

Formosa Dispute Again Opened By Review Of Policy

Far Eastern Review Holds Possibility Of Reversal On Aid To Chiang

Washington, June 21—(AP)—Sweeping reviews of U. S. policy underway in Washington and Tokyo have torn wide open again the dispute on whether this country should help Chiang Kai-Shek defend Formosa.

Official informants emphasized today that present U. S. policy is flatly against any military assistance to Chiang in his island stronghold. The fact that policies are being reviewed, however, at least opens the possibility of a reversal of this position.

At the State Department, the Far Eastern review has been undertaken under the direction of Assistant Secretary Dean Rusk. He recently took over control of Far Eastern affairs for Secretary Acheson.

In Tokyo, Secretary of Defense Johnson and General Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, are conferring with General Douglas MacArthur on the whole range of U. S. security interests in the western Pacific, including the Formosan situation.

Furthermore, Rusk has brought a new element into his study by conferring with Senate Republican leaders. This was in line with the State Department's policy of seeking bipartisan consultation on foreign problems in the Far East as well as in Europe.

Rusk has talked over the Formosan problem with Senators Taft (R-Ohio), Bridges (R-Neb.), Brewster (R-Me.), Millikan (R-Colo.), Knowland (R-Calif.) and Wiley (R-Wis.). That group includes some of the Senate's bitterest critics of administration handling of China policy and some of its strongest advocates of aid to Generalissimo Chiang in the defense of Formosa.

The Republicans are reported to have told Rusk they will hold their fire on the Formosan issue for the present. The idea is to wait until Johnson has returned from Tokyo and the administration has a chance to determine precisely what its future attitude toward the island will be.

Conferees Agree To 70-Group Air Force Program

Washington, June 21—(AP)—An authorization for a hard-hitting modern combat air force of 70 groups was agreed upon today by a Senate-house conference committee.

The compromise appeared to be a victory for air-minded house members who for several years have been demanding specific permanent authority for the 70 group Air Force. Senators, until this compromise, had urged a more general air program, based on 24,000 serviceable or 235,000 airframe tons. An airframe ton is the weight of the plane not including such things as engine, landing gear, guns and special equipment.

The conferees argued that a group would mean anything as new planes are developed and strategy and size of air units changed.

A Crumbling Citadel?

Foreign Aid Administrator Hoffman Repeats Belief That Tensions Are Building In Russia And Satellites; Evidence Of Revulsion Against Red Rule Seen

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Is the citadel of communism beginning to get shaky? Foreign aid Administrator Paul G. Hoffman, voiced the belief before the state governors' conference at White Sulphur Springs that tensions are building in Russia and her satellites. He declared that "once the Communist world starts to crack," it can disintegrate very rapidly indeed.

"That isn't a new thought for this country, but it's good to get the viewpoint of a high official whose business it is to keep a finger on the pulse of communism. Mr. Hoffman holds that 'the free world can win out in this battle with the Kremlin.'"

"I am assured by the positive knowledge that tensions do build up in a dictatorship," he told the governors. "A dictatorship is only successful when it is dynamic and expanding. Once you stop that forward movement—and that we have had some success with—the mechanism is subject to strains.

"The very fact that Russia must hold between 12 and 15 million of its citizens in forced labor camps is striking evidence of strain. Moreover, the tensions between Russia

Check and Furnishings Donated

J. B. Smith of Greenville presents a check to James A. Tripp, given by local citizens, who are helping Tripp rebuild and equip his house destroyed by fire last week. Tripp lost his house and all the furnishings and now Tripp, his wife and three children are living with his brother. Smith yesterday took the truck load of furniture and household furnishings shown in the background to Tripp; the gift of local merchants. (Reflector staff photo by Roy Hardee).

Necessary Items Given To Family

Clothing And Furnishings Taken To Fire Victims

The family of James A. Tripp of the House Station communally yesterday received a truck load of clothes, household goods and furnishings from merchants and individuals of Greenville.

The Tripp family lost all their possessions in a fire last week when a blaze started by an exploding oil stove swept through their house and destroyed two out-buildings. It was not until Monday that Tripp discovered there was insurance on the destroyed house. Tripp's friend, J. B. Smith of Greenville, found through a Winston-Salem insurance firm that $5,100 insurance was being carried on seven farm buildings which included only the house which was destroyed. Just how much insurance Tripp will receive for the house has not been ascertained. Two of the out-buildings which were burned were not covered by insurance.

The truck load of gifts from the Greenville merchants and individuals is not the only aid the stricken family is receiving. There are 30 ex-GI's of the Belvoir section who have volunteered to work on the construction of a new house for the Tripp family. Work already has begun on the foundation of the house on a new site, and the Belvoir veterans have agreed to work in shifts of six with each shift working one day a week.

"I surely appreciate what everyone has done for us. They really have been nice to us in helping us get the things which we need," Tripp said.

Activities Begin On Farmers Day Event Thursday

Finance Committee To Begin Drive; Breakfast Meeting; $4,250 Is Goal

Activities in connection with the annual Greenville farmers day will begin on a full scale tomorrow when the members of the finance committee begin their drive to raise funds for the event.

Van C. Fleming, Jr., chairman of the finance committee, has called a breakfast meeting of the 30-odd committee members for tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock in the Hotel Proctor dining room.

The chairman said his committee this year will call on approximately 150 business firms and individuals of Greenville in the next few days to raise the $4,250 which has been set as the goal for the financing of the 1950 farmers day. The tentative figure is approximately $400 less than the amount actually raised for farmers day a year ago.

This year's farmers day is to be built around entertainment for the rural people and educational exhibits by business firms of Greenville. Farmers day officials have announced that the new McGowan's warehouse will be used for the educational exhibits and for the entertainment features of the day.

Both spaces for exhibits will be given free of charge to firms or individuals who contribute $50 or more to the farmers day fund, Fleming stated. Contributors who give $50 to the fund may get both space for an additional $10, and contributors who give $25 may obtain both space for an additional $15.

Members of the finance committee of the farmers day group in addition to Chairman Fleming are: Tom Webb, P. Badger Johnson, Jr., J. E. Waldrop, John G. Fleming, Henry Brown, Allan Powell, Bancroft F. Moseley, J. A. Taylor, J. B. Smith, A. W. Bryan, Howard Surrill, Alton Barrett, W. M. Scales, Jr., Gordon Waters, Dan Saleed, C. J. Warren, Jack Edwards, Jr., J. B. Kittrell, Jr., Ernie Wilkerson, J. C. Clifford, James Moyer, Jimmy Harris, H. L. Lewis, Quinn Bostic, Howard Hodges, John Hardy, R. O. Everett, Dave Wilchard, Bob Russ, Charles Williams, Reid Laney, and Larry Averett.

To Fill Term

C. C. Harris of the Ballards cross roads community yesterday was named by D. T. House, clerk of Pitt County superior court, to fill the unexpired term of the late G. H. Pittman on the county board of commissioners.

Harris received the Democratic nomination for the commission's post from the third district in the first primary on May 27. The unexpired term of Pittman will expire in December.

Teaching Posts For Pitt Filled

All of the teaching positions in Pitt county schools have been filled for the beginning of the fall term, Superintendent of county schools, D. H. Conley stated today.

All prospective teachers have been notified that jobs will be open for them or will be notified during the summer months. Conley said there would definitely not be a shortage of teachers for the schools.

This year, for unknown reasons, applications for jobs have come earlier than usual, he said. And most of them are for positions in the physical education and social science fields. The latter field is currently becoming overcrowded, he said, so much so that the June graduates are having a hard time finding positions in schools throughout the state teaching courses embodied in social science.

At the school superintendents' meeting in Raleigh in the early part of June, Conley said the group was in accord in urging prospective graduates to enter some other field—mathematics, science and the like. A combination of some of these courses and ones under the social science heading would equip a grad with better jobs, the superintendents thought.

Although there is no shortage of elementary grade teachers in this county, Conley said, there is definitely a shortage of teachers elsewhere in the state for grades under the eighth. East Carolina being in Greenville has had a great deal to do with that. It seems to be for grads to apply for positions in the higher grades, he thought, rather than elementary.

Conley reported it is expected that three East Carolina graduates at the May class will take positions in the county school system beginning with the fall term.

Closing Offices On Election Day

Because of the election Saturday all offices in the courthouse will be closed. Register of Deeds Charles Gaskins announced today.

The county farm agent's office, home demonstration office, health department office, remain open through their regular Saturday hours.

The city clerk's office will be closed all day. However, the water and light office in the City Hall will remain open until one p. m. All persons paying bills will enter from the Washington Street entrance.

All AEC stores in Greenville and the county will remain closed all day Saturday.

Father And Son Capture Robber And Bank Loot

Angier, N.C., June 21—(AP)—A father and son today captured a bank robber as he fled from the First Citizens Bank and Trust Co. with $52,500.

Bank Cashier C. G. Fields reported that Harry Hamilton, about 30, held up the bank with a cap pistol shortly after 10 a. m.

As Hamilton fled down the street with his loot, Fields related, he was tripped by Henry Strickland Jr., local insurance man. When Hamilton fell to the ground, H. C. Strickland joined his son in subduing the man. Fields added.

Fields said the FBI was notified and that Hamilton is being held in jail here pending arrival of FBI agents.

All the money was recovered, the cashier added.

Report 'Saucer' Over Air Field

Made Five Passes At Field, Claim Enlisted Men

Oakland, Calif., June 21—(AP)—The Oakland Tribune said a "disc shaped object" roaring at an estimated speed of 1,000 to 1,500 miles an hour made five passes near Hamilton Air Force Base early today.

