Top Leaders Of Red Cominform Meet In Berlin

Assemble In What Appears Important Session Of Communist Chieftains

Berlin, July 20—(AP)—Top brass of Communist Europe and Red China assembled today for what appeared to be an important Cominform meeting under the cover of a Communist party convention.

Communist representatives from 18 nations—many of them bigwigs in the Moscow-directed Cominform—came here ostensibly for today's opening of the third annual convention of East Germany's Socialist Unity (Communist) Party. It was the biggest gathering of Red leaders since the outbreak of the Korean war.

The meeting came as Cominform pressure was being stepped up against Yugoslavia, bitter foe of the Soviet bloc.

It also came less than 48 hours after the United Nations Committee on the Balkans warned U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie that the Cominform was planning an attack on Greece.

For several weeks there have been reports of troop movements and border security measures in Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary, all good Cominform members and neighbors of Greece or Yugoslavia.

There was also a report from Karlstadt, Czechoslovakia, that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky had cut short a vacation of nearly two months at that health resort and had left for an undisclosed spot. It was the first news of Vishinsky since mid-May.

There was no indication, however, that Vishinsky was in Berlin.

These events indicated to wary western observers that the many leaders of the international Red organization here probably had been drawn to Berlin by more than the Socialist Unity Congress.

Among the Red notables arriving, purportedly for the party convention, were Russia's M. R. Suslov and P. N. Pospelov, Suslov is secretary of the Russian Communist party's central committee and is Russia's Cominform delegate.

Italy's Communists were represented by Palmiro Togliatti and France's Reds by Jacques Duclos, both prominent figures at previous Cominform sessions.

Other arrivals were: Wang Chia Slang of the Chinese Communist Central Committee, Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz and Jaxub Berman of Poland's Communist Politburo, Josef Reval of Hungary, For-

Snow Hill Man New Sanitarian For Pitt County

Dr. T. G. Basnight, Pitt County Health officer, announced today that Willie Pate, Snow Hill, will replace Paul O. Brigham as senior sanitarian.

Pate has until recently been sanitarian for the Greene County health department and will assume his duties with the local department August 1.

Basnight stated the sanitarian was highly recommended by the district sanitarian and also by the district health officer. Pate has had several years' experience in sanitation work, Basnight said, and recently became rated as senior sanitarian by the State Board of Health.

In replacing Brigham, who recently resigned on a leave without pay status to attend school, Pate will take over Brigham's duties as sanitation and milk inspector in the county.

He will be approved by the county board of health when it meets tomorrow night.

How Much Mobilizing?

Even The Moderate Degree Of Preparedness Now Scheduled Will Be Costly; If We're Lucky, It Will Be Worth It; President Truman Sees Years Of Sacrifices

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 20—(AP)—Now the $64 question is: How long will these preparations against war last? The country is now going on a kind of war footing. Not full-scale, at least, not yet. But still on a scale that leaves behind the fat and happy luxury of the past five peacetime years.

The armed forces will be outfit up. No one yet has said how big they will have to be. This means many men drawn away from their peacetime jobs to serve in the Army, Navy or Air Force.

With the government about to control the use of steel and some other things which industry has been turning out, there'll be fewer things like autos, radios, TV sets, refrigerators, steel and a lot of other things that will have to be turned into instruments of war like tanks, guns, planes. All of this will cost money.

It will cost a lot more than the government has been spending. Even in these past luxurious years the government has been spending more than it's been collecting in taxes.

As a result, the government has been running in the red. It will go deeper in the red now for, as a starter, and only as a starter, President

Enlisted Men For Reserves Sought

Local Office Ordered To Call Up Specialists In Grades Presently Held By Members Enlisted Reserve Corps

The local office of the Organized Reserve Corps announced this morning an order has been issued for the recall to active duty of army enlisted reserves who wish to volunteer for active service.

Lt. Col. Warren G. Davis, commander of the ORC unit with headquarters here, said, "No information has been received yet in regard to reserve officers volunteering for service."

The announcement released by the office was directed specifically to enlisted men in the army reserve. It calls for specialists who hold ratings in radar, radio, tank, AAA mechanics, engineer heavy equipment operators, crypto technicians and engineer construction specialists.

It stated: "Enlisted reservists who volunteer for recall and are accepted will be recalled in the grade presently held in the enlisted reserve corps."

As nearly as could be ascertained this morning, there are 59 army enlisted reservists in Pitt County who have been connected with the local reserve unit.

The announcement from the local office called reservists in the Greenville area who desire to volunteer for recall to extended active duty should contact the local ORC office located at 106 Ficklen Street. The announcement said reservists with dependents who volunteer for recall must be of corporal grade or higher.

Information available this morning indicated there are 34 reserve officers connected with the local ORC unit, and there are approximately 19 other army reserve officers who are in an inactive status. The numbers include only the army reserve officers. No information could readily be obtained on the number of Air Force, Navy and Marine reserve officers in the county.

Col. Davis said in an interview the headquarters and staff section of the 3015th reception center is now located in Greenville and members of the local ORC are included in the unit. Other sections of the reception center unit are located in Wilson and Goldsboro. Col. O. B. Bealand of Wilson is commanding officer of the reception center unit, and Lt. Col. W. S. Stafford of Greenville is executive officer of the unit.

It was also pointed out that the 3046th induction station was recently organized with headquarters in Greenville. Col. George C. Martin of Greenville is commanding officer and Major Fred T. Langford is executive officer.

Col. Davis said both units are part of the new ORC program recently announced by the department of the army. "The two units are related in their functions," he explained, "and are ultimately intended to receive recruits for physical examination, the issuance of basic equipment and the transportation of new men to designated training centers in the event of a major mobilization."

He added that the units are presently a part of a "long range ORC training program."

Col. Davis said, "No information is available at this time which would indicate that either of these units is scheduled for early call to active duty."

Leopold Is Voted Back To Throne

Belgian Parliament Votes To Return Exiled Monarch

Brussels, July 20—(AP)—King Leopold III was voted back to his throne by the Belgian Parliament today.

He has been in exile in Switzerland since the war. The question of bringing him back split Belgium badly for months, with the Socialists particularly being bitterly opposed to his return.

A joint session of both houses of Parliament, cast 196 affirmative votes for Leopold's return, with most opposition Socialists, Liberals and Communists abstaining in protest. There are 387 members in both houses.

The decision was on legislation to end the regency of Prince Charles, Leopold's brother.

The opposition to Leopold was based in the main on two factors: 1. His early surrender to the Germans in 1940.

2. His marriage in 1945 to a Flemish commoner after the death of his queen.

The abstainers marched from the chamber before the vote, leaving the pro-king Social Christians to vote Leopold's return. Paul-Henri Spaak, Socialist leader and former premier, declared the Socialists are all that is doing had accomplished "one of the gravest and most disastrous acts of our history."

Outside the chamber, the opposition Parliament members paraded to the royal palace to pay one final tribute to Prince Charles.

Wrong Button To Make A Getaway

Buffalo, N.Y., July 20—(AP)—The police lieutenant stepped out of the squad car and walked toward a building.

John Sheer, 38, stepped into the squad car, turned on the ignition and pushed the button on the left side of the dashboard.

The motor didn't turn over, but the siren did.

The charge: vagrancy. The plea: guilty. The sentence: 90 days.

Senate Accepts Tydings Report

Override GOP Protests In Strict Party-Line Vote

Washington, July 20—(AP)—Overriding vehement Republican protests, the Senate voted today to accept a report by Democrats denouncing the Communists-in-government charges of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) as a "fraud and a hoax."

The straight party line vote was 45 to 37—Democrats for, Republicans against.

The decision came after several Republican Senators had insisted that the report was "out of order" and should not be filed.

The hotly disputed document was put out last Monday night by the Democratic majority of a Senate foreign relations subcommittee. The subcommittee had investigated McCarthy's contentions that the state department harbors Communists and Red sympathizers.

The report said McCarthy failed to prove a single allegation and had waged "perhaps the most nefarious campaign of half-truths and untruths" in the nation's history.

Several Republican Senators that the report was a "white-wash" of McCarthy's charges and an insult to McCarthy.

GOP members protested against the Senate's formally receiving the report but vice President Barkley, presiding, ruled it could be filed automatically.

Senator Wherry (R-Nebr.), the Republican leader, then appealed Barkley's ruling to the Senate.

The vote, 45 to 37, tabled the Wherry appeal motion and put the report into the official records of the Senate.

President Calls Key Officials Into Conference

Washington, July 20—(AP)—President Truman called part of the cabinet and his mobilization chief to a White House conference today (2:30 P. M. EST) for a close look at how his new military program will affect the home front.

Those asked to sit in on the review were W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board, the top mobilization agency; Secretary of the Treasury Snyder; Secretary of Commerce Sawyer; Secretary of the Interior Chapman, and Secretary of Labor Tobin.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters the talks will be concerned with Mr. Truman's recommendations to Congress yesterday dealing primarily with the home front. These include things like consumer credit curbs, priorities and allocations for materials needed for military supplies and speeding up defense production.

NSRB VICE PRESIDENT Washington, July 20—(AP)—Robert J. Smith of Dallas, Texas was nominated by President Truman today to be vice chairman of the National Security Resources Board. The NSRB is the agency in charge of coordinating plans for mobilization.

Washington, July 20—(AP)—President Truman's decision to rally American power against expanding Communist strength puts squarely up to Russia the decision on whether the world is to move toward all-out war or a new, uneasy peace.

Diplomatic authorities said the next move in the global crisis is clearly up to Moscow—now that the President has backed up his stop-aggression policy with initial preparation to fight where necessary.

Administration leaders remained hopeful that the men in the Kremlin would heed the President's warning and choose a peaceful course. They did not rule out, however, the possibility that the Communist chieftains have decided on war and may now unfold a policy to that end.

In any case, Russia has the initiative and the United States and allied nations are confronted with the need to marshal maximum forces as rapidly as possible.

In terms of conventional weapons—armies, tanks, airplanes and the like—Russia is considered to have a wide margin of strength over the Western powers. This might be one reason why the Red leaders would prefer a military showdown fairly soon.

Truman's Action Puts War Issue Up To Russians

Decision To Block Communist Expansion Leaves Future In Soviet Hands

Washington, July 20—(AP)—President Truman's decision to rally American power against expanding Communist strength puts squarely up to Russia the decision on whether the world is to move toward all-out war or a new, uneasy peace.

Diplomatic authorities said the next move in the global crisis is clearly up to Moscow—now that the President has backed up his stop-aggression policy with initial preparation to fight where necessary.

Administration leaders remained hopeful that the men in the Kremlin would heed the President's warning and choose a peaceful course. They did not rule out, however, the possibility that the Communist chieftains have decided on war and may now unfold a policy to that end.

In any case, Russia has the initiative and the United States and allied nations are confronted with the need to marshal maximum forces as rapidly as possible.

In terms of conventional weapons—armies, tanks, airplanes and the like—Russia is considered to have a wide margin of strength over the Western powers. This might be one reason why the Red leaders would prefer a military showdown fairly soon.

On the other hand, official Washington is confident that the United States has an edge in atomic weapons and probably also in some other new devices, such as anti-tank weapons, which still have to be put into mass production.

The atomic bomb may be a powerful incentive against the Kremlin forcing the issue anytime soon.

Meanwhile the United States and its allies in the Atlantic Pact are beginning the long, slow process of building up their military strength. Mr. Truman disclosed yesterday that talks already are under way with the other 11 Atlantic treaty members on increasing weapons production, and he promised additional American help in this effort.

State and Defense Department officials estimate this may cost $5,000,000,000 a top of the $10,000,000,000 American armament program which Mr. Truman laid before Congress in his message.

Beyond the problem of speeding up the defense preparations of the West lie other questions of making effective use of available manpower and industrial production.

A related question is whether the Western powers should begin to make use of Germany's great industrial production capacity for turning out material needed by the Western armies. So far studies along this line have been concerned mainly with the possibility of putting German factories to work on essential non-combat items, such as trucks.

Through yesterday the people who had paid their current city taxes had received discounts which totaled $1,732,34. The one-and-one-half per cent discount on taxes will be offered through July, and a discount of one per cent will be offered for taxes paid during August and September. Taxes paid in October will be subject to a one-half of one per cent discount.

The city clerk said the payment of taxes during June and July of this year is slightly ahead of the tax payments which had been received by the city through July 19 of last year.

N. C. Draft Age Group Doubled

Raleigh, N. C., July 20—(AP)—The new draft age limit of 35 years will boost North Carolina's selective service manpower pool to about 695,000.

