Aldermen Sworn In Saturday For Two-Year Terms

New Aldermanic Board Meets Thursday Night

Principal Topic Of Discussion Expected To Center On Appointment Of Police Chief After Setback By Stafford's Veto

Greenville's al[illegible]n will meet for their first regular session of the 1950-51 fiscal year tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the aldermen's room at the city hall.

The principal matter of business expected to be a discussion of the appointment of a chief of police. The matter was left hanging fire in the board's organization meeting at noon Saturday when Mayor W. S. Stafford vetoed the appointment by the aldermen of H. E. Wooten as police chief. The five to four vote of the board members gave the majority of the aldermanic votes to Wooten over the present Chief Lester D. Page. Page and Wooten were the only two men who applied for the position in the city department. The other department heads of the city government were appointed at the Saturday meeting.

To overrule the majority action of the aldermen in the appointment of the police chief, Mayor Stafford used the veto power granted the mayor by the city charter, but which had almost been forgotten through non-use.

Just what the action of the board will take in the matter tomorrow night was receiving much speculation today. Nothing definite has been learned from the members of the board of aldermen, but indications are that Aldermen J. E. Waldrop, J. E. Collins, R. E. Rogers, C. B. Mayo and Robert Elks have been unable to secure the vote of a sixth member of the board for the necessary two-thirds vote to override the mayor's veto.

According to the city code, the present chief of police will remain in office until a successor is duly appointed. Page's one-year term of office to which he was appointed on July 1, 1949 was to expire at noon Saturday.

If the aldermen are unable to secure the two-thirds vote to override the mayors veto, and are unable to agree on a compromise candidate to fill the office of chief of police, Page may remain at the head of the city police department for an indefinite period.

Pitt Unscathed By Highway Toll

Minor Mishaps, But None Killed Or Seriously Injured

Although the state experienced one of its worst Fourths of July from an accident point of view, Pitt County came through the holiday period without a single serious highway mishap being reported by the Highway Patrol.

The county patrolmen, who were on duty nearly around the clock during the Friday-to-Tuesday holiday, reported the traffic in the county was very heavy at times. It was described by the officers as being heavy during Saturday, Sunday and Monday, but yesterday was actually very slack as compared with the expected flow.

Scattered reports of traffic accidents received by patrolmen over the holiday turned out to be only minor mishaps when investigated.

The majority of the accidents didn't amount to more than $25 damages as a rule, they reported.

The county, which only a few months back was leading the state in the number of highway deaths, did not contribute to the 23 deaths on state highways nor to the 193 others who were injured.

Patrol officials stated the roads of the county were patrolled more during the four-day period than at any other time in past.

Louder Voice Of America Urged As U.S. Weapon

Washington, July 5—(AP)—Generals George C. Marshall and Dwight D. Eisenhower today urged expanding the "voice of America" programs to combat Russia's world propaganda campaign against the United States.

The World War II army leaders gave strong support to the proposal by Senator Benton (D-Conn) for a "Marshall plan of ideas." Among other things, Benton's plan calls for vast increase in "voice" broadcasts overseas.

Thomas Trails In Oklahoma Voting

Second Primary For Senate Seat Almost Certainty

Oklahoma City, July 5—(AP)—Incumbent Elmer Thomas trailed Rep. Mike Monroney by more than 6,000 votes today as tabulation of yesterday's Democratic senatorial primary election neared completion.

A run-off election July 25 was assured by the other five Democratic candidates who had more than 25,000 votes among them.

Returns from 3,261 of 3,786 precincts gave: Monroney 167,592, Thomas 160,435.

Farm support prices and public power policies were the major issues. However, the minority Republican party furnished its share of the headlines.

The Fourth of July election—first in Oklahoma's history—produced an average primary turnout of about 350,000 voters.

The Rev. Bill Alexander, who first announced as a democratic candidate, then skitcher parties, swept the GOP senate nomination.

Thomas has at stake a national political career spanning 28 years. At his age, 73, the white-haired senator will probably step out of politics if he lost.

Election Board Certifies Count

Raleigh, July 5—(AP)—Willis Smith's nomination for United States senator was made official by the State Board of Elections today.

The board officially certified returns of the June 24 runoff primary for the Democratic nomination between Smith and Senator Frank Graham.

The official returns showed Smith received 280,798 votes and Graham 262,123, a majority for Smith of 18,675 votes.

The board also certified the nomination of Woodrow W. Jones of Rutherfordton in the 11th congressional district. The official returns gave Jones 24,994 votes, to 17,841 for Charles E. Hamilton of Gastonia, a majority of 7,153 votes.

The board then heard arguments in a contest over the nomination for sheriff of Halifax county.

Sheriff H. A. House defeated J. Reuben Daniel in the May 27 primary by one vote, 4,533 to 4,532.

The Halifax County Board of Elections ordered a recount of the ballots and House appealed to the State Board.

Suicide Attempt Ruled A Felony

W[illegible]ton-Salem, N. C., July 5—(AP) A 27-year-old cab driver who reportedly attempted to take his own life Tuesday by slashing his wrists with a razor was charged today with attempting to commit a felony.

Police said so far as they could recall it was the first time such a charge had been made here.

Officers said the charge was made against Winfred B. Bates, 27, upon instruction from C. F. Burns, solicitor of municipal court.

No Intention Of 'Fireside Chat'

Washington, July 5— (AP)— The White House said today President Truman has no intention of addressing Congress or the nation on the Korean war at present.

Presidential secretary Charles G. Ross said the question of whether Mr. Truman should appear before Congress as some members have urged, was among those discussed at a secret Blair House meeting Monday afternoon.

Commissioners Of Pitt Meet In Brief Session

Dail Reappointed To ABC Board; Little Business Taken Up Monday

W. H. Dail, member of the county ABC board, was reappointed Monday to succeed himself for the next three-year term. The appointment was made in a called meeting of the County Commissioners meeting with the Board of Education and Board of Health.

The meeting preceded the regular monthly session of the commissioners.

Dail, who has been a member of the board for the past 16 months, began his next term effective last Saturday, July 1.

Immediately after the called meeting, the commissioners held the shortest meeting in the past three years. Register of Deeds Charles Gaskins described it as the lightest session he had known. A possible reason, he said, was that most of the persons who ordinarily would have business matters for the board's attention were out of town for the short holiday yesterday.

The commissioners turned down a request from Stuart C. Carr via a letter asking that he be permitted to resign as chairman of the board of trustees of Pitt County Memorial Hospital. Carr, who moved to Kinston recently, asked that his resignation be allowed because he does not live in the county.

The board held that most of the work on the building is now completed and that Carr's resignation would throw a snag in final preparations for opening the building.

The commissioners approved the relocation of a portion of a road in Chicod township. A half mile in length, the road runs through the property of Shelby Allen from the intersection of the Bell Fork-Simpson road to highway 264. Reason for relocating the road is to cut out several bad curves.

Two policies for a blanket bond of county employes were received from Greenville insurance agencies Goodson and Flanagan and Moseley Brothers. The commissioners voted to accept the lowest bid when submitted. Both policies are identical. The issue of blanket bonding arose at the June meeting at which time action was deferred for a month.

Travel expenses of $25 per month were approved for use by County Production and Marketing Administration Secretary James T. Meredith. The payment will become effective July 15.

Sheriff Ruel Tyson was authorized to send to Washington, D.C., for the return of J. F. Robinson for trial for non-support.

Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, four other cabinet ministers and heads of the three fighting services make up the council.

Anxious Airmen Await Break In Weather For Fresh Blows; Unreported Number Of Americans Trapped; Reinforcements Pour Into South Korea

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. infantry forces today were cut off by tank-led North Korean troops in a blazing battle on the central Korean front south of Suwon.

The size of the American force was not indicated.

BULLETIN

Taejon, South Korea, Thursday, July 6—(AP)—A sizable part of South Koreas army appeared last night to be in full retreat from the area where U.S. forces made their first contact with North Korean Communist invaders.

General MacArthurs communique made no mention of the trap. This news of the setback for the first American infantry to go into action came from advanced headquarters in South Korea.

Headquarters said only that the northerners drove the defenders on to high ground north of Osan. But U.S. troops previously were located there. Osan is 11 miles southeast of Suwon, which in turn is 23 miles south of fallen Seoul.

The communique confirmed a gathering threat of Communist forces east of Suwon, apparently designed to lop off this whole sector of the front. That would open the way for a drive on Taejon, military center 73 miles south of Suwon.

The northerners were pouring more troops and arms across the Han just south of Seoul despite repeated air strikes on the rail lines stretching north of the city.

A constant stream of U. S. reinforcements was flowing into South Korea from Japan by air and sea, the communique reported.

The setback on the Suwon front came after the Communist tanks apparently had been turned back by the fire of U.S. artillery.

The air war raged in Korea, with American and British carrier planes joining the fray in tough strikes Monday and Tuesday against North Korean points, including the capital, Yongyang.

But the setback on the fighting front had the Americans anxious. The situation of the trapped Americans was reported "desperate," but some hope was held out. An undisclosed number of South Koreans were also caught.

An advanced American headquarters spokesman said there was a chance the Americans could punch their way out of the Communist packet and make a safe withdrawal. The Americans, setting up a position south of Red-captured Suwon, had met a Red spearhead of eight tanks with artillery fire in which two Communist tanks were knocked out.

Front dispatches said the surviving Red tanks wheeled suddenly and rammed themselves between the infantry position and its supporting artillery and supplies. Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, U.S. commander in Korea, hurried to the front when he failed to hear from the American forces after the reported tank-artillery engagement.

Tens of thousands of opposing soldiers were reported arrayed on the South Korean battlefields, and a U.S. liaison plane reported new Red forces of undetermined strength moving southeast from Suwon, taken by the Communists yesterday.

Entry Of Chinese Communist Army In Korea Strife Expected

Hong Kong, July 5—(AP)—Diplomatic observers today predicted Soviet Russia is setting the stage for a surprise move against the United States in the Far East.

They said the Russians, probably would rush Chinese Communist troops from Manchuria to aid Soviet-supported North Korea in the Korean civil war.

Such a move "can be expected any time within the next month, and probably within two weeks," they added. All demanded anonymity.

One observer gave these reasons for forecasting a Soviet offensive in the Far East:

1. His country (and he declined use of his nationality as well as his name for diplomatic reasons) has "definite word" that the Chinese Reds have been massing troops in Manchuria since they captured Hainan island, off the South China coast, a month ago.

For three days, independent Chinese newspapers here have reported intensified Communist troop movements northward from South China. My informants word today is the first official word that this redeployment of Chinese Red forces actually has been going on for some time, and with a definite pattern.

The diplomat added that the Chinese Red troops in Manchuria can be expected to cross into North Korea as Russia's answer to American support for invaded South Korea.

2. The recent withdrawal from Tokyo of high level members of the Soviet mission could be considered an "indication that something big is brewing. He declined to elaborate.

Diplomatic observers agree generally that Chinese Communist participation in Korea is virtually certain. Nevertheless, they also are inclined to believe that Soviet Russia has not yet made up her mind as to how far she is ready to go in the Far East at this time.

Unhappy Holiday

By the Associated Press

Accidental death struck down at least 739 Americans during their four day Independence Day week-end. The toll was much higher than expected, and rocketed toward the all-time high set in 1936—761 deaths.

