

Vinson Asks Global War Readiness

Declares U.S. Forces Must Be Rapidly Built Up; Cites Heavy Odds

Washington, July 25—(AP)—Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.) said today "a global war is a real, distinct possibility at any time" and American forces must be built up for that possibility.

Vinson, chairman of the Armed Services committee, made the statement in a speech prepared for house delivery in support of a bill that would add a year to the service period of enlisted men now in the armed forces.

A house vote was expected later in the day.

"The enlistment 'freeze' already has passed the senate.

The house also expected to take a vote later on legislation to lift all limits from the size of the armed forces.

On a speed up schedule, it may vote next week on giving the armed forces the $10,486,976,000 in additional money asked for them by President Truman.

Vinson said the United States is "seriously short" at present in "standing military strength" and he questioned whether the expansion program the administration has begun will be enough.

He said he is not satisfied with the plans for increasing the size of the navy and the air force "for I believe there is too much conservatism in the program."

Vinson said Russia out numbers the United States 7 to 1 in tanks, more than 17 to 1 in military manpower and has almost 300 submarines and "a vast air force."

On the U. S. side of the military ledger, he said there are these assets:

"Governmentally, we are far stronger than our potential enemies in any long term effort. Our system can outlast and surpass the dictatorial, regimented system of the Communists. Our industrial potential is the envy of the world.

"Our seapower is vastly greater than that of Russia and her satellites. Our strategic air power is unmatched anywhere in the world. We are still far ahead in the atomic arms effort and will probably stay ahead for some years in the future."

And he gave this advance to colleagues who in recent weeks have criticized past preparedness programs:

"Our great need right now is to get the ox out of the ditch—not spend a lot of time and effort trying to find out who pushed him into the ditch. Let's not spend our time looking backwards while Americans are being killed in Korea and our defenses urgently need strengthening. This is no time to take a detour to hunt for scapegoats."

'Lonely Hearts' Appeal Slated

Ossining, N. Y., July 25—(AP)—Council for the doomed "lonely hearts" slayers announced yesterday that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will hold a hearing next Monday on an application for commutation of their death sentences.

Defense counsel Herbert E. Rosenberg said that if Dewey turns down the plea the case will be appealed to a federal court, and taken to the U. S. Supreme court if necessary.

Threat Fades

Taipei, Formosa, July 25—(AP)—The threatened Chinese communist invasion of Quemoy island off the China coast opposite Formosa ended today—at least temporarily.

The defense ministry said that Red junk men approaching the 30 square mile island did not strike.

Blow-Out Said Cause Of Wreck

A blow-out of a right front tire on a loaded asphalt truck as it was going down a hill on Highway 121 early this morning, resulted in two asphalt trucks being wrecked, injuring the driver of one truck.

Two trucks belonging to the S. R. Neal Company of Snow Hill, were on the hill, when the lead truck's tire blew out, causing the driver, Charlie Windham, to lose control of the truck going from one side of the highway to the other.

The driver of the rear truck, William Louitt, stated that he applied his brakes when he saw the front truck in trouble, in order to avoid piling into the rear of the truck.

Louitt told a Reflector reporter that at the time of the accident the trucks were traveling at about 25-30 miles per hour. The driver said that his left brakes on the rear tires caught, and pulled him off the highway about 30 feet from where he first applied brakes. The truck then left the highway, traveled about 10 feet and turned over on its side.

A passenger in the Windham truck, Dick Phillips, said that he laid down in the foot of the truck when the tire blew out, and that the driver fell across him when the truck turned over. When the truck went into the creek, narrowly missing the bridge abutment, the truck landed on the top of the cab, spilling hot asphalt into the cab and all around the truck. The driver, Windham, was thrown over to the left of the truck and suffered severe burns when the hot mixture was thrown out, spilling into the cab.

Patrolman Ernest Guthrie, investigating officer, said that Windham's burns were not believed to be very serious. He was taken to a Farmville doctor and treated, then carried to his home between Fountain and Falkland. He is married and has three children. Guthrie said that the man will be out of the hospital.

Controls On Economy

What The President Will Be Able To Do With The Powers He Has Asked Congress To Put The Brakes On War-Time Inflation; How You, The Buyer, Are Affected

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 25—(AP)—If Congress gives the President the kind of power he asked for, and it probably will, then he can:

- 1 Control the amount of credit you get when you buy things on time, like autos, refrigerators, household appliances.
- 2 Control the amount of time you'll get for paying off those things you buy on time.
- 3 Even control real estate deals—like buying a home—by saying how big a down payment you must make.

Except for control over real estate the controls listed above would not be new. Congress gave the President the same kind of power in World War I—and after.

That wartime-and-after power was contained in a regulation laid down by the government, called "Regulation W." Its purpose was to control credit or buying-on-time.

For example, under Regulation W the government could compel people to pay up in full within 24 months or less on all kinds of credit; to make a one-third down payment on automobiles; to make a 10 percent down-payment, at least, on all types of home appliances bought on time.

The power of the government to set such regulations on credit buying ended in June, 1946, when Congress, instead of renewing the President's power to use Regulation W, let it die.

So, in effect, he is asking Congress to give him back that power now. To speed up Congressional action on this, a couple of top Democrats in Congress offered bills last week.

This was after the President sent his message to Congress, explaining the crisis in Korea and the immediate need for this "re-arm." It's up to Congress to decide.

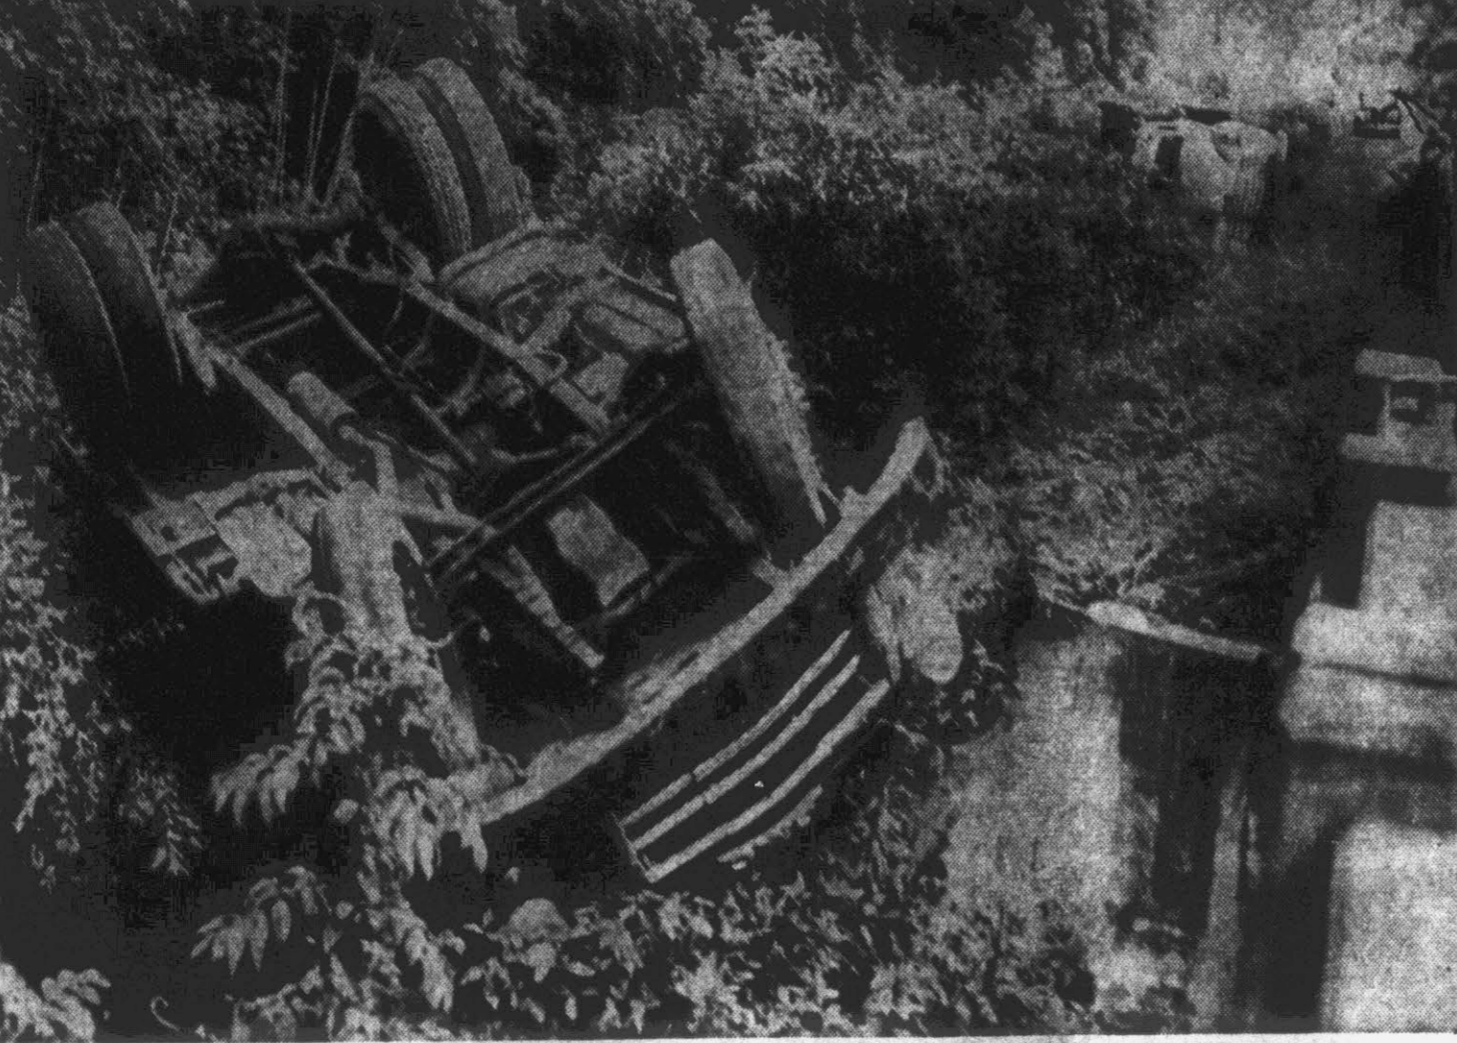

The purpose behind all this can be simply stated: To make it tougher for people to buy things. And this is why:

As the government buys up steel for tanks—there's less for civilian goods for example: less steel for autos and refrigerators.

But so long as people have a lot of money in their pockets, as they have now, they'll scramble around to buy what they can. This means, of course, that they'll compete

Two Asphalt Trucks Turn Over On Hill; One Driver Is Burned

The above photograph shows two asphalt trucks which were wrecked early this morning about two miles from Bruce on Highway 121. The driver of the truck in the foreground, Charlie Windham, suffered painful burns when the asphalt from his truck spilled into his cab as the truck turned over into the creek, narrowly missing the bridge abutment. In the background, to the right top of the picture, can be seen the second truck which was following behind Windham's truck, and turned over as the driver applied brakes to avoid striking the lead truck when a right front tire blew out. Blow-Out Said Cause Of Wreck

Second Truck Went Into Ditch Trying To Avoid Trouble

Budget Commission Visits College Today

Group Inspects Plant, Discuss Financial Needs For Biennial; Messick Submits Requests For New Construction

Members of the North Carolina state budget commission spent this afternoon on the campus of East Carolina Teachers College inspecting the school's physical plant, and discussing the financial needs of renovation projects in two of the present buildings.

The members of the commission visited the buildings on the campus of the institution, and inspected the work being done on buildings which are now under construction on the East Carolina campus.

President John D. Messick and Business Manager I. D. Duncan discussed with the commissioners the needs of the school for the coming two-year period, and presented requests for two new construction projects and major renovation projects in two of the present buildings.

Dr. Messick requested the 1951 General Assembly appropriate money for the construction of a new dormitory for women students, and authorize the completion of the east wing of Ragsdale hall. The president also requested that enough money be appropriated for the biennial for the addition of seven new teachers to the faculty of the college.

Messick's outline of the needs of the college included a request for enough money to convert the present library into a classroom building when the new library is completed, and the necessary funds to convert the basement of the Wright building into a student union.

