

Growing Demand For More Speed In Sending Arms

Rate Of Delivery To European Allies Discussed; Mobilization Urged

Washington, July 13 (AP)—Strong sentiment is developing within the Administration to speed up the flow of American arms to Western Europe as a result of the Korean crisis.

Some officials are talking of sharply increasing, perhaps doubling, the present rate of delivery of $1,000,000,000 worth of guns, tanks and other equipment now being given to this country's Atlantic Pact allies.

Behind the scenes discussions of the state of North Atlantic treaty defenses reflect a widespread concern over the total defensive strength of the non-Communist world.

The tense world situation is generating new pressures inside the government for some degree of home front mobilization in order to increase armament production.

Another and more direct pressure for marshalling more of America's resources for war is said to arise from the mounting evidence that the United States is in for a long and costly struggle in Korea.

So far there is a conflict of requirements between the urgent buildup of forces fighting in Korea and the European arms aid program as presently scheduled.

Without a swift and substantial increase of arms manufacturing here, some authorities say weapons may have to be "borrowed" for the Far East. They deplore this necessity because in both military and diplomatic strategy, Europe, rather than Asia, is rated as the primary focus of American security interests.

One move to speed up joint European and American defense arrangements is already planned. Charles M. Spafford, Secretary of State Acheson's deputy on the North Atlantic treaty council, is slated to leave here for London shortly after his expected confirmation by the Senate in a few days.

He will meet with deputies of other Atlantic foreign ministers to organize the council in London on a permanent basis. The problem of meeting defense preparations probably will be one of the first questions taken up by the group.

Johnson Imposes Armed Forces' Security Rules

Washington, July 13 (AP) Secretary of Defense Johnson today ordered the Army, Navy and Air Force to clamp down on news about the movement of troops, ships and supplies to the Korean war front.

Johnson sent secretaries of the three services a "security guidance" memorandum laying down the rules to be followed in the release of information. He also included the restrictions imposed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur for the Far East command.

These regulations apply only to the release of information by military sources. "This is commonly referred to as censorship at the source. There is no legal restriction upon disseminating and publishing news obtained by direct news reporting from whatever source."

A series of safety films was expected to be endorsed, and the establishment of county civil safety groups was up for consideration.

Where Will This End?

With The March Of Events, The People Are Becoming Grim; Will We Go On A War Footing? After Korea, Will We Again Drop Preparedness, Or See It Out?

By MRS MARLOW

Washington, July 13—We are walking down a road that gets grimmer every day. As we go, the mood of the people gets grimmer.

The support of President Truman's decision to act at last with force against Communism—if only in Korea—was a clear indication of how the people felt.

They had watched Communism spread, flex its muscles, double countries and begin to bleed the world.

Few Americans must have had any doubts over the past few years that Communism, unless stopped, would try to gobble us, too.

Until this country stepped into Korea, we had listened to the mounting warnings about Russia.

But until Korea, our actions were limited to preparations of a kind—and to talk of preparations against what Russia might do.

And as we talked and prepared—in a kind of way—we knew that time was on the side of the Russians, that in a few more years they'd be enormous, better prepared than now, and better supplied with atom bombs.

And then suddenly things began to happen, things which opened up the underlying feeling of the masses

Assumes Duties

JOHN E. (JACK) WHICHARD

Jack Whichard, son of Publisher and Mrs. D. J. Whichard, Jr., has taken over his duties as an active member of The Reflector staff.

He has been a member of the staff for the past three years. On June 7 he graduated from the University of North Carolina with a degree in journalism.

While at Chapel Hill he was a member of the band for two years, a member of the swimming team for four years, a member of the Monogram club, a member of the "13" club, a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and took part in other campus activities.

During his college years he devoted part of his vacation time to the paper and therefore is not entirely unfamiliar with his work. For the time being he will devote most of his time to the advertising and business departments of the organization.

Washington, July 13 (AP)—A strike of 400 CIO American Newspaper Guildsmen against the New York World-Telegram and Sun entered its second month today with no indications of a settlement.

Guild members, editorial and business workers, struck the afternoon daily June 13 for increased wages and other contract changes.

AFL Mechanical Union members refused to cross Guild picket lines. Numerous mediation sessions have been held. The next session is scheduled for Monday.

Last years peanut production was set at 243,000,000 pounds averaging 1,030 pounds an acre.

The figures were released yesterday by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service on the basis of July 1 conditions.

Wheat acreage expected to be harvested was estimated at 423,000 compared with 445,000 acres last year. A yield of 15 bushels per acre is anticipated, two bushels above last years average.

Wilson reported that the schedule of 1950 loan rates, by grades, has been established by the OCC after consultation with representative growers, PMA committeemen and the trade, in a meeting at Richmond on July 3. The schedule will be available for inspection in all county and state PMA offices in the flue-cured area after Saturday.

The chairman stated that, as in the past, price support will be made available during the marketing season to "eligible" growers on "eligible" tobacco on auction floors throughout the flue-cured area.

"An eligible" grower, Wilson pointed out, "is one who is cooperating in the 1950 acre allotment marketing quota program for flue-cured tobacco."

"Eligible" tobacco is flue-cured tobacco of the 1950 crop which is (1) covered by a "within quota" marketing quota card issued by the county PMA committee, (2) is in sound and merchantable condition, (3) is delivered by the original grower to an auction market in the flue-cured area for display, inspection and sale, and (4) is free and clear of any and all liens and encumbrances.

Wilson added that after all tobacco of this years crop pledged to the OCC has been marketed, any net gains will be distributed by the cooperative to the growers who placed the tobacco under loan.

Washington, July 13 (AP)—U. S. Communists have increased their underground operations during the past year, FBI director J. Edgar Hoover said today. The result, he said, is the heaviest work load his agency ever has handled.

In an annual review of FBI activities for the fiscal year which ended June 30, Hoover said the number of investigations involving internal security and National defense is at a record level, exceeding the volume of similar work during the World War II years.

The increased work load, the report said, stems from the activities of the Communist party and the expanded orbit of their underground operations.

"Increased security consciousness on the part of the party leadership has brought about decentralization of party administrative machinery and transfer of previously open operations to an underground apparatus."

"These developments have complicated the FBI task of maintaining the coverage of Communist activity." The FBI director recently asked Congress for more than 300 additional agents, saying they were required principally for internal security investigations.

Hoover said that in line with previous years, $2.9 per cent of all trials growing out of FBI inquiries resulted in convictions.

Office Space Is Given For Draft

Aldermen Vote To Give Selective Service Board Office Space In City Hall; Vote To Take Property Into City Limits

Members of the Greenville board of aldermen in a called meeting this morning granted the federal government space for offices of the Pitt county draft board which is to be reactivated, and took half a block of property into the city limits.

The special meeting of the group was called by Mayor W. S. Stafford for the discussion of the two topics. Stafford advised the aldermen of the request from the government for office space for the draft board, and told the aldermen there are two offices vacant on the third floor of the city hall at the present time.

The board voted to grant the use of the office space to the draft board free of charge. They set no definite time limit on the grant.

After brief discussion a petition from a group of citizens who live adjacent to the Hillside section of the city, the board voted to take into the city limits one-half block of property. The property is on Dunn street, and the other half of the block already is in the corporate limits of the city.