Citizens died in traffic crashes, by drowning, and by miscellaneous accidents at a little better than one every 10 minutes during the 102 hour period between 6 p.m. local time Friday and last night at midnight.

Highway smashups claimed 458 lives in what was predicted as the biggest U.S. traffic jam in history.

Water deaths totaled 168. Miscellaneous kinds of mishaps killed 113.

The long Fourth of July holiday in North Carolina took a toll of at least 37 dead from accidents and violence.

From 6 p.m. Friday through late last night, 23 persons were reported killed in automobile accidents in the state. Eight were drowned. Shootings, burning and suicides claimed the other six lives.

The state's high traffic death total—sixth in the nation late last night—caused the state advisory committee on highway safety to call a special meeting.

Safety workers expected the total to increase still more as late starters headed homeward last night from holiday outings.

Norwegians May Offer Vessels

Washington, July 5—(AP) — The Norwegian Ambassador today said Norway m[illegible] offer cargo ships for use in the Pacific as its contribution to the United Nations action against Korean Communists.

The Ambassador, William Munthe De Morgenstierne, called on President Truman at the White House. Afterward he told reporters his government is considering offering the ships.

Arrest Woman In Husband's Death

A Negro woman, Mrs. Johnnie Sherrod, 24, went into Greenville police headquarters Monday and told police she had shot her husband, George Sherrod, 29, with a shotgun for beating her with his fists. She was locked up. The victim died 48 hours later.

The Negro housewife said her husband frequently assaulted her and beat her; that he made an attack on her at their home, 1102 Pitt street, Monday about noon, and that in self-defense she shot him. The shotgun blast entered the man's lower hip and abdomen and he was mortally wounded. He died at Pitt General Hospital Tuesday shortly after noon, police stated.

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse quoted the wounded man as saying "I do not want my wife punished for this. It was accidental." Sherrod's statement was practically a death bed statement to the police, they said.

The coroner will hold an inquest at the City Hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

Sherrod's body was taken to Flanagan and Parker's Funeral Home for preparation for burial.

Police said some women neighbors of Mrs. Sherrod's sent messages to headquarters that they would be glad to appear as witnesses for her at the inquest and at the trial.

Summer Weather

Midsummer weather prevailed in the Greenville area today. Banks of cumulus clouds overhead, in ever-changing formation, indicated prospects of a thunderstorm.

The highest temperature recorded here yesterday — July Fourth—was 89 degrees during the afternoon. Lowest temperature last night was 71. At 8 a.m. today the mercury stood at 78.

Incidentally the highest temperature recorded in the Greenville area July Fourth a year ago was 90 degrees, one degree hotter than yesterday. And the lowest temperature recorded that night a year ago was 70 degrees.

Study Proposed Schuman Plan Expansion In Paris

Paris, July 5—(AP)—West European leaders studied a proposal today to add wheat and wine to the coal and steel which the Schuman plan proposes to put under international control.

As experts on five committees began working out details for the coal-steel pool, heads of non-governmental farm organizations in France and Germany recommended that the plan also embrace their produce. They suggested wheat and wine as starters.

The farm leaders proposed that France, an exporter, and West Germany, an importer, first put their wheat problems under the supra-national authority slated to control the steel-coal arrangement. Other countries would be asked to join later.

Six West European governments —France, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and Italy, already have agreed to join the coal-steel plan.

The farmers also suggested a conference of European wine producers to harmonize "legislations, economic, social and fiscal conditions with a view toward creation of a common market."

The five Schuman plan committees will work in secret, announcing their decisions first to a general plenary session when they have finished work. They will recommend policies on production and prices, scope of the terms "coal" and "steel," wages and working conditions and commercial policy.

General Fund Tax Take Is Above N. C. Estimate

Raleigh, N. C., July 5—(AP)—North Carolina's general fund tax collections totaled $130,674,119 in the fiscal year that ended June 30, revenue commissioner Eugene Shaw reported today.

This was $3,769,275 less than the general fund collected in the preceding fiscal year, but it was $1,100,000 more than the 1949 legislature expected when it planned the state's budget for this diennium.

Shaw, in reported tax collections to Governor Scott. [illegible] that all tax sources "either equalled or substantially exceeded the budget estimates except income and insurance taxes."

The general f[illegible] thus did much better than the revenue department expected three months ago. At that time, Shaw estimated collections for the fiscal year would be about $476,000 below estimates.

He attributed this is spurt in sales tax revenue, pointing out that in June the sales tax recorded an increase for the fourth consecutive month.

Collections by the highway fund for the fiscal year amounted to $73,151,450 for an increase of $10,347,895 over the previous year. A one-cent increase in the gasoline tax, which became effective last January 1 accounted for much of this.

General fund collections in June totaled $3,745,766, an increase of $481,639 over June of last year.

Near Impassable Block In Path Of Higher Pay

Washing[illegible], July 5— (AP)—Rep. Murray (D-Tenn) threw an almost impassable block today in the path of a proposed $7,500 a year pay raise for members of Congress.

Murray said the house civil service committee which he heads will conduct no hearing and give no consideration to bills hiking the pay of congressmen.

The most recent bill referred to Murray's committee was sponsored by Rep. Norton (D-NJ) and would increase salaries from $12,500 to $20,000 a year. It has been endorsed by house Democratic leader McCormick of Massachusetts.

Who Plans Our Policy?

A Host Of Experts Provide Necessary Information And Advice On Steering Our Ship Of State: Final Decisions Rest With The President; His Many Advisors

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 5—(AP)—We're a nation of 150,000,000 people in a very stormy world. Our ship has to be steered with thoughtful planning if we hope to stay afloat. But how is it done?

Who makes—and how are they made—the plans on our foreign policy? On military preparations, just in case? And throwing our whole civilian life into a war, if there is one?

For example: We couldn't decide to go into Communist China and try to clean up, if our military experts said this would consume so much of our strength that Russia then could seize the rest of the world.

Our decision and policy-making set-up can be explained this way:

1. President Truman, of course, is top man. As commander-in-chief, final decisions rest with him. He's assisted—which means he consults with and is advised—by:

2. The Defense Department, made up of Army, Navy and Air Force; the State Department; the National Security Council; the National Security and Resources Board; and the Munitions Board.

Take them one at a time:

1. Defense Department. Louis A. Johnson is secretary of defense. He's civilian head of all the armed services. Directly under him are the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS):

The JCS figures out how big a peacetime military force we need, what kind of war we can or should fight, with whom, where, under what circumstances; how many men we'll need; what kind of weapons and supplies. In short, they figure what we can and can't or should do.

They pump this information into Johnson who advises the President.

2. State Department. Dean Acheson is secretary of state. He has the advice of a staff of specialists on foreign affairs and foreign countries, since the department's representatives are all over the world. He advises the President on foreign policy.

So the President has to weigh Johnson's ideas on what we can or should do against Acheson's ideas on what we can or should do. Then he can sit down with:

3. The National Security Council. This is made up of the President, Vice President Barkley, Johnson, Acheson, and W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security

Mediation By India?

Nehru's Offer As A Peacemaker; Slim Basis For Negotiation; Ideological Lines Are Drawn, And The Outcome Is Left To Mankind; Still, Offer Has Virtues

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

India's reported offer to mediate between Russia and the United States in an effort to end the Korean war undoubtedly is inspired by the highest humanitarian motives but it gives one to pause in puzzlement.

Maybe there is something concealed in the proposition which we don't sense, but this column fails to find any real basis for negotiation. The issue would seem to lie between North Korea—the Russian backed aggression—and the United Nations, which has condemned the aggression and has called on its members to give aid to the Southern Koreans in meeting the assault.

Perhaps the key to India's intentions lies in the statement that she regards Korea as a single country and wants to see it reunited politically. New Delhi is said to hold that any attempt to end the fighting would have to take into account that the Korean people want unity.

Well, it's probably true that the Koreans want unity, and it's true that at the end of the late war the country was divided into Northern and Southern spheres of influence—Russia controlling the north and America the south. Two governments have resulted from this bad arrangement—A Democratic republic in the south and a Communist Regime in the North.

However, the Ideological lines are drawn here as elsewhere in the world strife between Communism and Democracy. If the Korean Imbroglio could be negotiated between America and Russia, then the whole cold war, the [illegible] around, could be negotiated.

And that, as the professor might remark, is an assured hypothesis.

Still, this Indian proposal has virtue. To my mind by far the most important aspect of the offer lies in the fact that it once more emphasizes that in India's Prime Minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, we have a new, great advocate of peace.

Nehru was one of the most devoted followers of the late Mahatma Gandhi, the martyrized exponent of brotherly love. Now we find the disciple trying to put into practice the preachings of the saintly little Mahatma.

Only a couple of days ago we find Nehru telling a trade delegation from the neighboring state of Pakistan

His experience as a teacher includes work as a lecturer at Columbia and Georgetown universities, and as a teacher at Yale, Barnard, and Suffolk University, Va. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and of other professional and honorary fraternities. In addition to teaching, Dr. Tracy has done considerable work as a writer. He was for several years reporter, feature and editorial writer on the Memphis Commercial Appeal, has done book reviewing for the "Yale Review" and other magazines, and has served as editorial advisor at Harcourt, Brace, and Co. and the Yale University Press.

Grimesland Man Aids Sufferers In Recent Storm

A Pitt County farmer has responded to the call for aid for the farmers of the hail and storm stricken section of Nash and Edgecombe Counties.

Mrs. Walter F. Taylor, executive secretary of the American National Red Cross, Pitt County Chapter, reported today that Grover D. Manning, of near Grimesland, had offered through the Pitt County Red Cross Chapter 10,000 potato slips for the stricken area. She at once notified the general steering committee in the stricken area of Manning's gift.

That area of the two counties was severely damaged by a hail and windstorm about a week ago, hopelessly damaging tobacco, corn and other crops.

The Pitt County Red Cross secretary said today that other gifts acceptable to farmers in distress would be gratefully received. Farmers of many sections of North Carolina are donating money, food, seed, fertilizer, poultry and pigs.

Gray-Barnhill Wedding Vows Spoken In Formal Ceremony

Miss Ellen Elizabeth Barnhill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roscoe Barnhill of Greenville, and Harold Reginald Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ira Gray of Stokes, were united in marriage Sunday afternoon, July second at 5:30 in a formal ceremony at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church. Mr. Leon Russell, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. J. Paul Davenport, organist and Mr. James Ray Pittman, soloist.

The setting was formed with a background of rich green huckleberry, plumosa and oregon greens. Tall standards of Maid of Orleans gladioli along with three, seven and nine branched candelabra with tall cathedral tapers were used.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father wore a gown of Chantilly lace, fashioned with a marquisette yoke outlined with a scalloped edge of seed pearls. The fitted bodice with miniature buttons of lace down the back had long sleeves with calla points over the hands. The satin skirt was full and the overskirt of lace was fashioned in panniers falling into a circular train. Her finger tip veil of nylon illusion fell from a matching bonnet of illusion and seed pearls. She carried a fan shaped bouquet of white nylon tulle with gargar mums and a white orchid tied with satin trimmings.

