New Industry To Be Located Here

Long-Term Lease Signed Today; New Concern Taking Over Plant Of Greenville Spinners, Inc.; Identity Or Nature Of Firm Is Undisclosed

An unnamed industrial corporation today took over the plant of the Greenville Spinners, Inc. which has been idle since American Lady, Inc. ceased operation here in March.

Matt R. Long, president of the Greenville Spinners, Inc., said this morning a long term lease effective today had been signed with the industrial corporation which is expected to begin operations here as soon as possible. Neither the name of the company which leased the building nor the nature of the industry was announced.

"They are taking over the building September 1," Long said, "and as rapidly as they can get machinery it will be installed."

He said the new industry is expected to have an annual payroll which will range between $350,000 and $400,000. Besides the payroll, Long said, the company probably will install more than a million dollars worth of equipment in the plant it has leased from Greenville Spinners, Inc.

The plant, Long said, when it reaches full operation, will work three shifts of workers a day, and will operate on a 24-hour-a-day basis. He stated the labor in the Greenville area is very suitable for the operations which are planned for the plant.

"Both the Greenville chamber of commerce and the state department of conservation and development were instrumental in the industry's locating in Greenville," Long added. He said negotiations for the lease of the building had been underway for more than a month.

Manager W. T. Kyser of the Greenville chamber of commerce said this morning his organization "is very pleased that this new industry is coming here. Even though we don't know the name of the company, from the people with whom we have had contact, we are sure the industry will be a great asset to Greenville."

Long likewise praised highly the officials of the company which will operate the industrial plant. He commented: "The people of Greenville certainly will be well pleased with the new industry. The officials plan to work into our community and become a part of it. I assure the people of Greenville there couldn't be a finer group of people to be associated with."

Schools Prepare Final Details Of Monday Opening

City School Teachers Meet; Insurance Plan For Children Being Offered

Final details preparatory to the opening of the Greenville city schools were being worked out today at general teachers meetings for the faculty of the city school system.

The teachers in the whites schools high school and the Negro teachers met at the same time at the C. M. meetings were eld by grups, but Eppes school. This morning the meetings were held by groups, but the teachers meetings this afternoon and tomorrow morning were slated to be held on the basis of schools.

All city schools, both elementary schools and high schools, will begin classes Monday morning at 8:40. The elementary schools will be dismissed at 11 o'clock Monday and the high schools will be dismissed at 12 o'clock. Superintendent J. H. Rose said a short schedule may be followed in the schools on Tuesday as well as Monday, "if this excessive heat continues."

O. E. Dowd, principal of Greenville high school, said all new students at the high school including members of the eighth grade should report to the auditorium where they will be given their instructions and class schedules. All students who were in high school last year are to report to their home rooms of last year for their class schedules.

For the first time this year the board of trustees of the city schools has adopted an insurance plan which is designed to cover the children who attend the city schools. In explaining the plan, Rose said in a letter which will be sent to parents of Greenville school children:

The plan is designed "to protect your child according to the conditions as outlined below. The charge for this insurance for the entire year is $1, and you, as a parent, are requested to pay this $1 at the beginning of school. This insurance charge will be added to the regular fee. However, you are not required to pay this small charge, but the board of trustees have unanimously adopted this program and we believe that it is a most worthwhile investment to protect your child."

The policy covers the child while enroute to or [illegible] at school or on a trip sponsored by school authorities, or while participating in an athletic contest of the school or traveling to or from the contest in a vehicle under supervision of school authorities.

Payments for loss of life or permanent injury range from $1,000 to $5,000 and payment for medical expenses ranges as high as $1,000.

Grand Dragon Of S.C. Kluxers In Undisclosed Jail

Conway, S.C., Sept. 1—(AP)—The Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in South Carolina was being held in an undisclosed jail early today. Thomas L. Hamilton of Leesville is charged with "conspiracy to stir up mob violence."

Hamilton was jailed late yesterday following an investigation by Horry County Sheriff C. E. Sasser and state constabulary officers into a Klan parade and the subsequent death of a Klan-robed Conway policeman who was still in uniform.

In a dramatic radio speech here last night, Sasser let the public in on the findings of the probe into the death last Saturday of Conway Policeman James D. Johnston.

The graying sheriff also declared that a Negro nightclub proprietor had no part in the slaying.

Temperatures In Area Still High

The highest temperature in the Greenville area yesterday was 95 degrees. Lowest last night was 72, and at 8 a.m. today it was 86, Mrs. Carl E. Maiden, local observer for the Department of Commerce, reported.

A slight drizzle of rain fell during the early forenoon today, but with light prospects for a greater downpour.

GI Allowances

Washington, Sept. 1—(AP)—A final okay from congress on GI family allowances paved the way today for drafting fathers up to 26 years old into the armed forces.

Selective Service officials had indicated they would have something to say on plans for inducting draft-age married men with dependents as soon as the family allowances bill passed congress.

Both the house and senate gave final approval yesterday to the allowances measure, sending it to President Truman for signature.

It provides sums of $85 to $165 a month for the families of enlisted men. GI's would contribute from $40 to $80 a month toward the allowances from their own pay. The government would pay the rest.

That married men with dependents would be drafted soon was predicted by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the house armed services committee. He said draft boards simply can't meet quotas without taking fathers.

House Approves Doctors' Draft

Action Comes After Senate-House Compromise Set

Washington, Sept. 1— (AP)— The House passed today a bill to permit drafting male doctors and dentists through the age of 50 years who are not in the reserves.

The action on a voice vote shortly after Senate and House conferees agreed on a compromise. The bill now goes to the Senate.

In addition to doctors and dentists, the bill applies to four categories of "allied specialists"—veterinarians, optometrists, pharmacists and osteopaths.

Those drafted under the bill would be liable for 21 months service.

The bill aims to put into uniform first some 5,000 doctors and 3,000 dentists who during the last war received part or all of their training at government expense, who saw little or no active service, and who are not now in the reserve.

The bill exempts from the draft those who are in the reserve. No date is set as a deadline for entering the reserves.

That in effect gives those who are not now in the reserves a "last minute" chance to enroll.

Once a man was in the reserves he could be called to active duty immediately.

Police Chief To Report For Duty Here Sept. 11

Guy C. Langston of Vanceboro, member of the State Highway Safety division, who was elected chief of police of Greenville at a called meeting of the Board of Aldermen on August 2, will report for duty here September 11.

Mayor W. S. Stafford received a letter from the new chief yesterday stating that he would be here and ready for service on that date.

Langston was unanimously elected chief of police and the Board of Aldermen pledged him 100 per cent support in handling the police department.

Campign Role Is Allotted Barkley

Washington, Sept. 1 — (AP) — Vice President Barkley was lined up today to pinch hit for President Truman in an active campaign to reelect Democratic members of Congress.

Barkley told a reporter he has agreed to spend all of October in speaking for Democratic Senate and House candidates in a dozen or more states where control of Congress is likely to be decided in the November election.

Parkway Route Hit By Rainfall

Asheville, N. C., Sept. 1—(AP) — Slides and washouts blocked the Blue Ridge Parkway at half a dozen points today following a rainfall of nearly 11 inches during the past 48 hours in the Mount Mitchell area.

Several small bridges on the north fork of the Swannanoa river also were washed out by the run-off, but weather bureau officials said the stream crested early this morning without causing serious damage.

Record High

Washington, Sept. 1—(AP)—Employment jumped 1,153,000 in August to reach a new record high of 62,367,000, Secretary of Commerce Sawyer said today.

It was the first time the 62,000,000 mark had been crossed. The August total for those with jobs was 752,000 above the previous record—61,615,000 in July, 1948.

Malik Successor Determined To Break Stalemate

Sir Gladwyn Jebb Reported Planning To Seat South Korean Representative

Lake Success, Sept. 1—(AP)—Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb takes over as president of the United Nations Security Council today, determined to end Russian Jaboz A. Malik's month-long stalemate of pending U. S. Council moves to localize the Korean war.

A spokesman quoted Jebb as saying:

"We shall turn the calendar back to July 31. We shall pretend that Malik has never been president and get on with our work."

At today's council meeting, Jebb reportedly planned as the first order of business the seating of a representative of South Korea and the refusal of a place to a North Korean envoy.

Malik had, through one parliamentary move or another, prevented this action while he held the presidency during August.

Then, the British spokesman declared the council would take up an American resolution declaring the North Koreans to be the aggressors and calling on all U. N. members to refrain from aiding them.

"The Soviet Union will probably veto this, and then we shall go on to our next piece of business," he said.

That would be consideration of Red China's charges, presented by the Soviet Union, of American aggression against Formosa and air raids on Manchuria. The council voted yesterday, 8-3, to hear the air raid charges.

The fact that the two Soviet-backed items are on the agenda was taken here as conclusive evidence that Malik would be present and would not renew his boycott of the United Nations which ended when he assumed the council presidency Aug. 1.

U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin took the council by surprise yesterday by admitting an American fighter plane might have strafed a Manchurion airfield by mistake on Aug. 27.

He asked for a full U. N. on the spot investigation of the charges and promised, if they were proved, that the U. S. would pay an indemnity and take proper disciplinary action against those involved.

When the delegates got their breath after this statement—much franker than is usual in diplomatic parleys—they speculated that the U. S. may have pulled on a significant diplomatic coup.

They pointed out that it is highly unlikely that either communist China or North Korea will permit a United Nations investigation committee to come into their territories.

If they refuse, these sources said, the world will conclude that either the charges were frivolous propaganda or that the two communist states have secret reasons for refusing an inquiry.

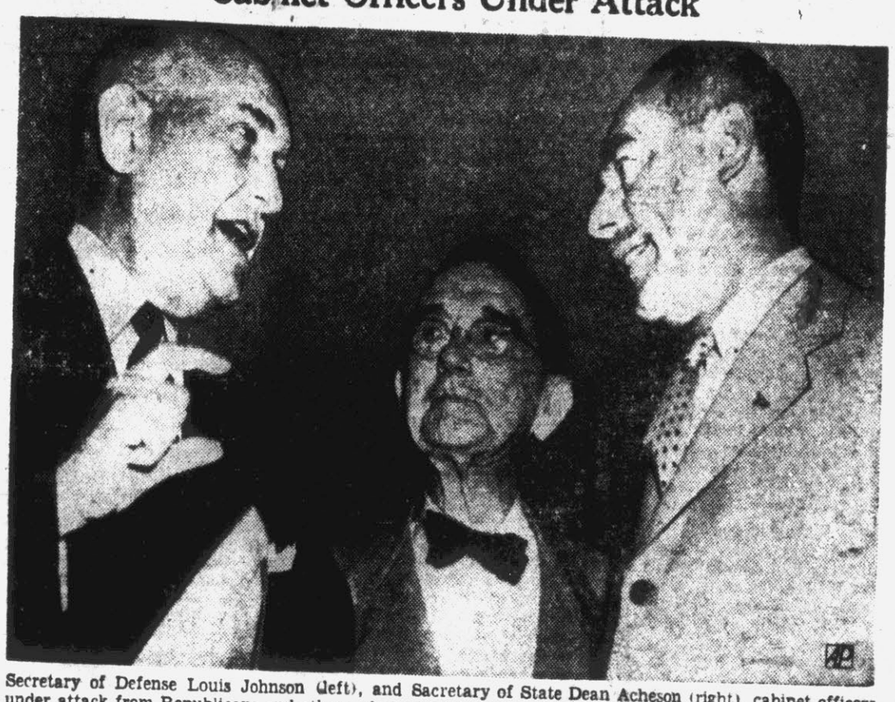

Found Guilty Of Benefits Fraud

On August 30, Spartie E. Rodgers was convicted before Justice of the Peace H. L. Jenkins of violation of the Employment Security Law in that she misrepresented her earnings while filing for and receiving unemployment compensation benefits through the local office of the Employment Security Commission at 215 East Fifth Street.

