Air Crash Near Cairo Fatal To 55

Twenty-Five Aboard Were Americans; No Survivors; Craft Is Total Wreck

Cairo, Aug. 31—(AP)—A Trans-world Airline Constellation plane carrying 55 persons, 23 of them Americans, crashed and burned today north of Cairo, killing all aboard.

The airline announced there were no survivors among the 48 passengers and seven crewmen. Reports from the scene said the plane was so badly burned that only a small section of it remained intact.

The bodies of the victims, many of them notables and representing a dozen countries, were so badly charred that identification at once was impossible.

Officials of the district governor's office in Behatra province placed the scene of the crash near Etay Baroud, about 75 miles northwest of Cairo. Eyewitnesses said they saw the big four-engine "Star of Maryland" plummet to earth in flames.

Earlier the district governor's office had held out hope that six of those aboard had survived, but this was dashed by messages direct from the scene, to which rescue teams had been rushed as soon as a TWA search plane spotted the wreckage in the Nile Delta. TWA said the bodies are being removed by plane to Cairo.

The plane was a regular run from Bombay to New York. It crashed shortly after takeoff from Cairo's Farouk field at 1:30 a. m. Thursday Cairo time (6:30 p. m., Wednesday, EST).

The plane made a routine report to the Cairo control tower 20 minutes after it was in the air and then was not heard from again. The wreckage was sighted from the air soon afterward, ground rescue teams could not reach the scene of the crash until late afternoon.

Five of the crew of seven aboard the plane, bound from Bombay, India, to Rome, were Americans. The other two were French. Eighteen of the 48 passengers were Americans, and the remainder represented 11 other nationalities. Two passengers were Indian nationals en route to a United Nations meeting in Paris. Another passenger was the Egyptian movie star Lilliane Cohen, whose screen name is Camelia. She is known as "the Lana Turner of the Middle East."

The loss of 55 lives would make the crash one of the most disastrous in world commercial aviation history. The heaviest death toll in American commercial aviation was exacted last June 24 when 58 persons died in a Northwest Airlines plane crash in Lake Michigan. The heaviest toll in commercial airline history was March 12 this year, when 80 persons died in the crash of a British transport near Cardiff, Wales.

Columbia and RCA-Victor said they had dropped the song.

Farm Workers Covered

How People Employed On Farms Are Given Protection Of Social Security Program; Plan Gives Advantages To Worker Who Stays With Employer For Longer Time

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Aug. 31—(AP)—People employed on farms—but not farm-owners or operators—come under the social security program, starting Jan. 1, 1951.

The program is intended to protect regular farm employees so that, if they work at farming long enough, they can get a pension at 65 or, if they die, benefits for their survivors.

In fact, this program will work best for those who stay steadily with one employer. It penalizes those who shift around, changing employers. Why?

Because every time a farm worker goes to work for a new boss he must work approximately two quarters to get credit for one toward his pension.

Here is the rule for a farm worker to get social security credit:

1. He must, starting out, work continuously for one employer for one quarter, for which he gets no credit toward a pension and therefore is not taxed. This is simply a preliminary quarter.

2. Then, after putting in his preliminary quarter, a man must work for the same employer at least 60

Ola Forbes, of The Green Hill Dairy, near Greenville (second from left) won a second place award in the showmanship contest, a blue ribbon and was a winner in the fitting group with his "Test Tube" animal which he has raised. More than 250 entries were recorded for the show with a crowd estimated at over 500 on hand for the show and judging. Senate-House Conferees On Control Legislation Gather

Washington, Aug. 31—(AP)—A Senate-House conference committee hoped to work out final details of a broad anti-inflation bill today and speed it to President Truman before his talk to the nation tomorrow night.

The legislation would arm the President with even more powers than he asked to gear the nation's economy to the Korean fighting and an expanded military program.

Mr. Truman is expected to outline in his "fireside chat" just what the people can expect in the way of home-front mobilization.

He sent word to Congress yesterday, even while the conference committee was trying to hammer out an agreement on the economic controls measure, that he would need $60,000,000 to begin with for administration of the powers the legislation would give him.

It had been expected that the conferees would agree on a compromise by noon. However, at that time Rep. Spence (D-Ky.) emerged from the conference committee room and said progress was being made, but he saw no prospect of a final agreement before late in the day.

Spence, who heads the House conferees, said he still expects the legislation to be ready for action in the House and Senate tomorrow.

This would allow time for the House and then the Senate to stamp final approval on the compromise Friday unless opposition should develop in the Senate, Maybank said.

Under House rules debate on a conference committee report is limited to one hour but in the Senate it can run on and on.

Dispersal Of Key Federal Agencies

Washington, Aug. 31—(AP)—Key agencies are to be scattered well out of Washington so a single atomic bomb won't wipe out the nation's government.

President Truman started a dispersal plan going yesterday in asking Congress for $139,800,000 to build four office centers "within commuting distance of Washington" probably about 35 miles away.

Most important government departments and bureaus now are clustered in an area of a couple square miles along the Potomac river's banks.

Part of the money the President asked would go for highways and communications facilities.

This is only the first portion of what Mr. Truman called a "long-range plan to insure the continuity of essential functions of government in event of emergency." About 40,000 federal workers would be accommodated at the four proposed sites.

Eventually it is planned to have perhaps a dozen or more such federal agency centers ringing the capital from a safe distance.

The White House statement did not mention what agencies would be moved. But it seemed probable they would be the most essential ones.

Plans were announced in late July to set up an emergency nerve center for the military agencies—a "supplemental communications center" at Camp Ritchie, Md., about 65 miles northwest of here.

Returning Body Of N. C. Nurse

Alamogordo, N.M., Aug. 31—(AP)—The body of Lt. Margaret G. Williams, 31-year-old nurse found dead here last Saturday, has been sent to Raleigh, N.C. for burial.

Major D. M. Brown, public relations officer at Holloman Air Force base here, said the body was discovered by a fellow nurse Aug. 26 in her room on the base. He said the cause of death is unknown, but there were no signs of violence.

Although no official announcement has been made about other locations for free parking, Stafford said the city is considering acquiring other lots near the business section of Greenville to be used for public parking. Stafford said the steps are being taken by the city in an effort to alleviate some of the congestion on the city streets.

Mayor Stafford this morning urged the people who make use of the parking lot to keep trash and other debris off the area and "to help keep the place clean."

However, the highest wind velocity reported on land was a coast guard estimate of 98 miles an hour at Santa Rosa Island, an isolated sand spit with a coast guard station about five miles off-shore from Pensacola, Fla.

But damage at the Island was negligible, the coast guardsmen reported.

A tornado—believed an offshoot of the storm—seriously injured two persons and wrecked a dozen houses at Apalachicola, Fla.

There was virtually no damage in Pensacola beyond small tree limbs which were snapped off. High tides washed out some beach property and wharves, were damaged slightly when waters rose five and a half feet above normal.

Pensacola's power failed for more than eight hours.

Second Half Of Middle Belt Markets Open

Charlotte, Aug. 31—(AP)—A Klan-style cross flamed last night in the front yard of Mrs. Helen Ratcliff for the second time in three months.

But this time the Charlotte woman met the unmasked, unrobed hoodlums with five shots from a .32 caliber pistol as they fled by auto. Her aim was successful.

Police Chief Frank N. Littlejohn said that he has reason to believe that a nearby property owner is responsible for the two cross-burnings.

City Opens New Public Parking Lot; Free Use

A public parking lot adjacent to the heart of Greenville's business district was opened for use today by the city officials.

The free parking lot which is approximately 150 feet by 200 feet is expected to accommodate between 50 and 75 automobiles.

"I want the people to know that the lot is for free parking for everybody," Mayor W. S. Stafford said, "and we are anxious for the people to use the parking lot."

The lot the city opened today is located on the corner of Fifth and Pitt Streets just three blocks from five points. The use of the property was permitted the city by Charles Shuff and Z. E. Fleming who own the lots which are being used for the parking area. "The only thing it is costing the city is the amount of work it took the street department to clear up the lot," Stafford said.

The street department yesterday began work on the area, and by this morning the parking lot was ready for business. Superintendent C. E. Beatty of the city street department said motorists who use the parking lot should enter from Fifth street. Although a parking system has not yet been worked out for the lot, Beatty said, it is expected to be announced by one of the city departments in the near future.

Mayor Stafford this morning urged the people who make use of the parking lot to keep trash and other debris off the area and "to help keep the place clean."

Although no official announcement has been made about other locations for free parking, Stafford said the city is considering acquiring other lots near the business section of Greenville to be used for public parking. Pohang Assault Blocked, Reds Open Fresh Attacks

Any Complaints Go To President Advises Johnson

Defense Secretary Replies To Critics; Endorses Acheson, Too

Washington, Aug. 31—(AP)—Louis Johnson says that from now on anyone who wants him to resign as secretary of defense should take his complaints to President Truman.

And that goes for critics of Secretary of State Acheson as well. Johnson told a congressman who had urged him to step out.

Releasing his reply to the House member, Rep. Tauriello (D-NY), Johnson broadened the audience for a defense of his stewardship to include "many American people" who have "been misled by misinformation" about the Defense Department.

At about the time he was giving newsmen copies of his letter yesterday, the Veterans of Foreign Wars encampment in Chicago called on Mr. Truman to replace both Johnson and Acheson, Johnson, a veteran of the first world war, is a former national commander of the American Legion.

That the secretary should defend his own regime was not unexpected. He has done so before. Johnson added emphasis to his statement by blanketing in Acheson as a target of what he declared are politically-inspired attacks.

The State and Defense Departments have frequently been reported at odds on high policy issues.

President Truman recently held a news conference that both Johnson and Acheson will remain in his cabinet as long as he is in office.

In his letter to Tauriello, Johnson blamed the coming congressional elections for many of the attacks on him and Acheson.

He said he realized such attacks were aimed at the "Administration generally" and are "part and parcel of the democratic process."

Tauriello, in a letter dated Aug. 23, had demanded Johnson's immediate resignation because "you have lost your usefulness to the President and to the American people." Other congressmen have made similar complaints.

Tauriello charged Johnson with bungling the national defense job, making "brash statements" and of "consistently selling the idea that he could become strong through pinch-penny methods."