The newspaper quoted three Air Force non-commissioned officers who said the "flying saucer" shot a blue flame and with a roar like thunder dived near a beacon just north of the field.

Hamilton Field is 25 miles north of San Francisco.

Corp. Roger G. Pryor, a control tower operator at the field, said he saw a blue flame shooting out as the saucer flashed by from the southwest and headed northeast.

"I thought it was a falling star," the Tribune quoted Pryor. "But it didn't fall. It just kept on going. Pryor said the first pass was at 1:35 a. m., and the object traveled so fast he couldn't see the subsequent approaches.

The Tribune said Pryor's observation was verified by Staff Sgt. Ellis R. Larimer, another control tower operator, and Staff Sgt. Virgil Cappuro, member of the airways communication staff.

They said the saucer returned from the northwest and made another pass north of the field, then later made three more approaches.

The Tribune said the airman described the object as circular, thick in the center and tapering to the sides. They used binoculars in following its course.

Local Tobacconist Climbs Far Up Industrial Ladder

There are a number of Greenville and Pitt county men who have become successful tobacconists, but none have gone farther up the industrial ladder than Herbert Noel Hardy, who last year was elected vice president of R. J. Reynolds tobacco company.

In 1948 the Greenville native was made head of the leaf department of the company to take charge of both the foreign and domestic leaf buying. In 1949 he was promoted to vice president.

Hardy is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hardy of Greenville, and attended the Greenville city schools. He began his business career in the tobacco industry when he left Greenville to begin operating a warehouse in New Bern. Later he became a buyer for the American Tobacco company in New Bern.

In 1914, young Hardy began working with the Reynolds Tobacco company, and the following year was made a buyer for the company on the Smithfield tobacco market.

In 1920 he went to the Rocky Mount market as head buyer for Reynolds, and in 1922 was made head buyer for the company on the Wilson market. Two years later he was put in charge of all the company's

Seat For Red China In UN Said British Goal

London, June 21—(AP)—The British government today was reported to be planning to take an active role in the campaign to oust the Nationalist Chinese and seat Red China in the United Nations.

The campaign is headed by U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie as a "common sense" means of getting Russia to end the boycott she has clamped on 30 U. N. organizations in anger over the China representation question.

Lie announced at Lake Success last night that he is returning to

Higher Pensions Nearer Reality In Senate Vote

Dowd Is Elected To Lions' Office

Washington, June 21—(AP)—Senate approval by 81 to 2 carried the promise of higher old-age pensions for millions of persons a long step closer to reality today.

By this sweeping vote the Senate last night passed a bill that would roughly double benefit payments under the old-age and survivors insurance system in the federal social security system.

The measure is a major part of the Administration program. It would add about 10,000,000 persons to the 35,000,000 now covered and would liberalize requirements for qualifying for benefits.

Before final action is taken by Congress, differences between the Senate bill and a similar bill passed by the House last year will have to be ironed out by a conference committee.

Many thorny questions remain to be settled. One of the sharpest issues in dispute is whether to provide for disabled persons in the social security program. The House bill would do this but not the Senate measure.

Other key differences that will have to be thrashed out by the conference committee include benefit formulas, tax rates, eligibility requirements and federal contributions for public assistance (direct relief).

Even as the Senate passed the bill, with only Senators Butler (R-Neb.) and Cain (R-Wash.) voting against it, steps were taken toward further and possibly more fundamental changes in the social security system.

Without dissent, the Senate directed its finance committee to make a thorough study of the whole program. It will especially study the possibilities of shifting to a system of universal coverage finance on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Most Of Potato Harvest Being Sold To Gov't

Raleigh, N. C., June 21—(AP)—Farmers of Eastern North Carolina are selling a bountiful harvest of potatoes—mostly to the government. A large percentage are being dumped in piles and left to rot.

Gilbert Clark, marketing specialist for the state department of agriculture, said today that "it looked like the government is now taking over 50 per cent of the crop, and it probably will continue the rest of the season.

"The trade is not taking these cobbler and they are having to sell them to the government," Clark added.

He explained that between 75 and 80 per cent of the North Carolina production consists of Irish cobbler, a deep-eyed variety and that most of the crop are not washed for marketing.

He Joined 'Em

Omaha, June 21—(AP)—If you can't beat 'em, better join 'em. That's what Omaha Symphony orchestra conductor Richard Duncan decided about the train that invariably puffs and whistles past Peony Park in the middle of the orchestra's outdoor summer "pop" concert.

When the train chugged past last night, Duncan donned an engineer's cap and highballed his crew into the tune, "Casey Jones." The train's whistle provided sound effects.

District Meets For PTA Slated During October

Sites And Presiding Officers Announced By Grumman At Institute Today

A series of district meetings of the North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers to be held in October was announced here today by Russell M. Grumman of Chapel Hill, state PTA president. The announcement was made to approximately 400 delegates from all sections of North Carolina who are attending a four-day summer institute on the campus of East Carolina Teachers College.

Dates for the conference have not been definitely set, but all meetings are scheduled for October, according to Mr. Grumman. Ten districts of the state will at that time hold workshops, which take the form of work sessions, and are designed to further PTA objectives in North Carolina and to afford members an opportunity to discuss the work of the organization.

Cities chosen for the district gatherings and the presiding officers are as follows: District 1, at Asheville, Mrs. Melvin Taylor of Bryson City; District 2, at Shelby, Mrs. Mark Goforth of Lenoir; District 3, at North Wilkesboro, Mrs. E. M. Wilkinson of Charlotte; District 4, at High Point, Mrs. A. T. Glenn of Burlington; District 5, at Mohr, Mrs. Kerr C. Ramsay, Salisbury; District 6, at Broughton, Mrs. H. Stephens, Willow Springs; District 7, at Wilson, Mrs. J. B. Daughtridge, Rocky Mount; District 8, Fayetteville, Mrs. B. S. Thompson Whiteville; District 9, at Windfall, Mrs. Eddie Harrell, Hertford; and District 10, at Swan Quarter, Mrs. Scott Topping, Pantego.

PTA delegates continued today a series of workshop meetings, discussion groups, and general sessions, which began yesterday, and in which the main work of the summer institute is being carried out.

Mrs. Marguerite Schreyer, field secretary of the National Congress and Miss Genevieve Burton, field secretary of the State Congress, led the first general session at 8:45 this morning. The work of local, state and national PTA organizations was discussed.

With Mrs. Ernest Hunter of Charlotte as presiding officer, a second general session was devoted to a consideration of family life education. Dr. Edgar Finck, visiting professor in the department of education at East Carolina Teachers College this summer, again talked to members on topics relating to guidance, family relationships, parent education, mental and social hygiene, and the pre-school child. Dr. Finck, who as superintendent of the Toms River, N.J. schools, won national recognition as an authority on family life, appeared before the PTA yesterday morning as discussion leader, emphasizing in his address the training of the pre-school child.

At a general session at 2 o'clock Mrs. Boyce Hunter of Charlotte, state program chairman, discussed the 1950-1951 program for PTA organizations in North Carolina. The theme chosen for next year, said

Doing Well With Another Kidney

Chicago, June 21—(AP)—A woman who now has another woman's kidney is continuing to do very well, hospital officials said today.

She is Mrs. Howard Tucker. The operation, described by Doctors as the first of its kind, took place Saturday at the Little Company of Mary Hospital. A kidney was taken from a woman who had lived a few minutes before, and transplanted into Mrs. Tucker's body. Her own kidney had to be removed because it was disease-stricken.

Powers Of Congress

Constitution Does Not Give Congress Power To Force Answers From Witnesses; An Assumed Power That Has Been Recognized By Supreme Court; Background

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 21—(AP)—Every time a man is called before a Congressional committee, refuses to answer questions, is cited for contempt, and lands in jail, an ancient question arises:

What right has Congress to force anyone to answer questions if he doesn't want to? Where does Congress get the power to do that?

There's nothing in the constitution which directly gives it such power at all. But from the earliest days Congress assumed it had the power.

It assumed such power this way: Congress represents the interests of the people. And, when it is making an investigation to obtain facts upon which to pass a law, it does so for the benefit of the people.

Therefore, it must be able to get information which it considers necessary.

Congress assumed two things: (1) That it has the right to demand an answer to its questions; (2) That it has the right to punish anyone who refuses.

And there's no longer any doubt about Congress' right to do both because the Supreme court ruled

Talent Show Presented By Class In Community Recreation At College
With a cast and production staff of 66 students of East Carolina Teachers College participating, the class in community recreation at East Carolina Teachers College staged last night a talent show entitled "Life, 1950". The entertainment drew a audience of approximately 700 people, who received the performers with enthusiastic applause.

The class which produced the play is taught by W. E. Dole, of the faculty of the health and physical education department of East Carolina. Mrs. Dole directed the program.

The variety show had as its plot the coming to East Carolina of two magazine reporters with an assignment to get a picture story of campus life. Virgil Clark of Greenville and Gilbert Carroll of Weldon, in the roles of the two photographers, had leading parts in the cast and gave spirited performances.

Particularly well received by the audience was a midget show, originally conceived and attractively executed. Participating as the master midgets were Mary Taylor of Chowinitty and Floyd Rollins of Selma, and as their assistants Mrs. Dole, Thelma Lundy of Rocky Mount, and Geraldine Swindell of Belhaven. A group of fourteen men and women students appeared as

Rouse-Yelverton Vows Pledged In Formal Ceremony

Miss Daphne Yelverton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Preston Yelverton of Fountain, became the bride of Harold Floyd Rouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dixon Rouse of Farmville in a formal ceremony at 8 o'clock Saturday evening in the Fountain Baptist church. The Reverend Richard L. West, pastor of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony.