Mrs. Edward Mooring of Tarboro, attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a gown of pink velray marquisette over hoops with a matching stole. She carried a pink nylon tulle fan of California King asters tied with matching ribbon.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Edward Switzer of Pactolus, Mrs. Raeford Bowen of Burgaw, Mrs. Roscoe Barnhill and Miss Catherine Whitehurst of Greenville. They wore blue gowns identical to that of the matron of honor. They carried fan shaped bouquets of pink asters tied with matching ribbon. All the attendants wore hair corsages.

John I. Gray attended his son as best man. The ushers were Roscoe Barnhill of Greenville, Hilton Carson of Robersonville, Donald Harrison of Goldsboro, and Edward Mooring of Tarboro.

The mother of the bride wore a gown of dusty rose crepe. Mrs. Gray, mother of the bridegroom wore a gown of aqua lace. Both wore orchid corsages.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Greenville Woman's Club. The club house was decorated with large arrangements of gladioli, pine and magnolia leaves. The bride's table was covered with a Nile green organdy cloth on which lime ice, bridal cakes, nuts and mints were served. Those assisting in the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Congleton, Mrs. A. C. Barnhill, Mrs. Cecil Satterthwaite, Mrs. Guilford Lewis, Mrs. Norman Graham, Mrs. Manley Blackburn Mrs. Bet Tilghman, Mr. and Mrs Clarence Barnhill, Misses Jean Forbes, Gail Barnhill and Mrs. Paul Hayes Etheridge.

Later the couple left for a trip after which they will make their home in Goldsboro. For traveling the bride wore an imported blue silk shantung dress with white linen accessories and the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina Teachers College. She has taught in the La Grange and Wilmington schools and for the past year has been a member of the Goldsboro Elementary school faculty.

Mr. Gray is a graduate of the University of North Carolina where he was a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity. He is now associated with the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company in Goldsboro.

Mrs. Edward Mooring and Mrs. Roscoe Barnhill were hostesses Saturday night at the home of the latter at a cake cutting after the rehearsal for the Gray-Barnhill wedding party, families and out of town guests.

The dining room table was centered with an all white mixed flower arrangement flanked on each side wtih burning white tapers entwined with fern and tied with a white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Guilford Lewis served the three-tiered wedding cake, which was at one end of the table, after the bridal couple had cut the traditional first slice. Miss Jennie Pello served ices from the opposite end of the table. From a side table, punch was poured by Mrs. Clarence Barnhill, assisted by her daughter, Gail. The punch bowl was surrounded with ivy and gladioli flanked on either side by single tapers.

Romania Expels Bishop As A Spy

London, July 5—(AP)—Romania announced today the expulsion of Roman Catholic Bishop Gerald Patrick O'Hara of Savannah-Atlanta, Georgia, on charges of spying. He is the last diplomatic representative of the Vatican in an Iron Curtain country.

Two other members of the Apostolic Nunciature—in which Bishop O'Hara was regent—were expelled on similar charges. Vatican sources said the move had been expected from day to day and 'doubtless is the prelude to the complete suppression of the Bucharest Nunciature." This is the office of the diplomatic representative of the Vatican.

A broadcast by the Romanian News agency said the Communist-led Regime in Bucharest had given Bishop O'Hara and the two other Catholic officials three days to leave the Country.

Attempts to reach Bishop O'Hara by phone from Prague were not immediately successful. A Prague operator was able to reach the Nunciature but reported that "Bishop O'Hara is not present and his secretary refuses to speak.

Besides Bishop O'Hara the foreign office ousted Msgr. Delmester De Chonbert, auditor of the Nunciature, and Msgr. Alan Kirk, secretary of the office.

Sicilian Bandit King Shot Down

Palermo, Sicily, July 5—(AP)—Salvatore Giuliano, Will-O'-the wisp bandit king who proclaimed his own Sicilian government and taunted Rome for its desperate seven-year attampt to run him down, was shot and killed in his mountain hideout just before dawn today.

The Italian government said the death of the colorful 28-year old Robin Hood of the hills meant the end of banditry in Sicily.

Commando police were hot on the heels of Giuliano for the past two weeks. In the last few days they closed in, surrounding him in his lair in the hills of Castevtrano, 50 miles from Palermo.

Giuliano tried to shoot his way out of the house in which he was hiding. Police opened fire with submachine guns and cut him down, ending in a blaze of fire the career of a man whose band was accused of killing nearly 100 policemen. Some of Giuliano's comrades escaped.

Eisenhower Says Korea Decision Was Inescapable

Valley Forge, Pa., July 5—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower says the U.S. decision to assist South Korea in resisting "outrageous invasion" was inescapable.

And, Eisenhower told 47,000 Boy Scouts at their second National Jamboree last night, the decision "must be carried to its conclusion by whatever means are necessary."

The general who commanded allied forces in Europe during World War II said that American failure to aid South Korea "would be another kind of Munich, with all the disastrous consequences that followed in the wake of the fatal error 12 years ago."

Eisenhower now is president of Columbia University.

COMPROMISE—RIGHT OR WRONG?

The person who is always waiting for perfection in the world generally gets left with something far less than perfection on his hands. This does not mean that we have to compromise ideals, but it does mean that all along the highway of life, we have to compromise on the matter of policy. Often we have to accept things we do not like very well to keep peace or to achieve some higher good. The way is not pleasant, but it is profitable and characterized by nobility of spirit.

In the famous Jay Treaty negotiated by President George Washington more than 150 years ago, we observe a compromise of policy, a willingness to accept something less than perfection. The majority of Americans criticised Washington bitterly and many were ready to tear him to pieces because of the compromises he had made with England in the Jay Treaty. But there were no principles compromised, only policies.

Looking back over history we can see that the Jay Treaty kept us out of war with England and was one of the great landmarks in our democratic history. The rule is—never compromise on principles, but be willing to go to the second mile or the twenty-second to compromise on matters of policy if this will serve some higher end.

Stafford's Veto Was A Wise Move

Mayor W. S. Stafford took a wise step in the best interest of the citizens of Greenville Saturday in vetoing the aldermen's 5 to 4 vote appointment of H. E. Wooten as chief of police to replace Chief Lester D. Page.

From the appearances at the board meeting it was a cut and dried proposition among the majority clique of the board to oust Page and name Wooten the new chief of police. It was reported from usually reliable sources that along with the ousting of Page by Aldermen J. E. Waldrop, J. E. Collins, R. E. Rogers, C. B. Mayo and Robert Elks, there were at least four other members of the police force who were to be booted out by the plan concocted by the five altermen.

The Reflector is in accord with the action of the mayor in thwarting the attempted purge by the five members of the board. Apparently it was an attempt by the five aldermen to put out the present chief of police on purely personal grounds.

The question of efficiency within the department, however, has never been publicly voiced by the group which is seeking to remove Chief Page from his position.

The police department is a vital and important portion of the city government. It is not a department which should function to please just a handful of citizens of Greenville even if this handful includes some high city officials. It is the duty of the department and its members to uphold the law according to the oaths of office required of the policemen. The members of the department should not be so strung that they will be required to enforce the law or ignore the law at the orders of the members of the board of aldermen in order to keep their jobs.

When that happens the police department will have become a tool of a few men rather than the protector of all the people of Greenville.

If the city police department is not operating efficiently, The Reflector is in favor of necessary steps being taken to bring efficient operation to the department. If there is available to the city of Greenville a man who is better qualified to be our chief of police and can give the city a more efficient police department than Chief Page, The Reflector would have no objection to the hiring of such a man in preference to Page.

If a change is necessary in the police department, it should be a change for the betterment of the department nd for the benefit of the people of Greenville.

It should not be a change which is brought about merely by the desire of five members of the board of aldermen to satisfy their personal grievances against the present chief, with utter disregard for the welfare of the citizens of Greenville.

The Veil Of Secrecy Should Not Be Necessary

How secret should be the official action of the board of aldermen in conducting city business?

We believe that city business transacted by the board of aldermen in its meetings should be open to all the people of Greenville, both in appearance and in fact. The people of Greenville have a right to know how each member of the board acts on all matters which concern the city's business.

Yet at the board meeting Saturday, a majority vote forced all the members of the board to retreat to the thin veil of the secret ballot in an attempt to hide their personal actions from the citizens of Greenville. The secret ballot was used only on the appointment of the chief of police for the city.

The five-member group of the board of aldermen which forced the secret ballot upon the entire board apparently felt that it was none of the business of the people of Greenville how the board members voted in city matters.

We feel that it is an affront to the people of the city for the aldermen to resort to secret voting in transacting the business of all the people of Greenville. The people of the city vote for the aldermen who serve on the city board. The people are entitled to know how their representatives on the board of aldermen vote in all matters concerning the city.

The affairs of the city should be transacted up and above board. The voting of the aldermen in board meetings should be likewise. The people of the city should demand open action of the aldermen.

Democracy brings about the best form of government when the largest number of people take an active interest in the governmental affairs. We believe much better city government for Greenville would result if the people of the city would take more active interest in the way the city affairs are handled by the board of aldermen.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, July 5—"Trumanism" and "Pendergastism" have now been raised as leading issues in a family fight among Democrats in President Truman's home state, with every indication that White House intervention in the U.S. Senate primary there will result in a Republican sweep in next November's Congressional contests.

The man who links Mr. Truman with his original political sponsors, a connection the President is disposed to forget, is Thomas C. Hennings Jr. Mr. Hennings, socially prominent St. Louis lawyer, former District Attorney and Congressman, had treated Mr Truman rather gently in earlier speeches.

But he has been angered by presidential endorsement of his opponent, State Senator Emery W. Allison. Many Democratic politicians not subservient to the White House and the Pendergast machine are also sore and worried.

For Mr. Allison, although his strength outside the cities may enable him to defeat Mr. Hennings, is expected to lose to Senator Forrest Donnell, Republican. Mr. Allison's weakness may also enable the GOP to pick up several seats in the House.

ALIGNMENT—Mr. Truman's support of Senator Allison puzzles Missouri's Democratic leaders. For one thing, the Senator leads the movement to block admission of Negro students to the state university, and it is difficult to reconcile his stand with the President's professions of friendship to minorities. Allison's candidacy should mean the loss of a fairly large colored vote.

Twenty-six of the twenty-eight ward organizations in St. Louis have dared to defy the White House by backing Mr. Hennings. He also has on his side the same civic forces which were responsible for defeating the Pendergast machine ten years ago. In view of this alignment, Mr. Hennings has abandoned his treat-the-President-kindly attitude in recent addresses throughout the state.

PICKED—Mr. Hennings' attack on the President's interference emphasizes the fact that Allison was picked at a secret conference attended only by Mr. Truman, Governor Forrest Smith and James Pendergast, now head of the Democratic organization with White House blessing. He is a nephew of "Old Tom" Pendergast, who served a prison sentence for income tax violation.

"I say," declared the St. Louis lawyer at a recent mass meeting of 2,000 people in that city, "with all due deference to the President and to his high office, that I cannot agree that it is his function to determine the party's nominee for the Senate of the United States.

"PENDERGASTISM"—"The day of the hand-picked candidate is over. No longer should it be possible for one man, or any small group of men, to decide in the privacy of a smoke-filled room, for reasons known to them and to them alone, who is to be the Democratic nominee for United States Senator from Missouri.