Immediately following the meeting of the board, Mayor Stafford called a meeting of the police committee in the Mayor's office.

During the board meeting of the aldermen this morning Alderman James S. Jenkins suggested to the Mayor and the police committee that they contact the special agent in charge of the FBI school in Charlotte for a list of graduates of the school who may be qualified for the position of chief of police for the Greenville force.

The Police Committee of the Greenville Board of Aldermen was in a closed-door session for approximately two hours today while they discussed the matter of the dismissal last Thursday of Chief of Police L. D. Page.

A member of the committee said no action was taken in the meeting.

Mayor W. S. Stafford called the meeting of the five-man committee immediately following a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen this morning.

After the committee meeting adjourned at 1:15 this afternoon the mayor said there was nothing new he could give for publication on the Page matter at the moment. He said the matter was discussed in the Police Committee meeting. In answer to a direct question, Stafford said he did not know whether a statement was forthcoming from the six members of the board of aldermen who voted to override his veto of the appointment of H. E. Wooten as chief of police.

In the meeting of the police committee in addition to Mayor Stafford were Aldermen J. E. Waldrop, E. E. Rogers, W. M. Pollard and James S. Jenkins.

Economy Control Seen By Senator

Maybank Says Gov't May Be Soon Forced To Act

Washington, July 13 (AP)—Senator Maybank (D-SC) said today if the world situation is "as black as it's being painted," the government may be forced soon to slap drastic controls on the civilian economy.

Maybank is chairman of the Senate banking committee, which would have the job of studying at least part of any control legislation which President Truman might ask.

Some well-placed officials have reported growing pressure on the administration to seek at least limited controls on industry to help arm the country for the fighting in Korea.

Maybank emphasized that he has had no hints from the White House that any request for controls is imminent.

"I know as everybody else does that the National security resources board is working on a master plan," Maybank said, "but I don't know any of the details whether there is any intention of trying to put it into effect at this time."

"I do know that we are facing a pretty grim situation and it may force us to take some pretty drastic steps at home."

Maybank added that there should be no hesitation about putting controls into effect at the first indication that Russia was taking any active part in the Korean conflict or in any other area involving the United States.

Washington, July 13 (AP)—Tar Heel farmers are expected to harvest 253,000 acres of peanuts and 6,345,000 bushels of wheat this year.

This compares with 336,000 acres of peanuts threshed last year and tops last years wheat production by 560,000 bushels.

The figures were released yesterday by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service on the basis of July 1 conditions.

Washington, July 13 (AP)—A big military plane crashed and exploded into a mass of flames in the rugged Galuro Mountains of Southern Arizona early today.

Six hours after the crash, a search plane reported sighting wreckage and three survivors. Parachutes were spread on a ridge.

Davis-Monthan Air Force base here said the type of military plane had not been established. B-29 superfortresses and the more modern B-50s operate out of the base regularly. Both four-engine types carry a normal crew of 11.

Vacation-Bound Passengers Hurt

Special Train Sidelined; Forty Injured

Paynesville, Minn., July 13 (AP)—A Soo Line special train carrying 225 eastern vacationists to Canada sidetracked a freight train here today, injuring approximately 40 persons.

Preliminary examination indicated only five or six were injured seriously. All were treated aboard the train or in doctors' offices here. Arrangements were made to take the passengers to Minneapolis later in the day.

The 15-Pullman train had left Minneapolis at 1:30 a.m. It carried Ohio and Atlantic Seaboard hard-wear men and their wives, who were bound for Banff, Canada, enroute to the National Retail Hardware Association's convention in Seattle.

C. S. Pope, Soo Line vice-president, said an eastbound freight train was backing into a siding near Paynesville to clear the single track line when the vacation special arrived about 3 a.m. About four feet of the freight locomotive had failed to clear the main line.

A flagman signalled the passenger train and Engineer John Jaros of Minneapolis set the brakes but could not stop in time. His train slid about a quarter of a mile and ripped along the side of the freight.

The passenger was traveling about 45 miles an hour at the time of impact.

Both locomotives were derailed.

The sharpest advances were for the more popular cuts of pork. A survey of chain store prices for center-cut pork chops showed increases ranging from two to 12 cents a pound, with extremes of as much as 20 cents, over last weekend.

Beef also advanced irregularly, but the biggest jump reported by the same big chain was eight cents a pound.

Washington, July 13 (AP)—The state's tobacco marketing specialist was slated to tour eastern tobacco-growing counties today on a crop-damage survey.

W. P. Hedrick of the State Department of Agriculture said he was making the trip to determine if there is a need for emergency relief loans to help farmers through until they harvest their next crops.

Damage to tobacco in the rain-flooded eastern lowlands was estimated as high as 15 per cent in some areas.

Indications are that the most severe damage was suffered in Washington, Jones, Beaufort, Edgecombe, Carteret and Lenoir Counties.

More rain is expected on top of the steady drizzling for the last week.

Rail Center Plastered With 500 Tons Of Bombs In Mightiest Blow Of War; MacArthur Says Americans Daily Reducing Enemy's Advantage In Men And Weapons

Nearly 50 B-29 Superfortresses smashed at North Korean targets today, opening mass precision bombing against the Communists. At the same time Gen. MacArthur announced that daily the Americans "reduce the enemy's relative superiority in numbers and weapons."

MacArthur said the heroic holding action of American forces down the Korean peninsula had provided time for the swift movement of reinforcements. Exhausted Americans are spread out in a thin line along the Kum River, last major barrier before Taejon, facing massed Communist forces on the north bank, and an ominous hull settled over the main battlefield area.

Mrs. Bettie Clark Hostess To W.C.T.U.

Mrs. Bettie Clark, mother of the local W. C. T. U., was hostess to the union for its meeting last week. In spite of her 91 years, Mrs. Clark is a well, active woman. She is mentally alert and still possesses an interest in civic affairs. The members are always glad to meet with her in the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. W. Hodnett.

Mrs. Lee H. Moore gave a timely devotional, which was followed by a most inspiring talk by Rev. Ralph Johnson, who selected as his topic for discussion the Ten Commandments. Mr. Johnson said the Ten Commandments were not only the law given by God to the Hebrew children, but that the Ten Commandments form a background for our present law. Christ's commandments to love God and to love your neighbor covers the teachings of the Ten Commandments, Mr. Johnson said. He listed a number of ways in which the Ten Commandments are not observed today and as a result there is personal national and world conflict.

Radio Chairman Mrs. W. T. C. Briggs reported that splendid W. C. T. U. broadcasts are being made each Sunday at 8:30 a. m. She wishes to thank the fine people who are giving these talks.

After the business meeting the president, Mrs. Helene Higgs Kirkpatrick, challenged the members to an active participation in the union and as a parting thought she very beautifully recited the following: For when the One Great Scorer comes

To write against your name,
He writes—Not that you won or lost,
But how you played the game.

Fifty Students Of Elementary Grade Education At Dinner

Students of elementary grade education attending the East Carolina Teachers College summer session held a dinner meeting at the Greenville Woman's Club Tuesday evening. Approximately 50 teachers now enrolled at the college for summer work were present to enjoy the occasion, which was arranged by those in the class taught by Dr. Mildred Babcock, visiting professor at East Carolina and regular staff member at Appalachian State Teachers College.

