Two Pitt county men were injured yesterday afternoon when the car shown above ran through an intersection stop sign and collided with a Pitt County Board of Education Truck at Rountree crossing around 4:45. The injured men who were taken to Pitt General hospital for treatment of their injuries were listed by Patrolman R. C. Holt as A. F. Fleming of Grimesland driver, and W. J. Edwards, a passenger in the car. Patrolman Holt stated this morning that the investigation of the accident is not yet complete. (Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee)

Veto-Proof Excise Tax Cut Approved

House Measure Adds Increased Levies On Big Corporations; Ultimate Fate Of Any Tax Cut Still Undetermined

Washington, June 29—(AP)—The House today approved the $100,000,000 excise tax-cutting bill "veto proofing" it with a $438,000,000 a year boost in new levies on big corporations.

But the ultimate fate of any tax reduction it may be tied to the Korean war.

The House action tossed the bill to the Senate which may take to revise it or kill it depending on developments—whether more money will be needed.

Just ahead of its final vote the House rejected 238 to 147 a Republican move to split the bill in two.

As leading the bill as a "phony" tax reduction the Republicans tried to get separate votes on one by reducing excises and then on another dealing with the tax increasing and loopholes plugging provisions of the package measure.

But failure in this effort may mean the bill is committed to excise reduction joined with Democrats in the final vote for the bill.

The House with this vote and with its work far ahead of the Senate then is ready to begin tomorrow a 10-day July Fourth recess.

The tax bill would slash the excises many of them imposed in World War II on jewelry, furs, pocket-books, movies, baby bottle warmers and so on of other items.

These cuts might become effective September 1 or October 1.

While slashing the excises—sometimes called misers or sales taxes—the measure would make up the revenue loss by the boost on big corporations loophole plugging and other tax law revisions.

Soviet Condemns Security Council Action On Korea

Resolution Calling For Armed Support Of Invaded Korea Said Illegal

London, June 29—(AP)—Russia today condemned as illegal the United Nations Security Council's call for armed support of invaded South Korea.

The Russian note, addressed to U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie and broadcast in a Tass dispatch by Moscow Radio, was the first official statement by the Soviet government on the Korean question since fighting started there on Sunday.

The council resolution was illegal, the note said, because:

1. Unanimous approval of the five permanent council members was needed. "Two permanent members, the U.S.S.R. and China, are absent."
2. The Russians since last autumn have refused to recognize the Chinese Nationalist delegation as legal representative of China in the U.N. and have sought unsuccessfully to have them replaced by representatives of the Chinese Communist regime. Soviet absence from the council meeting Tuesday was in line with their boycott, since last January, of all U.N. meetings at which Nationalist China was represented.
3. Seven votes were needed for adoption of the resolution. It was adopted "by six votes with the participation of a seventh, Kuznetsov-Tsiganov-Ting Fu, who had no lawful right to represent China."

The council voted 7-1 at Lake Success Tuesday to ask all U.N. member nations to take military action against the Russian-sponsored North Korean government.

Those voting for the resolution, in addition to its U.S. proposer, were Britain, France, China, Cuba, Norway and Ecuador. India and Egypt, lacking instructions from their governments, abstained. Yugoslavia, former Russian satellite, cast the only dissenting vote.

The council action gave international endorsement to President Truman's previously announced plan to send U.S. military forces to aid the South Koreans. After passage of the resolution Britain, and later Australia, announced naval aid would be furnished. U.N. officials have begun canvassing members to determine what forces they can make available.

The Soviet reply to the council resolution was strongly reminiscent of the defiant rejection of the Security Council cease-fire order adopted last Sunday. Failure of the cease-fire move resulted in approval of the military aid measure.

The North Korean regime termed the cease-fire resolution illegal because the Soviet Union and China had not been represented when it was adopted. They objected also that their own government had not participated in the discussion.

Truck Damaged But Men Unhurt

Car Reportedly Went Through Intersection Stop Sign

Two Pitt County men were injured yesterday afternoon around 4:45 and two others escaped possible serious injury when a car collided with a County Education Truck at the Round Tree Intersection.

Patrolman R. C. Holt of Ayden, investigating officer, said that a car operated by A. F. Fleming of Grimesland went through an intersection stop sign at the Round Tree Crossing and collided with a Pitt County Board of Education truck driven by Brantly Jolly of Ayden.

The truck turned over following the wreck after traveling along the highway for about 50 feet, while the car went down the highway into a church yard about 130 feet away.

Fleming and Edwards were thrown from the car by the impact while the occupants of the county truck did not receive any injuries in spite of the fact that the truck turned over, causing heavy damage to the truck. The truck, a one and one-half ton model, was fully loaded at the time of the accident.

Holt said the truck was headed in the direction of Ayden and the car was going south in direction of Goldsboro.

Fleming was reported to be suffering from severe shock and bruises while Edwards suffered painful facial lacerations and shock.

Estimated damage to the truck was placed at around $300 and over $500 to the car, which was a 1949 model.

Holt stated this morning that investigation of the accident was not yet complete.

64-Year-Old Federal Tax On Oleo To End Saturday

Washington, June 29—(AP)—The 64-year-old federal taxes on oleomargarine will vanish Saturday.

Most of the price-cutting has already been done. Many manufacturers have cut yellow margarine by about 10 cents a pound within the last week or two, anticipating the end of the 10-cent federal tax on that product.

The manufacturers, seeking to get themselves in good competitive positions for an expected upsurge of sales of tax-free yellow margarine in July, have absorbed the 10-cent tax for the last part of June instead of passing it on to the wholesaler, retailer and consumer as they used to.

So people who live in states that allow the sale of yellow margarine, and who use that product, very likely have seen the price fall in recent days, say from 41 cents a pound to 31 cents, or thereabouts. Consequently next Saturday they may see little or no change in price. There have been drastic cuts in the price of white margarine.

President Truman signed the margarine tax repeal bill on March 16. The House had passed it 262-106, the Senate 59-20. This was a victory for the margarine makers and the friends of cottonseed oil and soybean oil, which are used in margarine. It was a defeat for the dairy states and the friends of butter. These interests had been fighting it out for many years, with the dairy people gradually losing ground.

Here are the federal taxes that will disappear next Saturday:

- Ten cents a pound on yellow margarine, paid by the manufacturer as the margarine leaves his plant.
- One-fourth cent a pound on white margarine, paid in the same way.
- Retailer's 48 license fee, paid each year on July 1 to sell yellow margarine, and $6 to sell white margarine.
- Wholesaler's $480 license fee to sell yellow margarine, and $300 to sell white margarine.
- Manufacturer's $600 license fee to make any kind of margarine.

Rooms For Students In Private Homes Needed

Statistics released late yesterday by officials of East Carolina Teachers college show why rooms for men and women students in Greenville homes will be needed this fall if the college is to meet the demand for living quarters from its applicants.

The principal difficulty at present seems to be in securing living places for women students. Registrar Dr. J. K. Long said. He pointed out that the last living accommodation on the college campus is a woman student was assigned on June 15, and all applications received since that date have had to be accepted on a conditional basis. Probably as late as August applications for the fall quarter will still be received by the college, he added.

Dr. Long said the applications are being accepted with the condition that women students are able to find satisfactory living accommodations in Greenville. On the college campus there are living accommodations for approximately 718 women students. Davis hall houses 171

Air Support Spurs Fresh Offensive By South Korea

Reoccupy Strategic Airport; MacArthur Heartened By Stand In Quick Visit To Front; B-29's Join Air Assault Against Communist Troops

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

Behind the pounding of seven American Superfortresses, South Korean forces stormed back to the offensive today and reoccupied strategic Kimp'o airport, west northwest of fallen Seoul.

While American bombers were blasting Communist North Korean invaders out of the field, U.S. and Korean strategists drew their main battle line along the Han River and ordered it held at all costs. About 25,000 troops on each side face each other along the line.

The 75-mile battle line protects the American air basehead in Korea and field headquarters of Gen. MacArthur's officers. MacArthur's officers said they believe the South Koreans can hold it now.

MacArthur, back in Tokyo after a 15-hour flying visit to the front, appeared heartened by the stiffening resistance he saw and the morale of the Koreans, who cheered him. The Southerners apparently were recovering from the initial shock of the Communist invasion. Infantry units once cut off by the Red tank attack which enveloped Seoul were being regrouped swiftly to join the counter-offensive.

The South Koreans moved in—at least temporarily—on Kimp'o airfield just after two American bombers blasted the Communists out of the field. To the southeast, Seoul, South Korea's capital, appeared for the present firmly in Red hands, with street fighting virtually at an end.

American bombing and supply operations were stepped up with the entrance of the B-29 Superfortresses to the mounting offensive. Other B-29s bombed targets near Inchon and Seoul and along the 38th parallel. Behind the assault the rest of the fleet moved back into Kimp'o and to the north, engaged the Reds at captured Uijongbu, 13 miles north of Seoul.

MacArthur, commander-in-chief of U. S. Pacific forces, who is leading the United Nations in determined measures to stop the Red invasion, drove by automobile to the edge of Seoul and saw the toughening resistance behind American air strength. After 15 hours at the front, he returned to Tokyo. Communist planes dogged him and one which tried to attack his unarmed transport was driven off by an American fighter escort.

President Truman in Washington apparently was confronted with another grave decision: whether to order American troops into the fight to stop the drive of Communism in Asia. Possible further commitment of American forces—ships, planes and materials already

Proposal To Require Registration Of Communists Said Sufficiently Important To Be 'Must' Legislation

Washington, June 29—(AP)—Republican Senators applied pressure today to Congressional action on a "Communist control" bill before Congress adjourns. They claimed wide public support.

The issue was one of many that upset plans of senate Democratic leader Lucius of Illinois and other congressional leaders to wind up law-making July 31.

A strategy session late yesterday of the senate Republican policy committee produced the new move, apparently timed to the U. S. Ultimatum against Communism in the Far Pacific.

Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) of the Republican policy makers told reporters that the proposal to require the registration and restriction of Communists in this country is "sufficiently important" to ask that it be added to the list of "must legislation."

Taft said Republicans would support a Communist registration bill reported favorably more than two months ago by a 12 to 1 vote of the senate judiciary committee. They may propose some changes, he added.

Co-sponsors of this measure are two Republicans, Senators Mundt of South Dakota and Ferguson of Michigan and a Democrat, Senator Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina. Taft, said Republican Leader Wherry, of Nebraska, would ask Democratic Leader Lucas to add this to the pre-adjournment legislative schedule.

Lucas, asked about this, said he must consult the Senate Democratic Policy committee before any decision.

It was a good bet that Democratic leaders would be reluctant to add this controversial item—certain to sprout many campaign year speeches in the Senate—to a list that already is overcrowded.

The pending Senate measure is a revision of a former anti-Communist measure, known as the Mundt-Nixon bill that won overwhelming approval in the House two years ago but died in the Senate.

Half Of Cotton Farmers Dusting Boll Weevil Said Catching Pitt Farmers Napping

The scourge of the cotton growing South—the boll weevil—is catching about half of Pitt's cotton farmers napping.

And if they don't wake up soon, they won't have a crop to harvest.

That was the opinion of Pitt's county farm agent Sam Winchester this morning when he reported on boll weevil treatment on farms throughout the county.

Winchester estimated that about 50 percent of the cotton farmers had begun treating their plants for the weevil and the results have been very gratifying. The infestation on all farms that have begun since dusting was started last week.

In a cross-section report of farms in the county, the agent stated newest treatments can practically eliminate the boll weevil and its damaging activities. On two farms that have treated the plants twice, the infestation has been cut from 14 percent to six after the second dusting. And with each weekly treatment, the percentage is expected to lower considerably more.

It is not now too late to begin treatment, Winchester said. And he urged all farmers who want a cotton crop to begin immediately. If they don't begin soon, they may as well forget about expecting any cotton to pick.

The boll weevil is at its all time worst in Pitt and in other sections of the state. Boll weevil treatment began for the first time on Monday of last week. Dusting for four weeks, with seven days between treatments, the weevil will have spent itself and his damage gotten under control.

If after the fourth treatment there are still weevils in the crop, an extra treatment should be given, after the seven day interval. And after the weevil begins to migrate toward the latter part of July, treatment should be started again, provided it was not brought under control during the first four-week period.

