Job-Count Soaring To Record High

Employment Survey Indicates Surpassing Of 1948's 61 Million Mark

Washington, July 10—(AP)—The number of American job-holders may break all records this year, running over the 61,600,000 peak of 1948.

The labor department said yesterday that all economic signs point to such a development.

Robert R. Goodwin, director of department's bureau of employment security, released a report on a survey of 99 major production areas and a number of smaller communities which had unemployment of seven per cent or more in March.

By May, the report said, employment had increased in 89 per cent of those major production areas.

Of 38 areas listed in April as having substantial labor surpluses—too many working for the number of available jobs—eight were back to normal by May, while one moderate sized area was added.

Goodwin said that with the total employment figure at 61,600,000 in June, there seems little doubt but that employment this year will exceed the 61,600,000 peak established in 1948.

The whole nation shares in the bright outlook, he said, "but the greatest proportionate increases is due in the far west."

Seasonal activities have played a big part in the employment book, the report added, especially in the construction and durable goods industries.

Goodwin's report was prepared before the announcement last Friday that more men are to be taken into the Armed forces. However, under present law armed forces strength cannot be increased by much more than 540,000 and officials say this would have little effect on the nation's overall labor picture.

Says Agitators Behind Wildcat British Strike

London, July 10—(AP)—A wildcat truckers strike denounced by union leaders as Communist-inspired endangered the food supplies of Greater London's 8,400,000 persons today.

The dispute began 17 days ago when 1,400 drivers walked out at the Smithfield Market which handles most of London's meat supplies blaming a delay in settling their claims for a $2.66 a week pay rise.

The army moved in 1,400 soldiers to handle perishable meat shipments. A call for a general sympathy strike by all truckers in the London area followed Friday.

Arthur Deakin, secretary of the transport and general workers' union, told reporters "it is clear that a number of Communist agitators are behind this attempt."

Webb said price controls on soap will be continued.

Military Planners

Joint Chiefs Of Staff Figure Out What The Armed Forces Should Do In Any Given Situation; Goal Is Unified Effort; How A Problem Is Tackled; Organization

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 10—(AP)—Four men—Joint Chief of Staff—are the top military planners in this country. It's their job to figure out what the armed forces of this country can, or can't, or should do in any given situation.

Back in 1947 Congress decided to put an end to the old conflict between the Army, Navy and Air Force. While each was completely independent of the other, they often worked at cross purposes and competed with each other for money to spend, for equipment, and even for men.

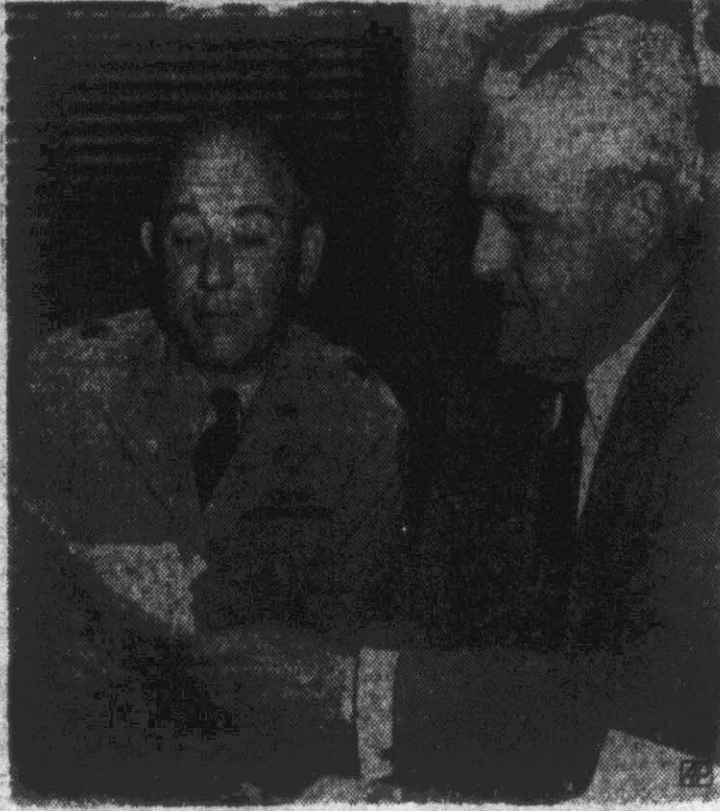

And their ideas on military planning went off in opposite directions. If somehow they could be brought together, Congress thought, this wasteful conflict might be ended.

So in 1947 Congress passed an act to "unify" the armed forces. Under this act the group known as "the Joint Chiefs of Staff" was created.

Its four members are: General Omar Bradley, chairman; General J. Lawton Collins, Chief of Staff of the Army; Admiral Forrest Sherman, Chief of Naval Operations; and General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Chief of Staff of the Air Force.

Colombian Quake Toll Said Rising

Unofficial Reports Indicate Over 200 Dead, 17,000 Injured Or Homeless In Seven Towns After Five Tremors

Bogota, Colombia, July 10—(AP)—Unofficial reports today indicated 211 persons were dead and 17,000 injured or homeless in seven towns after five earthquakes that rocked north central Colombia over the weekend.

The presidential palace in a statement last night indicated the official death toll was at least 123.

The new figures were given in the newspaper El Siglo.

El Tiempo said the number of dead reached 30, with 500 injured and the homeless 40,000. El Siglo estimated the material damage at 6,000,000 pesos, while El Tiempo said the damages amount to about 40,000,000 pesos.

Both papers said that Arboleda, a town of 30,000, was almost destroyed and that Cucutilla, of about 14,000 inhabitants, also was almost destroyed. Electric power failed after the shocks and the towns were in darkness, which contributed to the panic among the inhabitants.

Another town, Salazar de Las Palmas, population about 21,000, was also severely hit by the tremors.

The government rushed troops, police forces, and doctors, food, drugs and tents to the affected towns.

So far, the government had made no new announcement and the Red Cross has no official information because wires are down and communications almost impossible, except for radio.

Korea Campaign To Require New Defense Outlays

Rayburn Predicts Request; Military Men Warn Against Over Optimism

Washington, July 10—(AP)—House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) said after a White House conference of congressional leaders today that there is a "probability" more military appropriations will be asked because of the Korean fighting.

Rayburn told reporters that President Truman did not say he would seek more defense money.

"But I think it is a probability," Rayburn added.

He said he was confident Congress would vote whatever funds were needed.

At the Pentagon, meantime, military men said the United States now has enough men and equipment in Korea to slow the Communist advance, but that no one should expect an immediate turn in the tide of battle.

The tone of the Pentagon forenoon "briefing" for newsmen was generally of caution against over optimism as a result of the weekend's heavy air strikes and other successes against the North Koreans.

A spokesman said American forces had done "a remarkable job" of building up men and equipment in Korea.

But he indicated that U.S. ground troops in Korea might still have to trade space for time.

Any request from President Truman for more military appropriations might mean the end of the pending bill to cut excise taxes by over a billion dollars.

Some influential Congress members already have taken a "go slow" attitude on tax cuts in view of the international situation.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.) has also begun a drive to cut domestic spending in anticipation that military spending will have to go up to fight the war in Korea.

Byrd told reporters he sees no reason why some more "go slow" can't be trimmed off domestic activities in the $34,700,000,000 single-package money bill the Senate starts debating tomorrow.

"Purely domestic expenditures have been increased 77 per cent since 1948," Byrd said. "With a war on our hands, some of these outlays must be cut or we are going to spend ourselves into the kind of bankruptcy the Russians are counting on."

Chief Page's annual report also shows that the police during the year ended July 1, 1950, answered 3,888 calls; made 3,023 investigations; answered 2,961 complaints; found doors to 232 business places open at night, and investigated 181 accidents.

Total revenue taken in by City Police Court totaled $28,925.44, of which the city received $15,742.49. The police gives 24 hour service every day in the year. Checking the chiefs report for the year it may be observed that for every arrest there are four times as many complaints and investigation to be checked.

The police work eight-hour shifts. The force changes at 8 a.m., 4 p.m., and 11 p.m.

There are 22 men on the force. When the average citizen figures (Continued on page ten)

Northern Unit Within 20 Miles Of Emergency Capital; Communiqué Tells Of 'Lull' Following Furious All-Out Air Assault; Tanks And Heavy Equipment Of Invaders Take Heavy Losses

By The Associated Press The North Korean division has stabbed to within 20 miles of South Korea, Gen. MacArthur's communique reported today, but slanting American air blows were reported denting the southward-driving Communist offensive.

The Red first division—which for two days had trapped an American "lost battalion"—sheared "East of Chonan and advanced to the vicinity of Chongan, the communique said. A force of North Koreans, probably the 3rd division, is reported in contact with American forces just north of Chochiwon, a rail junction 15 miles southeast of Chonan. The second north Korean division engaged elements of a South Korea corps on a front just South of Chinchon, Northeast of Chonan.

The Reds made their closest advance to Taegon after the lost battalion slugged its way out of the trap and rejoined its regiment for action, the communique said.

The previous communique had reported a lull on the main battlefront after a furious "round-the-clock" air assault. The attack knocked out 46 Red tanks, caused heavy losses in equipment and lashed at Red troop convoys with what Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer called "unknown but considerable losses."

Stratemeyer said in an interview the combined efforts of American ground, air and Naval forces had stopped the Communist drive deep in South Korea.

An Associated Press dispatch from the front reported the Communist drive at least temporarily halted below Chonan, some 50 air miles south of Seoul, Red held south Korean capital. After the Americans poured on their heaviest artillery fire of the war thus far

The report by Gen. Stratemeyer commander of the U. S. Far East air force, that the Communists drive was stopped tied in with a Communique from headquarters of Gen. MacArthur, now the United Nations Commander, reporting the battlefront lull.