Those present represented a group of eighty elementary grade teachers who are taking work at the college at present, and who teach during the regular school year in 45 different schools in 18 counties of the state.

Mrs. Vance Perkins of Greenville was chairman of the committee which planned the dinner and was presiding officer at the meeting. Dr. Babcock was guest speaker of the evening. Her talk dealt with the need of understanding children by both teachers and parents and the need for teachers to be well informed and to have a wide background of knowledge and experience. Included among special guests at the dinner were several teachers at the campus Training School who have contributed to the work in elementary education being offered at the college this summer. These were Misses Anne Redwine, Christine Johnson, Eunice McGee, Louise Galphin, Mrs. Elsie Eagan and Principal Frances Wahl. Other guests were Dr. Allan S. Hurlburt, Miss Dora E. Coates and Mrs. Herma Stancil, of the faculty of the department of education.

Male Chorus To Present Radio Program Sunday

On Sunday afternoon at 2:30 a male chorus of approximately 40 voices under the direction of Rev. D. A. Windham will present a program over radio station WGTO.

The chorus will be comprised of men from Pitt, Wilson, Edgecombe and Greene counties. Windham said the members of the chorus have been selected on the basis of their voices alone, and come from various church organizations in the four counties irrespective of denomination.

The songs on the program will be primarily for old people and shut-ins. Windham said, and will consist of the familiar hymns of the church. The choral arrangements will be in five part harmony with the exception of one selection which will be in seven part harmony. In the seven part arrangement the transposed alto and contralto parts were arranged by Rev. Windham.

The director said any local male singers who wish to participate in the program may do so by coming to the radio station before the program begins Sunday afternoon. Any old person or shut-in who wishes to hear a particular number on the program, Windham said, may request the number by calling the radio station between 2 o'clock and 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

Girl Trains For Channel Attempt

Dover, Eng., July 13—(AP)—Shirley May France slipped into the English Channel today for her first big workout of the season.

The 17-year-old Somerset, Mass., high school girl had fine weather and a calm sea for her 18-mile training swim. She is here to train for another try at swimming the channel from France to England—19 miles as the crow flies—sometime next month.

She tried and failed last September.

"Today's will be quite a good swim, considering she hasn't had much training," her coach, Harry Boudakian, said before Shirley, lightly greased, plunged into the sea from a rowboat about four miles off the Dover cliffs.

Boudakian manned a rowboat while Capt. John Burwell, Dover pilot and channel swim expert, and Shirley's manager, Ted Wornor, chugged along in a motorboat.

Shirley planned to leave the water at Ramsgate, a resort town down the coast, after swimming part of the time with the tide and part against it.

She will not eat enroute.

Agree To Abide By Rules Of War In Korea Fight

Tokyo, July 13—(AP)—The Pyongyang radio said tonight the North Korean government has agreed to observe the Geneva convention regarding treatment of prisoners of war.

Battlefield reports have said 18 captive American soldiers were bound and shot to death by the invading Communists.

Foreign Minister Pak Hong Yong, the radio said, sent a message to United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie agreeing to comply with Lie's request to treat prisoners humanely.

General MacArthur, U.S. and U.N. commander for the Korean war, several days ago promised that allied troops would observe the Geneva convention.

Lions Board To Meet At President's Home

Assorted Group Russian Naval Craft Near Korea

By ELTON C. FAY
Washington, July 13—(AP)—Russia is believed to have an assorted collection of about 800 naval craft deployed near the Korean war area— including between 70 and 80 submarines.

Naval sources here figure that perhaps a third of this school of submarines are the new XXI snorkels.

Although the 800 total estimate is numerically big, there is no present evidence that it comprises anything like a balanced naval force. Those studying the situation believe many of these vessels are small craft of various types and that certainly nothing bigger than cruisers are in the area.

So far as can be determined, the Russian navy still possesses no aircraft carriers.

One unknown factor seems to be how many of the smaller Soviet vessels may be landing craft or types that could be used in emergency for an amphibious operation.

The presence in the Far East of any sizeable number of landing craft could be of grave concern to American forces. They could be lifted for North Korean landing operations down the South Korean coast lines. Or they might some day be used in a stampeded operation against the American defense bastion in Japan, should Russia and the United States fall into gloves-off war.

However, it is the Russian submarine force that is drawing most U.S. attention.

As deployed, the Red sub fleet in the Far East seems to have as its main job the potential duty of cutting the Asiatic-Indonesian life-line along which the United States would send help in event of general war in the Orient.

An almost equally important mission is to carry on reconnaissance of American and British naval ship, transport ship and air movement in the Western Pacific and the inland seas bordering Eastern Asia.

If there have been any sightings of suspicious actions by Russian submarines in those waters, the Pentagon has kept it secret.

The Red navy apparently is basing its Far East submarine fleet at a number of ports, rather than a few major ports in the Soviet-controlled areas.

The United States has indicated plainly it is thinking seriously about the submarine menace in the Western Pacific. Within the last few days the carrier Bataan left for that area. The Bataan had been converted from a strictly combat carrier to a specialized type for launching submarine-hunting planes.

Judge Is Touring Durham Schools

Durham, N. C., July 13—(AP)—Federal Judge Johnson J. Hayes toured Durham's city schools today, seeking further information about the school discrimination case on which he will rule.

The case was instituted over a year ago by Negroes who argued that white children had better school facilities than Negro children.

Ten days have been taken in testimony and argument. Concluding arguments were to be presented by attorneys this afternoon.

Bethel's Rotary Club Holds Its Annual Election

The Bethel Rotary Club held its annual election of officers Tuesday night during the regular weekly meeting.

Incoming president is Dr. C. G. Garretton who replaces W. R. Huntcutt. Vice-president for the coming year is Rev. Nick Grant and secretary-treasurer is Kelly Aheyounis. Rev. Grant and Aheyounis succeed Z. V. Bunting and Harold Staton respectively.

The installation of officers was done by Sherwood L. Roberson, Robersonville, past district governor of Rotary clubs. Roberson admonished the new officers on their duties as a part of his speech to the club.

Reorganizing . . .

In this third alternative we of course have the highly controversial idea of reorganizing the U.N. so as to exclude the Reds and confine it to the democracies. As this column has pointed out before, that would be recognition of the fact that, to all intents and purposes, we already are divided into two worlds—democracy and communism. The ideal of one world is a long, long way off.

Having taken this drastic step we should, I judge, continue to block the advance of communism through aggression by defending victims like Southern Korea with military force. Would that be feasible? Yes, costly but feasible, because the democracies—if they stand together—have the balance of power economically and militarily.

Having adopted this course we "trust to time for this evil to abate." And what is the significance of that?

Well, for one thing, it is well known that many of the Red satellites are being kept in line by force. There are indications that they would welcome a chance to escape and resume their independence.

In short, I take it the idea is that if the Communist bloc is isolated it is likely in due course to wither on the vine. There are many students of the situation who hold that belief.

Ready And Able

Washington, July 13—(AP)—One laconic Air Force reserve officer, wasting few words, responded to the plea for reservists to return to active duty with this wire to the Pentagon: "Willing, dependable and expendable. Say where and when."

Russian Dressing Is 'MacArthur Sauce'

REGARDING CHURCH MEMBERSHIP Do you belong to the church or does the church belong to you?