Britain's Unhesitating Offer To Stand By The U. S. In Korean Affair Fulfills Need For Unity In Crisis; War Not Inevitable If We Stand Firm On Issue

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

Britain's quick action in offering the United States powerful naval support in the Korean crisis vastly strengthens the hands of democracy in dealing with this fresh Communist aggression.

The whole House of Commons broke into cheers when Prime Minister Attlee announced that British naval forces in Japanese waters were being tendered to the U.S.A. for immediate use. And former Prime Minister Winston Churchill was immediately on his feet to pledge the Socialist premier the support of the Conservative party in this dramatic move.

Whether America actually needs this extra naval aid is of far less importance than the fact that we have here another striking exhibition of solidarity between these two great world powers. That's a potent warning against further Red aggression.

Not all the democracies have been so quick to stand up and be counted. Many have been proceeding more cautiously, with a weather eye on Moscow.

Wilson's Weekly Bulletin

From the RECTOR'S KITCHENS

Fun Foods are an important part of our modern Fourth of July celebration. And here's where Wilson's Certified Cold Cuts come in.

What could be more appropriate than the edible giant cannon crackers illustrated below, to add hilarity to your luncheon, supper, or party on the Fourth? To make such a tasty cold cut platter arrange sliced Wilson's Certified Cold Cuts in stacks and insert cloves (prong ends down) for the cannon cracker fuses. Serve with the usual sandwich accessories—buns, bread, Wilson's Clearbrook Butter or Certified Margarine, lettuce, mustard, horseradish and the like.

Wilson's Certified Cold Cuts, Certified Luncheon Roll Sausage, New England Sausage, Pot Roasted Beef, Braunschweiger, Thüringer, Coked Salsami, and Certified Frank (in skins or skinned)—all make excellent cannon crackers. Be sure they are all Wilson's "Certified". Then you can count on delicious quality and flavor.

COLD CUTS HOT

BROILED COLD CUTS. Slice 1/4-inch thick. Heat in skillet or under broiler, to a golden brown, and serve hot in toasted buns. Or, top cold cuts with cheese and broil as Kabobs over hot glowing fire. Wrap bun around cold cut and serve hot.

BARBECUED COLD CUTS. Warm up gently (never boil) in Barbecue Sauce. Or serve cold, topped with hot Barbecue Sauce—especially fine for Pot-Roasted Beef.

FRENCH FRISK COLD CUTS. Cornmeal or better-dip the cold cut slices and fry in deep hot Bake-Rite or Laurel Lard (375°F.) to a golden brown.

WAFLED COLD CUTS. Sandwich the cold cut between two thin biscuit layers and bake in waffle iron, or butter the outside of a bread and cold cut sandwich and bake in waffle iron.

Barunschweiger and Pot Roasted Beef are the only cold cuts that will not fry. The former can be broiled, however.

Breakfast Club Has Supper Party

Sixteen members of the Credit Women's Breakfast club enjoyed a weiner roast and party at the home of the president, Mrs. Dorothy Copeland, on the Falkland highway last night at 7 o'clock. Sliced ham, potato salad, potato chips, cucumber and other type sandwiches, pickles, olives and cokes were other menu features.

Swimming was enjoyed at the White pool prior to the supper party. Members were invited to attend the special meeting at the college Thursday morning when a representative, Mr. R. N. Tarkington, from Gregg Publishing Company was to speak at a business education conference.

Winners of attendance awards were Mrs. Lucy Pittman, Miss Josephine Smith, Miss Zolma Bradley, Mrs. Margaret Boykin, Mrs. Ruby Lumm and Miss Lucile Jackson.

Guests from the Rocky Mount club attending were Mrs. Parks Oliver, Miss Zolma Bradley, Miss Josephine Smith, Miss Pearl Bullock, Miss Corinne Denson, Miss Vivian Robbins, Miss Lucile Jackson. The Rocky Mount club sponsored the local club's organization.

Members voted to attend the week-end "get acquainted party" at the Fresh-Air Observer camp on the Catawba river near Charlotte, August 12-13 when other Breakfast clubbers will enjoy the hospitality of the Charlotte group.

Mrs. Ann Johnson and Mrs. Tommy Sellers assisted Mrs. Copeland in serving.

Slight Danger In Re- Apportioning

By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh, June 29—Preliminary census figures showing North Carolina's population to be well above four million makes it almost certain the state will not lose a member of Congress. There is still possibility that unexpected growth elsewhere might cut this state's representation. The danger is slight.

Preliminary figures compiled by the Greensboro Daily News for every county except Harnett (where 1940 figures are used) show a 1950 state population of 4,052,944—a gain of 13.5 per cent over the 1940 census report of 3,571,633. Harnett is expected to show a gain and final total may be about 4,054,000.

Intention of all twelve members of the national house of representatives does not remove necessity for re-arranging the state's congressional district lines. The 12-county first district, already the smallest by far, gained only 266 persons, or about one-tenth of one per cent, and has a 1950 count of 239,306. The 7-county fourth district, holds its place as the largest moving up from 358,573 to 401,027 gain of 11 per cent. Highest percentage gain was scored by the sixth which went from 314,659 to 390,218 to take second place in size with a gain of 26 per cent.

It is unfair to leave 239,000 in one district with a full congressman, while 400,000 in each of the other districts have one apiece. That is particularly true since the apportionment on national basis will be approximately one congressman for each 340,000.

The congress determines the representation for each state. State legislature fix the districts within their own borders.

Chiefs Confer On Fire Problem

Durham, June 29—(AP)—The Second District of North Carolina Fire Chiefs Association wants to improve fire protection in institutions, particularly where inmates are housed behind locked doors.

At the district's one-day meeting here yesterday the 35 attending chiefs proposed a joint committee to work toward that end. It would be made up of state association members.

The chiefs pointed to the recent Leaksville-Spray jail fire in which seven persons died.

Superior Court Judges To Meet

Lake Lure, June 29—(AP)—Superior court judges of North Carolina will meet here tomorrow for their annual judicial conference. Sessions will continue through Sunday at the Highway Patrol Lodge.

Judge W. C. Harris of Raleigh is the president of the group. Conference secretary is Judge Henry L. Stevens of Warsaw.

Senatorial Districts Are More Lopsided Than Ever

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, June 29—Positive obligation rests upon the 1951 general assembly to re-arrange the state senatorial districts in order to afford semblance of equitable representation. This is a more pressing duty than revision of congressional district lines.

Many observers doubt that the assembly can longer ignore the injustice imposed upon people living in larger counties, which inequity has been aggravated by the current census figures.

For example, present distribution of senators gives one for every 53,163 persons in the second district, but only one for 196,163 persons in the twentieth district. Stated another way, each of the two senators elected from the district comprising the counties of Beaufort, Dare, Hyde, Martin, Pamlico, Tyrrell and Washington counties has almost four times the voting power of the senator elected from Mecklenburg county.

The one senator elected from the 33rd district comprising the counties of Cherokee, Clay, Graham, Macon and Swain represents 57,265, while the senator elected from Mecklenburg represents 196,163 and the senator elected from Guilford represents 190,126.

Pitt county with a 1950 population of 63,770 has one full senator, virtually twice the voting power of the Buncombe and Gaston senators, three times that of Guilford and Mecklenburg.

There will be some shuffling in house seats by reason of greater population growth in some counties. Constitutional provision that each county shall have at least one representative leaves only twenty seats to apportion on population basis.

Practical political consideration is that the new apportionment will be

Prison Term For Smithfield Man

Smithfield, June 29—(AP)—A young Smithfield man today faced a seven to 10 year term in State Prison after he entered a plea of non-burglarious entry.

Charles E. Stanley, who had been charged with burglary and attempted rape, was sentenced by Judge Chester Morris here yesterday.

Evidence showed that Stanley was caught in the home of Ernest Stewart after Stewart had been awakened by the screams of his 15-year-old daughter. Judge Morris noted that there was some doubt whether the youth was conscious of what he was doing at the time. He claimed he had been drinking.

Tentative Date

Asheville, June 29—(AP)—If it's okay with President Truman, the Blue Ridge Parkway will be dedicated Saturday, August 12.

That tentative date was set here yesterday at a meeting of a subcommittee of the Blue Ridge Parkway Associated Chambers of Commerce.

Mr. Truman has said he'll participate in the dedication but can't be sure of the date until after Congress adjourns.

The program will be held at Doughton Park, about 26 miles south of the Virginia line.

Scott Declines To Intervene In Execution Plans

Raleigh, N.C., June 29—(AP)—Governor Scott today announced he would not intervene to save the life of Claude Shackelford, who is scheduled to die tomorrow for raping a 10-year-old girl.

The governor said he had given careful consideration to pleas by Shackelford's attorneys and relatives, including his mother, that Shackelford's life be spared.

They urged the governor to commute Shackelford's death sentence to life imprisonment, contending he was mentally incompetent.

The governor said he had failed to find sufficient support for the plea in reports submitted by medical experts.

Carolina Reds Rap Korea Move

Chapel Hill, June 29—(AP)—A sheet distributed here yesterday called on Americans to write or telegraph President Truman demanding that he withdraw U.S. armed forces from Formosa and Korea.

The mimeographed sheet was signed by Julius Scates, Box 63, Chapel Hill. Scates has designated himself a chairman of the Carolina Communists. He was not available for comment.

The sheet, entitled "The Truth About the Korean War Crisis," asked: "Are we willing to allow the Truman-GOP coalition to drag America into war?"

Eager Recruit Is Just Too Large

Memphis, Tenn., June 29—(AP)—The Korean crisis gives John Patrick Laxton an idea.

He's had the same idea before, but no matter.

The 38-year-old ex-prize fighter is going to try to enlist in the army. He's tried and failed 19 times since Pearl Harbor to get into some, any, branch of the armed forces.

The recruiters just shake their heads. He's 6 feet 11 1/2 inches tall.

Pelley's Bid To Avoid Transfer To N. C. Fails

Noblesville, Ind., June 29—(AP)—William Dudley Pelley's latest move to avoid extradition to North Carolina has failed.

The former Silver Shirt leader had asked for continuance of a habeas corpus hearing by which he is seeking to avoid extradition. But that motion was denied yesterday and the hearing still is set for Monday.

Pelley was paroled last February after serving half of a 15-year sentence for sedition.

He filed the habeas corpus action when North Carolina tried to extradite him. That state wants him to serve a suspended sentence of two to three years for violation of its securities laws.

Asheville, N.C., authorities contend he has violated terms of his probation.

Dr. Clyde Erwin To Attend Meet

Raleigh, N. C., June 29—(AP)—Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, State superintendent of public instruction, will fly to Geneva, Switzerland, July 4, to attend the 13th International Conference on Public Education.

Erwin announced today he has been designated a member of the U. S. delegation to attend the conference which is sponsored by the UN Educational, Scientific, and Organization and the International Bureau of Education.

Never Too Old

Los Angeles, June 29—(AP)—The Los Angeles County X-ray survey advertised a free X-ray for anyone over 15.

A man wearing a sombrero walked up to one of the mobile units.

The clerk took his name—Manuel G. Lopez. Then asked his age.

"109 years old."

Lopez said he was born in Irapuato, Mex., in 1941. He got the X-ray.

Solidarity . . .

President Truman has warned us that "we face a serious situation." However, he expressed the hope that his decision to use American force will bring peace to the world ultimately.

I believe that hope is well founded. We may have to fight another world war if things go badly—but it is not true that such a war is inevitable.

A firm stand by democracy is likely to discourage Communist aggression. A display of weakness by democracy at this crucial juncture would be inviting further aggressions like that now directed at Korea, with the certainty that another world war would have to be fought.

Apropos of this we have a striking development in central Europe. Chancellor F. Adenauer of the West German government is said to intend asking the Allies for security guarantees against the possibility of attack through Communist-dominated Eastern Germany. The chancellor is meeting with the American, British and French high commissioners in Bonn today and is expected to raise this question.

Adenauer takes the position that what has happened in Korea could happen in Germany. And of course he is right—providing the Red aggression isn't dealt with firmly right now. The parallel between Korea and Germany is too glaring to be ignored.

The security of Western Europe could hinge on this issue.

The New Draft . . .

There are other youths who can get deferment from induction into the armed forces for various reasons. (Under the law an exempt person can't be drafted. But a deferred person is one who is kept out of the draft only for the period of such deferment.)

