Truman Calls On Americans To Make Some Sacrifices

Midyear Economic Message Summons Nation To Some Sacrifice Of Its Civilian Plenty In The Interests Of Needs For Defense

Washington, July 26 (AP)—President Truman today summoned the nation to "some sacrifice" of its civilian plenty. He declared himself ready to call for "complete economic mobilization" if the defense of freedom requires.

Mr. Truman told Congress, in his midyear economic message, that price ceilings, rationing and "serious shortages" can be avoided if Congress quickly gives him limited control powers and a $5,000,000,000 tax increase.

But he warned: "We must realize that the engagement in Korea will be costly and may not be short. We must prepare against the possibility that new crises may arise elsewhere."

That hazard means, the President said, that industrial output must be stepped up—possibly by a rate of $10,000,000,000 annually before January 1—and that basic industry itself must be expanded by federal loans and guarantees.

"We cannot afford longer to risk the possibility of future desperate shortages of some of the most essential requirements for our national security," Mr. Truman said.

He did not name steel specifically as one of the industries critically needing expansion. But it headed his list of "scarcity" materials, despite capacity operation since April.

Safety from further Communist aggression depends, Mr. Truman said, on "production and more production" and safety from inflation for ends on business and consumers alike.

The message asked no emergency powers beyond those required a week ago—to control credit, allocate scarce materials, limit civilian output, requisition goods, curb commodity speculation, and help finance industry's expansion for war.

It added new pressure on Congress to grant those powers, however, and its keynote was speed—speed in both lawmaking and munitions-making.

The powers requested, Mr. Truman said, not only will meet present needs but will perform another essential service—to "build up our preparedness" for more drastic steps if the military situation worsens.

"Detailed plans for these further steps," he said, "have been drawn. Mr. Truman disclosed, and he added: "If it should become necessary, I shall without hesitation ask the Congress for the grant of the powers to implement these further plans, whether for complete economic mobilization or for further intermediate action depending upon the need."

Reds Massed On Coast Of China

Taipei, Formosa, July 26 (AP)—Chinese Nationalist military quarters said today seven to nine Chinese Red divisions, totalling 100,000 men, are massed along the Fukien Province coast, ready for an invasion of Quemoy.

Quemoy, which the Chinese call Golden Gate, is a 50-square mile island off the Red port of Amoy, 100 miles west of Formosa.

Reports from Quemoy said Communist shelling of the island, which began Friday, was continuing sporadically.

Ready To Accept Officer Reserves

The Greenville office of the Organized Reserve Corps this morning received authorization to accept applications for extended active duty from company grade reserve officers.

Will Take Company Grade Officers For Active Duty

Although applications for extended active duty may be made by all reserve officers who now hold the grade of captain or lower in the active, inactive or honorary reserve, the greatest need is for those commissioned medical corps, dental corps, infantry or corps of engineers, Lt. Colonel Warren G. Davis said.

"We have had nothing on field grade officers yet," he added. The colonel said reserve officers requesting recall for extended active duty will sign for one, two or three years and must be able to complete their signed category before reaching the present age-in-grade limits.

As for the other phases of the organized reserve program in the local area, Col. Davis said enlistments in the organized reserve have been increasing daily for the past several days. "We are getting more inquiries than enlistments," he commented. "I wouldn't say enlistments are heavy at all."

He pointed out that enlistment in the ORC automatically removes a man from a draft status. The enlistments which have been received by the ORC recently, the colonel said, have come from both veterans and men who have had no previous military service.

Small Boy Hurt By Passing Car

Jerry Arnold, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Arnold, 900 West Third street, was seriously injured about 11 a.m. today when he ran out in front of a car driven by Mrs. Frank Strawn, 114 Vance Street.

A police report stated that the child was taken to Pitt General Hospital. A hospital surgeon said the boy's condition is serious. Indications are that his skull was fractured.

Cigarettes Costlier

Winston-Salem, N.C. July 26 (AP)—Beginning today, Camel and Cavalier cigarettes will cost $8 per thousand—an increase of 25 cents. R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company announced the increase, subject to the usual discounts of 10 and two per cent.

Local Prices On Key Items Based On Nat'l Trends

Indications are that prices on specific commodities in the Greenville area this week are mostly following the dictates of national trends rather than what the local traffic will bear.

Most Commodities Remain Fairly Stable; Sugar And Coffee Prices Went Up

As compared with last week's reported hike in food prices, most commodities are remaining fairly stable. Several grocers here reported there has been no noticeable change in any particular prices to the consumer. On some foods, wholesale prices are up slightly but not on the retail end.

Sugar and coffee are the two staples that have advanced noticeably. One private grocer in Greenville stated this morning he is maintaining his prices on both, although cost to him has risen. And on both there have been evidences of hoarding.

On meats, prices of pork and beef have come down over last week, more so in pork although lard has risen slightly. Price of pork has decreased about five to six per cent since the latter part of last week as reported by Swift and Company here.

Beef is off one to two cents per pound since that time. John G. Fleming, manager of Swift's here, stated the prices are decreasing gradually on the national scene, mainly because the price was too high. Plenty of both meats were moving steadily to the packing houses but not moving rapidly enough in the consumer market.

Although there have been no general price hikes in new automobiles, used cars are steadily going up. Reports from used car dealers are that the hike is seasonal. More vehicles are in demand at this time of year since indications of good crops have been noted. And, too, more transportation facilities are needed in readiness for tobacco market openings.

Between June and this month, 1947 and 1948 model cars in dealers' lots have taken a $25-$40 hike. All pre-war models have remained about the same. 1946 models are up $20-$25 locally.

Automobile tires have taken a five per cent increase since July 17, general among all dealers. Prior to that time dealers were selling at about 20 per cent off the list price to meet the competition. One dealer advanced the theory that individual tire retailers—service stations—were undercutting the price to obtain more gasoline business. How widespread that practice was, he didn't say.

The five-pound sacks were labeled: "For regular customers, 9 1-2 cents a pound."

On a pile of 25 and 100 pound sacks was this sign: "For hoarders, 16 cents a pound."

U. S. Must Mobilize Says Baruch

Elder Statesman's Proposals Go Far Beyond Truman's Preparedness

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Elder Statesman Bernard Baruch today called for all-out economic mobilization of the United States with a quick freeze on prices, wages and rents.

"Events have left us no choice," he said. "We have to mobilize."

Baruch, the government's mobilization advisor in two world wars, urged quick action in testimony prepared for the Senate Banking Committee.

The senators are weighing a bill to give President Truman limited wartime controls in the present emergency. These would not include price control of any kind.

Baruch's recommendations included—but went far beyond—the President's requests. In his statement, Baruch referred to his former call for economic mobilization. These led to differences between him and President Truman. Baruch has taken the position that the President was not doing enough for preparedness.

"Our aim should be to organize the nation so that every factory and farm, every man, every dollar, every bit of material can be put to use where it will strengthen our defenses and fill the most essential needs first," Baruch told the committee.

"There should be equal treatment for all. All demands should be kept in balance."

"I propose that we organize ourselves—all our resources of men, money, materials and morale—so that whatever happens—new aggressions abroad, possible destruction at home—whatever happens, the armed forces can get what they need, when they need it, with the least necessary dislocation of the civilians."

Baruch said America has the choice of "peace or butter" and the real danger is not government control but military defeat abroad and inflation at home.

He told the senators that the current bill, while good in part, does not go far enough.

"The situation is sufficiently grave to warrant an over-all ceiling across the entire economy—over all prices, wages, rents, fees and so on, with high enough taxes to prevent profiteering and to pay all defense costs, and an all-embracing, effective system of priorities," Baruch asserted.

He said the present bill, in setting up priorities, would defeat itself by making no provision for price control.

"This bill is an invitation to inflation," he said. "A system of priorities without price control is a foundation built on shifting sands x x x"

Help Promised

London, July 26 (AP)—Britain announced today she has decided to send ground troops into Korea.

The British Admiralty earlier disclosed plans to put the Far Eastern Fleet on a "full scale war footing" immediately.

The decision to back up American GIs in Korea with British soldiers was made public by Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell in the House of Commons.

The commonwealth nations of Australia and New Zealand had made similar announcements, following the lead of Turkey and Thailand (Siam).

These were to answer a United Nations appeal for soldiers to help beat off the Communist invasion of South Korea.

Border Crossing Permits On Hand

Local Office Has Permits For Curers Going To Canada

Border crossing permits which will be required this year for tobacco curers who are going to Canada are now available at the Greenville office of the State Employment Security commission.