There is a possessive type of person in the world who attempts to lay hold on the church and own it. Such a person often tries to get the best offices, the best pews, and either directly or indirectly tries to control almost everything going on in the church.

Agency Prevented Depositor Losses

The people of eastern North Carolina have seen in the past two days an example of the benefits which the people of an individual community receive from the federal deposit insurance system for banks.

Had it not been for the system and the close contact between the government agency and the banks, chances are many people of the Aurora and the Bayboro communities would have lost a good deal of money with the closing of the Bank of Aurora.

Through the workings of the federal deposit insurance corporation, the people's loss was avoided. The Guaranty Bank and Trust company of Greenville was requested to take over the operation of the Aurora and Bayboro banks which it did.

Back in the '30's there was no deposit insurance program and thousands of people in communities such as Aurora and Bayboro throughout the nation lost all or a large part of what they had through bank failures.

The people of the nation are indeed fortunate in having such a deposit insurance system which will protect their savings from bank failures. The eastern part of North Carolina is fortunate in having a banking concern like the Guaranty Bank and Trust company which Chairman Harl of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation termed "one of the oldest and most stable banks in North Carolina."

Don't Write FEPC Off; It'll Be Back

The Fair Employment Practices Commission bill of the administration is dead—at least for this session of Congress.

The vote of the senators have thwarted another attempt by the administration to put unnecessary controls upon the private enterprises of the United States.

There is no getting around the fact that certain controls on business and industry are necessary for the protection of the public interest. The proposals of the FEPC, however, were too far fetched for the people of the nation to stomach. It was another case where the campaign promises of a group brought about attempted action which the people do not want.

On the other hand, we believe there are a great many people who would regret to see the extremely controversial issue dropped from national politics. If the legislation is passed, it will be ended once and for all. While it remains pending, however, the controversies over the issue will continue to rage, and the agitators who see the matter is not forgotten will continue to moan upon the public.

The Reflector is of the opinion that the FEPC legislation as it was presented to the which is in the best interest of the people of the United States.

The FEPC is dead for the time being as far as congress is concerned, but it hardly will be forgotten. Just as sure as another year rolls around FEPC proponents and agitators will be hot again for the measure which would be another great infringement upon the American way of business.

Talking About The Weather Doesn't Help

Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it.

To some folks that's a wise saying and to others it is trite. Nevertheless, Mother Nature has begun playing one of her tricks upon the tobacco farmers of the state.

Just a few weeks ago the farmers of this section were all smiles over the prospects for one of the best crops Pitt county has had in many seasons. The rains for the past week have brought frowns where the smiles once were and worries where formerly there were visions of what to do with the extra money from this year's crop.

It is almost too early to tell what the general effect of this rainy spell will be on Pitt's financial condition this fall. There is at least one consoling aspect in the rather gloomy outlook some people are taking at the present time: We have had bad crop years in Pitt county before, and we came back to raise crops the following year.

If this season is not as favorable as we had hoped, we always have next year to look forward to.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, July 13—Stalin himself is the actual and active promoter and director of the Communist plan for conquest of Southern Korea, the State Department's experts on Russian affairs believe.

Almost forgotten files on the dictator recalled to State's specialists that Stalin's first important post under Lenin, as early as October of 1917, was Chairman of the Commissariat of Nationalities. His assignment was to round up and attach to the Red chariot the non-Russian peoples in the Baltic, Balkan, Georgian, Ukrainian, and Far Eastern areas.

REVENGE—He was especially interested in China and adjacent territories. In fact, he was Chiang Kai-shek's biggest backer at Moscow when Chiang launched his own revolution. Stalin planned to use the generalissimo's Russian-trained forces to get revenge on Japan for the 1904 defeat by recovering Korea for the U.S.S.R.

Indeed, when Chiang repudiated the Communists in 1927, it was such a severe blow to the rising Stalin that his Trotskyite enemies tried to use the incident to drive him from power.

China and Korea are the payoff. Formosa's planned subjugation will give Stalin triple damages for the wounded reputation and prestige he suffered in 1927.

So, when Stalin and Vishinsky argue that the Korean outbreak is a home-grown product, they are lying. And President Truman knows it, although it suits our purpose for the moment to pretend to believe them. But the farce cannot be played out much longer.

TACTICS—Then, as now, Stalin was brutal and ruthless in the tactics he used to force these outlying provinces to become integral parts of the Soviet Union. He never hesitated to use propaganda, poison or actual war to make them bow to Moscow. He purged his own friends and relatives in his birthplace near Tiflis.

There was no pan-Russian or Communist sentiment in the Georgian and Ukrainian regions, which might have rebelled against Stalin in 1941, if the invading Germans, under Hitler's psychopathic orders, had not mistreated the population so murderously. They are still regarded as the Soviet republics most likely to rebel against him now.

PLAN—Even when he became General Secretary of the Party, and the big boss subsequently, Stalin never lost interest in the Soviet bureau which administers the areas on the periphery of his empire.

Never a believer in the Trotsky idea of spreading Communism throughout the world, he wants this territory now for selfish, nationalistic reasons. His ambition is to leave to his successor a Russia almost invulnerable to an attack by foreign foes.

"CARPETBAGGERS"—Ranking second only to the racial issue as a reason for Administration setbacks in southern primaries is the noisy invasion of historic Democratic states by the CIO's Political Action Committee, and its attempt to stir up class strife.

The "carpetbaggers," as they are tauntingly called by their enemies, are partially responsible for the Pepper and Graham defeats in Florida and North Carolina, respectively.

To make matters worse, the PAC's regional political representative, Tilford E. Dudley, an assistant director of Philip Murray's political organization, has the blessing of Democratic National Chairman William Boyle Jr. Mr. Dudley has been given authority to "screen" many appointees from the South where Senate confirmation is not required. He was partially responsible for several nominations which the Senate has rejected with hardly an objection from either side of the aisle.

"ADJUSTMENT"—Naturally, southerners in House and Senate are sore over this situation. Nor did it help regular White House Democrats when it became known that Mr. Dudley was once a member of two organizations listed by the Department of Justice as "subversive."

It begins to look as if the White House and Democratic National Headquarters were doing everything in their power to make possible that "adjustment" between Republicans and conservative Southern Democrats that Senator "Dick" Russell of Georgia has forecast.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Today's column is fourth-handed. The Rev. J. A. Nelson's wife (Wife Joy) read the column in a Newark, N. J. newspaper and clipped it for me. Mr. Nelson gave it to me, Billy Rose published it, and it was actually written by a woman named Charlotte Ferguson in Montreal. Don't skip this; it's worth reading.

"Dear Mr. Rose: Three weeks ago I was operated on for a leg infection and since then I've been taking it easy; a little too sick to leave the hospital and a little too well to keep from having the figgets. Consequently, I've been something of a busybody, wandering around rooms and corridors and passing the time of day with other patients. During my wheelchair travels I happened to come across a story you might like to use in your column.

"It has to do with a black neglee I got for Christmas a couple of years ago—one of those lovely bits of peek-a-boo that every woman adores. Unfortunately, however, I'm more the pajama type, and so ever since I got it, it's been packed away in a bureau drawer.

"When I was rushed to the hospital last month, my sister stuffed everything that looked like bed apparel into a valise and brought it around to my room, and sure enough, on top was the neglee. And sure enough again, it went right back into a bureau, this time it was a white one.

