Fear Inflation By Red Ink Spending

Senate-House Economic Committee Demands 'Relentless' Cuts; Democrats Fail To Endorse Truman Plea For Net Increase In Taxes

Washington, June 16 (AP)—Warning that there are dangers of inflation, the Senate-House Economic Committee has raised a demand for "relentless" cuts in the government's in-the-red spending.

The committee issued a report yesterday signed by its eight Democrats, while the six Republicans on the group presented a separate finding of their own.

Even the Democrats failed to endorse President Truman's plea for a net increase in taxes. They did ask for some excise tax cuts, and said also:

"In years of such booming business as currently is causing prices to boil up in an inflationary manner throughout the economy, this government should not be incurring deficits."

Mr. Truman asked last January for cuts in excise taxes, to be balanced by additional revenue from other sources—plus an additional billion dollars, mainly from higher corporation taxes, to help trim the federal deficit.

The congressional committee's report dealt with the President's annual economic message, which he also delivered to Congress in January.

Except possibly to boost the morale of the congressional economy bloc, the committee's report was expected to have little effect on legislation, for these reasons:

1. For the third straight year, the advisers of Congress on economic matters divided on strictly political lines.

2. The report was 3 1/2 months late; it was due on March 1. By this time it cannot say many votes.

3. The Democratic majority took no flat stand for or against any of Mr. Truman's specific proposals, though Chairman O'Mahoney said its report, "broadly speaking, endorses the objectives of the President's message."

Senator Tail, top-ranking GOP member, said Republicans could agree with most of the economic findings of the majority, but could not endorse a White House message "which is predominantly political."

The majority report—in paragraphs with which the Republicans did not quarrel—reported signs of a "renewed upsurge in the economy."

But it saw "underlying problems and weaknesses." Most economists are reserving judgement on the business outlook for 1951, it was noted, because a tapering-off in the automobile, steel and building industries is "highly probable."

The No. 1 principle which should guide economic legislation, the report said, is to aid in "expanding, encouraging and fostering private enterprise," as a source of jobs and income for a growing labor force.

Other perils were named. If farm income continues to fall, business and industry may suffer; small business is losing ground in the struggle for profits; rising price indexes may put a damper on consumer demand.

Basing Point Bill Is Vetoed Today By Pres. Truman

Claims Measure Would Obscure Existing Laws

Washington, June 16 (AP)—President Truman today vetoed the basing point bill—a measure that would have guaranteed individual businessmen the right to absorb freight charges and sell their products at uniform delivered prices.

In a message to the Senate, Mr. Truman said he was convinced the bill would "obscure, rather than clarify," existing laws relating to pricing practices.

It was the second controversial measure vetoed by the President in recent months. Both the disputed bills widely split Democratic ranks. The first was the Kerr natural gas bill which would have freed independent gas producers from federal regulation.

The basing point bill was intended to define the application of the Federal Trade Commission Act and the Clayton Anti-Trust Act to certain pricing practices.

The legislation would have permitted sellers to discriminate in prices to customers to meet competition in "good faith," and in the absence of conspiracy, collusion or fraudulent practice.

The measure, as it reached the White House, was worked out by a Senate-House conference from separate versions passed by both chambers. The conference report was adopted by the House March 14. The Senate sent it to the White House June 2 after several days of turbulent debate. Seldom has any bill provoked such direct contradictory views in the Senate.

Pasquotank Has Case Of Polio

Elizabeth City, June 16 (AP)—Pasquotank county has its first polio case since 1946, the victim being Garland White, 5-year old Negro boy whose illness has been diagnosed as infantile paralysis at a hospital in Portsmouth, Va., Dr. B. B. McGuire, district health officer announced today.

The child was taken ill on May 30 Dr. McGuire said and his illness definitely diagnosed as polio on June 2.

Another suspected case of polio has been sent to Duke hospital in Durham for diagnosis, the health officer said.

Reject Appeal For New Hearing

Raleigh, N.C., June 16 (AP)—The Utilities Commission has declined a rehearing for Colonial Bus Lines of Rocky Mount, which lost its operating rights on June 7.

The commission rejected the firm's request with a statement that "the order in question was justified."

The company's rights were revoked, the commission said, because it repeatedly ignored safety regulations and was "hopelessly insolvent." The line operated between Rocky Mount and Durham.

CASE NEAR END Washington, June 16 (AP)—Attorneys at the reopened hearing on a proposed Roanoke Rapids (N.C.) hydroelectric project before the power commission indicated that they may wind up their cases today.

Harriman Given White House Job

Special Assistant To President; Successor Named

Washington, June 16 (AP)—President Truman today appointed Ambassador W. Averell Harriman to a new job as special assistant to the President. His duties will be to help the President carry out the nation's broad international responsibilities.

Harriman is now United States special representative in Europe for the Economic Cooperation Administration, with the rank of ambassador.

To succeed him in that post the President nominated Milton Katz, of Massachusetts, now Harriman's assistant in Europe.

He, too, will have the rank of ambassador.

The White House said in a state ment: "The implementation of the decisions reached at the recent London meetings, and the integration of the various interests of the departments and agencies concerned with the development of government-wide policies related to our international responsibilities, require a large measure of presidential consideration and decision."

"The President believes that Mr. Harriman's long experience in international affairs will be of great value in helping him deal with these matters. Mr. Harriman will assume his new duties early in August."

Escape 'Artist' Is Caught Again

Raleigh, N.C., June 16 (AP)—One of North Carolina's "escaping" prisoners was on his way back to prison today.

The Prison Department reported that Gaither Manuel, 36, of Proximity, is being returned by a fugitive officer from Omaha, Neb., where he was arrested by a sheriff.

Manuel was sentenced in Gullford in 1941 to 15 to 20 years for attempted rape. He made his getaway from the Orange County Prison Camp Oct. 31, 1948—his seventh escape.

Oppose Relaxing Hatch Act Terms

Washington, June 16 (AP)—Strong opposition developed today against a bill to relax some of the provisions of the Hatch Act barring federal employees from partisan political activity.

Campaign Costs

Raleigh, N.C., June 16 (AP) Senatorial Candidate Willis Smith reported today that his first primary campaign expenses amounted to $11,969.95, and contributions to his campaign chest totaled $3,753.

Smith—in a final report on first primary finances filed with Secretary of State Thad Eure—said he had spent $3,816.63 and received contributions of $2,614 since he made his preliminary report prior to the first primary.

Postpones Lunch With Governors

President Acts To Avoid Political Tinge At Meeting

Washington, June 16 (AP)—In order to lessen any political tinge, President Truman has postponed until next Thursday a luncheon for Democratic Governors originally set for tomorrow.

The Democratic National committee disclosed the postponement today and said the purpose was to avoid any charge that the President was trying to influence the annual Governors conference politically.

The conference is to begin at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Sunday and lasts through Wednesday.

Mr. Truman's original plans were to have the Democratic Governors stop off on their way to the conference and have luncheon with him at the Mayflower hotel.

The President now will be host to the Democrats after the conference is over.

Talks Open June 26 For Conference Preparation

London, June 16 (AP)—British, American and French talks will open here June 26 to prepare for a September conference of foreign ministers on the future of Germany.

The French were reported to have suggested that the three powers make a special examination of the workings of the Ruhr Valley Authority, which controls production and distribution of coal and steel from the industrial valley.

Longshore Union Leader To Lose His Citizenship

Federal Court Grants Gov't Motion To Revoke Bridges' Citizenship

San Francisco, June 16 (AP)—Federal Court today granted the government's motion to revoke the citizenship of Harry Bridges, CIO Longshore leader.

Federal Judge George B. Harris issued the ruling. The government demanded that the naturalization of Bridges, Austrian-born, be revoked after he had been convicted of perjury recently.

The perjury conviction was based on a sworn statement in his 1945 citizenship hearing that "wasn't a Communist."

Bridges is under sentence to five years in prison. He has appealed. In his memorandum opinion Judge Harris wrote:

"Bridges stands before this court as a convicted felon. When a defendant is convicted, the presumption of innocence vanishes and a heavy presumption of guilt supplants it."

"Under the circumstances x x x he should not be privileged to retain the fruit of his 'loyalty.'"

"The court is satisfied that the opposition to the (government) motion is without merit."

Agree To Revise Medicinal Claims

Washington, June 16 (AP)—The government announced today that five big makers of anti-cold drugs have agreed to stop using allegedly "false and misleading" advertising to promote the sale of their products.

The Federal Trade Commission said the action results from FTC complaints charging the firms with violation of federal fair trade laws.

The five are Bristol-Myers Co., Anahist Co., Inc., and Whitehall Plulton Pharmaceutical Co., Inc., Montclair, N.J.; and the Grove Laboratories, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.

FTC's announcement said the companies have agreed to "discontinue representations concerning the effectiveness of their anti-cold preparations in the treatment of common colds."

The products involved are sold under the trade names of Resistab, Anahist, Kriptin, Inhiston and Antamine.

Add Workers To Graham Campaign

Jeff Johnson, state campaign chairman for Senator Frank Graham, today announced more Pitt County campaign workers:

Winterville—L. B. Hill, Vance Corey, C. O. Crawford, Jack McLawhorn, H. H. May, Ernest Averett, John R. Carrol, Vernon White, Clevis I. Hart.

Apden—J. R. Taylor, J. Dixie Cannon, C. V. Cannon, Dr. G. Grady Dixon, Richard Cannon, Mary E. Dixon, Dr. H. W. Gooding, R. Guy Jackson, W. O. Jolly, J. C. Jackson, L. L. Kirtrell, T. Stator Ross, Curby Smith, J. P. Summerell.

Another Arrest

Pasadena, Calif., June 16 (AP) The FBI announced today the arrest of Dr. Sidney Weinbaum, 52, California Institute of Technology scientist formerly with its jet-propulsion laboratory.

Richard E. Hood, head of the Los Angeles FBI office, said Weinbaum is charged with perjury and fraud against the government.

In a complaint filed with U. S. commissioner Howard V. Calverly, the government alleges that: "On or about Sept. 23, 1949 at Los Angeles, Sidney Weinbaum under oath before the Industrial Employment Review board willfully and fraudulently testified that he had never been a member of the Communist party, when in fact he had held membership in the Communist party professional unit No. 122, under the party name of Sydney Empson."

McCarthy Brings Up New Charges

Says Peurifoy Offered Services For Good Testimony

Washington, June 16 (AP)—A sharp new attack by Senator McCarthy raised a fresh storm today over the Amerasia case, apparently ending any chance that congress might soon rest its inquiry into the 1945 episode.

The Wisconsin Republican accused Deputy Undersecretary of State John Peurifoy last night of promising free legal advice and loyalty clearance to a defendant in the secret documents case, in return for favorable testimony on Capitol Hill.

Both Peurifoy and the Amerasia defendant, Emanuel Sigurd Larsen, immediately issued denials of McCarthy's charge.

Peurifoy declared further that he had been told McCarthy himself had hinted he would go easy on Larsen "if he were to testify x x x in a way satisfactory to Senator McCarthy."

Peurifoy said his information on this score came from Larsen.