Lt. Col. Thomas H. Upton, deputy state director of selective service, said today an estimated 280,000 men between 26 and 35 years old will be added to the eligible list under the new order.

Scott Declines Intervene In Tomorrow's Execution

Raleigh, N. C. July 20—(AP)—Governor Scott today declined to intervene for Claude Shackelford to die for rape.

The decision means Shackelford, 34-year-old Guilford county farmer must enter the Central Prison gas chamber at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

It was the second time Scott had refused to extend clemency, although on June 30 he did give the condemned man a reprieve to permit investigation of a statement signed by the 10-year-old victim and her mother. The reprieve came nine minutes before Shackelford was to die, after Scott the day before had refused to intervene.

In his announcement, the Governor said investigation by Paroles commissioner T. C. Johnson showed no new evidence had been introduced by the statement, and that a claim of Shackelford's that a third person was involved in the case had been refuted.

The Governor said the statement had been repudiated, and that he saw no grounds for "altering the decision of the courts."

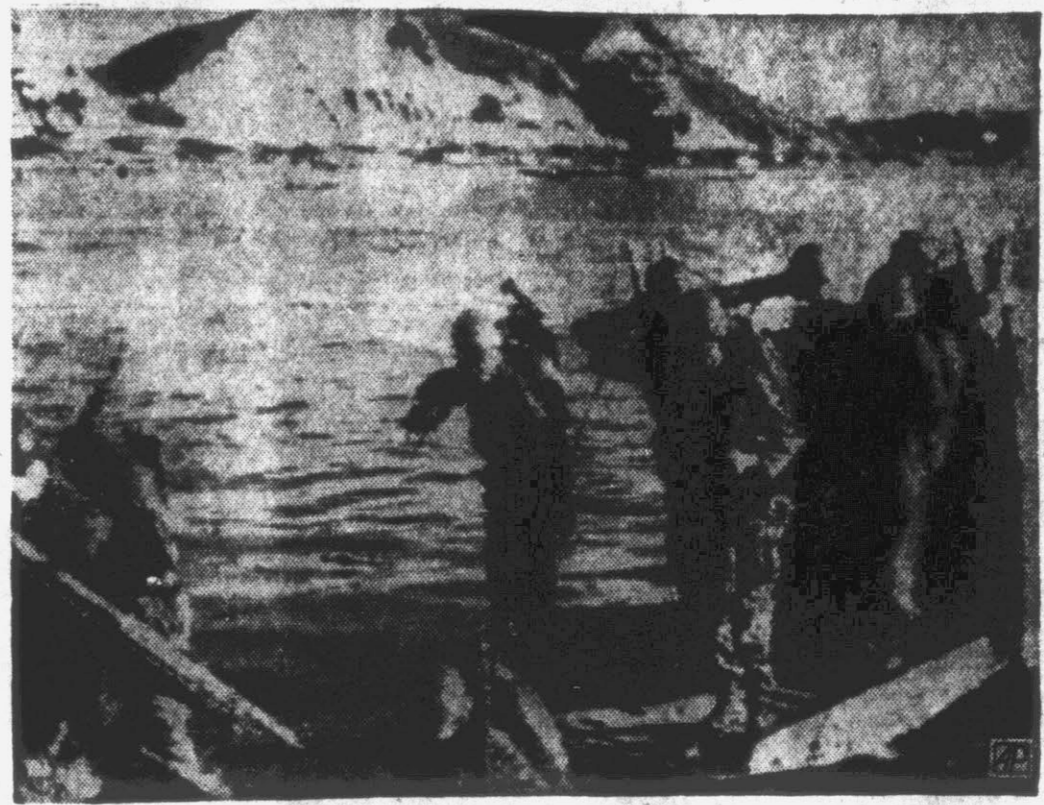

The reprieve was granted on the basis of a statement signed by Shirley Ann Hunt, 10, the victim, and her mother, Mrs. Dalton Hunt of near High Point. It said the full story was not told at the trial.

Commissioner Johnson investigated the statement and has held several hearings in the case.

Both Shirley Ann and her mother, said the paroles commissioner, admitted they signed the statement but both told him they did not understand its contents. Both asserted the story brought out at the trial was true.

Communists Hurl Strong Offensive Against Taejon; Americans Retreat

Americans Make Amphibious Landing In Korea

Troops of the First U. S. Cavalry division splash ashore Wednesday at Pohang on the east coast of South Korea in the first combat amphibious operation since World War II. The landing was unopposed and the troops moved inland quickly without opposition. Contrary to its name, the First Cavalry is now an infantry unit. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Tokyo).

City's Tax Take Is Over $85,000

Represents Over 32 Percent Of Total Levy For Year

Collections on the 1950-51 Greenville tax levy through yesterday had been $85,307.93, it was reported today by City Clerk J. O. Duval.

The amount collected on the city taxes for the new fiscal year represents slightly over 32 per cent of the total tax levy for the year. The 1950-51 tax levy for the city of Greenville was set up in the tentative budget at $263,360.01. Duval said, however, there will be an upward revision in the tax valuation of between $5,000 and $6,000 as soon as the city office receives a complete report on the corporation excess tax valuation from the state tax commission. The valuation increase will up the tax levy approximately $75.

During June many local people took advantage of the two per cent discount which was offered for the payment of the 1950 taxes, and the same thing has been true during July while a one-and-one-half per cent discount is being offered for the payment of taxes.

Through yesterday the people who had paid their current city taxes had received discounts which totaled $1,732,34. The one-and-one-half per cent discount on taxes will be offered through July, and a discount of one per cent will be offered for taxes paid during August and September. Taxes paid in October will be subject to a one-half of one per cent discount.

The city clerk said the payment of taxes during June and July of this year is slightly ahead of the tax payments which had been received by the city through July 19 of last year.

Prices On Gasoline Take Slight Increase

Sugar Spree

Asheville, July 20—(AP)—The price of sugar soared in Asheville today.

Most stores had a limited supply on hand but were rationing it—five pounds to the customer. A month ago a five-pound bag of the white crystals was bringing between 45 and 50 cents; today, sugar is selling at 80 and 85 cents. And one store was reported getting $1.05.

A slight July increase in sales is natural due to the canning and ice tea season, retailers pointed out, but the demand so far this summer is four to five times normal.

Chicod Principal Resigns Position

It was learned today that Newman Lewis, principal of the Chicod school for over 10 years, has resigned to accept the same position in the Penderlee school.

Superintendent of county schools D. H. Allen announced today that Fodie Hodges, former principal of the Belvoir school, will replace Lewis at Chicod.

According to Conley, Lewis submitted his resignation to the Chicod school district committee last week, which was accepted. The committee, in turn, elected Hodges.

Lewis will take over the reins at Penderlee beginning with the fall term. The school is as large as Chicod's, having 21 teachers.

The principal's resignation came on the heels of public sentiment being raised against the district committee and Lewis as principal for not re-appointing Y. E. Williams as vocational-agriculture teacher for next year. Instead the committee elected Eugene James as teacher.

The sentiment against both Lewis and the committee resulted in two petitions being signed by citizens of the district, one asking for the re-appointment of Williams, and the other asking for the ousting of Lewis.

Both petitions were read at a public meeting of the citizens and the county school board during the months of May and June. At both meetings the persons gathered were informed Williams was not to be re-appointed and Lewis was still principal.

Superintendent Conley said this morning Lewis accepted the Penderlee job during the past two weeks. His resignation to the committee was effective immediately after it was submitted.

Curb On Profits Demanded By More Lawmakers

Washington, July 20—(AP)—Demands arose on Capitol Hill today for a multi-billion dollar excess profits tax on corporations, to prevent profiteering.

A general tax boosting bill—possibly putting larger levels on individual incomes, along with higher taxes on corporation profits—will replace the $1,000,000,000 excise tax slashing measure that Congress has put aside.

President Truman gave notice yesterday he will ask for more taxes—he didn't say just when—to help finance the extra $10,000,000,000 needed for the battle against Communist aggression; to curb inflation, and to eliminate profiteering.

Prices On Gasoline Take Slight Increase

Motor Oils Unaffected; Tire Sales Said To Rise

Gasoline prices in Greenville and Pitt County took a four-tenths of a cent rise in price per gallon yesterday and today.

Local distributors of Sinclair, Esso, Texaco, Shell, and Puro were notified by telegram from their district offices to hike the price. The hike includes both regular and hi-test fuels.

Only one company, Gulf, has not as yet hiked its price. However, W. L. Allen, local distributor, stated this morning he thought the district office in Raleigh would order all individual dealers to go up accordingly.

None of the increases affect the price of motor oil, the distributors reported. They will remain constant, they thought. To date, none has noted any increase in consumer demand which may be prompted by the increasing war scare.

On the tire front, those commodities are becoming increasingly harder to buy and tire sales are reported up locally. J. Bryan Brown, Puro dealer in Greenville, reported this morning his retailers tire sales had increased about 25 percent over the past few weeks.

In describing the price rise, the Shell Oil Company, from its national office, stated the hike was due to "higher production costs and brisk consumer demand." It had raised the price throughout the Southern states from two-tenths to five-tenths of a cent per gallon.

ASK POWER INCREASE Washington, July 20—(AP)—Station WFTC, Kinston, N.C., today asked the Communications Commission for permission to change from 1280 to 960 kilocycles and increase power from 250 watts to one kilowatt.

Washington, July 20—(AP)—The Communists hurled a strong offensive into Taejon today and the U. S. 24th division was reported withdrawing in heavy fighting from the flaming key rail and highway junction in South Korea. The whereabouts of Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, the 24th's commander, was not known.

A broadcast by NBC from Tokyo said Taejon already had fallen. A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said the hard-pressed 24th division still held the city at the end of the day's fighting, but a dispatch from a command post said the division was on its way out. By 9:20 p. m., Korean time, a spokesman said, 50 per cent of American units in the Taejon area "succeeded in making a fairly orderly withdrawal."

The Americans apparently were falling back to the Kumchon area where despite the retreat—it had been predicted—the North Koreans announced that the North Koreans already had lost their "one great chance" for victory by failing to flatten South Korea "from the arrival of the Americans' strength."

Two fresh American divisions now are protecting the approaches to Kumchon against a Communist push in the east coast and central sectors. Airmen reported heavy Red concentrations of tanks and artillery in the central sector.

The Communists threw an enveloping movement around the west flank of the defending forces in the Taejon area, stabbing out from captured Taejon to take Chonju, roughly 50 air miles from Taejon, the U. S. Allied airman said. The Red strength there is unknown. Fire bombs rained on Kumje, near Chonju.

The Communist drive in the Taejon area, backed by tremendous artillery fire which ignited the whole city, was dented by the new American ground rockets. Ground forces knocked out 11 enemy tanks in the area in 24 hours.

A headquarters spokesman at an American command post said he did not know where the fighting commander of the 24th division was after an all-day tour of the front, but said this did not necessarily mean he is missing. Gen. Dean, who had led forays personally, last was seen with a tank-destroying squad which had knocked out eight enemy tanks with the new bazookas.

The whole Taejon valley area was alive with fire as Red artillery boomed and Allied planes mercilessly pestered the enemy. Taejon, from which the South Korea Provisional government has fled, has been virtually written off for several days.

It was the first Communist attack in force on the bloody Kum river front since the invaders won their foothold on the south bank. Seven tanks in the attacking column were ground rockets rushed from the U. S. An eighth, probably was destroyed in this first battle test for the new giant-sized bazooka.

Fighter planes knocked out two more tanks and sent two others scurrying for cover. The highway leading to Taejon from the north was choked with burning vehicles.

On the east coast, Yongdok, taken by the Reds yesterday, also was in flames from the mauling fire of allied warships and planes. Yongdok is 25 miles north of the

Touring Ministry For Migrants

DURHAM, N. C. Austin H. Armistead, Home Missions Council worker with the Harvester, mobile unit providing migrants with a "community on wheels," in cooperation with the North Carolina Council of Churches.

An interdenominational ministry to some of the 10,000 agricultural migrant workers in North Carolina is being initiated this summer by the Home Missions Council of North America in cooperation with the North Carolina Council of Churches.

The Home Missions Council of North America is an inter-church agency representing 23 of the major Protestant denominations while the North Carolina Council of Churches represents most of the Protestant churches in the state.

Austin H. Armistead, veteran Home Missions Council migrant staff worker, is directing the churches' organization of the program throughout the state, working out of the North Carolina Council of Churches' office in Durham.

In recent meetings of women and men from various denominations held this summer in the state, Armistead has outlined the church's work with migrants in this state and the country. He has indicated that the work with migrants is three-fold: religious, recreational and educational.