Tauriello cited as a "brash" statement one by Johnson that should an aggressor strike at 4 o'clock in the morning the U.S. would be ready to begin retaliation at 5 o'clock.

Johnson replied that the statement was "completely factual." He noted he had been speaking of the ability of the Air Force to counter a strategic bombing attack.

Johnson declared the U.S. may now be fighting local aggression in Korea instead of "being faced with bombing raids upon American cities" because of "our ability to launch a strategic airstroke x x x."

Expanding Draft

Washington, Aug. 31—(AP)—Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee said today the draft soon will be extended to married men with dependents.

Without taking fathers, Vinson told reporters, draft boards will not be able to meet future calls to increase the size of the armed forces.

Vinson made the statement just after the House passed a bill providing for allotments of from $5 to $165 a month for GI families.

"This means," he said, "that selective service now can broaden its calls to include men with children who are within the draft age."

"That is the purpose of the allotment act, to make financial provision for the families of such men."

Mayor Submits His Resignation

Mayor Leslie Elks of Greenville last night submitted his resignation as mayor of the town at a meeting of the town board.

In the statement of resignation which Elks presented to the board members, the resigning mayor said, "To the board of aldermen of the town of Grimesland: I hereby submit my resignation as mayor of the town of Grimesland to be effective at once."

The written statement did not give any reason for the resignation. Elks could not be reached by The Daily Reflector before noon today for a statement on his resignation, but yesterday he said he anticipated resigning from the town office because it "just didn't work in with my business."

A. F. Fleming, a member of the board of aldermen, was appointed by the other members of the board as acting mayor until such time as a mayor is appointed for the town.

Other members of the Grimesland board of aldermen are Raymond Arnold, Charlie Evans, Bill Hudson and Raymond Elks.

Mayor Elks yesterday and last night heard cases against four of the seven persons arrested by Grimesland Police Chief H. D. Wright early Tuesday night.

Elks found Earl Smith and Thomas Elks not guilty of reckless driving charges, and bound Clarence Ward over to County Recorder's Court on charges of driving while under the influence of an intoxicant.

Elks found Smith Willoughby fined him $5 and costs. In cases heard Tuesday which grew out of the incident in which the seven persons were arrested, Mayor Elks fined E. G. Rogers for public drunkenness, and bound Walter Moore over to county recorder's court on charges of driving while under the influence of an intoxicant.

North Koreans Throw Major Drive Against Southern Front After Being Hurled Back To The North Of Pohang; Invaders Said Losing 1,000 Men Daily

By The Associated Press

Tokyo, Friday, Sept. 1—(AP)—The Korean Reds threw a major two-division assault against the U. S. 25th division in extreme South Korea today.

There were fragmentary reports that the Reds also were heavily attacking the U. S. second division farther north along the Nakdong river.

AP correspondent Stan Swinton reported from the southern front just west of Masan that the North Korean invaders struck before dawn at 15 points after a heavy preparatory barrage.

Fighting was raging today all along that front in what might be the start of a new general Red offensive, Swinton reported.

The new Communist onslaught, which had been long expected but which had been delayed, followed stalling of Red efforts to crack the United Nations defense lines on the northern and eastern fronts.

The new outbreak came as American and South Korean forces on the "ancher" of the defenses hurried back north of the crack through to the east coast road, but General MacArthur's post midnight summary said they had been driven back within 500 yards of their starting point, about four miles north of Pohang.

In the face of light fire, the Americans around the west point from the threatened port of the city of Japan.

They moved from three to four miles north of the City beyond the spot where an enemy roadblock Thursday had made it impassable.

Army photographer Ray Turnbull of Miami Beach, Fla., reported the road reopened. He accompanied American tanks and infantrymen north of the port city and returned to Taegu, main allied bastion west of Pohang later in the day.

The Reds had missed their target deadline last midnight—for driving the United Nations forces out of Korea. It was set by Red Premier Kim Il Sung.

Deep on the south coast at the other end of the 120 mile long battle line, South Korean Marines reported the capital of large amounts of enemy material and the killing of 500 Reds in two weeks.

The Pohang action high-lighted the Thursday activities on the war-front.

Allied planes continued to hammer targets with a fury that gradually was eliminating Communist rolling stock, industrial plants, ammunition dumps and material stockpiles.

The North Koreans were reported losing 1,000 men a day in the drive on Pohang mounted by 26,000 men.

The Air Force estimated it killed 1,200 North Koreans in strafing and bombing attacks on the frontlines at Pohang.

Along other fronts of the box-shaped defense perimeter there were these developments:

At Changyung, 23 miles southwest of Taegu, the U. S. 2nd Infantry division repulsed enemy attempts to cross the Nakdong River.

Outside of Waegwan, 12 miles northwest of Taegu, U. S. 1st Cavalry division troops in small number missed capturing a 1,700-foot hill by 200 feet. They were repulsed by a small force of entrenched Reds.

Germans As Allies?

Nature And Extent Of West Germany's Contribution To Allied Defense Effort To Be Decided Soon By Foreign Ministers; Recommendations To Be Studied

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

London, Aug. 31—(AP)—Millions of Germans who marched against the West 10 years ago may be enlisted soon as active allies in the fight to stop communism.

West German leaders, who are anxious to restore the full sovereign independence of their country, claim their followers are willing and anxious to play such a role.

American, British and French foreign ministers, meeting in New York Sept. 12, will decide on the exact nature and extent of the planned West German contribution to western defense.

Their decisions on Germany may well affect the entire course and outcome of the East-West cold war.

For it's as true today as it was when Bismarck founded the modern German state nearly a century ago, that when Germany sneezes the whole world catches cold.

Both East and West today are struggling to control the direction of the German sneeze.

Whoever wins that struggle in the end wins control of Europe.

L. B. Fleming Jr. To Teach In Raleigh

Leon B. Fleming, Jr., will leave Friday for Raleigh where he will be teacher of vocal music at Needham Broughton High School. He received the B. S. degree in music education from East Carolina Teachers College in 1948. For the past two years he has done graduate study at Westminster Choir College, Princeton, N. J. He earned the Master of Music degree with a major in choral conducting from Westminster in May, 1950.

While at Westminster, as a member of the Westminster Symphonic Choir, Fleming sang six performances in Carnegie Hall, New York City, with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and Bruno Walter conducting. The works presented were the Beethoven Ninth Symphony, Gustav Mahler Second Symphony, and Brahms Song of Destiny. He was also a member of the Westminster Graduate Choir which appeared in forty concerts in Princeton and other New Jersey cities.

He studied conducting and vocal methods under the supervision of Dr. John Finley Williamson and with George Lynn. He studied theory under the supervision of Norman Lockwood and with Georges Couvreur, David S. York, and Robert Stevenson.

Besides serving as a graduate class officer, Fleming's extra activities at Westminster included being conductor of the University League Chorus of Princeton during 1949-50.

During the summer of 1949, he attended the Christiansen Choral School at Chambersburg, Pa., under the direction of Olaf Christiansen, Peter Tkach, and Morten J. Luvaas. As an added interest, Fleming has been organist and assistant organist for the past five years at Memorial Baptist church, Greenville.

Polio Cases Not Yet Over Peak

Washington, Aug. 31—(AP)—The Public Health Service said today that 1,617 new cases of polio were reported last week, an 8.6 per cent increase over the week before.

It was the fourteenth straight week that the number of cases has increased.

While the total number of cases so far this year is smaller than last year, the disease appears to be hanging on longer.

A year ago, the disease reached its peak in the period corresponding to the week ending Aug. 19, 1949. By a year ago last week poliomyelitis had gone into a sharp decline which continued into 1950.

The cumulative total since the disease began increasing this year is 10,712, compared with 19,616 for the corresponding period a year ago, the highest on record.

Fast Train Left Rails; 30 Hurt

Lampasas, Tex., Aug. 31—(AP)—A speeding Santa Fe streamliner left the rails in the pre-dawn darkness near here today. Deputy Sheriff Henry Cunningham said 25 to 30 were hurt.

Cunningham said no one was killed and that it appeared none of the injured was in critical condition.

The accident happened 12 miles west of this central Texas town, in rolling country. The deputy said the derailment occurred in a sort of ravine where the roadbed had been built up at least 15 feet above the ground.

"It looked as if one side of the rails gave way. The track was torn up awful bad and for more than the full length of the train."

Ambulances from Lampasas and the nearby towns of Temple and Belton carried the injured away.

The deputy said two sleepers and three of four coaches left the tracks.

F. The Big Three should call on all non-Communist nations individually to end the state of war which still legally exists with Germany—and so bring the German people fully into their midst for the first time since 1939.

Acheson will have the advice of two on-the-spot experts when the German question comes up in New York: Ambassador Lewis Douglas from London and High Commissioner John J. McCloy from Frankfurt. They flew to the United States today and will stay until the New York talks end.

Acheson also asked Charles M. Spofford, quiet-spoken American chairman of the Atlantic Council of Deputies, to be on hand. Spofford recently had a long talk with Bevin with the idea of finding out how the British would react to German rearmament. Bevin would not easily be drawn out. He spent most of the interview reminiscing about his days as a capitalist-hating labor organizer in Britain's dockland. Only glancingly did he let Spofford understand that if the Germans had to be given guns again, then the British would swallow the idea, however much it hurt.

Hotel Man Loses Big Sum Money; Wallet Missing

J. E. Moore, manager of the Greenville Hotel on Dickinson Avenue, reported to police yesterday that he had lost his wallet containing $405 and valuable papers.

Police quoted Moore as saying that he visited a cafe at Five Points and a motion picture theater in that neighborhood and that he had his wallet at that time. After Moore visited the carnival, where a traveling carnival is showing this week, he missed his wallet and money, police stated.

Moore told police the wallet contained two $100 bills, six 20s, one $50 bill, two tens, two 5s and five $1 bills—$405.

Mrs. Charles V. Wilkerson was hostess on Tuesday afternoon when she entertained at bridge complimenting Miss Peggy Rose Smith, bride-elect of September.

are being taken away. They speak of the rights granted in the constitution of the nation which they are seeking to undermine and overthrow by violence.

