Would Penalize Blackmarketers

Hoarders Also Face Stern Action If Senate Committee Measure Adopted; May Vote Today On Standby Economic Controls; New Bill Offered In House

Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—Prison sentences and $10,000 fines for hoarders and blackmarketers were voted by a senate committee today as Congress pressed swiftly toward action on economic mobilization legislation.

A house vote on the administration's requested control powers—plus standby wage and price controls—was possible late in the day but may not come until tomorrow.

Democratic leaders put before the house a substitute for the administration and credit control measure the new bill would give Mr. Truman power to slap ceilings on wages and roll prices back to the levels of the May 24 to June 24 period.

The new bill also would allow the President to order rationing.

Republicans, rallying behind a bill of their own, protested the last minute introduction of a new administration measure. The GOP bill also would provide for standby wage and price controls.

Rep. Halleck (R-Ind) called the administration move "deplorable." He said it gave the house "no fair chance" to consider the proposals and was "a poor way to legislate."

The plan for crackdown powers on hoarders and black-market operators was approved today by the senate banking committee. The committee also approved a board system of credit controls that would apply to all real estate construction after noon, meridian time tomorrow.

The committee put off until later in the day a vote on whether Mr. Truman should have price-wage control powers, but majority sentiment appeared to be in favor of giving them to him.

Chairman Maybank (D-So) said he was for it. The anti-hoarding section of the committee's bill says:

"No person shall accumulate (1) materials in excess of reasonable and normal demands of business or home construction, or (2) materials in short supply for the purpose of resale at prices in excess of prevailing market prices which have been designated by the President as scarce materials or materials the supply of which would be threatened by such accumulation."

Violations could bring penalties of up to $10,000 and a year in prison.

Publicity Man Is Nominated For Donaldson Aid

Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—John M. (Jack) Redding, publicity director for the Democratic National Committee was nominated by President Truman today as assistant postmaster general.

Redding, the publicity director for the committee since April 1, 1947, was named to succeed Paul Aiken, who resigned to run for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Kansas.

The new assistant postmaster general—there are four such posts paying $15,000 a year—will also serve as public relations advisor to Postmaster General Donaldson, the White House said.

Acheson Against Proposed Loan To Franco Spain

Recalls Old Obstacles To Economic Aid Have Not Been Overcome

Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today opposed the Senate's $100,000,000 Spanish loan "rider" to a pending ECA appropriation.

He told a news conference there were adequate funds for any justified Spanish loan already available in the Export-Import Bank.

He also said that the State Department had met with no success in efforts in recent months to persuade Spain to adopt a more democratic government.

The Senate yesterday added to legislation appropriating funds for European recovery a clause saying a $100,000,000 loan should be made to Spain through the Export-Import Bank.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) had proposed cutting Spain in for $100,000,000 of Marshall Plan funds. Skirting that, the Senate voted for the Export-Import Bank plan.

Acheson recalled to his news conference that the State Department had opposed McCarran's plan in the past.

Though he did not phrase it that way, Acheson's attitude appeared to be this in short: He feels any loan to Spain ought to be handled in the regular way; that Congress ought

Sign Performers For August 10th

Greenville's Farmers' Day is fast shaping into a heyday during the August 10th festivities. More, it can easily boil down to an old-fashioned hoodlum.

The entertainment committee has been hard at work during the past few days getting things in ship-shape order for the public's enjoyment. The all-day proceedings will start off with a splash when water clowns begin their act at the pool at two o'clock sharp.

Although the committee has not released the names of the performers it is understood one of them is presently a national swimming champion from the University of North Carolina. Who that is, chairman John Lautens stated he was holding it as a surprise.

Preceding the warehouse program, which begins in the afternoon in a preliminary show, street clowns have been obtained from

Truman's Vote-Getting Ability In Severe Test

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS. President Truman's choice today by more than 11,000 votes today in the Democratic senatorial primary race in Missouri.

The man supported by Mr. Truman, State Senator Emery W. Allison of Rolla, had 159,396 votes to 171,002 for former U.S. Representative Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., of St. Louis, in 4,199 out of 4676 precincts. This gave Hennings a lead of 11,806 with 477 precincts still to be counted. Many of the missing ones in southeast Missouri where Mr. Truman always has polled a heavy vote. So the outcome appeared still in doubt.

And in the neighboring state of Kansas Alf M. Landon, Republican candidate for President in 1936 apparently was losing his campaign to regain control of the state party organization.

President Asks Speed On Tax Bill

Does Not Seek Excess Profits Tax Now, But Measure Gains Support

Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—President Truman sent a new letter to Congress today urging speed in raising taxes $5,000,000,000 to help pay for rebuilding America's defense against communism.

The letter, addressed to Chairman George (D-Ga.), was read to the Senate Finance committee as it began consideration of the tax increases.

Mr. Truman's new communication arrived as demands were made in Congress for an excess profits tax, aimed at "profiteering."

Senator Brewster (R-Me) told reporters the President, in his new letter, did not call for an excess profits levy now. "But he did not close the door on it," Brewster added.

The House Ways and Means committee today turned down an excess profits tax proposal as part of new legislation for renegotiation of defense contracts.

Committee members said following a closed door committee session that the excess profits tax rider was tabled by a vote of 15 to 8.

They said however that the committee's action did not close the door to future consideration of such a levy.

Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.), author of the renegotiation bill, told reporters that he did not feel a tax levy had any place in that legislation. Taxes can be taken up separately, he added.

"The bill before the committee is only for the purpose of renegotiating defense contracts to recover excessive profits," Vinson said.

Senator George predicted that President Truman's $5,000,000,000 tax boosting bill will be quickly passed, "substantially as submitted."

President Truman's plan lacked the excess profits tax feature.

The bill to buy more American fighting equipment, came up for closed door consideration today by the Senate Finance committee which George heads.

He figured that the increased rates on corporations and individuals might raise $6,000,000,000 to $8,000,000,000 in the next year. Instead of $5,000,000,000—because of the probable increase in national income.

Teachers To Ask Contingent Pay Boost By State

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 2—(AP)—Leaders of North Carolina school teachers prepared today to appear before the state board of education tomorrow to make a plea for a contingent pay boost promised by the 1949 legislature.

The legislature, which raised teachers' salaries by 25 per cent, promised them an additional raise at the end of each fiscal year of this biennium, provided "the revenues and surplus of the general fund permits."

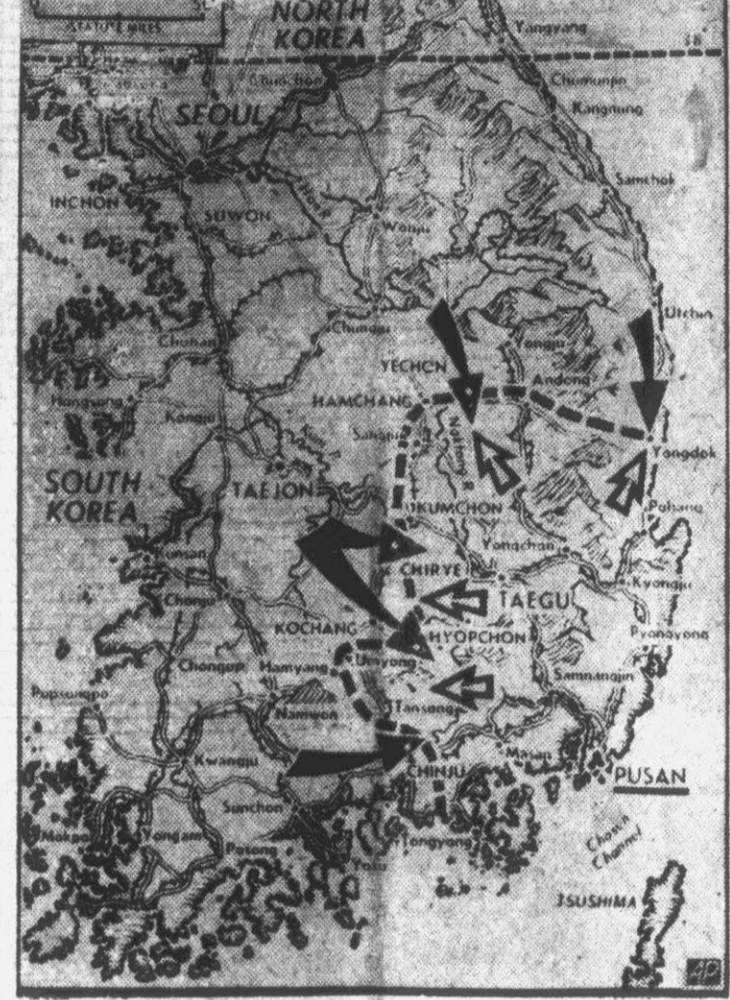

Other primaries, for candidates for the House of Representatives, were held in Virginia and West Virginia with no national issues at stake. All members of the House were re-nominated.

In Kansas Landon supported Willard Mayberry, his secretary when Landon was governor, against Edward F. Arn, former Kansas attorney general, for the Republican nomination for governor. With 2,324 out of 2,793 precincts counted, Mayberry had 67,363 votes and Arn 105,726.

In the Kansas Democratic primaries Paul Aiken, former assistant U.S. Postmaster General, led Carl V. Rice, national committee man, in the race for the Senate. With 2,268 precincts reported Aiken had 43,154 votes against 31,100 for Rice.

Reds Gain In Three Korean Sectors

North Korean Reds exerted pressure all along the defense perimeter Tuesday and drove five miles beyond Chinyu (bottom arrow) to within 50 miles of Pusan. In a double-pronged drive to the north, one Red column rolled 16 miles southwest of a break-through at Kochang and entered Hyophchon. Another column pushed into Chiryu. Reds also captured Yechon from South Korean forces. This town is at the northernmost part of the battle line. At Yongdok on the east coast, Communists held out against a drive by U. S. and South Korean forces. (AP Wirephoto Map).

Malik Defeated, But No Walkout

Calls Second Meeting Of Security Council Today

Lake Success, Aug. 2—(AP)—Beaten in his first attempt as Security Council president to oust Nationalist China, Soviet Delegate Jakob A. Malik comes back for another try today.

He was defeated decisively, 8 votes to 3, but he didn't walk out yesterday.

Instead, he remained to trade bitter words with U.S. and Chinese delegates in a long, wrangling Council session, and to accuse the U.S. of leading "naked aggression" against Asian peoples in Korea, China Indochina and the Philippines.

The fact that he stayed instead of walking out on the Chinese question as he did when he was beaten last January, strengthened a belief that Russia is back in the U.N., at least for the rest of Malik's August term as president.

