

Korean Reds Slowly Pound Nearer Tottering Taejon

Pay Heavy Price In Blood As Americans Withdraw To New Lines; Two Columns Blasted By U. S. Guns And Planes, Catching Enemy By Surprise

By the Associated Press
Communist troops with thunderous artillery support poured into the approaches to tottering Taejon today, paying a heavy price in blood as they threw outnumbered American defenders back to new defense positions.

To the east, Americans and South Koreans joined the Communists moving down on American supply lines, blasting two Red columns into confusion by air and unlooked-for artillery fire. Gen. MacArthur's communique said Communist forces were reported in retreat after a defeat by South Koreans near Kijomang on the east coast.

On the central sector the Americans abandoned Taejon airfield three miles north of Taejon, whence the South Korean government has fled. The city was almost deserted and a deadly quiet was broken only by the rattle of battle in the distance. Most of its normal population of 100,000 had gone.

Gen. MacArthur's communique reported the Communists massing heavy concentrations of men and armor directly north of the Kum River battle sector.

There were reports of tanks leading possibly 40,000 Communists into the various Taejon approaches against Americans outnumbered 10 to 1.

To the west of Taejon Communist forces stabbed southward in a flanking movement. The U.S. communique said this forced orderly withdrawals from the sector.

Red guerrillas were active. Guerrilla forces not only were reported at the outskirts of Taejon, but stabling 1,500 strong between Yongyang and Yongchon in the eastern sector in a move which could imperil the Taegu-Taejon supply road used by the Americans.

In Washington congressional leaders announced President Truman would send to Congress Wednesday a report on the war and what legislative steps he deems necessary.

A Pentagon briefing officer said American forces in Korea would hold somewhere south of the Kum River "and get built up for our offensive." He did not predict where the stand would be made.

The U.S. 24th Division on the main battlefield is facing the Reds' First, Third and Fourth Divisions, and possibly the Sixth, Korean veterans of the China civil war.

The drive, for which the Reds grabbed a toehold with a tiny bridgehead across the Kum River Saturday, pushed the Americans back six miles, a Tokyo communique acknowledged. The Reds probed south in the area of Nonsan, 20 miles southwest of Taejon, in a flanking move which looked like another envelopment maneuver.

Fifty-five miles northeast of Taejon, a Red column got a pasting Sunday night from the South Korean 21st Regiment, unexpectedly supported by a unit of U.S. artillery. Methodical bombardment of the Red column halted the Red advance "dead in its tracks," a communique said, "and by daybreak the enemy completely abandoned any idea of continuing its advance and was observed constructing defense positions."

On the east coast another Red column north of Yongdo was blasted by U.S. Fifth Air Force planes in support of the South Korean 23rd Regiment. A communique said the result was a "catastrophe" for the enemy. The planes threw the enemy into complete confusion, the bulletin said, adding that "the counterattacking South Korean regiment capitalized and pushed forward so ag-

Arrows in his map locate the areas of the main North Korean drives as Communists on the west crossed the Kum river in an offensive against the American defense line (sawtooth line). The crossing was made west of Kongju in an apparent attempt to out-flank the American positions. Other Red drives continued in the Chungju-Tanyang area and in the mountains to the east. Stalin's Reply To Nehru Still State Dept. Secret

Washington, July 17—(AP)—The State Department got a copy today of Marshal Stalin's reply to Indian Prime Minister Nehru's proposals for ending the Korean crisis.

The terms offered by the Russian prime minister were not officially disclosed. He was reported in New Delhi dispatches to have made easting of the Chinese Communists on the United Nations Security Council an essential preliminary to halting the fighting.

The State Department is reported to have completed a draft of the U.S. response to Nehru. It is expected to restate the "rock bottom" American terms for settlement, but in a manner to leave the way open for Nehru to pursue his effort if he believes it holds any promise of success.

The minimum U.S. demand, outlined Friday, is withdrawal of the Communist invaders back of the 38th parallel into North Korea. There is every indication that this country will refuse to compromise on this point, which is also a U. N. objective.

In addition to the U.S. reply to Nehru, the State Department said it is preparing to publish an American "white paper" on the Korean crisis.

The volume, dealing with the Communist invasion of South Korea and the background of the fighting, is scheduled for release at 6 p. m. E. S. T. Tuesday night.

Acheson received his copy of the Stalin message in a 10-minute meeting at the State Department with Madame Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, Indian ambassador.

The government radio at New Delhi quoted Stalin as saying he "welcomed" Nehru's proposals. Just what the Indian leader proposed has not yet been made public officially.

Before the United States gave its answer, the State Department is understood to want the views of Ambassador Loy Henderson at New Delhi and possibly those of other key American envoys.

Hartsdale, N. Y., July 17—(AP)—General Evangeline Booth, 84-year old retired chief of the Salvation Army, remained near death in a coma over the week-end at her home here.

The general, daughter of the Army's founder, has been ill and bedridden for the past year. A Salvation Army officer said her death might come at any time.

At a recessed meeting of the one held July 3, the County Commissioners Friday night adopted the tentative budget of the county as drawn up late last month. Total budget for the year 1950-51 is $837,477 on a total valuation of over $49,000,000.

In addition to the budget adoption, which was done without dissent, the Commissioners appointed C. C. Harris to the airport commission to fill the unexpired term of the late G. H. Pittman. Harris and his term will expire on the first Monday in December.

The Board also turned over to Pitt Memorial Hospital $50,000 for use in the construction of the nurses' home. The money came from ABC funds of the past year and were turned over to the hospital through a resolution that effect early this year.

Board Will Hear Bids On Schools

Bids On Construction Of Two, And Renovation Of Others, Due Today

Bids will be heard this afternoon by the Board of Education for the construction of two schools in the county and renovation of two others.

The board will hear bids in the courtroom of the courthouse at two o'clock for the construction of a new Negro school at Fountain and an addition to the Negro school at Ayden.

Bids for remodeling and renovation will be for the white schools at Farmville and Grimesland.

Meanwhile, Superintendent of County Schools D. H. Conley announced today schools will open for the fall term August 29. The tentative calendar of holidays for the school year 1950-51 schedules Thanksgiving holidays from November 30-December 1; Christmas, December 20-January 1; and Easter Monday, March 26. School will close May 21 of next year.

As set out by state public school regulations, any child who has reached his sixth birthday and who will become six years old by October 1 may enroll at the beginning of the school year. In addition to the age requirements, the child must have been vaccinated for smallpox, diphtheria and typhoid fever.

Many pre-school-age children in the county were vaccinated during this year's pre-school clinics conducted by the nurses of the Health Department.

Conley announced the Board of Education will this year continue its insurance program for all school children. Insured last year, the insurance premium of one dollar, paid by the pupil's parents, will insure him for any injuries or accidents incurred one hour before school and one hour afterward. The program underlines the policy that the student must be in the line of school duty before compensation may be received.

Last year about 1,200 students took advantage of the program. The slight number was because the program was begun in November rather than in the first few days of the school year, Conley thought.

Adopt Tentative Budget For Pitt

Kills Proposal

Washington, July 17—(AP)—The House killed a proposal to abolish the electoral college and to revamp the machinery by which the nation has named its Presidents for 150 years.

It turned down a Senate-passed resolution that would have submitted to the states a constitutional amendment doing away with the electoral college system and substituting one based on proportional division of the popular vote.

The electoral college system now gives each state's total electoral vote to the winning candidates for President and vice President.

The proposed change, requiring ratification by 36 states, would have divided each state's electoral vote in direct proportion to the popular vote received by the opposing candidate.

House Republican leader Martin of Massachusetts assailed the proposal as "a political Pandora's Box."

The message to the lawmakers will carry recommendations for legislative action to back up efforts to throw the Red invaders out of Korea.

The message will be sent to the lawmakers at 11 a. m. (eastern standard time) Wednesday. The radio report, over four major networks and television, will be at 9:30 p. m. (eastern standard time).

As for the message to congress, Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters:

"It will be quite a comprehensive one, (giving background of the situation, explaining all steps that have been taken by this government and containing legislative recommendations."

Earlier Democratic leaders had met with Mr. Truman and discussed the message.

None would say what Mr. Truman planned to say. But House Speaker Rayburn later today reported that "in my best judgment" food rationing would not be made a part of contemplated government controls.

Government officials have predicted that the message will call for controls over steel, curbs on consumers and possibly a tax increase.

There was no hint as to how long the message would be, but Ross said the radio report will be kept within a limit of half an hour.

The broadcast, Ross said, will be on the same theme as the message but with elaborations and possibly simplification.

Asked whether Mr. Truman has received an estimate of needs from the defense department, Ross said, "I'm unable to give you anything on that."

Again, he told reporters to wait and see when he was asked whether the message and speech are being prepared "against a background that we still are fighting a police action"—the description Mr. Truman has used twice of the Korean fighting by American forces.

To an inquiry as to whether there will be "any domestic recommendations," Ross said that of course the message "will concern domestic problems."

The meeting which the aldermen held on an unofficial basis Saturday was held at the invitation of Mayor Stafford and lasted for almost three hours. The mayor said he invited the members of the board to the informal session "to discuss the matter of the procurement of a permanent chief of police."

It was an unofficial gathering of the board members and no official record of the meeting was kept other than the two resolutions signed by those present at the meeting. The city clerk was not present at the meeting.