The Wisconsin senator spoke last night before the National Editorial Association at Groton, Conn.

He said Larsen had arranged a "payoff" deal with Peurifoy preparatory to appearing before the Senate investigators in closed session last week. McCarthy quoted Larsen as saying to Peurifoy: "You needn't worry, John. I won't testify against John Service."

Service and Larsen were among six persons originally arrested in the Amerasia case. At that time, both were employed by the State.

Revive Hope For Senate Action On Excise Taxes

Washington, June 16 (AP)—Democratic leaders revived hope today for Senate action on excise tax cuts but Republican opposition cropped up against proposed increases in corporation taxes.

Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, told a reporter that if the house passes a bill on which it ways and means committee is reported near final agreement, he will seek for senate action on it.

The house group is said to be ready to act on a bill which would top an estimated $1,100,000 off levies on such things as furs, jewelry, luggage, movie admissions and travel tickets.

To make up in part for this, the ways and means members have lately been talking about a boost in corporation taxes which would net about $500,000 closing of loopholes might narrow the cap in revenue loss.

Chemist Accused Of Spying, Jailed

First Check For City Tax Office Received Today

First Payment For 1950 Taxes Is Six Days Later Than 1949 Payment

The Greenville city tax office this morning received its first check for payment of 1950 taxes from a Greenville property owner.

City Clerk J. O. Duval said the first payment of city taxes for 1950 came in six days later, comparatively, than the first payment for 1949 taxes. The first payment for the year's taxes last year was received by the city on June 10.

During the month of June the city offers a discount of two per cent on all the taxes paid for the current year. Last June the city collected $71,584.63 which marked the largest June collections in the city's history. Duval said the June collections usually averaged approximately $50,000. In July of last year the city tax collections dropped to approximately $3,000.

The city clerk explained that following the June collections when the two per cent discount is effective, collections remain small until the fall when tax tickets are mailed out. From September until Christmas there is a steady flow of tax money into the city office, but the big rush comes just before the first of the year when local citizens rush to pay their taxes before closing out the year's business. After February 1, a penalty is placed on unpaid city taxes.

Although a large number of tax bills already have been sent out in the city, Duval said he is not expecting many tax payments to come in until about the 20th of the month. From then through the end of the month he said he expects collections to be relatively heavy.

At a meeting earlier this month the board of aldermen set the tentative tax rate for the current year at $1.50 per $100 valuation—the same tax rate which the city had last year.

After July 1, there is a 1 1/2 per cent discount on the payment of city taxes, and in August and September there is a 1 per cent discount for the payment of city taxes. There is a one-half per cent discount for the payment of city taxes during October.

Boys Staters In Elections Today

Chapel Hill, N. C., June 16 (AP)—Boys' Staters put some of their newly acquired knowledge to work in 30 boys' spilt their ranks into the "federalist" and "nationalist" parties. Then they waged a hot campaign which was climaxed with "state" elections.

Since the first of the week the rising North Carolina High School seniors have been making an intensive study of governments.

Plan Continuing Five-Day Week

Raleigh, N. C., June 16 (AP)—Most state employees will continue to work a five-day week.

This was decided yesterday at a meeting of the state personnel council.

The council decided that the five-day schedule, which was put into effect last January on an experimental basis, had "worked out exceptionally well."

FBI Agents Arrest Alleged Link With Harry Gold; Said To Admit Giving Samples And Secrets For Transmission To Russia; Denies Being A Red

Syracuse, N. Y., June 16 (AP)—Alfred Dean Slack, 44-year-old Syracuse chemist, stood accused today of conspiring to supply Russian agents samples of a powerful U. S. explosive.

Slack, a native of Syracuse who claims he is "violently" opposed to Communism, was arrested last night by FBI agents on a charge of espionage. He was jailed at nearby Utica in $100,000 bail, pending transfer to Knoxville, Tenn.

New York, June 6 (AP)—A former U. S. army non-commissioned officer at Albuquerque, N. M., was arrested today by the FBI on a charge of giving atomic secrets to Harry Gold, Philadelphia chemist accused of passing atomic secrets to the Russians.

The FBI identified the arrested man as David Greenglass, 28, of New York City.

The 28-year-old painter from Chicago worked in the wartime years of 1943-44 at Kingsport, Tenn., where the explosive RDX was manufactured and later on the Manhattan atomic project at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The FBI said the bespectacled father of two boys had admitted giving samples and production secrets to Harry Gold, Philadelphia chemist awaiting trial on an espionage charge. Gold is alleged to have passed them to his Soviet principal, Semen M. Semenov.

Slack reportedly "admitted" he was innocent when interviewed by reporters.

No plea was permitted at his arraignment before U. S. Commissioner A. Van W. Hancock. He will enter his plea at Knoxville where the case will be presented to a federal grand jury.

Convicted on a charge of espionage in wartime classics of justice penalty of death.

A salesman for the Sundure Paint Corp., where Slack has been assistant superintendent for several months, pictured Slack as a "quiet conscientious worker" and said his "ideas seemed decidedly democratic." The salesman declined use of his name.

Slack said he never had been a Communist.

The FBI said he had given Gold information and samples while employed at the Holston Ordnance works in Kingsport.

Gold was arrested in Philadelphia May 23. He is accused of aiding Dr. Klaus Fuchs, convicted British atomic spy serving a 14-year prison term in England.

Slack attended Syracuse University for a year, and also attended Mechanics Institute at Rochester, N. Y., and Central City business institute here. He worked for Eastman Kodak at Rochester for about 16 years and then moved south.

He worked on acid production in Kingsport, he said.

He returned to Syracuse about three years ago.

He told reporters he had left at his jobs voluntarily.

"I am completely innocent of anything wrong," he asserted.

Attempted Rape Charged Farmer

Snow Hill, N.C., June 16 (AP)—A 39-year-old farmer has been charged with the attempted rape of the seven-year-old daughter of one of his tenants.

Wooten Hobbs, married and the father of three, was bound over to a Superior Court under $2,000 bond following a hearing before Justice of the Peace Raydoe Gay.

Jan Christiaan Smuts

His Illness Of Concern Not Only To His Native Land But To The British Empire And Commonwealth; His Background; Leadership In War And Peace; Popularity

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The grave illness of aged Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts at his home near Pretoria is a matter of deep concern not only to his native South Africa but to the British empire and commonwealth, for he has long been a pillar of strength in that great coalition of nations.

Indeed, this famous soldier-statesman has been more than that, for he has in the truest sense been a world citizen—one of the outstanding figures of history. He has played a leading role in some of the most striking international developments of our time.

The 80-year-old Smuts has suffered a collapse which has been followed by pneumonia. Should this illness mean that he must abandon politics altogether (as the doctors say may happen), it may easily create a fresh crisis for the British commonwealth.

It was the Field Marshal himself who in 1917 introduced the idea of the commonwealth, and he has been the chief link which has held South Africa in that union of nations. Many of its political opponents who now are in power want separation from England and the establishment of a republic.

Oppose Relaxing Hatch Act Terms

Washington, June 16 (AP)—Strong opposition developed today against a bill to relax some of the provisions of the Hatch Act barring federal employees from partisan political activity.

Broad-lines against the measure came from such diverse political figures as Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.) a southern Democrat, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) chairman of the Senate GOP policy committee, and Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.), a "fair dealer." Each has different reasons for his dislike of the bill.

Will Reveal SBI Report Saturday

Raleigh, N. C., June 16 (AP)—A report on charges against prison director J. B. Moore will not be made public until tomorrow, highway chairman Henry W. Jordan said today.

Jordan said he expected to receive a report from SBI director Walter Anderson this afternoon but that he plans to confer with Governor Scott tomorrow before making it public.

The SBI is investigating allegations that Moore used state materials and prison labor in constructing a garage-apartment at his home. Moore had denied the charges.

Battery 'C' Preparing For Guard Encampment

Members of Greenville's National Guard unit Battery "C" are now making preparations for their annual two week summer encampment at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, July 2-16.

Before summer camp time rolls around, Battery "C" is putting on a recruiting campaign in order to build the unit to full authorized strength. Men from 17-34 who are in good physical condition and of the good character may enlist in the Guard and receive all advantages offered by the Army unit.

Benefits to the recruits include pay for drills and summer camp, training, promotion, points for retirement, good food and recreation. Former servicemen of any branch, provided they are not drawing disability pay, can enlist and receive credit for their prior service for pay purposes, retirement, ratings and other benefits.

The local unit is equipped with tractor-drawn 155 mm. howitzers as its basic weapon. It also has other weapons and equipment that are used in connection with operation of a Field Artillery Battery. Members of the battery here receive practical training in the operation of various weapons and equipment, and as they progress become eligible for higher ratings. It is possible for qualified men to earn commissions by taking correspondence courses through the Army.

The local Battery is commanded by Captain James B. Tyndall and made an enviable record in all phases of training at summer camp last year. In order to maintain this record, Captain Tyndall said the Battery needs more men of the type already in the Guard. Anyone desiring to join the Guard may contact any member of the Battery or Captain Tyndall at the Armory.

Emphasis Is On Peace

Both The United States And Russia Are Arming And Calling For Peace At The Same Time; Importance Of The Word 'Peace' In Winning Support Of World

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 16 (AP)—The United States and Russia are arming to the teeth. Meanwhile, the leaders of both countries keep pounding away on the idea that all they want is peace.

The U. S. plans to spend $13,000,000,000 or so on its own armed forces next year. The Russians expect to spend even more on theirs, about $19,850,000,000.

The Russians must have been pounding harder on the word "peace" for now U. S. leaders are working busily on the word. This becomes clear when you add a few things together:

1. Yesterday Paul Hoffman, head of the Marshall Plan for Europe, told Congress that Moscow's so-called "peace" offensive has his officials worried.

The Russians, Hoffman said, are hammering on the word "every hour on the hour." And he said: "The thing that concerns us most is Moscow's peace drive. The real aim is the neutrality of Europe."

He meant that the Russian leaders by picturing themselves as peace-loving and the U. S. leaders as warmongers, hoped to win Europe away from U. S. leadership.

2. Last May, when Secretary of State Acheson met in Europe with the foreign ministers of our allies in the Atlantic Pact, he was told the U. S. leaders were letting the Russians run with the ball and not stressing "peace" enough when they spoke on foreign affairs.

Then look at what followed: May 31—Right after his return from Europe, Acheson addressed both houses of Congress. He used the word peace 15 times. He said the purpose of the meeting in Europe was "the same as the constant purpose of our foreign policy: the preservation of peace."

June—Two days later President Truman told a news conference the world is closer to peace now than at any time in the past five years. He didn't say why he thought so.

But his statement astonished the newsmen because only earlier that same day Mr. Truman sent a message to Congress, asking $1,300,000,000 to arm foreign countries.

In his message he told Congress the arms were needed as "part of our concerted effort to increase the strength of the free world in the

Bible School Of 2 Churches End

Two churches in the city today will have closing services for the Daily Vacation Bible Schools which have been conducted during the last week.

Closing exercises were held this morning at the Memorial Baptist Church at 9:00. A program consisting of songs, scripture and readings was attended by the parents of the children.