The initiation of the work in North Carolina this summer marks the 24th state where the Home Missions Council is working with migrants. Work in the states are carried on through local contributions, support from the national boards of these churches, civic groups and interested individuals.

In the work with migrants, one of the highlights is the HARVESTER, the mobile unit, providing the migrants with a "community on wheels." In this "station wagon on wheels" can be found such items as Bibles, religious materials, a portable altar, communion set, sports equipment, public address system, record player, movie and slide projectors, first aid equipment, games, and books. The Harvester travels to places where migrant families are living. Wherever the "crops are ripe, you will find the Harvester."

This migrant work sponsored by the North Carolina Council of Churches is one of the services whereby churches on the local level cooperate to serve needs.

Pool Attendance Continues Good

Attendance figures for the Greenville city swimming pool for the past week totaled 1,097. Of this number around 300 children were admitted free of charge on Monday as guests of the Elk's Club.

Another factor to be taken into consideration for the comparatively low attendance is that many free swimming tickets are issued each week to children in the city and the tickets are not recorded with the attendance figures for the week, David Jones said.

Also, several of the city playgrounds have had free swimming parties the last week, with around 150 children in the playground groups.

A daily swimming class is conducted Monday through Friday from eleven to twelve and the pupils are admitted free to the pool for the classes which are sponsored by the American Red Cross.

There are 65 churches of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormons) in Britain.

Swimming Pool Is Closed Today

Cashier David Jones today announced a one-day closing of the city swimming pool for general clean-up.

Jones said that the pool will be cleaned and filled with water today and will be ready for the regular Friday morning attenders.

No previous announcement had been made by Jones because of the short period of time which the pool will be closed.

Christian Laymen's League Meets With Mr. Sam Bundy of Farmville as president and leader the Laymen's League of the Christian churches will meet for planning and conference and Fellowship at Fisher's Landing on Saturday evening, July 22, at 4 o'clock and remain over for the services and conferences on Sunday until after the noon meal. The men of the churches are invited to come and enter into this planning for the men's work of the church. If it is not possible for some men to go down for the night Saturday it would be well for them to go down early Sunday morning for the services and the noon day meal. The whole affair is "dutch."

Beverage Bill Is French Problem

Paris, July 20—(AP)—A Parliamentary committee has decided it would be a good idea to make Frenchmen quit drinking Coca Cola, but can't figure out how to do it. Coca Cola is now made in wine-producing France. Hiking the tariff on imports wouldn't affect sales. The health ministry has refused to ban the drink.

The National Assembly's committee on beverage yesterday adopted unanimously a resolution introduced by Fernand Chevalier, a moderate deputy from wine-growing Algeria. It asks the government to "take immediately necessary measures with regard to Coca Cola and similar beverages to insure the protection and safeguarding of interests of agriculture, processing industries and the National economy in general."

Just what the committee wants the government to do was not made clear. Chevalier's resolution was voted instead of a Communist proposal for prohibition of Coca Cola. Previous Communist attempts to ban the beverage also have failed.

Roanoke Rapids Kiwanians To Be Guests Tonight

The Greenville Kiwanis Club will be host at supper tonight (Thursday) at its weekly meeting to the members of the Roanoke Rapids Kiwanis Club.

The Roanoke Rapids delegation will be headed by President George L. Hayes.

President Tige Gardner of the Greenville Kiwanis Club will preside. Ed E. Rawl, chairman of the Inter-Club Relations Committee, will be master of ceremonies.

After supper the Greenville and Roanoke Rapids Kiwanians will be guests of the Greenville baseball club at Guy Smith Stadium for the game between Roanoke Rapids and Greenville. Business Manager Russell Filley stated that the Kiwanians will be seated in a group near the visiting club's dugout.

Filley also stated that Kiwanians' wives attending the game may be seated with husbands in the special section of the grandstand.

Work Of Lions Clubs Is Widely Publicized

Past secretary of the Greenville Lion's Club, Vic Forest, today received the following letter from Lion's International:

"The August 1, issue of Look Magazine, which goes on sale at newsstands on July 18th is carrying a feature story about the Lion organization. The article is entitled 'The Lions: Roaring DO-Goovers.'"

"Also the Chicago, Graphic Magazine Section, issue of July 16th contains a story on the Lions entitled, 'Lions International, Doers of Good Works.'"

"Copies of this latter publication may be had by writing: Chicago Tribune 435 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago and enclosing 20 cents for a copy."

Forest said that he believed many members of the local club would be interested in obtaining copies of the stories.

The Last Recourse To Keep The Peace

Uncle Sam is rolling up his sleeves. He has helped set the world straight on previous occasions; came in a little bit late in the game, perhaps, but it was his muscles that brought the downfall of international gangsters who were out to take everything.

This Korean affair . . . right away Sam recognized it as another example of outlawry, and with his friends decided to set an example of how such actions should be handled. It wasn't a very big ruckus as such things go, but it happened that at the moment, Sam and his neighbors weren't in a position to handle the situation with their old dispatch.

There was a certain amount of unrest and fear in other parts of the world, too. Everything resembled the state of affairs immediately preceding the last time Sam was involved in a fight. Then, a lot of people said that if Sam had made his intentions and desire for peace strong enough, there might not have been a war . . . the gangsters would have thought twice before making their final mistake.

Maybe a firm stand now would stop this guy Joe from starting a fight that nobody wanted . . . not even Joe, if you could believe him. And if this course of action failed, it would be better to find it out after some of your defenses were up.

So yesterday, Uncle Sam began calling up some more of his nephews, and lining up his family for any eventuality.

Just to set the record straight, one Harry Truman let it be known that Sam's family wanted enough strength to turn back aggression anywhere in the world. That was certainly forceful talk, for it drew a line around the borders of free peoples and dared anyone to cross that line with larceny in their hearts and hatred in their voices. In one magic moment, the old Monroe Doctrine was extended half-way around the globe, sheltering the defenseless with a promise of deeds, not words.

Sam knew it was an expensive way to earn peace; but it might work. Soft words, promises and turning the other cheek hadn't helped; now it was time to try the "big stick." If this didn't work . . . well, no one liked to think about the final outcome.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, July 20—The machine guns cracking across the Korean countryside have muted partisan catcalls at the Capital, but they have not suppressed entirely undertone discussions of the effect of this struggle and a possible global war on national politics next November and on the 1952 presidential election.

Naturally, the most talk swirls around the reaction to the ballot-box prospects of such individuals as President Truman, Senator Taft of Ohio, General "Ike" Eisenhower, Governors Duff of Pennsylvania and Warren of California.

Although unforeseen and tragic events may alter the current outlook, as they did when the European war led Franklin D. Roosevelt to seek a third term, there seems to be general agreement on a few fundamentals.

No matter how long the "hot war" in Korea lasts, or even if it flares into World War III before 1952, it is believed that a crisis would be damaging to Mr. Truman and to his wing of the Democratic Party.

COALITION—The argument of "don't change horses while crossing a stream" would become the Truman-Boyle slogan. They recall that this kind of a bugle call relected F.D.R. when he sought a third term after Hitler's conquest of Western Europe in 1940.

But even Mr. Truman's own circle admits that he is not a Franklin D. Roosevelt. He has not shown the grasp of world conditions that his predecessor did in the years when the Axis was preparing its thrust against the West.

Nor does he possess the personality or imagination that would enable him to arouse a people to an all-out effort. He is no "man on horseback."

It is this realization which has impelled his closest friends to urge him to create a "coalition Cabinet" with the appointment of two outstanding Republicans Secretaries Acheson and Johnson are the men suggested as "expendable."

As possible successors, the names of John Foster Dulles and General Eisenhower have been mentioned for the State and War portfolios.

INDICTMENT—Setbacks in Korea, and in other areas if Stalin decides to capitalize on his initial surprise by expanding his operations, should operate to the Administration's disadvantage.

Military communications recording defeats due to diplomatic and national defense unpreparedness do not make good election propaganda. Senator "Joe" McCarthy's charges of a pro-Communist split and atmosphere within the State Department in the postwar years will be given greater credence than hitherto.

Secretary Johnson's acquiescence in a drastic demobilization of the land, air and naval forces, as well as his disapproved claims of growing American strength, will become a stock indictment by GOP campaigners.

CONTROLS—It may be, too, that numerous civilian controls—channeling of manpower and materials, stabilization of wages and prices, anti-strike proclamations—will have to be imposed before the November elections, despite President Truman's disclaimer. He spoke before he knew what would eventuate in this field.

The United States, according to economic planners, cannot embark on an overnight rearmament spree, based on the proposed $5 billion program of more soldiers, more planes and more tanks, without creating price inflation and material shortages in many lines.

Realistic preparation for a short or long war haul will necessitate rigid restrictions, although the politics at Washington would prefer to postpone that day until after the political roundup in November.

Thus, assuming that the military and diplomatic canvases has not brightened considerably, several months hence, the Republicans believe that they have a better chance to capture Congress than they did before the Korean outbreak.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

It takes a lot to break up our bridge club, but last night when Harry Truman took to the airways all eight of us stopped playing and listened. Previously, we had speculated on who was in the hottest spot. Two of us are planning to build houses, which made us prick our ears when the President was talking about curbing of government loans and building materials. Of the four men, I am the only one in the reserves.

The point I'm making is this: there is no such thing as a person in the "hottest spot." If all-out war comes, all of us will be in that "hottest spot." But I have to agree, some of us will feel it more than others.

Like many others, I enjoy kidding about Gabriel Heizer, the newscaster who broadcasts on weekdays at 7:30 over the Mutual Broadcasting System. He's overdramatic to say the least, but nevertheless his thinking is usually sound. Night after night he harps on a point that cannot be over-emphasized: Where are the troops of the nations in the UN other than the United States? President Truman said last night that so far only Great Britain and Australia had furnished "aid," but even at that no dough boys from the other nations of the UN have been in combat.

It's interesting to note that former Vice President Henry Wallace has come over to our side, after taking the Red point of view on every other issue. They say the Reds are criticizing him severely for his decision to stick with his country.

During President Truman's speech Carlton Joyner telephoned me to let me know that he was seeing the speech. Carlton has one of the television sets in Greenville and was picking up the speech over the National Broadcasting Company television station in Norfolk. Like most of the other sets in Greenville, Carlton's was originally set up to receive Richmond, but since Norfolk is on the air reception is much better, and TV is much more practical for Greenville.

What are your chances of staying in Greenville? Last week the first call went out — for 20,000 draftees for Army service. There are 1,440,000 I-A's of the 2,750,000 registered 18 to 26-year-olds. Of course they'll start with the oldest first, but since so many of the older men are veterans, there are comparatively few who are in I-A. This means that it won't take long to get to the younger men.

The Army wants at least three divisions to replace those that might be sent to Korea. The Navy is planning to take four carriers out of mothballs to ferry planes to the Far East, plus another five when men are available to man them. Plenty of Air Force pilots are on hand. Since November the Air Force has had to ground 9,355 pilots because it didn't have the money to keep them flying. And did you hear the President say last night that he was asking for 10 billion?

There are two good reasons why the President hasn't called up the 26 National Guard divisions. It would provide more men than are needed and disrupt the nation's whole life. If some Guard divisions were called and others not, there would be complaints of discrimination. An official of the Defense Department said, "We don't need great masses of men. We just need to bring some units up to strength."

And I thank you.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
That there are large markets for apparel still to be developed is indicated by one of the first official studies of family clothing inventories.

Department of Agriculture representatives counted the clothing owned by 514 families in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area. This is a small sampling in a limited area. Furthermore, the interviewing took place early in 1949. A larger sampling today over a broader area might produce different figures. Nevertheless, the fact that many families lacked many articles was so marked that this survey is significant.

For instance, only 41 per cent of the husbands in the $4,000-to-$5,999-a-year income bracket owned summer suits and only 49 per cent owned separate suits coats or sports jackets.

Of all the husbands, 7 per cent didn't own a hat. Only 65 per cent owned undershirts, although another 9 per cent owned union suits.

Ties fared better. Only one out of 100 didn't own one, and every man in the $4,000-to-$5,999 bracket owned at least one and averaged more than 22 each.

Among the wives, only 54 per cent owned heavy coats with no fur, and 34 per cent owned heavy, fur-trimmed coats. The market for street dresses, afternoon and evening dresses was more nearly saturated, with 99 per cent having some such garment and the average number being 6.3. Suits were less common; even in the $4,000-to-$5,999 bracket, 26 per cent of the women didn't own a suit.

