Tobacco Auction Dates Are Fixed

Auctioning Of 1950 Flue-Cured Crop To Begin July 24; Eastern Belt Sales Scheduled To Open On August 18

Raleigh, July 1—(AP)—Auctioning of the 1950 flue-cured tobacco crop will begin July 24 when sales start on the Georgia-Florida belt.

The date was set yesterday by the Board of Governors of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association.

Dates for markets to open on other flue-cured belts were fixed by the board as follows:

South Carolina and North Carolina Border belt, August 1; Eastern North Carolina, August 18; Sandhills markets of North Carolina Middle belt, August 28; other Middle Belt markets, August 31; Virginia and North Carolina Old belt, September 11.

The Georgia-Florida belt got a spread of 19 sales days instead of the 24 or 25 their spokesmen requested at open hearings of the Board of Governors held before fixing the dates. The South Carolina group got 28 sales days instead of the 33 or 34 days requested.

No specific dates were requested at the public hearing by the Eastern North Carolina, Middle or Old belts. Marion Fowler, secretary of the South Carolina Tobacco Warehouse Association, said, "I feel that the opening schedule did not provide time for farmers to sell their tobacco before the opening of the Old belt markets."

E. A. Graham, chairman of the Tobacco committee of the South Carolina State Grange, said he thought the dates fixed would suit South Carolina growers better than a later sales season, but added, "I think we should have had a few more sales days."

The opening days for the belts last year were Georgia-Florida, July 26; South Carolina and North Carolina border, August 2; Eastern North Carolina, August 19; Sandhills, August 29; Middle, September 1; and Old belt, September 12.

Excess Acreage Tobacco Crops Can Be Destroyed

Tobacco farmers in Pitt who have notified their tobacco before being notified from the PMA office that they have overplanted today got relief from their worries.

PMA secretary James T. Meredith this morning announced those farmers may destroy tobacco in the barns that has been taken from the over-planted area.

The new ruling on excess acreage came from the State Committee of the PMA when it met in Raleigh yesterday.

The just of the ruling, which supersedes all prior rulings and applies only to farmers who have harvested before being notified, was summarized by Meredith in this way:

The farmer who has harvested tobacco from the over-planted area may destroy the excess acreage remaining in the field. Then he must pull from the barn or packhouse the amount of leaf already primed from plants in the excess acreage.

In doing so the farmer will remain eligible for support prices on his crop.

The State Committee meeting yesterday came about because many farmers throughout the state have been notified before pulling tobacco.

Council Plans Coordinate U.N. Action In Korea

Lake Success, July 1—(AP)—Backed by more than half of the 50 United Nations members, Security Council delegates today discussed setting up a high-level group to coordinate U.N. action against Communist North Korea.

There was no suggestion that any military authority be taken from Gen. Douglas MacArthur, now supreme commander in the Japanese area. The group here would be named to tie up all loose political ends in the U.N. and to see that MacArthur has the solid backing of the non-Communist countries lining up against Russian-sponsored North Korea.

The Security Council heard yesterday that 32 members have endorsed the council's demand for military aid for South Korea. Messages of support were reported en route from two other U.N. members and also from Italy, who is not a member of the world group.

Washington, July 1—(AP)—If we mop up in Korea, what then? We're in Korea up to our necks now. And even if we don't wind up in a war with Russia, how do we get out of Korea?

It's a little soon to be asking, although there'll have to be an answer, sooner or later. No one has suggested the answer. Probably no one can answer now because we got involved so suddenly and unexpectedly.

The reasons for our getting in here sound enough, for if we hadn't stepped in to help the South Koreans—

Employment For Month Expected To Break Record

June Figures Second Highest In History And Trend Is Still Up

Washington, July 1—(AP)—Government experts predicted today that employment this month will break all records.

The stage was set when June employment, as reported by the census bureau yesterday, rolled up to $1,482,000, second highest in history and only 133,000 short of the 1945 record.

The experts said this means a new record is practically certain for this month, since July always opens up a host of seasonal jobs—providing services to vacationers, among other things.

The 6,482,000 June total reflected a 1,751,000 gain in jobs over May and a 4,535,000 advance since January, when there was much concern over unemployment.

Only civilian jobs were counted in that total. Ignored were 1,311,000 Armed Forces personnel, who actually lifted the total of Americans working for pay or profit to 62,793,000.

Despite the mounting income assured by five consecutive months of rising employment, it appeared that the American people were buying on credit as never before.

The Federal reserve board reported that consumer credit outstanding reached $19,091,000,000 at the start of June, marking the first time it had ever gone above the $19,000,000,000 mark.

During May alone, buyers went $481,000,000 deeper into debt for retail purchases—and $352,000,000 of that plunge was on the installment plan.

Although job opportunities were rising steadily, the census bureau said unemployment gained 337,000 from May to June to reach a 3,384,000 total last month.

The main cause, it said, was a swarm of youngsters hunting summer jobs. These accounted mostly for a 2,078,000 jump in the number of jobs seekers in June.

CAP Unit Goes To Training Base

Ten members of the Greenville unit of the Civil Air Patrol will leave Greenville, Monday morning for a 12 day stay at the Air Force base at Sumter, South Carolina.

The C.A.P. cadets will be the guests of the Army Air Force at the field while there and will leave from Greenville by Air Force planes which is being sent here to pick up cadets from Kinston, Morehead City, Jacksonville and Greenville units.

Cadets from the 24 C.A.P. units in the state will take part in the summer camp to be held in Sumter. At camp the Civil Air Patrol members will get the latest type of Air Force training in ground work, jet, rockets, and will also do some flying. A planned program of recreation has been included in the stay at the camp also.

The only cost which the boys will have will be incidental expenses. Time of departure from Greenville is set at 10:30. All the boys making the trip are between the ages of 14 and 18 years old.

The Greenville Civil Air Patrol members who will make the trip are, John Brigham, Billy Briley, Clifton Boyd, John Carrington, Frank Spencer, Tommy O'Neal, Anwer Joseph, Ralph Smiley, Ronald Duffin and Vernin Wingate.

Post Office Will Be Closed Here Tuesday

The Greenville Post Office will be closed all day Tuesday in observance of the July Fourth holiday. Postmaster J. Knott Proctor said today.

Special delivery services will be carried on as usual. There will be no city delivery, window service or R.F.D. deliveries, the postmaster said.

New Pageants To Open Tonight

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS Two more dramas based on North Carolina history were scheduled to open their summer runs tonight—one on the eastern coast and the other in the mountains of the western part of the state.

Boone launched the season with the opening of its "Echoes of the Blue Ridge," a pageant which premiered a year ago.

Double Holiday

With the usual Fourth of July holiday falling on Tuesday this year The Reflector will observe a double holiday next week by remaining closed both Monday and Tuesday.

In view of the fact that the continuity of operations makes it impossible for The Reflector to observe weekly half-holidays similar to those enjoyed by other business houses in the city, the management has decided on next week's double holiday to afford The Reflector employees a sorely needed brief vacation.