Mrs. R. E. Hardaway, one of the faculty members of the Baptist church Bible school, said that the estimated average attendance during the week at the school would approach the 100 mark. As yet the final records have not been tabulated and full reports made, she said.

Tonight at 7 o'clock the Bible school of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church will hold their final services.

The opening program will start at 7 o'clock with the parents touring the classrooms to observe the work which the children have completed during the two weeks of the Bible Schools.

The director of Christian Education at the church, Miss Rouse, stated that the unofficial daily average attendance at the school was about 140 pupils.

A planned program was carried out each day of the two-week school. At 7:30 the group will assemble for a program which will be devoted to songs, class work and a drama production by each of the departments.

At close of the program the parents will have an opportunity to visit the departments again.

Bethel Book Club Honors Miss Burton

Miss Marion Burton, past president of the Book Exchange club, was honored at a miscellaneous shower held in the dining room of the Bethel hotel on Monday afternoon at 4:30. Miss Burton will leave soon to begin duties as a foreign missionary in Montevideo, Uruguay. She was presented a collapsible umbrella filled with many useful gifts. After Miss Burton unwrapped her gifts a delicious sweet course was served to the following members present: Mrs. Linwood Briley, Mrs. Dennis Hardy, Mrs. J. R. Highsmith, Mrs. W. H. Rogerson, Mrs. L. L. Whitehurst, Mrs. R. R. Whitehurst, Miss Marion Burton, Mrs. Mack Rogerson, Miss Alvah Jackson, Mrs. L. G. Manning, and Miss Frances Warren.

Ruby Morgan Becomes Bride Of Richard H. Palmer On June Third

The marriage of Miss Ruby Morgan, daughter of Mrs. Kenneth Station 40 Richard H. Palmer, son of Mrs. E. E. Palmer of Montclair, New Jersey, took place Saturday afternoon, June 3, at 3 o'clock in the Free Will Baptist church with the Rev. Robert B. Crawford officiating. The church was decorated with white gladioli, evergreens and light-candles. Mrs. Ruth Taylor, organist of the church, played the wedding music and Mrs. Mimi Denton sang, "Because" and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told."

The bride was given in marriage by her step-father. She wore a white crepe afternoon dress with lace insertions and a matching hat with white brim. She carried a white prayer book with one purple orchid, and streamers with baby orchids.

Miss Virginia Morgan was her sister's maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a yellow marquisette dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Robert Seelye of Alexandria, Virginia, was best man, and the ushers were Thomas M. Sellers and W. Earl Morgan of Greenville.

The bride's mother wore a dress of navy with white accessories, with a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a dark blue and white print with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

After the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the bride at 208 Greene street.

The couple will make their home in Greenville.

Mrs. Robert P. Hanley of Albany, N. Y., sister of the bridegroom, was among the out-of-town guests.

Lone Survivor In Air Crash Wants To Be A Flier

Haifa, Israel—(AP)—Itzhak (Isaac) Allal, 13, the lone survivor of a big air crash in eastern Norway last November 20, wants to be a flier. The lad spends his idle moments making models of planes, automobiles and motorcycles.

The boy, son of immigrants from French Morocco, was one of 28 children and six adults aboard a big airliner carrying Jewish children to holiday camps in Norway last November.

Isaac is the son of Fortuna and Rachamin Allal. They have two other children. The father is a tailor. The family presently is housed at the Sha'ar Ha'Aliyah camp near Haifa. Later, the family is to get a house near Bat Yam, south of Tel Aviv.

Robbers Break Into Eppes School; Take Small Change, Tools

Officials at Eppes Negro High School have reported again to police that their vocational educational building had been broken into and robbed. This was the second break-in there. Police Chief Lester D. Page quoted Herman H. Foust, in charge of the vocational training department at the school, as saying that the robbers broke out a wire screen in the rear of the building on West Fifth Street. The nocturnal prowler also broke open a door to the ice box, took some cold drinks and several dollars in small change.

Robbers pillaged the place several weeks ago and carried away a bricklayer's spirit level, a trowel and other articles, a school official reported.

Police are continuing their investigation.

Four Streets, One Alley Wiped Out By Council

Asheville, N. C., June 16—(AP)—Four streets and two alleys disappeared here yesterday. But then only one of the six had ever existed at all.

The other five were just dotted lines on tax maps.

To help clear the title to property where a Negro housing project is to be built, city council adopted a resolution closing the six by-ways in the development area.

Only one of the streets—a portion of Wilbar avenue—had been built, paved and opened to traffic. City council was told the Negro housing authority owned the property on which the asphalt was laid, and the street was right where an apartment unit was to be built. So, in effect, housing spokesmen said, get the asphalt out.

SEE THE FIGHTING PEOPLE OF THE PHILIPPINES

Guerrillas Were Large Factor In Winning War

History records that at the end of World War II, the Filipino guerrillas were a most important factor in winning the war in the Far East. After the Japanese had successfully invaded the islands and all organized resistance had been destroyed, the Filipino people banded together in small groups and took to the hills and other hideouts. At every available opportunity they harassed the enemy and forced him to keep large numbers of troops busily engaged which otherwise could have been used to further the advance of conquest.

The perils which these dauntless people faced, the skill and dexterity with which they valiantly fought on against a ruthless enemy and the hardships that they endured in their fight for freedom, is vividly portrayed in the picture "OUTRAGES OF THE ORIENT" which comes to the State theatre for a limited run starting June 21.

Thrice-Escaped Ex-GI Is Caught Under The Bed

Munich, Germany, June 16—(AP)—Policed when he reentered Germany illegally to see her after a bad conduct discharge from the army.

"I want to marry..." he said after his first arrest.

"I missed her again," he muttered today as his captors led him away this morning from the apartment of her aunt.

Cook escaped from the library of the Dachau army stockade last Tuesday while a guard went to look for his relief. For three days he had eluded 3,000 German police and about 300 armed American MPs.

He said this morning he went first toward Nuernberg—100 miles south of here—but he refused to say how. Yesterday he was spotted in that area. Hundreds of police sped there.

Cook eluded them and made his way back to Munich and to Miss Sporrer's apartment. Only a few hours before he was caught, Miss Sporrer in a broadcast over radio Munich had urged him to surrender.

His recapture came as military and Garman police sought him in the ruins of one of Hitler's old ammunition dumps near Nuernberg, where he was seen yesterday. Throughout the night a sound truck there blared appeals for him to surrender.

Charged with entering occupied Germany illegally, resisting arrest, possessing firearms and impersonating a federal officer, Cook twice before had escaped from the army.

of government have become greater; and in accordance with this need, our political parties have evolved into a greater liberalism than their founders once deemed wise. This evolution of thinking has produced more and more government for the individual . . . a system which was denounced by Jefferson who believed that the least government was the best government. The march toward greater participation of a central government in the lives of individuals was to some degree necessary, but the "planners" are intent on carrying it to extremes. They are supported by those who hope to reap rewards for their servility and by those who believe bureaucrats know best. Spokesmen for the Democratic party proclaim there is room for differences of opinion within the party . . . voice it, and the fountainhead of the advance guard will alternately wax sarcastic and dismayed by such freedom of thought. They can fool some of the people some of the time; but for how long?

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
TYPES OF RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCE
The type of religious book most popular today is that which interprets Christianity as a mystical experience. True religion, we are told, consists in getting in tune with the infinite. It means becoming quiet and letting God speak to us. It means following guidance and thereby attaining prosperity, happiness, and success. This is a true interpretation of religion as far as it goes, but it is a one-sided interpretation. The Christian experience is a mystical experience but the Christian experience is also a belligerent experience. The Christian has a big fight on his hands with evil in all its forms. He cannot just lie back and let the spirit of rest and quietness overwhelm him. He sometimes finds himself in the midst of temptations so intense that he is lucky if he escapes by the skin of his teeth. He has to lash out and fight. He has to run away from evil. He has to do many things that are not included in the mystical experience. Let us try to have balance in our religion—mysticism where it is indicated and struggle and restraint where these are indicated. It takes all sorts of people to make the world and all sorts of experiences to make religion real to everybody.

Greenville Needs An Industrial Foundation

Greenville needs an industrial foundation of some sort. One has been proposed for the city, and we hope that plans for its formation are carried through.

Before the war Greenville had such an organization which was founded to bring a new industry into the city. It constructed the building now occupied by the hosiery mill; the mill came to Greenville and purchased the building, and the organization known as Greenville Industries, Inc., was dissolved.

A permanent organization which could work in conjunction with the chamber of commerce in seeking new industries for the city would be a great asset to Greenville. Many such foundations are in operation at the present time. Eight North Carolina towns have them—and they are not necessarily confined to the largest towns. An analysis of 70 such foundations in 26 states made by the Tulsa, Oklahoma chamber of commerce shows that 21 per cent of the industrial foundations are in towns of less than 5,000 people, and 26 per cent of the foundations are in cities from 5,000 to 25,000 population.

The capitalization of the foundations varies from $1,004 in Scranton, Pennsylvania to $1,200,000 in Wheeling, West Virginia. The help offered in securing new industries usually is of three types: (1) Buying, developing and selling industrial sites; (2) Buying or building plants for lease or sale; (3) Providing money for loans. Some foundations, however, own no property and construct no buildings. They just stand ready to aid in other ways new industries which seem interested in their cities.

An industrial foundation for Greenville could have one of the many forms which are being used throughout the country. It could have a large or small capitalization. But most important of all, the presence of such an industrial foundation in Greenville would mean another organization which is working to bring new industry to Greenville and Pitt county.

If Greenville is to continue to grow, we must bring in more establishments which will afford year-around employment for more of our people.

Time To Revolt Against The Planners

When men of socialistic leanings work their way into positions of leadership in a political organization, it is noteworthy that they will vehemently deny being "socialists" but their deeds betray them. They may claim the political heritage of a Jefferson, but the philosophies they themselves fashion would be foreign and unrecognizable by their alleged founder. Then, while boasting of an illustrious antecedent, his actual philosophy of government is derided . . . and those who would shepherd the straying lambs back to the fold of Jeffersonian thinking are denounced and assailed by the united forces of the "planners."

Lurking Fear Manifest In Today's World

The guarded apprehension felt by many people in this Atomic Age was demonstrated with the formation of a vast cloud which covered over a million square miles of the Pacific Ocean. Almost from the first, the possibilities of atomic origin were intimated. That it was later determined to be probably the aftermath of a volcanic eruption does not erase the specter of fear which was disclosed. That lurking fear is an evil thing that must be destroyed. Only untold harm could result if it is allowed to wax stronger on the tensions and uncertainties of the times. We still "have nothing to fear but fear itself."

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON, June 16—The current building boom admittedly underlies a great deal of the present prosperity, and experts look for it to last a few more years because of the high marriage figures and the "undoubling" of families forced to couple up during the war and in the early postwar years. But there are several catches in this pleasant picture which today begin to worry economists at Washington. They realize far more acutely than does the general public that the spurt in housing construction has been largely promoted and inspired by the federal government on the basis of cheap and long-term mortgages.

