water sports.

The train, resembling a long black snake, will be composed of Gondola-type freight cars. In each car will be built-in wooden bleachers five tiers deep and seating 11 persons. The train was assembled by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Tickets for seats at $5 each sold out weeks ago. A ticket will entitle the rider to see the freshman, Jayvee and Varsity races. The train will return to the starting point after each race. Two engines—one at either end, will haul the train. The front engine will pull it towards the finish line and the rear engine will take it back to the start.

Norman Clark Is Hitting At .442

Farmville, June 13 — Outfielder Norm Clark is currently batting a sharp .442 to lead the Farmville semi-pro team's batting attack. Clark has been at bat 52 times, has got 23 hits and scored 15 runs for the tied-up leaders of the Bright Belt loop. His percentage is official through last Saturday's game.

Batting behind Clark in the percentage column is Buck Hardee, alternate catcher for the team, with .416. Hardee has batted 24 times, got 10 hits and scored three runs.

Batting third is Manager and catcher Willie Mauney with a .362 clip—20 hits and 20 runs out of 55 times up. Fourth: Regans with .328—24 hits, 12 runs, 73 times at bat; fifth: Sam Stell with .327—20 hits, 10 runs, 61 times up; sixth: Roger Thrift with .295—21 hits, 14 runs, 71 times up; and seventh: Lou Collier with .155—seven hits, 4 runs, 45 times.

Tonight Farmville meets Frontmont here in a single game under the lights at eight o'clock. Junior Yohn is the probable starter since he hasn't pitched since early last week.

Farmville slipped into a tie with Macclaffield as a result of last week-end's games. Farmville split a weekend doubleheader with Ormondsville while Macclaffield, which previously was the second-place team, was winning both ends of their games.

Musial And Kell Near Deadlock In Popularity Poll

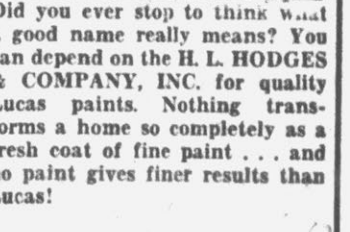

Chicago, June 14 (AP)—Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals and George Kell of the Detroit Tigers neared a deadlock today as most popular player in a national vote of fans in the All Star baseball poll.

The poll, to select starters for the annual game, July 11, in Chicago's Comiskey Park, opened Monday and will continue until midnight July 1.

Musial was 142 votes ahead of the Tigers neared a deadlock today as but the edge was trimmed to 35 today. Musial has a total 2,044 votes while Kell has 2,639.

SMOKY JOE

AP Newsfeature
By W. F. BRAGG

Chapter 26

Joe stared at him a long moment, recalling that this rough old hillman had been his father's bitter enemy for many years. McDevitt met Joe's gaze unblinkingly, eyes as clear and cruel as those of a butcher owl.

Then the old man turned to Monty and said, "Help him put on that fancy shirt."

When Joe was attired for his stroll toward possible death, McDevitt returned his gun. He didn't shake hands, but he said, "Best of luck. If shootin' starts, we'll call all bets off and come on the jump."

Joe stuck out his hand toward Monty. The boy grasped it. He smiled gamely. "I guess I was a fool," he whispered.

"It's me an' Whisperm's don't get back," Joe said, "give our regards to Jane. And have one of her good steaks on us. And if you meet a girl named Connie Hale—why, say hello to her for me."

"By Gawd," Monty burst out suddenly. "I'll side you."

"No," rasped his father. "No use more than one man makin' a fool outa himself." He grabbed Monty's right arm. "You stay hitched."

Under the watchful gaze of the McDevitts, Joe stepped into the open and started his stroll toward the rustlers' corral hidden in the bunch of quakers. He estimated the distance he must cover at long saddle gun range, about two hundred yards.

It was a warm evening but he felt as though he were wading naked through the ice cold waters of the nearby lake. The checker-board shirt and his slight resentment toward the man Monty had captured, were his sole defenses.

He came so suddenly upon the corral that for a moment he stopped dead in his tracks. It had been built cunningly of quaking asp poles and so well hidden in the grove that it could not be seen by riders above on the canyon rim. It was a four-pole affair and he saw, through the bars, a half-donned tired Bar Sixty-six cattle penned for brand burning.

A dusty man stepped around a corner of the corral. He trailed a rifle. "I saw you comin' in, Jack," he began. "You shoulda stayed out there. We ain't near finished—"

Then the rustler's jaw dropped and he sprang back. "You ain't Jack—"

But before he could yell or fire, Joe knocked him flat with the barrel of his six-gun. And as he lay on the ground, crowded against the side of the corral, he bent swiftly and hit him another blow on the head for good measure. Then he stepped hastily over the quivering body and eased around the corral corner.