He called another meeting today (at 2 p.m. EST) to continue a wrangle over what should be on the agenda. Yesterday's session was devoted entirely to jousting over the unseating of the Chinese Nationalists and over what subjects should be discussed, and in what order.

Sir Bengali N. Rau of India, one of the three who voted to oust Nationalist China, said after yesterday's meeting that he regarded it a "good omen" that Malik announced a meeting for today and apparently would attend it.

Predict August 'Warm And Dry'

By The Associated Press. Not much relief from the warm weather was in sight for the southern and eastern states today—and there might not be much cooling off during August.

The U. S. weather bureau in Washington, in a 30-day forecast, said warm and dry weather was in prospect for most of the eastern half of the country during the month. Temperatures will average above normal, the bureau said.

Greenville Schools In Top Condition For Next Term

The opening of the Greenville city schools in September should find the buildings in the system in better operating shape than since the buildings were first constructed, Superintendent of City Schools J. H. Rose announced today.

All of the buildings in the entire city system have been undergoing a complete paint job from one end to the other during the summer, Rose stated. In addition to the painting of all the buildings, which should give them a good appearance both on the outside and inside, new fixtures and furnishings have been placed in many of the buildings, he said.

A new lighting system has been installed at the Eppes High School building, new furniture placed there and the library and auditorium of the building has been renovated, bringing it up to date.

Decline Help

Tokyo, Aug. 2—(AP)—Peiping radio said today that Communist China had offered military and naval help to the North Korean Reds but was turned down. The broadcast was heard here.

The Korean Reds were quoted as saying help was not needed now.

Monitors in Tokyo quoted the broadcast over the official Chinese Communist radio as saying:

"The Communist Republic of China has offered military and naval assistance to the people's Republic of Korea. The People's Republic replied that assistance was unnecessary at this time."

An American intelligence officer said the broadcast was made in the Tibetan language.

May Ask Powers To Control Rent

Truman Urged To Seek Power, Apply It Where Needed

Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—President Truman today was reported considering asking Congress for blanket powers to restore rent controls wherever economic conditions warrant such action.

Housing Expediter Tighe Woods is understood to have submitted rent control recommendations to the White House last week at Mr. Truman's request.

An official familiar with Woods' recommendations told a reporter the housing expediter wants Mr. Truman to ask Congress for power to bring new defense areas under rent ceilings for the first time. If conditions make it necessary.

This official, who asked not to be named, said another feature of Woods' plan calls for the "freezing" of controls in all areas now under the federal rent program. That would wipe out a provision of the present law which gives local communities authority to eliminate federal ceilings.

The official added that Woods recommended that the proposed new rent program be handled separately from the economic controls bill now before Congress.

Border Belt Leaf Averaged $56.73

Opening Day Prices On All Grades Higher Than 1949

Raleigh, N.C., Aug. 2—(AP)—Tobacco sold on markets of the Carolina border belt yesterday averaged $56.73 a hundred pounds, the U. S. and N.C. Departments of Agriculture reported today.

The departments reported that a total of 6,899,914 pounds were auctioned on the belt's 18 markets when the belt opened its 1950 sales season yesterday.

On opening day last season a total of 10,178,163 pounds brought an average price of $51.84.

Prices on all grades sold in volume were higher than on last year's opening day. These ranged from $42.55 for nondescript to $13 for low orange leugs, but most of the gains were between $5 and $10 a hundred.

Prices were expected to continue at high levels on today's sales but the volume was expected to be light and to continue light for several days. The Agriculture Departments reported that the crop is late and growers are busy harvesting.

Farmers were described as well pleased with the opening prices and particularly with those received for medium and lower grades.

The Departments of Agriculture reported that these grades were "selling exceedingly well" on the opening day.

Americans Hold In Flaming Battle Along Broad Front

J. H. Rose Named Civil Defense Head For Pitt

World War II Chairman Is Reappointed; Expects To Confer With State Director Soon; New Setup Said Required

J. H. Rose, chairman of the Pitt county civilian defense committee and assistant director of the North Carolina civilian defense during World War II, has again been reappointed civilian defense chairman for Pitt county.

The appointment was made yesterday by Mayor W. S. Stafford of Greenville after the mayor received a telegram from State Director E. Z. Taylor asking that a chairman be appointed immediately.

Rose said yesterday he expects to go to Raleigh in the near future to confer with the state director on the proposed civilian defense program which has been activated in view of the Korean conflict.

"We will have to work out a program right away," Rose commented, "but things will be different this time from what they were during the last war." Specifically he named the aircraft warning system which he organized and set up in eastern North Carolina during 1939 and 1940 under the direction of General Sanford J. Van. He pointed out that observing stations which were set up every eight miles during World War II have been rendered impractical now that much of the aircraft emphasis has shifted to jet propelled planes and high altitude flying.

On December 10, 1941, three days after Pearl Harbor, Rose called the first meeting of the Pitt county civilian defense committee. In January 1942 he was appointed assistant state director of civilian defense by the late Governor J. Melville Broughton, and was put in charge of all civilian defense activities in the eastern part of the state. Shortly after the appointment Rose was sent to Texas, A. and M. college where he took a special course in civilian defense.

Rose said the activities of the local civilian defense committee will begin as soon as information is received from the state headquarters.

Mayor Stafford this morning urged the people of Greenville, "at least to cooperate, because if we do get into an all-out conflict, civilian defense will be one of the most important phases of the war effort."

Associated Press Correspondent Hal Boyle who flew over the whole of the Greenville area, said the battle line could be followed by a string of flaming villages. Boyle first reported the abandonment of Kumchon.

Help for the doughboys was near. Fighting Marines in force were at a southeastern port only 40 miles from the battlezone. The Marines came equipped with 45-ton tanks, tank killer bazookas and other weapons new to the Korean war.

American planes set fire to Kumchon as they had done at Chinyu after it fell.

The 24th was almost surrounded by strong Red flanking forces. The Americans had counter-attacked to regain high ground they had lost Tuesday.

The Reds sidestepped them and attacked. The American hill positions were described as good for defensive fighting.

The communique said South Koreans were battling for Yongdok on the east coast anchor of the battle line. But the city, once reported in southern hands, belonged to "neither side."

O.H.P. King, Associated Press correspondent in the hills near Chinyu, reported both Chinyu and the nearby village of Socheon were fired by U.S. planes in a five-hour raid.

As the battle progressed the Americans seized the heights at Sangmun, 10 miles east of Chinyu, King said. The Reds closed behind them. Quickly the Americans seized positions at Wobung, five miles southwest of the village of Chung-am, King reported.

King said 35-ton Sherman tanks went into action a few hours after the vital battle in the Chinyu area started.

If the Americans lose there, the Reds could move eastward to a steep ridge where an American tank-supported element was trying to hold the terrain that levels out to a flat coastal plain almost all the remaining way to Pusan. There is no river barrier beyond the steep ridge.

Line Of Burning Villages Marks Fighting Line; No Gains By Enemy; Heavy Reinforcements Arrive; Counterattack Wins Hill Positions In Key Area

Tokyo, Thursday, Aug. 2—(AP)—U.S. 24th Division troops captured hill positions northeast of Chinyu and held on today in a flaming battle 40 miles from a main port of Pusan.

The arching battleline, as marked by burning villages all the way from the southern coast to abandoned Kumchon, which has been lost, General MacArthur's headquarters said U.S. troops and the North Korean Sixth Division were locked in a grim battle east of Chinyu at the western approaches to Pusan.

"No gains by the enemy have been made in this fighting in the last 12 hours," the war summary said. It was released at 12:55 a.m. (9:55 a.m. EST Wednesday).

For 18 hours or more the battle between tanks, artillery and men raged on the heights just eight miles northeast of Chinyu.

On the central front, the U.S. First Cavalry Division, scorched in retreat as the Reds moved into its outskirts.

Disputed Yongdok, east coast anchor town which has changed hands frequently, was a no-man's land.

But the hardest fighting was just north of Chinyu, about 40 miles west of Pusan.

Battle weary U.S. 24th Division troops were almost surrounded when they counterattacked. They suffered many casualties and lost some tanks.

Associated Press Correspondent Hal Boyle who flew over the whole of the Greenville area, said the battle line could be followed by a string of flaming villages. Boyle first reported the abandonment of Kumchon.

Help for the doughboys was near. Fighting Marines in force were at a southeastern port only 40 miles from the battlezone. The Marines came equipped with 45-ton tanks, tank killer bazookas and other weapons new to the Korean war.

Baruch Started It

Before This Former Adviser To Presidents Came On The Scene, Congress Was Split Over Extent Of Economic Controls Needed; His All-Out Proposal Cleared Way

By JAMES MARLOW. Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—Old Bernard Baruch lit a firecracker under Congress and the President. The result: Congress probably will give President Truman power to freeze prices and wages.

If you looked at the lean face of the 80-year-old Baruch, who's been an economic adviser to presidents, you'd guess he was shrewd enough with money to be rich, which he is.

He came down to Washington last week and spoke his piece to Congress. In effect, what he said was "don't play around, don't take chances. Don't use half-way measures."

After we got into the Korean fighting, President Truman asked Congress to do some things to help pay for re-arming and stop inflation.

He asked for higher taxes, government controls on buying-things-on-time, and enough government control over industry to say what firms could use what materials, and who could have them first.

Ferry Service Is Stepped Up

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 2—(AP)—The state highway commission has stepped up ferry service over the Alligator river between Dare and Tyrrell counties.

To meet heavy tourist traffic, an extra mid-afternoon trip was added to the ferry schedule effective yesterday. The Alligator river trip makes connections with the Mann's Harbor-Roanoke Island ferry.

Soon To Reveal Deferment Basis For Reservists

Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—The defense department shortly will announce its deferment policy for reservists, including National Guardsmen, to federal duty.

A spokesman said, however, that the "interim" policy will not apply to selective service draftees.

Government sources said the commerce department will release a list of essential industries as a guide, and the labor department will issue a rather short list of "critical occupations."

The military establishment, it was reported, will emphasize that the lists are not guarantees of exemption from military service.

Battle Within UN

Russian Fight To Seat China's Communists In United Nations Directly Related To Korean Struggle; UN Battle Over Korea Might Rank As Decisive Fight

By DEWITT MACKENZIE. American military reinforcements are landing in Korea and rushing to the support of their hard-pressed comrades—and that's big news.

Meantime, oddly enough, half a world away at Lake Success a battle, which may have even greater influence on the outcome of the Korean war has been joined in the United Nations.