First U. S. Ground Troops Flown To Korea As Invaders Cross River Line

Governor Speaks At Meeting In Ayden

Gov. W. Kerr Scott spoke last night in Ayden at a joint meeting of some 125 Lions and Rotarians and their guests. It was the first official visit the governor has paid to the Pitt county town since becoming the State's chief executive. He arrived at Ayden about 6:30 last night and returned to Raleigh shortly after the supper meeting. (Reflector staff photo).

Breakthrough Is Successful, But Rest Of 75-Mile Defense Line Holds; Americans To Be Pushed Into Breach On Arrival From Air Base

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS The first American ground troops were airlifted into Korea today and headed toward the front to fight Communist invaders. An Air Force spokesman said the air ferry operation had been completed without mishap. The number of troops sent was not announced.

In Tokyo, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced that North Korean forces had breached the Han River defense line and were concentrated 10 miles north of Suwon, former provisional capital of South Korea. A Communist said an advance element appeared into Suwon during the night but apparently not in sufficient force to hold it.

An earlier Washington announcement contradicted South Korean declarations that Southern troops still held Suwon, which American headquarters troops abandoned yesterday with first reports of the Red breakthrough. The MacArthur headquarters announcement apparently was the latest information from the front.

The new American headquarters is at Taejon, 70 miles south of Suwon and 90 miles south of Seoul. It had been provisional capital also, but President Syngman Rhee and his government pulled out during the day.

The U.S. soldiers in full field equipment had not yet reached Taejon. But once they arrive by rail from their southern air base they will be shoved into the breach toward Suwon.

The Washington report said three U. S. Air Force planes were lost in missions over Korea during the last 24 hours, during which 100 offensive sorties were flown against North Korean tanks, road intersections and troop concentrations along the Han River east and west of Seoul. Tokyo Air Force headquarters said none of the plane lost were on troop-carrying missions.

Earlier reports said a Communist column of tanks followed by many trucks crossed the river. South Korean defense officials later said there were no tanks.

American military authorities in Taejon and Korean defense ministry sources said the South Koreans were holding elsewhere along the 75-mile strategic Han River line, despite the Red breakthrough. This spiked earlier reports last night that the whole South Korean defense had collapsed.

American bombers and fighters were bridging bad weather to attack the Communists in both North and South Korea—wherever they could find them. The Communist radio in Pyongyang, North Korea capital, said four Superforts had been shot down in the north. But Air Force officials made no mention of American air losses.

An Air Force announcement yesterday said U. S. planes had destroyed 15 tanks and heavily bombed other Communist armor along the Han River east of Seoul.

The report of the arrival of American G.I.s apparently gave weary South Koreans new hope and spirit.

Official sources said 400 South Koreans had infiltrated into Red-held Seoul to harass the enemy with guerrilla raids and street fighting. At least two South Korean divisions are still fighting far north of the Han River line—one in the Chunchon area and the other on the northeast coast just south of the 38th parallel.

Gov. Scott Takes Pitt To Task In Blunt Talk At Ayden Meeting

Ayden, July 1—In a typical straight-from-the-shoulder speech last night Governor Kerr Scott told some 125 people of the Ayden community, "I hate to see you people contributing to the reestablishing of these rackets in North Carolina."

The governor referred to what he called monopoly corporation control of politics in North Carolina which he implied returned to power with the nomination of Willis Smith to the United States Senate on June 24. Pitt County gave Smith a 1,121 majority over the governor's appointee, Senator Frank P. Graham, in the second primary.

The governor spoke at a joint meeting of the Ayden Rotary and Lions Clubs and farmers from the surrounding communities who were guests of the club at the meeting.

The governor reviewed the progress which has been made in the schools, hospitals, roads and rural electrification and telephones under his Go-Forward program. He declared the work under his administration has been a program to return to the government of North Carolina people from the small communities and rural sections of the state "who have eaten at the second and third tables as far as the state government is concerned" since the turn of the century.

Before lashing out at what he called corporation control of North Carolina politics, the strapping governor from Haw River told his listeners, "Some of these things I'm going to say you won't agree with. I think we have a good program and I think we know what we're going to do. That's the same story I've been telling all along, and I'll not take it back and I'll not minimize it."

Raleigh, July 1—(AP)—H. H. Honeycutt, veteran prison official, took charge of the states prison system today as acting director.

He was named to the post by the Highway Commission yesterday after Director J. B. Moore resigned with a continued denial of charges that he misused prison labor and state materials.

Moore submitted his resignation late yesterday following a long special meeting of the commission to consider an SBI report of his investigation of the charges, and Moore's point-by-point denial.

Moore allegedly used prison labor and state materials for building a garage apartment at his home here. Since the charges were disclosed on June 9, he has maintained that they were false. He took the directorship, at a salary of $7,560 a year, on May 1, 1949.

Highway Chairman Henry W. Jordan, who talked with reporters after the six-and-a-half-hour closed session, said the vote to accept Moore's resignation was unanimous among the nine members of the 10-man commission who were here. He added that the commission took no action on the charge.

The resignation was made effective today. The commission immediately gave the directorship to Honeycutt, who has been assistant director, on a temporary basis.

Babson Discusses Security

Babson Park, Mass. July 30—Webster's Dictionary definition of "Security" includes freedom from fear, freedom from risk, danger, harm or the like.

Is Security Desirable? I have sometimes heard men say that it was too bad peace didn't seem to provide quite the stimulus for greatness and distinction that war does. War often calls forth not only a man's ability but his capacity. Dwight Eisenhower has often stated that we human beings could not keep on living if there were no struggle and we were kept in "perfect security." Would Columbus have been discovered America if he had been seeking "freedom risk?" Would Patton have been a great fighting general if he had been afraid to swim the rivers or storm the bridges with his men? Would Gandhi have been the beloved leader he was to his people if he had sought first of all to protect his own physical health and life?

Ralph Waldo Emerson once said, "Nothing can bring you peace but the triumph of principles." Do we admire or gather inspiration from any of our heroes, poets, or philosophers because they were first seeking security for themselves? James Byrnes in a speech at the last conference of Southern Governors is reported to have said in effect, "that the people who settled this country did not come here to establish a government. They came to escape the tyrannies of government. They were not seeking security, but an opportunity to enjoy freedom—the freedom of self-development and accomplishment. Today the spirit of self-reliance is unfortunately departing; too many want to lean upon the government; too many thinking of security instead of opportunity."

Who or what has encouraged this learning, this moral weakness in the United States? Our government itself is encouraging it in every new proclamation. It urges more aid to farmers, more loans to small business, more health insurance and employment security. Each and every suggestion amounts to a promise to spend more as a charity to support this group or that—but of the people's own hard-earned tax

State Gets New Prison Director

H. H. Honeycutt Moves In As J. B. Moore Resigns

Raleigh, July 1—(AP)—H. H. Honeycutt, veteran prison official, took charge of the states prison system today as acting director.