Stratemeyer said his airmen destroyed or damaged 41 planes, knocked out 123 Korean tanks and spruced destruction among the invaders. In the 15 days of the Korean war, he placed American losses at nine airmen killed, five wounded and 12 missing. He said five Allied combat planes and five transport planes were lost thus far. Strategic bombing, meanwhile, was making itself felt in Communist shortages of vital supplies in many localities, the general said.

The Communist drive down the western side of the Korean peninsula had carried the North Korean troops to within 20 air miles of Taegon, temporary capital of the South Korean government.

Gen. MacArthur's communique said there was evidence that the morale of the North Koreans was slipping under the heavy pressure of Allied warplanes. The communique said enemy pressure gained some ground to the east, in the Umsong-Chungju area 70 miles northeast of Chonan, where units of the North Korean 13th division forced back Southern troops to high ground northwest of Umang.

Increased activity on the east coast still indicates a southward pressure, with opposition from "friendly" forces—probably Allied naval and air forces, the communique said.

The "round-the-clock" bombing began Sunday.

In an apparent sweep to the west, the Communists with bombs, rockets, machinegun fire and a gasoline firebomb called napalm.

The light bombers and fighters wrecked or damaged 46 tanks, destroyed 69 trucks, and destroyed or damaged much other equipment. Red troop casualties were reported heavy. VaRious communique to date have listed kills totalling 132 tanks in the 15 days of the Korean war.

Patrol Arrested 1,473 For June

The regular monthly report of the work of State Highway Patrol Troop "A", with headquarters in Greenville, for the month of June was released from the Greenville office today.

The report covers the activities of over 106 patrolmen in 27 eastern North Carolina counties. Troop "A" is now under the command of Captain S. H. Mitchell.

The report reveals that the patrolmen traveled a total of 416,963 miles and spent 32,260 hours on duty; during which time they made 1,473 arrests, 85 of which were for driving while drunk.

The 105 patrolmen rendered 3,638 courtesies, investigated 277 accidents in which 12 persons were killed and 141 injured.

Light tickets amounting to 117 were given out and 5,249 lights were corrected. The report shows that 24,645 vehicles were inspected and 790 equipment tickets issued, and 1,628 warning tickets given out.

A total of 1,387 complaints were investigated and 21,819 drivers licenses inspected on the highways of the eastern division. There were (Continued on page ten)

Mobile Striking Force Is Tapped For Use In Korea

Washington, July 10—(AP)—The Army has started dipping into the small, five division mobile force stationed in the United States to hasten help for American forces rocked by an onrushing North Korean army.

The decision to order the 2nd Infantry division and an unspecified number of smaller units from other organizations to the Far East came less than two weeks after the United States had stepped into the Korean conflict to assist South Korea in repelling the invaders from the North.

It was indicative of how the timetable has quickened as unhappy reports came into the pentagon from the front.

And it intensified today the manpower problems confronting the military, sharpening question about the current volunteer effort, whether the draft would have to be used, whether the national guard eventually would be moved into the picture.

The so-called "mobile striking force" was created for the purpose to which the 2nd division and to other units are now being applied—deployment to any area where an emergency occurs. Parred down from original plans, it consists of the five divisions, plus the units needed to enable the combat divisions to fight. The divisions are these:

The 2nd Infantry at Ft. Lewis, Wash.; the 82nd Airborne, based at Ft. Bragg, N. C.; the 11th Airborne at Ft. Campbell, Ky.; the 2nd Armored at Ft. Hood, Tex.; the 3rd Infantry at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Bleeding Of The Democracies' Economy To Weaken Them, Is Aim Of Strategy; Berlin Blockade And Present Korean Fight Costs Moscow Very Little

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

One of the most important aims of Soviet strategy in furthering its world revolution is to bleed the democracies economically with the hope of thus rendering them vulnerable to Red attack.

This crafty line of thought long has permeated Bolshevik operations. A prime example of it was the Russian blockade of Western Berlin. That forced America and Britain to maintain a long and tremendously costly air lift to provide the city with necessities.

And it's notable that Moscow carried out this coup without expending much strength herself.

Now we have the Korean show, which is more or less a piece off the same cloth. Russia has two main objectives in backing Communist North Korea's invasion of non-Communist South Korea.

has trained the North Korean armies, and has provided many sinews of war, the Soviet itself has not been directly involved. As usual she is using one of her satellites to do the heavy work for her—under expert Russian military guidance, of course.

Evidence that Russia again has been crafty is seen in the reaction by the Western powers. John M. Hightower, AP diplomatic expert in Washington, reports that Administration officials are beginning to regard the Korean war as a long, difficult and costly struggle for America.

Hightower adds that, depending on how the fighting goes, this development of a less optimistic outlook about an early end to the war apparently means a steady build-up of American forces in the war zone with increasing requirements for money, men and munitions. Furthermore, the U.S. is faced with the need to keep up a billion dollar flow of arms to Western Europe, the Middle East and Southeast Asia, while keeping its own forces set to deal with any new moves by the Red bloc.

Women In The Church

According to Mrs. John M. Irvine, of Wexford, Pa., retiring president of the National Council of the Women's Organizations of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A., Presbyterian women gave $8,506,640 during the past four years for "opportunity projects" over and above their regular local church contributions. In addition the women made articles for hospitals and schools to the value of $266,316, and thousands of packages of food and clothing for the needy overseas.

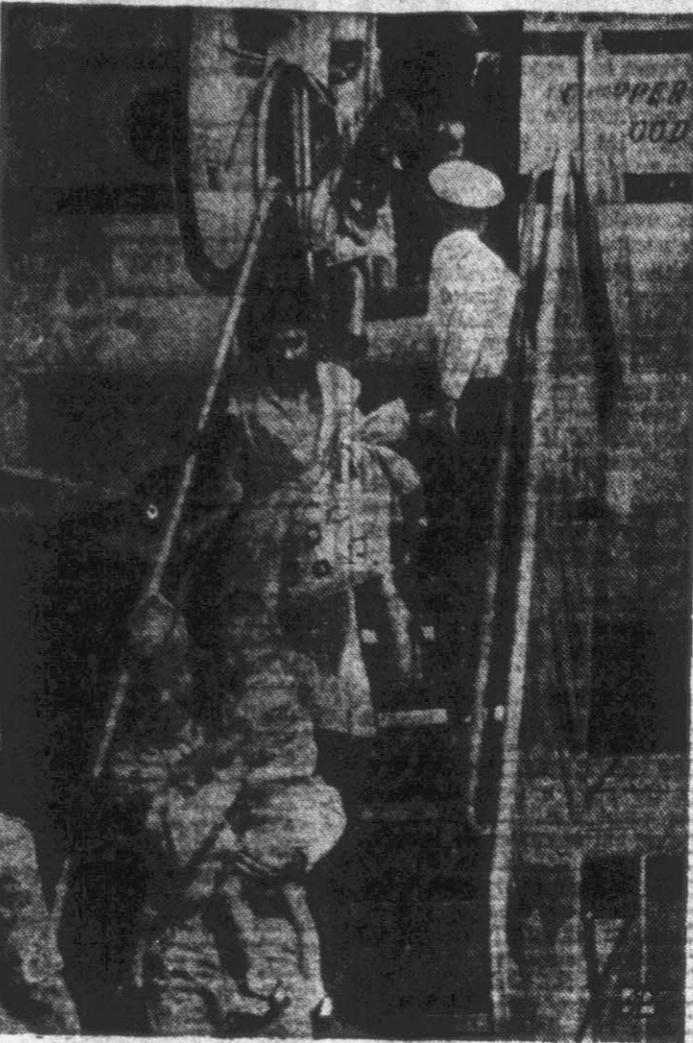

Two women prominent in the missionary enterprise of the Methodist church were awarded honorary doctorates in June. Miss Hyla Watters, M. D., for 28 years a physician and surgeon on the staff of Wuhu General hospital, Wuhu, China, and more recently named a medical missionary to the interior of Liberia, Africa, was made a Doctor of Science by Smith college, her alma mater. Mrs. Frank G. Brooks, of Mt. Vernon, Iowa, national president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service was awarded the degree of Doctor of Laws by La Grange college, Georgia.

Among the 100 delegates to the World's Woman's Christian Association Membership conference, in Whitby, Ontario, Canada, August 9 to 18, will be 26 American women headed by Miss Lilace Reid Barnes, of Lake Forest, Ill., and Geneva, Switzerland, world president. The conference will consider the place of the YW as an ecumenical movement of women of all faiths, the YW's consultative status to such world bodies as the UN, the International Missionary Council, etc., and the continuance of YW work for refugees and displaced persons.

In honor of Miss Elisabeth M. Lee, an executive secretary of the Department of Work in Foreign Fields, Woman's Division of Christian Service, Methodist church, an annual lectureship has been established in the Union Evangelical Seminary, Matanzas, Cuba. The purpose of the lectures, according to President Alfonso Rodriguez Hidalgo, is to "lift the spiritual and cultural life of the community as well as to give greater service to the evangelical churches of Cuba." The lectureship was named for Miss Lee because of her years of service as a missionary administrator in Latin America. The lectures were given this year by Bishop Sante U. Barbieri of Argentina.

All others who are interested in the program to be offered are invited to attend. Dr. Rudolph R. Willmann, chairman of the department of music at East Carolina Teachers College, planned the program for the event and is acting as director of the conference.