EQUITY—The Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans' Administration, through mortgage guarantees or straight loans, have underwritten approximately $20 billion of the $40 billion of mortgages on one-to-four family houses within the last few years. At the present swollen market values, these properties are now worth about $100 billion, so that the situation seems secure.

INTEREST—The original FHA Act provided for 20-year mortgages at an interest rate of 4 1/2 per cent. Under legislation enacted only a few weeks ago, the terms are now 30 years for repayment, and the interest figure is 4-4 1/4 per cent. Thus it begins to look as if the Administration and Congress will gradually ease the repayment provisions of its vast housing investment, lowering interest and extending the repayment period, as they have done for so many years on reclamation and other federally financed projects, including water power facilities.

BENEFICIARIES—Housing Administrator Franklin D. Richards recently submitted an encouraging report on operations to a real estate men's convention. On paper, government recapitulators have been relatively few, and losses are small. But it will take a staff of Controller General Lindsay C. Warren's smartest accountants to untangle and straighten out the statistics of the nine or ten government agencies which deal in real estate. Today for instance, the millions of home owners financed by Uncle Sam are fairly prosperous. In many instances the value of their property is increasing.

REPUBLICANS—A Republican friend reminds that senatorial politics will not be over when the Democrats complete nomination of a candidate next Saturday. Whether that nominee is Frank Graham or Willis Smith he will have to face Republican E. L. Gavin of Sanford in the fall campaign. Democrats have fallen into the habit, with a long record to justify it, of regarding Democratic nomination as equivalent to election. Republicans don't agree with that idea. Two years ago John Wilkinson put up a real scrap for the senate, and this year Gavin will fight just as hard, according to Republican predictions.

PAWNSHOP—One of Administrator Richards' several government real estate agencies is a peculiar institution known to the trade as "Fannie May," an irreverent abbreviation for the Federal National Mortgage Association. It is this office's records which suggest vividly that trouble may lie ahead for the Roosevelt-Truman dabble in real estate. "Fannie May" buys up all government mortgages which have gone sour. FHA then tries to hawk them, or it permits banks and other lenders to operate and service the mortgaged properties for a fee. In a sense, "Fannie May" is Administrator Richards' unprivate pawnshop, inasmuch as all these operations are financed by the taxpayers.

COMMITMENTS—Poor "Fannie May" hasn't been doing so well lately. She held, as of December 31, 1949 $228 million of the mortgages guaranteed by FHA and VA. There were 403 of FHA's properties and 425 of VA's. These are units which have been turned back to Uncle Sam for one reason or another. But that is not the whole story about "Fannie May." She has current commitments to buy another $24 million worth of property that will be unloaded on the government.

NORSE—Thus, of about $20 billion in mortgages

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Are you the type of person who's interested in the intelligence of pigeons? If not, you'd better skip this thing today, because it deals with the discovery that pigeons are right smart cookies. Scientists have always used animals to conduct experiments toward the end that they can better understand the behavior of human beings. Most experiments are conducted with rats, since it is believed that the behavior of rats is similar to that of people. B. F. Skinner of the Harvard Psychological Laboratories likes rats fine, but has switched to pigeons for one reason only: they live longer. A scientist can take a rat and send him to school for two years. About the time the rat gets smart enough to help, he drops dead of old age. Rats only live three years at the most, while pigeons sometimes live 15 years. Like rats, pigeons also act like people. Also, they have good color vision and aren't nearly as stupid as they act. Dr. Skinner has already taught his pigeons quite a few tricks. He put two pigeons in each of several cages, along with two buttons. When the buttons were pecked simultaneously a mechanism released a little grain. The pigeons learned the trick in record time. In another experiment Dr. Skinner soon discovered that pigeons have terrible tempers. He put two in a cage on opposite sides of a small table, which was placed at beak-level. A ping pong ball was placed on the table and the pigeons were urged to peck it back and forth. When one of the pigeons missed the ball his opponent was rewarded by grain that would fall automatically through a trough. The pigeons caught on to the game quickly; in fact, the competition became so keen that the pigeons would fly over the table at each other and attempt murder. To cope with this situation, Dr. Skinner put wire screens up to hold the pigeons at a safe distance from each other. In a five-hours period one of Dr. Skinner's pigeons pecked 38,000 times to get a quarter of an ounce of food. The professor explained, "This is similar to offering an incentive to a wage earner. A high output can be obtained with very little pay if the schedule of pay-off is right." Dr. Skinner taught some of his students to peck out a tune on a simplified piano, like "Take Me Out to the Ball Game." He discovered that some pigeons are superstitious. Some try making peculiar noises as a trick to get food. Professor Skinner's studies are still incomplete, but he thinks that he may eventually have some explanation as to why people act like people, because he can experiment with pigeons, who act like people. Just think of it. That man makes a good living playing with pigeons. And I thank you.

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.

SENATORS — A political historian pointed out the other day that North Carolina may have set some kind of record in having four United States senators from the eastern part of the state in less than two and a half years. Four years ago the senator was Josiah William Bailey. Upon his death in December of 1946 William B. Umstead was appointed. Umstead was defeated by J. M. Broughton in the 1948 primary, and Broughton took office early in December of that year, since his election was for both the unexpired Bailey term and a full term for himself. Three months later, on March 6, 1949, Senator Broughton died and two weeks thereafter Dr. Frank Graham was appointed and took the oath as senator. That made four senators—Bailey, Umstead, Broughton and Graham—in a little over two years. If Willis Smith should be nominated next Saturday he will be elected in November and eligible to take office early in December, bringing the number to five senators in less than four years. South Carolina had four governors during the North Carolina administration of Governor Gregg Cherry, but local political historians doubt if any other state can match our record of four senators for one seat in about two years.

LEADERSHIP — J. M. Baley, who succeeded the veteran Sim DeLapp as Republican state chairman, is new in his present position but is a seasoned campaigner for Republicanism. It is doubted that Mr. Baley or any Republican leader really thinks there is chance of success this fall, but to hear them talk and watch preparations for the campaign a stranger might well get the idea the Republicans were just on the point of taking over North Carolina.

BIRTHDAY — Maj. Gen. John Van B. Metts observed an anniversary Thursday. The day marked the beginning of his thirty-first year as adjutant general of North Carolina and commander of the national guard in the state. Despite a big bowl of red roses on his desk, gift of members of the office staff, and frequent interruptions by friends congratulating him, General Metts saw no parading reason for celebration. He was just going ahead doing his job.

REMINISCENT — One reason for the nonchalance is the fact thirty years isn't so long. Except for a period of less than two years when he took time out to establish an insurance business at Wilmington General Metts has been identified with the military continuously since he first enlisted in the Wilmington Light Infantry in January of 1914—more than 36 years ago. At prodding of a reporter he reminisced a bit originally underwritten by the government, a total of $1,552,000,000 is now on the auction block. There is more—and worse—to come. All the figures in this article are as of December 31, 1949. But I understand that resort to FHA and VA mortgage guarantees has shown a sensational increase in the first six months of 1950. Meanwhile, it is generally understood in real estate circles, the dumping of defaulted mortgages on sweet "Fannie May" threatens to sink her, if it were not for the Treasury-taxpayers' inexhaustible supply of hard-earned cash.

GOLDBEACH, OREGON, REPORTER: "During the last 100 years the per capita debt of the people of the United States has been multiplied 800 times in size. In the year 1850, the public debt was $2.77 per person. The Treasury Department reported in February this year that the debt now amounts to $1,008,000 for each man, woman and child in the United States. (About $6,800 for the average family)."

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
The rush of American tourists to Europe this year is costing American inn-keepers, hotel owners and landlords millions of dollars. They have one big comfort. European travel is at a ceiling. Travelers abroad this year may total anywhere between 300,000 and 400,000, well above the 1929 record. But next year and the year after, there just can't be any greater number. The reason: European hotels are chock full. As early in the season as May, Paris, London and Rome hotels were turning out Americans to sleep on the grass, if they could find grass. They were refusing applications for reservations by the score. Next month it will be worse. There are, of course, small hotels and pensions which can find room for more dollar-distributing travelers. But these pose difficulties for such travel agencies as American Express and others. American Express would find it unprofitable to call up each of some 3,000 pensions in Paris each day in search of one or two additional rooms for visiting Americans and, the French landlords being what they are, most would rather hold their spare rooms for old-time visitors from the provinces—or England—than to surrender them to American tourists. Further there is no major hotel building going on in Paris, Rome or London. The number of tourists these cities are accommodating is the top and there just isn't any more space. Transportation is another factor. A few additional ships and a considerable number of planes can be added, or diverted to, the trans-Atlantic trade. But the optimum would transport only a few score thousands more across the pond. These facts mean this for the prospective tourist this year: If you haven't got confirmed transport and hotel reservations abroad, you'd better resign yourself to Atlantic City or Uncle Pike's Farm this year. If you plan to go next year, you'd better book early. For the inn-keeper, they mean this: Some of your regulars will be in Europe this summer. But the number of "stiffs" you draw this year will be no less the number next year because there just won't be rooms and shipping space for them.

FIRST SALE MADE 6 HOURS AFTER FIRE
There's a lesson for other retailers in the experience of a Brooklyn appliance store. An unexplained, early morning fire gutted the store (the showroom of Frost Refrigeration, Inc.). Employees showed up almost as fast as the firemen and carried salvageable television, radio, refrigeration and other appliances to a nearby warehouse. By the next morning, a warehouse was converted into a salesroom. Radio and newspaper announcements carried the news that the establishment was open for business. Salesmen were decked in red paper firemen's hats. Within six hours after the fire had started, the first sale had been made. Water-soaked paychecks were distributed to employees on time.

EVERYBODY SWEETENED, EXCEPT THE BRITISH
Just how sweet this old world is shown by Department of Agriculture reports on world sugar production. Sugar and candy are still being rationed in the British Isles. But sugar production for the 1949-50 season is the largest the world has ever seen. In almost all regions, production exceeded early crop estimates.

Hal Boyle's Column

New York—(AP)—Everybody has a secret life. Or certainly everyone tries to. Some facet of his career, past or present—or buried under conning . . . some shamed dead of good will . . . some odd attitude toward the world . . . a person likes to hold to his heart and apart from those who know him best.

The funny thing about it all is that often they will blurt out to strangers this secret he'd lie about rather than reveal to a lifelong acquaintance. I spend a great part of my life meeting strangers. And they tell me the damndest things sometimes.

Cynics say the greatest secrets in America are locked in safe deposit vaults—or buried under concrete in the basement or under dirt in the backyard, twelve paces north northeast of the old elm tree. However, I feel that most of these secrets—dollars hidden from the income tax collector—have been dug up since the end of the war and invested or spent.

The real repositories of secrets in our times are the ears of priests, the docters of lawyers, the health records of doctors—and the memories of newspaper reporters. When I was a student in the University of Missouri School of Journalism, I took a course in interviewing. I was taught that I should avoid bringing out pencil and paper because that might cause the subject of the interview to "freeze up."

It took me about ten years of reporting to learn that this theory was completely wrong—at least for me. I found that the quickest way I could get the confidence of someone I was interviewing was to haul out the old notebook and scribble down his words, just as he said them.