Mayor Stafford said he signed the first resolution at Saturday's meeting because it was in accord with the recommendations he made to the board of aldermen in his veto message throwing back to the aldermen their appointment of H. E. Wooten as police chief of Greenville. He said he did not sign the second resolution of the board because he did not feel he should be drawn into that controversial issue by having any part in signing an expressed opinion on the matter.

He emphasized that his attitude and opinion in the Police Chief issue had previously been expressed in his veto message.

Alderman Yank Howell, the only alderman who along with the mayor did not sign the second statement, said, "I could speak for myself, but I could not vouch for the board as a whole."

One of the members present at the meeting said most of the meeting was concerned with the discussion of alleged charges against various members of the police department which were brought by certain members of the board of aldermen.

The spokesman said the charges against Chief Page which were presented unofficially at the session consisted principally of statements about other members of the police Dept. There were six affidavits presented at the meeting, he said, five of which were signed by members of the Greenville police force and one by a local citizen.

Although the content of the affidavits has not been released to the public, they are subject to quick change.

From other sources, it has been learned that a second call for perhaps 20,000 men might come in October.

Draft boards throughout the country have been ordered to fill their quotas for the first call as quickly as possible and no later than September 30.

President Plans Korea Report On Wednesday

Message To Congress And To The Nation Scheduled; Review Of Events, With Future Needs Will Be Outlined

Washington, July 17—(AP)—President Truman will send a message on the Korean war to congress Wednesday and report to the nation on it that night by radio.

Second Draft Call Seen For August By Hershey

Washington, July 17—(AP)—Major Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service chief, is reported to be looking for a second draft call next month.

He was quoted today as anticipating a need for more sweeping draft regulations affecting veterans, husbands and fathers.

Most veterans and men with dependents were exempt from the first draft call for 20,000 men to build up the army in the Korean crisis.

Hershey's views on possible future draft moves were given to a reporter by Lt. Col. Irving W. Hart, selective service information chief, in response to queries. Hershey himself was reported unavailable.

Hart said Hershey has told aides several times that he sees no reason to believe that there will not be a second draft call next month.

"The general also has said several times that he has said that it has no present plan" for another draft call, but has emphasized that conditions

Our Foolish Citizens

While In The Midst Of A Fairly Sound Economy, With Plenty For Everybody, Some Americans Are Endangering The Very System Which Has Given So Much

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 17—(AP)—If you saw a man throwing his money away on a street corner, you'd think he ought to get his head examined. But something like that is happening now.

Reports of heavy buying and price-boosting around the country are multiplying.

Some shoppers are trying to lay in supplies of tires, coffee, clothing, and other things.

They're afraid rationing is coming and they want to be sure they get theirs, no matter what happens to the country or anybody else.

By making things scarcer, they give certain unscrupulous and shortsighted businessmen an excuse for lacking up prices.

The hoarders, President Truman said, are foolish. And he said some of the businessmen are kicking up prices to profiteer.

Both words—foolish and profiteer—were mild ones. And it's easy to see why.

Russian communism means government control and ownership of almost everything. British socialism means some government control and ownership. British socialism's controls are much milder than communist's.

But this country, meaning the people, has denounced communism and feels so strongly against it that now we are actively fighting it. And there is strong feeling here against even Britain's socialism.

In short, the tradition in this country has been against government control, interference or ownership. And we shout to the world the wonders of free enterprise.

Yet, widespread hoarding and soaring prices in this present situation will in time certainly do two things:

1. Force the government to step in and slap on rationing and price controls.

2. And, by bringing higher prices, makes the dollar worth just that much less, thus damaging the foundations of the free enterprise economy.

(The rationing, of course, would be imposed to give everyone a fair share of what can't be bought; the price controls would be slapped on to keep the economy from being ruined altogether.)

If we get into a war with Russia or the present situation gets very

At the base, which is the home of the 20th Fighter-Bomber group, the cadets were housed in Army barracks, and kept up a regular army routine. A total of only 35 cadets from North Carolina made the trip, with Greenville having the largest number of boys present from the state.

Commander Tommie Sellers of the local Civil Air Patrol group said this morning that he was sure the boys gained a lot from the encampment during which time they underwent a 90-hour instruction period. They were given instructions in jet aircraft, class room work and saw some of the latest types of army air equipment.

Sellers said he hoped the number of cadets in the unit will grow so that next year the Greenville unit may have as large, or larger crew making the summer trip.

The boys reported that while they were kept busy all of the time, they really enjoyed the trip. One cadet commented, "Don't let anyone fool you, that Army chow is the best I have ever eaten."

She was taken to Roosevelt Hospital, where the badly mangled finger was amputated.

Women In The Church

The "Mother Hughes Maternity hospital" is being planned for erection next year in Mutumbara, Southern Rhodesia, Africa, in honor of the late Mrs. E. D. Hughes, of Wichita, Kans., missionary benefactress who died in 1949 at the age of 92 years. "Mother Hughes," as she was affectionately known in Methodist church circles in Kansas and in Southern Rhodesia, had earlier established a "Mother Hughes Room" in Wesley hospital, Wichita, and a maternity section of a Methodist dispensary in Mutumbara. Now the Central Kansas Conference of the Methodist church, as a part of its "Advance for Christ and His Church" movement, is raising $15,000 for the proposed hospital in Mutumbara. It is expected that it will be possible to lay the cornerstone early in 1951 when Bishop Dana Dawson, of Topeka, makes an official visit to Africa. The Rev. George A. Roberts, Iowa, is the missionary in Mutumbara.

The thousands of employed women who are members of the "Wesleyan Service Guild" of the Methodist church—adjunct of its Woman's Society of Christian Service, have an ambitious program for the coming year or two: each Guild member to "exert her Christian influence and convictions concerning alcohol under all circumstances" and "use her vote wherever possible against the liquor traffic"; each member consider whether or not she can become a missionary, and each search for others who may be spelt as missionaries, each study the Human Rights program of Christianity and endeavor to apply it individually and in groups; and each member to enroll, study the issues of local, state, and national election, and vote upon them in the light of Christian belief, and also endeavor to have other church women vote on all matters before the electorate. And the members, before their adjournment, voted as their mission "to help build a world of brotherhood by bringing into the Guild fellowship many more gainfully employed women and by helping all Guild members to carry into their everyday living the attitudes and teachings of Jesus."

Street Car Hit Tot, But Unhurt

Chicago, July 17.—(AP)—Two-year old Nancy Montez was struck by a street car in front of her home last night and rushed to a hospital. Six physicians carefully examined her for almost an hour without finding expected serious injuries. Finally one, however, discovered a bruise on her head, but it didn't frighten Nancy's mother, Louise. "Oh, that," she told the doctors. "That isn't from the accident. She got that falling off a table yesterday."

Five Trapped In Utah Lead Mine

Lark, Utah, July 17.—(AP)—Five men were still trapped deep in a smoke filled lead mine early today, more than 24 hours since they went below the surface.

Billowing smoke hampered the all night rescue operations at this tiny mining community perched on the foothills of a mountain range. Rescue workers were faced with the difficult task of combing some 400 miles of tunnels. The men are somewhere in this maze of underground passages.

The men have been missing since early yesterday when fire broke out in the Lark mine of the U.S. Smelting, Refining and Mining Company. They were engaged in maintenance operations at the mine, which has been shut down since July 1 by a strike of United Steelworkers.

Now full of pep and energy, Mrs. Goff is able to give this fine statefment: "It's pretty bad when you are in a run-down condition when you are only 32. That includes headaches, loss of sleep... I was also terribly nervous all the time. Then I heard about the wonderful results other folks were getting from HADACOL. After taking a few bottles my nerves were calmed. I got a good night's sleep, and I gained five pounds. I think HADACOL is wonderful. I recommend it to all my friends."

This is another one of the statements the fine folks who have been taking HADACOL gave us. Yes there are thousands and thousands of people all over the country who are getting blessed relief from wonderful HADACOL when they needed Vitamins B-1, B-2, Iron and Niacin.

Close Race For Second Place In Population Count

Philadelphia, July 17 — (AP) — Pennsylvania and California are running a close battle for the honor of being the second largest state in the nation while Philadelphia still holds a margin over Los Angeles as the third most populous city according to incomplete census returns.

The Census Bureau announced over the weekend that Pennsylvania had grown by 1960 to a preliminary population figure of 10,435,965, little more than a maternity-ward lead over fast growing California. The official figure for California is not yet out but an Associated Press tabulation indicated there are 10,400,000 Californians.