W. B. Dillingham, manager of the local office, said any Pitt County curers who anticipate going to Canada this summer to help with the tobacco crop there should secure the border crossing permit from the local office before leaving Pitt county.

He explained that this year the permits are being issued through the local office rather than the state office.

Dillingham said the regulations governing the tobacco curers who go to Canada specify that each applicant for a border crossing permit must have an application from the Canadian Department of Labor before the permit can be issued here. He added that curers planning to go to Canada should time their journey to reach the border at the date specified on the crossing permit, otherwise they may have to wait several days at the border before being permitted to go into Canada.

Russians Report Big U.S. Losses

Moscow, July 26 (AP)—A dispatch from Korea to the newspaper Trud said today more than 1,500 American soldiers were killed and over 200 taken prisoner in the battle for Yongdong.

Trud, the trade union organ, quoted foreign newspapers as saying American armies were seeking to hold on in the mountains about 50 miles west of Taegu. It said U. S. troops will also try to dig in along the Nakdong river.

Big Unions Plan Combined Front

Washington, July 26 (AP)—The AFL and CIO have made their first formal agreement to work together in politics, legislation, and international policy.

A permanent AFL-CIO unity committee, created yesterday, meets again today. Later, perhaps in a month or two, it will hold other meetings to consider practical machinery to settle inter-union quarrels and to study proposals for "organic unity in the American labor movement."

Johnson Says America Was Better Prepared

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Johnson said today this country's overall fighting "potential" was greater at the outbreak of the Korean war than at any time since America demobilized after World War II.

Striking back at his critics, Johnson added: "Between March 1948 and June 1950 the actual manpower strength of the Army's mobile striking force in the continental United States—the general reserve—has increased by 165 per cent."

New Car Sales Continuing High

Raleigh, N.C., July 26 (AP)—Sales of 9,825 new cars in North Carolina during June brought to 53,154 the total of new car sales for the year. The Motor Vehicles Department reported today that 2,150 new trucks were sold during June, bringing the total for the year to 13,176.

Aldermen Talk Curb On Distributing Fuel

New Ordinance Restricting Delivery Of Gasoline And Other Inflammable Liquids May Get Official Attention August 3

A new city ordinance placing further restrictions on the delivery of gasoline and other inflammable liquids by tank trucks within the city will probably receive official attention of the board of aldermen at the next regular meeting on Thursday night August 3.

The matter was discussed informally at a meeting this morning of W. S. Stafford and two members of the ordinance committee, J. E. Waldrop and Robert Elks, with 10 local distributor representatives. All present at the meeting were agreed that there were definite hazards with the present methods of handling gasoline here but there were differences of opinion as to whether the large transport tankers that are delivering direct to the filling stations are any more hazardous than the smaller tankers. Three of the companies that are making direct-from-transport deliveries contended that their method was just as safe as that employed by the distributors who are delivering from smaller tank-trucks but having to make more trips over the congested city streets.

It was pointed out that the method of delivering from the transporters was cheaper because it eliminated at least one handling operation and some of the representatives present indicated that in time competition would force all the distributors to adopt that method if continuance of the practice was permitted. Such an increase in the use of the transporters carrying 4,500 to 5,500 gallons would increase the fire and traffic hazards the representatives pointed out.

Mayor Stafford declared that he and members of the city board were interested in the matter as a safety measure for the city of Greenville and that he felt some action toward restrictions were necessary.

After about an hour's discussion by those present Mayor Stafford recommended that the oil distributors try to work the matter out and make definite recommendations to the board of aldermen at the next regular meeting. The distributors then decided to hold a meeting on the matter on Thursday of next week and try to have recommendations for the board that night. Members of the ordinance committee were invited to meet with the oil distributors for their discussion of the matter.

Unenthused Over Truman Tax Plan

Lawmakers Generally Unsatisfied With Proposed Methods

Washington, July 26 (AP)—President Truman's call for $5,000,000,000 in new taxes got an unenthusiastic reception in Capitol Hill today—not because of the amount asked to fight Communist aggression, but because of the tax methods the President proposed.

The "quickie" increases, if approved by Congress, would raise the annual take from individual incomes by an estimated $3,000,000,000 to about $21,900,000,000—higher than the war-time peak of $20,300,000,000 reached in 1944. Individual taxes would be boosted, beginning in October, by as much as 20 per cent.

A man with a wife and two children who earns $3,000 (after deductions but before family exemptions) now pays Uncle Sam $100. If his earnings were jumped to $120; if his earnings were $4,000, the boost would be from $286 to $330; the $10,000 man would fork over $1,582 instead of $1,161 as at present.

Mr. Truman asked that the increases be made effective on all of this year's corporation income, and on three months of this year's income of individuals. He said "speed is of the essence." His proposals were embodied in a letter to Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Finance committee.

Johnson Says America Was Better Prepared

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Johnson said today this country's overall fighting "potential" was greater at the outbreak of the Korean war than at any time since America demobilized after World War II.

Striking back at his critics, Johnson added: "Between March 1948 and June 1950 the actual manpower strength of the Army's mobile striking force in the continental United States—the general reserve—has increased by 165 per cent."

Johnson's insistence on the fit-to-fight condition of the Army, Navy and Air Force was contained in a statement prepared for a Senate appropriations subcommittee considering President Truman's request for $10,486,976,000 more to finance the fighting in Korea and augment defense for the future.

The hearing had been arranged as a closed-door affair but Johnson handed out in advance of his appearance copies of his testimony.

Sudden Shift From Program Of Economic Recovery To Costly Rearming Will Put A Strain On All Members Of Atlantic Family; Past Estimates Were Too Hopeful

North Korean City, Seventy From Pusan, Recaptured; Tary Spokesman's Battle Lines Stabilizing; Newsman Lays Optimistic

Tokyo, Ju 26 (AP)—Hadong, only 70 miles from Pusan, was reported recaptured by American infantrymen today.

A Fifth Air Force spokesman at Headquarters in Korea said the Red-secured city in the South was subjected to vicious assault by American infantrymen and planes. The city was reported abandoned.

The 1 carrier launched planes attacked the central front.

The unconfirmed report of the city's recapture might be the first step by United Nations forces to plug the gap in their shrinking defense perimeter in southeast Korea.

The Reds put the squeeze on the United Nations front elsewhere today.

They seized Hadong, threatened Pusan, vital supply base, and pushed the U. S. First Cavalry further away from Yongdong on the central front.

Despite these reversals, which drew some pessimistic comment from the war front in Korea, a spokesman at General MacArthur's headquarters said the battle lines around Yongdong have "stabilized considerably."

He added confidently: "New American strength—which includes an Army and a ... division en route to ... the United States—ensures the Koreans 'besieged can be held.'"

In sharp contrast to this headquarters statement, Associated Press Correspondent Leif Erickson at U. S. Eighth Army headquarters in Korea said the rose American optimism that week was solely misplaced.

Erickson said the United Nations forces are running out of space in which to hold while they wait for reinforcements.

MacArthur's spokesman asserted a "continuous line" had been established. But he alluded only to the short central sector around Yongdong—placing the battle line near Yongju in the northeast to near Yongdong.

He glossed over the fact that the whole left flank in the southwest has been circled by North Korean forces. He termed them insignificant and unimportant. Yet these tank led forces forged farther east toward Pusan by the hour, although their strength was small.

The Communists' lightning drive in the south was a two-pronged move—each led by tanks. One pushed to Hadong, the other reached Hamyang, 45 miles southwest of Kumchon.

Kumchon is a vital communications and supply center for two U. S. divisions—the First Cavalry and the 25th Infantry—in advanced positions.

While American and South Korean forces fought fiercely for every mountainous mile on the front arching northeast of abandoned Taejon, the North Koreans were free-wheeling in the south.

At only one point was there evidence of a battle. A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman in Korea said South Korean marines and national police forces had retaken Mamwon, rail and highway junction 60 miles south of Taejon.

Evidently the Communist columns were moving at night—as they had in their sweep toward the Kum river. American and British airmen from two carriers flew more than 100 sorties in the southwest, but reported results were "negligible due to a lack of targets."

Now the search for security has suddenly shifted from the ideal of balanced budgets to air-tight military strength capable of meeting any eventuality.

And for clarity's sake let's emphasize that this change isn't because the western authorities believe another Word War is inevitable. It's because they recognize that it is possible and that military weakness on their part would increase that possibility.

Until recently the western allies had figured that it would take Russia three or four years to reach economic and military preparedness. That fact was taken into consideration by the Atlantic pact nations in laying their own plans for developing military security. Now they suddenly find that this estimate was far too optimistic.