Mr. Hoffman will speak at a morning session at 10:00 o'clock in the Austin auditorium on the subject, "A Functional Music Program in the Elementary Schools." Mr. Humber will discuss "The Evolution of Our Western Culture" at a luncheon meeting in the North Dining Hall at 12:30. Other principals on the program will be Dr. Willmann, who will talk during the morning on "We Grow Through Music"; Dan E. Vornholt, who will comment on a sound-color film strip "You Can Make Music"; and Registrar J. K. Long, who will welcome guests. All are staff members at East Carolina. Principal Frances Wahl and Mrs. Elsie Eagan of the campus Training School faculty will direct sixth and seventh grade pupils in a demonstration of rhythm activities.

The morning meeting will open with an organ program by Mrs. Marie Willmann of Greenville, who will be the first to play a recital on the new $30,000 pipe organ just installed in the Austin auditorium. A series of vocal and instrumental selections will be presented by students of music at both the morning and the luncheon meetings.

Thirteenth Of Litter Was Odd

A rabbit owned by Frank Parker of the Falkland community recently had a litter of 13 baby rabbits. Parker has a rabbit farm in Falkland with nearly 200 rabbits.

Parker reported that the rabbit which gave birth to the litter of 13 was a New Zealand white rabbit. In the group there was a freak rabbit which lived for one day before it died. The small animal was hairless and in appearance different from the rest of the litter. It had hanging ears and an elephant-like snout. The rest of the litter was reported as doing nicely.

up of Army, Navy and Air Force officers, part of the 200-man staff which works for the JCS.

And the way the job is done goes like this: Say it's necessary to figure out how we should fight a war with Russia, if that becomes necessary. Should the U. S. try to attack from the Arctic, through Western Europe, or from Asia or perhaps from all three directions?

The group on strategy will tackle this, calling on the other groups for help, such as on military intelligence or information.

The strategy group will have to consider a million details: weather, clothing, equipment, transportation, the number of men and planes and ships needed, whether long-range bombing or land attack is best.

When this strategy group of Army, Navy and airmen has worked out what it considers a reasonable plan—or plans—it makes its recommendations to the committee of the JCS.

Then this committee of two generals and an admiral goes over the problem, and the recommendation. It either approves or sends it back to the group for more working over.

But say it thinks the plan prepared by the group is all right. It then recommends this to Bradley and the other three members of the JCS. The JCS can approve or send it back for more study.

So that's the strain Russia is putting on America, without taking on any great additional load herself. And Korea isn't by any means the only theater involved in this Red strategy.

Over in China the Chinese Communist regime has served notice on the United Nations that it is determined to capture the big island of Formosa "despite any military steps of obstruction taken by the United States government." America has assigned naval units to protect Formosa, which is the seat of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government and his last stronghold.

And what is the significance of this? Well, it means that Moscow is pushing another of its satellites into the foreground to challenge America. It is an effort to make the United States weaken itself by widening its operations.

That there is the making of a long and costly struggle in Korea certainly is in the cards. As this column has pointed out before, Russia is in the position of pouring an endless stream of Manchurian and Chinese Communist troops down through the North Korean funnel into South Korea. So long as this can continue there always will be new Red troops to take the place of those knocked out.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

PLACE OF RELIGION IN LIFE
 There are millions of people who go through life paying no attention to God, church, Bible, or prayer. Sometimes a severe jolt makes them realize their mistake. But there are many more who go from the cradle to the grave never giving the least attention to any of these things. The church is all right for marrying and burying. The Bible, they say, is probably a good-enough book for people who have the patience to read it and the credulity to believe it. But for these "superior" persons, life can be very well lived without God.

Someone has said that until we kneel before God we are never really able to stand up to anything. Disappointment is the lot of every human soul. We make mistakes every day of our lives. The balancing average of most of us is never too high. How do some people meet the issues of life when they have no inner resources to support them in a day of need? Religion will work for us if we will let it work. It is while we are on our knees that we begin to learn what this tangled skein of circumstances is all about. Religious faith puts something into the heart which enables us to face the issues of life unafraid and with a deepening understanding of their meaning.

It Seems They Got The Cart Before The Horse

The six members of the Board of Aldermen who fired Chief of Police Lester Page allegedly, without telling him or other members of the board of aldermen why and after refusing to tell citizens at last Thursday night's meeting why, are finally going to break down and talk, according to a statement by one of the group. The spokesman Saturday afternoon stated that Judge Albion Dunn was preparing a joint statement for the group which would be made public within a few days.

The part that puzzles us is why the "six little men" have changed from their apparent attitude that it was nobody's business but their own, and have finally decided that possibly, after all, the public is entitled to know. Could it be that they now feel that they need an alibi for "the public-banned" attitude they have shown in the matter so far?

Since last Thursday night's meeting there have been rumors of numerous serious charges that the group had against Chief Page. If these rumors be true and if the group did have charges against Chief Page, why was he not informed of the charges and why was not the public informed of them? If there are substantiated charges that would justify firing Chief Page or any other city employee, the six aldermen should have known that the revelation of such facts would have put the majority of the right thinking people solidly behind them. Instead of this commonsense view of the matter it appears that they preferred to convict the chief without benefit of a trial and, now that sentence has been passed upon him, they decide belatedly that maybe the evidence should be presented to the jury.

We don't know what the joint statement will contain but we do know that coming at this stage of the controversy will make it appear more as an alibi for themselves. If those six aldermen honestly and sincerely believe they have handled this matter in the way they should have handled it, as public officials acting in behalf of the citizens they were elected to represent, we are truly sorry for them, for they are too ignorant of their duties as public officials to hold such offices.

The Planning Crowd Meet Their Match

According to predictions by those presumably "in the know," price supports for the Irish potato are on the way out. No regrets are in order by anyone. Primarily, the plan was a failure because there was no adequate provision for the limiting of potato production. Thus, all the surplus potatoes (and the world was shocked by our waste) were bought by the government. Vast quantities were discarded or destroyed.

We can ascribe this sorry state of affairs to an error in human judgment, or shortsighted planning.

Now take those millions of stored surplus eggs and tons of surplus butter the government has purchased to keep the marketing price at a respectable level.

Human frailties can't take all the credit (or blame) for the fiasco in this field. Just how are you going to tell a hen or a cow when to stop?

The Men In Uniform Will Be Cared For

In keeping with the armed services' expansion plans, the call has gone out for physicians to volunteer. These professional men are all-important in the conducting of any military campaign.

When your doctor or dentist volunteers for service, he is making a sacrifice beyond the usual concept.

Usually, he is married. Always, he is incurring no small financial loss; and frequently his practice at home, upon which he will rely on his release from duty, suffers by his prolonged absence.

Some cannot go. Others, doubtful over the length and extent of the current emergency, are naturally reluctant to so quickly make such an important decision. Once they feel their presence is needed, they'll go.

Men and women of the medical professions set an enviable record of service in the last war. Many of them chafed under unaccustomed military practices... desk work... assignments which did not fully utilize their abilities and the frustrations of organizational procedure. In the more hazardous and demanding fields of duty, there were performed great feats of bravery and endurance.

American soldiers and sailors received the best medical care of any military force in the world during World War II; they'll have it again.

News Behind The News By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, July 10—It is fortunate for President Truman, in the opinion of certain politicians, that General Douglas A. MacArthur will be seventy-two years old in 1952 and eager to retire to private life instead of seeking the Republican nomination for President.

For, despite all the accolades handed the man in the White House by his decision to force a showdown with Russia in Korea, if possible, it was the Wisconsin Republican who led the White House to reverse its previous "wait and let the dust settle" policy toward Korea, Japan and Formosa.

It was on his advice alone that Mr. Truman junked the Acheson program of crossing off those three outposts as "expedient."

PRESTIGE—Unique for a man who has been outside the United States for thirteen years, the "hero of Bataan" commands more prestige among many observers here, both Republicans and Democrats, than any other American civilian or military officer.

His five years as Japan's top executive have given him far more experience and training for the White House than General "Ike" Eisenhower.

But his age and his own desires apparently eliminate him from the race. If it were not for these considerations, there would be a MacArthur-for-President movement under way now.

SUCCESS—Ironically, MacArthur's reorientation of Administration policy in the Far East has embarrassed his fellow GOP-ers. It has helped to place both Truman and Acheson in a more favorable light.

It has detracted interest from Joe McCarthy's charges. And if "Mac" can repulse the invading Commies, the President will get all the credit for outbluffing Stalin.

In that event, past mistakes in coddling "Commies" at Washington and losing China to the Reds may be forgotten by the voters. Nothing succeeds in politics like success, no matter how it is achieved.

FEUD—The Roosevelt boys are squabbling again over who should be given the first chance to capitalize on the political heritage and legacy which their famous father left to them.

The friendly or unfriendly decision which they make will have a great effect on New York and California politics. In view of those states' electoral importance, the outcome of the unbrotherly feud may influence the presidential election in 1952.

James, who has been nominated as the Democratic candidate for Governor in California, does not want "Junior" to run for Governor of New York next fall.

The elder son figures that, if two Roosevelts ran at the same time in these great states, the spectacle of a family race would be disadvantageous to both of them. It would enable their opponents to raise the issue of a "Roosevelt dynasty," perhaps meaning the defeat of one or both.

ANSWER—James has tried to impress "Junior" with this argument. James also feels that, as the elder, he should be given first shot at an office which might lead him to the White House.

As of today, Franklin has not responded in brotherly fashion. If he can get the New York gubernatorial nomination, he will take it.