Deferments—

1. Conscientious objectors whose conscience won't let them fight although they are willing to do non-combat duty in the armed forces.
2. Youths who are in important farm work or some occupation considered necessary to the national health, safety or interest and can't be replaced.
3. Youths living with a wife and child; or youths whose drafting would mean a real hardship for someone dependent upon them.
4. Members of a reserve outfit, like the National Guard or the Officers' Reserve. But—and this was the only important change made by the new law—the President can call them into active service anytime he thinks fit.

they're needed. Also, to get deferment because you're in the National Guard, you must have been in it since before June 24, 1948. Which means:

You can't duck the draft if you're needed, by running to join the National Guard now.

6. College students in advanced courses in the Reserve Officers Training Corps. A student just beginning ROTC training couldn't escape the draft simply by being in ROTC.

What of a youth who wants to finish his schooling? The boards will defer a youth in high school or college until he has completed a year of school in the year in which he otherwise would have been drafted. This is not really a deferment but only a postponement.

Anyone desiring a board's decision can appeal to the appeal board in his state. If turned down there, he can appeal to a three-man final appeal board appointed by the President.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
PATTERNS OF THOUGHT
It is hard for us to realize that this generation, with all its scientific advances, is making just as many mistakes—and in fact very much the same type of mistake—as people have made in the past. The person today who advocates a course of action contrary to the customs, tastes, and intellectual pattern of his day is just as much ridiculed and hated as reformers and heretics have been in other ages. Galileo challenged the science of his day, and he was compelled to recant on bended knee. Pasteur worked with the full knowledge that most of the scientists of his day hated and despised him and would clap him into jail if they had legal justification for so doing.

Anyone today who tries to stem the onward rush of modern thought is met with contempt and vilification. Today's pattern of thought is scientific—at least allegedly so. But when Einstein, fifty years ago, challenged this pattern, most people dismissed him as a dreamer and a crack-pot. The men who run our government, manage our education, write most of the books, and control the literary output of the nation sing the same song, scratch one another's backs, and take part enthusiastically in a mutual admiration program.

And the dissenter is just as bitterly hated today as he ever was.

Emergency Gives Congress Free Tax Hand

The reduction of the lingering war-time excise taxes which until a few days ago seemed to be in the offing, now apparently will hinge on the impending crisis in Korea.

The tax measure, which has been a principal issue in Congress during this election-year session, recently has begun to conform to the wishes of President Truman who threatens to veto the tax bill if it does not make up in taxes from large corporations the loss in revenues from the removal of excise taxes. The bill would create a $433,000,000 tax boost for the big corporations.

Although the people of the nation have been clamoring for the removal of the "emergency" excise taxes which were placed on furs, jewelry, telephone calls and other "luxury" items during World War II, the current world situation may offer Congress and the administration the opportunity to keep the taxes in force for another year without seriously affecting the status of the members of Congress who will be seeking reelection this fall.

The threat of a full scale war as an outgrowth of the Korean affair makes the proposed reduction of taxes an unwise thing at the present moment. If developments should lead to war, more federal money would be needed to carry out the full scale operation. If the Korean affair proves to be only an international incident the military participation of the United States should amply be taken care of through current appropriations.

If the proposed reduction in taxes fails to materialize, the fact will hardly be used effectively against the members of Congress who will seek reelection next November. In the face of the possible developments in the Korean affair, Congress can hardly do other than hold taxes at their current levels and look for new resources of tax revenue to be tapped if necessary.

Will Greenville Aid The Growth Of ECTC?

We sincerely hope the appeal from East Carolina Teachers College for living accommodations for women students in Greenville homes does not go unheeded.

There is no need to enumerate the advantages the college has brought to Greenville. Neither is it necessary to point out how much the college will continue to mean to Greenville with its continued growth in enrollment through the years. Everyone in Greenville is aware of the benefits the city has derived from the college.

The housing situation on the college campus is acute and the enrollment the college will have next fall is now dependent upon how many students, men and women, are able to find rooms in Greenville homes.

In past years a large number of men students have found places to live in Greenville homes, while women students were able to secure living quarters in the college dormitories. This year, however, the last accommodations for women on the college campus were assigned on June 15 for the coming fall quarter. Each day the college is receiving additional applications from women students who want to come to ECTC. These applications can be accepted by the college only with the provision that the applicant is able to find herself a place to live in a home in Greenville.

Men students for the most part have found comfortable living quarters in Greenville homes. But with women students, the matter is different. College officials say they have found the people here are somewhat reluctant to take women students as roomers. Yet, if the homes of Greenville are not opened to women students as well as men students, many young women who wish to come to college here will be forced to enroll in some other school or not attend college at all.

Officials at the college estimate next fall's enrollment between 1,800 and 2,100 students. On the college campus there are living accommodations for approximately 718 women students and 440 men students. The other members of the student body, not counting those who are Greenville students and those who commute from near-by communities, will have to find places to live in Greenville homes.

The increase in the enrollment at ECTC is vital to the continued growth of the college. The continued growth of ECTC is vital to the future of every person who lives in Greenville.

The Reflector urges the people of Greenville to consider the seriousness of the situation which faces East Carolina Teachers College, and to do what they can to accommodate the overflow of students.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, June 25—Two of President Truman's more politically minded appointees will enjoy a czar's power over a broad segment of American business and industry as a result of the Chief Executive's peculiar interpretation of Supreme Court decisions and Congressional intent in his recent veto of the bill restoring the historic basing-point system.

The two professional politicians who have been given a decisive influence in selecting the corporations they will or will not prosecute for alleged violation of this provision of the anti-trust laws are Attorney General J. Howard McGrath, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and former Senator James M. Mead of New York. Mr. Truman's hand-picked chairman of the Federal Trade Commission.

INTERPRETATION—Before discussing the confusion caused by Mr. Truman's avowed attempt to rewrite judicial rulings, FTC orders and Congressional legislation, in an effort to appease prominent Democrats facing election next November, it should be said that the interpretation given above has been drawn by some of the most able and noted lawyers on and off Capitol Hill.

To them the language of the veto is utterly inconsistent and unexplainable save on the basis of partisan politics, especially as its author never completed his night school course at a Kansas City law school.

DECISION—Argument over the everyday effect of Mr. Truman's action still persists in legal, political and industrial circles.

But the fact is that he has made it possible for the McGrath-Mead combination to prosecute a so-called anti-administration corporation, like the Mellons or du Ponts, for alleged misuse of the basing-point system, while they look the other way when a "friendly" firm indulges in the same practices.

The decision on prosecuting or not prosecuting no longer depends on what the law says. It depends on what Messrs. McGrath and Mead think it says.

SMART—In view of this veto, it is now expected that corporate contributions to the Democratic campaign chest for the 1950 and 1952 elections will surpass all previous records, although normally GOP interests have kicked in heavily in gratitude for war and Marshall Plan contracts and in protection against federal prosecution.

Another singular development suggests that Mr. Truman is working both sides of the street in a move to satisfy big business and to placate the "liberal fringe" represented by the Americans for Democratic Action.

It consists of the fact that Democratic sponsors of the vetoed measure in House and Senate have advised their corporation friends to disregard the Supreme Court decision outlawing the basing-point procedure, and to forget the veto on the ground that it really doesn't mean what it says.

In other words, if read judiciously between the lines, it was only a smart campaign document.

LAWYERS—The veto is expected to provide a field day for political lawyers. It also places a premium on hiring the right law firms in future basing-point litigation—such men, for instance, as Clark Clifford, Mr. Truman's former ghost writer; Max Truitt, Vice-President Barkley's son-in-law; Paul Porter, former OPA Administrator; Thurman Arnold, former Assistant Attorney General in charge of anti-trust prosecution; Abe Fortas, who used to serve as Curmudgeon Ickes' "hatchet man" in Interior.

All are most excellent "fair dealers," standing in well at the White House, the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Charlie Howard of the Greenville Tobacco Company recently returned from six weeks in Europe, where he transacted business for his company. Fortunately, Charlie can speak enough German to get by. The Greenville Tobacco Company's agent in Germany was born in Italy, but is a Turk. He doesn't know a word of English, so he and Charlie struggled along with German.

Charlie went down to Rome for a few days. While there he met two salesmen from Denmark. One was a dealer of farm implements and the other was selling ladies lingerie. Both spoke English, so Charlie had companions while there.

Rome impressed him at first as a very dirty city, but after a day he began to see through the dirt. Mussolini did more to restore Rome than had been done in three centuries, and his work remains today, only because Rome was not bombed during the war. Charlie took in the sights of Rome, even to the place where Mussolini made his famous speeches. In Germany the black market is still going strong, although the items of exchange have been reduced to coffee and tobacco. The fair trade price set on coffee by the German government is about $3.25 a pound, but it can be bought on the market for about $1.75. The cigarette black market offers American cigarettes, but at a higher price than German brands.

As the story goes, black market goods are smuggled into Germany in big tractor-trailer trucks. The lot is covered by legitimate goods, like clothing, for example. The trucks get passes on the contention that they are travelling straight through Germany, from Denmark to Switzerland. Then they throw out the "hot" goods at designated places, to be picked up by co-workers. Then in Switzerland they pick up a load of Swiss goods, and repeat the same process. There's a mint of money being made in the black market in Germany, but not much in legitimate business. In order for the black market to continue its function, officials are probably being paid off. The black market is discussed freely among the people of Germany. There's nothing "hush-hush" about it. People realize that it exists, and accept it as a matter of course.

Charlie spent a few days in Holland. When I asked him how he likes Holland he replied, "Not much. The country is too flat." Of course Eastern Carolina is the same way, and Charlie loved it. But as far as Europe is concerned, he likes hills.

The son of one of Europe's tobacco men is planning to come to Greenville to make a study of the industry on this side of the pond. At present he can speak only a few words of English, but he's making a study of the language. Charlie will be ready to return the hospitable reception he enjoyed.

And I thank Charlie.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.

Y.D.C.—One collateral effect of last Saturday's primary was deferment and re-arrangement of the program for the Young Democratic Clubs executive committee meeting scheduled to be held in Raleigh Saturday, July 1. President Terry Sanford and most of the YDC leaders were ardent supporters of Senator Frank Graham.

There is evidence the July 1 meeting had been planned as a Graham victory celebration. It had been widely publicized as featuring an all-women speaker list, headed by Mrs. George Neese Clark, treasurer of the United States, and a top-flight Truman Fair Dealer.

BACK-UP—The primary election did not go according to plans of the YDC and the Fair Dealers. So the program had to be completely overhauled. Cards mailed out by President Terry Sanford after the votes were counted advised all and sundry that it had been discovered that advertised speakers would not be available for the original date, so the meeting was postponed and another program arranged. Of course, everybody responsible will contend last Saturday's voting had nothing to do with change of plans. Equally of course, everybody else will believe that it did. There is also prospect that results of the North Carolina primary last week and the Arkansas primary coming up in a few days may necessitate change in program for the annual YDC state convention in September. Wide publicity has been given to the fact Governor Sidney McMath of Arkansas would be the big speaker at the state convention.

RE-VAMPING—Results of last week's primary may have more far reaching effect upon YDC in North Carolina than postponement of one meeting and change of one program. Majority of the Young Democrats supported Senator Graham. A substantial minority did not; and this substantial minority resented the way the dominant faction sought to turn every YDC meeting into a Graham rally. That happened at Greensboro, Asheville and Greenville. It was slated to happen at Raleigh. The Democratic voters busted up the Raleigh deal, and maybe several others. The whole set-up may be revamped and brought back original concept of non-factionalism within the party, all-out support of the party nominee in the general election.

INTERESTED—North Carolinians are manifesting more than usual interest in government and public affairs. The outpouring of voters on May 27 and June 24, confounding nearly all the prophets as to number who would go to the polls, was only one of several instances offering evidence of this growing interest. Attendance at the highway safety conference Tuesday was another. When Governor Scott originated the idea for the highway safety committee and named John Park, Raleigh Times publisher, as chairman he and several others expected about a hundred people to respond to the invitation. The meeting was scheduled for the hall of the house, including lobby space, about 200. Acceptance came in so fast the affair was moved to the textile building auditorium at State College which seats about 500. That hall was jammed Tuesday. It was first thought there might be two dozen interested people attend the hearing on medicated feeds slated by the department of agriculture. That number was multiplied several times.

