Reds Appear Grouping For Major Offensive In Korea

Troops And Armor Mass By Night For Attempted Knockout Blow In Center Of American Defense Lines; Artillery, Planes Blast Concentrations

Tokyo, Friday, July 28—(AP)—North Korean troops and armor massed by night Thursday for an attempted knockout blow in the center of American defense lines.

General MacArthur's headquarters in a release early today said there was a lull along the whole front, but that enemy pressure continued in such a way as to indicate the Communists were regrouping and remassing for a new assault.

Headquarters said "aggressive patrols" in the southwest sector had pushed back a Korean Red column two miles to the vicinity of Hadong, 70 miles northwest of Pusan.

Two other holes were plugged on the approaches to Pusan—major American supply port. Other patrols moved into the highway town of Hamyang 78 miles northwest of Pusan and made contact with an enemy regiment in Namwon, about 12 miles southwest of Hamyang, headquarters said.

Identity of the patrols was not made known, but it was in this area yesterday that relatively small numbers of fresh American troops were reported in action.

The situation in the center of the line appeared menacing even though headquarters reported no major or decisive action took place in the preceding 24 hours.

From the front Associated Press correspondent William R. Moore reported three large Communist columns were concentrating east of Yangdong in front of the U. S. first cavalry.

A spokesman at General MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo said two of the Reds three best divisions—the second and third—are massed in that sector.

From a forward post with the first cavalry, Moore reported American artillery has come a thunderous bombardment of Communist concentrations.

The Air Force sent swarms of jets and Mustangs over the area spewing rockets into Red lines and pouring fire into the advancing troops.

Fifteen miles northeast of Yangdong at Maromyon, the 24th regimental combat team, the only Negro combat unit identified in the Korean campaign, beat off a Communist attack late yesterday.

The combat team, attached to the U. S. 25th division, is in the defense line that swings northeastward of Yangdong.

To the east in the 200 mile battlefront arc South Koreans attacked the Reds. At Hamchang they drove forward seven miles aided by American planes. On the east coast they advanced on Yongdon with land artillery and Naval guns supporting them.

Between the planes and South Koreans using bazookas, six enemy tanks were knocked out in the hot action, which may be the prelude to what appears to be the biggest battle of the Korean war.

Air Force Plans Expansion Move

Washington, July 27—(AP)—The Air Force is increasing its strength from 48 groups to 58 within 12 months and to 69 groups by January, 1953, Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.) announced today.

The Air Force is beginning immediately to step up officers and men to a target of 548,311.

This is an increase of 136,311 over its strength on June 30, said Vinson, the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

Three Different Ideas

President Truman, Senator Taft and Bernard Baruch Have Varied Ideas On What We Must Do In The Way Of Preparedness; How They Differ; Viewpoints

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 27—(AP)—Three men—President Truman, Senator Taft, and Bernard Baruch—have different ideas on what we must do in rearmament.

Mr. Truman has asked Congress for some—but not all—government controls. Senator Taft thinks Mr. Truman is going too far. Baruch doesn't think the President is going far enough.

Mr. Truman and Senator Taft are hoping things won't get worse—at least soon. Baruch wants to take chances on things getting better. He wants the country fully prepared and mobilized to meet the worst.

Time will show which is right. This country's fate may depend on the answer. No one here can predict it. That's because we can't call the shots. The Communists can. They can make things better or worse.

Mr. Truman has asked Congress to give the government power to do these things.

Raise taxes; control credit buying; make things buying things on time; whether they're homes or autos; and grant wide controls over business and industry.

For example: If it needed steel for tanks, the government could say just how much would be left for

Building Shattered By Force Of Wind

A powerful tornado roared through the Winterville section of Pitt county late yesterday afternoon, leveling two tobacco barns on the L. M. McLawhorn farm, destroying several outbuildings and damaging crops. The picture above shows the twisted wreckage of a tobacco barn which was destroyed in the storm. The barn was full of tobacco at the time. Most of the tobacco, which was thrown over a wide area, was salvaged by a work force of more than fifty workers who labored through midnight last night in order to house the tobacco. The barn in the background was not damaged except for a small section of the tin roof being ripped up. (See other pictures on page nine).

Confident, But Setback Ahead

MacArthur Again In Korea; Certain Of Final Victory

A U. S. Air Strip In Korea, July 27—(AP)—General MacArthur today made his second surprise visit to the Korean warfront and expressed complete confidence "in ultimate victory."

After conferring with his top commanders at Eighth Army headquarters, the general warned, "We will have new heartaches and new setbacks."

"But," he added, "I was never more confident of victory—ultimate victory—in my life than I am now."

The United Nations commander returned to Tokyo tonight.

MacArthur's flight from Tokyo to Korea was completely unheralded. He was accompanied only by a small, select group of his chief advisers. There was no advance word to the press as on his previous flight to the front on June 29.

The secrecy vanished from today's trip when he stepped from his plane. He was wearing his familiar cap and suntan uniform. His corn cob pipe was between his teeth. He was quickly recognized.

He conferred with his highest ranking officers on the scene of the Eighth Army conducting the ground campaign, and of the advanced headquarters of the Far East Air Forces recently moved to Korea from Southern Japan.

Industry to turn out passenger cars. The President stopped there. He didn't ask for controls over prices and wages or for power to ration foods and food. He said: though he'd ask for them if he thought it necessary. He doesn't think they're needed now.

The President's feelings may be summed up in the following statement he made to Congress yesterday:

"The world responsibilities of the United States . . . will become still heavier before the united efforts of the free nations of the world produce a lasting peace."

Taft said that so far as we can see our present situation may "exist for 10 years" and we may as well get adjusted to that idea, but he added: "I am not at all confident that the Russians contemplate an all-out military attack at any time, or that there is any certainty of a third world war."

Although he agrees with the President on the need to raise taxes, Taft goes only part of the way in thinking Mr. Truman ought to have all the control over credit he asked for.

'Billy The Goat' Ranged Far And Wide Over City

Baffled Police And Hordes Of Small Boys For Two Days; Finally Caught

By CHESTER WALSH

Billy the Goat, elusive mountain ruminant, flashed his tawny hide over the streets of Greenville and through gardens and college campus for two days and nights and foraging in the meantime in flower beds and vegetable gardens and from overturned garbage cans.

Billy the Goat's prancing attacks on children caused "youngsters to keep close to cover all of Tuesday and Wednesday." Public anxiety ended Wednesday afternoon when it was reported that a small boy in the northern College View section had captured Billy the Goat and returned him to his owner. The names of the "goat cowboy" and the animal's owner were not available today, but the police were relieved to know the goat was not running at large.

Complaints about the prowling billygoat flooded police headquarters all day Tuesday and that night. Policemen in patrol cars tried unsuccessfully to get Billy the Goat into the "last roundup" by various methods. Authorities now are trying to ascertain the identity of the goat's owner and the boy who captured him.

A complaining citizen phoned from College View that the goat was on the rampage. In a few minutes a resident of East 14th street reported the goat in his garden. Then another call from a florist near Third and Summit streets complained that the goat was eating his flowers. When the police car arrived there, it received a radio message from police headquarters that Billy the Goat was in Hillsdale, three miles westward and damaging flowers.

A tribe of a dozen or more small children stampeding through a Woodlawn Avenue resident's garden didn't stop to answer the man of the house. On the fly, some of them chirped in response to his question, "Where's the matter?" ran faster and yelled, "It's the goat—Billy the Goat," and they disappeared around a corner toward Tar River. And, then came along Billy

Storm Disrupted Electric Service

Wind and electrical storms which were spotted over most of Pitt County yesterday afternoon and last night caused a number of interruptions to the power service in various communities, but none were serious.

Larry Brown, business manager of the Greenville utilities, said there were no "major interruptions" although there were a number of line fuses and transformer fuses which were out for short periods as a result of the storms. The power was out in the Falkland community yesterday afternoon for a short time, and again early this morning the power on the Falkland line was interrupted.

A portion of the line which serves the Winterville section was out yesterday afternoon after a burning tobacco barn caused a power line to burn in two.

"There is a relatively small amount of line out at any given time," Brown stated, "and all the aileries were caused by the weather and burning tobacco barns."

Kilpatrick Named To N. C. Hospitals Control Board

Representative Frank M. Kilpatrick of Ayden has been appointed a member of the state hospitals board of control by Governor Kerr Scott.

Governor Scott appointed two new members to the board and reappointed two members of the board. The other new member of the board in addition to Kilpatrick was Mrs. E. H. Lassiter, an Erwin housewife. He reappointed to the board W. G. Clark Sr. of Tarboro and Thomas O'Reilly of Goldsboro.

Representative Kilpatrick was elected to the General Assembly from Pitt County in 1948 and was re-nominated on the Democratic ticket for the seat in the House in the May primary.

For the board's advisory committee, Scott appointed Dr. M. L. Stone of Rocky Mount to fill a vacancy created by the death of Dr. A. W. Deans of Battleboro.

Clark, long-time state senator, has been active in mental hospital work for 23 years. O'Reilly, also a former state senator, was first appointed to the board by Governor Cherry.

Mrs. Lassiter will fill the unexpired term of J. L. Dawkins of Fayetteville who resigned last November and Kilpatrick will replace T. C. Byrum of Edenton.

Newly-Hired Policeman Quits Job Within Hour

Two new men were sworn in as Greenville police officers this week. One quit the job before he worked an hour. The other is going through his 30-day probation trial of police duty.

Acting Police Chief Herbert E. Woolf said their names are Charles R. Leggett, 21, of 302 Summit street, and W. M. Carr, 40, of 413 East Second street.

Leggett was hired to ride the police motorcycle, succeeding Herbert E. Woolf as traffic officer. Carr was hired as a regular patrolman to succeed Lester D. Page, former chief of police.