Republicans are hoping that James runs in California, and Franklin in New York. If the two should thereby provide ballot-box evidence that they seek to perpetuate the "Roosevelt dynasty," the GOP believes it will capture both the Albany and Sacramento posts without any difficulty.

It is probable that the eventual answer to the brothers' dispute will be given by Eleanor Roosevelt. The belief is that she will urge Franklin to step aside for 1950, especially as James seems to have only a small chance of defeating Governor Earl Warren on the Pacific Coast.

STATEHOOD—The admission of Alaska and Hawaii to statehood may be delayed for a year or more as a result of the outbreak of unofficial war in Korea. High military experts have warned Congress and the White House that it might be unwise to change the form of government at this critical moment.

The federal government has more control over them in their present status. Moreover, the change-over would necessitate an interregnum period of confusion that would be dangerous at this particular moment. Both areas will be needed as headquarters and supply bases if the Korea crisis should be prolonged.

Several members of the House Un-American Activities Committee, however, favor immediate Hawaiian statehood as a result of their first-hand investigation of Communism on these key islands. They think that certain leftist officials in Oscar Chapman's Interior Department, which now rules Hawaii, should be stripped of their authority over Hawaiian affairs. They believe that conditions would improve if this strategic rampart were removed from Interior's jurisdiction.

In the last analysis, immediate action on statehood will depend on whether Congress believes these outposts can contribute more to national defense on the outside looking in or the inside looking out.

MINORITIES

One of the most perplexing problems confronting democratic government administration is what to do with minority groups. Totalitarian and communist governments solve the problem very easily. They simply kill off members of minority groups. Government motivated by Christian and democratic principles cannot do that. Democracy recognizes right of the individual and paramount equality of opportunity. In many respects the two ideas go along together, in many others they are diametrically opposed to each other.

EQUALITY

Fifty years ago Charles B. Aycock sounded a clarion call for popular education in his historic proclamation that "every child has the right to bourgeois out the best that is in him." Aycock meant what he said. He included every child, without regard to race, creed or native mental ability. Two years ago Charlie Johnson, unsuccessful candidate for governor, and Kerr Scott, the successful candidate, recommending bonds issues for rural roads took position that every resident of North Carolina is inherently entitled to a good road from home to market to church to community center. The Aycock-Johnson-Scott philosophy is sound democracy. But it runs afoul, in many instances, of the basic democratic principle of majority rule. That is because so many times providing of "equal opportunity" involves special privilege for a few people.

SCHOOLS

Conceivably that principle could be carried far enough, and there are incidents on the record to prove the effort, to require the state to maintain a school or route a bus at public expense to accommodate one or two pupils. Official report of the special education section filed with the state board of education at its latest meeting shows unusual and extra attention given to backward pupils. Whether their backwardness was due to physical or mental handicaps, fact remains some individuals were accorded special privilege at public expense.

ROADS

Almost every meeting of the state highway commission has requests to add road mileage to the state supported system, because somebody who bought isolated land cheap because it was isolated, demands that the state give him a public road. The law says he is entitled to a road, but use of general tax money to build it is definitely special privilege.

BALANCE

The law says school buses shall pick up children who otherwise would have to walk more than a mile. That is for rural pupils. Those living within limits of incorporated cities or towns have to walk or pay their own bus fare, even though more than a mile from the school. Implied in the law, though not so specifically stated, is obligation of the state to provide a good road from home to market-school-church. The state board of education and the highway commission honestly try to comply with these provisions. Result is that minority groups get special consideration.

LOWERED

Further fact is that this special consideration is all for the low side. The isolated land owner gets special attention for a road, while the city resident is penalized for his desire to have better than average streets. The state board of education has allotted teachers to help bring retarded pupils—physical and mental—up to average, but nothing has been done to further the cause of the extra bright pupil who might well go ahead of his class. He (or she) not only is held back to the average, but in some instances is actually held back to level of the under-average for whom special provision has been made. In other words, it seems that in application democratic equal opportunities are designed to lower, rather than raise, the average level of citizenship. If absolute equality were being sought there would be much attention to the above average as to below average. For some reason the equalitarians do not recognize the significance of that fact. Course of events is directed toward below mediocrity rather than toward above mediocrity.

EXAMPLE

The state board of education last year allotted and the state paid salaries of twenty-five teachers in the special education division. Local units employed and paid salaries for twenty-nine other teachers. That's a total of fifty-four teachers for special service to mentally or physically retarded pupils. Neither the state nor the local units employed a single teacher to accelerate the specially bright or forward pupils. The report shows that more than 2,000 backward pupils were given special assistance. There is no record that any forward pupil was given extra encouragement. Does equality mean only helping the backward to come up to average, and not helping the specially brilliant to develop capacity for leadership? In view of the desperate need for real leadership now that is an important question. The same question may be stated another way: Is the bottom minority entitled to more consideration than the top minority? And still another phrasing of the same question: Is it better to attempt to hold the average to the low level or to raise it to the high level?

NATIONAL

Something of the same issue is involved in United Nations consideration of small countries, and relations among the races in this country. Does equality of opportunity mean that each Negro must have as good facilities as the best afforded to the most favored white people? Is every pupil of a rural school entitled at state expense to the same facilities cities and special tax districts pay extra taxes to provide for their children? And does the smallest nation in UN membership have greater rights than average just because it is small? There are so many evangelists carrying the torch for minority groups, there is danger the whole fabric of democracy, based upon majority rule, greatest good for most people, will be strained to breaking point. It is basic in Christian philosophy that minorities should not be imposed upon nor oppressed. It is equally basic in democratic philosophy that minorities should not override majority will.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

TOO LITTLE, TOO LATE?

(Kinston Free Press)
 The situation in Greenville, where by a two-third vote the Board of Aldermen has overriden Mayor W. S. Stafford's veto of a previous action depositing Police Chief Lester Page, is one in which the interest of the irate public apparently came too weakly and too late to change the efforts of those who seek to obstruct justice in the Pitt County seat.

The people were not unaware of the situation as far back as the last election, but apathy on the part of some voters caused those who now seek to oust a public servant for a hand-picked man of their own choosing, led to the present situation—at least in some measure.

It all began when Chief Page declined to yield to pressure and reduce or drop drunken driving charges against a prominent Greenville man. The case eventually found its way to the Superior Court docket last January and has been there ever since. There is no assurance at present it will even reach the calendar at the August term, but the people of Greenville who are interested in justice and good government should use their influence to see that it is tried as soon as possible.

Another angle of the situation not clear from the news accounts and which The Free Press learned from its own investigation, seems to involve a politician who seeks the post of chief and whose influence is being brought to bear to obtain for him the position. The present acting chief, it appears, is an interim officer who eventually would be deposited for the other man, if the six men who ousted Chief Page are to have their way.

There is hope that the man who changed his vote this week to vote with those ousting Page—Alderman James S. Jenkins—may not go along with the ultimate plan. In that case the people may have a chance to delay a further miscarriage of justice. Mayor Stafford certainly can be counted on to stand for the people's rights and for justice, but he has the right to expect full support from the citizens of Greenville.

Only one of the six aldermen voting against Page comes up for election next spring, along with Mayor Stafford. The people will have a chance to name another choice at that time, two years may be required to clear up the situation in the public interest.

Suffice it to say that current agitated interest of the people came too little and too late, but all those who are concerned about justice and good government in Pitt County and elsewhere will share the hope that the people will not be caught off guard again.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING LEADS

(Hertford County Herald)
 Of course we have always maintained that newspaper advertising is the best advertising possible, but it's comforting to see our claim backed up by facts and figures.

According to Printers' Ink, a publication devoted to the printing industry, the advertising bill of the nation last year amounted to $5,202,000,000. And a breakdown of the figures showed, as one might suspect, that the newspapers had the largest single share of the total investment, $1,749,800,000, or about one third. The total for radio was estimated at $617,100,000, and that for magazines, of all kinds, at $512,700,000.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

An old ratio may be changing. Americans have long spent a hundredth — and that's only a guess — for coal oil electric heat, woollens, weatherproofing and other means of getting comfortably warm than they have spent for getting comfortably cool.

There's a good reason for the old ratio. Assuming that 72 degrees is the most comfortable temperature, a drop of 45 degrees might mean death to the unprotected body while a rise of 45 degrees would bring misery but not fatality.

We are now spending more for comfort on the higher end of the thermometer. Not much, proportionately. If expenditures for coolness were formerly 1 per cent of the expenditures for warmth, they may now be 1.5 or even 2 per cent. But not much more.

In the last three decades there has been a great rise in spending for cooler clothing in summer. Huge businesses have been built up by the increase in sales of light-weight clothing for men and women, for play and sports clothing, and for new fabrics with which to make them.

During the same period, there has been a great rise in the sale of air conditioners for public places and the sale of electric fans for both public places and homes.

And now, with a continuing rise in popularity of cooler summer clothing, we are also experiencing a rise in the sale of air conditioners for homes and offices. Part of its sampling, people experiencing air conditioning in theaters and buildings want the same comfort at home. And part is the great increase in personal income, enabling more people to spend more than the price of a television set for room-size and apartment-size air conditioners.

Summer has got only a few hot weeks in, yet already sales this year are phenomenal. A total of 150,000 units are being produced this year compared with 95,500 last year. A few weeks of unusually hot weather could make them almost impossible to get.

Several manufacturers report they are unable to fill orders. Many scheduled production only through June 16 and their warehouses are empty.

Significantly, dealers say air conditioners are about the only electrical device a customer can't get a discount on.

FREE-TRIP PROMOTION COSTS RAILS, TRUCKERS

An increasing number of auto dealers are offering free plane trips, together with hotel accommodations, for buyers who want to pick up their cars at the factory.