"The political heirs and legatees of a fallen and discredited machine have conceived the idea that they could restore their waning prestige and power, if they could bring out a candidate for the Senate whose nomination would give them the ruling voice in the policy and program of the Democratic Party in Missouri.

"Everywhere, Democrats are asking themselves whether this means the resurgence of that form of pernicious political activity, which we in Missouri know and describe as Pendergastism."

• • • •

CONTRIBUTIONS—President Truman has promised Senator Allison generous financial aid from the national chest, but as yet it has not been forthcoming. His advisers may have warned that this would be a dangerous move.

Missouri GOP-ers are now asking Democratic State Chairman John H. Hendren why he did not report certain 1948 contributions, including alleged gifts from bigtime gamblers and racketeers.

Note: National Republican Headquarters here are making thousands of copies of Mr. Hennings' speeches, for use in the November elections. It might be politically unwise for them to link the President with a crooked political machine. But there is no law against their circulation of Democratic charges to that effect.

Our New Asiatic Policy

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

You probably consider a picnic a very simple, typically American undertaking. In fact, you might even say that it's very logical to celebrate the Fourth of July by going on a picnic. That's what Wife Rachel and I thought, so we planned to spend yesterday picnicing.

"Where shall we go?" W. R. asked me.

"I don't know," I confessed, "but I'm worried. With four couples going it should be easy. Somebody'll know a good spot."

At five in the afternoon we took off.. Bob and Martha Ross, Bill and Katherine Davenport, Burney and Katherine Warren, W. R., and me. Strangely enough, at that point we had made no definite decision as to where we should go. Somebody suggested the Port Terminal. The best spot we found there was crowded with birthday suit swimmers, so we moved on.

Bill Davenport reported, "There's a spot near Grimesland. All you have to do is turn left at the first dirt road." We did, and before we came to a halt we had turned off at 14 more dirt roads. Finally, we thought we had found the road that led to what must be the ideal spot. The men (leaving one boy; namely me, behind) took off on foot to investigate the details of this spot.

Five minutes later, when they (the men) came running back to the car, I was proud of my boyhood classification. Biting flies had convinced the men that they had to find a new spot.

Thirty minutes later we had to choose between starvation and giving up a desirable picnic spot. We gave up looking for a spot.

"This is disgraceful," I said, "eight of us born and raised around Greenville and unable to find a picnic spot." Immediately I was corrected. Katherine Davenport was born in New Bern, Bill in Kentucky; Katherine Warren in Ayden; Bob Ross in Florida and Martha in Boone, N. C.; W. R. in Rocky Mount, and I was born in Charlotte. This left all of us, except Burney Warren, with an excuse for not being able to find a picnic spot. That is, until we started to calculate how ling we had been living in Greenville. Granted, Burney has been living here all his life, but some of the rest of us were close to his record.

No matter who was uninformed, we still found a spot beside the river. Of course we had to eat on the car fenders, but it could still be called a picnic.

No matter what problems Fourth of July celebration might bring, let's be thankful that we have a day set aside to celebrate our freedom. There are many spots in our free country for picnics, even if certain individuals cant find them.

And I thank you.

Division of Purchase & Contract

ORGANIZATION—On the second floor of the Highway Building are the offices of one of the smallest, in point of size, yet one of the busiest agencies of the State government. Some idea of its role in the governmental structure might be gathered from the simple statement that during the fiscal year of 1949-1950 this agency invested approximately $50,000,000 of the taxpayer's money in necessary equipment, materials and supplies.

The Division of Purchase and Contract exists under the authority contained in Chapter 143, Article 3, Section 143-48 through 143-64, of the General Statutes of North Carolina, and was formally organized and began operation on July 1, 1931. Under the law it is a part of the Executive Department under the direct supervision of the Governor. The Director is appointed by and serves at the pleasure of the Governor.

A board of award, consisting of members of the Advisory Budget Commission, acts with the Director as a body of approval in canvassing bids and awarding contracts.

DUTIES—As set forth in the law the duties placed upon the division are:

1. To contract for the purchase of all supplies, materials, equipment and related services required by the State Government.
2. To establish and enforce standard specifications.
3. To contract for telephones, electrical and other contractual services or to authorize such contracts.
4. To lease all offices, etc., as required.
5. To supervise the storage, transfer, disposal and-or sale of surplus property.
6. To contract and have performed all State printing and have all powers and authority formerly imposed and exercised by the State Printing Commission.

DIVERSIFIED—The variety of the State's needs seems to know no bounds. They range from radio broadcasting stations to safety pins, from immense crawler type tractors to diplomas, from motor boats to artificial limbs, from asphalt to most delicately refined chemicals—all important, all to meet a particular need, all required at a certain time and place, or the wheels of State will fail to run in the way its citizens have come to expect. A State with more than four million people finds itself a large consumer of materials, and in some cases the largest single consumer of certain supplies within its borders.

HUB—With the Budget Bureau, also a branch of the Executive Department, the Division of Purchase and Contract occupies a unique position at the very hub of the State government and is in almost daily contact in one capacity or another with all of the 53 State departments, 37 institutions and 172 city and county public school units. As an agency of service to all other governmental functions, it maintains a very close harmony with other State agencies and strives constantly to improve its services to them.

CONTRACTS—In order to meet the needs of all the above groups there have been devised three types of contracts. The first of these is known as a "Term Contract" and is intended to anticipate routine needs. Its characteristics are that it covers a very definite period of time, and establishes a definite price or discount, but the quantities are approximate or estimated. An example of this type of contract is that on gasoline, whereby the State establishes contractually the price for a period of six months or one year for each county in the State, and each agency purchases its requirements at the contract price. The type of contract lends itself particularly to items frequently purchased, the prices of which are not subject to such rapid fluctuations as to make a term contract impractical. By the use of this type of contract the Division attempts to anticipate the needs of the various using agencies of the State so that when a need arises adequate provision will have been made for filling it.

SPECIFIC—The second type of contract contemplates the purchase of specific quantities of materials to be delivered at certain times and places. Under this type of contract are those items not regularly required, and also those items which are subject to a rapidly fluctuating market. Into this category fall foods stuffs such as flour, canned goods, and beans. The need for items handled in this manner is communicated periodically to the Division in the form of tabulated estimates. These estimates are consolidated and requests for bids prepared.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

BRING IT OUT INTO THE OPEN

Under fire since June 9 on accusations that he used prison labor and State materials in the construction of a garage apartment at his home, Prison Director J. B. Moore has resigned, still denying 'any wrongdoing on my part.

The State Highway Commission, after a lengthy hearing, took no action on the charges, but accepted the resignation unanimously. The resignation followed a six-hour closed session of the Commission, two hours of which, according to an Associated Press report, were required to read the S.B.I. report on the case.

The report never has been made public. Thus far, the only people who have seen it are Moore; Governor Scott, who seems to be having trouble with some of his appointments; and members of the Highway Commission.

It has been stated that the report has been ruled of "secret status" and that it cannot be made public legally. Mr. Moore reportedly has denied the accusations against him point-by-point. If he is innocent of the accusations, as he claims, it would seem that if no other reason than fairness to him the report should be made public.

Concealment of anything having to do with the public's business leaves it open to suspect. Secrecy in matters of public concern does not inspire confidence. Invariably, it presents only one thing: a question mark—and the public can be counted on to react accordingly.

Business Today

Latin America has turned the corner in the dollar shortage. Countries south of the border are now receiving more dollars than they are spending, ending the drain on their reserves.

The low point was reached in the spring of 1949, when gold and dollar reserves dropped to a total of $3,100,000,000. By the end of March, 1950, this had been increased to $3,500,000,000, the July letter of the National City Bank notes.

Not all countries are out of the deficit woods, however. Cuba, Venezuela, Uruguay, Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras and Panama no longer have any balance-of-payment difficulties. Still short are Brazil, Argentina, Mexico, Columbia, Chile, Peru, Bolivia, Ecuador Nicaragua and Costa Rica. But even these latter countries with few exceptions have made considerable improvement between June 30, 1949, and March 31, 1950.

The rise in the price of coffee "vastly improved" the dollar position of the countries in the "coffee bloc," the Bank's letter observes. But the new position is not wholly the result of coffee prices. Latin American countries have been restricting purchases in dollar areas and, in addition to the goods they have been selling to the United States, they have been selling goods to Europe and other areas, often for ECA dollars, and they have induced the migration of considerable dollar capital.

If the trend continues, it will be good for American manufacturers and exporters. As gold and dollar reserves increase, there will be less need to restrict American imports and markets for luxury and semi-luxury goods.

It will also have important psychological effects on western European nations, convincing them that dollar shortages can be overcome. If the Latin American republics can move their trade to the plus side of the ledger, so can Europe.

NEW AND HOT

FOGLESS: For people who like to look at themselves after bathing, a mirror which will not fog has been developed (by Charles Park Co., Meric.., Conn.). It is backed with electrically-conductive rubber. Plugged into a 110-volt circuit and switched on, it warms the glass to 98 degrees, preventing fogging.

GADGET: A new plug-in device looks like a telephone. But the dial is an electric clock and the receiver is an electric cigaret lighter. (By Alba Art Studios, 1840 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago.)

FAN: A battery-powered pocket fan may be the gadget of the summer. It weighs about as much as a pack of cigarets and creates a lively breeze by spinning three soft rubber blades. It can dry hair or nail polish and cool users in crowded busses phone booths, etc. (It's distributed by M. B. Price Associates, 350 Fifth Ave., New York).

BOX: A transparent Tenite plastic mail box which can't rust or corrode is being produced (by Clear-View Plastics, Rankin, Pa.).

KILLER: A powder which is claimed to kill crabgrass without harming lawn grasses will be on the market in time for the Digitaria sanguinalis season. Its been tested four years (by O. M. Scott and Sons, Marysville, O.,) and is said to be harmless to humans, pets and birds.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

Valley Forge, Pa.—(AP)—The average scoutmaster isn't a very heroic looking figure.

But he is the real hero of the biggest youth movement in America—scouting.

There are thousands of scoutmasters here to supervise the activities of the 47,000 Boy Scouts attending their second national jamboree.

Some are bronzed and muscled young veterans of the last world war. Some are elderly. But I suppose a composite picture of them all would produce this typical scoutmaster:

He is short, middle-aged, balding, and puffs going up a hill on a hike. He is good-natured and long suffering. He either owns a small business or holds a minor executive post in some one else's business. He probably has a kid or two of his own. His scouts don't pay him much open deference. They torment him often, but they obey him at the right time—and they like him.

He works voluntarily and without pay. He gives up his weekends—and often his vacations—to take a group of other mens boys tramping through the woods to learn the ways of nature. He tries to teach them fellowship, brotherhood, social responsibility—and personal independence and self-reliance.

Since he works with boys ranging from 11 to 18, this means he must be, a mixture of mother, father, older brother, priest, judge, advisor and teacher. Thats a lot to ask from a guy who gives his time for nothing.

As a top scout executive said:

"It is easy to poke fun at scoutmasters, and the cartoonists do. But they are the backbone of the scouting movement. Without them it would fail. You couldn't raise the money to pay these men for what they do of their own free will."