Leggett gave up his desire to be a policeman when he made his first effort to ride a motorcycle

Neighbors Help Salvage Scattered Leaf

A helping hand was given L. M. McLawhorn last night by his neighbors who arrived at his farm to help him save two barns of tobacco which were destroyed by a tornado around 5:30 yesterday afternoon. Above, workers are shown salvaging some of the tobacco from the two barns which was spilled on the ground by the storm and damaged by the heavy rain which accompanied the storm. Farm In Winterville Section Hit By Destructive Tornado

By ROY HARDEE

A brief but destructive tornado swept into the Winterville section of Pitt county late yesterday afternoon, destroying a considerable amount of farm property and damaging crops on several farms.

The storm which was preceded by two heavy rain storms swept over the farm of L. M. McLawhorn about 5:30, coming out from the southwest, leaving in its wake the twisted wreckage of two large tobacco barns which were curing leaf at the time of the storm.

The storm first struck behind the McLawhorn house located some distance from the barns, demolishing a wash house and other small buildings, uprooting trees. The house is across the road from the tobacco barns.

An eye-witness to the storm said that it struck the back yard wash house of the McLawhorn farm, ripped down the power lines and struck a chicken house. A large piece of lumber from the chicken house was shoved into the side of the house, protruding on the inside.

The storm then turned and cut a path about 75 yards wide and several hundred yards in length. Five tobacco barns were clustered together in the general area of the storm but only two were hit to any extent.

W. J. McLawhorn, who was working in a tobacco barn about 30 yards away from the two barns which were hit, described the storm and its approach in this manner: "It came out of the southwest, was spiral, looked to me like about 100 feet high. It hit the house, barns, then went out into the field, stopped and started to turn back but faded out about a mile away without doing any more damage. I think that it was about 20 or 30 feet wide, it hit one barn and then another. Sticks, tobacco truck bottoms and stuff from the barns were all up in the air when the storm struck the buildings."

C. H. Branch, who was about 200 yards from the path of the storm was driving his car down the road toward the barns, looking at the storm, when it hit.

"I saw the barns go up in the air and cut the electric wires. I stopped my car and got ready to get in a ditch if it came my way." The storm was going up and down, back and forth all the time, he said.

The tobacco barns were filled with tobacco estimated at about 1200 sticks of second pullings, part of which had been put in on Tuesday and the remainder had just been put in. The last sticks of tobacco had just been placed in one barn and the workers moved to another barn across the road when the storm broke.

The McLawhorn farm is located on a dirt road, parallel with the Ayden highway, a short distance from Winterville.

When the storm had quieted down, tobacco and wreckage were scattered all over. Most of the witnesses to the storm agreed that it lasted for not more than five minutes, if that long.

One of the barns destroyed was splintered and blown through a corn field for about 75 yards, cutting the young corn down like kindling wood. The tall green corn, which only a few seconds previously was standing seven feet or so tall was found lying flat on the ground. Wreckage from the barns, including flues and burners, were found. About one-half acre of corn was totally destroyed, while other was damaged by the force of the wind.

Outside of the streak cut by the storm there was little evidence of the terrific force which struck here yesterday. A tree limb here and there is the only indication that a storm was in the region recently.

"I had wind and storm insurance on the tobacco barns but not the tobacco," McLawhorn stated today. "When asked by a Daily Reflector reporter to give his account of the accident, he said, 'I heard it. It sounded like an airplane coming, and when I looked up I saw a blue, smoky-looking funnel-shaped mist moving towards us. I was at a house some 25 yards away from the storm, on its right,' he said."

In addition to the two barns and other farm dwellings destroyed by wind in the storm, three other barns in the section burned down before and during the storm. The barns belonged to Jack Jones, Cleveland Worthington and Buster Fletcher, all of the farms in about a three mile radius.

Hail, Wind Lash Crops In Pitt Area

Brief Storm Cuts Mile-Wide Swath In Cox's Mill Section Of County

A brief hail storm accompanied by heavy rains and high winds late yesterday afternoon cut a swath approximately one mile wide through the Cox's Mill section of Pitt County doing considerable damage to tobacco and other crops.

The hail storm hit the Cox's Mill section about the same time, or perhaps shortly after a small tornado struck in the Winterville section some five and one-half miles west of Cox's Mill.

In some tobacco fields of the section leaves which had been ripped from the stalks by the hail, rain and winds almost covered the ground, while others hung limply to the battered stalks. Several farmers in the narrow strip which was hardest hit by the storm said it was the worst they ever remember in the section.

J. J. Carroll reported approximately 10 to 12 acres of tobacco on his farm were almost completely battered to the ground. None of the leaves had been harvested from about half the crop, and only one-third of the leaves had been harvested from the remainder of the portion on his farm which was not hit. Stalks of tobacco which stood higher than a man's head before the storm yesterday afternoon, he said, this morning were practically lying on the ground.

Although there was slight damage to the crops on the edges of the storm, the heavy damage seemed to be concentrated in the center of the area over which the brief storm passed. Reports from the area said among the hardest hit of the farms were those of Miss Annie Carroll, J. J. Tyson, Bruce Tyson, H. M. Page, R. E. Adams, Allen Jones, S. Brown, J. L. Edwards, Charlie McCoy, Newton Tyndall, Jim Haddock, and W. B. Shoo.

Miss Annie Carroll said the storm was the worst I have ever seen. She said most of the hail stones fell in just a few minutes, although the rain lasted for about 25 minutes. She said the majority of the hail were about the size of the end of a man's thumb, although some people in the section reported some hail stones the size of golf balls.

No overall estimate of the damage to the tobacco crop in the section is yet available. Local insurance men, however, termed the damage "heavy." Most of the insurance agents who had visited the area struck by the storm agreed it was the worst hail damage Pitt County has suffered in the past two years.

This morning in many of the heavily damaged fields workers were picking up the leaves which were ripped from the stalks in an effort to salvage what tobacco they could in the wake of the storm. In some places water which stood in the fields already had ruined the leaves.

Crack Divisions Said Preparing For Red Attack

Tokyo, July 27—(AP)—The crack Second and Third North Korean Divisions were reported today massing for a big push against the center of the American line in Korea.

A headquarters intelligence officer said these and the badly mauled Communist First Division have borne the brunt of the Communist offensive.

"They are well trained, proficient in the use of their weapons and capable of extremely difficult maneuvers," the officer said.

Like the First Division, the Second and Third have suffered heavy losses, he added, but are still capable of pressing an offensive.

Tag Sales Ahead Of Last Year

Automobile license tag sales for Greenville are far ahead of the sales last year, according to a brief report by City Clerk J. O. Duval.

So far this year there have been 2,818 city tags sold in Greenville compared with the total of 2,820 which was sold during the twelve months of 1949. Duval said he ordered for the city 3,000 of the 1950 license tags, and added that he expects the city will sell all of them before the end of the year.

Mr. Truman said he had no comment to make on peace prospects now, that we had better wait for a few more developments.

In response to another question Mr. Truman said he sees no possibility that he will get out of Washington at any time in the near future. He said he is staying on the job and doing everything he can.

Defenders Of Rapist Attacked

Jackson, Miss., July 27—(AP)—Northern defenders of a convicted Negro rapist who was to have died today in the electric chair charged they were set upon and manhandled by mobs here.

Mississippi officials countered with the assertion that Communists provoked the incidents for propaganda and were seeking to affront the South.

Injured Boy Is Holding His Own

Jerry Arnold, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Arnold, 900 West Third Street, who was seriously injured yesterday when he ran out in front of a car driven by Mrs. Frank Strawn, 114 Vance Street, yesterday, was resting comfortably at Pitt General Hospital today.

A police report stated that the boy received head and other injuries. No arrest was made.

America's huge rearmament program, involving as it does such great sacrifice by all her citizens, naturally has made a lot of folk speculate whether the U.S.A., after all, is carrying more than its fair weight of the burden for international defense against communism.

That thought hasn't been inspired by selfishness. It's due to the belief that this defense is a partnership affair in which each democracy, big or little, must do its proportionate share. We stand or fall together.

Of course America doesn't wish to evade the leadership which her strength and resources impose upon her. Furthermore, she expects to contribute in material things in proportion to her means. She recognizes, too, that many nations still are struggling to recover from the ravages of the last war.

However, the early reaction of some of the democratic bloc to the assault on South Korea was, to say the least, very cautious and non-committal. There was a hesitancy to stand up and be counted, even after the United Nations, under the aegis of the United Nations, rushed to the rescue and hung her own youth into the conflict.

Combat-Ready Troops Are Badly Needed In Crucial Korea Fight

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Military Reporter

Washington, July 27—(AP)—Announcement that Britain is sending, and other United Nations countries may send, ground troops to Korea comes in one of the darkest hours of American military history.

What American military men want now are more combat-ready troops—quickly, urgently. How quickly? There are no firm estimates now, but the next two or three weeks can be highly critical.

United States Army troops fighting the Red invaders of the Republic of Korea do not yet have their backs to the wall—but the room is getting alarmingly smaller. In the strategy of trading space for time, they are running low on both commodities.

The British government's announcement that it is sending to Korea a regular army combat group including artillery and armor, reached Washington at a time when Pentagon officials were growing increasingly concerned about help from United Nations members.

Reinforcements from the United States are on the way—2nd Army Division troops. First Marine Division fighters—but some Pentagon officials make it plain this can't be enough.

More fighting manpower is needed not only to bolster the battered American Army troops and help them hold the diminishing perimeter, but to allow soldiers exhausted by weeks of unrelieved combat to rest.

Pentagon leaders prefer that any troop units contributed to the United Nations campaign in Korea be in organizations of not less than 1,000 men, trained, equipped and supplied for initial fighting. Later, the Far East Command of the United States can provide the supplies, but it is desired that when ground forces land in the war zone they be ready to go into action quickly with their own equipment and field supplies.

