Malik Not To Try UN Boycott

Security Council Decision To Formosa Question Brings Assurance

Lake Success, Aug. 30—(AP)—A security council decision to air the Formosan question brought assurance from Russia's Jakob A. Malik yesterday that he will not resume his boycott of council meetings after his August term as President ends tomorrow.

Malik said, in effect, that he would remain in the council to fight for the seating of a Chinese communist representative who would accuse the United States of aggression against China in Formosa.

The council agreed yesterday to put the Chinese communist charges on its order of business, after Korea. The United States voted for the Russian proposal after the council voted down Malik's language. The council voted 7 to 2 to investigate the "complaint of armed invasion of Taiwan (Formosa)."

China and Cuba opposed the consideration of Formosa. Egypt abstained and Yugoslavia did not participate.

Britain's Sir Gladys Jebb, who succeeds Malik as council president Friday, said later he would call a meeting on his first day in the chair. He added he plans as many meetings next week as other council members will agree to.

Delegates expect Malik to uncork his strongest propaganda speech in days at tomorrow's meeting, the last of his term. With the Korean conflict entirely sidetracked yesterday, he has in reserve at least one more weapon. It is a 12-page memorandum from the North Korean government, charging the U. S. Air Force with new bomb attacks on the North Korean countryside.

The council is in recess today. Malik plays host tonight at the president's usual monthly party. Chinese Nationalist Delegate T. F. Tsang, whom Malik earlier in the month tried unsuccessfully to oust from the council, was not invited.

The Russian began his boycott last January 13, protesting the council's continued refusal to replace the Chinese Nationalist delegate with a Chinese communist. He ended his walkout August 1 when alphabetical rotation brought Russia to the presidential chair.

Though Malik succeeded in winning future consideration of the Chinese communist charges concerning Formosa, he lost his fight for the council to drop all other business and issue an emergency injunction for a representative of the Peiping regime to come here to accuse the United States.

Only three countries—Norway, India and Yugoslavia—went along with him. He needed seven votes.

Chief U. S. Delegate Warren Austin, who previously had said the U. S. welcomed a full U. N. inquiry into the Formosan situation, said the council would have to study seriously whether any Chinese Reds should be brought to Lake Success. The U. S. favors an on-the-spot inquiry in Formosa by a U. N. commission, which then could hear Chinese communist spokesmen.

Issue Subpoenas For 3 Lawyers

Washington, Aug. 30—(AP)—The House Un-American Activities Committee has issued subpoenas for three former government lawyers named by Lee Pressman as one-time fellow members of a Communist cell.

Rep. Nixon (R-Calif.) told reporters today the subpoenas call for the appearance here Friday of John Abt, Nathan Witt and Charles Kramer.

Nixon also said that a subpoena has been issued for the appearance the same day of George Silverman, formerly with the railroad retirement board.

Who Gets Protection

Broadened Social Security Program Extends Coverage To Three New Groups; Domestic Servants, Employees Of Non-Profit Groups And Government Workers

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington Aug. 30—(AP)—The social security program has been broadened to let these three large groups of employees—kept out or it until now—come under its protection:

1 Domestic servants. It's compulsory for anyone in this group to get in the program if he meets the requirements.

2 Employees of non-profit organizations. It's voluntary for them. They and their employers can choose to get in or stay out.

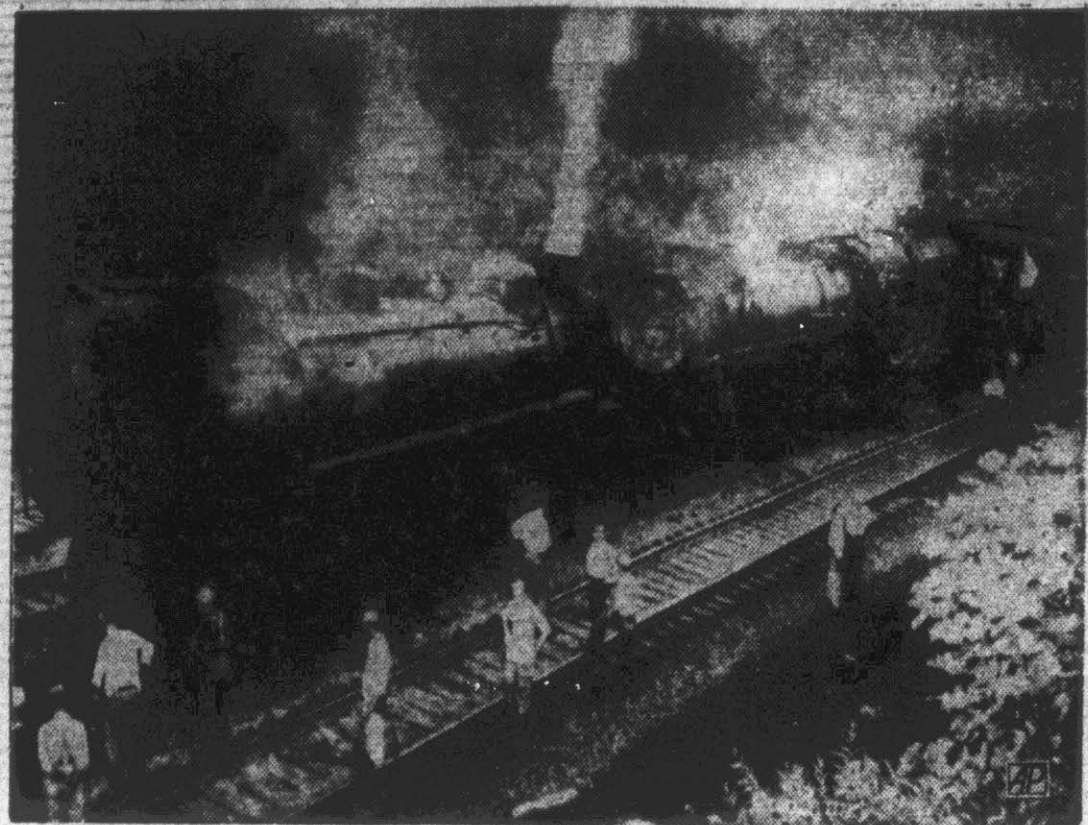

3 Employees of state and local governments if they're not already covered by an old-age pension system. This is voluntary in part; unless the state and local governments want these employees under social security. They can't get in.

For all three groups Jan. 1 1951 is the starting date.

Domestic Servants—Who is a domestic servant? It's anyone employed fairly regularly in a home. For example: a cook, butler, housemaid, nursemaid, washwoman and others.

Here's the test: He or she must have worked for you, full time or part time, on

President Prods Tax Boost Action

Calls Party Leaders To White House, Urging Speed On Measure; Compromise Indicated On Excess Profits Levy

Washington, Aug. 30—(AP)—President Truman prodded Congress today for quick action on a bill to increase taxes by $5,000,000,000.

He called acting Senate Democratic leader Myers of Pennsylvania and House Democratic leader McCormack of Massachusetts to the White House to urge speed on the measure.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, who sat in on the conference, emphasized the terrific job facing the Treasury if the increases are to become effective Oct. 1.

"The President emphasized to us the importance of speed in order to assure that the treasury can go forward with the new collections on the scheduled date," Myers said.

Myers said that what the amendments to be debated he doesn't think the bill can pass the Senate before Tuesday.

He and McCormack agreed that once the Senate acts a little time will be required to iron out differences in the Senate measure and the one previously passed by the House.

Meanwhile there was talk of compromise on the bitterly contested excess profits tax amendment.

Off-stage maneuvering was reported aimed at a settlement about like this:

1 Delay of action on an excess profits levy to take the profits out of war until early next year, but—

2 With a right agreement that the profits levy, when enacted, would apply as of July 1, 1950 or

FFA Authorized To Incorporate

Washington, Aug. 30—(AP)—President Truman today authorized the incorporation of the Future Farmers of America, a national farm youth organization.

He signed a bill granting the authorization and a congressional charter to the group which has a membership of 320,000 farm boys in the 48 states, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

View Lower Net Farm Earnings

Washington, Aug. 30—(AP)—The Agriculture Department expects farmers to take in almost as much cash this year as in 1949. But it predicts that their net earnings will be substantially lower.

The department's forecast, released yesterday, estimated a net farm income of $13,000,000,000 which would be $1,000,000,000 less than in 1949. Farmers' production expenses have been increasing faster than expected. They are estimated at $18,500,000,000 for 1950, which would be $500,000,000 more than in 1949.

Gross farm income, however, will amount to $31,500,000,000 in 1950, the department said; this would be only two per cent less than in 1949. This includes government payments, rental value of dwellings, value of home consumption and cash receipts.

Cash receipts from marketings for 1950 were estimated at $27,500,000,000—about two per cent less than last year, and the fourth largest total in U. S. history. This estimate is $2,500,000,000 above the estimate for the same item which the department made in April. The reason for the unexpected increase, the department explained, was the Korean war, bringing greater demand and higher prices.

And—if he meets those two tests, a 3 per cent tax must be paid on the first $3,600 of his yearly pay. Under the law an employer can, but doesn't have to, pay the whole tax herself. Businessmen put up 1-1/2 percent out of their own pocket and deduct the other 1-1/2 percent from the worker's pay.

For example: Mary Jones works 24 days out of a quarter for you as a cook and earns at least $50. Since she's then covered, you can deduct 1-1/2 per cent of her $50 (75 cents of your own, and turn it into the government.

Remember: an employer is required

Truman Plans 'Fireside Chat' Friday Night

Washington, Aug. 30—(AP)—President Truman will make a 30 minute "report to the nation" at 9 p. m. (EST) Friday.

The White House said Mr. Truman will deliver a "fireside chat" to be carried by all the major radio networks. It also will be televised.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross, who made the announcement, said the President will speak from the movie projection room in the White House.

The address will cover a report on the progress of United Nations forces in Korea, the critical international situation growing out of the fighting there and the problems of the home front.