"Recently, however, I finally got to use the neglee, and the way it happened was like this. A few doors down the corridor from me there was a Mrs. Benoise who was suffering from a disease with a long Latin name that I can't even remember, but what it amounted to was a creeping paralysis which had started at her toes, working its way up to her abdomen and was steadily moving toward her heart. And as if that weren't enough trouble, shortly after the woman had checked into the hospital her husband had been badly hurt in an auto crash—he had driven his car head-on into a truck parked without lights.

"Last week when the paralysis got up to within inches of Mrs. Benoise's heart the doctors decided to let the couple see each other for what would probably be the last time. I was in Mrs. Benoise's room when they told her about the visit, but instead of peeping her up it seemed to make her more miserable than ever. When I asked her what was the matter, she said it was probably silly, but she knew she looked a sight and she hated for her husband to see her in hospital clothes with her hair and face not fixed.

"I had a talk with the nurse, and with the doctor's permission we brushed back her hair and put some make-up on her face, and for a final touch I got out my black lace neglee and slit it up the back so we could put it on her without having to move her around. And when she saw herself in the mirror she laughed happily for the first time in weeks.

"Of course, we all skeddaddled when her husband was wheeled in, his head bandaged and most of his body in a cast. A couple of hours later the doctor came and told me that Mrs. Benoise wanted to thank me for the use of the neglee. Well, she was so excited she could hardly talk. Her husband had complimented her on how lovely she looked and told her that as soon as he got out of the hospital he was going to buy her a dozen negligees like the one she was wearing. And just before he left he told her he would be back the next day, and asked her to wear the neglee again.

"He didn't get back, because that night Mrs. Benoise died, and everything considered, I suppose it was just as well. Yesterday when the doctor came in to see me, we got to talking about Mrs. Benoise.

"I'm glad I finally found some use for that silly neglee," I said. "At least Mr. Benoise will always remember how pretty his wife looked the last time he saw her."

"I hate to disappoint you," the doctor said, "but Mrs. Benoise couldn't see her. He lost his sight in that car smash-up, and before I brought him into his wife's room I carefully briefed him on her make-up and how she looked in your negligee.

"Anyhow, Mr. Rose, that's the way it happened and perhaps if you shuffle the facts around a bit it might make a story. Sincerely, Charlotte Ferguson. And I thank all four hands."

TAX-FREE—It would be an almost impossible task to determine actual value of all property located in North Carolina, real and personal, which is legally exempt from taxation. That would be more difficult than finding property subject to taxes but not listed at anything approaching true value, if on the tax books at all.

STATE-OWNED—It has been estimated the State of North Carolina itself has more than a billion dollars invested in such items as public highways and bridges; parks, game preserves, forests and farms; hospitals, educational and correctional institutions; buildings to house administrative agencies, and mechanical equipment to operate and maintain these facilities—including everything from sea-going ships and huge road-building machinery down through school buses and trucks to lead pencils and paper clips.

LOCAL—County and municipal governments have undetermined investments in courthouses, county homes and farms, city halls, school buildings; hospitals, libraries and similar service centers; streets, parks, playgrounds and recreation centers.

ELEEMOSYNARY—Then there are thousands of churches; non-government hospitals and educational institutions; fraternal organization halls and sponsored camps, parks and playgrounds; non-commercial cemeteries and similar facilities devoted to public use on non-profit basis and therefore not taxable. The fact that the ratio of tax-exempt to tax-paying property is growing by geometric progressions poses a very serious problem for those responsible for financing government services.

SERVICES—The problem is more acute for cities and towns, although it requires attention of federal, state and county administrative officials. Municipalities are hardest hit because of requirements for fire protection, garbage disposal, street maintenance and other services for tax-exempt property. State capital cities and county seats are affected more than other municipalities, although the problem is common to all. Take Raleigh for example.

EXAMPLE—One can stand on a corner of Capitol Square and see from fifteen to twenty million dollars worth of real estate in the heart of the fire district, all of it non-taxable. That includes, besides state-owned property, four churches, a YMCA and a library. Within a five-block radius from the Capitol are the postoffice, courthouse, city hall, municipal auditorium, county and city office buildings, eight or ten churches, and four entire city blocks devoted to public use. Within the corporate limits of Raleigh are State College, Meredith, Peace, St. Mary's, Shaw University, St. Agnes College, and State School for the Blind; Rex, Mary Elizabeth and St. Agnes hospitals as well as the state hospital at Dix Hill, and half a hundred churches. These institutions are all counted community assets, worth far more than they cost. Fact remains, that while many of them do much of their own policing, tax-paying property has to carry a good part of the load in such matters as fire protection, garbage disposal, water and sewer.

COMPARISON—The situation at Raleigh is not peculiar. It may be more pronounced, and it emphasizes the futility of attempting comparison of tax rates with communities which do not have "hide part of the" bill revenue in bills for municipally provided electric current. Besides these considerations there are several others entering into fair tax rate comparisons. They include insurance rates and policies respecting street construction and maintenance.

"IN LIEU"—Traditionally one governmental unit does not tax the property of another. Impact of concentrated tax-free holdings in limited areas has brought into practice payments "in lieu" of taxes. The federal government pays to state; county and city units some money in lieu of taxes on national forests and military reservations, and TVA (a federal government subsidiary) makes substantial payments in this category. Presumably, the Bug's Island and other "Little TVA" projects will eventually follow the same course. These payments do not fully compensate for lost revenue to local units, but they help tremendously. The practice is being extended in some states for relief of counties and cities in which large state holdings are located.

EXTENSION—A recent news release by the National Federation of Tax Administrators sets out that sixteen states are now making some payments to local units "in lieu" of taxes lost by reason of state ownership. In most instances these payments apply only to revenue producing property, direct or indirect. Some states pay on forest lands other than state parks. Some pay on college and hospitals where fees are charged. Others pay on nurseries and fish hatcheries from which sales are made to private purchasers, and on game preserves where hunting-fishing fees are collected in addition to regular licenses. Still others pay on farm lands from which produce is used instead of buying it on the open market. A few states return to local units a portion of profits on power plants, laundries and bakeries. Most states now levy ad valorem taxes on property owned by churches and eleemosynary institutions when the property is used for commercial purposes in competition with private industry. North Carolina joined that group about six years ago.

WASHINGTON (for Jane Eads) — How many statues are there in Washington? Nobody knows. Latest is the statue of Gen. Jose Artigas, father of Uruguayan independence. The 10-foot bronze likeness is located on a triangular bit of ground on Constitutional Avenue between the Pan American Union and State Department buildings. It was presented to the United States by Ambassador Alberto Dominguez-Campero, and accepted by Secretary of State Acheson with elaborate ceremonies. It is a handsome job that will rank among the best in town. And that's a compliment, because the capital is laded with statues. They even interfere with traffic. But exactly how many statues does Washington have? "That's a good question," said Thomas Corcoran of the Census Bureau, "but we can't answer it. In fact, with the 1950 census in full swing, I wish it hadn't been brought up..." It was like that with other government agencies. Statistics on everything from gnats to hydro-electric dams were readily available. But on statues, no.