Sentence was suspended upon immediate refund of the net overpayment to the commission and upon payment of the costs of court.

U. S. Forces Blunt Attack By 2 Red Korean Divisions

Cabinet Officers Under Attack

Communists Punch Eight-Mile Dent In American Lines But Momentum Of Assault Broken By Counterattack; Reds Lose Heavily In Men, Equipment

Tokyo, Saturday, Sept. 2—(AP)—North Korean Reds renewed their hammering assault on the southern ends of the flaming western front Friday night after punching an 8 1-2 mile dent in American lines.

But swiftly-moving U. S. tanks and infantrymen recaptured burning Haman Friday in a slashing counterattack that temporarily blunted the Reds' massive assault on the southwestern anchor of the United Nations beachhead in Korea.

The Communists hurled a two-division attack at Haman Thursday night, and for a time threatened to crack the American line. Then, the U. S. 25th Infantry Division reacted swiftly, lashed back and broke the momentum of the Red assault.

Behind strong air and artillery support, American tanks and troops rolled into Haman and regained ridges west of the city, 15 miles west of the vital allied supply port of Pusan on the southeast Korean coast.

An American officer at the front said the Communists were making their big effort—"and I think it is their last one."

However, an intelligence officer at General MacArthur's headquarters said a second major Red offensive—against another section of the beachhead—was still possible. He added that the largest mass of enemy infantry still is presumed to be in the Waegwan area, northwest of Taegu.

The powerful Red onslaught had set the front aflame on a 55-mile stretch from a point [illegible] Naktong west of Taegu southward to the sea.

The newest strike on the roaring front was a Red thrust against the extreme southwest flank of the 25th Division, defenced by the Fifth Regimental Combat team.

A mortar barrage preceded the attack and a little later a North Korean plane, in one of the rare appearances of the Red Air Force, dropped two bombs in the sector. Neither did any damage.

At least one tank was reported in the attacking force.

Youthful American soldiers pulled back from Yongsan on the U. S. Second Division front before a strong tank-led Red drive which pushed across the Nanktong river.

These men, on the left flank of the Second Division, had retreated eight and one-half miles in all.

AP correspondent Bem Price, who was with one of the last groups to pull out of Yongsan into the hills to the east, said the men who gave the grounud same out tired but not broken. He said they were still in good spirits.

The Americans immediately dug in on the hills east of Yongsan against the Red thrust aimed at cutting the main highway between the supply port of Pusan and the communications center of Taegu.

At a rising cost in men and equipment, the main Red punch was threatening the front's anchor city of Masan on the south. And, in the Yongsan area, the push had reached within 12 air miles of the main highway from Pusan to Taegu, allied communications and supply center on the central sector.

"Bodies are stacked up by the hundreds," a Second Division officer told AP correspondent Jack MacBeth. "But they're still coming."

A U. S. Eighth Army communique reported 1,000 Reds killed and three tanks destroyed by midday. But

Rep. Bulwinkle Dies In Gastonia

Ailing Lawmaker Had Planned To Retire At End Of Term

Gastonia, N. C., Sept. 1—(AP)—Rep. Alfred L. Bulwinkle, 67-year-old lawmaker of North Carolina's 11th district, died at his home here last night.

Ill for a year, the veteran lawyer, soldier and legislator had planned to retire when his present term in Congress January 1.

Bulwinkle served in Congress from 1921-29 and again since 1931. He had represented the state's 9th, 10th and 11th districts.

The Congressman returned to his home a few weeks ago. He went to Washington last spring to resume his legislative work, but was later confined to the Naval Hospital at Bethesda, Md.

Bulwinkle announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election in 1950, and Woodrow Jones of Rutherfordton was declared the Democratic nominee in a second primary last June.

The aging congressman was born in Charleston, S. C., April 21, 1883. When he was eight his family moved to North Carolina.

In 1911 he married Miss Bessie Lewis of Dallas, N. C. They had two children, Alfred Lewis Bulwinkle of Gastonia and Mrs. E. Grainger Williams of Little Rock Ark.

CBS METHOD FAVORED

Washington, Sept. 1—(AP)— The Federal Communications Commission today declared to adopt final standards for color television but issued a report strongly favoring a method developed by Columbia Broadcasting System.

Charlotte Police Arrest Eight Of Alleged Kluxers

Charlotte, N.C., Sept. 1—(AP)—Charlotte police said today they had arrested eight alleged members of the Ku Klux Klan and charged them with acts of violence.

Five were accused of conspiracy to breacn the peace in connection with the burning of a fiery cross in a residential yard Wednesday night.

Police Chief Frank Littlejohn said one of the five, Oat McQueen, 28, a painter, was secretary-treasurer of the Charlotte unit of the Associated Klans of Georgia. Littlejohn said McQueen admitted he participated in the cross-burning at the residence of Mrs. Helen Ratcliff in North Charlotte. She fired five shots from a .32 calibre pistol at several unmasked figures as the cross was ignited. All bullets missed. A similar cross-burning took place in her yard last June 27.

As police disclosed that they had gained possession of names of at least 80 members of the Charlotte Klavern, Littlejohn issued this statement:

"I don't care how many people join the Klan here—it's their money and they can spend it as foolishly as they wish. But I want to tell them now—and I want to make it strong—this police department won't tolerate the sort of lawbreaking the Klan seems to inspire. They can't wear hoods and they can't go around burning crosses on private property."

Another $1 Million Day On Greenville Leaf Mart

Thursday's Sales Hit Same $57.13 Average As Reached On Opening Day; May Set Fifth Million-Dollar Sale Today

The fourth "million dollar day" in the history of the Greenville tobacco market was officially recorded after yesterday's sales, and another million dollar day was apparent for today's sales.

Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee said official figures for yesterday's sale on the Greenville market showed 1,851,118 pounds of tobacco were sold for a total of $1,057,686.67. The official average for the day's sale was $57.13 per hundred pounds—the exact average of the opening day's sale on August 21 when the Greenville market had the first million dollar day in its 60-year history.

Since the beginning of the 1950 season ten selling days ago the Greenville market has had four days in which more than a million dollars were paid out for tobacco sold on local warehouse floors. Today will mark the tenth selling day of the season, and Whedbee said when the figures for the day's sale are official tonight, Greenville will have had its fifth million dollar day in the first ten selling days of the season.

Through yesterday the market had sold 14,104,116 pounds for the nine days since the opening of the 1950 season. Today more than 2,000,000 pounds of tobacco were on the floors for sale.

Whedbee said prices for medium and common grades of tobacco were continuing at levels higher than at any other time in the history of the market. He added that prices for tobaccos in the green grades are unusually high. "The farmers are still mighty well pleased with the way the tobacco is selling."

The supervisor said the Green-

Truman In Radio Address Tonight

His Report To The People To Be Beamed All Over World

Washington, Sept. 1 — (AP) — President Truman tonight will tell the nation—and the world—that the United States had no alternative when it sent its troops into Korea.

He ordered this step, the President is expected to say, in the interests of world peace.

Mr. Truman speaks from the White House at 9 p.m. (EST) over all the major radio networks and television.

His address is described by the White House as a "report to the people."

Those familiar with the text say that it is just as much a report to the peoples of Western Europe, Asia and elsewhere where Mr. Truman hopes American foreign policy will be heard and understood.

The "Voice of America" will beam it everywhere it can reach a listening audience.

Associates told a reporter Mr. Truman will say he had to move quickly when the North Korean Reds invaded South Korea to draw a line somewhere against the steady advance of communism against peaceful countries.

Something had to be done, Mr. Truman is expected to say, lest communism nibble off other nations one by one.

The address is reported to be in the nature of an answer to the propaganda of Jakob Malik, the Soviet Russian delegate, during his month as president of the U.N. Security Council.

Party Purge For Germany's Reds In New Shakeup

Berlin, Sept. 1—(AP)—East Germany's Communist rulers rocked their party and government today with a startling purge of highly placed officials.

Six party members including a former politburo member were thrown out of the socialist unity (Communist) party, the official party newspaper Neues Deutschland announced.

Four more were ejected from jobs in the Russian-backed east German government.

More expulsions were predicted.

The party newspaper gave two reasons for the purge—associating with "American spies" and exhibiting anti-Russian feeling."

He's Had Enough Of Rescuing Cat

Pittsburgh, Sept. 1— (AP) —Don't ever ask Edward C. Schwartz to help you get a cat out of a tree.

Schwartz, who is 54, tried yesterday to rescue a yowling cat which had mounted to a high perch and apparently was unable to come down.

Schwartz slipped and fell, impaling his left arm on a clothesline hook attached to the tree.

Firemen had to cut the hook to lower Schwartz to the ground. His wound required several stitches.

The cat watched the entire operation—and then climbed down all by itself.

Ten Million Extra

Roughly Ten New Groups Now Covered By New Social Security Program; It Starts For Them On January 1, 1951; American Employes Overseas Covered

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Sept. 1—(AP)—In broadening the social security program, Congress brought under its coverage about 10,000,000 people who had been excluded from it by law until now.

These people, by working long enough in jobs now covered by law for the first time, can earn an old-age pension or, if they die, benefits for their survivors. The program starts for them Jan. 1, 1951.

The 10,000,000 people are, roughly, divided into about 10 main groups. They include farm workers, the self-employed, domestic servants, employes of non-profit organizations, and employes of state and local governments now covered by a pension plan. (Those five groups have been explained in the two previous stories.)

The following five groups are also brought into the program:

American firms employes working abroad—.

Under the old law an employe of an American firm was covered by social security only so long as his services were performed in this country.

His coverage stopped once he went overseas to live and work for that firm and was not resumed until he returned here to live. One illustration will show what this meant:

If a worker in this country dies but has been in a job covered by the law for 1½ years out of the three years preceding his death, his survivors get benefits.

But if an American employe worked overseas three years, his rights to such benefits expired. And when he returned he'd have to work in a covered job at least 1½ years before, in case of his death, his survivors could get benefits.

Transit system employes of state or local governments—.

The employes of a transit system—for instance, a bus line—owned by a state or city or town or county government will come under the program if—

1. They are not already covered by a pension system of their state or local community and if—

2. The transit system was taken over by the state or local govern-

Pitt White Youth And Negro Youth Casualties

One white youth and one Negro youth, both natives of Pitt county, were among the casualties in the Korean war listed yesterday by the defense department.

The Pitt casualties were Pvt. Jasper L. Harris of Ayden, who is listed as missing in action, and Pfc. Charles S. Faison, a Farmville Negro, listed as wounded in action.

