Early Border Belt Average Ranges Around $54 To $58

Practical Top Was $68, But Several Sales From $70 To $75 Noted; Demand Good For Medium And Low Grades; Quality Of Offerings Better Than Last Year

By The Associated Press
Prices averaging from $4 to $58 per hundred pounds on early sales on Carolina border tobacco markets were reported today by the U. S. and N. C. departments of Agriculture.

The agriculture department reported that the bulk of the early sales were in a range from 48 to $58 per hundred pounds. The practical top was $68 but several sales from $70 to $75 were noted.

Demand was especially good for medium and low grades, the departments reported.

Quality of offerings was somewhat better than on last year's opening, and fair to fine lugs, low to good cutters and fair and low primings made up most of the sales.

The departments said there was very little leaf of nondescript grades. Condition of the offerings was described as good.

The volume was not as heavy as on last year's opening and most warehouses on the 18 markets of the belt were expected to clear their floors during the day. Light sales for the next 10 days were forecast.

From two to four per cent of the leaf was reported going to the tobacco co-operative stabilization corporation which buys leaf under the government support program.

Floors were well filled and there were few if any turned tags, by which a grower refuses the bid price.

Farmers went into the new selling season with an optimistic outlook on prices. Their hope was based on an opening day average of better than $51 a hundred pounds received by growers on Georgia-Florida markets last week.

W. P. Hedrick, tobacco marketing specialist of the North Carolina department of agriculture, forecast Carolina border prices would average from $54 to $55 at the opening.

He based this prediction on the fact that tobacco in the Carolinas and Virginia usually sells higher than in Georgia and Florida.

Hedrick looked for sales of 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 pounds today, compared with opening day sales last year of 10,178,168 pounds averaging $41.84 a hundred. He expected lighter sales during the rest of the week.

The U. S. department of agriculture has estimated the border crop at about 238,000,000 pounds, compared with last year's 243,325,000. Sales on the border last year were 255,965,670 pounds at a $49.45 average.

Higher government price supports for 1950 also have had a bearing on the feeling of optimism among growers. Support prices this year will average about $45 a hundred, compared with $42.50 last season.

Hearing Is Set On Tank Program

Washington, Aug. 1—(AP)—Military leaders responsible for this country's development and purchase of tanks will be called before a special House armed services subcommittee this week.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) announced this today, saying the full committee is "by no means satisfied" with the planning and spending done by the armed forces.

He said the committee is considerably disturbed about the tank program. He also said "tactical aviation is not what it should be."

An Army's Components

How An Army Is Built, From The Squad To Larger Units; What The United States Now Has In Divisional Strength; The Total Army; Specialists, Administrators

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Aug. 1—(AP)—You'll be reading about the Army for a long time—about divisions, battalions, regiments, platoons, companies and squads. But do you know how an army is made up?

It's like a pyramid standing on its nose: It starts small and spreads out as it moves up toward the top. At the peak of World War II the Army had 8,000,000 men. Now it has only 990,000, a skeleton of its old self.

This is how the Army is built: Squad—the smallest unit. Ten or 12 men. Commanded by a sergeant, assisted by a corporal.

Platoon—four squads, with a total of about 48 men. Commanded by a first or second lieutenant.

Company—four platoons. Total of around 200 men. Commanded by a captain.

Battalion—four companies. Total of around 1,000 men. Commanded by a major or a lieutenant colonel.

Why does a company have 200 men but a battalion of four companies have about 1,000? Because the larger the outfit, the more experienced men, or specialists, are needed

Tobacco Firms See No Increase Of Employees

Local Companies To Employ Approximately Same Number As Previous Seasons; One Firm Adding New Equipment

Temporary employment of laborers in Greenville tobacco companies will probably not exceed the numbers of former years, reports today from three of the companies indicate.

Imperial, Greenville and Person-Garrett companies will each employ anywhere from 350 workers when the bulk of the Georgia tobacco begins to roll into Greenville.

A spokesman for Ficklen Tobacco Company said plans are not definite at the present for the number of employes that will work for them during the market season.

Only one company, Person-Garrett, is adding new equipment to facilitate handling and processing the leaf. That company has added an improved stemming machine and also a new packing machine.

Greenville Tobacco Company has added extra parts to its present equipment. All three companies reported very little tobacco has been shipped to Greenville from the early market openings in Georgia. All their buyers are working the Georgia area at present and will move on through the border belt of North and South Carolina when sales become more brisk. Some are at the openings today, it was reported.

The bulk of the tobacco from the markets is expected toward the latter part of this week. Only a few truckloads have entered the plants to date, necessitating the employment of only a few of the expected number of persons to process the leaf.

Find No Clues In Seeking Cause Of Polio Plague

Wytheville, Va., Aug. 1—(AP)—State health authorities admit they have struck barren ground in their search for the cause of a virulent polio outbreak which is sweeping this southwest Virginia area.

Dr. Catherine Brewer said yesterday that her visit here from Richmond had failed to uncover any positive clues as to the cause of the epidemic or the method by which the disease is being transmitted.

But the outbreak continued just the same. Latest reports of week-end cases to the state health department boosted stricken Wytheville's figures to 102 cases and 12 deaths—all since July 1.

Cases also were reported in other southwest Virginia counties—two in Pulaski and one in Bland county, both bordering on Wythe, and one in Dickenson, further to the southwest.

May Fill Job Of Prison Director

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 1—(AP)—Police Chief John M. Gold of Winston-Salem likely will be the next State Prison director— if a matter of salary can be worked out.

It was known that Dr. Henry W. Jordan, chairman of the state highway commission, has held several conferences with the Winston-Salem chief over the post now held by H. H. Honeycutt on an acting basis.

City's Finances In Best Shape Of Last Four Years

"Greenville's city government is in the best financial shape it has been in in at least the past four years." That was the comment this morning of C. H. Bass, who is completing the audit on the city books for the last half of the 1949-1950 fiscal year.

Bass has been checking the city's finances since last week in a routine financial audit. He said this morning he has gotten far enough along with the audit to see that the city is in the best financial condition in at least four years. Bass has been auditing the city books for a number of years.

"The city not only overcame a deficit this year, but it spent out of the year's budget $4,000,000 which could have been carried over to this year," Bass commented. "I think they've done a very good job this year."

Regiment—three battalions. About 3,000 men. Commanded by a colonel.

Division—this is where the spread-out really begins. A division has around 18,000 men and is commanded by a major general, assisted by a brigadier general.

A division is made up of three regiments, plus a heavy tank battalion, a medical battalion, field artillery and various companies of specialists, such as military police, telephone experts, and so on.

A division is the smallest self-sustaining outfit in the army. That is: "It's supposed to have all the supplies, tanks, guns, and specialists it needs to operate by itself in enemy territory, independently."

Army Corps—made up of three divisions. Commanded by a lieutenant general.

An army—made up of three army corps. Commanded by a full general.

An army group—this can consist of any number of armies. Commanded by a general.

Seating Of Red China In UN Is Malik's Strategy

Western Nations Appear Assured Of Enough Votes To Overrule Russian

Lake Success, Aug. 1—(AP)—Russia made it clear today that she will discuss peace in Korea only after the United Nations has considered her renewed demands for seating Red China.

The Russian position was disclosed as Soviet deputy Foreign Minister Jakob A. Malik prepared to end his seven-month boycott of the U. N. and assume the presidency of the security council when it meets at 2 P. M. (EST) today.

The western nations, headed by the United States, appeared assured, however, of enough council votes to overrule the Soviets and keep the Korean question at the top of the agenda.

Malik revealed the latest Soviet plan in a proposed agenda for today's meeting, submitted late yesterday and listing the China recognition issue ahead of the Korean conflict. This dashed the hopes of those who had looked for Russia's return to signal in important change in Soviet foreign policy.

Council delegates generally agreed that a major procedural battle would be waged over any Russian attempt to delay debate on the Korean conflict. Malik as council president for August under the monthly rotation system, submits a peace body's provisional agenda. But the council majority has the power to adopt any order of work it desires.

The stage was set for such a fight by U. S. delegate Warren R. Austin's surprise proposal late yesterday. This called for a new condemnation of the North Korean invaders and a new appeal to all nations to try to stop the fighting or at least prevent it from spreading.

Austin asked that his resolution be taken up at this afternoon's council meeting.

But the wording of the draft agenda submitted by Malik would bar discussion of the American proposal.

The Soviet work sheet is worded this way:

- 1 Adoption of agenda.
2 Recognition of the representative of the central people's government of the peoples republic of China as the representative of China.
3 Peaceful settlement of the Korean question.

Austin filed his resolution under the original Korean item, which refers to "aggression" in Korea. U. N. officials appealed to Malik to change his wording, or at least add a new item which would permit discussion of the U. S. resolution. The Soviet delegate refused.

Warrants at Greenville police headquarters charge him with three forgeries during the fall of 1949. The checks were for $234.16; $30, and $189.14.

Tripp will be given a preliminary hearing in Police Court Friday morning before Judge J. W. H. Roberts.

Arrest Man On Forgery Charge; Hearing Friday

J. A. (Jimmy) Tripp, who has various places of residence, and wanted in Greenville on charges of forging checks was arrested in Craven County early today by Sheriff Ed Berry.

Police Chief Herbert Wooten said Detective M. E. Corbett and Deputy Sheriff Jasper Lee Mills went to New Bern this afternoon to bring the alleged forger back here.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—(AP)—President Truman conferred for nearly 30 minutes today with secretary of defense Johnson. Johnson declined to discuss the conference with reporters afterwards.

Asks $4 Billions

Washington, Aug. 1—(AP)—President Truman told Congress today that world peace has been endangered by the Korean crisis and asked it to vote quickly $4,000,000,000 of new money to arm anti-Communist allies.

Speed in getting production of military equipment under way is imperative, the President said in a letter to House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) formally asking for the money.

Mr. Truman had advised congressional leaders at a White House conference yesterday that he would ask for the $4,000,000,000.

The reaction in Congress indicated there was general sentiment to provide it.

Greenville Rated As A Rich Market

Ranks Well Above National Average In Trade Based On Its Population

(Park Row News Service)
New York, Aug. 1—Greenville stands out as a rich market, with income and spending at a level above that of most other cities in the United States. This is brought out in a new, copyrighted survey of buying power, prepared by States Management.

The high standard of living prevailing in Greenville is indicated by the volume of retail business done in the past year. The local stores registered a sales total of $30,784,000, which was above the city's quota. On the basis of its population it should have accounted for only .0124 percent of the nation's business. Actually, however, it did 0.162 per cent.

The ability of local families to spend more was made possible by better incomes. The 4,900 families in Greenville attained a net income, after deduction of personal taxes, of $19,368,000. Dividing one by the other yields a per family income of $3,953, which was higher than the $3,556 earned per family in North Carolina as a whole. These are arithmetical averages, it is noted, and are substantially higher than the "median" income to be obtained in the United States census.

This $3,953 family income record was a gain over the previous year's figure of $3,647, and was accomplished during a period when the national income per family dropped 57.

The fact that the sales volume in Greenville exceeded the total income indicates that the city is the hub of a large trading area.

The survey reveals that the pick-up in business recorded by the nation during the second half of last year held the average loss in buying income to the $57 per family. Retail sales per family dropped $141, attributed to lower prices and to the dwindling backlog of wartime savings.

What may prove to be the first step in major traffic changes for the city of Greenville is expected to come Thursday night at the meeting of the aldermen in the form of recommendations from the city traffic committee.

The three-man traffic committee composed of Mayor W. S. Stafford as chairman, Alderman J. E. Collins and Police Chief H. E. Wooten met this morning and discussed recommendations which they expect to present for the consideration of the full city board Thursday night.

Mayor Stafford said the recommendations will deal with traffic on Greene Street, and the traffic problem at five points. The traffic committee is preparing a recommendation which will call for no parking on either side of Greene Street from the river bridge to Dickinson Avenue.

The other major recommendation will propose that traffic going west on Fifth Street not be allowed to turn in either direction at five points. It will also recommend that the concrete traffic light stand in the middle of the five points intersection be removed and the traffic signal suspended over the middle of the intersection. The mayor said the committee's recommendations will include the proposal that traffic going north on Evans Street be allowed to turn right on a red light at the five points intersection, and that traffic going northeast on Dickinson Avenue be allowed to turn right on the red signal at five points.

"By working these changes on five points like we have in mind," the mayor explained, "I am of the opinion we can synchronize the traffic lights throughout the city with the five points light." At the present time the other traffic lights are not synchronized with the light at the five points intersection.

In the process of the proposed changes, the streets would be lined to indicate the proper movement of traffic.

"There may be some other little changes when we work out the details," Stafford said. "We are giving some thought to changes on Chestnut Street and Albemarle Avenue." He did not elaborate this morning on what changes might be made at the intersection of the Albemarle Avenue, Chestnut Street and Grande Avenue. The problem of traffic at the four-way intersection has been under discussion by the traffic committee for some time.

Formosans Encouraged By MacArthur's Talks

Taipei, Formosa, Aug. 1—(AP)—General MacArthur flew back to Japan today after war talks with Chiang Kai-shek that cheered up this island remnant of Nationalist China.

MacArthur turned down Chiang's renewed offer of 33,000 Nationalist troops to fight alongside United Nations forces in Korea.

"Such action at this time might so seriously jeopardize the defense of Formosa that it would be inadvisable," MacArthur said in a statement.

MacArthur made a stern warning to Communist China, reported massed on the coast 100 miles west of Formosa for an attempted invasion of Formosa.

"Such an attack would, in my opinion, stand little chance of success," the five-star general said. "MacArthur said plans have been made to coordinate U. S. and Chinese forces 'the better to meet any attack which a hostile force might be foolish enough to attempt.'"

U. S. warships, under President Truman's June 27 order to protect Formosa, are patrolling the strait between the island and Red China "in force."

MacArthur noted that "the policy has been enunciated that this island, including the Pescadores, is not under present circumstances subject to military invasion."