The only thing approaching an answer came from the National Park Service. "The statue of General Artigas will give Washington its fifth memorial on public property," said Carol Johnson, after digging through musty files. That puts it in the same category as the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial and a wide assortment of urns, spheres, obelisks, benches, fountains, birds and an 88-acre island. The Park Service even has a pretty comprehensive list of the statues in the various memorials. It can show that 20 men are standing, eight are sitting and 16 are on horses. The horse motif is dying out these days. Standing jobs are more popular. That's what the Artigas statue is. Monuments range from the four-foot-high zero milestone, a bit of pink granite that marks the official starting point of all U.S. roads, to the 555-foot Washington Monument a couple of hundred yards away. The Park Service had some more worthwhile information—434 memorial trees are planted around town. Most of them were shipped in from some state, planted by Boy Scouts during appropriate ceremonies and are growing to ripe old age in the capital's parks. There's a Francis Scott Key tree, a Sam Houston tree, one honoring Gettysburg, and another commemorating the Women's Osteopathic Association.

The one truly certain thing about the Korean fighting is that taxes will go up.

The Korean struggle is costing billions. Adding 100,000 men to the armed services will cost between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000 a year just for pay, clothing, food and care. Added to that must be higher expenditures for transportation planes and weapons.

The government has already placed many orders for material and more will follow. It has reactivated three synthetic rubber plants and ordered 8,355 more jeeps. It will have to replenish stocks of weapons, uniforms, underwear and shoes as issued to draftees. The Atomic Energy Commission is seeking between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 additional for development of the hydrogen bomb.

That's only a beginning. The Korean outbreak has convinced both the government and the people that the effectiveness of our military establishment must be moved from recent levels to a far higher level. It must be prepared for similar trouble in Iran, Trieste, Germany, India, Turkey, the Philippines and elsewhere.

Money for this can come from borrowing or taxes. While we are far from the limit of borrowing, every "orange addition" carries with it the danger of further inflation. And borrowed money must be eventually paid back with tax money, so we have the alternative of higher taxes now or later—probably both.

The promised reduction in excise taxes now seems doubtful because of the need for more revenue. The only ray of hope is that the amount involved is so small in relation to total needs that it may be politic to let the cut go through and put a really big bite on something else—such as the taxpayer: if a higher level of incomes and profits.

There is one solid consolation to the taxpayer: if a higher level of military effectiveness will prevent World War III, it will be cheap. It'll be the biggest bargain in history.

VIDEO SELLING LOUNGING PAJAMAS

A few months ago the pajama industry was walling that men, on a mathematical average, bought only one-third of a pair of pajamas a year. Now the industry is enjoying a boom in certain areas. All of these areas are television areas. Seems some men like to lounge in pajamas while watching TV.

A New York men's shop is advertising pajamas for video viewing, adding, "Wear them for dinner, wear them on the porch."

Don't wear them to the office! Not this year!

SUPERMARKET ITEM: $1.495 BRITISH CAR

Supermarkets have stocked drugs and appliances before. Beginning today a Plainfield, N.J., supermarket offers a British automobile. Customers can pay the cashier $1.495, but it's not necessary to take the car through the check-out gate in a wheeled basket. Breaking a rule, the market will deliver it.

95 PERCENT OF FARMS SEEN ELECTRICIFIED THIS YEAR

Some idea of the size of the farm market for electrically-powered appliances and machines is given in the monthly bulletin of the Northern Trust Co. of Chicago. During 1949, it reports, 606,000 farms were connected with power lines, bringing the total to 4,955,000 farms, compared with 1,746,000 on December 31, 1939.

Now 85 per cent of the nation's farms have electricity; by the end of this year the total may be 95 per cent.

It has been estimated that there are more than 300 recognized uses of electricity on farms, the bulletin says. "Electricity saves time and labor, increases production, reduces crop losses and brings better living to the farm."

DALLAS, ATLANTA LEADING IN BOOM

The current sales boom is strongest in the Dallas and Atlanta Federal Reserve Districts, judging by FRB statistics on department store sales.

While sales in all districts were higher in June than a year ago, only in the Dallas and Atlanta districts were they higher during the first six months of the year. Dallas reports sales 6 per cent higher than in the first six months of 1949 and Atlanta, 4 per cent. Minneapolis and Kansas City districts were even with a year ago.

HIGHER PRICES SEEN IN GM-UAW TFE FACTS

While 65 per cent of the purchasing agents surveyed by Purchasing magazine said the General Motors-United Auto Workers five-year agreement sets a pattern for long-term stability in labor relations, an undercurrent of doubt ran through most answers.

A total of 54 per cent believe that such agreements will force prices above present levels; 58 per cent believe such agreements will aggravate employment and income conditions in an economic decline, and 72 per cent believe such agreements commit the nation permanently to a high-cost and high price policy.

Voice Of The People

To the Editor, the Citizens of the Fifth Ward and the City of Greenville:

I wish to state as briefly as possible my position and voting action relative to the selection of a police chief for the City of Greenville:

1. There were only two applications presented to the Board at our meeting held July 1st. I have never endorsed or committed my support to either Mr. Page or Mr. Wooten's candidacies. It has been my information that these men are representatives of opposing factions in the police department—factions which appear to extend to many of our citizens in the city. My choice was either to vote for Mr. Page or a member of the rival faction. I could not see how the City of Greenville could benefit by a change which would only switch the police control from one faction to another.

Therefore, I cast my vote for Mr. Page. I did not think at the time that the choice of either applicant was the best solution to the problem and so indicated to the Reflector reporter when he inquired as to how I voted. I would have preferred to vote for a qualified applicant who has not been identified with either faction in the police department.

2. On Thursday morning, July 6th, Mayor Stafford called a meeting of the police committee to see if we could work out some sort of agreement or recommendation which might be acceptable to the full Board which was meeting that same night. The records and qualifications of both applicants were discussed for two hours. It developed that Mr. Page was not acceptable to the majority of the members of the Board. Some of the majority group's more important reasons were presented to the committee. As I understand these reasons will be presented to the public shortly, I will not discuss them here.

I agreed to go along with a recommendation that Mr. Page's office be vacated provided the appointment of Mr. Wooten would be only temporary and to go outside the police department to secure a man for permanent chief who has not been identified with either of the rival factions. I preferred a man other than Mr. Wooten, as acting chief, but no member of the committee suggested any other member of the police department whom he felt had sufficient experience and would serve temporarily and as willingly step down as Mr. Wooten as soon as a permanent chief is selected. Therefore, I voted to approve the resolution which relieved Mr. Page of his job and appointed Mr. Wooten as acting chief to hold office until the police committee and the Board can find and employ a qualified chief to take over the job of restoring harmony to the police force and confidence on the whole board.

When this resolution was drawn up and approved by the police committee, Mayor Stafford stated that while he did not approve it, he would not veto the resolution when it would be presented to the Board that same night. I have no reason to question the good faith of the five majority members or to their intentions to approve for the job of permanent chief a qualified man, who has not been identified with either faction on the police force.

3. Thursday night, July 6th, after the vote was taken on the resolution and on two separate occasions I explained my position to the Board and citizens present at the meeting. I believe my position is sound. I know it is sincerely taken. James S. Jenkins jsj-edh

Resource-Use Education Workshop Starts July 18

East Carolina Teachers College will hold its third annual workshop in Resource-Use Education July 17-August 19 as part of the work offered during the second summer session. Co-directors of the workshop will be Dr. Harold C. Jones of the East Carolina department of science and Mrs. Mary Sue B. Foville, teacher of social studies in the Broughton High School of Raleigh. The natural, human, and social resources of North Carolina and means of using them to the best advantage of the people of the state will be the basis of all work carried on at the workshop. Elementary and secondary school teachers, principals, superintendents, and supervisors are expected to be among those who attend.