Members of the state budget commission who were expected here for the meeting this afternoon were: Asst. Dir. Director D. S. Coltrane, Harry Caldwell of Greensboro, Alonso Edwards of Hookerton, Larry Moore of Wilson, Frank Taylor of Goldsboro, Grady Rankin of Gastonia and Edwin Pate of Laurinburg.

Order Civilians Out Of Fighting

An American Advance Post in Korea, July 25—(AP)—All Korean civilians have been ordered out of the fighting zone southeast of Taegon.

The order was aimed at stopping infiltration behind American lines by Communist soldiers and saboteurs dressed as civilians.

Commanders have directed Korean police to steer all Koreans from village that may become involved in the fighting and to send them to points far behind American installations.

In an area once cleared of civilians, anyone in civilian clothing may be shot.

Spent Nights In Counting Money

Los Angeles, July 25—(AP)—His income ran well into five figures and he insisted on staying up nights totaling it up on his adding machine.

Mrs. Lotta M. Briggs testified yesterday that her husband, Walter M. Briggs, 42, wealthy operator of downtown parking lots, paid no attention to her when he stayed home, and "the house from his adding machine kept me and the children awake most of the night."

She won the divorce—and $1,000,000 in community property.

Exhibit Program Moving Rapidly

Twenty-Two Firms Reserve Space For Farmers' Day Use

Progress in the exhibits for Farmers' Day among merchants and businessmen of Greenville is moving rapidly at the present time. Twenty-two business establishments of Greenville have reserved space for booths during the August 10 farmers' event and there is promise of a few more during the next two weeks.

Howard Hodges, chairman of the exhibit committee of Farmers' Day, announced today the tentative list of retail and wholesale establishments in Greenville which will have booths in the warehouse. Hodges stated this year's exhibits are built around an educational theme rather than a commercial one for the exhibitors. The main purpose is to educate the farmer in better methods of agricultural production and not to sell him on a particular product.

Several of the businesses of Greenville will collaborate in supplying the same type of equipment in one booth. Others will have one for their individual use. As yet, no out-of-town businessmen have given notice that they want space in the warehouse. However, Hodges stated he thought several of the county businesses would ask for space.

Those firms which will have booths on the floor are: Quality Eastern Oil Company, Sears and Roebuck, Blount-Harvey Company, Appliance Sales, Carolina Sales, Flanagan Buggy Company, Puroi Company, Drum's Hattery, Lautner Jewelry Store, Pitt County FCX, Globe Hardware Company, House on Fourth, White Chevrolet Company.

North Korean Prisoners Disclose Aid From Soviet

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters in Korea, July 25—(AP)—North Korean prisoners said today that 20,000 Korean veterans of the Chinese Red army were recalled in March for the invasion of South Korea. They added today in interviews:

Russian advisers are working with North Korean army units.

Russia in May—at least a full month before the invasion—supplied the North Korean army with huge quantities of military equipment. This included an unknown number of tanks.

A companion strike at Formosa by the Chinese Communists apparently was planned but did not come off.

(The United States threw a screen of warships between Formosa and Red China a few days after the invasion of South Korea. And President Truman promised the Chinese Nationalists, on Formosa, protection if they were attacked by the Reds.)

Kim Kwang Whan, 34, and Suk Yung Chan, 22, said the 20,000 Korean veterans in March crossed the Yalu river separating Manchuria from North Korea.

As the 141st division of the Chinese Red 47th army, the Koreans had fought several years in Manchuria, the two said. They added:

The Koreans brought along "all kinds of arms and ammunition." The veterans were spread through North Korean army divisions.

E. Z. Jones Named Head Of N. C. Civil Defense

Raleigh, N.C., July 25—(AP)—E. Z. Jones, a Floridian who moved to North Carolina in 1930, was scheduled to be sworn in today as state director of civil defense.

The office's first task, said Jones, probably will be one of public education. He said he expects to round up an office force, including an assistant director, and several office workers. The state's civil defense set-up will begin to show definite organization in 30 days, he indicated.

Jones' appointment was authorized by the Council of State last week. Scott said he asked a committee of National Guardsmen and "other Army people" last winter to recommend a civil defense director, and "the first name on their list was Mr. Jones."

Headquarters for the new defense organization will be in Raleigh, said Jones, with possibly a sub-office in the central part of the state.

Bitter Fighting Rages On All Fronts In Korean War

Atlantic Powers Rush Plans For Defending West

London, July 25—(AP)—The United States and her Atlantic pact allies rushed plans today for defense against a possible Communist attack on the West.

Prodded by the Red blitz in Korea, representatives of the 12 pact countries met in secret session here to cut a four-year rearmament schedule to two years.

The delegates form the permanent civilian high command of the pact organization. Their council was created in May by the foreign ministers of the 12 countries. The ministers called for "tangible results" by fall.

The session opening today is expected to last four or five days, but the council is subject to recall at any time. U.S. Delegate Charles M. Spofford was expected to be named council chairman. The membership also includes representatives of Britain, France, Italy, Portugal, Iceland, Denmark, Norway, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg and Canada.

Britain's cabinet meanwhile met today to polish plans for expanded defense and to decide what further aid should be sent to the Korean fighting. The Labor government made a final check in preparation for tomorrow's full-dress debate in the House of Commons on the readiness of British defenses to meet any aggression.

Informed sources said army, navy and air ministers have been working also on plans for increased aid to the hard-pressed defenders of South Korea. British ships and planes already are in the fight. The government reportedly feels it must also send at least a token force of land troops for the psychological effect, both on the men fighting in Korea and on U.S. public opinion.

A major question before the Atlantic Pact Council is whether military security, involving a big-scale arms program, can be bought without cutting in to Europe's economic recovery.

The original 1954 target date was built on the theory that Western Europe could rearm by then without cutting into its rising standard of living.

The European members of the pact, bruised and battered by World War II, are afraid if they have to start full-steam production of guns, tanks and planes they will fall behind in civilian production to this fear.

The American answer to this fear, qualified informants say, is that Europe can expand military production without cutting into its peacetime needs by working longer hours, developing new plants and absorbing the unemployed.

Representatives Of Pact Nations Meet In Secret Session; Time Element

London, July 25—(AP)—The United Nations Security Council meets today to hear the first report from its military commander-in-chief, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, on the fighting in Korea.

Informed sources said the report contains no recommendations for further U.N. action, but merely gives an accounting of the war so far.

Those who have seen the report say MacArthur speaks with high praise of the world body's collective effort. There had been complaints here that the general, whose men are fighting under the U.N.'s blue and white banner, previously had not stressed the combined effort strongly enough.

Other groups here have regretted what they consider a slow response from many members to the appeal by Secretary-General Trygve Lie for combat troops to bolster the Americans and South Koreans who so far have been doing all the ground fighting.

To date the U.N. has announced offers of 4,000 men and officers from Thailand and 30 officers from Bolivia.

An informed source said today, however, that American military authorities do not want a rush of troops from member nations to Korea at this time.

There is a feeling that problems of supply, language difficulties and other technical questions would limit their usefulness.

Diplomatic sources said member countries think it best to wait until they hear directly from Gen. MacArthur exactly what ground forces he wants. This one diplomat said would prevent the waste of sending infantry, for instance, if MacArthur needed a concentration of artillery.

Foes Resisting King Leopold

Brussels, July 25—(AP)—The main railway line between Namur and Brussels was dynamited in two places today.

The explosions occurred near the towns of Genval and Lessine in French-speaking Walloon—the section of Belgium where opposition to the return of King Leopold III to the throne has been strongest.

Telephone lines in the district also were cut during the night.

Since Leopold came back last Saturday there have been a series of minor bombings.

Senator Claims Air-Tight Proof

Washington, July 25—(AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) declared today he has air-tight proof that an important State Department official—a Moscow-born "Mr. X"—is a Communist.

The proof, McCarthy said in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate, is contained in the Department's own loyalty file on the man.

He said his evidence was furnished by "an FBI agent, an undercover agent, (who) joined the Communist Party in 1937 at the suggestion of the FBI."

5,000 Planes

Washington, July 25—(AP)—Secretary of Defense Johnson said today "more than 5,000" war planes will be added to the nation's Air strength.

Johnson conferred with President Truman and secretary of the navy Matthews at the White House and later told reporters who asked about the outlook for the Korea fighting:

"Our boys have done a marvelous job over there. We'll have a different story a month from now."

Johnson said the 5,000-plane expansion will be made under the $10,486,976,000 military fund President Truman asked from Congress yesterday.

Prices Still Up

Valdosta, Ga., July 25—(AP)—High prices held again today at many markets in the Georgia-Florida flue cured tobacco belt. Most warehouses reported early sales on the second day of the 1950 season holding with yesterday's high.

At Statesboro, Ga., today's average was expected to run about $44 per hundred pounds. Lugs were averaging about $60. Fall sales were expected today, although the warehouses were not filled.

A report of low prices came from Metter, Ga. The first 10 rows today sold at an average of $38. Much of the leaf on the warehouse floors showed the effect of three weeks of hot and dry weather. However, sales were brisk and prices good, considering the quality of the leaf. Best quality sold as high as $65, with lower grades as low as $35.

Yesterday's opening saw most leaf bringing $4 to $5 above the 1949 opening.

Security Council Will Hear Report

Report Britain To Offer Force

London, July 25—(AP)—Informants in touch with the government reported today Britain has decided to offer a small ground force to the United Nations for use in Korea.

They reported this after the British cabinet met in special session. Apparently to discuss a number of major changes in the nation's defense policy.

Dangers In Hoarding

Why Scare-Buying Gives Aid And Comfort To The Enemy; Common Sense Should Bar Hoarding; Practice Forces Prices Up, Upsetting Normal Trade, Economy

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

A lot of Americans are allowing themselves to become panicky and are rushing about buying commodities of various sorts which they propose to hoard as protection against a scare-buyer of possible war shortages.

These scare-buyers (or at least a good many of them) naturally do not realize it but by such hoarding they are giving aid and comfort to the enemy. They are playing straight into Communist hands.

That's blunt language, but it's well that the facts be faced before grave damage has been done. There is no law against hoarding at this writing, but the law of common sense ought to bar it.

"But," demands a reader, "how on earth can the fact that I stow away a few extra pounds of foodstuffs be aid to Russia?"

Well, it's this way: widespread hoarding, either by householders or by profit-making dealers, is terribly damaging to a country's economy. One of the main features of Moscow's strategy for spread of Communism is to create economic stress among the Western powers, especially the United States.

Ability to maintain military preparedness "obviously depends on economic fitness. So if the Reds could wreck us economically, they would have softened us up so that we would be vulnerable to assault.

Thus anything which damages the economy of America is an aid to the Communist city.

Hoarding upsets the normal trade of the country by creating a scarcity of commodities on the market. Non-hoarders are made to suffer for the patriotism because of their inability to buy necessities.

And widespread hoarding might even deprive the government of things which were needed for overseas operations.

One ridiculous aspect of hoarding is that it actually hurts the hoarder. His hoarding forces prices up so that while he is hanging onto his hundred pounds of sugar he has to pay more for what he buys for current consumption. We shouldn't forget what President Truman had to say about hoarding in his broadcast last week:

"That is foolish. I say it is foolish, and it's selfish, very selfish, because hoarding results in entirely

Yongdong Falls Before Costly And Repeated Red Assaults; Carrier Planes Strike At Columns On Western Flank; Attacks Beaten Back By 25th Division

By The Associated Press
Yongdong fell to North Korea today. On the other side of the ledger, U. S. and British carrier planes streaked across Korea's southwest tip and struck hard at advancing Communist columns threatening to flank United Nations forces in a push toward Pusan.

The war was a month old, and the MacArthur command was fighting to keep the one-third of South Korea it still holds.

On the central front, U. S. first cavalry division elements, "fighting like hell," retreated from Yongdong before a sustained Communist frontal attack supported by tanks in both flanks and sneak attacks from the rear. Fighting to protect the American flanks, the 25th division threw back two Communist infantry attacks with heavy casualties. Yongdong is 20 miles southeast of abandoned Taegon.

The carrier plane attack was part of Gen. MacArthur's planned measure against the burgeoning threat on the southwest front, where Red columns have been driving against taken resistance from South Koreans and menacing vitally important U. S. supply lines in the broad flank movement.

The navy pilots hit unidentified front line targets "of opportunity" in the area of Kwangju, where the Communists have been spearheading east in what looked like the beginning of a drive on Pusan. This main American supply port is on the southeast coast. The Reds already have seized all the western and southwestern part of Korea, driving the Americans and South Koreans into a corner making up only about a third of the peninsula.