Jasper Lee Harris, who will be 19 this month, is the son of Mrs. Minnie L. Harris of Conetoe and a brother of Mrs. Ardell Stokes of Winterville. Young Harris attended school in Greenville and Chicod High School and quit school nearly three years ago to enter the armed forces. Other than the official report of his being missing, the family has received no information.

Charles L. Faison, son of Mrs. Mary Faison, Negro, 204 West Perry street in Farmville, was serving his second enlistment in the army when he was wounded in action on the Korean front. His mother received a telegram from the government last Friday announcing that her son had been wounded and on Monday she received a letter from her son revealing that he had been shot in the leg and was now in a hospital in Japan.

Faison was born Sept. 22, 1926. He graduated from Farmville Negro High School in 1944 and enlisted in the army and re-enlisted for a second term. He did not go overseas during World War II but was sent to Japan last spring.

'Aggression' Charge

Chinese Communists Appear To Be Building Up A Case For the Time When They Send Their Armies Into Korea; Extreme Caution To Avert Danger Involved

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

The Moscow - inspired Chinese Communists for the second time this week have accused the U. S. Air Force in Korea of having violated China's borders and dropped bombs.

Warren R. Austin, U. S. delegate to the United Nations, admitted yesterday an American fighter plane might have strafed a Manchurian airfield by mistage Aug. 27.

Despite Austin's frank statement, it seems clear that the Reds were trying to build up their broader charge of "aggression" against the United States—and this time involving Chinese territory.

Such a charge of aggression—flimsy though it be—might be used in a big way if the time should arrive when Moscow would send its own or Chinese armies into northern Korea. Such a move would be to block General MacArthur's United Nations forces should they be sent across the 38th parallel.

Many military experts regard a Red move of this sort as a strong likelihood.

Apropos of this thought two Chinese Communist armies are reported massed on the Manchurian-Korean frontier, which is formed by the great Yalu River. The strength of these forces is variously estimated at between 175,000 and 200,000.

This situation is causing much concern in Washington. Secretary of State Dean Acheson said last Wednesday that the United States by word and action is doing its utmost to keep Communist China on the sidelines in the Korean fighting. He added that the U.N. must decide whether its forces shall cross the 38th parallel when they push back the North Koreans.

President Truman carried the matter a step further yesterday when he said he hoped there was no great danger of Communist China getting involved in the Korean war. He also stated that it won't be necessary to keep the U.S. Seventh Fleet off Formosa once peace has been settled in Korea—a statement which should give the Chinese Reds evidence that America isn't up to skullduggery in that part of the world.

That question of whether the U.N. armies should cross the border into

September is set aside by our General Assembly for emphasis on the religious education of our children, young people, and adults. The month is devoted to a consideration of the task we are attempting in our Church School each Sunday, the cooperation of the home and Church in that all important task, and the giving of our material substance to the support of the Religious Education program of our Church throughout the South. This month is an important one in the life of our Church and we are looking forward to an increase in enrollment, greater regularity in attendance. Promotion and Rally Day in our Curch School and a stronger tie between the home and Church.

Each Wednesday night during the month at the regular prayer service, we will be discussing 'Beside the Hearthstone," Dr. Robert A. Lapsley, Jr.'s book on the different aspects of a Christian home.

"Galatians," "Ephesians," "Philippians" and "Colossians" are the New Testament books suggested for your reading during the month of September in our program of "Reading the New Testament through During 1950."

Peter Became a Man of Power ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Matthew 16:13-17; Luke 22:54-62; John 21:15-17; Acts 2-5.

By Alfred J. Buescher

Peter denied that he knew Christ at His Lord's trial, but after Jesus rose from the dead and appeared to His disciples, the Holy Ghost came upon them, and Peter was filled with courage.

Peter and John went to the temple, and there saw a lame man who asked alms. The disciples said they had no money, but what they had they would give, and they healed him.

Peter and John were arrested by church authorities, and tried, for they were converting thousands. They were forbidden to preach Christ, but they were not harmed, because the priests feared the wrath of the people.

Imprisoned, Peter and John, freed by an earthquake, went back to the temple, which had been forbidden. Queried, Peter said, "We ought to obey God rather than men."

MEMORY VERSE—Acts 5:29.

Peter Became a Man of Power

HE CONVERTED THOUSANDS TO CHRIST

Scripture—Matthew 16:13-17, Luke 22:54-62; John 21:15-17; Acts 2-5.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

PETER is, in this writer's mind, a most interesting and human character. He was a devout, well-meaning person, devoted to his Lord, dedicated to His work, but, like most of us, when it came to the test, he was not willing to suffer with his Master.

In fact, when Jesus was arrested and being tried for His life, Peter played the coward, and denied that he knew Him.

That was a great tragedy, and Peter himself was broken-hearted when, after three times denying that he even knew the Master, he heard the cock crow—as Jesus said he would—and the Master gave him one look ere he was led away.

He uttered no word of rebuke or condemnation, for Jesus knew His man. He understood His disciple so well, that He could have faith that from this moment of guilt and degradation, he would rise to new heights.

How many of us, faced with Peter's situation, would have been true to our best? We all have fallen down in less severe crises than this one. To have acknowledged that he was a disciple of Jesus would probably have meant death.

Peter could not face this, so he lied—even as you and I—but how nobly he redeemed himself we shall see as this lesson progresses.

It had been but a short time before this that Jesus had asked the disciples what people said about them, and after receiving various answers, had asked them, "Whom say ye that I am?" Peter—the ever-ready talker—had answered fervently, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God," and had received Jesus' commendation.

The third time Jesus appeared to His disciples after His Resurrection, He turned to Peter and asked him if he loved Him. Peter, of course, said yes, and Jesus said, "Feed My lambs."

Twice more Jesus asked the same question, getting the same reply, and the Master said to him, "Feed My sheep." Peter thus knew he was indeed dedicated to head Christ's work on earth.

On the day of Pentecost, Peter, with the other disciples, received the power to perform miracles and to speak with power and authority, words which were to convert thousands to the faith.

We need not describe this scene which has been included in many lessons—the "rushing, mighty wind" that filled the house, the cloven tongues of flame which sat on each one.

It was Peter, with John, who performed the first miracle after Jesus left them. The two went to the temple to pray, and at the gate called Beautiful, saw a man who had been lame from birth so that he had become a beggar.

He asked alms, but Peter and John had no money, and Peter said to him, "Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee. In the name of Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk."

To the amazement of everyone there, the man actually rose, and not only walked, but leaped, and bounded into the temple to thank God for his healing.

"All the people" saw the man, and doubtless told those who had not been present, and word of it came to the temple authorities, and they had the two disciples brought before them. Peter was not afraid of martyrdom then. He glorified in his chance to tell of Christ and His Message.

Talking before the high priests and their kindred, he freely admitted the performance of the miracle (which none could deny, as the man was with the disciples), and the church authorities decided it was best to let them go, cautioning them that they should preach no more, and threatening them.

After this many miracles were performed and multitudes were added to the Lord. Peter and John were imprisoned by the church rulers, but an earthquake opened their prison and they went straightway to the temple and preached again.

Brought before the temple rulers again, they were asked why they persisted in doing what was forbidden, and Peter and the other apostles answered, "We must obey God rather than men," and that was that, until Peter at last was martyred—a truly great man.

Farm Forestry Program Is One Year Old In Pitt County Today

(N. S. (Kid) Tyson, Pitt County forest warden, passed along the following interesting story about forestry in Pitt and other counties.)

By JAMES R. RANKIN
Farm Forester

The farm forestry program in Pitt and Greene counties is a year old today. The program, designed primarily for farmers and owners of farm woodlots, is conducted by the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development, Division of Forestry.

Through the efforts of District Forester Ralph C. Winkworth, in recommending to the Division of Forestry that a farm forestry program be set up in this area, the program was initiated September 1949.

T. M. Hasell was the first farm forester and served until December, 1949. J. R. Rankin was appointed farm forester in January, 1950, and has been conducting the farm forestry program in Pitt and Greene counties since then. Other counties under the farm forestry program include Craven, Jones and Lenoir.

The farm forester gives free woodland management and marketing assistance to those requesting it. After a request for management assistance has been received by Rankin from a woodland owner through his county agent, county forest warden, soil conservationist, or through direct correspondence, Rankin contacts the landowner personally. With the landowner, the farm forester examines and studies the tract of timber in question very closely. Often it is necessary to take sample measurements in the stand to determine if a commercial volume is present and should be cut. Timber growth measurements are taken and explained to the landowner in terms of board feet grown over a period of time and in terms of interest per cent. Many timber owners are surprised to find that the per cent age growth in a stand of timber is usually higher than the per cent interest the landowner is receiving from his saving account at the bank.

After the stand of timber has been thoroughly examined to determine its composition, age, growth, and possibilities for future production of timber, Rankin then makes specific recommendations concerning the practices to be followed. Often a young stand of trees needs a thinning; most sawtimber-size stands have many trees that need to be removed. If there is an insect or disease problem, the proper treatment is advised.

The farm forestry program not only gives advice, but also gives service. Much of the service is in the form of timber marking. Whenever a woodlot needs thinning, or whenever sawtimber should be sold, the farm forester marks and estimates the volume in each tree that should be cut. After the trees are marked, the owner is supplied with a summary of the total volume marked and the names and addresses of lumber companies in his vicinity which are likely to be interested in buying the marked timber. Methods of sale are explained to the landowner by forester Rankin.

Of the 43 woodlot owners given management assistance in the five counties under the farm forestry program, five woodlot owners were in Greene County and 12 in Pitt County, early 750,000 board feet of timber was marked on 300 acres of farm woodlots in Greene County and over a million board feet was marked on 300 acres in Pitt. These totals for Greene and Pitt Counties compare favorably with the over-all totals of more than a thousand acres marked, containing approximately 2,500,000 board feet for the five counties under the program.

One explanation of the fire-walker's art is that the glowing coals are volcanic rocks, so porous they do not retain the heat although they appear to be white hot.

DO YOU NEED A NEW WATCH?

At a recent committee meeting, one member sat down at the table and laid his watch before him in plain sight. "I can stay until eleven-twenty," he said.

"You ought to get a stop-watch," said one of his friends.

"No," replied the first man, "what I need is not a stop-watch but a go-watch."

Probably many of us would do better in life with a go-watch, if there were such a thing—a device not just to measure time, but to make us get started. We fail to accomplish so much because we never get to us. And that happens so often. The better job we want never comes because we never begin to look for it. The great book remains unwritten because we never put the first word of it on paper. The great invention never appears because we never get around to trying out our idea.

Of course, some people fail in their efforts because they lack endurance. But most of us have a certain doggedness that makes us want to finish what we begin. What we actually start to do, we do pretty well. But the things we just don't ever quite start to do—that's where we need a go-watch.

One Solution To Parking Problems

Another progressive step has been taken in Greenville in the obtaining of a free public parking lot near the heart of the business district of the city.

The city officials who secured the parking lot only three blocks from five points have found another partial solution to Greenville's parking problems and traffic congestion. The lot will provide parking room for between 50 and 75 automobiles; and if the people take advantage of the lot, it should relieve a considerable amount of congestion in the vicinity of Five Points.