There is a passion for accuracy in the heart of every man, to be a general of the army, a justice of the peace or a Pullman porter. He wants what he says put down the way he said it. When you pull out that pencil, it doesn't frighten him. It gives him a sense of dignity. He feels that makes him a part of history, and it does, too—even though his printed remarks are wrapped around a wet fish the day after he says them, or blown in the gutter by a passing wind.

But very, very often people say things to me that make me pause my pencil. They tell me—a complete stranger, passing through their lives like a wind—things too private for print. At least for my print.

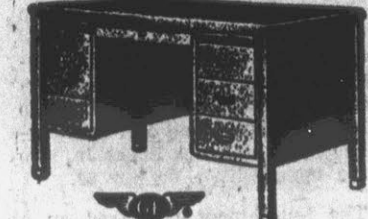

What? Well, chiefly their worries. Their wives drink too much, or their boys aren't doing what papa would like, or they wonder out loud whether, after all, life made the right decision in life. And what can you do but murmur consolation? A reporter isn't a psychiatrist. People just often treat him like he is.

Sometimes they say things to you actually embarrassing. Like the woman who told me of a murder, never recorded. "This old lady was lonesome," she said. "And she told me how she made herself a widow. She had been married to a man who had beat her and cheated on her for 30 years. He thought she was just a helpless housewife he was tied to by the law."

"Well, one day she figured out his insurance—and there was enough to keep her the rest of her life. "The next morning as she was getting the car out of the garage to drive him to the station she saw him there in a sitting duck. So she fell over him. "Then she backed the car over him. Then she ran over him again. Then she ran for the neighbors. They carried him into the house, and just before he died the husband grumbled, "That poor fool—she never could drive a car." "And the old lady is still living off his insurance, and doesn't regret a thing." What, dear reader, would you do with that secret? PUBLIC FORUM To the Editor: As a member of the Pitt County Health Department I appreciated the publication in the Greenville Daily Reflector of the recent article concerning rural sanitation. I was very much in favor of it as a means of arousing possible interest in one of the phases of sanitation in which Pitt County is sadly lacking. Efforts on the part of a few public spirited citizens toward voluntary decency would outweigh all of the enforcement possible by the health department for a period of years. However, I should like to call your attention to one error in the article concerning me, and request that a correction be printed. I was referred to as having had three years experience in public health work, and I fear that persons I have dealt with in my work in this community will consider me guilty of misrepresentation. I have not conducted myself as though I were a novice. It appears that your informant was confused as to the fundamentals of public health work. It is in fact more than window dressing, and it is very evident that no particular part of the county has a monopoly on the practice. My indoctrination in this work began soon after my seventeenth birthday when I enlisted in the medical department of the Navy. During the intervening thirty years, in the service and out, I have devoted a mighty lot of time to sanitation work and the study of it. In 1939 I came to North Carolina, took a sanitation course at the University School of Public Health, and was employed in several different county health departments. Being in the naval reserve I was ordered back in service during the war, and it was after this that I was instrumental in straightening out the sanitation situation in part in one of the metropolitan areas of the United States. Later I was responsible for sanitation during the construction and operation of a naval station for 7000 personnel, at the same time breaking ground for the improvement of conditions in three adjoining counties. I finished the war as sanitation officer of one of the largest and fightingest aircraft carriers in the Pacific, on the long road from the Marshall Islands to Tokyo. Please print this letter in its entirety, if you wish, and write any caption. Yes, I have had three years experience in public health work. I thank you. Yours very truly, Paul O. Brigham. An Open Letter to the Father And Mothers of Greenville To the Editor: Monday, June 19, marks the opening of the supervised playgrounds in the city of Greenville. The Recreation Commission realizing the value of play in the life of children has secured a staff of playground directors at each of the seven supervised playgrounds, that should develop play to its highest ideals. Activities will be conducted at each of these playgrounds that will appeal to the child. Our goal this year is to make this the most successful season in Greenville playground history, but it is for you mothers and fathers to say whether we attain this goal. It is for you to see that your children are in attendance upon the playgrounds during the next eight weeks. Your appreciation in helping us to realize our goal will be appreciated. Yours very truly, Recreation Commission W. M. Jorgensen, Technical Director

Legal Status Of Shotgun Trap In N. C. Unsettled

Raleigh, N.C., June 16—(AP)—What's the legal status of a shotgun trap in North Carolina?

The question came to the attorney general's office from Rocky Mount. After a search of the books, Assistant Attorney General Wade Bruton had to report there's no statute dealing with such devices. Solicitor Thomas G. Dill of the Rocky Mount Recorder's Court sent in the question. He said a merchant there, the victim of several break-ins recently, set up a trap consisting of a gun "connecting with a device so that a person moving about in certain parts of the store building after it has been locked for the night will set off a blast from the gun."

Dill wrote that the chief of police was going to notify his men to quit checking the premises for fear someone might get hurt.

What Dill wanted to know was whether any criminal laws were being violated, and what would be the consequences if someone who broke into the store, or someone authorized to enter, were injured.

Bruton said he not only couldn't find a statute on the subject but also couldn't find a State Supreme Court ruling dealing specifically with it.

But he did find a Virginia case in which a merchant who set a spring gun that killed a policeman checking his store was convicted of second-degree murder. And a South Carolina ruling that the law of self-defense doesn't apply in the setting of a trap gun.

In Missouri, Bruton found, there was a ruling that anybody who kills

Crewmen of the rebuilt destroyer U. S. S. Phillip give smoke generators a test during a trial run off the Virginia Capes near Norfolk. A veteran of three years service in the Pacific during World War II, the Phillip was brought out of "mothballs" and refitted for duty with the Atlantic Fleet's anti-submarine forces. She made 34 knots an hour in the trial run Tuesday. (AP Wirephoto).

a person with a spring gun cannot justify the act unless he would have been justified "had he been personally present and killed the deceased."

All Bruton could tell Dill was that the Missouri interpretation appeared to be the most logical.

His Home Town Says Columbus' Body On Island

Rome—(AP)—As far as his home town of Genoa is concerned, Christopher Columbus is buried in Santo Domingo and not in Spain. Recent reports from Seville, Spain, said that a burial found there was now believed to be the remains of the Genoese navigator. The burial was in a grave in the crypt of the Church of Santa Maria de las Cuevas. The Genoese Center for Columbian Studies which specializes in such matters says Columbus was once buried in Seville, but the present finding must be inaccurate. The body was moved according to the Genoese center, the "admiral of all the oceans" died at Valladolid, Spain, May 20, 1506. He was buried there. Then his son Diego, had the body moved to the Church of Santa Maria de las Cuevas in Seville in 1509. But in 1544, or earlier, the body was taken from Seville to the Cathedral of Santo Domingo, in the present capital of the Dominican Republic. The total public debt of the United States, according to Twentieth Century Fund estimates which include state, local and federal debts, rose from $60 for every person in 1913 to $1,970 for every person in 1945.

'Tweetsie' Nears End Of A Career

Johnson City, Tenn., June 16—(AP)—It looks like "Tweetsie's" days are numbered.

"Tweetsie" is a somewhat outmoded narrow-gauge mountain train that chugs along the 22 miles between O'Brien, Tenn., and Cranberry, N.C.

Tweetsie once hauled vacationists and excursionists through the picturesque Tennessee and North Carolina mountains. Nowadays about the only load Tweetsie gets is a burdle of freight.

East Tennessee and Western Carolina Transportation Company says Tweetsie is a losing thing and it wants to de-commission her. The folks in western North Carolina are partial to the idea of a modern highway in return for Tweetsie. That was brought out in an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing here yesterday. All in all, it doesn't look like Tweetsie has a narrow-gauge track to stand on.

Haifa Banned To Arab Travelers

Haifa, Israel—(AP)—Arab passengers on steamships calling at Haifa can look but cannot step ashore. The French steamer Providence frequently carries a large number of Arabs, along with other passengers who disembark in Haifa.

The Arabs always ask for, and always fail to get, permission for shore leave to look around Haifa. Tourists of other nationalities get every facility.

Hunt For Slayer Of Woman In Sampson County

Clinton, N. C., June 16—(AP)—Officers and blood hounds scoured Sampson county today in a search for the slayer of a 48-year-old woman whose bludgeoned body was found late last night.

Coroner Dr. J. S. Ayres said the half-nude body of Mrs. L. B. Kornegay was found about 100 yards from her home in the Piney Grove section of the county.

She had been struck about the face and head. Ayres said, from the position of the body, the victim apparently was raped. The housewife's body was found by her husband when he returned from a fishing trip. He and a fishing companion became alarmed when they failed to find her at home.

Harrison Holds Kinston To Five Hits; Robins Win 12-1

Eagles Score Sole Run In Second Frame; Thirteen Hits By Robins Helped By Errors; Tepedino Paces Batting Attack

By BERT MOYE

Right-hander Bobby Harrison handuffed the Kinston Eagles with a neat five-hitter while his Greenville mates pounded out a 12-1 victory in a contest played at Kinston last night. The win for Harrison was his second of the season; he has suffered one defeat. The win for the Robins gives them a record of seven wins in their last nine games, including one loss and one contest which resulted in a tie game. The Eagles jumped into a 1-0 lead in the second frame when Bob Brigham reached first on Guidice's two-base error. Jack Burns advanced him to third on his infield out and he came home on Gerry Lanann's fly to deep left field. That was the end of the scoring for the Eagles.

After being held scoreless for the first two frames, the Robins came back in the next four frames to put across eleven runs, scoring three in the third, two each in the fourth and fifth and four in the sixth. The Robins made a total of nine hits in these four frames and were aided with four errors, five walks, a sacrifice and hit batsman.

Their final run of the game came in the eighth frame on a walk to Hallow, who stole second, advanced to third on Bakits' infield out and scored on Hall's infield hit.

The Robins collected a total of 13 hits off three Eagle hurlers, including five doubles. Johnny Tepedino set the pace with a double and two singles in five trips to the plate, and drove in four of the Robins runs. Paul Strausser also collected a double and a single, Bakits a double and a single, and Bobby Harrison got a double and a single.

Harrison held the Eagles to five hits with Ray Rosenwinkle getting two singles to lead the Eagles' attack. He walked five men and struck out five and only in one frame did they get more than one hit off his offerings.

The Robins will be at home tonight when they meet the Goldsboro Cards in a single game starting at 7:45 o'clock. This will be the last appearance of the Robins at home during the weekend as they play away on Saturday and Sunday with a doubleheader being played over in Wilson Sunday afternoon.

Boys' League Baseball
In one of the best games played to date in the Senior Division the Pirates won over the Phillies 4 to 3. The Phillies elected to walk Jody Taylor in the final inning with the winning run on second to pitch to Bobby Nunn, who immediately slammed one over the centerfielder's head to win the game. Young Bobby Faulkner held the hard-hitting Phillies to four safeties. Sidney Briley first baseman turned pitcher, allowed the winners only five hits. Billy Jordan was the only player to get two hits, one of them good for three bases.