A balding, sunburned, paunch-heavy man in shorts may look a bit ridiculous plowing through a forest with a pack of agile yapping boys at his heels. He may look like a fussy hen trying to police its wayward chicks.

But he probably knows that, too. The thing is, he also has a feeling of considerable satisfaction that what he is doing is worthwhile — his fun is seeing that his boys have some fun and grow up healthy, strong and idealistic. They help him stay young in heart himself.

It is a pleasant thing at this jamboree to note the wonderful relationship between a good scoutmaster and his troop. The key word is—informality.

A Prussian scoutmaster might maintain better discipline by exercising the authority of age and rank. That would work in Germany, but it wouldn't work well in America. If there were many scoutmasters of that type here, there wouldn't be as many Boy Scouts.

For American boys resent being bossed, but do want and accept guidance. They expect their scoutmaster above all to be "'a good Joe." And if he is, they may call him by his first name and play pranks on him, but when he says, "Fellows, this is what we have to do"—well, they do it. Nobody ever got any real respect from a boy by insisting on being called "sir."

A real scoutmaster bridges that twilight gap between the child and the adult, helps ferry the growing boy safetly on the perilous voyage from adolescene to manhood.

And anyone who can do that knows a reward greater than a pay check.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—The Army is in a dither over its girls in uniform whose calories are beginning to show. It has put them on new reduced rations.

Studies over the past year showed that personnel of the Women's Army Corps (WAC) have a tendency to gain weight on the 3,600-calorie diet set up in the Army's master menu for men.

"This often necessitates the issue of larger uniforms a few months after enlistment and involves problems of physical fitness,' a WAC officer told me. The new daily ration for women has been reduced to 2,400 calories, but "this does not mean we have lessened the amount of food. Mostly, we have substituted more vegetables and fruits for starches.'

The new diet was worked out by nutrition technicians of the Army Quartermaster Corps and the Medical Department after surveying Army women's eating habits at the WAC Training Center at Fort Lee, Va.

The survey showed that local menus prepared predominantly for male troops were followed with but few deviations by the girls. The technicians figure that the master menu allows 1,000 to 1,200 calories a day more than women need. The new menu revision was furnished to commanding officers at WAC detachments a few months ago. General instructions go like this:

Breakfast—fruit or juice, fresh or canned unsweetened . . . only one egg . . . as little fat as possible . . . hot cakes and syrup only once a month . . . toast, one slice, but not when there are hot cakes, french toast or hot bread on menu . . . hot breads only once a month . . . butter in half pats . . . breakfast meats cut by one-half the amount in master menu.

Dinner and supper — roasts or baked meats as much as possible . . . potatoes only once a day . . . vegetables, using minimum amount of oleomargarine or butter . . . salad, fresh fruits or vegetables . . . salad dressing kept to a minimum . . . only one pastry item, or pudding daily . . . hot breads only twice a week . . . butter in half pats . . . minimum amount of sugar in cold drinks.

A veteran WAC captain told me that in 1942, when the WAC was first formed, the Army began worrying about the expanding waistline of the women on Army rations and "figured theyd better feed them salads and petit fours. They practically starved us to death," she confided. "Then they went to the other extreme and fed us too much. Now we think we've got the problem licked."

Pitt Scouts Active In Nat'l Jamboree

The National Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa., is in full swing, and these Pitt county scouts are playing a big part in the gigantic outing along with some 47,000 other scouts from the 48 states and 17 foreign countries. Speaker Gloomy On Korea Fight

By WYATT BROWN

The situation in Korea leaves Dr. George L. Martin, of East Carolina Teachers College geography department, "somewhere between scared stiff and petrified," he declared last night in his speech to the Rotarians on Korea and its people. Summing the world situation up he stated that the United States was paying large penalties for not having fought Russia at the time of the first Berlin blockade.

"It is like trying to sweep a tide back with a broom" to attempt to stop the spread of Communism throughout the East, he went on. To support this position he cited the state of affairs in Indo-China, Philippines, China and Korea. His observation is that natives in the East who have taken up Communism have won every conflict they have started and have only been delayed when Western powers have entered the fray.

On Korea he stated at the outset that all military authorities considered Korea militarily untenable.

Geographically Korea is located about the same parallel as North Carolina in the southern part. It is six hundred miles long and one hundred thirty-five miles wide at its widest point. In size it is about equal to North and South Carolina combined.

Then Dr. Martin told how over twenty million Koreans live in southern Korea where agriculture is the chief occupation. Above the 38th parallel only eight million reside where is located the industry, and minerals in a rugged mountainous terrain. This part is eighty per cent of the square area.

Historically Dr. Martin pointed out Korea has known nothing but invasion for the last two thousand years. The people are Orientals but mongrel due to middle Asian races who invaded. In answer to a question about the rainy season the speaker said the rainy season which lasts for two and one half months was deliberately chosen for the invasion period since it rendered our air power less potent.

Bryce B. Brown of Schenectady, New York, was a guest of the club. J. H. Rose, chairman of the Program Committee, presented the program. Floyd Hendrix, president of the club, presided last night over his initial session.

Sharp Rise For Food Price Index

New York, July 5 —(AP)— The Dun and Bradstreet wholesale food price index this week scored its sharpest rise in nearly two years, reflecting the increased buying and higher commodity prices which followed the Korean outbreak.

The index advanced 15 cents from the previous week to $6.19—highest since the $6.21 on Dec. 28, 1948 and 9.4 per cent above the year-ago weeks $5.66.

This was the steepest rise since the week of July 13, 1948, when the index climbed 24 cents to the record peak of $7.36.

First of the Fine Cars in Value

The Car that puts your Best Foot forward

We think you'll agree that the whole story of an automobile isn't told in its power, its room, its styling, even in its ride.

There is the all-important point about what a car does to you—and that's where ROADMASTER really shines.

For you can't slip into this bonny beauty's broad seats without feeling like somebody pretty special.

When you take its neat wheel in your hand—when you cut loose, with a toe-touch, the rich baritone of its big Fireball straight-eight power plant—when you feel the smooth surge of its Dynaflow-cushioned take-off—

Man, then you know you've got a real automobile!

And don't overlook this:

That graceful sweep of chrome along the fender—found on no other car made today—is a mighty eye-catching note of distinction.

Those four Ventiports, too, cause many a head to turn—they mark you unmistakably as the owner of the biggest and best Buick built—a car as fine and rich as any man has need for.

There are a lot of good, solid, dollars-and-cents reasons for making ROADMASTER your choice over any other:

Its size. The commanding performance of its 152-hp Fireball valve-in-head straight-eight engine. Dynaflow Drive standard. A ride that's quite matchless in its gentle softness. Distinguished styling from bold, protective front end to gleaming "double bubble" taillight.

But if you're ready for a car that's more than just an automobile—if you want one that puts your best foot forward in any company—that's the real reason for seeing your Buick dealer quickly—to talk turkey about a ROADMASTER.

FOUR-WAY FOREFRONT
This rugged front end (1) sets the style note, (2) saves on repair costs—vertical bars are individually replaceable, (3) avoids "locking horns," (4) makes parking and garaging easier.

Robins Drop Three Straight, Bounce Back To Wallop Tarboro In Twin Bill

Locals Took Trimming By Wilson, Two At Goldsboro's Hands, But Came Back Strong

By BERT MOYE

Manager Randy Heflin's Greenville Robins during the current week-end lost three of their contests while winning two. On Saturday night they were defeated by the Wilson Tobs here 8-1; then on Sunday afternoon the Goldsboro Cardinals handed them a 2-1 defeat and then Monday night over in Goldsboro the Cardinals defeated them for the second straight time by a 3-1 score.

The Robins came back though on yesterday to make a clean sweep of their Independence Day twin bill with the Tarboro A's, by winning the afternoon here in Greenville, 9-4, and then going to Tarboro last night to hand the A's a 4-0 whitewashing job.

The Robins will play the Roanoke Rapids Jays here tonight at Guy Smith Stadium in a single contest and will be the only contest here until Saturday night when they meet the Rocky Mount Leafs in a twin bill here.

Afternoon Game

After dropping three straight games in a row, the Greenville Robins bounced back into the win column here yesterday afternoon as they walloped the Tarboro A's 9-4, behind the six-hit hurling of Vince Jones. The win for Jones was his ninth of the season, as against eight losses, and marked the second time this season that he has whipped the A's.

The Robins, after knotting the count in the first frame at 1-1, came back in the third frame to score three more runs and go out in front for the rest of the game. A single by Paul Strausser, a walk to George Hallow and doubles by John Baktis and John Tepedino gave them their three runs in this frame. Matt Hall's homer over the leftfield wall, second of the season, proved to be the game winning tally.

They added four more runs in the eighth frame on four successive singles with the aid of two errors, two walks and a sacrifice to put the game on ice.

Red Bock, the A's centerfielder, homered over the centerfield wall with two mates aboard to account for three of their runs in the eighth frame.

The Robins pounded four Tarboro hurlers for a total of 11 hits, which included a homer and two doubles. "Shoes" Scarpa and Dick Bland were the only Robins not collecting a hit off the four A hurlers.

Dal Orf with a single and a double was the only visiting player to get more than one hit off the offerings of Vince Jones.

Score by innings:

Tarboro	100 000 030—4	6	4
Greenville	103 100 04x—9	11	0

Night Game

The Robins made a clean sweep of the Independence Day twin bill by chalking up their third shutout of the season with a 4-0 win over the A's in Tarboro last night.

The Robins collected only three hits off the offering of Bob Zick, but those three hits came when they produced runs and that spelled defeat for Zick, his ninth loss of the season as against six wins.

Greenville scored one run in the first when John Tepedino walked and George Hallow lined a 380-foot double into centerfield to bring him home.

Another run was scored in the seventh when Tepedino singled, Hallow sacrificed him to second, Harrison was out second to first with Tepedino advancing to third. Then on a balk by Pitcher Bob Zick, Tepedino was sent on home from third for the second run.

Greenville added two more runs in the top of the ninth on one hit and one error and a couple of walks.

Ray Keys registered his fifth win of the season as he scattered eight hits very effectively. He struck out a total of eight men, seven of which were with men on bases and on two occasions the bases were loaded. It was Keys' third win against the A's this season and the shutout was his first of the season.

Score by innings:

Tarboro	000 000 000—0	8	3

Bouncing Back

Tommy Holmes, Brooklyn's gift to the Boston Braves, put the club back in contention in the National League pennant chase with his red hot hitting streak. Reinstalled in the right field when Willard Marshall slumped at the plate, Thumping Tommy pounded the ball with a vengeance. He hit safely in nine straight games and boosted his average sky high by connecting safely in 15 out of 16 games.

The player representative of the Braves had been the team's right fielder since 1942 when he was obtained from the Yankees' Newark farm club. In 1944, Tommy came into his own and hit .309. He hit above .300 for five successive seasons and in 1945, he set a National League record by hitting in 37 consecutive games. Last season Holmes was off in his timing and was played sparingly as Manager Billy Southworth tried everything to keep his disgruntled Braves in the race. Tommy played in 117 games and batted only .266.