Business Starts Early As Draft Board Opens

"I have a question." That was the most frequently heard expression this morning as the Pitt County Draft Board, No. 75, officially opened for business. In the above photo, Mrs. Selma Evans, local registrar explained to Leonard Culbreth, the first person to come to the local office today, the exact workings of the new draft set-up. In the background stands Aaron Earl Pierce, who just turned 18 today and was waiting his turn to register. (Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee)

Plan Dollar Day Event Thursday

Merchants Set Big Price Cuts For Semi-Annual Affair

The semi-annual Dollar Day, sponsored by the merchants of Greenville, will get underway bright and early Thursday morning.

As is the custom on such dollar-saving days, prices will be slashed as much as possible with many items on the merchants counters and shelves going for a reputed "next to nothing." And according to Cora Powell, secretary of the Merchants Association, "Dollar Day means what it says."

Most of the leading merchants in Greenville will participate in the expected buying spree Thursday. There will be about 60 in all.

Interest in the two special days of the year has been evidenced by the out-of-town cars parked on the main streets of town while the sales were going on. Many of them have been noted from out of the county, from towns such as Kinston, Washington, Wilson and others.

Fair weather has been predicted for the event. Such was not the case.

Slow-Motion Abdication Offered By King Leopold

Brussels, Belgium, Aug. 1—(AP)—King Leopold III bowed to the threat of civil war today and offered a slow-motion abdication which threw the thorny royal question back into the lap of Parliament.

Peace-minded Belgians hoped the king's offer would ease the critical tension which had mounted in recent weeks. Many Brussels citizens feared, though, that Socialist leaders of the anti-Leopold movement might not be able to control their forces.

Leopold, in a broadcast statement early today, said he would ask Parliament to vote a delegation of his powers to his son, 19-year-old Prince Baudouin. Leopold would remain king in name only.

The king implied a promise of abdication with these words: "This attribution of royal powers to Prince Baudouin seems to me a necessary step towards the solution which ought to clear the way for accession of the crown prince to the throne when he reaches his civil majority (at 21) if, as I hope and desire, the reconciliation promised about my son takes place."

Baudouin will be 21 on Sept. 7, 1951.

Some anti-Leopold Socialist leaders termed the king's offer "satisfactory." However, the Trade Union Federation, which had sponsored widespread strikes demanding abdication, called for its regional committee to meet for a fresh evaluation of the new situation.

Leopold had offered yesterday to abdicate, then qualified his offer with conditions the Socialists and Liberals termed unacceptable.

In Agreement On Formosa Defense

Taipei, Formosa, Wednesday, Aug. 2—(AP)—Chiang Kai-shek declared today he and General MacArthur had reached agreement on a foundation for the joint defense of Taiwan (Formosa).

The veteran Chinese Nationalist leader issued a brief statement shortly after MacArthur returned to Tokyo from a flying visit to this island threatened by Communist invasion.

Chiang said a foundation also had been laid for Chinese-American "military cooperation."

Draft Board For Pitt Is Opened

Ironically Enough, First To Register Is A Veteran

Pitt County's draft board opened for business early this morning and 23 persons had made intermittent visits by 11:30.

The first person to be signed by Selma Evans, registrar, was, ironically, a veteran. He is Leonard Ray Culbreth, 22, of Greenville. Culbreth has been discharged from the Army after seeing three years of service. He was discharged after the old draft board closed last August and had not been registered.

Six men registered this morning, ranging in age from 18 on up. Most of the other 22 were there to ask questions—when they should register and when they will be called.

The registrar stated she doesn't know any more about when they'll be called than they do. To date she hasn't heard anything from the Raleigh office. However, the general belief of persons hereabouts is that Pitt's quota will range between 75 and 100 men.

The draft will start with those persons 25-year-old and under. It will not call, at first, any veteran of the late war or anyone who has served since then. At present, any veteran or person who has passed his 26th birthday as of today or anyone who is married will not be called in the first draft.

Concerning a re-registration, such as the one that took place during the summer of 1948, nothing definite is known on that, either. The belief, which has not been confirmed by official action, is that there will be a re-registration, provided the war in Korea continues.

Plans for a meeting of the county selective service board are underway. It will probably be held some time this week.

Invaders Advance Along Southern Tip Of Peninsula; Other Thrusts Are Staved Off In North And West; Advance Marine Unit Arrives

Tokyo, Aug. 1—North Korean Red forces moved tonight to within 40 miles of Pusan, vital American seaport base in Southeastern Korea.

The Red gain was made as more fresh U. S. troops poured ashore to bolster the allied defenders.

A dispatch from Don Whitehead Associated Press correspondent in Korea said the Communists were 15 miles west of Masan, which is 25 miles west of Pusan.

The Reds represented a gain of about 10 miles since Monday.

Other Red thrusts were developing around Knobang and flaming Hyong in the southern sector and along in the north. But no serious gains had been reported made at these three points.

The Reds apparently hoped to push United Nations troops off the Korean peninsula before sufficient arriving U. S. aid could reach them.

But hour by hour anxiously awaited American troops stepped ashore at a south Korean port. Some rushed to the front to brace battered American and South Koreans who have been shovked back for days by the Red hordes from the north.

These fresh troops included elements of the U. S. second infantry division, which landed Monday, and two following army units not otherwise identified.

In addition, the main force of the U. S. first Marine division was looked for by doughboys weary of retreating.

An advanced administrative unit of the Marines has arrived in Korea from the United States to prepare for the oncoming battlefronts fighting forces. But they had not been sighted in Korea at 10 p. m. (7 a. m. EST).

Frontline troops had been given a breather since the Reds broke through in the South Monday morning. The Americans had braced and dug into new positions.

The Red thrusts around Kuchang headed toward Taegu, rail hub of the main central front-line supply route from Pusan. Hyopchang was set ablaze Tuesday morning by American fire bombs. U. S. planes sought out and bombed Red troops in villages, hamlets and rice paddies.

Plane pilots reported the Reds kept steady pressure on the northern front where South Korean troops abandoned Yecheon Monday. Yecheon is an important link on the east-west highway route across the Han-chang-Andong front.

There was fighting in the streets of Andong at sunset. But the city was still reported in South Korean hands at that time.

On the central front the First Cavalry division reported it was under heavy pressure all Tuesday and made a short withdrawal on its north flank. It claimed the destruction of 16 enemy tanks during the fighting.

The U. S. 25th Infantry division also made a planned withdrawal to stabilize its central north sector lines.

Pilots claimed the destruction of between 20 and 24 Communist vehicles. In addition B-26 pilots said they set four hangars afire near Pudea, eight miles southwest of Ansong, in the south.

Enemy dead were reported piling up in front of American positions along the 160 mile land perimeter of the box-like front.

A MacArthur spokesman said Red losses have been "rightful" and added "they are probably greater than we realize."

The last official estimate of enemy casualties given at MacArthur's headquarters Monday was 37,500 dead and wounded.

Bridal Couple-Elect Honored At Supper

A courtesy was extended Miss Ramona Rouse and Mr. Ralph Tucker, bridal couple-elect of August 5, when Mr. and Mrs. Ike Straughn and Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Briley entertained informally at the Briley home on Herdine street on Saturday, July 29 at 7 p. m. The guests were greeted by the hosts. After a pleasant get-together on the spacious lawn, the guests were invited in the living room. Due to the weather summer was served inside although an out-door supper was planned. In the dining room, Miss Mae Briley served Brunswick stew. The 18 guests were seated at two large tables in the living room. The hosts passed hors d'oeuvres and hot rolls and later served apple pie a la mode. The house was decorated most attractively. Several arrangements of rose crepe myrtle were used. Above the lazy Susan table where the honor guests were seated, the chandelier was showered with silver bells, white ribbon and ivy. The lazy Susan was centered with an arrangement of white dahlias. White crocheted mats were used. A burning taper, a miniature bride and groom and a corsage of white glads marked the honor guests places. The other large table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with a small arrangement of white flowers and a burning taper. An occasional table held a miniature bride and groom and wedding attendants. This arrangement was placed under an arch, from which lighted wedding bells and ivy hung.

The honor guests were presented gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Straughn gave a pair of floral prints, while Mr. and Mrs. Briley gave personalized Italian china egg cups. For the occasion, Miss Rouse wore a lovely orchid dotted-swiss dress with lace insets.

History Has New Slant In Mural

Poison State Prison, Calif.—(AP)—You get a different slant on history in a series of 10 murals here. A man who can't keep out of prison painted them and in crime-land slang, wrote an accompanying description for each. They adorn the walls of the prison personnel dining room. Each painting depicts a flag which once flew over California. The murals aren't half bad. But it's the captions that give you history as you don't read it in school. Take the one about Sir Francis Drake's brief visit in 1579: "England's Queen Elizabeth set a sea going hijacker named Sir Francis Drake to muscle in on the California score. Drake knocked over every Spanish ship he could over the way, put up the English flag at Drake's Bay near Frisco, and made the touch stick." Then there's the story of California under the Spanish flag in 1785: "The Spaniard stood pat until England cooled off on the caper, then Gaspar de Portola and Father Junipero S.—a heeled in with settlers and sprung missions, presidios and pueblos. The sleeper went over and the Spanish national ensign went up at San Diego." Poison prison officials prefer not to tell the name of the artist. They say he has had a brilliant success as a cartoonist and commercial artist—in between terms in several state prisons. was remembered with a gift from the hostess. Refreshments were served in the dining room from a table decorated with flowers and candles. Lime ice punch was served by the honoree's mother, Mrs. Baker. Sandwiches, cookies, nuts, potato chips and cheese straws were also served.

Bombers Again Smash Munition Plant In Korea

Tokyo, Aug. 1.—(AP)—About 50 B-29 bombers struck with a new attack today on Hungnam, chemical and explosives center on North Korea's east coast. Explosions rocked the area, a Korean air release said, and "thick, greasy smoke" billowed up to 15,000 feet. The target was the chemical and metal plant of the Chosen (Korean) Nitro Fertilizer Co., two miles east of the plant hit hard by B-29s two days ago. The planes showered 400 tons of bombs on the plant on today's run. "Smoke and flames arose from the target area immediately after the initial strike," the release said. "By the time the last aircraft had bombed, thick, greasy smoke had risen to 15,000 feet." The thick smoke and flames kicked up by the first squadrons forced later planes to bomb by radar.

France Is Using Tax Money To Rebuild Casino

AP Newsfeature Le Touquet, France—France is busy rebuilding, not only its bombed-out homes and factories, but the tennis courts and gambling casino of this channel coast resort where some of Europe's wealthiest playboys cavorted before World War II. Some Frenchmen don't care for spending $1,400,000 of tax money to lift the face of a casino. But from the government's point of view it's a good investment—the tax collector gets 60 per cent of the take. Besides, like all property-owners in France, the hotel and club proprietors have a legal claim on the state for damages caused by the war. In Le Touquet they put the sum at about $20,000,000 and point out that rival Deauville was hardly touched. Le Touquet began life humbly as Paris-Plage—Paris Beach—probably because it is one of the closest seaside resorts to the capital. The 128 miles are an easy three hours by car, and only a little more by train. Shortly after the turn of the 20th century, some wealthy British investors came in and the tonier-sounding name of a nearby cape was added. Now the official books call it Le Touquet-Paris-Plage. High upon the French coast between Boulogne and Dieppe, the beach somehow particularly appealed to the British. "It's the coldest spot in France," one Parisian explained sourly. "The British love it because it reminds them of home." Well-heeled Britons came in droves—including the royal family. Local inhabitants will show you a little white villa with green shutters where the Duke of Windsor first met Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson. The fact that the duke maintains they met at a hunting party in Leicestershire, England, does not shake the faith of Le Touquet. The oddly-named Hermitage Hotel, according to local legend, was the only one in the world which could and did hou, four kings and their suites at the same time. Another hotel specialized in baths. It had not one but two baths for every double room, plus half a dozen suites with private swimming pools for wealthy Hindus prevented by their faith from bathing in public. The big hotels are open for business, and hoping that the old pre-war crowd won't all go to Deauville. There is still plenty to remind the visitor of war-twisted girders, blind windows, and peeling wallpaper in rooms open to the sky. But Europeans have learned to overlook such things.

Strength for the Day

BY EARL L. DOUGLAS
OUT OF THE CLOUDS
It is always hard for us to learn the great lesson that trouble, disappointment, and contradiction often come to us carrying blessings in both hands. We can be conscious of nothing but the pain. But often great benefits accrue to our lives as the result of distressing experiences through which we have to pass.
The Bible sets forth this truth in a quite dramatic fashion. You will find that in Bible teaching, the presence of God is generally represented by a cloud. It was out of the clouds that God spoke to the Israelites at Mt. Sinai. At the time of Jesus' baptism, the voice came out of the clouds declaring Him to be the Son of God. Later, when Jesus was transfigured, the voice of God spoke out of the cloud. Throughout the New Testament it is asserted that when Christ comes again, He will come in the clouds. All through the Bible clouds indicate the presence of God.
Let us think about this the next time we are overwhelmed with trouble. God is in the clouds. He speaks to humanity out of the clouds. The clouds bespeak His presence. Translated into everyday language, this means that if we will only listen, we will hear sounding through some of life's most distressing experiences the loving voice of God, guiding, comforting, encouraging and teaching us.

Economic Progress For Pitt County

Every community likes to take pride in its progress; and rightfully so. Pitt county and Greenville have every right to be proud of the facts which were revealed yesterday and today about the county's economic status.

Pitt county and its towns ranked 15th in the counties of North Carolina in the amount of intangible tax money received from the state for the fiscal year. The money paid to the counties and local governments is an indication of the productive wealth of the local communities, and also the population trends. The county government received this year over $2,000 more from intangible taxes than it did last year. Greenville itself showed an increase of more than $1,100 over the figure it received last year. Both instances show the business income of the county and the personal income of the county's people are increasing.

Other figures show that the per family income of Greenville for the past year was $8,953—over $300 more than the average per family income of North Carolina and substantially above the "median" income given by the federal census.

Greenville's average family income increased $306 per family during the year when the national income per family decreased $57. From the figures we can see the people of Pitt county are obtaining a higher standard of living.