Together—More gratifying than number of participants in these and comparable discussion groups is the way North Carolinians differ on methods, approaches and non-essentials—but get together on basic decisions. The quarter million people who voted for Frank Graham last Saturday are almost solidly behind Nominee Willis Smith now.

When the GATT privileges for nonparticipants end, of course, Mexico will have to rethink her ground. At that time it may well seem to her advisable to enter into the GATT framework. That would, in effect, compensate for her retirement from our present bilateral trade agreement. And whether or not that happens eventually, Mexican manufacturers may indeed in the meantime experience something of a boom in Mexico's domestic market. American exporters will no doubt suffer losses in that market. And American consumers of Mexican products like oil will probably have to pay higher prices as the old high tariffs succeed on our side to the lower rates in the lapsing trade agreement.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

LAPSE OF THE TRADE PACT BETWEEN MEXICO AND U. S. (Baltimore Sun)

The announcement that the United States-Mexico reciprocal trade agreement will be permitted to lapse in December is an unwelcome one. Following Colombia's example of some two years back, the Mexicans have decided that the trade agreement as now conducted is an indulgence which they can no longer afford.

It is easy to guess at least two of the reasons which probably underlie their decision. First, Mexico, like much of Latin America, like relatively underdeveloped countries everywhere in the world, dislikes being underdeveloped. There are influential groups in Mexico which look upon the supply to manufacturing countries of mere raw materials like oil and lead as somehow inconsistent with full national dignity.

Raw material countries, according to this view, have not really risen out of the colonial class, notwithstanding their admitted independence in the political sphere. In this way of thinking, manufacturing industries of ones own are a necessary attribute of true sovereignty. Unquestionably one reason Mexico is willing to see the American agreement lapse is that it will enable her to raise her tariffs and so stimulate her own domestic industries.

But there is another factor present which probably suggests to Mexican Government economists that Mexico may not suffer the full penalty of this lapse of agreement with the United States. Our own Government and other governments in the western trade area have been moving away from conventional trade agreements. These are merely bilateral, after all, despite the fact that under the most-favored-nation principle, the privileges accorded in them are extended to countries not party to them. In place of these old-fashioned bilateral agreements, the United States and other countries are moving to the single all-inclusive General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) launched at Geneva some years ago.

This agreement now provides that the privileges accorded to each other by participants are also open to nonparticipants. Mexico is a nonparticipant. Nonparticpants will be permitted to enjoy the privileges of participation without its burdens only temporarily. But while that possibility is open, shrewd trade people in Mexico may well see an opportunity. It is the opportunity to boost their domestic manufactures by higher tariffs, while exploiting such concessions as may come Mexico way under the GATT program.

When the GATT privileges for nonparticipants end, of course, Mexico will have to rethink her ground. At that time it may well seem to her advisable to enter into the GATT framework. That would, in effect, compensate for her retirement from our present bilateral trade agreement. And whether or not that happens eventually, Mexican manufacturers may indeed in the meantime experience something of a boom in Mexico's domestic market. American exporters will no doubt suffer losses in that market. And American consumers of Mexican products like oil will probably have to pay higher prices as the old high tariffs succeed on our side to the lower rates in the lapsing trade agreement.

By ELMER ROESSNER
The rise in demands for pension plans is frequently attributed to a trend toward socialism, abetted by a growing unwillingness of workers to provide for themselves.

That just isn't so. The basic cause is the shift from an agricultural economy to an industrial economy in America.

In 1850, 84 per cent of the population lived on farms. The percentage had dropped to 70 by 1880, to 60 in 190, to 48 in 1920 and 43 in 1940. This year's census figures may show even a smaller percentage.

In the 19th and early 20th centuries, the farm offered old-age protection. As farmers got old, they just did as much work as they were able. Even most city dwellers had relatives who had a farm to which they could retreat. Food was cheap and few grandchildren or grandnephews begrudged an old person enough to eat and a place to sleep for a few chores, or just rocking in the sun. The number of his children, not his union contract, was a man's measure of security in his old age.

The rise in urban population checked that kind of security. There are too many city people with too few farm ties to make the farm an adequate retreat after earning power wanes. There is need for some other kind of security for the old.

There are other contributing causes. The medical advances which have lengthened the life span is one. The size of the group beyond working age is increasing steadily. Inflation has cut the purchasing power of savings laid aside for old age. In the last twenty years there have been many instances of retired persons going back to work because their savings wouldn't buy as much as they did when they were put away. And the rise in taxes may also be a contributory factor. Today's tax rates cut down savings and limit abilities of children to support their parents. But the basic cause for demands for pensions is the shift to urbanization and industrialization.

And while pensions may fit into the socialist scheme of things, they were introduced by 100 per cent capitalists over the violent opposition of labor leaders. The first modern pension plan was established by a railroad in 1874. One of the largest public utility pension systems was begun in 1892.

Labor leaders denounced them as "paternalistic." They said they were efforts to "tie men to their jobs." They called them "union busting," saying pension plans were promises of bribes to swing men loyal away from unions and fellow employees and toward the companies—which was probably true in many cases.

New York—(AP)—It may take longer to drive Northern Communist invaders out of Southern Korea than most Americans think.

Why? Because the United States so far has limited its assistance to the shipment of war supplies and battle aid by ship and plane. These factors are hardly as immediately decisive in warfare as most civilians like to believe. Their weight takes time to make itself felt.

This will be particularly true in a mountainous land such as Korea.

Reports from the fighting front indicate the invaders are well-equipped with modern Russian-type armor. Undoubtedly they also have great stores of weapons and ammunition left behind by the Japanese.

The next few days should give strong indications whether the Communist Koreans are only making a great test-force in force of the souths defenses—or whether they are gambling on a surprise knockout.

If they do choose to fight to the bitter end, then they may be as difficult to drive back as the Northern Communists were in Greece.

Bombing cities they have taken is certain to annoy the Southern Koreans who live there, but it is doubtful that this will really dislodge the invading troops. They won't stay in the cities. They will move like hordes of locusts across the rugged countryside, just as the Russians, wearing tattered clothing but carrying brightly polished machine pistols, swept across Germany to the Elbe.

And guerrilla troops like these are almost as hard to destroy by airpower as if they really were locusts. They can camouflage their positions by day, and move by night. They can live off the land, scouring as they do. They can take almost endless bombing and strafing so long as they are going forward—and morale is high.

The best and quickest way to halt them, of course, would be to pour in trained ground troops—infantry and artillery—to lock with them on the land. A regiment of Marines, a battalion or two of U. S. paratroopers dropped and supported, might turn the tide at once.

But that's all changed now. As a nation, we haven't quite decided whether old-age support is the responsibility of the employer or the state. But we seem to have gotten away from the idea that it is the responsibility of the individual or his children.

FURNITURE RETAILERS JUST DIDN'T WAIT
While business is brisk at the Chicago furniture market, which is drawing to a close, total sales did not reach anticipated peaks. Reason: so many retailers were eager to build up their stocks that they placed orders in advance of the show.

May is usually an off month in manufacturers' sales because so many retailers postpone ordering until they can compare lines at the Chicago market. But the unprecedented demand caused by the equally unprecedented rate of home construction convinced many dealers that it was dangerous to wait.

As a consequence, furniture orders in May were 24 per cent above April and 48 per cent above May, 1949, according to Seidman and Seidman, furniture industry accountants. Many manufacturers stopped accepting orders during the market and some imposed allocations. Their output for the rest of the year is sold out.

WORTHLESS "COINS" TO NOTE GAS TAXES
Motorists buying gasoline may soon get, along with their change, paper "coins" in the exact amount of the tax they paid on their gas. It will remind them how much of the price is really taxes.

The idea was thought up by the American Petroleum Industries Committee, which is now lining up gas companies to distribute the "coins."

EARLY FALL BUYING REPORTED HEAVY
Early orders for fall apparel were unusually high this year in the New York market. Many out-of-town buyers ordered from 50 to 75 per cent of their fall requirements, often conditioned on early deliveries. Manufacturers said orders ran 10 per cent above a year ago.

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON—The long-time dream of a wealthy Washington merchant at last is coming true. When Julius Garfinkel, owner of one of the capital's swankiest stores, died 13 years ago he left $3,000,000 to bettering opportunities for "worthy" women under the necessity of earning their own livelihood.

Named after his mother, the Hannah Harrison School of Industrial Arts is a resident vocational school, tuition free, with no graduation date and no fixed length of training. "It's a school to train women for jobs, get them jobs and to provide them with a home during training," Miss Augusta H. Clawson, director, told me.

Many delays, due to settlement of the estate, war-time shortages and selection of proper land, halted setting-up of the school until a couple of months ago. Its going great guns now with 15 students ranging from 17 to 34 years already enrolled. "Age limits are those set by industry," Miss Clawson says. "If an industry wants a woman secretary 75 years old, we'd train one at that age. But industry wants secretaries much younger, so we're training them. The best housekeepers, however, are mature women—a vigorous 50."

To start with, the school is teaching three courses—executive housekeeping (for hotel and hospital jobs); commercial food preparation (restaurants, tea rooms, etc.) and secretarial subjects. Teachers are women direct from industry. Students learn by doing right in the school where they live. Those studying housekeeping arrange for buying and preparing food for themselves and other students. "We're training in fields where there are job openings," Miss Clawson says. "As time goes on we hope to add many new courses like commercial art, transportation management and needlework."

"Mr. Garfinkel especially wanted to help women suddenly thrown on the labor market through divorce or widowhood, or younger women orphaned and deprived of parental support, who were capable of working but without training, and who desperately needed an income," Miss Clawson said.

Jews Getting Into Israel By 'Underground Railway'

AP Newsfeatures
Tehran, Iran—An "underground railway" has smuggled more than 15,000 Iraqi Jews into tolerant Iran. From here they have been flown as legal immigrants to Israel over the past 15 months.

Now Iraq says any of her 120,000 remaining Jews can leave if they request it.

(Beersheba, Israel, reports that the first contingents of Jews flowing in from Iraq have opened a group of cooperative farming settlements near there in southern Israel. A total of 60,000 Jews are expected from Baghdad by the end of 1950.)

Air Lifts Are Planned
An Israeli official in Tehran announced that Israel is studying plans for mass evacuation of the Iraqi Jews. If they materialize, these plans call for airlifts directly from Baghdad to Israel and mass departures by train via Turkey.

Registration of interested Iraqi Jews by the Iraqi Jewish community has begun the spokesman reported. Forty-one thousand have registered so far.

Jewish sources emphasize Iraqi cooperation in deed as well as word is necessary to get the evacuation beyond the visionary stage.

Meanwhile, the underground organization centered here has stopped bringing groups of illegal immigrants out of Iraq in sponsored groups. However, Israeli officials estimate between 300 and 350 Iraqi Jews continue to escape into Israel individually or in small unsponsored groups each month.

Another 600 Jews return from Iraq to Iran legally each month. They are part of a community of between 7,000 and 12,000 Iranian Jews long resident in Iraq. Iranian passports permit their departure.

Some Are Murdered
Iran itself has 90,000 Jews, including 35,000 in Teheran. About 350 of these depart for Israel each month along with the arrivals from Iraq.

For illegal immigrants out of Iraq the road is long and arduous. They begin preparation in Baghdad itself learning Hebrew in secret classes run by the underground organization. Most originally speak only Arabic, English or French.

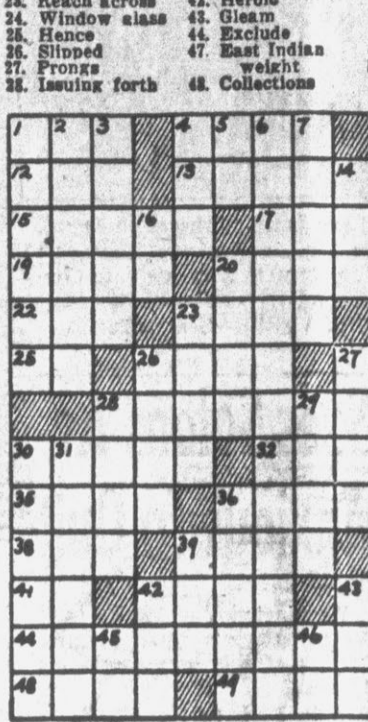

Guides take them across the mountainous route which usually ends near Kermanshah in West Iran. Israeli officials say at least 12 escapees have disappeared enroute, and say they were probably murdered by guides who robbed them. Two such bodies were discovered beneath a cliff a few weeks ago.