U. S. army field officers were reported to have asked the air strike, in which British planes supplied cover for U. S. naval fliers. The attack was under the direction of Vice Adm Arthur D. Struble, who had just returned with his ships from recent strikes at targets north of the 38th parallel. For the first time in the campaign a rearming ship came alongside the task force as it proceeded to its new operation.

Front dispatches from the central sector said the Yongdong withdrawal was orderly after the Americans stood their ground since Sunday before waves of attacking Reds. First cavalry elements on the flanks had been cut off from time to time by roadblocks set up in their rear by Red infiltrators.

Air observers said large numbers of Communists, camouflaged to make difficult targets from the air, moved north and south in a pincher drive around abandoned U. S. positions west of Yongdong.

Gen. MacArthur headquarters has referred to Red troops in the southwest as "roving bands" but indications were that the Reds had sent in regular troops for the push; aimed eventually at shearing off the southern part of the peninsula and pushing Americans to a mere beachhead at Pusan, their supply port.

Defense department officials in Washington acknowledged that the U. S. might be pushed back to the southern corner of Korea, where the outnumbered U. S. troops would find it less difficult to hold against the swarms of Reds. The Communists already have swept over two thirds of South Korea.

Police Plan For Tobacco Traffic

By CHESTER WALSH
At a routine meeting of members of the Greenville Police Department at headquarters in the City Hall at 8 a. m. today, Chief Herbert Wooten reminded the officers of the approaching tobacco market season August 18 and he outlined some plans for police activities.

The chief stressed the importance of courtesy on the part of police in regulating traffic and performing other public duties. "Courtesy is always helpful in law enforcement. We want the police to plan now for the heavy increase of traffic when the tobacco market opens. We want the officers to be courteous to visitors in town. We want them to give special attention to keeping traffic lanes open to farmers who will bring their tobacco here and others. We are going to cooperate with the tobaccoists, factories and warehouses and stores and other business places," Wooten said.

"We are going to ask our Greenville people to give farmers and shoppers a chance to find parking places in the warehouse and business sections of the city. We are calling special attention to the city ordinance prohibiting cars to park in freight loading zones. The police ask the cooperation of the public generally in handling traffic during the tobacco season. The officers will be instructed to enforce the traffic laws of the city with courtesy and we need public cooperation," the chief said.

Chief Wooten said that he and the police committee will welcome suggestions for improving the police department.

New Universal Training Bill Is Being Prepared

Washington, July 25—(AP)—A new bill for universal military training may be introduced in Congress this week.

It would provide for a years training for men 17 and 18 years old.

An American Legion committee drafting the bill expected to complete its work late today.

The committee is working closely with Defense Department and Selective Service officials.

Committee members are Eric Coker, Jr., Dawson, Ga., chairman of the American Legion National Security Commission; and two Legion department commanders, Lewis K. Gough, Pasadena, Cal., and Bruce Henderson, Warren, Ohio. All are veterans of World War II.

Some families of chickens are low in hatchability of eggs.

Asbestos workers sometimes suffer from asbestosis, caused by inhaling dust from the mineral.

Budget Hats For Fall Are Sleek And Small

SUEDE SWEEPS THE CAMPUS... You'll see a rash of little suede hats this fall. One of the top favorites is this Dutch bonnet, perfect for back to college wear. In all the tawny colors.

PENCIL ROLL... This is another top hit for fall, designed for youthful wearers. It comes in suede with a jaunty feather. All three hats pictured are budget priced and designed by Stetson.

Insurance Firms Talk War Clause

Raleigh, July 25—(AP)—Twelve companies writing insurance in North Carolina have revealed they may write war clauses into their life policies.

The companies said they would write the clauses into policies sold members of the armed forces and other connected with military activities if the international situation makes it necessary.

War clauses usually provide that beneficiaries of policyholders cannot collect if the policyholder is killed while on military duty or as the result of an injury incurred in military service.

Insurance Commissioner Cheek said yesterday a meeting of a committee of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners has been called for Aug. 1 in Chicago. The convening group will work out a uniform war clause policy to be followed by all life underwriters.

Another Rocket Will Be Tested

Long Range Proving Ground, Cocoa, Fla., July 25—(AP)—Another giant two-stage rocket will be fired here Saturday in a second horizontal test flight of guided missiles.

The first such successful flight was made yesterday when a 14-ton German V-2 rocket with a 700 pound missile on its nose made a climbing turn miles out over the Atlantic.

Committee Will Elect Officers

Raleigh, July 25—(AP)—The State Democratic Executive committee is slated to elect a chairman and vice-chairman late today.

The jobs traditionally go to the incumbents. Everett Jordan is state chairman and Mrs. D. A. McCormick is vice chairman.

Woman Indicted In Gun Slaying

Asheville, N. C., July 25—(AP)—Mrs. Susan Russell Henderson, 46, today had been indicted by a Buncombe county grand jury for the early morning slaying of her husband, W. Bowen Henderson, a well-known Asheville certified public accountant.

Deputy Sheriff R. L. Michael told a coroner's jury she had admitted to him that she shot her husband at their home the morning of July 16.

Mrs. Henderson, free on $5,000 bond, is a patient at Appalachian Hall, a private mental hospital.

CHUCKER CAP... This sleek little hat in shiny melusine like a man's top hat looks like the first big fad of the fall season.

VARIETY EDITOR DIES
Del Mar, Calif., July 25—(AP)—Arthur Ungar, editor of the entertainment world's Daily Variety, died last night of a cerebral hemorrhage following a slight beach accident. He was 64 years old.

Thieves Include Kitchen Sink

Chicago, July 25—(AP)—Burglars broke into a South side home and stole a variety of articles—including the kitchen sink.

Harry Schrober, a streetcar motor-man, told police they also carted away a wash basin, mattress, telephone coin box, garbage burner and crates from the ventilators.

Decoy Wallet Fooled Thieves; Money Safe

CHICAGO—(AP)—Four robbers surrounded Ralph De Leon as he sat in a parked car. They demanded money. He took a wallet from a coat pocket and showed it to them. It was empty. The thugs went away. They didn't know that De Leon carries his money in a second wallet that he keeps in a pants pocket.

WHAT'S THE LATEST WRINKLE?

The young lady who lets misplaced vanity keep her from wearing the glasses she needs, does not escape the penalty.

There is no surer way of creating "crow's feet", wrinkles and other signs of age, than the constant squinting of the person who needs glasses but doesn't wear them.

So foolish to pay this penalty, when today's colorful glasses can actually add to your appearance. Let us show you how!

Fabulous William Helis Dies Today Following Illness

Baltimore, July 25—(AP)—William G. Helis Sr., the 63-year-old millionaire oilman with an intense love of good horseflesh, died early today at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

He underwent an operation for a respiratory infection May 20 and was discharged. He was readmitted July 12, and his condition since then grew progressively worse.

The foreign-born Helis—his friends long ago tabbed him the "Golden Greek"—came to this country when he was 17, practically penniless.

He learned the oil business from virgin field to gusher. He went west to California and was one of the developers of the vast fields there.

He soon stacked up a fortune through his knowledge of the black gold. But sudden reverses dumped his money back where it came from—in oil—and in 1930 he went to New Orleans to begin all over again.

It didn't take long. A former mayor of New Orleans and state conservation commissioner, Robert Maestri, backed him, and Helis struck it rich in developing the first big field in Louisiana.

In 1941 he backed a syndicate to take over the old fairgrounds race track at New Orleans "purely for the civic standpoint," he said. He was "not interested in making any more money."

That sparked his interest in horses. In 1942 he bought his first race horse and the next year laid out $55,000 for Attention, the horse that had beaten the mighty Whirlaway, triple crown winner in 1941.

The same year he bought Pericles, a yearling marked as the horse of the century, for $66,000, the third highest yearling price on record. But Pericles, though still tops in the bloodline, didn't come through on the turf. In three starts, he won once.

His racing holdings expanded. He became owner of a large thoroughbred breeding farm at Jobstown, N. J., and was part owner of the Tanforan track at San Francisco, as well as continuing his connections with fairgrounds.

Throughout his life, Helis remained conscious and proud of his Greek background. He was president of the Greek War Relief Association and established the Greek Orthodox Church in New Orleans, oldest Greek church in the United States. He was a close personal friend of King Paul of Greece, and through him Helis was granted oil drilling rights for all Greece.

His son, William G. Helis Jr., headed a drilling expedition in Greece that cost about $1,000,000, his father estimated, but it was brought to an unsuccessful ending by World War II.

On Dec. 4, 1947, Helis was presented the Order of King George I, highest decoration of his native land, by King Paul. He was honorary Greek consul at New Orleans.

Catastrophies In Six Months Took About 700 Lives

New York N. Y.—Catastrophic accidents—those in which five or more persons are killed—took about 700 lives in the United States in the first half of 1950 or about 100 more than in the like period of last year according to a survey by the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

This increase reflects the greater number of major disasters this year than last. In the first six months of 1950 there were seven disasters each of which claimed 25 or more lives taking a total of 267 persons. In the corresponding period of 1949 there were three such disasters killing 159 persons.

Heading the list of disasters in the first six months of this year was the transport plane accident over Lake Michigan in June causing 58 deaths the nation's worst commercial plane mishap on record. Another civilian aviation accident earlier in the year had taken 15 lives making a total of 73 deaths in such catastrophes; in January-June 1949 there were no disasters in domestic air transport. In January of the current year a fire in a hospital in Davenport, Ia., took 41 lives.

Tornadoes in Texas and Louisiana in February killed 38 persons. Other relatively important catastrophes were the collision of a crowded street car with a trailer-gasoline truck in Chicago (34 deaths); the collision of two trains near Rockville Center, N. Y. (32 deaths); and the munition explosion on four barges at South Amboy, N. J., 31 deaths.

NLRB Chairman Is Renominated

Washington, July 24—(AP)—President Truman today renominated Paul M. Herzog for a new five-year term on the National Labor Relations Board. He is to continue as chairman.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross, making the announcement, said Herzog has twice tried to resign but was dissuaded by the President.

His present term expires August 27.

Blessed Relief from Cramp Pains

Signs of happy girls and women are fading that when they take Cardui each month they get blessed relief they never knew before, from functional periodic pain. That's because Cardui is a pain-relieving drug, pills and tablets. Cardui helps correct painful contractions of the organ muscles and thus helps Nature resume a more normal rhythm. In this way it actually aids in overcoming a frequent cause of painful cramps. If your pains are due to simple functional disturbances—don't wait—ask for a bottle of Cardui. You'll bless the day you first tried this tested relief.

Long Wait Before Justice Is Served

Tar Heels have not yet been told the "facts of the case" concerning J. B. Moore, onetime prison director who resigned under fire.

One sidelight of the case has recently come to public attention: the "retirement" of A. W. Livenwood as a prison employee . . . apparently as a result of his services to J. B. Moore.

The apparent verdict of "guilty" in the Moore case is substantiated by Livenwood's release from his position; yet there has been no word as to the findings of the SBI in the probe of whether or not prison labor and state-owned materials were used by Moore in his own interests.

Again may we point out that the public is entitled to full accounting as to the conduct of its servants. So too are the servants entitled to protection by a full airing of the evidence involved.

If Moore is guilty of the accusations brought against him, he is deserving of more punishment than the mere losing of his job. If Moore is innocent, his innocence should be established to the satisfaction of everyone.

The long interval between the interim "disposal" of the Moore case and the final judgment do not speak well for our system of justice.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, July 25—An almost unanimous demand that General "Ike" Eisenhower be drafted for high military service has arisen at the Capital in the wake of the Truman request that the United States virtually place itself on a war footing for an indefinite period, with sporadic or general clashes with Soviet might as a distinct possibility.

The only minor objections to enlisting the former commander of SHAEF in what may become an all-out and world-wide encounter with Russia was heard among certain Republicans. They look upon him as their best presidential bet for 1952, and they recognize that he might be among the politically unavailable if he returned to uniform.

On the other hand, although they cannot afford to admit it publicly, several prominent GOP-ers would not object if the popular head of Columbia University were removed from the political stage. It would tend to enhance their own chances for the nomination.