Women Pilots In Race Scattered By Bad Weather

West Palm Beach, Fla., June 16—(AP)—Thirteen women pilots in the "Powder Puff" Derby headed for West Palm Beach today after rough weather scattered them over several states in the northeast. The women took off in light planes from Montreal early yesterday on the 1,500-mile flight and were expected to land here this afternoon for the start of the all-women air maneuvers of 1950. Mrs. Louise Thaden of Roanoke, Va., was forced down by bad weather at Blackstone, Va. Her daughter, Patsy, 16, is co-pilot. Alice Jean May of Englewood, N.J., flying radio star Arthur Godfrey's plane, was forced to spend the night at Atlantic City, N.J.

Jolting John

Johnny Lindell was at bat for the Cardinals with Stan Musial on base Dave Koslo, pitching for the Giants breezed a high fast pitch past Lindell's swinging bat causing Garry Schumacher, the Giants' publicity man, to chuckle gleefully. "He swung too late at that one!" The next pitch Johnny parked in the upper left field stands of the Polo Grounds and trotted around the bases behind Musial. "I spoke too soon, I guess remarked Garry. Later in the game Johnny came through with a thirteenth inning double to give the Cardinals a triumph over the Giants. The Cardinals picked up Lindell after all the American League clubs had waived on the 33-year-old veteran. A power hitter, Johnny was expected to give the Cards some sorely needed right-handed hitting. He came up to the Yankees as a pitcher but was converted into an outfielder after he suffered arm trouble. Johnny could always powder the ball but his indifferent attitude in the field exasperated the fans on many an occasion. Lindell contributed much to the success of the Yankees by his clutch hitting. Last Oct. 1 Johnny produced the home run which gave the Yankees an important victory over the Red Sox in their crucial series for the American League pennant. With the Cardinals, perennial pennant contenders, Lindell stands a fair chance of getting in on another world series mound. Right now, Johnny is really hustling to make this possible.

Rowing Fever Grows For Marietta, Regatta City

Marietta, O., June 16—(AP)—Marietta and the vanguard of thousands of visitors today shared rowing fever—a condition formerly centered on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. But this Ohio river town, oldest community in the old Northwest territory, has grabbed the title of the nation's rowing capital for tomorrow, the day of the first Marietta Regatta. It won the title from Poughkeepsie, N.Y., former site of the Inter-Collegiate Rowing Association's famous race. The title, however, came for 1950 only and there was no definite assurance of another regatta here. Thirty-two rowing crews from 13 colleges scheduled final practice runs on the three-mile Ohio river course today. Coaches cast anxious eyes on the weather and hoped for a clear, sunny day. The beautiful Ohio river is to remain still for the day and give all the crews a fair chance. This will be done by closing the gates on two dams. It is one of the inducements which figured in the IRA's decision to move the race from the Hudson river.

Coaches and rowing overseers gave highly-touted Washington the role of favorite. But with the race over a new course as yet untimed with a still stream, an upset was possible. No one was discounting the chances of California and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and talk still drifted around the sheilhouses about "darkhorse" Navy. Other crews competing are Princeton, Cornell, Columbia, Stanford, Rutgers, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Boston University. Hundreds of persons have gathered daily at the floats on the Ohio river to watch for the first time tall, muscle men row their sleek racing shells over the river. Hotels in Marietta have been booked solid for weeks and there aren't many rooms left in private homes. A town of 20,000 population, Marietta expects to be able to take care of all its visitors.

Stuhldreher is Out Of Athletics
Madison, Wis., June 16—(AP)—Twenty-eight years of college varsity football activity, were at an end today for Harry Stuhldreher. The man who quarterbacked Notre Dame's "Four Horsemen" to fame in 1924 handed in his resignation yesterday as University of Wisconsin Athletic director. Effective Oct. 1, he told the University's board of regents, he'll enter the employ of U. S. Steel Corp. Stuhldreher was the last of Knute K. Rockne's fame backfield quartet to quit the collegiate field. Two of his running mates—Elmer Layden and Jim Crowley—are in the trucking business; the third, Don Miller, is an attorney in Cleveland. Named to succeed Stuhldreher at a $9,500 annual salary was Guy M. Sundt, a former Wisconsin Athletic star who has been the "little general" assistant during his 14 years as Athletic director and a member of the University coaching staff since 1924. All told, Stuhldreher was associated with college varsity football for 28 years—three as a player at Notre Dame, 11 as coach at Villanova before coming here, 13 as Wisconsin coach and one more as Athletic director.

Kell Pushing His Batting Average To New Heights

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
George Kell of Detroit seems determined to erase the "freak hitter" smudge from his American League batting crown.

They said it was a mistake when the Tiger third baseman nosed out Ted Williams of Boston for the title on the final day of the '49 season. Brother, it's no mistake this year. Day after day Kell keeps showing his average a little higher. Now it's .386 best in the majors. Williams, moving up gradually after a serious slump, is hitting .326.

Oldtimers are reminded of Ty Cobb by the way Kell holds his bat with his hands several inches apart. For years it's been stylish to swing from the end of the bat, aiming for the stands. Kell finds he can spray his shots to all fields. And he still gets his three or four homers a season.

Kell slashed two singles and a double in three trips against Philadelphia yesterday as the Tigers thumped the A's, 7-3. The victory, coupled with a New York defeat, gave Detroit a 1 1/2 game lead in the American League race.

Chicago's Billy Pierce tossed a 5-0 one-hitter against the New York Yankees yesterday, the best pitched game of the season and his first big league shutout.

Only a single by Billy Johnson, leading off the fifth inning, robbed Pierce of a no-hitter in a game interrupted three times by rain. It was the third straight for the White Sox over the Yankees.

At Cleveland Bobby Lemon hit a home run and pitched the Tribe to a 3-1 victory over Boston. Lemon's homer tied the score in the fifth and Al Rosen's 17th of the year with Larry Doby on base in the sixth railed Walt Masterson's first start.

St. Louis pulled out of the cellar with a come-from-behind win over Washington, 16-9. Dick Kokos homered for the Browns and Eddie Stewart and Eddie Yost for the Senators in the wild slugfest.

Scott Motors Team Tops Softball Loop

The Post Office evened their worst record yesterday afternoon when they beat Wagner-Waldrop Motors 3-1 in a closely played softball game.

The Mailmen scored twice in the second inning, which would have been enough for the decision, and added another tally in the third. Wagner-Waldrop's lone crossing came in the half of the third.

Post Office pitcher Smith threw but two hits at the Motor team while his mates were collecting seven of Dave Mosier. Post Office committed two errors which enabled their opponents to score their run. The Motor team committed four miscues.

Scott Motor Company swamped Flemings Service Station yesterday, 15-3, for their second win in the Industrial League play.

Flemings, a new entry into league play, succumbed to a 14-hit attack, including two homers and a triple. Bill Harrington, pitching for Scott's, gave up seven hits and aided his own cause in hitting a home run and a double for four hits in five trips. Joyner got the other home run for the winners for his only hit of the day.

Scott now leads the league after two games having won both of them.

Browns, Yanks In Eight-Man Trade

Stirnweiss Among Those Going To St. Louis After Holding Down Yankee Bench; Deal Estimated At Half-Million

St. Louis, June 16—(AP)—The dollar-poor St. Louis Browns and mound-poor New York Yankees closed an eight-man deal last night.

The Yanks got southpaw Joe Ostrowski and righthander Tom Ferrick.

In exchange, the Browns acquired Second Baseman George Stirnweiss, Outfielder Jim Delsing and Pitchers Duane Pillette and Don Johnson.

Two other St. Louis players, Third Baseman Leo Thomas and Pitcher Sid Schacht, went to the Yanks' Kansas City farm in the American Association.

The Browns picked up $100,000 for Thomas and another $50,000 cash in the deal.

President Bill DeWitt of the Browns estimated the player value of Ostrowski and Ferrick at a total of $250,000. He figured the other new players were worth $50,000 each, making it a half million dollar deal.

The deal closed the baseball trading season.

Ostrowski, 31, is a top-notch pitcher. The 35-year-old Ferrick, a good relief man, has a 1-3 record.

DeWitt figures Stirnweiss as his big catch. He disclosed yesterday he plans to put him at third base.

Stirnweiss, American League batting champ in 1945, had been on and off the bench for the Yankees for two years. Now at 30 he gets a chance to play regularly again.

The Yanks had gotten little help from the 23-year-old Johnson or the 25-year-old Pillette. Johnson had a 1-0 record but was pounded heavily in relief roles. Pillette, recalled from Kansas City only last week, had 0-0.

Thomas, purchased from the Cleveland Indians, could hit only .198. Schacht allowed 24 hits and 22 runs in 10 2-3 innings of service.

Fifteen Pros In Chase Of Torrid Lawson Little

New Rochelle, N.Y., June 16—(AP) Fifteen pro rivals set out in chase of a torrid Lawson Little as the ninth annual Palm Beach Golf Tournament entered its second round today.

The stocky former National Open and amateur champion trudged through the rain over sodden fairways to a five-under-par 67 yesterday at Wyckoff Country Club to take a four-point lead over his nearest foe, youthful Jack Burke Jr., who came home with a snappy 69.

The tournament is played on a Round Robin basis, each of the competitors playing in a foursome with each other entrant during the five rounds of play ending Sunday. His plus or minus score for each round is based on comparison of his medal score with those of the others with whom he is playing.

Two rounds were scheduled today, with single rounds again tomorrow and Sunday.

Little yesterday was playing with Lloyd Mangrum, Cary Middlecoff and George Fazio, and picked up most of his points at the expense of Fazio, who only last Saturday tied for the National Open crown.

Fazio shot a four-over-par 76 to finish with a point total of minus 21. Mangrum and Middlecoff both had 70's and finished with plus threes. Little got a plus 15.

Ben Hogan, who triumphed in the National Open last Sunday to astound the sports world, suffered the inevitable letdown. He only could match Fazio's 76 medal score, and finished with a minus 17. He did not have a Lawson Little shooting a 67 at him.

He did have a Burke, however, who finished with a plus 11 as well as Sammy Sneed and Jimmy Demaret, each of whom carded a 70 and closed out the day with plus threes.

Claude Harmon, Herman Barron, Vic Ghezzi and Art Bell played in the closest match, Barron carding a 70, Harmon and Bell 71's and Ghezzi a 73. Ghezzi consequently was minus seven at the start of today's play, Harmon and Bell plus one, and Barron plus five.

Have you bought that T shirt? If you boys 12 years of age and under have not yet purchased that Robins T shirt you had better make it a point to do so at once. It is very necessary that you wear one of these out to the home games in order to gain free admission. Make it a point to go down to Blount-Harvey's today and get one at once and then get dad and mom and come out to the ball game tonight between Goldsboro and Greenville.

Bob Lewis' column in the Kinston Daily Free Press yesterday stated that attendance for Eagle games in April and May was for 17,035 fans. In April this year, 6,430 persons paid their way compared to 10,060 in April of 1949. In May of 1950, 7,109 fans plunked down 60 cents each, which in May of 1949 there were 20,424.

Understand that over at last night's contest with the Robins there were about 300 fans in attendance.