The parking lot which has been acquired cost the city very little. As a matter of fact, it cost the city only the amount it took to clean up the area and remove a few stumps. The use of the property has been granted the city free of charge by the owners.

Although the parking area will be a big help in relieving the local traffic problems, we doubt it will provide enough parking space to take care of all the overcrowding already on the Greenville streets. Perhaps the city will be able to obtain more property adjacent to the business district suitable for parking lots; or if the city is unable to take from this year's budget the funds necessary to provide parking lots, perhaps the merchants of Greenville could finance additional public parking lots.

Even though the parking lots are advantageous to the city in relieving street congestion, additional parking space near the shopping district of Greenville would surely be most beneficial to the merchants who have stores in the business section of Greenville.

They've Started Passing The Buck

That age old maneuver commonly known as passing the buck is appearing in the top brackets of the nation's brain trust. It doesn't look like a sign of strength.

Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson has announced to his critics that any complaints about his actions or ability to administer the country's military machinery should be taken to the president. He likewise took it upon himself to render the same advice to those who have expressed doubt if Secretary of State Acheson's ability in the field of foreign policy.

We have seen during the past two months that the military prowess of the United States has not proven itself as powerful as the administration leaders had led the people of the country to believe it was. The mobilization program which is getting underway is beginning to show many loose ends which in turn reflect what may be assumed to be a lack of proper planning.

It is true that the people of the country for the most part have been opposed to the country's keeping a really powerful war machine since the close of hostilities in World War II. Nevertheless, the administration regulated the military as it saw fit, and even went so far as to reduce the amounts congress was willing to appropriate for defense.

There is evidence of confusion in the nation's military planning even now. We are aware that the situation in Korea is serious, and the war potential throughout the world does not decrease as the days pass. The drafting of teen-agers and fathers for military service in itself indicates there is a pressing need for manpower in the ground forces.

Yet military officials in Washington offices of other branches of the service say they have large scale training programs already lined up awaiting either congressional sanction or presidential order. They have received neither.

As for confusion as to the nation's foreign policy among the top ranking officials, we have only to look at the statements of General MacArthur and Secretary of the Navy Matthews and compare them with the reaction from President Truman and Acheson.

From the indications so far received by the people of the country, it appears the international situation is more acute than the government has admitted to the people. It also appears that our military position is not as formidable as the people have been led to believe.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—A Truman-engineered attempt to stampede the California delegation of House Democrats into supporting Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas in that state's senatorial contest has precipitated such explosive resentment among the victims that she may lose rather than win votes because of the strategy.

A week ago, the Democratic members were surprised to receive an invitation from Navy Under Secretary Dan A. Kimball, a fellow-Californian, to have dinner and a sail down the Potomac on the naval yacht, the Sequoia.

Inasmuch as everybody likes Dan, and he serves most excellent dinners and before-and-after refreshments, they accepted gladly. It was to be a stag affair, they were informed, and they were warned not to bring their wives.

DUTY—When the guests had assembled for cocktails on the deck, Secretary Kimball appeared with Mrs. Douglas on his arm. Despite the injunction that it was to be a "stag" affair, it became obvious that she was the guest of honor rather than just another member of the state's delegation.

Secretary Kimball also let it be known that the White House expected every Congressman to do his duty by her in her contest with Representative Richard M. Nixon, the Republican nominee for the Senate. It was also intimated, since she is running on the same ticket, that they were expected to do the same for James Roosevelt, the party's candidate for Governor.

PICTURE—Hardly had the Sequoia guests recovered from their amazement at this performance before they were summoned to Speaker Rayburn's office for a mysterious audience.

When they arrived, the found the Speaker, Majority Leader McCormack and—again—Secretary Kimball on hand. They also found several still and movie photoraphers present, with their equipment already set up for picture-taking.

Under Mr. Kimball's Hollywoodish direction, the squirming members stood under the glare of the lights for elaborate shots in which, again, Mrs. Douglas was the principal political actress.

"MOUSE-TRAPPED"—The members' resentment over being "mouse-trapped," as they describe the effort to make it appear that Mrs. Douglas has their solid backing, has reached the boiling point, although few will express their feelings publicly.

One reason for their bitter reaction is that many of them do not agree with the Congresswoman's radical stand on many matters, and have sided against her on large and minor questions.

Representing relatively conservative districts, some of them would alienate former supporters if they tried to win votes for her. In fact, several hope that she doesn't find time to speak in their districts.

CROSS-FILING—Mrs. Douglas will carry a torch for the Fair Deal's domestic and foreign policies, as she has on the floor of the House. But quite a few Democrats intend to leave Mr. Truman, Secretary Acheson and Secretary Johnson out of their speeches entirely, campaigning on their own records and on their own personalities.

Moreover, several Democratic Representatives have been endorsed by the Republicans under California's cross-filing system. They might toss away this reservoir of votes if they urged her election directly or indirectly. Others sought the GOP nomination, and missed getting it by only a few thousand votes.

INDEPENDENT—Moreover, California is not a "one package" state politically, because of the independent spirit of the electorate.

Members prefer to run as individuals, without tying to the presidential, gubernatorial or senatorial tickets, unless a candidate on those slates happens to be unusually strong. They do not so regard Mrs. Douglas.

"Furthermore," remarks an outspoken Democrat, "she has never done anything for us or for the delegation generally. She has worked for Helen Gahagan Douglas, and nobody else. We'll do the same next November, no matter what the White House wants!"

PLAYBOY—Dan Kimball's active intervention in partisan politics has furnished the Republicans of that and other states with possibly effective ammunition for the Congressional contests. For that matter, they will try to capitalize on the President's own partisan participation at a time of world crisis.

As Under Secretary of a beleaguered and economy-battered navy, they will argue, Mr. Kimball should be attending to more important matters than staging political parties right now. In fact, in view of the many dinners and cocktail parties which Secretary Matthews and he hold aboard the Sequoia, they have been dubbed the "playboy sailors."

As recently reported here, Mr. Truman helped to engineer the William D. O'Dwyer appointment to Mexico solely as an assist to New York Democrats. Likewise, he is spending a lot of his energy on behalf of Senate Leader Lucas In Illinois and Senate Whip Myers in Pennsylvania. He is putting off hard decisions that might lose votes in every way possible.

But the Truman-Kimball-Douglas scenario is the most spectacular demonstration yet of this sort of extracurricular activity, coming in the midst of our difficulties in Korea and Formosa and Europe.

Chef's special on the menu of an Atlanta, Georgia, restaurant: "Yankee Pot Roast—Southern Style." —Helen Andrew in Coronet.

Before jumping to the conclusion that gas rationing is in the immediate offing, the current position of the oil industry should be considered. It reveals clearly a startling ten-year story of expansion in both reserves and productive capacity.

In 1940, domestic crude oil production averaged 3,560,000 barrels daily. In 1950 domestic crude output is close to 5,500,000 barrels daily. And if all the nation's oil wells were operating at capacity, the daily output would be nearly 7,000,000 barrels.

Rap For Order

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

If you asked me why we are fighting the war in Korea I would say that we have to stop Russia before she gets so much territory that she decides she wants us. Of course one of our basic freedoms that we are protecting is our freedom of religion. Therefore, I have chosen a story about religion in America for today's column.

The Seventh Day Adventists will not take human life, so if you don't read this you will probably surmize that the members of this denomination in wartime would be called "conscientious objectors." As a Methodist, I would have thought that, until I read a report on the recent activities of this group.

The Seventh Day Adventists call themselves, and rightly so, "conscientious cooperators." Just because they do not believe in taking human life does not mean that they are unwilling to pitch in the fight to protect our freedom. The Adventists have secured an abandoned CCC camp near Beulah, Colorado, to train their youngsters in accordance with a program worked out by the Surgeon General's Office in Washington.

This program is not new. In World War II, 10,000 Adventists were trained under a similar program set up by the church. The head of the training program this time is a 52-year-old history professor by the name of Everett Dick, who served in the Marines in WW I. The course of study in the camp includes first aid, military sanitation, trement of chemical warfare casualties, intelligence, map reading, and military courtesy. The first group to report to cap was 150 strong. They paid their own transportation, shelled out $8 each for their own uniforms, paid 50 cents a night for their beds, and 30 to 60 cents for their meals.

This training program lasts only two weeks, but leaves the men well trained, considering the length of the course. One reason for the effectiveness of the program is that the boss, "Colonel" Dick, believes that you get out of anything exactly what you put into it. The Colonel has the boys jumping from six in the morning until nine thirty at night.

The program will not end at the CCC camp. Of the first group, 50 of the 150 are ministers, teachers and youth workers, who will go home to set up other branches of the program. After this preliminary training, the Adventists will stand by for military service in the noncombatant groups.

Carlyle B. Haynes, an Adventist executive, said, "We despise the term 'conscientious objector' and we despise the philosophy back of it . . . We are not pacifists, and we believe in force for justice's sake, but a Seventh Day Adventist cannot take human life."

And I thank you.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

IMPORTANCE OF VOTING
(New Bern Sun-Journal)

In days gone by, our citizens would walk miles through the wilderness to vote because they knew their vote was important to good government. Nowadays there is dangerous laxity on the part of a great number of voters who think that a single vote has no value. This is just what minority groups seeking power want the voters to think. A light vote gives an organized, designing minority a chance to gain power.

A heavy vote is the best assurance of representative government because then a minority cannot "steal" an election. Voting may not seem important to some who have lost sight of what it cost in blood and suffering to gain the liberties we all enjoy, but they are sadly mistaken. By accepting the rights we enjoy as God-given, the more apt we are to fall prey to the snares of those who would destroy our liberties.

The tragedy is that the promoters of our destruction generally accomplish their ends with tax dollars under the guise of offering beneficient handouts.

We will lose our freedom if we permit a minority to saddle us with socialism as a result of a light vote.

So become a staunch pot- walloper (See dictionary) and get out and vote at every election to save your own bacon.

BY WAY OF ILLUSTRATION
(Greensboro Daily News)

If anyone wishes a persons illustration of how congressional economy goes, there is the contrast between the words and deals of Ohio's Senator Robert A. Taft, to select only one member who happens at this moment to be particularly in the limelight.

In his weekly report to his Ohio constituency who, need we recall, will shortly have to pass upon his availability at the polls, Senator Taft wrote:

I had hoped that we might cut the expenses of the government a sufficient amount so that there would be only a small deficit this year and a balanced budget next year. I felt convinced that savings of $5 billion could be accomplished in our domestic nonmilitary and foreign aid programs.