So we see America and her allies rushing plans to meet any possible attack. That is the all important subject now before the twelve deputies of the North Atlantic Council meeting in London. The London Times comments on the situation: (Continued on Page Three)

Jute Acreage In India Is Growing

Cuttack, India — (AP) — India should be self-sufficient in jute by next year, according to Sir Datar Singh, ministry of agriculture official. He told a press conference that India's jute position had improved tremendously since partition, when most of the jute areas went to Pakistan. In 1947, he said, India's jute acreage totaled only 1,800,000, while this year it amounted to 4,000,000 acres. By 1951-52, he added, there should be 5,000,000 acres and India should have enough to supply its mills. The ministry of agriculture official also said India might be self-sufficient in cotton within two years. ## Identity Of Four Victims Unknown

Nashville, Tenn., July 26—(AP)—The identity of four additional National Guardsmen who died in the crash of a C-46 plane near Myrtle Beach, S.C. Sunday remains unsolved. A muster of all air Guardsmen in this area failed today to reveal any more missing men. The plane was en route to Nashville carrying Guardsmen who had completed two weeks training at Myrtle Beach when it crashed and killed 39 persons. At first 30 Nashville Guardsmen and four crewmen were believed to have died but a search of the wreckage revealed five additional bodies. One of the bodies has been tentatively identified as another Nashville Guardsman and the muster was arranged to check for any more missing troopers. Officials here said personal effects and dental charts of the unidentified men would be sent to the FBI in an effort to check further. State Adj. Gen. Sam T. Wallace said a billfold found in the plane indicated one of the unidentified victims may be Thomas Reneau, 18, Nashville Guardsman reported missing since the crash.

Fair Operators Require License

Raleigh, N.C., July 26—(AP)—Fair operators have been issued a reminder by Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine they need a license to operate in North Carolina. Ballentine said among the many licensing requirements is that a fair contribute at least 10 per cent of its gross receipts to premiums for exhibitors.

Food Chain Has Boosted Prices

Newark, N.J., July 26—(AP)—A large chain today boosted the price of hot dogs from a dime to 12 cents, and hamburgers from 15 to 17 cents. Some restaurants hiked the price of a cup of coffee from five to 10 cents with meals.

Good Attendance For Playgrounds

The attendance at the Greenville playgrounds this past week has been exceptionally good due to the fair weather, Director Bill Kittrell said today. The playgrounds, white and colored, have been enjoying finger-painting and bracelet weaving which have been a part of the arts and crafts program conducted by Martha Gilbert. The results show originality and artistic ability, says Miss Gilbert. The West Greenville and Cotanche playgrounds are looking forward to another softball game Thursday at Cotanche park. The Negro Midget baseball program is having a successful season. Many enthusiastic spectators have been present at their Wednesday afternoon games. Cotanche park is planning to give a Playground Fair on Friday, August 4. It will offer everything a real fair could offer, including free rides on ponies, clowns and exhibits. The swimming pool has been giving free swimming lessons at the pool from 11 to 12 each day. This program was sponsored by the City Recreation Program. The program will expire July 28. The playground directors would like to remind the parents that the Curb Market at West Greenville playground will be opened on rainy days. Children are urged to attend. Director Kittrell asks all boys who are interested in playing baseball on the City Recreation team which will go to Raleigh, to meet him at the Hut in Cotanche park. Only boys born on or after June 1, 1935 are eligible to play. All boys interested in playing Midget football this year will meet Bill Kittrell at Third Street playground at 10 o'clock on August 1.

Picture Window For Healthy Pigs

Toledo, O.—(AP)—Cows, chickens and pigs soon will be gazing out of big picture-windows just like city folks do, if farmers take the advice of agricultural engineers. They may not enjoy the view any more than if they were peering through small, dirty panes, but the animals will be healthier, according to Everett Eakin, Lilly-Owens-Ford Glass Company director of farm research. Studies on experimental farms during the last year show livestock fares better in buildings that have windows big enough to admit germ-killing sunshine.

Ask Permission To File Appeal

Raleigh, N.C., July 26—(AP)—Attorneys for two strikers charged with firing into a mill watchman's home during the long Tarboro Hart mill strike have asked the U.S. Supreme Court for permission to file an appeal. This was reported by the state attorney general's office yesterday. The strikers, Elmer Matthews and Jim Coon, were convicted last October in Edgecombe Superior Court of assault with a deadly weapon. Judge Leo Carr sentenced them to two years each.

Woman, 72, Has Painting Hobby

Vancouver—(AP)—Mary Clarke wanted to paint, and her years—72 of them—proved no handicap. A white-haired mother of eight, Mrs. Clarke learned the fundamentals of painting in a winter art course, taking one night a week to wield a brush. She said at first her attempts looked like the work of a four-year-old, but that it didn't matter because she got enjoyment out of it. "With my children all either married or away on their own and my husband dead, I need a hobby to keep me busy," she explained.

OLDEST BOARDER

Vancouver—(AP)—Earls court, a boarding house here, has lost its star boarder. Bachelor Paul Marquette—at 92 British Columbia's oldest railway pensioner—has moved from the boarding house after 55 years continuous residence there. He will be cared for at a nursing home.

Faculty Member Resigns Position

Miss Katherine Davis, member of the dean of women's staff at East Carolina Teachers College, retired at the end of the first term of summer school after having been with the college for five years. She will live at her home at Toxaway, N.C. Miss Davis attended Woman's College at Greensboro, where she received her A.B. degree. Later she did graduate work at the University of Virginia, the University of Wisconsin, and the University of California. Taking a major in home economics, she taught in the city schools of Savannah, Georgia and at several high schools in North Carolina including Greensboro. Before joining the college staff, Miss Davis managed a girls camp at her home in Toxaway. At the college, she was counselor of Fleming Hall, women's dormitory, from 1945 until her retirement. Miss Davis is a niece of Dr. J. Y. Joyner, famous educator of North Carolina, and sister to Miss Sallie Joyner Davis, a former member of the history department at the college.

Over Half Vital Items Stockpiled

Washington, July 25—(AP)—The munitions board told Congress today that a little over half of the nation's proposed $4,000,000,000 strategic and critical materials stockpile is on hand or on order. The dollar value of stockpiled materials on June 30 was $1,556,154,352, or 38.4 percent of the total objective, the board said in a report is on order, making a total of 50.6 per cent of the pre-Korean war objective on hand or on order. (Continued from page one) they had to pay in wartime. In wartime, with money rolling in from war orders, a firm had to figure out what its normal, pre-war earnings were. Then the firm had to pay a regular—but high—tax on its wartime earnings considered equal to its pre-war earnings. But— On its earnings above its pre-war normal, the firm had to pay an extra tax of 85 per cent. This was the excess profit tax. On excise taxes— Excise taxes are special taxes on certain kinds of goods, like furs, jewelry, luggage and toilet preparations. The present tax on them is 20 per cent which is what you pay when you buy them. There are other excise taxes of various size on various things, like telephone calls, theater tickets, appliances, and so on. Altogether

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

WE CAN'T BEAT THE GAME
In oriental countries a good or sharp-pointed stick used to be—and sometimes still is—attached to the front of a plow. If the oxen drawing the plow began to kick, they find their kicking not only futile but painful. The plowman does not punish them by prodding them with a pointed stick; the pointed stick, or goad, is part of the plow.

So it is in the spiritual universe of which we are a part. Retribution does not come upon us when we offend against the moral law; retribution is built into the moral law. It is a part of it, just as the goad was a part of the ancient plow. When we try to kick against the moral law, and to transgress it, we experience about the same thing the oxen experience. And this not because God is angry with us and has reached down his hand to punish us, but because the moral law is equipped with a goad which automatically punishes us if we kick against it.

Yet people still go on believing that they can beat the universe. Just like the poor, empty-headed folk who step up to a slot machine and think that they can win over a rigged equipment, so many people defy the universe and think they can get away with it.

But they can't. It is hard always to kick against the goad.

Our Allies Are Looking To The 'Main Event'

It's easy to find fault with the apparent lack of active participation in the Korean "police action" by other members of the United Nations.

When Americans consider the cost of the Korean fighting in terms of lives and dollars; and recall that the halting of communistic aggression is in the interest of other UN members... there is a natural doubt as to how valuable are our alliances, and whether we should "fight their battles for them."

Actually, America is the only power of the democratic group that has the military and economic strength to undertake the emergency action required. In the final showdown, the mobilization of our allies will be all-important; but they have not the strength to be wasted in mobilizing now for what is really (in the long view) a "minor incident."