Tar Heel Building Boom Still High

Raleigh, N. C., June 29—(AP)—North Carolina's building boom is still on. Construction reported by 78 cities and towns in May total: $14,187,879, the state department of labor reported yesterday. This was 26 per cent higher than the total for May, 1949, and just 16 per cent below the April 1950. High of $16,859,242. The total for the first five months of this year rose to $70,371,388. Which is 33 per cent ahead of the figure for the same period last year.

The state's 26 largest cities, statistic C. H. Pritchard said, reported $11,825,920 in building expenditures for May. The leaders were: Charlotte $2,595,346, Greensboro $1,230,595, Winston-Salem $1,217,660, Raleigh $1,040,750, and Durham $792,125.

As a result of the famous brass key kite incident in 1752, Benjamin Franklin is credited with being the founder of the study of static or atmospheric electricity.

Council To Meet On Moore Case

Raleigh, N. C., June 29—(AP)—Reports on charges against Prison Director J. B. Moore will be studied tomorrow by the Prison Advisory Council.

A special session of the council was called late yesterday by Governor Scott after a talk with Moore. At the conference, Moore got a chance to reply to allegations that he used prisoner labor and state materials for work at his home.

Neither would make any comment on the conference.

The announcement of the council meeting said the group, which Scott named less than a year ago at Moore's suggestion, will review all reports in connection with the charges. The council has no authority to hire or fire, but Scott has said he thinks it "should have something to say" about final action on the matter.

A complete SBI investigation of the charges was ordered about two weeks ago following a conference between the governor and Dr. Henry W. Jordan, chairman of the State Highway Commission and Moore's immediate superior.

The SBI report went to the governor a week ago Saturday. It was made available to Moore, who said he would make a point-by-point reply to any allegations. He made the engagement with Scott yesterday to present his answer.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

The Primary is over and again the Democrats of North Carolina have spoken in a free democracy.

My heart is full of gratitude. Thank you for the magnificent vote which you gave me. Thank you for selecting me as your Democratic nominee for the United States Senate.

And now that our primary battle is over, let us all unite under the Democratic banner and go forward to victory in November.

The Democratic Party, as always, is the hope of America and the world.

As your Democratic nominee, I pledge to you that I shall always strive to preserve the free American institutions and the American way of life.

Together, the Democrats of North Carolina and of the nation will go forward to keep America progressive and sane.

From the bottom of my heart I thank you.

Jacob—Man of Contrasts

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Genesis 25:27-34; 27:29; 32:1-33:16; 35:1-15; 37:29-36; 46:1, 29-34; 47:1-10.

By Alfred J. Buscher

Esau and Jacob were Isaac's twin sons. Jacob got Esau to sell his birthright for food, and cheated Esau out of their father's blessing by impersonating him at the old man's bedside.

Jacob fled from home, but at night angels and the Lord appeared to him: the Lord assuring Jacob of His help always. In the morning Jacob built an altar there and called the place Bethel.

Jacob prospered greatly, and years later met his brother Esau, whom he feared. Esau had forgiven old wrongs, and when he saw Jacob he ran to him and embraced him.

In his old age Jacob journeyed to Egypt, where his son, Joseph, was Pharaoh's overseer, and was presented to the Egyptian ruler. He died in Egypt. MEMORY VERSE—Genesis 28:15.

JACOB—MAN OF CONTRASTS

HE WAVERED BETWEEN TRICKERY AND RIGHT LIVING

Scripture—Genesis 25:27-34; 27:29; 32:1-33:16; 35:1-15; 37:29-36; 46:1, 29-34; 47:1-10.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL WE LEAVE the prophets and their warnings of dreadful disasters in this lesson, and study the life of a man much like many in our modern world. He was bound to get ahead, by trickery and deceit, at first, then by relying on God and living a good life.

Isaac had twin sons—Esau, who was a hairy man, and who came first into the world, and Jacob, a smooth person in more ways than one.

As the boys grew to manhood and their father became old and nearly blind, he loved Esau best because he was a hunter and brought his father venison, which he dearly loved. Jacob was his mother Rebekah's favorite because he loved his home.

We can only sketch very briefly this man's life, in the space allotted to us. Esau, the hunter, came home one day very hungry. Jacob had prepared a dish of pottage (a dish of vegetables or vegetables and meat; a thick soup), and Esau asked him for some. Jacob said, "Sell me thy birthright." Esau said he was nearly dead of with stones for a pillow. He had a vision of a ladder reaching from heaven to earth. Angels of God were ascending and descending, and the Lord stood at the top, and assured Jacob of His help always—"Behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee whithersoever thou goest."

In the morning Jacob took the stones he had used for a pillow, made an altar, and poured oil over the top of it. He called the place Bethel.

Jacob then went to the home of his mother's brother, Laban. There he had a trick played on him. He fell in love with Laban's daughter, Rachel, and offered to work for Laban seven years for her. At the end of that time, Rachel's older sister, Leah, was given him for wife, and he was forced to work another seven years before he won Rachel. She was the mother of Joseph and Benjamin.

Years later Jacob went back to his former home. He was still afraid of Esau whom he had treated so badly, and he took great gifts of flocks and herds of

Sees Solons As Anxious To Quit

Washington, June 29—(AP)—Have you ever pictured Congress as a flock of wild geese preparing to migrate?

Well, Rep. Cotton (R-NH) pictures his colleagues that way in his weekly letter to constituents.

"Did you ever see a flock of wild geese getting set to fly south for the winter?" Cotton asked. "Do you remember how restless and noisy they were; how they milled about with much 'honking' and flapping of wings, suddenly dashing off on short flights; returning to sputter and quarrel with each other; keeping everybody disturbed within a radius of several miles, until they finally go into formation and start the long flight south?"

"If you have seen this you have a fairly good picture of the congress during these pre-primary, pre-election, pre-adjournment days."

2-Day Institute On Teaching Of Reading Planned

Reading and problems arising in teaching it in the public schools will be discussed at a two-day institute at East Carolina Teachers College, Wednesday and Thursday, July 5-6, Dean Leo W. Jenkins, director of the summer session, has announced. Dr. Hazel Taylor, director of the Testing Bureau, and Professor Edward J. Rutan of the English Department at East Carolina are serving as co-chairmen of the institute. Teachers in the public schools of the state are invited to attend.

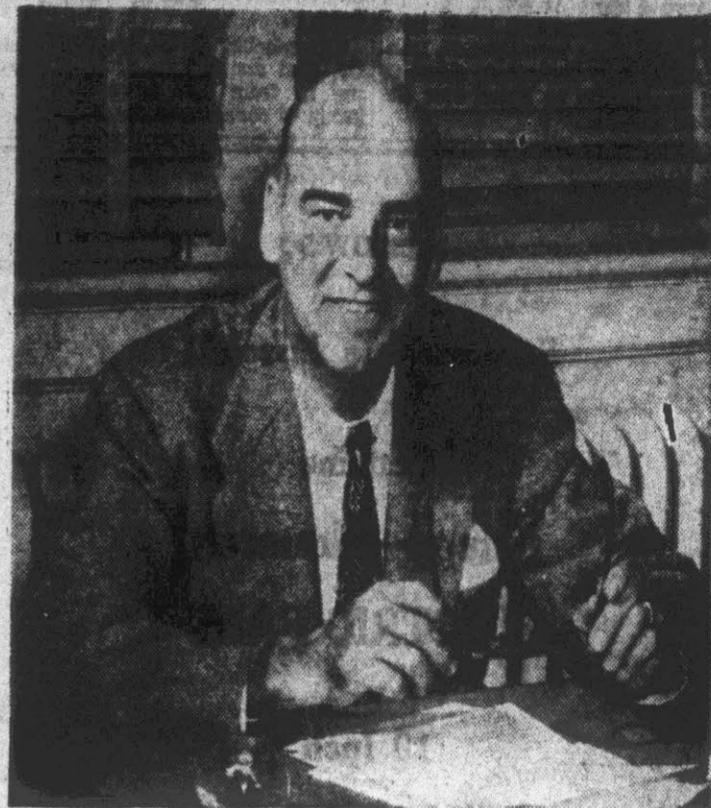

The program will include panel discussions; talks by educators and representatives of publishing companies; and demonstrations of films and other devices used in testing and improving reading ability.

Mr. Rutan will discuss Wednesday morning the function of language in education and the "meaning approach" to reading. During the past school year he has acted as consultant to public schools in Lenoir, Pitt, and other eastern counties interested in revising and improving their programs in reading. A period of questions and answers and of general discussion based on the morning's talks will take place in the afternoon.

"Why Can't the Child Read?" will be considered in a panel discussion Thursday morning from 9:30 to 11. Participating will be Dr. Taylor and Dora Coates, regular staff members of the East Carolina department of education; Phyllis Lundeen, specialist in the education of exceptional children, and Dr. Mildred Babcock, visiting professor in the department of education this summer; Edith Hinton, of the Row-Peterson Co.; and James A. Gerow of the Scott-Foreman Co.

Those attending the institute on reading will join members of the North Carolina English Teachers Association, Eastern District, also present on the campus for an institute, at a luncheon Thursday. President John D. Messick of East Carolina will welcome guests. Miss Hinton will discuss "Current Problems in Reading." Following the luncheon, a demonstration of reading techniques based on the Harvard University Reading Films will be given by Dr. Taylor in the auditorium of the Flanagan building.

Norman Cordon To Play Guest Role In Lost Colony Tuesday, July 4th

Manteo.—Norman Cordon, Tar Heel-born Metropolitan Opera star, will play a guest role in Paul Green's symphonic drama on Tuesday night, July 4, it was announced today by Director Samuel Selden. The part he will play has not yet been announced, but it will probably be the role of Capt. Amadas. Also scheduled to appear as guest actor on Tuesday, July 4, the first in the weekly series of Celebrity Nights is Oscar Chapman, secretary of the United States Department of the Interior.

Cordon returned to the University of North Carolina in 1948 as head of the North Carolina Music Foundation, but he continues to make guest appearances on the concert stage during the winter season. With headquarters in Chapel Hill he is associated with the three institutions of the consolidated University to promote the knowledge, understanding and enjoyment of all kinds of music—including church, folk, community singing, radio, instrumental and orchestra. In Chapel Hill he is connected with the University Extension Division.

Riceland Rice long has been a popular basic ingredient in desserts and it is growing in popularity every day. Smart cooks now use Riceland Rice in puddings, custards, pie fillings, bavarians and other delightful desserts of infinite variety.

Riceland Rice combines perfectly with all fruits (fresh, frozen, canned, preserved or dried) to make wonderful desserts—quickly, easily and economically. And don't forget Riceland Rice chocolate or caramel puddings. They're delicious!

There's no end to the good things you can make with an economical package of Riceland Rice! Just be sure to get genuine Riceland Rice. It's the perfect-cooking rice which assures perfect results every time. Get a package of Riceland Rice today and delight your family with this luscious dessert:

Riceland Rice Strawberry Bavarian

1 cup cooked Riceland Rice
1 tablespoon gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1/4 teaspoon salt

1 cup cream or evaporated milk, whipped.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup mashed strawberries

Pour the cold water into a bowl and sprinkle the gelatin on top of the water. Place bowl over boiling water and stir until the gelatin has dissolved. Add to hot cooked Riceland Rice, sugar, salt and vanilla. Beat well, and cool.

When it begins to thicken, fold in whipped cream or whipped evaporated milk and the mashed strawberries. Some strawberries will be sweeter than others, so taste to see that the sugar used is enough for the strawberries used. Turn into a mold, or individual molds or even pile into individual com-potes. When firm unmold, if the rice bavarian is molded, and serve with sliced, sweetened strawberries. Will serve five or six.

The success of this recipe—and all rice recipes—depends on the quality of rice you use. So be sure to use perfect-cooking Riceland Rice. It's quick and easy to cook perfectly. Here's how:

To Cook Riceland Rice: Put 1 cup of Riceland Rice, 1 teaspoon of salt and 2 cups of cold water in a large saucepan and cover with a tight-fitting lid. Set over a hot flame until it boils vigorously. Then reduce the heat as low as possible and simmer for 14 minutes more, during which time the water will be absorbed, making the rice deliciously tender. Remove the lid, permit the rice to steam dry to the desired consistency and the grains will be separate and fluffy. Always use Riceland Rice for best results.