Southworth has always been fond of Holmes, the chubby-cheeked veteran of 32. But this spring Billy said, "I don't know what I am going to do with Holmes. I can't play him because of a jammed thumb. Besides I have Willard Marshall for right field." But when Marshall failed to hit in expected fashion, Southworth picked Holmes off the bench and put him to work. Holmes came through handsomely so it may be some time before the favorite of Boston's Jury Box fans is replaced in right field.

Farmville, July 5—Farmville moved into leadership of the Bright Belt League during weekend games and moved right out again when it dropped a 6-2 decision to Walstonburg yesterday.

Willie Mauneys semi-pro outfit took over top position after beating Fremont on Saturday while Macclesfield was bowing to Saratoga. The locals continued as leaders when they beat Fremont in Sundays game, leaving Macclesfield a half-game in arrears when it took the second game from Saratoga.

By yesterday, however, last Wednesday's outlook in the standings remained the same except for games won and lost. Farmville dropped back into second spot on the loss while Macclesfield was moving back into first on the strength of a 4-0 score at Santonsburgs expense.

The Fourth of July crowd at Walstonburg got an unexpected treat when Long set the Farmville team on three scattered hits over the full route while striking out eight. The locals could get nothing but single runs, the first in the third inning and the other in the top of the ninth.

McCullen started for Farmville and was lifted in the sixth, giving way to Elbert Moye who finished the game. Both hurlers gave up nine hits between them.

Line score:

Farmville	001 000 001—2	3	3
Walstonburg	001 023 00x—6	9	2

Batteries: Farmville — McMullen, Moye and Hardee; Walstonburg—Long and Stott.

Star-Studded Field Entered In Jamaica Meeting

New York, July 5—(AP)—A star-studded field of 11 including Capot, Guillotine, Olympia, Mount Marcy, and Mangohick, was entered in the $20,000 added six furlong Fleetwing Handicap as a 10-day Empire City-at-Jamaica Meeting opened today.

Capot, the Greentree Stable's 1949 horse of the year and three-year-old champion, has not started this season. He was shelved by an abcessed mouth in April. He last ran in the Pimlico Special when he beat Coaltown. That was last fall.

Aqueduct's 20-day meeting wound up yesterday with Ben Whitaker's My Request, a $12 for two thirds choice, capturing the $59,110 Brooklyn Handicap.

TONIGHT'S GAMES

Roa. Rapids at GREENVILLE.
New Bern at Wilson.
Goldsboro at Kinston (2)
Tarboro at Rocky Mount (2)

The Robins were really in a slump over the week-end losing three contests in a row while scoring only three runs in the three contests. On Saturday night they lost to Wilson by an 8-1 score, then on Sunday afternoon lost to Goldsboro by a 2-1 score and then on Monday night over in Goldsboro lost to Goldsboro by a 3-1 score . . . In the three contests they collected only 12 hits and committed five miscues, while their opponents scored 13 runs, collected 20 hits and committed three errors. However, they came back to life here in the first of the two-game series with the Tarboro A's and collected 11 hits and gave Vince Jones perfect support as he pitched six-hit ball against the A's . . . Bobby Harrison, who played in the right field position on Tuesday afternoon really turned in a beautiful catch of Manager Joe Antolick's hard hit ball as he made a running catch to save the ball game at that point of the game. This was during the fourth frame. For the second time in a row the Robins played errorless ball.

Manager Harry Lloyd of the New Bern Bears, says that he figures that New Bern, Roanoke Rapids, Greenville and Wilson, will be the teams to participate in the post season playoffs. He did not explain why he eliminated Rocky Mount unless it is because of the report the Leafs are undergoing the same sort of difficulty that had the Jays in a turmoil before a change was made in the high command.

Here and There—John Griffin, whom Business Manager Russ Filley brought back with him on his recent trip to Hartford, Conn., has been signed to a Robin contract and has been optioned to Lumberton of the Tobacco State League . . . Ralph Bernardini, former catcher for one or more teams in the Coastal Plain loop, and more recent with the Raleigh Caps, of the Carolina League, has signed a Jay contract. He is replacing Brantley Aycock, who is one of the game with an injured hand. The Jay's management has also announced the unconditional releases of Pitcher Otho Mickey and First baseman Julian Kittrell and the reinstatement of infielder Howard Hobgood . . . Jim Mooney, the Jay's catcher has been given his release. Mooney will be out of baseball for a long period due to an injured leg. Bruce Ridings, Tob catcher, who has been plagued with arm trouble during the current season, has had his contract returned to Pensacola, Fla. Ridings stated that he may not play professional ball again this season. Ray Harbaugh, first sacker, and Joe Fulghum, outfielder, of the Wilson Tobs, are currently out of the Tobs lineup. Harbaugh will be out for quite a spell as a result of a chronic back ailment. Fulghum has a torn muscle in the back of his leg and will be out of the lineup for a few more days . . . Art Houch, former Wake Forest star, has been added to the Leaf's lineup, having been sent down from the Raleigh Caps . . . Art Frieburger, regular New Bern second sacker last season, has inked a Leaf contract.

Bill Kennedy has a 6-2 record with the Baltimore Orioles of the International Leakue, while Eddie Neville has been losing some close ones for Toledo of the American Association.

Chic Young and Dagwood Go West

This is a happy little foursome, photographed at the famous 49'ers Ranch in Tucson, Ariz., but one of the members doesn't seem dressed quite right. That would be Dagwood Bumstead, the male hero—if that is the right word—of Chic Young's comic strip, "Blondie," which appears in The Reflector. But then, Dagwood never is dressed quite right. That's Chic drawing him, in an effort to show that a cartoonist carries his office in his hat, while his assistant, Jim Raymond, (right) and a cowboy look on with interest. It was Dagwood's first visit to the Cactus country, as he accompanied Chic and his family on vacation. It is reported reliably that he was there only 15 minutes before yelling for Blooooooohs.

Drobny Gains In Favor To Take Wimbledon Event

Wimbledon, England, July 5 — (AP)—Jaroslav Drobny, the left-handed tennis player with the sizzling service, was the new favorite today to win the All-England mens singles championship.

The wise boys were loosening their money on the self-exiled Czech, who now enters international lawn tennis events as an Egyptian.

Drobny has not lost a set reaching todays semi-finals against top-seeded Frank Sedgman, the 22-year-old Australian champion. Drobnys powerful service and skillful volleying figured to guide him past the young Aussie.

The Drobny - Sedgman match shared the spotlight with an All-American clash, which saw Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and Budge Patty of Los Angeles, both stylists cross requets.

Missed One

New York, July 5—(AP)—An unidentified Giant fan set some sort of a record when he stole second, third and home yesterday at the Polo Grounds—breaking his gait only long enough to execute perfect slides.

"I only wanted to bring the Giants good luck," he told police later after being escorted from the park. "I wanted to touch all the bases."

He forgot first.

Brooklynites Dominate Nat'l League All-Stars

New York, July 5—(AP)—The stumbling Brooklyn Dodgers dominate the National League all-star squad named today by Manager Burt Shotton. They got seven of the 25 jobs.

Shotton included his two aces—Don Newcombe and Preacher Roe—in the eight-man pitching staff to face the American Leaguers Tuesday at Chicago's Comiskey Park.

The Nationals, non-winners since 1944, also will have the crafty control pitching of Larry Jansen of the New York Giants, perhaps the hottest pitcher in the league.

Philadelphia contributes a pair—23-year-old Robin Roberts and Jim Konstanty, strictly a reliefer with a puzzling sinker. Despite his 11-win record, Boston's Johnny Sain is passed up for his left-handed teammates, Warren Spahn, last year's starter. Roe and Spahn are the only southpaws on the team.

Ewell Blackwell of Cincinnati is back for the fifth time. Naming of Blacky may cause some eyebrow-raising but the lean side-arm star struck out 14 in his last start. His unique delivery always has bothered the American League power hitters.

Bob Rush of Chicago is the eighth man. He and Roberts are the youngest on the staff. Rush's fine work has been one of the most important reasons for the Cubs' fine early showing.

Only real surprises in Burt's pitching selections are omission of Sain and his failure to name a single St. Louis hurler. Especially with the Cards' Howie Pollet and Max Lanier, two fine southpaws, enjoying fine seasons.

Mangrum Wins Motor City Open But May Have Touched Off Minor Feud

Detroit, July 5 — (AP) — Chain-smoker Lloyd Mangrum won $2,600 top prize money in the Motor City Open Golf Tournament yesterday, but may have touched off a minor feud with Sammy Snead while doing it.

The dapper Chicagoan nosed out Snead by one stroke, coming from behind in the final nine holes of the 72-hole play to win with 274 as Snead ran into rough going.

Snead, No. 1 money winner among the nation's golf pros this year, blew a three-stroke lead on that final nine, climaxing his day by missing a four-foot putt for a birdie on the 18th hole that would have given him a tie with Mangrum and sent the match into a sudden death playoff. He had to settle for a par.

Mangrum reportedly irked Snead when he went to the locker room after the match and jokingly congratulated Sam on missing the putt.

Several pros and club members who saw the incident said Snead made no reply. Snead dressed quickly and left the clubhouse without taking part in ceremonies attending the presentation of prizes.

Local Guard Unit Starts Training With 30th Div.

Fort Jackson, July 5—Members of Battery C, 690th Field Artillery Battalion have joined some eight thousand other members of the 30th "Old Hickory" Division at Fort Jackson, S.C., for important maneuvers of the North Carolina-Tennessee National Guard.

The Greenville unit made the trip to Fort Jackson in good order, according to staff officers, and have already begun what many observers consider the most significant training since World War II.

Major John Hall Manning of Raleigh, commanding the 30th Division, called upon the officers and men of the Greenville unit to make the most of this month's training opportunities.

"While we all hope that conditions in the Far East will grow no worse," General Manning, "we must prepare ourselves for any eventuality."

Although the Guardsmen are primarily concerned with military training, their off-duty hours will be pleasantly spent. Theatre, Post Exchange, and swimming facilities are available to the men, and softball and golf tournaments have been planned by the Special Services Officer.

In Memory of Mrs. Mollie Wooten Latham, who departed this life August 6, 1942 in Greenville, N. C.

Gone but not forgotten say Mr. Jesse Moye's family. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Sycamore Hill Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Lillian Wooten Hardy Sunday, June 25th, at 5:00 p.m. with the president, Mrs. Catherine Smith, presiding. After the regular routine of business, a memorial program was given in the honor of one of our faithful members, Mrs. Molly Latham. A paper was read by Mrs. Belle Maye Atkinson from Miss Jesse Moye and family, in memory of the service given them by "Molly." After which each club member was given a lovely little basket of mints souvenirs given by the Moye family also. Guests present were Mr. A. L. Norcutt, organist of the Sycamore Baptits Church choir. Mr. Willie Hardy of Grimesland, and Mrs. Roxie Moore, vice president of the Missionary Society of Chicod. Members present were Mrs. Lula Jones, Mrs. Kate Gorham, Mrs. Sudie Rasbury, Allen Chapman, Caldoinia Brown, Mary Hyman. Lydia Thompson, Rosa Langley, Mrs. B. M. Atkinson, and Mrs. Annie Foreman.

The Ladies Auxiliary and the family of Mrs. Molly Latham take this method in thanking Mr. Jesse Moye's family for the words of comfort and the beautiful souvenirs for each club member.