The London announcement did not specify the size of the combat group to be sent, but it apparently would be substantially more than the 1,000-man minimum. London news dispatches speculated that it might range from a battalion to a brigade, from 1,000 to 5,000 men.

There was other help in the offing. Including the announcements of two British commonwealth countries, Australia and New Zealand, that they will send land forces. Turkey already has offered 4,500 trained combat troops.

It is the combat-wise veteran units that could be of special value in Korea if they could be landed there soon.

The Pentagon looked sadly on the departure from the eastern hemisphere of Holland's colonial army. Units of the Royal Netherlands Indies Army were getting ready yesterday to pull out of Indonesia, headed for home.

These soldiers have fought for years, are highly skilled at in-fighting through rugged, mountainous terrain like Korea. But Lt. Gen. Burman van Vreden, commander of the Dutch forces in Indonesia, said division of his troops to Korea was "out of the question." His soldiers want to go home after years of service abroad, he explained.

GOP Dissension Comes To Light

Washington, July 27—(AP)—Internal dissension within the Republican National committee came to light today with the resignation of Arthur Summerfield of Michigan as chairman of the party's strategy committee.

In a letter to National committee members and other party officials, Summerfield charged that National chairman Guy G. Gabrielson planned to let the strategy group "die on the vine."

Gabrielson told a reporter the party's executive committee had "urged me to dissolve the strategy committee" in view of regional party conferences being held at various cities.

The strategy committee was formed during the regime of Gabrielson's predecessor, Rep. Hugh D. Scott, Jr., with the aim of taking over active direction of the drive to elect a GOP Congress in November.

Its members include Representatives of the National committee, Governors, state chairmen, finance chairmen and Senator Brewster of Maine and Rep. Leonard Hall of New York, heads of the senate and House campaign committees.

Summerfield said in his letter that despite the fact that neither Scott nor Gabrielson had given the group any funds it had worked out "a very well conceived and constructive program" for the campaign.

But Summerfield said that Gabrielson first wanted to abolish the committee altogether and then decided to let it die on the vine.

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, over-activity, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up at night or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 80 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 16 miles of kidney tubes and flush such out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Virulent Form Of Polio Ravages West Virginia County; Continues Unchecked

Wytheville, Va., July 27—(AP)—A virulent outbreak of polio, which has killed almost 15 per cent of those who contracted the disease, continued unchecked today in this southwest Virginia town of 5,500 persons. The normal death rate is about four per cent.

Wytheville itself has had 59 cases. Wythe County as a whole, (pop. 23,000 including Wytheville), has had 75 cases, with 11 deaths—an average of almost three cases per day since the epidemic began July 1.

State Health Commissioner L. J. Roper termed the town and adjoining Wythe County an area of "tension."

Four new cases and two more deaths were reported yesterday from the polio-ravaged county, hardest hit spot in the nation this year and scene of the worst outbreak in Virginia's history.

The 15 per cent death rate brought the most alarm to Dr. Roper, who noted that the normal polio rate is about four per cent. He said it is too early to say how much paralysis may result.

Dr. Roper and other officials of the State Health Department have conferred with Wythe County health officials, who have ruled out a quarantine as having little effect on the spread of the disease.

Basil O'Connor and Dr. Hart E. Van Riter, president and medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, now in Richmond, will discuss the situation with state health officials. They planned to leave here tonight after the conferences.

In addition to the use of all known methods to combat the epidemic, tests are being made by Dr. Alexander Steigman, consultant of the national foundation.

But activities are at a standstill, despite the lack of a quarantine. Children are being kept at home by frightened parents, and all branches of the armed forces have refused to accept enlistees or draftees from the area until the outbreak dies down.

Wytheville itself has had 59 cases. Wythe County as a whole, (pop. 23,000 including Wytheville), has had 75 cases, with 11 deaths—an average of almost three cases per day since the epidemic began July 1.

Flying Saucer Model Contest

Philadelphia, July 27—(AP)—Remember way back when the kids used to make model airplanes—plain, old-fashioned airplanes?

Officials at the Lawton Public School playground today scheduled a model building contest—models of flying saucers.

First prize was to go to the boy or girl who exhibited the most plausible and best constructed interpretation of the mysterious aerial craft.

907 Enrolled

The period for enrollment ended this week at East Carolina Teachers College with a final student body of 907 for this term, according to an announcement by Dr. J. K. Long, registrar. Of this number, four hundred and fifteen are men and four hundred and thirty-six are women.

According to the figures for last year, the enrollment for this term exceeds the enrollment then by 232 students. The ratio of men and women students at that time was three hundred and sixty-four men to three hundred and eleven women, with the total being 675.

During this term of summer school, two extension classes are being taught, one each in Elizabeth City and in Wilmington, with a total enrollment for the two classes of fifty-seven.

Merry-Go-Round Ride For Group Sheriff Wanted

St. Joseph, Mo., July 27—(AP)—Four young persons, out for a lark were given a real ride on a Merry-go-round by the law before they were picked up for questioning about worthless checks and a stolen pig.

Louis Jacobs, evidence officer for the prosecutor, found the four he was seeking riding the merry-go-round at a park. He was afraid if he tried to arrest all four by himself some of them might get away. He told Wayne McGlocklin, the operator to speed up the merry-go-round and keep it going until he was ordered to stop.

Then Jacobs sent for deputy sheriffs. They had to come five miles. Meantime the four, the only ones on the contraption, got their moneys worth on the merry-go-round.

Strength for the Day

THEY CUT OFF THE LIGHT

A carpenter put in his appearance at our house some months ago and began to put up the screens. I happened to be sitting at my desk when the three screens were put up on the windows of that room, and I was amazed to notice a perceptible darkening of the room. It takes an experience such as that to awaken one to the realization that the thousands of little strands of wire over the window eliminate a very measurable amount of light from a room.

Being a preacher, I was impressed by a practical teaching which grew out of this circumstance and could not refrain from moralizing a bit about it. There are a million little things in the lives of everyone of us which are shutting out light from our minds and souls. We have all allowed little habits of laziness, idleness, and irritability to create situations in our lives which shut out the light. There are many people who have fallen into the habit of taking little short-cuts—white lies, shrewd practices, dissimulation of all kinds, and these invariably shut out the light. Like the slender wires, woven into a screen, these little things at last overcast the soul and shut out the light.

Permits Are A "Must" For Tobacco Curers

In past years Pitt county has been furnishing a large number of tobacco curers to the leaf growers in Canada to aid with curing the crop. This year it is necessary for the curers to secure border permits before crossing the Canadian border.

This regulation is not something which has been made up by local or even state officials. The regulations are set down by the Canadian Department of Labor. Every curer who goes to Canada must have a permit from his local employment office to cross the border. Too, he must have a letter from the Canadian Department of Labor saying he is authorized to secure a permit to go to Canada to help cure the tobacco.

The Pitt county curers who intend to cross the international boundary to cure tobacco should get their crossing permits before they leave home. It will be the only assurance they will have that they will be permitted to enter Canada. Otherwise the trip to the border may be in vain.

Is Silence Golden; Or Is It Rotten?

It has been three weeks since six members of the board of aldermen pooled their votes to override the mayor's veto and oust Chief of Police L. D. Page.

During those three weeks the people of Greenville have been waiting for some explanation from the "six little men" as to why they chose to kick out Page who had been the efficient head of the local police department for more than two years.

The six aldermen mentioned "factions" in the department as an unofficial excuse for dismissing Page. Yet they appointed as acting chief the leader of the so called "other faction." They overlooked the fact that when Chief Page was first appointed to his job in May 1948, the appointment was made by the board of aldermen after they received a petition signed by every member of the Greenville police department requesting that Page be appointed to the vacated position.

The six aldermen have not yet officially given the people any reason or excuse for ousting Page. They went to the trouble to have an attorney draw up affidavits which supposedly would give ample reasons for Page's dismissal.

Well, apparently the "six little men" decided it would not be a good idea to submit to the public the so-called "reasons" for Page's dismissal, because the people might see they were ill founded. It is more than likely too that the people might then know for certain that the six aldermen had ousted Page for their own personal or political reasons and perhaps the personal or political reasons of individuals who may hold sway over their official actions as aldermen.

At any rate, it has been evident that the six aldermen have not found it to their advantage to tell the people the whole truth about the chief of police matter. Apparently they have elected to keep quiet and hope the people will soon forget this whole outrage which has been perpetrated upon the people of Greenville by men who are supposed to act in the interest of all the people of the city.

As The Reflector has said before, we believe the people of Greenville are entitled to know what goes on in the city government. Apparently the six aldermen think the city belongs to them to do with as they please and the rest of the people be damned. It is a deplorable state to which the city government of Greenville has sunk.

The six aldermen probably know the good people of Greenville wouldn't stand for the muck and mire they have brought into the city government if the whole truth were known. At any rate the six aldermen don't seem inclined to give the whole truth a try. We believe Aldermen Waldrop, Collins, Rogers, Elks, Mayo and Jenkins are hoping, that by keeping silent, the people will forget the unethical action they have brought against Page and the city as a whole.

Silence in some cases may be golden; but in this case it has been polluted, just as our city government has, by six little men. We hope the people of Greenville will not accept the six aldermen's silence as a substitute for the reasons for their actions.

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, July 27—Despite the encircling gloom in Korea and dark but spotty patches in the domestic skies, the American people may take consolation from the fact that they were never more fit and fat to face or fight a war than in all our history. Nor is it the fatness that comes from soft living or thinking, Joe Stalin to the contrary.

Another global conflict may bust us, financially. It may alter our form of government in the direction of permanent, central controls. It may force us into a mild sort of economic fascism as our only means of survival.

Indeed, American living standards may be revolutionized upward or downward, for better or for worse. A comfortable way of life that has undergone so many vicissitudes and changes since the 20th century began may be passing into an almost unrecognizable stage.