Riceland Rice Is Easy To Cook! Tender! Fluffy!

To get the best results with this recipe and all rice recipes, be sure to use Riceland Rice. It's the world's most delicious rice—grown in the heart of the quality rice belt of America. Only the choice, perfect-cooking rice grains are packed in Riceland packages. This quality rice is quick and easy to cook. Riceland Rice cooks deliciously tender with white, fluffy, individual grains. Most grocers now feature this better-cooking, wonderfully-delicious, packaged rice—and at economical prices, too! Riceland Rice costs only one-cent a serving.

MEMORY VERSE

"Behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee whithersoever thou goest."—Genesis 28:15.

hunger, and the birthright would do him no good if he perished, so he agreed.

Isaac, the father, told Esau to go hunting and bring him the savory meat that he loved, and he would give his son his blessing. Rebekah heard what Isaac said and she told Jacob to bring her lambs from their flock which she could cook quickly and take the dish to his father and gain the blessing for himself.

His father would know he was not Esau, said Jacob, but Rebekah attended to that. She had Jacob cover his forearms and the back of his neck with hairy skins, so that if the old man touched him, he would be sure Esau was with him. Isaac said it was Jacob's voice speaking to him, but it was Esau's skin he touched, so he gave Jacob the blessing. When Esau came with his venison, Isaac found out his mistake, and poor Esau's heart was nearly broken. Esau hated Jacob after that and threatened to kill him after their father's death.

Jacob was a coward as well as a trickster. He ran away from home, on his mother's advice. The first night he lay down to sleep sheep and cattle as a gift for his brother. When the two met, however, Esau had forgiven Jacob, and when he saw him coming, he ran to him and embraced him.

Jacob still was afraid of Esau, however, and when the two planned to go the same way next day, Jacob deliberately went in the opposite direction. It is impossible to relate here all the things that happened to Jacob and his huge family, but much more could be told by the teacher than we have room to print. The story of Jacob's beloved son Joseph's sale by his jealous brothers to some travelers, his life in Egypt, where he grew to be overseer to the Pharaoh, the great famine that came to Israel and the brothers' visit to Egypt to get supplies and Joseph's recognition of them, and how finally his father—who thought him dead—was brought to Egypt, presented to the Pharaoh, and given land for himself and family in that land.

Here in Egypt Jacob breathed his last—a very, very old man, pleading that his bones might be taken back to Palestine, his homeland.

Second Victim Of 80-Foot Fall

Wilson, N. C., June 29—(AP)—The second of six workers injured in the fall of a construction elevator died today.

While Pace, 31, Negro, died early this morning in Mercy Hospital.

Raymond Cobb of Rocky Mount died yesterday morning.

The elevator, being used on the construction of the First Presbyterian Church, carried the men with it when it fell 80 feet Tuesday afternoon.

Of the other injured men, Elton Farmer of Wilson was in a critical condition, and the condition of three others was listed as serious.

'Island Of Love' Beckons

NICOSSIA, Cyprus —(AP)—The ancient "Island of Love" is being rediscovered—by tourists.

Cyprus, a peaceful island of forested mountains and sunny beaches, is becoming the resort center of the Middle East. In 1950, for the first time in years, tour officials expect the big American Mediterranean cruises to stop here, too.

The romantic history of Cyprus probably is unmatched in this part of the world.

Here legend says Venus rose from the foam and came ashore.

Saints Paul and Barnabas introduced Christianity in 45 A.D.

Richard the Lion Hearted married beautiful Queen Berengaria on Cyprus. The island still has the feudal fortresses of the days when Crusaders used it as a base.

Archaeologists have only skimmed the surface of Cyprus' rich history. Peasants and even visitors find ancient pottery almost daily.

ON THE ISLAND OF LOVE—St. Hilarion Castle.

Rates Driver As A Pedestrian

Missoula, Mont.—(AP)—George Mourar, driver examined... of the Montana highway patrol, reached U.S. verdict in a hurry when a license applicant lost control of his auto and it... impeded a car while Mourar... beside... on a test run. And he also catalogued the candidate swiftly. "The man," he said as he stepped from the stranded car, "is a pedestrian."

Was Speaker

Dr. Herbert Koepf Baker of the University of Illinois has participated as speaker on the three-day program staged this week at East Carolina Teachers College and devoted to discussion of problems of educating the exceptional child. Dr. Baker is professor of clinical speech pathology and director of the speech and hearing clinic and of the cleft palate training program at the University of Illinois. At present he is serving as counselor to the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., and is president-elect of the American Association for Cleft Palate Rehabilitation. He received his training at American universities and at the universities of Berlin and Vienna.

Mrs. Dorothy W. Perkins, speech and hearing consultant in the department of education at East Carolina, is director of the Institute, which has brought to the campus a number of specialists in the training of exceptional children.

Dear Judy,

AP Newsfeatures

If you can't get out in the woods to picnic under some shaded apple tree, your group should plan a picnic—even if it is only under the backyard elm. It's the people—and of course the food—that make the picnic, so what difference does it make where you go to enjoy it? If the only trees you know are the ones in the local park, plan your picnic for that spot.

The girls of course should bring the food—but let the boys contribute to the cost, unless of course they supply the beverage or car or foot other expenses connected with the party.

This year you really can surprise them with the food. Instead of getting plain old hot dogs, you can bring along some chicken or some hamburger for rare new food treats.

You can get the chicken disjointed, brown it a bit at home, wrap each piece individually in aluminum foil after the chicken has been seasoned with a hot tomato catsup. Then all you do is put your chicken wrapped in the foil over the wire. If it should fall into the fire, you haven't lost anything because the foil won't burn. Also bring along potatoes wrapped in aluminum foil. These also can be cooked over or in the fire.

And here's a new trick with hamburgers. Take your hamburger, wrap it around a willow twig (or a skewer) and cook it over the fire. Fill the hole with relish or catsup or chili sauce, for a new delightful treat. Serve it on a frankfurter-type bun.

Also, you can get some of the delicious "brown-and-serve" rolls, cinnamon buns or bread, wrap them in aluminum foil and cook four to six inches away from the fire.

Take along some frozen juices such as lemon, orange, tangerine, grapefruit or grape juice. Put them in one of the insulated bags which keep things cold for hours. Then when you are ready to use them, just add water and you will have some delicious fruit juices.

If you decide to make lemonade, take along one or two fresh lemons or limes to add to the frozen juice after it has been diluted. That way you will get a particularly tangy flavor.

Perhaps you will not succeed in enlisting the enthusiasm of your crowd for this new picnic menu. If so, stick to the hot dogs or hamburgers cooked in the conventional way, if that is what they want, but try a new sauce. A delicious hamburger or hot dog dressing can be made by mixing catsup and English mustard, then adding a few drops of tabasco sauce. Your gang will love it. Hot dogs are good also with relish and mustard combined.

If you take sandwiches on the picnic, don't use gooey fillings such as tomatoes which make the sandwiches soggy. Hard boiled eggs or whole tomatoes—if they can be kept cold—make tasty additions to the picnic lunch.

For a group that is interested in horses, popular picnics today are held in the vicinity of the stables where equestrians can sport their new riding clothes. Usually riding academies have a picnic area nearby where a group can pause for lunch when they slow down to a gallop!

One thing about a picnic to keep in mind, no matter where you have it, is that the place should be left just as clean as when you found it. And don't forget to put out your cooking fire—if you've made one.

Burley Tobacco Production Said A Little Large

Asheville, N. C., June 29 —(AP)—The chief of the tobacco section of the U. S. department of agriculture believes the present production of burley tobacco in North Carolina is a little too large.

J. E. Thigpen told a meeting of the state's burley growers here yesterday that there should be better balance between production and demand.

The growers met here to discuss acreage, allotments, price support and marketing regulations. The meeting was sponsored by the Burley committee of the state grange.

Truman, MacArthur Boomed By Group At Communist-Endorsed N. Y. Rally

New York, June 29—(AP)—The names of President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur were boomed last night at a Communist-endorsed rally opposing U.S. intervention in Korea.

Some 9,000 persons half-filled Madison Square Garden at the "Hands off Korea" rally sponsored by the Civil Rights Congress and editorially promoted by the Communist newspaper, the Daily Worker. The Civil Rights Congress has been labeled subversive by the attorney general's office.

Among the speakers were: Gus Hall, one of the 11 convicted Communist leaders; Negro Singer Paul Robeson; Ring Lardner Jr., one of the "Hollywood 10" cited for contempt of Congress for failure to answer questions concerning Communist affiliations; Rep. Vito Marcantonio (American Labor Party, N.Y.), and the Rev. Richard Morford, executive secretary of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, also cited by the government as a Communist group. Hall called President Truman "the man who ordered the Korean people bombed because they not only long for freedom but fight to get it."

He termed Gen. MacArthur and State Department Consultant John Foster Dulles "two Wall Street agents."

Hall urged his listeners to unite "to stop the warmakers in their tracks" and added: "Even in this zero hour, World War III is not inevitable."

Robeson told the crowd, "We might as well tell the ocean waves to stand still as to stop the tide of freedom in the Far East."

The new Far East policy of the U.S., he said, "means war in the name of an idiotic campaign against communism."

Marcantonio shouted that President Truman had violated the constitution by intervening in Korea. "The will and desire of the American people for peace have been clearly thwarted," he said. "The power to declare war is vested in the people. I shall oppose any action that will cause the spilling of a single drop of American blood in Korea."

The Rev. Mr. Morford told the group that U.S. leaders are making "a desperate drive to regiment the American people for a shooting war because the cold war has failed."

Tobacco Board To Name Three New Directors

Raleigh, June 29—(AP)—Directors of the Flue-cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation will meet here tomorrow following the annual session of stockholders. Three members of the 10-man board of directors will be chosen.

Farmer-members of the corporation from Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida are expected for the stockholders' meeting.

Dr. R. Frank Poole, president of Clemson College and former N.C. State College faculty member, will be the principal speaker. Reports will be made by Carl T. Hicks of Walstonburg, corporation president, and L. T. Weeks of Raleigh, general manager.

Traffic Deaths Near Post-War Fatality High.

Washington, June 29—Traffic deaths in 1950, up an average of 11 percent per month over 1949, will break all postwar records, the year's first four months indicate.

Making this forecast on the eve of the anticipated heavy July 4th traffic, Lt. Gen. Eugene Reybold, executive vice president, American Road Builders' Association, called the increased number of traffic victims "casualties of America's highway crisis." Citing National Safety Council statistics, Gen. Reybold pointed to 980 more traffic fatalities in the first four months of 1950 than in the first third of 1949 as "proof that physical improvement of the nation's highway system is essential if this trend is to be reversed."

Capped by the worst April ever, when 2,710 persons—one every quarter hour—met death on the highways, the 1950 motor traffic death rate has grown progressively worse, the ARBA official pointed out.

"In 1950, January deaths were four percent higher than in the previous January," he said. "February's fatalities were nine percent above the previous year; in March the increase was 18 percent, and in April 17 percent."

Lauding efforts of safety organizations in educating drivers and pedestrians, the official of the country's oldest national good roads organization nevertheless emphasized that this work alone is not enough, and declared:

"Unless our roads and streets are modernized, the work of safety organizations in the fields of education, enforcement, uniform laws, engineering and other phases of safety work will not hold down the post-war slaughter. Unfortunately, the engineering attack designed to achieve built-in highway safety has been far from adequate because of the restricted highway construction program. Without rebuilding roads and streets to accommodate modern traffic, we cannot stem the fatality rate which can be expected to con-

'Officially' Sign Pigeon Deputy

San Bernardino, Calif.—(AP)—San Bernardino County has a new deputy sheriff named Little Jim.

He is a pigeon. He and others of his breed, performing as carrier birds, have been successfully used by search parties when radio facilities were not available.

Jim was sworn in at a special ceremony. Sheriff James (Big Jim) presented him with a tiny badge, which was tied around his neck. And to make it official, they had Little Jim put his claw prints on a fingerprint card which was placed in the permanent file.

One of the easiest garden herbs to grow is mint, which is excellent in the ice-cream season.