Of course we know that every family in Greenville did not have an income of $8,953 last year, nor did every family increase its income by $306 over the previous year; but on the average the funds were obtained to produce the higher standard of living.

A community's welfare is to a large extent measured by its economic status. And economically Pitt county continues to progress.

They Put Pork Barrels Ahead Of America

All of us are keenly aware that re-building America's military power is an expensive project. And under the pressure of today's circumstances, few would find it in their hearts to begrudge a single penny for the sake of building a defense system capable of meeting all exigencies.

Matter of fact, in the years since the end of World War II, we recall no general reluctance by the taxpaying public to putting up whatever money was needed for defense purposes. The only ones who seemed to be economy-bent on matters pertaining to guns and men, ships and planes, were the nation's budgeters. From what we've seen, they preferred paring from the military for the sake of governmental programs which could be exploited to political advantage.

Even our congressmen weren't too sure about how their constituents regarded tax money spent for the armed forces. A majority apparently figured Americans favored "pork barrel" legislation. This viewpoint still prevails, as Senator Douglas has learned in trying to trim that pork barrel of all pork barrels, the Rivers and Harbors bill.

As for our need in matters pertaining to military strength, The Reflector's view is that if we must choose between "butter and guns", we'll take guns.

Britain's Socialists Forgot Their Claims

Seldom has the mask of sincerity been so abruptly lowered as when Britain's Socialists rebuked Ernest Bevin for his recourse to medical care outside their scheme of nationalized medicine.

All along, those "planners" had been proclaiming that a nationalized health program did not mean a patient had lost freedom of choice as to care under the set-up, or care by a physician who preferred a private practice.

The Socialists were not quite ready to forcibly eliminate private enterprise in the field of medicine . . . denied it was their goal. Their pious protests are now demonstrably false.

We have our own clique of "planners" in this country. Some of them in high places. Their nationalized health program has been rebuffed, but they'll keep on trying.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Secretary Dean Acheson's already shaky position has become even more insecure as a result of Senator Homer Ferguson's charge that he helped to withhold evidence damaging to Alger Hiss from a federal court and a Congressional committee.

The Michigan Senator, who won fame as a one-man prosecutor of racketeers in Detroit, did not develop this aspect when he relied on the floor to the Teddings-McMahon-Green exonerations of the State Department from Senator McCarthy's charges of Communist influence there.

But he told the writer that the plain and legal inference from his presentation was that Secretary Acheson and other high-placed officials had deliberately or not, failed to advise the Senate investigators and New York Prosecutor Thomas Murphy of extremely pertinent material against the convicted perjurer and erstwhile fellow-traveler.

President Truman insists that he will retain the Maryland squire, despite the collapse of our China and Korea fronts, and in the face of fears of political and Capitol Hill advisers that it would lose votes next November. But the new Ferguson revelations may force Mr. Truman to change his mind before the Congressional elections.

PLAN—In submitting hitherto confidential documents to support his contention that the Tydings Committee had made only a "superficial" investigation of the McCarthy indictment, Senator Ferguson read to the Senate the "Hiss Plan for Reorganization of the State Department."

Under this scheme, which was never adopted, Hiss would have been authorized to see and control all instructions forwarded by the State Department and White House to the American delegation to the United Nations. He would also have had access to all communications to Washington from Warren Austin and Eleanor Roosevelt, the U. S. delegates.

In short, Alger Hiss would have become by his own recommendation the chief intelligence officer of the United States government in the field of world diplomacy.

J. Anthony Panuch, then head of State's Security Division, told of this Hiss proposal, and admitted that it would have made Mr. Acheson's old friend all-powerful. Mr. Panuch apparently opposed it, but he recommended that, if it was set up, the Hiss system should be kept under the "constant watch" of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

BLOW—This Hiss super-control plan was submitted on March 7, 1946. It may be significant that it was advanced at the very moment when, although the wartime flirtation had not worn off, the United States and Russia were squabbling over such questions as the use of the U.N. veto, the seating of new members and creation of an international police force. It was prelude to the "cold war."

Hiss resigned from the department in the fall of 1946. It is believed that partial reason for quitting was his failure to force adoption of his scheme, which meant a blow to his prestige and power. He had figured that his role at Yalta and his part in organizing the U.N. entitled him to this advancement and recognition.

Mr. Acheson was Under Secretary of State at this time, and had to pass on the Hiss plan.

ESCALATOR—The Senate investigators first heard of Hiss' association with the Communist movement when J. Whitaker Chambers testified in August of 1948. He explained how Hiss had been tapped for advancement in inner government circles by the New York-Washington "cell" as long ago as when he worked in the Department of Agriculture.

In fact, Chambers devoted hours of his appearance before the committee to explain how the escalator system was supposed to work within the structure of government. If the Muscovite agents' conspiracies operated as scheduled, And always, according to Chambers, Hiss was to be the top man in the upward lift.

ADVANCE—Prosecutor Murphy developed the same theme in the 1949 trials at New York. He traced painstakingly Hiss' advance, pointing out that he once turned down an appointment which he preferred because another post would have made him more effective in channeling information to Communist agents.

Thus Secretary Acheson, as Senator Ferguson points out, more than two years before the Capitol Hill investigation, and more than three years before the opening of the first trial, was in possession of evidence vital to the committee and the court.

INTELLIGENCE—Disclosure of the "Hiss Plan," Senator Ferguson contends on the bases of his legal and judicial experience, would have clinched the government's case. It might even have prevented the first trial from ending in a hung jury.

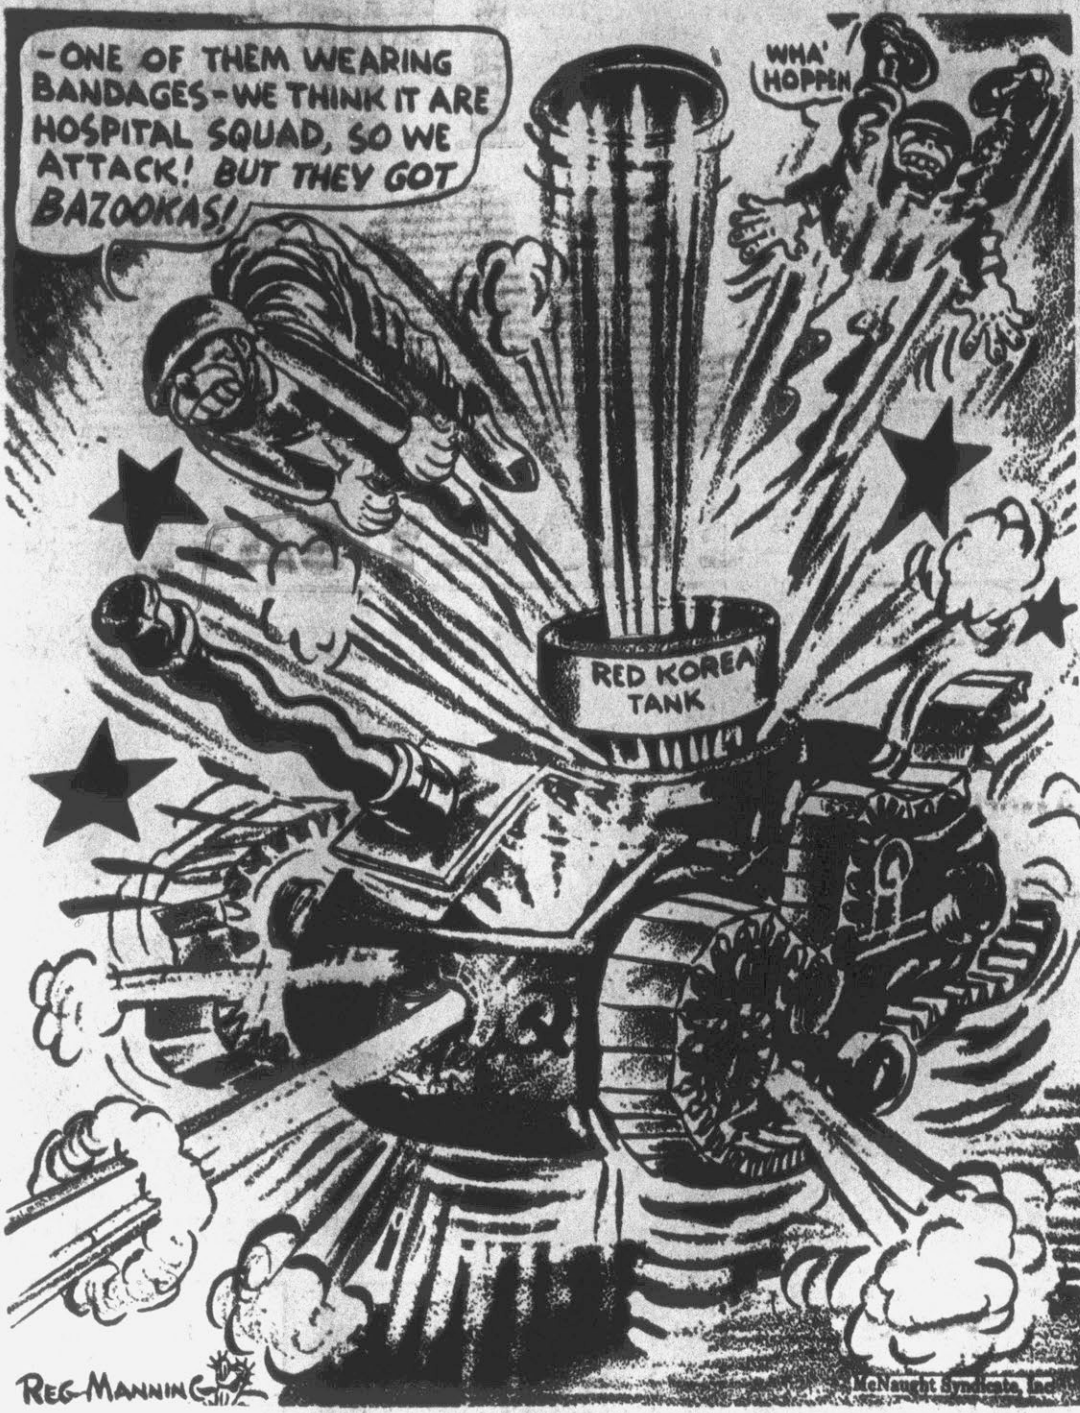

"It certainly was material and pertinent evidence," declares the Michigan member. "It showed that Hiss was trying to get his hands on every secret, diplomatic paper in sight. He would have become the nation's chief intelligence officer in international affairs. He might also have influenced vital decisions in this position."

LINE—The Republicans have already indicated the line which their political offensive against the Truman Administration will take, once the Korean crisis has eased.

They will renew demands for Dean Acheson's pamphlet, charging that his lazy program toward the Far East problem was responsible for the Korean explosion. This extremely critical note to the Korean Government of last April will be advanced as evidence of his lack of sympathy for Seoul. So will his National Press Club speech, in which he indicated the United States would make no attempt to defend Korea.

It is known that he opposed bitterly General Douglas A. MacArthur's numerous warnings that our forces in South Korea and Formosa should be strengthened.

Amerikans Using Unfair Trecks!

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Every now and then a man with a good job has to take a chance of getting in dutch with the boss. Such was the case yesterday, when I took off from my job at Edwa's Auto Supply for the Reflector office. The purpose of the visit was to see what it's like to write as a regular Reflector newsman writes.

When I arrived, photographer-reporter Roy Hardee was out with a member of the State Highway patrol chasing down a story. I grabbed his typewriter. At the same table, pecking away, were the Reflector's veteran reporter, Chester Walsh, and the import from Winston-Salem, John Spinks. John joined the Reflector staff six months ago from the School of Journalism, Chapel Hill. At our left flank was Don Schliez, the Reflector news editor, who was writing headlines and sorting out material for today's paper.

The open window of the Reflector newsroom offers an excellent view of the Greenville Post Office and the Pitt County Court house. With a slight stretch of the neck and 20-20 vision you can see who's going into the Pitt County ABC store Number Eight. (Believe me, I had a telephone the ABC board to find out the number). On Monday afternoon at four o'clock business is very, very slow at the ABC store. As rushed for time as I was, I wasted 15 minutes waiting to see someone go in. Business was considerably better on each side of the store, at James Ray Pittman's P and T Cash Grocery and at the Bowling Alley.

At the time of this writing Managing Editor Dave Whitchard III was knocking off editorials right and left. Whenever I find it hard to dig up five columns ideas a week, I talk to Dave. Dave writes most of the 18 editorials that appear weekly. Every now and then I trade him an editorial idea for a column idea.

In the midst of the pecking typewriters all hands stopped to discuss John Spinks, who plans to get married on August 26. John leaned out of the window and let out a long, inviting whistle. Since John's girl is in Baltimore, all of us leaned forward to see what John was whistling at. We withdrew disappointed, as it was a flea-bitten mongrel that had drawn John's affectionate whistle.

To help me along, the Reflector reporters started a discussion about the post office. The conclusions were: Mail is put up three times a day, yet there are many people who go to the post office nearly eight times daily. The reasons are simple: the post office is an excellent place to socialize, going to the post office is always a good excuse for getting out of the office for a breather, and of lesser importance: now and then there is small mail to be picked up.

Now that I've written in the hum-drum of a newspaper office, I'd better get back to work. The boss knows I've been gone long enough to have retrieved the mail twice.

And I thank you.

With U. S. Troops in Korea, Aug. 1 — (AP) — It's up to the Doughboy again.

This fellow with the bent walk and a timeless weariness in his eyes is going to have to decide the issue in Korea. The crucial fighting is still the ground fighting.

They wrote the doughfoot off after the first World War and said his role in battle was over. But they had to call him back by the millions in the second World War.

And today it is American infantry that is most needed here—infantry equipped with modern infantry weapons in real quantity.

The flyboys of the Air Forces have done a tremendous job of rear-area bombing and frontline support. But this is not basically an air war.

Guerrilla troops such as the North Koreans make poor targets from above. Trying to bomb them into submission is like trying to wipe out all the ants in a pasture by peppering it at night with a scatter shot gun.