Nobody knows, and anybody who would prophesy would be a fool. However, all wars have left a lasting imprint on the pattern of our society, and yesterday's battles will seem as child's play or old men's dreams by comparison with a struggle against world-wide Communism in which the United States must fight almost alone.

RESERVES—Forgetting the future, recent surveys of our factories, our pantries and granaries, our clothes closets and our homes—in fact, of all the recesses and corners where a nation's material power is hidden—reveal that the United States has unmatched reserves to expend in a struggle for life, liberty and the pursuit of individual happiness.

We out-produce by far every other nation, or any group of nations combined, in all the essentials for making war, even though their full utilization may require civilian sacrifices.

We lead the world, for instance, in the output of steel, autos and trucks, gasoline and tires, coal and other kinds of energy, textiles, electronics. We outgrow or can out-import them in all the foods, oils, fats, chemicals and textiles required to fortify the home front.

We have a corner on the world's gold. Most important of all, we have a skilled, resourceful and freedom-loving people—farmers, workers, managers—who have fought best when they had lost the ball to the other side on the one-yard-line.

SUPPLIED—This analysis of the immediate ability of the civilian population to withstand the initial impacts of a war's requirements is substantiated by surveys conducted by several governmental departments, but particularly, the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics of Agriculture.

Although they were conducted under the Research and Marketing Act in order to aid business and industry, the findings have become invaluable since the Korean outbreak and the partial mobilization of military and economic defenses ordered by President Truman. They show where we stand with respect to food, clothing, home supplies.

Generally, we are in excellent shape. Despite some extravaganzas, high war-time and postwar wages have enabled millions to reduce their mortgages, repair their homes, purchase a car new or second-hand, renovate or get needed furniture, restock in wearing apparel, invest in television and radio sets.

In short, a larger number than ever before are supplied with the essentials for decent existence, the scale depending, of course, on their incomes.

CLOTHING—This bureau recently made its first survey of the average person's supply of clothing. Although it applies to only three cities—Minneapolis, St. Paul and Birmingham, Ala., and scattered rural areas—it may be considered as fairly representative.

The conscientious experts in charge do not guarantee its applicability to every individual or region. But it does measure generally an average family's inventory of clothes.

According to this study, the average man has three coats, five pairs of trousers, four hats, fourteen shirts of one kind or another, three jackets, three pairs of shoes. He also has a workable supply of underwear, socks, ties, gloves and handkerchiefs.

His wife's wardrobe consists of three coats, three suits, four hats, five house dresses, six other dresses, six pairs of shoes, nine pairs of stockings, plenty of underwear and accessories. Children are similarly supplied.

COMFORTABLE—The Bureau's canvassers do not believe that every family has this total of dress or working garments. They do not say that all the apparel is in A-1 condition. None of those questioned would qualify among the ten best-dressed. But the conclusion seems to be that we have sufficient covering to keep us warm, respectable and comfortable.

Another factor which the Mother Grundies frequently decried now turns out to be an asset. World War II necessities changed our ideas about clothes. We now go in for informality and simplicity, meaning saving of money, smaller laundry bills and longer wear.

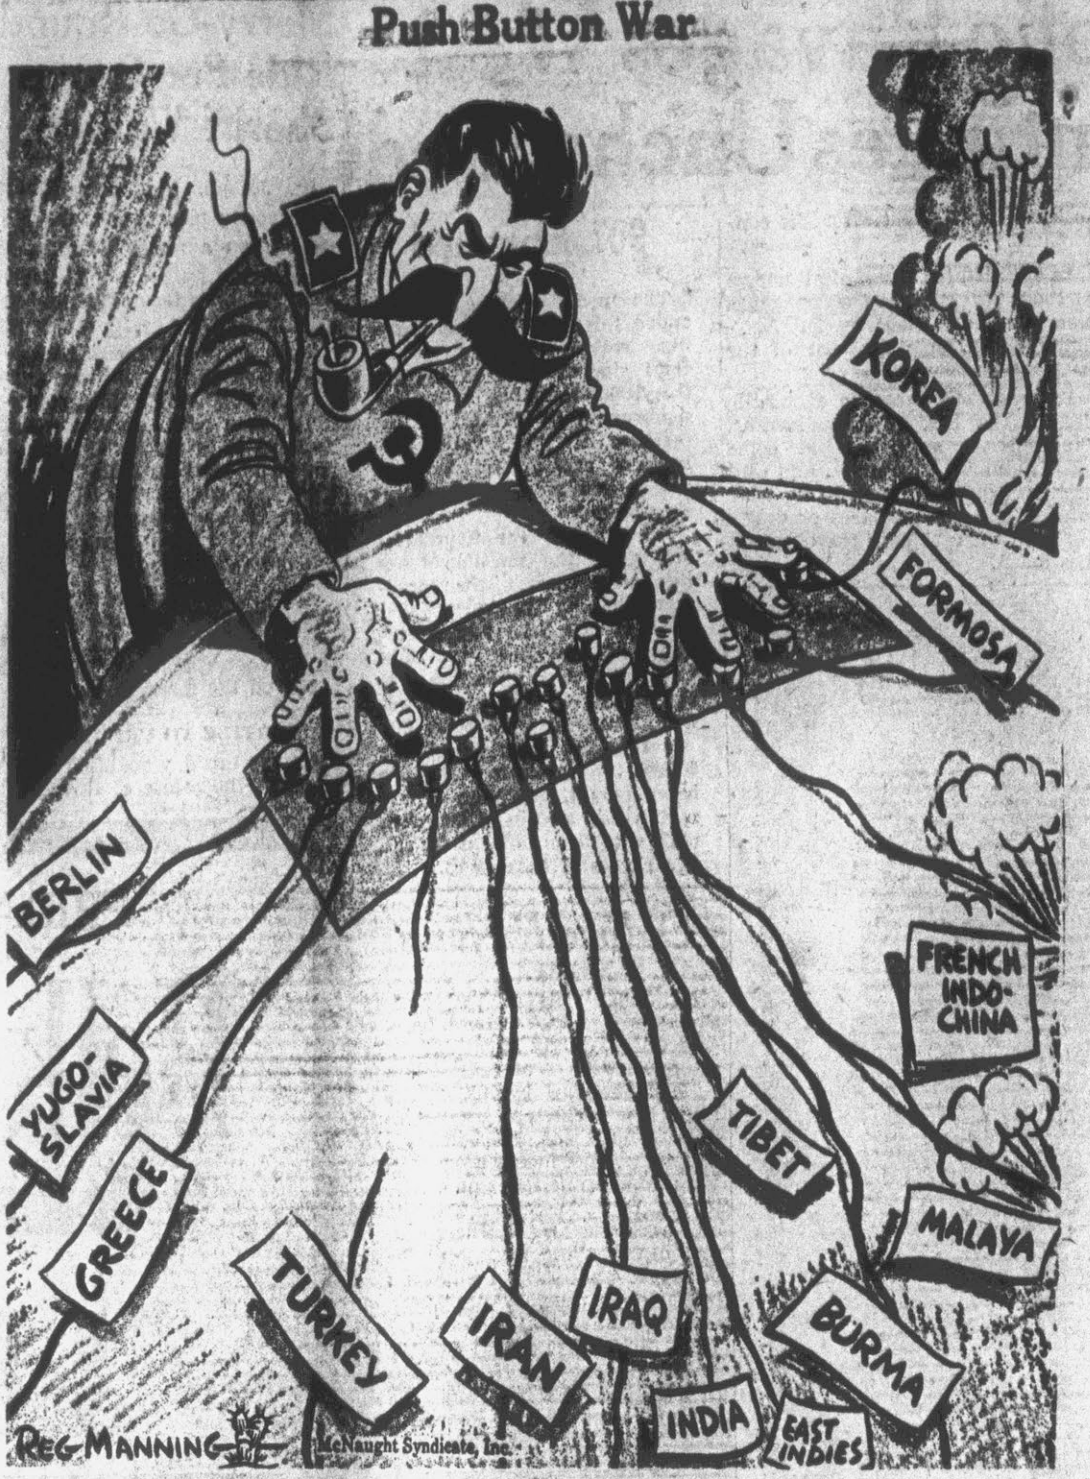

"NATIVE"—Father goes to work in slacks and a sport shirt. Mother traipses around the house and yard in slacks, shorts or inexpensive house dresses. The kids wear as little as possible. Thus, in a pinch, our need for textiles the armed forces require can be reduced.

The American people can "go more native" than they have since wars and taxes demonstrated the fallacy of "keeping up with the Joneses." In view of prospective individual and corporate tax boosts, it is probable that there won't be any "Joneses" in the next war.

I had hoped to discuss the domestic food situation in this column, but there is less newspaper space than there are clothes or food. The pantry situation will be discussed in a subsequent article.

Selected Shorts

ENID, OKLA., DAILY EAGLE—"It is remarkable how politicians can delude themselves into thinking that the way to help any interest... and, also, to get votes... is to offer that group or interest a subsidy out of the Federal treasury. This when the facts are that about all most groups want from government is to be let alone to work out their own problems and to prosper or profit according to their abilities. This with government acting in its proper roll, of course, of umpire to keep the rules."

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Today's column is about one of the behind-the-scenes men of the Reflector staff, Don Schlenk. Though you readers seldom see his name in print, Don holds a key position on the staff, that of news editor. He came to Greenville because his parents were living here when he was discharged from the Army in September, 1945. His father was with the Internal Revenue department, and was stationed here at that time. Later, Don's father was transferred, but he stayed on with the Reflector.

It is necessary to know Don's military experience in order to get the significance of this column. During the war he was in the Army Medical Corps, attached to the Transportation Corps. To complicate matters further, he spent his tour of duty at sea. Don was stationed on a ship that transported troops. On return trips to the States, the transport sometimes resembled a floating hospital.