But close on the heels of that written declaration came the following Associated Press bulletin from Washington:

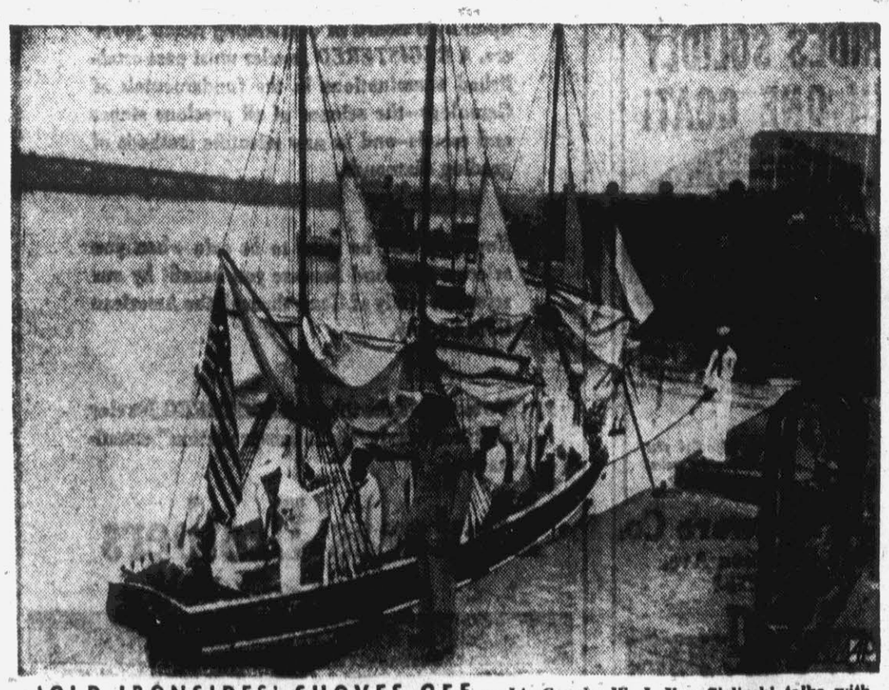

The senate tonight on motion of Senator Taft (Republican, Ohio) added $540,000 to the general appropriations bill for a flood control project at Roseville, Ohio.

Obviously economy is more talked about than acted upon, especially when it deals with something that concerns you and the state or district in which you must for re-election. So far members of Congress have simply been unable to find any cause, project or program which is wholly somebody else's.

We Borrow Philippine Tanks
(Ayden Dispatch)

Mr. John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser to the State Department, speaking in the last days of July, asserted that the tanks "now being used in Korea were begged from the Philippine Government because we didn't have enough of our own to send."

This statement comes under the category of news but, we presume the borrowing of tanks, previously given to the Philippine Government, was due, not to a lack of tanks in this country but to the fact that tanks from the Islands cuold be gotten to Korea much more quickly than those from the United States.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

The three-months-old strike in chemical plants turning out 70 per cent of the nation's production of soda ash has had serious repercussions on American business which will continue long after the strike is settled. It may lead to higher prices for such things as beverages and clothing.

The situation has been worsened by a reduction of supplies from abroad, caused by a strike of Italian soda ash workers and Dutch port workers.

Soda ash is an important material in the manufacture of glass, viscose rayon, a long list of chemicals including many essentials to rearming, and the dyeing and printing of silk and rayon.

The shortage of soda ash has already caused some cutback of dyeing and printing work at the height of the season and some bottle-making plants have been reduced to three days' production a week.

The scarcity of bottles has caused some large distillers to buy soda ash in the open market—where prices have tripled—and turn it over to glass makers in return for adequate supplies of bottles. The distillers have a precendent for this kind of deal. When oak barrels for aging whisky became scarce during the war, distillers bought cut oak and even stands of trees to assure their coopers of wood. Some even went into barrel manufacture themselves.

The higher cost of bottles, and the shortage of fabrics may result in higher costs to consumers.

The total effect on war production has not been disclosed. Most large industrial plants buy such basic things as soda ash from three to six months ahead, so the defense program may not have suffered yet. But stockpiles have dwindled and the government has forbidden the export of soda ash outside the Western Hemisphere without an export license. This embargo becomes effective today. Government seizure of soda ash plants has been suggested.

The strike has gone on so long that an end now would not relieve the situation immediately. There is a strong possibility that as full production resumes, it may be necessary to allot supplies to assure enough for defense industries.

HIGH WOOL PRICES WILL HIT CLOTHING

Those skyrocketing wool prices at the opening of the Australian market this week portend higher clothing prices for Americans.

Prices have been around a dollar a pound, compared to an average of 59.6 cents a year ago. Some sales were made at double 1949 prices.

Since the wool market is an international affair, prices paid in Sydney will be reflected in all markets, and the price of wool will be reflected in the price of wool, worsted and mixed fabrics.

The price is governed by the demand and the New York wool market believes that a large part of the buying has been on behalf of Russia.

There are two small bright spots: higher wool prices will enrich the Australian market for the sale of American imports; higher wool prices will make American sheep men a better market for manufactured goods.

SHOPPING COUPONS GOOD FOR MILEAGE

A new, copyrighted, coupon premium plan has gone into operation in Richmond, Va.

The coupons are sold to stores, which give them away as bonuses with purchases, much like trading stamps are. The coupons are then redeemable for travel tickets at the rate of one mile of travel for every dollar spent. Taxes are extra. Coupons are in quarter-mile, half-mile, one-mile and five-mile denominations.

Hal Boyle's Column

Pohang Airstrip, Korea—(AP)—There are few things in the world more lonely than an abandoned air field.

The silence rushes in when the roar of engines can be heard no more and the whistle of departing wings has died away. The long runway along which planes lifted and landed on busy missions becomes a rusty metal skeleton, and sparrows again claim the peaceful yellow dust for feather baths.

Returning the other day to this airstrip was like going back to a home you once had lived in, and finding it bare, haunted by mice and old memories, and guarded by a strange policeman at the door.

It had changed that much.

But less than three weeks ago this was the busiest fighter base in South Korea, and the nearest to the front. The boys nicknamed it "the Cleveland Municipal Airport."

From dawn to dusk ground crews sweated and strained under a steaming midsummer sun to tune the planes and load them with bombs and rockets. And sometimes bright, talented young pilots, clad in shabby and torn flying dungarees they kept on wearing "for good luck," flew as many as three sky cavalry charges against the enemy in a single day.

At evening they watched the sun sink in red splendor beyond the western hills and turned massed clouds into great chariots of blue and gold and a strange soft yellow that fired them with a sense of mystery. Behind them the sea darkened into black. A cooling breeze sprang up and dried their sweat. And it was a good night indeed if, before they yawned themselves to sleep on cots in their tents, they could share a few cans of beer ferried over from Japan by a friendly transport pilot.

But this serenity vanished when the enemy they had been attacking by air suddenly began to attack their base from the ground. The Reds seized Pohang only six miles away.

The airmen flew their missions by day and then grabbed carbines and guarded the field at night until infantry could be rushed up to protect it. But the enemy got within artillery range and shells began to drop around the airstrip.

To keep from losing their planes the pilots had to gas them up and then fly to another field farther behind the lines. The ground crews took down the tents and loaded them on boats and sailed away. And they took with them the American flag that had flown proudly from a hill near the runway. That was on Aug. 13.

Since then the Reds have been tossed out of Pohang. They have tried again to take the city and been repulsed. A strong force of American Negro doughboys and white artillerymen have held the airbase all the while but the enemy is still too near for it to resume combat operations.

A few transport planes do land there to bring supplies. I rode up with one this week. Only one other plane was parked by the runway from which dozens of fighters used to swarm up daily. A lone jeep wheeled over carrying two anti-aircraft officers—Lt. Wilbert Harrison, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Lt. William Salley of Springfield, S.C.

They meet each plane as small towners a generation ago went down to see the trains come in.

"We have to," said Lt. Calley. "We haven't been eating so well here and our headquarters in Japan has been flying us in fresh vegetables. If we aren't here when the plane lands someone else gets them."

They drove us over to the infantry command post and an officer said:

"Our men go out and comb the hills every morning. We find one or two now and then—but it has been pretty quiet."

It was quiet, too, as we drove back along the empty, rutted road to our plane. I felt homesick as we passed the deserted spot where the operations tent had stood. In the silence I could hear the past laughter of pilots eagerly telling what they had seen and done on their missions.

"We are fixing up a place to live in," said Lt. Harrison. "We are going to call it 'Rocket House' because we are building it out of the wooden boxes they ship rockets in. Everybody's been chasing lumber. We can't leave now. We got a huge investment here."

He was joking. But as our plane took off and circled the rusting runway, the lonesome grass bleached tops where the tents had stood, I knew that this haunted airfield would come to life. And an American flag flying from the hilltop will again banner young fliers to home and rest.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINTON — Every three years representatives of the 3,000,000 members of the Associated Country Women of the World get together and talk things over in convention.

This September the organization, now headed by an American, Mrs. Raymond Sayre, of Ackworth, Ia., is sending about 700 rural women to convene in Denmark. The association embraces 25 countries.

"This time we feel it's our great chance to meet women from all over the world face to face, talk out our problems and work out a general program for settling world difficulties and misunderstandings," says Mrs. Helen Dean Dodderidge of Washington.

Mrs. Dodderidge is president of the Capital Division of the National Farm and Garden Association, an affiliate of the Countrywomen. She will also represent the Department of Agriculture at the convention. She is an information specialist at the department and will serve as press officer for the U. S. at the conference

"We will talk about improved conditions in living, health, housing, nutrition," she said "The 200 American women delegates will try to convince other countrywomen that the United States wants peace and has no imperialistic ambitions."

Mrs. Dodderidge says three of the women are taking their husbands along. Many of them saved their butter and egg money for the trip. Some are being sent by their local organizations — their Farm Bureau unit, Home Demonstration Council, Farm and Garden club or National Master Farm Homemakers guild. One husband sold his stamp collection to finance "mother's trip."

Mrs. Alonzo Pettys, of Brush, Colo., wife of a rancher, is leaving in the middle of campaigning for member-at-large on the State Board of Education. Mrs. Raymond Daniels, Woodbury, Vt., member of the state legislature, and Mrs. W. E. Nichols, Lexington, Ky., vice chairman of the Countrywomen's Council, U.S.A., and wife of a country judge, are among those going.

The association was organized in 1930 under the guidance of a British woman, Lady Eleanor Cole, and its headquarters are in London.

Former Daily Reflector Reporter Has Draft Call

Washington, Sept. 1—The Korean war emergency made its first pass at personnel of North Carolina congressional offices this week.

Eugene Price of Greenville and Elizabeth City, press secretary to Rep. Herbert C. Bonner, had the honor—he regarded it as a dubious distinction—of being the first Tar Heel on Capitol Hill to get his country's call to arms.

Price, who was a Greenville newspaperman before joining the Bonner staff early this year, was notified by his Elizabeth City draft board to report in Raleigh September 6 for physical examination prior to induction.

Strangely enough, two of the youth's closest Capitol Hill associates, one from Texas and the other from Virginia, received draft board "greetings" simultaneously.

Price said he was in good physical condition, and that he anticipates passing the Raleigh test and being in uniform by the end of next month.

September Will Equal June For Ship Launchings

New York—(AP)—The peace-time record for American merchant ship launchings, set in June when three large vessels went down the ways, will be repeated in September. The New York Shipbuilding Corp. at Camden, N. J., and Bethlehem Steel's Fore River plant at Quincy, Mass., will launch in September sister ships of those put in the water in June.

At Camden, The Atlantic Engineer will follow in the wake of the Atlantic Seaman, each co-sharing the honor of being the largest tanker in the world. When completed, they each can carry 11,500,000 gallons of petroleum products. Later in the month at the same yard the 'round-the-world liner President Adams will take the same plunge as the President Jackson did in June. At Quincy it will be the Constitution, the companion Mediterranean luxury liner to the recently launched Independence.