But many men with rifles can go through these mountains, ridge by ridge, and flush out the Reds, who lie hidden in the gullies and valleys.

The invaders do have more tanks—better tanks—but it isn't lack of tanks that has chiefly hampered the Americans and South Koreans. The United Nations forces simply have lacked the manpower to form a solid continuous line that can sift out the infiltrating guerrillas and sweep the Reds back north like a rolled-up carpet.

And someone will have to blow a bulge that will bring scores of thousands more doughboys into action—or the present retreats will go on until the line goes down to the water.

More modern tanks would be welcome. Especially the new powerful thick-plated, hard hitting General Patton tanks. For tanks always bolster infantry morale. But tankmen themselves don't see tanks as the final answer.

"This is no tank country," said Lt. John N. Routh, Harrisburg, Pa., who has commanded tank platoons in Europe and Korea. "You can't maneuver. The roads are narrow and the bridges won't take much weight. If you get off the roads you bog down in the rice paddies. I have heard that the Russian tanks can go through rice paddies because of their wider tracks. But I don't believe it."

And trained infantry armed with the right weapons know how to deal with tanks in mountainous terrain. Only a few of the 19 tanks in Lieutenant Routh's own company are still operable after two weeks of combat.

"The North Koreans often lead off an attack with a couple of tanks followed by infantry," he said. "But they don't get anywhere when they send out tanks alone."

He has a high opinion of the skill with which the North Koreans infantry fights armor. "They lie in cover until a tank comes along and then they hit it with grenades wrapped with dynamite," he said. "Or they try to ambush you in mountain passes. They set field guns in the hills and they put a man with an anti-tank rifle so it will go through any part of our light tanks."

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
Reaction to President Truman's plea for industrial peace has been highly favorable. Nevertheless, utmost tact and delicacy on the part of management and government — and upon labor leaders themselves — will be needed to keep things running smoothly.

Labor, no less than any other group, is willing to make sacrifices for the nation's defense. But there are many things that will disturb this willingness.

Prices are still rising, so the wage earners get less for his dollar. Higher income taxes, with the withholding feature, will give him fewer dollars.

Those with contracts tying wages to cost-of-living indexes who automatically get higher pay as prices go up. Members of other unions will ask, "How about us?"

In many armament plants overtime payments will compensate for higher prices and higher taxes. In other factories and stores workers will ask, "Why isn't there a way for us to earn more?"

Mr. Truman said the country could not afford work stoppages in vital industries. This may be interpreted to give a green light to threaten to strike in non-essential industries. If these threats gain rise in pay, workers in other industries will feel they are even more entitled to rises because their industries are essential.

The President called for avoidance of "wage demands of a character which might lead to another inflationary spiral." Many workers will be sure that a little boost in their single plant or store won't lead to inflation.

It is important for management to be aware of these disturbing possibilities and to head off critical situations which may grow out of them. The presidential plea against strikes and the powers of the executive in preventing them during crises will make things harder, not easier, for personnel directors, company negotiators and other executives.

They have the responsibility of sensing causes of discontent before they arise, of keeping workers fully informed both about the enterprise and its relations to the economy and to make whatever adjustments are possible.

SLOW PAY HELD NOT CUSTOMERS' FAULT
Credit managers, not the customers are to blame for slow payments, says a University of Illinois bulletin, "The How and Why of Retail Credit," by David W. Belcher. Slow paying is a habit, the bulletin says, and a firm stand on past-due accounts by the credit manager can break it. The bulletin suggests five credit controls and other factors in credit management. It's free from the U. of I. Business Management Service, Urbana, Ill.

NO WONDER SO MANY INVENT GAN OPENERS!
The average American buys about 200 cans of food and other products a year, according to a half-century review of the canning industry by L. W. Graesskamp, American Can vice president. National use totals about 30 million cans a year.

The review shows that the use of cans for food has increased from 2 to 20 million a year since 1900, and that use of cans for other products increased from little to 10 million.

UTAHANS BIGGEST CANDY EATERS
And from cans to candy—Edwin J. Brach, Chicago candy manufacturer, reports after a study that the average person eats 17 pounds of candy a year. The per capita consumption of candy in pounds is greater than that of butter, cheese, margarine or cereals, he found, and the dollar expenditure is greater than that for canned juices, cakes, shortening, soups or white flour.

Candy consumption varies by regions, from 12.4 pounds a person in the Southwest to 34.5 pounds in Utah.

LIMITS BEING PUT ON NYLON RETURNS
One of retailers' worries about the rush to buy nylons is that the girls will want to exchange today's hoardings for new styles and colors when fall fashions appear. Several stores have announced time limits on hosiery exchanges as a consequence. One Baltimore store found that this policy, advertised in newspapers, cut down the rush to buy.

NEW AND HOT JUNIOR: A miniature briar replica is being packaged with a man's size briar pipe (by Marxman, 27 West 24th St., New York). Also included is a bottle of bubble soap so junior can blow bubbles while dad smokes.

VENTILATOR: A ventilator hood for kitchen ranges, with a two-speed exhaust, and filters that can be cleaned by holding them under hot water is being introduced by Comfort Products Co., Dallas, Tex. An extension of the back prevents the back wall from being splattered.

Hal Boyle's Column

With U. S. Troops in Korea, Aug. 1 — (AP) — It's up to the Doughboy again.

This fellow with the bent walk and a timeless weariness in his eyes is going to have to decide the issue in Korea. The crucial fighting is still the ground fighting.

They wrote the doughfoot off after the first World War and said his role in battle was over. But they had to call him back by the millions in the second World War.

And today it is American infantry that is most needed here—infantry equipped with modern infantry weapons in real quantity.

The flyboys of the Air Forces have done a tremendous job of rear-area bombing and frontline support. But this is not basically an air war.

Guerrilla troops such as the North Koreans make poor targets from above. Trying to bomb them into submission is like trying to wipe out all the ants in a pasture by peppering it at night with a scatter shot gun.

But many men with rifles can go through these mountains, ridge by ridge, and flush out the Reds, who lie hidden in the gullies and valleys.

The invaders do have more tanks—better tanks—but it isn't lack of tanks that has chiefly hampered the Americans and South Koreans. The United Nations forces simply have lacked the manpower to form a solid continuous line that can sift out the infiltrating guerrillas and sweep the Reds back north like a rolled-up carpet.

And someone will have to blow a bulge that will bring scores of thousands more doughboys into action—or the present retreats will go on until the line goes down to the water.

More modern tanks would be welcome. Especially the new powerful thick-plated, hard hitting General Patton tanks. For tanks always bolster infantry morale. But tankmen themselves don't see tanks as the final answer.

"This is no tank country," said Lt. John N. Routh, Harrisburg, Pa., who has commanded tank platoons in Europe and Korea. "You can't maneuver. The roads are narrow and the bridges won't take much weight. If you get off the roads you bog down in the rice paddies. I have heard that the Russian tanks can go through rice paddies because of their wider tracks. But I don't believe it."

And trained infantry armed with the right weapons know how to deal with tanks in mountainous terrain. Only a few of the 19 tanks in Lieutenant Routh's own company are still operable after two weeks of combat.

"The North Koreans often lead off an attack with a couple of tanks followed by infantry," he said. "But they don't get anywhere when they send out tanks alone."

He has a high opinion of the skill with which the North Koreans infantry fights armor. "They lie in cover until a tank comes along and then they hit it with grenades wrapped with dynamite," he said. "Or they try to ambush you in mountain passes. They set field guns in the hills and they put a man with an anti-tank rifle so it will go through any part of our light tanks."

By LYNN HIBBET

Raleigh, N. C.

Y.D.C.—The first ladies' night of the State Young Democratic Clubs can be rated a success, but it set no precedents to worry future promoters of such affairs. Women constituted larger percentage of attendance than at most such meetings. At that, they made up barely one-third the dinner party.

Featured speakers were Judge Susie Sharp and National YDC Vice-president Kay Glass. They lived up all forecasts of excellent speeches. The men just couldn't let the girls take all the honors, and total time used by Governor Kerr Scott, Senator-nominate Willis Smith and National Committeeman Jonathan Daniels approximated the time allotted the two programs speakers.

POLITICS—Discussion of politics among the attendees in their caucuses and informal conference was confined almost wholly to internal affairs of the organization. There was obvious absence of leadership or direction. For the first time since reactivation of YDC following the late war, Saturdays meeting had no congressmen, representatives of the state administration or of the regular party set up to steer the youngsters. Main object of the executive committee meeting was to fix time and place of the state convention. Asheville was chosen and the state meeting will be held there September 14-16. There will be more politics then in election of state officers. So far as could be ascertained by checking around hotel rooms Saturday the members will do their own choosing, without interference of governors or senators or congressmen. That will be a novel experience for the so-called Young Democrats—although most of the active leaders are in their late thirties and many of them have already proven their mettle in legislative halls and municipal council rooms.

REASON—Reason for lack of accepted leadership among YDCs is basically the same as in the regular party organization. It is natural that younger members of the party should be less conservative in their thinking. For three years they have built their program and policy along liberal lines, integrating them with the Scott-Graham leadership in state affairs. In fact, the executive committee and ladies rally held last Saturday was originally planned as victory celebration for Senator Graham. Results of the primaries left these plans on a limb, and there hasn't been time for complete revision or for a more conservative leadership to manifest itself. Applause accorded Smith when he was presented, and response to Jonathan Daniels' pledge of full support, attested that the Young Democrats accept the change—but don't quite know what to do about it. Many would-be leaders in the regular Democratic organization are in the same fix.

OPTIMIST—Dr. W. A. Sams, Democratic nominee for the house of representatives in Madison County, visited the secretary of state's office Monday to pick out his seat for the session. He was having a good time with the task, and insisted that he rated the best location in the hall. There will be practically unanimous concurrence in that opinion. Any time a Democrat comes to the legislature from Madison county it is a historic event. Madisonians are looking forward to one of the hottest campaigns in many years. Dr. Sams is among the best known and best loved men in the county. His fellow townsmen, J. M. Baley, Jr., is state Republican chairman. Naturally the Democrats would delight in beating the state chairman in his home bailiwick; and just as naturally the Republicans will make more than normal effort to prevent such disaster from befalling them. Mix up in boards of election and education in Madison this year adds fuel to the normally hot political fires.

POWER—Announcement that Carolina Power and Light Company is installing an additional unit of 100,000 horse power capacity at its new Lumberton steam generating plant, following close on heels of other expansions, give assurance that southeastern North Carolina will no longer be "power desert." The Lumberton plant already has two units of 67,000 horse power capacity each. Before well underway this and the Goldsboro plant plans were put into effect for nearly doubling capacity.

And I thank you.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

ECONOMIC MOBILIZATION (Washington Daily News)

The Daily News has disagreed many times with the domestic policies of President Truman. We have felt that waste in government and unnecessary spending were hurting the economic condition of the country.

Today, we find ourselves in a situation where war conditions make it necessary to act with more haste than is usually the case.

Mr. Truman has asked for power to exercise a limited control over credit and production. He says that if the situation becomes worse, he would not hesitate to ask for complete economic mobilization.

Mr. Truman is also asking for a tax increase. We are heavily taxed already. We do not want to see taxes raised, but if by so doing we can improve our situation, then that becomes the only answer. We only hope that the tax raise will not be a permanent one.

As to economic mobilization, we firmly believe that such a step will not be necessary unless we bring it about ourselves. Hoarding and wild buying of supposedly hard to get articles could force it upon us. The final decision then rests with the people.

Those fighting the war in Korea need everything which we can possibly give to them. It comes to a choice between whether we have it or they have it, then we say give it to them. They are fighting our war, and any fight on communism is a fight for survival for the democratic way of life.

Regardless of what is said and done, some people are going to continue to hoard. Some people are very patriotic, and would not think of buying up scarce articles. But those people who are for selfish alone are the ones who make it difficult for the balance.

We would not be surprised to see economic mobilization come. We rather expect it will. We must prevent inflation, and we must do all in our power to end the Korean war as quickly as possible. On the home front, economic mobilization may be the answer.

However, since Newfoundland became confederated with Canada in 1949 and is now getting Canadian benefits — family allowances, old age pensions and such — prospects for combating the problem look better, the young women said. "The schools have been improved, and the government is paying a great deal of attention to health and education although we still have a good many one-room schools," Miss Murphy added.

"Delinquency in Newfoundland stems mostly from parental indifference and neglect and shows itself greater in quantity among the boys but greater in seriousness among the girls," Miss Layman said. "It begins chiefly with absences from school. Then the offense turns into larceny. A sense of security is what the youngsters need most of all, we find."

Team Work Pays Off For State

By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh, Aug. 1—There is entirely too much jealousy, rivalry and working at cross-purposes among state agencies, resulting in wasteful duplication. The cynic could find many instances of this attitude to write about.

On the brighter side are countless instances of cooperation, coordination and teamwork. State College and the State Department of Agriculture, despite phenomenal progress in unified activity, still have some conflicts. This week they are cooperating in sponsoring the annual Farm-Home program on the college campus. Upon the whole, there are more instances of cooperation than of duplication in overall functional services.

What this article started out to do was point to evidence of coordination in activities of the highway commission and the state advertising division. The highway commission operates on its own funds, subject in some respects to the central budget and purchase divisions, but in many respects independent of other state departments. Here's a little matter showing how junctions can be coordinated to the benefit of everybody.

On a recent western trip Charles Parker, advertising director, found several places where growth of trees and roadside shrubbery obstructed magnificent scenic views from the highway. He dropped a note to Dale Thrash, highway commissioner for the tenth division, calling attention to these obstructions Monday's mail brought to the advertising division a note from Commissioner Thrash that the shrubbery at these and other points had been cleared away, and, furthermore, roadside parking space had been provided so visitors could pause long enough to really enjoy the scenery without creating a traffic hazard.

Just a little incident, but it shows what can be done when folks work together instead of fighting all the time.

Russian Reports North Korea Air Raid Conscious

London, Aug. 1—(P)—A Russian correspondent in North Korea reported today that residents of the North Korean capital, Pyongyang, are frantically digging air raid shelters to protect themselves from American bombers.