On the latter phase, Mr. Truman will discuss his proposed economic controls, the tax increase now being debated in the Senate among other matters linked with the emergency.

Workers Strike At Air Center Building Site

Tullahoma, Tenn., Aug. 30—(AP)—Fifty excavation workers went on strike today at the Air Force's $150,000,000 engineering and development center here.

The three striking AFL unions, asking double overtime for Sundays and other benefits, put a 12-man picket line around the jet and rocket engine test project on which they were engaged.

Work on this and all other projects was at a standstill this morning but whether this was caused by the strike or by a heavy rain was not determined immediately.

The contractors and the workers made no statement.

Formally Nominated

Washington, Aug. 30—(AP)—President Truman today formally nominated Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York City as ambassador to Mexico.

He sent the nomination to the Senate for its confirmation.

Official Agency Hints At Invasion Of North Korea

By ELTON C. FAX

Washington, Aug. 30—(AP)—The question of whether the United States intends to carry the war into Communist North Korea developed a new and interesting facet today.

From an American agency, the psychological warfare branch of the Far East Command, came a broad hint to the citizens of North Korea that their Communist rulers will be ousted and the 38th parallel dividing line erased.

The suggestion is conveyed in an air raid warning leaflet being dropped in North Korea. It advises civilians to move away from the cities

Korean War Front Erupts Invaders Battle Furiously For Breakthrough

Demand Policy For War Threat

Republicans Assail 'Lack Of Both Plans And Policy' To Meet Threat Of Third World War

Washington, Aug. 30—(AP)—Senator or Taft (R-Ohio) demanded today that the Truman Administration clear up what he termed a "complete lack of both plans and policy" to meet the threat of a third World War.

Taft suggested the rearming of Western Germans and Italians to help defend Western Europe from possible Russian attack.

Secretary of State Acheson faced possible questioning along this line in a scheduled appearance at a closed meeting of the Senate appropriations committee.

Summoned to testify on a $4,000,000,000 addition to Foreign Military aid funds, Acheson also faced questions by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) as to why military leaders aren't kept fully abreast of Foreign policy developments.

Ferguson said he got an admission from Secretary of the Navy Mathews yesterday that Mathews hasn't been informed on some Foreign policy points.

Another Republican, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, told the Senate yesterday the administration hasn't asked Congress for enough authority or funds to build up a combat army "of such manifestly effective strength as to enable us to regard the diplomatic initiative" in dealing with Russia.

Lodge's demand for a 3,000,000-man army touched off a debate in which Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, asserted that while Russia might overrun Europe it cannot win a World War.

Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) said the United States will make any Russian attack in Europe very costly through use of the atomic bomb. Ferguson's statement to a reporter that the armed services don't always know what American objectives are came as an outgrowth of President Truman's ban on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's message on Korea and the state department and White House Republican of a "preventive war" speech by Mathews.

Third U.S. Loan To Yugoslavia Is Agreed Upon

Washington, Aug. 30—(AP)—The United States has agreed to lend another $15,000,000 to Yugoslavia, which already has received two $20,000,000 loans in the last 12 months.

Secretary of State Acheson told a news conference today that the Export-Import Bank has approved the loan, bringing to $55,000,000 total American advances to Marshal Tito's government.

The United States has since a policy of aiding Yugoslavia follows Tito's split with Moscow, dividing the Communist world front.

Yugoslavia is using the loan money to rehabilitate its mines, improve its agriculture, and buy equipment for expanding production of goods.

Congress Inches Toward Possible Fall Vacation

Washington, Aug. 30—(AP)—Congress inched today toward the possible start of a fall vacation in two weeks. Plans to wind up the session then were hinged on indications President Truman would not ask further emergency powers.

There were some stumbling blocks in the way, but Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, insisted that the Senate will wind up its business Sept. 9.

House leaders went ahead with plans to give their members a breathing spell next week—with perfunctory sessions Tuesday and Friday—so they won't return to the capital until Sept. 11. Congress could quit that night or the next day, if all went well.

The type of vacation the law-

Lee Pressman, former government lawyer, tells the House Un-American Activities committee in Washington that John Abt, Nathan Witt and Charles Kramer were fellow communists with him when all were New Deal employees in the early 30's. He testified he gave up his own communist connection after one year. (AP Wirephoto).

Fire Prevention Week Plans Laid

Civic Groups Outline Program Set For October

Plans for Fire Prevention Week which will be held here the week of October 9 were tentatively outlined Monday afternoon at a meeting of the civic and public affairs committee of the chamber of commerce.

The committee adopted the program for the week which will be carried out in cooperation with the Greenville fire department in an effort to impress upon the public the necessity of preventing fires.

The program for fire prevention week in the city schools is to be worked out with the school officials in the near future. The committee of the chamber of commerce provided for prizes to be awarded for essay contests on fire prevention in junior and senior high at Greenville high school and at Eppes high school provided the school officials endorse the contest idea.

In addition to the fire prevention program, the committee discussed the other items of the program which has been assigned the committee for the year. Chairman Charles B. Bisette of the committee was authorized to offer the aid of the committee to the city school system in any manner the school officials thought the chamber of commerce could help the school program.

The committee discussed the need for a fire sub-station in west Greenville, and the possibilities of including a Negro swimming pool in the city's plans for expanding recreational facilities.

Also receiving the attention of the committee was the problem of parking in Greenville's business district and the matter of securing a suitable location for public rest rooms in the downtown section of the city.

Doctor Asserts Profits Low On Draft X-Rays

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 30—(AP)—A doctor who receives $5 per man for X-raying Army inductees says that because of overhead, technical and other expenses, the profit is only $1 per man.

"There has been a lot of publicity about excessive charges," Dr. S. S. Marchbanks said in an interview yesterday. "But overhead is high. There are technicians to pay, chemicals have gone up. Film is expensive and X-ray tubes have to be replaced. If the two of us (he and his partner) take in $4,000 for a month's work, not more than $800 of that is clear."

Recent reports that some civilian doctors get as much as $1,100 a day for X-ray Army inductees have brought demands in Congress for an investigation.

Reds Penetrate Close To Pohang; More North Korean Divisions Rushed Into Action; Allied Arms Triumph In Two Smaller But Furious Battles; Taegu Threatened From North

Tokyo, Thursday, Aug. 30—(AP)—The Korean war front blazed with action Wednesday as allied forces lashed back at mounting North Korean forces probing furiously for a breakthrough.

On the worrisome northeastern front, American and South Korean forces at Pohang launched a small-scale tank-infantry attack on Reds who penetrated within rifle range of that number 2 United Nations seaport.

The U. S. attack stalled after gaining at least one mile north of the city, said Associated Press Correspondent Tom Lambert.

General MacArthur's war summary early today said Red infiltrators had been cleared from the main road southwest of Pohang which had been cut by a North Korean patrol early Wednesday.

Communist rifle fire continued, however, from nearby hills.

On the central front northwest of Taegu, U. S. First Cavalry Division forces attempting to take a hill position were forced to withdraw under heavy Red mortar and automatic weapons fire.

Determined to clean out the menacing enemy positions, the First Cavalry vowed to renew the attack. The hill was four miles northeast of Waegwan which is 10 miles northwest of Taegu.

The death struggle for the No. 2 South Korean port on the Sea of Japan coast committed about 20,000 men to the side.

Another 30,000 Reds rolled down from the mountains on Taegu from 18 miles to the north of the central front city.

More Communists—possibly up to three divisions—rushed to join the battle.

Mayor Wants To Settle Incident

Grimesland Mayor May Still Resign After Cases Heard

Grimesland Mayor Leslie Elks who yesterday was reported planning to resign his office in the town government stated today that he still may resign the post, but that he would definitely remain in office until he gets "this stuff straightened out."

He referred to the incident in Grimesland Monday night which resulted in the arrest of seven men on various charges by Police Chief H. D. Wright.

The names of two of the men who were reported by Wright in yesterday's Reflector as having been incorrect, the chief said this morning. Clarence Ward was arrested on charges of driving drunk, Wright said, instead of Lester Ward as reported to the newspaper. Earl Smith was arrested on a reckless driving charge rather than L. Smith as appeared in the newspaper.

Mayor Elks said the seven men are scheduled to be given a hearing in the Grimesland mayor's court tonight at 7:30.

Elks added that his resignation, if he resigns, will not be due to the fact that he as mayor would have to try one of his tenants in the Grimesland mayor's court. One of Elks' tenants was among the seven men arrested by Wright.

"It (being mayor) just didn't work in with my business," Elks said. "If I resign it's not because I didn't want to try one of my tenants. I'm not going to resign right now, but I may in the near future. I'm going to get this stuff straightened out."

The committee discussed the need for a fire sub-station in west Greenville, and the possibilities of including a Negro swimming pool in the city's plans for expanding recreational facilities.

Also receiving the attention of the committee was the problem of parking in Greenville's business district and the matter of securing a suitable location for public rest rooms in the downtown section of the city.

Arming Our Enemies

Disclosure That British Factory Sending Russia Tools Suitable For War Purposes Is Nothing New; We Did It In 1941; Our Own Mistakes; The Danger

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Winston Churchill's disclosure (confirmed by the government) that a British factory is producing for Russia tools suitable for the repair of military tanks, is a disturbing commentary on an inconspicuous practice.

This isn't confined to British, however. It is a common practice by many countries. America supplied Japan with oil and iron the Japs needed to launch the attack on Pearl Harbor. Britain helped equip the Kaiser for World War I. And most other nations have pursued or are pursuing similar tactics.

However, that doesn't lessen the dangers of the custom.

Of course, Britain and Russia aren't at war in the accepted sense of the term. There has been no formal declaration of hostilities, but the so-called "cold war" in which the major powers are engaged is one of the most devastating conflicts of history. Moreover, it has developed many hot spots, of which Korea is a prime example.

Even now a contingent of Scots Highland troops are beginning to arrive in Korea to join MacArthur's forces. These are the famous soldiers who were called "Ladies from Hell" by the Germans in the first World War because they went into action wearing their kilts and fought like devils to the weird shriek of the bagpipes.