Of the husbands, 83 per cent owned pajamas, 10 per cent owned nightshirts and 3 per cent owned other sleeping garments, leaving at least 5 per cent sleeping raw. Among wives, 88 per cent owned nightgowns, 52 per cent owned pajamas, and 1 per cent owned "other sleeping garments"—possibly sarongs.

The average husband owned 3 coats, 4 hats and caps, 3 suits, 5 pairs of trousers, 14 dress shirts, 18 pairs of socks, 4 pairs of shoes and 18 ties. The average wife—3 coats, 4 hats, 5 house dresses, 6 other dresses, 9 pairs of hosiery, 6 pairs of shoes and 5 pairs of gloves. In all, 109 items were checked.

The Department of Agriculture has been following this with surveys in other areas and, from time to time, will report on them. These surveys should be of value to manufacturers, retailers and advertising agencies in determining sales potentials, in general or in income groups, stock ratios and other market data. They can be obtained by writing to the Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Home Nutrition and Home Economics, Washington 25, D.C.

TV STATION FREEZE MAY LAST LONGER
The cold war may be getting hotter, but the television freeze may be getting colder. Since new TV stations require steel and other metals, and electronic know-how, as well as creating new demands for receivers, the Federal Communications Commission is likely to take its time in authorizing new stations. On the other hand, the TV industry will argue that the importance of keeping people informed about the war and of relaying government "messages" to the public justifies the expansion of TV facilities.

FURNITURE STORES SALES UP 6 PER CENT
Two out of three stores sold more furniture in June than the same month a year ago, the National Retail Furniture Association reports. Average gains were 6 per cent. The same proportion of stores increased inventories, averaging a gain of 5 per cent.

NYLON SCARE ONE OF WORST
There are more reports of scare buying of nylons than of most any other articles—even more than of coffee, which shows women are more concerned about men's eyes than their stomachs.

The scare had been aggravated by the fact that allocations of yarn to mills has been cut. This began even before the Korea trouble started.

Nylon production capacity is far in excess of peak capacity during the last war. In addition, there's a large capacity for other synthetics good for both consumer and military products.

WEDDING RING SALES RISE IN WAR NEWS
Jewelers report a sharp increase in the sale of engagement and wedding rings since the first shot was fired in Korea. It began even before the draft was reactivated.

This may portend a rise in marriage rates, which have been slowly dropping for the last two years.

NEW AND HOT WRAPPINGS
Personalized wrapping papers for gifts is being introduced (by Hart Vance Co., 17th St. and Delmar Blvd., St. Louis 3). The line includes paper in 47 patterns, each using a girl's name in the design, and three patterns for "Mother," "Dad," and "yechteart."

STAPLER: A midge stapler, 3 inches long, is being made (by Speed Products Co., 37-15 Northern Blvd., Long Island City, N.Y.). It is packaged with 1,000 staples in a styrene plastic box small enough for pocket or purse.

WATER-REPELLENT: A water-repellent material which prevents drops of moisture forming on TV cathode-ray tubes when applied to the safety glass has been developed (by General Electric, Pittsfield, Mass.).

BRUSH CUTTER: A self-powered, one-man machine which clears land by chewing up a four-foot swath through brush at four miles an hour is being introduced (by Bishford Engineering Corp., 9789 Highway 99, St. Louis 21).

Hal Boyle's Column

Enroute to Korea—(AP)—Young Pfc. Jim Passell was on his way to fight for America in far Korea.

And like many another fledgling soldier there he has yet to cast his first vote in his homeland.

He sat in the seat next to me in a commercial plane. It was carrying him toward reassignment to a west coast division alerted to sail to the Far East. His close-cropped haircut and boyish grin made him look even younger than his 21 years.

"But I've already spent 11 months in Korea and 17 months in Japan," he said after we got acquainted. "I was home on leave when the fighting broke out. My division—the 24th—was the first to go from Japan to Korea. I was I could've gone with them. I was in a heavy weapons company and I've heard some of my old buddies were lost."

Jim said the Army had called him back before his leave was up but that he didn't mind returning to duty. His visit to his home in Superior, Wis., had left him rather lonesome.

"The people back home just don't realize," he said soberly. "They don't suffer themselves and therefore they don't realize what people in other countries have to go through."

"And I was shocked by the way kids in high school acted. It made me kind of wonder what I really came home for."

"I never drink and I don't like to throw away money. I put about $60 or $70 of my paycheck in the bank each month because I was taught to save. And I am arranging to pay my younger sister's way through college."

Despite his youth Jim already has planned his life and knows what he wants.

"I like the Army and intend to make my career in it," he said. "It shows you a way to self-respect and teaches you how to take care of yourself."

After he retires from the Army Jim wants to open his own restaurant. He likes to cook.

He has no particular regret that he must go to the battle area.

"I ain't no better than the next guy—and he would think about it the same way, too, I guess," he said. "I enjoy every day and I don't worry about what the next day will be like. I just want to be a good sport and get along with people."

"I've been in the Army since I was 18. And one of the things I think I've learned from it is to take orders when I have them coming. It also teaches a man to use his head and do the best he can."

But Jim said he did wish he could rejoin his old outfit still in the battleline rather than join a new unit. When he left the plane I told him to be careful. He grinned and said:

"Well, if you get in a tight spot yourself, pray to God—you'll feel a lot better."

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—George Washington didn't look exactly like pictures you've seen of him, pacing the floor in his shirt sleeves and minus his wig. But he's the man selected from hundreds to play the part of Washington in playwright Paul Green's sesquicentennial drama, "Faith of Our Fathers," opening in the Capital's new outdoor amphitheater in August.

He was selected because of his size—six foot, three, 200 pounds—because of his fine bearing, good voice, strong features and because of his theatrical background. In costume and wig, he will probably make a very fine George Washington, whose career makes up the theme of the drama.

His name "those who haven't yet grown to think of him as George Washington, is Charles F. McClelland. He was born 48 years ago in Quincy, Ill., and raised in Oklahoma.

"My father, the 'Great Renzo,' was a contortionist," he told me. "He was one of those fellows who have no backbone and can tie themselves into pretzels. He toured about the country with his own show—sometimes a medicine show—once with Ringling Brothers circus."

McClelland says he got his first taste of show business as an infant—"I was the article my father would pick up with his teeth when he bent over backward."

After a year at the University of Oklahoma, Charles attended Carnegie Institute of Technology football team that beat Notre Dame in '26. Playing the role of the first President will be nothing new to him. In New York he has portrayed G. W. in gambols of the Lambs Club, the theatrical fraternity, "but this will be the first time I will be playing the man as a central character. I am both honored and frightened by the role. It is a tremendous thing."

In discussing his drama, Mr. Green, a Pulitzer prize winner, says he has tried to put "one supremely great man on stage."

The story flows through the character of Washington. "I have tried," he says, "to find the nature of this just and courageous man."

McClelland appeared first on Broadway before he was graduated from college and has been seen in numerous Broadway successes since. His first big hit was "Tobacco Road," in which he played Luv Benseny "four years. He also appeared with Walter Hampden in "Henry the Eighth," in "Boy Meets Girl" and recently on television in "Borrowed Time."

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, N. C.

CHAPEL HILL—The biggest concentration of state investment, except within the city of Raleigh, is the University at Chapel Hill. The advisory budget commission on its biennial inspection of this educational plant found workmen busy enlarging facilities. Carried on a budget capital account at a value of $9,246,436 as of two years ago, the plant then was actually worth more than double that amount.

The general assemblies of 1947 and 1949 allocated $19,028,800 for permanent improvements. When the planned program is completed the state will have at Chapel Hill a property worth some forty million dollars. Current cost of operating the institution approximates six million dollars a year, which nearly half is derived from fees charged for tuition, room, board and other services. The balance comes out of the state's general fund. That is big business in any kind of language.

NEEDS—Chancellor Robert B. House and each dean and division head who spoke before the budget commission, said they didn't need very much from the next general assembly, other than to maintain present standards. The chancellor added that for an operation as big as the University just a little bit here and there added up to a lot of money. The budget folks agreed with that estimate. More space will, but chief need is more highly trained personnel for the teaching staff. Dr. Fred Wheeler, dean of students, emphasized that extra administrative personnel is needed. He pointed out that it is impossible to successfully handle a student body of 7,000 with the same number of people and the same methods as proved satisfactory for a student body of less than 4,000.

WAR—Several faculty members referred to possibility of full scale war and its probable effect upon the University enrollment. Dean Henry Brandis recalled that a plant year enrollment of 142 in the law school dropped to 13 in 1943-44 and shot up to over 300 in 1946, and had apparently leveled off at 280 to 290. Other professional schools had slightly less fluctuation. Obviously, the probability of war makes future planning very difficult.

HEALTH—The biggest thing at Chapel Hill is the health center, administered as the division of health affairs by Dr. Henry T. Clark. The division includes the medical college, expanding from two-year to four-year status; a 400-bed teaching hospital and nursing school; schools of public health, dentistry and pharmacy. In connection with the division of health affairs there is also a tubercular hospital, a cancer research unit, a venereal disease unit, with prospect of psychiatric and alcoholic additions later. This division is just being organized, several units not having reported for duty. The hospital construction is well along toward completion, with other buildings scheduled to follow soon.

REGIONAL—Running through all the presentations at Chapel Hill and at State College was the idea of regional service. The North Carolina University admittedly leads the south in many respects, and time after time spokesmen pointed out how the proposed expansions would enhance leadership and enlarge service to the region. Some of budgeters wondered if establishment and maintenance of such regional schools fall in the category of a proper function for North Carolina taxpayers. There is statutory limitation upon the percentage of students who may be accepted from other states. Even if enrollment was limited to North Carolinians, there is question whether the state general fund should be called upon to bear the burden of training leaders for other areas at expense of this state. There is such a thing as getting too big.

DUPLICATION—Apparently there is very little duplication in courses offered at the University units. The basic idea of consolidation and distribution of functions has been well carried out. There is bound to be some duplication, because engineering students must have courses in the humanities and social sciences, while lawyers, doctors, and other professionals must have some physics and various types of engineering knowledge. The Chapel Hill and Raleigh schools do not award degrees in the same courses. There is also some duplication of courses, particularly in the school of education, with the states higher educational system, but pretty well organized on non-duplicating basis.

MONEY—The sole purpose of the budget-commission visitation is to aid in determining how much money the several institutions need and how much each should be allotted in view of the overall state requirements and prospective revenue. For that reason it was somewhat amusing to watch the learned professors dodge any reference to such lowly matters as dollars and cents.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

SOUTH KOREA 'ELECTIONS' (Richmond Times Dispatch)
Elections in the Communist tradition are to be held in the Red-occupied areas of South Korea, beginning July 25, according to announcement over the Seoul radio.

There will be no honest count in these elections, of course, but the sad fact is that maybe the Russians will get a real majority in the parts of South Korea where the voting takes place.

Residents in the conquered portions of South Korea are being taken away from the simple process of taking it away from the big landowners, just as was done in North Korea. Such totalitarian methods cannot be invoked by our side, which puts us at a disadvantage in trying to cope with the northerners in winning the support of the population.

In the South Korean cities captured by the Reds, rice has been distributed and orders have gone out to the troops to make friends with the civilians.

How can the Americans compete with such tactics in dealing with a group of peasants and artisans whose concepts of liberty are only of a rudimentary character, at best, and especially when the Reds are able to promise a united country. . . only the Americans will get out. I've have effective propaganda to counteract that of the North Koreans, the news hasn't arrived.

The forthcoming Communist-sponsored elections in South Korea will be announced as having been lost by our side, no matter what the actual facts are, but the thing that really counts is the true attitude of the South Koreans toward us. Are we winning their friendship and support? There is a dearth of evidence to that effect.

The solid arrows on this map locate Communist drives which have been slowed down by Americans and South Koreans (open arrows) north and west of Taejeon and to the northeast in the Yechon area. The sawtooth line locates the area for a possible new defense line if further withdrawals from Taejeon are necessary. The explosion symbols on the map locate targets of B-29 air raids. Speaker Voices Warning As To Planners' Goal

Blue Ridge, N. C. (AP)—A Virginia Accountant and tax consultant asserted today that men who inspired the new deal and fair deal philosophies intended to establish a dictatorial government.

The speaker was T. Colman Andrews of Richmond. He addressed 600 delegates to the Southern Industrial Relations conference. "I have not the slightest doubt," he said, "that those who inspired the new deal philosophy and those who now inspire the fair deal philosophy, have had as their objective the establishment of dictatorial government in this country."