My friend, Molly Wooten Harris Latham, was with my family for twenty-five years.

Loyal and devoted to each member of my family, she performed her duties with a sense of pride in her abilities and in a rare spirit of cheerfulness.

Through the years, she watched the children grow up. Rejoicing in their good fortune or sharing in their sorrows, she was proud of any good thing attained by them.

She felt a just pride in her race. Limited though her opportunities in life had been, she was a very intelligent and capable among her people.

Her church, her lodge, her civic and social clubs, her family, her home attractively furnished and well-kept, her duties in my home, each received her untiring interest and support.

She was generous and kind and honorable. She lived a good life, a long life of service to others. Dear Molly was a most remarkable woman of many fine qualities. She was an outstanding credit to her family and to her race.

Others have come to help us since she has gone away to Heaven, but no one can ever take her place in our hearts.

It is my happiness and my privilege to honor her memory today.

(Miss) Jesse Rountree Moye.

By Either Skill Or Chance, Rifle Bullet Killed Him

New York, July 5—(AP)—A bullet aimed by chance or incredible marksmanship whipped through the Polo Grounds yesterday and struck one of 40,000 baseball fans dead in his grandstand seat.

Twelve hours later part of the 40 detectives working on the case found several empty 22 caliber shells on the roof of a nearby apartment building—and a 22 target pistol and two 22 rifles in an apartment one floor below.

They questioned a 21-year-old Negro boy who lived in the room with his grandmother, but linked any connection with the holiday shooting. He was held for further questioning.

The victim was 54-year-old Bernard Lawrence Doyle of Fairview, N. J., a former fight manager who launched James J. Braddock on the path to the world's heavyweight championship.

Doyle, in straw hat and shirt-sleeves, was sitting in an upper left field stand with a 12-year-old neighbor boy, waiting to root for the New York Giants when they opened their Fourth of July doubleheader with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

He was watching the Dodgers' pregame batting practice when his close neighbor heard a "pop" like a paper bag breaking, and saw Doyle slump back in his seat.

They assumed he had been taken ill suddenly, but then saw blood run from his ears. There was a small hole in his left temple. The bullet had passed through his brain and lodged in the other side of his skull. He died instantly.

Police said the shot could have been fired up to half a mile away. Forty detectives were ordered into the needle-in-the-haystack search.

Hot Rod Crashes Into Spectators Killing Couple

Pageland, S.C., July 5—(AP)—A "hot rod" race car flipped a wheel and spun into a crowd of spectators, killing two and injuring at least 10 others at Pageland Track here yesterday.

It was the brand new track's first race.

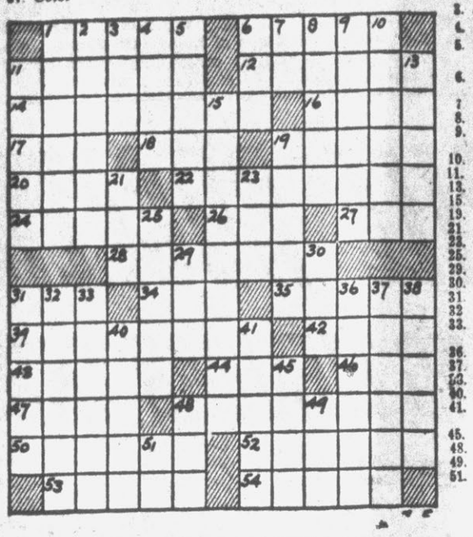

The dead were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hubert McManus of Lancaster. Two of the 10 injured were reported in critical condition. They were Donald Willis of Lancaster, who was taken to a Charlotte, N.C., hospital and Billy Revels, 30, of Lancaster, who was taken to a Monroe, N.C., hospital.

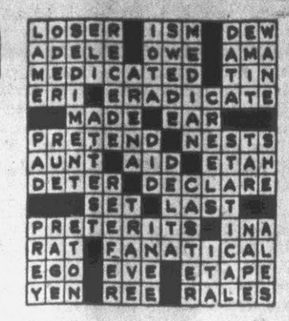

Sheriff J. E. Kirkly of Chesterfield County said the accident occurred during the second race when a car driven by W. Cecil Clark of Charlotte lost its left front wheel and ripped into the inside of the half mile oval dirt track.

IT'S DEATH, MY DARLING!

By Amelia Reynolds Long

AP Newsfeatures

Chapter 10

I got my drink of water, and returned to bed, but again not to sleep. This time I had other things to keep me awake.

Foremost, of course, was the scene I had just witnessed. What had Lee and Beau and the third man, whoever he was, been doing downstairs in the middle of the night? Why had Pick been standing among the shadows at the head of the stairs, as though se was in some way concerned in what went on below? And why, after the three man had gone out into the hall, had the light remained burning?

All at once it seemed to me that there had been something sinister about the whole occurrence. And that, in turn, recalled a series of minor mysteries that had been piquing my curiosity earlier.

In order to keep my mind from going around in circles, I tried weaving all these apparently disconnected happenings into a story. At last I fell asleep, but only to have a fantastic nightmare in which Claude sat back on his heels and howled at the moon.

Presently the sound became so loud that it wakaned me. Then I realized that although the rest of my dream had stopped, the howling continued. Only it wasnt a howl. I recognized it as a woman's hysterical screaming.

I sat up in bed, to discover that Bobby had already risen and was in the act of opening the door.

"What's happened?" I asked her.

She turned, with her hand still on the knob.

'I don't know exactly,' she answered. "There was a sort of thump a minute ago—that was what wakaned me. Then the screaming began, and people started running about."

On the upper part of the stairs, standing in the fixed, statuelike attitudes assumed by people who have been struck motionless by surprise or shock, were Uncle Raoul, Pick, Lee, and Cousin Jeff. None of them noticed Bobby and me; they were all staring too intently at something in the lower hall.

As we joined them, we were able to see down there too. Aunt Minerva, was struggling furiously to push past Beau, who was attempting to hold her back. It was she who was screaming.

Just then the front door opened, and Amedee, Henri, and Lewis Haye came in from the garconnieres They advanced a few steps into the hall, then all three stopped abruptly and stood staring, not at Aunt Minerva and Beau, but at something on the hall floor, which the positions of the others in front of us prevented Bobby and me from seeing.

Amedee was the first to recover himself. He ran forward and knelt beside whatever it was that lay on the floor. At almost the same instant, Aunt Minerva succeeded in breaking away from Beau. But she took only one or two tottering steps. Then as though her legs had refused to support her, she collapsed, and would have pitched headlong if Lewis Haye had not sprung forward to catch her. Staggering a trifle under her weight, he carried her into the nearer drawing room.

Then for the first time, I was able to see what it was at which the others had been staring. It was Claude, lying face downward upon the floor. His left arm was outflung, while his right was partly under him as though he were reaching for his grandfather's sword, the hilt of which protruded from beneath his right side.

But there was something else that was visible at his right side. It was a dark red stain, that glistened wetly against the polished surface of the floor.

Beau turned around slowly.

'I found him," he said. "He must have tripped on his sword, tried to withdraw it from his belt as he felt himself going off balance, and fallen on the blade."

At this point, Lewis Haye returned to the hall.

"Someone had better go in there and stay with her," he said, jerking his head toward the room he had just left.

He waited until Pick had descended the stairs and gone into the drawing room where her aunt was. "And now," he continued, "I suppose the next thing to do is to notify the sheriff and the coroner."

Chapter 11

They came within the next half hour, headed by Sheriff Jefferson Wilkes, a tall, loose-jointed man with a deceptively sleepy eye which actually missed very little. When he had gathered us all—with the exception of Aunt Minerva, who had by this time been taken to her room and left in the care of Marionette] into the smaller drawing room, he listened in silence to Beau's account of his discovery of Claude's body. Then he turned to the rest of us.

"Is that the way you all tell it?" he inquired.

"I heard a—a sort of thump,' Bobby volunteered timidly.

The sheriff turned his heavy-lidded eyes upon her.

"When was that, Miss Brennon?" he asked.

"Just before Mrs. Dumont started screaming," Bobby replied. "Beau said it was the door slamming when he came in."

The sheriff offered no comment.

"Any more of you hear it?" he asked instead. "What about you, Miss Piper?"

"I don't remember any thump," I told him. "It was the screaming that woke me."

"I believe I heard it," Lee offered uncertainly, "but I thought it happened before the screaming began; at least fifteen minutes before. Or come to think of it," he added, as an after thought, "I seem to recollect a second thud or thump, just a few seconds before the screaming started."

The sheriff looked as though he had heard of seeing, but never hearing, double before. For my part, I was wondering whether Lee actually had heard two thuds, or whether he had suddenly realized what his admission about the time might mean where Beau was concerned, and was attempting to cover up.

Sheriff Wilkes waited a moment, as though expecting some more of us to mention a second thud.

"Was everybody stayin' here in the house?" he inquired, when none of us did.

As he asked the question, he glanced at Henri, who seemed to think that this made it incumbent upon him to answer.

"No," he said. "Some of us were sleeping in the garconieres."

"Which ones?"

"Both of them. There are only two."

"The sheriff means which of us, Henri." Amedee explained. He turned to Wilkes. "My brother and I were in the garconniere on the right, my cousin Beauregard and Mr. Haye in the other."

The sheriff's eyes flickered. Suddenly he swung upon Beau.

"If you were supposed to be sleepin' out there," he shot out, "what were you doin' over here at nearly three o'clock in the morning?"

"I couldn't sleep," he answered without hesitation. "The truth is, I'd had a little too much to drink last evening, and it was giving me something of a head. So I decided to take a turn or two around the grounds in the hope that it would wear off. Then I noticed the light over here, and thought I'd see who was up. That was how I came to find Claude."

The sheriff seemed to weigh this answer. "Wasn't your grandfather's funeral a funny time to get drunk?" he demanded.

"Perhaps I'd better explain that Colonel Dumont left some rather unusual instructions to be carried out after his death," Cousin Jeff intervened. "He directed that after the funeral, a formal dinner party was to be held in his honor, when a special case of champagne would be opened. He also asked that all his male relatives wear Confederate uniforms, which accounts for the costume Mr. Claude Dumont was wearing when he was killed."

The sheriff scratched the side of his lean jaw. He looked as though he was wondering whether this had been a funeral or a three ring circus complete with everything except the peanuts and pink lemonade.

But before he could put another question, the door to the hall, which the coroner had closed while he was busy out there, was opened, and Aunt Delphine came into the room.

She stood there looking around the room and smiling gently.

"So Claude is dead," she observed with the satisfaction of a prophetess whose words have been verified. "I knew it would happen."

That made the sheriff swing around.

"So you knew it would happen?" he repeated with interest. "May I inquire your name, ma'am?"

Aunt Delphine drew herself up with old-fashioned dignity.

"I am Madame Dumont," she stated.

"Not the mother of the man who was—killed?"

"Of course not. I am Madame Dumont."

"She is the widow of my eldest brother," Uncle Raoul explained. Then he added, lowering his voice. "I'd suggest that you didn't pay too much attention to anything she may say."

The sheriff ignored this piece of advice, and turned back to Aunt Delphine.

"So you knew it would happen," he said again. "How did you know, ma'am?"