He was named to the post by the Highway Commission yesterday after Director J. B. Moore resigned with a continued denial of charges that he misused prison labor and state materials.

Moore submitted his resignation late yesterday following a long special meeting of the commission to consider an SBI report of his investigation of the charges, and Moore's point-by-point denial.

Lighter Tobacco Crop Than Expected In Pitt

A prediction that the tobacco crop as a whole in eastern North Carolina probably will be lighter than first expected, highlighted the crop report released today by W. L. Whedbee, supervisor of the Greenville tobacco market.

Whedbee's report which is dated July 1 states, "The crop as a whole in eastern North Carolina is excellent though it is this writer's opinion that due to the low bottoming of some tobaccos the weight of the crop will be less than first expected."

The report pointed out that some tobacco which was set out in the fields while the soil was too wet has "buttoned out low and developed only 10 to 14 leaves per stalk."

"Tobacco which was set out at all other times, however, has matured beautifully, with 18 to 24 leaves and has made a nice, broad leaf, thin bodied smoking crop," Whedbee said.

He reported that curing has started on approximately 15 per cent of the farms in the section and will become general next week. The farms which already have come from the curing barns are grainy and show good quality, the report said.

The sales supervisor said the major complaining from the farmers of this section of the state is about black shank and wilt, and the complaints are confined to farmers who failed to plant resistant varieties of tobacco.

Re-appoint City Officials Today

The members of the Greenville Board of Aldermen at their noon day meeting today reappointed the following city officers for the 1950-51 year.

J. O. Duval was appointed as city clerk by a unanimous vote of the board.

H. H. Honeycutt was elected to the post of assistant tax collector.

It was decided by the board that the office clerical help would be appointed by the mayor and the city clerk. City treasurer, Chester Harris was reappointed upon receipt of his application for reappointment.

C. K. Beatty was retained as Superintendent of the City Streets and Fire Chief George Gardner was reappointed as fire chief. Chief Gardner has a service record with the city of Greenville of 26 years. Jasper Jones was reelected assistant fire chief and a motion made by Dick Rogers to appoint Berry Sumrell to the rank of second assistant chief was carried. Sumrell was a captain before the change; however the change in rank does not carry any increase in salary the alderman told the board.

Haywood Willis was reappointed custodian of the city buildings. None of the city employees were opposed in their fields.

Positive Steps Taken

Seriousness Of The Military Position In Korea Underlined By President Truman's All-Out Orders; Moves Should Allay Our Anxieties Rather Than Heighten

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

President Truman's authorization of the use of American ground troops in the Korean fighting should occasion no surprise, since it was a foregone conclusion based on pressing needs.

Invading North Korean troops not only were in possession of Seoul, the Southern Capital, but a North Korean force headed by armored vehicles had broken through the Southern defenses below Seoul. It was a critical situation which might call for the use of infantry. For despite the amazing progress of science in treating fearful weapons of war, we haven't yet reached the point where foot soldiers can be dispensed with.

The seriousness of the position is further emphasized by Mr. Truman's authorization for the U.S. Air Force to fly specific military missions into Northern Korea where necessary. The President also authorized the blockade of the entire Korean coast.

These moves should tend to allay our anxiety rather than heighten it. They bespeak a vigorous response to the open aggression launched on Southern Korea by Soviet-controlled North Korea. That aggression is part and parcel of the Communist drive to take over all Asia. This Korean imbroglio is a particularly good demonstration of the cuckoo-in-the-nest methods employed by communism in furthering its world revolution. It's a perfect example of the Bolshevik's scheme of getting the other fellow to do their work for them. The present dangerous situation grew out of the unwise allied agreement under which Russia assumed control of Northern Korea at the end of the war, while America undertook guardianship of the South. This naturally resulted in the establishment in Northern Korea of a puppet Communist government which claimed to act for all Korea. This wasn't recognized by the United Nations, and a Republican government was set up in Southern Korea. Then they developed according to Bolshievis routine. Russia proceeded to communize North Korea. A Red army was created and thoroughly equipped. Communist agents swarmed into Southern Korea and started their task of sabotaging the government and spreading disaffection.

bursting in air...

Centuries ago man invented gunpowder. Then he learned how to use that gunpowder to create beauty!

And so, on the Fourth of July we celebrate Independence with fireworks.

Our own generation has unleashed the stupendous power of the atom. Will we be so busy building bigger and more destructive bombs that it will take us centuries to learn how to use that atomic power to create beauty?

Our Independence will never be complete until all of our implements of war can safely be turned into instruments to create beauty. And the only course of life which has ever given promise of such a day is the Christian religion our churches teach.

America led the world to Democracy. America can lead the world to Christ!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
July 1, 1910

The Embroidery club met Friday morning with Miss Susie Moore. The hostess received her guests at the door and punch was served in the parlor by Miss Ward Moore. After the members had spent the usual time with their sewing and chatting, there was a doll dressing contest, small dolls being passed to each guest with tissue paper out of which to make the dresses. The doll dressed by Miss Nancy Coward was declared to be the prettiest and she was awarded a pair of embroidery scissors with chain, which she presented to Miss Marie Manning of Henderson. Refreshments were served by Misses Inez Pittman, Belle Pearl Fleming and Lillie Lanier.

Miss Ramona Rouse's engagement to Ralph C. Tucker, son of Mrs. W. A. Tucker and the late Mr. Tucker of Greenville, N. C., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Rouse of Walstonburg, N. C. The wedding will take place August 5.

Farmville News

Christian Church Group 4 met with Mrs. C. L. Ivey Tuesday night. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Ivey. After the minutes and business discussion, Mrs. W. A. Pollard, Jr., gave the devotional. Scripture was taken from the 4th and 5th chapters of Matthew.

Mrs. Ivey had charge of the program. Sixteen members were present. After the benediction, the guests were invited into a beautifully decorated dining room where they were served punch, iced cup cakes, pimiento sandwiches, salted nuts and mints.

Mrs. Bertha Gardner and sister, Bettie, are spending some time in Raleigh.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen left Tuesday to spend several days at Morehead City.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy and family of Washington, N. C., spent Wednesday in Farmville with Mrs. Archie Cayton.

Mrs. Mack Abrams, Mrs. Skinner Willoughby and Mrs. Kenese Heath were Rocky Mount visitors Tuesday.

Red Oak News

Friends of Mr. Fenner Allen will be sorry to learn that he entered Pitt General hospital last Thursday. He will undergo an operation next week. We will miss him at Sunday school Sunday morning as it will be the first Sunday he has missed in around eight years.

In spite of the hot weather and sickness the Daily Vacation Bible school which ended Friday with about 30 average attendance was a success. Full credit for this goes to the teachers, Mesdames James Allen, Thurman Paige, Doc Smith and Bill Jenkins. They were ably assisted by two teen-age girls, Miss Lois Gean Wainright and Miss Jackson.

Hostesses for the week who served delicious refreshments each afternoon were Mesdames Jarvis Tripp, Doc Smith, H. R. Allen, Lizzie Vandiford, John Crawford, Ola Kittrell, Tom Manning, Fenner Allen and Mr. Mills.