"With the last fortnight air raid shelters have become part and parcel of life in Pyongyang," wrote Pravda's correspondent Kornilov.

"The people are digging them outside their houses. Holes are being blasted and tunnels dug."

Since July 23, he said, Pyongyang has been bombed every day.

His report was broadcast today by Moscow radio.

TEEN TALK

(Year Judge)

AP Newsfeatures
So you were graduated from school—let's see—how many months ago? And you haven't been able to find a job. Probably you've been consoling yourself by developing a "well, it's tough all over" complex. And so you've slowed down in your job-seeking.

Letters from young people indicate that a large percentage of them are developing a defeatist attitude in the matter of employment. As one girl wrote, "I'm just going to sit and wait it out"—just as if a prospective employer were going to tap on her door with a bright shiny key to his office.

It is true that jobs have slackened off, and perhaps we do not always find what we want, at first. But sometimes we expect too much for the little we have to offer. Since a great many young people go into the selling field I queried F. R. Johnson, vice president of the Saks department store chain, on today's job possibilities. Mr. Johnson had this to say:

"The trouble with today's graduate—college girls and boys in particular—is that they expect to walk into supervisory jobs immediately. They feel they've got to find a job that will immediately be a reflection of their education."

Mr. Johnson says some of the best ideas in the retailing business come from stock girls who work closely with the buyers, know the dresses, shoes, coats or socks that are best prospects for advancement, in most instances, than the girl who sells and can only give resulting comment from purchasers.

The fact that a girl can sell anything that is put to her doesn't mean she would make a good executive, he says. She has greater opportunity for recognition of individual effort by starting out in the factory, but it is difficult to convince a college girl of this, even though her ultimate goal is to be a buyer.

Out of the 360 executives in Mr. Johnson's Fifth Avenue store, 300 have been promoted from the ranks—stock people, packers, etc.

A college education is important in a sales job, he says, because it does equip young people with the background to go further. They should not at any time think of the immediate job they are doing, except as a route to the important job they've set as their goal.

Usually, Mr. Johnson says, store executives are willing to give the high school girl a better starting salary than the college girl because the college girl will not be satisfied and will leave within a short time unless she gets a quick promotion.

No intelligent girl with a good education is going to be stuck in a stock room or a packing room for the rest of her life. Any executive who has had to work up to his own job will recognize ability when he sees it. The trouble is that sometimes when girls take jobs they think are beneath them, they are likely to indicate it whenever they get the opportunity by slowing down on the job. Facial grimaces and a "who, me?" attitude will not impress the boss.

This is a good time to sit down and ask yourself exactly what you have to offer an employer. Naturally, you will not want to go into a field that is distasteful to you, except as a last resort. But when you do pick your life's work, be happy to start at the bottom. That's the only way

Assembly Line Baby Sitter

AP Newsfeatures
PITTSBURGH—Baby sitting with 15 babies is fun—especially when it nets $420 to help pay your way through college. That's what Geri Braunstein, a senior at the University of Pittsburgh, is telling friends these days. Geri came up with a unique eight-week plan to solve the afternoon baby-sitting problem for mothers in her neighborhood. She rounded up several mothers and told them she'd take their children off their hands five afternoons a week, and all for $3.50 a tot per week. The kiddies range from three to nine years. Each week-day afternoon she rounds up her brood, puts them in taxis and takes them to a nearby park. Eight-weeks at $52.50 a week adds up to $420. And the mothers pay the taxi fare, too. Geri is shown above surrounded by 11 of her 15 charges during an afternoon at the park. She uses nameplates for each child and has one herself.

The order calls for 160 chairs 119 for the House and 40 slightly larger ones for the senate—to replace the original chairs in use for 100 years. The new chairs will cost an average of $58.

Five Pitt Tobacco Curers Issued Permits To Canada

Five border crossing permits so far have been issued to Pitt county tobacco curers who will aid with the curing of the Canadian tobacco crop. Manager W. B. Dillingham of the Greenville office of the Employment Security commission said he has had requests from other people in the county for border crossing permits, but he is unable to issue permits to persons who do not have applications from the Canadian Department of Labor. Some Pitt county curers who have letters from Canadian growers requesting their services during the next month have sought border crossing permits through the local office, but Dillingham said he was unable to issue the permits. The regulations specifically state, he pointed out, that an application from the Canadian Department of Labor must be secured before the permit can be issued.

Guard Divisions Ordered On Duty

Washington, Aug. 1—(AP)—The nation's ground forces will be strengthened this month by the addition of four National Guard divisions and some smaller units. They were ordered into federal service—but not identified—yesterday by Secretary of Defense Johnson.

Pactolus School Principal Named

The vacancy in the principal's job at Pactolus high school has been filled, it was announced today by D. H. Conley, superintendent of county schools. Ralph D. Picklesimer, of Westerville, Ohio, was employed by the Pactolus district committee. Conley said at a meeting of the committee last week. Picklesimer, 26, is a graduate of Osterberg College in Westerville and majored in physical education and social studies. A Marine Corps veteran of the last war, he is married and has a daughter three and a half years old. When he assumes the principalship, replacing O. H. Forrest who was transferred to Bevoir high school, Picklesimer will emphasize more participation in student athletics. Prior to teaching school in Ohio, he played professional football for the New York Giants of the National League. The new principal is a nephew of Dr. P. W. Picklesimer, head of the geography department at East Carolina.

Girl Scouts On Visit To Santa Claus Island

By CHESTER WALSH
Greenville's Postmaster J. Knott Practor, driving the Girl Scouts' station wagon, "Happy Helen," loaded with baggage, led a convoy of 10 automobiles containing 32 Girl Scouts and some mothers and fathers toward Poplar Branch, on the northeastern coast of North Carolina. They left here at 9 a.m. The Girl Scouts are going to meet their "summertime Santa Claus," Roy T. Adams, nationally known Washington, D.C., businessman, at Carolla Island, in Albemarle Sound, north of Kitty Hawk, N.C., where they will be his guests for two weeks. Their benefactor maintains winter and summer homes on the island in Albemarle Sound, near the Outer Banks. Mrs. J. Knott Practor said the Girl Scouts were to arrive on the coast about 1:30 and that Roy Adams' boats would meet them there at 2 p.m. and transport them to his island home. Mr. Adams, nationally known businessman and sportsman, and Mrs. Adams, equally known for her interest in recreation projects varied philanthropies, frequently entertain groups of young people at their island home. Those who transported the Girl Scouts toward their vacation spot were: Roger Collins, Mrs. J. T. Chestnut, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. S. M. Crigg, Bob Lang, Sherman Parks, Mrs. Jo Howard, Mrs. Frank L. Jolly, Dorothy Nelle Henderson, Dr. J. K. Long and Mrs. J. Knott Practor, commissioner of Greenville Girl Scouts.

Tobacco Brings Labor Shortage In Other Fields

Work in green tobacco and the opening of the local tobacco factories have created a shortage of common labor for construction jobs in Pitt county. The announcement was made this morning by W. B. Dillingham, manager of the local office of the Employment Security commission. The office reported several calls for construction workers have been received during the past few days, but workers have not been found for the jobs. Dillingham said, "Practically all male claimants have disappeared" from the list of the claimants for unemployment benefits paid through the local office, and the agency is having to comb the streets of Greenville to find workers to fill the jobs. Even with the recruiting of workers from the streets, he said, many of the calls for workers have remained unfilled. Dillingham added that in addition to the construction jobs which are open in this immediate vicinity, the military installations in the eastern part of the state have sent out a call for skilled workers in several fields. Among the workers needed are those skilled in crating and packing. Information from the local employment office. The manager of the Greenville employment office attributed the shortage of workers at the present time to the fact that employment in harvesting the tobacco crop of the county is still at a peak, and the tobacco factories of the county are busy lining up their workers for the season.

Newsman Feared Missing In Korea

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters in Korea, Aug. 1—(AP)—Associated Press Correspondent William R. Moore has not been heard from since Sunday afternoon when he went to the Chinju battlefield. He last was reported with an element of the 24th Division that was split in two by the Red drive. The unit fled Monday morning from Chinju. The Air Force announced yesterday that bombers—identified by an official as B-29s and B-50s—are being sent to Korea. The B-50 is a later version of the B-29, with more powerful engines and other improvements.

The attempt ended when his car slammed into the rear of a parked bus. The estimated damage to his car was $150. The extra $5 went to pay his traffic fine. He didn't say what happened to the fly.

Barnyard Escalator Takes Farmer's Fowls For Ride

IN THE HOPPER, Neal Witmer drops a chicken upstairs.

Hickory Corners, Pa.—Neal Witmer, central Pennsylvania poultry farmer, has built an escalator for his chickens.
The device, a moving conveyor belt in a covered shaft, transports his barnyard fowls as nice as you please from the first floor of his brooder house to the raising pens on the second and third floors.
Witmer just drops the chickens in an opening at the base of the escalator shaft and they are whisked to the upper stories in smooth succession.

Witmer didn't contrive the escalator just to save his chickens from climbing stairs. The object was to save him tedious labor of carting chickens upstairs in crates.
His escalator is paying dividends in labor economy. Witmer says it used to take four men six to seven hours to crate and carry 3,000 six weeks old chickens upstairs. But the escalator does it in three hours and requires only two men.

Atlantic Pact's Military Board In Special Talks

London, Aug. 1—(AP)—The 12 Atlantic pact nations called the pact's military board here for special talks today.
American, French and British military men flew here from Washington to meet with the Atlantic pact council deputies.
The deputies are beginning their second week of work on plans to speed rearmament of the west against aggression.
The military experts are known as the standing group, sitting permanently in Washington.
Members of the standing group who came here are Lieut. General Willis D. Crittenden, U. S. Army, chairman; Lord Tedder, Marshal of Britain's Royal Air Force, and Lieut. Gen. Paul Ely, French Army.
A brief announcement issued by the U. S. Navy office here said the members of the military experts are "in London at the request of the North Atlantic treaty organization council deputies to meet briefly with that body during the current session."

After four days of secret sessions last week, the council deputies announced they had decided on ways to step up defense production in western Europe.
But American chairman Charles M. Spofford declined to give newsman any details. The nature of the group's work, he said, prevented such announcements.
The deputies adjourned over the weekend until today in order to inform their governments of the decisions and recommendations they had reached.

INJURED IN ACCIDENT.

Jerry Arnold, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Vance Arnold, who was injured in an automobile accident last Wednesday, is still confined to his bed.
The deputies adjourned over the weekend until today in order to inform their governments of the decisions and recommendations they had reached.

Charge Girl Was Sold To Farmer

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 1—(AP)—Police today accused a 71-year-old farmer of buying a 17-year old girl for $700.
The farmer, the girl's 18-year old brother and a sister-in-law were charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency by "aiding and abetting a fraudulent marriage contract."
Their names were withheld pending further investigation.
Police said this is the way the deal was worked:
At the wedding ceremony here last Friday, the girl's brother posed as the bridegroom and the farmer represented himself to be her father.
After the so-called marriage, the elderly man took the girl as his wife and turned over the $700. Investigators said $500 was to go to the girl's mother and $200 to the brother, but added that the mother was unaware of the arrangement.

Swift Action On Plea To Revoke Bridges' Bond

San Francisco, Aug. 1—(AP)—Swift action is expected on a government request that a federal court revoke the $25,000 bond which has given labor leader Harry Bridges freedom since his conviction last April on perjury and conspiracy charges.
Federal Judge George B. Harris said he will hear arguments on the government's motion tomorrow. The date was set after the bench overruled arguments of Paul Leonard, Bridges' attorney, that more time was needed by the defense to prepare its case.
The Justice Department yesterday asked that Bridges' bond be cancelled—an action which would send the left-wing Maritime union official to jail.
SPECIAL PROGRAM SCHEDULED FOR KIWANIS FRIDAY NIGHT.
Aubrey Tilley will have charge of the program at the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting Friday night at 6:30. President Tige Gardner will preside.

New Spiritual . . .

they were going to encourage its spread, and to build a new leadership through the universities.
Kuriyama appeared to be putting his new ideology into practice when, in addressing the Senate, he said: "It is our sincere regret that Japan has broken almost a century-old friendship between the two countries. In spite of this big mistake on our part, the magnanimous forgiveness and generosity of America not only allowed Japan to survive but is helping our recovery."
I asked Kuriyama about the reaction of his people to the atomic bombs. He replied that the Japanese realized the bombs saved Japan, because the use of these weapons enabled the emperor to surrender without loss of face.
Previously I had asked Hiroshi Ohashi, mayor of Nagasaki, if his people harbored bitterness because of the employment of the bomb against their city. He said they did not—that they understood why it was used.
The distinguished complexion of this party of sixty is proof enough that a spiritual movement is indeed under way in Japan. However, we shall be too optimistic if we expect an immediate and wholesale change. There is a long, hard fight ahead. Nations don't experience sweeping ideological changes overnight.

An Army's . . .

manded to a general.
The army—this is the whole business, made up of all the armies. Its present commander is General J. Lawton Collins, Chief of Staff.
At the peak of World War II we had 89 divisions. Now we have 10. These 10 and their locations are:
Second Armored, Third Infantry, 11th Airborne, and 82nd Airborne, all in this country; Seventh Infantry, Japan; First Infantry, Germany; the 2nd, 24th and 25th Infantry divisions and the First Cavalry division (really an infantry division), now in Korea.
What has been explained here—total number of men per company, per battalion, per regiment, per division and so on—is the ideal structure of the army. It doesn't mean that all this is the actual set-up now. The army doesn't have enough men to have perfect strength all along the line.
In reading this you may note that the total army is 596,000, but we have only 10 divisions with a maximum total strength of only 180,000 men. So you may wonder where the rest of the 596,000 are.
The Army has far more men than show in divisions. For example, the Pentagon Building here is loaded with Army men, all doing special work for the Army, needed to run the whole show.
These include staffs to handle money, personnel, military police, weapons, trucks and transportation, supplies, communications chemical warfare, and so on.