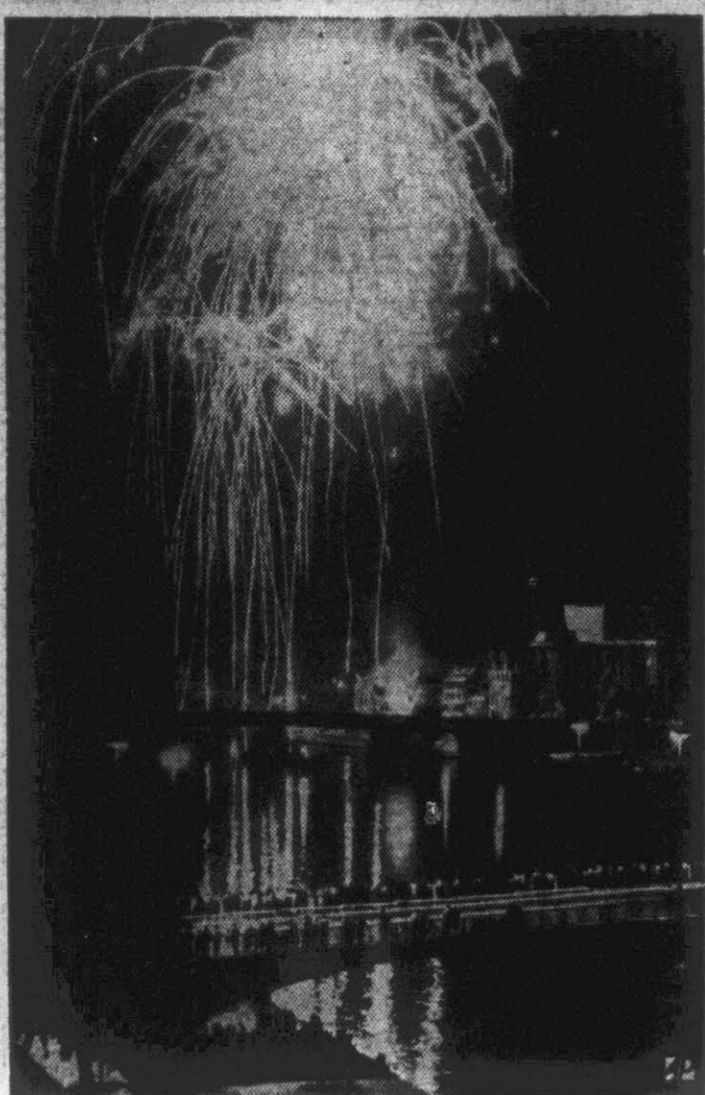

means petered out, the census indicates. In 1940 the westerners were 5,907,387 strong. So it appears the one-time Spanish mission settlement and gold rush state will leap from fifth to at least third place, leaving Illinois and Ohio behind. In 1940 there were 9,900,180 Pennsylvanians.

Census reports have not yet been made for Michigan or Texas (as well as California) but figures based on either Census Bureau announcements or best available estimates will line the six biggest states in this order: New York, Pennsylvania, California, Illinois, Ohio, Texas and Michigan.

The list of the nation's top 10 cities in the preliminary census report is: New York, 7,841,610 (1950), 7,454,995 (1940); Chicago, 3,831,835 and 3,396,808; Philadelphia, 2,057,210 and 1,831,334; Los Angeles, 1,954,036 and 1,504,277; Detroit, 1,837,613 and 1,623,452; Baltimore, 830,865 and 859,100; Cleveland, 809,546 and 878,336; St. Louis, 852,523 and 816,048; Washington, 792,234 and 683,091; Boston, 788,562 and 770,818.

In the battle of cities, Philadelphia has 2,057,210 residents according to the latest nose count while Los Angeles can boast of only 1,954,036. The trek to California has by no

Strength for the Day

BURDEN BEARING
Somewhere, sometime, we all have to take our burdens upon the Lord, for they are too much for our shoulders. We can carry them but we cannot carry them alone. We may go on year after year with a heart that daily bleeds with sorrow, trying to forget it in a beautiful service to others, but unless we can look up to heaven and say "Thy will be done," the wound will never heal.
If some disappointment has struck you down and all through life you look back on a circumstance that marred your finest ambitions and made you put aside everything in which you had hope, you will have to have something more than a brave heart and an unselfish spirit if you would come to the end of the day without rancor and bitterness. You must be able to say day by day, through all the long, weary, disappointing years, "God's ways are my ways, and all things become right and profitable through Him." And if you endure temptation day by day feeling at times that you can never endure it to the end, then above all things you need God's grace in your heart.
God may have given you some thorn in the flesh, some weakness that He will not remove, but He will say unto you as He said unto Paul: "My grace is sufficient unto thee, for my strength is made perfect in weakness."

What Can You Buy For That Nickle?

We don't know whether the government surplus potato agency has made the claim or not, but if it wanted to capitalize on the idea, we'd venture to say it is the one business in the United States which offers a purchaser more for a nickle than any other business.

The government bought over half of the potatoes of the 1950 crop and either dumped them to rot or sold them for livestock feed at a penny per hundredweight.
It was profitable to the farmers, but we haven't figured exactly how the government came out on the deal.

The Sacrifice Of War Hits Pitt

The war in Korea may have seemed far away to many people in Pitt county until this week-end when the first Pitt county casualty of the campaign was reported.

Somewhat most things which we wish to ignore because they are unpleasant fail to register with full force until they strike our loved ones or our neighbors. Then they become more of a reality.

Private First Class Marvin B. Mobley of Greenville was wounded on the Korean war front. To Mobley, the men with whom he fought on the battlegrounds of the far east, and to his family who waits at home, the undeclared war in Korea is just as horrible as the global conflict of a few years ago. The enemy fire is just as mutilating and death lurks just as near at hand.

So far the casualties of the United States have been relatively light, and the communities which have felt the impact upon its youths have been few. We have a great deal to be thankful for in that respect.

The youths who are on the front and those who are now on their way to join them are making great sacrifices for their nation. If necessary, they will be followed by millions of others who will be making the same sacrifices.

War-time, whether the conflict be on a global basis or confined to a single front, is a time in which all people of a nation must be prepared to make the sacrifices which are necessary to carry out the long struggle up the road to victory.

The People Hold The Reins To Controls

Sure signs of a national emergency have begun to appear with the increases in food and commodity prices which have been announced by several concerns.

Bread prices in Greenville jumped one to two cents a loaf on Saturday, and other food prices have shown slight increases. Today the Firestone Rubber company announced an increase of from five to seven and one-half per cent on its motor vehicle tires.

In almost every instance of increased prices, the producer has stated the increase is due to higher labor and material costs, and not directly to the Korean incident which has thrown a major war scare into the people of the country. We hope the producers are sincere in their claims and are not starting a round of hikes which will continue until government controls are necessary.

Price hikes on bread in the nation's capital, however, have brought charges from one congressman that the boost is an "obvious attempt at war scale profiteering," and he has threatened a congressional investigation to put a stop to alleged efforts of profiteering.

It is apparent that many businesses are keenly aware of the cut in profits the price controls of a few years ago brought to them. It may be that many see the restoration of price controls in the near future and are seeking to get what they feel is justified profit before controls are restored.

The Reflector is of the opinion that neither the producers nor the consumers at present wish to see the restoration of government controls to commodities. If prices become excessive within the next few weeks or months, and commodities become scarce, there will be a demand for controls for the protection of the consumers.

In the face of the present crisis it will take a great deal of cooperation and unselfishness on the part of both consumers and producers to see that price controls do not become necessary.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, July 17—A thorough housecleaning of the Atomic Energy Commission is a major national defense requirement, if current and prospective cosmic forces are to be fully developed for wartime or peacetime use. It has become one of the outstanding problems at the Capital.

That is the considered opinion of many members of Congress, scientists and industrialists and military men familiar with a situation which has been treated in an extremely hush-hush manner. Among those reported to favor a drastic overhauling is Major General Leslie R. Groves, who headed the Manhattan project that supervised the manufacture of the first A-bombs.

LIMITED—The present members of this commission may be able men in their own limited fields. But their experience in atomic work is virtually nil. They were appointed in the same haphazard manner in which members of such routine agencies as the Federal Trade Commission or the Federal Power Commission would be picked.

It is true that, inasmuch as harnessing cosmic energy was an entirely new venture, there were no authorities on the subject. But, as informed critics note, outstanding engineers from such firms as General Electric, Westinghouse and similar concerns could have been chosen for the gigantic task of speeding up production of war weapons and converting the atomic machinery to commercial use.

BACKGROUND—Without implying any criticism of the present members' special abilities or sincerity, here are their backgrounds:

Gorden E. Dean practiced law and taught it after graduation from college. But since 1934 he has been on the federal pay roll in various legal capacities. He was a law partner of Senator Brien McMahon. Mr. Dean, who is not a scientist, a military expert, a business man or an industrialist, has been nominated chairman.

Sumner T. Pike, recently confirmed to a new term, was an unimportant public utilities and insurance man for a few years. Since 1939, he has held relatively unimportant posts in various branches of the government.

Henry D. Smyth may qualify as the scientific member of AEC. But it is recognized that there are far more eminent specialists in the field than he. Some of his ideas have been questioned seriously by his scientific colleagues.

Thomas E. Murray of New York, the newest member, is supposed to be the financial expert. An authority on this subject may be needed, but inasmuch as the federal government will finance atomic experiments for many years, there is no immediate need for a salesman of atomic stocks and bonds.

VACANCY—There is one vacancy on the commission, and filling it with the right man has become an especially important question. In view of the need for a really outstanding engineer such as the Russians and the British have named to comparable posts, President Truman faces a grave responsibility, in the opinion of those concerned over present inadequacies.

Another criticized official is Carroll L. Wilson, the general manager of our atomic organization. He spent a few years in engineering research and analytical fields, became a minor government official in 1939 and was promoted suddenly and surprisingly to this key assignment. But he does not measure up to the size of the engineers and executives to be found in the private corporations mentioned above.