An interesting exhibit of handicraft was on display at the Sunday school hour at which time a very enjoyable program was presented by the Bible school pupils.

A small token of appreciation was presented to each of the teachers.

The Tyson and Edwards families were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hockaday of Roanoke Rapids last Sunday. About one hundred friends and neighbors enjoyed an old fashioned barbecue and fried chicken dinner under the big oaks.

The church will get a new carpet soon as the order has already been placed. We hope to have it installed by Home-Coming Day in September.

Babson . . .

(Continued from page one) money. Moreover, may I ask if the politicians are doing this for the good of the nation, or to get the votes?

What happens when a man knows he's going to be supported whether he does a good job or a poor one? He loses all incentive to excel. The public must realize by now that too many of their government's employees feel "secure" in their jobs. Yet, they don't have to produce anything which must stand factory or retailer's or consumer's inspection. Even more discouraging is the attitude of some of our youth in the schools. A friend of mine, who is a teacher, says that healthy young men, in their early twenties, claim to be interested only in job which will offer them old age pensions and other benefits. As Americans they should be ashamed of themselves. They should be looking toward jobs where there's a chance to work up and advancement in an incentive system, not in a "sure thing" system. Pension systems should boom Florida and California real estate, pensions may help level retail sales over a period of years; but most pension systems will never increase the total nation's income.

Decay Or Growth? Bernard M. Baruch, adviser to Presidents, said in a recent speech that we are swapping our independence for a "false" spell of security, that the greatest threat to our freedom is "too much government." Do the American people want to be like babies, to be cared for by their government from theadle to the grave? What happens to children who are given everything—except responsibility? They become greedy. They come to expect more and more. They become dependent and parasitical. A strong fibered character is never developed at all. There can be no personal or national development without risk, challenge and struggle.

Workshop In School Supervision To Open Monday For Two-Week Period

A workshop in school supervision is scheduled to begin at East Carolina Teachers College Monday, July 3, under the direction of Dr. Allan S. Hurlburt, chairman of the department of education, and Edward J. Rutan, professor of English, at the college here. Designed for discussion and evaluation of the work of the supervisor and of the supervisory program in public schools of the state, the workshop will be open only to superintendents, principals, supervisors, and faculty members of East Carolina.

Those participating will meet for three hours daily on Monday through Friday over a two-week period extending from July 3 through July 14. The work offered will carry three quarter hours of college credit on the graduate level in the department of education.

Registration will take place Monday morning, July 3, at 8:00 o'clock in the Graham building on the campus. The daily meetings will be held in Room 300 there at hours convenient to those in attendance.

Among participants, in addition to Dr. Hurlburt and Mr. Rutan, will be J. E. Miller of the State Department of Public Instruction; President John D. Messick and Dean Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina; Dr. Mildred Babcock of Appalachian State Teachers College, visiting professor at East Carolina this summer; Edith Hinton of the Row-Peterson Publishing Co. of New York; and Dr. Hazel Taylor, psychologist and psychometrist, and Dorothy W. Perkins, speech pathologist, of the education department at the college here.

During next week Dean Jenkins

Roanoke Rapids Kiwanians Here

The Greenville and Roanoke Rapids Kiwanis Clubs' members will be guests of Russell Pilley, general manager of the Greenville baseball club, at Guy Smith Stadium the night of Thursday, July 20.

The Kiwanians will attend in a body the game between the Roanoke Rapids Jays and the Greenville Robins. Special seating arrangements will be provided.

Past President Ed E. Rawl announced this at the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting last night. He said the Roanoke Rapids Kiwanians will be guests of the local Kiwanians at supper at 6:30. The ball game starts at 7:45.

At last night's meeting President Tige Gardner welcomed the returned Kiwanians from the Annual Mystic Shrine Convention at Los Angeles. The president also welcomed Sam D. Bundy, Ben Lewis, Glasgow Smith and Alton Bobbett, Farmville Kiwanians.

Aubrey Tilley had charge of the program. With Christine Smith as pianist, the Kiwanis Quartet, composed of Tige Gardner, James Ray Pittman, Aubrey Tilley and Bill Whedbee, made a hit with several songs. Berry Bostic, talented "baritone," sang "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

Milo Smith, Guy Smith and N.C. Brooks had birthdays and each donated a nickel for each year of their age.

Juvenile Charged With Shoplifting Greenville Stores

Greenville police were holding for Juvenile Court authorities Simon Rouse Jr., colored, who told authorities he was 14 years old, on a charge of shoplifting from the United Surplus Store, at Dickinson Avenue and Greene Streets. He was charged with the larceny of a scout knife and leather sheath.

Police had information that earlier in the day a clerk at McClellan's Store recovered from Rouse a pair of sun glasses, a comb, a pocket watch and a leather billfold and allowed him to go. Another police report was that the boy had been caught shoplifting at another store on Evans Street.

A police official said Rouse was followed after he left McClellan's store and was apprehended at the United Surplus Store on Dickinson Avenue a few minutes later. The case will be tried before David T. House, Juvenile Court judge, at the courthouse.

Arrest Man For Hauling Liquor

Pitt's ABC officers and deputy sheriffs arrested a Negro last night for hauling a quantity of non-tax-paid liquor for purpose of sale.

Arrested was Leo Lynch, 102 Reade St., about 9:30 on the Old Creek Road near old Mason School. The officers confiscated the liquor and Lynch's 1938 Pontiac coupe.

Making the arrest were ABC officers Claude Manning and J. C. Taylor and deputy sheriffs Lloyd Manning and Jasper Mills.

Lynch was placed in county jail to await trial in county court July 11.

Pitt Patriots Met In Martinborough On July 1, 1775

Pledged Congress Support, Opposed British Parliament

By Miss Jesse Rountree Moye
One hundred and seventy-two years ago today, on July 1, 1775, an event of historic importance took place in Court at Martinborough when eighty-eight Pitt County Patriots assembled there and, at the risk of their lives and loss of all their possessions, pledged themselves to "the Pitt Association," the text of which and signatures of these men follow:

The Colonial Records of North Carolina, X, 61-64
"Proceedings of the Safety Committee in Pitt County"

Martinborough 1st July 1775
"The Committee of the County met according to order as before mentioned and has entered into the following Association:

"We the free holders and inhabitants of the County of Pitt and town of Martinborough, being deeply affected with the present alarming state of this Province and all America Do Resolve that we will pay no due allegiance to his Majesty King George the third and endeavor to continue the succession of his crown in the illustrious house of Hanover as by law established, against the present or any future wicked ministry, or arbitrary set of men whatsoever, at the same time we are determined to assert our rights as men and sensible that by the late acts of Parliament the most valuable Liberties and privileges of America are invaded and endeavor to be violated and destroyed and that under God the preservation of them depends on a firm union of the inhabitants and a sturdy spirited observation of the Resolutions of the General Congress, being shocked at the cruel scenes now acting in the Massachusetts Bay and determined never to become slaves to any power upon earth, we do hereby agree and associate under all types of Religion, Honour, and regard for Posterity that we will adopt and endeavor to execute the measures which the General Congress now sitting at Philadelphia conclude on for preserving our constitution and opposing the execution of the several arbitrary illegal acts of the British Parliament and that we will readily observe the Directions of our General Committee for the purpose aforesaid, the Preservation of Peace and Good Order and Security of Individuals and private property.