"I am equally convinced, however, that those who have allowed themselves to be used as the spokesmen and activators of these philosophies have been, and are, for the most part of the individual, as you and I."

This 31st annual conference opened last night with John W. Hanes, former undersecretary of the treasury, denouncing the government's tax program. Andrews, chief speaker this morning told tax gathering of industrialists that "I really think that the present dupes of the boys who went to Harvard and turned left believe in their hearts that the bill of goods they have allowed themselves to be hired to sell will improve the lot of the people."

He said he thought the privilege of private enterprise is rapidly disappearing in the United States.

"It would seem that we have fallen victims to the illusion that it is possible to retain our freedom by unloading our personal responsibility upon the government as a large number of our business leaders have seemed to encourage," he asserted.

He said some business leaders have apparently allowed this trend to accelerate by "abandoning constructive resistance to the encroachment of government upon the rights of the people."

Andrews declared, "we are trading personal freedom for so-called security and defaulting on our obligation to make our own security by full acceptance and complete discharge of our personal responsibility."

Sentence Stayed For Henry Best

Boston, July 20—(AP)—Robert H. Best, convicted of treason for broadcasting Nazi propaganda during World War II, has been granted a stay of sentence pending an appeal to the U. S. Supreme court.

The stay was granted Best yesterday by the U. S. Court of Appeals, which denied a similar appeal a few days ago.

Best was sentenced to life imprisonment and fined $10,000 in June, 1948, after he was convicted by a federal court jury. He has been held without bail at Suffolk County jail.

Seven eye specialists told Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Haire of Memphis, Tenn., that the blindness of their baby daughter Becky is caused by cancer. The doctors said they could confirm the diagnosis only by an operation that would remove one eye and disfigure the baby but would give her a 60 per cent chance to live. Without the operations, the doctors declared, there is only a 35 per cent chance that X-ray and radium treatment will save the baby. An earlier diagnosis attributed Becky's blindness to a muscle behind the eyeballs. The parents finally decided to accept the 35 per cent chance—and pray that the cancer diagnosis was wrong. Robins Take Pasting In First Game; Return To Wallop Jays 8-0 In Second

Sixth-Inning Explosion By Roanoke Rapids Fatal For Heflin Team In Opener As Jays Take 8-2 Win; Robins Score Shutout In Nightcap

By HERT MOYE

The Robins and the Jays split their twin bill over in Roanoke Rapids last night with the Jays taking the seven-inning opener, 8-2, and the Robins coming back to take the nightcap by an 8-0 score.

Trailing by a 2-0 score in the bottom of the sixth frame, the Jays rallied for seven runs on seven hits, including a two-run homer by first baseman Leo Katsaveck to take the first game of the double-header by a 8-2 score.

The Robins scored a singleton in the first frame when Paul Strausser led off with a double and came home later on John Tepedino's infield out. They took the lead at 9-1 in the third frame on two walks, John Tepedino's single and two Jay errors, after the Jays had scored a singleton in the third stanza on two successive singles by McCaskill and Frank Tepedino and a long fly to deep centerfield by Walt McJunkin.

Manager Randy Heflin started on the mound for the Robins and was relieved in the sixth frame after giving up nine hits, walking two and striking out three. Pinky White pitched the final two-thirds of an inning and gave up three hits as a relief pitcher for the second night in a row.

Yonnie Bass with a double and a single and Sparty McCaskill and Larry Quarataro with two singles each paced the 12-hit attack off the two Robin hurlers.

Alton Brown on the mound for the Jays notched his 18th win of the season and his fourth against the Robins as he held the locals to six hits.

Paul Strausser with a double and two singles and Manager Randy Heflin with two singles led the six-hit attack off Brown.

Second Game
Ray Keys registered his sixth win of the season last night as he hurled a neat five-hitter against the Roanoke Rapids Jr.'s in the second game of the double-header over in Roanoke Rapids last night for an 8-0 win.

After being held scoreless for six full innings the Robins exploded for six runs in the seventh inning on four singles, a triple, one error, three walks, a sacrifice hit and three stolen bases to take the lead.

For good measure they added two more runs in the eighth frame on an error, Hall's triple and singles. Strausser and Tepedino with the aid of a walk to really set up three game.

All of the hits garnered off Keys were singles and were scattered among as many players and as many innings.

Clancy Condit started on the mound for the Jays and was relieved in the seventh after yielding seven hits and six runs. Leonard Keefe, who relieved him in the seventh yielded five more hits and two more runs in his short round on the mound.

Paul Strausser with a triple and two doubles, Mat Hall with a triple and a single and Johnny Tepedino and Vince Lautato with two singles each led the 12-hit attack off the two Jay hurlers.

The Robins tackle the Roanoke Rapids stars here tonight in a single game starting at 7:45 o'clock at Guy Smith Stadium.

Fans Get Chance To Buy Franchise

Smithfield, July 20—(AP)—Residents of Smithfield and Selma will have a chance tomorrow to buy the franchise of the Smithfield-Selma Leafs baseball team.

Arthur T. Moore, president of the Class D Tobacco State League, announced yesterday the league has taken over the franchise of the club. He said the league "will operate the club for a period of several days."

Bad weather that cut gate receipts was the cause of the operators' turning in their franchise. Since July 5, the team has been able to play only two home games. Moore said the franchise will be put up for bid at the Smithfield courthouse. If townspeople don't want it, he asserted, it is possible that a group from Aberdeen in Moore county will bid for it. Aberdeen could draw from Southern Pines and Pinehurst, he said, pointing out that those two towns are within an eight-mile radius of Aberdeen.

Blind Golfers In Nat'l Tourney

Augusta, Me., July 20—(AP)—Fifteen of 14 contenders vied for the American blind golf championship today in a second round played on relatively even terms.

There was only a eight-stroke spread among the leading quarter after 18 holes that put them well ahead. And eight strokes don't loom too large to men who can't see the ball or the fairway.

Pacing the pack on Augusta's country club course was Art Smith, war-blinded Philadelphian, with a first-round 55-63-108.

First Clear Day

Today was the first completely clear day in the Greenville area since July 5.

Sunrise at dawn was clear. Not a cloud was in the sky during the forenoon. Light breezes, just strong enough to wave the flag on the postoffice building, prevailed in the morning.

The highest temperature here Wednesday was 4 degrees. Lowest last night, 78, and at 8 a.m. today the mercury stood at 88 degrees.

Some Relief

Never any great shucks as a starting pitcher, Jim Konstanty has come into his own as a "fireman" for the Phillies. At this moment, with seven victories to his credit and ten games saved for other hurlers in 36 appearances up to the All-star game, Big Jim must be rated the most valuable player on the Philadelphia roster.

It was in the spring of 1949 that Manager Eddie Sawyer decided that Konstanty had the makings of a great relief hurler and sent him to the bullpen. Konstanty has not regretted the move. From the start there was ample evidence that Sawyer's move was a brilliant one. Jim showed he had the temperament for the job and in jig time learned to pace himself and make the most of his pitching talent. His wide assortment of tricky pitches, plus excellent control makes him the ideal hurler to stop an enemy rally cold. He needs only about 20 pitches to be ready for the fray. The five pitches allowed from the rubber sharpen his control and he is ready to work.

Exhausted? Boys League Baseball

New York, July 20—(AP)—Such is fame department. A week ago the baseball world sang the praises of the National League's pitching heroes in the all star game—New York's Larry Jansen, Cincinnati's Ewell Blackwell and the Phil's Jim Konstanty.

Since the clubs resumed their regular schedules, none have been able to win a game.

Here are the post all-star game records:

Pittsburgh Buys Third Baseman

Pittsburgh, July 20—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates began a new era today by writing a check for approximately $100,000 to acquire third baseman Bob Dillinger from the American League Philadelphia Athletics.

Dillinger's purchase came a few hours after Banker Frank McKinney of Indianapolis, sold his share of the last-place Pirates to two partners—John Galbreath, a Columbus real estate man, and Tom Johnson, Pittsburgh attorney.

Galbreath, who not only became principal stockholder of the Buccs but president as well, left little doubt that he will try to bring a pennant winner to Pittsburgh. After yesterday's transaction, Galbreath declared:

"I'm interested in only one thing, a winning club in Pittsburgh. To that end, we will do whatever is necessary."

Although the Dillinger deal had been pending some time it didn't take long for Galbreath to dispatch General Manager Roy Hamey to Philadelphia where he concluded the transaction last night.

The Athletics first attempted to make the Dillinger deal with Pittsburgh when they placed him on the waiver list before the June 15 trading deadline. However, three American League clubs refused to waive the 31-year bespectacled infielder who has a lifetime hitting mark of over 300.

When waivers were asked this time, it was a different matter and Hamey was on the spot with his check and fountain pen.

Donkey Baseball Game Scheduled

The Falkland Ruritan Club, under the direction of Woodrow Wooten, will split into two teams for a donkey baseball game Monday night, July 24. The game will be played at the schoolhouse under floodlights and, in addition to the game, there will be an acrobatic bicycle act.

The donkeys were raised at the Flying W Ranch in Oklahoma and include such pet names as Mae West, Gingers, Superman and Red Skelton.

The bicycle act will go on immediately after the game which is scheduled for eight o'clock.

The double-header last night with the Roanoke Rapids Jays was the eleventh played by the locals this season and was the fourth split that the Robins have had in twin bills. They have won both games on five occasions and lost both ends of a twin bill on only one occasion. In one of the double headers the Robins won the first game and the second contest ended in a 2-2 tie game. Manager Randy Heflin suffered his sixth defeat of the season in the first game of the double-header and his second to the Jays. In his total of 11 victories he has defeated the Jays once. Ray Keys pitched his second shutout for the Robins in the second game of the double-header last night as the Robins registered their fourth shutout of the year and the first to the Jays. Incidentally the Robins have been whitewashed on only three times this season. The win for Keys was number six as against seven losses and was his first win against the Jays while dropping one.

The double loss by the New Bern Bears to Wilson last night and the Robins' split with the Jays moved the Robins to within a half game of the second place Bears and five games from the league-leading Jays.

How much will Ted Williams' injured arm hurt the Red Sox's chances of capturing the American League pennant race?

Williams is a great ball player. He is probably the best hitter today in baseball. The doctors say that he will be out of the lineup for at least six weeks and probably longer. Ordinarily, the loss of such a star will hurt a team considerably. And there is no doubt but what slugging Ted will be missed. But we say that the slender outfielder will not be missed as much as most people think.

Look what happened to the Yankees last year when Joe DiMaggio was sidelined for several weeks. They fought hard and stayed right in the thick of the pennant fight to win.

The same thing could happen to the Red Sox. And the Red Sox have much better replacements than did the Yankees man for man. Volmer is an excellent outfielder, and he is a fair hitter. Then there is always the "old steady," Billy Goodman, a big leaguer on anybody's team.

Goodman can play almost any position on the team, and he is an excellent hitter. In fact reading the hitters on the Red Sox roster, one would think that they have the best hitters in baseball. And for a team, they do. It is the only team in baseball today averaging above the 300 mark in hitting. Seven of the 10 regulars are tapping that old ball above the coveted 300 mark, and at least two more pushing it closely.

So before we bemoan the loss of Williams too much, we should look at the overall picture. When we do this we see a well balanced team without him. Pesky, Stevens, Dropp, DiMaggio, Tebbets, Zarilla, and Goodman are 300 hitters, while Volmer and Doerr are just behind.

With a little more hustle the Red Sox could be making a real bid for the American League lead. They are not so far behind now, but man for man, the Boston team has the best aggregation in baseball today. Something is lacking. Fair pitching may be the answer. But also the inability to hustle like champions may be the other answer.

Mortality Rate In Minor Leagues Is Still Climbing

New York, July 20—(AP)—Blame it on television, radio, bad weather or just plain pocketbook retrenchment. The fact is the mortality rate in minor league baseball is reaching serious proportions.

Hard on the heels of the complete collapse Sunday of the class B Colonial League come scattered reports telling of teams quitting or about to give up because of poor attendance.

Some clubs have folded outright. Others have either been taken over by determined townspeople or by the league themselves.

The Middle Atlantic and East Texas League, both class C, lost members yesterday to join a list of flops that bring a new meaning to mid-summer slumps.

Vandergrift, Pa., a member of the Middle Atlantic four years, gave up the ghost last night. The team had a working agreement with the Philadelphia Phillies. The league will continue with seven teams. Vandergrift's franchise was vacated.

Rumblings spelling trouble are emanating from the Class D Tobacco State League in North Carolina, and the Class D Virginia League. They hope they won't follow in the steps of the six-member Colonial League, which operated in Connecticut and New York.

