Pitt To Get $21,735 Of N. C. Taxes

State Board Of Assessments Divides Intangible Property Tax Take

Pitt County this year will receive $21,735.27 from the state board of assessments for intangible personal property tax collections, and the eight incorporated towns in the county will divide an additional $14,660.02 which was collected by the state through the taxes.

The state board of assessments in Raleigh announced today that it will begin tomorrow mailing out checks totaling $2,733,759.38 to counties, cities and towns throughout the state. The money represents the annual division of the intangible personal property tax collections.

Greenville's share of the tax fund will be $9,524.65, the largest of the Pitt county towns. Farmville will receive $2,336.58 as its share of the intangible tax collections. Bethel will receive $939, Ayden will receive $885.63, Winterville will receive $378.51, Fountain will receive $280.24, Grifton will receive $276.60, and Grimesland will receive $65.51.

J. C. Buthune, secretary of the state assessment board, said the 451 checks which will be mailed throughout the state will range in size from $10.48 which the town of Bostic in Rutherford county will get to $165,871.79 which will be received by Charlotte. This year's collections, he said, reached a record-breaking total of $3,417,199.2. It is a gain of more than $700,000 over the figure for 1949.

Beaufort county and its five cities and towns received a total of $17,716.30, Edgecombe county and its eight cities and towns received $29,151.33, Greene county and its three towns received $7,816.12, Lenoir county and its three towns received $23,741.41, Martin county and its five towns received $12,721.81, and Wilson county and its eight cities and towns received $30,955.73.

The state retains 20 per cent of the total amount of the intangible tax collections, and the remainder is distributed to the counties, cities and towns on the basis of population and on the basis of actual tax returns from the respective counties.

Greenville's share of the tax money this year totaled $1,144.79 more than the amount of the city received from the same funds last year. City Clerk J. O. Duval said the $9,524.65 the city will receive this year is "a little more" than the city planned for when making out the revenue budget for the fiscal year.

Pitt County ranked 15th among the 100 counties of the state in the amount of the county government and the local subdivisions received from the tax allocations this year.

The allocation for the Pitt county government alone this year is $2,362.93 more than the county government received last year from the distribution. Auditor Allan Powell said the county last year received $19,432.34 from the allocation of the intangible tax funds.

More Arms Aid

Washington, July 31—(AP)—President Truman told congressional leaders today he is sending up a message asking $4,000,000 additional for military aid to anti-Communist nations. Chairman Cannon (D-Me) of the House Appropriations Committee said there was "unanimous agreement" among Democratic and Republican leaders to expedite action on the request.

Cannon said the estimates for the additional $4,000,000 would be submitted through a letter to Speaker Rayburn and referred directly to the House Appropriations Committee which will take them up immediately.

Next Hike For Taxes

How Closely Congress Follows The President's Proposals Will Hinge Largely On The Korean War Situation; Prospective Action; When It's Effective

By ALEXANDER E. GEORGE

Washington, July 31—(AP)—Congress is set to increase income taxes. But how closely it follows President Truman's recommendation for a tax boost may hinge on the Korean war situation in the next week or so.

If the battle turns definitely in favor of United States forces, there will be considerable sentiment for postponing an increase in individual taxes until the beginning of the new year.

The President recommended that the tax boost for individuals become effective October 1 and that the increase in corporation taxes go back to cover all of 1950.

If the Korean situation doesn't improve there will be heavy pressure for quick action.

Congressmen also look for increased demands that excess-profits taxes be levied at an early date. In that case, all profits above a certain level set by law would go to the U. S. treasury.

Many members of Congress don't like the idea of making the increased taxes for individuals effective as soon as October 1. They would like to give the taxpayer more time to get set. If the individual tax raise becomes effective October 1, the American taxpayer may have a double headache making out his 1950 returns—due by March 15. One jolt of course would be the increase in tax payments.

Besides having to pay more taxes he might have a lot of extra work cut out for him.

Making out a return would be extra complicated if the taxpayer had to figure the tax on his income from January 1 to October 1 at present rates and then calculate the tax on his income from October 1 to December 31 at increased rates.

The present rates on the first $2,000 of surtax net income—or income after deductions and exemptions—is 16.60 per cent. The new rate proposed by President Truman is 20 per cent. So the proposed increase is 3.40 per cent.

The hard way to make out a return in that case would be to figure 16.60 per cent of income from January 1 to October 1 and 20 per

Leopold Offers Powers To Prince

Proposes Temporary Delegation Of Royal Powers In Move To Halt March Toward Civil War In Belgium

Brussels, Belgium, July 31—(AP)—Premier Jean Duvierusart declared today that King Leopold has offered to temporarily delegate his royal power to Crown Prince Baudouin.

The premier said the king made the offer on condition the opposition Socialists withdraw their political and economic demands and make them later through parliamentary channels.

This announcement came after both Duvierusart and Socialist leader Max Buset had conferred with Leopold this morning at Laeken Palace.

The king's decision was disclosed as the crisis over his return from exile ten days ago threatened to plunge the nation into civil war.

The vanguard of an army of anti-Leopoldists was reported already marching on Brussels. Three anti-Leopoldists were killed by gendarmes last night in Liege. This climaxed a wave of violence and strikes which had paralyzed the nation's economy.

Buset had hinted before going to the palace that the hour of Leopold's abdication was close at hand.

Most of the cabinet is understood to favor Leopold's abdication. But some ministers reportedly thought the king should make the decision himself.

Shotgun-Shooting Man Wounded By Detective

By CHESTER WALSH Leonard Jenkins, 30-year-old Negro, who ran berserk Sunday night, promiscuously firing a shotgun in the vicinity of Tyson and Sixth streets alarming residents, was shot and seriously wounded by Detective S. Bowen Dorsey of the Greenville police department, about 9 o'clock Jenkins is at Pitt General Hospital.

The police officer's bullet entered one side of his chest and came out through the other side. Police Chief Herbert E. Wooten said he and Dorsey and Patrolman Henry Lawson went to Tyson and Sixth streets to investigate the "mysterious shotgun shooting."

He said Negro residents told him they were alarmed by the frequent shotgun blasts and that some of shot struck John Stancil's house. The police parked their car in front of Stancil's house 517 Ford street.

Officers Dorsey and Lawson went toward the street corner to investigate the shooting. Chief Wooten accompanied them.

A sudden blast from a shotgun was fired toward the officers from a nearby yard. Dorsey saw the flash and returned the fire. His bullet struck the Negro near the lungs. He was hiding beside a house in the dark when he fired his last shot, the chief stated.

Jenkins dropped his shotgun when Dorsey's bullet wounded him. Chief Wooten recovered it. Dorsey and Lawson sent the wounded man to Pitt General Hospital. They quoted Jenkins as saying that "There's been a lot of shooting around here tonight, and I came out to protect my family."

Police found several loaded shells in Jenkins' pockets after he got to the hospital.

Another officer found a discharged shotgun shell near the spot where he fired the shot that caused Dorsey to shoot him in self-defense.

A hospital attendant said Jenkins has a chance to recover, barring complications. In addition to John Stancil, three other Negro residents, Willie Suggs, Hudson and Sixth streets; Mrs. Hatie L. Adams, Hudson street, and Tyler William Sutton, of the same neighborhood, were witnesses.

Woman Held For Knifing Husband

Wounded Man In Hospital, Suffering From Severe Cuts

By CHESTER WALSH Greenville police are holding Mrs. Rosa McCall Duncan, 32-year-old, 246-pound woman, on the charge of assaulting with a butcher knife with intent to kill her husband, J. J. Duncan, 44 years old and weighing 130 pounds, during a family quarrel Sunday afternoon.

The wounded man is at Pitt General Hospital with numerous minor cuts and a serious stab wound in the chest. His condition is critical, a hospital attendant said. The wounded man is a termite exterminator.

Police Chief Herbert E. Wooten quoted Mrs. Duncan as saying her husband "fell on the knife and wounded himself." He corroborated her.

Duncan's five wounds consisted of cuts on the nose, lip, a finger and his arm and gaping stab wound in his chest.

The Duncans live in a four-apartment house in the rear of the American Railway Express Company, Dickinson Avenue. Chief Wooten quoted occupants of the house as hearing and seeing part of an altercation between the Duncans upstairs.

One neighbor said Duncan had taken a bath and was sitting on the upstairs porch and that his wife poured a pitcher of water on him, saying "How would you like to have a bath?"

Another neighbor said she saw Duncan leave the bathroom bleeding, and that his wife asked that someone call an ambulance. The wounded man was taken to the hospital.

Mrs. Charles Seamster, a neighbor notified police and Chief Wooten and Patrolman Christopher arrested Mrs. Duncan.

At the police station, where Chief Wooten and Detective Dorsey were interviewing the woman, the officers noticed that her left arm was (Continued on page ten)

At present, no directive has been sent to the old registrar, Mrs. Selma Evans, who will assume the same position when the office opens. An order to reopen the office was sent to O. C. Stroud, Ayden, chairman of the county board, last week. The number of men to be called from Pitt has not been received as yet and the county draft board is currently sitting tight waiting for further orders from Raleigh.

Mrs. J. T. Williams, registrar for the board since it closed its offices, stated today she is no longer registering the 18-year-olds. Further registration for such age groups will be handled entirely from the new office, she said.

Mrs. Evans could not be contacted today. However, it was learned she has had no notification as to what to do other than to open the office as directed by the county draft board.

Valuation of new buildings being constructed in Greenville in the first seven months of the year soared way over the million dollar mark, the July monthly building report issued by Fire Chief George Gardner revealed today.

A total of 140 dwellings, valued at $915,100 were constructed with 14 commercial permits valued at $212,500 issued. Repair permits valued at $46,650 totaled 30 in number for the first seven months of the year. The overall total for the year was $1,174,256.

For the month of July, 14 dwellings, with an estimated value of $83,800, and one commercial permit was issued for $12,000. Six repair permits valued at $7,700 were also issued.

No Directives As Yet Giving Number Of Men To Be Called From Pitt

One of Greenville's most thriving businesses, extinct for the past few years, will reopen its offices for further business tomorrow. While it was in operation, beginning in 1940, it indirectly employed more Pitt County personnel than any other establishment in county history.

Yes, the draft board begins operation again tomorrow. As ordered last week by the State Selective Service board, Pitt's sub-depot of the Kingston sectional office will assume the same status as it had in former years of operation.

Offices have been acquired, through action of the board of aldermen, in the City Hall and they will be open tomorrow. All records and files belonging to the old office here will be transferred from their present location in Kingston.

Congressional Leaders Swing To Addition Of Standby Price-Wage-Rationing Powers

Washington, July 31—(AP)—Administration leaders in Congress, finding no firm White House opposition, were swinging today to the idea of giving President Truman standby price-wage-rationing powers as well as the milder economic controls he has asked.