France and Great Britain already have commitments in Asia, involving military effort comparable to our own in Korea.

Not to be overlooked, is the fact that the most important front in the "cold war," and any "hot war," is in Europe. Neither we nor our allies can afford to weaken our already feeble forces there for the sake of an insignificant affair on the other side of the world.

The Korean fight is only a sideshow as compared with the main event which we hope to avoid, but for which we and our friends must be prepared.

The extent of preparedness being undertaken by the United States is not required to meet the needs of Korea. It is for the "big show" in Europe that this effort is necessary.

Level Heads And Sound Footing

According to the report of the federal reserve system the average retail sales in department stores across the nation increased 24 per cent during the week ending July 15.

That was the week "scare buying" became apparent because of the questionable outlook in Korea. The rise was one of the sharpest since the federal reserve system has been keeping records of the retail sales.

The cold figures show that the people across the nation made rushes on the department stores to stock up on goods—probably on goods for which they had no need. The buying included practically everything from foodstuffs to television sets. People were "just stocking up before the hoarders got all the things."

That was a week and a half ago. Today people are still buying more than they need although the first shock of the hoarding and hiked prices is wearing off.

In Sunday's New York Times there appeared an advertisement which said in part:

"The aggressors who would destroy our better way of life know full well that when a nation's currency is weakened, that nation is virtually looted from within. This infiltration is as much a part of their "cold" war strategy as the Berlin Blockade or the invasion of Korea.

"Let's look at it this way. What would an enemy of our country want us to do? He would want us to weaken ourselves. He would use every artifice of propaganda to make Americans rush out into a surge of 'scare buying' to use our money against ourselves. He would have us ignore the fact that everywhere in America there is plenty of goods and food and merchandise.

"He would whisper into the ears of the faint-hearted and uninformed—'Buy, buy. Get it while you can. Forget your neighbor. Get yours now.'

"If we allow ourselves to be stampeded into a buying and hoarding panic... if we drain our stores of staple foods... if we recklessly bid for manufactured goods... if we selfishly deprive our neighbors of the things they need... the enemy will have won the battle."

Surely the people of Pitt county are able to understand the seriousness of the situation which may result if there is widespread hoarding. The level-headed people are not being stampeded into buying by the actions of the frantic few. The individuals in the county are the only ones who can be sure that Pitt does not become a victim of high prices because of our own selfishness.

You control your own buying. You have an influence on the buying of your neighbor.

Use your good judgment and influence to keep Pitt county on a sound footing.

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, July 26—President Truman admittedly presented a relatively mild and middle-of-the-road program to Congress in outlining the legislation he considers necessary for control of the civilian economy. He included a few hints at more drastic measures, such as price-fixing and rationing of goods, but he took the advice of the school which urged him to break the bad news gently.

In view of the skyrocketing trends of prices and all forms of credit even before the Korean crisis assumed its present proportions—in fact, even before the North Koreans attacked—the more realistic faction thought that he should have demanded far more stringent authority.

They warned him that he could not pattern his program on the stumbling and piecemeal procedure adopted after Pearl Harbor, but this is what he has done.

DIFFERENT—Hard-boiled economists point out that conditions in 1941 and 1950 are entirely different. Then we were operating our industrial and economic system on a part-time basis.

People were buying on a hand-to-mouth basis, for the effect of high wartime wages and full employment had not been felt generally. Manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers were looking for business.

Now, under the impact of federal spending, deficits and related policies, the United States has been going ahead at full steam. We are enjoying such a peacetime boom that many plants—steel, automobile, television, radio, electrical appliances, certain textiles—cannot satisfy the customers' demand.

In short, this group of experts believe that Mr. Truman may be making the same mistake in the civilian field that National Defense Secretary Johnson made in the military realm. That is, he is overestimating our resources and underestimating our needs.

CREDIT—Mr. Truman's demand for power to curtail consumer credit, for instance, impresses many economists as a plea to close the barn doors after the horses have been stolen.

The total of these installment credits now stands at approximately $20 billion, an all-time record. They increased by $500 million in June, and July has shown the same trend.

In order to place their orders before Congress enacts severe restraints, such as 25 per cent down and only a year to pay up, many are expected to make deferred purchases immediately. They will also be motivated by the fact that there is no hope of repeal of excise taxes.

Thus billions of dollars in unpaid installments will continue to be expended, for there can be no moratorium on them. It is axiomatic that this amount of loose money in the financial stream will have a sharp inflationary effect, regardless of the controls now clamped on future transactions.

MORTGAGES—The same considerations apply to the new mortgages on one-to-four family homes, which now stands at a record figure of $42 billion. They have shown a $21 billion increase since the end of World War II.

Many have been erected on the basis of nothing much down, and small monthly payments. That money, too, will continue to flow into the general financial market. Nor will it be easily possible to halt the construction of an estimated 10 billion dollars' worth of this kind of unfinished homes.

PRICES—Meanwhile, the price structure appears to bely the White House hope that controls may not be needed for a long while. The levels already threaten to go through the roof.

Wholesale prices jumped six points from January to July of this year, or from 156 to 162. But an even more dangerous leap was shown in the prices of the 28 basic commodities which the Department of Commerce used to measure economic trends.

They skyrocketed from 248 in January to 289 as of July 16. But the alarming feature is that they went up 25 points between June 23 and July 16, the rise beginning before the outbreak in Korea.

BUDGET—Mr. Truman also failed to warn of the force of the inflationary impact which regular and emergency expenditures would have on our everyday living. Here again, he dismissed advice that he model his message on Churchill's famous "tears and blood, toil and sweat" alarm.

But the fact is that the United States is committed to spend more than $31 billion on national defense, war and related purposes within the immediate future, or as fast as the money can be poured out. With the government's ordinary expenditures, it will mean the largest budget since the war years, and one of the biggest in peacetime history.

It consists of the regular domestic military outlay of $14 billion for the 1951 fiscal year; $10 billion for the Korean and future crises; $1.25 billion already appropriated to rearm North Atlantic Pact allies and possibly $3 billion in additional funds proposed in the recent message; $3 billion plus in Marshall Plan money.

EFFECT—Almost every cent of this treasure will go into wages or profits, past or present, in one form or another. It is almost impossible to imagine its immediate and long-term effect on our everyday lives.

This is not to suggest that the United States does not possess the skills, the resources and the fortitude to surmount the current and long-range threat of continuing war with the Muscovites. It is designed solely to show that Mr. Truman, like Mr. Johnson, is not letting us in on the real bad news.

If We Started A Rumor—

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

The more war news I hear the more I'm inclined to think that the Reflector is about to acquire a foreign correspondent, namely me. Then I look at the 1950 census figures and ask myself why Uncle Sam needs me when there are 150 million people in America. Then I am faced with the hard facts: I'm in the reserves and the reserves are very, very subject to call.

If I go in, "Somebody Told Me..." will take on a new significance. The telling will be from higher headquarters, commands about where to go and what to do. But while I'm still here let me tell you one thing that all civilians should hear: Don't hoard food! More specifically, don't hoard sugar. The other day I was in one of the super markets and happened to inspect the food carts. Every one, save two, had sugar, and those two were en route to the sugar stack. What's more, you should have seen the quantities. Twenty-five pounds was a small amount.

It's interesting to look back on the last war in respect to sugar. Do you realize that there was no sugar shortage in W. W. II? Uncle Sam enforced rationing simply to prevent hoarding. If you were short of sugar, it was simply because you cooked more pies and cakes than the average person. After all, it was hard to set an amount of ration stamps that would serve the average family, and yet not encourage hoarding.

For sugar information, there's no better place to go than to a sugar company, so I picked on one that operates from Wall Street. In its bulletin, the Lam-born Sugar Company says, "We are experiencing a sugar market controlled almost entirely by fear. This fear is concentrated in the minds of the housewives of the nation who increasingly are growing panicky in their mad scramble for sugar for hoarding purposes. It is a clear case of what mass hysteria can do!" The bulletin goes on to say that the average housewife is trying to buy in a few days a supply of sugar that will last her for one, two, six, or even twelve months. Actually, there is plenty of sugar on hand, and the capacity of the refineries is ample to meet any normal demand. When I say "normal" demand, I don't mean hoarding. If the housewives continue to hoard, sugar will become short and the price will increase. At present, some grocers have increased the price, but the wholesalers have not.

If you listen to me, you won't hoard sugar. But I must admit, if I'm giving bad advice, I don't have a warehouse full of sugar to back it up. However, don't lose faith in me. There'll be no sugar shortage if we behave ourselves. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau
By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh, N. C.