PROGRAM—An Eisenhower draft would also eliminate the prospect of a "coalition" of Southern Democrats and Republicans in 1952, with the World War hero as their prospective nominee. Although the sponsors of this idea have deliberately suppressed public discussion of their plan, that has been the long-range strategy in their mind for many months. Many practical obstacles remained to be removed in the intervening two years, but here was their basic program: After preliminary talks between Dixie and GOP leaders, in which they would try to work out a hard-and-fast agreement that Eisenhower would be named by the Republicans, politically prominent men in all the southern states would call their own convention of nominators.

They would then select Eisenhower as their candidate on a ticket such as the Constitutional Democrats. By meeting first and adopting a distinct name, they would escape the onus of accepting an out-and-out GOP entry.

"ADJUSTMENT"—To make this plan practicable, the Republicans would then have to nominate the General at their subsequent convention. Under the fairly free-and-easy electoral laws, and assuming that the mass of Dixie voters would cast their ballots for a man so nominated, it is hoped that the anti-Truman group could capture enough electorally powerful states tooust the present Administration.

Senator Richard Russell of Georgia recently hinted at such a temporary realignment. He has since made clear that, contrary to the general impression, he was not advocating a "coalition" of Southern Democrats opposed to the "welfare state" and Republicans. That phrase conveys the idea of permanent desertion of their historic party by folks below Mason and Dixon line.

"What I had in mind," explained Mr. Russell, "was some sort of 'adjustment,' and I believe that could be arranged."

SPEARHEAD—An "adjustment" of the Eisenhower-bullit kind, especially as a war crisis could be argued that he was the ideal non-partisan figure for the task, could be terminated within four or eight years, or in time for another presidential election. It would not commit anti-Truman Democrats to a permanent tieup.

But it might enable them to get rid of Harry S. Truman, whose popularity in the South has been revealed to be almost nil in recent primary battles. It is doubtful if any other figure could serve as the spearhead of such a movement, which seems to kill this sort of scheme if Eisenhower takes office under President Truman. In view of the political potentials imminent in this situation, the bigwigs in all parties and factions wait anxiously to see if the White House offers a post to Eisenhower, and to see if he accepts.

POSITIONS—General Eisenhower has been mentioned for so many different positions by so many different people, regardless of party or ideological affiliations, that it may be embarrassing for the White House not to call on his services.

Naturally, he has been advanced as a replacement of National Defense Secretary Johnson, whose retirement has been demanded from many sources throughout the country. But the Columbia academician has also been mentioned as successor to Secretary of State Acheson, who has been criticized with only slightly less violence than the West Virginian.

Another suggested post is Chief of Staff of the United Nations Army, when and if it is formed to give us reinforcement in Korea or to prepare for a showdown with Russia on remote fronts all over the world. In view of "Ike's" diplomatic talents, as revealed when he dealt with so many diplomatic and military prima donnas during the recent conflict, he is regarded as the perfect commander for any international defense force.

LIAISON—The fact is that he could be extremely useful in our military establishment at Washington. The three technical tops—Collins of Army, Sherman of Navy and Vandenberg of Air—will be bogged down with routine work in their own departments. Staff Chairman Bradley will supervise general operations, as General Marshall did during World War II.

Eisenhower would fit in as their swing man, also serving as their liaison with the expanding munitions production industry.

"Modern war visits destruction on the victor and vanquished alike. Our only complete assurance of surviving World War III is to halt it before it starts."

—General Omar N. Bradley.

Where The Fire Started

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Most of the time when a man takes up a new hobby it costs him at least $100 to get started. The other night I was talking to Wife Rachel about a number two hobby (Somebody Told Me is No. 1) that would bring in money, instead of adding an expense.

This No. 2 hobby would be planning vacations for people. Would you believe that people pay somebody to tell them where to go on their vacation? It actually happens, so I was thinking that I might as well collect some of that gravy.

The first step in establishing the vacation-planning business would be writing to the U.S. Bureau of the Census to obtain the figures on male and female populations in the U.S. This would be a great help in dealing with clients who are looking for husbands, or wives, as the case might be. All the husband hunters could be sent where the population is predominantly male, and the wife hunters where it is predominantly male.

This would eliminate with ease a great number of vacation clients with problems. Many have dreams of going on vacation and coming home with a partner for life.

Recommending vacations would be easy for me because I'm so shipped on New York City that I'd probably send most of my clients there. Most people say, "I'd like to go to New York, but it's so expensive." That's true, if you stay at the best-known hotel and eat at the most famous restaurants. But New York City, like everywhere else, has reasonable places to eat and sleep. For example, take the Hotel Woodstock, just off Times Square on 42nd Street. Granted, it's not as well known as the Statler, the New Yorker, or the Waldorf Astoria, but it's even better located, less expensive, and just as comfortable.

New York City probably has more free attractions than any city in the world. You can see top-notch radio shows featuring nationally-known entertainers simply by asking for free tickets. If you can land on a quiz show and know that Columbus discovered America you might even come home with a refrigerator.

In New York you can go anywhere on the subway for 10 cents, and be thoroughly entertained at the same time by the characters you will see. By visiting the foreign sections of New York, it's almost like a trip around the world without leaving the city.

The average cost per vacation week is $51.17 for sleeping and eating. Of course, it's easy to spend more, but not necessary unless you feel like you have to put on the dog.

This business of planning vacations could run into a big thing. The way I talk, I could probably get a bonus from the New York City Chamber of Commerce. Would you listen? If not, I'd better stick to hobby No. 1.

And I thank you.

Raleigh, N. C.

CAPE FEAR—The pace set by the advisory budget commission has been so fast, there has been so much to see and so much to hear about needs of North Carolina institutions, there hasn't been time to keep the story up to date. From mental hospital, to correctional schools, to tubercular hospital, to higher education units for minority groups, to the Confederate women's home—the group has covered within the past few days many of the diversified services rendered by the state.

Then some attention was given to developing new business as source of the additional revenue required to finance these services. The weekend—from Friday night to Monday morning—was spent looking over the potentials of eastern Carolina waters as revenue producers. These paragraphs are being written on the deck of the "Pamlico," flagship of the state's commercial fisheries patrol fleet. The budgeteers and their accompanying reporter are enjoying it, but they are working just the same.

DEVELOPMENT—Host for this part of the trip is the board of conservation and development, represented by Director George R. Ross. Besides members of the advisory commission, the budget bureau has with the party David S. Coltrane, assistant director of the budget; Frank Turner, chief engineer; L. D. Moore and John McDevitt of the Bureau office staff. This section of the ten days tour was opened with a country style dinner given by James H. Clark and associates of Elizabeth-town at White Lake. Other entertainment features included a luncheon at Wilmington, dinners at Morehead City and New Bern. At each of these occasions the men largely responsible for raising and distributing a quarter billion dollars a year of tax money were interested in proposals for increasing state revenue. Between calls they discussed various phases of these proposals and reviewed some of the needs discovered during the previous week.

PROSPECTS—At the White Lake dinner, Jim Clark and George Ross explained, from different but harmonious viewpoints, how the forests and lakes in that area and the Cape Fear river can be utilized for greater profit to the state and its people. Virtual certainty of large pulp mill near Acme, opening up market for pulp wood, providing payroll income for hundreds of workers, will bring also improvement in river navigational facilities, better roads and at least one new bridge across the Cape Fear. Research and closer attention to commercial fisheries, aided by recent acquisition of the fast and sea-worthy "Pamlico," is expected to enhance returns from that industry, both in direct revenue to the state treasury and through generally increased income of the people engaged in it. Progress on ports development at Wilmington and Morehead City offers further guarantee of larger prosperity for the whole state. Some of these projects are not far beyond the dream stage; others are actual achievements with definite promise of early completion.

NEEDED—The budgeteers were highly conscious of the necessity for finding additional revenue for the state treasury. In fact, it will take almost a magician to find enough money to meet requirements as outlined for hospitals and colleges. It was rediscovered that segregation and racial pride is an expensive luxury. For example, the Negro section of the sanatorium at McCain has a new kitchen which cost some $200,000 to feed 300 patients. The sanatorium plant has cost the state in capital investment some seven million dollars, and it takes over a million dollars a year to operate it. At Pembroke Indian College there is investment of three quarters of a million dollars and an annual budget of $100,000 in order to provide for about one hundred and fifty Indians their constitutional right of education opportunity.

DEMANDS—The people of the state apparently demand that services be maintained on present or higher levels. Every time suggestion is made for curtailment or retrenchment there is popular protest. Often there is conflict between good business and sentimentalism in approach to presenting and solving the problems. Dr. R. D. Wellons, president of Pembroke, insists with obvious sincerity and fairness, that although his college is small the individual pupils are entitled to as much as any other pupils are granted. If the Indians were admitted to other state colleges the per capita cost would be less than half the current rate. Hospital administrators want their facilities kept up to date, and that is very expensive. Health and welfare agencies demand compliance with regulations that appear to business men on the budget commission as utterly absurd. These men are not hard hearted, even though sometimes they must be hard headed in saying no to extreme proposals. They have proven during the past weekend that they are hard headed enough to realize the state cannot continue to pay out money unless more money comes in. To that end they took the time to study methods of increasing revenue by bringing in new business, rather than by imposing heavier taxes on an already burdened state economy.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

NEHRU'S PEACE PLAN (Richmond Times Dispatch)
Inconsistency in our government's foreign policy puzzles a writer in today's Voice of the People. Well it might. Much of it has been the result of having to cover up blunders of the past, thereby compounding confusion.

The writer of the VOP letter seems to believe that we should either vote to admit Red China to the United Nations, or, if not, we should be "consistent" and expel Red Russia from the UN. The latter alternative would, in a manner of speaking, be redundant. Russia, by her aggression in Korea, has expelled herself, if not from the UN, at least from the goodwill of an overwhelming majority of member nations. Even if we were to agree that Mao Tse-Tung's Red regime in China may eventually qualify for representation on the UN Council and that Chiang's island government does not, our government could hardly afford to buy peace in Korea at a price paid under duress.

The Kremlin set off the Korean fireworks for a number of reasons. One of these may have been to force UN acceptance of Red China. That was clear strategy on her part. If we yielded under fire, we would reap the contempt of a militant Asia. If we refused to yield, the fact would be drummed home in China as a snub and a slur. Millions of Asiatics may not be able to grasp the intricacies of the struggle between the free nations and Eurasian communism, but they are quick to recognize "face" and prompt to lose respect for "face" lost.

If a chief of police, at gunpoint, agreed to give the gunman's pal a job on the police force, he would be the laughing stock of the gangsters.

Some day we may recognize a Chinese regime other than Chiang's, but there will have to be good and sufficient reasons.

The business end of a gun is not one of them.

Business Today

By ELMER BOESSNER

Drafts and call ups into the armed forces have so far had little effect on business, but as the number increases the consequences will be large.

While the army has considerable stocks of uniforms and other clothing, bedding, food and other goods necessary for men in uniform, it has already begun acquiring new supplies. How large this program of acquisition will be depends on the course of international events. But as it continues, it will mean new orders for thousands of items.

The results will be varied. It will mean more orders for thousands of contractors and subcontractors and more employment. It will encourage the formation of new businesses.

The effect of these conversions will not be felt in civilian markets immediately. For instance, if a clothing manufacturer decides to convert wholly to the manufacture of uniforms, it is not likely to interfere with his output of fall wear, since this is already in process. And there will always be others ready and eager to take over his part of the civilian trade.

Bigger armed forces will also create new markets for goods sold through PX's and ships stores. Already many manufacturers are re-examining their lines in light of this market. The related gift market is also being explored. Perhaps we'll again be hearing the cry, "Send a salami to your army."

The effects will not be entirely in the direction of more sales. When a young man becomes a candidate for government-purchased uniforms and shoes, he ceases to become a prospect for ready-made suits, ventilated footwear and fancy neckties.

Every man entering service is a man leaving a large part of the civilian market. Most of them will no longer be prospects for houses, television sets or golf clubs. In fact, some instalment houses have resumed asking about the draft status of new customers.

The distaff market will also feel the consequences of change, although this is still further in the future. Judging from the 1941-45 experience, there will be demands for different kinds of garments and even different types of food as women enter the ranks of production workers.

PRICE RISES HIT MAIL ORDER FIRMS

Mail order houses have been caught with their prices down.