Mrs. Mabel Kitchen, 1950 Amsterdam Street, Covington, Ky., says that she didn't realize how wonderful it is to be without those unbearable aches and pains of neuritis and she thinks HADACOL deserves only the highest praise—

Mrs. Kitchen was suffering deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains. Unlike most remedies HADACOL doesn't give temporary relief, but instead treats the real cause of the sickness due to such deficiencies.

Mrs. Kitchen's statement: "So far I have taken three bottles of HADACOL and I am just starting on my fourth. Before I started taking HADACOL I had aches and pains of neuritis in my shoulders, my back, my arms; I could hardly move without having those terrible aches and pains. I seemed to have a cold all the time and worst of all I couldn't eat anything to give my system a balanced diet. Then I heard about HADACOL from a very good friend of mine. After taking the second bottle the aches and pains were about gone and my appetite had improved. Now I am on top of the world. I eat well, I have gained weight and, best of all, the aches and pains are gone completely. I heartily recommend HADACOL to all my friends."

Jones' Four-Hit Pitching Helps Rout Kinston, 5-2

Robins Take Lead In Third And Never Topped; Three Runs In Top Of Ninth Clinched Margin Of Victory

By BERT MOYE
Vincent Jones pitched a neat four-hitter last night as the Robins defeated the Kinston Eagles, 5-2, over at Kinston. The win for the Robins was their ninth of the season over the Eagles.

The win for Jones was his eighth of the season and his second against the Eagles. He has lost eight times this season, one of which was to the Eagles.

The Eagles scored one of their runs in the first stanza when Jack Burns walked, advanced to second on Ken Aspromonte's infield out and came home on Ray Rosenwinkel's single into centerfield.

The Robins came back in the third frame to take the lead at 2-1, which they never relinquished. John Tepedino reached first on Aspromonte's error at short. Guidice walked and George Hallow hit to short left field to load the bases. Dick Root then hit one through Ray Rosenwinkel at third with Tepedino scoring and then Hancock was walked, forcing in Guidice.

Three runs in the top of the ninth inning gave the Robins their margin of victory.

Infield singles by Paul Strausser and John Tepedino launched the Robins' winning rally. Joe Guidice walked to lead the base, and when George Hallow filed out to centerfield, Strausser scored and Tepedino advanced to third. On Guidice's attempt to steal second while Pitcher Jerry Ahrens of the Eagles held the ball on the mound, Ahrens threw wild into centerfield and Tepedino scored. Guidice made it to third on this play and scored as Bakhtis stranded out.

The Eagles scored their final run of the game in the bottom of the ninth on a single by Tom Swanson, a double by Jerry Ahrens and a fly to deep centerfield by Jack Burns.

Jerry Ahrens, who went the route for the Eagles, gave up only five hits which were scattered among as many Robins players. He walked eight men while striking out five. The loss for Ahrens was his second straight since joining the Eagles a short time ago.

Since Jones gave up a total of nine walks, while striking out three, but strong defensive play by the Robins kept him out of danger more than once. The Robins made a total of three double plays during the contest. Ray Rosenwinkel got two of the four hits garnered off Jones, one of which was an infield hit, to lead the attack.

The Robins and the Eagles will play the second game of the series out at Guy Smith Stadium tonight, starting at 7:45 o'clock.

Mathias Seeking Third National Crown Tonight

Tulare, Calif., June 29—(AP)—Decathlon Champion Bob Mathias goes after his third straight National title tonight and about 20 rivals will be on deck to oppose him in the two-night test of all-round track and field ability.

The scene is Tulare's high school field, where 19-year-old Bob went to school and where a year ago he won his second National AAU crown after having conquered the world in the 1948 Olympic games at London.

Some 6,000 Mathias boosters—A delegation so strong the reigning AAU people quickly granted Tulare the National meet—once again—figure to be on hand.

"Our Bob," a good looking likeable, modest young man of 19, is heavily favored to turn back the opposition.

Whether he will surpass the world record of 7,900 points, set by Glenn Morris of Colorado in the 1936 Olympic games, remains highly doubtful. But Mathias faction think he might do it and surely will improve on the 7,556 score which brought the championship last year.

Of the 20 other entries, only a sparse handful, probably three, figure to give Mathias a run for the title.

Chief of these is colorful Bill Alban, of the U. S. Army of North Carolina, who placed third last year and left Tulare good humoredly vowing he'd be back this year, stronger than ever.

Otey Scruggs of Santa Barbara college, Brayton Norton of Santa Ana Junior college, who'll compete for the Los Angeles Athletic club, and possibly Floyd Simmons of Charlotte N. C., shape up as capable performers.

Mathias' most recent effort netted 7,602 points, while Alban, Norton and Scruggs have exceeded 7,000 this spring.

Alban shines in the hurdles (he won the NCAA high hurdles) and broad jump, he's good in the high jump (6 feet 6 1/2 inches) and can sprint 10.6 in the 100 meters. He must improve in the weight events and pole vault.

Wimbledon, England, June 29—(AP)—The polite introductions being over, the all-England lawn tennis championships enter the slug-ging stage today with the third round matches of the men's singles play.

The seven American seeded players all are due for action along with top-seeded Frank Sedgman, the Australian pre-tournament favorite.

Sedgman's stock has been drifting down steadily, however, since he turned up the first day with a strained wrist, and he faces trouble in the person of Belgium's Philippe Washer, who is one of the most improved European players of the season.

If Sedgman advances, he may come to grips with his first American opponent, Fred Kovaleski of Detroit, who should topple Nadr Nath of India in today's round.

PHILLIES VS PIRATES
The Phillies bested the Pirates yesterday in a free scoring game by the score of 13 to 5. Inability of the Pirate pitchers to locate the plate added to the scoring. The most important blow of the game was a homer by Billy Brady with two on, Jody Taylor got a triple and a single for the losers.

CUBS VS TIGERS
There was big news in the Mite League yesterday. The all-winning Tigers of the Training School went down in defeat before the Cubs of Third Street. The Cubs scored six times in the final two innings to take the win 8 to 4. Mac Roebuck held the league leaders to a single, Bryce Cummings, while his teammates hit W. L. Allen the Tiger ace eight solid blows. Dave Bray and Oscar Stoneham were the leaders for the Cubs with two for three. Hamp Bynum got a triple and whitey Hathaway got a double to aid the Cubs.

Save Paratroop Unit, Then Die In Plane's Crash

Nashville Tenn June 29—(AP)—Four Air Force men directed 26 Paratroopers to a safe jump last night, then died heroically in the crash of the plane.

Bradley Clark, a nearby resident, helped pull one crewman, still alive, from the flaming wreckage. He died en route to a hospital. The other three perished in the crash.

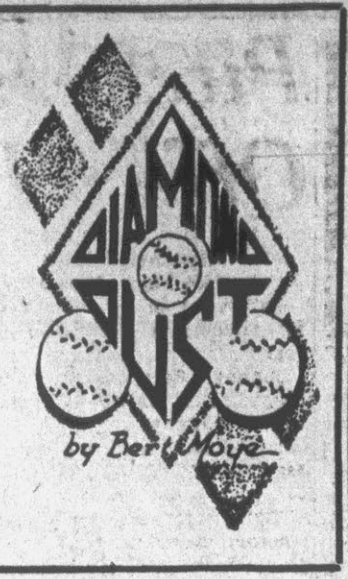

The plane was one of a flight of 32 C-119 troop-carrying pack-ets which flew soldiers of the 11th Airborne division for a night parachute jump at Fort Campbell, Ky. One of its two engines conked out over Bowling Green, Ky., to the throbb of the emergency bell, the paratroopers jumped with military precision in open country near Greenbrier, Tenn., 40 miles south.

The crew stayed with the troubled packet, successor to the C-32 flying boxcar, trying to get it to home port at Sewart Air base, Smyrna, Tenn.

It crashed across the Cumberland river from Old Hickory, Tenn., indicating the pilot had veered eastward to avoid the solid metropolitan area of Nashville and Old Hickory. The plane exploded in three shattering roars.

Lt. Col. Duff W. Sudduth of San Antonio, Tex., led the paratroopers in the jump. He told of the tense moments preceding it: "We circled over Bowling Green, a check point, and got our 20-minute warning signal before our scheduled jump over Fort Campbell. "The left motor went out. The crew chief told us it was out and to hook up. We sat back down. The crew chief was standing by me when the bell went on. "He said 'go'. I was going anyway He didn't have to tell me. "The Packet limped on 13 miles southeast before it crashed. Fire companies from Nashville suburbs sped chemical fog on the blaze for three hours before smothering it. "The plane normally carries 42 combat-equipped paratroopers.

UNEASY MARKET
New York, June 29—(AP)—Another bust of selling scarred the Stock Market today. In a short but intense morning selling attack prices were pounded down as much as $4 a share before leveling off.

Tonight's Games
Kinston at Greenville
Rocky Mount at Wilson
Goldboro at Roanoke Rapids
Tarboro at New Bern

Took one of my infrequent trips over to Kinston last night to witness the game between the Eagles and the Robins and from the way the writer saw things during his short stay Kinston fans are greatly disappointed in the Eagles this season. The old spirit seems to have died away and this was very much in evidence by the small crowd on hand which numbered approximately 400 fans. Maybe being in seventh place has a lot to do with it. A total of 20 men were left stranded on the bases in last night's contest—11 by the Robins and nine by the Eagles. . . . Greenville made their three runs in the ninth frame off three hits, all of the infield variety. . . . Both Vince Jones and Pitcher Jerry Ahrens of the Eagles were very wild last night as a total of 17 men were issued free passes to first base. . . . Congratulations to Alton Brown of the Jays' pitching staff, who last night racked up his 18th win of the season. He has suffered three defeats, one in an overtime contest, another in a relief role, which incidentally was to the Robins, and another in a regulation game which was his opening game with Rocky Mount this season. . . . Bob McCotter came back for New Bern last night and got his first win of the season in professional ball. . . . Although it has not been officially announced it is believed that Lefty Leo Groeschel will be on the mound for the Eagles in tonight's game here. He has pitched against the Robins only once this season but lost. . . . The Robins are clinging tenaciously to fourth place in league standings—one percentage point ahead of the Wilson Tobs. . . . Speaking of men being left stranded on bases the Robins have had a total of 24 left on in the last two games. . . . Start making your plans now to attend the ball game here Saturday night when Patkin will be on hand to amuse you with his antics. He will no doubt start about 7 o'clock so make your plans to be out there no later than that hour. . . .

Japan And U. S. Baseball Series Slated For Fall

NEW YORK—(AP)—An elaborate silver trophy will go to the first official interhemisphere baseball champion team in the game's history, the National Baseball Congress announces.

The trophy will go to the winner of a best-of-seven series at Tokyo, starting Sept. 9, between American and Japanese non-professional champions.

J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of the Sporting News, bible of the national pastime, presided over the signing of contracts that made possible the series. He says more than 700 teams will compete in Japan for the right to meet the U. S. champion as determined in the 16th annual national tournament at Wichita, Kan., starting Aug. 18.

General Douglas MacArthur, who authorized the interhemisphere series, has invited Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler, James Farley and movie comedian Joe E. Brown to attend the games.

Three Swimmers From NC On All-Star Team

Fort Collins, Colo., June 29—(AP)—Three college swimmers from North Carolina are on the all-star collegiate team.

They are James Thomas and Norman Sper, Jr., from the University of North Carolina and John Conner, Duke University's star diver. Ohio state dominated the team, which was announced here late yesterday. The Buckeyes listed 19 individual places and relay teams. The choices were made by a committee of coaches headed by Scotty Little and Cornell.

Top performances by the North Carolina swimmers: Thomas—440-yard freestyle, 4:45.3; 1500-meter freestyle, 19:36; 150-yard backstroke, 1:35.3; 150-yard individual relay, 1:34.3.

Sper—100-yard backstroke 1:00.3. Conner—One meter and three meter diving.

Home Run Mark To Be Surpassed

New York, June 29—(AP)—The major league home run output is approximately 25 per cent higher than it was a year ago at this stage of the campaign.

A total of 458 home runs have been belted in the American League and 454 in the National in 500 games including games of yesterday. A year ago on June 29 the American had accounted for 341 and the National 323 homers in 490 games.