The vows were spoken before a prie dieu with a background of ferns interspersed with pedestal baskets of white gladioli and feverfew. Cathedral candles in seven branch candelabra were used in the chancel, in the pews triple candle holders with long tapers illuminating the church.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Haywood Smith pianist and Mr. Carl Perry, soloist. Mr. Perry sang "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee," "I Love Thee," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride entered the church with her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a demure white marquisette gown fashioned with a scalloped bertha edged in chantilly lace. The V-shaped bodice was closed with dainty self buttons. The dress was dramatized with a scalloped side panel caught by a sprig of lily of the valley, which revealed her after tier of chantilly lace. The full skirt extended into a cathedral length train. The fingertip veil of French imported illusion was held in place with orange blossoms. The bride carried a bouquet of stephanotis centered with purple throated white orchids.

Miss Ann Horton of Fountain, maid of honor, wore a gown of orchid marquisette over taffeta fashioned along the same lines as that of the bride. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Marvin Mercer, Jr., of Wilson, Miss Barbara Pearson of Elizabeth City, Carol Parker of Winston-Salem and Betsy Jones of Farmville wore yellow and aqua dresses identical to those of the maid of honor. The bridesmaids carried old-fashioned nosegays.

The flower girl, Amelia Hooks, cousin of the bride, wore an orchid gown similar to that of the maid of honor. Robert Dixon Rouse III, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer. He carried the ring on a white satin pillow.

Honorary bridesmaids, dressed in pastel evening gowns, were Misses Emma Lee Hough of Charlotte, Jean Taylor of Raleigh, Babs Williford and Mrs. Criz Hilliard, both of Farmville.

Robert Dixon Rouse, father of the groom attended his son as best man. Ushers were Leslie Yelverton, Jr., of Lumberton, brother of the bride, Robert Rouse, Jr., of Farmville, brother of the groom, John Randolph Willis and Dan Morgan both of Farmville, Sterling Gates of Kingston, and Ed Davenport of Rocky Mount.

Mrs. Yelverton, mother of the bride, wore a gown of aqua crepe. Her flowers were a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Rouse, mother of the groom, wore a dress of rose crepe and a corsage of orchids.

After the wedding the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at the D. A. R. Chapter House in Farmville.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Horton welcomed the guests and presented them to Mrs. William Walker and Mr. Lynwood Owens, who introduced them to the receiving line.

Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Beasley directed the guests to the stairway where Mrs. Hardy Johnson and the Rev. and Mrs. Philip Cory received on the landing.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Copeland and Mrs. W. Roderick Harris invited the guests into the dining room. Mrs. J. W. Bass served individual cakes from one end of a beautifully appointed table, while Mrs. Lynwood Owens and David Owens served punch at the other. The honorary bridesmaids assisted in serving mints and nuts. Receiving in the dining room were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Mercer, Mr. and Mrs. H. Dawson Jefferson, Mrs. F. L. Eagles and Mrs. M. D. Yelverton.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Rouse, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. F. Speight presided at the register.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Jones then presented the guests to Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hooks and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Fountain, Sr., who said the goodbyes.

Later the couple left for a wedding trip. For traveling the bride chose a Swansdown suit of mauve pink Forstmann Millitin with black accessories. At her shoulder she wore an orchid taken from her bridal bouquet.

The bride graduated from Farmville high school and attended Meredith College. The bridegroom graduated from Oak Ridge Military Academy and is attending the University of North Carolina where he is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

On June seventeenth, Mrs. Lynwood Owens and Mrs. William Walker entertained in honor of

MRS HAROLD FLOYD ROUSE

Miss Daphne Yelverton, bride-elect of Fountain.

The party was given in Mrs. Owens' country home, the original home of the maternal grandparents of the bride-elect.

As the guests arrived Mrs. Owens greeted them on the porch and directed them to the punch bowl from which Mrs. Leslie Yelverton, mother of the honoree served iced tomato juice.

Mrs. Walker invited them into the living room which was beautiful with its hand carved mantel, antique furnishing and summer flowers. Place cards were laid for sixteen guests, and satin covered double wedding rings flanked with corsages for the guests formed the centerpiece.

Mrs. Eric Copeland assisted the hostesses in serving a delicious salad course with angel cake for dessert.

Miss Yelverton received a silver water pitcher for a wedding gift.

Among the out-of-town guests for the Rouse-Yelverton wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Mercer, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Rose, Betsy and Sally Mack Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burracker and Miss Nancy Pruden of Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Yelverton, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Yelverton, Mr. and Mrs. Landis Davis of Stantonburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hooks and Amelia Hooks of Fremont.

Miss Jean Taylor, Mrs. Jack Riley and Mr. Henry Taylor of Raleigh. Mrs. Sterling Gates, Sterling Gates, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Pate and Otis Pate, Jr., and Dr. and Mrs. B. F. Beasley of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Perry, W. Moss Sally, Bill Pulk and Ed Baesel, Jr., Chapel Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Knott, Roanoke Rapids.

Miss Mary Hayes Barber and Cleaton Lindsey of Pittsboro.

On the editorial page of The Carolinian, a Negro newspaper, published in Raleigh, under date week ending June 17, appears an article, syndicated out of New York, under name Gordon Hancock, for Associated Negro Press. We quote:

"The substantial majority that Frank Graham polled in the recent primary was encouraging from many angles. In the first place Negroes supported Graham although he had to recant from some of his liberal positions; as for example the FEPC. Everybody knows that Dr. Graham is in favor of the FEPC; but he had to back down before the terrific onslaught of his enemies who were doing some deadly gunning for the man's political life. So long as Frank Graham's heart is on the right side; Negroes can afford to let him make a "strategic retreat" if by such retreat he can win over those who are a 100 percent against Negro advance.

The Frank Graham episode should awaken Negroes to the advantage of certain strategies in the fight for liberation. To have forced Dr. Graham to stand up for his former position on the FEPC would have meant his political undoing. It is far more desirable to have in office a man who is partly for us than to have one who is wholly against us. Call it gradualism or compromise it is common sense."

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

SPIRITUAL FUNDAMENTALS

The World Council of Churches composed of over one hundred fifty denominational bodies in forty-four countries throughout the world, issued a statement recently which we would do well at this season to ponder.

The statement is signed by the President of the World Council, the Archbishop of Canterbury, and five other churchmen known throughout the world.

"We need to hold fast to the promise of God for our Churches. We need to be reminded of the original confidence of the Church that the Holy Spirit which created a people of one heart and one mind would maintain and, if need be, restore their unity. The world which we speak together at Amsterdam that our Churches intend to stay together may easily fade away as we turn to our daily concerns and as we confront the difficulties of living and acting together as one fellowship. Let us then believe in the power of the Holy Spirit. He draws us together. He says to us . . . that He can overcome all the barriers that still exist between us. If we live in humble dependence on Him, we are enabled to pray and work for the unity of God's children in order that the world may believe in the Son."

Here is a program that gets down to spiritual fundamentals.

Biased Views Among The Bureaucratic Gentry

Evidence of biased views and abuse of official positions among the non-elected gentry of governmental bureaucracy is nothing new under the sun. On occasion, however, we think attention should be called to their obvious partisan wooings of bloc votes, and what we can only describe as displaying their unfitness for a governmental position.

Take for instance the assistant secretary of labor, Ralph Wright, who denounced the Taft-Hartley Act before a meeting of the AFL Textile Workers.

"The Taft-Hartley Law is slanted against labor throughout," he said. "It was carefully planned that way by the National Association of Manufacturers. The Taft-Hartley Law was conceived in hatred against labor and born in prejudice against labor."

Those are the words of a high government official who is sworn to uphold the law . . . and to administer it to the best of his ability.

How can an official, bearing the burden of such convictions, aid in administering the T-H fairly and impartially?

He may privately disagree with the law; but has such an official the moral right to publicly encourage distrust and opposition to a law which it is his duty to uphold?

The writing of the Taft-Hartley law was in the hands of men who have the right to make laws. The fact that modification is admittedly desirable does not make that law as undesirable as a minority would have us believe.

The Reflector shares the opinion of other observers that the Administration's opposition to the Taft-Hartley Act is based principally on one of the many vote-getting schemes for perpetuation in office.

With Mr. Truman's assent, his appointees are going about the job of getting him re-elected, so that they may linger a while longer in offices tastefully decorated with red tape and red ink.

When Will Cooperation Work Both Ways?

The six nation talks on the imaginative Schuman proposal have begun while Britain sits on the sidelines waiting to hop on the band wagon if the proposal turns out to appear to her selfish interests.

France, Western Germany, Belgium, Italy, Luxembourg and the Netherlands have representatives at the Paris discussions. Each of these nations have benefitted greatly from Marshall plan aid and now are seeking a cooperative movement which will make them collectively independent of American dollars.

In the meantime, however, Britain, which has received the lion's share of Marshall plan dollars, has refused to even discuss bringing its government-operated industries into the pools with the industries of the non-socialistic western nations.

British factories have been reconstructed and re-equipped with American dollars, and now they are pouring goods on the world market in competition with our own goods. And even more disturbing is the fact that they evidently expect more American dollars to pour into the socialistic industrial machine while Britain's neighbors seek to work out their problems independent of continued hand-outs from the United States.

Had the United States refused to cooperate with Britain in recent years through billions in never-to-be-repaid loans, the result would have been economically catastrophic for Britain. Now Britain's refusal to cooperate with her neighbors may imperil the success of the most progressive economic plan proposed in Europe for half a century.