The scene now changes from that floating hospital to the Reflector newsroom. In 1947, two years after Don's discharge from the Army, the Naval Reserve conducted a "Join-the-NAVY" campaign. Don sometimes writes editorial for the Reflector, so a recruiter contacted him about the campaign. That recruiter must have been a salesman, because before he left Don's desk he had sold him on the idea of writing a blaring editorial urging all Reflector readers eligible to join the Naval Reserve. In fact, the more Don wrote the more he became sold on the idea of joining. By the time he had finished, Don had sold himself and went straight to the recruiter and signed on the dotted line. Though modest, Don says, "It must have been a good editorial."

You read that correctly; Don signed up with the Naval Reserve despite the fact that he served in the Army during W.W. II. The recruiter sold him on the idea that he would make a good Navy man because he had served on a ship during the war.

Now the scene brings us up to date. Don is in the same newsroom, last week, writing a letter to Uncle Sam. The letter could be translated something like this: "Dear Uncle: Granted, I'm in the Naval Reserve, but when you call me up please don't overlook the fact that I was in the Army Medical Corps during World War II. In view of my experience during the war, I think my services would be more valuable in the Army."

It seems to me that the recruiter who sold Don on the Navy, and Don would make great business mates. The recruiter could do the lip work, and Don could put it in writing. Together, they should be able to sell the Brooklyn Bridge.

And I thank you.

CASWELL—Caswell Training School was placed under supervision of the state hospital board of control, although it does not properly belong there. Feeble mindedness is considered a welfare rather than a mental hospital problem. The inmates here are not mentally sick or "crazy." They were born with subnormal mentality, and require training rather than treatment. Many of them respond to training, although majority of those who are admitted leave the institution only to go to the cemetery. The school was established in 1911. It has a rated capacity of 826 with present enrollment of 863. Plans underway, for most of which money has been appropriated, call for doubling this capacity. The increase here, together with the colony of some 300 at Butler, will, according to officials reduce but not catch up with the requests for admission.

DISCREPANCY—The budget books capital account carries this institution at 500 acres valued at $117,548. The institution's own statement lists 1132 acres, 800 of which is in cultivation. The past two legislatures allotted over half a million for permanent improvements, about three-fourths of which is under contract, in course of construction or completed. Most striking improvement has been in the power plant, the kitchen and in the housing of idlers.

PATIENTS—The institution has a current population of 2,799 patients and 284 employees. This represents almost exactly the percentage ratio to aggregate population of all state mental hospitals and schools as exists between white and colored races in the state. Facilities here are as good as will be found anywhere. Some of the buildings are old, but useable; others are in very poor condition, and still others have been torn down or slated for demolition to make way for new construction under the three and a half million dollars permanent improvement program. A new water system and purchase of a modern fire truck add to safety and security of inmates. Chief difference in administrative policy here and other institutions is that all types of mental cases—congenitally feeble-minded, epileptics, mentally diseased and criminal insane—all of ages are centered here. The hospital is re-novating requests made several times before for a training school for feeble-minded Negro children in order to get them out of the adult wards. Estimated cost of the school and equipment is approximately two million dollars. The budget folks admitted need for such addition, but doubted ability to provide it this year. Numerous other buildings slated for replacement, it is believed might be repaired. Here as at all other institutions visited, there is positive proof that a "stitch in time saves nine." Needed minor repairs neglected a few years ago have major renovation jobs.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

A FEW QUESTIONS
(Wilson Daily Times)

Now that we're on the verge of war, this nation has a right to ask many questions.

Who in the War and State departments went to sleep on the Korean situation? What was wrong with our intelligence service that we didn't know that the Communists in the North were mobilizing?

What was wrong with the United Nations that it didn't know? And if Russia can initiate sneak attacks in Korea, can she not in other areas?

Why, since the Southern Korean invasion, must we carry the brunt of the defense? Do not the other members of the United Nations feel as we do and have they not as much at stake?

Will we continue to carry the load until Russia is beaten down? And after we've beaten Russia, assuming that a major war grows out of the present minor one, have we learned how to fight politically? Or will we do as we've done in the past, come home when the shooting stops?

The world as we all know is made up of myriads of people. Not all are as well off as we. One Russia is subdued, is it our duty to see that their standards are on the plane with ours? For it's America the rest of the world is after. If we must carry all the burden, as it looks as if we might, we can be ruined in the same way that Britain was ruined in the last war.

ROOM FOR ALL
(The New Bern Sun-Journal)

In a recent talk, says the Industrial News Review, the secretary of the Retail Merchants Association of Detroit urged the elimination of prejudices between large and small, chain and independent, downtown and outlying stores, in the mutual interest of all. He also recommended the stimulation of an area's business volume through cooperation promotion by the stores which serve it.

The interests of all merchants are the same—to hold and expand their trade, to do the largest possible volume of business, to make a reasonable profit, to help the community which supports them go ahead. Some years ago, it will be remembered, there was a great cleavage between the independents and the chains, the News review recalls, because of the fear that increasing chain competition would destroy the other stores. That fear proved groundless. The independents do, by far, the largest percentage of the nation's total retail trade. And every kind of store, regardless of the competitive factor, has prospered when its community has prospered.

Retail business, all in all, is the biggest business we have. Most of our national income goes across store counters in exchange for goods of every conceivable kind. That keeps our factories going, and our employment at high levels. And the volume of retail trade largely determines whether times are good or bad.

There's no reason for merchants to quarrel among themselves. There is room for every kind of retailer in this broad land.

Business Today

By ELMER BOESNER

The saucer eyes of the Man from Mars would surely pop at today's advertisements. From coast to coast—merchants and manufacturers are warning the public to avoid scarce and hoarding purchases.

"What's this?" he might ask in Martian (a Mandarin dialect with an Oxford accent). "People in business to sell things asking customers not to buy?"

The department stores, manufacturers and trade associations which have appealed to the public to avoid panic buying are moved by patriotism. On top of that, a lot of them are scared sick over the possible consequences.

This is what many of them are thinking:

Frantic buying now can dislocate retailers' inventories. People who accumulate a six month's supply of goods won't be nearly so interested when the dealers' fall and winter stocks start piling up.

It can dislocate consumer financing. Many are being tempted to over-extend both charge and installment obligations and when new stocks arrive they will be strapped.

Scare buying is hitting retailers when vacations have reduced their selling staffs to the lowest, and is making the sales pattern uncertain for the fall when vacations are over.

Feeding up prices can necessitate higher capital requirements. If the buying rush raises wholesale prices 10 per cent, the average merchant will need more money to finance inventory.

Panic buying has speeded the possibilities of credit controls—they already look like a certainty. The worse scare buying gets, the tougher credit controls are likely to be.

It is speeding the possibilities of rationing.

And scare buying is supporting an even more frightening alternative to rationing: Senator Taft's proposal for taxes high enough to make rationing unnecessary.

Business men like to make money. But some of the money being pressed into the hands today is too hot to handle with comfort.

TREND TO LONGER UNION CONTRACTS DISCLOSED

The trend is toward longer labor agreements, the National Industrial Conference Board finds in a study of 306 contracts signed since September, 1949.

Almost half of the contracts run for more than a year. Only a quarter of contracts signed a year earlier were for more than a year. In addition, three out of five contracts provided for re-opening, compared with four out of five a year earlier.

COUPONS DRAMATIZE INTEREST IN SALE

Eight coupons worth from $10 to $50 each when applied to the purchase of specific articles are being used in newspaper advertising of an Arizona furniture chain with excellent results.

The promotion is equivalent to a mark-down sale, with the added benefits that the coupons dramatize the sale and intensify interest in the ads.

BRITISH CHALLENGE IN QUALITY TEXTILES

The statement that British textile manufacturers would not attempt mass invasion of the American market has been hailed as reassuring in the trade press. Col. James Hutchinson, leader of a team of ten textile merchandisers who have completed a study of the American market, made the statement, adding that England would continue concentrating on a traditional high-styled goods.

This makes his remarks somewhat less than reassuring. While they do not contain any threat to the mass textile market, it is a warning of tougher competition for the maker of fine materials.

QUESTION ABOUT DISCOUNT HOUSES

Q. You have frequently mentioned "discount houses" which sell below fair-trade prices. Can you give me the names of some of these places?—J. A. MOG. (and others.)

A. Sorry I have no list of discount houses and cannot recommend specific stores. Neighbors, fellow workers, union associates and others may be able to point out a few for you. Care should be used in shopping because while some have high standards of operation, others mark up prices to provide a margin for discounts, pass off discontinued models, switch brands, etc.—F. R.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Congress has to consider almost everything under the sun—taxes, the cold war and trees for instance.

Tall, gaunt Senator Saltonstall (R-Mass.), who in his long years of public service has earned a reputation for "plain horse sense," brought up trees.

"I thought it would be extremely interesting if appropriate markers could be placed on historical trees not now identified on the Capitol grounds," he told Congress recently. "I also think identification markers should be placed on other trees so that the many people who visited the Capitol each year from all over the country will know where the tree came from and have some information about it."

In response to the senator's suggestion, David Lynn, the architect of the Capitol, seemed more than willing to prepare the plaques and identification markers for the trees. He said no additional appropriation was required for the purpose, the markers being made from wood in the Capitol carpentry shop.

Mr. Lynn told the senator there are more than 2,000 trees on the Capitol grounds, and he gave Mr. Saltonstall a list of their botanical and common names and where they are native. The senator had this inserted in the Congressional Record. "We still have an American elm planted prior to 1800 by George Washington," the senator remarked. "There is a red oak planted by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Sr., of Massachusetts on May 4, 1912. There is another red oak planted by the late Senator McNary of Oregon on April 20, 1923."

In 1913 Speaker Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois planted a red oak. Vice President Thomas R. Marshall in 1912 planted a hickory tree. Rep. Joseph Walsh of Massachusetts planted an American birch. There is a tree to honor the mothers of America, a Boy Scout tree, an Arbor Day tree—and so it goes.