Fall and winter catalogs are already in the hands of customers. These quote prices that were determined before the Red Koreans jumped the border. Since then, panic demand and higher cost of materials has raised the going prices of many articles quoted. Further price rises will make the catalog prices further out of line.

Of course, the mail order houses are careful buyers and their contracts with their suppliers provide for firm prices for the season's delivery. However, if a supplier can't make deliveries, there isn't much that the mail order companies can do about it. Sue, sure. But meanwhile thousands of customers will be lost.

Where it's necessary for a mail order house to increase its prices, there's an uncomfortable situation. Rejecting orders is expensive. Writing explanatory letters and returning money can be costly in money as well as good will. Sending out supplements and price corrections can also be expensive. With prices as volatile as they are now, it might be necessary to send out a constant flow of revisions.

RADIO, PHONO, AND TV DEPARTMENTS LEAD

Radio, phonograph and television departments made the biggest sales gains in department stores during the first five months of this year—but almost half the department stores don't have such departments!

A study of 354 department stores by the Federal Reserve Board showed that only 187 stores had radio, phonograph and TV departments. But these 187 stores registered a 104 per cent gain over sales in the same period last year.

Major household appliance department made the second-best gain, but they were still far behind. Sales in these departments were a mere 13 per cent above a year ago. Smaller gains were made in gift shops, china and glassware, toys and games, lamps, and stationary, toilet articles and drug sundries, and linens and towels.

Enroute to Korea. (AP)—The bucket seat still is the best torture rack devised since the Middle Ages, and is being used again to punish those who travel to war by plane.

It seems that after all these years the American Air Force would have found some way to make a journey to war more comfortable. For the last mile, at least, there should be soft cushions and cocktails.

But no! The Air Force has the same old bucket seats left over from World War Two. Those bucket seats that gave a square bottom look to so many warriors in the last shooting tracas.

The old timers are groaning through the familiar torture. And the younger generation is being moulded into the same square rigged shape which is going to puzzle the anthropologists of future ages.

The human form began its change with the bucket seat into which travellers are compressed through hours of agony.

From New York to Tokyo by commercial plane is strictly push and pull. Nice, soft, reclining seats that fit the contours of the average human form. And there are cocktails before dinner served by attractive stewardesses.

But the luxuries end at Tokyo and the bucket seats begin—those squares of aluminum set against the side of the plane cabin to save space.

The unpleasant memory of the bucket seat had faded with the years since the last war. But I should have suspected what was coming when they strapped us into Mae West life jackets and parachutes for the flight to Korea.

I boarded the plane with vigor and good health. Then they strapped me to a bucket seat before I realized it. A sergeant leered:

"Well, rough weather ahead, so keep your safety belts strapped."

There was no escape before the plane roared off the runway and headed across the bumpy road to Korea. Within 30 miles the cramps were back and the numbness spread from the waist down. Everybody aboard sat hunched in their parachutes, riveted to those hard, unyielding buckets called seats.

The torture lasted for four hours until we arrived at an advanced United States air base in southern Japan. There they mercifully unstrapped us and told us we could leave the plane for a brief time. Our little band stumbled out of the ship and staggered along the apron of the runway until circulation began to return to the affected parts.

I could have cheered the little man who came up and said we could go no further and would have to spend the night at the air base. Bad weather over Korea, he said, and all flights were cancelled until tomorrow.

Eight years ago I would have treited to get on to the job ahead.

But not this time. This time I wanted more than breakfast before going on to the "C" ration diet. One more full eight hours of sleep before I began losing the bicycle tire around my middle.

But I'm afraid after two wars I'll never be able to get rid of that bucket seat look on the southern exposure.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Luncheon meetings held by two organizations on Capitol Hill—the Senate Daughters and the House Daughters—are bi-partisan in nature. The girls never talk politics. The purpose of the clubs is to give the sons' daughters a chance to get acquainted and form new friendships after their uprooting from their home towns upon their fathers' election to Congress.

"Almost as long as there has been a Senate, there have been Senate daughters," President Jeanene Watkins, daughter of Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), told me. "Once a Senate Daughter, always a Senate Daughter. The only stipulation is that if you hold office in the club you have to bear your father's name—be unmarried, that is."

Jeanene, a senior at George Washington University here, says members are 18 years or over, all daughters or daughters-in-law of senators. There are about 30 in all. Patsy Capelhart, daughter of Sen. Capelhart (R-Ind.), is secretary. Luncheons are held in the Senate dining room.

Annie Laurie Rankin, daughter of the Congressman from Mississippi, who was born in Washington, is president of the House Daughters. The group was inactive during the war. She pulled it together again last January. It holds luncheons in the House dining room and recently wound up with a slam-bang picnic at the Army-Navy Country Club. Next thing on the schedule is a luncheon for Anne Hadley, Vice President Barkley's step-daughter.

Active House Daughters must be 17 or more and unmarried daughters of incumbent congressmen. Associate members could be married daughters of past or present congressmen or daughters of former congressmen.

Energetic Theresa Elizabeth "Tek" Kelley, daughter of Rep. Augustine Kelley (D-Pa.), a graduate of Catholic University and doing volunteer work at a local hospital, is the House Daughters' "Veep." Other officers are Margaret Woodhouse, daughter of Rep. Chase Going Woodhouse (D-Conn.); Anne Miller, daughter of Rep. George Miller (D-Calif.); and Helen Jennings, daughter of Rep. John Jennings (R-Tenn.).

Miss Woodhouse says she has mother's "private slave" and Miss Jennings works for her father. Miss Miller attends George Washington.

Concerned Over Surplus Stocks

Washington, July 24—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan asked Congress today for broader authority to move government-owned surplus perishable foods to dinner tables of the needy at home and abroad.

The cabinet officer told a house Agriculture committee that he is "seriously concerned" about mounting government stocks of butter, cheese, dried eggs, dried milk, and potatoes under farm price support programs.

At present, he said, the government does not have ample authority to make use of these foods before they go to waste.

Brannan asked specifically that his department be permitted to pay transportation costs on these items from points of storage to local relief distribution centers, and be allowed to package them in suitable sizes and containers.

The department now is allowed to donate surplus perishables for relief. But domestic and foreign agencies must pay the cost of transportation and packaging.

Kashmir Refugee Votes Challenged

KARACHI, Pakistan—(AP)—Pakistan contends that 500,000 Moslem refugees from Kashmir who now live in Pakistan should be permitted to vote in the proposed plebiscite on Kashmir's future.

Officials of the refugees cannot return to Kashmir because conditions have not returned to normal. Therefore, they say, their votes should be collected in Pakistan.

India insists that the plebiscite be restricted to persons actually in Kashmir.

U.S. Has 11,500 Men In England

London, July 24—(AP)—The United States now has 11,500 members of its Navy and Air Force stationed in Britain.

Prime Minister Attlee furnished the figure in the House of Commons today in reply to a question by Laborite S. O. Davies.

Attlee said it includes 10,000 Air Force men in three B-29 groups with a total of about 180 aircraft. The Navy has 1,500 men stationed here, including those attached to the headquarters of the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean fleet.

Liked To Ride

Asheville, July 25—(AP)—A 24-passenger bus stolen from the Church of Christ by a 14-year old boy was recovered by police in better condition than when swiped.

The youth told police he stole it "just to ride around a while." Police caught him about 3 a.m., yesterday. He was still "just riding around."

The bus, when recovered, had a new battery. The lad explained he had stopped long enough to steal a battery from another vehicle.

Families Spend $835 Million In Altering Homes

New York, (AP)—American families will have spent $835,000,000 in one year for new porches, breakfast nooks and "second bathrooms" by the end of 1950. That outlay for structural additions and alterations to homes is estimated by the Title Council of America.

A report, based on government surveys, shows that the most common structural additions are porches, extra rooms and bathrooms. In that order. Porches alone account for 18 to 24 per cent of such additions. New garages account for 14 to 19 per cent, and the addition of rooms for 13 to 17 per cent. Conversion of space into baths or showers, and the addition of a bath as an extra room, constitutes 8 to 10 per cent of structural changes.

Most Of Brides Plan To Work

Chicago—(AP)—A poll indicates most working girls plan to hold jobs after they marry. The Real Estate Research Corporation interviewed 1,000 brides-to-be at the Cook County (Chicago) Marriage License Bureau. The results: 70 per cent said they would work, almost 26 per cent said they planned to stay home. The others were undecided. A similar survey last year showed 75 per cent would keep their jobs.

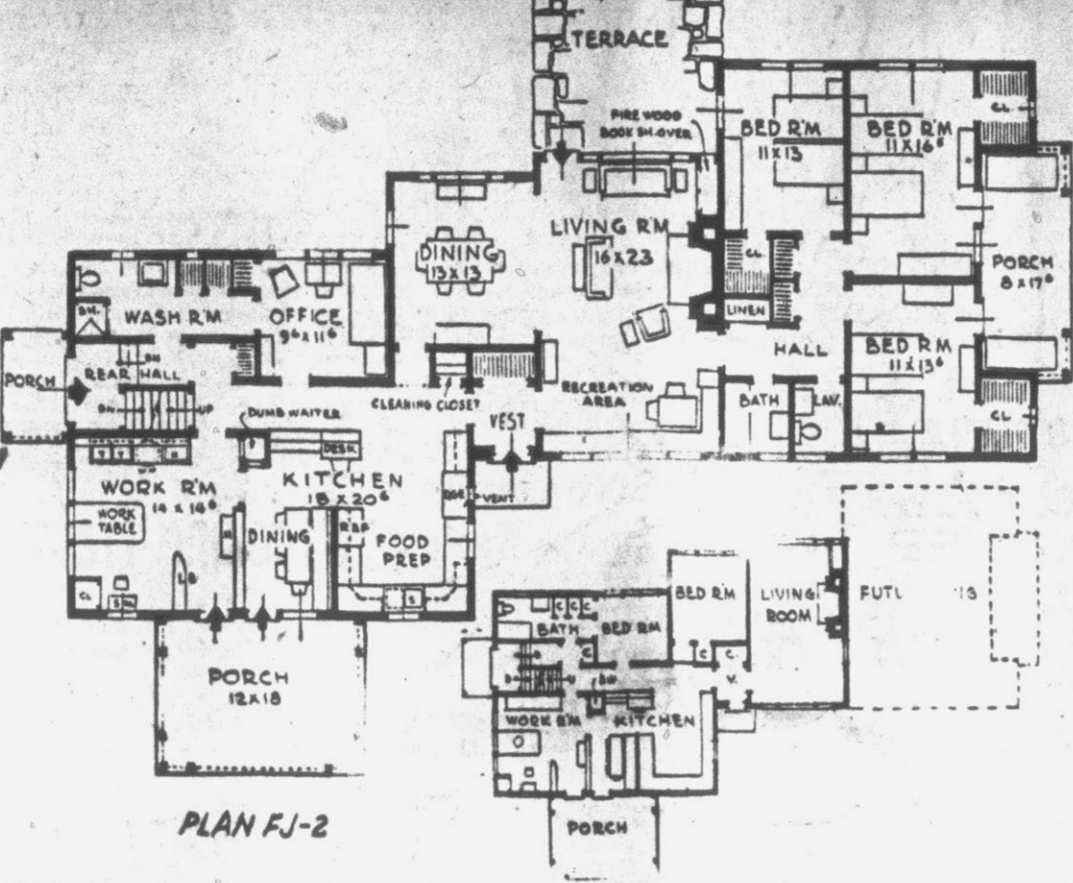

House Vote Near On Postal Curbs

Washington, July 24—(AP)—A House vote on legislation to cancel a post office department order curtailing postal service was assured today.