One Democratic leader, asking not to be quoted by name, told reporters a price-wage-rationing amendment probably will be offered to the Administration bill on the house floor. The house is to take up the measure tomorrow.

Under the proposal, Mr. Truman would have power to put on price and wage ceilings and begin rationing at any time he felt they were needed.

Some Administration men felt that unless standby powers were given the President, Congress might vote a wage-price "freeze" as proposed by Rep. Kunkel (R-Pa.).

Senator Maybank (D-SC) said the Senate Banking committee would vote tomorrow on the Administration bill. Maybank heads the committee.

House speaker Rayburn, one of a group of leaders who talked the matter over with Mr. Truman, said the President felt he had asked for enough economic controls but wouldn't veto a bill providing extra ones.

Rep. Deane (D-NC) introduced in the house a bill proposing to tie price and wage controls, and rationing if necessary, to the administration's bill.

Deane's bill would roll prices back to their averages for the month of June.

Deane issued a statement saying broad action is necessary to strike at "hoarding and blackmarketing."

Unless the "unwarranted spiral of prices" is stopped, he said, "the country within a very short time will be faced with a general demand for wage increases in every major industry. Unless prices are controlled, it would be nothing but right to consider these demands for wage increases as not only fair but also as proper."

Deane quoted a letter from a North Carolina small businessman saying "I have talked with a large number of people in the last few days and every one I have talked to agrees we must have some type of control. Unless such a control program is instituted the big companies will get all the materials and we little outfits will be pushed out in the cold."

Deane did not identify the author of the letter.

Border Belt Sales Begin Tomorrow In 18 Markets

By The Associated Press Farmers of the South Carolina and North Carolina border belt will begin cashing in tomorrow on their 1850 bushel-cured tobacco crop as auction sales get underway on the belt's 18 markets.

Opening day prices averaging as high as $54 to $58 a hundred pounds were predicted by W. P. Hedrick, tobacco marketing specialist for the N. C. Department of Agriculture.

He said that the first day sales probably would be comparatively light, probably totaling between 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 pounds.

Opening day last season saw 10,178,163 pounds sold at an average of $51.84 per hundred.

"Growers are still curing and about 50 per cent of the crop is still in the field," said Hedrick. "A prolonged rainy spell persists in the area and has delayed the crop without serious damage."

Flue-cured leaf goes into the making of cigarettes. There are 10 border belt markets in South Carolina and eight in North Carolina. Those in South Carolina are: Conway, Darlington, Dillon, Hemingway, Kingstree, Lake City, Loris, Mullins, Pamplico, and Timmonsville.

The Tar Heel markets are: Chadbourne, Clarketon, Fair Bluff, Fairmont, Fayetteville, Lumberton, Tabor City and Whiteville.

Hedrick said "even though curing has been delayed, growers are extremely optimistic. The border belt crop is estimated at 238,000,000 pounds with the yield per acre estimated at 1,254 pounds. This is 40 pounds under last year's per acre

Catch 2 New Suspects In Atomic Spy Roundup

New York, July 31—(AP)—The government's atom spy search focused today on the two latest suspects, a chemical engineer and his tall, blonde woman business associate, as more arrests in the near future was hinted.

The engineer, Abraham Brothman, 36, and attractive Miriam Moskowitz, 34, were scheduled for arraignment today on federal conspiracy charges linking them with an atomic spy ring for Russia.

Arrested Saturday, they brought to six the number of Americans seized so far as alleged accessories in the espionage ring in which British atomic scientist Klaus Fuchs was a key figure.

Official indications were that more arrests may follow.

"We are working on some matters and this comes in the midst of them," said U. S. attorney Irving H. Saypol. "We always have a grand jury sitting and we are starting to piece things together."

Also slated for a court hearing today was Julius Rosenberg, 32, a New York engineer accused of transmitting and arranging for others to transmit atomic secrets to Soviet agents. He was arrested July 17.

Brothman and Miss Moskowitz, a former employee of the war manpower commission, were indicted on the basis of grand jury testimony by Harry Gold of Philadelphia, admitted go-between for Fuchs and Soviet agents.

The pair was accused specifically of getting together with Gold and framing a false story for him to tell a 1947 federal grand jury.

Brothman allegedly persuaded and intimidated Gold into concealing that Brothman and Gold were introduced originally by Semen H. Sennov, head of a spy group and official of the Russian trade firm, Amtorg.

Reinforcements Speed Into Forward Lines As Invaders Grind Slowly Forward; MacArthur And Chiang Kai-shek Confer; North Koreans Suffer Big Losses

Tokyo, Tuesday, Aug. 1—(AP)—Troops of the U. S. Second Infantry Division under Maj. Gen. Laurence B. Kelsey landed with tanks in Korea Monday and sped forward to help brace shrinking allied lines.

General MacArthur's headquarters said the North Korean Reds in force were shifting their pressure from the central sector to the west and southwest.

The Communists captured Chinju, 55 miles west of Pusan, vital U. S. base. Associated Press Correspondent Hal Boyle reported from outside Chinju that the Americans withdrew from the coastal anchor to new positions less than 50 miles from Pusan.

Arriving direct from the United States, many of the new troops headed out in trucks to plug holes punched by North Korean Reds along a rectangular front before Pusan, on the southeast coast.

Up to 200,000 men were reported in the big Red surge against the shrinking U. S. line.

In the central front new pressure was put on Kuncheon. But a U. S. First Cavalry spokesman there said the city "will be held at all costs."

He said the troops had been forced back slightly to the east, however. Kuncheon is 32 miles northwest of Taegu, rail city northwest of Pusan.

As the decisive battle raged, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his top advisers flew to Pusan to talk with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, Nationalist Chinese leader. Chiang has offered 33,000 foot soldiers and some air force units to MacArthur, United Nations commander.

His visit followed a Chinese Nationalist air raid on 500 Red China junkies assembling for a possible blast at Quimoy, Nationalist island near Amoy.

There was no indication this raid had American sanction. President Truman had asked Chiang five weeks ago to hold his island fortress off from attacks on Chinese Reds unless the Nationalists themselves were attacked.

MacArthur met a cordial reception in Formosa.

The Korean fighting now is spread over a rough rectangle. It extends 80 miles up the east coast from Pusan to Yongdok, thence west 70 miles to Hamchang, 100 miles due south from Hamchang to the vicinity of Chinju.

Spread thinly through the mountains and valleys are three U. S. divisions—the First Cavalry and the 24th and 25th Infantry Divisions, the U. S. Fifth Air Force and fighting South Koreans.

Dispatches from the front said many Communist dead were strewn on the battlefield. Their own trucks raced over the bodies, trying to reach new positions against the Americans.

At least two Red divisions led the powerful flanking movement around Chinju. Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army in Korea, ordered his men two days ago to fight or die in their present positions.

U. S. pilots strafed the Reds claiming to have killed many. Bodies were described as littering the field "like confetti."

There was one break-through at Kochang, 45 miles southwest of Taegu, emergency capital of South Korea. U. S. forces there reportedly withdrew intact.

Reds infiltrated Hamchang and around Kuncheon. They killed four American and one Korean officer in a schoolhouse in a command raid. Five of the raiders were killed. Eight Americans were wounded.

Tom Lambert, Associated Press correspondent, reported allied planes strafed and set fire to Hamchang.

Blessing In Disguise?

Trend Of Events Suggests Korean Upheaval Has Accomplished Much That Otherwise May Have Been Long In Coming; Stronger UN And New Unity

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

One recoils from examining war as a possible agent of good. Still, the trend of events does suggest that the Korean upheaval may in some ways prove to have been a blessing in disguise. For the very crudeness of this assault is drawing right-minded nations together in the interests of peace and justice.

The outstanding demonstration of this trend, of course, has been the action of the United Nations in applying military sanctions against the invaders of Southern Korea. That was unprecedented move—one which was evaded by the League of Nations, with fatal consequences to that organization.

This strong arm move by the U. N. probably has done more to help strengthen the U. N. than any other event. It means that the non-Communist members of the peace organization have been drawn closer together. Take a specific case for illustration:

Turkey has offered 4,800 fully armed troops for the Korean fighting whenever the U. N. asks for them. Now that was a mighty courageous decision for the government to make a historic gesture. Why? Well, because Turkey sits right under the big guns of Russia. The two countries have bitter differences over control of the Dardanelles waterway. And the sending of Turkish troops to Korea to fight Moscow's north Korean protégé might easily draw from Moscow the charge that it was an action unfriendly to the Soviet Union, though it wasn't intended that way.

So Turkey, the Lone Wolf, is now drawn closer to the western world by the Korean imbroglio.

Then take the case of the Atlantic pact partners. These 13 nations, spurred by the attack on Korea, are working feverishly to construct a unified army out of the individual armed forces of the western European states. They are putting the finishing touches on a far closer collaboration than they had envisaged at the outset of their venture. And that collaboration not only is military but includes other fields.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

Church women of all faiths are in agreement with the statement made recently by Dean Millicent C. McIntosh, of Barnard College, "that the most important task of our society" is the proper education of young women for motherhood; and they are eager that the church have a large share in that education rather than "leaving it to chance or to the yellow press." Dean McIntosh urges that through mutual understanding and closer cooperation the skills of the medical man and the scientist be brought to bear on the prospective mother. "We cannot leave the responsibility to the child psychologist and psychiatrist, because these are usually not brought into the picture until the harm is done." Family counseling and pre-natal clinics associated with churches are said to be a partial answer to the needs.

"Not only race relations, but labor relations as well, have become a litmus test of our intentions and objectives," Vera Michele Dean, of the Foreign Policy Association, recently told an assembly of Methodist women. "Throughout the world labor is emerging into a position of power, just as, more than a century ago, the middle class rose to challenge the privileges of king and feudal aristocracy. No government, irrespective of its political label or composition, can now safely disregard the wishes and interests of workers. Some people find this alarming. Yet is this not a natural and desirable result of the gradual extension of democratic opportunities? Fortunate is the land where labor comes to exercise political power without resort to civil strife."

The first training school for nurses in Ethiopia was recently organized by the Seventh-Day Adventist Church at its hospital in Addis Ababa. Six young men and six young women, all Christians and trained in the schools of the Adventists, make the first class at the eighty-bed Zauditu Memorial Hospital, Addis Ababa. Head nurse and director of the school is Miss Lois Bowen, R. N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland G. Bowen of Colledge, Tenn. She is a graduate of the Florida Sanitarium and Hospital, Orlando, Fla., and was formerly on the staff of the Washington Sanitarium and hospital, Tokoma Park, D. C.

Frog 'Symphony' Fooled Public

Pasadena, Calif.—(P)—For weeks residents of Glen Summer Road complained of "loud and strange noises," which they attributed to power lines. The light department sent out a trouble crew on a night when, one sleepless citizen said, "the noise vibrated the entire house." The crew's findings: a bunch of bullfrogs in a nearby swamp were whooping it up. "This department has no remedy," a spokesman sadly announced.