State General Fund Condition Turns Up In Optimistic Shape

By LYNN NISBET
 Raleigh, Aug. 2—Statements of condition of the state general fund account at end of last fiscal year and report of collections for the month of July were released simultaneously at the governor's office Tuesday. Both statements show a "satisfactory" condition.

Total collections for last year (July 1 1949 to June 30 1950) came within a few thousand dollars of what the budget commission had estimated. To begin the year the fund had a credit balance (sometimes erroneously called surplus) of $13,837,735. At end of the year June 1950, the balance was $13,260,163. But involved in that was a carry-over transfer of $556,531 in the contingency and emergency fund, leaving a net shortage of receipts as compared with expenditures of $20,741. That is perhaps the closest approach to perfect balance of estimated and actual revenue since the budget system was adopted a quarter century ago.

On monthly basis the July collections this year exceeded those of last year by $700,000. Total general fund receipts last month were $8,526,712 compared with July, 1949, collections of $7,825,682. Every major tax schedule showed increases this year. Even the beverage tax was up for the first time in several months. Income taxes were off about $123,000, but general sales taxes were up more than $400,000.

That ratio is not healthy, because it reflects less income with higher living costs, a substantial part of the sales tax increase being a reflection of higher prices for staple merchandise. While that is not good for the average citizen, it is good for the state general fund account as a whole.

The year-end report may or may not be more significant than the monthly report. Whether the actual balance available for application to second year biennial use will be thirteen millions or seven millions will depend upon final adjudication of Sec 20 1-2 of the 1949 appropriations act, which ostensibly would devote about half the carry-over to school teacher salaries.

But, the budget commission two years ago estimated revenue for 1950-51 to be some five millions less than for 1949-50. First month of the second fiscal year shows a $400,000 increase over the comparable month of the first year. If that trend continues it may be entirely possible to meet all positive commitments of the 1949 appropriations act, and comply fully with the compromise 20 1-2 section, and still end the year with a small cash balance.

From any viewpoint, the outlook would seem at this time to be optimistic so far as numbers of dollars is concerned. What these dollars will buy in services, buildings or groceries may depend international developments beyond the ken of state budgeters.

Plan Speed-Up In Arms Deliveries

Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—Officials said today that nearly 200,000 tons of American weapons and military supplies have been delivered to friendly foreign governments during the past five months.

This total probably will be doubled or tripled within the next few months, they said, adding that $1,314,000,000 provided by Congress in 1949 already has been allocated and orders have been made against the $1,225,000,000 foreign arms program approved last week.

President Truman asked Congress yesterday for an additional $4,000,000,000 for arming non-Communist countries.

The bulk of deliveries thus far has gone to eight key North Atlantic pact countries — Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Italy, Denmark and Norway.

Officials declined to give a country-by-country breakdown on the grounds that such information is of value to a potential aggressor. But they said France has received the biggest share in line with Western strategy to build up the French infantry forces.

Since the North Atlantic area is receiving top priority comparatively little is going to Iran, Greece and the Philippines, it was said.

About 300 war planes, including B-29 Superfortresses, have been shipped abroad since last March. In addition, 13,500 tons of naval craft up to the size of destroyers also have been delivered. Most of this was from surplus stocks.

Billy The Goat Captured After Week's Rampage

By CHESTER WALSH
 Billy the goat who stampered about Greenville streets about a week ago, and caused considerable restlessness among police officers after damaging flower and vegetable gardens, at last has been corralled.

Billy the Goat is in custody of Sellars Beach, 16-year-old colored youth, who lives at 1114-A Greene Street. Police Chief Herbert Wooten told the "goat cowboy" he could keep the goat until the owner pays for damages the foraging ruminant did during the past week.

Billy the Goat raced into his last roundup late yesterday afternoon, with a lot of colored boys chasing him along West Ninth Street. The goat entered the premises of the Colonial Ice Company, on Ninth Street, between Washington and Pitt streets. Manager Vernon M. Rawls said some of his employees, after half an hour's chase, cornered the goat and tied him up.

The rampaging goat is going to become the property of the colored boy who chased him into the Colonial Ice Company's plant, thanks to some of the employees.

The North Carolina Lions exhibits won the first place award for the second time in a row. Dowd reported. It featured a tobacco auction sales with real tobacco and actual selling of tobacco. In addition to the work involved, there was plenty of time for pleasure and sightseeing.

C. J. Goodman, chairman of the Farmer's Day entertainment committee, reported very favorably on the progress being made by his committee and announced that a full schedule of the activities to be planned for the annual event would be published in the very near future.

Women To Have Important Role In Defense Plan

Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—Rep. Bolton (R-Ohio) said today that "a very effective" civilian defense program is "nearly ready for announcement" by the National Security Resources Board.

Women will have an important role, he added.

Mrs. Bolton said the program would provide training for local citizen groups in such things as what to do in event of atom bomb attacks. This work will be directed by experts who witnessed bombing raids in London during World War II and studied the results of atom bomb attacks on Japan.

She said local leaders would be wise to start at once listing both men and women available for civilian defense tasks.

when Leopold returned to power last week brought Belgium's business and industry to a standstill. The leaders of the socialist group waged their fight against the king with all their powers short of open warfare. They succeeded in wringing from the king the thing they sought—his regal powers.
The socialist leaders seem content, even if not completely satisfied, with the compromise they reached with the king. The extremists, notably the communists, pressed the socialist leaders to continuing a full fight for the complete and immediate abdication of Leopold. Socialist Deputy Isabelle Blum answered the communist cries, "We have had a bloodless victory. How many hundred must be killed to get rid of a king?"
It would take hundreds, and many of the hundreds would not be the extremists themselves, but others drawn into the fight. In Belgium it appears we have seen that for the first time in many years the taste of victory has not stampered leaders into the sacrifice of many lives for their own power. It can only be hoped that the leaders of the opposition factions in Belgium do not place their individual ambitions ahead of the consideration of the welfare of the people and the nation.

National Whirligig
News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—(AP)—Basic and ultimate responsibility for today's alarming weakness of the nation's fighting forces at home and overseas has finally been pinned on President Truman, operating through the Budget of the Bureau as his personal financial agency and legislative clearing house.
In a series of strange floor and committee exchanges that began with the North Koreans' attack and our sharp setbacks, Democratic and Republican members of the House have examined the postwar record of maintenance and expansion of the military establishment.
They conducted this autopsy for their own self-protection because they realize that the Korean tragedy will be the most serious issue raised against them in November campaigns.

IMPOUNDED—With facts and figures hitherto unknown, Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee, the acknowledged Capitol Hill authority on this general subject, exonerated Congress, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and even National Defense Secretary Louis A. Johnson of short-changing the Army, the Navy, the Air Force, the Organized Reserves and the stock-piling authorities. He did it reluctantly, for he is a loyal Georgia Democrat.
But when he explained how the Joint Chiefs of Staff had insisted on a more powerful defense organization, in view of Truman-Acheson diplomatic commitments around the world, only to have their requests rejected and pared down by the Budget Bureau at Mr. Truman's direction, and how funds appropriated by Congress had been impounded and accounted for in White House orders, he received a standing ovation from every member present on both sides of the aisle.
It was extremely significant that, although he indicted Harry S. Truman for our defenselessness and Korean defeat, neither Speaker Rayburn nor Majority Leader McCormack took the floor in defense of the Administration. If they had, they would have been howled down.

BOTTLENECK—As he has done so many times during the postwar years when he has had to haggle and fight for every defense penny with the White House and the Budget Bureau, Mr. Vinson warned against delegating too much authority over these matters to the executive branch.
But in the same breath he made clear that, after Congress has voted the money, it has no voice or control on how it shall be spent, or whether it shall be spent at all. That is entirely up to the Chief Executive, he noted.
Another bottleneck is the House Appropriations Committee, which is headed by a presidential pal, the dour Clarence Cannon of Missouri. Frequently, as Mr. Vinson explained, his committee has authorized a more powerful defense force, but Mr. Cannon's committee, at White House request, has refused to appropriate sufficient funds to implement the authorizations.
Besides criticizing the Administration for its progressive, postwar destruction of our World War II might, Chairman Vinson declared that he was "unsatisfied" with Mr. Truman's proposed expansion program because he considers it "too conservative." He wants more aircraft carriers, planes, Marines, anti-submarine devices etc.

HOW—Before detailing the list of severe cuts the White House and Budget Bureau have made in the military establishment, it is necessary to describe just how the government goes about getting a fighting force, if any.
First, the Joint Chiefs of Staff—Army, Air, Navy men—estimate their needs in men and weapons, and transmit them into dollars-and-cents terms. They submit their conclusions to the National Defense Secretary. As a rule, he agrees and forwards the package to the Bureau of the Budget.
With the exception of "Hell in Maria" Charles G. Dawes, Budget Directors are usually presidential stooges and receive all the financial requests from departments and bureaus, he presents them to the President. Then the two of them usually hack the figures to make an economy record, or to spend the money for "welfare state" schemes.
MONEY—It is estimated that at least $25 billion requested for defense by the Joint Chiefs of Staff have been eliminated as "not in accordance with my policies" (that is the conventional phrase) by Mr. Truman in the last four years.
Mr. Vinson's committee has upped the White House-Budget totals by many billions in their authorizations. But an authorization is only a declaration of intent. It has no force unless Chairman Cannon's Appropriations Committee allows enough money to execute the authorization. Mr. Cannon has usually sided with his fellow-Missourian in the White House as against Mr. Vinson.
That is why Chairman Vinson, in contrasting his demands with current shortages, told the House: "The point is that there are certain things which the Armed Services Committee has been fighting for. Only 90 days ago (two months before Korea—Ed. Note), we pointed out certain things! But we could not get the money! We did not get the money!"

SUMMARY—Keeping in mind this presidentially-dominated procedure, here is only a brief summary of the shortages and delinquencies which have resulted from Mr. Truman's military economy and Secretary Acheson's "calculated risks":
Recommended by Congress Allowed by White House, Scrapped
Super Aircraft Carrier Seventy-eight Forty-eight
Army Personnel of 2,005,882 1,507,000
Army—837,000 630,000
Army—566,882 451,000
Air—502,000 418,000
Organized Reserves—1,977,000 1,520,000
Army—520,000 250,000
Navy—1,105,000 204,000
Air—354,000 68,000

Strength for the Day

BY EARL L. DOUGLAS
WELL ENOUGH WITHOUT IT
A good lady once clutched Ralph Waldo Emerson by the arm and, in tones of great anxiety said: "Oh Mr. Emerson, the world's coming to an end." The sage patted her hand reassuringly and said, "Quite true, quite true; but we can get along well enough without it."