If a man is seeking to overthrow the government and the constitution by a violent revolution, should he be given the freedoms to carry out his violence under the same constitution he is trying to destroy? Is it right for a person to be protected legally by a thing he is trying to kill?

Although individual freedom is a thing to be closely guarded and jealously watched over, the present anti-communist controls are not likely to become an iron chain which will bind the people and take away their freedoms.

If freedom is to be preserved, it must be protected from the communist forces within our borders as well as from the communist forces outside our borders. Both have the same ultimate goal—the slavery of the people of the United States.

News Behind The News
 By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The federal government will possess the same life-and-death power over industrial production and expansion that it now applies to certain segments of agriculture under discretionary powers given President Truman in the Defense Production Act, a forthcoming tax increase measure and allied legislation.

As Secretary Brannan may tell farmers what and how much they may plant if they wish to qualify for certain cash benefits, so Washington will be able to direct, enlarge or decrease, channel and finance the output of raw materials, minerals, heavy goods and even small consumer articles.

Congress tried hard to limit and to enumerate the presidential powers in framing a program to meet the Korean and even greater threats inherent in Russia's aggressive thrusts elsewhere. But it found it impossible to straitjacket the executive agencies without crippling the preparedness effort.

CONTROLLING—As a matter of fact, many members publicly hostile to this scheme for an expanding but federally controlled economy favor it secretly. In their opinion, it will mean high wages, full employment and a domestic and foreign market for American-produced goods that will last for an indefinite period. It should also mean votes—a precious commodity.

Even without the current and proposed legislative grants, any Administration spending $60,000,000,000 a year, possibly more, would enjoy a controlling interest in industry.

With that amount of money to throw around in so many different fields, it will be buying and selling goods and services amounting to about thirty per cent of the nation's annual production.

"GUIDED"—In addition to the power vested in any individual, corporation or agency with that amount of money at its disposal, the government will also fix taxes, perhaps place a ceiling on wages and prices, manage the money market, allocate essential materials, restrict or channel purchases through credit curtailment and direct the use of manpower.

Thus, thanks to "Joe" Stalin, the wildest dreams of the national planners in the New Deal-Fair Deal family may come true, even in the face of a Congress explicitly opposed to their schemes.

Incidentally, the new name for this kind of regime and regimentation is not "managed economy." It is "guided economy."

PREVIEW—President Truman provided a preview of this kind of "semi-war state" in the 1948 economic report to Congress, which was framed by the more liberal members of his Council of Economic Advisers, principally Leon H. Keyserling, now chairman. But Mr. Truman never dreamed that that events would play into his hands so completely.

In that document he asked at least a fifteen per cent expansion of steel capacity on the basis of his forecast of increased, peacetime demand. If private industry would not build new plants, he said, the government would enter the field directly or by lending money to firms willing to enlarge. Congress denied him that authority.

Now, based on rearmament needs here and abroad, he will pursue that policy not only in steel but in all other key industries, where there are bottlenecks to all-out production, in his opinion.

Here is how the scheme will operate: STEEL—President Truman's advisers—experts in the National Resources Board, the Security Council, War, Commerce etc.—will estimate the amount of steel required for routine government needs, the military establishment, rearming of foreign nations and private operations. They will, naturally, fix their sights high.

Suppose, for instance, that they demand an annual production of 125,000,000 tons on the basis of their figuring, as against current capacity of approximately 100,000,000 tons.

If the firms—U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic—will expand, they may obtain the necessary funds from Uncle Sam at low rates. If they refuse, Mr. Truman will turn to some other willing corporation as Franklin D. Roosevelt brought Henry J. Kaiser into aluminum and shipbuilding in World War II.

WEAPON—But there will be rich incentives for the proposed expansion. Besides low interest rates on loans, compliant firms will be guaranteed a market, good prices, assurance against loss and certain tax benefits, if Congress agrees.

As a weapon to force firms to go along, the government will have the power to allocate raw materials, machinery and possibly labor. It could impose heavy penalties on those which balk.

Steel is used here only as an example. But every war product would face the same treatment, including copper, aluminum, electric power, freight cars, manganese, fertilizer, numerous essential minerals etc.

OVERTIME—Uncle Sam will soon be paying government engravers and printers overtime money for turning out overtime bills of low denominations.

The wear and tear of fast circulation has depleted their supply. So, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has asked Congress for $2,800,000 to put in printing presses on a six-day week. They will turn out $240,000,000 worth of fresh folding money to replace the dilapidated ones.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., DAIRYMEN'S LEAGUE NEWS: "Recent surveys reveal a distressing apathy among American citizens toward voting in elections. In the last presidential election 37 per cent of New York State's voters stayed away from the polls. Take Onondaga county for instance: There a check-up shows 44 per cent of the automobile dealers failed to vote. The number among directors and officials of banks was 28 per cent, among school teachers 23, real estate dealers 38 per cent."

Studies Wouldn't Have To Be Dull

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

It's almost impossible to pick up a magazine these days without finding an article like "The Key to Successful Marriage," or "Making Marriage Work." It seems that recently the world has been blessed with thousands of marriage experts who joy in telling the rest of us how to be happy, though married. Since just about everybody else calls himself an expert on this subject, I might as well join the throng.

"Rachel," I told the wife, "for today only I'm a marriage expert, at least for purposes of writing a column."

W. R. replied, "With three years' experience you should be able to tell your readers plenty, particularly the ones that have been married twenty or thirty years."

"Okay," I shot back, "I'll grant you that we are practically newbies, but I'll bet the average marriage expert is either (1) single or (2) divorced. Therefore, I know more about the subject than they do."

Qualified or not, I set out to tackle the vast subject. Normally, the writer of an article on marriage assumes that the reader is unhappily married. Otherwise, why would he be reading the article? Somebody should write an article for people who are happily married, and that someone might as well be me. So if you're unhappily married, don't read another word of this.

Those of us who are happily married find it very alarming to overhear a young man reveal the news that he's going to get married, particularly when he's telling a group of his buddies. You've heard the comments that always come, "So you decided to step off the cliff, eh?" "From freedom to slavery in one easy lesson," or "Brother, I'm sorry to hear that you've lost your mind." And you know who makes that kind of a statement; it's usually the single boys.

More happily married people should overhear these conversations and call those prospective grooms to the side, telling them that there is such a thing in the world as a happy marriage. The happy marriage is the most unduplicated thing in the world. You hear so little about it that sometimes you wonder if it exists. But take care for the ones that hit the rocks. In nothing flat news of a broken marriage spreads all over town. Statistics blurt the number of marriages that end in divorce, and the increasing rate of broken marriages. But who (besides me) ever holds about a smooth-running household?

The young bachelor has every right to be scared to death of marriage. We, the happily married who have read this far, should retard some of this fear. If you like your wife or husband, don't hesitate to let somebody know about it.

And I thank you.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
 Business engaged in copying valuable records on microfilm are enjoying a bit of a boom. Their customers are banks, financial houses and other corporations who want to have duplicate records in a safe place in case an atomic bomb drops in their neighborhood.

Greatest activity is in New York and other coastal cities and those nearest to Russia across the North Pole.

For the most part, corporations having their records filmed are making it done quietly, often making it as a routine operation. They don't want to alarm employees or customers. But one company has made its activity public. The Fidelity Bond and Mortgage Co. of Philadelphia has announced that it has moved copies of $50,000,000 in mortgages to a mountain hide-away 120 miles distant. "We are not alarmed and we are not expecting any trouble," said an official.

Setting up duplicate sets of records is going ahead in spite of evidence that records kept in a vault constructed vault are comparatively safe from anything but a direct hit. At Hiroshima the better-built vaults, especially those constructed by American firms, protected their contents.

The boom in microfilming may be followed by another boom in vault rentals. Many individuals as well as companies will plan to keep duplicates of their important papers in vaults out of target areas. And many small-town banks may find a bonanza in leasing surplus vault space to other banks and large corporations.

Many companies outside of danger spots are also adding to the boom in microfilming. What is happening is this: An executive starts thinking about the possibility of a bomb attack and decides his office is in a safe spot. However, he is left with a disturbing thought about what would happen if his records were destroyed by fire, explosion, tornado or other disaster. Some are realizing that they will be out of business permanently if key records are destroyed. And so microfilming.

It's not a bad idea. Loss of records in a disaster can be more costly than the loss of goods and buildings.

AUTO MAKERS KEEP UP PROMOTION ACTIVITIES
 Despite the present waiting period for new cars, auto manufacturers are not letting up in promotional activities. Most of the Dealers in Mt. Vernon, Ill., recently staged an open-air auto show on one of the town's main streets. It attracted 60,000 visitors.

ADS SELL WINTER COTTONS IN SUMMER
 Good promotion plus good value made a "winter cotton carnival" a sell-out in mid-August in a Kirksville, Mo., department store.

Ashell's, which has been described in several magazine articles as a phenomena of retailing because of the large volume it does in a town of less than 15,000, staged the sale. In addition to good window and store display, one three-column by 8-inch and five scattered one-column by 3-inch newspaper ads were used. "It proves people do read ads," said B. M. Ashell.

OFFICE IN GERMANY WITHOUT RED TAPE
 Establishing a branch office in Germany, if it involves the transfer of income or profits back to the United States, requires licensing.

But if only buying, inspection and other services are involved and getting money out of the country is not a factor, the matter can be handled simply and without licensing by hiring a German national, the Department of Commerce points out. If the German national rents office space and hires employees in his own name, no special license is required as long as payment is made in dollars through established banking channels.

Hal Boyle's Column

By DON WHITEHEAD (For Hal Boyle)

With U.S. 27th Regiment, Korea —(AP)—Combat is a cruel test of endurance, courage, and sanity which no man should be called on to endure more than once in his lifetime—and even that is too much. But many veterans of World War II are facing the test again in Korea.

Most of them went into the last war as youths—fresh from high school or the college campus. Somewhere between Pearl Harbor and the end of the war they lost that youth. They were young-old men.

When peace came they found they had learned a trade that had no market at home. The only employer who placed any value on ability to kill the enemy was the Army which had trained them. And so they stayed in the Army.

These are the men who form the real backbone of the American Army fighting to hold off the North Korean Reds until a United Nations powerhouse is assembled behind them. They hold the key spots in companies and battalions and regiments and divisions—these young-old men of World War II.