Kinston Keeps Early Lead To Defeat Robins By 10-3

Visitors Clinched Victory By 5-Run Outburst In Seventh; Bartolozzi Leads Locals' Nine-Hit Attack With Perfect Night At Bat

After losing their last three contests with the Greenville Robins, Manager Walter Millie's Kinston Eagles struck the winning side here last night as they defeated the Robins 10-3 in a listless ball game before approximately 400 fans.

Alex Zych on the mound for the Eagles, registered his fifth straight win in Coastal Plain League competition as he scattered nine-hits very effectively among the Robins.

The Eagles held the lead from the first inning and clinched matters with a five-run outburst in the seventh.

For the first three frames the Eagles came across with singletons and at the end of six frames were leading by a 5-3 score. What proved to be the winning run came in the fifth frame when Aspromonte walked, advanced to third on Ashworth's single into centerfield and came home on Crisley's infield out.

Their five runs in the seventh frame came as the result of four walks, a sacrifice, one double, one single and an error.

The Robins scored singletons in the second, fourth and sixth frames when they combined six of their nine hits together with two Eagle miscues.

Manager Randy Hefflin started on the mound for the Robins and was charged with his eighth loss of the season after giving up 9 hits and five runs in the five frames which he worked. Bobby Harrison and Jim Lewey finished out the game and held the Eagles to two hits for the remaining four frames.

Ralph Bartolozzi led the 9-hit attack off Zych collecting two singles and a double for a perfect night at the bat.

The Robins journey over to Kinston to meet the Eagles in a return game and return home Wednesday night to play the Wilson Tobs.

Willing

On the strength of the 16 victories he posted last season, Lou Brissie looked forward to the current season with keen anticipation. He declined, with thanks, the overtures of Manager Connie Mack to make a relief pitcher of him and signed only when he was given assurance that he would continue as a starting pitcher.

In the early weeks of the season Brissie ran into all sorts of poor pitching luck. The Athletics either failed to produce runs in any quantity, or they made costly errors to deprive him of victories harder he tried, the harder it seemed to eke out a triumph. Worried about the state of affairs only caused him to lose weight, and with the loss of weight went his speed. In desperation, Brissie decided to forget everything and simply rear back and let fly. It was then that he again began to look like the Brissie of 1949.

His return to form delighted him so that he volunteered to do bull pen duty as well as start games. He turned in several excellent relief chores, saving games for Bob Hooper and Bobby Shantz. Before he knew what was going on, Brissie found himself working in almost every other game. The odd part of it is that he is thriving and is faring equally well in the games he is called upon to start.

Tonight's Games

Greenville at Kinston
New Bern at Tarboro
Goldsboro at Roanoke Rapids
Rocky Mount at Wilson

While the Robins were losing to the Kinston Eagles last night the Roanoke Rapids Jays were also dropping a game to the Goldsboro Cards and as a result we still find the Robins in second place, one and one-half games from top and two full games ahead of the third place Rocky Mount Leafs. The Robins in their fifteen games played thus far with the Eagles have dropped only four of the contests to the Eagles. The Robins made three double plays in last night's contest and it was these three plays really helped keep the Eagles from soaring too high in the scoring column. The loss by Hefflin to the Eagles was his first of the season. The three Robin hurlers failed to strike out a single opposing batter in last night's game, which is the first game scored this year in which a Robin hurler has failed to strike out an opposing player. Paul Strausser stole the show in last night's contest with his beautiful running catch of Gerry Lahann's ball in the fourth frame last night. Quite a few fans present at last night's contest expressed to the writer their disappointment in not seeing Pete Braun pitch last night's contest since he has not made a home appearance this season.

Just what decision was reached by Joe Cominsky of the Boston Red Sox chain and the stockholders of the Kinston club yesterday in Kinston has not been made public as yet, but it is hoped that satisfactory arrangements can be made and it is the belief of the writer that they will. But taking this Kinston matter seriously, it is beyond the writer how a club that played ball as they did here last night should be so far in debt and be so much off in attendance this season. The Kinston park is one of the best, if not the best in the league and it is always a pleasure to go over there and watch the games and especially sit in that spacious press box over there. Kinston has always been a good baseball town but what the trouble is this year, is beyond me.

Reports coming in from New Bern state that the Bears are also having financial troubles this year and there is a rumor that unless something happens the Bears will be in the same boat as the Eagles—that is will have to suspend operations. As is the case over in Kinston, attendance is the reason for the Bears being in the red.

Playoff Series Opens Today In Industrial Softball Loop

Playoffs in the Industrial Softball League begin this afternoon between the clubs of the first division. The two series, between the first and fourth and the second and third teams, will determine two semi-finalists in two-out-of-three games.

Matched today are Wagner-Waldrop, which finished the regular season on top, and Post Office, which finished fourth. The other game today pits Scott Motors, second place finisher, against Ormond Wholesale.

At a meeting last night of representatives of the first division clubs, it was decided by a majority vote to begin the series today rather than wait to play off any rained-out games. It was also decided that Scott Motors will play Post Office after the playoffs to determine who is the winner of the regular season pennant.

As it stands now, Wagner-Waldrop walked off with the championship a half game ahead of Scott's due to a rained-out game between Scott's and Post Office which won't be played before the semi-final series begins. Should Scott's win the game from Post Office, it will be tied with Wagner-Waldrop for top position, regardless of the outcome of the playoffs, which are regarded as of lesser importance than the regular season games.

A game between both teams will be played to crown a regular season champ. The date has not been named yet.

Today's first playoff games match Wagner-Waldrop, with a record of 12 wins and two losses, against Post Office, eight and five. In the other game, Scott's goes against Ormond Wholesale, each with records of 11-2 and 9-3 respectively.

The two semi-finalists will meet each other in a three-out-of-five series beginning either Friday or next Monday, dependent upon when the present games are finished.

Louis' Manager Says Public Need Shed No Tears

Pittsburgh, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Check those tears of pity for "poor old" Joe Louis, fight fans. Jake Mintz says you've got it all wrong.

Jabbering Jake—the excitable ex-dancer who handles the affairs of NBA heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles—wants a little sympathy for his boy, who's due to face the former fight king in the fall.

"The way everybody talks you'd think Louis will have a tougher time fighting his condition than fighting Charles," sputtered Jake.

"In fact," Mintz went on, "it's the other way around. Ezzard's got a lot tougher training problem than Louis."

Then he launched into his argument: "Louis never really retired. And everybody in the fight game knows it. How can you call knockouts in scheduled 10-round bouts 'exhibitions'?"

"Lee Oma ran out on Louis in Detroit and his manager, Tex Sullivan said that billing the fight as an exhibition was ridiculous.

"Look what Louis did to Pat Valentino. He kayoed him in the eighth—the same round Charles did in a legitimate title fight—but he gave him a worse lacing, and with 16-inch gloves.

"That was simply to prove that he was tougher than Ezzard.

"He boxed nearly every day in that 'exhibition tour,' then he went to South America where he did the same thing. He came home, joined a circus and fought, sometimes, twice a day.

"Louis in the last year has been the most active heavyweight in the history of the game."

Then Mintz turned to Charles' troubles. Said he: "As everybody knows, Ezzard has been doing nothing for the last four months because of his heart injury. I won't say he's out of shape—because he never lets himself get that way.

"But he's off his timing and out of practice. He should be okay for the Freddie Beshore fight (in Buffalo August 15), but he'll have lots of work to do on himself after that."

Charles has begun his pre-Beshore workouts in his own gym in Cincinnati. He now scales about 185, but expects to shave some three pounds before he and his retinue move to Buffalo about August 8.

Fleming's Station won its last game of the softball season yesterday in beating National Carbon 12-2 for a season's record of six wins against seven losses.

The game was the last for any of the Industrial teams. The playoffs begin today as the result of a vote at a meeting last night of team representatives.

Williams did the pitching for Fleming's and set the Carbon team down on eight well-scattered hits. The losers tallied their two runs in two innings, one in the first, for a short-lived lead, and the other in the fifth. Fleming's scored most in two innings, the third and the sixth, when 10 runners crossed, five in each one. Two other runs in the fifth were good for batting practice.

Hogg and Page each got three singles for four trips for the victors while Dash, third baseman for Fleming's, hit a homer and a single in four times. Edwards and Berry each got two hits for Carbon.

Kell Boosts His Batting Average

Chicago, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Third baseman George Kell of Detroit, the 1949 batting champion, maintained his American League hitting lead during the week with a seven point boost to .351, three ahead of Cleveland's Larry Doby.

A week ago Kell held a mere one point edge over teammate Hoot Evers and Doby. Evers skidded seven points into a third-place tie with Boston's Johnny Pesky at .336. Doby upped his mark five points to .348 for sole possession of second place.

Other leaders in averages computed through Sunday's games were Walt Dropo, Boston, who sagged 10 points to .332; Yogi Berra, New York, .328; Al Zarilla, Boston, .324; Phil Rizuto, New York, .321; Johnny Groh, Detroit, .320; and Vic Wertz, Detroit, .313.

Kell also continued as a double leader in the specialized bracket with 135 hits and 31 two-baggers. Boston's Vern Stephens is the only other two-ply leader with 85 runs scored and 100 runs batted in.

Dado Marino In Title Bout For Flyweight Crown

Honolulu, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Terry Allen of London and Dado Marino of Honolulu battle tonight for the championship of the little men—the 112 pounders.

It's a match which may return the world flyweight title to the United States for the first time in 20 years.

Allen, the champion is fast, tricky and only 26.

Marino, the challenger, looks the heavier puncher and is a battle-scared 34.

Managers of the fighters say each is in top shape for the 10-round test but neither believes it will go the full distance.

It possibly will be the last crack at the crown for Marino, who makes his living driving a beer truck and fighting mostly featherweights and bantamweights because 112 pounders are so scarce.

Schedules

CIVIC LEAGUE (Today)
American Legion vs. Lions Club, Third St. School.
Jaycees vs. Exchange Club, Third Street School.

Gene Woodling, New York Yankee left fielder, is out on a slide into home base in the eighth inning of a game with the Browns at St. Louis. Browns Catcher Sherman Lollar has just made the tag and Umpire Bill McKinley is about to call the play. Woodling tried to score from third on a grounder to Browns Shortstop Tommy Upton. ## Boys League Baseball

Wildcats vs. Red Sox
W. Greenville's Red Sox continued their mastery of the Junior Division of the Boys League with a 12 to 5 win over the Wildcats of Training School. The game with the exception of the fourth when the Sox scored six runs was well played and interesting, but when the Sox got to hitting as they often do they knocked the ball to all corners of the lot to win easily.

Charley Pollard and Wingate were the leading hitters for the Sox with three singles in three trips to the plate. Nobles, Strickland, Norris and Carawan got two hits for the Red Sox. Billy Johnson and Mike Riddick got two hits each to lead the Wildcats.

Cubs vs. Indians
Third Street's league leading Cubs ran roughshod over the Indians of W. Greenville yesterday morning 10 to 4. The Cubs who are full strength for the first time in weeks scored at least one run in every inning to win with ease. Ralph Johnson allowed the Indians to score four runs without a hit because of his wildness, but was in complete charge of the game throughout. Mac Roebuck, John Laws, Hathaway and Staton led the hitting for the Cubs.

Schedule for Wednesday:
Tigers vs. Indians, 9:00 a.m.
Red Sox vs. Robins, 9:00 a.m.
Dodgers vs. Cards, 9:00 a.m.

Robinson Holds Nine-Point Lead

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Jackie Robinson holds a nine-point edge on Stan Musial in his battle to retain the National League batting title.

Back home at Brooklyn, Robinson boosted his average two points last week to .370. Musial advanced one point to .361, but it wasn't a good week for the St. Louis slugger. The Brooklyn hurlers stopped his consecutive hitting streak at 30 games.

Robinson has 124 hits—the most in the League—in 335 at bats. Musial has one less safety, 123, in 341 tries.

Enos Slaughter, Musial's teammate, climbed from seventh to third place with his .332 mark. Figures include games of Sunday, July 29.

Whitney Lockman of the New York Giants returned to action and dropped a point to .330, but it was good enough to keep the outfielder in fourth place.

Pool Attendance Is Over 1200 Mark For Last Week Says Jones

Swimming pool attendance at the Greenville Swimming pool topped the 1200 mark for the past week, David Jones, cashier of the local pool, reported today.

More than 400 boys and girls from all over the city were on hand Monday to take part in the free swimming offered by the Greenville Elks Club. The club sponsors the event each Monday.

Jones stated the pool attendance has gone back to normal because of the warm weather which has prevailed in this area for several days.

New Director For Bureau Of Field Service And Extension Appointed

ORVAL L. PHILLIPS

Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina Teachers College, announced today that Orval L. Phillips, head of the mathematics department at Mississippi Southern College, has been secured to fill the vacancy of director of the bureau of field service and extension at the college. Mr. Phillips will replace Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, who retired at the end of the spring quarter to become Governor of the 279th Rotary district.

The bureau of field service and extension was first set-up at East Carolina in 1947 with Dr. McGinnis serving as its first head. Under the supervision of the head of the bureau, extension work from the college is offered through out the eastern part of the state. The bureau is also concerned with public relations work in the public schools of this area, and with the follow-up of teachers in service.

At present, Mr. Phillips is attending Columbia University, Teachers College, where he will receive his Doctor of Education degree at the end of the summer. While on leave from Mississippi Southern College, Mr. Phillips is also teaching in the mathematics department at the Columbia Teachers College.

Before attending Columbia, Mr. Phillips received his B.A. degree at East Texas Teachers College and his M.A. degree from North Texas Teachers College. During the war, he attended the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, where he received a degree in aerological engineering. Other graduate work was done at Louisiana State University where he was an instructor in the mathematics department.

As a teacher of mathematics, Mr.

Phillips has had experience in a number of large high schools and has served as supervisor of mathematics for sometime. During the war, he served in the U. S. Navy as lieutenant and as an educational and aerological officer.

Mr. Phillips is author of a number of articles on mathematics published in magazines in Mississippi and Louisiana. He will join the staff at East Carolina this fall.