Margie Ruth Fields Becomes Bride Of J. E. Pollard In Private Rites

MRS. JAMES EARL POLLARD

Miss Margie Ruth Fields of Greenville became the bride of Mr. James Earl Pollard of Farmville, on Tuesday evening, July 11th at 8:15 o'clock at the home of the officiating minister, Calvin J. Harris, 601 E. 8th street.

For the wedding the bride chose a pink organdy dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate families and friends. Those present were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Fields of 1211 Chestnut Street, Greenville, the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Pollard, Route 4, Greenville, Preston Fields, Jr., Mrs. R. D. Pollard and Thomas Wilkins of Greenville, and Mrs. Kenneth C. Raymond and daughter, Nancy Carol, of Wilmington, Del.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Pollard left for their wedding trip to Morehead City and Wilmington. They are making their home on Belcher street in Farmville.

Wytheville, Va., July 31—(AP)—The polio outbreak in this southwest Virginia region continues to strike down victims at the rate of a little more than three per day.

Three more cases were reported yesterday from Wythe County to boost the area's total to 91 cases since the outbreak began July 1. And another fatality, which occurred late Saturday, sent the death toll to 12.

The latest death reported was that of a 21-year-old man, father of a little girl who died 11 days before.

Indications that the disease might be spreading were borne out by the report of another case from ad-

News Is Relief To N. C. Nurse

Dunn, July 31—(AP)—A registered nurse at Dunn doesn't know Don Whitehead but if she ever meets the Associated Press' foreign correspondent, she'll probably say "Thanks."

For it was Whitehead who gave Mrs. Elton G. Brooks the first news she's had of her husband in weeks. Her husband's too busy to write; he's had his hands full recently fighting Korean Reds.

Whitehead, in a novel approach to war reporting, wrote a dispatch last week, headed "Social Notes from Korea during the Summer Hunting Season." In the style of a country newspaper correspondent, the piece had notes on more than a dozen of fighting Americans. Of Brooks, it said this:

"Sgt. Elton G. Brooks of Dunn, N.C., is now sporting the bars of a second lieutenant. Lt. Brooks won the promotion on the Korean battlefields. Congratulations, Elton."

The news was a relief to Mrs. Brooks. "I couldn't have been happier," she said.

Low-Cost Radio Sets Proposed For Soviet Use

New York, July 31—(AP)—David Sarnoff says it may be possible to mass-produce tiny radios at $2 a set and distribute them in Russia and satellite nations to receive the "voice of America."

Sarnoff, chairman of the board of the radio corporation of America, said last night such a maneuver would give iron curtain peoples "personal reception" which would be "much safer" than having radios in their homes.

The "voice," operated by the state department, beams regular programs abroad.

Interviewed on the National Broadcasting Company's "meet the Press," Sarnoff said there are "a number of ways" to get the miniature sets into the Communist nations.

Family's Sixth Son Off To War

Charlotte, N. C., July 31—(AP)—Another fighting Evans has gone off to war.

This time it's Johnny Evans. He's the sixth son out of a family of eight boys to become members of Uncle Sam's fighting forces.

Johnny is aboard the U. S. S. Boxer in the Pacific. The five other brothers, Bill, Roy, Rommie, Wilson and Graham, saw service during World War II. The remaining brothers, twins Lloyd and Floyd, were exempted from duty.

Death Penalty For Spies Looms

Washington, July 31—(AP)—A bill to allow the death penalty to be given to spies for the next two years was approved today by the senate judiciary committee.

The maximum penalty now for anyone convicted of peacetime espionage is 30 years' imprisonment.

The bill, which goes to the senate for action, was introduced by Senator Eastland (D-Miss.)

per cent increase, or .85 per cent increase to the whole year's income. That .85 per cent added to the present 16.60 per cent tax would be 17.45. If the taxpayer were allowed to figure his tax by 17.45 per cent of his income for the entire year, he would have only one set of calculations instead of two. Of course, the 17.45 per cent figure is only a proposed tax. Congress customarily does not rigidly follow administration proposals for tax changes. While it may aim at the same general revenue goal, it often likes to use its own method in reaching that goal.

Spokesmen for the committee have announced that a merger of America's rival labor factions has become a virtual must because of the world march of communism. In another statement the committee said:

"Labor in America is completely United against communist aggression."

Thus it would seem that good can result from the Korean war. It may have the effect in the long run of drawing us closer to the ideal of world unity.

African Chief Is Ordered To Quit Tribal Territory

London, July 31—(AP)—African chieftan Seretse Khama has been told by Britain to get out of his tribal territory with his white wife, Ruth, and their baby daughter. The order, disclosed yesterday in a communique issued by the Commonwealth Relations office, is to take effect "at an early date."

It was Seretse's marriage to Ruth Williams a typist, when he was studying law in England two years ago that split his tribe and raised the threat of civil war in British-administered Bechuanaland.

Britain decided last winter to ban Seretse from his tribe's reservation for five years, but allowed him to return last spring so he could be with his wife when their first child was born.

The communique said that there now was no reason for further delaying his exile.

ON THE ROAD TO VICTORY
Jonathan Edwards, the greatest theologian that the Church in America has produced, was finally driven from his pulpit in Northampton, Massachusetts, and compelled to accept a little church in the Indian village of Stockbridge. It must have seemed both to Edwards and to his friends that a brilliant and promising career had definitely come to an end. But it was while he was doing his humble work in an Indian village that Edwards wrote some of his greatest books on theology and philosophy.
He would never have had time to write such works had he been tied down to the compelling duties of a large church. The apparent misfortune, which at the time almost broke his heart and discouraged his supporters throughout the nation, proved to be one of the greatest blessings in the life of this great man and in the spiritual life of the country.
So let us not get too discouraged when we find ourselves defeated in some endeavor or turned back from achieving some great goal. If we have done our best, we can be sure that God is using a circumstance to some better triumph than we ever dared to hope for in our happiest hours.
What appears to be defeat for us is often God's preliminary step in bringing us to triumph.

An Invitation To A Day Of Fun

Greenville is preparing for another Farmers Day. It is a day when the doors of the city are literally thrown open to all of Greenville's neighbors in the surrounding area.
Top flight entertainment is being gathered from the various communities in this section of the state to help the known entertainers put on an all-day show for the people who visit Greenville.
In addition to the shows which will be presented from the stage at the Farmers Day headquarters, there will be a warehouse full of exhibits which are being prepared for the information and pleasure of the people who visit Greenville on Farmers Day. The Greenville merchants and other business people are making an all-out effort to make Farmers Day in 1950 an even greater success than Farmers Day last year when literally thousands of people from all over Pitt and surrounding counties flocked here for the festivities.
Farmers Day in Greenville is just what the name says. It is the day which is set aside for the entertainment of the people from the surrounding communities who come to Greenville.
The Reflector, along with the other businesses and people of Greenville, extends a cordial invitation to all the people in the other towns and the rural areas of Pitt county to come to Greenville on August 10 to join in the fun of Farmers Day.

Where Power Is There Must Be A Check

In order to protect the American system of individual freedoms and free enterprise, there must necessarily be a limit to the powers granted the president of this nation even in the time of international conflict.
The houses of congress are now weighing the cases of economic controls and presidential powers before taking decisive steps along either line. They are considering the administration's industrial mobilization bill which would give the president "limited" economic control of the nation in the time of national emergency. At the same time a portion of the members of congress are leaning toward the Baruch proposal which advocates the freezing of all wages, prices and rents, and at the same time calls for increasing taxes and rationing essential goods.
The senate banking committee has made a few changes in the administration bill so far. It exempted farms from the facilities which the president could take over for national defense. The committee also rewrote the statement of the general intent of the bill to say the powers will be used "within the framework as far as practicable of the American system of competitive enterprise."
The committee members are fully aware of the fact that certain government controls are necessary in the time of national emergency. But they should be, and apparently are, keenly aware of the fact that the whole system of American enterprise and individual freedoms could be wiped out under government controls which were given potentialities that are too far-reaching.

There is still another proposal which has been made which is an effort to put a check on the vast powers which it seems the president will have before this crisis continues much longer. It has been proposed that a committee of eight members of congress, two members from each party in both the house and the senate, be appointed to help the president administer the control power which is given him. The men would be named according to their ability, and not necessarily their seniority or political prowess.
We think such a committee could be a real check in the interest of the people of the country. It seems logical that eight of the most able members of congress could be a great help to the president in administering his emergency powers, and at the same time not prove to be an obstacle in executing the powers as promptly as conditions may call for.

Preparedness Counts In Polio, Too

North Carolina has been singularly fortunate this year in that infantile paralysis has not repeated its seasonal scourge.
True, there has been some polio, but as compared with other years the toll has been moderate.
The fact that we have not been haunted by fear of polio this year should not diminish the extent of preparedness required for future years.
In other years, the polio toll nearly drained the funds set aside for treating victims by means of the March of Dimes foundation.
Resolve now, that though North Carolina has been spared the curse of a violent epidemic this summer, that you will not forget to help build up the "war chest" against future epidemics during the next March of Dimes.
Preparedness has suddenly become more than a mere word these days when we look on its absence in other fields. Let's be prepared for infantile paralysis when it makes its sneak attack.