Freight on a car from Detroit to San Francisco or New Orleans runs around $250. Customers pay the "delivered" price and the dealer, instead of paying for delivery, pays plane and hotel costs.

So the promotion doesn't cost the dealer anything. But it does cost the railroads and over-the-road truckers, who lose the business of transporting the car.

OTHERS WILL DEMAND ANTI HOT-PLATE LAW

Apartment and restaurant interests will soon beseege city officials all over the country asking them to enact duplicates of the Miami Beach Hot Plate Law.

The Miami Beach Council, at the request of the Miami Beach Apartment Association, has enacted an ordinance prohibiting the use of hot plates and other cooking devices in bedroom or living room apartments of less than 400 square feet; under penalty of $500 fine and 60 days in duration.

It will reduce fire hazards and tend to force the renting of larger suites or of eating in restaurants.

GETTING U.S. CONTRACTS TAUGHT AT SEMINAR

Speaking of copy-cats, here's something else that should be imitated:

The small business management seminar at the University of Chicago July 24 to 28 will include advice on how to get government contracts, given by officers of the Munitions Board and the Army Procurement Office.

The seminar will also include discussions of other business problems. The lectures on government contracts could be a useful fillip to all college, Y.M.C.A. and other courses for business men, especially these days.

Hal Boyle's Column

New York (AP)—The guy who wears a badge that looks like the other side of a buffalo nickel is going overseas again—ready to fight for America.

He's done it before, he's ready now, and he'll do it anytime he's called on.

Who is he? He's the guy with the Indianhead patch on his shoulder—the GI Joees who have worn this emblem of the Second Infantry Division proudly and with great combat success in two world wars.

It's a famous division. Everyone in the Army knows it—and knows its record. It has been alerted at its Fort Lewis, Wash., base to get ready to go to the Far East.

And this news today must send a thrill of warm memory through tens of thousands of Americans of two generations. Some who served with the Second Infantry at the Argonne in 1918 had sons who served with it from the hedgerows of Normandy to the River Elbe in 1944 and 1945.

I don't know who posed for the profile Indian view of their emblem—Sitting Bull, Crazy Horse, Geronimo, or a tired old buck from a dreary reservation in Upper New York State.

But this I know about the Second Infantry Division from a long acquaintance—a year in wartime equals a lifetime of peace, and just a bit more—and that is this:

The wearers of the Indianhead patch are an emergency outfit. Like their shoulder-to-shoulder comrades in Europe, the equally famous "Fighting First" Infantry Division, they are an old line Regular Army outfit. On their performance depends the professional reputation of the professional American Army.

They are used to delivering in emergencies. They have a pride of arms, a tradition of performance in battle, a morale in being, that measure our military strength as a nation.

It is true that they may be sent to the Pacific area as occupation troops in Japan to replace the 24th Infantry Division units summoned already to Korea. That would be temporary or permanent, as the needs of the situation develop. But I am sure that General MacArthur will be less lonely to have them under his command.

For the tradition that this unit has is what top commanders like to rely on—when the cards are down, the die is cast.

They want to have under them a division that has proved itself before in battle. Wouldn't you, if you were going to boss a big fight?

Only 82 of the present 15,000 men in the division marched with it through France and Germany. But they are a hard sold core of trained men to pass on to the youngsters the Second Division's tradition of standing firm in time of trouble.

If they do meet the test again, I can imagine a veteran sergeant telling a boy swept by his first fear of death:

"You think it's tough now, kid? Just about five years and eight months ago we were parked near the German-Belgium border. We looked out on a snowy December day and damned if it didn't seem like they were throwing the whole Nazi army against us.

"We were on the northern shoulder helping protect Liege, our big supply dump. And if they'd got through us the war would have gone on some longer. They hit us with every damned thing they could think of—tanks, and artillery and infantry and even spies wearing our uniforms and riding in captured American jeeps. You couldn't even tell a buddy from an enemy—for sure.

"But we held them. They didn't get through. It went on for 72 straight hours, day and night. The old man—Major Gen. Walter M. Robertson, he's retired now—called up the cooks and the truck drivers.

Hell, we knocked out German tanks by setting fire to gasoline cans and dropping 'em on them from command headquarters.

"But, damn it, we didn't let them through. They didn't get by."

The main thing now about the Indianhead Division is—I don't believe even the U.S. marines will find anything to object about its battle ability if the fortunes of war should ever decree that they fight, side by side.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Victoria Geaney, Uncle Sam's official housekeeper and hostess to visiting foreign dignitaries, has had her hands full since November, when the government took over Prospect House, Prospect House, in Georgetown, the home of the late Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal, was taken completely furnished to the government by Mrs. Forrestal to be used as a guest house—Historic Blair House, a stables throw from the White House, had been used since 1942 for that purpose but President Truman and his family are residing at Blair House while the White House undergoes repairs.

State dinners have been held at a downtown hotel and a number of big receptions have been held at Anderson House, spacious mansion on Massachusetts Avenue owned by the Society of the Cincinnati. Mrs. Truman has given small teas at Blair House, and the family has entertained small dinner parties, but most of the real entertaining has been done at Prospect House, Mrs. Geaney officiating.

"We put up the shah of Iran, the prime minister of Pakistan and the president of Chile," she told me. "We've had dinners and teas and receptions—about 100 parties in all so far. We've gotten along fine, but Blair House is still home to me. (Mrs. Geaney lived at Blair House many years before being taken over "bag and baggage" to run Prospect House.)

"Mrs. Truman let me have some of the Lowestoft china, the Belgian crystal and old English and American silver. She's a fine woman, with her feet right on the ground, but you can't clean people out. Besides we had a lot of fine things to start with at Prospect House." Helping Mrs. Geaney is Jane, the Irish cook she had working for her at Blair House. She makes all the cakes, pies, canapes and even the ice cream dished up to diplomats and such at Prospect House parties. When they need extra help they get it.

Mrs. Geaney and Jane were in the midst of preparations for a big garden party when I called. Accustomed to hostingess, Mrs. Geaney wasn't a bit flustered. She said garden parties are easier to get than anything else. Mrs. Geaney said from 80 to 1,000 people could be entertained on the terraced lawns overlooking the Potomac.

Many Enlisting In Armed Forces

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS
A rush of applicants for military service hit New York City recruiting offices today.

Army and Air Force authorities said the number seeking to enlist was the greatest since World War II. Similar upswings in recruiting were reported in other cities across the nation—presumably the result of the war in Korea. Resumption of the draft also was cited as a cause of the trend.

In Atlanta, the number seeking to join the Navy was reported up 100 per cent.

"We have all the recruits this office can handle at this time," a Navy spokesman there said.

Boston also reported an increase in volunteers, adding that the rise started before the Korean crisis and stepped up after the draft was invoked.

In Kansas City, Marine Corps

enlistments were reported tripled in the last 10 days, although Army and Air Force volunteers were said to be normal.

A Navy spokesman in Los Angeles said: "We're swamped. We had 30 enlistment a week a month ago. Now we have 30 a day."

A flood of inquiries was reported at recruiting offices in Dallas and Chicago, but actual enlistments were described as normal. A normal flow of applicants also was reported in New Orleans and Baltimore.

Many of the inquiries came from reservists seeking a return to active duty, armed forces spokesman said.

Pomeroy Waves and Wacs were among the groups that lined up at recruiting offices. In Pittsburgh, recruitment of women was "about doubled" with 75 currently in the process of joining the services.

Late-Comers To Jamboree Given Special Tours

Philadelphia, July 10—(AP)—The Boy Scouts' "lost battalion," a troop from Los Angeles that didn't arrive for the National Jamboree at Valley Forge until the day it closed, was making its first time here today. Because the 33 members of the Rainbow troop didn't get to see the places of interest toured by others of the 47,000 Scouts, the internal order of police arranged a special expedition to historic shrines for them today.

The troop left Los Angeles in plenty of time to attend the Valley Forge encampment, but their special bus broke down in Arizona. They had several other bus breakdowns enroute across the continent and arrived last Thursday, nearly a week after the encampment began.

Long-Term U. S. Treaty Rights In Japan Indicated

New York, July 10—(AP)—The New York Times said today the American government will ask Japan to grant this country long-term rights to hold military bases and move troops within the empire.

These special privileges would be part of a quick peace settlement that might be a temporary arrangement pending a final peace treaty, the article said.

The Times said events in Korea had reinforced American leaders who wanted such rights—including Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson. It also is believed to have swung over others who were not convinced before.

The Korean war has apparently inclined Premier Shigeru Yoshida of Japan in the same direction, the Times said.

Evacuate Before Threat Of Flood

Crete, Neb., July 10—(AP)—Floodwaters that already have claimed the lives of five Nebraskans and caused damage likely to run into the millions charged down the Big Blue River today forcing wholesale evacuations.

Amphibious craft which plied through flood waters at York yesterday evacuating people trapped by a flash flood born of a torrential 13-inch downpour, were shifted to Crete today where most of the north part of town was under four to six feet of water.

About 300 persons were in the flooded area but not all of them were evacuated at once.

Evacuations by the amphibious ducks and rowboats manned by Crete volunteer firemen began about 3:30 a.m., when a hastily built dam on the west edge of the town gave way and sent the Big Blue waters pouring into the city.

Water was running over the Crete Mills dam 95 inches deep, 14 inches over the previous all-time record set in 1949. The stage was 25.9 feet, 10 feet above flood stage, but apparently was near the crest.