The London Daily Mail published a message from MacArthur, expressing pride at having these troops in his command and concluding: "May a merciful God be with them in the trying days ahead."

Trying days indeed, in which the Scotties will go up against Russian made tanks, which may have been prepared for action with tools made in England.

Arthur Bottomley, British secretary for overseas trade, denies that his country has been sending strategic war material to Russia. He adds: "What has happened is that we have had essential supplies from Russia in the shape of grain and timber, and in return we have had to make payment. The goods supplied by Britain while covering a wide range have been outside the category of those necessary for

Marie's School Of The Dance Make Hit With Kiwanis

By CHESTER WALSH
 Marie Smith Wallace's boys and girls of Marie's School of the Dance presented a program that was novel and unique at a recent meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

In addition to the 75 or 80 Kiwanians and special guests, an overflow audience of more than 100 appeared after the supper session. Christine Smith was accompanist.

Marie, as she is known to thousands of children and grownups in Greenville, put on a program that the audience rated tops.

President Tige Gardner presided. The Public Relations Committee arranged the program. Members are Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, Ed H. Williford and Chester Walsh.

Joan and Carol Britley, talented girls not yet up to school age, featured the program, with their singing and dancing act, with the song, "Kiss Me Sweet."

The program was a hit throughout. "I've Got Rhythm," Mary Dunn Beatty, Marjorie Boyd, Peggy Martin and Dotdee Jones.

Dance—"Balling the Jack," Ruth Little and Boyce Cox.

Crazy Rhythm—Goldis Starling, Acrobatic Dance—Carol Ann Tadlock. This number elicited prolonged applause.

An impressive number was Mary Dunn Beatty and Alfred Smith, in an adagio dance. The talented boy and girl made a big hit.

Tommy Spencer was fine in his song and dance, "Five Foot Two."

Boyce Cox of "Winterville," as "Yankee Doodle Dandy," in a song and dance number, was "better than good."

The big girls, the rhythm group, concluded the program with a dancing specialty that made a hit.

The Kiwanians called Marie Smith Wallace and Christine Smith, the pianist, and the dancers and singers back for a big encore and an invitation for them to come again.

Ell Bloom, producer of the Kiwanis minstrel, paid tribute to Marie for her wonderful work in developing talent among the young people of Greenville and predicted that some of the younger members of Marie's School of the Dance may be expected to be heard from on the big time circuits of the show business in the not distant future.

Aged Inventor Of Steam Harvester Sees It At Work

Des Moines, Iowa—(AP)—F. J. Wood, 87-year-old inventor of a steam threshing engine built in 1917, saw the machine used recently to harvest oats. Wood, one of the founders of Wood Bros. Farm Machinery in Des Moines, designed and built the old teamer.

Talk of old threshing days was heard this year on the Louis Thordson farm north of Tipton. The veteran threshermen were Henry W. Meyer, of Clarence, operating his machine for the 55th year, and Ray Chalais, of Tipton, who has been threshing for over half a century. Both think that threshing is still the best way to handle small grain.

A scene reminiscent of the past was the harvesting of oats recently on the W. T. Hunt farm near Ottumwa. Horses pulled wagons of shocked oats to the thrasher. However, the thrasher instead of being powered by a steam engine, was operated by a tractor.

W. R. Stevens, chief forecaster for the New Orleans bureau, said that "this is now a big Hurricane and will probably strike the mainland around Burwood or Grand Isle."

building up war potential."

However the United States revealed last week that a British firm trans-shipped to Russia 50 tons of American molybdenum—a metal used for hardening steel. Another 150 tons scheduled for shipment from London was stopped.

Churchill's revelation has caused a sensation in Britain and the conservative press has been taking the Socialist government to task. There is a strong challenge to the idea of sending Russia materials which will strengthen the Red war potential.

Moreover a lot of folk want to know why Britain has to get wheat from Russia when members of the Commonwealth like Canada and Australia are among the world's great wheat producers. The Daily Graphic sums the thing up:

"Foodstuffs and similar commodities from Eastern Europe are dearly bought at this price.

The reaction in America seems to be strongly against acceptance of the thesis that so long as a deal actually is "legal" it is legitimate. The idea of doing anything which would strengthen Russian striking power certainly goes against the grain. An indication of the feeling against even ordinary trade with Russia is seen in the refusal of New York Longshoremen to unload shipments of Russian crabmeat.

their lives for the most part have been from pillar to post, not knowing when the next trend in international events or national policy will yank them from their domestic jobs into military service.

With the Universal Military Training program in the offing, the condition will extend to a group of youths slightly younger than the majority of those previously subject to compulsory military service.

These youngsters already are in a mental turmoil because they must wait on the definite statement of government policy in UMT before making their plans for further schooling or working. Even though there are other things which are pressing for congressional action, The Reflector believes the early enactment of a well planned UMT program will give the youths something definite around which to form their plans for the next few years. Even though most youths probably do not look forward to a period of military training, it will be better to know that such training is definite than to continue to flounder in the uncertainty of what tomorrow holds in store as far as military training is concerned.

News Behind The News
 By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 — Several hard-headed and right-wing leaders of AFL and CIO unions recently returned from Western Europe will soon protest to ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman that workers abroad are getting almost no benefits from the expenditure of Marshall Plan money. They are particularly upset about conditions in France, where they made a six-weeks tour of industrial centers.

Although these American funds were supposed to improve the economic and material lot of the people of these areas, thus making them less amenable to Communist propaganda and infiltration, the labor representatives maintain that the principal beneficiaries are foreign employers and governments.

The average European is living no better because of these billions, and feels no particular gratitude toward the United States, they say.

EMPLOYMENT These findings flatly contradict the rosy reports of Administrator Hoffman, W. Averell Harriman, former Marshall Plan agent in Europe and now President Truman's chief of staff for foreign affairs, as well as the confidential communiques to Washington from our diplomatic and consular staffs overseas.

The labor observers say that employment has not improved as much as it should have as a result of Marshall Plan expenditures. Wages have not shown any appreciable increase. The exclusive government and private control of the use of American funds enables them to dictate working conditions to the unions more than ever before.

DISILLUSION "The French worker," reports William Belanger, vice president of the Textile Workers, and head of the Massachusetts CIO Council, "was filled with many hopes at the time of the liberation. Now, there is disillusion."

John Livingston, vice president of the United Auto Workers (CIO), says: "Unless something is done soon to improve living conditions in France, Italy and Western Germany, we may soon find that all the aid given to date has been used to rebuild industries which may soon be in the hands of or under the control of a dictator, who is showing, day by day, his lust for and hatred of the United States."

Other union labor officials engaged in preparing the protest to Administrator Hoffman are Harold Gibbons, leader of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and Carmen Lucia, vice president of the International Hatters' Union, two AFL organizations.

SPLITS The mass of Europeans will enjoy even less material return, the labor reporters point out, when Marshall Plan money is converted into purely material items, especially as the more costly and bulky weapons will be manufactured in the United States.

Foreign workers' enjoyment of the fruits of American dollars is not a mere academic question with American labor. It was the AFL-CIO support of this program which precipitated the most violent splits among the major unions in modern times. When left-wing groups opposed the plan, they were tossed out of the automobile, steel, textile and other mass organizations. The international, Moscow-dominated union federation collapsed on this point.

Now, the official backers of the Truman Doctrine and the Marshall Plan are making the same criticism that followers of the "Moscow line" made at the beginning. Naturally, their reportorial reaction will tend to strengthen the radicals still remaining in their organizations.

BENEFITS Moreover, the top officials journeyed to Europe at the request of the Administration to beat down Red efforts to line up the workers against M. P. as an "imperialistic" thrust.

William Green, AFL president, and Philip Murray, CIO head, gave formal assurances that the program would be a boon to the workingman.

As a matter of fact, it has been instrumental in maintaining employment in this country, which is the political reason why the Administration plans to prolong it in one form or another after its originally scheduled expiration in 1952.

It is not Administrator Hoffman's fault that most of the employment, wages and working conditions benefits flow to American rather than foreign labor.

Ironicly, if he should try to meet these new complaints by shipping more raw materials abroad for fabrication in Western European plants, American labor would be the loser.

IRRITATED President Truman is becoming irritated with labor's more recent behavior, and the forthcoming critique from this European mission will not improve their relations. He may come around to the frustrated attitude of Franklin D. Roosevelt, when he capped a confidential talk on labor-management troubles with the remark of "A plague on both your houses." (Except that Mr. Truman doesn't read Shakespeare.)

The President finds himself beset with the threat of major and minor strikes, despite the Korean emergency, and in the face of his effort to give labor a chance for another round of wage increases before controls are clamped down. That is the behind-the-scenes explanation for his demand that he have entire discretion in using this authority.

Labor leaders have warned him that the recent increase in living costs, ranging from five to ten percent in many lines, will necessitate opening of major union contracts under escalator clauses. They will make their new demands within the next few months, some as early as September.

By delaying the date for placing ceilings on pay envelopes, assuming that Congress gives him this power, Mr. Truman can let his labor allies get under the wage wire in advance. In view of this favor, he thinks, and he has so informed the top bosses, that they ought to show more consideration for him—and for ECA Administrator Hoffman.

It Won't Be Long Now!

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

One of my favorite pastimes is grabbing a magazine like Colliers or The Saturday Evening Post and scanning it back to front for cartoons, or one of the pocket-books magazines, like Reader's Digest or Cornet, and scanning it for anecdotes. Last night I found a few fit to be re-told.

A girl from back country was visiting relatives in the city for the first time. They wanted her to enjoy herself, so they arranged for her to have a date that night. The boy showed up on time and they went to a movie. After the show, they stopped at a restaurant.

"Two hamburgers and two milk-shakes," the boy said.

So as not to appear ignorant, the girl said, "The same for me."