The spirit of cooperation and mutual aid should be reciprocal between the allied democracies.

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, June 21—This is the tragic but factual story of how a lovely and thriving American community may soon be transformed into another "deserted village." If the Truman Administration persists in opening American markets to a flood of cheap foreign goods whose manufacture is financed by taxpayers' money in the form of Marshall Plan aid.

The community of Gloversville, which is the largest city in Fulton County, N.Y., and about forty miles northwest of Governor Thomas E. Dewey's Albany. It derives its name from the fact that tanning and glove-making are its principal industries.

It became preeminent in this field in pre-Revolutionary days, when the Mohawk and Iroquois Indians swamped the colonists with an abundance of deerskins. Sir William Johnson, the British representative and a shrewd trader, sent to Scotland for six expert glove-makers, and a prosperous industry was born.

BLESSED—Gloversville considered itself a blessed community until tariff reductions combined with certain economic and style changes to reduce it to its present low state.

The population of Fulton County is 49,000, with 24,000 living in Gloversville. The two industries provided jobs for 8,600 men and women at peak production, but of a total working population of 13,326 in the county. The rest were employed in trade, services and small shops, all dependent on the two major activities.

The annual glove output had a value of $50 million. Pay for men averaged $60 a week, $34 for women. Sometimes several members of a family worked. Most could afford to own their homes on broad, quiet, shady streets. They took pride in the full education of their children. In fact, when Syracuse University decided to establish an extension school, it selected Gloversville over larger places because of the high percentage of youngsters who went to college.

DUTY—The tariff on fine gloves was reduced from 50 to 40 per cent ad valorem at an international conference at Geneva, Switzerland, in 1947, a 20 per cent reduction. American representatives agreed that this commodity was one that could suffer in the crusade for internationalizing trade.

The 1948 devaluation of sterling and other currencies made another severe cut in the cost of foreign gloves.

Under the Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act, President Truman may reduce the duty by another 30 per cent, which would mean the doom of Gloversville and Fulton County. The question of a further reduction comes up at another world assembly at Torquay, England, in September, where the United States may agree to tariff cuts on 2,500 articles.

In preparation, the Committee for Reciprocity Information has been holding hearings here. It is before this body that spokesmen for industries likely to be destroyed are telling their story.

EXAMPLE—It is not only gloves which have suffered from the policy established almost twenty years ago by Franklin D. Roosevelt and Cordell Hull. There may be many more "deserted villages." In view of the plan for tariff reductions on shoes, silk, watches, wool, liquor, steel, hats, bicycles, toys, candy machine tools, pottery, dairy products etc.

Thus Gloversville is only a single laboratory example.

Gloversville admits that other factors narrow its market. People just don't wear gloves as much as they did in more formal and fashionable days. New-style overcoats with generous pockets obviate the need for hand coverings. So do milder winters. There is also competition from fabric gloves.

But the glove spokesmen point out that improved designing, advertising, marketing and distribution methods can combat these trends. They cannot, however, buck the United States Government.

"BUSTED"—Former inhabitants of Gloversville and nearby communities would not recognize the old home towns today. This once bustling valley in the soft, blue Adirondacks is in a hard way.

With glove sales down 56 per cent, 6,000 of the normal 13,326 working population are out of work. Since nights are long and chilly in the hills, families run to about four each, meaning that at least 25,000 are affected. Sixteen hundred of the jobs have exhausted not only their savings, but also their unemployment benefits of $26 weekly for six weeks. Not even kindly merchants can carry lifelong customers any longer. Credit is gone.

Retail business is off 25 per cent, and going down. Movies, grocery stores and small shops dependent on the glove-tanning industries are shutting their doors. Fewer youngsters are going to college. Graduates find no work on their return home.

The Mayors of Gloversville and Johnston told the Reciprocity Information Committee that their cities are almost "busted." They cannot collect taxes. Homes are being foreclosed. The two cities lack funds for routine operations. They cannot even contribute their share to federal local projects inaugurated by F.D.R. and Harry S. Truman.

Selected Shorts

OFALLON, ILL., PROGRESS: "When the Pilgrims broke loose from England and came to New England's rocky shores, they came for the avowed purpose of getting away from taxes. For many, many years the American people did quite well in that respect, the tax load in proportion to the advantages enjoyed, being lower than in other countries. In recent years, however, the situation really has changed and causes one to wonder what those hardy Pilgrims would say if they were back here today."

WILDWOOD, N.J., LEADER: "While the government is preaching thrift to its people in order to sell its savings bonds the government itself is spending billions of dollars beyond its receipts."

SCOTTSDALE, KY., CITIZEN-TIMES: "This is a good time for somebody to organize a special week or month to commemorate the checks-and-balances contained in the Constitution of this country."

HUNTINGTON, NEW YORK, TIMES: "We are a nation of families. The one big difference is that the government derives its funds from taxes and can demand constantly greater payments, whereas the family can't. The government can offer payments in cash to keep itself in power. The family must depend upon its earning power to make a go of the establishment known as home."

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

When I was back in Chapel Hill trying to learn enough Spanish to graduate I often wondered how anybody masters a foreign language. Yesterday, Mrs. Herman Nobles handed me a letter that illustrates how one Italian, Pier Paolo Grassi, has come very close to mastering English.

The letter is an expression of appreciation addressed to Mrs. Nobles for a bundle sent to Italy by the United Council of Church Women. Each year this group sends gifts for needy people abroad. This year the gifts are called "Pieces for Peace," and include material, thread, and needles for sewing, along with used garments and miscellaneous items ranging from chewing gum to soap. Last year the gift-sending project was called "Pack a Towel," and toilet articles were featured. Year before last, baby garments dominated the packages.

As a member of the United Council of Church Women, Mrs. Nobles' name appeared in one of the 11 bundles sent by her church. The church of the Italian minister who wrote this letter received other bundles from Greenville, and he mentions other names in the letter, which is dated May 30: "Dear Mrs. Nobles,

"We were agreeably surprised in becoming 8 bundles of clothes that you prepared in October of last year and we send heartfelt thanks to the brothers of the Baptist Church of Greenville and especially to the Women's Auxiliary for the kindness in sending us this . . ."

"We distributed one part of the induments to the poor of our Church and with the other part we made a little beneficence bazaar that had great success. All people were happy to buy cheap the nice things you have sent and everybody became his part. Our Church has only a hundred active members. We have a beautiful temple in the center of the town. The community suffered much during the war. The work of evangelization here shows serious difficulties, but we have also good satisfactions.

"I beg you to give my friendly salutations to Rev. R. B. Crawford and to transmit, please, our thanks to Miss Jane Hadley and Mrs. J. D. Messick and Mrs. R. W. Stark for the Methodist Church of Greenville.

"Remember us in your prayers and accept our best, fraternal salutations.

"Sincerely yours,
"Dr. Pier Paolo Grassi."
The Greenville unit of the United Council of Church Women, which has Mrs. Dink James as its president, can be proud that its efforts are fully appreciated. And I thank Mrs. Nobles.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.

GUARDS—The state of North Carolina has no definite or formulated policy about employing former prisoners as prison guards, said Dr. Henry W. Jordan, chairman of the state highway and public works commission. The statement was made in reply to inquiries from the eastern part of the state about use of ex-prisoners as guards. Dr. Jordan said he did not know, off-hand, of any such instances; but there might well be. All state employees, including prison guards, the chairman said, are selected only after a check-up of past experience and qualifications.

REHABILITATION—One major objective of the state prison system is to rehabilitate for useful citizenship the men and women who have been committed to prison for offenses against the law. This rehabilitation calls for helping released prisoners to obtain useful employment. The state itself could not consistently ask private business to employ a released prisoner, and at the same time adopt a rule that the state would not offer employment when the applicant was suited for the position.

SUITABILITY—The question of fitness for the job would naturally have additional angles if the applicant were a former inmate of the state prison, and wanted a job in the prison system. Quite obviously it would be unwise to place a man as guard over other men with whom he had served in prison. Just as obviously it would be foolish to assign as a guard with right to use a gun any man whose previous offense had been one of physical violence stemming from an uncontrollable temper. The salaries paid prison guards will not attract the highest type of personnel, but the amount is sufficient to obtain services of very capable men. The fact that, at some time in the past, the man had been incarcerated should not preclude consideration of his capability to do the job needed.

COME-BACK—It is axiomatic that many inmates of prisons are not criminals, even though they may have violated statutory law and the prison sentences may have been amply justified on that basis. That was especially true with respect to banking law violations during hectic days of the early 30's. Men who served prison terms under sentences stemming from that kind of statutory violation have staged phenomenal come-backs. They have resumed places of leadership in their communities, have served in the general assembly of this and other states, have functioned as exceptionally efficient congressional secretaries, and have made good in numerous other fields. For the State of North Carolina, or any department of its far-flung government, to adopt a policy that no former prisoner could be considered for state employment would be both absurd and cruel. Obviously, it would be just as absurd and very dangerous to employ a "trigger-happy" fellow, whether or not he had ever served a prison sentence, as guard for wards of the state.

HUMOROUS—This is essentially a very serious matter, but it has humorous angles. When secret service representatives were checking in advance about facilities for entertainment, President Harry Truman in North Carolina two years ago, then Governor Gregg Cherry hooted at some of their misgivings about executive mansion servants—who were honing or grade prisoners assigned to these jobs. "There's nothing to worry about," said Governor Cherry, in effect. "None of these servants are going to bother the President or any other guest. They are not thieves or rapists. Only thing they did was to kill somebody they didn't like and they did that in a fit of temper." The governor was, of course, being facetious; but there was a lot of sound philosophy in that observation. And the record shows that the executive mansion servants "done nobly" by the distinguished guest of North Carolina on that occasion.