Business Manager Russ Filley, announced this morning that Francis Buckshon, rookie left-hander, had been given his outright release by the Robins. . . . Joe Allegrette, who has not been given a sick leave of absence for 10 days and has gone to his home in Brooklyn, N. Y. . . . Bob Mangrum, Cards' pitcher, has been placed on the disabled list for two weeks. He is suffering with a strained arm muscle. . . . Jim Reiter, catcher for the Cards, has been released by the Goldsboro club. . . . Bill Fowler, former State College baseball captain who signed with the Raleigh Caps about 10 days ago, has been optioned to the Rocky Mount Leafs. He is an outfielder. . . . Joe Fulghum, former Wake Forest baseball star, has been signed by the Wilson Tobs, and will roam the outfield. . . . In order to receive the Fulghum, Manager Bill Herring released John Solek, rookie outfielder, who immediately signed with the Rocky Mount Leafs. . . . Wait Cleply was placed on the suspended list by the Leafs to make room for Solek. . . . John Luchetti, formerly with Sanford in the Tobacco State League, has been signed by the Wilson Tobs. . . . Pete Williams, veteran shortstop of the Wilson Tobs, has returned to the Wilson club after a leave of two weeks—the proud father of a baby girl.

SMOKY JOE

By W. F. BRAGG

Chapter 28
Only by his splendid horsemanship did Rogan stay in leather and hold his mount on its feet. But he lost in the attempt to kill Pecos Shay.

That outlaw still had an amazed look on his hard face. Only when Rogan had quieted his pony did Shay talk to him.

"By Gawd," he said slowly, "I really think you meant to kill me, Rogan."

There existed no proof that Rogan had planned the raid on the Hale trail herd, nor that he had given Pecos Shay full rights to blotch brands on his own cattle as a cover-up. When Joe declared boldly that Rogan was the master thief, Rance Hale flew hotly to Rogan's aid.

"He's a square-shooter," said Rance. "He let us use land in a pinch after you'd given us a fake option on the range." Rance narrowed his hot eyes and edged his horse nearer to Joe. "There's another little matter," he snarled: "the cash money we had in town to pay off Rogan with. My sister had told you about it."

"Well?" Joe asked, with a deadly calm.

"Half that money turned up missin'," said Rance. "And I think you took it."

Joe looked at Long John Hale. "Well?" he asked, in that same calm voice that told of barely repressed anger.

Long John answered sorrowfully. "All I know, Joe, is the money's gone. I'm right short since the dry spell hit me in Texas. Rogan was good enough to take my note for what I was short. But another stampede will just about put me to the wall."

"What about Connie?" Joe asked. Rance sneered. "What would Connie think? She heard about you sneakin' up to hide in Kate's room when you broke jail. Seekin' shelter. Maybe the woman helped you steal the money."

Then Joe's anger broke. He surged ahead on his pony. Before Rance could draw, he knocked the boy off his pany with the flat of his gun barrel.

Long John Hale rode between his men and the angry mountaineers. "Put away your guns," he told his men. "Couple of you help Rance up on his pony." He turned and looked coldly at Joe. "Hereafter," he said, "don't stop at the Bar Sixty-Six camp when you ride past."

The McDevitt clan headquarters was an array of rambling log cabins and pine pole corrals built at the lower flank of a thick stand of timber on the western slope of Bilszard Basin.

Shay was confined in the big log barn. Joe, Monty, and Whisperin agreed to stand watch while the others ate.

Joe sent Monty and Whisperin to supper. He would have time now for a talk with Pecos Shay. He went back to the stall and rolled a smoke for the silent out-

"Talk" Joe thundered. "Stop this Rogan dead in his tracks. Tell me how he killed my father or had him killed. Talk, Pecos, while you got time."

A dry old voice cut in huskily. "Yes, while you got time. Your trial has been held, Shay. You can have your choice."

Old McDevitt stepped into the lantern's light. He was picking his teeth with a match.

"Choice?" Shay asked harshly. "Yeah. You eat supper and then be hanged. Or you can be hanged right away."

Shay saw that the old man held a coil of rope. He licked his lips. Now, with Death so near, his outlaw courage broke around the edges. "You fought fair," he told Joe. "I'm not namin' anybody in this. But I heard from another party just what happened when Chris Elven died." He lowered his head and began to talk hurriedly as though ashamed of what he was saying. "They had fought over the ditch company," said Shay. "Stormy Munro discovered that he didn't control all the water. There was a right on Lost Creek held by Monty McDevitt. Elven wanted him to cut the McDevitt in. Munro hated em. He wouldn't. But he told Pack Rogan about it. They had to get the Lost Creek water right to control the ditch company. So Rogan blew up and said his security was in danger. That old lawyer in town agreed—"

"Boots?" asked Joe.

"Yes. So your dad signed the power of attorney. He swore he'd run down Monty and somehow take over the Lost Creek water right."

"So then—" old McDevitt prompted softly.

"So about four weeks ago, when it was known that Monty was away hutin' a couple of lost horses and that he'd had trouble with Munro, a man dropped into the cabin about daybreak. Old Munro and Chris Elven were bunkin' together. The man who visited them bent over the bed. The gun he used was deadly at close quarters. He shot Elven through the back as he lay face down in bed. Old Stormy heard the shot and jumped from the bunk. He made a run to grab his shotgun off the wall. The killer used the second bullet in the gun. It dropped Munro."

Joe burst out. "A close range gun with two bullets in it. The durringer—"

Shay nodded. "The durringer—"

Then he went on, "The killer wanted to make it look as though Munro or Monty had killed Elven. First he took the shotgun and blew a hole in Elven's back to hide the little bullet hole there. Then he weighted the body and dumped it in the beaver dam. He figured it would be found. Which it was." Shay shook his head. "Then he went back to get Munro's body. He didn't want it to be found. He set fire to the beddin' to hide the blood and signs that the men had been asleep. He mocked Munro by drawin' a line with his pencil through the date. But as he reached down to take Munro by the legs, he saw that the old man wasn't dead."

"Not dead?" cried Joe.

"Not dead. Still kickin'." He started to put a charge of buckshot into Munro. But just then he heard horses comin'. He got out while there was time. He hit for the hills. As he reached cover, he saw two men at the cabin."

Five Perish In Rural Home Fire

Staunton, Va., June 16—(AP)—Five persons perished in a fire that destroyed the rural home of Charles Weaver three miles east of this Western Virginia city today.

James Weaver, 33, of Fisherville, identified the dead as:

His brother, Charles, 41; their father, William Weaver, 84, and Charles' three children, Tommy, 11; Kathleen, 18, and Louise, 17.

The two-story frame structure burned to the ground and only the chimney was left standing.

Augusta county and Staunton firemen answered an alarm but were unable to bring the blaze under control.

Hyde Kerr Augusta county fire chief, said the bodies were found close together in the ruins.

A neighbor, A. D. Bosserman, called the fire department.

As he ran toward the Weaver home he said "flames seemed to be coming from the northeast side of the house where a kerosene kitchen stove was situated. Not a soul was moving when I reached the yard."

Hens Support Brannan In Price Support Argument

Washington, June 16—(AP)—The hens seem to be giving secretary of agriculture Brannan some ammunition in his argument with President Allan B. Kline of the farm bureau federation.

Kline, an Iowa hog farmer, says a good way to control farm production—that is, prevent overproduction—is to reduce government price guarantees when supplies are too big and to raise them when shortages threaten.

Reduced price supports, he says, would cause many farmers to stop producing affected commodities until surpluses are used up.

If shortages threaten, Kline would increase government price promises. Farmers would produce more, he says, and shortages would soon disappear.

The Kline theory is the basis of present farm price support legislation.

Secretary Brannan said this principle will work. He contends that falling prices simply lead most farmers to produce more on the theory they can keep their incomes up by selling more.

Right now the heavy rate of egg production lends support to Brannan's side of the argument.

Production was 10 per cent last year than consumer demands. As a consequence, the government bought 68,808,000 pounds of dried eggs—equal to about 305,000,000 dozen shell eggs—to support prices at an average of 45 cents a dozen.

This year the government cut the egg support price to 35 cents a dozen—a reduction of more than 29 per cent.

What about production? Has it gone down?

Latest agriculture department figures show that egg production is running seven per cent higher this year than a year ago. Yet in May produced prices averaged 29.8 cents a dozen compared with 43.4 cents in May last year.

Much of this extra production is being bought by the government under the price support promise. Purchase of dried eggs so far this year total 59,000,000 pounds—equal to 177,000,000 dozen on shell eggs. With more than six months to go this year's purchases will be larger than last.

German Women To Visit State

Raleigh, N.C., June 16—(AP)—Two German women are expected to arrive here tomorrow night for a week's visit in North Carolina. Their trip is sponsored by the North Carolina Farm Bureau's Associated Women.

The two, Marie Huechting and Lieselotte Handt, are coming to the state under a project of the international farm women's exchange.

They will be taken on a tour of Raleigh, Durham, Chapel Hill, and other nearby points on Sunday. They will be taken to Boone on Monday. On Tuesday they will visit Winston-Salem and Greensboro.

They will come back here Wednesday for a luncheon, and go to Lenoir County that night. They will go to Robeson and Pender Counties during the day Thursday, and to Maclefield on Thursday night. A meeting with the Edgecombe County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs is scheduled for Friday. The tour will wind up Saturday in eastern North Carolina.

Smart birds are these pigeons, educated at Harvard! Dr. R. F. Skinner, Harvard University's professor of psychology, has taught them to play table tennis. They also play a tune on the piano, tell time, push buttons and understand changing colors like traffic lights. A ball, placed in the middle of the table, is allowed to roll toward one of the pegs. He bats it with his beak and his opponent tries to bat it back. When one pigeon misses the ball, it rolls into the trough in front of him. This opens feeding station in front of his opponent. Dr. Skinner says pigeons have reactions comparable to those of human beings. His tests with the birds are designed to determine whether a child can be trained more effectively by encouraging good behavior or punishing bad actions. (AP Wirephoto).

Suffocation Is Rarely Cause Of Babies' Death

New York—(AP)—Babies rarely suffocate in their cribs, although their deaths often are blamed on smothering, two New York physicians report. Dr. Jacob Werne and Irene Garrow of the Medical Examiners Office told the New York County Medical Society of their study.

Autopsies show that 25 per cent of the infants listed as smothering victims really died from congenital heart disease, bronchopneumonia, meningitis, or mastoiditis, they said. The other 75 per cent can nearly all be found to be due to other causes also, they reported.

Dr. Werne said it is virtually impossible for a healthy baby to die of accidental mechanical suffocation. The position of the baby's body at death means very little unless the baby has strangled itself between the slats of the crib, he added.

AIROVAC

MAKES YOUR TOBACCO WORTH MORE

PAYS N. C. FARMER $260.00 MORE PER ACRE!

Comparative Test PROVES VALUE of AIROVAC

Oxford, N. C.

Air Control, Inc., Atlanta, Georgia.

In 1949 the tobacco cured with AIROVAC sold for $260.00 more per acre than tobacco cured without Airovac. Yet, all the tobacco came out of the same field, was the same grade, variety and kind. It was all cultivated and fertilized alike, so we feel and KNOW that AIROVAC was responsible for obtaining the higher and better price.