As examples there are Capt. Earl W. Buchanan of Newport, Vt., and Maj. Harry K. Hauge of Lexington, Ky.

Buchanan is a lean, thin-faced man who smiles quickly even when his face is drawn with weariness and his eyes are red from lack of sleep. He fought with the 45th Infantry Division in Sicily, through the rugged mountains of Italy and across southern France—19 long months of combat.

Then one day at Strasbourg on the Rhine a piece of shrapnel from a German tank shell alighted on his head. He woke up to find himself a prisoner in a German aid station.

The Germans took Buchanan into Russia to a prison camp and then into Poland. He escaped from prison just before storm troopers forced one group of Americans to make a winter march. It was a march of death for many of them, too ill and weak to stand the hardships.

But Buchanan escaped to the Russians and he made his way home through Odessa months after his capture.

Harry Hauge is more ruggedly built than Buchanan. But in his face there is that same taut, drawn look of the fighting man. Before he took up the trade of the soldier, Hauge was known throughout the South as a half-back for the University of Kentucky football team.

For three years—1938 to 1941—Hauge played in the Kentucky backfield on Saturday afternoons and lived the life of a Big Man on the campus.

But in '41 he joined the Army and they sent him to Europe to fight with the 78th Division. After the war in Europe, Hauge believed like many of us that he had done all the fighting that was needed. He looked forward to a comfortable peacetime life with the Army.

But Harry Hauge is fighting again. The day I saw him his Battalion was in the "bowling alley"—the valley down which the Reds were trying to fight their way to Taegu.

Raleigh, N. C.

"SEPTEMBER"—Carolina Beach has coined a new word for the post-Labor Day season. For first time the beach facilities will continue in full swing through September and October, perhaps longer. To celebrate the extended season, the resort has scheduled a series of events for next week-end and has adopted the name of "September Season" for the fall activities. The word, of course, is derived by combining September and October.

EXTENDED—The state advertising division began several years ago a campaign for longer seasons at all vacation spots. Many summer resort hotels which used to open June 1 and close on Labor Day, have extended the season by opening early in May—some in late April—and staying open until October. The Carolina Hotel and Country Club at Pinehurst will open this year on September 30, earliest opening date since this famed winter resort was established in 1895. Most other hotels in the Sandhills winter vacation center will be open by October 7—instead of November 1 as usual.

PROFITABLE—The extended seasons have proven profitable for the hotels, and perhaps even more so for the state as a whole. It has been estimated that the vacation tourist spends an average minimum of ten dollars a day. That means continuing wages for hotel attendants, additional sales by filling stations and mercantile establishments, and consequently more tax revenue for the state of North Carolina. Growing tendency on part of industrial plants to spread vacation time throughout the year, instead of virtually closing down for July and August, creates continuing demand upon resort facilities. The longer seasons pay dividends for everybody, and have been largely responsible for the fact that the state's tourist and vacation business has moved up from a two hundred million dollar business in a few years to nearly three hundred millions now.

ENGINEERING—Dr. R. E. Earp, highway commissioner for the fourth division, has discovered a very satisfactory answer to most questions about roads in his area. The other day a group of Raleigh people were talking with him about some local projects when T. J. McKim, division highway engineer came along. The commissioner waved his hand at his top assistant when questions became difficult and said: "That's an engineering problem." Then with a smile Dr. Earp added that he had found very few people know anything about engineering and to call all difficult matters "engineering problems" usually seemed to satisfy the questioners. The commissioner was obviously facetious in that comment, because residents of the fourth division know that he takes his responsibility very seriously and tries to find the right answers to all reasonable questions.

Y.D.C.—Young Democrats of the third congressional district held a rally at Swansboro Tuesday night, with State Treasurer Brandon Hodges making the principal speech. The Young Demos in the third district apparently take the business more seriously than their colleagues in the fourth. Eight of the nine counties were represented, contrasting with the fourth district rally last week when the audience was made up largely of Wake county folks with a few from Nash. Furthermore, the attendants from Wayne, Sampson, Duplin, Pender, Onslow, Carteret, Craven and Jones were apparently several years younger in average age than were the fourth district attendants.

KEYNOTE—Hodges emphasized in his speech the long record of good government creditable to the Democratic party, and pointed out that principles and policies are far more important than and outlive primary differences over candidates. That was the same point made by former Senator William Umstead at the fourth district meeting, and endorsed at both by YDC President Terry Sahford. Some top men in the regular Democratic organization manifest disposition to continue the primary fights, but the YDC element seems to have forgotten everything except backing the full party ticket in November.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., DAIRYMEN'S LEAGUE NEWS: "Recent surveys reveal a distressing apathy among American citizens toward voting in elections. In the last presidential election 37 per cent of New York State's voters stayed away from the polls. Take Onondaga county for instance: There a check-up shows 44 per cent of the automobile dealers failed to vote. The number among directors and officials of banks was 28 per cent, among school teachers 23, real estate dealers 38 per cent."

WAYNE, MICH., DISPATCH: "Many state legislatures . . . have adopted resolutions roundly criticizing Federal grants-in-aid as a growing and costly evil."

"For instance, the Indiana Legislature said: 'Indiana needs no guardian and intends to have none. We Hoosiers were fooled for quite a spell with the magician's trick that a dollar taxed out of our pockets and sent to Washington will be bigger when it comes back to us. We have taken a good look at said dollar. We find that it lost weight in its journey to Washington and back.' We have decided that there is no such thing as 'federal aid.' We know that there is no wealth to tax that is not already within the boundaries of the 48 states."

What Other Papers Are Thinking

STRIKE IN HIGH PLACES (Williamston Enterprise)
 The public has a knack of condemning the common worker's strike, and accepting strikes in the high places.

Mining and petroleum companies recently went before the House Ways and Means Committee, keeping exemptions from a renegotiation bill that would provide for the recapture of excessive profits on war contracts. R. G. Dunlop, president of Sun Oil Company, reminded the committee that the World War II renegotiation law exempted the industry.

And then to put forward a clinching argument, the companies claimed that to subject them to such a tax would discourage production.

call for tax concessions or no oil. But it is queer that the strike in the high places is accepted without question.

CANDIDATE UMSTEAD? (Washington Daily News)
 William B. Umstead, former senator, looks and acts more like a candidate for some office each day. What does he have in mind?

There is a growing belief that he will run for governor of North Carolina. A throat ailment has kept him sidelined much of the time for the past year, but recently he has been beating the bushes more and more.

When talk goes around that a man is thinking of running for some office, and then that man happens to be seen where political straws are in the wind, then it is a pretty safe bet that he has something up his sleeve. Mr. Umstead is a man for whom we have a high regard. He would make an excellent governor of our state. The chances are that whatever he wants, he will be a very strong contender for it when next election time rolls around.

It is a known fact that for many years Mr. Umstead has cherished the idea of being governor of his state. He has let it be known many times in past years that he had this on his mind. In fact, when he was appointed to the United States senate to fill the unexpired term of the late J. M. Broughton, most people considered him an active candidate for governor at that time.

We hope Mr. Umstead's health will continue to improve. The state of North Carolina could well utilize the services of a trusted public servant like the Durham county man.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—The American Red Cross worker has been a familiar figure on every front whenever U. S. troops have been engaged in battle since the Spanish American War.

Already there are 21 ARC workers in Korea. There are women hospital workers. The men are field directors. ARC headquarters here tells me another group of 12, half of whom are women, have been sent to Tokyo and probably will go on to Korea.

In addition, requests for about $90,000 in supplies have been received from ARC headquarters in Tokyo. About half of these supplies, which consist of comfort articles— tooth brushes, tooth paste, razors, shaving cream, towels, soap, candy, cigarettes— have already been sent.

The ARC president, Gen. George C. Marshall, said in a recent statement that the Red Cross went into action as soon as the Korean conflict began. He says the organization is ready to provide trained workers for all combat organizations established in the future.

On the home front, Mrs. Joe Hume Gardner, national administrator of Red Cross Volunteer Service, announces that a quarter million trained Red Cross volunteers already are in service in this country and that reserves can be mobilized for duty immediately.

"Mrs. Gardner, herself a volunteer, has devoted three years of hard work to the development of a trained volunteer organization, which is now in a state of readiness for any emergency," Gen. Marshall said. "This organization is nationwide and extends into Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Canal Zone."

"Thus, the American people, and particularly the families of men in the armed forces, can be assured that the Red Cross is on the job in Korea and that its volunteers are already at work here at home. With Red Cross men in the field, the organization maintains its traditional role as the link between the serviceman, wherever he is, and his family."

ARC workers were on hand as American evacuees from the war zone began arriving in Japan. Often these were without adequate funds or clothing. The Red Cross made loans or grants where needed. Clothing was provided, or credit established, for those wishing it. Special aid was given to mothers with babies and small children. Communication facilities were provided and more than 1,000 messages were handled for those wishing to contact relatives in the United States.

Clyde A. Lewis (second from right), commander-in-chief of the VFW, reads cablegram to newsmen in Chicago from Gen. Douglas MacArthur. The cablegram read, "I regret to inform you that I have been directed to withdraw my message to the national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars." The cancelled message was scheduled to be read at the opening of the encampment. At right is Rev. John R. Cavanaugh, Notre Dame University president. In the statement, MacArthur had declared the safety of the United States demands that Formosa remain in friendly hands. President Truman cracked down on MacArthur for the statement which the White House regarded as an improper venture into the field of foreign policy making. (AP Wirephoto).

Many Drivers In Group Untested

Driver's License Examiner Harry L. Martin of the Greenville testing station said today that only one-fourth of the motorists in this section whose last names begin with the letters R, S, T have reported to him for driver's license examinations.

Examiner Martin stated that the R, S, T group is one of the largest to be examined and motorists in this category should apply for their licenses as soon as possible.

"You can be assured of immediate attention if you apply for your renewal in the next few weeks," he pointed out to R, S, T motorists, "but if you wait till the deadline nears, you may have to wait in line, as has been the case in previous months."

Deadline for R through T motorists to be examined for renewals is December 31. Martin stated that his office, located on the third floor of the City Hall, will be open from 8:30-5:30 each week day, Monday through Friday. The office is not open at any time on Saturdays, Martin pointed out.