And there was one about Oswald. Every morning when he woke up he would slip out of his crib and crawl beneath the covers either with his father or mother. One day his parents got up unusually early and left him asleep in his crib. Not long afterwards they heard a cry from overhead, so Oswald's mother rushed upstairs to determine the trouble. Oswald dried his tears and explained, "I woke up and looked in your place, Mother, and you weren't there. Then I looked in Daddy's place, and he wasn't there. And then I went back and looked in my place, and I wasn't there. Then I was 'fraid.'"

This one happened in New York City's famous Stork Club. A young man approached the man at the rope and handed him a dollar. The headwaiter asked, "What is this for?" The man replied, "I want you to do me a favor. When I come back here in a few minutes with two girls please say all the tables are taken so I can take them to a cheeper place."

A customer at a vet shop said, "I want a puppy—a doggy sort of puppy."

"A what, sir?"

"One that will make the wife say, 'For goodness sake! Take that dog out for a walk!'"

This one comes from a New York Children's Court. A middle-aged couple went through the legal motions of adopting their own month-old daughter while a beaming nine-year-old girl they had adopted many years before stood by, watching proudly. The judge made a speech bestowing the infant upon the family, and then placed the baby in the little girl's arms.

Some time after this incident, the judge re-read the letter that had led to the ceremony: "Judge of the Children's Court. Dear Judge: My mother is in the hospital. She just got me a baby sister. I feel sorry for the baby because my mother and father told me that they couldn't adopt it like they adopted me because it got born instead of adopted. Could you please help us get it adopted too so that it would really belong to us?"

And I thank you.

Raleigh, N. C.

COURT—There were about two dozen lawyers and spectators in the big walnut-paneled room on the third floor of the Justice Building Tuesday morning. The big grandfather clock's muffled gong sounded ten times. Marshal Dillard Gardner rapped his gavel, and when everybody had arisen, intoned the traditional words: "The honorable chief justice and associate justices of the North Carolina supreme court approach. God save the state and this honorable court." The justices took their seats, so did the audience. A lawyer stepped forward to enter a motion for continuance in a matter, followed by another lawyer who argued that his client didn't really steal some spotted pigs. And the fall term of the supreme court of North Carolina was in session.

FULL—The "bench" was full. Chief Justice Stacy, who had spent several weeks in a hospital, looks a bit thinner but otherwise hale and hearty. The six associate justices all looked like the summer rest had done them good, and put them in good condition for the grind that will keep them busy until Christmas or later.

DIGNITY—The supreme court room has an atmosphere of unobtrusive dignity. The marshal would be quick to call down any manifestation of noise or vulgarity, but he almost never has to exercise that authority. Despite their somber black robes, the justices look very human. They frequently smile, often they get off wisecracks containing genuine humor. Sometimes the chief finds it necessary to stern with lawyers. But, somehow, the whole atmosphere is so charged with a sense of dignity and justice that visitors have no feeling of fear or awe. They just naturally behave themselves because it seems to be "a good idea at the time." By way of contrast some superior and inferior court judges sometimes have to make visitors behave by threat of punishment or contempt charges. The supreme court commands respect without display of authority—of which it has plenty.

SPEECH-MAKING—High ranking state officials are much in demand for public speaking engagements throughout the state. The demand upon them is particularly heavy during the commencement season every spring, and during the fall campaign in every election year. Between times there are picnics, family reunions, community "big days" and other events calling for a big speech by a big shot. For the election campaign speeches there is a sense of responsibility and the officials feel they are bound to go as often as possible. Other times they are permitted a larger element of choice.

SPECULATION—So it is that when two or three state officials try to accept every invitation extended them in the off-seasons, when they are willing to drive hundreds of miles a week at night and at their own expense going to and from speaking engagements without missing any time from office work hours, there is speculation about "how come." In the current between-times period — after the school commencement and before the general election campaign — at least three state officials have been doing a lot of night-riding in order to make speeches. They are Clyde Erwin, superintendent of public instruction; Thad Eure, secretary of state, and L. Y. Langston has an excellent record as a World War 2 veteran, in which he attained the rank of major before his release shortly Bridges have done a good bit of speech-making, too, but their schedules have not been so full as the other three. Why?

PROSPECTING—Well, capitol square gossip has it the prolific speech-makers are prospecting. It is an open secret that each of them has his eyes on the big office in the southwest corner of the capitol set aside for exclusive use of the governor. It would probably be stretching things a little to say that any or all of these gentlemen is an avowed candidate for governor. It would stretch a bit to say that each of them is sort of hopeful he might be drafted or something for the state's No. 1 office.

ITINERARY—The fellows can't work out a reasonable itinerary because of the dates they are required to be at certain places. It is nothing unusual, for instance, for one of them to speak in Asheville one night, at Elizabeth City the next, at Boone on the third night and at Wilmington on the fourth. That may be slight exaggeration, but fact is, last week Ballentine was in Asheville twice, with intermediate engagements at Fuquay-Varina and Rutherfordton. This week he is billed for appearances in Surry, Watauga, Haywood, Guilford and Moore counties. Eure this week has spoken in Richmond county and has dates in Watauga and several Piedmont points. If the officials could pick their own dates and arrange their itineraries for personal convenience, the same points could be made with one-fourth or of the driving time and mileage.

CLAIM—Aside from any personal political ambitions, fact remains that the people in every community have claim upon the time and energy of their elected state officials.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

MAKE GOOD CHOICE (Kinston Daily Free Press)
 In the selection of Guy C. Langston of the State Highway Patrol as the new chief of police at Greenville, it appears the city authorities there have made an all-out effort to get an able officer to bolster sagging morale and put the department back on a respectable footing.

The Board of Aldermen at Greenville some weeks ago declared the office vacant and overruled a veto by the mayor in de-posing Chief Lester D. Page. Reasons for that action, while they may not have been in the public interest, have no connection with the present appointment, it appears. Four resignations from the force since Herbert Wooten was named acting chief in July indicate the low ebb to which the forces morale has sunk since the authorities acted against Page.

Langston has an excellent record as a World War 2 veteran, in which he attained the rank of major before his release shortly after the war ended. He served well on the Kinston police force and later joined the State Highway Patrol, where his work also has been of a high standard.

Given a free hand, Langston should be able to elevate the department at Greenville to a new peak of efficiency. His appointment certainly indicates that the leaders now seek to repair some of the great damage that has been done and we are confident they have chosen a man who can measure up to the important task of chief.

LAW REQUIRING MANUFACTURER'S NAME ON PRIVATE BRANDS WOULD MAKE PRICE DIFFERENTIALS DIFFICULT TO MAINTAIN.

By ELMER ROESSNER
 What sounds like a simple proposal by the National Federation of Business would have far reaching effects on the marketing of private brands.

The federation, after polling the members is asking Congress for a law requiring the name of the manufacturer to appear on private branded goods. The poll showed 67 per cent of the members in favor, 29 per cent opposed and 4 per cent undecided.

One of the reasons advanced is that the public is entitled to know who the manufacturer is. Fair enough. But self interest probably figured largely in the voting. Here's why:

A few manufacturers and food processors make only private brands. Their entire output carries the brand names of the wholesalers, chains and retailers who sell the products. These may be little affected by the proposed law.

But many of the private brands are made by companies that make their own, advertised lines. Often the specifications, workmanship and quality are identical.

Suppose the company making the famous (and imaginary) radio also makes an almost similar set for a chain, which calls it the YYY radio.

If the chain sells YYY sets at a higher price, dealers handling sets get angry. Somebody else is making more money on similar goods, and the dealers can't raise their prices because the price is well known.

But if the chain sells the YYY sets at a lower price, dealers get even angrier. Chain salespeople will whisper to customers that the YYY sets are really XXX sets with a little different trim, and the XXX retailers will lose sales. Sometimes a retailer will get so mad he'll kick out the entire XXX line, but that happens rarely.

It may seem paradoxical that the Federation should demand that manufacturers' names be carried on private brands when the same information is constantly being whispered to buyers. But it would have the effect of diminishing price differentials.

The manufacturer of XXX sets wouldn't dare make similar sets under the YYY name if the price were lower. That would make it impossible for them to maintain the XXX price. And if the chain owning the YYY brand name intended charging a higher price, it wouldn't want to have sets made by a manufacturer whose almost identical sets were sold at a lower price.

COMMERCE DEPARTMENT IN LIST BUSINESS.
 The Department of Commerce is in the list business. You can't write to Washington and get a list of attractive widows worth $50,000 and upward each, but you can get lists of hotels in Colombia or the marble and granite quarries of Italy.

The available lists are of various business in foreign countries. They are constantly being compiled by the office of foreign trade and each costs $1. Manufacturers and others planning to sell abroad should ask nearest field offices of the Department of Commerce what lists are available in lines and countries in which they are interested.

MEN'S SICK LEAVES RELATED TO SALARY.

Denver's experience in a preventative health service for city employees may have value for private businesses hoping to reduce absenteeism by similar means.

Denver found that half the employees made three-fourths of the requests for sick leave and used four-fifths of the total sick leave. Women took more sick leave than men. Men at higher salaries took less leave than men at lower salaries, but there was no relation between pay and health among women.

Denver's program saved an estimated $32,880 by reducing lost time the first year. The cost of the program was $38,000.

Korea —(AP)— The American Army here is being captured—almost against its will—by a younger and more numerous force.

It is slowly becoming the prisoner of the children of Korea. In every country in which the GI has fought he usually makes fast friends of the kids first. To them he is a military Crusoe with endless stores of chewing gum, chocolate bars and candy mints. And few could withstand these magic bribes lavishly dealt out.

They made the GI the hero of childhood from Calcutta to Casablanca in the last world war.

It wasn't altogether generosity on the part of the GI, although he was and is notoriously soft-hearted to children. But he learned quickly that through the kids he could win his way into favor with their families—generally families with pretty daughters.