The vote on the bill will be in order on August 14. The required number of members, 218 have signed a petition to bring the bill before the House despite failure on the House post office committee to act on it.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

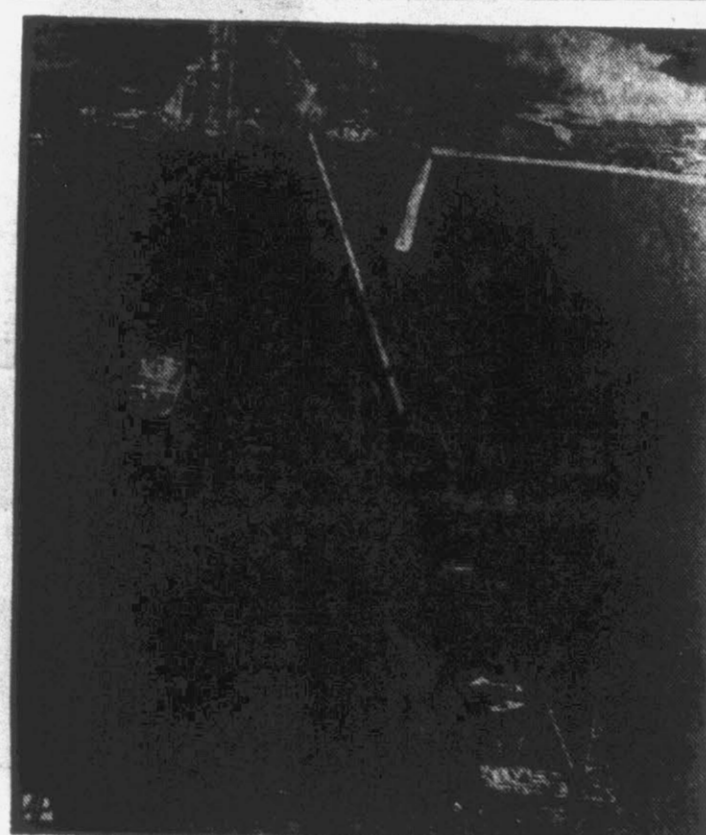

AP Newfeatures
A FARM HOUSE that can grow from a small cottage, this Plan FJ-2 by Chapman and Evans, was selected as a prize winner by Graham Patterson, publisher of the Farm Journal, Washington Sq., Philadelphia 5, Pa., because it best met housing specifications submitted by more than 7,000 farm families. The completed house is 87 feet, 8 inches wide, exclusive of porches. The kitchen wing is 28 feet, 10 inches deep and the bedroom wing is 31 feet, 4 inches deep. The house can be started as a two-bedroom cottage as shown in the small plan. In enlarging it, the kitchen and workroom remain the same, the bath becomes a washroom, the smallest bedroom is changed into a farm office, the larger bedroom is made a dining room by removing the partition between it and the living room, and three bedrooms with a divided bath and lavatory are added in the new wing. A basement under the original part of the house includes a large recreation room with fireplace, an indoor drying area and large food storage rooms.

Freeze Commissions Of Army Reserve Officers

Washington, July 25—(AP)—The Army has frozen reserve commissions expiring or about to expire, a spokesman said today.

These are five year commissions held by officers who are not now on active duty.

A large number of these five year commissions were signed by officers who in September and October of 1945, in the months immediately following the end of World War II, left active duty and signed up for the reserves. Now these commissions are beginning to expire, just as the Korean crisis grows more and more acute.

Therefore, the Army has issued a freeze order.

The Air Force said it has been unable to freeze commissions of its reserve officers. The explanation, a spokesman said, is that the Air Force commissions were issued under a later law than that used by the Army. Legislative action would be required to keep five year commissions in the Air Force in effect, he said.

There is no problem for the Navy and Marine Corps. Their reserve commissions run "at the pleasure of the President." There is no expiration date.

The Army and Air Force may order up some reservists who are

U. S. Commandos Decorated Today

An American Far East Naval Base, July 25—(AP)—Fourteen U. S. Navy and Marine commandos were decorated today by Vice Adm. Charles T. Joy for blasting a rail tunnel on Korea's east coast north of the 38th parallel.

Joy, commander of naval forces in the Far East, also awarded combat bronze stars to the captains of the light cruiser and destroyer from which the commando party was organized. They are Capt. Jesse C. Sowell of Washington, D. C., of the cruiser and Cmdr. E. H. Headland, whose destroyer moved to within 3,000 yards of the shore.

Joy related commendations from General MacArthur and added: "You have made naval history and the whole service is proud of you."

Others in the raiding party who received combat bronze stars included: From the destroyer—Seaman Eugene Alley Harwell, 20, Catawba, N. C.

Sheriff Seized Team's Uniforms

Smithfield, July 25—(AP)—The Smithfield-Seima Leafs of the Tobacco State League are playing in their opponents uniforms these days—the sheriff got their own.

The sheriff also seized the Leafs' bus, bats, batting cage and other equipment.

The seizure came after Saturday night's doubleheader with Red Springs—which the Leafs also lost—when Johnston County Sheriff C. L. Denning arrived with claim and delivery papers for a year-old debt.

Agreement Over Security System

Washington, July 25—(AP)—Management and unions of the maritime industry have agreed on a security system for barring Communists and subversives from American ships.

A voluntary pact under which the Coast Guard will do the actual policing was worked out yesterday by representatives of ship operators and workers meet here with federal officials.

In a statement issued after the meeting, the pledged that "no ship will be delayed" because crew members are found to be bad security risks by the military.

Secretary of Labor Tobin said the meeting was called because voluntary agreement between management and labor was the only way disloyal crewmen could be taken off American ships. He said the Coast Guard, the FBI and naval intelligence already are taking steps to spot Communist and subversive seamen.

Tobin said some Communists and subversives have sailed on American ships but he is confident that only loyal Americans will be found in the crews in a short time.

A review board is to be set up in each principal port, with one member representing employers, one the union and one the Coast Guard. Over these will be a national appeals board in Washington.

Youngsters Receive Free Swimming Instruction

Deadline For Starting Of GI Courses 1 Year Away

The deadline for starting GI Bill courses of education and training for most veterans is exactly a year away, on July 25, 1951, James D. Walters, contact representative of the Greenville Veterans Administration office, reminded veterans today.

That date, established by law, should be kept in mind, Walters added, when World War II veterans make future plans for schooling or training at government expense.

This coming fall school term, for example, will be the final fall term when most veterans may enter or re-enter GI Bill training. They must, however, finish training by July 25, 1951.

Those who enlisted or re-enlisted under the Armed Forces Voluntary Recruitment Act (between October 6, 1945 and October 5, 1946) have four years from the end of their enlistment or re-enlistment period in which to start training, and nine years from that time in which to complete it.

Tobacco Growers In Pender Seek Added Acreage

Burgaw, N. C., July 25—(AP)—Tobacco growers in Pender County will seek increased acreage next year to make up for a 40 per cent crop loss they face this year.

Rep. J. V. Whitfield, reporting this yesterday, said the request may become the pattern for all "distressed" counties in North Carolina. A number of counties, hit by hail and rain storms, have been classified as "distress" areas—meaning the farmers may secure emergency loans because of their crop losses.

Whitfield explained that "the Production Marketing Administration will be asked to adjust 1951 tobacco acreage for Pender County so as to grant increased plantings to tobacco growers in distressed counties for one year."

Gas-burning appliances must be altered to supply more air when fuel is changed from manufactured to natural gas.

Youth Confesses Wrecking Train

Caruthersville, Mo., July 25—(AP)—A 15-year old boy who admitted wrecking a Frisco passenger train told officers yesterday he got the idea from watching a movie about the notorious Dalton gang.

Sheriff E. F. Claxton said William L. Godsey, son of a sharecropper, confessed breaking a switch lock and a signal light near Holland, Mo. A Memphis to St. Louis train hit the switch at 50 miles an hour and jumped the rails Sunday, killing the engineer and injuring 13 persons.

The boy said the movie he saw showed the Daltons wrecking a train Claxton reported. The title of the picture was not learned. The Dalton gang operated in the midwest half a century ago.

Young Godsey said he didn't intend to wreck the train and thought that turning the switch would merely send it on a siding.

No charges have been filed.

Potatoes dug too early will not keep well.

Dangers In . . .

(Continued from page one) unnecessary local shortages. Hoarding food is especially foolish. There is plenty of food in this country—we have to fear only those shortages which we ourselves artificially create.

Every civilian citizen should be just as much a part of our national defense in times of stress like these as is the soldier at the front. Civilians are lucky not to be on the firing line in Korea, and the least Americans can do is contribute their best to maintenance of this country's economic strength and morale.

Controls On . . .

The more they compete for the scarce stuff, the higher the prices go. Meaning: inflation. The worse the inflation, the more the damage to the whole economy and the less your dollar will buy.

Some people, with cash on hand buy outright. Others, with less cash, buy on time.

But—the less time you have for paying up in full and the larger the down payment you must make, the less apt you are to go out helterskelter and buy anything you want. So this control on credit buying would be a brake on inflation.

There'll be another brake. That's increased taxes. Congress hasn't reached the point of boosting taxes yet. It seems sure to do so.

That will drain away a lot of money people might have spent for scarce goods. Taxes, though, would serve a double purpose: to help pay for military expenses and halt inflation a bit.

(Price control and rationing would be still another brake but the President doesn't think it's necessary to put those controls in yet.)

Jenkins Outlines Education's Role In Today's Life

By WYATT BROWN

"Maybe through education we can approach the 'edge of light' instead of the 'edge of darkness,'" suggested Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, Dean of East Carolina Teachers College in the closing words of his talk to the Greenville Rotary Club on the philosophy of education. He used the quote to make clearer his hammering as the matter of the lack of effort exerted in schools to teach youth today better international understanding.

In his opening remarks Dr. Jenkins made it clear that education is constantly changing, having come a long way from the day of the Three R's. He gave only a brief comment on the progressive education scene relating that some of the extreme practices have come in for criticism.

"School to the average child is living; let's make it livable for him," urged Dr. Jenkins. Speaking of the heterogeneity of the school children today he said school must teach children how to think rather than minor skills. He pointed out that the role of modern education is to consider the needs of society.

At this point Dr. Jenkins explained the effect of the forces of society upon education; such as the Nazi angle in Hitler's Germany on all learning. For the moment Greenville citizens want education to help children to achieve the democratic ideal; that ideal is based on an educated citizenry.

Next the speaker gave some definitions of what an educated citizen is and then some criteria by which to judge whether the schools are being successful in achieving that. Many of the things accomplished by schools and current practices in educational circles which are contributing to the success of modern education were pointed out.

With all such accomplishments and virtues granted Dr. Jenkins picked what he considers the great failure—the failure of schools to teach international understanding or even national inter-sectional understanding.

Characterizing this failure as a "terribly poor job" of education Dr. Jenkins dramatized it further by telling how under war impetus mild mannered teachers rise into community leaders but in peace fall back into passivity. The most important question to face education with is: "How successful have we been in mobilizing for peace or world understanding?"

Contrasting the fruitlessness of war and the possibilities and realizations of peace Dr. Jenkins declared that "children in our schools have never been taught to 'enjoy peace.'" He went on to say that school children are just left to take it for granted. "Leaders of the world today are schooled people," Dr. Jenkins stated, making the point that the international troublemakers passed through schools that might have turned their abilities to more fruitful purposes.

Rotarian J. H. Rose, chairman of the Program Committee, presented the program last night. It was the second in a series of serious consideration of various branches of thought. Last week it was religion. This week the philosophy of education. Next week it will be law for discussion.

Guests of the club were Dr. Stephen R. Bartlette, a newcomer to Greenville, and Drs. O. H. Darter and R. L. Hildrup of Fredericksburg, Va. Dr. Paul Jones of Farmville was the only visiting Rotarian last night. Charlie White, vice-president of the club, presided.

Death Sentence For Poisoning 12

Tokyo, July 25—(AP)—A mild mannered Japanese artist was sentenced to death yesterday for the poison slaying of 12 persons in a $456 bank robbery.

The painter, Sadamichi Hirazawa, muttered "frameup." His attorney filed an appeal.

Witnesses testified: Hirazawa walked into the Teikoku Bank in Tokyo Jan. 26, 1948, and told the bank workers he was a health official. He insisted they drink some "medicine" he put in their teacups. The "medicine" was potassium cyanide.

Sixteen workers drank it. As they collapsed, writhing, Hirazawa made off with 164,400 yen (about $456).

Four of the stricken workers recovered.

Hirazawa had signed a confession but later repudiated it. He pleaded not guilty.

Rescue workers from Shaw Field are recovering bodies from the wreckage of an Air Force transport plane which crashed and exploded near Myrtle Beach, S. C., and killed 34 servicemen. The other four were Air Reserve crewmen of the plane. (AP Wirephoto).

Recover Bodies Of 39 Victims In Air Tragedy

Myrtle Beach, S. C., July 25—(AP)—Thirty-nine bodies have now been recovered from the wreckage of an Army Air Force transport plane that crashed near here Sunday, the Air Force reports.