POLITICS—Commissioner Pike was opposed for confirmation because he charged that the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy had played politics with the atomic problem. His statement was correct. But the facts are that this committee has been only a futile supervisory body because President Truman, with the aid of the Democratic majority, has stripped it of all authority. Here are a few dramatic examples:

President Truman asked the committee for its advice on handling the H-bomb problem. The members agreed unanimously that the U.S. should begin experiments secretly, so as not to inform our enemies. Then, without warning, the White House announced to the world that we would proceed to develop the fusion weapon.

Even Chairman Brien McMahon, who sometimes is too amenable to presidential persuasion, was amazed at this performance.

PACT—Mr. Truman also asked the committee to advise him on renewing our original atomic agreement with Britain. Under a wartime pact, England agreed to furnish us uranium from the Belgian Congo and Canada, with the actual manufacture of the bomb left to us. Any contract extension, London thought, should let her in on all our atomic secrets and stockpiles.

The committee rejected the latter request. A conquered Britain, it concluded, might mean that any invader would capture stockpiled bombs, blueprints and the machinery of manufacture. Mr. Truman, however, renewed the mineral portions of agreement, although he did not make England an actual atomic partner.

The British, therefore, have gone ahead with construction of three plants, and are said to be using spyman Puch's knowledge to develop a bomb of their own.
CONCLUSIONS—Chief of Staff J. Lawton Collins recently declared publicly that the U.S. had perfected atomic warheads and artillery General Omar N. Bradley said that Russia was several years behind us in the development of the H-bomb.
When both men admitted before the committee that they had no real basis for these statements—Collins said that atomic warheads and artillery were "still only in the minds of the scientists"—the members instructed Chairman McMahon to ask Secretary Johnson in writing for all the facts. Although these instructions were given several weeks ago, there has been no reply from the Pentagon.

Two conclusions emerge from this analysis: The first is that the United States has not put its best brains to work on the atomic problem. The second is that there is too much of a "politics as usual" attitude toward this life-or-death question.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.

(Guest writer today Almon Barber, Training Director of the North Carolina Department of Labor.)

WAGE COLLECTION—About once a week, on the average, the State Department of Labor receives a letter from some North Carolina worker who complains that So and So, his employer, has failed or refused to pay wages which the worker claims he has earned. Of course the worker who files his wage complaint with the Department of Labor wants to know what can be done about it. The answer depends upon the kind of job in which the worker is employed. If his jobs come under any of the ramifications of interstate commerce, he is entitled to payment for work done at a rate not lower than 75 cents an hour, with time and a half for any overtime he has worked. He is covered by the Federal Wage and Hour Law. In this type of case the Labor Department can send a wage-hour investigator to check the facts and to recommend action by the Department in accordance with his findings.

NOT COVERED—Trouble is that many of these complaints come from workers who aren't covered by the federal law. The answer as to what can be done about their complaints by the Labor Department is: exactly nothing. Reason for this state of affairs is that the Tar Heel worker is a retail or service industry, or some other phase of "intra-state" commerce, has no State law providing wage standards for his protection. He doesn't even have a Wage Collection Law under which the Labor Department could bring action to secure payment of such wages which he is due the worker. In the State with about 850,000 non-agricultural working people, it is to be expected that minor disputes over the amount of wages due should arise continually between employers and employees. The arts of communication being imperfect, and human nature being likewise, occasional misunderstandings are inevitable even among the most well-disposed employers and workers.

PATHEPIC—In some of these cases, for instance, workers paid on a weekly salary basis claim their paychecks are "docked" after they've had a few hours or a half-day off due to illness or some pressing personal business. They get docked for taking a little time off, these workers sometimes complain, but they don't get paid extra when they put in overtime. Some of these complaints contain pathetic accounts of workers putting in long hours trying to make a living at fantastically low wages. A laundry worker in one Eastern North Carolina town, for instance, wrote of being hired to work for 40 cents an hour. She put in 51 hours the first week, she wrote, but was paid only $17.85—or 35 cents an hour. The second week, continued this complainant, she again worked 51 hours and was paid $10.24—which averages out to 20 cents an hour. After that she quit the job and complained to the Department of Labor about the low wages and the failure of her employer to pay the agreed rate of 40 cents an hour. Since the State has neither a minimum wage nor a wage collection law, the Department could furnish her nothing but sympathy. Several Southern States, as well as a number of states in other parts of the country, have wage collection laws to help workers collect wages due them. Thus far, North Carolina's lawmakers have not been convinced of the desirability of providing minimum wage protection for the one of every four Tar Heel workers in intra-state business who makes 50 cents an hour or less. No wage collection legislation has been introduced in the General Assembly.

RELATIVE—Other prices quoted were: half-bushel of peas, 33c; one hog's head, 10c; bushel of corn, 40c; four and a quarter pounds of law feed, 30c; plug of tobacco, 8c; sorghum, 30c a gallon; lard, 10c a pound; flour, three and a half cents a pound. In those "good old days" 40 cents a day was considered reasonably good pay for common labor, although some of the Piedmont's textile mill workers received princely earnings as high as 75c a day. A worker paid 40c a day had to work about two hours to earn a pound of bacon. His plug of chewing tobacco cost him more than an hour's work—but then, it was quite a big plug and high quality too, say the experts. Today's Tar Heel wage earner, who pockets only about 75 per cent of the U. S. average industrial wage, still earns better than $1 an hour. He can buy a pound of bacon with less than 30 minutes' work. He can purchase a pack of ciga- rettes or, if he prefers, invest in a plug of Ye Olde Snake Death, with about 10 minutes' labor. We've come a long way, haven't we Sam!

ARBITRATION—"Voluntary Arbitration: A Service to Industry and Labor" is the title of a 4-page pamphlet published this month by the State Department of Labor. The pamphlet contains small pictures and thumbnail biographical sketches of the 20 distinguished North Carolinians who serve as arbitrators of industrial disputes on the list which the Commissioner of Labor maintains under authority of the State Arbitration Act of 1945. Fifteen of the 20 arbitrators are professors of such subjects as labor and business law, economics, commerce, industrial relations at U.N.C., Duke, Wake Forest and Catawba College. The list also includes three practicing attorneys, a minister and a business man. All of the arbitrators have had experience in arbitration work and several of them served under the War Labor Board during World War II. The pamphlet is available free to interested folks as long as the limited supply lasts.

PRICES AND WAGES—"If you had to pay prices now that prevailed 50 years ago, you'd be worrying over the high cost of living," says an article in the June 29 issue of the Hargett County News. "But then again you might too if you were working today for the wages paid at that time." The article reprints some items from a time-yellowed account book in which entries were made by the Acme Fertilizer Co. of Wilmington between 1897 and 1900. Sample item: A man worked two days at 40 cents a day. In payment he received 10 pounds of bacon at eight cents a pound. Another man worked one day for 25 cents and bought a chicken with 15 cents worth of labor.

By SAUL PETT (For Hal Boyle)
New York (AP)—My contribution to the day's news on Korea is that the Korean language is the only one in the world which has to be typed horizontally and read vertically.
There are Chinese and Japanese typewriters which type those languages both horizontally and vertically. But the only Korean keyboard developed so far insists you type across the page, from right to left, although you read it words up and down.
This information comes from Martin K. Tytell, a 36-year-old New York wizard who can tear apart a typewriter and make it perform in any one of 147 languages and dialects, including Dinka, Sanskrit and Urdu. He has more than 2,000,000 foreign type faces in his shop and, if you can coax him, he'll whip you up a Korean job. But he doesn't recommend it.
"After you get through making one," he complains, "nobody knows how to use it. It'd probably be much faster to write the language in longhand."
Tytell guesses there aren't more than half a dozen Korean typewriters in the world. He made one for the Army in 1944. He's grateful he never had to use it.
You see, the Chinese language is complicated enough. But Korean is Chinese ideographic characters, plus a native character called "en-mun." Some years ago, Tytell says, a Korean scholar named Dr. Song devised a keyboard which employs, among other things, 42 dead keys. That is, you hit one of them and the carriage doesn't move. In some cases, you have to hit eight or 10 different keys to form one character.
"By the time you get a secretary to learn this, even a Korean secretary," says Tytell, "she'll up and leave you to get married."
You learn a lot about language differences talking to Tytell.
It didn't surprise me to discover how difficult it is to convert an American typewriter to Persian or Arabic since they require different symbols which have to be typed together and written backwards, from right to left. And I wasn't surprised to learn that Siamese is "very beautiful to look at but you can't tell when it's upside down." Once, unknowingly, Tytell made a Siamese keyboard inverted, he couldn't tell the difference.
What did surprise me was that keyboards used in countries which have the same Latin alphabet in common have so many differences. England and American typewriters differ. It's not just a case of pounds versus dollars. On most of our keyboards, we have just two fractions—the quarter and half. The British have one-eighth, three-eighths, five-eighths and seven-eighths. And British keyboards vary from dominion to dominion, but let me tell you about the Portuguese. A Portuguese keyboard used in Brazil is like an American keyboard except it has eight type changes and two dead keys used for accents. A Portuguese keyboard in Portugal has 42 type changes.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

HOLIDAYS ON MONDAY (The State Magazine)

If we remember correctly, someone made the suggestion several years ago that it would be a fine thing if all legal holidays were observed on Monday of the week in which they occurred. Nothing ever was done about it but, just the same, we feel it was a sound and practicable idea and should be adopted.