The corral was a round affair. At the far end from Joe, four men were working along the bars of a chute into which a hawking steer had been crowded. Pecos Shay was handing a cherry-hot branding iron.

Whisperm's Johnson lay in the dust by the corral a few paces from where Joe stood. The old man's hands were tied to his belt but his legs were free. Joe stepped forward and thrust his toe against Whisperm's ribs. The old cowboy sat up hastily, blinked his eyes, then choked out a word that might have been a curse or an exclamation of thanks.

"Get around the corner of the corral," snapped Joe.

Whisperm scrambled up and ducked around the corral corner. One of the rustlers caught the furtive movement from the corner of his eye. He whipped around and dropped the long pole with which he had been prodding the reluctant steer in the short ribs.

"Pecos," he yelled. "Pecos—that Smoky Joe—"

It was Seb of the feghorn voice. That was his last yell. The rolling thunder of Joe's gun cut off Seb's yell on the top note. Seb smashed back against the side of the corral. His body rebounded, crumpled, flattened out in the dust.

Pecos Shay flung the hot branding iron straight toward Joe's face. Joe ducked, let the iron whirl past. He heard a groan from behind him as he sidestepped, throwing his gun forward for a shot at Shay.

Shay's two mates had jumped away from the corral into cover as Joe fired at Seb. Now they began shooting from the brush. A wild bullet, passing between the corral bars, knocked one of the steers kicking. The smoke rolled up and Joe saw Shay advancing toward him. As he steadied his gun, pandemonium broke loose outside the quaker patch. He heard the high long yell of old McDevitt.

Shay turned, barked an order. "Hit for cover!"

As Shay made a dash for the brush, Joe lunged down the side of the corral and brought him crashing to earth with a tackle around the knees.

Death camped that night in Lost Creek Canyon. Only Pecos Shay emerged alive from the cleanup which the McDevitt clan carried out with smoking guns.

They wished to hang Shay, but Joe stood them off temporarily, pointing out that he had captured the outlaw boss at the risk of his life. He hoped that Shay would talk, reveal the full scope of the plan to seize the cattle and grass and water of this western empire.

Shay defied them. He showed his teeth in a wolfish grin and refused to talk.

All night, scouts guarded the land-slide trail. While Joe and Monty, seized by the fire on which supper had been cooked, guarded Pecos and sought to force him to show his hand.

He talked about everything in the world excepting the death of Chris Ewen and the disappearance of Stormy Munro. He smiled and shook his head when Joe spoke of the derringer which had been slipped to him by Nevada Kate.

Even the sight of the spring blade knife which had been found in his overall pocket failed to break down his calm.

Shay wouldn't talk.

More Interested

Washington, June 14—(P)—Senator Myers (D-Pa.) is convinced that more people are interested in the workings of Congress than you might think.

In January, Myers made a radio talk—one of a series transcribed for the folk back home—on how a bill becomes a law. He traced the course of legislation from an idea in a lawmaker's mind to its being signed into law on the President's desk.

Since the talk was made, Myers says he has filled 10 requests for copies and they're still coming in.

Clothier Found Fault In Picture

Philadelphia, June 14—(P)—Samuel H. Daroff, Philadelphia Clothier, manufacturer, was presented with a portrait of himself for his work as president of the allied Jewish Appeal.

After the presentation ceremony the other day, Daroff's brother, Joe stepped up for a closer look at the work of art.

"Look at that," commented Joe. "They gave him a double breasted lapel on a single breasted suit."

Commission Set To Write Budget

Raleigh, N. C., June 14.—(AP)—Drafting of a budget for the 1951-52 biennium bill to be begun by the Medical Care Commission at a meeting here Friday. The budget will be submitted in the summer to the Advisory Budget Commission, which will make recommendations to the 1951 General Assembly.

Dr. John A. Ferrell, commission executive secretary, said the commission has a budget of about $117,000 a year to supervise the spending of about $15,000,000 a year in federal, state and local funds for hospital construction. He declared that at the end of this year, about $35,500,000 will have been spent on the state's hospital building program. The 34 projects expected to be in progress or completed by then, he said, include 47 local hospitals, 15 nurses homes, 15 health centers and seven state-owned hospitals. Of these, seven hospitals have been completed. The commission is also expected to act at Friday's meeting on the licensing of hospitals which have 50 or more beds.

Consumption Of Cotton Climbing

Washington, June 14.—(AP)—The Census Bureau reported today cotton consumption for the period of April 30 to May 27 averaged 36,441 bales for each working day. This compared with an average 36,899 bales for the corresponding period a year ago, and with 36,634 for the April 2-April 29 period this year.