(Signed) R. W. Daniel

Here's the actual experience of a successful farmer who has used the AIROVAC method of curing tobacco for two years and found it highly satisfactory. Tobacco cured in the barn with AIROVAC brought a much higher price than tobacco cured without AIROVAC. This comparative test shows that AIROVAC provides the only scientific method of bringing tobacco to its best color and quality. By definite control of the air which circulates up through the tobacco leaves, curing can be done without sweating, sponging or any of the old hit or miss methods of the past. NOTE cut-away section of barn showing how air is taken in, circulated and expelled. Let us show you how AIROVAC can make your tobacco worth more. Call, write or come by today for full information.

Graham Predicts He Will Win Handily In Democratic Runoff

Raleigh, N. C., June 16—(AP)—Senator Frank Graham has predicted he will win handily in the June 24 runoff for the Democratic Senatorial nomination.

He made the forecast at Charlotte yesterday at his last stop on a three-day handshaking tour of Western counties. He added: "Many of my friends who failed to get to the polls in the first primary tell me they'll be there June 24. They say we are going to win by a fine majority."

Graham's opponent in the runoff primary, Willis Smith of Raleigh, also spent yesterday on a handshaking tour. He went from Raleigh to Wallace, in Duplin county. He made an informal talk at the Wallace Strawberry market.

A speaker for Smith, meanwhile attacked "liberal and socialist doctrines that would creep in and destroy not only our government and our society but our way of life."

That statement came from L. R. Verser of Lumberton, a former associate justice of the state Supreme Court and a law partner of the late Gov. A. W. McLean. He made a state-wide radio talk in Smith's behalf last night.

Verser urged the election of Smith as a believer in "sound government which works no harm to any law-abiding citizen."

"Liberalism furnishes no guide or chart for government," he said. "It offers to humanity all the money that can be raised by burdensome taxation, provided they clamor loud enough for it and promise to vote accordingly."

He declared that extreme liberalism would make the legislative branch of the government supreme and therefore the tool of the designing groups who can exact money out of the pay envelopes and out of the taxpayers' pockets for the perpetuation of a scheme that will give them what they want."

He continued: "The chief concern of the American way of life is to preserve the essentials of liberty and free government. x x x Willis Smith believes in this kind of government x x x."

On his Charlotte stop, Graham said he figured he was one of the state's most variously described citizens.

"I suppose I have been called just about everything," he remarked, "some people have been calling me Communist while at the very same time on the other side of the world the Communists have been branding me as a tool of Wall Street capitalists and the agent of American Imperialism."

Demand For Structural Steel Continuing High

Asheville, June 16—(AP)—Demand for structural steel is continuing at a high level, Southern steel fabricators were told here today.

"Our reports show a comforting rise in the bookings of new contracts closed, which means that future work for the country as a whole is holding up," N. R. Patterson of Tulsa, Okla., president of the American Institute of Steel Construction said.

He addressed a joint session of the Southern Structural Steel Board of Trade and the Virginia-Carolina Steel Fabricators Association, now holding a two-day conference here.

Patterson noted a sharp upturn in structural steel business, which he said began in early March and has continued.

"Statistics show the country is in a great wave of prosperity," Patterson said, "yet I seldom find anything like the optimism of the late 1920's, when we were in the boom-before-the-bust."

Accident Hadn't Happened Yet; But Woman Driver And Friend Arrested

A reported automobile accident on the Greenville-Grimesland highway Wednesday night resulted in nothing more than a woman telling a Grimesland policeman to take his blank hands off her car.

Patrolman D. E. Perry reported yesterday he was called by policeman H. D. Wright in Grimesland to investigate what might have been a wreck had not Wright stopped the woman on the highway just outside the corporate limits of the town.

According to Perry, he and patrolman R. C. Holt arrived on the scene about 11 p.m. Wednesday and found Helen Fitzpatrick, allegedly from Chocowinity, apparently drunk and cursing Wright for stopping her en route to Greenville. Wright had flagged her down inside Grimesland after another motorist had called his attention to the woman's driving.

Riding with the woman was Lucy Shacklesford whose home was not determined either. They were driving a 1950 Frazer with New Jersey tags. The Fitzpatrick woman stated she was from any number of places, among them Florida, Baltimore, and "I'm not going to tell you where I'm from."

Perry drove the car into Greenville and placed the women in the county jail. The Fitzpatrick woman was charged with driving drunk and without a license and the other with public drunkenness.

Farms Damaged By Hail, Rain

A hail and rain storm which struck in the Cox's Mill section of Pitt County last Wednesday night did considerable damage, according to reports reaching Greenville today.

The reports stated that a brief but heavy hail storm struck the section about 9:30 Wednesday night accompanied later by heavy rain and wind storm.

Tobacco plants in some sections of the area were stripped from the stalk and in other sections the fields were flooded. Wind which swept in on the fields later following the hail storm added further damage to the crops.

The farms of D. C. Taylor, Ernest Williams, Henry Williamson, Bobby Edwards and Dostle Carson were reported to be some of the hardest hit.

On the Carson farm a small windstorm blew down several trees onto the house and toppled other buildings.

Carson stated that following the storm when he came out of his house to survey the damage the trees and limbs on his house were so thick he could not tell what damage had been done.

It was stated that on most of the fields which the storm hit the crops were insured. Estimated damages to the crops were reported at between 25-50 per cent.

Woman Declines Convicts' Offer

Raleigh, N. C., June 16—(AP)—A blind woman has turned down the offer of two convicts who volunteered to sacrifice an eye each in the hope that she might see.

Mrs. Eddie Richardson of Cary said she rejected the offer because "my heart will not let me" accept. She said she could not accept responsibility for the possibility of blinding the two prisoners.

The offer was made last week by William C. Ashe, 24, and Burt Parkinson, 27, in a letter to authorities at Duke hospital.

"It wouldn't be just, said Mrs. Richardson, who added that "I know what it means to be blind."

The two convicts were told of Mrs. Richardson's decision at Central prison last night.

Elks Here Observe National Flag Day; Jess Moyer Presides

Greenville Lodge No. 1645, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, in keeping with its annual custom, observed national "Flag Day" Wednesday, June 14, at 6 p.m. with impressive exercises on the lawn at 569 Evans Street.

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the United States was the first fraternal organization to regularly observe National Flag Day each year on the 14th day of June, a history of the organization shows. Shortly after World War I, President Woodrow Wilson proclaimed June 14th of each year as National Flag Day.

Officials of the Greenville Elks Lodge officiating in the Flag Day exercises here were: Jesse R. Moyer II, exalted ruler; Erskine Duff, esteemed leading knight; Roscoe Shuplett, esteemed lecturing knight; J. B. Spilman, orator, who gave a history of the American Flag and what it stands for, and Chester Walsh, chaplain.

Recreation Body Meets; Select Art Instructor

The Greenville Recreation Commission held its regular monthly meeting at the Cotanche Park office last night.

The meeting will be the last meeting before the city playgrounds officially open next week.

The big item taken up at the meeting was the selection of Margaret Gilbert to be instructor and teacher of art in the summer playground program. The art teacher will make her headquarters at the Band House at the Cotanche park. Miss Gilbert will work out from the park going to all the other playgrounds on a regular schedule.

A report was made by Chairman Heber B. Tripp on the playground equipment which has been received and placed in operation on the play grounds. Bill Kittrell was officially selected as assistant playground director. Dr. N. M. Jorgensen is the director of the playground operation.

Gloria Blanton Is Back At Baptist Student Center

Miss Gloria Blanton, executive secretary of the Baptist Student Center, 404 East Fifth Street, who has been at Ridgecrest the past two weeks, returned to Greenville last night. While at the Baptist Assembly at Ridgecrest she engaged in special work in connection with the summer religious program there.

Miss Blanton announced today that from now on the Baptist Student Center will be open on regular schedule daily and Sundays for students at East Carolina Teachers College.

Kiwians To See Picture Yankees-Dodgers Ball Game

Russ Filley, business manager of the Greenville baseball club, will provide the program at the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting to night at 6:30. He will show a motion picture of the 1949 World Series games between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Yankees. The Yankees won the series.

Secretary David C. Moore Jr., a former baseball player, will have charge of the program. President Tige Gardner will preside.

Wednesday night prayer meeting. We kindly ask that every member be present at the services.

The Bible school at Fleming Street school is making fine headway. Send your children, so they may learn more about Christian living.

The Negro Democratic club of Pitt County had its regular meeting last night. It was opened with prayer.

Several members of the Calico community chapter No. 2 were in attendance, reporting highlights of the club since its recent organization.

rican forces fighting the Germans in East Africa. His success there was followed by a call to membership in the imperial war cabinet in London. And in World War Two which he said, was aimed at keeping peace and stopping war.

June 9—This time Mr. Truman used "peace" 28 times in a talk at St. Louis, Mo. He accused the Russians of menacing the world and preparing for war. He said we have a long road ahead to preserve peace. He said, "We cannot be complacent because the dangers we confront are many and serious . . . above all I wish to emphasize that the objective of our efforts is peace, not conflict."

June 14—Acheson set a new total for himself in the use of "peace." He employed the word 19 times in a talk at Dallas, Tex., and said war is not inevitable.

However, Johannesburg put on the best gala dress for him and accorded him the freedom of the city. Some 30,000 people jammed the great public square, and other thousands crowded buildings clear to the roof-tops. Nothing could cool the love and admiration so widely held for this great figure.

interest of peace" although, he said, "the threat of aggression casts its shadow upon every quarter of the globe." He used the word peace, though, 12 times.

June 2—Acheson went before Congress to urge it to approve the $1,200,000,000 for arms for Europe. This time he used "peace" only three times. But on—

June 3—He was back before Congress again. This time he said he didn't like the term "cold war." He suggested it be dropped in discussions of international affairs and called "cold war" an "unfortunate phrase."

It was used originally, he said, to describe what the Russians were doing but so much talk developed in this country that the meaning was turned around and appeared to describe what the U. S. was doing. "We are not engaged in war but in peace," Acheson said.

June 7—Mr. Truman used the word "peace" 17 times in talking to the graduates of the University of Missouri at Columbia, Mo. He emphasized our "peace program"

Registering For Summer Camp

Between 50 and 60 4-H boys and girls of the Pitt Council are expected to attend the summer camp at Fisher's Landing the week of June 26. Registration for reservations at the camp will end next Monday.

C. J. Goodman, county agent and director of the camp, reported this morning about 50 registrations are in now and the maximum number of 60 is expected toward the deadline.

Counselors for the camp, besides director Goodman, will be Marjorie Shearin, county home agent, dietitian; Audrey Pearse, East Carolina student and 4-H member from Chocowinity, recreation director; Olivia Hines, Anniston, Alabama, handicraft; Ann Parker, assistant home agent, camp store; and Zack Taft and Kent Lee, Greenville high school students, waterfront directors.

The program for the week will include class work on the different phases of 4-H work, swimming, games, vespers, and cabin inspections. And early morning swim period will be held each day at 6:30. Taps and bed time is scheduled for 10 p.m.