When a holiday falls on Tuesday, it is becoming more and more the custom to take off Monday also. When it falls on Thursday or Friday, that's the end of the week so far as a good many people are concerned.

If, however, all holidays were observed on Monday, it would be an open-and-shut proposition. Most places close altogether on Saturday or else take half a day off. Therefore you'd have a nice long weekend without any interruption, and there wouldn't be all the confusion that exists at the present time.

Dates in themselves don't mean very much. If Christmas comes on a Thursday, we see nothing wrong with observing it on Monday of that week. Same with other holidays.

As we said at the outset, nothing ever became of the suggestion that was made in this connection. We hope somebody up in Congress will revive it.
REST—A TOP REMEDY (The Bristol Va. Herald Courier)
Discovery of the wonder drug

—penicillin, the sulphas, streptomycin—has overshadowed the oldest and one of the best remedies for mankind's ills—rest. That is the opinion of the National Safety Council, which suggests restful vacations instead of a wave of competition to see who can drive the fastest and farthest and play most dangerously.

The Council suggests that the vacationist not go too far if by automobile, and avoid long hours of driving; guard against too much sun, falls, infections, burns, food poisoning, and don't try and crowd a year's existence in two weeks.

Those who follow these sensible provisions are apt to have more peace of mind, and be in better physical condition, when their vacations are over.

ENFORCE TRAFFIC LAWS (Kinston Free Press)
The mounting accident toll on the highways of North Carolina came in for more general discussion perhaps than any other subject at the recent State Press Convention in Asheville. John Park, publisher of The Raleigh Times and chairman of the State Advisory Highway Safety Committee, made a most comprehensive report dealing with the situation and particularly with the action that was being taken under the direction of his committee.

In Mr. Park's recommendations and the general discussion which followed by the members of the Press Association from different parts of the State, it was the consensus of opinion that lax enforcement of the traffic laws, particularly those relating to drunken driving, was responsible in a large measure for the deplorable situation which exists.

It was the prevailing opinion of those gathered in the convention that the average court in North Carolina before which traffic violations are heard, is apparently too lax. Too many of the courts are failing to support the Highway Patrol and other law enforcement officers and are accepting pleas of guilt of lesser offenses than those charged by the arresting officers.

Unquestionably, the courts must recognize more generally the peril that the drunken and reckless drivers are creating and mete out punishment which is commensurate with the offenses. Drunken drivers, regardless of their political or social standing, are a menace to life and limb. They should be denied the privilege of operating motor vehicles until such time as they can show that they are capable of driving without violating the law.

Safe driving on the highways of North Carolina, and the other States of the Union, is imperative. Proper and certain law enforcement against those who violate the law will do much to correct the trouble. The Press Convention did well to emphasize that fact.

Business Today

The idea that big chains are swallowing up the food business of America was definitely punctured by an analysis by the National Industrial Conference Board. Independent stores have been doing as well as the chains for more than a year, the analysis shows. Meanwhile, the major or national chains are losing ground while the smaller regional chains are gaining.

Independents have been doing as well as the chains, and during the first months of this year began doing better for the first time since mid-1948, according to the Board's analysis.

The analysis indicates that independents can successfully compete with chains if they band together for better wholesale buying and keep up with the modern trend to self-service. The Board found that independents made their gains because "they entered organizations for more effective wholesale buying and they betared store operating methods, including a shift to modern self-service superettes."

Grocers who have affiliated for more economic and efficient buying at wholesale are now making half of the independent store sales, the study shows. Furthermore, according to data from the Progressive Grocer, the self-service groceries, which number a fifth of all stores, are doing half of the business done by independents.

The broad trend, the Board found, is toward large-scale food merchandising, whether performed by chains or independents. It found the biggest chain (A. & P.) has cut its stores 70 per cent since 1929 and at the same time boosted sales per store more than nine times.

Among the chains themselves, the small, regional chains are doing better than the big national chains. The share of chain business done by the "big three" declined from 54 per cent in 1939 to 51 per cent in 1948, while the share of the smaller regional chains rose from 15.8 per cent to 18.5 per cent.

RUSH TO MANUFACTURE GAS CIGARET LIGHTERS
Butane lighters for cigars have created a boomlet of their own. Manufacturers are rushing into the field just as they rushed to make ball-point pens a few years ago. The same result—competitive pricing—may result. Lighters using compressed gas aren't quite new. They have been available in France for some time.

DON'T LIKE CUSTOMERS? THROW THEM OUT!
Sometimes manufacturers find they can make more money by declining business from small firms whose orders don't produce a profit.

The same principle has been successfully applied by a New York restaurateur. His method of declining business was to raise prices. He jacked up prices about 33 per cent.

Result: stenographers and clerks, who never bought drinks and who monopolized tables for full hours, go elsewhere. This leaves more room for high-paid executives, who don't mind the higher prices and order lots of high-margin cocktails.

Another New York restaurant was the recipient of glowing publicity in a photo magazine. The manager then stationed himself at the door and told everybody he didn't know there was no room. He kicked out thousands of dollars in "tourist" business. But his regulars, who had supported him since before prohibition days, weren't chased away to competitors.

FAIR MILEAGE RATE PUZZLES EMPLOYERS
Recent rises of gas and tire prices has again dropped a familiar problem in the laps of companies with motorized salesmen: What's a fair mileage allowance?

The problem was earlier complicated by higher auto prices, higher insurance rates. Until mutually acceptable mileage rates can be worked out, some companies have gone back to paying actual expenses, plus a depreciation allowance. Others are investigating possibilities of renting cars from fleet companies, to avoid disputes with salesmen.

FILE OF HANGERS
TELL SALES SUCCESS
An effective bit of showmanship cost an Eastern store little more than the price of a sign.

Every morning during a clearance sale of garments it stacked a pile of hangers in a window. The sign read, "The clothes that were on these hangers were sold yesterday."

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Cannon borrowed from nearby Fort Myer gave a noisy boom of realism to a National Symphony Orchestra performance. The orchestra, directed by Howard Mitchell, used the cannon as part of its percussion section during Tschakowsky's dramatic "Overture, 1812," which in its original score actually called for a volley of cannon as a finale.

"Overture, 1812" was presented as a special tribute to Washington's sesquicentennial celebration, according to symphony officials. Ironically, Tschakowsky wrote it to commemorate a victory by Russia. The victory which followed Napoleon's historic retreat from Moscow in 1812.

The symphony was first presented in a public square in Russia's capital city. Scores of cannon lined the street. The story goes, however, that few of the cannon were discharged according to the frenzied conductor's cue. Some were still bombarding the city long after the concert was over. Tschakowsky, who was on hand for the concert, later wrote that the world premier of his work was "showy and noisy but had no artistic merit whatsoever."

Director Mitchell took no chances on timing. He was aided by an electrical hookup with which he cued the commanding officer of the artillery. The cannon was set up along the Potomac River waterfront close to the Lincoln Memorial and not far from Washington's Watergate, where the barge on which summer symphony concerts are given is tied up.

Mr. Mitchell first had asked that the cannon be set up on a barge behind the orchestra. Army officials convinced him the cannon fire might not only sink the barge but the entire orchestra as well.

Wives of foreign diplomats in the capital have turned fashion model propagandists in order to encourage the sale in this country of their native fabrics and designs.

Embassy-sponsored fashion shows have been presented by the French and Greeks. Most recently were the colorful showings of native sari by members of India's diplomatic circles, headed by Mme. B. K. Nehru, wife of the financial counselor of the embassy, and an exhibition of Belgium's beautiful hand-woven wools. This last was at the residence of the commercial counselor of the Belgian Embassy and Mme. Heyna.

Supply And Transportation Is Bottle-Necked In South Korea

By ELTON C. FAY
 Washington, July 17—(AP)—An enormously complex—and potentially dangerous—transportation program is hampering efforts to build up material behind the U.S. forces in Korea.

A mountain of equipment, weapons, ammunition and other material must go into a single South Korean port daily just to keep forces now there supplied for the bitter fight.

That port is Pusan, a tiny place as world seaports go, with limited facilities and a single railroad and inadequate highway routes linking it to the battle zone.

If the port should be crippled by attack or captured, the whole Korean campaign could falter or collapse.

So far, North Korean airplanes have been scarce. The men responsible for getting war goods to the embattled American and South Korean forces haven't had to cope with attempts to bomb Pusan's harbor.

But whether this continues depends upon whether Russia decides to provide her North Korean satellite with a tactical air force.

There is still another danger, if World War II is taken as a lesson—the possibility that the Communists might decide to try V-1 "buzz bombs" as the Germans did with damaging results against the harbor of Antwerp. The Russians are known to have captured quantities of these medium-distance missiles and to have been experimenting with their improvement since the war.

The range of the World War II V-1 was between 250 and 300 miles. The distance from North Korean-held territory to the constricted, congested port of Pusan is only about 130 miles.