There are some people for whom the world is that position in society which they hold. For others the world is a good job and a good salary. For still others the world is the opportunity to attain certain great objectives. Others count of priceless value the opportunity to appease their appetites. The world, the world, the world—and when the prospect looms up of their world being destroyed, these people who put their trust in these lesser things are terrified, and rightly so. If their little world goes, everything goes.

But there are some people who get along well enough without the world. There have always been such people. Emerson was not the first of these. Even Jesus was not the first of these, although he is the leader of them all.

Don't worry about your world coming to an end. If it does, be well assured that if you have religious faith and a giant heart, you can get along without the world.

A Step Where Improvements Are Needed

Doubtlessly there are some people in Greenville who will not be in favor of the proposals of the city traffic committee for no parking on Greene street and the regulation changes at five points.
There is little question, however, about the need in Greenville for new methods of coping with the traffic problem. The Reflector is in hopes the proposals which are being drawn up by the traffic committee for the consideration of the board of aldermen are the first of a series of steps for improving the city's traffic conditions.
For many years the people of Greenville have been handicapped by the narrow streets in the business district of the city. We have been handicapped by the unsynchronized system of traffic lights the city has had in operation. There have been few farsighted steps taken in the past by the city government in meeting the growing traffic congestion.

Like many other towns, Greenville is under the strain of growing pains. And like many other towns, Greenville has not improved its traffic regulations to keep pace with the increased traffic.
Whether the proposals of the traffic committee will eliminate the problems on our city streets, it is too early to say.
We believe the proposals are a step in the right direction.

The Draft Board Needs Cooperation

It is ironical that in some cases a national emergency will present a serious adjustment problem for most businesses; and yet in Pitt county the emergency has caused a return to "business as usual" for at least one enterprise—the draft board.
Since the records of the Pitt county draft board have been kept in the sectional office in Kinston, there has been some laxity in keeping the registrations up to date, and in keeping the individual's classifications up to date.
Now that the local draft board has been reactivated, there will be a lot of catching up for it to do to bring its records up to date. The selective service officials will need the aid and cooperation of the people of the county to do their job well.
Although conscription for military service is not a thing to be relished, it has become a necessary step for our national defense. The selection of men for service through the draft can be most fairly administered if the people of the county give their full cooperation.

A Labor Victory in Belgium

Another victory has been won by the groups which control labor. A tense condition which hung for a few days on the brink of civil war has been averted in Belgium by the conditional government of King Leopold III to hand his recently regained regal powers over to his 19 year old son.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.
Like the average American, I'm a movie fan. One of my favorites is Clark Gable, so yesterday when I spotted an article about him, I grabbed "Coronet" magazine pronto.
One of the most amazing things about movie stars to me is their age. Clark was 49 on his last birthday, which isn't such an alarming age when you consider that Humphrey Bogart is 51.
Clark has every right to think he's a big shot. For 18 of the 29 years he's been in the movies, he's been among the top 10 box office attractions. His movies, not even including "Gone With the Wind," have grossed more than $249 million.
One of Clark's greatest advantages is that men like him. When he first hit big time the male stars were more genteel in their manner than Gable, so men were glad to see somebody on the screen who acted like a man should act. On the screen he brought out a fact that had never been touched before: a woman is just as anxious to be in a man's arms as a man is to have her there.
One of the most colorful Gable stories is that of his army service in World War II. Very Important People wanted Clark to play a glamorous role in the war. They suggested that he go in as a Major or Colonel. But Clark isn't one to listen to VIP's. He said, "I'm 41 years old and I don't know a thing about the Army. What good would I be as a Major? The only thing I can do is take a tough job. Then maybe some other guy will say, 'That's not so tough if an old man like Gable can do it.'"
In 1942 the Air Force was having trouble getting gunners. Everybody wanted to be a pilot. So Gable went in as a private and took the gunnery course. In a class of 2,600 he finished 700. By the time he went overseas, he had earned his commission.
He flew 17 missions and was almost shot down several times. When he came home he had 50,000 feet of aerial-combat film taken over Europe, and the Air Medal. Clark didn't "act like a movie star" they jammed his quarters. One day, a pilot who had been in the group a long time was shot down. Gable went to his desk and wrote a long letter to the flier's wife, telling how grieved the boys were. Also, he sent along pictures he had taken of the pilot.
Back in the cruel civilian life, Clark makes $7,500 a week. If I have 100 readers, 99 of you would jump at a chance to make that much a year. His is the only Hollywood actor whose contract calls for a four-month vacation with pay after every picture. While the standard studio hours call for everyone to work until six o'clock, Gable can quit at five, no matter how important the scene is.
And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.
BALANCE—Does the state general fund have a credit balance of $13,260,163 with which to start the current fiscal year, or is the balance around seven million dollars? Answer to that question depends upon the legal—perhaps judicial—interpretation of a section in last session's appropriations bill. The now famous Sec. 20 1/2 of the 1949 appropriations act purporting to make available for school teacher salaries about six million dollars of any "surplus" at end of this fiscal year has been discussed in this correspondence several times since adjournment of the general assembly. Within the past few days other newspapers have been talking about it.
LANGUAGE—The language of the section, a compromise thrown in at end of the session with concurrence of Governor Scott, seems clear to a layman. It says that an amount sufficient to bring teacher salary scales up to the $2200-$3100 level shall be paid at end of each fiscal year after the surplus has been determined. To the layman and to the school teacher that means if the state paid all other bills for the 1949-1950 fiscal year and had something left over, that "something" belongs to school teachers in multiples of 2 percent of their salaries (about $1,172,822) up to a total of five times that or approximately six million dollars.
INTERPRETATION—Word sometimes have different meaning to lawyers, statisticians and tax collectors from that given them by ordinary folks who depend upon ordinary dictionaries. D. S. Coltrane, assistant director of the budget, construes the legislative term "surplus" to mean whatever may be left over after future anticipated needs are met. He further contends that phraseology of the act about end of fiscal year after surplus is determined to mean end of this fiscal year, not last—because the surplus could not be determined before June 30.
INSUFFICIENT—So Mr. Coltrane holds that no money is due the teachers until end of the 1950-51 year, because the surplus was not determined until after that year had begun, and further that there will be only about $850,000 instead of $13,000,000 to apply under terms of Sec. 20 1/2, because it will require $12,409,789 of the 1949-50 carry-over to balance this year's budget. That means almost certainly that the attorney general will have to provide some definitions, and possibly the courts will have to finally adjudicate the issue.
FAR-REACHING—Effects of whatever application may be made of the controversial section will be far reaching. That is, unless war time inflation brings more dollars into the state treasury than anybody now anticipates. Governor Scott has repeatedly said he would leave a balanced budget when he goes out of office, even if balancing accounts necessitates slice in appropriations for salaries and other state expenses. Without the full $13 million carry over and if collections adhere to budget estimates—as they did last year—the state will end the current year with a deficit of some six million on basis of meeting full appropriations. In that event not only school teachers, but all other state employees, would have to take a salary cut before July 1 of next year. That would obviously be unjust to all causes other than teacher salaries, but many people hold to the opinion, that just or unjust, "it is the law."
INTENT—That gets back to legislative intent, which the supreme court sometimes reluctantly tries to interpret, but which the attorney general and executive administrators cannot do. And, as to legislative intent in this instance, it was obvious in late April of last year the chief intent of the legislators was to get home. Hence, the somewhat ambiguous and sloppy construction of the compromise section. Some supporters of the measure now say they did not intend to give the teachers any "surplus" until end of the biennium, even though they voted for a bill saying it should be paid at end of each fiscal year.
PRISONS—Retirement of Kyle Matthews, veteran of twenty years service in various capacities with the state prison system, and probable replacement of Haywood Hunnicutt, after half a century of service, points up some of the troubles facing administration of the state prison system now. Hunnicutt is serving now as acting director of the system, and there is strong sentiment for keeping him in the post by permanent appointment despite his 73 years. Indications are, however, that the appointment as director will go to John M. Gold, presently chief of police at Winston-Salem. Gold has an outstanding record as a law enforcement officer, no experience as a prison administrator.
Among the home folks. That's particularly true if they have sons in the service. So Washington thought up all that hocus-pocus solely as a means of whiling away time and lulling the minds of those who foresee disaster in the conflict. But are we adolescents or adults? And do we need all that hocus-pocus? If we keep our sense of balance, if America is genuinely in danger, all of us will do what we can to minimize those dangers. But Washington should be fair with the people. It shouldn't try to make them think that danger is imminent when they're helpless to do anything about it anyway.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