NOT FREE—The advisory budget commission has rediscovered truth of the ancient maxim that "nothing is free." They have had several "free" meals during the current inspection tour through the east; that is, the meals cost them nothing in cash—but they were paid for just the same. For instance, the state parks authority gave a luncheon at Wilmington, and the budgeters missed a dip in the ocean (or attendance at church services if they preferred) by reason of having to spend Sunday morning looking over proposed parks developments at Morehead City after visiting the Wilmington port site the day before. The state park folks had arranged a buffet luncheon on the fisheries boat Sunday for the group—and as soon as the meal was over the budgeters were taken out to Fort Macon State Park, thus missing the anticipated afternoon swim. These incidents added emphasis to what the budget commission had found at every previous stop—"free" state services are not free, either. Public schools and higher education, public health and hospitalization, good roads and streets, all have to be paid for by somebody, not necessarily by the same persons who benefit most from them.

COMPETITION—There is keen competition among state institutions and agencies for the tax money paid into the state treasury. There is evidence of increasing trend on part of many of these institutions and agencies to compete with private enterprise as well. Pointed questions asked at Fort Macon Park by members of the commission clearly indicated fear that park activities were branching out too much in direction of competition with nearby Atlantic Beach facilities. Although the state park serves to great extent a different type of patronage, fact is many of the dollars collected for swimming and other recreational activities would otherwise go to some of the privately operated beaches. As it is now, the state park has an operating deficit, made up out of appropriations from the general fund, a part of which has been paid in taxes by the private operators.

SERVICE—State park administrators contend that facilities at most private beaches are too expensive for majority of North Carolinians, and that is an obligation of the state to provide facilities within range of the average pocketbook. To that end they are asking larger appropriations for improving picnic grounds and bath houses.

HISTORIC—Fort Macon is one of thirteen parks owned by the state of North Carolina. In addition to recreational advantages it has definite historic value which the state ought to preserve. The old fort, partially restored to original lines of the structure completed in 1835, is an interesting place. The British built a fort here shortly after the Spanish invasion of 1747. It and its successors figured in the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Spanish-American war of the late nineties, and both world wars of this century. Chief historic interest centers around capture and recapture of the present fort during the American War of the States. Hundreds of people visit the site every day during the summer, a few during the winter. A museum of history adds to interest of visitors. Located on the north end of Bogue Island, across the sound from Beaufort and Morehead City, the park contains about 500 acres, and was established as a state park in 1924. Only within the past five years has much attention been given to developing recreational facilities.

LEGISLATURE—There is more than usual interest in the prospective doings of the next legislature. Spokesmen for the institutions visited are concerned mainly with what may happen to desired appropriations. Others are interested in probable tax legislation. In counties having liquor stores, there is considerable interest in whether Governor Scott will really press for a state liquor referendum, and if so what he will recommend as source of revenue to replace the millions lost to both state and local governments if legal sale should be voted out. Occasionally someone would suggest curtailment of state services rather than levying new taxes. Even those making this suggestion apparently had little faith in its being followed. Conservative business men fear that there is more likelihood of deficit spending on large scale, resulting in conditions later requiring bond issues to make up treasury deficits.

QUESTION—Competition with private enterprise is present to some degree in all the state parks and in many other phases of state government, but it is more noticeable here because proximity to similar beaches a few hundred yards away. One of the questions the budget commission and the general assembly must answer is whether to go further into such activity by providing fully adequate facilities, or to retrench and confine services to educational and historical phases, and to furnish recreational opportunities in areas where they are not now available at all.

POLITICS—The itinerant budget group has visited some 30-odd institutions in twenty counties, and made short stops in three or four others. At each stop there was contact with local people, many of whom discussed political affairs. It is obvious that a few people still want to fight the late senatorial battle, but preponderant majority want to forget it. Somewhat paradoxically most of the criticism of Governor Scott and most resentment against state administration activity in the recent primary is voiced by those who formerly were counted among the administration's staunchest supporters.

LEGISLATURE—There is more than usual interest in the prospective doings of the next legislature. Spokesmen for the institutions visited are concerned mainly with what may happen to desired appropriations. Others are interested in probable tax legislation. In counties having liquor stores, there is considerable interest in whether Governor Scott will really press for a state liquor referendum, and if so what he will recommend as source of revenue to replace the millions lost to both state and local governments if legal sale should be voted out. Occasionally someone would suggest curtailment of state services rather than levying new taxes. Even those making this suggestion apparently had little faith in its being followed. Conservative business men fear that there is more likelihood of deficit spending on large scale, resulting in conditions later requiring bond issues to make up treasury deficits.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

STOP KIDDING US
(News and Observer)
The Associated Press sends this news from Korea swiftly to American newspaper front pages.

Tokyo, July 20—(AP)—Morale and training among some recently organized North Korean divisions were "startling low," a headquarters communiqué said today.

Headquarters based its findings on stories told by "hundreds of captured North Korean soldiers." The story continued at some length. There have been other such stories. The report of an American landing far behind our own lines was reported as a major victory, though it was followed by news of further North Korean advances.

Of course, the American people want good news from Korea. It may please them to hear that the North Koreans are "startlingly low" in both training and morale. But it makes the United States and its forces look worse off than ever to suggest that they have been taking a steady licking from such soldiers.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
Business men who are making plans today on a basis of 1941 experiences may get themselves into traps unless the lessons of the earlier situation are reevaluated in light of present conditions.

Then, as now, there was rearmament, men going into uniform, panic buying, hoarding, wild rumors. But the basic economic conditions were vastly different.

Income payments to individuals were $23 billion dollars in 1941; they are running above 212 billion at annual rates. The gross national product was 125 billion dollars in 1941; it was 287 billion last year and is now running higher. Savings totaled $4 billion dollars in 1941; today they are close to 180 billion.

In 1941 there were $7 million employed; today we have $15 billion. Then the defense industries had a pool of $5 million to draw from; today we have two million fewer. Then, as now there were housewives, the young and the retired to draw from additionally, so the comparison is not an exact one. However, we have considerably greater resources in trained workers on jobs or available.

There were no larger reserves of fats, oils, grains and cotton. Today the government holds four billion dollars worth of farm products under the price support program. The support program has also increased greatly the number of acres under cultivation.

The biggest changes have been in production capacity. In 1941 the factories were still suffering from the effects of the depression. War buying from Great Britain and her Allies brought a slight expansion and the American government was starting through some pilot orders. Today capacity has been increased by both the war and the postwar boom.

Steel production capacity has been greatly expanded; aluminum production, vastly. In 1941 we were dependent on imports for rubber; today we have a synthetic rubber industry expandable to take care of most of our needs. The merchant fleet was small and battered during 1941. While it has been diminishing since the war, there is a big merchant fleet which can be put to use in a short time. Plane building plants, electric resources and oil capacity are all tremendously expanded since nine years ago.

We are not only more nearly ready for any eventuality, but the effects of any eventuality will be far different from the consequences of Pearl Harbor.

IT'S EASY TO SELL WHEN PEOPLE BUY
The rush of buying today recalls a war-time incident. A visitor walked into a store and seeing a crowd of buyers asked the manager how he managed to get so many customers. The manager whispered, "I opened the doors."

AD-BAG PLAN WORKS WITHIN PAPER INDUSTRY
For thirty years enterprisers have looked at paper bags and exclaimed, "What a waste of advertising space!" But none of scores of attempts to develop bag advertising business met with much success.

Then two ex-GIs thought they discovered what was wrong with early attempts. Each enterprise had been set up in competition with the established bag industry and the competition was ruthless.

So the pair, Aaron A. Robinson, of Savannah, and Lee W. Gore, of Philadelphia, devised a plan to work within the framework of the bag industry. They don't sell bags; they sell advertising space on them. When they make a sale, they send an order to a paper manufacturer. He prints the ad on the required number of bags and distributes them through his regular jobbers in the territory specified. Both the jobber and the grocer get a bonus. (Robinson and Gore operate as National Bag Advertising, 2 W. 46th St., New York 19.)

PENSION PLAN
HAS SUGAR COATING
It's been predicted here and elsewhere that smaller companies would eventually face labor demands for pensions. But many smaller companies are unable to finance plans such as have been agreed to by giant corporations.

Now District 50, United Mine Workers is advancing a plan which it says is both palatable and practical for smaller firms. Under it, the firm agrees to pay the equivalent of 3 per cent of its payroll into a fund managed jointly by the company and the union. The fund then pays $100 a month to those qualifying. But there's this proviso: if there isn't enough money in the fund, each pensioner gets only a pro-rata share. That protects the company from the necessity of making unbearably large payments if business falls off or if longevity results in unexpected high numbers of pensioners. Several firms have agreed to the plan.