Thos. Goff, Robert Salter, Patk Lacey, Mathias Sturdevant, John Williams, Edmund Williams, Allen Sugg, James Gorham, Joel Sugg, David Perkins, Geo. Evans, John Fry, William Graves, Mathias Moore, — Moore, William Oeburn, Jno. Enloe, Marcus Stokes, Jno. Fleming, Sam'l Barrow, Richard Grice.

The Captains of the different companies were directed to call their men together to choose officers. Many of these signers attained high rank in the Continental Line and, in later life, others were also very prominently identified with affairs of Government. A few whose military records are known to the writer are: Brigadier General John Simpson, General James Gorham, Lieut.-Colonel Edward Salter, Brigadier-General James Armstrong, Colonel Robert Salter, Colonel John Hardee, Major George Evans, Major Benjamin May, Captain William Burney, Captain George Moye, Captain William Tilghman, Captain John Enloe. Mention should be made of Dr. Robert Williams, Surgeon, father of John and Richard. No doubt many of the others served with distinction. This occasion occurred a year before the signing of the Declaration of Independence at Philadelphia. For many months previous a growing rebellion against the burdens imposed by the Royal Government of Great Britain was apparent among the Colonies. The Stamp Act, the Edenton Tea Party and events among the counties of North Carolina were welding public sentiment toward a movement for freedom. Pitt County was among the very first to take a decisive stand for action. "On the 21st of July, 1774, a circular letter, written by direction of a general meeting of the people of the district of Wilmington, was sent to the several counties in the province inviting them to send deputies to attend a general meeting for the election of delegates to a general Congress of the Colonies and for the consideration of ways and means to avert the evils threatening the American colonies. . . . Delegates were accordingly elected. . . . The convention met at New Bern on August 25 and, among other things, denounced the tax on tea lived on the lands of Pitt County since the turn of that century. They had carved from the wilderness a civilized existence on large plantations. Surviving Indian attacks, the dangers of slave insurrections, and the rugged existence of pioneers, they were men of courage and firm convictions. In Edgecombe, Martin and Craven Counties, there were more Tories than in predominantly Whig Pitt County. The Royalists nearby were in sufficient numbers during the Revolutionary War days to create much trouble for Pitt Patriots which necessitated frequent action by the militia.

There was no town in Pitt County in the year 1775 when War was declared. The town of Martinborough, named for the Royal Governor Joshua Martin, had been too recently laid out (on the lands of Richard Evans, 1774) to have become even a village. The people were reluctant to leave their plantations for an urban existence and the town was of very slow growth.

The first Pitt County Court House was built on the lands of Colonel John Hardee, three miles from Greenville on the Washington highway, during the year 1761. The County of Pitt was named for William Pitt, the Earl of Chatham, who championed the cause of the American Colonies in the House of Parliament in London. King's History of Pitt County, pg. 41

"On May 9, 1760, the Assembly met at New Bern, John Simpson introduced a bill for the division of Beaufort County to form Pitt County. It passed and provided that after January 1, 1761, the upper part of Beaufort would be known as Pitt County."

John Hardee, John Simpson, William Speir, George Moye and Isaac Buck were made Commissioners for building a Court-house, prison and stocks on the south side of Tar River near Hardee's Chapel Courts were to be held at John Hardee's home until the Court-house could be built. That the court-house was completed within the specified time is proved by the following reference: Pitt County Records (1762-1764) Book B, pg. 72 March 26, 1762

"Between John Hardee, of the first part and Joseph Eastwood, planter, of the second part, a sale of two acres of land lying on the south side of Tar River in the said County of Pitt, joining Captain Ellison's line and southerly to the Lot whereon the Court-house of the said County now stands."

The first Pitt County Court-house was also, Saint Michael's Parish House, the county's first Episcopal Church, the Church of England, which all officers of government were required to attend. In the masonry of the fine double chimneys were plainly visible the letters of sacred significance, "I. H. S." (In hoc signo). The simple Colonial architecture was of distinctive design. It is believed by this writer that the building may have been planned by the noted architect, Frederick Coutanche, who designed the home of his brother, a prominent figure of Colonial days, Major Michael Coutanche (pronounced Cootanhsh), of Bath. In this home the first General Assembly was held. This family, as well as the Moyes, Bernards, Dupres, and others were aristocratic French Huguenots, who left France early in the Protestant movement and is the origin of the name of Coutanche Street in Greenville (misspelled Cotanche and erroneously thought to be Indian).

The Old Coutanche home at Bath is now known as the "Old March House." It is somewhat similar in style to the old Pitt County Court-house, especially as to the rare chimneys. Major Coutanche is buried in the garden of this home. Because several years elapsed before a courthouse was built at Greenville, the first Pitt County Court-house was always distinguished as the "Martinborough Court-house."

On the same day, July 1, 1775, "the Committee met according to order as before mentioned and has entered into the association—Resolved that the Reverend William Blount preach in the Court-house in Martinborough."—North Carolina Colonial Records, Vol. X, pg. 64. Not until sometime after 1780 was there a courthouse at Greenville. "The Convention that adopted the Constitution met at Fayetteville, November 1789. "Another act was for that of the building of a courthouse, prison and stocks at Greenville, and for keeping the same in repair, for which a tax of not exceeding two shillings, "like money," every taxable person and a tax of two shillings on every hundred pounds value of town property in said County was laid. James Armstrong, Shadrach Allen, John Moye, Arthur Forbes, Samuel Simpson, Benjamin Bell, and William Blount were appointed the Commissioners to have charge of the money raised for the purpose, have the building erected and sell the old Court-house and prison." King's History of Pitt County, pg. 95 & 96

This Court-house was built about where the present United States Post Office now stands and was burned in 1848, said to have been set fire by a man from Tennessee to destroy a will.

An Act was passed June 6, 1787, changing the name of Martinborough to Greenville, in honor of General Nathaniel Greene of Rhode Island, second in command to General George Washington." (He was in command at the Battle of Guilford Courthouse and many Pitt County soldiers served under him there and in other battles.)

During the Revolutionary War Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia bore the brunt of the war. Many of their field returns were destroyed in battle. The Revolutionary Records of Pitt County people are pathetically meager. Court minutes, early wills and many valuable sources of information have been destroyed in two courthouse fires—in 1848 and in 1910.

Pitt County early asserted a right to liberty and justice for all. She remained intensely loyal to the end of the Revolution, when others seemed to fail, and gave generously of her resources of both men and materials. Her soldiers were absorbed by the forces of other states and much credit for their brave services was often lost to her to be claimed by other States. Even in those early days, her citizens deplored this. But North Carolina lost many of her officers and this was a contributing factor in this situation.