There are no good alternate ports in South Korean hands. While information here shows three other ports—Masan, Yosu and Mokpo

Families Begin Big Move Into New Community

Los Angeles, July 17—(AP)—The first families are moving into 17,000-home Lakewood Park, tabbed by its promoters as the world's largest planned community.

Nearly 6,000 homes have been built since the project was started last February. The community, designed to house a population of 65,000, will cover roughly 10 square miles when completed. Seventy-five homes are started each day, the builders say.

The two and three bedroom homes range in price from $7,825 to $9,700, with no down payment for veterans. The project will include schools, churches, parks, playgrounds and a 154-acre shopping center.

Weevil Control Fight Gaining

Raleigh, N. C., July 17—(AP)—Tar Heel cotton farmers, says a State entomologist, are reporting good results in boll weevil control when proper precautions are taken.

George D. Jones, entomologist with the N. C. State College Extension Service, said in a weekly report that recent rains have hindered farmers in efforts to control the weevil.

He added, however, that with favorable weather during the next few weeks, growers who continue dusting and spraying should be able to make a crop.

But at this moment it isn't clear that we'll go to war with Russia or that the government, unless things get worse, will have to step in with controls.

To Be Tried For Brandishing Gun

A white man of the Pacifist community has been bound over to county court for brandishing a loaded shotgun and threatening to kill any and everyone in the vicinity last night.

Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Manning arrested Paul Moore, about 25, on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct after he had fired the gun several times into the air.

Moore, according to Manning, had got the gun from a Negro's house in the community and was threatening to kill anyone who molested him. He was given a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Frank Brooks this morning. Assisting Manning was county ABC Officer J. L. Taylor.

Robins Split Sunday Twin Bill With Rocky Mount By 0-6 And 6-3 Scores

Manager Benton Takes Mound To Blank Locals In First Game; Harrison's Jinx Still Holds In Winning Second; Strausser's Steal Feature Game

By BERT MOYE
Manager Randy Heflin and his Greenville Robins split their twin bill with the Rocky Mount Leafs here yesterday afternoon in the only two contests played by the Robins over the weekend. They lost the opening contest by a 6-0 score and then came back to even matters by taking a 6-3 win. The split for the Robins did not alter their standings in the league as the doubleheader between Kingston and Wilson was postponed on account of rain. They are still clinging tenaciously to third place by a half-game margin.

First Game
Manager Red Benton of the Leafs took the mound for the first time this season against the Robins and held the locals to five hits and no runs, while his teammates pounded Manager Randy Heflin on the mound for the Robins for 10 hits, including a three-run homer by Art Prieberger, the Leafs' second baseman, to hand the Robins a whitewashing job.

The Leafs scored two runs in the second frame on successive singles by Babe Johnson, Jim Reges and Art Hoch, together with an error by Centerfielder Paul Strausser. Streeter Tugwell's single and Pepper Martin's double into right field gave them a lone run in the third stanza and Art Prieberger's homer over the left field wall to bring home two mates aboard accounted for three more runs in the fourth frame.

The Robins' only chance to score came in the third frame when bases became loaded on two singles and a walk after two men were out but George Hallow popped out to centerfield to retire the side and end the scoring threat at this point.

Vince Lautato collected a double and a single in three trips to the plate to lead the five-hit attack off Red Benton. Art Prieberger, Pepper Martin and Jim Reges got two hits apiece to lead the 10-hit attack off Heflin.

Second Game
Bobby Harrison's jinx over the Rocky Mount Leafs continued to work yesterday as the Robins took the second game of the doubleheader, 6-3, as Harrison scattered 10 hits very effectively.
The Leafs went out in front by scoring a tally in the first frame on singles by Tugwell and Pepper Martin and an error committed by Mat-

Hall on Johnson's drive down the third base line.
The Robins went out in front in the third frame when they put across two runs. Joe Allegritte led off with a triple into right centerfield. Paul Strausser walked and stole second and then Johnny Tepedino hit into centerfield with both runners scoring.

The Leafs knotted the count at two-all in the fourth frame when Pepper Martin singled, advanced to second on a wild pitch and came home on Babe Johnson's double into centerfield.
The Robins trailed until the fifth inning when they put across two runs to go out in front for keeps. Big John Baktis started things off with a homer over the left centerfield wall. Paul Strausser singled, stole second, advanced to third on Cannon's infield out and then stole home on Pitcher George Griffin.

The Robins added singles in the sixth and eighth frames. After Lautato had reached first on a fielder's choice and Nail reached first on a fielder's choice when Fletcher Griffin threw wild to second allowing Lautato to reach third. Lautato and Nail pulled a double steal with Lautato reaching home. In the eighth inning Hallow led off with a double into right field and scored when Dick Bland came through with a timely single.

George Hallow with a double and a single and Vince Lautato with two singles led the 10-hit attack off the three Leaf hurlers.

Pepper Martin with two singles in four trips was the only Leaf to gather more than one hit off the offerings of Bobby Harrison.

The Robins travel to Goldsboro tonight to meet the Cards in a single game and return home Tuesday night for the second game of the two-game series.

South Carolinian Wins N. C. Tennis Open Title At Asheville On Sunday

Asheville, N. C., July 17—(AP)—Sam Daniel of Columbia, S. C., swept past Buddy Ager of Black Mountain, 6-1, 6-3, to win the North Carolina Open Tennis Championship at Biltmore Forest Country Club here yesterday.

It was the second tournament Daniel has won in the past two weeks. A week before, he won the mid-Dixie event at Spartanburg, S. C.
Daniel played his usual close net game, dropping his shots to all corners, and completely outclassed Ager.

Sunday Scores Refute Claim No 'Rabbit' In New Baseball!

By JACK HAND
(AP Sports Writer)
About that lively ball, now here's the dope: right from the Sunday box scores: the appalling one day total—37 home runs, 337 base hits, 188 runs; 68 beat up pitchers in 15 games.

Miller's eight-game win streak with a 10-3 wallop. Seven runs in the fifth doomed Miller, a Phil bonus kid.
Brooklyn pounded four Cardinal pitchers for 19 hits, 10-2, as rookie Chris Van Cuyk coasted home in his major league debut. The young Dodger lefty, just up from Fort Worth of the Texas League, allowed seven hits and struck out seven. Despite the loss, the Cards held first place by a half game.

Bickford's 10th win: A flurry of homers including two by Gus Bell and one each by Earl Turner and Beard, brought reliever Hank Gowron his first victory of the season in the second game.
Hank Thompson's error on Bobby Usher's grounder with the bases loaded in the 12th gave Cincinnati an 11-10 win over the Giants and a clean sweep of the home run batties. The Reds took the opener, 16-4, with Ted Kluszewski hitting seven homers and Johnny Prames, Grady Hatton and Lloyd Merriman one each.

Rabbit! Better make it kangaroo. No bunny can jump that high, that often.
Out in Pittsburgh a little guy named Ted Beard who hit .277 for Indianapolis last year, hit one over the right field stands. Nobody had done that since Babe Ruth in 1935.
Walt Dropo, man-mountain Boston Red Sox rookie slashed three home runs and two doubles in a doubleheader. Duke Snider of Brooklyn went 5 for 5 against the St. Louis Cardinals. One of the Duke's hits was a homer.

Only one major grid league now is in operation with the All-America Conference a thing of the past. The NFL is readying for its 31st consecutive campaign, bulwarked by the addition of the powerful Cleveland Browns and San Francisco Forty Niners and strengthened Baltimore Colts from the defunct AAC.
Owners of the 13 team NFL are looking forward to a great season both on the field and in the box office. Starting September 18 with the most awaited pro grid clash in years—the Philadelphia Eagles against the Cleveland Browns—NFL teams will play a total of 78 games. The season winds up in mid-December with a championship game between winners of the league's two divisions.

Philadelphia and Cleveland are expected to settle—at least temporarily—the world championship of pro football. The Eagles, winners of the NFL crown in 1948 and 1949, will tackle the Browns, four time winner of the AAC title, in Philadelphia's 100,000 seat Municipal Stadium.