CIVILIAN DEFENSE (Wilson Daily Times)
While the state has been going slow in the matter of civilian defense, it proposes to set up an organization just in case. Of that The Times approves. But let's not work our people up to the same sort of hysteria we did in the last war. Pseudo dictators called for blackouts when they were just inconveniencing and 18-year-olds ran up and down the streets shouting, "get those lights out." Other "patriots" sat on schoolhouse roofs watching for planes that never came, missing sleep which in some cases was badly needed.
Washington was aware that the planes wouldn't come. But it built up arguments for the activities. Naturally, they would head for industrial centers. Thwarted, they might turn back, dropping their loads on the smaller communities. But Washington didn't take its own arguments seriously. Per not one of the cities which self-guarded themselves had dug-outs or anti-aircraft. What, then, would those who might have sighted the planes have done? And the blackouts! Did Washington believe that a few suicide pilots would bomb some American cities as a retaliative measure?
Wars tend to increase anxieties among the home folks. That's particularly true if they have sons in the service. So Washington thought up all that hocus-pocus solely as a means of whiling away time and lulling the minds of those who foresee disaster in the conflict. But are we adolescents or adults? And do we need all that hocus-pocus? If we keep our sense of balance, if America is genuinely in danger, all of us will do what we can to minimize those dangers. But Washington should be fair with the people. It shouldn't try to make them think that danger is imminent when they're helpless to do anything about it anyway.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
Americans spent $178,832,000,000 for goods and services for personal use last year. Just how this large sum was divided among various industries is shown in a new study by the Department of Commerce.
This study is a useful guide to business planners. It shows what share of the consumer dollar each class of business may expect. Because of that, it should help in planning campaigns, estimating potentials for new markets, and showing each business how much of the total market it has.
The total spent is divided into 13 groups. These and their parts, in millions of dollars, were:
Food and tobacco 62,890
Clothing, accessories, jewelry 22,620
Personal care 2,200
Housing 17,203
Household operation 23,531
Medical, dental expenses 8,990
Personal business 7,447
Transportation 19,373
Recreation 10,184
Private education, research 1,566
Religious, welfare activities 1,777
Foreign travel, remittances 1,051
These groups are broken up, giving an interesting picture of American spending. Collectors spent 11 million dollars for stamps and coins. Restaurant and bar patrons left 404 million in tips, less than 4 per cent of 11,596 spent for meals and drinks.
Americans spent almost as much for flowers, seeds and potted plants (657 million) as they gave to social welfare and foreign relief agencies (670 million). They spent 1,342 for movies while giving 1,053 to religious bodies. The tobacco bill was 4,266 million.
Physicians were paid 2,267 million; dentists, 931 million; osteopaths, 113 million; and chiropractors 88 million. Foot passengers paid ferries 7 million dollars; cab riders paid 586 million in fares and tips.
Book makers (publishing) got 686 million consumer dollars last year, while book makers (periodicals) got 233 million. No break-down for hand books.
The survey also discloses that pin-ball and slot machines took in 152 million dollars more than they paid off last year.
The complete tabulation fills two pages in the July Survey of Current Business, 30 cents from the Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D.C.
PATTERN EVOLVES FROM NLRB RULINGS
A pattern of distinction between "local" and "interstate" businesses has emerged from National Labor Relations Board decisions, the Commerce Clearing House Law Journal points out. The NLRB assumes jurisdiction over interstate businesses but not local ones.
Businesses having been declared local include awnings and tents, bakeries, cafes, carpet laying, coal distribution, dairy products, independent drug stores, dry cleaners, fuel oil for homes, retail furriers, horse racing, hotel, ice except railroad icing, laundries, machine shops, men's clothing stores, opticians, parking lots, restaurants, sand and gravel, and upholstery and venetian blinds.

However, being in one of these businesses does not necessarily exempt the owner from NLRB jurisdiction if the business is largely interstate. For instance, an awning business operating in several states, or selling by mail, would be likely to be found an interstate enterprise.
IT'S NOT HOARDING, JUST "BUYING AHEAD"
While hoarding is being denounced, several city purchasing departments are reported to be buying further ahead and one state, Alabama, is considering stocking up on bourbon in case it becomes scarce, although liquor supplies appear adequate for almost any emergency.
NEW PRODUCTS LIST HIGHLY SELECTIVE
This is to answer a number of readers' questions about the daily listing of new products. Those listed, of course, are only a selection of the scores of new products brought out every day.
The criteria are these: Is this newsworthy? Does it seem to offer retailers a chance to make more sales or, in the case of industrial products, does it offer users new real benefits? New models of established lines are rarely newsworthy; products restricted to one outlet hold little opportunity for retail readers.
Manufacturers and others should submit full details, making sure to include name and address to facilitate inquiries.
NEW AND HOT
DRYING: A kitchen canister has a tell-tale drying unit to prevent contents from becoming moist or soggy. When the unit, seen through a window in the lid, turns from blue to pink, it should be removed and dried in an oven. (It's by J. H. Young Co., 1233 Penn. Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.)
CONTAINERS: A line of reusable frozen food containers for kitchens has panels on which the contents may be noted in pencil. Covers maintain a tight seal in room or deep-freeze temperatures. (They are made of Bakelite polyethyln by Crown Cork Specialty Corp., Decatur, Ill.)
SANDER: A product billed as a substitute for sandpaper removes wax, grease and polish from varnished, painted and enameled surfaces, and dulls the gloss to provide an undercoat for paint. (It is by General Liquids Corp., 129 E. Baltimore St., Baltimore 2.)
PITTER: A new cherry-pitting machine for canneries has rubber cups which are claimed to permit smaller holes and to crush fewer cherries. The machine is expected to save 7,000,000 pounds of maraschino cherries from crushing each year. (It is by Dunkley Co., Kalamazoo, Mich.)

With U.S. Troops in Korea—(AP)—An 18-year-old American soldier, wearing the white pants and white shirt of a Korean, stumbled tiredly into a command post.
A group of doughboys saw him and began to jeer at him good naturedly.
"Where'd you get the gook suit, kid?" one called.
The young soldier—Pfc. James Cannon of Medford, Mass., grinned shyly at them and then trudged wearily into headquarters.
There he reported that he was the only survivor of a squad of eight men trapped in Kocjang during a battle where the Reds seized control of that central bastion of the western front.
He said his seven comrades were cut down by machinegun fire trying to break through enemy lines and that he escaped across the mountains after trading clothing with a South Korean refugee.
"We were trapped behind a brick wall in the city," Cannon said.
"We decided the only thing to do was to run for it rather than surrender. They had us surrounded.
"Four of the fellows were caught by machinegun fire before we reached a small stream at the base of a hill. Our corporal had been wounded. I tried to drag him behind a rock.
A North Korean came up on Cannon from behind. A South Korean soldier rushed the northerner and killed him by knifing him through the throat and chest.
"I don't know where that South Korean soldier came from," Cannon said. "I just looked up and he was there."
Cannon and the South Korean soldier then took off up the hill separately.
"There was a lot of sniper fire and I was the only one of our squad to make it to the top," he said. "Once I looked back and saw another North Korean soldier come up and bayonet our corporal.
"On the other side of the hill I met a refugee and traded clothes with him.
"I don't think he was too happy about it—but I couldn't understand what he was saying."
Cannon said a South Korean villager hid him overnight under the porch of his home and brought him six raw eggs the next morning.
"I could only get three of them down," Cannon said. "That's all I had to eat, except a watermelon I borrowed."
Other friendly Koreans guided him back to a command post. Cannon seemed none the worse for his experience.
"All I brought out with me," he said, "was my dogtags, a packet of matches, a few cigarettes,

Hal Boyle's Column

Washington Letter
By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—V. do girls want to come to Washington to work for the federal government? Is it because they think they'll find a man? Is it because they will be meeting news and radio headliners? Do they think they'll be rubbing elbows with the Trumans, royalty, famed socialites at the fabulous parties they read about in home-town newspapers?
That isn't why Mary A. Rosser, 35, sweetly serious, came here from Kingston, Pa., as a government stenographer in 1948. "The government needed stenographers, I needed security," she orphan of a Welsh man, who came to the United States in 1929, told me. "Besides, I wanted to see life in the big city."
"I had already been told that Washington was a bad place to pick up a man—eight girls, or something like that, to every man. Just the same, I've met quite a few. None who would make me happy as a husband, though." She never "thought about seeing big people—except in parades."
Mary's starting salary was $2,450. She found a room for $3 a night was too expensive, moved to a government woman's residence hall where she had a private room for $24.50 a month. This was at Arlington Farms, which provided a recreation lounge and hall, laundry facilities, library and gym, where they had dances.
"It was sort of a girls' town," says Mary. "A beauty parlor, movie and a special department store for girls. If we weren't in before 2 a.m. we had to sign a register and get a black mark by our name." Like most government girls today, Mary took an apartment as soon as she could get her sister, Gwenie, 33, to come to Washington to work for the government too. They pay $75 a month for a two-bedroom setup and think they "are just fortunate."
Mary and sister Gwenie do all their own housework and wash their own undies but send the sheets and towels out to the laundry. Mary figures they spend about $1,400 for food in a year. This includes lunches away from the apartment, in government cafeterias, drug stores, etc. "We spend about $450 a year for clothes and about $300 for recreation, movies, trips home and other trips like to Mount Vernon, Annapolis and nearby beaches during the summer. Besides I'm taking dancing lessons," Mary told me.
He reached in his shirt pocket and pulled out a medal of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Administration Is Considering Arms For Chiang

Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—The Truman Administration is considering reversing its policy of no-arms aid to the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa in order to strengthen the defenses of that anti-Communist stronghold.

A final decision by the State and Defense Departments and the White House is understood to await recommendations from Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who conferred Monday with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek at Taipei, Formosan capital.

The government has already taken one step designed to ease the flow of American arms to the Chinese Nationalists. An order issued last week permits them to buy weapons through the Defense Department instead of having to go to the manufacturers directly as they had done for many months.

Responsible officials said today that Chiang has an adequate basic supply of weapons for the defense of the island but that he undoubtedly needs spare parts for repairs and also additional ammunition.

MacArthur and his staff are believed to have examined the Chinese needs. His recommendations are expected to cover the types of equipment which should be sent, if U.S. aid is resumed.

Following his meetings with the Chinese leader, MacArthur said plans had been made to coordinate

American and Chinese forces "the better to meet any attack which a hostile force might be foolish enough to attempt." He thus presented the United States and Nationalist China as being, in effect, allies against a common foe.

Act To Speed Arms Production And Training

The Hague, The Netherlands, Aug. 1—(AP)—Foreign ministers of four of the Brussels Treaty nations acted today to speed armament production and manpower training in their countries.

The ministers of Britain, France, Holland and Luxembourg decided to press their Parliaments for the speed-up and to urge higher defense expenditures. Belgium, also a member of the alliance, was not represented at the meeting. Her foreign minister, Paul Van Zeeland, was held at home by the royal crisis.

After a three-and-one-half-hour closed meeting it was reported that the general consensus among the four ministers was that the defense problems of the Brussels pact countries must be integrated into the overall decisions of the Atlantic pact nations.

The Hawaiian Islands were formed by a volcanic eruption in the floor of the Pacific Ocean.

His Final Wish

Pittsburgh, Aug. 2—(AP)—Little Eric Joseph Bloom wanted more than anything else to be a Cub Scout.

He was almost—but not quite—the required eight years old when the June Cub training program started. And by the time he was eight, he was dying in a hospital from the result of a fall from a coaster wagon.

Last Friday, a delegation of Cub Scout officials from his home town of Jeannette journeyed to Allegheny General Hospital to visit Eric. They had a special dispensation from Cub headquarters in Washington to make him a Cub Scout "on sight."

Eric was overjoyed. He was in an iron lung but he managed a big smile for the delegation. Yesterday, Eric died.

Called Up Nat'l Guard Divisions Are Identified

Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—Four National Guard divisions and two regimental combat teams called up for active duty were identified by the Army yesterday.

They are the 28th, 40th, 43rd and 45th Infantry divisions and the 196th and 278th Combat teams.

The 28th, from Pennsylvania, will train at Camp Atterbury, near Edinburg, Ind.; the 40th, from California, at Camp Cook, Calif.; the 43rd, from Connecticut, Vermont and Rhode Island, at Camp Pickett, Va.; and the 45th, from Oklahoma, at Camp Polk, La.