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON July 31—A prominent political family in Kansas City, Mo.—the Kemper dynasty—may come under Senate investigation as a result of several favors granted to its petroleum and lumber interests by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, especially since one member was once a key man in the federal agency.
The demand for an inquiry has been made by Representative Chet Holifield of California because of the Kemper interests' opposition to the state's purchase and dedication of a magnificent forest to California's World War II debt.
He has asked Senator Fulbright, chairman of the special committee examining RFC operations, to look into the matter. Mr. Holifield has the support of leading California newspapers, civic organizations, conservationists and Governor Earl Warren.
LOAN—The Kempers, who own or control many supply and building corporations which did business with the Pengardes machine during the years when President Truman was a minor official and henchman of the organization, figured indirectly in an RFC oil loan that has been condemned by Senator Fulbright.
In that inquiry, however, Senator Fulbright barely touched the politico-economic surface. He made no attempt to show that political friendship may have influenced the RFC, which is now wholly subservient to White House commands.
But the California controversy may lead Mr. Fulbright to retrace his steps, and to dig deeper into the $15,100,000 loan to the Texmass Petroleum Company of Dallas. It will take a lot of digging and bucking of influential people here and in Missouri, however.
PROSPERED—The Pickering Lumber Company, a Missouri corporation, owns the 1976 acres needed for the war memorial, including 369 acres covered with the finest sugar pines and sequoias on the American continent. It wants to cut, log and cash in on the timber. It has refused offers of a compromise made by the U.S. Forest Service.
The Pickering firm has a peculiar history. In 1934 it was almost bankrupt, like so many lumber firms in the depression years. But in 1936 it obtained an RFC loan of $2,500,000, and it has prospered ever since it was reorganized in 1939. In 1948 it was the record owner of $3,000 acres of timber in California alone.
DIRECTORS—Three new faces were brought into the company as directors after the 1939 reorganization. They were Ben Jonson, A. A. Calkins and James Madison Kemper of the Kansas City Kemper. Mr. Kemper became board chairman.
At the time the loan was made, Ben Jonson was a special assistant in the RFC office at Washington. A. A. Calkins was RFC manager of the San Francisco office, and presumably knew his timber. James Madison Kemper was chairman of the RFC advisory committee of Missouri, where the Pickering firm was incorporated.
In the very year that the firm was reorganized—1939—Mr. Kemper resigned from his RFC job.
OIL—The highly controversial Texmass oil loan, which was consummated in defiance of Senator Fulbright's condemnation, involves another Kemper—William Thornton Jr., albeit indirectly. Incidentally, to the chagrin of Jesse H. Jones, former RFC chairman, this was the RFC's first underwriting of an oil production venture, which he had always regarded as too risky.
A key figure in the Texmass company, which included several minor petroleum units, is Arthur W. Kincaid of Wichita, Kan., a banker and oil financier.
"IN"—Mr. Kincaid is president of the Fourth National Bank at Wichita, and he was instrumental in throwing together the Texmass Company. William Thornton Kemper Jr. is a director of the Fourth National, and also a director of the Fourth National Bank in Mr. Truman's home city of Independence, Mo.
Another Kemper, Rufus Crosby, is a member of the advisory board of Braniff Airways, which seems to have an "in" at Washington when it seeks favors or licenses for routes. It was recently given a South American run which is generally regarded as unnecessary, in view of the limited business in that area.
COMMITTEEMEN—The father of these three sons, the late William T. Kemper, was Democratic National Committeeman of Missouri for many years. The family's holdings include banks, trust companies, life insurance firms, real estate and general mortgage business.
The Kempers are also interested in public utilities, theaters and restaurants. They own elevator, lumber, clay products, sand and gravel companies and other

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.
UNIQUE—The village of Pinehurst occupies a unique position in the governmental set-up of North Carolina. It is not an incorporated municipality; it has no responsibility to the state comparable to that imposed upon incorporated towns and cities; it has no mayor or town board elected by the people. Affairs of the community are administered by the directors and management of Pinehurst, Inc., a private stock corporation operated for profit. Yet, by virtue of an act of the 1949 general assembly, Pinehurst, Inc. has all the advantages with none of the obligations of a legal municipality.
REVENUE—In the current distribution of intangible taxes collected by the state from its citizens, Pinehurst, Inc. shares along with the legally incorporated towns and cities. The distribution list prepared by the state Board of Assessments allots $2,143,110 of state-collected intangibles taxes to Pinehurst, Inc. So far as can be ascertained that is the only instance of the state directly and legally contributing tax money to a privately owned and managed business firm. Pinehurst, Inc. has also shared in distribution of beer and wine revenue returned to local units. Overall effect of the act, sponsored by Rep. Clifton Blue of Moore County in the last legislature, is to give Pinehurst, Inc. all the advantages with none of the obligations of an incorporated municipality. The corporation maintains streets, affords sewer and garbage services, and performs many other municipal functions. It does these things because it is good business, and not because of legal requirements. The whole thing is funny—not funny "ha ha" but funny "peculiar."
MUNICIPALITIES—One hundred counties and 359 municipalities shared in distribution of intangible taxes this year. Wake County has largest number of incorporated towns qualifying for a share—twelve. Three counties—Camden, Currituck and Hyde—have no incorporated towns meeting requirements.
MONEY—Mecklenburg and its municipalities led in amount received, the checks aggregating $302,685.74. Guilford came second with $235,557.21, and Forsyth third with $211,211.04. On the other extreme, Clay was at the bottom of the list with $1,668.82, slightly topped by Dare with $1,842.42 and Graham with $1,865.77. Total distribution this year amounts to $2,733,750.38. The state retained 20% of total collections amounting to $683,439.85.
BUILDING—Impact of the Korean war has been felt on the state building program and may seriously retard it. Governor Scott and Highway Chairman Jordan spent a day or two last week in Washington seeking aid in obtaining cement and other materials for state roads and public buildings. Governor Scott may find his cherished ambition to be known as the greatest builder of all governors blocked by the same uncontrollable factors that prevented building during the administrations of Governors Broughton and Cherry. Money accumulated through combination of increased revenue and inability to spend it provided the backlog for the expansion program outlined by the two latest legislatures.
DISAPPOINTMENT—It is known that Governor Broughton was keenly disappointed because outbreak of war early in his term stopped all building. Governor Cherry came into office while the war was at its peak and did not hope to accomplish a great deal in the way of building. His task, and it was hard, was to hold roads and buildings against excessive depreciation. Governor Scott came on the scene just when labor and materials were being released in quantity for civilian projects and when prospects for peace were good—at least for ten years. His Go Forward program contemplated more rapid expansion than at any time in state history and for

What Other Papers Are Thinking

GOOD JOB WELL DONE (Henderson Daily Dispatch)
Whether through coercion, or intimidation, or what not, the telephone utilities have done an excellent job of providing telephones to new applicants over the state. Results accomplished go far toward discounting the repeated charges of Governor Scott that the telephone industry is hesitant or unwilling to render the service of which it is capable.
V. W. Chase, telephone engineer of the State Utilities Commission, is authority for the statement that approximately eighty thousand phones were installed in the State during the first half of 1950. More than 53,500 requests are still on file with the companies. But it may be assumed with every assurance that these applications will be granted as rapidly as equipment is available. Telephone companies are in business for profit, and it stands to reason that the more stations they have the greater will their profits be. It is idle, therefore, to charge that they are indifferent to public needs and demands.
In North Carolina, according to Chase, there are in service at the present time nearly 527,000 telephones, or about one for every eight persons. That is a creditable accomplishment, regardless of criticism.
War conditions now gradually being imposed upon the country will to some extent limit the capacity of telephone companies to meet demands upon them. They can hardly be criticized for that. Were there no such restraints, however, a requests could be met within a reasonable time if

Business Today

It's dangerous to assume that the great rise in buying is solely caused by hoarding. Such thinking may blind business men to an important pressure on demand which will steadily become more powerful.
Hoarding, of course, has developed some high buying pressure. But let's take a look at some government figures on another factor.
Employment in industrial and commercial establishments rose 833,000 between May and June, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports. July figures are not yet available, but rearmament accelerated the rate of increase. There may have been close to 2,000,000 added to payrolls in July but, to be conservative, let's assume there were less than a million and the total increase since May has been 1,500,000.
The average weekly factory pay envelope contained $58.95 in June, according to BLS figuring. Even if it were only $56, the increase in employment has added $75,000,000 a week in wages.
That's not all. BLS also reports the average weekly paycheck of 12 million production workers rose $1 from mid-May to mid-June, largely because of overtime. The rise from mid-June to mid-July was as much, if not greater. That adds $24,000,000 a week more to workers wages.
That means added pay of $99,000,000 a week, estimated conservatively. Actually, it may be half again or twice as much.
This fresh money is highly expendable. The extra money each week can be saved, but it's likely to go for something the family has been wanting for a long time. The man who returns to work may pay off back indebtedness, but he's more likely to buy more groceries or make a down payment on a television set, a refrigerator or a vacuum cleaner. Thus, the rearmament program so far has generated a buying pressure of five billion dollars a year on available goods.
The greatest significance, however, is that development of this pressure has only begun. Higher taxes and credit controls may reduce it, but despite those, the pressure will tend to rise. Attributing present demand entirely to a temporary craze for hoarding will produce a faulty conception of what's ahead.

Washington Letter
By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—Where many would try to dodge appearing before a congressional hearing, an enterprising New York public relations firm urges its clients to take advantage of any such opportunity.
In a "memo" to the firm's clients B. C. Goss, in charge of its Washington office, describes congressional hearings as the "focal point of public opinion." He goes on to say: "With the limelight of national press attention focused sharply on the Congress, business executives can often sit in the most public place in the nation and beat down, with facts and figures and reason, the extremists' onslaughts on the private enterprise system."
But Mr. Goss points out it is important for business men to know how to make their appearances before congressional committees impressive once they get the opportunity to appear. The prospective witness must make advance preparation. His testimony should "anticipate every possible area of interest, every pertinent fact and figure." He should study the committee, its chairman, membership and past performances. He should have legal counsel, preferably Washington counsel. He should be forthright and never a bore.
"Consider that their (members of Congress) 'tastiest occupational hazard is being talked to death,'" warns Mr. Goss. "They must listen in their offices, in committees and 'on the floor' to never-ceasing torrents of dry-as-dust words in speeches and legal opinions. And representatives of the press covering Congress are scarcely more fortunate."
Mr. Goss points out there is no surer way of "achieving obscurity in news coverage" than by using cliches and hackneyed expressions. Before reciting such trite terms as the "American way," "socialism," "government regulation" and "dictatorship," he says, "think how many times they have been used in committee rooms during the last year." The memo urges business witnesses to use graphic illustration where possible, but warns against "Hollywood-style press agency" that urges them to work closely with the chairman and the committee staff "unless both are clearly hostile" to avoid getting into political arguments with committee members and never say "I don't know" when you can say "I'll find out."
"Cautious replies of 'I don't remember' or 'I don't know' anger congressmen and bore the press," says the memo. "Such testimony drives away legislators and newspapermen alike and may even inflict serious damage to the witness' cause."
An Advanced Air Strip in Korea—(AP)—We sincerely hope our little air control mission did some good for the boys on the ground at the front.
We—that's Lt. Don Morgan, 27, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and I—made a sweep behind the enemy front in a small two-seater T-6 trainer plane.
Morgan is one of the Air Control pilots—something new in warfare—whose job is to spot targets and lead the much faster jets and Mustangs to them. I trundled along with him to see how it's done.
Circling at 1,500 feet ten to 15 miles deep into enemy territory north of the Taejon-Yongdong-Hwanggan road, the country seemed deserted. I couldn't pick out a target.
The only vehicles I saw on the roads were already blackened, gutted and motionless.
But Morgan had the advantage of special training—and he radioed suggestions of ground and liaison officers with the infantry.
Over the radio I heard him call to four F-80 jets cruising high over us:
"There is a tank or field piece that seems to be firing from the village of Yongang about eight miles north of Yongdong—and they are getting some of us."
"Roger!" said the leader of the four jets.
There was some argument then about just where the village was. We settled that by circling the target village several times until The jets came down from the heights and saw our unarmed spotter plane.
Then they struck.
It was an awesome, splendid, terrible sight—bright young men in taut, slender machines, pouring death at 500 miles an hour into an old, old town occupied by disciples of a new tyranny.
But it was people's homes that erupted in flame as well as the enemy's secreted stores of machines and ammunition and fuel. I thought of that as the red tongues leaped and the black smoke poured from places where folks were born, married and buried.
"Good work! You hit a fuel dump!" cried Morgan to the jets.
The jets then raked the town with rockets. They spent their last 50 caliber ammunition ripping another nearby village.
Suddenly Morgan let out a yelp. We wheeled and headed for base. "I didn't mean to scare you," Morgan said over the interphone, "but the guerrillas were firing at us. I could see the red flashes from their guns."
A little later he offered this comment: "My home town is beautiful. I wish I was back there."
Lieutenant Morgan is a sensitive, fine man with two small boys at home.
Back on the ground, he reported the destruction by the jets of two fuel dumps or tanks in one

Youth Arrested For Failure To Report Accident

A 19 year old Negro boy was arrested by Patrolman D. E. Perry of the State Highway Patrol recently on charges of failure to report a motor vehicle accident within 24 hours after it occurred.