And before long GI Joe was a one-man post exchange. He gave his gum to the kids, his bag of laundry soap to their mamma, his cigarette ration to their papa. And all he had left to give the pretty daughter was a chocolate bar and conversation. However, this often seemed satisfactory. The happy system of introduction was so well understood in London that when a small boy called "got any gum, chum?" the soldier joked back, "got a sister, mister?"

But the formula hasn't gone so far in Korea. Few have found either temporary or permanent girl friends and most have taken no part in the life of the country.

The frank truth is that most Yanks came here to do a disagreeable duty that has taken them longer than they hoped and they want to leave as soon as it is done. There are few comforts in Korea than in Japan and life generally is on a lower level. The GI has shown little interest in learning just what kind of people the Koreans are, although he has developed a great respect for their ability as soldiers.

But slowly the Korean children are winning him over. I suppose it is their plight that has touched him. At first they were as strange and furtive as their parents, peering out fearfully from their crude mud-walled huts when the troops rolled by. Then they learned to wave and salute and say "Hello, and now it is a great game for them to stand in the dust saluting and yelling "Hello, hello, hello," like little birds that have only two notes in their song.

They are happy, handsome children—those in good health—and as courteous and polite as the children of France. But many have legs and arms covered with sores, and heads so patched with disease the hair looks as if it had burned out by red hot quarters held against the skull.

As the war goes on, more lost and homeless children, paying the price of a war they don't understand, drift into the cities and beg on the streets. It hurts your heart to see these tiny ragamuffins stretched sleepily all alone on a filthy path.

The children know that the troops generally get their rations in the evening. They gather at dusk near the billets, patiently expectant. The boys are now bold enough to say "Hello, gum?" But the little girls hang shyly back. Only five or six years old themselves, they usually clasp on their back a stiffening baby whose shock of stiffly standing uncut black hair makes it look like a kingfisher.

The children bring gifts of apples in their hands. And it is a tough GI indeed who doesn't shower down with his candy and chewing gum then. Many a soldier saves these tidbits for the appearance of a particular child he has picked out as his personal mascot and given a nickname like "Smallbore" or "Little Jughead."

Perhaps as they get to know these children better the troops may learn the people here are not so different from him as he thinks. No land and no people can remain pretty in a civil war.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Cecil Hobbs, a sandy-haired, collegiate-looking man, sits at a desk in the Library of Congress completely surrounded by the nation's greatest collection of Burmese literature.

Mr. Hobbs is reference librarian for southeast Asia, covering Thailand, Burma, Singapore, Malaya, Indonesia, Java, Bali and Indochina. He is in charge of procurement of books, periodicals and newspapers from these countries. It was because of Mr. Hobbs' visit to Burma a couple of years ago that the Burmese government presented to the library its outstanding collection of some 600 volumes of classical and modern Burmese literature.

Included in the collection is a complete set of Hinayana Buddhist scriptures known as the Tripitaka, believed to be the only one in the United States. Of great interest to Burmese scholars in these countries, it was collected by the Council of Buddhist monks together with an old friend of Mr. Hobbs', U Nyo Mya, editor of the Burmese language daily "Oway."

"I keep my ear to the ground for anything I think would be useful for the library," Mr. Hobbs told me. "If I come across something I want, I send a memo to the library's order department, which contacts book dealers in southeast Asia."

"Usually the dealers, men I met over there, know what we want—history, literature, economics, politics, government, art, agriculture, music,—and send it automatically, with a bill."

Mr. Hobbs also set up an exchange agreement with dealers, libraries, universities, medical centers and such and sends over items, not only owned by the Library of Congress, but publications put out by government agencies.

Mr. Hobbs, who was born in Gary, Ind., had been teaching in Burma before coming to the library seven years ago. He went "out" under the Baptist Mission Board in 1938, taking his bride, a young lady named Cecile Jackson, whom he met while attending the University of Illinois. While he was teaching history and education, she was superintendent of schools in Henzada, Burma.

"Then the Japanese came and we lost all of our books, our wedding gifts, everything," he said ruefully. "We intended to go back, but things didn't work that way. The Hobbs live in nearby Virginia with their little daughter, Ma Ma Yi, which is Burmese for 'Laughing One.' When Ma Ma Yi is in her teens—she's seven now—she wants to take her to Burma.

"She knows a great deal about it already and can speak some of the language," Mr. Hobbs said.

Wolfhound Regiment's Colonel Tells What Goes Into His Winning Outfit

By TOM LAMBERT
 With U. S. Forces, Korea, Aug. 30
 (AP)—Where's the Colonel?
 A lean, bronzed rifleman looked up. All around, doughboys relaxed. Only a trace of battle tension showed in their faces.
 Some splashed in a slugging river. Dirt and grime from sweat-muddied fatigues floated west on the current.
 Others sprawled on a sun-drenched sandbank. A few typewriters clicked a staccato, strangely civilized sound in this primitive land.
 Pens scratched over paper, piling words on words in the inevitable letters home.
 After three major battles with the Korean Reds, the famed 37th Wolfhound regiment of the 25th Division was resting.

 The rifleman jerked his thumb. "Mike?" He replied. "Right up there in that tent."
 There was no affectation in his use of the nickname. It came naturally, an unsolicited tribute to Col. John "Mike" Michaels of Lancaster, Pa.
 Michaels, 37-year old commander of the Wolfhounds, had won a promotion and become a battle-front legend in less than a month. His blond hair is silvering already, "he'll either be a General or a dead Colonel," his G.I.'s say.
 The Wolfhounds considered a run-of-the-mine outfit during the easy days of the Japan occupation, whipped into a crack unit on the battlefront.
 They went into action July 24 in the Sangnyang area, about 20 miles southeast of Taejon. In their first bout they KOD'd at least three Red Korean tanks; Wolfhound Artillery chewed an estimated 1,500 Communists.
 Since then, in the words of one profanely admiring staff officer at eighth army headquarters, "they have been up and down that goddam front like a yo-yo."
 The Wolfhounds became the "fire brigade"—an outfit to be rushed where the fighting rages fiercest.
 After the 25th Division—spearheaded by the Wolfhounds—relieved the tired 24th infantry division near Taejon, the Wolfhounds were shifted south to the Chindong area when the Reds broke through on a wild end run and rolled toward Pusan. They held that threat ended when the Reds shifted their punch to the northern Taegu area, only to run head-on into Michaels' Wolfhounds—again. They got nowhere.
 What makes it so good?
 It's leadership," says Michaels. "Not me, but the battalion and company and platoon commanders and a bunch of damned good men."
 They've learned to respect and to depend upon each other—the rifle-men, mortarmen, artillerymen, medics, cooks, machinegunners and communications men.
 They've learned to be good at the business of killing—and how not to be killed—although they have suffered their losses.
 Michaels, the guy who doesn't want credit, summed up what the Wolfhounds had learned about the Reds:
 "They're inflexible, not able to meet a changing situation. If a plan goes wrong, they have to run all the way back to the top to get straightened out.
 "Their technicians, artillerymen, mortarmen and the men who lay the machinegun fire are good."
 "Their infantry?" He shrugged. "They have no regard for life—not even their own."
 "They are ruthless and cruel. They're wonderful winners—and lousy losers."

Farmers Can Check Now On Root Knot Infestation

(By S. J. WEEKS, Assistant County Agent)

Root Knot nematodes are a serious hindrance to the best production of tobacco in many soils through out Pitt County. Not only are they causing direct damage from the standpoint of root knot, but they are taxing the performance of our disease resistant varieties in black shank, and Granville Wilt infested fields.
 Now is the time for growers to "double check" on the root situation on their farms and make plans for reducing root knot hazard. Farmers who are in doubt about root knot infestation should check the roots in the field for the presence of root knot galls. The absence of sucker growth or poor sucker growth after the tobacco is harvested may be an indication that root knot is a problem.
 Many farmers in the county have already cut their stalks and plowed out the roots. By doing this the root system will be exposed to sunlight and air, which will destroy large numbers of nematodes. Farmers who have not plowed out their

Fire Controlled; Kept Within Closet Of Home

Fire of undetermined origin yesterday afternoon did considerable damage to the contents of a closet at the home of Mrs. Clara Adams, 1409 Chestnut Street.
 The fire, which started while the house was unoccupied, did not spread from the closet. Neighbors used a garden hose to quench the flames until fire equipment from the Greenville Fire Department could be sent to the scene.
 Firemen were forced to remove two large windows in the front portion of the house so the smoke could escape, in order that a complete search of the house could be made for any possible fire.
 The house suffered smoke damage, but an estimate on the exact amount was not known at the time.

Young Boarder Charged With Wiping Out Family Of Five

Carl Schaffrin, 217 Perry St., St. Charles, Mo., says there are some folks in this old world who feel good and there are other folks who feel bad. The folks who feel good he wants to congratulate for their fine health, but for the folks who feel mightily bad he says he wants them to read what he has to say and then take a word of advice—take HADACOL if you suffer from a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin, and Iron.

Here is what Mr. Schaffrin has to say about HADACOL since it overcame the effects of such deficiencies in his system: "I have been a shoe cutter for over 32 years—I now work for the Boyd Welsh Shoe Co. in St. Louis. For quite a few years now I haven't had any appetite at all—seemed like I didn't have hardly enough energy to do my work. I was tired all the time—and really didn't enjoy doing anything. It affected my work too. Then I heard how other folks who took HADACOL had increased their appetite and seemed to have a limitless amount of energy. I tried HADACOL and it is amazing what a change it has made. Now I feel like eating everything on the table, my disposition is 100% better and my work—in fact, everything I do I now enjoy. For an entirely new outlook on life I recommend HADACOL."

Why HADACOL Gives Such Fine Results
HADACOL does not bring just symptomatic relief. HADACOL makes it possible to actually relieve the cause of neuritis pains, lack of energy, lack of appetite, and a general run-down weakened condition due to such deficiencies in your system.

HADACOL not only supplies deficient systems with extra quantities of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin but also helpful amounts of important Calcium, Phosphorus and Manganese—elements so vital to help maintain good health and physical fitness.