The senator added that 22 states are represented by 21 varieties of trees. Also that nearly all parts of the world are represented... Europe, Asia, Japan, Canada, Persia, China, for example... there are nine kinds of maples, five kinds of birch, three kinds of ash, 10 representatives of the magnolia family, 13 kinds of oak trees and nine kinds of elms.

See 'Aggression' Planned By U. S.

Moscow, July 27—(AP)—Soviet publications today charged the United States with preparing for new aggression beyond Korea. One magazine said "the clique of warmongers is champing at the bit."

A top editorial in the weekly magazine New Times commented that "the scale and character of the war measures being taken in Washington indicate that America's aggressive intentions go beyond the framework of Korea."

The magazine also accused Gen. Douglas MacArthur of bullying American correspondents into writing only what he wanted written and nothing else.

The article quoted correspondents of the Soviet news agency Tass, who said they had been barred from news conferences at the Pentagon in Washington because the American authorities are "scared" of them and "cannot bully them into distorting the truth."

However, that's far from being the whole story. The Council of the Atlantic pact powers, meeting in London, has decided to go all out in organizing the defense of Western Europe against possible attack. The program for defense now

This is a great and costly undertaking, but it is proposed to proceed on the basis of the ability of each member to contribute. Naturally it will be carried out in connection with American rearmament, so that there may be coordination between the two and elimination of waste effort.

Anniversary For Famed Fighting Army Is On Aug. 1

Tuesday, August 1, 1950, will mark the sixth anniversary of one of the greatest fighting machines of all times—the Third United States Army. It was noon, August 1, 1944, that the "Famous Third," under the command of colorful General George S. Patton Jr., became operational and set out to blaze its brilliant trail to victory.

It was the Third Army that executed the breakthrough at Avranches, cleared the peninsula of Brittany, captured Le Mans, closed the southern jaw of the Falaise Gap, secured the first bridgehead across the Seine, took the towns of Fontenay, Montargis, Troyes, Chateau-Thierry, Reims, Verdun, Metz, and St. Avold.

The "Famous Third" was the first to span the Saar River, to break the German attack in the Battle of the Bulge, to reach the Rhine, and to cross the Moselle. It was also the Third Army that cleared Darmstadt, Frankfurt, Kassel, Mulhausen, Göttingen, and crossed the Danube into Czechoslovakia to take Linz and Pilsen at the war's end.

These facts in terms of figures mean that the Third United States Army captured, killed or wounded an estimated million and a half of the enemy, captured or destroyed more than 20,000 of his tanks and artillery, drove 150 miles into the heart of enemy territory, and accomplished all this within a period of less than nine months.

State Board Will Seek Steel Mill

Morehead City, N.C., July 27—(AP)—An effort to seek a steel mill for North Carolina, probably for the Wilmington area, was approved by the State Board of Conservation and Development yesterday.

Miles J. Smith of Salisbury, chairman of the board's committee on commerce and industry, told the board that a fund of between $10,000 and $25,000 would be needed to stress advantages of the state's southeastern area as the site for a steel mill and other industries.

The board concluded its regular mid-year meeting yesterday, and today its members cruised the Outer Banks on the fisheries patrol boat Pamlico. They planned to spend the night at Manteo, and on a return cruise tomorrow to meet with members of the Cape Hatteras National Seashore Park Commission which is promoting the establishment of a national park on the Outer Banks.

The board decided to hold its fall meeting at Charlotte Oct. 23-26 with one day to be spent at the Morrow Mountain State Park.

In other business yesterday, the board adopted a resolution to ask the TVA to make more power available to western North Carolina, and another asked the reactivation of the governor's hospitality committee which was discontinued during World War II.

Lightning Fatal To Two Soldiers

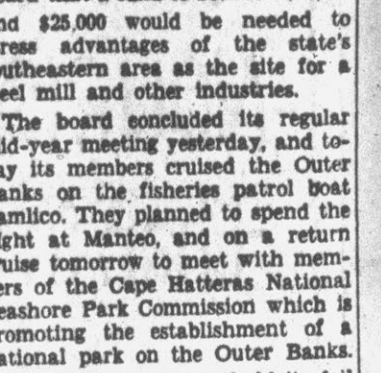

Fort Bragg, N. C., July 27—(AP)—Lightning striking after a rain storm killed two airborne troopers yesterday, and hurt 26 others. Four of them were entered at a hospital.

The men, on a rifle range, had taken shelter under a tree during the rain. Just as their commanding officer ordered them to resume firing, the bolt hit the tree.

Dead are Pfc. Frank W. Barrow, 19, of Electra, Tex., and Pvt. Clyde Y. Loflin, 30, of High Point.

Prices Of Leaf Grades Advance

Valdosta, Ga., July 27—(AP)—Prices of leaf grades advanced during the third day of sales in the Georgia-Florida tobacco markets yesterday, but most other grades declined.

The average price of fair orange leaf dropped $2 a hundred, but prices were from $1 to $5 a hundred higher for good and fair lemon and low orange leaf.

Cutters, lugs and nondescript were from $1 to $6 lower than Tuesday's averages, except for a few grades which managed to hold their own.

In most cases, the price drop was attributed to lower quality. The U.S. Department of Agriculture reported Tuesday's gross volume of 8,099,300 pounds brought $50.65 per hundred. The total was about 1,400,000 pounds less than that for Monday's opening day. The general average was 72 cents lower.

Low orange leaf registered a $5 per hundred gain yesterday over Tuesday prices. The biggest decline was in fair lemon lugs, which dropped $6.

Ex-Convict Said Killed By Cabbie

Boone, July 27—(AP)—Doughton Greene, a 35-year-old ex-convict, was shot and killed at a downtown cab stand here yesterday.

Police said he was killed by Arlie Brown, a local cab driver. Brown was released under $5,000 bond pending an inquest.

Coroner Richard E. Kelly said a preliminary investigation revealed that Brown fired in self defense. According to Kelly, Green physically beat the cab driver two weeks ago. Brown was still wearing head bandages at the time of the shooting.

Catch Goldfish In Flooded Pit

Chicago—(AP)—Heavy summer rains flooded the concrete foundation of an abandoned building site on the rth side. Neighborhood kids got some poles and went fishing in it. NSLI Is Opened To New Draftees

Washington, July 27—(AP)—The Veterans Administration said today all persons drafted into military service may obtain National Service Life Insurance.

Such insurance also is available to all World War II veterans who can meet the health requirements, to all persons who enlist and to all now in service.

A VA official told a reporter that although figures are not yet available, the indications are that increasing numbers of servicemen are taking out policies.

He said this is due largely to the belief of many who have been serving in the United States, without insurance, that they may be sent overseas. The renewal of lapsed policies also is believed increasing.

The minimum NSLI policy that can be taken out initially is $1,000, the maximum $10,000.

After his initial policy, the holder may take out additional policies as he wishes in multiples of $500.

Policies may be taken out in any one of seven forms, the cheapest of which is so-called term insurance. Term insurance has a low premium for a flat five year period, and is renewable at an increased premium each five years. It may be converted at any time into one of the six permanent types.

Grant was convicted of the first degree murder of Clarence Blair, 54. Since the jury made no recommendation for mercy, the death penalty was mandatory, although Judge J. A. Rousseau deferred sentencing.

Goldsboro Picks Up 5-4 Victory; Three-Run Rally In Eighth Fell Short; Guidice, Bland, Lead 10-Hit Attack Off Visitors

By BERT MOYE

Manager Jim Herbison, Jim Mulhern and Jack Hinkle each got two singles to lead the nine-hit attack off the two Robins hurlers. Maurice Owen started on the mound for the Cards and although he had to have help from two more hurlers, he was credited with the win, his fifth of the season and his third against the Robins this season.

Joe Guidice with three singles in four trips to the plate and Dick Bland with a double and a single in five trips to the plate, led the 10-hit attack off the three Card hurlers.

The Robins journey over to New Bern tonight to play the Bears in a twin bill, weather permitting. They return home on Friday night to meet the Bears in a single contest.

Frick's View On Minor Loop Woe

New York, July 27—(AP)—Television isn't the culprit, says president Ford Frick of the National League. It's that old-timer—radio.

The recent clamor from minor league officials that they are getting their brains beaten out by the home movies of big league contests has caused Frick to make an urgent study of the situation. He absolves television of any blame for the minors' plight.

"Those fellows simply have gotten television confused with radio," he declared. "There isn't enough television of big league games in their territories to hurt them at the box office. There are no television hook ups of our games."

"But radio, that's different. The whole country is absolutely saturated with it. I'm really surprised that the sponsors haven't gotten wise and complained. I think they will yet."

"Why, there are stations out West which begin broadcasting play by play of big league games at 10 in the morning, and then, when one game is over, start in almost immediately on a night game."

"Hundreds of stations, big and little, have hopped on the band wagon this season since they got the green light from Washington. Of course that's going to hurt minor league attendance. I'm not making a fight against radio, understand, but I know when we've got too much of it."

Stymie May Try Comeback Trail

New York, July 27—(AP)—Trainer Hirsch Jacobs said Stymie, second leading money-winner of all time, would be shipped to Middleburg, Va., today to begin training for a possible comeback.

"If he can win one dollar more than Citation I'll be satisfied," Jacobs said. "If he doesn't win, we're not out anything."

Citation topped Stymie's record this year, with total winnings of $938,639. Stymie retired last year with earnings of $918,485.

Club Plays On As Loop Orphans

Smithfield, N.C., July 27—(AP)—The Class D Tobacco State League now has seven teams and a poor eighth cousin—the Orphan Annie. That's the moniker slapped on the Smithfield-Seima club, officially dropped from the league last night.

Loop President Arthur T. Moore of Fayetteville announced that the Orphan Annie will retain their name until a new home can be found for the club.