The 196th Combat team, from South Dakota, goes to Camp Carson, near Colorado Springs, Colo.; the 278th, from Tennessee, to Fort Devens, near Ayer, Mass.

Buys A Present For Princess

Damascus—(AP)—It's a shame to disclose the secret, but the Duke of Edinburgh is going to surprise Princess Elizabeth with presents of Damascus brocade, carved wood and inlaid brass when he returns from Mediterranean sea duty. The Duke bought the presents when he came here on a visit when his ship, the Chequers, was at Lattakieh.

He explained he bought the brocade because the Princess had been so impressed with brocade presented her as a wedding present by former President Shukry Quwatly.

Gloria Blanton And Others At Big World Meet

Over the week-end three students from East Carolina Teachers College returned from the recent Baptist World Alliance in Cleveland, Ohio July 22-27. These students represented the East Carolina Baptist Student Union and churches in the eastern section of the State.

They are Doris Edwards of Selma, president of the BSU and representative of the Thanksgiving Baptist Church, near Selma; Amaryllis Lang of Gatesville, former Baptist Student Union president at ECTC, and representative of the Gatesville Baptist Church; and Milam Johnson of Eure, member of the BSU Council and representative of the Cool Springs Baptist Church.

These young people will make reports to their churches about the meeting of nearly 45,000 Baptists from 52 countries. Some of the highlights were "Youth Night," and a pageant "The Light of Liberty," with a cast of 1,000. "The Basic Freedom" was the topic of the opening address by Dr. Edwin McNeill Poterat of Raleigh. Of much interest was the roll-call of the nations in the Cleveland Stadium.

Gloria H. Blanton, counselor of the East Carolina Baptist Student Union, and executive secretary of the Baptist Student Center, on Eighth Street, Doris Broadhurst of Greenville, and Jo Keeter, faculty member at Chowan College, Murfreesboro accompanied the students. These young people are making plans to share with other churches and young people's groups some of their experiences at the Alliance, a fellowship meeting representing approximately 18 million Baptists around the globe, Miss Blanton stated.

LOUISIANA GIRL THINKS HADACOL IS WONDERFUL

Suffered deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron

Pretty Betty Jo Prejean, 101 East Pine St., Ville Platte, La., says she wouldn't trade her bottle of HADACOL for all the tea in China. By giving her system the vitamins it lacked, B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin, HADACOL has given her that wonderful HADACOL feeling.

Here is Miss Prejean's own statement: "Before I started taking HADACOL I was troubled with colds all the time. My system was so run-down that I actually couldn't work—I had to quit my job. I was very nervous, too; in fact, everything seemed to go wrong. I started taking HADACOL over a year ago. What HADACOL has done for me is amazing—my nerves are just as steady as they can be, and, best of all, I have gained weight. With the first two bottles of HADACOL I gained eight pounds, and that was in less than a month's time. I think HADACOL is wonderful."

"Amazing" Is The Word

... for the way HADACOL has helped thousands and thousands of folks whose systems were deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin. You, too, will be amazed at the wonderful results HADACOL can bring you, because HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and Minerals to every organ, and every part of your body—to the heart, liver, kidneys and lungs, even to the eyes, hair and nails.

HADACOL is that wonderful new preparation—promising blessed relief for your indigestion, stomach disturbances (gas, heartburn, sour "risings" after meals), for normal growth in children, as well as that general run-down condition, and aches and pains of neuritis, if your system lacks Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin.

HADACOL is being recommended by many doctors. HADACOL is so amazingly successful because if your system lacks Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin it acts directly to relieve this deficiency—the real cause of your trouble. That's the kind of product you want—the kind you should buy—the kind you should start taking immediately.

Only One Genuine HADACOL

Don't go through life suffering such fiendish torture from your stomach or aches and pains of neuritis when relief is as close at hand as the nearest drugstore for sufferers from these deficiencies. Buy HADACOL today. Trial size bottle only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50. Refuse substitutes. There's only one true and genuine HADACOL.

PLAINLY, here travels a man wise in the ways of fine motorcars.

You know that, by the four Ventiports and the rich sweep of chrome which mark his car as a ROADMASTER.

You know it, should you trail him on the highway, by the smooth lift of the big Fireball power plant at his toe's command, by the obvious levelness of the ride he enjoys, the swift ease with which Dynaflo Drive solves his traffic problems.

What is not so plain from what you see is that here also is a man very wise in what today's dollar should buy!

For this man has all that a fine-car owner can ask for—brilliant performance, a ride without equal for gentle softness, finger-easy handling, abundant room all around him, styling that is easily the most distinguished on the highway.

Yet he paid considerably less than comparable merit costs elsewhere.

He found fewer extra charges in his delivered price, with such things as Dynaflo Drive, foam rubber cushions, windshield washers, electric clock, even non-glare rear-view mirror included in the price.

If you know fine cars, it won't take fifteen minutes behind a ROADMASTER wheel to see that here is one of the finest.

If you have inquired about prices, a single glance at the delivered figures establishes this as the big buy of the field.

Why not make both checks—especially since your Buick dealer will be glad to arrange a trial run in a ROADMASTER any time you care to call on him?

Only Buick has Dynaflo—Drive* and with it goes!

Bridges Proposes Bases In Spain For U. S. Money

Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—The proposed commercial transaction might well be broadened to include Spain in the more than $5,000,000 in Foreign military assistance that Congress is expected to make available soon.

Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—Senate approval of a $100,000,000 loan to Spain prompted a proposal by Senator Bridges (R-NH) today that the United States seek an agreement for use of Spanish bases if war breaks out in Europe.

The Senate wrote the Spanish loan provision into the one-package appropriation bill by a 65 to 15 vote yesterday. Sponsors argued for it on the grounds that Spain is important strategically and also is anti-Communist. However, Senator Morse (D-Or.) described it as an attempt to bribe the Franco Government into friendly relations.

Morse was one of the four Republicans and 11 Democrats who opposed a directive to the government's export-import bank to make the funds available to Spain. The loan would permit the purchase in the United States of such commodities as wheat and cotton.

If the House, which has not passed on the issue, also approves, the United States is expected to get some strategic metals in payment.

Bridges told a reporter he thinks

Organ Recital

George Perry, member of the music department at East Carolina Teachers College, will be presented in an organ recital in Austin auditorium tonight at 8 p.m. The performance will be the first public recital given on the $20,000 pipe organ recently installed at the college.

Included on the program will be such popular numbers as Ave Maria by Arcadelt, four Bach preludes, and Firework Music by Handel.

President John D. Messick extends an invitation to the public to attend.

Probe Escape Of Murderer From State Hospital

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 2—(AP)—State hospital authorities are investigating a convicted murderer's escape from the criminally insane ward at the State Hospital here.

Dr. Phillip Korn, head of the Male Service Division of the hospital, said officials have been unable to find out how Charlie Streeton, 50, got the saw he used to cut his way through a barred window early Sunday. He is still at large.

Showdown Nears On Drive To Cut Domestic Costs

Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—The Senate headed today toward a decisive test on a strong bi-partisan drive to cut home front spending. The idea is to provide more money men and materials to check communist aggression in Korea and elsewhere.

The first attempt to make a major across-the-board slash in the non-defense expenditures contained in the $34,688,000,000 appropriations bill for fiscal 1951 failed yesterday.

The Senate shouted down an amendment offered by Senator Douglas (D-Ill) which he estimated would slash one billion dollars off federal construction projects, supplies, materials, payrolls, travel and communications.

In contrast to the Douglas amendment, which found little advance support, the bi-partisan cut proposed by Senators Bridges (R-NH) and Byrd (D-Va) already has pledges of support from more than 30 senators.

The amendment calls for a ten per cent slash in almost all the non-defense items in the appropriations measure. Sponsors estimated it would save $800,000,000.

Although President Truman has asked administration forces to junk it, Bridges has predicted it will get the almost unanimous support of Republicans and enough aid from Democrats to insure passage.

Similar "economy" moves launched earlier this session have gained considerable drive only to be counted out when it came time for a vote.

Senate Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois announced he would hold the Senate in a night session tonight, if necessary, to complete action on the so-called "one package" spending bill which contains money for most federal agencies for the year ending next June 30.

State Dept. Speaker Sees Prospects Of Long, Costly Struggle With Reds

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 2—(AP)—Prospects of a long, costly struggle against totalitarian forces were held out last night by a high State Department official.

Dean Rusk, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, sketched that picture in an address before more than 3,500 delegates at the 42nd annual Farm and Home Week.

The struggle was brought to a head, he declared, by "cold, cynical, flagrant aggression" in Korea.

"We're in Korea," he said, "not because of its strategic importance but because the peace of the world was at stake there and it was necessary to be there to prevent a collapse of the entire world structure."

"The United Nations was forced to make its fundamental choice, challenge aggression, and give to the people of the world the hope and strength which come through the united efforts of free peoples."

"Never has the whole world rallied so quickly and so universally as did the 53 nations of the UN when South Korea was so brutally attacked."

Topping today's program for the farm men and women attending the annual week will be a tribute tonight to Dean I. O. Schaub, director of the State College Agricultural Extension Service, and an address by Governor Scott.

Elizabeth McGee of Spartanburg,

S. C., the 1950 Maid of Cotton, participated in a style revue which opened general activities of the third day of the week.

The day's program also included lectures and demonstrations, tours of the Morehead Planetarium at Chapel Hill and Duke University in Durham. There were tours here for those not making the out-of-town trips.

Prior to his speech, Rusk told newsmen the United States must become stronger to meet possible aggression around the world.

The Korean war, he said at an interview in Governor Scott's office, is a demonstration that international communism is willing to commit aggression.

"We're going to have to get a lot stronger than we are, and we're getting strong fast," he asserted. He emphasized his confidence that "we will win in Korea."

Replying to a question, Rusk said there was "absolute unanimity" among presidential advisers in support of President Truman's decision to commit American troops to the Korean war.

"I think it is important to know that there was absolute unanimity among the President's advisers," he said. He declared that in acting as he did, President Truman did not overrule the State Department.

In answer to another question, Rusk said "we just don't know" what possibilities there are of attacks by Communists in other spots.

"The Communists," he said, "have forces that make it possible for them to deliver attacks at several spots from a standing start. The aggressor will always have the initiative."