Why These Vitamins and Minerals Come in Liquid Form
There's a very good reason why HADACOL comes in special liquid form. These precious Vitamins and Minerals are more easily and quickly absorbed into the blood stream this way—ready to go right to work. A big improvement is often noticed within a few days.

Now don't keep on wondering if HADACOL will help you. If you have such deficiencies—HADACOL WILL HELP YOU—just as it has thousands upon thousands of grateful souls who were so troubled. GIVE IT A FAIR TRIAL! Remember HADACOL is sold on a strict money-back guarantee. And so inexpensive. Trial-size bottle, only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50.

East Greenwich, R.I., Aug. 30—(AP)—Police Chief Charles R. Johnson said today that a 37-year-old lodger would be charged with murder in the wiping out of a family of five whose bodies were found in their fire-wrecked home.

Johnson said the boarder, Edwin H. Reynolds, bludgeoned or strangled members of the family during "four hours of terror" and then set fire to the house in an effort to cover up the crime.

The victims were Fred J. Duzsa, 38, his wife, Beatrice, 31—an expectant mother—and their three children, Beatrice, 11, Kathryn, 8, and Gail, 3.

Johnson said Reynolds admitted in the presence of other officers that he bludgeoned Duzsa with a chair and axe, garrotted Mrs. Duzsa and two of the children with ropes or silk stockings and strangled the third child with his bare hands.

Reynolds related, the chief said, that he hit Duzsa with a chair during an argument, then got an axe from the cellar and "finished him off" despite the pleas of Mrs. Duzsa. The nature of argument was not disclosed.

The chief quoted Reynolds as saying that Mrs. Duzsa followed him into a bedroom and that he garrotted her with a silk stocking. When the eldest daughter entered the room, Johnson said, the boarder strangled her with his bare hands and then garrotted the other two children in bed with stockings and ropes.

The bodies were found yesterday in the fire wrecked Duzsa home in an isolated section of the community.

Police at first believed that all six occupants of the house, including Reynolds, had perished in the fire. They became suspicious when they found only five bodies.

Their suspicions were confirmed when doctors, who performed an autopsy, reported that four of the victims apparently had been strangled.

Duzsa's pet collie led authorities to Reynolds's hiding place. The dog appeared in the family yard about midnight after being missed all day.

Police followed the dog to the quest home of Reynolds's estranged wife. They found Reynolds there.

Brewster Angry Over Testimony On Wire-Tapping

Washington, Aug. 30—(P)—Senator Brewster (R-Me) calling remarks made about him before a Senate committee "scandalous and utterly perjured," said today he did not plan to testify in reply.

A group investigating wiretapping in Washington yesterday heard sworn testimony that a colleague once described Brewster as a "political prostitute" who was having his phone tapped.

Brewster, in a bitter reply on the senate floor, said "a very questionable character" was being used by some ingenious minds to make personal attacks upon me.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla) told reporters he did not regard Brewster's remarks as "an attack on the subcommittee" which Pepper heads. The group, a District of Columbia subcommittee, has been inquiring for several weeks into the prevalence of wiretapping in the capital.

Pepper said Brewster is welcome to appear before the group to make any reply he chooses. Another committee member, Senator Neely (D-W Va) said "it would be appropriate" for Brewster to volunteer as a witness. But Brewster said he will not seek a hearing "at this time."

The incident was touched off when Pepper's subcommittee heard testimony from Abner Lippin, who described himself as a local public relations counsel.

Lippin quoted the late Senator Josiah W. Bailey (D-NC) as pinning the offensive label to Brewster and as saying the Maine Senator had tapped his telephone.

Lippin also testified that Howard Hughes, wealthy West Coast industrialist and movie producer, told him that "Senator Brewster was trying to blackmail him (Hughes) into merging his company with Pan American." Hughes' Trans World Airline is a competitor of Pan American Airways.

Brewster, without mentioning any names, told the Senate in a speech that "a very questionable character about town, apparently well known to the police, is being used by some ingenious minds to make personal attacks upon me."

Two Soldiers Cut Off, Hid In Captured Korean Hills 18 Days

By STAN SWINTON
 Masan Front, Korea, Aug. 28—(AP)—Two American Artillerymen were cut off and hid in the Red-infested hills 18 days. They said they spent their time reading the testament and praying to the Lord. They reached American lines late today.

They are Sgt. Charles Uml of Honolulu and Cpl. Lester L. Drake, Toronto, Kas., both of the 55th field artillery battalion.

Weak and filthy, they were rushed to a hospital by ambulance after telling one of the great adventure stories of the Korean war.

Uml and Drake were beside their guns Aug. 11 when a North Korean platoon ambushed the position. He threw a grenade at Uml. It failed to explode.

While their guns and vehicles flamed up around them from Communist incendiary grenades, the two artillerymen crawled through the triumphant, shooting Red Koreans and up to the hills. That was at Pangam—which now is six miles behind Communist lines.

Each day seemed a year," said Drake. "We hid in the hills during the day, sleeping and reading the new testament Uml had in his pocket and praying to the Lord to guide us."

"We had no food. We dug turnips out of the fields with our own hands, and stole cucumbers," Uml chipped in. "A few times we found 'C' ration cans Americans had thrown away when they were up here. Sometimes the little can of jam had been eaten."

Once they hid in a house. Someone must have seen them enter. Communists came up and fired a machinegun into it. Neither was hit.

The cocksure Communists were so certain everyone in the claspboard house had been killed they did not search it.

"They were all around us," said Drake. "Once a whole regiment walked by on a road 25 feet from where we were hiding. Each night we moved back toward the American lines a little, going slowly. We were not taking any chances by trying to make it all at once. We hit the seacoast and followed that."

"We each had a carbine but did not dare fire or our hiding places would have showed up," Drake said. "Communists had lots of artillery and supplies around. We didn't see any tanks though."

The pair saw some Americans on the skyline today and shouted. The Americans are part of Hawaii's fifth regimental combat team. The doughboys rushed them back to regiment headquarters.

Both men gobbled food, took showers and said they felt weak but pretty good.

Both had been given up either as dead or enemy prisoners.

"Tell the folks at home we are Okay and not to worry," Uml said. "That's right. Tell them we are Okay," Drake added.

Uml is a big Japanese-American. Drake is a light, slender youth whose face was gaunt from hunger.

Few Familiar With All Draft Classifications

Raleigh, Aug. 30—(AP)—Do you know the meaning of II-C, I-D, or I-C in draft classification lingo? Chances are you don't.

For there are countless Tar Heel draft registrants who have to call on their local draft boards for an interpretation of the letter and numeral on their classification cards.

At the present, the state's 101 draft boards are busily engaged in classifying thousands of registrants to meet the demands for increased army calls.

Colonel Thomas H. Upton, state selective service director, explained today:

"It's generally known that I-A means a registrant is available for military service, and that IV-F means the registrant is physically, mentally, or morally unfit for service. But many registrants are probably stumped when it comes to clarification of the other 12 draft classifications."

For instance, if a registrant gets a I-C on his card that shows he is a member of the armed forces or a discharged service man.

If a registrant is 26 years of age or over, he gets a V-A classification, showing he is over the current draft age limit.

In all, more than 280,000 Tar Heel registrants hold one of the 14 various draft classifications under the selective service act of 1948, according to Colonel Upton. Still others are yet to receive their classifications.

More than 900,000 in the state were given classification cards during World War Two. However, these cards are now obsolete.

Following is a complete list of the classifications and meanings:

- I-A, available for military service.
- I-A-O, conscientious objector available for noncombatant service.
- I-C, member or former member of the armed forces.
- I-D, member of the Reserves, or student taking military training.
- II-A, registrant deferred because of civilian occupation (except agriculture).
- II-C, registrant deferred because of employment in agriculture.
- III-A, registrant deferred because of dependents.
- IV-A, registrant who has completed service.
- IV-D, minister or divinity student.
- IV-F, conscientious objector opposed to both combatant and non-combatant service.
- IV-F, physically, mentally or morally unfit.
- V-A, registrant over age for military service.

D-E Students Urged To See Instructor Soon

All students of Greenville high school who are planning to take Distributive Education as a part of their 1950-51 school program have been requested to see G. C. Frye, local D. E. teachers, as soon as possible.

Frye this morning urged all students to come by the high school office in order that necessary arrangements for the course may be made before the start of school on Monday.

"One of the main things which I want to clear up," Frye stated, "is the task of finding jobs for all the students who do not have them and to find out where the others are working. If each of the students come to the local office at the high school we will be set up to go by the time school opens."

Cherry Point Is Haven For Lost Air Force B-29

Cherry Point, N.C., Aug. 30—(AP)—An Air Force B-29 landed here safely last night after being lost temporarily when caught in the Atlantic Ocean hurricane.

The Superfortress was en route to Bermuda on a routine flight from the Azores. The pilot, First Lieut. Charles F. Stump of El Dorado, Ark., said the craft was caught in the outer fringe of the hurricane when about 700 miles east of Bermuda. He continued in the general direction of Bermuda, and when about 200 miles away was able to make radio contact with Kindley Air Force base on the island. He said he had enough fuel to reach air bases on the east coast, and was given a course westward toward the U.S. He landed at Cherry Point, the world's largest Marine Corps air base.

Robins Split Double Header Against Roanoke Rapids By 3-4, 5-4 Scores

Winning Runs For Both Games Scored In Final Innings; Brown Gets 27th Victory

By BERT MOYE

The Robins and the Jays split their twin bill here last night with the Jays taking the seven-inning opener, 4-3, and the Robins taking the nightcap by a 5-4 score. The split for the Robins and the Jays by the Tarboro A's moved the Robins up into sixth place, one-half game behind the fifth place Kingston Eagles and two and one-half games behind the fourth place New Bern Bears.

First Game

The Roanoke Rapids Jays pushed over a run on a hit, a Greenville error, and a long fly ball in the seventh to edge the Robins, 4-3, in the first game.