During the week-end the Robins added another double-header to its list while they managed to get rid of one which still leaves ten to go. The Rocky Mount Leafs became the second team in the league to register a shutout against the Robins this season as they blanked them 6-0 in the opening game of Sunday's double-header. That made three times this season that the Robins have been blanked by the Kingston club being the club to have done the job on two previous occasions... Heflin lost his fifth game of the season and his second to the Leafs... In his total of eleven wins he has defeated the Leafs once this season in his only appearance against them... Manager Red Benton, who is now pitching 500 ball with a 6-6 record, won his first contest of the season in the opener yesterday and in fact it has been his only appearance against the Robins this season... Bobby Harrison defeated the Leafs for the third time this season in four tries to give him a record at the present time of 5 wins and 4 losses... A total of 1,120 fans witnessed yesterday's twin bill out at Guy Smith stadium... Paul Strausser literally stole the show in the second game yesterday as he successfully stole on three occasions, one of them he stole home... 0-0-0

Business Manager Russ Filley yesterday received the following telegram from A. P. Durham, President of the Anderson, S. C., baseball club: "Anderson Club exercises its right to recall contract of George Hallow on option to your club, subject to 72 hour recall. Have Hallow report to Anderson immediately, an sending you Ralph Bartolozzi on option."
The above message in simple English means that Greenville will lose the best first baseman in the league should the message be carried out. In a talk with Hallow last night he said efforts were being made by Business Manager Russ Filley to have him remain with the club and just what action will be taken by President Roy Dissinger, who is expected here today or tomorrow is yet unknown. Defensively Hallow is the best in the league when it comes to handling the first base sack and that extra stretch which he puts out for the ball has caused many a runner to be thrown out and never reached first. So, therefore if the runner doesn't reach first he can't score and in yesterday's game this was proven time and time again on his sensational fielding at the first sack. His loss to the Robins at this time would be a great blow at the present time and it is hoped that President Roy Dissinger, who sees his way clear to let Hallow remain on with us for the rest of the season. 0-0-0

Here and there: — Joe Allegritte had to be removed from the second game of yesterday's contest shortly after he had hit a triple into right centerfield when he hurt his back going into third base... The Roanoke Rapids Jays have given an unconditional release to catcher Brantley Aycock. Aycock has been on the suspended list for the past several days with a bad hand. Dub Johnson, another Jay catcher, requested and received his release last Friday... Hary Helmer, former Rocky Mount pitcher and grad star at Atlantic Christian College, is now operating with Omaha, Neb., of the Western Class A League. Harry, who spent a little time in Norfolk of the Piedmont League last season, began this campaign in Columbia of the Sally League... Al Rehm, ex-Wilson fancy fielding shortstop, is still in harness at Lakeland, Fla... Van Williams returns to the Rocky Mount Leafs after leaving voluntary retirement list. Last season he won 12 and lost nine for the Leafs, then went on the voluntary retirement list.

George Hallow Night will be celebrated by the Greenville Robins when they meet Goldsboro tomorrow night. Hallow will appear in the Robins' uniforms for the last time tomorrow. The slugging firstbaseman will be presented with a gift during the seventh inning as a token of appreciation of the players of management.

Hanged Self At State Hospital

Raleigh, N.C., July 17—(AP)—A Durham man who was charged with killing his wife two years ago hanged himself at the State Hospital here last night, Coroner I. M. Cheek reported today.

Cheek said Lonnie D. Barefoot, 45, was found hanging from a bar across the door transom of his room. He used a window sash-weight rope evidently taken from another part of the building where he was confined, the coroner said. There was no such cord in the windows of the room, Cheek added.

Before hanging himself, Cheek said, Barefoot had slashed his wrists and ankles with a crude knife made from a piece of bed spring. The coroner termed the death a suicide.

Barefoot was slated to stand trial in Durham Superior Court in June, 1948, for the hammer slaying of his wife, Cheek said. He was found mentally incompetent, however, and was ordered held in the hospital here until found ready for trial, the coroner added.

Cheek said Hospital Attendant L. O. Pearce told him Barefoot seemed in good spirits when Pearce gave the man a drink of water about an hour before his body was found.

she resided until 1948 when she made her home with a son in Everetts. She was a member of the Williamston Missionary Baptist Church.

Belgians Honor American Dead On Bastogne Hill

Bastogne, Belgium, July 17—(AP)—Belgian crowds paid tribute yesterday to America's war dead when a monument was unveiled atop a Bastogne hill in memory of the heroic GI stand in the Battle of the Bulge.

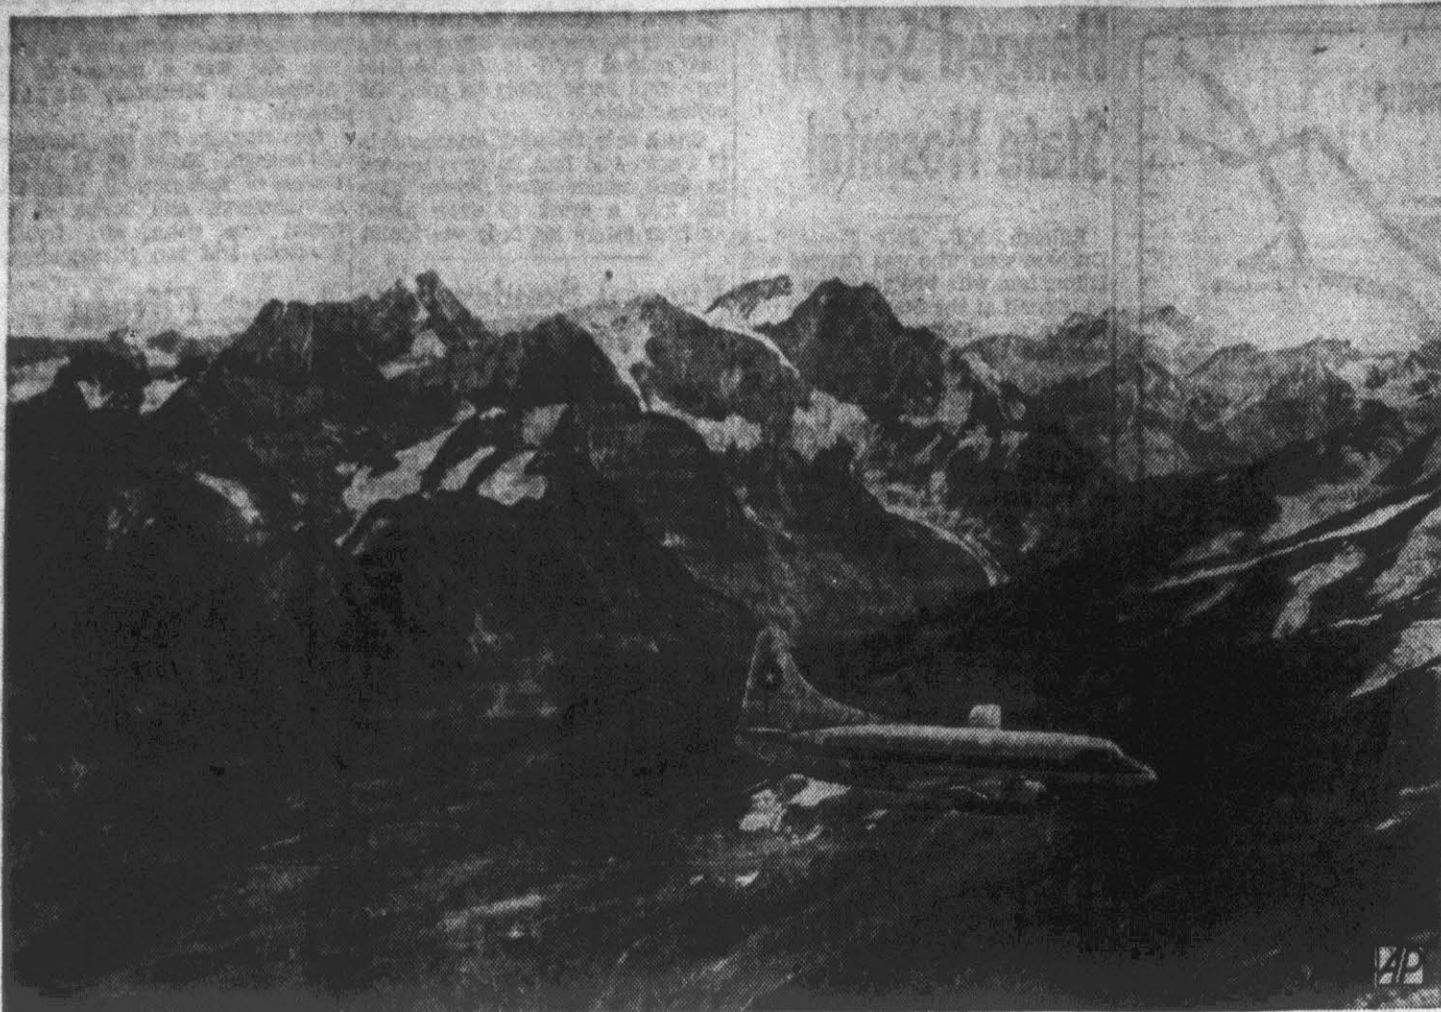

Thousands of Americans and Belgians stood bareheaded in the rain as the star-shaped monument was dedicated "to the enduring friendship of the people of Belgium and America."

Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, who gave his famous "Nuts" retort, when the Germans called on his 101st Airborne Division to surrender, dedicated the memorial.

In his dedication speech McAuliffe pointed out that America and other Atlantic nations are joined now under a pact to resist aggression.

"My government," he said, "has announced that a threat to the freedom of Belgium, or to any other free nation, is also a threat to the freedom of the United States."

A message from President Truman was read by American Ambassador Robert D. Murphy. The President wrote that the memorial is "an enduring testimonial to the common devotion of our two countries to the cause of freedom and to their partnership in arms for its defense."

IT'S DEATH, MY DARLING!

By Amelia Reynolds Long

Chapter 22
At sight of the sheriff through the open doorway, they all stopped, as though sensing some new trouble. Beau was the first to advance into the room.

"Father—?" he began, glancing questioningly from one of us to another.

The stoic calm which Pick had maintained so heroically deserted her now, and she ran to her brother. "It's Lee, Beau," she gasped out, and dropped her head upon his shoulder. "He—he's killed himself!"

Beau started, as though he had received a physical blow. Then his arms closed about his sister.

For two or three seconds, no one spoke.

"What made him think I'd come here about my father?" the sheriff asked at last. He addressed the question to Tmedee, Henri, and Cousin Jeff collectively.