So many Pitt County soldiers in Colonel Armstrong's Company were lost at the Battle of Brandywine, the remaining few went into Colonel Patton's Company, which was later taken into General Lincoln's army in South Carolina and was with him at the surrender of Charleston. The Pitt Militia engaged in skirmishes with the British on the march from Wilmington to Halifax, thence to Yorktown—from April 15 to May 12, 1780—notably near Dupres Crossroads. At Peacock's Bridge on Contentment Creek on the road to Tarboro they engaged with a party of Tarleton's horse (eight hundred men) and about fifty Royalists (from the reports of General Jethro Sumner) N.C.C.R.

"The Pitt Association" should be given its proper recognition. There are hundreds of descendants throughout this County whose brave ancestors signed this important document. This occasion should be marked with a suitable memorial placed within the Pitt County Court-house by the people of the County.

The eminent World Federalist, Honorable Robert Lee Humber, Vice-President of the North Carolina Historical Society, and Miss Jesse Rountree Moye of Greenville have appeared before the Board of County Commissioners to initiate this movement.

At the request of Miss Moye, Dr. Christopher C. Crittenden, Director of the North Carolina Department of Archives and History, and his assistant, Mr. D. Leroy Corbitt of Raleigh, and Dr. A. R. Newsome of the Department of History at the University of North Carolina, formerly Director of the Historical Commission in Raleigh, have verified that the importance of the Pitt Association merits the erection of a memorial. Little trace of its antiquity is left in Pitt County's oldest town of Greenville.

Her first Court-house—the oldest courthouse still standing in the State of North Carolina in 1926—predating the Edenton courthouse by two years, was torn down. "The Pitt Association" whose one hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary we call to mind today, is one of Pitt's few recorded events saved for posterity. Other States, other countries within our State, have marked their historic sites with diligence, that the generations who may follow may be inspired by the deeds of their ancestors, to love and to guard well this great commonwealth of America which was built upon their sacrifices. Pitt County has a fine heritage in her proud historic past. We have been too long indifferent to preserving the tangible evidences of that heritage.

the Boston Port Act . . . the act of Parliament regulating the police of Massachusetts . . . and coming down to purely home affairs, provided that a committee of five be chosen in each county to take effectual care that the resolves of the convention be obeyed and to correspond with the Provincial Committee of Correspondence. . . . This convention or congress was the first representative assemblage that ever met in North Carolina, or in America, save by royal authority. . . . "With this Convention began the actual overt act of revolution in North Carolina and its history from the date of its inception to the hour of its adjournment is matter of indisputable record. . . . That Convention inaugurated in North Carolina a system of purely popular government that was destined, in less than twelve months, to sweep from the province every vestige of Royal government. This new government consisted of the Committee of Safety, as they were called, that, in pursuance of the recommendation of the Convention, began to be organized in different parts of the province, the one in Rowan being the first, and that in Pitt being the second, of which we have any record. Urprising some new authority every day, executive, judicial or legislative, as the case might be, their powers soon became practically unlimited. They determined not only what acts and opinions even constituted a man an enemy of his country, but passed upon his guilt or innocence and fixed his punishment. And we unto that man whom the committee declared to be an "enemy to his country." "PITT RESOLVES" Prefatory Notes, Vol. IX, xxxix-xxxiii. "The Colonial Records of North Carolina."

Court was one of the most exciting and colorful times of Colonial Days. Gathered here in the Court-house this summer day, the richly clad in their bright satins and starched lace, silver buckles and powdered wigs mingled with some more recently arrived on these shores to seek their fortunes, who might be wearing the darker homespun. The blue coats of the militia men, swords flashing in the sunlight, were in contrast to an occasional sober grey garb of a Quaker.

Outside beneath the trees of the surrounding woodland, the saddles horses stood, and here and there a carriage, with perhaps, the family arms emblazoned on the door, (See Gore's Roll of Arms), a colored coachman in attendance. Without doubt these carriages had conveyed to the neighborhood feminine friends and relatives for visits to the nearby plantations, "Strawberry Hill" (the James Gorhams), "Red Banks" (the John Spiers), "Chatham" (the John Simpsions), and a little farther away, "Mount Calvert" (the Lewis Duvals). From "Tuscarora" the Edward Salters had probably come to see their kin, the Richard Evans; and doubtless, the home of John Hardee overflowed with guests.

There was far more frequent travelling by the Pitt Colonists than is generally supposed. And in their travels they acquired fine furnishings for their homes and apparel for their families. (In 1801 there was a great exodus of Pitt County families into the lower South. After the War between the States, also, great changes caused many of these possessions to be scattered far and wide.) The Post Road direct from Boston to Charleston ran through the port town of Bath. John Simpson, formerly of Massachusetts, and other prominent men owned their sailing vessels which plied to and from Europe and the West Indies carrying tobacco away, to be exchanged for rich cargoes. Sometimes the owners sailed with their ships accompanied by their families or friends.

On this momentous day when the "Pitt Association" was inaugurated, these signers were aware of the seriousness of their forward step for freedom. Among the settlers in Pitt County were English, Scotch-Irish, and French Huguenots, the latter especially indifferent to the fortunes of the British throne. Some of these families had lived in America for more than one hundred years and, migrating from the Old Albemarle, had of these societies inspired thinkers and poets. Men learned what was going on in the world. The result was the industrial revolution. And printing also went into politics. The American revolution was as much a war of printing press as it was of guns. Its leaders read the works of such thinkers as Hobbes, Locke, Hume. There they got many of their ideas. Thomas Paine, Alexander Hamilton, Patrick Henry and others spread the ideas in speeches which were printed and in pamphlets. The French revolution also leaned heavily on the printing press as did the revolts of 1830 and 1848. And in the middle of the 19th Century, Karl Marx printed the Communist Manifesto. His printed work and that of his associates has helped split the modern world in the cold war.

Meanwhile, education reached the common man. That could not take place when books cost $3,000 each. Printing for the new literate brought the era of personal journalism. The United States had such men as James Gordon Bennett, father and son, Horace Greeley, Charles Anderson Dana and Joseph Pulitzer. Then the great combines—newspaper and magazine empires—arose in the United States and Britain. New methods came gradually to printing, making it cheaper, faster, clearer.

Field Day And Demonstration Due Thursday
A nine point program is planned for farmers of eastern North Carolina when they meet at McCuller's Experiment Station next Thursday for a field day and tobacco demonstration. The station, which is located a few miles south of Raleigh, plans to hold demonstrations in nine steps toward better tobacco production. They are foliage spray and starker solution, source of nitrogen, variety tests, sucker control, irrigation and fertilization, breeding, soil treatment, cover crops and rotation and spind control.

All Pitt tobacco farmers are urged to attend the meeting. The county agents here urge all persons to notify their office if they want to go and do not have transportation. The group attending the field day will leave Greenville at 9:30 Thursday morning.