With the score knotted at 3-3 in the top of the seventh frame, Yonnie Bass led off with a single into left field, and then went to third when Keys attempted to pick him off at first and threw wild into right field. Leo Katskavek lifted a long fly to center to score Bass with the winning marker.

The Robins, after four innings of play, jumped into a 3-0 lead by scoring two runs in the first frame and adding another singleton in the fourth. Ralph Bartolozzi's homer over the right field wall to bring in Strausser who had walked ahead of him gave the Robins their first two runs. Then in the fourth Joe Guidice led off with a single into right field, was sacrificed to second by Joe Allegretti, and then Pitcher Ray Keys lined a double into left center-field to plate Guidice.

The Jays knotted the count at 3-3 in the top of the fifth when they pushed across three runs on four hits, a walk and an error.

Alton Brown, pitching his seventh game of the season against the Robins, registered his 27th win of the season and his sixth of the season against the Robins. He has suffered one defeat. He gave up a total of seven hits which were scattered among six Robins.

Ray Keys went the route for the Robins and was charged with his 12th loss of the season, his second in this year. He gave up a total of nine hits which were scattered among five Jay batters.

Score by innings:
Roanoke Rapids . . . 000 030 1-4 9 2
Greenville 200 100 0-3 7 4

Second Game

The Robins snapped their six-game losing streak by coming back to take the second game of the twin bill with the Jays by a 5-4 margin, with a one-run rally in the ninth frame.

With the score knotted at 4-4 in the bottom of the ninth, Paul Strausser started the ball rolling by lining a single into centerfield. Then John Tepedino laid down a sacrifice and Strausser was safe on second when McCaskill failed to hold onto the ball and Tepedino was safe on first. A walk to Bartolozzi loaded the bases with none out. Then Bobby Harrison hit a ball to Shortstop Gus Freeman and on a throw home in an effort to head off Strausser, Freeman, threw the ball wild with Strausser coming across for the winning run.

The Jays took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first on two walks and two singles and the Robins came back in the bottom of the first to score two runs when Paul Strausser tripled and Johnny Tepedino homered over the scoreboard in left field. It was Johnny's first homer of the season.

The Jays came back to take the lead at 3-2 in the top of the third when they pushed across two markers on three singles and no errors. The Robins came back in the bot-

Phantom Halfback In New Uniform

Walter Goor, fleet halfback on this year's Phantom football squad, is shown above with the new high school uniform. Green jersey with white pants differ this year from the all-green 1949 outfit. League Lead Could Hinge On Today's Double Header

New York, Aug. 30—(AP)—The New York Yankees squared off against Cleveland's Indians in another doubleheader today, with a chance to take over the American League lead.

The tightening race in the junior circuit this morning found the Detroit Tigers with only a .002 percentage advantage over the world champions, with Cleveland and Boston just two games in arrears.

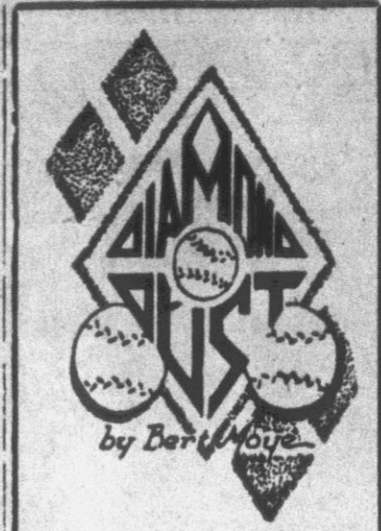

The Yankees could leap back on top by sweeping a doubleheader if Detroit loses one of its two tonight games with Washington at the nation's capital. The Tigers have been on top since June 10.

Casey Stengel, the New York manager, named Eddie Ford, who has won five and lost none for the Yankees, and Lefty Ed Lopat (14-7) for pitching duty.

Cleveland Manager Lou Boudreau wasn't sure out he figured he could go with Mike Garcia (9-7) and either Dick Weik (1-3) or Jesse Flores (3-3).

The torrid pennant fight, meanwhile, began taking its toll of nerves and men.

The Indians suffered a couple of casualties in the six-hour, rain-plagued program yesterday that saw the Yankees win the opener, 6-5, in 10 innings and the weather take

The Robins played their 22nd double-header of the season last night and their second with the Jays. In both twin bills with the Jays they have split them. . . . The one-run loss in the opening game marked number 25 by the Robins this season, while the one-run win in the second contest marked number 27 for the season. . . . The Jays won 13 contests from the Robins this year in their 20-game series concluded last night. . . . Last night's games marked the fifth straight that had been decided by one-run margins. . . . The Jays had defeated the Robins six straight games prior to the win by the Robins in the second game. . . . Brown registered his sixth win of the season over the Robins, he has suffered one defeat, while Ray Keys dropped his second contest of the year to the Jays, having won one. . . . League President Ray Goodmon of Williamson witnessed last night's twin bill here. He was accompanied by Bill Glover of Williamson. . . . Also looking on at last night's contest was Hal Weaver, who is Umpire-in-Chief in the Minor Leagues. . . . Bill Kennedy of the Baltimore Orioles and ex-Rocky Mount star, has a death grip on the strikeline leadership in the International League with 118. Bill now has a 13-7 record since joining the Orioles. . . . Eddie Neville, former Tarboro player, is being used mostly in relief for the Toledo club in the American Association. . . . Bill Kennedy will be recalled by the St. Louis Browns as soon as the International season closes.

Don't forget that Ladies' Night will be observed out at the ball park tonight when the Robins play the Rocky Mount Leafs in a single contest. All ladies will be admitted for the price of thirty cents, half price, at tonight's game, whether they are accompanied by an escort or not.

Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates almost turned the trick last season when he hit 54 homers. Kiner's goal is to surpass the record of 60 homers which the mighty Babe Ruth established during his reign.

I don't think Kiner will break Ruth's mark, because last season was the time when he hit his stride with 54 home runs. You don't get many chances like that.

Pittsburgh has the greatest power hitter in the game today and the opposing managers and pitchers are wise to that fact. Pittsburgh's lineup is solid with left-handed hitters and with Kiner being right-handed it means that opposing managers are going to throw the percentage at the regular Pittsburgh lineup. This means that the majority of the pitchers used against Pittsburgh will be right-handed because of having to pitch to the strength of the opposing team and Kiner certainly has the distinction of being that strength.

When Babe Ruth closed out his fabulous career in 1935, he was with the Boston Braves. He took himself out of the lineup in the seventh inning but only after he had hit three home runs and one single.

The Babe's third homer of the afternoon cleared the right field stands at Forbes Field, a blow of more than 600 feet. No one had ever been close to that record.

There have been only six men in the majors who have hit more than fifty homers in one season and they are: Babe Ruth, Jimmy Foxx, Hank Greenberg, Hack Wilson, Johnny Mize and now Ralph Kiner.

It's not a question today of who is the better home run hitter, Ruth or Kiner. The point is that Kiner is the greatest home run hitter in the game today, not in a few years from now when he is gone and replaced by some other youngster.

The old timers had Ruth. We have our Kiner. Let's leave it that way.

Stymie May Be Back On Tracks

New York, Aug. 30—(AP)—Stymie's return to the race appeared closer today.

Trainer Hirsch Jacobs had the nine-year-old veteran out for a five furlong spin on Belmont Park's training track yesterday and the old horse looked frisky as he whirled the distance in 1:01 2-5. He is expected back in competition within a few weeks.

Macclesfield Opens Playoff With Victory Over Pinetops

Farmville, Aug. 30—First place Macclesfield started the semi-finals of the Bright Belt League play-offs with a win last night by downing the fourth place Pinetops club 5 to 0.

It was the first game of a three out of five game series between the two teams in one of the two semi-final matches. The teams will meet for their second game of the semi-finals tomorrow night in the Farmville park.

Tonight the Farmville team, which ended the regular season play

Sunday in second place, will open its three out of five game series with third place Ormondsville. Business Manager Bonnie Allen of the Farmville club said a large crowd is expected to attend the first appearance of the Farmville team in the playoffs tonight. The game will get underway under the lights of the local ball park at 8 o'clock.

Allen said this morning the mound chores for the Farmville club in tonight's game had not been assigned, but the starting pitcher would be determined later in the day.

Farmville was in first place in the Bright Belt League standings going into the final week-end of regular season play last Saturday. During the week-end, however, the Farmville squad faced the second place Macclesfield team and took two lickings to drop into second place in the final standings. During the semi-final play-offs Farmville is matched with third place Ormondsville and Macclesfield is matched with fourth place Pinetops. The winners in the two semi-final series will meet in a championship series next week.

The semi-finals are being played on an alternating schedule. Farmville and Ormondsville play tonight, and will meet again Friday night and Saturday night for the first three games of the series. Farmville plays in Ormondsville Sunday afternoon.

In the meantime Macclesfield and Pinetops played last night and are scheduled to meet again tomorrow night and Saturday afternoon. On Sunday Macclesfield is scheduled to play at Pinetops.

The afternoon games in the semi-finals are slated to begin at 3 o'clock.

Pennant Pressure May Be Detroit's Downfall

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Are the Detroit Tigers finally cracking under the persistent pressure of one of the most grueling pennant battles ever waged?

The answer may come within the next few days. Then again, it may not be known until the waning days of the season.

This is certain, however, the Detroit picture was never darker than it is today. At least, not since the Tigers took over the American League lead 82 days ago.

True, they are still clinging to the top, but by the slimmest margin. Following last night's 5-4 loss to the Senators in Washington, the Tigers' once-comfortable four and a half game bulge was whittled to two percentage points.

The hard-pressing New York Yankees picked up a full game on the tiring Tigers by clipping the Cleveland Indians, 6-5, in 10 innings of the first game of a scheduled doubleheader. The second game was postponed after two and a half innings because of rain.

Boston's red hot Red Sox soared to a third place tie with the Indians, overpowering the Chicago White Sox, 13-6. The victory moved them within two games of the top.