Hal Boyle's Column

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea.—(AP)—Getting to the Korean battlefield is as hard as buying ten quick tickets to a hit Broadway play.

It is that popular. You have to stand in line to get here. Just why this is true I don't know. The people I have met so far seem to fall into three classes, none of which you would think would be interested in fighting.

1. There are the old line Army officers who have been through two world wars and could retire in the service. They refuse to retire while the guns are still firing.

2. There are the brave boys below voting age who should have a lifetime of peace and education to look forward to—and yet they willingly put their bright future on the altar of patriotism.

3. There are young married men with children to raise. Wouldn't you think they'd say "My family first, my country afterward?" but somehow they don't, bitter as the decision is.

To get to Korea you have to buck people from all three of these classes who want to get there ahead of you. There is a backlog all along the line and it is a kind of privilege to make the trip over.

To tell the truth, I didn't feel much that way myself at first. I thought it didn't make any real difference to me whether I came one week or the next. I know enough about war to realize that it always goes longer than it is expected to.

But it only took Don Whitehead, an old buddy from the second World War, and myself about 48 hours to fly from New York to Tokyo. Then, after getting our gear and credentials, we were stymied for 72 hours going from Tokyo to Korea because of a typhoon.

That seems to be something our people at home don't realize—how much a part the weather plays in this war and how cleverly the North Koreans timed their attack to get the benefit of the rainy season.

You can fly 8,000 miles to Tokyo in two days and then be held up three or four days getting 800 miles from there to Korea.

It isn't historic importance, of course, that a couple of correspondents were delayed three days by a big wind from getting to their assignment. But it is important that for much of that time the ground forces in Korea didn't get the full air support they so desperately needed.

The plane we finally got off on carried people of the three classes I mentioned earlier—the boys, the young men with families, and the older men with eagles or silver maple leaves on their shoulders who won't leave a fire while the flames are showing.

Because of further bad weather and a low priority I was among a group that was bumped from the plane and lost an extra day on the way. So did some of the boys and the young men with families. The older brass got through, probably for a good reason—they were more important.

But everyone who was held over resented it. So did most of the guys who had spent as much as ten days at that forward airbase in Japan trying to get over. It is a standing room only situation.

Why? I think it is because of the magnificent stand made by the lone 24th Infantry Division which for weeks stood by itself for America. The United States is a funny country. Like England it doesn't dissolve in time of trouble. It pulls together. Danger knits us more than prosperity.

That is why so many today want to pay the debt of honor we feel we owe the so-called green kids who held as best they could with the little they had for the nation that is now going to give so immeasurably more to win.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—Business is booming at the U. S. Mint.

In addition to the output of domestic coins and coins for several foreign nations, the mint has put on sale "proof" coins for collectors. Proof coins, last issued and sold by the mint in 1942, are coin of regular design and denomination—one, five, 10, 25 and 50-cent pieces. Only difference is that they are stamped from specially prepared metal on a hand-operated hydraulic press, and the dies are highly polished and are buffed before each coin is stamped. They give them a mirror-like surface.

The sets sell for $2.10. The difference between the face value of the set, 91 cents, covers the postage and special work in proofing. Leland Howard, assistant director of the mint, says the mint has about 10,000 sets on hand. Until additional sets have been manufactured there will be a limit of five sets to a person. All proof coin sets will be sold at the Philadelphia Mint.

No silver dollars have been minted since 1935. Mr. Howard says, although "we have a heavy supply of silver on hand in the treasury and in some federal reserve banks." The supply dates back to the 1880s, when silver was in its hey-day, William Jennings Bryan was running for the presidency on a silver platform and there was strong support for silver as a monetary base metal.

People just don't like silver dollars any more. At present, Mr. Howard told me, there are some 170,000,000 in circulation and some 320,000,000 in the Treasury. More than 1,000,000,000 paper dollars are in circulation—one silver dollar to about six paper bills.

The U. S. mint coins for from three to 10 foreign countries every year. In 1949 the mint made 30,000,000 coins for China, 32,000,000 for Ethiopia and well over 32,000,000 for Venezuela. It also made coins for Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Saudi Arabia, Honduras and Mexico—a total of 156,877,944 pieces in all. In this country the demand for coins is picking up again, but Mr. Howard says you've got to understand coin demands before you can see the reasons for minting new supplies. Things like changes in taxes, the increase in vending machines and the use of parking meters affect coinage.

Demos Hear Call For Party Unity

Raleigh, N.C., July 26—(AP)—The State Democratic Executive Committee re-elected its top officers yesterday and heard calls for party unity.

Everett Jordan of Saxapahaw was re-elected chairman of the committee and Mrs. D. A. McCormick of McDonald was re-elected vice chairman.

Party leaders attending the meeting urged that Democrats unite to defeat Republican candidates in the general election this fall.

"Let's get in there and pitch," said Governor Scott of the fall campaign. "We don't want to take anything for granted."

Democratic National Committee man Jonathan Daniels asserted "I know we're all going to work up the greatest majority we ever had for every Democrat from the mountains to the sea."

Terry Sanford, a president of the State's Young Democrats, declared the Young Democrats will be in the forefront of the fight.

Referring to his administration, Scott said, "the only thing that burns me down is that we don't have the full support of all Democrats."

Madison School Official Resigns

Marshall, N. C., July 26—(AP)—Mrs. R. H. Livingston has resigned her state-wide post as superintendent of public instruction in Madison county.

Her resignation, submitted at the July meeting of the board yesterday, is to take effect when a successor is chosen.

Mrs. Livingston, who recently wed an employe of the state health department, is the former Mrs. Edna G. T. Rhodes, she is expected to make her new home in Charlotte.

Mrs. Livingston's resignation was demanded last Saturday by the newly-organized "committee for better government in Madison county," composed mainly of World War II veterans. The committee, also asking the resignation of board of education chairman J. Clyde Brown, charged the Madison school system has been subject to "vicious political practices" in the past several years.

On July 15, the state board of elections ousted A. E. Leake as head of the county election board. He was accused of vote-buying and forcing Madison county school teachers to contribute to Democratic political campaigns.

It was reported her resignation was in the hands of the board before the committee demanded her resignation Saturday.

Senate Showing Signs Of Acting On Money Bill

Washington, July 25—(AP)—The Senate showed signs today of picking up speed on its $34,683,000,000 appropriations bill. Some leaders forecast final passage by the week's end.

Signs pointing to cuts in domestic spending to make more money available for fighting the Korean war were less clear, however.

Some senators felt that the so-called Bridges-Byrd amendment to cut 10 percent off non-defense spending might be adopted. But the general opinion prevailed that if there was any trimming of individual items, such as flood control or river and harbors projects, it would be slight.

The amendment introduced by Senators Bridges and Byrd and endorsed by more than 30 other senators, is designed to trim $600,000,000 out of the bill. It is opposed by President Truman who has asked that it be shelved.

Iowan Will Head Home Ec Dept.

Dr. Bessie McNeil of Center Point, Iowa, will head the home economic department at East Carolina Teachers College next year, according to an announcement this week by Dr. John D. Messick, president. She will fill the vacancy left by Mrs. Adelaide Bloxton, who died at the college in March of this year.

Mrs. Bloxton had been a member of the home economics department for the past twenty-two years and had served as head of the department since 1945.

Before accepting the position as head of the department at East Carolina, Dr. McNeil was instructor at Phoenix College, Phoenix, Arizona. Previously, she has been head of the department of family life at the University of Alabama and had taught at the University of Missouri, Washington State, Iowa State, and Santa Barbara College.

Dr. McNeil received her B. A. degree at Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa and later received her M. S. from Iowa State College, and her Ph. D. at the State University of Iowa.

Besides teaching, Dr. McNeil has had wide experience in the field of child development, child care training, home management and supervision, and nursery school organization and work. She is a member of Psi Chi, Omicron Nu, Phi Kappa Phi, and the Ellen H. Richards Fellowship.

Dr. McNeil will join the faculty at East Carolina for the fall term.

Cost Of Highway Building Mounts

Raleigh, July 26—(AP)—Road building costs are going up, the Highway Commission has found out.

The Commission opened bids on 30 new projects yesterday. Low bids totaled $2,048,029.63, or $60,329.63 above Commission estimates. Competition was spotty, one project was passed by all contractors, and only one firm bid on several projects.

In previous bid openings this year low bids have averaged around $100,000 under commission estimates.