The workshop at East Carolina is one of several arranged for North Carolina during this summer under the sponsorship of the State Resource-Use Education Commission. Dr. Richard L. Weaver is program director for the state.

The East Carolina workshop will carry nine quarter hours credit on either the senior or graduate levels and will represent a full schedule for those enrolled. Meetings will be held daily from 9 to 12 each morning, and one afternoon session will be arranged each week for demonstrations, field trips, conferences, and recreational activities.

Among the offerings of the workshop will be a series of lectures, readings, and discussion groups on subjects related to the state's resources and their use. Topics will include Agricultural and Industrial Development, Conservation Principles and Practices, Health and Recreational Needs and Services, The Church as an Institutional Resource, and School and Community Resources.

Visiting consultants who have accepted invitations to appear on the workshop program include Dr. S. H. Hobbs, Jr., professor of sociology, University of North Carolina; Frances C. Query, executive secretary of the North Carolina Council of Churches, Durham; Dr. J. W. R. Norton, chief health officer, State of North Carolina; Donald B. Hayman, Institute of Government, Chapel Hill; Herbert W. Stevens, director of city planning in Raleigh; Sam Winchester, agricultural extension agent in Pitt County; Martin Swartz, superintendent of city utilities, Greenville; and J. H. W. drop, vice president of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Co., of Greenville. Campus advisors for the workshop include Dean Leo W. Jenkins, director of the summer session; Dr. A. S. Harburt, chairman of the department of education; and other members of the faculty.

Recordings, films, and other audio-visual aids will be used to add interest to discussions and lectures. Field trips to study resources on the campus, in Greenville, and in other localities in eastern North Carolina will be arranged as part of the program. In addition, a series of exhibits and displays of resource-use materials and demonstrations of successful resource-use educational programs used by teachers in eastern North Carolina will be presented to those enrolled.

The attendants had taken the weather forecast of "showers and thunderstorms" literally. Naturally—they thought the Pittsburgh district weather observers and their families would cancel their picnic.

Tass Says First American POWs In Red Capital

Moscow, July 13—(AP)—The Soviet news agency Tass reported today the first American war prisoners have arrived in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Other reports said North Korean troops wiped out an American infantry group south of Chochiwon near the Kuman River defenses. Four tanks and other war booty were reported captured along with American prisoners in fights in the southern Chunchun Province, these reports said.

The Tass dispatch quoted one prisoner, identified as a battalion commander of the 34th Division, as saying: "I now understand that the American imperialists must abandon the military intervention now intruding upon the freedom of the Korean people."

The message said the American officer had made his statement to press representatives in Pyongyang. Meanwhile, the Communist party newspaper Pravda bitterly condemned suggestions that the atom bomb be used in Korea. The newspaper called the proposals "a challenge to all humanity."

Pravda said this was "visible proof that the American imperialists who inherited from Hitler the 'theory' of total war intend to continue the criminal chain of monstrous atrocities committed by the fascists."

Those who first use the atom bomb, said Pravda, would be condemned by the whole world as war criminals.

No Appreciation For Spectacles

Milford, Conn., July 13—(AP)—The American Legion said today it isn't going to put on any more Fourth of July fireworks displays here unless the spectators show more appreciation than they did this year.

The Legion passed the hat among an estimated 5,000 persons at its display last week and this, it said is what it got.

Eighty-nine dollars in cash; 93 bus tokens, no good since bus fare went to a straight ten cents more than a year ago; assorted nuts and bolts, and four and a half pounds of pebbles.

TEEN TALK

(Dear Judy)

AP Newsfeatures

Many kids who have been unable to find summer jobs probably will want to get away at least for a week's vacation before summer comes to an end and school resumes.

If you are like most young people you probably have toyed with the idea of going to Europe. Well, if you planned to work to pay your expenses, don't try it. There just aren't any jobs. Unless you have a rich aunt or can stow away in a friend's B-29 for the trip across, it would be better to skip the whole idea.

Four or five girls could go on an inexpensive vacation, if one of them could borrow a car the rest of the girls share the cost of the gas. They would have to observe certain rules for their own safety, such as wisely selecting tourist cabins or hotels approved by recognized authorities, not driving after dark or picking up hitch-hikers.

A bicycle vacation is a wonderful idea and in a new book, "Bike-Ways," by Godfrey Frankel (Sterling Publishing Co.), advice is given on planning trips, clothing and routes. The history of the American Youth Hostels is reviewed, bike camping is discussed as well as tours and routes, organizing bike clubs, etc.

If you are not an experienced bicycle camper, it is best to stick close to civilization, advises this book. Don't go too deep into forests or mountainous territory unless you know what you are doing. If you decide to camp in state parks, you will have to get a permit, probably. You should make sure about this before you start out. If you wish to camp on property belonging either to a company or individual, you will have to get permission to do that also.

What you take along depends on the duration, distance, location and number of persons going on the trip. If you camp high in the mountains, you will need lots of blankets, a sleeping bag and warm clothes. If you camp near a lake, take along mosquito netting.

Standard equipment for camping listed by the book includes: sleeping bag (for cycling trip get one that weighs about six pounds—either kapok filled or lined with detachable layers of woolen material), blankets (if you do not have a sleeping bag), pup tent, scout knife, hunting knife with sheath for protection, small ax with covering over edge, cooking kit (consisting of frying pan, saucepan, tin cup, knife, fork and spoon), match box (waterproof), compass, canteen, first aid kit, flash-

Hudson, Nobles Lead At Bat In Boys' Baseball

With the first half of the Boys' Baseball League already past, Hudson of the Cardinals and Nobles of the Red Sox are tied for first place in the batting race with a healthy .326 average.

Hudson perhaps has the edge on Nobles since he has been to bat 28 times and got 20 hits, whereas Nobles has 10 hits in 19 trips. Still both averages are the same.

The Red Sox, led by Nobles, lead the other 11 teams in the four divisions in team batting with an average of .370, high in anybody's league. None of the Sox is batting below .214 which accounts for the strong team batting.

In the individual races, several boys have .500 averages but most of these have been made on less than ten trips to the plate, which doesn't figure in the leading averages.

McMullen Rules Launderettes To Pay License Fee

Under a recent ruling on the Revenue Act from the Attorney General, all launderettes that use any commercial equipment at all must pay full license fee if they are to stay in business.

Attorney General Harry McMullen stated in a directive to all local branches of the Department of Revenue that use of driers and blowers and any other equipment in launderettes that is not generally used in a private home must pay the full $7.50 yearly license fee in order to operate.

Prior to the ruling establishments using only "home" machines for washing clothes were exempt for two-thirds of the full tax. However, many of them have put in other equipment that made it necessary to change the ruling.

Thomas H. Herring, head of the local branch of the Revenue Department, said this morning all launderettes coming under such conditions must pay the full fee immediately.

Also, all laundries and dry cleaners that solicit business outside

Mrs. Ballinger is in Wilson for a week, at 717 Herring Avenue. She is engaged to make a tour of North Carolina and Virginia cities and towns and give lectures on her experiences abroad. Mrs. Ballinger also is writing short feature stories about Guam for some North Carolina newspapers.