FISHING—These hot summer days have turned thoughts of numerous fishermen to the swift mountain streams where trout jump to the lure of a casting rod, to the artificial lakes nestled beneath the high mountains; and to the placid waters of eastern rivers and surfcasting off the Atlantic coast. Your reporter's daily call at the office of Attorney General Harry McMullan coincided Tuesday morning with a social visit to that office by Thad Bryson, solicitor of the 20th district, and Mrs. Bryson. In that kind of set-up it would naturally follow that politics was the subject of conversation. It wasn't. The attorney general and the solicitor were talking about fishing. The reporter tried to start an argument about the relative attractions of mountain streams and surf casting. It didn't work. The argument was about relative merits of fishing from a boat in Fontana Lake or from a pier in Pamlico River. (Bryson lives at Bryson City and his district comprises the area in which are a thousand mountain streams and a dozen artificial lakes. McMullan lives at Washington on the Pamlico, has a cottage at Avon where the surf sometimes gets man-sized.) Sure, there was a lot of talk about "use to be" experienced bucking the breakers and the slippery mountain stream rocks. It was quite evident that as of now Harry and Thad like to "set" when they fish. There was something said about the advantages of a sedentary position when engaging in piscatorial sports. All of which was a bit high-brow for a working newspaper man, but the general idea was that when fellows get along in years they change their ideas about what is good fun.

SHORT-TIME is getting short for the N. O. P. Q. group of motorists to obtain renewal of drivers license. Every person whose name begins with any letter in the alphabet ahead of R must have a new license by June 30 in order to legally operate a motor vehicle in this state.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

IT WORKS BOTH WAYS (The State Magazine)
In connection with the present campaign to get people to purchase government bonds of the new issue, considerable publicity is being given in newspapers, over the radio and through the use of other media in order to arouse interest on the part of the general public.

It is being pointed out that when you purchase these bonds, you are doing something thrifty and are setting up a splendid plan of saving. You are protecting your future and are helping to build up security for yourself in your old age.

All this is true. We hope that you will buy as many bonds as you can possibly handle. But, at the same time, we feel that this business of being thrifty applies not only to individual citizens but to our Federal Government as well.

If the Government wants the people of this country to be thrifty, the Government itself should set an example in this direction.

It seems rather ironical (or something) for the Government to obtain money through the thrift, self-denial and economical living of the people and then spend that same money without regard for these same principles.

Business Today

By ELMER BOESSNER
Predicting a tide of failures among new appliance dealers was common among the wise-acres not so long ago. Many a veteran, opening a new store, could have overheard the smart boys saying, "Poor kid! He'll do all right for a while because people haven't had appliances for five years. But as soon as they catch up, the sheriff will move in."

Then came the television boom. And the housing boom. And round after round of pay rises, each promoting more families into buying brackets.

There were some failures, of course. Some dealers, shy in experience, imagination and capital, were forced to shutter. Others were licked by price-slashing competitors. But the appliance group is healthy, right up there with the automotive, furniture and building supply retailers.

And future prospects aren't bad. There's television. Lower prices for receivers have broadened the market. When the new-station freeze is melted, it will be broadened further. There are still vast areas to be opened up to telecasting. And after that will come color television, with a chance to sell everybody all over again.

There's air conditioning. Americans spend billions to get warmer, only millions to get cooler. Because of that, the industry is stepping up its promotion of air-conditioning devices; sales may reach a new peak this year.

There are home freezers. The boom caused by the meat shortage died down, but there's a steady growth in the industry now. The enormous rise in popularity of frozen foods is helping, because the freezers are the only way to keep a stock at home. And the freezer manufacturers are spending more for promotion than ever before.

There are garbage disposers. In spite of the fact these have met official resistance in some localities, the total potential is large and manufacturers say only a small fraction has been sold.

There are dishwashers. Manufacturers say 250,000 will be sold this year and that millions of more homes are potential prospects.

And every appliance manufacturer has researches and experimenters working on new devices, any one of which could provide another bonanza for dealers.

WHOLESALES SHARE IN APPLIANCE BOOM
The activity in the retail appliance trade is reflected in wholesalers' sales. The Department of Commerce reports that electrical appliance and specialty wholesalers did an amazing 37 per cent more business in the first four months of this year than in the same 1949 period.

PENCIL ASCENDING A COSTLY AFFAIR
The importance of little things in store operation was emphasized by William F. Jacob, controller of (Hecht Bros.) Baltimore, in a talk before the National Retail Dry Goods Association. Pencils cost 3½ cents each, he said. If 1,000 employees took a pencil home daily, it would amount to $37.50.

"That would require about 800 in sales to produce the equivalent in profit," he added.

SPECIAL NATURE FOR CHECKS ADVISED
Business men are being advised by Investigator George W. Adlam to have two signatures: one for checks and one for other uses.

Forgers frequently obtain copies of business men's correspondence and duplicate signatures on checks, he said. They have even secretly photographed signatures on license certificates required by law to be publicly displayed.

He also recommends using the special check signature in a mechanical check signer, which is natural since he works for the Todd Co., Rochester, N.Y., a manufacturer of check signing and protecting devices.

READY-TO-FROST CAKES CHALLENGES MIXES
Packaged cake mixes have cut into bakery sales. A Denver bakery is fighting back with "frost 'n' serve" cakes.

Cakes are packed two layers to a box. The front of the box shows picture of four ways in which the cake may be served; the back shows recipes for frosting.

NEW AND HOT TABLECLOTHS: Plastic tablecloths printed with the appearance of fine blocked linen in rich color are being introduced in red, yellow, green, blue, plum, chartreuse and grey (by Welas and Klau Co., 462 Broadway, New York 13).

TIMER: A new gadget, to be connected between a hose and the faucet, will shut the water off after 30, 60 or 90 minutes, depending on the setting. It's to prevent over-wetting of lawns (and is by Technical Services, 700 Station M., Pasadena, Calif.).

SUGAR: A sugar said to be twice as fine as any other super-fine sugar, and to dissolve instantly in hot or cold water is being manufactured (by Imperial Sugar Co., Sugar Land, Tex.). It is especially for summer drinks and uncoked things and fillings.

HOLDER: An auto accessory retains braking pressure on all four wheels after the foot brake has been pressed down. It operates only when a switch is turned, and a red indicator light warns against starting the car when the holder is operating. (It's by Lock Armature and Mfg. Co., Lock Haven, Pa.)

EYES: Plastic eyes that can be altered to match the change in the human eye as it ages have been developed (by American Optical Co., Southbridge, Mass.). A white ring appears around the eyes of many people as they age. This ring can be added to the plastic eye.

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Fred Vinson, wife of the chief justice, is "leaving it to the boys" how the family will spend its vacation this year. The "boys" are six-fersters, six the chief justice and sons, Fred Jr., 25, and Jim, 20.

"I leave all decisions up to the men in the family, for whatever they decide always pleases me," Mrs. Vinson confided. With the closing of the Supreme Court for the summer, Mr. Vinson dashed off first to Lexington, Va., to pick up Fred, who has just completed his first year in law at Washington and Lee. Then the two headed for Danville, Ky., to pick up Jim, a pre-law student at the justice's old Alma Mater, Centre College.

"My husband made a speech at a dinner his fraternity gave," Mrs. Vinson told us. "He's a Phi Delta Theta. He graduated from Centre in 1908 and from the law school in 1911." Both sons are active in sports and good baseball players. Like their father, who once played professional ball with the Blue Grass league in Kentucky, "He was an excellent player, I've been told," Mrs. Vinson said, "but his mother had a fit. She said she had sent him to college to be a lawyer, not a ball player."

Mrs. Vinson is mighty proud of her sons—"They're such nice boys, both democratic and unspoiled, though they've lived all their lives in official Washington circles. It's the most interesting city in the world, but here one has to keep his sense of values—know what is real and not real," she told me. "I haven't changed inside. I always keep in mind what my father once told me—"Be nice to the people on the way up; you're likely to meet the same people on the way down."

The Vinsons are always on the go. Two or three nights weekly they attend one of the formal dinner parties which, custom prescribed that all heads of foreign missions give in their honor. There are more than 70 ambassadors and ministers here. That means 70 or more formal dinners a season for the chief justice and his lady.

Of course they don't have to accept every invitation. But the Vinsons not only have a strong sense of duty to their government, they honestly like to go to parties. Only trouble is the chief justice has to abide by protocol and leave early. No one may leave before him. He might be keeping some early-to-bedder up. "I start looking at my watch around 10:30," Mrs. Vinson said.

Besides the diplomatic dinners, many private hostesses have entertained for the Vinsons this year.

Denies Claim Of Coercing Voters

Raleigh, N.C., June 21—(AP)—A state highway commissioner has denied a charge that he told Sampson County residents they would not get any roads if they didn't vote for Senator Frank Graham.

Missioner Wilbur Clark of Fayetteville yesterday by Charles F. Green, state campaign manager for Senatorial Candidate Wilbur Smith. Graham and Smith are opponents in a runoff primary Saturday for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Green said the alleged incident occurred prior to the May 27 primary. He added that R. D. Baggett, a Sampson County farmer, swore to an affidavit outlining the charge. The affidavit, Green asserted, declared that Clark "had stated to him (Baggett) and others that if they did not go to the polls on Saturday,

May 27, 1950, and vote for Dr. Frank Graham for the United States Senate that they would not get roads in Sampson County and that the roads were already started in Sampson County would not be completed unless he and others supported Dr. Frank P. Graham." Green also charged Clark with having a "large number" of Republicans re-register as Democrats to vote for Graham "under similar road threats."