The sharpest increases showed up in bids on projects involving steel and concrete construction. Commission Chairman Henry Jordan said "the contractors are worried by price rises and labor and they don't know how many men they may lose to the draft."

The 30 projects drew 133 bids and cover 220 miles of work in 25 counties. Approximately half of the 30

He also says he used to be cross, irritable and nervous, but HADACOL put a stop to all that when he found he was suffering from a lack of Vitamin B1, B2, Nicotin and Iron.

Mr. Marks was mighty proud to make the following statement: "Before I began taking HADACOL there was many a night that I lay awake. I just couldn't get any sleep. Food didn't agree with me and my stomach gave me all sorts of trouble. I took only two bottles of HADACOL before I was feeling much better. # Robins Shutout Goldsboro Cardinals By Score Of 1-0

First Inning Run Sufficed To Win

Braun Hurls Second Consecutive Win With Seven-Hit Pitching Chore; Accounts For Two Hits; Guidice Scored On Cardinal Error

By BERT MOYE
Rookie Pete Braun pitched his second consecutive win for the Greenville Robins with a 1-0 shutout victory over the Goldsboro Cardinals over in Goldsboro last night.

Braun, in registering his second straight win, scattered seven hits in effective manner and struck out a total of six men.

The Robins got their only run off eighthander Lonnie Ford in the first inning. After Paul Strausser had grounded out from third to first, Joe Guidice walked and advanced to second on a wild pitch. Johnny Tepedino struck out. Ralph Bartolomei bunted in front of the plate. He had it beat out for a base hit and when Catcher Bill Wilhelm fell down trying to field the ball, he was charged with an error and Guidice scored from third.

Pete Braun, who not only pitched the win, collected two of the four safeties garnered off the Cards' Ford. Bartolomei and Lautato got the other two.

Chuck Sedor, the Cards' center-fielder, with three singles in four trips to the plate, and Jack Hinkle with two for two, led the seven-hit attack off Braun.

Fielding honors for the night went to Billy Johnson of the Cards, who made a long, hard run and a brilliant shoestring catch in the seventh inning to deprive the Robins' Dick Bland of what appeared to be a certain hit. For the Robins' defense, it was the brilliant fielding of Johnny Tepedino in left field and Paul Strausser in centerfield, both of whom brought the fans to their feet with sensational catches during the contest.

The Robins and the Cards will meet tonight at Guy Smith Stadium here in a single game starting at 7:45 o'clock.

Indians vs. Tigers

Charles Catlett struck out twelve men in leading the Indians of W. Greenville to a 6 to 0 win over the Tigers of Training School. He pitched his second no-hit game of the year but even then had a hard time winning because of his wildness. Bro Edwards on the mound for the Tigers allowed only four hits but received very little support from his infield. Bull Bullock, E. Allen and Wesley Hudson led the hitting for the Indians.

Red Sox vs. Robins

The Red Sox of W. Greenville added another shutout to their long list of wins yesterday at the expense of the Robins of Third St. They had little trouble behind the two hit pitching of Charles Pollard in hanging up a 6 to 0 win. Robert Carawan led the Sox with three hits in three times at bat. Larry Powell and Tommy Key Norris got two hits each for the Red Sox. Harris Northrop and Hudson Miller got the hits for the Robins.

Dodgers vs. Cards

W. Greenville's Cardinals came back in a rousing rally in the final inning to score five runs and win over the Dodgers at Third St. yesterday 10 to 3. The Dodgers apparently had the game sewed up going into the final inning but seemed to get careless and before they could recover they had lost. Bobby Starkey had pitched very well until the Cards scored their first run in the rally, he was jerked and George Sideris took over. He walked two men to fill the bases and then a hit scored two. Out went Sideris to be replaced by Huey Harrison but before he could put out the fire the Cards were one run ahead. In the bottom half of the inning the Dodgers had the tying run on second but he was out trying foolishly to steal third. Jerry Phillips with three singles and a double, Bobby Howell with a double and single, Shorty Strickland with a homer and triple and Jimmy Hendrix and Catlett with two singles each led the hitting for the Cardinals. Bobby Starkey had five singles in five trips for the Dodgers. Bobby Conway with three singles and a triple, Joe E. Brown with three singles, Bobby Nunn with a triple and a single and Huey Harrison with a triple and double were the top hitters for the Dodgers.

Schedule for Thursday

Tigers vs. Cubs, 9:00
Wildcats vs. Robins, 3:00
Braves vs. Cards, 2:00

Greenville's shutout of the Cards last night was their fifth of the season against opposing clubs, having shutout Kinston twice and Tarboro and Roanoke Rapids once each prior to last night's game. . . . Incidentally, the shutout for the Cards was their eighth suffered this season. . . . The win for the Robins was their seventh against the Cards while dropping eight thus far this season. . . . The win for the Robins was their seventh straight and for the month of July to date the Robins have won 17 while losing only seven. That really accounts for the position which they have acquired in league standings to date—two and one-half games behind the league-leading Jays. . . . The win against the Cards was the third straight win for the Robins.

Wagner-Waldrop In Fast Finale For Win; Jaycees, Legion Tied

Exchange Club	5	2	714
American Legion	4	4	500
Jaycees	3	3	500
Lions Club	1	4	200

The Jaycees moved into a second-place tie with American Legion yesterday afternoon as the result of a one-run licking. Score was 7-6 in the only Civic League game of the day.

Jaycees had a three-run lead going into the seventh after they had scored the tie-breaking run in the fifth, followed by two in the sixth. Those two crossed when the Legion momentarily went apart at the seams.

The Legion came back in its half of the last frame to shove across two runs. Teel's high fly to left-field retired the side, leaving the tying and winning runners on base.

Legion took an early lead when it scored three runs in the first. That was good until the fourth when Jaycees knotted the count on a one-run first inning, two in the third and another in the fourth. The Jaycee win evened the four-game series with Legion.

Score by innings:
Legion ..... 301 000 2-6 7 6
Jaycees ..... 102 112 x-7 6 2
Batteries: Jaycees—Moseley, McGowan (1) and Saleed; Legion—Gordon and Williams.

Post Office led throughout the contest, giving pitcher Smith a two-run working margin after tallying those two in the second. W-W narrowed that by a run in the third. In the fifth Post Office added another and blanked the league-leaders in the sixth for a supposed clearing finish.

But the motor team proved the mettle that has kept it in leadership of the other seven Industrial teams in moving across the tying and winning runners for the finish. Only three men got more than one hit, each with two. H. Waldrop collected two singles for W-W while Jordan and E. Farley were hitting two for Post Office. Smith pitched four-hit ball for Post Office while Mosier was nicked for seven.

Score by innings:
Post Office ..... 020 010 0-3 4 0
W-W ..... 001 000 3-4 7 1
Batteries: W-W — Mosier and Leggett; Post Office — Smith and Jordan.

Scott Motors continued its chase for leadership of the league in beating Bilbro Wholesale, 17-10, in a 34-hit ball game. Again, Bilbro was left wanting its first win.

Scott's first two innings were enough for the win after a seven-run opening burst followed by four, tallies in the second. Bilbro crossed once in the second, four times in the fourth and added five in the sixth—all on 15 hits off Scott's pitcher Jones.

Garris led the two teams' hitting getting four singles in five trips for the losers. Jones, Jordan, Kirt-trell, Morgan and Harris all collected three safeties for Scott's Morgan hit a fourbase,er in addition to two singles.

IT'S DEATH, MY DARLING!

By Amelia Reynolds Long

Chapter 30
 For one terrible minute I had the awful suspicion—that maybe Beau had been right after all, and the Dumonts were a little mentally unbalanced. If Amedee was doing to start babbling about three little strips of red cloth being the reason why half of his entire family had been murdered...

He must have guessed what was passing through my mind. "It's all right, Peter," he said quickly. "I'm not crazy. But I see the whole thing now, and we were dead wrong about most of it. Claude and Grandpere may have been killed because of what they knew, but Lee and Uncle Raoul weren't.
 They were slated to die for an entirely different reason; and so, I'm convinced, were nearly all the rest of us."

It seemed to me that being the prospective candidate for the receiving end of a murder was hardly the thing to look so jubilant about, and I said so. He sobered at once.
 "I didn't mean it that way," he said. "But the danger's past, now."

after nine now."
 After considerable persuasion, I finally managed to get Aunt Delphine tucked into bed, minus the hat and coat. Bobby met me in the lower hall.
 "What's going on around here?
 I just saw Beau drive away in one of the cars, and he looked as though he was going somewhere in a hurry."
 "He's going in to New Orleans,"
 I replied. I sank down wearily upon the bottom step. "Two murders and an insanity scare all in one day," I complained, "not to mention various and sundry other alarms and excursions! Now all we need around here to top it off is a good fire."
 And believe it or not, within the next hour we had that, too!