The Negro arrested, William Jake Gilliam, of Route 4, Greenville, was operating a car owned by Leroy Gilliam on the 19th of July when he wrecked the car on a rural road near Greenville.

According to Perry, the accident occurred about two miles west of Belvoir on a rural road about one o'clock in the morning. The damage to the car was estimated to run around $600-$700.

The arrested man was cited to a Justice of the Peace's court for trial.

Perry pointed out that North Carolina State law requires all motor vehicles accidents in which one or more cars are involved, resulting in damage over $25, to be reported to the nearest Police or Patrol station within 24 hours from the time the accident occurs.

If there is no damage to the car, but injury is suffered by a passenger in the car or someone else, a report of this also must be filed, Perry said. Many people believe that as long as there is only one car involved, no report is required to be made, but it is, the patrolman said.

The main reason for having the accident reports made, Perry stated, is to enable the State to keep an accurate report on all accidents and injuries on the highways over the state.

"Any person who violates the law by not reporting an accident is subject to arrest and a fine," the Patrolman stated.

The accident in which the above man was arrested was not reported to the Patrolman even after a week had gone by, but the Patrolman knew of the accident and the arrest was made shortly thereafter.

The arrest was one of several which have been made by patrolmen operating in Pitt county in the past several months.

Traverse City, Mich., July 31 (AP)—Fred E. Reed of nearby Sutton's Bay went to market Saturday and found that the cherries from his fine orchard would bring only four cents a pound this year.

Reconstruction At Fort Raleigh To Begin Aug. 14

Manteo, N. C., July 31—(AP)—Reconstruction work on the first large structure built on the American continent by Englishmen—Fort Raleigh—is slated to begin Aug. 14. The rebuilding of the fort will take place at the National historic site here on Roanoke Island.

J. C. Harrington, National Park Service archeologist of Richmond, Va., announced that plans for reconstructing the fort have been completed. Harrington supervised excavation work on Roanoke Island during 1947, he said this work resulted in the location of the outlines of the original fort, built of earth by colonists sent from England in 1585 by Sir Walter Raleigh.

Robins Take Two Of Three Week-End Contests Against Tarboro Athletics

Locals Move To Within One And One-Half Games Of League Leading Roanoke Rapids

The Greenville Robins took two of their three weekend games with the Tarboro A's, splitting the twin bill here Saturday night with the A's taking the seven-inning opener, 12-3, and the Robins coming back to take the nightcap by a 6-5 score. Then on Sunday afternoon the Robins journeyed over to Tarboro where they edged the A's by a 2-1 margin. The two-out-of-three wins for the Robins and the league-leading Jays losing both of their weekend games to the Rocky Mount Leads moved the Robins to within one and a half games of the Coastal Plain League lead.

Saturday's Games

In the first game, the Tarboro club pounded out a 12-3 win as they collected eleven hits off three Robins hurlers, including a homer by Billy Carr over the left field wall in the second frame, and Hal Crofts connected with a two-run homer in the sixth frame.

Bob Broughmann, pitching his first time this season against the Robins, held the locals to three hits, with Joe Guidice getting a double and a single to account for two of the safeties.

The A's scored in every frame but the seventh while the Robins scored in two frames, scoring a singleton in the fifth on a walk and Guidice's double; then scored two more in the seventh on three walks, single and an error.

Bobby Harrison, also pitching for the first time this season against the A's, was charged with the loss to give him a record of six wins and five losses for the season.

Vince Lautato's single down the third base line to bring home John Tepedino who was on second on virtue of a walk and a stolen base after two men were out provided the Robins with the winning marker in the bottom of the ninth in the second game of the twin bill.

The Robins jumped into a 5-6 lead after two innings of play by scoring one run in the first on two errors and an infield out and putting across four runs in the second on four singles, a triple and a walk.

The A's pushed across three runs in the fourth frame on two singles and two doubles, and then came back in the sixth to score a singleton on a double and a single and knotted the count at five-all in the eighth when Drake singled to bring home Orf who had doubled ahead of him.

Jim Lewey, who went into the game to relieve Vince Jones in the eighth frame, received credit for the win, his first against the A's this season.

Joe Guidice with two for five and Ralph Bartolozzi with two for three led the nine-hit attack off the two Tarboro hurlers.

Score by innings (first game): Tarboro 213 312 0-12 11 1 Greenville 000 010 2-3 3 2 Broughmann and Anolick; Harrison, White (3), Bartolozzi (5) and Baltis.

Score by innings (second game): Tarboro 000 301 010-5 8 2 Greenville 140 000 001-6 9 1 Atzert, Jolly (2) and Drake; Jones, Lewey (8) and Allegretti.

Sunday's Game

The Greenville Robins made it two to a row over the Tarboro A's by edging out a 2-1 victory over in Tarboro yesterday in a pitching duel between Ray Keys of the Robins and Jack Yerkes of the Athletics.

The win for Keys was his eighth of the season and his fourth against the A's. He has two of his seven wins to the Tarboro club this season.

Tonight's Games
Kinston at Greenville
Tarboro at New Bern
Wilson at Rocky Mount
Roanoke Rapids at Goldsboro

The Greenville Robins are at the present time one and a half games from top spot in the Coastal Plain League leadership by virtue of their two wins and one loss over the weekend while the Jays were dropping both of their weekend games to the Leads. The Robins now have won 19 games by a one-run margin this season while losing 15 by a one-run margin. In the sixteen contests played between the A's and the Robins the Robins have been victorious in nine of them. In the three games with Tarboro over the weekend the Robins collected a total of 19 hits, the A's 25; the Robins scored 11 runs and the A's 18 runs. A total of 25 men were left stranded on the bases by the Robins while the A's had only 13. Paul Strausser brought the fans to their feet in the contest over in Tarboro yesterday when he pulled down Hal Crofts' ball against the centerfield fence with a one-hand catch on a ball that was hit approximately 355 feet.

News from Kinston appearing in yesterday's News and Observer indicates that the Eagles are about ready to throw in the towel. The ball club, according to the reports, is very much in the red and unless they can get some financial help from the Red Sox will be unable to pay off their obligations. The report stated that they were unable to meet their August 1 payroll and are at the present time $11,750 in the red on the 1950 operations. Just what will result with the stockholders and directors of the club in their effort to seek help from the Red Sox will not be known until today when the Red Sox send a representative down to Kinston to talk the matter over.

Congratulations to Alton Brown who recently won his 20th game of the season for the Jays and became the first pitcher in the league to notch 20 games. Brown says that he is after Bill Kennedy's record set several years ago at 28 wins for a single season, and with more than 30 playing days left in the current season he should do this very easily. Any way, good luck to you, Alton, and may you achieve your goal. Incidentally, Brown, who is only 22 years old, has had the big league scouts beating a path to his door this season and although he has not made any decision, it is reported that he will go with the Philadelphia Phillies at the close of the current season with Roanoke Rapids.

An opportunity to determine whether they have a professional career in baseball will be afforded the youths of this area when the St. Louis Cardinals conduct their tryout camp at Municipal Stadium in Goldsboro on August 11-12, under the direction of Goldsboro Manager Jim Herbison, assisted by veteran Red Bird Scout Kemp Wicker. The workouts will begin each day at 11 a.m. for all interested between the ages of 17 and 23.

Del Ennis Plays Important Role In Phillies' Push

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

When the time comes to vote for the National League's most valuable player please don't overlook one Del Ennis.

You'll never get Manager Eddie Sawyer to admit it, but the muscular Philly outfielder has been the most vital performer among the host of good looking kids on the hustling club. Ennis, more than any player on the club, is most responsible for its position on top of the heap today.

Sure, the three bonus pitchers—Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons and Bob Miller—have come through handsomely. The trio owns 36 victories. Roberts won his 13th game yesterday as the Phils swept a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-0 and 4-2.

Every Philly has done his bit. But in the final analysis, it has been Ennis and his big bat who has put the Phils in first place—and is keeping them there.

The 25-year-old native of Philadelphia has been the batting terror of the league in the Phils' current home stay. In the Phils' last eight games, of which they've won seven, Ennis has clubbed enemy pitching for 13 hits in 30 times at bat.

Except for driving in seven runs with a pair of home runs, a double and single, Ennis had a somewhat mild afternoon yesterday. His grand slam homer in the eighth inning of the opener was just added dressing as Roberts coasted to his third successive shutout and his 13th victory of the season with a four-hitter.

But Del's other four-base clout decided the second game. It came in the eighth inning to climax a four-run rally that overcame a 2-0 lead Murry Dickson of the Pirates held over them.

Stengel Predicts Decisive Games

Chicago, July 31—(AP)—Manager Casey Stengel, whose New York Yankees are only two percentage points behind the American League leading Detroit Tigers, says his club "will be plenty tough to pass again if we get into the lead."

"The next eight games will go a long way toward deciding the league race," Casey said yesterday after his Yankees handed him a 60th birthday gift with a doubleheader win over the White Sox.

"The field is pretty well bunched," he said. "And during the next eight games we'll play three in Detroit, three in Cleveland and then go home to play Boston two in New York. If we should happen to spring into the lead during this time, look out because we'll be tough to pass."

Sport Slants By Pap

Chris Van Cuyk made an impressive major league debut when he beat the St. Louis Cardinals at the same time, gave the faltering Dodger pitching staff a shot in the arm. The 6-foot-4 left hander showed a world of stuff and wasn't afraid to cut loose with it when the occasion demanded it. His impressive record of 14 victories for Fort Worth this season prompted the Brooklyn management to bring him up.