First reports placed the death toll at 34—30 Tennessee Air National Guardsmen and four Air Reserve crewmen from Florida.

Late yesterday, however, Capt. E. S. Wood, public information officer at Shaw Air Force base in Sumter, S. C., said five additional bodies had been recovered from the wreckage, raising the total to 39.

He said the five additional bodies were probably those of military hitchhikers. At Nashville, Tenn., officials began a "roll call" of guardsmen known to have returned from the Myrtle Beach maneuvers to determine if the five additional dead were Tennesseans. Guard officers said they expected to complete the check sometime today.

Meanwhile, an Army board of inquiry convened at Shaw Air Base to investigate the cause of the crash. Heading the board was Col. Walter L. Wheeler, wing commander at Shaw.

There was no indication from Air Force officers as to what may have caused the big C-46 to plummet straight down and explode into flames while still within gliding distance of the Myrtle Beach air base.

Bodies of the guardsmen were being kept at funeral homes in this area pending completion of arrangements for flying back to Tennessee.

Robins Maintain String Of Victories Against Kinston

Win Doubleheader Against Eagles By 2-1, 10-3 Scores

Keys Credited With Win As Locals Take Opener With Run In Seventh; Baktis Accounts For Three-Run Homer To Clinch Nightcap

By BEST NOTE
Manager Randy Heflin's Robins registered their fifth and sixth consecutive wins last night as they swept both ends of a twin bill with the Kinston Eagles as he hurled the Robins to a 2-1 victory in the first game of a doubleheader here last night as he limited the visitors to four hits.

The Robins scored one run in the third frame after two men had been retired. Paul Strauser drew a walk, stole second and then came home on Joe Guidice's line drive down the first base line.

The Eagles knotted the count at 1-1 in the top of the seventh when John Minar doubled into right centerfield and Guy Morton singled to bring him home.

Greenville pushed across its winning run in the bottom of the seventh. John Baktis hit a pinch-hit single, and Strauser got an infield single. Joe Guidice reached first on Griglak's error to load the bases, and John Tepedino walked to force in Scarpa, who had run for Baktis.

Ray Keys did not walk a single man in the contest and struck out three. Jack Burns with two singles, one of which was of the infield variety, led the Eagles' four-hit attack. Doublet c. Minarcin and Morton accounted for the other two hits.

Tom Griglak on the mound for the Eagles suffered his sixth loss of the season and his second to the Robins. He gave up six hits, walked five and struck out four. Paul Strauser with two singles in three trips to the plate led the six-hit attack off Griglak.

Second Game

The Robins jumped on starter Jimmy Pittman of the Eagles for seven hits and three walks, including a three-run homer by John Baktis in the first frame, to score nine runs in the first two frames and then coast to a 10-3 win over the Eagles in the second game of the twin bill here last night.

An error, Joe Guidice double, a walk and John Baktis' homer gave the Robins four runs in the first frame and five singles and two walks gave the Robins five more runs in the second frame.

The Eagles did all their scoring in the first two frames, scoring a singleton in the first on a double and two singles and added two more in the second stanza on two singles and a double and an infield out.

Bobby Harrison went the Route for the Robins and scattered 11 hits effectively with the exception of the first two frames when the Eagles garnered six off his offerings for the three runs. The win for Harrison was his sixth of the season and his second win over the Eagles.

O'Neil Chrisley, the Eagles' left-fielder, with a double and two singles in five trips to the plate, led the 11-hit attack off Harrison. Jimmy Pittman, pitching for the first time this season against the Robins, suffered his sixth defeat of the season. Tom Swanson, who relieved Pittman in the third frame held the Robins to four hits and one run and did some nice relief work for the Eagles.

Every player on the Robins roster hit safely in the contest with Paul Strauser and Dick Bland collecting two singles each.

The Robins journey over to Goldsboro tonight to meet the Cardinals in a single game and return home Wednesday night for a single game with the Cards.

CUBS VS. TIGERS

The Training School Tigers outstaged and outscored the Cubs of Third St. yesterday morning to the tune of 21 to 15. The Cubs made a belated bid for the game in the final inning, scoring seven runs, but the handicap was too much to overcome. Much of the Cubs' trouble was the wildness of their pitchers. Lucian Bryan with a double and two singles and Bob Bilbro with two singles were the leaders for the Tigers. Burke Standl got three singles to lead the Cubs at bat. Joe Mays, Dave Bray and Crawford got two hits for the Cubs.

The afternoon games were rained out. After two innings the Braves were leading the Cards 1 to 0 and the Robins and Wildcats were all tied up at 2-2.

Sport Slants High Step

Dick Atlessey confounded his Eastern critics with a record-breaking performance over the high hurdles right in their own back yard. The former University of California timber-topping ace had been credited with 13.5 seconds over the 120-yard hurdles in the annual West Coast relays at Fresno, Calif., causing some of the skeptical experts to dismiss the effort as "California timing." In the National A. U. championships at College Park, Md., Atlessey stepped over the 110 meter high sticks in 13.5 seconds to clip two-tenths of a second from the world mark held jointly by Spec Towns and Fred Wilcott.

Atlessey had been a consistent 14 second hurdler during his senior year at Southern California. The lowering Trojan's amazing performance at Fresno where he erased Harrison Dillard's world standard of 13.6 seconds for the 120-yard hurdles came as no surprise to Pacific Coast track enthusiasts who had watched him come along with a great rush the past spring. Standing four inches over the six-foot mark, Atlessey actually has to chop his stride between hurdles. With his natural speed, it is likely that he will further lower the hurdling marks before he calls it a career.

If further evidence is needed to establish Atlessey's claim to hurdling greatness, there is his recent 13.5 second performance over the 110-meter route at Helsinki, Finland.

By Pap One Chance In A Thousand Beat Phillies Under Odd Scoring Rule

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
The fuzzy checked Philadelphia Phillies may have cause to remember Monday, July 24, 1950, to their rocking-chair days.

It was on that day that the flashy Whiz Kids of Philadelphia lost a heartbreaking game—and perhaps a pennant with it—the victims of a one-in-a-thousand episode.

The box score of last night's Philadelphia-Pittsburgh game shows only the cold figures that the Pirates defeated the Phils, 2-1, in a six-inning game terminated by rain.

What it fails to show is that the Phils actually were leading the Bucs, 3-2, when the rains came down.

How come they lost? Because Pittsburgh, the home club, was deprived of a chance to bat in its half of the seventh inning. Under the

Chandler Pledges Support During Korean Emergency

Cooperstown, N. Y., July 25—(AP)—A. B. Chandler today pledged baseball's full support to the Armed Services in the Korean crisis.

"Baseball in this emergency is prepared to offer to the President the services of all its players and workers," said Chandler.

"The needs of the country come first. Baseball has traditionally always given its loyal support in time of stress."

Chandler made this statement to the Associated Press. He said he intended to make it publicly at the dedication of the new $175,000 west wing on the Baseball Hall of Fame. However, his train was delayed and he arrived too late for the ceremonies.

Instead Ford Frick, president of the National League, acted in pinch-hitting capacity. He told a shirt-sleeved crowd on Cooperstown's main street that "we are dedicating something more than a building. We are dedicating anew our faith in American traditions."

In the annual Hall of Fame game on Doubleday field, where Abner Doubleday in 1839 first laid out something approximating the game of baseball, a modern approximation of a major league game was played. The Boston Red Sox of the American League defeated the New York Giants of the National League 8 to 5.

The Giants made four errors, and the Red Sox two. The Giants left 15 men on base. Everytime the teams changed sides, autograph seekers streaked over the playing field. The home plate umpire lost

Ferrier Wins As Putt Beat Snead

St. Paul, Minn., July 25—(AP) Big Jim Ferrier today had the $2,600 prize money in the St. Paul open and the No. 2 spot as a money winner among golf professionals, thanks to a six-foot putt that same Snead missed.

Snead missed the putt on the 21st hole of the playoff forced when the two of them finished Sunday's round of the 72-hole tied up at 276-12 strokes under par.

They finished the scheduled 18-hole playoff yesterday, still all even after Snead put up a stiff battle, and were forced into a "sudden death" affair. They remained even for two more holes, but on the third, Snead's second shot landed over to the right of the green behind a low bunker. Snead made an excellent shot from 50 feet away, laying the ball within six feet of the cup. He needed two putts to finish the hole with a par five while Ferrier was finishing with a four.

Ferrier's second shot landed on the fringe inches off the green to the left and he two-putted for his one-under-par figure and the first prize.

Ormond Wholesale won its eighth softball game of the campaign yesterday when it beat Fleming's Station, 9-8, as a result of three runs crossing in the last frame when the pitcher threw the ball to Ormond's third base coach. He let it go by.

Fleming's led at the top of the seventh, 8-3. During the last frame, Ormond pushed across three earned runs plus the three on the third base rhabarb.

Leading the hitting attack for both teams was Davis, Fleming's shortstop, with four singles in five trips. Dash and Page each knocked roundtrippers for the losers, compiling averages of three for four for the day.

Score by innings:
Ormond 003 000 6-9 14 2
Fleming's 131 201 0-8 14 1
Batteries: Ormond—Gordon and Williams; Fleming's—Smith and Hogg.

Wagner-Waldrop was outbid by two yesterday but still came home to paste Hill's Clothiers, 13-6, mainly on the strength of a nine-run sixth inning.

Hill's had the game wrapped up until that frame with a lead of 6-4 going in. However, W-W put together hitting with a few Hill's errors for the big crossing.

B. Waldrop and Mosier hit home-runs for the victors. E. Waldrop scored three runs to lead that department. C. Odum, with three for four, led Hill's hitting.

Score by innings:

Post Office bettered its percentage 36 points in beating National Carbon, 12-7. The win was the mailmen's seventh in 11 starts and Carbon's ninth straight loss.

Carbon sported a short lead when it tallied two runs in the first inning. But Post Office came back in their half of the frame for three, added four in the second, four in the third and two in the sixth for the final clinch.

Heldenreich and Clark, Post Office outfielders, each hit home-runs with Clark scoring two in addition and Heldenreich crossing once more.

Leading the Carbon attack were Garrison and McGowan, each with three singles in five and four trips respectively. Stocks hit a triple for the losers, their longest blow of the game.

Score by innings:
Carbon 200 032 0-7 15 4
Post Office 344 002 x-13 11 0
Batteries: Post Office—Dudley and Forrest; Carbon—Garrison and McGowan.

Scott Motors took its ninth win of the season over the hard-luck team of the league, Bilbro Wholesale, as it scored early and added to it for a 12-5 victory.

Bilbro tallied three runs in the first and looked as though it was off to a good start. But Scott's did that one run better in tallying four times in their half. They added three more in the third and fifth, interspersed with a two-run fourth inning.

Two home-runs by Scott's provided the winning punch. Both Kittrell and Jones hit fourbaggers in addition to a single apiece. However, same and Deans for Bilbro led both teams at bat, hitting three singles

Two-Man Race In National League

New York, July 25—(AP)—The National League batting derby today had simmered down to a two man race between Jackie Robinson and Stan Musial.

In past weeks, several players have challenged the two leaders. But now Robinson and Musial are off by themselves, battling tooth and nail for the lead.

Robinson's five hits against Pittsburgh Sunday enabled him to regain the lead from the St. Louis slugger. Robby has a .367 mark, Musial .360.

Robinson, the defending champion, picked up 11 points last week. Musial, stretching his consecutive game hitting streak to 28, climbed 13 points. Musial is nine games behind the modern National League record of 37 games, set in 1945 by Tommy Holmes of the Boston Braves.

Musial has the most hits in the loop, 14, one more than Robinson. The Cardinals ace, however, has been up nine more times than the Dodgers second baseman, 317 to 308.

Andy Pafko, the Chicago Cubs' handy man, is in third place, 35 points behind Robinson at 332.

Then come New York's Whitey Lockman, 331, and Dick Sisler of Philadelphia, 330.

IT'S DEATH, MY DARLING!