Big Celebration

New York—(AP)—Gene Chandler, most valuable Georgia football line-man last season, did some powerful celebrating recently in his Athens, Ga. home a few weeks ago. First he observed his own birthday, then his daughter Sandra observed her second birthday the next day. The following day he signed his contract with the New York Yankees for 1950. He's a rugged defensive end.

Five double plays were executed in last night's tilt here in the first five innings of play, three by the Robins and two by the Cards. . . . The Robins had a total of 13 men stranded on the bases while the Cards had 7. . . . The contest which was halted for 30 minutes by a heavy downpour of rain yesterday afternoon was two hours and thirty-five minutes in duration. . . . The Roanoke Rapids Jays, who were rained out in Kinston last night, stopped by to witness the game here enroute back to Roanoke Rapids and from what I learned Alton Brown will be on the mound for the Jays tonight seeking his 20th win of the season. . . . Walt McJunkin, manager of the Jays, will be featured in a special article in Sunday's News and Observer. . . . John Liffsey, southpaw flinger and first baseman with the Rocky Mount Leafs last year, pitched a no-hitter for Hammond of Evangeline League on July 14. . . . Harry Helmer, another former Leaf, pitched a four-hit, 1-0, victory in the opener of a doubleheader between Omaha and Lincoln on July 17. . . . Western Class A league. . . . Bill Kennedy now has a 10-4 record with the Baltimore Orioles of the International League. He became the Orioles' first 10-game winner when he won at Jersey City on July 18th. . . . Joe Moss, a veteran catcher and outfielder, who was with the Tobs in 1948, and who this past season has been playing with the Plymouth club of the Albemarle League, has signed a contract with Manager Bill Herring and his boys. . . . Ray Harbaugh, first baseman, has been returned to the active list by the Tobs. He has been on the injured roster for more than a month. Shortstop Pete Williams has been sold to Waycross, Georgia. The signing of Veteran Moss necessitated his release. Rookie receiver Ted Laguna and receiver Ernie Motteiler have been released by the Tobs' management. Irving Dickens, other veteran of the Tobs, has been shifted back to shortstop by Manager Bill Herring, a post he had ably held for a small part of the current season. . . . The Kinston Eagles have obtained a new rookie pitcher, "Tony" Salerno, who came to the club from Marion, Ohio. Harry Ashworth, a big lefthanded first baseman, has been obtained for the Kinston Eagles from Raleigh.

Greenberg Changed His Mind; Zoldak Stayed To Win Honors

By JACK HAND
(AP Sports Writer)

Sad Sam Zoldak, ticketed for San Diego in May, has pitched Cleveland to within 1 1/2 games of the American League lead with three relief wins in a week. They actually handed Zoldak carfare to the Pacific Coast League on cut-down day. At the last minute, Hank Greenberg, Tribe general manager, changed his mind. Johnny Berardino, veteran infielder, went to San Diego instead of Sam. Hankus never will be sorry.

Walked Six, But Wasn't Relieved

Philadelphia, July 27—(AP)—Last night Wally Dubiel walked six men in one inning—five in a row—and his manager, Frankie Frisch, said he'd have "kept Dubiel in there for 90 runs before I'd have taken him out for that kind of performance."

In one stretch, Dubiel threw 14 straight balls in that sixth inning as the Philadelphia Phillies scored a 6-4 victory over Frisch's Chicago Cubs.

Frisch answered the jockeys who booed and howled him because he didn't take Dubiel out for a pinch hitter. Frisch said he permitted Dubiel to work out of his own jam so that Frisch could find out "if Cub's pitchers have to have a lantern on the plate to find out where it is located."

"I may look bad for having kept such a pitcher in there against a contender," Frisch said, "but I'm determined to find out what's going on. If I make myself look bad it is not a novelty. Maybe some of my players have been making me look pretty bad, too."

"I'm sick of watching some of my pitchers getting into jams, peeping out to the bull pen to see if a reliever is ready to take over his work for him."

"If any of those guys who walked had knocked the ball into the Schuylkill River (some miles from Shibe Park) I would have taken Dubiel out. But I've got to find out what's going on when a pitcher can walk six men in one inning and none in seven other innings."

Joe Louis Said Entering Training Camp For Fight

Chicago, July 27—(AP)—Joe Louis, the treasury department will accept his purse in a proposed match with Charles in payment of back taxes. Louis has confided to friends he is hopeful of arranging a title bout with Charles, but emphasized the matter depended on tax negotiations. The date for the Louis-Charles bout reportedly is Sept. 27, and the site, New York's Yankee Stadium.

Chicago, July 27—(AP)—Joe Louis, retired heavyweight champion, reportedly was headed today for an Indiana training camp to prepare for a title bout with champion Ezard Charles.

The 36-year-old Brown Bomber, king of the heavyweights for 11 years—longest reign in heavyweight history—was reported getting ready to return to the ring to get some money to pay back taxes.

During his fistic career Louis earned nearly $4,000,000. The report that Louis will return to the ring gained stature yesterday with his departure with advisor Fred Wilson for a West Baden, Ind., training site. His trainer, Marnie Seamon, also was reported en route to West Baden with training equipment.

Truman Gibson, the Brown Bomber's manager, has said Louis will fight in September if he can reach an agreement with the government. Louis said he must "pay his income tax like everyone else and fighting Charles seems the best way to do it."

Gibson was in Washington reportedly to find out how much Louis owes the government on 1946 and 1947 income taxes. It was reported some of the retired champions claims for those years were disallowed.

The Bomber recently announced he will come out of retirement if he can get a fight.

Picks Snead For Breaking Record At Sioux City

Sioux City, Ia., July 27—(AP)—Chandler Harper, the professional Golfers' Association champion, put the finger on Sam Snead today.

He said he thought the Elmwood course record of 65 would be broken during the $15,000 Sioux City open tournament which began a four-day run today.

Snead, Chandler said, is the guy likely to do the record-breaking. Why? Simply because the long-hitting West Virginian is the man most capable of getting birdies on the four par 5 holes on the 6,506 yard course.

"Those par 5's are a cinch for Snead," Harper pointed out, adding that the course "figures to be easy for Sam."

Scenes From Yesterday's Storm In Winterville Area

The beaten, twisted stalks of green corn blown to the ground, and the wreckage from a destroyed tobacco barn offers evidence to the force of a brief tornado which struck in the Winterville area yesterday afternoon around 5:30. Wind and wreckage from the barn cut a path through the corn field, downing row after row of corn. (Reflector Staff Photos by Roy Hardee).

Splintered lumber and crumpled tin is all that is left of a wash house belonging to L. M. McLawhorn which was destroyed by the tornado yesterday afternoon. Wreckage and contents of the building was scattered over a wide area. Limbs were knocked from several trees, tin ripped from the roof of a nearby house, two large trees uprooted. Power lines in the area were put out of commission.

All that remains of a large tobacco barn on the L. M. McLawhorn farm in the Winterville community after a freak tornado hit it yesterday can be seen above. The tobacco barns were filled with tobacco and were curing leaf at the time the storm struck. Part of the tobacco which could not be salvaged is shown spilled on the ground around the barn's wreckage. Pieces of the lumber and tin from the barn were found several hundred feet away.

Candidate Plans Demand Recount

Oklahoma City, July 27—(AP)—William O. Coe charges that the Democratic governor's nomination was stolen from him and says he will demand today that a complete recount be made.

In the face of an unofficial 886-vote defeat by Johnston Murray, Coe declared "some county and precinct election officials in this state are going to the penitentiary for the election frauds practiced on me" Tuesday in the runoff primary.

The unofficial totals gave Murray 235,525; Coe 234,639.

No "falsals" were named, but the bitter candidate asserted:

"Already, in Oklahoma County alone we have uncovered at least 3,100 votes stolen from me and given to Johnston Murray. In another county of this state, 29 people were voted out of one four-room house, listed as their residence, all votes for Johnston Murray."

After a campaign fraught with scathing accusations by Coe concerning Murray's character, Coe skyrocketed from a 88,000 vote deficit in the first primary. He called Murray a child deserter and draft avoider.

Bus Line Asks Freight Permit

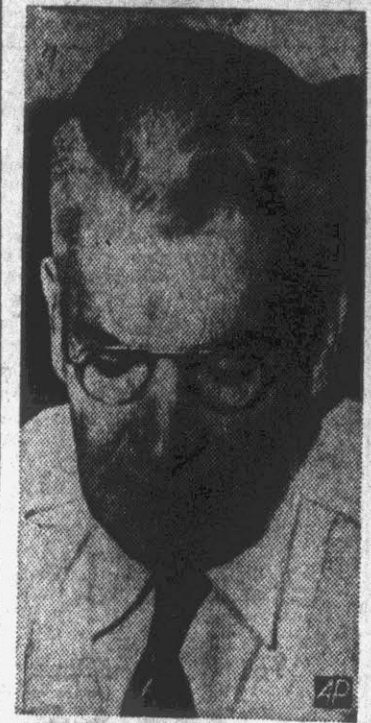

Raleigh, July 27—(AP)—The state's easternmost bus line wants permission to haul freight as well as passengers, express, and mail.

The Hatteras-Manteo Bus Line, Inc., of Hatteras was scheduled to air its reasons why at a public hearing before the State Utilities Commission today.

The bus line operates between Hatteras and Manteo over a route that carries it through Frisco, Buxton, Avon, Salo and Rodanthe.

The U. S. manufactured 390,000,000,000 cigarettes in the fiscal year 1948-'49.

HEADS ENGINEERS—James P. Shields (above), 66, of Cleveland, was elected Grand Chief Engineer by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, an independent railroad union.

Weather Favors Air Operations

Washington, July 27—(AP)—The Air Force said today that exceptionally good weather has permitted record air operations against the Korean Communists on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

A spokesman told reporters that the number of combat sorties flown against the North Koreans reached 288 on Wednesday (Korean time). He expressed belief that final reports for Thursday would show still greater activity.