Vacation Bible School To Close

Diplomas for 306 colored children will be awarded Sunday night for attendance at the vacation Bible school held at Fleming Street school. The school has averaged 300 boys and girls each day and has been supervised by 15 teachers. The final session will be held Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30. After that the pupils will be taken to the Evans Street playground for a picnic lasting until 2:30 p.m. The mothers of small children are asked to meet them at the playground to take them home. All mothers are asked to prepare a picnic lunch for the children. At 7:30 p.m. Sunday the commencement program will be held at York Memorial auditorium. Special invitations have been extended to parents and friends of the children. Demonstrations by each student will be given to show what they have learned at the Bible school. Handicraft exhibits also will be on display in the basement of the church. The school was made possible by the uniting of York Memorial Methodist, Holy Trinity Holiness, and Mount Calvary Free Will Baptist. June Rose, superintendent of city schools, termed the school the most successful that the churches have ever conducted. The enrollment included 89 beginners, 127 primary pupils, 85 juniors and 115 intermediates.

Truman Accepts N. C. Invitation

Asheville N. C., June 21—President Truman has accepted, "unconditionally," an invitation to attend formal dedication of the Blue Ridge Parkway. The invitation was extended to the President yesterday by a North Carolina-Virginia delegation, including Rep. Robert L. Doughton, (D-N. C.) who gave some of the land for the scenic mountain-top highway. The parkway links Shenandoah National Park, Va. and the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in North Carolina and Tennessee. The delegation said after a call at the White House that Mr. Truman had accepted the "unconditional" invitation. Doughton added that Mr. Truman promised to attend the ceremonies as soon after Congress adjourns as possible. The dedication has been set tentatively for August 12. The ceremonies will take place at Doughton Park, in North Carolina, near the Virginia border.

Robins Drop Overtime Tilt By Score Of 6-5 In Roanoke Rapids Last Night

Took Early Lead, But Count Knotted At Bottom Of Seventh; Hallow, With Homer And Two Singles, Paced Hitting Attack

By BERT MOYE
The Roanoke Rapids Jays handed the Greenville Robins their sixth defeat of the season by taking a 6-5 win in an overtime contest at Roanoke Rapids last night.

Yonnie Bass, the Jays' leftfielder, cracked out his sixth straight hit in the 11th inning to score Larry W. Hallow from second with the winning run. Quartararo reached first on a single and moved to second on L. O. Katkavek's sacrifice. W. A. McJunkin drew an intentional walk, and then Bass followed through with his game-winning safety.

The Robins took a 3-0 lead in the top of the first inning when George Hallow parked a 335-foot homer over the right field wall to bring in two mates ahead of him.

The Jays came back in the bottom of the first to score a singleton on three straight walks and a single by Bass.

The Robins scored another marker in the second stanza to take a 4-1 lead, but the Jays pushed across two runs and narrowed the lead to a 3-3 margin in the third.

Greenville increased their lead to a 5-3 margin in the sixth frame by driving across one run, but the Jays came back in the bottom of the seventh to knot the count at 5-5 by scoring two runs and force the game into extra innings.

Alton Brown went the route for the Jays, chalking up his fourteenth win of the season and his third against the Robins. He has lost three, one of these being to the Robins. Brown gave up a total of 10 hits in last night's contest, but kept them well scattered throughout the game.

George Hallow with a homer and two singles, and John Bakits and Vince Lautato with three singles each paced the 18-hit attack off Brown.

Lefty "Shoes" Scarpa started on the mound for the Robins, but ran into trouble in the seventh and was relieved by Pitches Jim Lewey, who was charged with the loss, his seventh of the season and his first to the Jays. The two Robin hurlers gave up a total of an even dozen hits with Yonnie Bass accounting for half of the total hits.

The two teams meet here again tonight at Guy Smith stadium in a single game, at which time all sides will be admitted for half price.

Leafing through J. Gaskill McDaniels' Coastal Plain League record book, one finds some interesting items about people and games over the past few years in the loop.

Found a picture of Tom Hanna, an umpire back before the war in the league, and the book says he was a favorite with the fans. Tom hailed from Gaston County.

Here are some nice little "forgotten notes" which are found sprinkled throughout the record book:

"Former manager Tommy Sewell of the Bears is a brother of Luke and Joe, ex-major stars.

"Fayetteville's (then in the Coastal) Ed Musial is Stan's brother. Which reminds us that Hank Greenberg's brother Joe played third at Kinston back in semi-pro days.

"Al Evan, flunked with New Bern in '37, but has been with the Washington Senators ever since.

"Tarboro set a record during 1939 that nobody wants to top. The Tars lost 27 straight.

"Night ball was hard to sell Coastal Plain clubs. They feared a loss of rural trade.

"With a reported population of 300 Snow Hill used to have 2,000 of some of its more important games.

"Umpire Tom Hanna always had a ready answer for any leathery-lunged fan who wanted to know who the officiating ump was. 'You are, Tom, would 'bout at his hecker, but I'm getting paid for it.'

"Greenville pulled a fast triple play against Snow Hill on August 14, 1936, and went on to subdue the Hill bilities by an 8-2 margin.

"Few games come any better than Tarboro's 1-0 win over Greenville on July 3rd, 1938. Bernard McGuire of the winners and Fred Calligory of the losers each allowed just four hits, and received errorless support.

It took Buster Maynard's seventh inning homer to decide the contest.

"Kinston had a merry time of it on May 22, 1937, defeating Goldsboro, 30-5. Four Goldsboro pitchers gave up 25 hits, but fortunately no one was killed by a batted ball.

"Tarboro's Danny York pitched the first no-hit, no-run game in the Coastal Plain League after it entered organized ball. . . .

Sharp-Schooling Farmville-Maccesfield Game Has Added Import

Farmville, June 21—Tonight's Farmville-Maccesfield game will decide which team shall be in top position in Bright Belt loop play. It may also determine whether or not Farmville can regain the leadership quality it held for about two months before dropping out.

DiMaggio Gets His 2,000th Hit

Cleveland, June 21—(AP)—Joe DiMaggio's usual poker face cracked into a broad grin as he favored photographers by kissing the baseball he belted over Marino Piretti's head for his 2,000th major league hit.

Exchange Club Defeats Legion

In the only game of the day in the Civic League, the Exchange Club outdistanced the American Legion to win 12-1. The Exchange scored eight times in the second inning and managed to hang on for the victory.

Cooper Has Lead In Voting Race

Chicago, June 21—(AP)—Walker Cooper of the Boston Braves, passed Roy Campanella of the Brooklyn Dodgers today in the voting race for the starting National League catching post against the American League's best in the 17th all star

Boys League Baseball

The Pirates continued in the lead in the Senior Division by winning a free-scoring game over the Phillies yesterday at Third Street School. The score was 10-9.

The game was in doubt until the final out. The Pirates led 8-7 in the final inning. In the top of the ninth the Phillies scored twice and apparently had the game under control after they had retired the first two Pirates batters in the bottom of the inning, but an error and hits by Bobby Perry and Roland James won for the Pirates.

Leading hitters for the visitors were Billy Johnson, Richard Joyner and Bobby Nunn with a double and single each. For the Phillies it was Kent Lee and Doug Morgan with two singles apiece.

The Tigers from the Training School continued their domination of the Mite League by defeating their closest contender, the Cubs, from Third Street. The Cubs, who have a habit of "playing dead" when they face W. L. Allen, Jr., the Tiger ace, came to life in the last inning to score two runs. The bases were full when the side was retired.

Hathaway was the big gun for the losers with three singles. Lewis Arthur got three hits for the Tigers.

Schedule for Thursday:
Cubs vs. Indians
Phillies vs. Giants
Red Sox vs. Wildcats
Dodgers vs. Braves.

FACES PRISON TERM
Henderson, June 21—(AP)—Linwood Winslow, 30, Negro, faced a prison term of 10 to 15 years today. He was convicted yesterday on a charge of attempted rape.

Major Attention From Candidates

Raleigh, N. C., June 21—(P)—The State's fast-paced Democratic Senatorial campaign dove on today toward its climax with the race issue drawing major attention. Each side blamed the other or the

Graham and Willis Smith of Raleigh. Voters will decide between them in a runoff Primary on Saturday. Smith declared at a rally in Asheville last night: "I do not know what sort of deal the Graham supporters had with the Negro leaders of North Carolina, but it certainly seems that, whatever the understanding, the raising of the race issue by my opposition produced results for Dr. Graham." He mentioned what he called bloc voting against him in some Negro precincts in the May 27 primary. Governor Scott, who appointed transcribed radio speech that injection of the race issue into the campaign "is an insult to the intelligence of the people of North Carolina." He called it "an obvious move to confuse the issues." Graham, on the second day of a "handshaking" tour of eastern North Carolina, reiterated his opposition to FEPC and said he believed in working out the race problem "through education and religion and through good will." The Senator visited Cumberland, Bladen, and Pender counties yesterday. His schedule today called for tours in Onslow, Jones Craven and Lenoir counties. Smith, who spoke at Asheville after a day of campaigning in Buncombe county, headed today for Greenville, where he will take part in a television broadcast tonight. Former Senator Robert R. Reynolds, who ran third in the first Primary and has thrown his support to Smith, made a transcribed radio speech urging Smith's nomination.

Voting Machines To Be Discussed

Asheville, N. C., June 21—(P)—The question of whether Buncombe county should use voting machines will be discussed by county commissioners today.