On Labor Day, Monday, September 4th, the office will not be open but will resume its regular schedule on Tuesday the fifth.

Construction In North Carolina Continues Climb

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 31—(P)—Tar Heel construction work elmed over the $100,000,000 mark the first seven months of the year.

From January through July, according to a state labor department report, new housing and commercial building expenditures totaled $100,394,990. This was 56 per cent above the total for the corresponding seven-month period last year.

As high as the figures are, building in July declined 24 per cent below June's total of $16,559,597. A cut in the number of non-residential units being started was responsible.

World's Largest Blimp Is Being Built For Navy

Akron, Ohio, Aug. 31—(P)—The Goodyear Aircraft Corp., reported yesterday that it is building the world's largest blimp for the U. S. Navy.

Work on the ship, which will approach zeppelings of World War I in size, is well under way, the company said.

It will cost the Navy about $5,000,000 and will be used mainly in spotting submarines, Goodyear said. The blimp would be able to hover almost motionless or travel at speeds ranging up to 75 knots.

Carrying a crew of 14 men, the ship will be powered by two seven-cylinder engines. Some 875,000 cubic feet of Helium will keep it aloft.

Reds In Israel Stop U.S. Movie

Tel Aviv, Israel—(P)—Communist demonstrators hooted a United States information service film on Korea off the screens in two Tel Aviv theaters.

Showing of the film had been approved by the Israeli censorship board. But the cinema owners, fearing the Communists might rush up and try to damage their screens, ordered the projection stopped.

Aussies On Way

Tokyo, Aug. 31—(P)—Australian infantrymen on their way to join United Nations forces in Korea, flew into Japan today.

They are the first contingent of the Australian expeditionary force. Their number was not reported.

A spokesman for the British Commonwealth forces declined to comment on when they would go to the battlefield.

Rocky Mount Captures 5-2 Win Over Greenville Robins

Three Runs in First Frame Clinched The Game For Visitors; Locals Scored In Third And Eighth; Play Twin Bill In Rocky Mount Tonight

By BERT MOYE
Red Benton's Rocky Mount Leafs handed the Robins their tenth defeat of the season here last night by taking a 5-2 decision. The win for the Leafs pushed the Robins back into seventh spot for the second time this season and leaves them three full games behind the fourth place Wilson Tobs.

Three runs in the first frame clinched matters for the visitors. Art Freiberger singled into center and Bill Fowler struck out. Streeter Tugwell singled to center and then Pepper Martin blasted a 380-foot homer over the centerfield barrier. To make matters secure for them the Leafs scored two more runs in the fifth frame. After Wade Martin had struck out, singles by Miller and Freiberger and a walk to Bill Fowler loaded the bases. Then Streeter Tugwell was hit by the pitcher to force in Miller and minutes later Babe Johnson was hit by Fitcher Harrison to force in Freiberger.

The hapless Robins put across one run in the third frame when Dick Bland doubled into left field, advanced to second on Strausser's infield out and came home on a wild pitch by Miller.

Their other run which they managed to score came in the eighth frame when Tepedino walked and Ralph Bartolozzi doubled into right centerfield to bring him home.

Bobby Harrison went the route for the Robins and gave up eight hits, walked four and struck out nine. The loss for Harrison gave him a record of eight wins and eight losses for the season, and against the Leafs this season gives him a 2-2 record.

Pepper Martin with a homer and a single, Streeter Tugwell with a double and a single and Art Freiberger with two singles paced the night-hit attack for the Leafs.

Gilbert Miller went the route for the Leafs and pitched five-hit ball to register his tenth win of the season and his second over the Robins.

Bland, Strausser, Bartolozzi, Valvano, and Hall accounted for the five hits secured by the locals with Bland and Bartolozzi collecting doubles.

The Robins go to Rocky Mount tonight where they meet the Leafs in a twin bill to wind up the regular season play with the Leafs.

Palica Pitches

A pair of important victories for Brooklyn just before the lull in the schedule caused by the All-Star contest in Chicago projected Erv Palica, the Dodgers' strong-arm right-hander into the limelight. Palica came along to stop the Giants cold in a relief stint after the Dodgers had bowed twice to their inter-brother rivals and prevented Durocher's charges from making a clean sweep of the series. The next time out, he beat the Phillies after they had taken the measure of the Brooklyn club twice.

The explanation of Palica's sudden successes on the mound may have been due to the fact that Erv suddenly decided to get "tough." If this is the case, then Catcher Bruce Edwards rates an assist. Edwards is a fierce competitor and it was because of this that Manager Barney Shotton put him behind the plate when Palica went against the Phillies. Whether Edwards inspired Palica with his potent bat that afternoon, or simply made Erv "mad" enough to cut loose isn't very important. But he did make Palica click.

This is Palica's sixth season in organized baseball despite the fact that he is only 22 years old. The Dodgers have kept him in their chain since they signed him at seventeen. He has more stuff than any pitcher on the Dodger staff and in the past he seemed to lack the competitive fire that makes for great hurling. It could be that he has found himself.

Eleven Lettermen Are Basis Farmville Squad

Eleven returning lettermen will form the nucleus for this year's Farmville Red Devils football squad, Coach Elbert Moyer stated today.

The local team has been working out under the boiling sun for the past week, with 22 members reporting for the practices.

So far, most of the time has been taken up with conditioning drills, with some emphasis being placed on blocking and tackling in the past few days.

As yet no heavy drills have been held by the local gridder. "It will be at least the first of next week before we will be able to hold out first scrimmage," Moyer said. Coach Moyer pointed out that the first week of practice has offered him very little opportunity to determine any possible first string men for the 1950 team, as the boys "haven't been able to show their stuff."

The coach, however, appeared fairly pleased with his prospects, despite the loss of his entire first team from last year. Three newcomers to the Farmville camp have raised his hopes somewhat, but it will be some time before the boys can actually be put through their paces, the coach said.

"Our squad is somewhat smaller than last year, but with school opening later, some more boys will possibly show up for practice," he said.

One of the weakest spots will be the post vacated by the loss of half-back Claude Tyson, who graduated last year. Tyson was one of the outstanding players in the Coastal Conference, making the all-conference squad.

Still missing from practice is another all-conference player from the 1949 team. George Wooten has not reported to the practice field as yet. The loss of Wooten would be another serious threat to the Farmville team's hopes for being among the top teams in this year's pigskin race. The locals, who finished in second place last year, open their home slate on September 22, when they tangle with Hertford.

Every team in the league is represented on the all-star team with the league-leading Roanoke Rapids Jays grabbing three spots and New Bern, Tarboro and Kinston two.

Ray Boone, Cleveland shortstop, clutches the ball tightly as he hits the ground in a spill at second base after making a force play on Billy Johnson (24), of the Yankees in the second inning of a rain-cancelled second game of a doubleheader in New York. Boone had taken a throw from Second Baseman Joe Gordon who had fielded Gerry Coleman's grounder. Boone suffered a back injury on the play and was forced to leave the game. The game was called at the end of two and one-half innings of play. (AP Wirephoto).

If Louis Has 'It', He's Going To Cleanup Heavyweight Ranks

By MURRAY ROSE
New York, Aug. 31—(AP)—If Joe Louis still has the old "It" look for the Brown Bomber to do another cleanup job on the heavy-weight.

This time there won't be any pieces around for anybody to pick up. It's a big "if," though.

"If I win and fight again," said Joe as he arrived in town to set up training quarters at Pompton Lakes, N. J. "I want to do it quick. In December, or January at the latest."

The "unretired" heavyweight champion's first and biggest test comes against Ezzard Charles, the NBA heavyweight boss, in Yankee Stadium Sept. 27.

If, and here we go again, Joe can get by Charles, then he can get past anybody in the heavyweight league today.

That would bring him up against Lee Savold, the Englewood, N. J. veteran who is recognized in Britain and Europe, as the king of them all, the Rocky Marciano, the Roland La Starza, the Cesar Brions, and you name 'em.

Joe is in hook for around $200,000 to Uncle Sam for income tax. A single fight with Charles wouldn't take him out of the financial woods. So it would be logical for Louis to start another one of those "bum of the month" campaigns that kept him active and prosperous in '40 and '41. That would be fine for Joe. But the heavyweight situation would be in a worse mess than ever.

It was Louis' own optimistic words that started the boys to speculating about another cleanup job.

"I think I'm better now than at any time since the war," said the 36-year-old bomber. "I weigh 218 now and expect to come in for the fight between 214 and 217."

Louis scaled 213 1-2 the night of June 25, 1948 when he knocked out Jersey Joe Walcott in the 11th round of a "farewell appearance."

As for Charles Louis said "I saw him fight three times. Against Gus Leavovich Pat Valentino and Walcott. He may not look good but he's definitely a good fighter and he punches pretty fair."

"And" continued Joe with a smile "he's pretty tough for my age."

Seven-Foot Cage Star Called Up
Macon, Ga., Aug. 31—(AP)—Bill Spivey, seven foot and one-quarter inch basketball center for the Kentucky Wildcats, has been ordered to report for his pre-induction physical Sept. 6.

Coach Adolph Rupp was counting on the tall Georgian to hold down the No. 1 pivot spot on his cage team this year.

Spivey's height, so helpful on a basketball court, may keep him out of the Army. As a general rule, men over six feet four or five inches are not accepted for military service.

Baling Wire And Gause Required To Stay In Race

New York, Aug. 31—(AP)—The four American League pennant contenders were ready today to fight it out to the last bottle of liniment.

Baling wire and gause became standard equipment as the junior circuit moved into the killing stretch drive.

"The only thing that can beat us is injuries," said Cleveland Manager Lou Boudreau, who saw another of his front line men felled yesterday—the third in two days.

They were also patching them up in the camps of the Detroit Tigers, New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox.

Luke Easter, Cleveland's huge first baseman, was hurt in a collision with Yankee Pitcher Ed Ford in the first game of the doubleheader at Yankee Stadium. Luke came up with a charley horse.

The versatile Boudreau had to take over first while Ray Boone, hurt the day before, had to be called off the hospital shelf to play short.