Van Cuyk is strictly a Navy product. He was only 16 when he went into the service, claiming to be 19. It was in the Navy that Chris attracted the attention of Max Macon, a former Dodger southpaw. Macon took Van Cuyk in tow, tutored him and then turned him over to the Brooklyn club. The Dodgers signed him after one look. In his first year Chris won 15 games for the class "D" club of Cambridge, Maryland, and the following season turned in 25 victories for the same club. The Dodgers brought him to training camp for a look in 1949. He caused quite a furor when he dusted off Jackie Robinson in a practice game.

Guardsman Curt Simmons Wishes He Had More Time To Practice Hurling

Indiantown Gap, Pa., July 31—(AP)—National Guardsman Curt Simmons wishes Star Pitcher Curt Simmons could find a little more time to practice throwing that old ball.

The 21-year-old star hurler for the National League leading Philadelphia Phillies says he likes his National Guard tour fine, but observes ruefully that it is likely to play havoc with his pitching arm.

Senator Asks Immediate Excess Profits Tax Law

Washington, July 31—(AP)—Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) called today for an immediate excess profits tax based on average corporation profits for the 1947-49 period.

O'Mahoney, chairman of the Senate-House Economic Committee, said he would offer that proposal as an amendment to the $5,000,000,000 tax bill asked by President Truman to help finance the Korean campaign and an expanded military program.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) said the Senate Finance Committee will start work on the President's recommendations Wednesday. He said he doesn't expect approval of an excess profits tax at this time, but added that one is almost certain to be enacted eventually.

An excess profits tax sets a legal limit on profits, with everything above that going to the federal treasury.

In his message, Mr. Truman urged higher income levies on corporations and individuals and the plugging of some tax loopholes. He left the question of the excess profits tax for later consideration.

But O'Mahoney said in a statement that many members of Congress are convinced that the heavy government outlays resulting from the Korean war "should not become the means by which huge war profits can be reaped on the home front."

He said he had found similar sentiment among business leaders.

O'Mahoney said his amendment is patterned after the World War II law, except that it has a new rate schedule and uses profits in the 1947-49 period instead of the 1935-39 period as the basis for figuring the tax.

Leslie S. Ladd, Jr., of 34 Cleveland Avenue, Nashville, Tenn., sure knows his HADACOL. He, his mother and his grandfather get precious Vitamin B1, B2, Niacin and Iron from this family product.

"Mamma, we haven't taken our HADACOL," says Leslie when his mother forgets sometimes. Mrs. Ladd explains, however, that hers will always be a HADACOL family because it has helped relieve deficiencies of Vitamin B1, B2, Niacin and Iron for herself, little Leslie and her father.

TAKES 10 BOTTLES
Read Mrs. Ladd's own statement of their experiences once they learned that they were suffering from such deficiencies and began taking HADACOL: "I have taken 10 bottles of HADACOL. I have been run down since my oldest son was born. I am 23 years old. I have had very little appetite and I had weak spells every morning. I would almost faint but, after taking HADACOL they are gone and I stay hungry all the time."

"My four-year-old son had little appetite and his cheeks were pale. He now takes HADACOL and his cheeks are rosy and he has a wonderful appetite. I also had gastric disturbances, but they are gone now. My father took HADACOL for the agonizing aches and pains of neuritis. He is much better now."

WONDERFUL HADACOL FEELING
HADACOL is that wonderful new formula for relieving indigestion, stomach disturbances (gas, heartburn, sour "risings" after meals), also recommended for normal growth in children, as well as that general run-down condition, and aches and pains of neuritis, if your system lacks Vitamin B1, B2, Iron and Niacin.

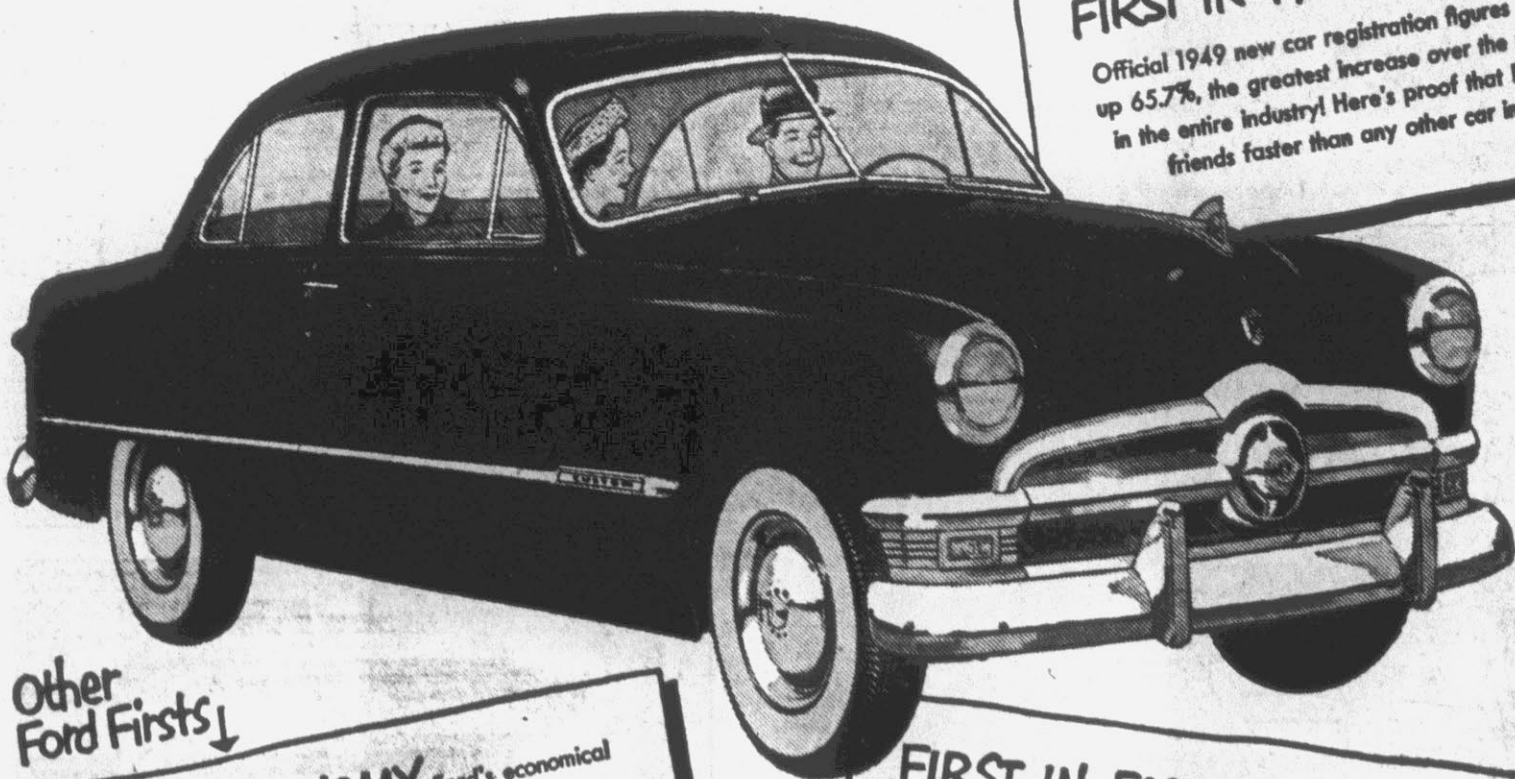

HADACOL is being recommended by many doctors. HADACOL is so amazingly successful because it relieves the cause of your trouble due to such deficiencies. That's the kind of product you want—the kind you should buy—the kind you should start taking immediately.

Georgia-Florida Belt Looks For Increased Sales

Valdosta, Ga., July 31—(AP)—Volume was expected to increase as the second week of sales in the 1950 Georgia-Florida flue cured tobacco season got underway today.

Reports from the U. S. Department of Agriculture showed that volume for the first week sales was around 2,000,000 pounds a day lower than last year's first week of sales.

However, the U. S. D. A. reported that prices averaged $6.88 a hundred pounds higher this year than the first week of the 1949 season.

Sales for the first five days of the 1950 season at 19 Georgia markets totalled 33,740,256 pounds at an average price of $50.48 according to department of Agriculture reports. In four days of sales during the opening week last year, volume totaled 37,112,244 pounds at an average price of $44.38.

Sales from three Florida centers amounted to 6,278,986 pounds at an average of $4.27 this year, compared to 5,102,621 at an average of $42.91 last year. Only one-third as much tobacco went into the government loan opening week this year. The U. S. D. A. reported receipts of the flue cured stabilization corporation were slightly over six per cent, as compared with 19.5 per cent last year. Most grades brought prices well above the government loan rate.