Bonner Calls For Reply To Charge On Surplus Items

Washington, Sept. 1—Inter-Governmental Relations Subcommittee Chairman Herbert C. Bonner (D-NC) today instructed officials of the Federal Security Agency, the Department of Defense, General Services, and the Bureau of the Budget to draft a joint statement in answer to charges of a North Carolina newspaper.

The Raleigh News and Observer last week charged in a news story and later in an editorial that war surplus property is being given away by the government which is at the same time having to buy some of the same type material for military expansion.

Congressman Bonner, who immediately initiated an investigation, ordered the joint statement drawn up after a two hour hearing yesterday morning at which Nathan R. Brodsky of the Department of Defense admitted that errors in administrating such a vast surplus disposal program are inevitable.

Brodsky declared, however, that no usable material is being disposed of knowingly. He pointed out that material is screened and rescreened to ascertain whether it is usable before it is turned loose.

Dr. Arthur L. Harris of the Office of Education under the Federal Security Agency, acknowledged that surplus material is still being given away under the donable educational-aid program but that the program is being curtailed by repeated screening. He explained that only out-dated equipment for which replacement parts are hard to obtain are disposed of now.

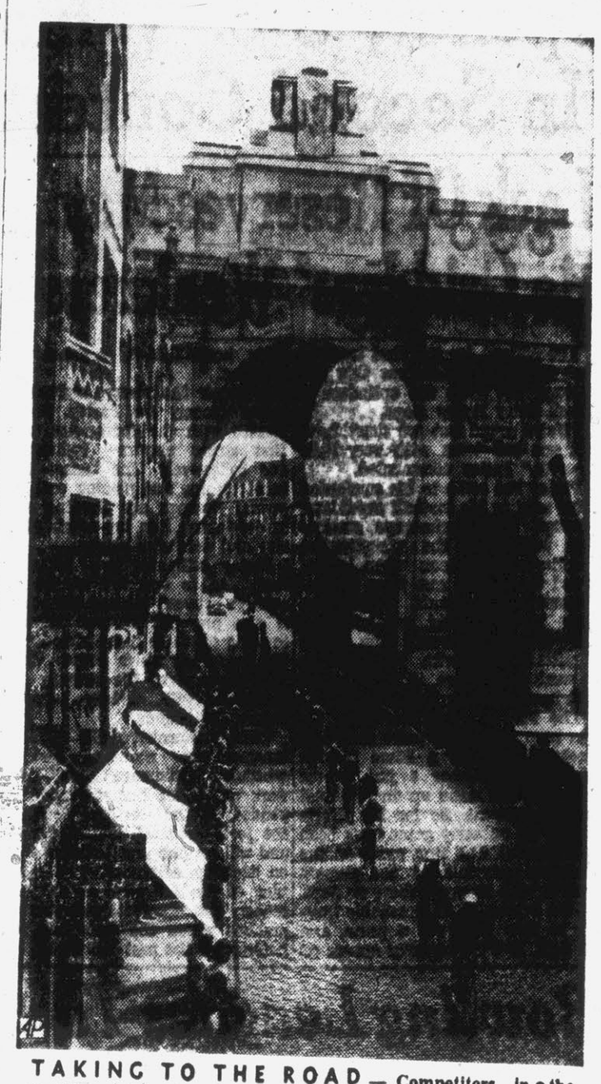

Maxwell Elliott of the General Services Administration, in answer to a direct query from Mr. Bonner, said that all means have not been taken to stop the disposition of surplus which may be needed. He hastened to explain, however, that "all known methods" are being employed. He said there are still flaws in the program and that "holes will have to be plugged as they appear."

Bureau of the Budget representative Ray Ward explained to the subcommittee the difficulty of syncronizing the big buying and disposal programs.

Congressman Bonner, in a statement following the meeting, declared: "We are keeping on our toes watching this thing. We will use every possible effort to stop waste and yet let the military have everything which is needed."

Mr. Bonner said the statement from the various agencies will probably be ready for release by Friday evening. Representatives of the agencies went into a huddle this afternoon to prepare the statement.

Trial Continued Until December

Franklin, N.C., Sept. 1—(AP)—The trial of Curtis Shedd, accused of strangling two South Carolina sisters, has been continued until the December term of Macon County Superior Court.

The postponement was announced by Judge J. Will Pless of Marion.

Shedd, an ex-convict from Walhalla, S.C., is accused of slaying Johnnie May and Jo Ann Boyter several weeks ago.

Robins Edged In Opener, 3-2, Whip Rocky Mount 12-2 In Second Contest

Split Moves Robins Up To Sixth Place; Home Run In Overtime Inning Won First Game For Leafs; Heavy Batting Attack, Including Grand Slam Homer By Tepedino, Featured In Nightcap

By BERT MOYE

The Robins gained a split with the Rocky Mount Leafs over in Rocky Mount last night, losing the opening game, 3-2, and then coming back to wallop the Leafs 12-2 in the nightcap. The split for the Robins moves them up a notch to sixth place in league standings and two and one-half games behind the fourth place Wilson Tobs.

First Game

Art Freiberger's wallop over the left centerfield wall to start off the ninth frame, ended a 2-2 tie and gave the Leafs a 3-2 win over the Robins in the first game of a twin bill.

The game was knotted a two-all at the end of the third frame when Babe Johnson smacked one out of the park over the left field wall after the Leafs had put across a tally in the first frame on three successive singles.

The Robins made their two runs in the top of the third to take the lead at 2-1 for the time being. Matt Hall led over with a single. Pete Braun sacrificed him to second and then Dick Bland lined a single into centerfield to plate Hall and right-fielder Reges let the ball get away from him and roll to the fence. Bland made it to third base. Johnny Tepedino's single brought him Bland after Strausser had grounded out.

Rookie Pete Braun and Dan Red Benton hitched up in a pitching duel. Braun scattered nine hits very effectively throughout the contest and with the exception of the first frame when the Leafs bunched together three of them, he was complete master of the situation. The loss for Braun was his fourth of the current season and his second to the Leafs, both of which were by one run margins.

Dick Bland and Johnny Tepedino each got two singles to lead the seven-hit attack off the Leaf hurler.

Second Game

Manager Randy Heflin's Robins blasted four Rocky Mount hurlers for four home runs including a grand-slam homer by Johnny Tepedino, the first of the year for the Robins, to wallop the Leafs 12-2 in the second game of the doubleheader.

The Robins started things going in the first frame when Tepedino walked and on two wild pitches went to third. Bartolozzi singled to bring him home and then Sal Valvano hit his first homer of the game over the left field wall to bring in Tepedino ahead of him.

Five more runs were added in the second frame when Guidice and Dunlavey walked. Bland hit to short left field to load the bases. Strausser was walked to force in Guidice and then Johnny Tepedino blasted his grand-slam homer over the left field wall. It was his second homer in the past three days.

In the fifth frame Sal Valvano led off with his second round-tripper over the left field barrier and then after Allegretti had been walked, Dunlavey blasted a homer over the left centerfield wall to bring in Allegretti ahead of him.

For good measure the Robins added another one in the ninth when Valvano tripled into right centerfield and scored on an infield out by Allegretti.

The Leafs scored a singleton in the first frame on a walk and two singles and tallied again in the sixth when Bill Fowler homered over the left field wall.

Sal Valvano with two homers and a triple in five trips to the plate led nine-hit attack off the four Leaf hurlers.

Vince Jones went the route for the Robins and registered his 13th win of the season as he pitched a neat five-hitter against the Leafs, all of which were scattered among as many Leaf players.

The Robins journey over to Wilson tonight to meet the Tobs in the first of a two-game series and return home tomorrow night for a single contest with the Tobs.

Lack Of Reserves May Be Gridders' Weakness

The outlook for the first team of the Greenville Phantoms this fall is rosy; but there the optimism of Coach Boley Farley stops.

"We've found out we don't have but one ball team with very little reserves," Farley commented.

Farley has come to his conclusion after sending his football candidates through daily scrimmage sessions this week with the exception of Wednesday afternoon when he allowed the boys a rest from the organized rough stuff. "Our first team looks pretty good running against our reserves," the coach admitted, "but with the reserves as weak as they are, it's hard to tell just how good the first team is."

The Phantom's mentor said he has been trying for more than two weeks to arrange a game for his boys on September 8 just to see how they will stand up under actual game conditions. So far his efforts to line up an early game have been unsuccessful. The first game on the Phantom schedule at the present time is with Edenton there on Sept. 15. On September 22 Greenville travels to New Bern for a game, and on Sept. 29 the Phantoms appear on their home field in a game with Hertford.

Although the reserve outlook is rather gloomy for Farley, he is pleased with the appearance of his first string players— individually and collectively. The backs have been running and passing well, and several linemen are showing signs of developing into top-notch offensive and defensive players.

Farley estimates that his line from end to end this season will average between 155 and 160 pounds if the present linesmen continue to hang on their first string berths. The backfield which Farley thinks will get most of the starting assignments will average approximately 150 pounds.

Today's morning drills were interrupted by showers, and the scheduled scrimmage and heavy work slated for this afternoon depended on the weather. Tomorrow the footballers will take a day off, and will resume practice once a day on Monday afternoon. The beginning of the fall term of the city schools will eliminate the morning practice which the team has been holding for the past two weeks.

Bowling Leagues To Resume Activities

Plans are being made for the resumption of activities by five bowling leagues in Greenville next week and during the first week in October.

Manager George Heap of the Bowling Center said two leagues will begin competition next week, and the other three are expected to begin October 1. The newly named Classic League, which is the same league which went under the name of Industrial in the competition last winter and spring, will be composed of four teams and is slated to begin knocking over the pins Tuesday night.

So far there are three teams lined up for the league, and the fourth team is being organized. Hodges Hardware, Carolina Dairy and Bilbro Wholesale will be the banners for the teams of the league, and the name under which the fourth team will bowl is to be announced later.

On Thursday night the four-team Women's League will begin the bowling competition. The league is composed of teams of College View Cleaners, Double N Restaurant, WGTC and Carolina Cleaners.

Two leagues of the National Carbon Company which will bowl on Monday nights and Wednesday afternoons, respectively, will begin competition about October 1, as will the City League which will be composed of teams of Saad's Shoe Shop, Norris Texaco Service, State Highway and Public Works, Carolina Grill, Greenville Motor Parts and Folger Buick Company.

Manager George Heap of the Bowling Center said an invitation will be issued to the civic clubs of Greenville to enter teams in a civic league. "We would like to see the Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis, Jaycees and Masons in a bowling league this year," he stated. Heap added that efforts are being made to organize a bowling league for high school boys and a league for high school girls which would bowl after school one day a week.

There are still vacancies for bowlers on teams in the City League and the Women's League. Anyone interested in becoming a member of either of the leagues may secure information about the league from Heap or Bob Rath at the center.

Trophies, medals and prizes will be awarded to the winners in all the bowling leagues at the end of the competition.

Yankees Leading, But Schedule Against Them

New York, Sept. 1—(AP)—The lead is with the Yankees but the schedule favors Detroit and Cleveland in the stretch run of the American League baseball race.