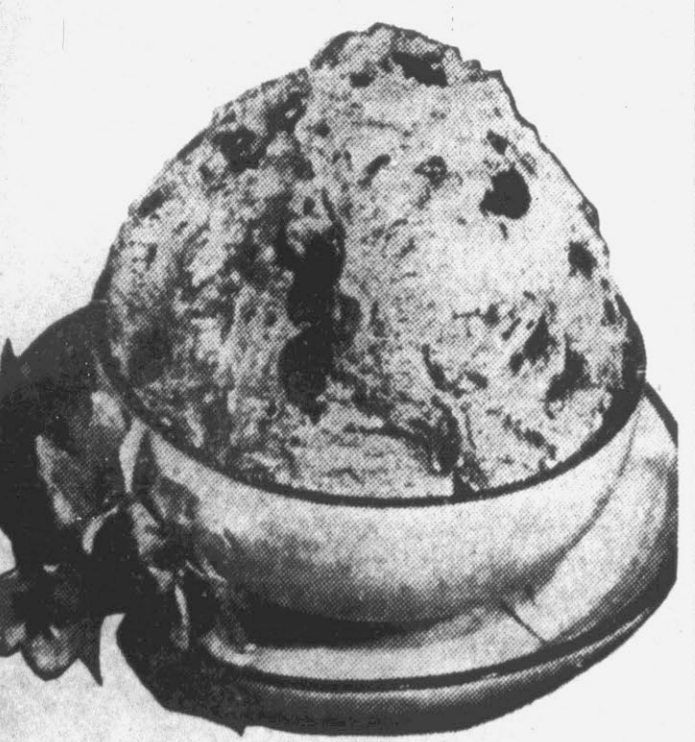

One major problem for the nation, he asserted, is whether to try to put troops at every spot where trouble may break out. This, of course, would take total mobilization, he went on. He indicated that leaders think the disruption of the national economy which would result from such a step ought to be avoided.

"In the long run, I expect we're stronger not to be in a state of total mobilization," he said.

Sues Neighbors Over Noisy Dogs

Beverly Hills, Calif., Aug. 2—(AP)—Isobel H. Bowers has sued her neighbors for $10,000 damages on the ground their barking dog doesn't observe a 40-hour week.

The complaint, directed at Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lyons, alleges that the Lyons' dog "barks at all hours of the night up to midnight and from 4 a. m. until after daylight."

It asks that the defendants be enjoined permanently from keeping a dog on the premises "which is permitted to bark between 8 p. m. and 8 a. m. on successive days."

Tonight's Games
Wilson at Greenville
Roanoke Rapids at New Bern
Tarboro at Goldsboro
Kinston at Rocky Mount

Kinston will retain its baseball franchise, meet its payroll and other obligations and continue to operate through the rest of the season with a goal of 28,000 attendance in the 18 home games to come.

This was the decision reached by the board of directors of the ball club following a lengthy conference Monday afternoon with Joe Cummings, Boston Red Sox trouble-shooter, who spent the day going over the figures concerning the clerk with Auditor Simon Sitterson and Business Manager Norman McCaskill.

The immediate financial crisis facing the club was met with the aid of an advance from Boston and the receipts from the past two home games, at which the combined attendance has been around 2,100.

There are many "old men" in baseball today. These experienced veterans are playing a vital part in the performances of the teams with whom they play.

Among the "more than 40" players in the major leagues, one thinks first of Luke Appling of the Chicago White Sox. Luke has been around with the Sox so long that some of the players now on the roster weren't even born when he started playing.

Luke says he can never play ball when he feels good. A couple of sore arms, a tummy ache, a charley horse, and a few other ailments put him in real good condition for a banner day. In fact, Luke says he never feels good any more. This assertion probably comes from the fact that a liberal supply of adhesive tape plus a few aches and pains mean base hits for him.

Another old timer who is getting ready to pitch once more is Bucky Walters. Now with the Boston Braves as a coach, Bucky has won 198 baseball games during his tenure in the big show. He needs only a couple more to get into that select "200" class. He is only 41 years of age. Perhaps there are a couple of wins left in the ol' sock.

Satchel Paige, the colorful Negro pitcher, seems about ready to take another fling at the big league stuff. Satchel's age is a mystery. He is 43, but it is a safer guess that he is nearer 45. He says he is worried now about being drafted, since "young boys are needed in the service."

"Satch" still has a great assortment of curves, great control, and a real love of the game. He may be back shortly flinging for one of the National League teams.

These three old men have given a lot to the game of baseball. There are others now playing who should be mentioned. But no three men today in the game have given more to the game than Appling, Walters, and Paige. And they are still active.

Flyweight Title Goes To Marino

Honolulu, Aug. 2 (AP)—Dado Marino, an old man of 34 in the ring, today owns the world flyweight title that had eluded him for years.

The Hawaiian-born Filipino won a close but unanimous decision last night over London's Terry Allen in 15 bruising rounds. Marino weighed 112 pounds, Allen 111 1/2.

"The first punch he hit me with, I knew I could win," Marino said in his dressing room. He is the first American citizen in 20 years to win the flyweight crown.

There were no knockdowns but both fighters threw leather at a rugged pace. Marino exploded powerful lefts to Allen's head time and again.

He opened a cue over Allen's left eye in the second round and kept the blood flowing.

The Britisher, fighting desperately to hold his title, rocked Marino in a sharp seventh round exchange. Marino too began bleeding over the left eye and Allen went after him with sharp lefts and rights.

Allen's best rounds were the fourth and 12th and 13th. In the latter he forced Marino backwards with sharp left hooks.

Both shot the works in the last two rounds. When the final bell sounded, they were standing toe-to-toe, their fists flying like windmills.

CUBS VS TIGERS
The Training School Tigers were held hitless for the second game in a row yesterday and lost to the Cubs at Third St. Park by the score of 7 to 1.

The Tigers until recently were heading the league, could do nothing with the giants of Mac Roebuck, the Cub pitcher, and dropped further away from the league leader. Roebuck had good control and struck out eight men. Roebuck and John Laws got two hits each to lead the Cub attack.

CARDS VS BRAVES
The Cards of W. Greenville continued to win yesterday adding a 10 to 5 win to their collection yesterday at the expense of the Braves in a game that was called in the sixth because of the heavy showers.

The Cards, who uncover a new pitcher practically every game built up a big lead for their hurler in the first three innings and coasted in for the win. Smith on the hill for the Cards allowed the Braves only four hits. Bobby Howell got three singles in three trips and Jerry Phillips got two doubles in two trips to lead the winners at bat. Eric Bowen got a double and single to lead the Braves.

WILDCATS VS ROBINS
The Robins of Third Street won their first game in three weeks yesterday by scoring one run in the last inning to take the Wildcats of Training School 7 to 6.

The Robins fought an uphill battle all the way to win, after falling behind in the first inning by four runs. Billy Johnson got a double and two singles to lead the Cats. Nickols got a double and single to lead the Robins.

SCHEDULE FOR THURSDAY
All games will be played at Guy Smith Stadium beginning 6:00 p. m. Junior League games first. Mite League second. Intermediate League third.

Scott Motors Rallies To Defeat Ormond, 7-6

Industrial League Playoffs
Scott Motors 7, Ormond Wholesale 6

Games Today
Wagner-Waldrup vs. Post Office, Third St. Sch. No. 1
Scott Motors vs. Ormond Wholesale, Third St. Sch. No. 2

Scott Motors got hopping mad in the sixth and seventh innings yesterday as it scored six runs in the latter two frames to beat Ormond 7-6 in the first game of the semi-final round of the Industrial League.

Trailing 6-1 in the sixth inning, Scott collected six successive hits to score four runs and narrow the gap. Pitcher Bill Kittrell started the attack with a single followed by Jones' triple. Scott, Sawyer, Harrington and Joyner each hit safely following that and the runners scored after several attempts to cut them down at homeplate failed.

Ormond was held runless in the seventh and Scott came back to tie the count and go one-run ahead in their half of the frame. Kittrell got on a hit and scored on Jones' triple. The next two batters each bunted and Jones was held on third when the Ormond pitcher elected to hold the ball rather than trying for an out. Harrington then lofted a high fly to center and Jones scored on the throw-in.

Ormond began the game with a two-run first inning. It held that lead through the fifth when Scott could tally but once, that in the first. Ormond scored two more in the third and added the final two in the sixth. They had the bases loaded in the seventh but couldn't score as the runners were put out at the plate.

The win was the first for Scott's in the semifinals playoff of the league. If they win today, they will meet the winner of the series between Wagner-Waldrup and Post Office which didn't play yesterday due to wet grounds.

Score by innings:
Ormond 202 002 0-6 13 3
Scott's 100 004 2-7 11 3
Batteries: Scott's—Kittrell and J. Sawyer; Ormond—Gordon and Williams.

Golf's Big Show Opens Tomorrow

Chicago, Aug. 2 (AP)—Golf's wildest money scramble, the $75,000 Tam O'Shanter extravaganza, begins its 10-day run tomorrow with a record entry of 400 men and women players.

All the game's big shots, with the exception of Ben Hogan, are ready to start the annual stampede or the richest prize list the sport goes.

Hogan has always shunned the meet because of its carnival-like atmosphere and probably would still remain absent even if he were in shape for the longest golf marathon conceived.

The first phase of the jubilee is the All-American section with men pros, men amateurs, women pros and women amateurs competing for respective championships. Cash awards involved in this traffic jam is $20,000.

All this ends next Tuesday. Then on Thursday the "world" championships begin with select fields and a pot of $55,000 for the professionals. The fields include the 32 top men pros, eight women pros, eight woman amateurs and 16 men amateurs all whacking through 72 holes of medal play.

Ahoshkie Aug. 2 (AP)—A baseball fouled; there was a sound of shattering glass. The ball had popped off the bat of an Ahoshkie midget in a game here.

"It was the windshield of your car," came the report. "Never mind; batter up." Umpire Eure ordered. "Let's get on with the game."

Uncle Mike Says If Louis Can Do It, So Can He

By GAYLE TALBOT
New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—Uncle Mike Jacobs says that if Joe Louis can make a comeback, he can, too, and that he expects to be right in there juggling the tickets if Joe fights Eszard Charles in September.

Mike explains that when he "retired" because of serious illness a few years back he retained, as a sort of afterthought, a vested interest in any fights Louis might undertake in his declining years. Mike says he has a contract to prove it.

The International Boxing Club, which hopes to carry the Louis-Charles melon can't seem to recall any such contract with the old ticket wizard. A spokesman for the cartel said he was almost certain no such document existed.