Easter joins two other Indians on the injured list. Second Baseman Bob Avila pulled a thigh muscle Tuesday and is out a week. Outfielder Larry Doby is out with a chronic leg ailment.

The Tigers, running into more than their share of late season grief, saw Outfielder Hoot Evers benched for a week or ten days when he ran into a fence while chasing a fly ball in practice at Washington Tuesday night. He sprained his wrist.

Detroit Pitchers Virgil Trucks and Ted Gray are nursing sore arms at the time they're most needed. Shortstop Johnny Ligon is playing with a spike wound and Outfielder Vic Wertz is going through his paces with a metal shin plate.

Boston's crack shortstop, Vern Stephens, is out of action temporarily with a pulled muscle and the Red Sox are still waiting for the return of Ted Williams, their great run-producer who broke an elbow in the All-Star game.

Colts Can't Win Against 49er's

Baltimore, Aug. 31—(AP)—Throughout the life of the late all America football conference, the only team the Baltimore Colts never could beat was the San Francisco 49ers.

The two teams are now new members of the National Football League. They played an exhibition here last night and the Colts lost once again.

The 49ers spaced their touchdowns one in each quarter in this manner—first, Emil Sitko plunged six inches; second, Sam Cathcart returned a punt 82 yards; third, Guard Ray Evans fell on a blocked kick in the end zone; fourth, Eddie Carr ran back an intercepted pass 55 yards.

Baltimore's scoring all came in the first period via passes—a 12-yard forward from Adrian Burk to Jim Owens and a Y. A. Tittle-to-Billy Stone pass play that covered 68 yards. Rex Grossman kicked both extra points.

The victory was the first this year for the 49ers who had dropped preseason tests to the Washington Redskins and the Philadelphia Eagles. The Colts are still looking for their first win against NFL competition, having lost four exhibition games.

Scott's Views On 'Lack' Of N. C. Power Rebuffed

Raleigh, Aug. 31—(AP)—Is there a power shortage in North Carolina? If there is, is it causing new industries to by-pass this state? Governor Scott says definitely yes to both questions. Just as emphatically, the president of the Carolina Power and Light Company says there's no shortage and industries aren't settling elsewhere.

Following several blasts by Scott at the power companies this week, Louis V. Sutton, C. P. and L. president, called a special news conference of his own yesterday.

"There is no power shortage in this state. No additional power is needed at this time," Sutton continued, and ample precautions have been taken by power companies to meet the needs of the future.

He added that "industry is not passing up North Carolina at all, and it is not going to areas where so-called cheap hydro power is available."

The Governor had another story. In addition to his own views, he quoted an official of the U. S. Department of the Interior as saying "North Carolina is almost a desert when it comes to consideration of power development."

Scott led a large Tar Heel delegation to a Washington conference Tuesday to confer on the state's hydroelectric power development.

The delegation met with officials of the Interior Department. The statement about the state being almost a power desert was made by William W. Rouse, assistant secretary of the Interior.

At his news conference yesterday, Scott took a crack at the state's congressional delegation. In answer to questions, he said the delegation has not been aggressive enough in obtaining federal power projects for North Carolina.

"Just to put it plain," said the

City's Teachers Meet Tomorrow

Teachers of the Greenville city schools will officially begin their work for the school year tomorrow morning when the first of a series of general teachers meetings will be held.

Superintendent J. H. Rose said the white teachers will meet in the high school tomorrow morning at 10:30, and the Negro teachers will meet at the C. M. Epps school at the same time. The teachers will work in groups at the morning session tomorrow, and will work according to schools in the afternoon session tomorrow and at the Saturday meeting.

Mayor W. S. Stafford and Chairman J. B. James of the city school board are slated to be present at the opening meeting tomorrow morning to speak briefly to the teachers who will comprise the faculty of the city school system this year.

Rose said the teachers will discuss school problems and work out details preparatory to the official opening of the city schools Monday morning.

No Frontiers To Move Our Farms

Shelby, Aug. 31—(AP)—There are no more frontiers for farmers to go to, so our soil must be conserved, Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan said today.

He told some 5,000 farmers that this nation's agriculture potential offers "the strongest front against communism." Price supports must continue, however, he continued, and farmers must be assured of a reasonable income. Nor are price controls expected except on some imports, he added.

Farm Workers . . .

(Continued from page one) same. But—then the whole thing starts over again, just as if he were going to work for a new boss.

He works the fourth quarter of 1951 (which won't count toward his credit because it has now become only a preliminary quarter) and then works the first quarter of 1952, working at least 60 days. He gets credit for that first quarter of 1952.

You can see what this means: If Jones works two quarters (six months) for Smith and gets credit only for the second quarter and switches over to Brown, Jones has to start all over again, working a preliminary quarter, then 60 days in the next one and gets credit only for that second one.

Once a worker gets credit for a quarter, of course, he never loses it. It stays in his record. Next time he gets credit for a quarter, it's added to the first one. But, since he'll need a minimum number of quarters to get a pension, the fewer he has, the less his chance for a pension.

Note: Any regularly employed farm worker who works continuously for one employer through the fourth quarter of this year and then works at least 60 days in the first quarter of 1951 will get credit for that first quarter of 1951. Since the program for farm workers starts Jan. 1, 1951, he can count the last quarter in 1950 as his preliminary quarter.

Since no farm worker comes under the program until Jan. 1, 1951, no worker or farm-owner has to pay any social security tax till the end of the first quarter in 1951.

Coast Guard Boat Rescues Party Of Greenville Folks

A Coast Guard boat last Friday night rescued Lee Hannah of Greenville, skipper of the Higgins Express cruiser, and six Greenville women, guests on the boat, when the vessel encountered engine trouble in Bogue Sound, a story in the Morehead City paper stated.

Coast Guardsmen quoted Hannah as saying that engine trouble developed in Villa Creek and then darkness settled down.

The Coast Guard boat towed Hannah's craft back to the dock in Morehead. Passengers on the pleasure boat were from Greenville. They are: Mrs. S. W. Dunn, Jr. (nee Nancy Hannah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hannah); Ione Hooker Bradshaw, Mary Rose Crisp, Virginia King Perkins, Mary Ann Waldrop, and Catherine Clark.

Conservation Is Being Stressed

Chicago—(AP)—States are giving increased attention to conserving their natural resources, the Council of State Governments reports. It cites some of the actions of recent state legislatures. Wyoming put $750,000 and a five-man board to work against grasshoppers. South Carolina established a new state water pollution control authority. Virginia set up commissions to supervise oil and gas wells and to regulate oyster fishing.

The Navajos are the largest Indian tribe in the U. S. today, says the National Geographic Society.

Graveyard For Buffaloes Found At Town's Site

Calgary — (AP) — "We're in a graveyard," a startled plowman exclaimed when he began to break land for a garden in suburban Calgary. A graveyard it was—the graveyard of thousands of buffaloes. Each furrow made by the plow turned up hundreds of bones.

About 75 years ago the garden was one of the many pounds where Indians and white men wrote one of the blackest chapters in the history of the west. It was here that buffaloes were slaughtered by the thousands.

The garden lies at the base of a steep cliff. The buffalo were stampeded on the plains above so that they thundered straight for a funnel-shaped corral constructed so the narrow end opened at the top of the cliff. In the fall from the precipice they were either killed or made easy kills for hides.

Rehabilitation Program Said Nearly Completed

Raleigh, N.C., Aug. 31.—(AP)—The rehabilitation program for disaster-stricken farmers in five counties is about completed.

C. Settle Bunn, chairman of the relief committee, reported to Scott yesterday the need for assistance for adults is virtually over.

The program was instituted shortly after a severe hail and wind-storm swept over Franklin, Edgecombe, Wilson, Wake and Nash Counties June 29. Many farmers had all their crops entirely destroyed.

Bunn said "during the July period that storm relief operated, 300 families were provided assistance. The average-sized family assisted was five members."

He said between $12,000 and $17,000 was donated in food and supplies and that as of Aug. 7 the relief committee had a cash balance of $6,361.22.

His report stated "assistance was temporarily discontinued July 22 due to the fact that a great deal of employment was available during the tobacco housing season." He added that the committee has stored supplies to feed children under the school lunchroom program and that the cash surplus also will be used for this program.

Squash, Cucumbers, Green Peppers, Tomatoes, Onions And Eggplant Make Vegetable Cups To Be Stuffed With Delicious Riceland Rice And Meat Mixture; Then Baked

Bake Vegetable Cups Stuffed With Riceland Rice And Meat

Vegetables make wonderful cups for stuffing with flavorful mixtures of Riceland Rice and meat . . . and baking with a tasty topping of grated cheese.

Yellow or green squash, onions, turnips, tomatoes, green peppers, eggplant and even cucumbers may be used for these attractive vegetable cups as shown in the above photograph.

Use whichever vegetable you prefer, but be sure to use genuine Riceland Rice in making the stuffing because Riceland Rice is the world's most delicious rice. It's grown in the heart of the Quality Rice Belt of America. Only choice, perfect-cooking rice grains are packed in packages labeled Riceland Rice.

To Make Vegetable Cups For Stuffing

Use yellow or green squash, onions, turnips, tomatoes, green peppers, eggplant or cucumbers. All of them—except the tomatoes—require some parboiling before they're stuffed, and it's better to scoop out the inside before boiling (except in the case of a temperamental onion, which gives up its center sections easier after the cooking process). Just hollow out and parboil your choice vegetable until almost tender. Remove from the water. Drain. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and they're ready for stuffing.

To Make Riceland Rice And Meat Stuffing

- Cooked Riceland Rice
- Cooked meat or fish, minced
- Chopped onion
- Minced parsley
- Worcestershire sauce
- Salt and pepper
- Bread crumbs
- Butter
- Grated Cheese

Make a stuffing of equal quantities of fluffy cooked Riceland Rice and minced leftover cooked meat or fish. Add a dash of chopped onion, minced parsley, Worcestershire sauce as you like and salt and pepper to taste.

Tom the mixture together lightly with a fork. Pack into the cavity of the prepared vegetable with a gentle hand (do not mash). Sprinkle with bread crumbs. Dot generously with butter and perhaps a little grated cheese.