Leagues of classification from A to D are involved. The Philadelphia Phillies said their farm clubs at Utica, N. Y., and Wilmington, Del., will be moved to other cities "because of staggering financial losses."

Utica is in the class A Eastern League, while Wilmington is in the Class B Interstate. Wilmington fans can't say they want a winner to revive interest, for the club is in first place. Utica is in third.

The Phillies said several offers had been made for the two franchises, but named no prospective cities. The Wilmington move was predicted three weeks ago, but there has been no noticeable boost in attendance. Fans there evidently are content to follow the major leagues via television or radio from a living room sofa.

James Douglass, chairman of a newly appointed Sports Committee of the Utica Chamber of Commerce agreed that seating in the present stadium was uncomfortable, but urged businessmen, in the interest of good citizenship, to "tolerate" conditions for the time being.

The Raleigh News and Observer says the entire eight-team Tobacco State League is in financial distress. The newspaper adds that only three clubs in the Class D Coastal

Rebounding Cards Take National League Lead

By JACK HAND

Stan Musial on a 23-game hitting spree. Enos Slaughter in the Big Six. No wonder the bounce-back St. Louis Cardinals lead the National League.

Breaking out of a three-day tie for first place with a double round-the-clock rout of the New York Giants, the Cards took charge of the race yesterday.

The shell-shocked Giants, beaten 12 times in their last 15 games, were unable to provide even token resistance for the rebounding Cards. It was 18-4 in the day game and 10-3 at night in a combined 30-hit attack that routed Larry Jansen and Sheldon Jones in the early innings.

Beaten three in a row by Brooklyn earlier in the week, the Cards' cause looked dark, now they're back in control with three consecutive pitching gems by the southpaw trio of Al Brezic, Max Lanier and Harry Brechen.

Lanier worked the Giants over in the day game. When the Cards piled up a 16-1 edge in seven innings he retired to rest his sore toe. Brechen went all the way in the evening romp.

Musial stretched his hitting string with a double in the afternoon and two singles at night but the big guns were slaughtered and Del Rice had six hits, three in each driving home four. Rice hosted a homer, triple, double and single to drive in six. Rice, Slaughter, Eddie Miller and Red Schoendienst hit homers in the day game.

The Phillies, one of three for the yesterday morning, dropped a peg by splitting with Pittsburgh. Granny Hamner's 11th inning homer with a man on won the opener, 3-2, but the Pirates grabbed the second 4-1 on rookie Bill MacDonald's five-hit pitching.

Hamner's homer followed a triple by Bill Nicholson that was the result of a collision between catcher Clyde McCullough and third baseman Danny O'Connell on a pop fly.

Draftee Johnny Klippstein won his first big league game and hit his first homer for Chicago in its 11-3 romp over the Boston Braves. The loss dropped the Braves out of a first place tie.

Too Bad About John Mize; He's Only Hitting .900

By JACK HAND

New York, July 20—(AP)—Too bad about Big Wawn Mize. The old fellow is so "washed up" he hit .900 in a three-game series against the Browns.

Even straight times he reached first base against St. Louis pitching until Ned Garver struck him out in the sixth inning of yesterday's second game. He got even. Next time up he hit a game-winning home run that gave the New York Yankees a clean sweep.

Not long ago the Yanks had the big fellow ticketed for the minors. The afternoon of July 2, to be exact. The Yanks were in Boston and Mize was asked if he'd mind going to the Pacific Coast League.

With the Yanks engaged in a pennant race involving Detroit, Plains loop are in the black and that five cities are trying to keep going. In addition, Raleigh in the Class B Carolina League will be three months back in its park rent to the city as of Aug. 7. Monthly rental is $900, the News and Observer reports.

The Tobacco League has taken over the Smithfield-Selma franchise and fans will be given a chance to purchase control.

Several of the six Virginia League teams are reported losing money. The Elizabeth City, N. C. member recently got a $5,000 donation from fans to continue operations.

Big Wawn got his chance when the Browns came to town Thursday. Four for four, including a pair of home runs, each with a man on, was the answer.

"Not bad," was Casey's comment. "We'll try him again."

Yesterday he was just as rough with five hits in six trips, including the game-winning homer. The mealy 258 average he took into the series rocketed to a cheery 347.

"Maybe I've got the answer," said Stengel. "Neither Tommy or John can play every day. But if I let them sit around too long without playing they lose the edge. Maybe I'll just alternate them every other day."

India Condemns U. S. Objections To Nehru Offer

New Delhi, India, July 20—(AP)—India's press today almost unanimously condemned U.S. refusal to follow Prime Minister Nehru's recommendations for peace in Korea.

The local press concluded that publication of Nehru's correspondence with Generalissimo Stalin and U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson meant the Indian leader's Korean peace efforts had ended.

Stalin had agreed with Nehru that Communist China should be admitted to the United Nations Security Council as a step toward a Korean peace. Acheson said the U.S. felt the Korean and Chinese questions should be settled separately.

The Indian News Chronicle termed Acheson's reply "another diplomatic triumph for communism."

The U.S. note, which American officials had hoped would turn aside Nehru's proposal without exciting Asiatic disapproval, aroused only adverse criticism from Indian newspapers.

Acheson, said the Hindustan Times, took a "surprisingly narrow view." The American "polite no" was due to a "lack of proper appreciation of the spirit of Pandit Nehru's appeal," the Times said.

The News Chronicle said the American note was "vitiating by a fundamental inconsistency and bitter with ill-concealed irony."

The paper added that the American reply "breathes fanatic faith in the omnipotence of force, till now associated only with totalitarian regimes."

The Indian Express of Madras commented "nothing has surprised American opinion more than the Indian and Asian reaction to the events in Korea."

"The extent of that surprise is the measure of the Americans' profound misreading of the Asian mind, which resents any attempt to make this area of the globe a happy hunting ground for power politics," the Express said.

The United States, commented the Lucknow Herald, "has taken over seriously the white man's burden from Britain and is constantly rattling her sword."

Arabs In Israel Get Higher Pay

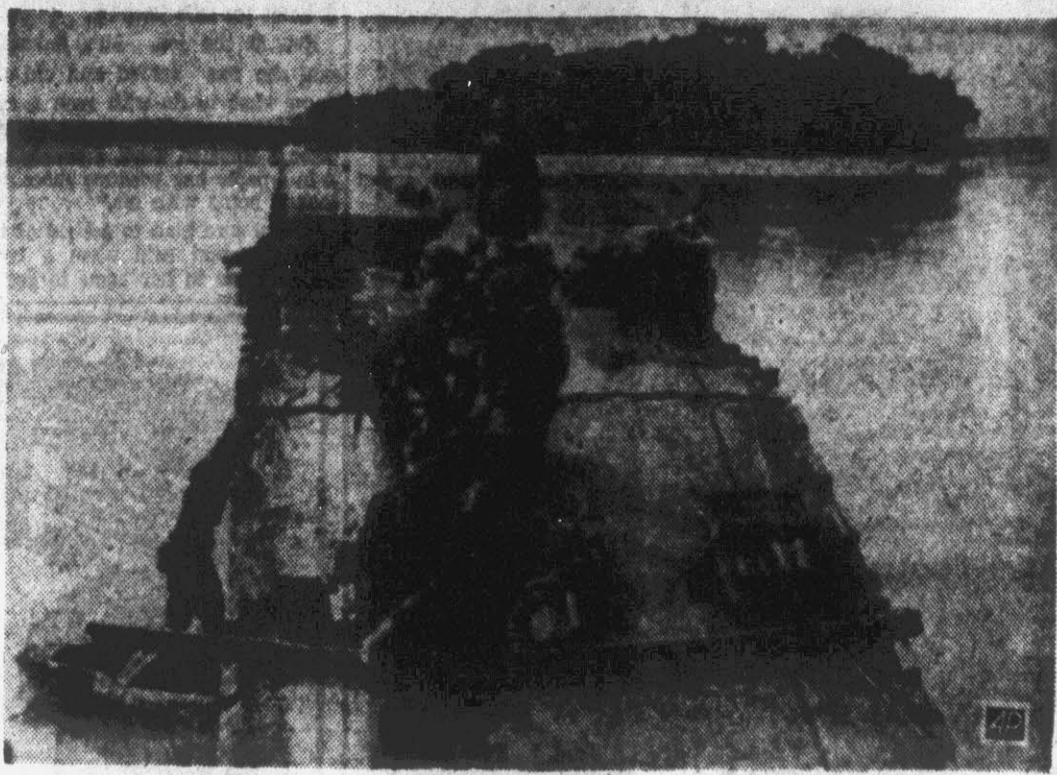

Tel Aviv, Israel—(AP)—Arab workers in the nearby Jaffa port are earning nearly twice as much as they did under the British mandatory government of Palestine which ended May 15, 1948. The Jaffa Portworkers Union, with 110 Arab members, has just signed a new wage agreement with the Jaffa Port Authority.

The Arabs' pay is now the same as that of 240 Jewish port workers, from $6.72 to $7.70 per day. Under British rule, the Arabs received a maximum of $4 per day.

Judge Roberts Punishes Wives In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH
In Police Court Monday, while Judge J. W. H. Roberts was milling through a complicated and aggravating docket, His Honor got mad when two women declined to testify against their husbands on warrants charging assault with deadly weapons—an axe and a knife.

In the case against Robert L. Joyner, colored, his wife charged him with assault with a deadly weapon. Judge Roberts said, "Mr. Clerk, the defendant is not guilty of assault. Let the prosecuting witness pay $15 court costs for frivolous and malicious prosecution."

In a case against James A. Williams, colored, charged with assaulting his wife with a deadly weapon, the judge dismissed the case against him and ordered that his wife, the prosecuting witness, be given 30 days at the county home of pay $15.

Loyd Williams paid $15 for assault.

Drunk: Jarvis A. Causey, $15; Benjamin Reeves, colored, 30 days at the county home.

Henry C. Hagans, larceny, six months, suspended on payment of $25 and $16 to Ed Smith and Jinx Haddock.

James E. Daniels, colored, disorderly conduct and profane language, 30 days or $15.

Lenwood Nobles, colored, no driver's license, 30 days in jail or pay $25 and costs.

Joseph E. Culbreth, careless and reckless driving and damage to public property, $15 court costs and $20 to the Greenville Utilities Commission for damage in breaking off a pole at Fifth and Oak streets, in Greenville. Culbreth's car was considerably damaged.

Formal Offer In Press Walkout

New York, July 20—(AP)—The World Telegram and the Sun yesterday made its first formal offer to 400 striking newspaper guildsmen as both sides offered compromise suggestions to settle the big union security issue.

Management said it had offered "its striking employees the same clauses on job security, grievances and union security as in the New York Times contract."

Job and union security are the main issues in the CIO Newspaper Guild strike which has shut down the Scripps Howard newspaper plant the past five weeks. When editorial and commercial employees walked out, members of the mechanical trade refused to cross Guild picket lines.

The newspaper's offer was announced after a meeting of both sides with federal mediators. Talks continued after a Guild spokesman said the offer duplicated proposals management had made informally in previous negotiations.

Later both sides submitted secret package proposals on other issues. However, a Guild spokesman said the union withdrew its package proposal after management gave a "flat refusal" to a Guild request to "negotiate on everything in both proposals."

Past Shows Outnumbered Armies Still Have Chance

By CLARKE BEACH
Washington—Armies in the past have been even more badly outnumbered than are the U. S. forces now fighting in Korea and still have won the victory.

Yet when you look back over some of the campaigns and battles of history, you find that an army fighting against superior numbers has only one chance in ten of being the victor.

Maj. Robert B. Riggs, of the Army General Staff Corps, makes this estimate in an article in the current issue of "Military Review," published by the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kas.

Major Riggs' purpose, however, was to study the battles in which victory went to the smaller army. Few as they were important. Four of them were among the 15 decisive battles of the world by the military historian, Sir Edward S. Creasy.

Major Riggs' analysis indicated to him that victory in practically all battles, from Marathon to the campaigns of World War II, has depended primarily on the human factor: That is, the leaders' generalship, training, morale, bravery and determination. This has been true, he said, whether the fighting was done with swords and spears or with rockets in the newest jet planes.

The development of modern weapons, said Riggs, has given new yardsticks for measuring the comparative strength of opposing forces. The sheer weight of numbers is less significant than in the past; fire power, air power and speed in maneuver are what count, rather than the number of men on the front line. Still, however, large numbers of supporting troops and factory workers are needed to put the new weapons and vehicles in action. And if the human factor is not favorable, it can nullify the effect of superior mechanical equipment.