At the rate both leagues are hitting, homers the American will wind up the season with 1,007 and the National at 1,145. The American's record year for homers was 1940 when it hit 883. The National's high-water mark was last year when it slammed 936. The combined high for one season was in 1949 when the two leagues banded 1,705.

IT'S DEATH, MY DARLING!

By Amelia Reynolds Long

Chapter 7

While we waited for the men to return, Aunt Minerva managed somehow to herd us all into the large drawing room, where she gave us a recital of the "improvements" she intended to make in the place as soon as Claude had come into possession. I saw Pick squirm, as though she were listening to the proposed torturing of a living, sentient thing. When finally Aunt Minerva announced her intention to have the oleanders dug out and destroyed because she had read somewhere that they gave off a poisonous vapor, it was more than Pick could stand. Muttering some unintelligible excuse, she rose abruptly and left the room. I made my excuses, and ducked out after Pick.

I was returning downstairs some quarter of an hour later after "putting on a new face," as Bobby expresses it, when I saw Aunt Delphine through the open door of the front parlor, where the funeral had been held. She was peering under chairs, as though in search of something.

"Can I help you, Aunt Delphine?" I asked.

She turned and gave me one of her vague smiles.

"Is my best," she confided. "I took 'em out while 'ey were clodding up Feder, an' now I can't fide 'em."

I suppressed a desire to laugh, and joined in the search.

"There they are, Aunt Delphine!" I exclaimed, and pointed them out to her.

She recovered her missing denture, and popped it into her mouth.

"Merl, cherie," she said, her normal enunciation restored once more. Then she opened her little, crocheted handbag and took something from it.

"Here's a little present for you,"

she whispered, thrusting the object into my hand. "But you mustn't tell anyone except Dede. The others mustn't know about it." Then with a great show of secretiveness, she scurried from the room.

I glanced down at the thing she had given me. It was a little wad of red cloth, which fell apart as I looked at it, resolving itself into three little strips about a foot long and two inches wide. They had evidently at one time been tied to something; for one end of each still showed the marks of the knot.

"Now what in the world—?" I murmured, wondering what it was all about, and why Aunt Delphine should have acted so mysteriously over three little strips of cloth. First the puzzle of the oleanders, and now this.

Just then sounds outside the house indicated that the men had returned. Perhaps Amedee could explain the significance of my "present"—that was, if it had any significance outside of an old lady's slightly befogged mind and over-active imagination.

Hearing someone come in, I went out into the hall in the hope that it was he. But it was Claude who had entered. He was walking rather stiffly, I noticed with nasty satisfaction; a caution due, no doubt, to lack of co-operation between him and the horse.

"Oh, it's you," I said undiplomatically before I could stop myself. "I thought it was Dede."

He grinned at me over the fat-bowled pipe which he was just about to place in his mouth.

"And now you're disappointed?" he asked. "Well, you needn't be. Why, honey chile, if you'd just give me a chance—"

Then he spied the little, red streamers I was still holding, and his entire manner changed.

"What's that you've got there?" he demanded, starting toward me.

"A red flag," I answered, and hoped he'd get the point. But he didn't; he kept straight on coming.

"Where did you get those?"

His manner, as much as the question itself, annoyed me. He couldn't use that tone to me and get away with it, and I intended to let him know it.

"I hardly think that matters," I retorted in a tone calculated to reduce the temperature of the hall by at least twenty degrees. I attempted to thrust the hand holding the scraps of cloth behind me, but he was too quick for me. One of his big paws shot out, imprisoning my wrist.

"Now, now, honey chile," he chided with a pretense of playfulness which didn't deceive me in the least. "Mustn't act like that. Tell Claude where you got the pretty ribbons."

The physical nearness of the man revolted me, while at the same time something in his eyes frightened me a little. This was no mere horsplay. He was in grim earnest about wanting to know where I had got the red streamers, and he was as grimly determined to make me tell him.

"Let go of my wrist," I commanded, praying fervently that Amedee would come, but having too much pride to call for him. Claude's answer was to give my wrist the barest suggestion of a twist; not enough actually to hurt, but sufficient to let me know that there was more where that came from. He was pretending now that possession of the little streamer had become a kind of game between us.

"Give it to Claude, like a nice girl," he wheedled, but the set grin which accompanied the words was mere muscular camouflage.

I decided that it was time for a little action on my part. Although my right hand was imprisoned in his grasp, my left was still free, and fairly itching for active service.

He must have concluded that I meant to slap his face, for he threw up his own left hand to fend off the blow. But he had misjudged my intention. It was the filled pipe, which he still held in his left hand, that I was aiming for.

As my palm came into contact with the bottom of the bowl, the finely cut tobacco with which it was filled was shot upward in a beautiful parabolic curve right into his smirking face. He released his wrist at once, and fell back a step choking and spluttering. Then, dabbing at his streaming eyes with a handkerchief and swearing horribly, he stumbled past me down the hall.

about 3,000 periodicals in China with a circulation of around 50,000,000. The correspondent wrote that readers got tired of a daily fare in the Communist papers of "monotonous rappings of government organs, of factory workers, of school children, celebrations of communist anniversaries, of interviews with workers, students and the like, of government decrees and of war against imperialism, of assents and the diabolical wickedness of American imperialism."

Killed By Train, But Rabbit Safe

Orville, O., June 28 (AP)—William Powell, 42, lost his life under the grinding wheels of a train last night, but the pet rabbit that he carried in his pocket was unscathed. Powell's severed body was found on the tracks at a crossing close to his home at nearby North Lawrence. The rabbit, still in his pocket, apparently suffered no ill effects.

Powell was a former railroad track walker who was fond of carrying his pet about with him. It was not known how he happened to be struck by the train.

HOME OWNERSHIP GROWS

Chicago (AP)—The United States Saving and Loan League reports that the number of families owning homes has increased three-and-a-half times from the 1900 total, while the nation's non-farm population rose about one-and-a-half times.

Newspapers Of China Suffer Gradual Decline

Hong Kong (AP)—Communist China's newspapers are becoming fewer—and so apparently, are their readers. A correspondent writing from China's great Yangtze Valley says the latest official figures put the number of periodicals at 253, including 175 daily newspapers. He estimated their combined circulation at 2,500,000. Under the Nationalists there were

Without Painful Backache
As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slow down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions. If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Philippine Agriculture Experts View Tobacco Research In County

By CHESTER WALSH

Two distinguished visitors from Manila, Philippine Islands, touring some of the Southern states of this country, under auspices of the United Nations Fellowship Plan, spent the morning in Greenville today.

They were accompanied by Paul M. Thompson, assistant Greene county farm agent, of Snow Hill.

Hilarion S. Selayan, agricultural economist, and Dr. Generosa Rivera, a physician, attended the field day exercises at the Lower Coastal Plains Tobacco Research Farm, near Greenville, during the forenoon. They observed experiments in variety test for yield and quality of tobacco; fertilizer placement test; rate of fertilizer and spacing test in the field and the new disease resistant variety test.

The field day was conducted under auspices of Pitt County Farm Agent S. C. ... and Assistant S. J. Weeks.

The distinguished Filipino agricultural scientist and physician are spending a month in the United States observing agricultural methods and conditions and the general line of health control in rural areas.

Selayan said: "We are visiting certain states in the southeastern area of the United States through the courtesy of the United Nations."

They flew from Manila to San Francisco, and after a brief visit of inspection there they flew to New York for consultation with United Nations officials and agriculture specialists. When they left New York they went to Washington, D.C., for consultations and a study of rural welfare programs.

"We are vitally interested in farming methods in this country," Selayan said.

He stated their itinerary provides for a study of the agricultural plan on the federal level; on the state level, and on a county level, observing in the meantime the relative values of the methods.

The two Filipino scientists are spending several days at Goldsboro and in Wayne county, visiting farms, interviewing farmers and gathering information concerning improved agricultural methods. "We are making these personal contacts in order to get down to the grass-roots level of agriculture in the United States," they stated.

Mr. Selayan and Dr. Rivera will continue their study of the farming program, and then make similar observations in Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, and Oklahoma.

At its conclusion they will go to Raleigh for a roundup of their observations and studies in the several southern states.

From Raleigh they will go to Washington, D. C., for consultations with Department of Agriculture officials and then get ready to return to the Philippine Islands.

expected to last between an hour and an hour and one-half. Following the Acuff show, Lautares said, there will be a square dance "with music furnished by one of the best known string bands in eastern North Carolina."

But hillbilly bands will not afford all the entertainment for August 10 in Greenville. There will be roving clowns who will visit all sections of the city to entertain the visiting rural people. Arrangements are being made by the Farmers Day group to have the Greenville swimming pool open free of charge to all rural boys and girls on that day. The city playgrounds are expected to be open for ... and for spreading picnic lunches tables in the city parks.

Efforts also are being made to secure water clowns who will give a show at the swimming pool sometime during the afternoon, Lautares said.

Schools Budget Will Allow For Extra Teachers

Raleigh, June 29 —(AP)— The State Board of Education today approved a budget calling for the expenditure of $84,764,093 for the next school year.

The budget compares with an estimated $80,469,787 being spent this year.

The new budget makes no change in teacher salary schedules or in the average teacher load which is now 32 pupils per teacher.

A. S. Brower of Durham, chairman of the boards finance committee, explained that the increased spending would result from the employment of approximately 1,044 additional teachers next year. He estimated there would be 27,988 teachers in the schools next year compared with 26,942 this year.

Schools Budget Will Allow For Extra Teachers

holders meeting this year one of the most profitable yet held.

"A splendid but brief program has been arranged for the meeting, with Dr. R. F. Poole, president of Clemson College, Clemson, S. C., and known to tobacco growers in every flue-cured state."

Morgan said the success of the Stabilization program is looked upon by leaders in agriculture, business and government as an outstanding example of what can be done when a group determines to help itself.

"Every grower who possibly can and everyone else connected with tobacco in any manner should avail himself of the opportunity to attend the Stabilization stockholders' meeting," Morgan said. "Information of great value will be made available at the meeting, which promises to be more interesting than any of the three yearly sessions preceding it."

Funeral Friday For Mrs. Clifford Madrin

Mrs. Clyde Spires Madrin, 63, formerly of Greenville, died in Oak Park, Illinois, at 8:10 o'clock Tuesday afternoon after having been critically ill since Saturday. Funeral services will be held at Toxey Berry and Lynch Funeral Home in Elizabeth City at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, and burial will be in the Elizabeth City Cemetery.

Mrs. Madrin was born and reared in Elizabeth City and was married to Clifford E. Madrin, who died in 1949. They came to Greenville to live in 1920 and lived here for a number of years. She was a member of the Immanuel Baptist Church.

Surviving are two daughters: Mrs. Selma M. Andrews of Riverside, Illinois, and Mrs. Joe G. Dudley of Greenville; two sons, Charles W. Madrin of Hollywood, California, and Clifford E. Madrin of Akron, Ohio; 3 grandchildren; a brother, E. W. Spires of Edenton; and a sister, Mr. Ernest Midgett of Norfolk.

Saved Youth In Swimming Pool

Durham, N. C., June 29 —(AP)— A 14-year-old boy was found unconscious and half-drowned on the bottom of Duke Park swimming pool.

The boy, Larry Boswell, of Mebane cannot swim and no one saw him go down. He is believed to have waded too far and to have suddenly stepped off into water over his head.

The pool was crowded at the time of the incident.

Life guards estimated that the boy had been under water for three or four minutes before he was discovered.

VOTE TO REJECT PIKE AS AEC CHAIRMAN

Washington, June 29 —(AP)— Senate members of the joint atomic energy committee voted 5 to 4 today to ask the senate to reject the nomination of acting Atomic Energy chairman Sumner T. Pike for a four year term.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) cast the deciding vote against Pike in a committee that otherwise split along straight party lines.

Hospital Drive Nears Deadline

Asheville, N. C., June 29 —(AP)— The Western North Carolina Memorial hospital today was $93,255 and slightly more than 24 hours away.

At midnight Friday as the deadline for raising funds to build the proposed $2,780,500 medical center campaign officials stepped up their efforts, and announced an "over the top" meeting would be held at an Asheville hotel tomorrow night.

In order to qualify for a federal grant, hospital officials had to raise $250,000.

Kodiak, Alaska, was covered with a foot of ashes by the eruption of Mt. Katmai in June 1912.