DEATH NEGRO INFANT
Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse, investigating the death early today of Tasitay Joyner, 11-month-old daughter of Charles and Willie Earl Joyner, colored, at the home of its grandparents, Charles Parker and wife, said the child died of natural causes. The baby had whooping cough for a week and it appeared that pneumonia might have developed, Health Officer Dr. T. G. Basnight said. There will be no inquest.

These three fathers, with 11 children between them, are among the 400 World War II veterans graduating from the University of Rochester at Rochester, N. Y. On the campus with their families, left to right, are Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Delely of Seneca Falls, N. Y., with their seven-year-old twins, Donna and Terry, and one-year-old daughter Beverly in papa's arms; Mr. and Mrs. John F. Welter of Bayonne, N. J., with three-month-old daughter Mary in father's arms, and sons, Tommy, 3, John, 2, and daughter Catherine, 1; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Principe of Rochester with Barbara Ann, three months old, in dad's arms, and Mrs. Principe holding twin sons David and James, 3. Beside her is son Thomas, 4. (AP Wirephoto).

Social Security Bill Vote Is Set

Washington, June 14.—(AP)—Key Republican Senators today gave their backing to legislation extending the social security program to 10,000,000 more Americans and boosting the size of benefit payments. Their support virtually assured passage of the measure since administration Democrats are behind it although some of them want an even larger expansion of the program. An agreement was reached for a Senate vote at 3 p. m. (EST) next Tuesday.

Invites Key Men Give Testimony

Washington, June 14.—(AP)—Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) urged today that Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark and FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover be invited to testify at the Senate inquiry into the 1945 America case. "I think both men could contribute information which might help clear up this situation," Hickenlooper told reporters.

Durham Site

Chicago, June 14.—(AP)—The 1951 National Junior amateur golf championship, sponsored by the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be held in Durham, N. C. Announcement was made last night at the 30th annual Jayce business conference. Dates for the tournament will be announced later.

The Basing Point . . .

(Continued From Page One) though actually the steel came from the St. Louis mill and wasn't shipped from Chicago at all. The so-called basing point bill, if signed into law by Mr. Truman, will do a couple of things: 1. Permit businessmen to absorb freight costs if there's no collusion, or deal, among them to fix prices by absorbing the freight. 2. Let a firm meet the equally low price of a competitor if there was no conspiracy to fix prices by doing so and no attempt at monopoly. Foes of the bill say this means a full green light for the basing point system. Senator Douglas, Illinois Democrat, argues that firms could fix prices without agreeing to it around a table. How? Douglas says that, independently, each can use the same freight rate formula and wind up with the same price, thus avoiding cutthroat competition. Friends of the bill say it means no such thing, that it would prevent price-fixing and attempts at monopoly.

Fire Station Is Given Repairs, Coat Of Paint

The Greenville fire station after a period of nearly eight years going without a fresh coat of paint has been repainted in its entirety. The station which was constructed in 1939 has been painted with walls a light green and a trimming of dark green. The tile work which runs around the base of the rooms has been cleaned and varnished giving it a new appearance. Fire Chief George Gardner praised the Board of Aldermen for the fine job which has been completed on the station. The station over the last years had become dirty and dark because of the smoke from motors on the trucks. In addition to painting, repair work was carried on in the building before the painting was done. In the sleeping quarters of the men where the plaster on the walls had cracked and large pieces in the walls had fallen off, the plaster was replaced.

Firemen Answer Call To Eleventh Street

Greenville firemen answered an alarm this morning to the home of J. A. Bunting at 501 11th street. The call came in around 9:40. The fire which originated in the basement of the house was caused by a faulty heating plant. The only actual damage done to the house was from the smoke which filled the house, firemen reported.

than unless if it is inspired, like the cartel of the past, exclusively by the desire for private profit. Hence the demand for socialism in all the countries concerned and for public ownership, that is, nationalization.

That's the story as unfolded thus far, but it leaves one with the feeling that there is much left unsaid. Britain is an active member of other cooperative organizations formed in Western Europe since the war. She has been one of the leaders in formation of such outstanding combinations as the Atlantic Pact and the Western European Union.

Why then should she suddenly shy away from the steel and coal project which has held out so much promise for the strengthening of Western Europe? Pending further developments this brings us into the field of speculation.

It's a fair guess that John Bull is fearful on two scores: First, his steel and coal industries are among his greatest assets and the Schuman plan might hit him hard on the pocket-book. Further, the dollar-supplying dominions have a decided interest in the extent of Britain's surrender of sovereignty in any such cooperative project. And they may have shown uneasiness. In any event, the British Socialist party statement makes it clear that the leaders fear their welfare state program at home may be jeopardized by joining European mergers.