It was Amedee who undertook to answer.

"Because—" he began, then stopped. He glanced at Lewis Hays.

"I didn't tell the sheriff," Lewis Hays said. "I let him think Mr. Raoul was in New Orleans with the rest of you."

The sheriff wheeled upon him. "What's going on here?" he demanded. "If there's something you all've been holdin' back..."

Cousin Jeff moved forward.

"I'll explain, Wilkes," he said in his quiet, easy manner, and told what he knew about Uncle Raoul's disappearance.

The first flare of suspicion began to fade from the sheriff's eyes. "I guess I can understand how you all felt about it, Mr. Marshall," he said. "But just the same, when you didn't get no word from him by yesterday morning, my office should've been let know. Why he might be—"

Beau turned almost savagely upon him, one arm still around Pick. "For God's sake, shut up, Wilkes!" he flared. "Aren't things bad enough without you having to suggest—but I want to know about Lee," he interrupted himself. "Where is he?"

The sheriff reddened.

"He's upstairs in his room," he said. "You can go up if you want to. The coroner's there."

Beau attempted gently to release himself from Pick, but she clung to his arm.

"I want to go with you," she said. The coroner came down the stairs in time to overhear and to grasp the situation.

"It's all right," he said to Beau. "I've finished up there. You can take her with you."

The brother and sister moved away together.

The coroner addressed the sheriff.

"Well, I'm satisfied," he said. "Everything check at your end?"

The sheriff nodded.

There never was much doubt about young Lee's death," he replied, "although the old lady had me goin' there for a minute." He jerked his head in Aunt Delphine's direction. "But now something else's come up."

He drew the coroner back into the hall and lowered his voice. It was plain that he was telling him about Uncle Raoul.

After a minute, the coroner returned. He was tearing a page from the undersigned on or before the 10th day of July, 1951, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery. All persons indebted to said estate will please make immediate payment to the undersigned.

War-Hysteria In Raising Prices Is Assailed

Raleigh, N. C., July 17—(AP)—An official of the state Merchants Association has lashed out at what he called the small percentage of manufacturers who "are using the war hysteria as a level to gouge the merchant."

Without naming the manufacturers, Thompson Greenwood, executive secretary of the association declared yesterday these manufacturers are "flirting with a freezing of prices."

He said "we know of no instance where a merchant has increased prices unless forced to by action up the line." He declared that the merchant has no alternative but to step up his prices if he is forced to pay more for the commodities he purchases.

Mobilization By U. S. Advocated

Washington, July 17—(AP)—Senator Lodge (R-Mass.) urged today for immediate mobilization of American manpower and industry, and a speed-up in rearming Western Europe, to block Russian aims for world domination.

"In sober truth our very national existence is at stake," Lodge told the Senate. "We have not a minute to lose. We must not stumble around at the threshold of disaster."

Lodge's speech came shortly after Senator Bridges (R-NH) had said Congress will give the armed services any needed increase in funds "but they will have to use it better than some money has been used in the past."

Lodge, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said it is "generally accepted that the Soviets will have enough atomic bombs to strike a rugged blow at the United States in 1952-53."

He suggested that the Korean invasion, followed by similar moves in other strategic areas and a rer seizure of the Ruhr and Japan, could include with an atomic attack on this nation.

It all fits neatly into the time schedule and coincides with what we are told about the Soviet plane-gunner tank building programs, he said.

Lodge contended there is no need to "sit idly by and stupidly watch such a grim tragedy unfold before our frightened eyes."

He said we must recognize that we are in a major war in Korea and must "quickly create a situation of military strength." He added that this means nothing less than "immediate mobilization of American manpower and industry."

Barn Of Tobacco And Auto Burned

Greenville firemen responded to two early morning calls today; one to a burning tobacco barn and the other to a burning auto.

A tobacco barn owned by Allen Mozingo, about four miles from Greenville on the Washington highway caught fire shortly after seven o'clock this morning.

The frame structure was blazing out of control by the time the firemen from Greenville arrived on the scene, however a nearby barn was prevented from catching, firemen said.

Mozingo estimated that he had about seven hundred sticks of tobacco was second pullings. Estimated loss from the barn was between $1200 and $1500.

It was not ascertained if there was any insurance on the building or contents.

Around six o'clock this morning, a fire truck from Greenville was dispatched to a burning automobile owned by Archie Corey on the Falkland highway. The car was a total loss.

Judge Roberts, commenting to court officials and a newspaper reporter, said many wives swear out warrants, then refuse to testify.

Crop Insurance Deadline Near For Applicants

All farmers who have applied for federal crop insurance on tobacco must file for the five percent discount prior to July 31 in order to receive it. After that date the full premium must be paid.

Since the Production and Marketing Administration took over the insurance program recently, 3,075 Pitt farmers have contracts with the local office. The policy costs $7.50 per acre and insures the tobacco crop for $277 against any disease or weather damage—anything except theft.

At present only tobacco is covered by the insurance program in Pitt.

County PMA Secretary James T. Meredith today asked all farmers who have damaged crops to ask his office for an adjuster to check the damage in order that compensation may be received.

Now that the battery has returned to Greenville they will continue regular weekly drills at the local Armory and put the things that they learned in camp to actual practice.

Two of the large 155 howitzers belonging to the local guard unit will arrive by train flatcars in a couple days while one complete gun unit was left at the camp to be stored. Guard officers said.

Tyndall said that at the present time the battery lacks a few men of being up to full strength and is looking for men to join in order to bring the unit up to authorized strength.

Such an election, of course would follow the usual lines of her elections in satellite states and would deliver all Korea, hog-tied, into Moscow's hands.

However, there isn't the slightest indications at this juncture that the United States would be willing to embark on any such risky deal. Korea is strategically important to the western powers in their fight to halt the spread of Communism in the far-East. Abandonment of the peninsula now would not only weaken the Democracies militarily but would have a tremendously adverse influence on the morale of that part of the world.

Excavator Had Many Troubles Building Site

Excavators on the vacant lot on Evans street, between Lautrea's jewelry store and Eflord's department store, for a building for Bissette's drug store met many obstacles until today, Ed Porter, contractor's foreman on the job, said.

After encountering sewer, drainage and water pipes running in all directions on the lot; several cave-ins, one in which a Negro laborer had a narrow escape from serious injury; overflow water as a result of heavy rains, and a bricked up basement with cement floor, the contractor had some good luck today.

When the big derrick excavator went back on the job today it struck a deep layer of coarse sand suitable for mixing with lime and cement for building purposes.

The excavating machine which can load a standard dump truck with four or five scoops of dirt and debris was digging out brown building sand today and depositing it in a sand dune on the lot. Gene West, manager of the P. W. West Construction Company, contractor on the new Bissette drug store building, said the sand would not be used on the building there—that it was not clean enough.

Progress on the building is expected to get into full swing now.

The structure is to be one-story, with spacious basement and all modern conveniences. It is expected to be completed in several months. Bissette's operate drug stores at Wilson and here. The plans pro-

Full Production For Auto Firm

Detroit, July 17—(AP)—Kaiser-Frazer Corp. today announced it will resume full production Wednesday morning.

The company has been operating at about 50 per cent of capacity for a week, with 4,500 employees idle and 5,000 working.

A K-F spokesman said settlement of the Budd Co. strike at Philadelphia and a "general clearing of the supply picture at Philadelphia and a "general clearing of the supply picture" permitted a return to normal output.

DEAR PATRONS:

As Manager of your Pitt Theatre, it gives me great pleasure to announce the showing of our next picture—"STARS IN MY CROWN."

I wish that I had the talent to write an advertisement worthy of this attraction—one that would cause every man, woman and child in Greenville to see this picture. I honestly believe that this wonderful new family film will make the entire community feel better, happier, more neighborly.

The usual adjectives do not fit this movie, and they cannot describe the feeling you will have when you see this human, down-to-earth story of real people—in a small town—very much like the one we live in.

"STARS IN MY CROWN" opens TUESDAY for THREE big days, and I hope you will be able to see it.

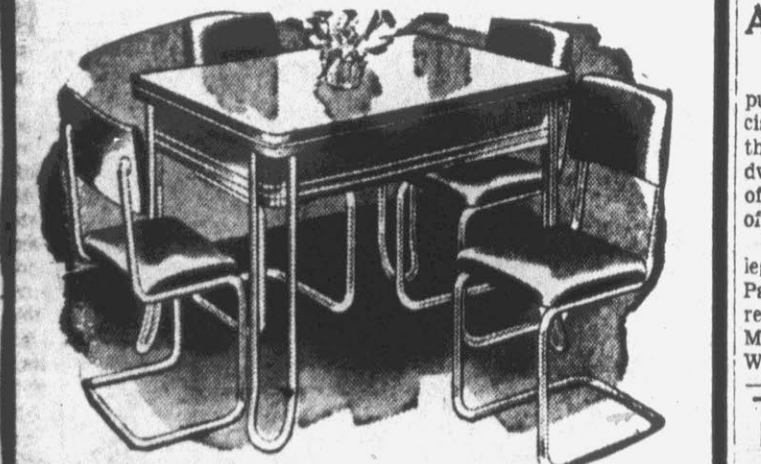

Sincerely,
GORDON STURM