Robins Top New Bern By 2-1 Score; Battle To 2-2 Tie In Second Game

Seventh Inning Rally Earns Victory In First Game Of Twin Bill; Sunday Curfew Halts Finale After All Tied Up

By BERT MOYE
The Greenville Robins rallied for two runs in the top of the seventh frame to top the first game of a doubleheader, 2-1, at New Bern yesterday afternoon and New Bern came back with a tying marker in the bottom of the ninth to deadlock the second game, 2-2, which was halted after nine innings because of the Sunday curfew.

The Robins won the opener when Vince Lautato scored on Manager Randy Heflin's single, after reaching third on a walk, attempted pick off play and Mat Hall's sacrifice.

Manager Randy Heflin registered his eleventh win of the season and his third against the Bears, as he held them to four lone singles, which were scattered among as many players.

The Robins were able to garner only six hits off the offerings of two Bear hurlers, which included a triple by Paul Strausser and a double by John Bakits.

Buster Matthews, who pitched the first five and one-third innings, was charged with the loss and it was his second loss this season to the Robins.

In the second game the Robins went out front with a two run spurge on three singles and an error and held the lead until the bottom of the ninth when the Bears pushed across a singleton to knot the count at 2-2, after scoring one run in the sixth frame.

The contest marked the third time this season that the Robins have played to a deadlock tie and as a result of this contest will have to be played over as a doubleheader at the next meeting of the two clubs.

Vince Jones went the route for the Robins in the second game and gave up six hits. Ed Christoff with a triple and a single and Tink Cornwell with two singles paced the Bears' attack.

Bo Stevens went the distance for the Bears and gave up five hits with Mat Hall getting two singles in four trips to the plate to lead the locals.

The Robins will meet the New Bern Bears in a single game at Guy Smith Stadium here tonight at 7:45 o'clock.

Macclesfield Captures 1-0 Win Over Farmville

Long Pitching Duel Climaxed By Ninth-Inning Run For Visitors; Win Puts Macclesfield At Top Of Bright Belt Loop

Farmville, July 10—A ninth-inning single by firstbaseman Felton gave Macclesfield a hard-fought 1-0 decision over Farmville yesterday in the nightcap of a split doubleheader played in Macclesfield.

Playing to a scoreless stalemate through the top of the ninth, Farmville pitcher Junior Yohn walked Stuart, Macclesfield secondbaseman, and he scored two outs later on Felton's blooper to short center.

The Saturday game was rained out and will be played here tomorrow night. The win by Macclesfield moved them out in front in the Bright Belt loop race by an extra game over the former half-game lead it had had for over a week.

The Sunday afternoon feature was a pitchers' duel down to the wire. Yohn was nicked for but five hits, all singles and well scattered, while Feb Bissette gave up only four safeties, three of them by catcher Buck Hardee.

Hardee was taken out of the game in the ninth because of an unexplained heart disturbance. Bonnie Allen, club owner, reported, though, Hardee will be ready to catch in tomorrow night's game.

Expects Foe For Ezzard Charles Within A Week

Pittsburgh, July 1—(AP)—James Mintz, the excitable co-manager of heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles, says he expects Charles' next opponent will be chosen within a week.

That statement caused plenty of argument. Buffalo promoter Charley Pinto insists Charles is going to defend his title against Freddie Beshore of Harrisburg, Pa., in Buffalo during the third week of August.

But Mintz denies anything is set for a Beshore match, which already has been postponed twice when Charles came up with injuries.

Informing that Pinto says "Mintz is bound by contract and we expect him to live up to it," Charles' manager sputtered and declared: "I've got some sort of a contract to fight Beshore but there's nothing in it that says Beshore has to be our next opponent. The International Boxing Club in New York has the first claim to Charles' services. Al Well of the IBC will have a lot to say who Charles fights and when."

In New York, Well said the IBC has been trying to line up a fight for Charles in August. He named Les Savold as the most logical opponent.

Wimbledon Still American Sweep

Wimbledon, Eng., July 10—(AP)—The United States' supremacy in the post-war all-England lawn tennis championships continues unchecked for a fifth straight year.

When the two-week tournament ended at dusk Saturday, Americans owned the men's and women's singles crowns; Women's doubles, and a half share in the mixed doubles.

Uncle Sam's forces have been stopped just once in the men's singles—in 1946—twice in the men's doubles and once in the mixed doubles.

Only one mixed doubles title has been a pure American triumph, since in the other three Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., had either Australian or South African partner.

It is generally considered that Tiberio Mitri is likely to give Jake LaMotte a more trying evening when they meet for the world middleweight championship than the night he expected had met his original opponent, Rocky Graziano. In his lone appearance in this country, Mitri easily outboxed a fair light-heavyweight, Frank Wagner, and left the impression that he knew his way around the ring.

Pennant Talk Again Revived For Boston

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
The word "pennant" is back in the vocabulary of the good folks up Boston way today. They're not referring to the Red Sox. But to Billy Southworth's Braves.

Billy the Kid's third place warriors are only two games out of first place. They have won 170 of their last 25 games, for roaring 6.8 clip. Less than a month ago—June 14th to be exact—the Braves trailed the pack by six and one half games.

The Braves inched to within two games of the pace-setting Philadelphia Phils yesterday as Bickford turned in a brilliant 3-2 13-inning victory over the New York Giants.

Bickford limited the Giants to eight hits and only three walks and won out on some daring base running by Sam Jethroe.

Jethroe opened the last of the 13th against Sal Maglie with a double and stole third, his third steal of the game and 24th of the season. One out later Maglie intentionally walked Earl Torgerson. Sid Gordon followed with a grounder to Maglie who bluffing Jethroe back to third and then attempted an in-

American League Favored To Win Again Tomorrow

Chicago, July 10—(AP)—The American League today ruled a strong 8-5 favorite to continue its dominance over the victory-starved National in tomorrow's 17th renewal of baseball's All-Star game.

The fact that Vic Raschi, veteran pitcher of the New York Yankees will open up for the American Leaguers against inexperienced Phil in Roberts of the Philadelphia Phils has no bearing on the one-sided odds.

The Americans probably would be favorites to win simply because they have made a career out of knocking the tar out of their inter-league rivals in the mid-season and World Series classics.

Ever since the mighty "Babe" Ruth blasted his two-run homer to give it a 4-2 victory in the first All-Star game 17 years ago the American League has had the upper hand and now leads 12 games to 4. The National's last triumph came in 1944.

Despite the big edge by one league the game continues to maintain a stout hold on the public. A capacity Coney Island crowd of 49,000 will watch the teams the game was inaugurated in 1933. Requests for more than 200,000 tickets were received.

Each team will use at least three hurlers. No pitcher is allowed to work more than three innings. Manager Burt Shotton of the Nationals is expected to follow Roberts (10-3) with his own Preacher Roe (10-4) and the New York Giants' Larry Jansen (9-5). Roe, the bellwether of the Brooklyn staff, is the only southpaw.

Casey Stengel, the American League's leader, may send in Yankee Tommy Byrne (9-3) in the middle three innings and close with Chicago's Ray Scarborough (8-8). Raschi, who has not allowed a run in six innings of All-Star pitching, has won 10 of 16 decisions during the regular season.

If the other pitchers are needed they will come from among Warren Spahn, Boston and Don Newcombe, Brooklyn, of the National and Alie Reynolds, New York; Bob Feller, Cleveland and Ted Gray, Detroit, of the American. The rest—Bob Rusk, Cubs; Ewell Blackwell, Cincinnati; Jim Konstanty, Phils; Bob Lemon, Cleveland and Art Houtteman, Detroit, were used yesterday.

Marines Again Sailing To Battle; But Undermanned

Atlantic City, July 10—(AP)—Eight years ago almost to the day, a large force of U. S. Marines put out into the Pacific—combat bound. The first division of Marines was on its way to Guadalcanal to stem the southward drive of the Japanese. The division went into action Aug. 7, 1942.

Today, the first division is combat bound again—on its way to help stem the southward drive of Communist forces in Korea.

Satisfied Over Results Of Drive

Commander S. J. Waters of the Charles Gray Morgan Post No. 7032, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, released a report on the high school band uniform fund at the monthly supper meeting of the post Thursday night, July 6th.

Noting the fact that other fund raising activities in the city which had been carried over into the first part of May had greatly reduced the time available to make solicitation for the uniform fund before the May 20th deadline set by the post, Commander Waters stated that he was highly pleased with the results obtained, although they were not as good as had been anticipated.

A total of $385 was raised by direct contributions to the fund, with an additional $32.50 being raised through the sale of tickets to Marie's School of Dance Annual Revue which was held on May 26th and 27th, under the sponsorship of the post, making a total available for the purchase and maintenance of uniforms and equipment for the Greenville high school band of $417.50.

Commander Waters explained that the profits from the dance revue were less than was the case customarily for two reasons. One item was the rental of the auditorium, which in previous years had been donated; the other and largest item was the cost of printing the programs. Instead of selling advertising in the program and deducting the cost of printing from this revenue the post had solicited contributions to the uniform fund and paid the cost of printing the programs from the money raised through the sale of tickets to the dance revue.

Commander Waters expressed his warm appreciation to the following members of the committee handling the dance revue for their fine work: Sherman Parks, Aubrey Taylor, Ralph Sullivan, Larry Averette, Earl Alder, Walter Lewis, Carlton Joyner, Beverly Joyner, Jack Wallace and the members of the Ladies Auxiliary, and stated that the fund was still open for the reception of further contributions should anyone who was missed during the solicitation period desire to make a contribution at this time, either direct to Ralph C. Tucker, treasurer, care Guaranty Bank and Trust Co., or to any member of the V.F.W.