Sales Record On Cotton Exchange

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 1—(AP)—The Memphis Cotton Exchange has chalked up a sales record for the huge spot cotton market here — 5,287,681 bales for the 1949-50 season. The market season ended yesterday. Exchange officials said the new record was 1,181,654 bales over the previous record of 4,100,027 bales set in the 1940-41 season.

The total bales sold here, the exchange said, was 47 per cent of all cotton reported sold during the season in the 10 major markets of the cotton belt. The average price per pound for middling 15-16 inch cotton was 31.76 cents. A low of 29.30 cents was reported in September and October and a high of 38.85 cents reported in July. The average bale weighs about 500 pounds.

Port Of Pusan Becomes Port Of Destiny For UN

AP Newsfeatures
 Pusan has become a port of destiny for United Nations troops fighting to hold in Korea against the Communists. Situated on the southeastern coast, it is the best port in Korea, the one through which most traffic to the outside world has passed.
 When the Japanese held Pusan and its population of a third of a million, they developed the port extensively. They linked it to Japan by cable and other communications and they carried on heavy traffic between it and their port of Shimonoseki, on the island of Honshu, 135 miles away.
 Pusan's importance as a port of entry for GIs is helped by its tremendous defensive assets. It has been fortified for centuries and the high bare hills surrounding it have provided a formidable barrier to invaders attempting to move in from the north. "Rugged terrain screens the city so well," says the National Geographic Society, "that only a fraction of it is visible even from the waterfront."
 "The harbor itself also is well protected by nature. Outside the entrance is Mok To, an island four miles long and a mile and half wide, which incoming ships must skirt in order to reach anchorage. There are two relatively narrow passages between island and mainland, and both are overhung by high rock walls."
 Pusan in Allied hands guarantees a port for the build-up of men and material needed to throw back the North Koreans. It also is where the U.S. could—if necessary—make its most prolonged attempt to hold.

Asserts Keys To Cancer Are Near

Oxford, Eng., Aug. 1 —(AP)—Some keys to prevent cancer lie right under our noses, just waiting to be grasped and turned, Dr. Alexander Symeonidis said yesterday.
 These keys are geographic. They are the many peculiar differences in various countries of the body locations of cancer, he said. Liver cancer hits one nation harder than another. Breast cancer is common in some countries—but rare in others.
 "If we can learn why these differences occur, then we shall have clues to human cancer, and could find ways to prevent it," said Dr. Symeonidis, special advisor of the Geographical Pathology Unit, National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Md.
 He is one of 20 experts from nine countries meeting here this week to plan a new attack on cancer, using these geographical keys. The symposium was initiated by the council for coordination of international conferences of medical sciences. It is sponsored by the United Nations Economic and Social Council (UNESCO) and the World Health Organization (WHO).

Czechs Building Children's Town

Carlsbad, Czechoslovakia—(AP)—A children's town is being built near this famous spa. It will have a big central hall, 10 log cabins, movie theater, legitimate theater, playgrounds, a swimming pool and miniature railroad.
 The town will become a vacation spot for the Pioneers, Communist-sponsored organization of school-age children of Czechoslovakia.

Suspect Neighbors Of Placing Poison To Kill Pet Cats

 SPCA officials said that the national organization offers a reward for information leading to the arrest of persons convicted of poisoning animals.

Study Glaciers For Old Secrets

New York—(AP)—To wrest from a glacier some of the climate secrets of a thousand years, William O. Field, Jr., of the American Geographical Society has returned once more to Alaska.

Field, head of the AGS department of exploration and field research, will visit the 15-man team operating from the glaciological laboratories set up June 22 near the center of a 700-square mile expanse of snow and ice near Juneau in Southeastern Alaska.

The project is sponsored by federal agencies, including the U. S. Forest Service and U. S. Geological Survey, and its findings will be made available to the government. Representatives of several U. S. agencies are visiting the project this summer.

Now in its second year, the project seeks also new information on the physical properties of ice and the climate controls affecting glacier expansion and recession.

The party is measuring the snow-fall which forms the glacier in its upper levels, the flow of ice to lower levels, and its final disappearance by melting. It drills several hundred feet to study the crystal structure of the ice deep in the glacier. Surveyors are mapping the whole region, and other scientists are studying vegetation near the ice to determine past variations of glaciers.

One specific glacier (the Taku) is advancing several hundred feet a year and toppling trees 150 years old in its path.

"The Juneau ice field is one of the most accessible extensive glacier systems in the world," Field commented.

Square Lips Are Help To Singers

Indianapolis—(AP)—Want to learn to sing? Then be a "square lipper," says William Ernest Ross, associate professor of voice at Indiana University. Form your lips into a square, throw back your shoulders and burst into song. And don't be afraid to show your upper and lower front teeth, either, he says.

Other pointers thrown out by the professor are: Don't smile when you sing. You're more likely to yell than sing if you do. Don't sing with "lazy lips." If your lips are relaxed, they will tend to muffle your voice.

Second Child Is Expected Soon

London, July 31—(AP)—Court circles speculated today that Princess Elizabeth's second child may be born about the end of next week—probably around Aug. 12. Princess Elizabeth is spending the time quietly at her London home, Clarence House, with Prince Phillip, who returned last week from Malta where he had been serving as a British navy lieutenant aboard the destroyer Chequers.

Seek Revocation Of Bridges' Bond

San Francisco, July 31—(AP)—A government attorney said today the government will ask revocation today of the $25,000 bail upon which Harry Bridges is at liberty.

The announcement was made by F. Joseph Donohue, special prosecutor for the U. S. attorney general. He said Bridges, president of the CIO Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union "poses a threat to the security of the United States." Revocation of bail would mean that Bridges would have to go to jail.

Stage Presence

Chicago—(AP)—The Tent-house, a theater out on the north shore, has a low, circular stage. Members of the audience sometimes cut across the stage as they walk about during intermissions.

When the lights went up for the second act one night, a woman who had lost her bearings was standing in the spot where the heroine was supposed to be. Actor Barney Hughes directed her to her seat and the play was resumed.

County Would Build Without Tax Load

Peoria, Ill.—(P) Newsfeatures
Peoria, Ill.—A new county building that would be built at no cost to the taxpayers is being considered here. It's a novel idea.

This is what has been proposed. Peoria county would provide a square block of land in downtown Peoria. The site now is occupied by the old county courthouse.

A firm of Chicago mortgage bankers would finance construction of the new structure. It would be seven stories high and would cost about $10,000,000.

The sub-basement would be used for parking cars. There would be space for 700 of them.

Stores Would Be Rented
The upper basement, the first floor and most of the second floor would be rented to retail stores.

County offices would have the third, fourth and fifth floors, rent free. The sixth and seventh would be rented, probably for state and city offices.

The money necessary to build the building would come from private investors. They would own the property. Then they would get back the money they invested, plus interest, from the rent paid by the stores and non-county offices, and from parking fees.

The building would be turned over to the county at the end of 30 years.

No Opposition Foreseen
The Peoria County board of supervisors has authorized detailed plans and has set up a special committee to study the proposal.

John C. Parkhurst head of the committee, says there is no organized opposition to the project but some questions about its legality have been raised. Some lawyers figure an enabling act by the state legislature would be advisable.

William Dunn, legal adviser, to the county board, says the private investors would pay taxes during the 30 years they owned the building. After the building reverted to the county, he adds, a plan probably could be worked out so that taxes and rents received from the tenants would balance.

The village council last night authorized an appropriation for cat food to keep its ratters healthy.

Too Effective
Buckfastleigh, Eng. Aug. 1—(P)—This village's four official cats have made rats so scarce in the sewers they can't find enough to eat.

Gen. Walker Lays Groundwork For New 'Normandy Campaign'

By DON WHITEHEAD
 U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters in Korea — (AP) — The American strategy in Korea is following closely the same broad plans which Gen. Omar Bradley used in smashing through the Germans six years ago in Normandy.

On a small scale, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker of Belton, Texas, is building up his Eighth Army for another "Saint Lo break-through" campaign.

"Here is how we plan to do it," Walker said in an interview. "It won't be giving away any secrets to say what we want to do in a general way.

"First we must establish a defense line to hold the enemy attacks and give us a screen behind which to build up strength. Once we get this defense line, then we can proceed with the buildup as the allied forces did on the Normandy beachhead.

"When we are ready, then we'll shift to the offensive and begin our drive to the north."

There's not much doubt that Walker will use the combat tactics of Gen. George S. Patton when he shifts to the offensive. He was one of Patton's ace corps commanders in World War II—commanding the famous "Ghost Corps" which smashed through the Germans in France.

This was the Third Army's 20th Division, key unit in the allied drive through France and Germany.

I asked Walker about the green troops who were thrown into combat in small units against overwhelming odds in the early days of the Korea campaign.

"There was nothing else to do," Walker said slowly. "We had to gamble for time. We had to fight for time. I had to take time in which to build up our strength—starting from a flat-footed stand."

"I didn't like to see green troops thrown against a strong enemy without the proper equipment and support. But I had no other choice. Those green troops won the time we had to have."

"I don't believe that combat veterans could have done much more than those troops did.

"We would have had more casualties than we have had—because the veterans would have stood and slugged it out against hopeless odds. More of them would have been killed."

But Walker said he agreed with Gen. Douglas MacArthur that the North Korean Reds have lost their chance to overrun Korea.

"If it hadn't been for those green troops of the 24th Division," he said, "then I believe the Reds would have driven right on to Pusan and we would have had no beachhead in Korea."

Patton in all his campaigns never had a tougher job than Walker is up against now.

Patton took command of the Third Army in Britain in 1944 with full strength divisions which had been well trained in the United States. Then he had five full months in which to give them further training and weld them into a fighting force. He had time to build up his command echelon and organize a smooth organization at the top.

Walker has started from scratch—and has had to build his army while it is in combat. That alone is a king-sized job.

I asked Walker about open flanks on a thinly held line—open spaces through which the enemy can infiltrate and attack from the sides.

"That reminds me of a situation we had in Europe," Walker said. "Gen. Manton Eddy had the Ninth Division on my right with only the Loire River between him and tens of thousands of Germans. The Germans were retreating before the American landing in southern France.

"Eddy came to Patton and said: 'How much should I worry about those Germans on my flank?'"

"Patton said: 'That's according to how nervous a man you are, Manton.'"

"Manton replied: 'I'm serious, George. There are tens of thousands of those Germans on my flank. I think I had better reform my division in columns to protect my flanks.'"

"Patton grinned. 'Hell, Manton,' he said, 'ignore it.'"

Walker looked at me and smiled. "When I think about those flanks, I just remember what Patton said to General Eddy—'Hell, just ignore it.'"

UN Commander Greeted Wrong Chinese Leader

Taipei, Formosa, July 31—(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek hurried forward to meet General MacArthur today when the U. N. Commander arrived from Tokyo.

But before Chiang could get there MacArthur was shaking hands with pint-sized Premier Cheng, and saying: "I'm delighted to meet you, Generalissimo."

One of the Premier's aids hastily explained, "he's not the Generalissimo—he's the Premier."

MacArthur corrected himself: "How do you do, Mr. Premier."

When Chiang reached the group MacArthur made no mistake.

"How do you do, Generalissimo," he said, "it was nice of you to come down and meet me."

Red China Said Seeking Way To Mediate Fight

London, July 31—(AP)—An official source said today Communist China is seeking a way to end the Korean war through mediation by Asians.

The source for this information has British Commonwealth connections, but cannot be identified further. He said the Chinese views were conveyed a few days ago to the Indian ambassador to Red China, K. M. Pannikar. The British representative in Peiping has given London a full report. It is not known whether India has replied.

This developed on the eve of Soviet Russia's return to the United Nations Security Council, and may be straw in the wind as to the stand Russia may adopt there. It was believed Russia may present the idea and insist Korea is an Asian problem.

Munition Plant Heavily Bombed By B-29 Raiders

Tokyo, July 31—(AP)—Eighty-five per cent of the great Chosen Nitrogen Chemical Co. munitions plant at Hungnam in North Korea was effectively damaged by Sunday's heavy B-29 raid, the Far East Air Force announced tonight.

It said aerial photographs showed "excellent" results from the 500-ton bombing by nearly 80 B-29s.

The bombers had attacked by radar sighting through overcast.

The later reconnaissance photo analysis showed 30 per cent of the Hungnam industrial area—greatest in North Korea—was completely wiped out. This included buildings, warehouses, powerhouses, laboratories, rail lines and loading sheds.

Naturalist John James Audubon estimated a flock of passenger pigeons near Louisville, Ky in 1813 at more than 1,000,000 birds.

Hope For Cancer Cure Is Keeping Scientist Busy

New Brunswick, N.J.—(AP)—At retirement age, Dr. Moses L. Crossley had a choice: To loaf and go sailing, or to take on more new work.

The choice was easy for a brilliant chemist who "can't imagine himself not working." So now he's doing a double job in cancer research, of making and testing drugs that may stop or kill cancer.

Dr. Crossley, now 66, retired last fall as director of research of the American Cyanamid Company and its subsidiary, Calco Chemical Co. His industrial career included developing drugs for arthritis, and some of the first real wonder drugs, and the sulfa family. It also covered a search for anti-cancer drugs.

Over the years Dr. Crossley and his staff made some 1,200 new chemicals that might carry a punch against cancer.

He has taken on a new job, as an honorary research specialist at Rutgers University's Bureau of Biological Research, headed by Dr. James B. Allison. Dr. Crossley directs the bureau's experiments in testing new chemicals.

One promising drug is TEM, nickname for triethyleniminoestrone. This is one of a family of drugs, the ethylene imines, developed from German-discovered dye chemicals.

Drugs are tested on rats, on cancers transplanted from other rats, and on other animals having cancer. So far TEM shows ability to decrease the size of certain transplanted cancers.

"Many compounds have shown some activity in retarding tumor growth in animals, but this mustn't be taken to mean that a cancer cure is in sight," Dr. Crossley said.

"It is possible that within the next 10 years we will know enough to control some types of cancer—but not necessarily all types. And whether, even then, we will be able to control cancer in all of its life stages is exceedingly doubtful."