22-Year-Olds In Buncombe To Be Called By Board

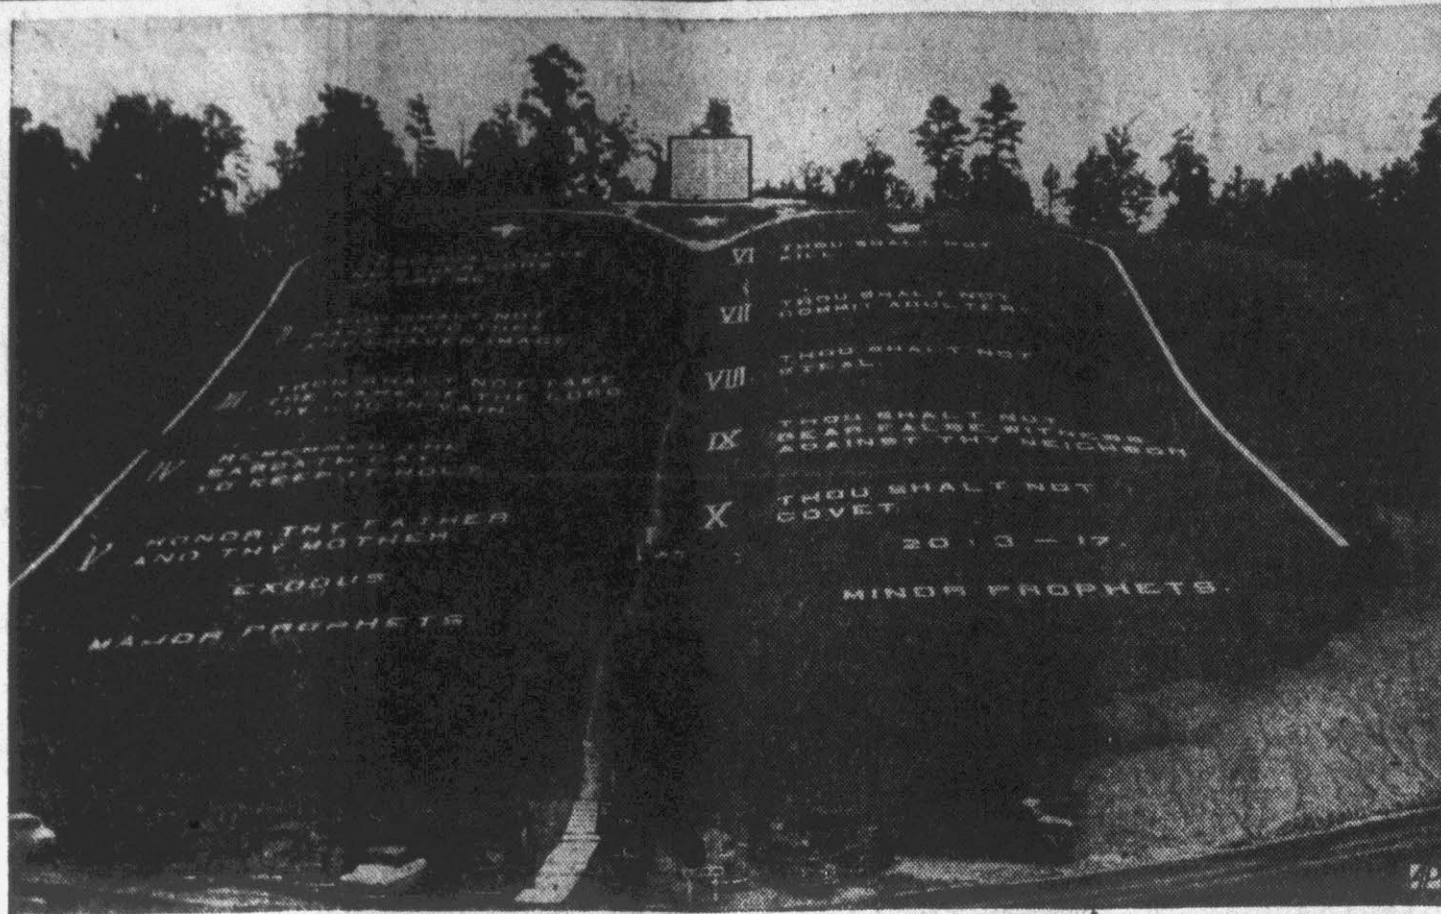

Asheville, July 31—(AP)—Buncombe County's draft board will call some 22-year-olds for pre-induction examinations on August 15.

The board indicated today it cannot fill its quota of 75 from men in the 25-year-old bracket and is dipping into the younger men to complete the first call.

As it neared the school-age bracket, the board announced college students will not be exempt from the draft, but that men already attending college may request deferment until the end of the school year.

Buncombe is the only county in this mountain area assigned a quota under the first draft call. Boards have not yet been reactivated in most of the other counties.

Record Quantity Atomic Explosive Was Produced

Washington, July 31—(AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission said today that since January it has produced a record amount of the explosive which goes into A-bombs.

It also disclosed that it is studying the possibility of making an atomic poison weapon.

In a semi-annual report to Congress, the atomic agency told of a stepped-up program during the first six months of this year, involving "all forms" of atomic weapons, including the hydrogen bomb.

And it hinted that this may have resulted in greater production of atomic bombs by saying that during the six month period "the rate of current operations" on the entire atomic project had "accelerated."

In the same period, the commission said, production of uranium-235 and plutonium—the explosive ingredients used in making atomic bombs—hit "the highest rate in the history of the project." The same materials also are used in experimenting with atomic power for industrial plants and ships.

The commission carefully refrained from saying outright what its rate of A-bomb production was during the six months.

"Atomic weapons and fissionable materials," it said, "were produced at the rate authorized by the President for the calendar year 1950."

It didn't give the rate Mr. Truman had authorized.

Enlistments For Pitt Falling Off

The Army recruiting office today reported that enlistments continue to be on the downgrade as compared with several weeks ago, when the Korean war first broke out.

"While there is a fairly steady flow of applicants for the Army, we are not getting anywhere near the number we had before," Sgt. C. D. Fare, local recruiting officer, said today.

Fare issued his scheduled office hours for each week beginning today. However, Fare stated, if anyone cannot come to the Post Office during the hours listed, any written requests for information or a personal interview will be appreciated and attended to as soon as possible.

The local office will observe the following hours each week: On Mondays the office will be open all day, from eight o'clock until five o'clock; Tuesday, 8-12; Wednesday, 8-12; Thursday, 8-5; Friday, the office will be closed all day, and on Saturday will be open from 8-5.

Days on which the recruiter will visit the county are as follows: Bethel, Tuesday afternoon from one o'clock until five o'clock; Wednesday, one o'clock until five o'clock; and Friday, Farmville from eight o'clock until 12 o'clock.

The recruiting offices in all of the above towns are located in the Post Offices.

In commenting on the advantages of enlistment over the possibility of being drafted, the local recruiter listed these: "Men who are enlisting have the chance to choose what branch of service they want and the general type of work which they prefer. Draftees have no preference," he said.

Quiet Month For Fire Department

The month of July was a quiet month for the Greenville Fire Department as they answered only one box alarm, that coming yesterday, on next to the last day of the month.

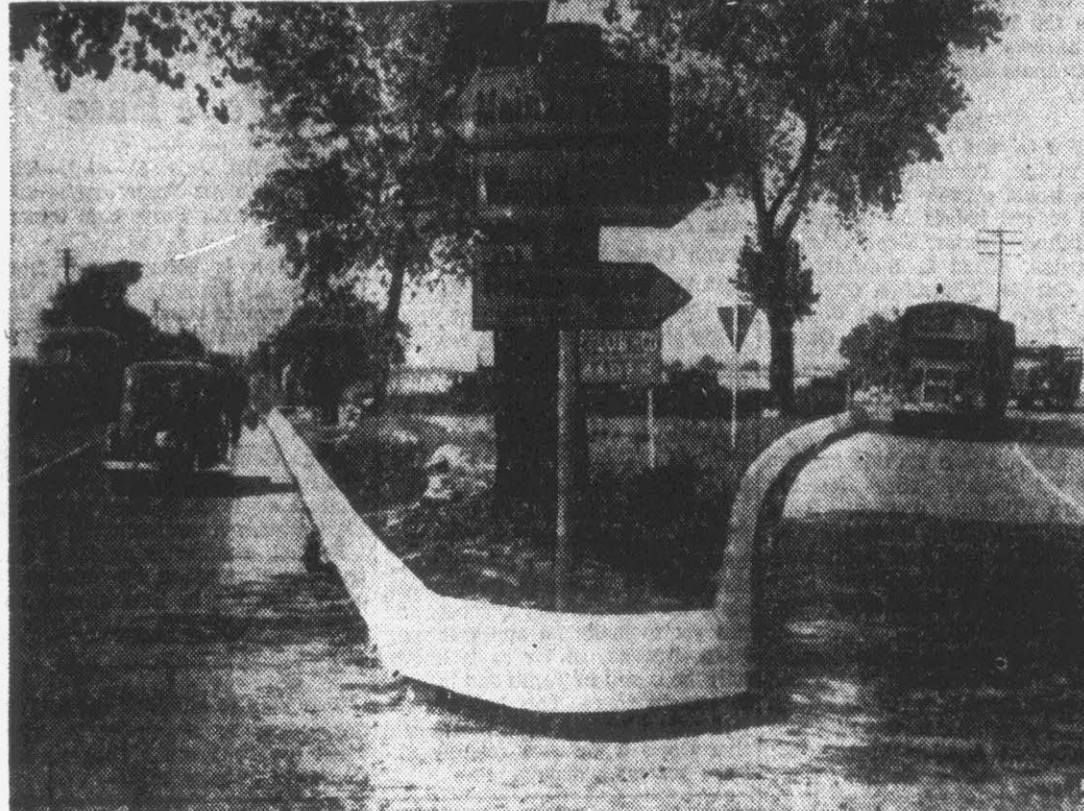

However, the local department responded to numerous local telephone calls for assistance and two out-of-town calls for aid. The rescue truck was called out one time during the month, that to a man who was buried in a cave-in on a building construction job.

The department also answered two calls in the heart of the business sections of the town in which gasoline trucks unloading fuel, created fire hazards.

Damage for the month was very small with slight damage being reported from a fire at John's Florist on Third street, where bed furnishings and part of a bed room were damaged.

No estimate on the losses had been made to the local department.

Fire losses to the Proctor hotel in June were reported to Fire Chief George Gardner today, amounting to $1,434.98. This brought the fire losses for the year to $13,976.12.

After a short time in custody at City Hall Police provided bail and the bride and groom were released. The case will be tried in Police Court next Friday.

Evidence Grows Of Russian Help

With the U. S. Eighth Army in Korea, July 31—(AP)—There is mounting evidence that Russian officers are in the field giving tactical advice to the North Korean Reds.

This has been suspected by military men since the war started. The tactical skill of the infantry, the expert use of artillery and mortar weapons and the conduct of the entire Red offensive has had the stamp of expert direction.

What evidence the Army has of Russian military advisers comes from North Korean prisoners.

Capt. Walter C. Clarke, 2024 Wilshire Blvd., Ft. Worth, Tex., is the chief of an American team that questions prisoners of war.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Russians are advising the North Koreans on their tactics against the American troops," Clarke said.

"Prisoner after prisoner has told us of seeing Russians. Our information is that there are four or five Russians with each division—ranging in rank from captains to lieutenant colonels."

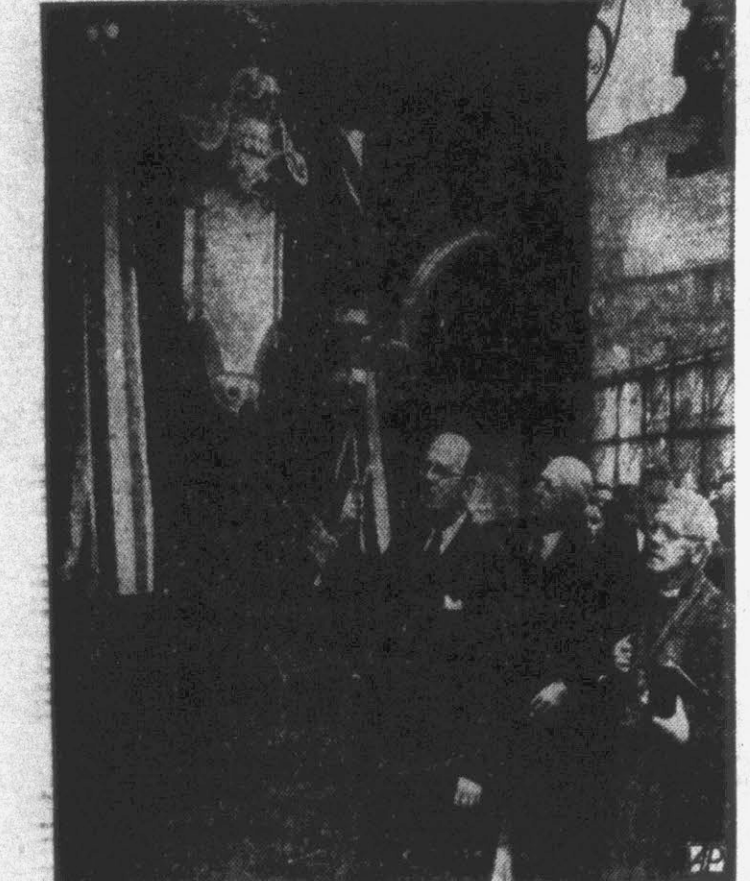

Clarke and his men have questioned scores of prisoners. Among them have been an air force major and several lieutenants who commanded companies or smaller groups of infantry. Clarke said there had been no other prisoners of higher rank.