"Would you," he was asked, "like to bet that, if Mike says he has a contract, that he doesn't have one? Can you recall Mike having made any serious legal fumbles over the years?"

"Well, no, when you put it that way," replied the spokesman thoughtfully. "All I'll say is that I can't imagine Uncle Mike handling the ticket sale personally—running up and down those steps the way he used to."

Simmons Handed Setback By Reds

Indiantown Gap, Pa., Aug. 2 (AP)—"Like a lot of guys who are going to have dreams turn to nightmares, I'll make the best of it," says young Curt Simmons, the first major League player to trade baseball finials for army khaki in the current war.

The 21-year-old southpaw of the Philadelphia Phillies was called to active service with the army yesterday when the war department activated his national guard outfit—the 28th division of Pennsylvania. Curt will report to Camp Attensburg, Ind., on or about Sept. 1.

Simmons got a special pass from the Pennsylvania guard's summer encampment here last night to seek his 15th National League victory against Cincinnati at Philadelphia. But the Reds would cooperate.

In the second game of a two-night twin bill they knocked Curt out of the box in the fourth inning. Simmons took the Kayo in his typical unruffled fashion.

"I hope I have better luck against those Reds in Korea," he joked. The youngster really couldn't be blamed for his INEPT pitching last night. He was on his feet from the sounding of the bugle at 5:15 a. m., Tuesday morning until he arrived via private plane in Philadelphia and was rushed to Shibe Park where Frank Weiche rubbed down the boy's tired muscles.

Club Elects Its Fourth Manager

St. Petersburg, Fla., Aug. 2 (AP)—The St. Petersburg Saints already have had three managers this season. Yesterday they tried a new twist by electing one.

Roxie Humberston, a rightfielder who is hitting .295, was almost a unanimous choice of the players.

PATTY

The good tennis fathers were obviously delighted when Patty crashed through to take the British tennis championship at Wimbledon. They envision huge throngs of tennis enthusiasts flocking to Forest Hills when he takes his stand against the challenge of Australia's brilliant young crop of players.

Eric Sturge of South Africa and other foreign luminaries. Not only has Patty blossomed out as a champion of the first class, as he proved in the Wimbledon classic with victories over Frank Sedgman of Australia and William Talbot of New York, but he is also the Prince Charming of the tennis circuit—tall, handsome and possessed of that continental charm gained from sojourning for years in France where he is associated with a Paris exporting and importing concern. There should be a large turnout of feminine fans in the Forest Hills stadium when he makes his appearance there late in August.

Patty, who is 26, is not a new figure in tennis. He has been playing the game for some years, but his appearances in the championships have been infrequent because he has lived abroad a good part of the time and also because of his service in the American Army during the war. The tennis fathers are indeed happy that once again California has come through with a successor to Pancho Gonzales, as a magnet to fill the Forest Hills stadium.

Boys To Play In Stadium

The Boys League will have a big night at Guy Smith Stadium Thursday night when five games will be reeled off beginning at six sharp. There will be two games between Junior League teams to start the proceedings, then the Mite League will have two games. After these games the boys in the Intermediate League will play the final game. There will be no charge for the games and it is hoped that a big crowd will come out and see some fine baseball and give these boys their support.

Rain Prevented Softball Game

The softball game between the Ayden and Greenville Lions clubs, scheduled to be played last night in Guy Smith Stadium, was cancelled due to wet grounds.

An announcement will be made at a future date for playing the game.

The Kinston Eagles handed the Greenville Robins their second straight defeat over in Kinston last night by a 6-2 score in a contest that was marred by errors.

Lefty Leo Groeschel registered his 14th victory of the season on a neat six-hitter against the Robins, all of which were singles, with Ralph Bartolozzi and Matthew Hall each collecting two singles in four trips to the plate.

Rookie Pete Braun, who was seeking a 1-1 tie up until the sixth frame when the Eagles came back in the sixth to push across three runs for their margin of victory.

The Eagles mixed singles by Harry Ashworth, Neil Christley, Ray Rosenwinkle and John Minarcin with a sacrifice and base on balls for the three runs in the sixth.

The Greenville Robins open a three-game series with the Wilson Tobs here tonight at Guy Smith Stadium in a single game starting at 7:45 o'clock.

LAST CHANCE

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE

Chapter 4

It was the last of a three-game series, in a red-hot sizzler between the Lions and the Tigers when disaster struck.

For seven almost perfect innings the opposing pitchers had put on a show that kept the ten-thousand-thousand fans packed into the park keyed up to a state of explosive expectancy. It was the kind of a game fans dream about, and the electricity was as great in the stands as it was on the playing field.

Down on the Lion bench, Betty sat as cool as a cucumber, but inwardly as keyed up as her players. Even Sanger for once was full of ginger and pepper.

The Lions didn't seem to be going anywhere in particular in the league, but Dick watched them, thought of other days and other parks, and couldn't remember any bunch of big timers who had anything more than his bunch now. His talk had done that and he hated to admit it, but he knew that the men looked to him rather than Betty for leadership on the field. But not once had Betty given any sign of recognizing this, and Dick was careful not to do anything openly to challenge her authority. If she ordered him to do something, he did it. At the table, he silently ate whatever she placed before him. She had tried to be friendly and despite himself, he had begun to yield to her charm. He didn't know what he felt for her. But he did know that she left him confused and all twisted up inside. Resolutely he put all thoughts of her out of his mind and concentrated on the game.

This was one game they'd take, he thought. It just had to be that way when a bunch gets as keyed up as this one. He was the one Lion who was more certain of it than any of the others. And big, broad-shouldered "Rock" Thompson was going to do everything he could to make the others feel the same way.

In the short time he had been with the Lions, he had taken on his big league form. Scouts were flocking around again, for in this small league he was making a mark for himself in catching, hitting and all-round baseball. Fans were beginning to say that his baseball prowess would go down in the history books of the national game.

Now, "Rock" pounded his war club on the ground in front of the Lions' dugout, and yelled at the last-of-the-eight lead-off man who was walking out to take his cuts.

"This is it, boy! This is it! Get on, Johnston! Everybody'll hit this frame! All aboard! Around we go!"

Out on the mound, the Tigers' pitcher had other ideas about the Lions' lead-off man. One of them went very wide, but the other three Johnston whiffed as clean as a whistle for the first out. Nor did Thompson, the second Lion to step into the batter's box, do any better. He took one in close for a ball. A second pitch went high for another ball. And then, on the third pitch, he hit a screw ball that popped up about fifteen feet and right down into the pitcher's waiting glove, to the amazement of the crowd.

Fifteen Register In Two Days At Newly-Opened Draft Office

News on Greenville's draft front: In its second big push in successive days, the local Selective Service board has signed nine men in its new general headquarters. That brings a total of 15 men who have signed since the new operation began yesterday.

So far, nine of that number are white men, mostly 18-year-olds and the other six colored. Nine of the total are 18 while the others are 19, 21, 22 and 24 years old.

Clerk Selma Evans stated most of the persons who come to the office are there mostly for information. The majority of the questions concern who is supposed to register. Requirements on that state any man who was born after August 26, 1922, and who has never registered, must do so now. That includes both veterans and non-veterans.

Also, all 18-year-olds must register on the day they become 18 or within five days thereafter. If they do not, they are considered delinquent. Penalties for being delinquent is placing the man's name at the head of the list to be called up first.

The clerk said she thought any person who will be 26 before the September draft can induct him will not be called. This is not official, she said.

Again, those persons over 26 will not be called, regardless of whether or not they are veterans. Too, married men will not be called in the first draft nor will veterans under the age limit.

Victim Officer's Bullet Recovers

Leonard Jenkins, Negro, charged with shooting firearms in the city and hit-and-run driving last Sunday, who was wounded in the chest when he allegedly fired his shotgun at Police Chief Herbert Wooten, Detective S. Bowen Dorsey and Patrolman Henry Lawson, was not seriously injured. He was taken from Pitt General Hospital to his home yesterday.

Chief Wooten and other officers, responding to a call from John Stranell, 517 Ford Street, Sunday night, stating that a shotgun was being fired promiscuously and that shot pellets were striking his house, started an investigation. Shortly after the officers arrived a shotgun blast was fired from a yard of a nearby home. Dorsey saw the flash, returned the fire, and Jenkins dropped his shotgun and submitted to arrest.

While one police car was looking for Jenkins for hit-and-run driving, the car with Chief Wooten in it was looking for him for shooting firearms in the city.

Jenkins will be given a hearing in Police Court when his condition permits his appearance, police stated.

Chief Wooten quoted the woman as saying her husband fell on the butcher knife and hurt himself. A hospital physician said the man had five different wounds.

Acheson did say he is not opposed to the principle of a loan to Spain if it is economically justifiable and a good credit risk.

He recalled, however, that in his last comprehensive summary of American policy toward Spain last Jan. 18 he noted there were a number of economic barriers to such a loan.

These obstacles, he said, are in the power of the Spanish government to correct.

(Continued from page one) Ringling Brothers circus to perform among the crowds on the street and during both day and night programs.

Besides all the sideline activities in the entertainment line, Little Jimmy Dickens and his Grand Ole Opry unit will be on hand to give two shows. The nature of both has not been determined as yet but will be on the same order as that of his radio performances. The show in the afternoon will run for about 30 minutes while the one at night is slated for an hour and a half.

The four or five string bands that have been hired for the event will play off and on all day. The band to play for the square dance has not been determined yet, Lautares said. It is still up in the air, so to speak, pending the popularity choice. The same is true of the person who will call the dance. The choice will be made between several of the older hands in this area.

Baruch . . .

(Continued From Page One) "Pass a law saying I can put in price and wage controls immediately when I think they're needed." That's what Congress probably will do now: give the President stand-by power to freeze prices and wages.

This appears to be politically pleasing to Congress, for it makes the actual invoking of such consumer controls a responsibility of the President—not Congress.

Battle Within . . .

Why? Well, because (1) Communism would gain much prestige in Asia through membership in the peace organization, and (2) because Moscow can see that ultimately the North Koreans will be defeated. So if that defeat could be avoided, with a return to the status before the war, the Red effort to conquer South Korea could be taken up again at a more opportune time.

There are many evidences that Moscow has on hand numerous projects for the spread of Communism. In some of them Red China could play an invaluable part. For example, take the case of Tibet, which China has sworn to take over. Actions against Indo China and other Asiatic areas also seem contemplated. And, in any event, recognition of Red China would enhance Communist prestige enormously in the Orient.

So, as remarked, the U. N. battle over Korea might easily rank among the decisive engagements of that far eastern conflict.