The spokesman said reconnaissance reports indicate that limited enemy traffic is now moving on isolated roads. He said this requires continuous reconnaissance by planes armed to attack anything they find.

In response to an inquiry, he expressed belief that U.S. F-80 jet fighters can now stay over the battle area nearly an hour and a half.

No enemy aerial opposition was reported, although the crew of one B-29 saw a piston-engine Yak-9 fighter. The Air Force said there was no evidence of a buildup of enemy air strength in the area.

An Army spokesman expressed agreement with the confidence of General MacArthur of ultimate victory in Korea. He did not elaborate.

Australia Plans Fully Mobilize

Sydney, Australia, July 27—(AP)—Supply Minister O. H. Beale said today Australia must mobilize her industry for all-out war—even as the country began recruiting a force to fight in Korea.

Beale told a defense supply and planning committee in Melbourne that its job is to build a stockpile of needed materials to bolster the armed forces and to plan the immediate mobilization of key industries in the event of war.

A Pledge to the American People

by

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company

We will resist all unwarranted price rises with all our might.

We will make every effort to hold our inventories at the lowest point consistent with good service to our customers, because hoarding, whether by wholesalers, retailers or consumers, will cause higher prices.

We will continue to maintain the lowest profit rate generally prevailing in the entire retail industry. Our net profit now is less than one cent on each dollar of sales.

We will continue to strive for more efficient distribution.

We will fight waste of food, or time, or money all along the line so as to narrow the spread between wholesale and retail prices.

We will devote all our energies to giving you the most good food for your money every day of the week.

We will strive always to do what is honest, fair, sincere and in the best interest of our country and our customers.

As most of you know, this company and the low cost, low profit policies that built it are under attack.

We are defending ourselves against a suit brought by the anti-trust lawyers to put A&P out of business.

But the greater conflict in which our country is now engaged takes precedence over all else.

Today, with our boys fighting in Korea, we believe that all citizens and all businesses, big and little, should devote themselves wholeheartedly to the public interest.

We promise the American people that we will cooperate unhesitatingly with our national government in the present crisis.

We promise you that we will continue to do everything in our power to put more buying power in your food dollar and more good food on your dinner table.

U. S. Reported Preparing Germ Warfare Defenses

Washington, July 27—(AP)—Defensive measures against germ warfare are being drawn up. A government scientist familiar with the program said today, however, that they include no newly-developed rays or other "magic" means of coping with germs.

Frankfurters Baked In A Bed Of Fluffy Riceland Rice

Bake Frankfurters With Riceland Rice

Here's a "quick-and-easy" main dish which combines two of America's most popular foods—frankfurters and Riceland Rice—with a new piquant sauce that will win you compliments galore!

Be sure to use genuine Riceland Rice in preparing this dish because Riceland Rice is the perfect-cooking rice recommended by cooking experts for best results with all rice recipes. You can serve it in more than 200 different, delicious ways.

So don't use a substitute brand in place of genuine Riceland Rice. Most grocers now feature this perfect-cooking rice and if your grocer doesn't yet have Riceland Rice, he can easily get it for you. Then all your rice dishes will be perfect.

Riceland Rice Piquant With Frankfurters

- 3 cups cooked Riceland Rice
- 3 tablespoons fat
- 1 tablespoon chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 cup catsup
- 1 cup meat stock or consommé
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 6 frankfurters

Melt fat in a skillet. Add onion and cook until the onion is yellow, stirring frequently. Add seasonings and stock (or a cup of canned consommé or water), and simmer covered for fifteen minutes. Place the rice in the bottom of a shallow greased casserole. Pour the sauce over it. Arrange the frankfurters on top. Split the frankfurters if you prefer. Brush them with melted fat and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. This will make six delicious servings.

This recipe calls for cooked Riceland Rice. This perfect-cooking rice is quick and easy to cook—deliciously tender with white fluffy individual grains. Here's how:

To Cook Riceland Rice: Put 1 cup of Riceland Rice, 1 teaspoon of salt and 2 cups of water in a large saucepan and cover with a tight-fitting lid. Set over a hot flame until it boils vigorously. Then reduce the heat as low as possible and simmer for 14 minutes more, during which time the water will be absorbed, making the rice deliciously tender. Remove the lid, permit the rice to steam dry to the desired consistency and the grains will be separate and fluffy. Always use Riceland Rice for best results.

Riceland Rice Is Easy To Cook! Tender! Fluffy!

To get the best results with this recipe and all rice recipes, be sure to use Riceland Rice. It's the world's most delicious rice—grown in the heart of the quality rice belt of America. Only the choice, perfect-cooking rich grains are packed in Riceland packages.

This quality rice is quick and easy to cook. Riceland Rice cooks deliciously tender with white, fluffy, individual grains.

Most grocers now feature this better-cooking, wonderfully-delicious, packaged rice—and at economical prices, too! Riceland Rice costs only one-cent a serving.

Rather, he told a reporter, they consist in general of training health officers in presently-known and recently-discovered medical and public health practices—but on an emergency basis.

For example, he said, it would mean such things as early reporting of sickness when it develops, and the application of such drugs as penicillin, streptomycin and other potent disease fighters.

The official declined to be quoted by name.

The Defense Department has previously announced that protection against germs that can infect man, animals and plants will consist of the use of such things as vaccines and drugs; physical measures, such as masks, clothing, shelters and decontaminants; and organizational measures, such as sanitation and public health procedures.

Formal measures to assure the training of doctors throughout the nation in the civilian defense aspects of bacteriological warfare are planned in this way:

The National Security Resources Board (NSRB) which is charged with the responsibility of civilian defense will work through the U. S. Public Health Service in getting the necessary information to health officers throughout the country.

A series of "orientation courses" for doctors is planned—presumably on the same lines as courses on atomic warfare which have been given for some time.

The Public Health Service will make the information available to local health offices all over the country.

In his last semi-annual report, Secretary of Defense Johnson said:

"The United States is prepared to deal with biological weapons. Although the surprise and sabotage value of BW (Biological Warfare) weapons is appreciated, defense measures now in effect or in preparation should prevent disastrous damage. The military are cooperating with other agencies of the government in the preparation of such defensive measures."

Loan Okayed For Telephone Co-Op

Raleigh, N. C., July 27—(AP)—The State Rural Electrification Authority has approved its first loan application from a telephone cooperative.

Final approval from the National REA for a loan of $518,000 for the Co-Op is expected in a few days, according to state REA director Gwyn B. Price.

Price left for Washington last night to get that approval.

Under the application, the Yadkin Valley Telephone Membership Corporation plans to offer phone service to close to 2,500 rural customers in Davis and Yadkin counties. The loan will enable the Co-Op to build 630 miles of telephone lines.

Construction of the Co-Op's lines said Price, will be started after approval from Washington of the loan and the collection of $30 each from at least 1,668 members of the cooperative, as membership fees.

Price said most of the cooperative's subscribers will receive, multi-party service with a uniform rate of about $3 a month.

Long distance calls will be made by hooking up with the lines of the Central Telephone Company of Mt. Airy which has exchanges at Mocksville and Yadkinville.

Ambitious Fight Program Slated By Promoters

New York, July 27—(AP)—Television, blamed for many of boxing's box office failures, is responsible for the most ambitious big-time fight program in history.

To meet the demands of the TV audiences, the International Boxing club plans to run 70 or 72 indoor shows in the 1950-51 season. There will be action every Wednesday and Friday for at least 35 consecutive weeks.

The IBC and Managers Guild have reached a new agreement on Wednesday fights, separate from their Friday night pact.

On Wednesday nights, each main go fighter will receive $1,000 as his share of the TV money. On Fridays, each star bout boy gets $2,250 with a privilege of a percentage.

Find Pistol At Scene Of Twin Mystery Deaths

Marshall, N.C., July 27—(AP)—

Officers investigating the mysterious deaths of a Madison County couple today had their first real clue.

Found was the pistol which Pritchard Shelton, the dead man, was reported to have worn at all times. He and his wife were found dead in the yard of their rural Laurel Creek home last Friday. They had been dead about eight days, police said.

Sheriff Ralph Fisher reported he and his deputies discovered the weapon attached to the underside of a kitchen table so that it was hidden from sight unless the table were overturned. The pistol's holster was on Shelton's body.

The cause of the couple's death is still undetermined. Their internal organs have been sent to Duke Hospital for examination. There were no bullet wounds visible on the bodies, Sheriff Fisher said.

Most elm trees can be grown from seed.

IT'S DEATH, MY DARLING!

By Amelia Reynolds Long

Chapter 31

We had barely finished locking up the house for the night—including, this time, the outside opening to the woodbox, which I attended to myself—when Uncle Bountiful rushed up upon the gallery shouting that the stables were burning!

Cousin Jeff and Lewis Hays rushed out of the house at once, while Bobby and Pick and I followed more slowly.

For the next fifteen minutes or so we just stood there with that desperately helpless feeling you get when you're forced to look on at wanton destruction, knowing that you can do nothing about it.

All of a sudden a thought exploded in my head with violence. The fire had drawn all of us away from the house—all, that is, except Aunt Delphine. And Aunt Delphine had just announced that evening that she knew something about the murders, and wanted to tell it to the sheriff!

"Oh, Heaven! It's all been a trick to get us away!" I cried. "Aunt Delphine! She's back there alone!" I found the front door standing half open when I reached it, and I couldn't remember whether we had left it that way or not.

"Aunt Delphine!" I called, then held my breath.

To my infinite relief, her voice answered me.

"Peter! It's you, cherie? Come and stay with me."

Then I felt her reach up and tug at my sleeve for me to bend closer.

"He's here," she whispered quickly. "He's hiding over there in the flower arrangements."