Arrange the stuffed vegetables on a baking pan, add just enough water to cover the bottom of the pan and bake at 350 degrees until lightly browned and hot all the way through. If you use tomatoes for the vegetable cups stuff them raw . . . the baking process will be sufficient to cook them to a luscious softness.

And here's a party note: If you want to add a festive air to the meal, scallop the edges of the vegetable cups as in the yellow squash in the foreground of the picture above. Serve with a cheese sauce!

Note: This recipe calls for cooked Riceland Rice. Cooking Riceland Rice is quick and easy because only choice, perfect-cooking rice grains are packed in Riceland packages. Here's how simple it is to cook this wonderful rice:

To Cook Riceland Rice: Put 2 cups of Riceland Rice, 2 teaspoons of salt and 4 cups of cold water in a large saucepan and cover with a tight-fitting lid. Set over a hot flame until it boils vigorously. Then reduce the heat as low as possible and simmer for 14 minutes more, during which time the water will be absorbed, making the rice deliciously tender. Remove the lid, permit the rice to steam dry to the desired consistency and the grains will be separate and fluffy. Always use Riceland Rice for best results.

Riceland Rice Is Easy To Cook! Tender! Fluffy!

To get the best results with this recipe and all rice recipes, be sure to use Riceland Rice. It's the world's most delicious rice—grown in the heart of the quality rice belt of America. Only the choice, perfect-cooking rice grains are packed in Riceland packages.

This quality rice is quick and easy to cook. Riceland Rice cooks deliciously tender with white, fluffy, individual grains.

Most grocers now feature this better-cooking, wonderfully-delicious, packaged rice—and at economical prices, too! Riceland Rice costs only one-cent-a-serving.

Forgetfulness By Others Is Business Basis

Jacksonville Beach, Fla.—(AP)—People who forget make a nice business for Bert Sauls. He is a locksmith. Most of his work is opening cars, houses and boxes for people who locked the keys inside or lost them.

Sauls has yet to find a safe he can't open. The reason safe crackers have so much trouble, he said, is that they just don't have enough time.

While Sauls isn't giving up his picks and gadgets in favor of the words "Open, Sesame," he found the magic phrase apparently more effective one time. After more than 45 minutes trying without success to open a door for a woman, Sauls leaned against it and it swung open. It hadn't been locked in the first place.

Many times when he is called to open auto doors he finds a window open or a door unlocked on the other side of the car.

roads being built under the $200,000,000 rural road bond program. The meeting was called by Commission Chairman Dr. Henry W. Jordan. He said he also wants the commissioners' reaction on the Dr. Austin H. MacCormick report. The insurance contract, now written by the Connecticut General Life Insurance Company of Hartford Conn., comes up for renewal Sept. 1. At least two Tar Heel Companies are interested in the contract. MacCormick, a New York prison specialist, was hired by the State's advisory prison council to survey the State's prisons and make recommendations for improvement. Chief among his proposals was that the prison department be taken from under the highway commission's wing and be set up as a separate department, probably incorporating some allied agencies. Several weeks ago Jordan asked the commissioners to study MacCormick's report. He said he wanted the reaction of the commissioners "on what, if any or all, of the recommendations could be adopted." As for the load limits, Jordan said he would like an engineer to survey each new road upon its completion and recommend load limits.

Brannan Slated To Speak Today

Shelby, Aug. 31—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan was scheduled to speak on the "Miracle Farm Day" program at Gardner-Webb college at Bowling Springs today. Also expected to speak were Gov. Kerr Scott and Senator Clyde R. Hoey. Yesterday at Charlotte, Brannan told reporters that "agriculture in this country is in great shape." He said that there are no shortages and that his department "is prepared to avoid both price control and rationing for a long time to come." Brannan said he thought the current national emergency provides new argument for his "Brannan Plan." Today's "miracle farm" program included seeding of 70 acres of pasture and 18 acres of small grain, construction of a pole barn and a poultry house, and renovation of an old house.

The coal dealers buried the safe on the same spot—hoping to see the last of it. But a bulldozer recently unearthed it while working on an excavation for a building in the empty lot. Detectives hunted up the owners to return it.

Schools In Farmville Ready To Open Monday; See 800 Pupils

Farmville, Aug. 31—The Farmville public schools will open next Monday, September 4, at 9:00 a.m. and will remain in session until 12:30 p.m. for the first day.

Parents are requested not to bring or send pupils to the school before 9 o'clock as the doors will not be unlocked before that time.

School buses will not leave their starting points before 8:30 a.m. Principal Sam D. Bunry said there will be no formal opening exercises since the auditorium will be in the process of being re-wired and the fact that the auditorium will not hold the entire student body.

Elementary pupils will report to their rooms, which will be designated by proper signs, and from there they will receive instructions to proceed to the section to which they have been assigned.

High school pupils will report to the same home room they had last year and those just entering high school will report to the auditorium for a few minutes to get their home room assignments.

After pupils have been placed and assigned rooms they will receive instructions relative to fees, schedules, regulations, etc.

Books will be distributed the first day in the elementary school, but will not be distributed in the high school until after payment of the state rental fee.

Classwork will begin on the second day of school in all grades.

and to purchase new equipment and to maintain that now on hand.

The entertainment fee is used to schedule five educational programs by the southeast school assemblies which specializes in educational programs for schools, and reader fee is used to purchase new readers each year to keep new reading material for the pupils.

The high school fees are $2 plus $1 insurance fee and are similar to those above with the exception of the supply fee.

Also in the high school there is a $3 rental fee charged by the state for rental on all basal texts used in the high school; a science fee of $1 for those taking science; $2.50 fee for those taking home economics; $2.50 fee for those taking vocational shop and agriculture; and a $13 fee for those taking commercial courses. The science, home economics fee, and agriculture fee are used to buy consumable materials not furnished by the county or state and the commercial fees are used to replace typewriters and pay part of the commercial teachers salary.

Grouping

The grouping of elementary pupils will continue on the basis of ability grouping and will be essentially the same as last year with the exception of a few changes to even the teaching load between teachers of the same grade, Principal Bundy stated.

First grade pupils may report to either room on the opening day, but this does not indicate that they will remain in that room. The first grade teachers list all pupils alphabetically and number them accordingly and at the end of the first day the odd numbers are placed in one section and the even numbers in the other section.

This system is used in practically all schools in this state and it has been found to be the most satisfactory method of grouping first grade pupils.

High school pupils will be grouped according to schedule and subjects and as near on the ability basis as possible.

Testing Program

The Farmville school will this year give three tests to all pupils in the entire school. Intelligence or I.Q. tests will be the first to be given within a few days after school opens. Following this set of tests, there will be given to each child an achievement test and at the end of the year another achievement test will be given. In this manner the ability of each child can be determined and his progress for one year can be measured. The Otis Quick-Scoring Mental Ability Tests will be used for the I.Q. schedule and the Progress Achievement Tests will be used in the achievement schedule.

Fees

The state and county furnishes the major equipment and certain supplies, but the amount is not sufficient for a well rounded program; therefore, all schools are forced to charge certain fees. The fees for grades one through eight in the Farmville School will be $3.00 plus $1 insurance fee, or a total of $4. The insurance fee is added this year at the request of the Pitt County Board of Education and insures each school child from the time they leave home until they reach there again in the afternoon and take care of injuries resulting from school bus accidents, injuries on the playground, injuries in football, or any form of athletics.

As a matter of fact, it is complete coverage on a child while engaged in any school activity sponsored by the school except dances or parties, and the policy will not pay over and above any other policy that a family might have. It is in fact a group policy on all school children in the county.

Of the regular fees $1 is supply fee, $1 is visual aid fee, 50 cents is entertainment fee, and 50 cents is supplementary reader fee.

The supply fee is used to purchase certain things such as drawing paper, modeling clay, crayons, etc.

The visual aid fee is used to purchase and rent films and film strips

Principal Optimistic

Sam D. Bunry, beginning his fourth year as principal, told a Reflector reporter today that an anticipated enrollment of 775 is expected and that an enrollment of 800 would not be totally unexpected. The elementary school will be about the same as last year, but the high school will enroll about 40 or 50 more than last year, he added. The majority of the academic classrooms will be placed on the second floor of the main building this year in order to centralize the high school.

Bunry said all teachers have "A" certificates and four have master's degrees, with two others who will receive such degrees this year. With a staff of 32 teachers, six bus drivers, six lunchroom workers, two janitors and a maid, the Farmville school hopes to keep things moving steadily during this school year, the principal said.

The science, home economics fee, and agriculture fee are used to buy consumable materials not furnished by the county or state and the commercial fees are used to replace typewriters and pay part of the commercial teachers salary.

Lunch Room

The school lunch room again will be managed and supervised by Mrs. L. E. Flowers and it will open the first day. The lunch room will again operate on the federal child feeding program and will attempt to maintain the price of school lunches at 20c which may be paid in advance for any number of days. Parents are urged to cooperate by having their children eat in the lunch room where the children will find wholesome and nutritious meals and because only by volume can the price of 20c be maintained.

Repairs and Alterations

The Farmville school has experienced two major changes during the summer. The main building has been completely re-wired and fluorescent fixtures have been placed in all rooms, which means that the building will now have modern and sufficient lighting. Also, the main building has been undergoing a thorough plumbing job with all old fixtures and piping taken out and replaced with new fixtures and more facilities and tile floors have been placed on all toilet floors. Many rooms have been painted, along with the gymnasium, and some new equipment has been added and much of the old equipment has been done over. All in all a different picture will greet pupils when they return.

Many of the adobe dwellings in the Indian pueblos of New Mexico have walls up to two feet thick, providing insulation against both heat and cold.

Post-War Cargo Ship Is Designed

New York—(AP)—America's new post-war freighter, scheduled to be launched late this fall, may be the forerunner of a long line of similar ships. The S. O. Bland, named in honor of the late Virginia congressman who is regarded as the father of the Merchant Marine Act of 1936, is a prototype that would serve as a model in the event there is another mass production ship construction program to replace the slower Liberty ships of World War II fame.

Not since 1947 has there been a dry cargo vessel turned out by U. S. shipbuilders for American flag operation, according to the American Merchant Marine Institute. While the top speed of the prototype is secret, its design calls for 20 knots or nearly double that of the Liberty ship and well above the Victory and C-types. It will cost $5,000,000 at 10,500 deadweight tons will have the same capacity as a Liberty ship.