Coke Candler, chairman of the board, said the commission is very much interested in installing voting machines—if a way can be found to pay for them. The cost for a county-wide installation has been estimated at $135,000. Each machine costs approximately $1,350.

Candler pointed out the use of machines would eliminate long hours of ballot counting and tabulating, resulting in a cash savings on wages to election workers.

Fred Vinson To Visit Asheville

Asheville, N. C., June 21—(P)—Fred M. Vinson is scheduled to arrive in Asheville today.

Vinson, chief justice of the United States, will preside over the annual judicial conference of the fourth U. S. Circuit. The conference is held in conjunction with the summer session of the fourth U. S. Circuit court of appeals here.

The chief justice will preside at Friday's session of the appeals court, last step in the federal set-up before the Supreme court.

To Dead Airmen

Clinton, Ill.—(P)—On the night of Feb. 5, 1943, an army plane crashed on the John A. Gibson farm. Five officers and men were killed.

Mrs. Gibson decided that they should not be forgotten. She put up a homemade plaque bearing their names at the scene of their deaths. Each Fourth of July, Armistice Day and Memorial Day, she places five flags in a half circle about the plaque and lays a bouquet of flowers in the center.

Crossings should be Seen and not Felt

WHEN the sign says "Stop, Look and Listen," the prudent driver does. But after that what? Must you still move forward at a cautious crawl or pay toll in jar, jitter and jounce? Not, good sir, when you're at a Buick's wheel. You step on the throttle, move easily, swiftly forward. Your wheels dance—your tires drum-roll over rail and plank. But four gentle coil springs, one on each wheel, are working their magic—and you hear rather than feel the rough spot you have crossed.

That, of course, is only one kind of rough going you can meet in your travels. It's only one kind of discomfort your Buick's built to master. For beside gentle coil springing, every Buick rides on soft, low-pressure tires. Every one is steadied by a rigid torque-tube. Every one boasts a rigid, weaveproof frame—soft, sure shock absorbers—even special engine mountings to minimize vibration. They can have the special added smoothness of Dynaflo Drive,* cushioning power-thrust in spinning oil. So rough spots seem to level out at your coming. Boulevards take on a new smoothness. You know what riding comfort is—why the Buick ride is called matchless.

So how about it? Come climb into a Buick and see for yourself what we mean. You'll get a style-thrill and a power-thrill along with your ride-thrill—and a story on price that eliminates your last excuse for not traveling in the Buick manner!

Only BUICK has Dynaflo—and with it goes! HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) * NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD fenders, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" taillights * WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back * TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less gear-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius * EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles * SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube * WIDE ARRAY OF MODELS with Body by Fisher.

FOUR-WAY FOREFRONT This rugged front end (1) sets the style note, (2) saves on repair costs—vertical bars are individually replaceable, (3) avoids "locking horns," (4) makes parking and garaging easier.

Political Tales Would Be Funny If Issues Minor

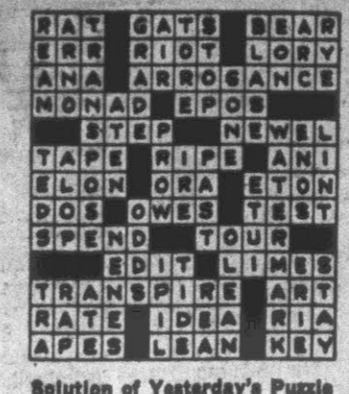

By LYNN NISBET
 Raleigh, June 21—To most folks it's funny, but to those people closely identified with the campaign it is serious business. Reference is to the wild claims and distortions of propaganda in the current senatorial campaign.

There's the story about the appearance of Senator Frank Graham in the Harnett County courthouse at Wilmington on Monday. The courthouse was crowded, everybody agrees on that. Harnett County officials say there are seats for about 250 people but in a pinch with using all standing room some 350 people can be cared for. The Raleigh News and Observer story said "nearly 1,000 people" jammed the courthouse. The Greensboro News story said "about 300" attended. Then there's the story about Sen. Graham demanding that circulation of a circular proclaiming that Willis Smith wanted to go back to a 12-hour day, 15c an hour, industrial schedule, be stopped. His Durham County and his state headquarters denied sponsorship of the circular. But a letter from Graham state headquarters a few days before notified county managers that such a circular was upcoming and might prove effective in textile centers only. There's also the story about Willis Smith firing one of his office stenographers—because he caught her eating a Graham cracker for lunch. There was report of a near riot at Southern Pines when a Graham speaker had a heckler removed by police. Investigation disclosed that a retired army officer was asked to leave the room because he was interrupting normal procedure at a political meeting. The meeting was in the high school auditorium and it was obvious from the start the speaker and the heckler were not on good personal terms.

Also there are numerous stories about anonymous literature. There's plenty from both camps, according to reports. Most of the complaints about that type of campaigning come under head of the kettle and the pot. Which is the blackest depends entirely upon personal affinity of the person complaining. There are many people who would prefer the battle between the "Gingham Dog and the Calico Cat" in Eugene Fields' fantasy they both "et each other up." That can't happen, because North Carolina must have a junior senator.

Seriously the fact is there has been a lot of extraneous matter injected into this campaign, other than qualifications of the two candidates for the Senate. Who started what or when cannot be positively determined. Nor is the timing of great importance to the voters. The question they must answer Saturday is which of the two candidates, on basis of past record and future prospects, will most appropriately represent North Carolina in the United States Senate.

SMOKY JOE

By W. F. BRAGG

Chapter 23
Nevada Kate walked coolly from the wings. She wore a gorgeous red silk dressing gown and carried a sawed-off shotgun. She broke the gun and blew the smoke from the barrel she had fired. Then stepping lightly onto the judge's twitching frame, she handed the gun to Joe.
"You're under arrest for murder, Kate," Hard Hat Bulvane said hoarsely, and seized Kate's arm.
"You lie," said Smoky Joe, and knocked Hard Hat into the footlights. "She had every right to gun him. You see, this Pecos Shay was Kate's husband. And I reckon, his eyes sought Connie in the front row, 'if there's such a thing as love, she must have loved him." Kate nodded, dry-eyed. "I went up and searched the judge's office for the gun," he said, "after you come up tonight and told me how Pecos had cashed in. I reckon it's the right gun."
Joe nodded. "My dad's sawed-off."
"So if there's nothin' else, boys," Kate waved gaily to the audience, "my girls and I will be headin' for Frisco on the first stage out of town. Before I go," she was smiling as she faced Joe, "that was all a joke about you shootin' me in the arm. Pecos got me by accident. Same for big Turk. But the judge thought it would be cute to trade guns on you."
And so Nevada Kate stepped out of public life in Rawhide Gap.
Pack Rogan sought to depart with her, aided by Pudge Groner. Groner alid out of the wings and pitched a gun across the stage to Pack.
"Catch!" he yelled.
Whisperin' Johnson came running out and belted Pudge over the head with his rifle barrel. Pudge went down with a grunt. But Pack had a gun in his hand now. And desperately he turned on Smoky Joe.
"I know my hand's played out," he said hoarsely. "That blasted law shark roped me into the deal. I shoulda stayed with stud poker. But I don't figure to decorate no hang rope for anybody!" And he began firing as he finished talking.
All Smoky Joe heard above the long roll of the thundering Colts, as he walked straight down the center of the stage, was the shrill scream of Connie Hale. He saw the greenish face and the sitted eyes of Pack Rogan rising above coils of smoke. And then the eyes were no longer there. And somehow Connie was on the stage and her arms were around him.
Hard Hat Bulvane lay groaning in the footlight trough. A stray bullet had taken him from the rear as he sought to jump out of line from Rogan's blazing gun. He had been luckier than Big Turk. He hadn't been killed.
"Now this town," said old Pap McDevitt, mounting the stage, "will need a new sheriff. Us McDevitts, to put ourselves in the clear for bustin' into your jail and takin' out a nice girl, will throw that Lost Creek water right into your foot ditch company. We'll keep you from goin' busted on one condition."
"Name it!" roared the crowd.
"Here comes Shorty Dike!" Put him in as your next sheriff!"
Two McDevitts led Shorty down the center aisle. They were trailed by Monty and Jane.
"Dike for sheriff!" yelled the crowd.
Shorty stared amazed. Smoky Joe was on the stage with a girl in his arms. Rogan and Pecos Shay were there also, but now at rest. Whisperin' Johnson stood guard over Pudge Groner. He belted to Shorty, "How long do I have to Sherriff? Come on up and do your duty! Escort this fat miscreant to your calaboose."

"What's your hurry?" Shorty sputtered. "You ain't got no where. You still got a sentence to serve for bein' drunk and disorderly. An' bustin' the sheriff's hat."
"I'll buy him a dozen hats. And then you and me'll go to jail, Shorty. And we'll both be drunk and disorderly this time. Genuine drunk and disorderly." He tromped over and slapped Joe on the shoulder. Connie whipped around and suddenly planted a wet kiss under the right wing of Whisperin' hay-colored mustache.
"You old darling," said Connie. Whisperin' fell back into Shorty's arms, his flour sack bandage tilted down over one eye. Then, with a yell, he turned and grabbed Shorty and cut a pigeon wing.
"Drinks tonight on Whisperin' Johnson!" he belted. "Out her high wide and handsome. Drink to the bright eyes of two fine brides. And two fine sprouts that's gettin' 'em for better or worse. Monty McDevitt! And Smoky Joe Munro!"
His yell echoed back from the walls and the crowd took it up in one vast roar while Joe stood shaking hands with his old partner. "Smoky Joe! Smoky Joe!"