Aunt Delphine lowered her voice to a confidential whisper.

"They told me," she announced, smiling up at him. "They said Claude didn't belong, even if he did bear the Dumont name, and so they would have to kill him."

"Mrs. Dumont," he asked, uttering each word separately and distinctly, as if to impress her with the importance of the question and of her answer, "which of these people told you they were going to kill Claude Dumont?"

Aunt Delphine shook her head slowly from side to side, like a child who is enjoying the mystification of its elders.

"None of them told me," she replied with a rougish smile. "But I know who did it."

"Then for God's sake, tell me, Mrs. Dumont!" The sheriff was tense now. For that matter, we all were, but for different reasons. "Who killed your nephew?"

"Le Loup Garou," Aunt Delphine announced, still smiling.

Attack On U. S. By Soviet Press Gains Intensity

Moscow, July 5—(AP)—The Soviet press was dominated again today by angry headlines denouncing the United States' actions in Korea and mobilizing public indignation.

The press carried such headlines as these: Justice Shall Be Meted Out To The Aggressors. Stop The Aggressors. Expel The Suffocators Of The Korean People. Cut Off The Repulsive Intrigues Of The Warmongers.

Much of the front pages were given over to reports of indignation meetings in factories in various Soviet cities. Soviet cartoonists and political poets were busy picturing the United States as a beastial aggressor. One cartoon showed Korea being grasped by long-clawed apelike hands decorated with American flags, while down the center of the peninsula there was shown a husky fist holding the sign: "Hands Off Korea."

"Hands Off Korea" was offered as a slogan for "workers of the world united" by one Soviet poet who advised Gen. MacArthur and the American military commanders to "go to the devil."

Pravda, the official paper of the Communist Party Central Committee, reported North Korean successes on the battlefront. The Literary Gazette, summarizing the military action, said the South Korean retreat had turned into a rout and reported that "partisan" movements throughout South Korea were gaining strength daily. The paper reported from Pyongyang that the people of the North Korean capital were enraged at American air attacks in which, it said, "many civilian women and babies were killed by American bombs."

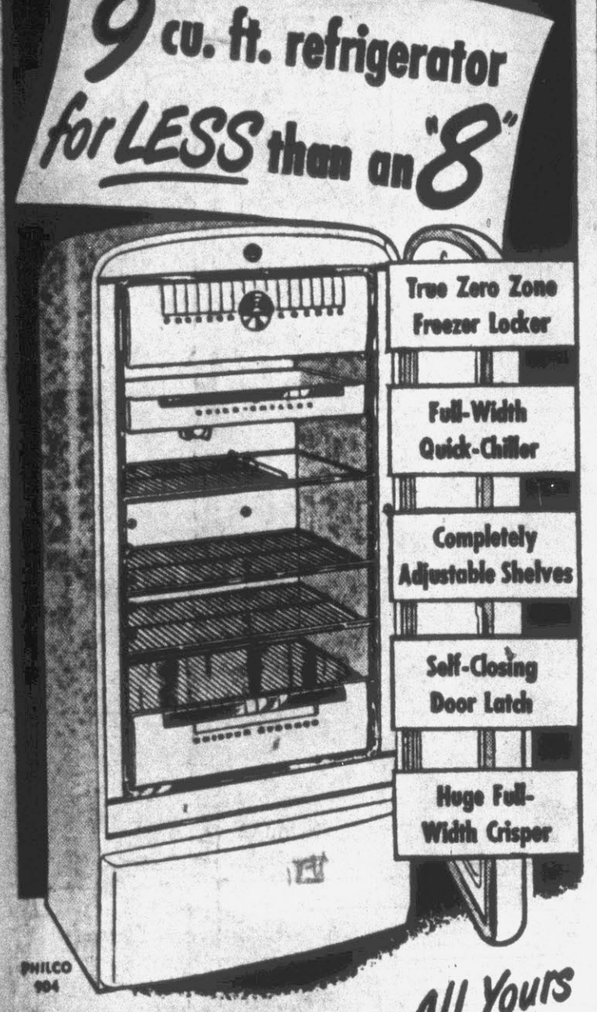

"This is the beastlike face of imperialism," the paper commented, adding that all North Koreans were rising to the support of their government in farms and factories.

The Literary Gazette called the American commander in Korea, Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, "hangman and pogrom organizer."

A woman speaker at a Moscow railway car repair works was quoted as telling the workers there that President Truman would "pay for his crimes in the same way Hitler had."

Suspect Is Held For Grand Jury

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Monday, Judge J.W.H. Roberts found probable cause in the case against William E. Daniels, 26-year-old Negro, on the charge of highway robbery of James Briley, AA Taxicab Company driver, early last Sunday morning, and ordered Daniels held under $5,000 bond for the Pitt County Grand Jury.

Briley testified that Daniels hired his cab at Second and Evans Streets and that he transported him across Tar River and to a house in the river lowgrounds. When he stopped his cab, Briley said, Daniels held him up with a pistol and robbed him of between $20 and $25. Briley further testified that Daniels then compelled him to drive to a remote part of Greenville and then fled.

Police Chief Lester D. Page said the officers did good work in rounding up the alleged highwayman. Detective Lieut. M. E. Corbett and Identification Specialist S. Bowen Dorsey worked up the case.

Ardell W. Gaulding up on two charges. The court gave him 30 days in jail for not having an operator's license. Sentence was suspended on payment of $50. He was ordered not to drive a motor vehicle for 12 months. Gaulding was given 90 days for illegal possession of moonshine liquor. Sentence was suspended on payment of $50 and he was ordered not to drive a car for 12 months.

Sheriff Killed Boy By Mistake

Herford, N. C. July 5—(AP)—A Sheriff shot and killed an 19-year old farm youth in a mistake near here late Monday.

Sheriff Melvin Owens said he shot Horace Calvin Layden when he went into a cornfield after an armed fugitive, Dennis Forbes.

The sheriff said that Forbes hid in the cornfield near the Layden home after he had been wounded by members of a posse.

"I warned everybody else to stay out of the field, that I was going in after the armed man we were trying to capture, and I entered the cornfield," said sheriff Owens.

"I knew that man I was going after was armed because he had obtained a gun shortly before my arrival on the scene. I had advanced possibly 100 yards into the cornfield when I saw a man move."

The sheriff said he shouted: "Stop where you are."

"But he started to run," Owens added. "With no other thought in mind other than it was the man we were after, I shot and the load took effect in the boy's hip."

Forbes surrendered about 15 minutes later and was placed in the Pasquotank county jail.

'Horace Layden was one of the finest boys in the county, and I am overcome with grief at his death," said Owens. "I wouldn't have had it happen for anything in the world."

Robbery At Ball Park; Visiting Players Victims

During yesterday afternoon's baseball game at Guy Smith Stadium between the Tarboro Athletics and the Greenville Robins, a robber gained entrance to the visiting team's dressing room under the grandstand and stole two wallets, General Manager Russell Filley reported to Greenville police late yesterday afternoon.

Detective Lieut. M. E. Corbett and Fingerprint Specialist S. Bowen Dorsey, who investigated the case, said the dressing room door was locked and that there was no evidence of any person breaking in. They are continuing their investigation. They suspect use of a key.

Police said Manager Joe Antolick lost his wallet and $8 or $10 and valuable papers. Joe Jelly, a ball player, said he lost about $30 and his papers.

The victims of the robbery request the thief to at least return their papers, including drivers' licenses, etc.

Who Plans . . .

Resources Board (to be explained in a moment.)

This is the top policy-making group in the government. But—the President makes the decisions, since the other members of the Security Council are only advisers. It meets when the President wishes.

4. National Security Resources Board. (NSRB). Symington, former secretary of the Air Force, is chairman of this. Other members of this board are cabinet members: the secretaries of the Treasury, Defense, State, Interior, Agriculture, Commerce and Labor.

The NSRB's job is to advise the President on the "coordination of military, industrial, and civilian mobilization." Which means:

It has the job of planning—in case of war—for getting equipment and arms made for the military forces; converting plants to wartime use; and using civilian manpower. It has to plan in such fields as transportation, public utilities, price control, exports and imports, materials.

5. The Munitions Board. The chairman is Hubert E. Howard, a civilian appointed by the President. The other board members are civilian officials of the three armed services.

Its job is to buy up and store away, for use in case of war, scarce and strategic materials, and to arrange for plans to switch over to war work. This board is part of the Defense Department and is answerable to Secretary of Defense Johnson.

In addition to all this, of course, the President has the advice of the heads of various departments, his cabinet members, like Justice, Treasury, Commerce, Agriculture and so on. All of them would be involved in running parts of a wartime show. They all deal directly with the President.

First Case Of Polio In County For 8-Year-Old

Pitt County received its first case of infantile paralysis last week when Bobby Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Baker, Bethel Road, was stricken.

June H. Rose, chairman of the Pitt County Chapter, National Infantile Paralysis Foundation, reported today the eight-year-old victim was taken to the Carolina Convalescent Hospital in Greensboro for treatment last Saturday.

Rose stated the county usually has one to six cases each year and that the Baker child's attack does not mean the beginning of an epidemic.

The child suffered stiffness in his legs but doctors said he does not now have any permanent injury.

figured the Communists have between three and four divisions (normally 10,000 men to a division) south of Suwon and the Han River, which had been the souths defense line. Apparently the Reds were trying to make an enveloping action near the American positions. South Koreans were reported to have fallen back to their new positions in good order after losing Suwon, and to have set up a new line near the spot where the U.S. artillery engaged the Red tanks.

Under the direction of Vice Adm. Arthur D. Struble, commander of the U. S. Seventh Fleet, carrier planes of the U.S.S. Valley Forge and the British light carrier Triumph slashed at Pyongyang, the North Korea capital, and its port, hitting rail yards, airfield and hangar areas and bridges. A troop train was found and hit with machinegun and rocket fire. The three full air strikes and four sweeps by jet fighters were called "hughly successful." Two Russian-made Yak fighters were shot down and eight other planes strafed on the ground. There were no allied casualties in the Monday and Tuesday strikes.

More carrier strength was on the way.

"Every order, ordinance, resolution, motion or vote relative to the affairs of the city adopted or passed by the board of aldermen, shall be presented to the mayor for his signature and approval. If he approves, he shall sign it; if he disapproves it, he shall return it, stating his objections to same, which shall be entered on the minutes. If the board of aldermen, notwithstanding such disapproval of the mayor shall again pass such order, ordinance, resolution, motion or vote by a two-thirds vote of all the members of the said board present at the meeting, it shall then be in force; otherwise, it shall be deemed lost. Any such order ordinance, resolution, motion or vote shall be in force within ten days, if it has not been returned by the mayor within that time after it has been presented to him."

that the two sister nations should forget their minor differences. He felt that, with many people believing the Korean situation placed the world on the threshold of war, India and Pakistan shouldn't indulge in bickering. Now his government is trying to solve the Korean problem.

That's all to the good, irrespective of the merits of the Korean proposal. Nehru, the advocate of peace, is one of the newly developed great world figures who bids fair to play a dominant role in the affairs of the Far East.

As for the Ideological war between the Communists and the Democracies there is no mediation which can settle that. The conflict must run its course until mankind finally gives the verdict.