The Navajo Indian tribe of Arizona and New Mexico numbers more than 80,000.

Wilson's Weekly Bulletin

from the RECTOR KITCHENS

When it comes to GOOD Labor Day picnic food everyone knows Wilson's "Four Ace" Cold Cuts:

- 1 WILSON'S CERTIFIED BRAUNSCHWEIGER
- 2 WILSON'S CERTIFIED POT ROASTED BEEF
- 3 WILSON'S CERTIFIED DUTCH BRAND LOAF
- 4 WILSON'S CERTIFIED NEW ENGLAND BRAND SAUSAGE

Their famous "Certified" quality appeals to all... for it is "America's Finest." These tasty "cold cuts" go along to the picnic in sandwiches, as slices for help-yourself-sandwiches or as "chunks" to barbecue or broil.

At the Picnic: Slices of Wilson's Certified Dutch Brand Loaf may be warmed in your favorite Barbecue Sauce or Cubed and threaded on green sticks alternating with onion or tomato.

In the Sandwich: Warm from the grill or cold, Dutch Brand Loaf makes luscious sandwiches... in buns or triple decked in toast. Other favorite combinations are: Wilson's Certified New England Brand Sausage with piccalilli, Wilson's Certified Braunschweiger with grated or shredded carrot, Wilson's Certified Dutch Brand Loaf with cheese and sliced radishes, Wilson's Certified Pot Roasted Beef with chili sauce.

For school lunches or quick family dinners: Serve Wilson's Certified Dutch Brand Loaf Grill. Place tomato slices between thick layers of Dutch Brand Loaf. (Cheese, too, if you like). Top each individual serving with a mixture of 1/4 teaspoon prepared mustard and 1/4 teaspoon butter. Either broil or grill, just long enough to heat through, 5 minutes. Results are tempting little individual meat loaves, as pictured.

The RANGE DOCTOR by OSCAR J. FRIEND

Chapter 17 Dr. Logan confined himself zealously to the practice of medicine for the next ten days. Then one night Logan was called to the lower end of the town near the coochyard on an emergency. Whit Reynolds, the blacksmith, had been stabbed over the heart. Robbery, apparently, the motive, as his pockets had been rifled and his heavy gold watch, chain and all, had been torn from his vest.

Logan was too late. Just before he died the blacksmith managed to whisper two words to the physician, the name of a man. Matlock finally arrived and got away by his usual slushy start of finding no clues to act upon. Griggsby, on the other hand, possessed some interesting information. He knew that Reynolds had owned a small stretch of land along the proposed right-of-way of the railroad and that the blacksmith had refused the ridiculous price of one dollar per acre offered him by the Hohner Land Development Company.

Logan compressed his lips silently. He knew what he had to do. It was a couple of days before he located Cherry Russell, a half-breed Indian knife and dice artist of unsavory repute whose usual haunt was the Botella de Repleto at Frisole Flats. The doctor rode up and dismounted, taking his satchel from his saddle.

"You're Cherry Russell?" he asked, approaching the fire as the breed got suspiciously to his feet. "Yeah," Russell said in a surly voice. "Why?"

"Who hired you to kill Whit Reynolds?" Logan asked bluntly. "Who says I killed Reynolds?" "I do. No use denying to Reynolds told me before he died."

Hohner's ugly mouth twisted down in an uglier grimace. He whirled on Overstreet, dropping his hand to his gun butt. Goaded beyond endurance, Hohner completed his draw and lunged at Overstreet's taunting face. Overstreet did not move. He just twitched his shoulders. Like magic there appeared in each of his slim white hands a single-barreled derringer which looked like a toy. Flame belched simultaneously from each before the dazed witnesses could stir or cry out.

Hohner swayed backward, his hands clawing at his breast. Then he fell behind the counter. Advancing, the doctor hastened behind the counter and knelt beside the fallen land operator.

Judge Steele, his face grave, spoke in a low tone to Overstreet. "Now I know who the Range Doctor is. Better go back to the Texas Tommy."

"Just as you say, Judge," Overstreet agreed obediently. Griggsby and the judge joined the doctor, looking down at Hohner's bared chest. There, just left of center and right above the heart, were two bullet holes almost tangent to each other. A silver dollar would have covered them both.

"I don't like this," the judge went on bitterly. "Granting that this Range Doctor is nailing the right culprit, this is not getting at the root of the evil. I think either you or Overstreet must be the Range Doctor. Why don't you come to your senses? It's the land company we're after—not their hired killers."

"I'm working on that," Griggsby said in some heat. "I haven't been able to get a shred of evidence against Jack Naylor yet. As for Charlie Hohner, that slick land shark has been just sitting in his office handling legal details since he came to Gila City last week."

"Have you talked with him yet?" the judge asked. "I mean, simply as a citizen and the editor of the newspaper?"

"No," Griggsby admitted, glancing at Logan. Logan felt constrained to come to Griggsby's defense. "What Uncle Tom means, Judge Steele," he said, "is that he befriended me when Hohner and Naylor made me an orphan. He forced Hohner to pay a bigger sum than he intended to for a quitclaim deed to Dad's staked homestead."

Overstreet looked at the doctor curiously. "Hohner killed your father, Logan?"

"He or Naylor. I never knew which one. They guntrapped him together. That's all the more reason, I'd say, to call on Hohner," Overstreet commented.

"By God, I will!" said Griggsby, jangling on his hat. Judge Steele motioned towards the door. "I think we'll all four call on Mr. Hohner as a matter of civic duty."

Save for the two shirt-sleeved clerks busy with their bookkeeping and Hohner himself going through a sheaf of papers at his desk, they found the land company office deserted.

Hohner's pale eyes flickered over the group, coming to rest on Griggsby. "Ah, yes, Griggsby. How are you?"

"Exactly the same as you remember," Griggsby answered shortly. "Where's Naylor?"

"Naylor? I think he's over at the courthouse right now filling a bid for some land owned by the late Whitcomb Reynolds. I believe such land can be bought from the county, Judge Steele?"

"I wouldn't try to buy that land if I were you, Hohner," said Griggsby.

"Like you did around Blue Eagle some years ago?" Overstreet interrupted, his voice heavy with irony. Hohner looked at him sharply.

"You run the Texas Tommy, don't you?" "I own the Texas Tommy," corrected Overstreet. "If you want to stay in business, I suggest that you mind your own business then," Hohner grumbled.

"Look here, Hohner," Griggsby said, claiming his attention again. "I've not printed much in my paper about you and your outfit, but you know I know how you operate. I'm telling you now to draw your horns in while there's time."

"You make one libellous statement about me," Hohner warned, "and I'll break you like a matchstick."

"Like you broke Pelham and Reynolds?" Overstreet asked softly.

FBI Looking For 'Boy From Country' Slicker

New York, Aug. 31—(AP)—The FBI is looking for a country boy who, it says, could make a sucker out of the slickest city slicker.

The FBI, warning New Yorkers yesterday to eye with suspicion any smooth-talking gent offering a scheme to turn a fast dollar, called him the "king of the con men."

It identified the man as 48-year-old Adrian Lawrence Dudley, of Ayden, N.C., but said he might be operating under any one of some 40 aliases.

The FBI said Dudley is a glib, graying, hard-drinking man, probably armed and certainly dangerous. He may be in New York, it was added, and he likes to pose as a wealthy, retired banker.

Dudley is wanted on charges of evading an unidentified Pittsburgh man of $16,000 and of violation of conditions of his release from the Atlanta federal penitentiary, where he served a term for a $52,000 swindle, the FBI said.

tricks is this:

Take a sucker in tow and, while they are walking along a street, they find a wallet. They return it to the "owner"—who is a stooge for Dudley.

In gratitude, the "owner" places a small bet for the finders on a "sure thing" in a horse race.

The horse "wins" and then it is decided to make a bigger play on another sure shot—say, around $200,000, with the victim putting up his share.

That is the last the victim sees of his money—and Dudley and his partner.

Testimony Ends On Law Schools

Durham, N. C., Aug. 31—(AP)—Testimony has been concluded in a federal court trial here which may decide whether or not North Carolina is satisfying its "equal but separate" doctrine in the state supported law schools.

The case opened last Monday and the final witnesses were heard in middle district court yesterday. Judge Johnson J. Hayes said a decision may be expected within the next three or four weeks.

The suit was brought by four Negro law students against officials of the University of North Carolina and the State. The Negroes charges that the law school at North Carolina college for Negroes was inferior to that at the University.

In the concluding testimony yesterday, Dr. Erwin Griswold, dean of the Harvard University law school declared that it is "impossible for any two schools to get the ultimate effectiveness of teaching as long as there is segregation."

He also said he believed there is little doubt that the Negro law school faculty is inferior in quality and reputation to that at the University. It is impossible, he asserted, for equal educational opportunity to exist in two schools when the faculty of one is inferior to the other.

Five defense witnesses yesterday, including the President of North Carolina College, were in direct disagreement with Dr. Griswold.

Nathan Reed of Salem, Mass., patented a steam vehicle in 1790 but dropped the idea for lack of public interest.

Fear 24 To Die Over Labor Day

Raleigh, Aug. 31—Present trends indicate that 24 persons will be killed over the Labor Day week-end, the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles estimated today.

The prediction was based on the fact that 21 persons were killed over the Labor Day week-end last year and that highway fatalities are up approximately 13 per cent. The estimate was made for the period from 4 p.m. Friday (August 31) through 6 a.m. Tuesday (September 5). Department officials expressed the hope that the prediction would prove too high.

The Department has underway an intensive campaign, similar to the one conducted over the Fourth of July and aimed at cutting down highway slaughter over the Labor Day holiday. Generally, this will be the last opportunity for North Carolinians to visit the mountains and the beach and to witness the two pageants, "Lost Colony" and "On to These Hills."

During the holiday period, the Highway Patrol will release each hour the total number of highway fatalities, injuries and accidents at that point. The State's three press services have agreed to distribute the figures to newspapers and radio stations.

Edward Scheidt, FBI special agent, said one of Dudley's favorite