It was a dreary looking Detroit squad that braced itself for a doubleheader today with the Senators. The team is in its worst losing slump of the campaign—six defeats in the last nine games.

Pitchers Virgil Trucks and Ted Gray are on the shelf. Righthander Art Houtteman still is bothered by a side injury. Shortstop Johnny Ligon is playing with a protective pad that covers a 10-stitch spike wound on his right leg. Outfielder Vic Wertz bats with a catcher's shin guard to protect a foot injury.

Added to that the Tigers were faced today with the possible loss of slugger Hoot Evers. The outfielder sprained his right wrist last night and is awaiting the result of X-rays.

As is that isn't enough, the club's hitting has fallen off.

The Tigers managed only six hits off Sid Hudson last night in dropping their third straight one-run decision.

Dizzy Trout was the loser. He blew a 2-0 lead in the third inning when four consecutive hits gave Washington three runs.

Capot Is Retired From Turf Wars

New York, Aug. 29—(AP)—Capot, one of the best and gamest horses of modern racing history, is through with the turf wars.

Capot, owned by the Greenlee Stable of John Hay (Jock) Whitney and his sister, Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, was 1949 Horse of the Year.

An old knee injury is troubling the brown four-year-old son of Meadow-Piquet and he now is ticketed for stud duty at the Greentree Farm in Lexington, Ky.

An adopted son of New Jersey has come up to challenge the veteran riders who have held control of the riding honors on the Garden State tracks. He is Joe Cilmone. Just a couple of months out of the apprentice class, Jimmy Stout was the leading New Jersey rider in 1946, 1947 and 1948 but Johnny Gilbert unseated him last season.

Cilmone rode his first winner at the Monmouth track in June of last year after he had started his career at Garden State Park. Jockey Joe began working for Trainer Tony Mazzeo as a "hot walker," his chores being to cool out horses after a workout or a race. Cilmone weighed about 75 pounds at the time and he had no previous riding experience. As a matter of fact, his first knowledge of a horse race came while listening to a broadcast of a race shortly after he had arrived in this country from Italy in 1946. His folks live in Atlantic City, N. J., and Joe stays there when his riding chores don't take him away.

Jockey Joe popped into the racing picture last winter when he rode four winners at Gulfstream Park, Fla., on horses that paid generous odds. He was hot that March day for, in addition to his winners, he finished second with two other mounts. He is 19 years old and rides at 108 pounds.

were going to kill me then when the

Pitt Executives Club Reveals Programs For Months To Come

The complete list of programs for the Pitt County Executives club for the coming months was announced today by the club in a letter to its members.

Seven programs have been arranged for the fall, winter and spring months, and contain a variety of speakers and entertainers. The first of the programs for the fall will be on October 5 when Dr. Gerald Wendt will address the members of the club with the subject, "On the Horizon in Science."

Each of the seven dinner meetings of the Executive club this year is scheduled to be held in the north dining hall on the East Carolina campus at 7 o'clock in the evening.

On November 16 Jack Schulte, a young seafarer, will present an illustrated lecture on his adventures in sailing small boats to various places in the world.

James V. Stowell will address the club on December 7 in a talk entitled "Ice Off Starboard" in which he will discuss his adventures with an arctic expedition. Miss Wilma Burn-Perry who lived in the Far East for a number of years is the only woman scheduled to address the Pitt Executives this year. She will speak on "Women Today (And Always" when she appears before the club on January 6.

Robert Kazmayer will be here February 16 and will speak on the United States foreign policy in a talk entitled "Uncle Sam at Home and Abroad." Harold J. Fishlein is to appear before the club in March although the exact date of the meeting has not been set. He will speak on "Your New Neighbors" in which he will discuss the Displaced Persons who are coming into the United States to settle.

The final meeting of the year is scheduled for April 5 when Charles Eagle Plume, an American Indian, will present a program on Indian dances and give an illustrated lecture called "Making Medicine."

N. C. Brooks, secretary of the Executives club, said today there are a few vacancies in the limited number of club memberships, and added that anyone interested in joining the club should contact him.

UN Will Decide On Any Invasion

Washington, Aug. 30 — (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson said today it is up to the United Nations to decide whether its forces should drive beyond the 38th parallel which divided North and South Korea.

Acheson told a news conference that the United States has tried to make this attitude clear.

He suggested that perhaps events might take such a course that the question of crossing the dividing line would solve itself.

By this the Secretary said he meant there would be no problem if the North Koreans ceased hostilities as demanded by the U. N. Security Council and cooperated in working out unification for Korea.

Acheson also said the United States by word and deed is doing its utmost to discourage the Chinese Communists from becoming involved in the Korean fighting.

Gala Event At Ball Park Here

By CHESTER WALSH

Next Saturday night is going to be a big night in Greenville. It's going to be "Appreciation Night" for the Greenville baseball manager and the players. A committee is working now to secure money and merchandise for gifts for Manager Randy Heflin and his 18 Robins.

Gifts will be presented to fans entering the park and to the baseball players. Gifts of money also will be given to the players.

Business Manager Russ Filley has assured the Greenville fans that the owners of the Greenville baseball franchise are planning to put a pennant-winning ball club here next season if they can get a new lease on Guy Smith stadium.

The gifts to the ball players will be presented at the end of the game. Fans receiving gifts will get them as they enter the park. James Ray Pittman and Roscoe W. Shiplett will be masters of ceremonies and presents the gifts Saturday night.

A theater will give free tickets to the ball players and their wives or sweethearts. A cafe will give a barbecue dinner to the players. A barber shop will give the players the works free. Other stores and business places are donating merchandise and money to the "Appreciation Night" fund.

Numerous households have offered to bake cakes for prizes that night. Persons donating to the cause should leave their gifts at Kares' restaurant.

details on this before the program starts on Jan. 1, 1951. The first return won't have to be made until April, 1951, after the first quarter of 1951.

Suppose a cook or a baby sitter worked for you part of two days a week for a whole quarter (three month period) and earned from you at least $50. Would she be considered a domestic servant under this new law? Yes.

Why? Because those two days a week for three months—eight days a month—came to 24 days in the quarter.

Non-profit organizations—

Now for the first time employees of non-profit—religious, educational, Charitable, Scientific, Literary—organizations can get under social security.

Example: The employees of a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to children or animals; employees of the Red Cross; employees of a University, such as professors or janitors; employees of a religious organization, such as lay bookkeepers, gardeners, and so on. But—

Note: Ministers, Priests and others who are members—not employees—of Religious organizations are still excluded.

State and local government employees not already under a retirement plan—

Many state and local governments have pension systems for their employees. For example: Numerous cities have retirement plans for their policemen, firemen and school teachers. But there are exceptions. And where that happens the employees face old age without any pension.

To help them, the new law says they can come under social security but—and it's a big but—only if the state or local government approves, since it's going to have to pay half the tax.

Suspended Sentence In Trial For Manslaughter

Johnnie M. Sherron, young Negro woman, was sentenced to not less than five years nor more than seven years in prison Monday after she pleaded guilty to a manslaughter charge.

The sentence was suspended upon payment of court costs for which the county is liable and with the condition that the defendant be placed on probation for five years.

The case was heard in the criminal term of Pitt Superior court.

The woman, who weighed less than 100 pounds, was charged with slaying her husband with a blast from a shot gun. The defendant entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of manslaughter, but after hearing the state's evidence pleaded guilty to the charge. The woman testified she had been a virtual prisoner by her husband for some time, and that for a week at one time, he had forced her to go without food. She said she shot her husband later one day when he came home and began beating her.

In another case J. D. Stocks entered a plea of guilty to the charges

Wildlife Club Meets Tonight Respass Place

Pitt County Chapter of the North Carolina Wildlife Club will meet at Respass' barbecue place on the Bethel highway tonight at 7 o'clock. President Claude D. Ward will preside.

Supper will be served "Dutch treat."

Johnny Overton, chairman of the committee in charge of the fish pond projects, is expected to make his report at tonight's meeting. Bill Drum, a past president of the Wildlife Club, said today that some good work has been done on this project in cooperation with J. Conner Eagles and the U. S. Soil Conservation Department's office here.

Other matters expected to go before the club tonight for consideration includes suggestions about the opening day of the hunting season. Officers of the club have indicated that the association will continue its campaign to safeguard farmers' and other landowners rights and privileges during the hunting season.

"The best friends sportsmen and hunters have are the farmers and other extensive landowners who give protection to wildlife," an official of the Wildlife Club said today.

Put Off Action On UMT Until Next January

Washington, Aug. 30 — (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee today voted 8 to 3 to put off action on a universal military training bill until next January. That is what President Truman wanted.

The group authorized Chairman Tydings (D-Md.) to name a subcommittee meanwhile, to prepare a comprehensive measure for the new Congress and to demand priority for its immediate consideration upon convening the January session.

Mr. Truman had virtually killed any chance for action on the controversial UMT measure now by saying he saw no immediate need for it.

The congressional drive to recess by Sept. 9 and arguments that a UMT program would overtax Army facilities during the Korean crisis also contributed to the inclination to drop it temporarily.

Cases in which the state took a nol proos were:

Robert J. Whisenant, careless and reckless driving; Harold J. Mills and Larry Hudson, Jr., careless and reckless driving; David Lee Clark, breaking and entering and larceny; George D. Teiterton, careless and reckless driving.

Continued were cases against Clinton Dall charged with driving drunk, and Wiley Cannon charged with trespassing.

A case in which William Mercer is charged with contempt of court was ordered back to Greenville municipal court for trial.

The cases against William Boyd and Hilton Adams charged with forgery were consolidated for trial.

Court was reconvened yesterday morning at 9:30, but was recessed immediately because of the illness of Judge Morris. The term of court was scheduled to reconvene at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The training program will get underway after school resumes, Smith said.

If the compromise is accepted, the retroactive application would represent a major victory for a group led by Senators O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) and Connally (D-Tex.). They seek to tack the levy on the general tax bill now and make it effective July 1.