The cancer work of the Bureau of Biological Research is supported by the American Cancer Society, Damon Runyon Memorial Fund, and American Cyanamid.

Young Whistler

AP Newsfeatures
A whistler of seven months' standing, Linda Joann Parker never took lessons. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Parker of Denver, have no idea how she learned to pucker her lips and make pretty sounds. At 11 months she suddenly started whistling and now at a year and a half she whistles tunes with considerable trueness. Apparently she picks up her material entirely by ear from listening to the radio. At any rate, Linda is going to be able to give the boys some of their own medicine when she gets a little older.

Mary Rose Messick Chosen Head Of N.C. Group At Columbia

Miss Mary Rose Messick, daughter of President and Mrs. John D. Messick of East Carolina Teachers College, has been chosen president of the North Carolina organization of Columbia University. She will complete work on her M.A. degree in art at Columbia at the end of the summer term.

Miss Messick is a graduate of Newark State Teachers College where she received her A.B. degree. During the regular school term she teaches art in the Raleigh city schools, where she is also active as a speaker for various civic clubs and organizations.

Besides teaching in Raleigh, Miss Messick has taught in the city schools of Patterson, N. J. and during the first term of summer school was a guest instructor in the art department at East Carolina Teachers College.

Jungle Town Is Uranium Center

Kamina, Belgian Congo—(AP)—This little whistle stop on the Port Francoeur-Elisabethville railway is on the way to becoming Belgium's biggest overseas military base.

Squads of Congolese working under the supervision of 175 Europeans are carving a huge airfield and military camp out of the surrounding jungle. In the case of hostilities Kamina would become the king-pin of the colony's defense.

About 150 miles to the south, east lies plenty worth defending—the Congo's uranium mines, the richest known in the world.

With an area eighty times the size of Belgium at their disposal the Belgian technicians are not being skimpy about the size of the field. Its longest runway is scheduled to stretch three and a half miles. Over 100 miles of roadway are being let out. Altogether the field and military base will cover 123,500 acres, when finished late in 1952.

During 1948 the construction ate up $1,740,000, or about one tenth of the $15 million dollars estimated as the final cost.

Towards the end of 1951 the base will be partially opened when a pilot school moves in. Young Belgians will earn their wings over the wide open spaces of the colony instead of over the intensely crowded home country as at present. Accident will be cut down because of this. In case of a crash landing the fledglings have one million square miles to choose from instead of tiny cultivated fields of Belgium.

SPEED READING and less bulk is made possible for the blind by this machine that can be regulated for the number of words per minute. Running tape sets up pins that can be felt.

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—More reading for the blind by reducing the bulk of Braille literature has been made possible by a new machine that combines the Braille code with the workings of the tele-type.

Called a Braille Reader, the robot has been developed by the International Business Machines Corp. and was demonstrated at a Franklin Institute meeting of the American Association of Instructors for the Blind.

By using punched tape, instead of heavy Braille sheets embossed on only one side, the contrivance cuts 75 per cent from the bulk. The punched tape raises pins to be felt by the reader and makes a speed of 150 words per minute practicable.

U. S. Employment Record Tops Old 52,452,000 High

Washington, Aug. 1—(AP)—The number of Americans with jobs outside of farm work, reached high of 52,774,000 in the first week of July. The previous peak was 52,452,000 in July 1948. Announcing the new figure, Secretary of Commerce Sawyer made this comment: "It should be noted that, with the nation again approaching full employment, it may be necessary once more to find ways to expand our labor force to permit the increased industrial production and strengthening of the armed forces requested by the President."

'Realistic' Art For Red Hungary

VIENNA—(AP)—Realism is not realism if it portrays things as they really are. In that case it's naturalism, which only reflects bourgeois decadence. That's the latest art lesson being taught in Hungary, according to reports reaching Vienna. Hungarian artists have been told to adopt "heroic realism" as practiced in the Soviet Union. "Heroic realism" shows things as they ought to be. For those artists who are in need of ideas, the Communist Party has issued the following "suggested" themes:

Needle-Point Is Urged As Means To Relaxation

Charleston, W. Va.—(AP)—Reach for a needle instead of a golf club. That's the relaxation motto of Dr. P. A. (Pete) Haley, Charleston physician.

"There's nothing more relaxing than to pick up my needle-point and get in a few stitches. I like golf, too, but needle-point is fascinating," he commented. "It helps with my surgery, too," he added. "For one thing, it keeps my fingers nimble." One of Dr. Haley's completed needle-point pieces, a scene entitled "Evening," was exhibited at a meeting in San Francisco of the American Physician's Art Association. The design shows a girl crossing a bridge against a vividly colored background.

Another Tobacco Barn Is Burned

Another Pitt county tobacco barn went up in smoke early Monday morning according to a report received from the Belvoir community today. A tobacco barn owned by W. K. Clark, Jr., was destroyed by fire around 2 o'clock Monday morning as the tobacco in the barn was being killed out. Clark told a Reflector reporter today that he estimated his loss to run around $1800, which was not insured. He said that there was an estimated 692 sticks of tobacco in the barn at the time of the fire. Most of the tobacco in the barn was third pullings of good leaf quality, the owner said. Yesterday Mr. Clark was in town to see his insurance agent about his insurance on his barns, only to find that he had only a few hundred dollars on the barn itself and not the contents. The barn was insured for loss by wind but not for loss of the contents by fire. The Clark farm is located about five miles from Greenville on the Belvoir highway. He expressed the fear that the tobacco in the fields will start coming in too fast for the present number of barns which he now has to take care of the demand.

The roaring laughter stopped instantly when the political police arrived. Everyone in the building was questioned before the opera was allowed to proceed.

Pitt County Man New Adviser To Tobacco Growers In Forsyth

By MARTIN HOWARD
(Winston-Salem Journal Farm Correspondent)

What you learn through actual experience is basic. What you learn from the experience of others helps you to interpret your own—and to improve on it.

That's the view Arthur Williams Jr. takes of his work and training in tobacco, which background has just brought him to Forsyth County as a specialist to assist the leaf growers in the field.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur (Tab) Williams of Winterville route one. He graduated from Tyden high school in 1946 where he was a member of the Future Farmers of America chapter under S. F. Peterson, instructor. He completed his studies at North Carolina State college in June. During the summer months last year he did field work with County Agent S. C. Winstoer and Tobacco Specialist Sam Weeks of Pitt county.

Although a young man, Mr. Williams has spent most of his 22 years in the actual growing of to-

ARTHUR WILLIAMS JR.

He topped off that experience this year with a B.S. Degree in agronomy from N. C. State College, where he specialized in tobacco courses.

Only the Beginning

But all that is only the beginning, he insisted yesterday, on his first full work-day in his new job here.

"Nobody ever learns everything about tobacco or any other crop. I was 'raised up' in tobacco, but I've always been able to learn new facts about it every season."

Despite this modest view of himself, however, this young man from Pitt County—in the heart of the State's tobacco country—was employed here on the basis of excellent recommendations by N. C. State College officials and agricultural leaders who know him personally.

Talk with Arthur Williams five minutes, and you realize that here is a man in whom actual field work and book training have been nicely balanced.

Tobacco is 'Hard Work'

"From seed bed to graded leaf, there's more hard work in tobacco than any other crop I know about," he said yesterday. "In fact, it's one of the few crops which it seems almost impossible to get the hard work out of."

Mechanized farming, for instance, has greatly reduced the labor in most farm crops. With tobacco, except for preparing the land, machinery has helped little, either in cultivation or harvesting.

Some of the time and labor involved in curing, Mr. Williams pointed out, has been eliminated by improved barning methods. And, he added, experiments now being conducted in chemical control of suckers may prove helpful.

Hope for Best Returns

But since the hard labor cannot be materially reduced, he said, the hope of farmers and agricultural program workers now is to get the best return possible from the labor that is involved.

"By this I do not mean simply getting the highest price," he explained, "but producing the largest possible yield of the best quality per acre."

He enumerated a few of the factors which already are pushing this ahead:

The use of disease-resistant and broad leaf varieties, the right amount of the right fertilizers for each farmer's soil, scientific curing in good barns—such as those equipped with the Oxford type ventilator, which both reduces fuel cost and preserves the natural quality of the leaf.

Works Mostly in Field

Mr. Williams' headquarters will be the office of the county farm agent.

"But my work," he said yesterday, "will be almost entirely in the field. Wherever a tobacco farmer finds himself with a problem—that's the place I'll be, if the farmer wants my help."

Arthur Williams sees his new job as having two main purposes: (1) To help any farmer in the county put into practice any of the methods which pooled experience already has proven successful; and (2) to work with any farmer on any new tobacco problem, in a combined effort to find the solution.

"In all this work," he said, "every Forsyth County farmer has at his disposal the combined help of his own farm office, the State experiment stations such as ours at Rural Hall, and the N. C. State College Extension Service."

Pipeline Workers To Save Soil

Houston, Tex.—(AP)—Soil conservation work is now being done by the big pipeline companies in cooperation with farmers. One firm, the Texas-Illinois Natural Gas Pipe Line Co., has a special department to save soil. It develops plants to hold it in place, terraces hillside, plants grass and develops other practices.

E. D. Warren, a company executive, explains that most pipeline companies have discovered that their lines face extensive damage when the soil washes away. It is cheaper to keep the soil in place than to repair washed out lines, he indicates.

LAST CHANCE

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE

Chapter 3

By the following morning Dick was calling himself all kinds of a fool. The sun was bright overhead, and even at that early hour the heat was oppressive. The iron roller was heavy and the ground uneven. More than once, while he struggled with it, he was tempted to abandon it and the Leesburg Lions. Only the thought of that tone in Betty's voice kept him at it.

At noon he went to the Lee's house and silently consumed the crisp cool salad that Betty set before him. Then he rested for two hours and without a word to her, went to the ball park to dress for the game.

By the time he got to the dressing room, he was stiff and sore from his morning's work, but he forgot it in a new anger that seethed in him. It was Sanger, the shortstop with the locker next to Dick's, who did it.

"You were smart in coming here when you did, feller," he said with a laugh. "It won't be long now. The LEES ARE AT THE END OF THEIR ROPE. A couple of big league clubs are after this franchise for their farm teams. But the Lees are holding out, figuring to make a go of it themselves. But they are through now. The only way this club could pull out the red would be if we won the pennant and there's no chance of that. The Lee's'll be broke by the end of the season. They'll have to pull out with whatever they can get, which won't be much. Once the Lions are a big league farm club, maybe we'll get better grounds and a bigger stand and decent accommodations when we travel."

"Yeah," Dick said mechanically and wondered why the thought of Betty Lee losing the Lions and the way he got another shock when they took the field. Betty Lee was on the bench, and when she told them she was going to manage the team until her brother left the hospital and could get back on the bench, Dick heard a faint snicker behind him. He was sure that it was Sanger. It kindled a glow of anger within him, although again for no reason that he could tell.

THE LIONS LOST THE GAME THAT DAY, which was expected, when they played the Crows, an Owl farm team. The Crows were leading the league and offered a discouraging contrast to the Lions. They were a young, eager scrappy lot, anxious for promotion in the Owl chain, and they rode rough-shod over the listless Lions, resigned it seemed, to the cellar position.

As for Dick, the game was agony to him. His back ached, and his legs threatened to give way every time he crouched behind the bat. Blisters were forming on his hands from his morning's work, but he stuck to it grimly, thankful for the first time in his life for the end of a game when he was on the losing side.

IT WAS EVEN WORSE THE FOLLOWING DAY. But this Betty who had come to the field wearing a thoughtful expression on her face and who had been watching Dick from under the long lashes that brushed her face, noticed it.

Her voice was soft when she came up behind him, pouring water over his hands between innings to ease the burning pain, and said, "Want to call it a day, Dick? Your hands look bad."

He whirled on her and snapped, "No! I'm all right. I'm staying with it."

"Then use this," she said, handing him a small jar of an evil-smelling grease and a pair of fingerless gloves. "It's a home remedy my mother made for us when we were kids and burned ourselves. The gloves will help, too."

THE GREASE, HELD IN PLACE BY THE gloves, helped soothe his hands. Dick began to feel more alive, to take a keener interest in both teams.

The game was half three-quarters shot. Dick set himself to watch the Crow players. They were good, he admitted to himself, but green. A smart pitcher could make them tan all plenty.

The Lions, he felt, could do a lot better if they'd only put more heart into their game. Given half an incentive, they could still go places.

In the weeks that followed Dick's hands became tough as nails. It was no longer torture to pull the heavy roller around and the grounds rounded into shape. Dick looked better, too. Between Betty's diet and his daily workouts with the roller, he had taken off thirty pounds, and was rapidly losing more. Slowly, but surely, he was rounding "big league."

HE HAD BEGUN TO PLAY HIS HARD HITTING again and behind his hard hitting, the Lions managed to stay only eight games behind the league-leading Orioles and Crows. Dick felt it was time for something to pop, as far as he was concerned.

Betty had been forced to contend with a lot of behind-the-back gibing and carelessness from such men

Sanger, but Dick had managed to set most of the men right.

In the locker room, where he normally went about the business of preparing for the day's game in silence, he had one day surprised them all by saying, "See here, fellows, I don't care where the Lions end up in this league, or whether the Lees manage to keep their franchise. But we're ball players. The fans out there in the stands pay to see honest-to-goodness ball playing. If we're at all honest with them and if we love the game, as I think we do, we'll go out there and keep trying to win as hard as we can for the game's sake."

It was the longest speech he had ever made since joining the Lions and they all looked up in surprise. Then Johnston and Straw and Wilkes, and the whole gang had crowded around him and silently shaken his hand.

"Thanks, Thompson," said Johnston. "Thanks for waking me up. You're right. The fans deserve the best we can show 'em. We'll give it to them out there."

Century Plant Blooms And Dies

CENTURY PLANT blooms this season. This is one on the San Sarita ranch of John P. Lee, near San Angelo, Texas, is 21 feet tall. It has 24 bloom clusters. Each cluster branches into three main groups. Legend holds that these represent the Trinity.

ONCE IN SEVEN YEARS you see these blossoms. Then plant dies and may not sprout for three years.