By Amelia Reynolds Long

Chapter 20
We looked at each other with the awe of discovery. Then a question arose in my mind.
"Four ounces is a good bit to get inside of a man all at once without his knowing," I said a little doubtfully. "And if it had been given to him in small doses, wouldn't there have been symptoms that would have begun to show up before he'd got enough to prove fatal?"
"There wouldn't be four ounces of the actual poison," Amedee explained. "That's merely the required amount of the root. As to preliminary symptoms..."
He laid the book aside, and picked up another.
"Apparently there aren't any," he reported after a moment. "It says here that the effect is cumulative. And listen to this: 'Toxicity develops suddenly and without warning after small, repeated doses.' That proves that it could have been administered over a period of time. And, Peter, I believe I know how it was done. Both Claude and Grandpere were pipe smokers."

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS DRAINAGE IMPROVEMENTS GREENVILLE, N. C.

Engineers:
Henry L. & Thomas W. Rivers, Greenville, N. C.
Sealed proposal for Trenching and Laying Concrete Pipe in the City of Greenville, N. C., will be received by the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Greenville, N. C., at the City Hall until 10:00 A. M., E. S. T., on Friday, July 28, 1950, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read.
The work contemplated will consist of trenching and laying approximately:
1100 Lin. Ft. 24" Conc. pipe
725 Lin. Ft. 15" Conc. pipe.
Plans, specifications and contract documents are on file with the City Clerk at the City Hall, Greenville, N. C., and the office of the engineer, Greenville, N. C.

Copies of plans and specifications may be obtained from the engineer upon the deposit of $15.00. Deposits will be refunded to those making bona fide bids to the City.
A performance bond will be required equal to 100 per cent of the contract price, conditioned upon the faithful performance of the contract and upon the payment of all persons supplying labor and furnishing materials for the construction of the project.
Each proposal shall be accompanied with a deposit of cash or a certified check on some bank or trust company authorized to do business under the laws of the State of North Carolina in an amount equal to not less than five per cent of the proposal, said check to be made to the City of Greenville, N. C., as a guarantee that a contract will be entered into with the City within ten days after the award to the bidder and that the required bond will be executed.
In lieu of a certified check or cash for five per cent of the amount of the bid, the bidder may offer a certified check in an amount equal to two per cent and bid bond equal to three per cent of the bid, as a guarantee that the contract will be entered into with the City within ten days after the award to the bidder and that the required bond will be executed.

The city reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to accept the bid or bids that appear to be the best interest of the City.
No proposal may be withdrawn after the scheduled closing time for the receipt of bids for a period of thirty (30) days.
By order of the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Greenville.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

both trying to think of some logical explanation of why Henri, the youngest of Colonel Dumont's grandsons, should have been sent for along with Claude, the eldest.
As I often do when I'm trying to think, I thrust my hands deep into the pockets of my skirt. I had worn the same dress that I had worn the afternoon of the old man's funeral; and now my fingers encountered the three strips of red cloth that Aunt Delphine had given me, and which I had put there after the interlude with Claude, and forgotten. I brought them out, and began to twist them absently.
Amedee glanced down at them.
"Where in the world did you get those?" he inquired.
I told him.
"Aunt Delphine seemed to think they were important," I finished. "And so, I believe, did Claude, for he tried to make me give them to him. I asked Lewis Hays what they were, but he said he had no idea. Do you know?"
An odd expression had come into his face.
"Know what they are?" he repeated. "Yes, Peter, I know what they are. They're the explanation of the thing Grandpere heard, and was led to believe was a hallucination. They're the reason Grandpere sent for Henri, and the reason why not only he, but Claude and Lee and Uncle Raoul as well were murdered!"

Dogs All Right, But No Billygoats For This Dog Catcher

By CHESTER WALSH
"I'll catch dogs and take care of them until we can find the owners or dispose of them in a humane way, but I'm not going out there trying to catch that billygoat that's bothering people over on Summit and Jarvis streets," proclaimed Enoch Elisha Jones, municipal dog catcher, in answer to a Daily Reflector reporter's question today.

The goat in question—owner unknown—has been "trespassing" on lawns and in gardens in the College View section for several days. "Residents are afraid of the prowling billygoat and they're complaining."
One householder found the butting animal perched in the swing on her front porch. Another found "billy" nibbling his collars in the backyard, and the goat was wounded slightly when a well-aimed missile landed on him "broadside."
A strenuous complaint went to police headquarters when the goat mistook a row of flowering verbena for fodder and "cleaned it up."
"I've picked up 1,152 dogs running at large on the streets of Greenville since June a year ago. Nearly all of them were reclaimed. Some were disposed of by a veterinarian. I get along good with dogs and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals backs me up, but I didn't bargain to catch no billygoats." Dog Catcher Enoch Elisha Jones proclaimed today.

Plan Early Vote On Expanding Of Armed Services

Washington, July 25—(AP)—Fast House schedule promised a vote today removing all limits on the size of the armed forces. It may permit a vote next week on President Truman's request for $10.5 billion extra for them to spend.
Also slated for House approval today was a bill to freeze present military enlistments for a year beyond their normal expiration date.
Mr. Truman's new cash request was forecast in his urgent message on the Korean crisis last Wednesday. Details he submitted late yesterday asked $10,486,976,000 in new money for the Armed Services, $20,000,000 to operate the draft and $10,000,000 for his emergency fund.
The additional money would boost planned military spending for the current fiscal year which ends next June 30 to approximately $23,000,000,000.
The White House estimated the new money would be enough to add 600,000 men to the armed forces total in the fiscal year. Since this total now is 1,450,000—with enough funds in sight to make it 1,506,000—the additional 600,000 would swell the total above 2,000,000.
Mr. Truman said he asked for the money (1) "to meet the immediate situation in Korea" and (2) to help America get ready to "deter further acts of aggression."
Of the total $4,535,000,000—the largest share—would go to the Air Force. The Army would get $3,063,000,000 and the Navy $2,648,000,000. An item of $240,000,000 was listed for establishment-wide activities of the defense department.
The present ceiling strength of the Armed Forces is 2,005,882. Of this the Army has 83,000, the Navy (including Marines) 666,882, and the Air Force 502,000. They are now below authorized strength.
Members of the House Armed Services committee disclosed yesterday that the Navy contemplates a 60 per cent increase in Marine fighting strength as well as major additions to the fleet.

Mild Weather In Contrast To July Year Ago

Cooler weather prevailed in the Greenville area yesterday than during the several previous days. The highest temperature recorded was 87 degrees. Lowest last night was 71 and at 8 a.m. today the mercury was at 78 degrees and slowly rising.
About three-quarters of an inch of rain fell here yesterday afternoon. The highest temperature in the Greenville area a year ago yesterday was 99 degrees. And then the mercury soared in the bulbs of the Weather Bureau thermometers. On July 25, 1949, it registered 99 degrees. On the 26th it was 101 and on the 27th it was 100 degrees, and on July 28, last year, a thunderstorm sent the temperature down to 97 degrees.

Two Delegates At State Meet

Representing Greenville's Exchange Club at the annual state convention will be Bill Riggins and J. W. Tetterton when the group meets at Wrightsville Beach August 4, 5 and 6.
Both men are official delegates of the club and will share with the other delegates in transacting the business for the state clubs during the next year.
Riggins will go to the national convention in September as representative of the local club when it meets in September.

Important Docket In Police Court

In Police Court Monday, Judge J.W.H. Roberts transferred to Superior Court the case against Grover C. Barfield, charged with driving while drunk, for jury trial.
The case against Alonza F. Harrington, charged with driving while drunk, was dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.
The court fined John F. Randolph $15 for failure to stop at a "stop sign" in the city. Testimony in court was that Randolph had a woman companion, Mrs. Lulu McKee, in the car with him. Miss McKee testified that Randolph's car collided with another car on 14th Street, causing some damage. Randolph agreed to pay the damages.
Fornication and adultery: Edna Corbett and Paul J. Harper, colored, each paid $20.
Chester Crandell, colored, paid $20 for assault. A charge for assault with a deadly weapon was not proscribed.
Drunk: Harvey Evans, 30 days in jail, suspended, and he was placed on probation for two years; Ernest Brown, $15; Jesse D. Roberts, colored, 30 days at the County Home.
Mary Lee Saunders, colored, charged with being drunk, was given 30 days in jail or pay $15. Judge Roberts said the woman was out on parole and that Miss Elizabeth Warren of Washington, parole officer in this district, would order her parole suspended.
Jesse Lee Willis, colored, assault on a minor, 30 days or $15.
Speeding: Elliott W. Edwards, $20.
Willie Carr, colored, driving drunk, six months, suspended on payment of $100 and costs and his driver's license was ordered suspended for a year.
Randolph Ennett, colored, assault, six months on the roads. He appealed.
Otis Woodard, colored, assault on a female, six months, suspended on payment of $25 and he was placed on probation for two years. He was not guilty of a charge of assault.

Enlistments Off, But Recruiting Office Is Answering Questions

Sergeant C. D. Fare, of the local Army recruiting station, announced today that enlistments in the Greenville area are still on the decline as compared with several weeks ago.
Fare said that anyone desiring information about the various branches of the Army of Air Force, should either come in person to the local recruiting office in the Post Office, or write the office.
Facts about the War or the Army nurses corps can be obtained at the local office by those interested, Fare said.
"Any member of the Army Air Force reserve, who wants active service at the present time should contact the local office and information will be furnished them on how to get back in active service."
Many inquiries are daily coming into the local office about the status of the various units and questions on enlistments, Fare said.

Local Woman's Parole Revoked

Mary Lee Saunders, 25-year-old Greenville Negro who was released from custody on parole a short time ago, is back in custody as a result of her parole being revoked.
Miss Elizabeth Warren of Washington, parole officer for 14 counties of eastern North Carolina, said the woman received a parole after serving less than a month of a 90 day sentence for assault with a deadly weapon. Miss Warren said the parole was revoked following Saunders' arrest here Saturday on drunken charges.

Lions Guests At Monday's Game

Lions LIONS GUESTS—34 —
The members of the Greenville Lions Club were the guests of the Greenville base ball club last night.
Preceding the game, the club members met at the Woman's Club for a steak supper, after which discussion was held on the club's annual project.
A report from the board of directors was heard, which recommended that the annual project to be adopted by the club would be a big dance in November. It was suggested that the club bring one of the name bands to play for the dance. After some discussion the club members voted to use the project suggested. If a name band could be obtained for the date set.
The plans for the dance made so far, call for the dance to be held around the first of November in one of the large tobacco warehouses in the city, and to plan the dance in such a manner as to offer ample seating capacity for all who come to the affair.
President Larry Averette stated that committees will begin work at work for several days due to his injuries.

The trucks were carrying full loads of asphalt, valued at $50 per load, ranging in temperature from 280 degrees to 350 degrees, it was stated by one of the drivers: Louitt said that all three of the men were lucky to have escaped the accident without any other injuries.
The impression where the driver was caught in the hot asphalt could clearly be seen shortly after the accident. A lot of heat was still coming from the spilled loads of asphalt.
The two trucks were part of a fleet of "ucks operating in the area, carrying asphalt from Belvoir to Willow Green Road.
The accident was reported to have occurred around seven o'clock as the trucks were making their first runs of the day.
Upon examination of the trucks after the accident it was revealed that the tire which blew out, was worn right down to the "fabric. Patrolman Guthrie termed the tire as being a "paper tire" it was so thin. The other tire on the front of the truck was also worn badly.
Patrolman Guthrie estimated the damage to the trucks at about $250 dollars. He stated this morning that investigation of the accident is not yet complete.
Wreckers summoned from Farmville, righted one of the trucks and it was believed that there was very little damage to it. The Windham truck, however, was towed to Snow Hill for repairs.
Guthrie said that the driver of the first truck was very lucky in that he missed striking the bridge abutment as he turned over.
Phillips, the passenger in the front truck, had been working with the company for only a week. He said he was just learning "the ropes." "Then asked if he still wanted to do that type of work, he commented that he "guessed so."

All great beauties have one thing in common—the ability to stand strikingly apart from the crowd, to be instantly recognizable as something very special.

Certainly Pontiac has that distinction to a rare degree. Wherever you go, you see the new Pontiac, you are sharply aware that this one car asserts itself in any company. And yet, beautiful as Pontiac is, it has inner qualities which are even more desirable. Pontiac is built, from the bottom up, to be thoroughly good, to be an outstanding performer, a dependable, economical, completely satisfying car.

Yes, almost everybody knows that Pontiac is a great beauty. But only Pontiac owners really know that it's a great car in every way. You should be a Pontiac owner—dollar for dollar, you can't beat a Pontiac!