General Douglas MacArthur is no stranger to the first division. It was assigned to MacArthur in 1943 and under his command took Cape Gloucester on New Britain to clear the way for the Army's sweep around the Eastern shore of New Guinea. The Cape action was considered a classic of World War II.

Korea in the rainy season presents the kind of country over which Marines are accustomed to fight. Like other American kids, the Marines will gripe about the mud, the rain, the food. But they'll squirm through the mud and up and down the hills. The first division has its own tradition as well as that of the Marine Corps to push it on.

If Korea is the pot in which World War III is being brewed, the Marines will be disappointed. They like to say they fired the first and last shots of any war involving America. But they'll take their places alongside the Army in Korea without a grumble.

The Marines have been ready for combat ever since they put up their rifles on Okinawa in 1945. General Clifton B. Cates, Marine commandant, always said "we're ready to move at midnight or at any time."

How many more Marines will be shipped to Korea is up to the defense department. The Marines still have their second division, a force about the same size as the first, located at New River, N. C.

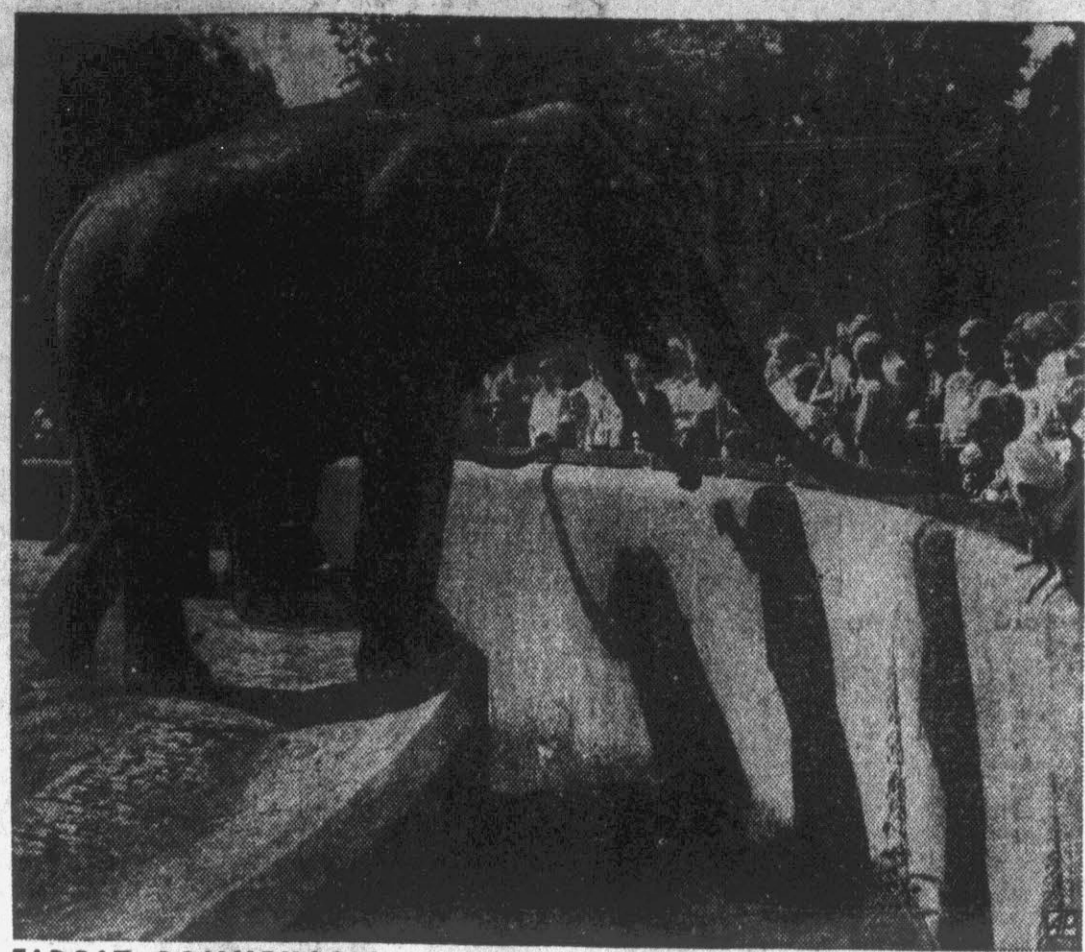

If the Marines follow the same manpower employed in World War II, they will build their divisions to full strength overseas. The Marines developed six full divisions during the war in the Pacific, using New Zealand and the Hawaiian Islands as primary training bases.

Receives Honor For 75 Years At Bible School

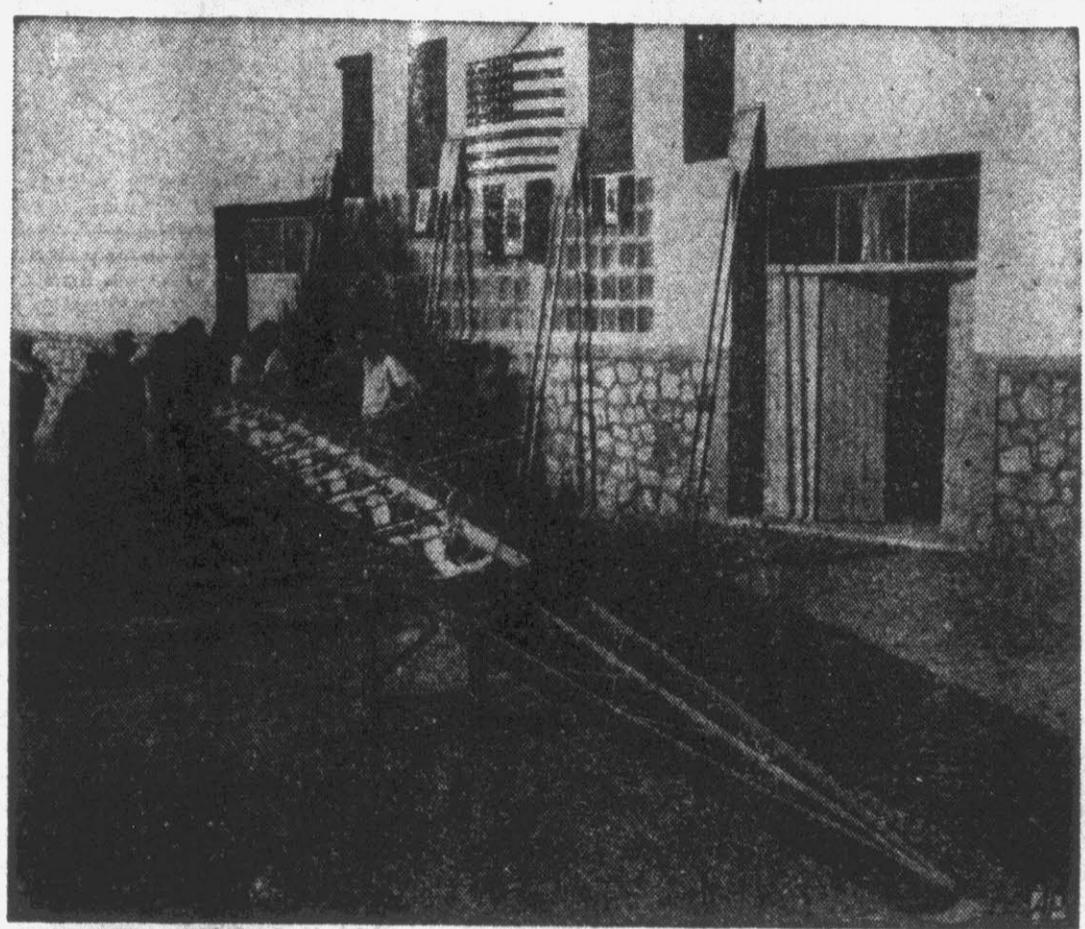

Philadelphia, July 10—(AP)—For 3,900 straight Sundays, year after year through three quarters of a century, Jennie Powers went to Bible school at the Westide Presbyterian church in Germantown.

This record of devotion, which friends believe is unsurpassed anywhere, won National recognition yesterday when the slender, gray-haired spinster, now 78, received a gold medal from the Sunday school and congratulations from a host of well-wishes headed by President Truman.

At a special service honoring Miss Powers, church officials read letters from the President, vice-President Barkley, Pennsylvania's Governor James H. Duff, several members of Congress and dignitaries of the Presbyterian church.

The Dogs Helped

Detroit, July 10—(AP)—It wasn't entirely love of animals that made Herman E. Taylor, 26, take his landlady's two dogs for nighttime strolls.

Taylor, police Sgt. Phillip Caplis said, admitted having had the animals along when he burglarized a home of a camera, projector, women's clothing and other equipment.

"People never suspect a kindly fellow who gets up at night to take his dogs for a walk," Caplis reported Taylor as explaining.

Cotton Acreage Drastically Cut

Washington, July 10—(AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that 19,032,000 acres of cotton were in cultivation on July 1. This was 31.3 per cent smaller than a year ago.

No forecast of production was given. But if the yield to the acre equals the 1939-48 average of about 250 pounds, production would be about 9,506,000 bales of 500 pounds weight. Production last year was 16,127,000 bales, the fourth largest of record.

The year's crop is being produced under a rigid production control and marketing quota program designed to hold production to not

Nathan Newbold Resigns Position

Raleigh, N. C., July 10.—(AP)—The first and only director of the State Department of Public Instruction's Negro division has retired.