"Generally, you cannot count on completely beating more than about 2-1-2 times your own number, except that today a new set of numerical values must replace the old," Riggs wrote.

In reviewing historical facts, Riggs recalled, "England's position in history shows that smaller nations often defeat larger ones or combinations thereof. Britain's population was outnumbered in 1588 when she conquered Spain, and again in 1702 against the French, Spanish and Bavarians, in the Seven Years' War and in 1800."

Among the battles he cited were: Marathon, 490 B. C., in which the Greeks, outnumbered nine to one, defeated the Persians through their discipline and tactical skill.

Gaugamela, 331 B. C. Darius the Persian in Iraq outnumbered Alexander of Macedonia by eight to one. Darius used almost modern blitzkrieg methods, driving breaches into Alexander's tactical skill kept his few men fighting at the right places at the right time. And Darius fled from the field.

Tannenberg, 1914. General Von Hindenburg, with less than 250,000

German troops, gained a classic victory over two Russian armies, comprising almost 500,000 men. They were commanded by Generals Rennenkamp and Samsonof. This is Riggs' description of the battle:

"Throwing out a cavalry division to contain the First Russian Army Hindenburg turned his back and attacked Samsonof. Hindenburg ran great risk of being trapped, but he let Samsonof's flanks through his center and then closed his own trap on the Russians, who were stumbling about in the forest. Some 60,000 Russians died on the battlefield, and 100,000 others were taken prisoner.

"With Napoleonic ease, Hindenburg then about-faced his thousands and took on Rennenkamp's Cossacks and infantry. Here again, German arms prevailed. Another batch of Russian prisoners were marched away for the duration."

Deep-Sea Study Cruise To Start From Copenhagen

Copenhagen—(AP)—What is scheduled to be the most comprehensive deep-sea exploration ever undertaken will be launched from Copenhagen in October. The corvette "Galathea" will sail on a two-year cruise—crossing of oceans with 14 scientists from Denmark, England, France, Sweden and the United States.

Study of plant and fish life along the ocean floors is the purpose. A trawl that will go as deep as six to seven miles will be among the equipment. A fishing wire eight miles long will snag rare specimens. The bacteria of the deep and the sounds fish make also will be studied.

A hollow non-magnetic bronze sphere, weighing about a ton, will carry instruments down to measure the earth's magnetism at various depths.

N. C. Escapee To Fight His Return

Richmond, Va., July 20—(AP)—A Richmond laundry route man who went straight for 13 years after escaping from a North Carolina road gang, said he will fight a move to return him to Raleigh.

Alexander T. Andrews, 33, told police he has concealed his past from his wife and two children when he was arrested here yesterday. He refused to waive extradition, failed to make $2,500 bond and was returned to jail.

Andrews said he was sentenced to three to five years in Raleigh for theft of an automobile when he was 18 years old. He told officers he escaped after serving part of his term because "I had lost my arm in a train accident, and a one-armed man doesn't have a chance on a North Carolina road gang."

Home Loans For Vets Available

Winston-Salem, N.C., July 20—(AP)—World War II veterans living in 91 of North Carolina's 100 counties are now eligible for direct government home loans.

J. D. Deramus, manager of the Veterans Administration regional office here, announced that beginning today veterans in all but nine of the state's counties may obtain 4 per cent loans for home financing direct from the government.

In the nine counties and in nine cities of the 91 counties where veterans are able to obtain loans from private sources, veterans will not be eligible for the direct financing, Deramus said.

The nine counties are Cabarrus, Catawba, Cleveland, Forsyth, Guilford, Lee, Mecklenburg, New Hanover and Wake. The cities where veterans may obtain 4 per cent loans through private sources are Asheville, Burlington, Durham, Fayetteville, Gastonia, Lincolnton, Morganton, Rocky Mount and Statesville.

Found $40,000 On Bank's Floor

Syracuse, N. Y., July 20—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Sakowski, an 18-a-week cleaning woman, called the first Trust and Deposit Co., today and asked officers to come get their $40,000.

Mrs. Sakowski explained that she found the money on the bank floor while sweeping last night and took

It home for safe keeping.
New at the job, Mrs. Sakowski said she was scared and did not know what to do with such a sum of money when she found it. "So when I finished work, I simply put it in a paper bag with my shoes and took it home with me."
"I was sure glad to get rid of it," Mrs. Sakowski said when a bank officer came to her home to get it.

"I couldn't sleep all night."
The money was in four bundles of $10 and $20 bills.

Communist Billboards In Germany Not Convincing

BILLBOARDS LIKE THIS border the iron curtain. Reds hope western Germans will come to the border to read their propaganda. This sign at Coburg reads: "Long live unity of the working class in its fight against dismantling for preservation of working places, for securing the right of co-determination in west Germany." Border patrols criticize the quality of the blue and white paint jobs.

COBURG, Germany—(AP)—The Communists have always been great devotees of signs, pamphlets and placards.

Some people think they use them to convince themselves as much as anyone else.

Up in this West German border city, smack against the Russian zone, the Communists aren't convincing anybody. Take the new border propaganda signs recently put up.

The signs have their backs to the Russian zone, so the Communists can't enjoy their own handiwork.

Some east zone Communists—and a few from the west, too—have a great time painting signs on walls and fences around border towns at night. These usually read: "Ami (American) Go Home!" They are apparently supposed to convince the people that the Communists are busy at the job of running the Americans out of the country.

A German border policeman who watched the propaganda boards go up pointed to a Russian soldier moving through the brush about 100 yards away, and said:

"That's where the police stay. But when Ivan (Russian) isn't looking, sometimes they slip across to us. We don't give them slogans. We give them something they understand. Hot soup and wurst."

Women Stopped Highway Project

Reading, Pa., July 20—(AP)—A band of broom-wielding housewives halted work on the Pennsylvania Turnpike extension—protesting the unloading of loose cement by spreading a gray dust over their washlines, breakfast cereal and even their hair.

The women converged on the Reading Company rail yards yesterday, demanding the unloading be stopped until another site can be found.

The housewives said they had appealed to the City Council on Monday. On Tuesday and again yesterday, they said, the parade of cement-bearing trucks moved out of the rail yards—casting a gray pall over the neighborhood.

It reached a point, the women said, where they couldn't even spank Junior without raising a minor dust storm or brush their teeth without tasting cement.

The broom-wielding band won its point. City councilmen instructed the contractor, C. S. Langenfelder of Baltimore, to find a new spot for unloading his cement.

And meanwhile, work on the highway project near Morgantown, Pa., was stopped—no cement.

Driver Arrested In Tuesday Wreck

A Grimesland Negro was arrested on two charges Tuesday as the result of a highway accident occurring on the New Bern highway, fifteen miles from Greenville, the State Highway Patrol announced today.

A truck loaded with plumbing supplies, driven by James R. Williams, colored, of Rocky Mount, collided with a car driven by Levi Ivey, of Grimesland, as Ivey attempted to turn around.

The truck driver stated he saw the car and could not avoid striking it. The truck turned over in the road while the car went off the road. Damage to the truck was not determined, but the car was believed to be nearly a total loss.

Investigating officer, Patrolman Dick Chadwick, stated Ivey was arrested on charges of driving in a careless and reckless manner and operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license.

Marine Sergeant In Reserves Goes Back Cherry Point

Staff Sgt. Harold V. Chartley, U. S. Marine Corps, of Butler, Penn., who was stationed with the Marine Air Forces in Greenville during World War II, spent several days here this week on his way to the Cherry Point Marine base. He will be temporarily assigned to the public relations division in the Marine Corps' Reserve Training movement.

Chartley is a member of the Marine Corps' Reserve. Since getting out of the Marines Chartley attended State Teachers College, Slippery Rock, Pa., where he received his B. A. degree. He plans to attend the University of California at Berkeley, Calif., and work for his M.A. degree in geography.

Chartley had service on Okinawa, Guam and Eniwetok, in the Pacific. He received his honorable discharge January 2, 1946.

Billie Branch of Winterville, veteran tobacco auctioneer of 25 years' experience, will leave tomorrow morning for Fitzgerald, Ga., where the tobacco market opens next Monday, July 24.

Branch auctioneered on the Greenville tobacco market for a quarter of a century, except last year, when he worked in Washington. He is going to auctioneer at Woodrow Worthington's Growers Warehouse in Greenville the coming season.

Billie Branch has ridden the circuit through North Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee and Kentucky during the years. Mrs. Branch and their children, Misses Joyce and Dorothy Branch, and Kirby Branch, accompanied the auctioneer to the Georgia city.

No Nightgown

Des Moines, July 20—(AP)—A police crew hurried to the scene after getting reports that a woman "in a nightgown" was trying to board buses at a suburban bus stop.

They found the woman all right, still waiting for a bus. Several drivers, she said, had passed her by after slowing down.

But she wasn't wearing a nightgown—it was a white evening gown.

JAYCEES MEET TONIGHT The Junior Chamber of Commerce will meet at the Old Town Inn tonight at 8:30. President Bancroft Moseley will preside. Dr. Leon Russell will be guest speaker.

From its derivation, the word "classic" means first class.

Happy Is The Day When Backache Goes Away . . .

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead to the familiar complaint of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions. If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 75 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters. Flush out waste. Get Doan's—Pills today!

Selected Marine Reserve Units Will Be Called Up

Washington, July 20—(AP)—Selected Marine Corps reserve units around the country were notified last night they will be called to active duty within 10 days.

A Marine corps spokesman who disclosed this said a statement on the call-up for extended duty may be issued later today.

He said the notifications were sent out a few hours after President Truman authorized the Armed Services to call reservists needed to meet the situation in Korea.

Earlier Col. John Grubel, director of the Third Marine Corps reserve district in New York had said all organized Marine reserve units—including women—in the New York New Jersey area had been alerted.

Explosion Rips Storage Shed

Portsmouth, Va., July 20—(AP)—Fire and explosions of an undetermined origin ripped through a hydrogen storage shed at the Proctor and Gamble Company plant here today. There were no injuries.

Damage was estimated by company officials at about $25,000.

One fireman said the explosion may have been caused by a defective safety valve on one or more of the hydrogen high-pressure storage tanks. Some of the tanks were blown as far as 100 feet from the shed.

Funeral On Saturday For Miss Irene Forbes

Miss Irene Forbes, 60, died suddenly at her home near Greenville at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning after having suffered a heart attack a few minutes earlier. Funeral services will be conducted at the home at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Walter B. Nobles, Free Will Baptist minister of Winterville.

Miss Forbes, daughter of the late Silas and Elizabeth Forbes, was born, reared, and spent all her life near Greenville. She was a member of Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church.

Surviving are a sister, Miss Martha Lula Forbes of the home; two brothers, J. Sam Forbes of the home and Louis L. Forbes of near Greenville; 7 nieces and 4 nephews.

Jimmy Simpson Heard On Radio: On Visit Here

Jimmy Simpson, former Greenville resident, and now sportscaster and special events director on radio station WMRC, 5,000 watts, American Broadcasting network, Greenville, S. C., spent several days here this week, shaking hands with old friends and renewing old acquaintances. His wife (nee Frances Rock) accompanied him.

Simpson, who got his start in radio on the Greenville (North Carolina) radio station in 1940, made a hit in Greenville Tuesday night at Guy Smith Stadium, when he took over the announcing job about the Greenville - Goldsboro game, and breezed through it nicely and acceptably. Jack Hedgepeth, league-wide popular sports announcer had some nice things to say about Jimmy Simpson when he took over.

Incidentally, it was Jimmy Simpson, with WGTC, who interviewed Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt at East Carolina Teachers' College in the early part of World War II.

was not adequate, they could represent advice and guidance so that VA could make a final determination. The new measure more or less keeps current VA procedures in effect for veterans who have already changed from one major field to another and now wish to change again. They may be required to undergo advisement and guidance, the law states before a decision is made whether to approve or disapprove the change. But if VA does not notify them of its decision within 45 days after the application, the new course automatically is approved.

The law makes no change in the VA regulation having to do with the July 25, 1951 cut-off date for beginning of G.I. Bill training. Most veterans must begin their G.I. Bill training, by the 1951 date. The regulation also states that a veteran who completes or discontinues his program of training after that time may not start another course.

Simpson was chosen the South-east's best sportscaster last year. He broadcasts all of the Clemson College and Furman University football games. He is official sportscaster for the South Carolina Golden Gloves boxing contests, Southern Textile Basketball Tournament, (reputed to be the largest in the world), baseball in Greenville, S. C., South Atlantic League Class A. Simpson has had part in other popular activities in radio broadcasting. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Simpson, formerly of Greenville, but now of Athens, Ga.