The slumping Tigers have 23 games at home and only seven away. Twelve of the remaining games are with contending clubs, including seven with Cleveland.

The Indians have 17 games at home and nine on the road. Besides the seven tilts with Detroit, they have two remaining with the Yankees and two with Boston.

New York, on the other hand, has a majority of its games away from Yankee Stadium during the final drive—18 of 28 still on tap. They have three with Detroit and two with Cleveland.

Their big test will come with the Red Sox, whom they play four times in Boston and twice in New York.

Boston, deadly at Fenway Park, has only 11 games left there with 16 on the road.

Gussy Moran Gone, Nancy Chaffee Is New Glamor Queen Of Amateurs

Forest Hills, N. Y. Sept. 1—(AP)—Now that Gussy Moran has joined the pro ranks, the Glamor Queen of amateur tennis is Nancy Chaffee, who besides being pretty is a mighty fine player.

But Nancy is more interested in being the National champion than the most beautiful girl in tennis. She stands a good chance of realizing her ambition, probably not this year, but sometime in the near future.

Yesterday she polished off Wimbledon champion Louise Brough, who was seeded third in the woman's division of the National singles, 6-2 7-5, in the third round. Louise, at 27, was a mighty tired gal when they finished.

"Boy," Nancy enthused, "I've never played a better, or smarter game of tennis. I usually try to wham the daylights out of the ball, and have a tendency to overshoot my mark. This time, though I played it smart, and paced myself. When Louise rushed to the net, I could pass her by standing back and trying for placements."

The conversation naturally shifted around to her looks, and a comparison with gorgeous Gussy Nancy probably will be known as charming Chaffee, since there doesn't seem to be an alliteration for Nancy to describe her.

"I don't care whether I'm a beauty or not," she sniffed. "My panties are not lace and I have a crew haircut, but if I win the championship, I won't care."

Locke Leading In British Open

Leeds, England, Sept. 1—(AP)—Bobby Locke, South African holder of the British open golf title, led the field today with 68-68—136 at the half way point of the Lotus $4200 72-hole stroke tournament.

On shot behind him is Irishman Fred Daly, a former open champion, and back in third place at 139 is Welshman Dai Rees.

Art Clark of Huntington, W. Va. qualified for the final rounds with 73-72—145

Pet Fox Runs Mad And Dies

Floyd Robertson reported to police yesterday that a pet fox at the O. L. Butts home, near Maplewood Cemetery, went mad the other day and died.

The report to authorities stated numerous dogs roam at large in the neighborhood. It was suggested that these stray dogs be picked up and held for observation for rabies. Enoch Elisha Jones, official dog catcher, is investigating the case.

3-Game Series Makes Or Breaks Braves' Chances

Boston, Sept. 1—(AP)—The Boston Braves and League leading Philadelphia Phillies open a three-game series tonight which could make or break the Tribe's chance of getting into serious contention for the title.

The Braves—now in third place, eight and one-half games behind the Phillies—plan to send Max Surkont, a newcomer, after the first one.

Surkont has won two since joining the Tribe a week ago Monday—one as a starter and the other as a reliefer.

The Phillies will counter with their fine rookie, Bubba Church. Church has a record of 7-2.

The Phillies, buoyed by a successful western trip, look upon the series as one of the most important of the season.

Saturday night is Player Appreciation Night at Guy Smith Stadium. Promoters of the event hope that local fans will give substantial evidence of their appreciation for what Manager Randy Heflin and his boys have done for Greenville this year in providing the number one sport—baseball.

The Wilson Tobs will assist in the entertainment by meeting the Robins here for the last time during the regular season.

Charlie "Bobo" Butler, former announcer out at the park, is doing all right for himself as an umpire in the Class B Piedmont league. Fans who have witnessed his work as an arbiter say fans over in that league like his work, that is as much as is possible for baseball fans to like the decisions of any umpire.

Here is the way the Robins came out in the 20-game series with the Jays during the past season. The Jays won 13 and lost 7. They scored a total of 122 runs while the Robins scored 113. The wins included four by one run, one by 7 runs, one by 8 runs, and one by 12 runs. Losses included 7 by one run, one by three runs, two by four runs, two by six runs and one by nine runs. The clubs played two doubleheaders and split both times. The Robins shutout the Jays once to nothing to for the Jays. They played three extra-inning contests with the Robins losing two and winning one of the over time tilts.

There is something about the New York Yankees which holds a certain attachment for the young boys. A majority of them would like to play for the Yankees when they grow up.

Looking back over the history of great Yankee players of the past and present one can begin to understand some of the traits which have been associated with the youthful like of the Yanks.

Babe Ruth, the one and only, was almost a legendary figure. He was the highest paid player of his day. He hit the most home runs. He drew the most players into Yankee stadium. And without doubt he was one of the most colorful figures ever to don a baseball uniform.

Lou Gehrig was no slough of a player. He stood many years in the shadows and saw Ruth billed as the main attraction. But Gehrig was a great first baseman, a great hitter, and a great gentleman.

Bill Dickey is another Yankee great who was one of the finest catchers ever to don the mask and mitt. He teamed with Ruth and Gehrig in the era when the Yankees were power itself.

Tony Lazzeri, Bob Meusel, Goofy Gomez, Herb Pennock, Koenig, Rolfe, Keller, Pipp, and dozens of others basked in the limelight of Yankee tradition and prestige. But Miller Huggins was a manager who belonged to a team of greats. He too helped build that Yankee prestige. And there is Col. Jacob Ruppert who took great pride in the Yankee tradition.

Today as we look back over the long line of players who have worn the Yankee uniform, we think of the youngsters who today are members of that team. The fact that they are with the Yankees seems to give them added inspiration, and seems to give them a feeling of greatness.

Joe DiMaggio belongs to the Yankee greats. He is still playing, but his years are numbered. Tommy Henreich is a great ball player, but his playing days ebbing. Scooter Rizzuto is a great shortstop, but he is getting along in years. A new crop springs up to take its place in the Yankee sun. And each generation of Yankee players knows in his heart that tradition is steeped in Yankee stadium.

Launch Sale Of Football Tickets

The sale of 600 reserve football tickets to the five East Carolina Teachers College home ball games was launched this morning by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The money from the sale of the season tickets will go to the Athletic Scholarship fund at the college.

All of the tickets being sold by the JCs are located between the 25-40 yard line and are reserved seats.

Last year over 1200 tickets were put on sale but this year the number has been cut in half due to the larger demand by the students at the college.

The Pirates this year will play five home ball games with the opening contest coming on September 30, as the locals meet the strong Hampden-Sidney team from Norfolk.

The night contests this year are all being played on Saturday night, with game time set for eight o'clock. Cost of the tickets which may be obtained from any member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce is $7.50.

Other civic clubs will aid in the sale of the tickets as soon as plans can be worked out.

Top-Seeded Macclesfield Is Defeated By Pinetops, 4-3

Farmville, Sept. 1—Top-seeded Macclesfield, which had been expected to make a clean sweep of the Bright Leaf Belt playoffs, fell before Pinetops last night by a tight score of 4-3.

The game was a pitcher's duel all the way, and was tied up after the fifth inning with the score standing at 3-3. In the top half of the eighth inning, Spec Stokes slammed a home run out of the park to send Pinetops ahead for good.

The loss last night moves Macclesfield into a two-way tie with Pinetops for second place in the semi-final playoffs.

Farmville, which finished the regular season in second place, still retains its first position berth, at least until tonight. The league leaders meet Ormondsville tonight at the Farmville ball park in a very important contest.

For Pinetops it was Lanier on the mound and Webb; while for Macclesfield it was Vic and Evans.

The standings in the Bright Belt League playoffs:

	W	L	Pct.
Farmville	1	0	1.000
Pinetops	1	1	.500
Macclesfield	1	1	.500
Ormondsville	0	1	.000

The semifinal series enters its second round tonight for Farmville and Ormondsville in the five-game series. The winner of three-out-of-five contests of the Farmville-Ormondsville series will meet the winner of the Pinetops-Macclesfield playoffs in a championship battle.

The pitchers for tonight's game between Farmville and Ormondsville scheduled to get underway at eight o'clock are: Clark for Farmville and Little for Ormondsville.

Hodges Hits Four Homers To Help Brooklyn Gain On Phillies

By Joe Reichler
Associated Press Sports Writer

Gil Hodges, called by many the strongest man in the National League, has just about proved it.

The husky Brooklyn first baseman hit four home runs last night to record a feat performed only five times before in major league baseball. Hodges' walloping of four separate Boston Brave pitchers temporarily shared attention with the hot American League pennant race.

It happened at Ebbets field as the Dodgers trounced the Braves, 19-3, to gain a half-game on the idle Philadelphia Phillies. The Phillies still lead the National League by six games.

In the American League, Detroit's stumbling Tigers blew a 2-1 game to Washington and dropped two games behind the American League leaders, the New York Yankees, victorious over Cleveland, 7-5.

The five other major leaguers with four home runs in the record book are Bobby Lowe, 1894 Boston Nationals; Ed Delehanty, 1896 Philadelphia Nationals; Lou Gehrig, 1932 New York Yankees; Chuck Klein, 1936 Philadelphia Phillies, and Pat Seerey, 1948 Chicago White Sox.

Hodges also equaled the major league record for total bases in a game—17. The big slugger came up six times, singling and grounding out when he didn't connect for the circuit, and drove in nine runs.

Hodges now is ev[illegible] entire 1949 output [illegible]

Gil's fourth [illegible] 153 for the Brook[illegible] the club's record season.

The American League battle saw Boston's blistering Red Sox climb to within a half game of second-place Detroit with a 4-3 decision over the Chicago White Sox. It was the Beantown Band's 16th victory in 17 games.

Cleveland, in bowing to the Yanks and losing the entire four-game series, fell five games off the pace. The Indians are fourth.

The only other American League competition saw the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Browns split. The Browns won the opener, 4-3, and the A's the nightcap, 3-2.

Council Scouts' Swimming Meet Set For September 2

Sherman Parks, Greenville, director of the East Carolina Council, Boy Scouts Swimming Meet, announced today that plans have been completed for the fourteen teams, representing the fourteen districts of the council, to hold their council finals at the Tarboro Municipal Swimming Pool Saturday, September 2nd, at 2:00 o'clock.

Controversial Prison Report Will Be Used As Highway Commission Guide

aleigh, N. C., Sept. 1—(AP)—The e highway commission plans to the controversial MacCormick ort as a prison guide.

his was decided by the commis- at a special meeting yesterday. the same time, the commission ed to continue its employes up insurance program with the necticut General Life Company another year.

he commission also adopted a lution calling for division en- ers to recommend weight re- tions on newly paved roads er the state's $200,000,000 rural l program.