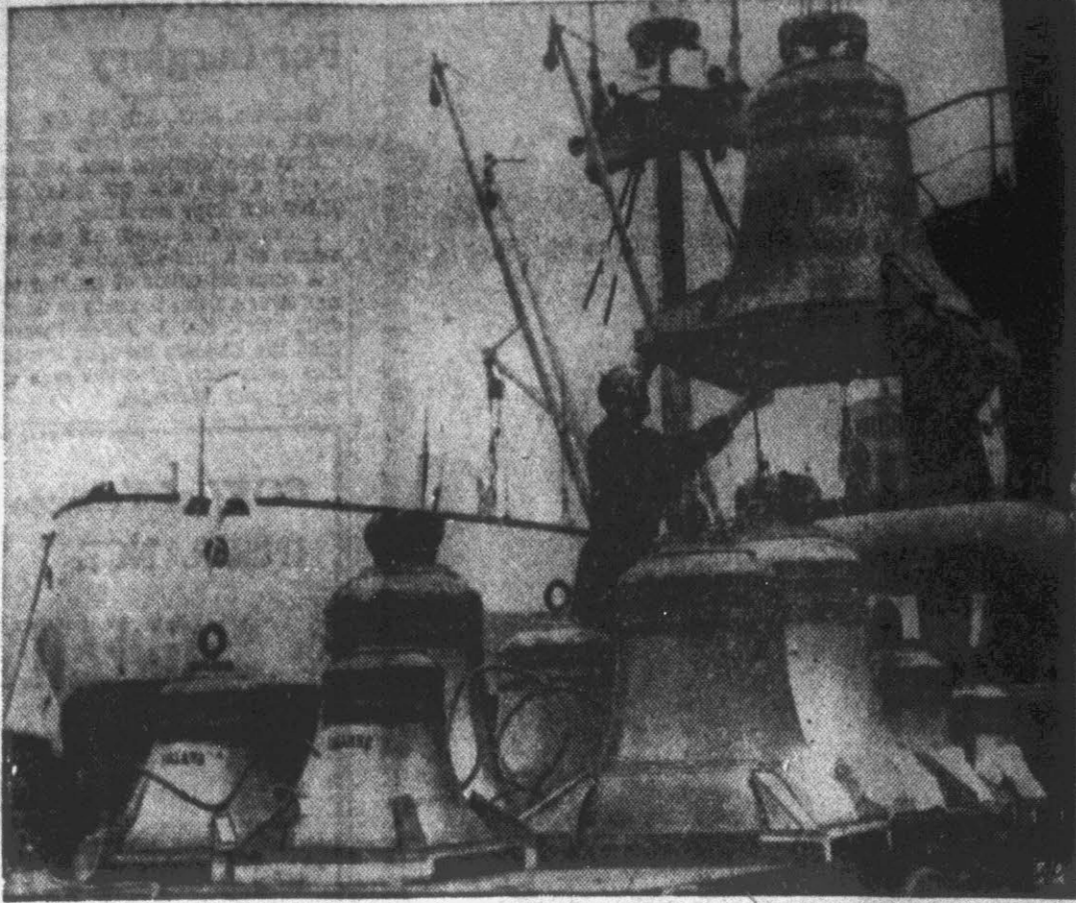

Dr. Nathan C. Newbold, now in his 70s, took over the position when it was created in 1913. His resignation was effective July 1.

Newbold submitted his state schools superintendent Clyde A. Erwin shortly before Erwin left for Europe last week. The resignation was not made public.

No decision as to a successor to Dr. Newbold will be made until Erwin returns from Switzerland later this month from an educational conference.

Under Dr. Newbold's 37-year tenure, the Negro public education program has become recognized as probably the outstanding state program in the south. Authorities have said that teaching standards among Negroes comes closer to meeting that of the whites in this state than any other.

Dr. H. L. Trigg, president of St. Augustine college and the only Negro member of the state board of education, declared that Dr. Newbold had done "the greatest job in the world of educating a minority group."

IT'S DEATH, MY DARLING!

By Amelia Reynolds Long AP Newfeatures

Chapter 16

"Peter," Bobby asked a little later when we were alone, "why didn't you want me to tell the sheriff about seeing Uncle Raoul with the sword last night?"

"I didn't know myself precisely why, so I invented a reason."

"Well, for one thing," I said, "we can't be absolutely sure it was the sword he was carrying when we saw him. We only saw the moon-light glint for a second on something metallic. It might have been a cane with a gold or silver head. Besides, Beau had already said that Uncle Raoul had probably taken it."

"That appeared to satisfy her, but only for a minute. Then she found something else to worry about."

"You don't suppose," she began apprehensively, "that after we saw him go down the drive he never came back again?"

"Bobby Brennon!" I exclaimed. "You've got more weird imagination than a Hollywood director! Of course he came back again. He probably got up early and went for a walk, just as Uncle Bountiful suggested."

Lewis Hays came in from the gallery in time to overhear my last remark.

"What's the matter?" he inquired. "Is Mr. Raoul lost?"

"Lost, strayed, or stolen," I replied. "Probably only strayed."

He smiled briefly.

"By the way," he observed, "I thought I saw the sheriff leaving a little while ago. No—er—unpleasant complications about the inquest, I hope?"

"He came to ask about some things he found in Claude's pockets," Bobby explained, "and to get Colonel Dumont's sword for the inquest. Only the sword's gone along with Uncle Raoul."

He looked momentarily startled at that. Then his expression cleared.

"Oh, you mean the sword's missing, too?" he asked. "Well, I imagine both it and Mr. Raoul will turn up sooner or later." Then he went on to the dining room to get his breakfast.

But mid-morning came, and Uncle Raoul failed to come with it. Lee was now definitely worried, and around half past ten, he and the other men started out to look for him. They didn't say that was what they were going to do, but they didn't deceive anybody unless it was Aunt Delphine, who had mislaid her false teeth again and was too busy looking for them to pay any attention to what anybody else did.

I wandered out into the garden, where presently I came upon Pick.

"What's wrong, Pick?" I asked. She tried to smile, but somehow it didn't come off just right.

"It's Lewis. He accused me of going down stairs that night to meet Claude."

"He—what?" I exclaimed incredulously. "How utterly absurd!"

She looked away.

"But that's the worst of it," she admitted. "I—I did."

I could only stare. Was Pick the nicest one of the Dumonts—with a certain exception of course—going to let me down like that?

"Oh, it wasn't for that reason," she hurried on, again seeming to read my mind. "I merely went down to try to persuade Claude to—"

Suddenly she seemed to change the subject. "Peter," she asked, with apparent irrelevance, "did you ever wonder why Dede and Henri never play card games of any kind?"

"Why, no," I admitted, wondering what in the world that had to do with it. "I thought it was simply that they don't care for cards."

"Well, it isn't," she said. Her voice had grown tight and bitter now. "I can tell you this because I know Dede would tell you himself if you asked him. He and Henri have never permitted themselves to learn a card game because—because gambling is in the Dumont blood. But Lee and Beau didn't have so much foresight—or so much will power."

"Pick," I asked, "who was that third man?"

"Once more she seemed to grasp my meaning."

"It was father," she admitted. "I'm going to tell you everything, Peter," she went on after the barest of hesitations. "You've probably guessed most of it anyway; and besides, I've got to talk to someone."

Lee and Beau had been playing poker with Claude every night since they got here. Generally Beau is fairly lucky at cards, although Lee hardly ever is; but this time they both lost—heavily. Then when their losses had reached fifteen thousand dollars, Claude refused to play any more, and demanded settlement.

"Fifteen thousand dollars!" I repeated in awe. It sounded like something from Monte Carlo.

Pick nodded.

"Beau says they hadn't realized it was so much until Claude showed them the figures," she continued.

"They asked him to give them an opportunity to recover some of their losses, but he refused. Then they—they had to admit that they were unable to pay."

So that, or part of it, had been what Bobby and I had overheard, and Beau and I had overheard, the matter up with your father?" I asked.

Pilot Is A Fast Man On Ground

An American Air Base in Japan, July 10—(AP)—Lt. Donald J. Ferns of Cincinnati, is a fast man on the ground, too.

Ferns bailed out of his burning B-28 bomber over Korea last week. He hit the ground running—south—and didn't stop until exhaustion overtook him in a rice paddy 10 miles away.

When he got his breath he said he ran more—faster, he swore than the great Scandinavian Miller Gunder Haegg could do the mile.

Finally a friendly Korean helped him find his way to the nearest American headquarters.

Ferns got to Taejon well ahead of his two crewmen—Sgt. William L. Lowery of Rock Hill, S. C., and Cpl. Raymond F. Roethler of New Hampton, Iowa—who had bailed out before him.

Back in Japan Ferns and his crew were, and flying two days later.

Tax Program Is NAM's Target

Washington, July 10—(AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) spoke out today against the House-passed bill to cut excise taxes, saying no tax bill at all would be better than that one.

In testimony prepared for the Senate Finance committee, the organization listed several objections to the house measure, which would reduce the so-called luxury taxes by $1,010,000,000.

The NAM's main criticism was leveled at a provision intended to help make up the revenue loss to the government, by boosting taxes on large corporations.

Charles R. Sligh, Jr., head of the NAM's taxation committee, called that provision "progressive taxation" and said it would "destroy the business structure which is the basis of our prosperity and National strength."

Sligh added: "Earl Mark, the faith of Communism, proposed heavy graduated income taxes as an effective way to Communize an advanced capitalist economy."

Egypt Declines

Cairo, Egypt, July 10—(AP)—Informed sources said today Egypt has decided not to vote for United Nations recognition of Red China. Her ballot in the Security Council might have been decisive.