Big Cats Capered In Zoo After Catnip Took Effect

Chicago, July 25—(AP)—A bushel of catnip was tossed into the lion house at the Brookfield Zoo yesterday. Minutes later, the animals had the place jumping.

It was Director Robert Bean's idea of throwing in the catnip—just to see if anything would happen.

The animals—lions, tigers, leopards—responded with an assortment of capers and catnip-ups that amazed even Bean. They behaved like over-grown kittens. And like cats, they appeared very fond of the catnip, the well known, strong-scented herb.

Tommy, a 160-pound Indian leopard and regarded as dangerous, appeared to be trying to giggle. He sniffed the herb, rolled on it, and then staggered around drunkenly with a spray of catnip draped over one ear.

Three brother lions—Roger, Colby and Herman—acted very alley catish. Roger howled; Colby chased his tail; Herman rolled on his back, gazed dreamily at the ceiling and gurgled.

Two surly Bengal tigers, Prince and Duke, attempted tricks after taking a few whiffs of the catnip. Duke tried to stand on his head, right in the catnip.

Prince, leaning groggily in a corner, did setting up exercises. He took another sniff of the catnip and offered to shake Bean's hand. Bean declined.

Princess, a 100-pound Indian leopard and regarded as dangerous, appeared to be trying to giggle. He sniffed the herb, rolled on it, and then staggered around drunkenly with a spray of catnip draped over one ear.

Senator Thomas Concedes Defeat

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS
A generation of political successes ended today for Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma in his defeat in a bitter Democratic primary run-off.

Thomas, a veteran of 26 years in Congress (all but four in the Senate) and chairman of the powerful Agriculture Committee, conceded early today to Rep. Mike Monroney.

"There's not much else I can do," he told an Associated Press reporter in Washington.

National interest centered on the Oklahoma election with other primaries also being held in Louisiana, Arkansas and South Carolina.

Senator Russell B. Long, son of the late Huey P. won the Louisiana senatorial race. In Arkansas, Gov. Sid McMath, who generally supports the Truman administration, beat former Gov. Ben Laney, an anti-Trumanite in the contest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Monroney led Thomas in the first primary but did not get a majority of the votes cast for all candidates. Yesterday's runoff followed.

Senator Long in Louisiana won a six-year term hands down. He has served two years of an unexpired term.

Malcolm Lafargue of Shreveport last night gave up his fight for the Democratic nomination—in Louisiana the same thing as election—in the face of Long's better than two to one lead.

Sabotage Urged By Korean Reds

Tokyo, July 25—(AP)—The Korean Communist radio is urging Koreans in Japan to destroy American military bases—by suicide tactics if necessary.

A broadcast from Pyongyang, North Korean capital, last night also asked Koreans in Japan to obstruct the flow of American supplies from Japan to South Korea.

Local Guardsmen Not Yet Called

Contrary to a rumor currently in circulation, the local unit of the National Guard has not been called to active service.

Capt. J. B. Tyndall said this morning there have been no orders received from Washington or army headquarters concerning Greenville guardsmen.

River Falling

Not So Hot

Ideal weather prevailing the past several days tended toward slowing up ripening of tobacco in the fields of Pitt County, farmers in Greenville this morning said.

The highest temperature in the Greenville area yesterday was 91 degrees and the lowest last night was 76. The Weather Bureau thermometers registered 74 degrees at 8 a.m. today, Mrs. Carl E. Maiden, local observer for the U. S. Department of Commerce Weather Bureau, reported today.

At this time last year the temperature was hovering in the neighborhood of 100 degrees for several days, the records show.

Morse Lines Up With Democrats

Washington, July 25—(AP)—Senator Morse (R-Ore) lined up today with Senate Democrats who contend that Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) has failed so far to prove his Communist-in-government charges.

Breaking ranks with many of his GOP colleagues on the issue, Morse expressed his views to reporters after:

1. Senate developments brought out that the "Mr. X" of the State Department who McCarthy accused of being a Communist is Edward G. Posniak.

2. Posniak, a 39-year-old economist who was born in Moscow, flatly denied that he ever has been a Communist. He called McCarthy's accusations "vicious and libelous" and declared he is "completely loyal to the United States and completely opposed to Communism."

3. Rep. Velde (R-Ill) said he will urge the House Un-American Activities Committee to investigate the Posniak case, as McCarthy proposed. Velde, a member of the committee, added that he will ask that Posniak be summoned to testify.

Morse, often at odds with the majority of Senate Republicans, declined to say whether he feels that McCarthy's charges are "a fraud and a hoax"—the conclusion reached by the Democratic members of a Senate foreign relations subcommittee which investigated the charges.

Dowd Announces Summer School Closing July 28

Summer school at Greenville High School will officially come to a close on Friday, July 28, Principal O. E. Dowd announced today.

For the most part, summer school has been closed for a week, with the exception of the English classes for the 11th and 12th grades. Dowd said that all the other classes went for around six weeks while the English students are required to go seven to eight.

Total enrollment for summer school this year amounted to 26 students, who took a variety of courses. The purpose of summer school is to enable students who are behind in their work to catch up and for students who want to lighten their load for the coming year.

Dowd said. In addition to Greenville students this year, several out-of-town students came to Greenville to take the courses offered in the summer term.

New Encyclical Reminds World Of War's Cost

Vatican City, July 25—(AP)—Pope Pius XII issued an encyclical today reminding the world that war "brings nothing but ruin, death and all kinds of misery" and imploring peoples and their rulers to strive for peace.

The newest encyclical, entitled "With Greatest Sorrow," was described by Vatican sources as the Pontiff's most important pronouncement in many months. In it the Pope also appealed for social justice for the world's needy.

The Pope called attention to "darkening clouds that are hiding the sky," and reminded the world that "murderous inhuman weapons" have been developed which could destroy almost all the good that man's ingenuity has produced.

Wholesale Food Price Index Up

New York, July 25—(AP)—The Dun and Bradstreet wholesale food price index this week climbed to $6.49 eight cents above a week ago, and the highest level since early October of 1948.

The index has gained nearly 9 per cent since the Korean war began one month ago. It now is 13.3 per cent above the year ago level of $5.73.

Civilians Used To Shield Tanks

An Advanced U.S. Command Post in Korea, July 25—(AP)—A U. S. officer said today North Koreans herded several hundred Korean men, women and children before them in this morning's attack around Yong-dong.

The non-combatants were used as a shield for four tanks to cross a bridge, said Maj. William O. Wither- spoon, of South San Francisco.

The Americans withheld their fire and the tanks got up to positions for attack.

Sues Lawyer To Collect Damages

Sacramento, Calif., July 25—(AP) Quan Shuck Hong wanted to sue a taxicab company after he was injured, he said, by one of its cabs in 1948. The case never developed. So yesterday Quan sued his lawyer for $25,000.

Quan declared the lawyer's failure to file the suit within one year cost him the chance to recover damages—and he'd like to collect from his one time legal adviser.

Free Swim Lessons To End Friday If No New Requests Made

Free swimming lessons, which have been sponsored by the Greenville Recreation Commission and the American Red Cross during the month of July, will come to a close on Friday, July 28, unless there is a continued demand for the lessons.

Chairman Heber B. Tripp, of the Recreation Commission, said that anyone who wants to keep up the lessons should make the desire known at once in order that plans may be arranged.

Tripp pointed out that many children have learned to swim under the program and that there are many others who need to learn. Classes of between 50-75 boys and girls have daily, for the past weeks, taken the lessons at the city pool.

Police Warning To Dog Owners In Greenville

Checking the records at the City Hall today, an enquiring Daily Reflector reporter found out that only 77 licenses have been issued to owners of dogs in Greenville.

Conservative estimates place the canine population of Greenville and the suburbs at from 8,000 to 10,000 dogs.

A city ordinance makes it unlawful for the owners of dogs to allow the animals to run at large on the city's streets.

The law also provides that owners of male dogs shall pay $1 for a license and registration tag for males and $2 for females.

Incidentally, there is a state law which requires owners of dogs to have their dogs inoculated against hydrophobia or be arrested. Constable Gus Stokes has this department of health job. It is not known how many dogs he has inoculated against hydrophobia this year.

Police have been ordered to arrest owners of dogs who have not had them registered and bought license tags for the canines, Chief Herbert Wooten said today.