There are other stories about people who were horrified to find two copies of a book exactly alike. "Magic," they cried. And magic was a crime in those days. Early presses, adapted from wine or cheese presses, did fine printing. The early works are still some of the best in the world. A printer was not just an ordinary workman. In some countries he was almost a "gentleman" when "gentleman" was more than a courtesy title. At first he might print 350 sheets a day. In Lyons, France, in 1575 production had gone up to 3,350 a day. But those were 18-hour days with two men working—one inking and the other pulling the lever. In 1814, the London Times had a cylinder press which put out 1,100 copies an hour. The web press came in 1847. Modern newspaper presses can run at the rate of 60,000 newspapers an hour.

Printing did not take long to start changing the world. H. Maynard Smith, the historian, says it was behind the Reformation. When Pope Leo X heard how Luther nailed his 95 theses to the door in 1517, he was contemptuous. "Another monkish quarrel," he said. But he reckoned without printing. Before then such a quarrel might have gone on for years in letters between scholars. Now, ordinary men got hold of it and it tore Europe apart. Columbus may have owed his fame to printing. America had been "discovered" before. But tales of his voyages and those of the great explorers who came after him were printed. Men were moved to spread out and the world expanded. And not only adventures were stimulated. One study of Coleridge's work shows how some of his poetry was based on his reading of travel tales. Other poets and thinkers had like inspiration. The first scientific societies were made up of business men and other ordinary folks, not of the scholars of their day. The printed journals

Printing Changed Course Of History

By SHERRY BOWEN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Just 500 years ago, in 1450, John Gutenberg borrowed 800 guilders from John Post to start a printing plant. That plant, the birthplace of modern printing, changed the world. Gutenberg was not the first to print but was the first to use type. Crude pictures and words had been previously printed from plates. Japan had plate printing in 770. The Chinese made the first known printed book the same way in 868 A.D.

Some people think printing started in Europe as early as 1420. But Gutenberg's contract with Post in 1450 said he was to make the tools to print. Even the modern Korean and Chinese printing comes from Gutenberg and not from their own early types.

Dates are hard to pin down because early printers tried to keep their work secret. Books were expensive in those days. An ordinary book might take a year of hard work to copy by hand—a Bible four years. Ordinary books might be sold at a price that would add up to $3,000 to $5,000 today. Some were decorated with paintings of initial letters and in the margins. And the covers often had jewels on them.

By 1400 most of the copy work had come out of the monasteries. Many people were making their living at it. Printers even with crude tools could do the work cheaper. When the copyists got wind of what the printers were doing they stirred up trouble. One tale is that Post went to Paris in 146 to sell some books. The copyists said his books were produced by the devil. He was accused of witchcraft, lost his books and was lucky to get away with his life.

There are other stories about people who were horrified to find two copies of a book exactly alike. "Magic," they cried. And magic was a crime in those days. Early presses, adapted from wine or cheese presses, did fine printing. The early works are still some of the best in the world. A printer was not just an ordinary workman. Above is shown Nathaniel Greene, famous Revolutionary war general, from whom Greenville takes its name.

Above is a block print made by Miss Jesse Rountree Moye for use on the programs for the occasion of the dedication of a boulder at the site of the old court house. The building was built in 1761. The stone marker was set by the Greenville Patriots Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution on October 25, 1930.

The present courthouse was constructed after 1910 when the cornerstone was laid. Its predecessor was burned. (Photo by Roy Hardee).

IT'S DEATH, MY DARLING!

By Amelia Reynolds Long

Chapter 9

We had all been so intent upon watching Beau, that none of us had noticed Uncle Raoul when he rose. The first we knew that he had left his chair was when we heard the sharp slap of his open palm across his younger sons face. "That's enough out of you, you're drunk," he said. Then he returned to his place as though nothing had happened.

For the second time within less than a minute, there was an awkward pause; but in comparison with this one, the first had been the soul of grace. Finally Claude broke it with one of his fat chuckles. "Well, I've got a few thousand dollars I can afford to throw away," he announced with condescending magnanimity. "I'll buy out anybody who wants to sell. I can do that, being a Dumont. How about it, Uncle Raoul?"

"No, thank you," Uncle Raoul answered evenly, but his cheeks had flushed even darker than Lee's had done a moment before.

PRELIMINARY CERTIFICATE OF DISSOLUTION

State of North Carolina
Department of State
To All to Whom These Presents May Come—Greeting:

Whereas, it appears to my satisfaction, by duly authenticated record of the proceedings for the voluntary dissolution thereof by the unanimous consent of all the stockholders, deposited in my office, that the Sanitary Plumbing and Heating Company of Greenville, N. C., Inc., a corporation of this State, whose principal office is situated at 302 W. 9th street, in the City of Greenville, County of Pitt, State of North Carolina (E. T. Odum being the agent therein and in charge thereof, upon whom process may be served), has complied with the requirements of Chapter 55, General Statutes, entitled "Corporations," preliminary to the issuing of this Certificate of Dissolution;

Now therefore, I, Thad Eure, Secretary of State of the State of North Carolina, do hereby certify that the said corporation did, on the 28th day of April, 1950, file in my office a duly executed and attested consent in writing to the dissolution of said corporation, executed by all the stockholders thereof, which said consent and the record of the proceedings aforesaid are now on file in my said office as provided by law.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal at Raleigh, this 28th day of April, A. D. 1950.

THAD EURE, Secretary of State.
June 10-17-24 July 1.

Although doors and windows alike were open, the atmosphere of the room was stuffy and heavy. I attributed this to the fumes of Claude's foul-smelling pipe, which he had continued to smoke so furiously that there was actually a bluish haze in the air. Aunt Minerva, however, put it down to the odor of the leanders, which she insisted gave her a headache; and finally she broke up the party by announcing her intention of going to bed, and advising Pick and Bobby and me to do likewise. It was the one action of hers since we had known her for which we were truly grateful.

We left the men still in the drawing room, and went upstairs to our rooms. However, unlike the night before, I was unable to get to sleep. I felt nervous and restless; and like Aunt Minerva, I was developing a headache.

After a while I heard the opening and closing of the front door, marking the departure of those of the men who slept in the garconieres. Then came the sound of the rest of them ascending the stairs, the muffled closing of doors in more distant parts of the house, and finally silence.

It was shortly after this that my throat began to feel dry. I reached for the water carafe that stood on the bedside table, only to discover that it was empty. Maxine, the young colored girl whose duty it was to look after the bedrooms, had evidently, in the excitement of the day, forgotten to fill it.

I rose quietly so as not to disturb Bobby, who had fallen asleep long ago, and got into robe and slippers. Then I set out to fill the carafe at one of the bathroom faucets.

As I was passing the head of the stairs, I glanced down involuntarily, thinking of the night before when Bobby and I had sneaked in after our stolen evening in New Orleans, and had so suddenly been discovered by that newly opening door. And at that very moment, as though history were repeating itself, the utter blackness of the lower hall was again pierced by a shaft of light identical in size and position with that of the night before.