H-Bomb Plant In N.C. 'Premature'

Washington, July 13—(AP)—Rumors that a proposed new hydrogen bomb plant will be located in western North Carolina or the Tennessee valley apparently are premature.

An informed source declared here last night that "any speculation about the site of a proposed new H-bomb plant is quite premature."

The source, who declared to be identified, was queried about the rumors.

"The matter has not reached the probable, is some time off," he said. He said the actual site selection likely would be made by a specific board and that prior to its consideration of a "narrowed down" list there would be no engineering surveys.

He also stated that he knew of no particular sites being pushed. Earlier this week Rep. Gore (D-Tenn.), a member of the House subcommittee handling atomic energy commission funds, reported that much of the $280,000,000 asked by President Truman last week for atomic work will go towards build-

IT'S DEATH, MY DOBBLING!

By Amelia Reynolds Long

Chapter 19
Amedes gave up.
"All right, Tom," he said, patting her hand reassuringly. "I'll keep the sword, if that's what you want."
"Do you think she knows anything, Dede?" I asked when we had left her.
"It's hard to tell," he answered. "Probably she merely found the sword somewhere, and invented the rest. Once she gets going on one of those sprees of imagination... But if we don't soon learn something about Uncle Raoul, I'll have another try at her."
We didn't learn anything about Uncle Raoul, either that day or that night. The following morning the men—with the exception of Lee, who complained of feeling ill, and Lewis Hays, of course, who was not a relative—went in to New Orleans to attend funeral services for Claude. Bobby and I had planned originally to leave the following day; but at Pick's entreaty, we agreed to stay on until Uncle Raoul had been found, or at least heard from.
"Your father's all right, Pick, I'm sure of it," I said although I wasn't. "Why didn't he leave a message, explaining what he was going to do?"
"Maybe he did leave a note," Bobby suggested with sudden inspiration, "and nobody found it. Anyway, we might try looking for one now."

Bobby" she agreed. "I guess we'll have to hold the fort alone tonight."
Lewis Hays, who had been reading at the far end of the room, looked up from his book.
"Would you like me to move into the house for tonight, Pick?" he inquired.
"That won't be necessary," she answered without so much as turning her head. "My brother Lee is here. Her tons seemed to add. And even flat on his back, he's still a better man than you are."
Lewis Hays flushed, and returned to his book; but not long after that, he rose and went out to the garconiere.
I don't know why we should all have felt it necessary that the house be looked more thoroughly than night than any other, but somehow we all did. But had we looked it out? I wasn't so sure. Rather, it seemed as though it had slipped in regardless of bolts and locks. But it wasn't until midnight that it struck.

Climbed Tree To Capture Black Bear Cub In Yard

By NELL WISE WECHTER
 Stampy Point, July 12.—A modern version of the "Frencher and the Bear" was acted in this little fishing village on the Dare County mainland today, except this was the Fisherman and the Bear instead of the preacher.

Two little nephews of Alton Best, well-known huntsman and fish dealer in North Carolina, were visiting their uncle today. As is usual with youngsters, they were soon spotted by their aunt out in the backyard under the pear tree enjoying a gustatorial treat of the ripe, juicy fruit.

Best's attention was suddenly attracted by the appearance of a black bear sitting in the pear tree also enjoying the pears. Immediately calling her husband, she spotted the youngsters away from the tree.

When Mr. Best arrived in his backyard, he tried to shake the bear out of the tree, but Bre's Bruin refused to shake. Therefore, Best climbed the tree and went out on the limb to the bear and tried to shove him out. The limb broke, and bear, Best, and limb landed on the ground together. However, he grabbed the 20 pound cub bear and got a firm hold on him.

By that time, quite a few of the populace had gathered to see the sight. Best later put a leash on the cub, took him down town, and bought him ice cream, which the bear enjoyed greatly.

One young lady, quite anxious to have her photo made with the bear, received a bad bite from the animal who evidently resented the presence of the female sex.

Mr. Best has the cub bear in his barn at the present time to show as evidence that this story isn't just another tall tale of the Dare peninsula.

Suspicion Raised By Running Boy, Caught A Bandit

Baltimore, July 13.—(AP)—A 17-year-old boy almost got away with $32,298 in payroll money at a branch bank today.

His downfall was an alert garage mechanic who "knew doggone well something was wrong because he was running so fast."

Police identified the boy as Charles W. Johnson. They placed no charge against him immediately but held him for investigation.

Samuel I. Kem, manager of the Caivert Bank's West Baltimore branch, drove up and parked behind the bank after stopping downtown at the main office to pick up the payroll money.

A young blond, wearing khaki trousers, a blue shirt and a green baseball cap, confronted him with a .38 revolver, slugged him on the back of the head with the gun, grabbed the money and ran. Kemp fired a shot but it went wild.

An alarm sent police prowling cars converging on the bank.

"I saw this boy running up the alley," said Emmitt Pleasant, who was standing outside his garage in the neighborhood.

"I knew doggone well something was wrong because he was running so fast."

"I followed him. He ran up another alley."

"I went to the bank and found out what happened. I told police about the running boy. I took them where I had seen him."

"We went up an alley and we saw the boy."

"He was working until he saw the police car. He threw the pistol in one back yard and the bag in another. He ran and the police found the bag and opened it up. I never saw so much money in my life. I turned it over to the police as fast as I could."

Patrolmen Albert Embling and John Childs said they fired at Johnson to get him to stop and found the money bag intact. They also picked up a .38 revolver. Johnson admitted the holdup, they reported.

Release Accused Husband-Slayer

Mrs. Johnnie Murphy Sherrod, Negro, who is charged with killing her husband, George Sherrod, middle-aged Negro "divine healer", in self-defense at their home July 3, has been released from jail.

Relatives from northern cities provided funds for paying for the woman's bail bond, a county official stated.

Testimony at a coroner's inquest was that George Sherrod frequently beat his wife and imposed hardships upon her, and that he was beating her on this July day when she picked up a single-barrel shotgun and shot him. The blast entered the lower abdomen and Sherrod died about 48 hours later at a local hospital. The coroner's jury said that she shot him in self-defense.

Police testified that Sherrod in a death bed statement asked that his wife not be prosecuted, that "she shot me accidentally."

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse fixed bail bond at $500.

Testimony at the inquest was that neighbors declared that Sherrod literally kept his wife a prisoner in their home and that she did not get proper nourishment.

The case is expected to come up for trial in Superior Court the latter part of August.

Scouts Guest At Ruritan Meeting

Returning Boy Scouts from the national Jamboree entered the Winterville Ruritan Club at last night's meeting, describing events of their 10-day stay at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, and the second such national event held by the organization.

Guests of the club were 16 members of Winterville Troop 16 with Scoutmaster Mark McGlohan and assistant E. O. Forlines. Both McGlohan and Scout Bobby Cole talked to the club about the Jamboree which was attended by many eastern North Carolina Scouts among 50,000 from the United States and foreign countries.

McGlohan was troop commander at the Jamboree, having charge of all attending Scouts from this area.

Guest of Vernon Cox at the barbecue dinner was Dixie McGlohan. About 30 members attended the monthly meeting.