Simpson's brother, Dubose Simpson, graduate of the University of Georgia, is now athletic coach at Darlington, S. C.

Bill Simpson, (while living in Greenville) was the youngest newspaper editor in the United States. He recently graduated from the University of Georgia, is an Eagle Scout and wrote sports for the Atlanta Journal for several years, he is now in California.

Brief Rites For GI's Laid To Rest

By TOM LAMBERT
 With U.S. forces in Korea, July 19—(Delayed)—(AP)—The U. S. Army tonight buried a sergeant and a corporal, first casualties of the 25th Division which came to this war-ridden country a few days ago.

The two were killed Tuesday in a clash with guerrillas, those shadowy helpers of the North Korean Reds. They were buried in a plot about the size of a tennis court. Division engineers bulldozed it out of a small plateau overlooking a broad and peaceful valley.

The ceremony was brief and simple. Six soldiers who never knew the dead were pallbearers. Another handful of GIs, strangers also, watched quietly.

The service took place at sundown, against a background of mountains whose higher peaks were glided by a dying sun.

There were no taps and no bugle salute—only the solemnly quiet words of the chaplain above the rasp of thousands of crickets.

The bodies were wrapped in shrouds.

The chaplain moved slowly forward, his helmet under his left arm. In his left hand he held a prayer-book. He stopped at the head of the grave, glanced down and read: "The march of another soldier is over, his battles are all fought, his victories all won, and, as in other days, he lies down to rest a while under the arching sky awaiting the bugles call."

"Behold, the silver cord is loosed, the golden bowl is broken. We therefore commit his body to the earth from which it came and the spirit back to the God who gave it looking for the resurrection in the life to come."

Then the second body was lowered into this foreign soil.

The chaplain began again: "The march of another soldier..." He stepped back when he finished and shook his head.

"I thought I was through with that—last war."

Highway patrolmen examine the wreckage of an automobile and a tractor-drawn trailer which collided at Goldsboro, N. C., and killed Mrs. Ivey Wadsworth and six of her children. They were riding in the trailer. The children ranged in age from 15 years down to 20 months. Mrs. Wadsworth's husband, driver of the tractor, was injured seriously. Parts of the tractor are in left foreground and in background. (AP Photo).

Farmers Urged Get Fertilizer In Cotton Bags

Raleigh, July 20—(AP)—A suggestion that North Carolina farmers make sure fertilizer they buy is in cotton sacks has been made by Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine.

He stated the National Cotton Council has estimated that if all the fertilizer sold in the United States were in cotton bags, a $25,000,000 market for cotton would be developed.

"Producing this amount of cotton," he declared, "would require about 40,000 acres of land for provide several million hours of farm labor. Manufacturing the cloth would also provide more than a million hours of cotton mill labor."

Lady Marines To Report For Duty

Camp LeJeune, N. C., July 20—(P)—One hundred and ninety Marine Corps women reservists will report here soon to relieve an equal number of men for duty with combat units.

An advance detail of one officer and two enlisted women will arrive here July 25 to arrange for the billeting, subsistence and assignment of the women reservists. The directive calling for unlimited regular recruiting and assignment of Marine corps veterans to extended active duty.

Autos Damaged In Collision Today

Two automobiles were considerably damaged and both drivers were slightly injured when they collided at Boyd Avenue and Factory Street between 6 and 7 o'clock this morning. A witness to the collision said the cars were wrapped around each other after the crash.

Investigating police officers reported that the drivers were Robert Graham, colored, resident of a rural point, and F. S. Corbett, 1509 Dickinson Avenue, Police Chief Herbert C. Wooten stated.

Police arrested Robert Graham and charged him with careless and reckless driving. He will be tried in Police Court Friday morning.

strong.

The eviction of Nationalist China and the election of Communist China in the U.N. (which America doesn't approve but has said she will not veto if the majority want it) certainly would boost the stock of communism in many Asiatic eyes. Countries like Burma and Indonesia, which already have powerful Communist parties, would say:

"If Red China is good enough so that the United Nations kicks the Nationalists out and substitutes the Communists, they must be worthy folk and stand well. What is good enough for the United Nations is good enough for us."

So if Russia could temporarily abandon the Korean venture and thereby gain international recognition of China, it would be a good swap for Moscow. She always could return to the Korean attack at an opportune moment.

However, the status of Communist China cannot be made the premise of Korean negotiations. Uncle Sam stands on principles.

other nations, at a higher level than we had previously planned.

"Therefore, the economic measures we take now must be planned and used in such a manner as to develop and maintain our economic strength for the long run as well as the short run."

Those continuing defense expenditures for a number of years "at a higher level than we had previously planned," mean higher expenses than we have now—and therefore, it seems clear, higher taxes for years.

The controls Mr. Truman asked Congress for are far less than he could have asked.

In one field he definitely is taking a chance: He didn't ask for power to ration or control prices. He didn't ask it because, as he made plain, he's depending on Americans' good sense not to ruin the economy by hoarding or price-raising.

Already there's plenty of evidence that a lot of Americans have been going wild, buying unnecessarily all over the country, and that some business men have been taking advantage of this to boost prices.

If Americans don't show good sense in the economic field, Mr. Truman said, rationing and price control will follow. But if that becomes necessary, the economy already will have been damaged because—

Every increase in prices makes the American dollar worth less than it is now because it will buy less.

The large open arrow on this map indicates the area at Pohang on the east coast of South Korea where U. S. troops made an amphibious landing Wednesday. They met no opposition on the beach head and quickly moved inland. It was the first amphibious operation since World War II. Far inland, other American troops and South Korean forces (open arrows) had halted Red drives, and there were no changes in the battle front (black line). The blast symbols on the map locate targets of attacks by Allied aircraft which kept up a relentless pounding of Red supply lines. (AP Wirephoto Map).

IT'S DEATH, MY DARLING!

By Amelia Reynolds Long AP Manufacturer

Chapter 25

Bobby gave a little, terrified whimper, and hid her face against Henri's coat.

"So that's why you went tearing out of there!" Amedee exclaimed. "Henri, you infernal idiot!"

"It's easy enough for you to ridicule the idea of the supernatural," Henri said defiantly. "But, how do you explain the opened casket?"

"I'd have sense enough to realize that those screws couldn't have been unfastened from the inside of the casket. They'd have to be removed from the outside."

"That doesn't explain why the screws were removed in the first place," he said doggedly. "Or who did it."

"Uncle Raoul did, probably," Amedee replied. "I can't tell you why, because I don't know. Now can you go inside and telephone the coroner without going into a trance?"

Henri rose with an air of injured dignity, and went into the house. Bobby, with a half reproachful glance at Amedee, followed.

"Did you know about the screws before he mentioned them, Dede?" I inquired.

"Yes," he answered. "The sheriff discovered that they'd been removed."

"What does he think about it?" I asked.

He hesitated, then replied reluctantly. "He thinks Lee did it."

Amedee came over and sat down upon the gallery floor at my feet.

"I'll tell you the sheriff's theory," Peter, he said soberly, "and you can see if it makes sense to you. He thinks that Lee, inspired by Claude's death, killed his father in order to get the double inheritance; that he started to hide the body in the coffin with Grandpere, then lost his nerve; that later he fell to brooding over what he had done, and in remorse killed himself with the same weapon he had used to kill his father."

"Dede, you don't actually believe that, do you?" I demanded.

He passed his hand through his tousled hair.

"I hardly know what I believe," he answered wearily.

An hour or so later, the sheriff came and asked to speak to us all together.

"I only wanted to tell you that the coroner's agreed to let Mr. Raoul's death pass as suicide. So when we hold the inquest—"

He got no further, then that Beau shot out of his chair as though it had been a catapult.

"What do you mean, you'll let my father's death pass as suicide, Jeff Wilkes?" he demanded savagely. "It was suicide."

The sheriff didn't answer directly.

"After I left here this morning," he began. "I made some inquiries about that will of your grandpa's. I found he'd left orders that if any of you died, that one's share of the estate was to go to his next of male kin. In your cousin Claude's case, that was your father. In his own case, it could have been both you and your brother Lee; but according to a strict reading of the law, it might have been just Lee.

Beau stared at him for a minute. Then he gave a short, harsh laugh.

"You fool!" he exclaimed contemptuously. "You complete, damnable fool!"

The sheriff's face flamed.

"I've tried to be decent about this," he said. "But if that's the way you feel about it, I'll not hush anything up. We'll see how smart you are, Mr. Beau Dumont, at explaining to a jury why your father and your brother should have committed suicide."

"That won't be necessary, Sheriff," Pick said quietly. "I can tell you."

"Beau is right," she went on, gently putting Lewis Hays aside as he attempted to stop her. "My father and my brother Lee both did commit suicide. You see, they both believed that I had killed Claude, the same as Beau did at first when he tried to lie that morning to protect me."

The sheriff was looking utterly dumfounded.

"It's just the sort of fool thing these Dumonts would have done," he muttered half to himself.

With a brief nod of farewell, he turned and left the room. A moment later, he heard the front door close behind him.

While Pick had been speaking, Beau had stood staring at her as though he had been frozen into immobility. "I didn't know you thought that, Pick," he said. "But you're wrong, Father's and Lee's deaths had nothing to do with you. There was another reason."

"What other could there have been?"

"I can't tell you that," he answered. "But you've got to believe me, Pick. A reason did exist."

"If you know the truth, you'd better tell her, Beau," Cousin Jeff put in.

"I can't," he groaned. There was desperation in his voice now. "I can't tell any of you. Oh, not because I think it might drive the rest of you to suicide. But for you to have to live with the knowledge—"

"With what knowledge?" Henri demanded suddenly. "Beau, what's wrong with us Dumonts? I want to know. I've got a right to."

"That's true," Amedee said. "Remember, Henri and I are planning to be married."

"All right," he flung out with a sort of brutal defiance. "You've both asked for it, so here it is: You can't get married; none of us can. We've got to let the Dumont line die out. There's a curse on the family—the curse of insanity!"

"What! Amedee was out of a chair as though there had been a steel spring inside of him, and somebody had released it. "Beau, you're—"

"Crazy?" Beau finished for him, his mouth twisting with the word into the bitter mockery of a grin. "Yes, Dede, I am. Or I shall be before I die. That's the thing Grandfather had found out."

Skyscraper Now Regaining Favor Of Architects

NEW YORK (AP)—The skyscraper, long thought to be on the way out, is staging a comeback. Modern skyscraper architects are changing the minds of architects and building managers about the economic height of buildings.

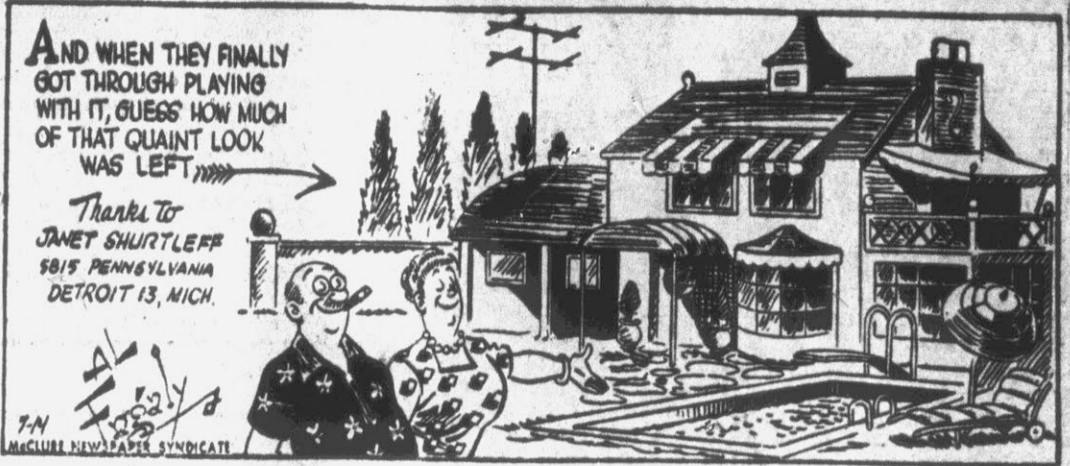

An interesting example is afforded by a new 42-story structure at 1407 Broadway, New York. Originally planned at a 24-story structure covering all the land area, the design was changed to 42 floors with a base covering only 65 per cent of the land.

Reason for the change, says S. M. Hirsch, president of the building organization, is that tenants are willing to pay premium rentals for light and air afforded in tower floors.