I stopped where I was, with the queer feeling that time had been turned back without taking me with it; for now I was standing in the upper hall instead of the lower. However, the impression lasted only a minute; for what happened next was different from what had happened the night before.

The swath of brightness widened, then was partially obliterated three times as three men passed through the open door to the hall beyond. From where I was standing I could see only their shadows cast upon the floor and part way up the opposite wall; although from these I was able to form a pretty good idea of who they were.

The tallest was, of course, Beau. The second, with the suggestion of a droop to his somewhat narrow shoulders, was Lee. The third might have been any of the other men except Claude or Henri, one of whom was too large and the other too small to fit it.

For the fraction of a second, the three stood there together. Then Beau started down the hall toward the front door, while the other two turned toward the front of the stairs. I decided that it was time for me to move on.

But just as I took a step forward, I sensed the faint odor of leanders through the darkness; while a figure all in white disengaged itself from among the shadows at the head of the stairs, and floated toward me!

I was so startled that I nearly dropped the water carafe. The figure in white appeared to be equally startled, for it drew back with a little sound like the quick intaking of breath. Then our eyes met; and with an exchange of mute, self-conscious nods, we hurried upon our separate ways.

The figure had been Pick Dumont.

Chas. Whitfield Faces Four Suits

Four civil actions have been brought against Charles L. Whitfield, Jr., charged for manslaughter in the automobile deaths of three persons February 20 of this year.

The suits, all of which were instituted today with the clerk of Superior Court, are brought by Thomas Earl Venters, husband of one of the deceased occupants of the car. Venters is the plaintiff in three suits and next friend for the plaintiff in the fourth:

Damages, hospital and funeral expenses requested in the suits total $48,405.99.

The suits are the result of the deaths of Mrs. Thomas Earl Venters, Mrs. Rosa Sutton, and seven-year-old Rose Marie Venters on the night of February 20, 1950, from an automobile collision between the Venters car and the car which Whitfield was driving. Both Mrs. Venters and Mrs. Sutton were killed outright. Mrs. Venters daughter Rose Marie died the next day in Pitt General Hospital.

The first suit is for $28,000 damages in the death of Venters wife and $428.86 funeral expenses; the second is for $15,000 damages in the death of the daughter and $377.13 hospital and funeral expenses; the third is for $600 damages to the automobile.

In the fourth suit, the plaintiff

Guardsmen Go To Camp On Sunday

A group of some 70 National Guardsmen will leave Greenville Sunday morning for a two-week summer encampment at Fort Jackson, South Carolina.

The office of the local guard unit has revealed that 65 men and six officers are expected to make the trip.

Guns and tractors of Battery C left Greenville Tuesday by rail. They will be unloaded by the men when they arrive at the camp Sunday.

Battery C is scheduled to leave Greenville at 7:30 a. m. following an early breakfast at the Proctor Hotel. A portion of the men will travel by bus to Goldsboro where they will board a troop train. The remainder of the unit will travel in a motor convoy.

Describes Korea In Talk To Club

Korea was compared with states of the Upper South last night in a talk to the Exchange Club by Professor George Martin of the East Carolina geography department.

Speaking to the group in its regular weekly meeting, Martin described the country of Korea as being very similar in terrain to that of the states of North Carolina and Virginia. Its population, he said, is about twice that of North and South Carolina, being 13,000,000.

The dividing line between North and South Korea, the 38th parallel, places it in about the same geographical location north and south as that of the state of Virginia. Greenville is located near the 35th parallel, he said.

Alf Forbes To Return To Greenville; Joins Victory Warehouse

Alf Forbes, formerly of Greenville, will return here for the entire tobacco market season to be associated with Victory Warehouse, Bill Wnedge, of the Tobacco Board of Trade, announced today.

Forbes for the past three years has been on the Lumberton market in the warehouse business. Prior to that he was in Fitzgerald, Georgia, where he operated a warehouse after leaving Greenville.

Wnedge said, "Forbes has many friends in Pitt and adjacent counties and is indeed an asset to this market."

He was formerly connected with Person-Garrett Tobacco Company before leaving Greenville and is the son of the late Alf Forbes.

Gov. Scott . . .

state's program, the governor said, is the one cent gasoline tax which was voted by the people of the state in the road bond election in June 1949.

Returning to his attack on the forces in the state which worked for Willis Smith's victory in the recent senatorial campaign, Governor Scott told the gathering, "I'm sorry some of you got sucked in on this thing. We've had monopoly corporation lawyers controlling North Carolina politics since 1900. They tried everything to defeat Frank Graham, and the only way they could do it was to bring up the Negro question."

"The Negro issue in the campaign," Scott declared, "has set North Carolina back and we're going to pay for it. We had the Negro issue smoothed over in this state. I'm fearful of millions of dollars worth of law suits now."

The governor added, however, that he does not think the race issue in the campaign will ruin the state. "I think we'll rise above it."

The governor said the Go-Forward program of the state is progressing rapidly in all its phases. "In the hospital building program now underway 57 hospitals are under construction and when completed there will be no need to say there is not hospital room for the four million people of North Carolina."

When the school building program is completed, the governor said, "we will have around $150 million in school classrooms alone. It is the largest school building program anywhere in the nation today."

North Carolina's road program, Scott said, "is the biggest road building program anywhere in the world in any time, past or now." He added that work is being done on the rural electrification program and on getting telephone service to people in the rural areas.

Guests were welcomed to the meeting last night by Lion President Jamie Ross, and the governor was introduced by Rotarian Garland Bullock. Bill Johnson, president of the Rotary Club, presided at the meeting.

Heavy Penalty For Failure To Support Family

In Police Court, Friday, Judge J. W. H. Roberts found Junior Evans, 39, colored, guilty of non-support of his wife and five children and sentenced him to three months on the roads. The court suspended sentence on condition that Evans pay $15 a week to the welfare office for his family and the court costs in two weeks.

After being given a chance, Evans said "one word too many," and Judge Roberts ordered his commitment to go into effect at once. The court placed him on probation for five years.

WIFE ARE IN THE SAME MOOD...

SIR CONKLIN NEVER PAID US A
PENNY WHILE HE LIVED...BUT HE PROMISED TO LEAVE US THIS CASTLE WHEN HE DIED!

THEN HE UPS
AN' DIES, AN'
LEAVES IT TO
SIR OAKY!

--AN' SIR OAKY NEVER EVEN SET EYES ON
TH' OL'
GOAT!

HE DIDN'T?!
THEN IT'S ABOUT TIME HE DID!

MILITARY ENGINEERS ARE INTERESTED IN A NEW CHEMICAL COMBINATION WHICH WILL TURN MUDHOLES INTO AIRFIELDS IN FIVE HOURS... THE PROCESS WILL CHANGE A SOUPY SOIL INTO A HARD RUBBERY SURFACE THAT WILL SUPPORT HEAVY LOADS...