Monday's Cases In Police Court

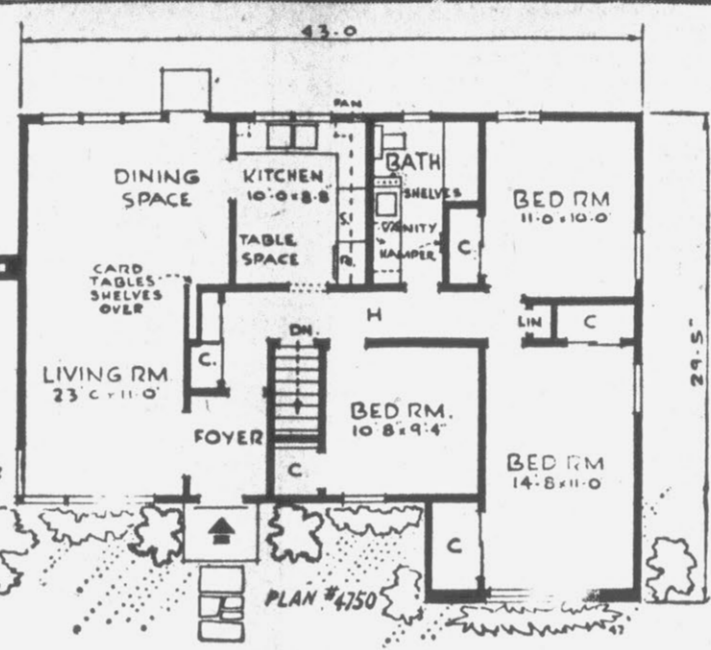

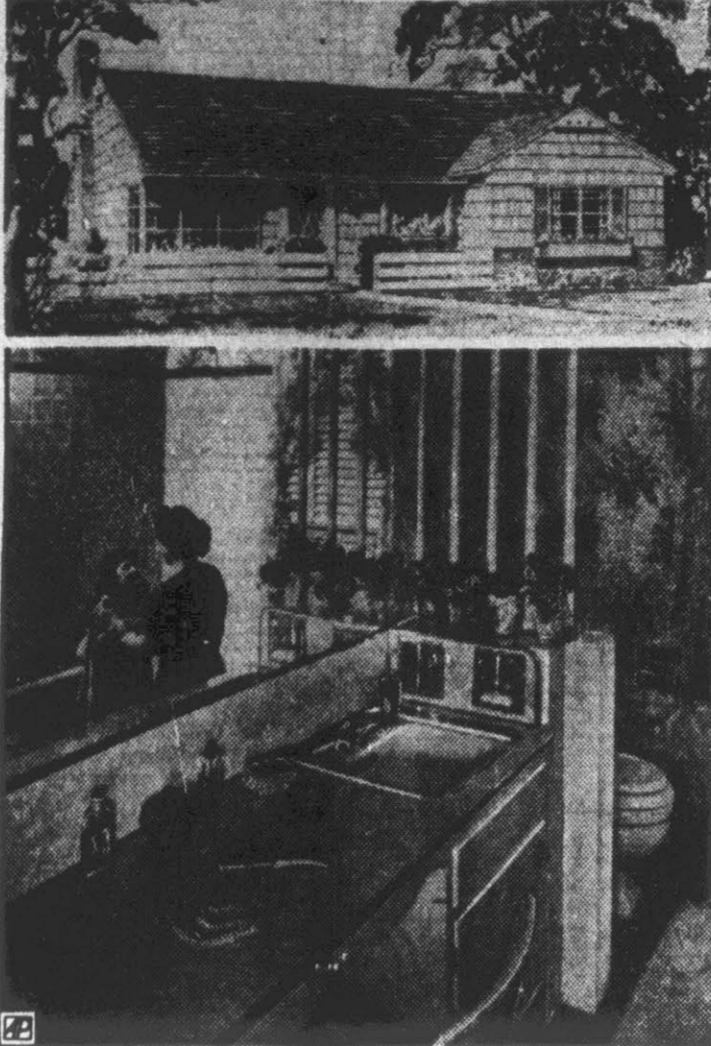

In City Police Court Monday a large docket was presided over by Judge J. W. H. Roberts. Eleven of the cases to come before the judge dealt with assault cases. Harry Patterson, charged with discharging fire arms in the city and two other warrants for assault with a deadly weapon was adjudged guilty and the following sentences imposed: assault with deadly weapon, six months, suspended on payment of $50 less costs, and six months, suspended on payment of $25 less costs. Patterson was also ordered to pay $10 for doctor's bill. The man appealed the cases to Superior Court. George Gardner, colored, paid $15 for assault with a deadly weapon. Randolph B. Ennett, colored, paid $15 for assault. Neva N. Patterson and Carrie M. Edwards, colored, were found guilty of assault with a deadly weapon. Neva Patterson received a sentence of six months at State Prison, which she appealed, and Carrie Edwards was given a six months jail term suspended on payment of $50 less costs. Nina Lee Jones, colored, was given a six months sentence to be served at State Prison for disorderly conduct, vulgar and profane language and assault. James Killbrew and Henry McLawhorn, colored, were fined $15 for forcible trespassing and assault with a deadly weapon. Rubell May and Theodore Wilson, colored, were not guilty of assault with a deadly weapon. Fred Worthington, colored, was given 30 days at the county home for being drunk. Marvin M. Carr and Elvin Brewer, white youths, were ordered not to visit any pool rooms in Greenville, and prayer for judgment was continued in the two cases charging them with affray. Abbie Lee Carr, colored, was not guilty of affray. Clarence Harris, Jr., paid $20 less costs for speeding. Clarence E. Carr, colored, was given 60 days on the roads for affray and assault on a female. He appealed to superior court.

Tuesday's Cases In County Court

In County Court yesterday, presided over by Judge Dink James, Helen Fitzpatrick pleaded guilty to a driving drunk charge and a charge of driving without operator's license. The woman was sentenced to six months in jail, suspended on condition that she not operate a motor vehicle on the public highways for a period of 18 months and pay $100 fine and court costs. Lucy Shackelford, who was a passenger in the Fitzpatrick car at the time the arrest was made, was charged with public drunkenness. In court she pleaded guilty and was given a 30-day sentence, suspended upon payment of $25 less costs, and put on probation for six months. Judge James sentenced Richard Roberson, colored, to six months on the county roads, sentence suspended, and placed on probation for two years, pay cost. He was charged with assault with a deadly weapon. The judge also ordered that Roberson not drink any alcoholic beverage and not to have any gun, knife or any other weapon in his possession, or ramble at any time. In the case charging H. T. Savage with giving a worthless check, Savage pleaded guilty and was given 60 days sentence, suspended on payment of check in the amount of $80 and pay court costs. The check must be paid by the second Tuesday in August, the court ordered. Sam Williams, colored, charged with abandonment and non-support, was ordered to pay $50 and costs of capias or sentence will be imposed. In the case charging Lester Brown with driving drunk, the court transferred the case to Superior Court for jury trial.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

HOW A DREAM comes true—This house was built and the bathroom, shown on the plan, photographed as shown in the middle picture. The mirror is above the built-in vanity table adjoining the lavatory. The plan was worked out from a list of features people ask for most frequently. Cost controlled this, but such demands as adequate storage and low rambling lines were carried out. The result is what the Small Homes Guide calls "The Home America Needs." This is plan 4750 by Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 2, N.Y. The plan covers 1,114 square feet. It has been construction tested on a 1,000-house project at Forest City, Wantagh, L.I., N.Y., where it was sold for $11,000 on a plot 60 by 100.

Powers Of . . .

(Continued From Page One) procedure is this: You refuse to answer a question. The House or senate, depending on whose committee you refused to answer, cites you for contempt. Then you go to trial in a federal court and, if found guilty, are fined or jailed, or give both penalties. But—and this is a point not often remembered: Both houses still have the right to skip the trial in a federal court and try and sentence you themselves. Congress could do that today. It has never given up the right to

As a matter of fact the Red advance has been halted altogether in Europe along the front formed by the satellite countries. Moreover, the gains achieved by the Communist parties in countries like Italy and France have been largely nullified. In the great industrial Ruhr of Western Germany, where the Reds had shown much strength, communism has taken a terrific beating in the current election. The Ruhr is the most populous state of Western Germany and is comprised largely of miners and steel workers.

Segregation In Draft Act Test

Washington, June 21—(AP)—A touchy civil rights dispute in the Senate today clouded the future of the peacetime draft act now set to expire at midnight Saturday. There appeared to be little argument about continuation of the selective service registering of all young men from 18 through 25 years for possible emergency military service. Instead battle lines formed over a test on President Truman's directive to end Negro segregation in the armed services. The issue was raised through a proposal by Senator Russell (D-Ga.)—already approved by a majority of the Senate Armed Services Committee—to give every future enlistee or draftee the right to serve in units made up only of persons "of his race." Democratic Leader Lucas (Ill.) told a reporter he is confident there are enough votes "to kill this." He asked the Senate to work overtime in a night session tonight if necessary to complete action. Lucas probably would settle for an agreement to vote sometime tomorrow. Russell, who insists his proposal is a "true civil rights measure because it protects our traditional right of the individual to select his associates," made no claims as to final Senate action.

Heaviest Shower Fell Yesterday

Ready For Vote On Excise Cuts

Washington, June 21—(AP)—The $1,010,000,000 excise tax slashing bill, bearing a "veto proof" tag to be paid for largely by corporations, is now set for a vote in the House next Wednesday. Top Democrats said it would pass, with the excise imposts being cut—probably September 1—on fur coats, jewelry, movies, pocket books, cos-