LAST CHANCE

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE

Chapter 2
Glad to escape, Dick was out of the door before the bus had ground to a stop. But he hadn't escaped. The girl was behind him, the only other passenger bound for Leesburg. Nor was that all. In the smaller bus, there were only two empty seats, a pair together at the front, near the door.

Dick groaned inwardly and waited until she took her place by the window. Then he put up his bag and, careful not even to brush against her, sat himself gingerly on the edge of the seat. There he rested his elbows on his knees and cupped his chin in his palms.

He braced himself well enough against the lurch with which the bus started, but he was hardly prepared for what happened later. The driver, squinting through the wall of rain, suddenly slammed on his brakes at a grade crossing, and Dick, off balance at the moment, toppled forward to the floor.

The girl, denied the support the passengers behind found against the backs of the seats as the bus screamed to a halt, followed. Her slim body catapulted after Dick.

She landed on him with enough force to bring a grunt from the stout ball player. It was only this fact, however, that saved her from a bad bruising, and she knew it. So she said, "Thank you. I hope you're not hurt."

"There was apology in the blue eyes when she said it, and a pair of dimples at the corners of her mouth were waiting to break into a smile. Dick lifted her to her feet and was sure, as he did so, that she was lighter than the worn catcher's mitt packed away in his bag. But he forced it all out of his mind and grinned crookedly instead.

"I'm all right," he said. "I'm pretty well pleased."
Her eyes, staring into his, flickered once. Then she turned away, and they didn't speak again.

They got to Leesburg at five in the morning, and the girl hailed a cab. Dick headed for the lights of a hotel.

While he registered he asked the sleepy clerk, "Where can I find the manager of the Leesburg ball club?" "Johnny Lee? In the hospital. Two blocks down. Broke his leg in yesterday's game. Means the team won't never get out of the cellar. The Lions depended upon Johnny. Will you be staying long?"

Dick grinned. "That depends on Johnny, too," he murmured. "It didn't take him long to discover how wrong he was, a few hours later. Lee, one leg raised by a series of pulleys and weights, was cordial enough, and when Dick said, "I thought you might have a job for a good hitting catcher, even if he's kinda heavy." Lee nodded slowly and said, "I did all the catching myself—up to yesterday. Now I'm through for the season. Not that I'll make much difference. The club's headed nowhere, fast. If we'd been in decent shape, I wouldn't be here now. As it is, we haven't enough money to pay a ground-keeper and the field's neglected. There's a little hole near home plate, just enough to raise the corner of the rubber. My cleats caught in it when I slid in yesterday and—well, here I am."

"We both got some tough breaks yesterday," Dick began to say when the door opened and a girl walked in. Dick could hardly believe his eyes. The girl on the bus! The bedraggled hat was gone and her hair, in the early morning light, was burnished copper, but he would have recognized her anywhere.

She showed no surprise at seeing Dick, and when Lee said, "This is my sister Betty, Thompson," she acknowledged Dick's presence only with a glance.

by a curt nod and went to her brother's bed.
Lee broke a painful pause with, "What happened to you yesterday, Thompson?"
Dick grinned and looked at the floor. The girl cut in, "I saw what happened to him. He got thrown out at first—by an outfielder."
Lee looked incredulous, and Dick said weakly, "That guy's got a terrific arm. If . . ."
"Bunk!" Betty broke in sharply. "It was a clean hit in any league and it should have won the game for you. But you were so slow getting down to first base that Jackson was able to toss you out from deep left center—the third out, and the two runs that came in didn't count."
Dick began again, "That guy . . ."
"There's no excuse," she retorted, stamping her foot impatiently. "You got yourself laughed out of the league on that play and you deserved it. You've got right to be as badly out of shape as you are. I wouldn't stand for it!"
Dick raised his eyebrows in surprise, but they dropped when Lee explained, "Betty and I were left the majority stock in the Lions when our parents died. We own the club jointly and Betty's the business manager."
Dick got heavily to his feet. "Well, I guess that lets me out."
He turned, but the girl stopped him. "Wait! We need a catcher—if you are interested in the job."
He answered tonelessly, "What's the catch? You know baseball's the only thing I'm out for."
She stared at him for a long moment. "There are conditions attached to this offer," she admitted. "To begin with, you'll have all your meals with us, so that I can watch your diet. And you'll have to be more than a catcher—you'll have to do a ground-keeper's work mornings."
Dick stiffened, but before he could speak she added swiftly, "I'm not trying to take advantage of you. You're out of condition. That's why you were let go. Our diamond's out of condition, too. The only chance is to get both of you into shape together. You're big enough and strong enough to push that heavy roller around. It may get you and the field into shape—if you're not afraid of hard work, which I doubt."
Dick's eyes were on the floor. The girl turned to smooth her brother's pillow and added, with finality in her voice, "There it is, take it or leave it."
The implications in her tone jerked Dick's head up. He said in a strained voice, "The joke's on you—I'll take it!"

Special Rights For Servicemen

All persons entering the armed services prior to July 9, 1951, will be eligible for reemployment rights whether they be inductees, reservists or enlistees.

James D. Walters, contact representative of the local VA office, stated today that information received recently allows service personnel this privilege provided they got in the service after June 24, 1948, and are slated for a tour of duty of not more than three years unless extended by law.

To the reservist who enters active duty between June 24, 1948, and July 9, 1951, if he is released within the three-year period or as soon after the period as he can obtain orders relieving him of active duty, he will be eligible for the benefits.

Walters said the Selective Service Act of 1948 makes no distinction between the reasons behind the call to active duty. It extends reemployment rights, for example, to reservists who are called with or without their consent.

All matters of this nature are handled by the Bureau of Veterans Reemployment Right, 922 Grant Building, Atlanta, Georgia, under the auspices of the Department of Labor.

Pre-Induction Physical Exams To Start Aug. 7

Raleigh, July 31—(AP)—Pre-induction physical examinations of men to meet the state's September draft quota of 1,525 men will begin on August 7, state selective service Director Col. Thomas H. Upton revealed today.

Previously, Upton had announced that the physicals would begin at army recruiting stations at Charlotte, Fayetteville and Raleigh on August 14.

The earlier date was necessary.

Buyers on the tobacco market at Valdosta, Ga., are surprised to discover that Auctioneer Isaac Gurley (wearing white cap at left) has auctioned off two children with a basket of bright leaf. Wade Jackson, 8, and his sister, Emily, 5, are seated on the family pile and Gurley playfully sold all. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Divided Korea In Abrupt Decision

Washington, July 31—(AP)—The 38th parallel was picked out hastily, in a few hours, as a temporary U.S.-Russian dividing line in Korea after World War II, according to two foreign affairs speakers.

They are Lewis Hoskins, executive secretary of the American Friends Service Committee, and Hugh Borden of the Asian Institute, Columbia University.

"Just before the surrender of Japan in the summer of 1945," Hoskins related in a University of Chicago Round Table broadcast yesterday, "several one star generals hurried into an office in the Pentagon with the statement: 'We've got to divide Korea. Where can we divide it?'"

The generals were advised by Far Eastern experts that Korea was a single social-economic unit and couldn't be divided, Hoskins said. "Their answer to this was: 'We have got to divide Korea and it has to be done by four o'clock.' So, by 4 o'clock the division was made at the 38th parallel." (That line just about splits Korea in two.)

Hoskins said the selection was thus made on the spur of the moment without regard for the people involved, nor "the political consequences in our future relations with Asia."

Borden, who was working for the State Department at the time of the choice, said the separation was only intended to indicate what part of the defeated Japanese, then occupying Korea, should surrender to the United States and what part to Russia.

Group Will Clear Up Bottlenecks

Washington, July 31—(AP)—The house armed services committee today announced creation of nine "expediting subcommittees" to speed up the multi-billion dollar rearmament program.

"We are going to see that no bottlenecks develop," said Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.). "We are going to keep right on their necks."

The function of the four-man subcommittees will be to keep congress "fully advised of the progress of the expanded national defense program."

Vote For Boost In Marshall Plan

Washington, July 31—(AP)—The Senate voted today to increase this year's Marshall plan funds by $8,070,000, raising the amount for western Europe to $2,726,761,473.

Senator Hayden (D-Ariz.) proposed the increase which was approved 42 to 29.

A vote on the entire bill was still ahead.

Raleigh, July 31—(AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices steady. Tops at $23.50 at Rocky Mount; $23.25 at Tarboro, Greenville, Washington, Wilson, Goldsboro and Kinston; steady to stronger at $23.75 at Richmond.

(Continued from page one) bloody and that she carried on her arm a bloody towel. Dorsey offered to moisten the towel so she could wipe off the blood. The chief quoted Mrs. Duncan as saying, "What's the difference, Blood is blood" and declined the courtesy.

Police quoted Mrs. Duncan as saying: "What are you holding me for? I'm ready to go home." Chief Wooten replied: "Mrs. Duncan, your husband is in the operating room at the hospital. He is seriously hurt. We are awaiting the outcome of his condition."

"That was the woman's first realization of the seriousness of her husband's condition, and great beads of sweat came out on her forehead and she asked for ice water" the chief said.

Duncan is a native of Duplin county. Mrs. Duncan is from Darlington, S.C. They have a daughter Mary Anne Duncan, 11 years old. She gave police valuable information, the chief said.

Mrs. Duncan is being held in jail without bond pending her husband's recovery.

Leopold . . .

(Continued From Page One) nine days ago reached a peak last night with the killing of three anti-Leopoldists by police who fired on demonstrators at historic Liege.

Following the violence Socialist leaders warned that civil war would break out unless the king abdicated.

Leopold's return from exile in Switzerland touched off a widespread wave of sabotage and strikes. Opponents of the monarch planned a mass motorized march on Brussels from the southern strike-bound Walloon section of the country tomorrow.

The announcement said the Red food supply was getting low. It reported pillaging by small Red bands.

Shotgun . . .

(Continued from Page 1) Detective Dorsey when the Negro fired his shotgun at close range, he will have to face another charge—that of hit-and-run driving. Shortly before the man was shot he is alleged to have collided with a car owned by Eugene Harris, colored, on West Fifth street, near the West End Tea Room, police records show.