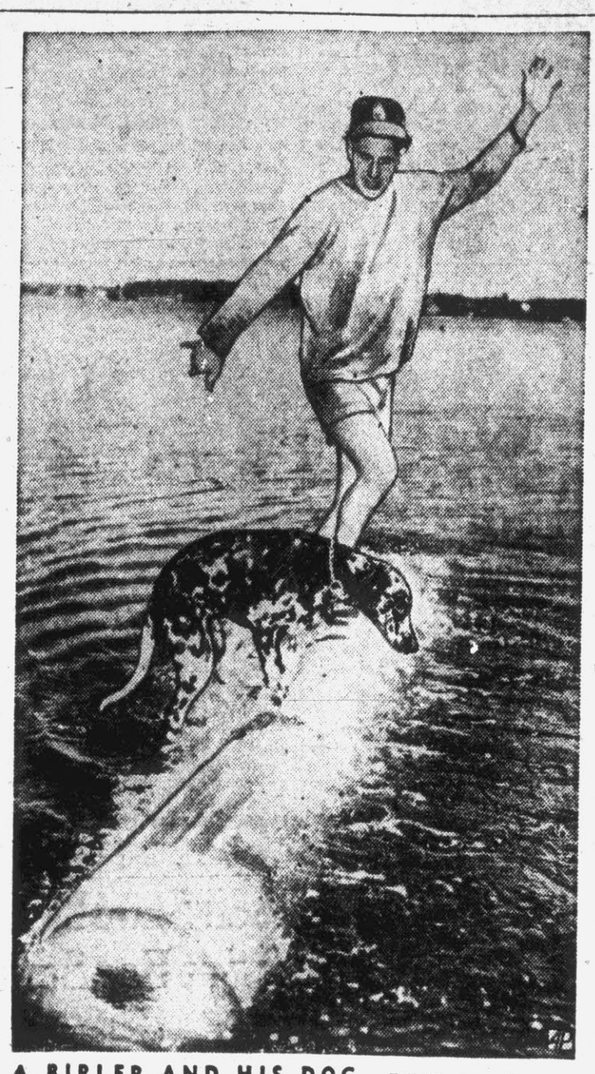

a formal resolution, the high- group instructed prisons direc- John M. Gold to study and use many as possible of the prison rovement recommendations made Dr. Austin MacCormick.

he commission took no action one of the MacCormick report's major recommendations, separation of the prison department from the highway commission.

Gold, who only recently took over the prison post, said he has no definite plans at present to make any major changes in department policy and procedure.

The decision to renew the group insurance coverage with the Connecticut firm came after representatives of five companies, including Connecticut General, explained their policies.

Connecticut General, with headquarters in Hartford, has held the contract since 1929. Approximately 7,000 of the commission's 8,500 permanent employes carry policies. The premiums paid by the employes to the company total $600,000 annually. In return, they receive $18,000,000 worth of 'insurance protection. The contract is renewable Oct. 1.

Girl Scout News

Dear Scouts:

Vacation is over now and we are all anxious to get back to our regular troop meetings We know you have had a wonderful time all summer. You have had time to go camping and to do many interesting things. We are going to continue this same fun in the Scout troop meetings. Camp Hardee will be a delightful place to spend the week-ends for several months. Meet with your troop at the first meeting so you will not miss getting in on the very first plans.

The troop schedule will be in the paper Saturday. All troops will meet next week, so watch for your meeting time and place. We shall be looking forward to seeing you.

Scoutingly,
Susie Scout and Katie Kamper.

Unworried Over Polio Situation

June H. Rose, chairman of the Pitt County Polio Foundation, said today that the polio situation in the county remains about the same.

No new cases have been reported, Rose stated The condition of some of the patients who were stricken is vastly improved and the doctors have expressed hopes that none of the patients from the county will suffer serious permanent injury to any parts of their bodies.

The county at the present time has five polio cases reported in the current outbreak.

One of the patients has been returned to his home and reports coming from the others reveal that they are coming along nicely, the chairman said.

There is nothing to be alarmed about at the present time, Chairman Rose said.

If the situation was serious the city and county schools would not be opened, it was pointed out.

Textilers Claim Profits Margin Shrinking Fast

New York, Sept. 1—(AP)—The Textile industry, under charges of profiteering, said today the amount of money left the cotton manufacturer for profits is shrinking steadily.

Emil Rieve, general president of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO) demanded a senate investigation of the industry.

Textile men had no direct comment on Rieve's statement, in which the Union head said the average rise in cotton goods prices between May 15 and Aug. 15 was 25 per cent.

But industry sources said the money left for the manufacturer for profits is growing smaller steadily in the face of increasing raw cotton costs and attempts to hold cloth prices.

This money the manufacturer has left for profits is called the manufacturing margin. It is the difference between the price of a pound of raw cotton and the price of cloth made from a pound of cotton.

It isn't all profit, however. But of this manufacturing margin the mill owner must take all costs of supplies (excepting cotton), all wages, overhead, manufacturing expenses, taxes and selling costs.

What is left—and some mill men say that is a very small amount—is the mill owners for profits.

The official July statistics of the department of agriculture, the industry sources said, showed that between January and July this year, the average price of cotton cloth advanced 3.90 cents; raw cotton costs rose 5.87 cents, and mill margins dropped 1.97 cents.

Then based this on department of agriculture figures, which showed that in July, the latest available, the average cotton cloth price was 72.97 cents a pound, raw cotton 37.04 cents and mill margins 35.93 cents.

The cotton cloth price was an average for the 17 basic cotton cloths, including prints, sheeting, drills, twills, sateen and ducks.

In October, 1946, the last month of OPA price ceiling, the average prices were: 66.03 for cloth, 35.70 for raw cotton and 30.33 for a mill margin.

Since OPA went out, industry sources said, labor costs in the industry have risen approximately 25 per cent.

In demanding a senate investigation in a letter to Senator Maybank (D-SC) chairman of the senate banking and currency committee, Rieve also said he was determined to win "long overdue" wage increases.

Attempt To Rob Soda Shop On West 5th Street

A police report today stated that an effort was made last night to break into and rob the Soda Shop, 1300 West Fifth Street, last night. The investigating officer said a window glass was broken, but no missile was found nearby.

A police theory is that the would-be robbers were scared away by passersby.

'Inspired'

Guthrie, Okla., Sept. 1—(AP)—Sixteen-year-old Bob Lockwood was told by his girl friend she couldn't go to the movies because she had to stay with her little brother. Bob went to work. First he contracted to keep a neighbor's three children—at the usual babysitters' rate.

Then Bob borrowed his father's grocery delivery truck. He loaded his three charges into the back, picked up his girl and her kid brother, and took them to a drive-in-theater.

And, since it was family night Bob only had to buy one ticket.

VFW Preparing End Encampment

Chicago, Sept. 1—(AP)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars, after a lively five-day convention, prepared to break camp and close their 51st national encampment today.

The selection of the 1951 convention city was the chief business scheduled at today's final session in the Chicago area. New York and Los Angeles have put in their bids for next year's convention.

There was no contest yesterday in the election of a new commander-in-chief. Charles C. Ralls, a Seattle lawyer and a marine veteran, was unanimously elected to the post. He moved up from senior vice commander to succeed Clyde A. Lewis of Plattsburg, N.Y.

The 10,694 delegates eligible to vote also unanimously elected Frank C. Hilton of Wyomissing, Pa., as senior vice commander. There was a contest for only one major office—junior vice-commander. The winner was James W. Cothran of Bishopville, S.C.

The veterans staged their colorful drum and bugle team competition before an estimated 35,000 in Soldier Field last night. The Corporal Frederick W. Reilly Post of Philadelphia won the senior closed drum and bugle contest.

City Jail Gets Renovation And New Coat Paint

The City jail, on the top floor of the City Hall, fifth and Washington streets, rated by state and federal inspectors as one of the best equipped and maintained in North Carolina, recently underwent a period of renovation.

The semi-annual cleanup included painting, sterilizing of bedding and a checkup on the plumbing. Haywood Willis, custodian of the municipal building since shortly after it was completed, except for the time he was in the Navy in the Pacific area, did the work.

A public address system, with microphones in the jail cells and the loud speaker near the sergeant's desk in the main office of police headquarters, has not been in working condition for some time. The communications system provides the means inmates to get in touch with the desk sergeant in case a prisoner was taken ill or some accident occurred.

More Pupils For Schools Coming Along Each Year

New York, N.Y.—The traditional American school house will be near bursting its seams next week when some 30½ million elementary and high school students — the largest number in the country's history—will return to their studies, according to Dr Louis I. Dublin, chief statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

"And the end is not yet in sight for the snow-balling of the school-age population," Dr. Dublin warns. "It is now evident that the increase in school enrollments will be greater and will continue for a longer period than was forecast even a short time ago.

"As a consequence of the record high level of births throughout the war and postwar years, the population at ages five through 17 can be expected to rise by more than one third in the next decade. The peak for school enrollments actually will be reached several years after 1960—around 1964, according to present indications—when there may be more than 44 million children at the school ages."

In each year of the next decade, Dr. Dublin notes, the number of beginners will exceed the number who are graduated from the elementary schools. Enrollments will rise rapidly through 1956, he says, and then at a slower rate in the later years of the decade. For children at the high school ages of 14 through 17, he points out, the situation is just the other way about—the relative gain will be greater in the latter part of the decade.

Dr. Dublin foresees that school enrollments will rise in every section of the country, with the increase especially marked in regions where there has been a large influx of population, such as the Pacific states, and in suburban areas, which have a particular attraction for families with young children.

At present, communities throughout the country are confronted primarily with the problem in elementary schools," he commented, "but before long they will be faced, as well, with a rising tide of enrollments in the high schools. If the school needs of our children are to be met, educational facilities and personnel will have to be expanded substantially. Although school construction is now under way in many parts of the country, these new buildings will provide only a fraction of the space needed. There is also a pressing need for adequately trained teachers, particularly in the elementary schools."

'Plant' Dummies For Rescue Work

Goldsboro, N.C., Sept. 1—(AP)—Planting of dummies of wrecked planes paved the way today for the Civil Air Patrol's Air-Sea Rescue Mission. Around 100 planes and 150 men from all over North Carolina are expected tonight and early Saturday for Operation Sarcap.

The maneuvers will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday with a two-hour briefing session. About noon planes will take off from Seymour Johnson Field, searching for the mock wreckages of ships and planes. The operation will continue all day Sunday.

Austin Helped By Faith In God

New York —(AP)— When C. R. Vosburgh, columnist for the "Panama City Republic," visited New York, he reported back to his paper that faith in God helps Warren R. Austin, permanent U. S. delegate of the United Nations. Austin told him that faith helped keep him cool and alert when face to face with Jacob A. Malik, Russian delegate.

Literally thousands of persons are appealing to God to give me help from on high," Austin said.

Music And Dancing Of Festival Goes On

Hendersonville, N.C., Sept. 1 — (AP)—The music and dancing of the fourth annual North Carolina Apple Festival continued unabated today.

The four-day event was forced indoors last night by rain.

Shoplifting Is Taught Daughter

San Bernardino, Calif. —(AP)— Police booked a woman on suspicion of grand theft who they said was teaching her nine-year-old daughter the fine points of shoplifting.

Capt. Vernon Shiflett said the mother would stuff a shopping bag full of unpaid for merchandise then hand it to her little girl to carry from the store. He said the girl admitted she and her mother were a team.

The RANGE DOCTOR

AP Newsfeatures

by OSCAR J. FRIEND

Chapter 18

At the coroner's inquest Overstreet was acquitted as having killed Charles Hohner in self-defense. Contrary to Logan's fears, John Naylor did nothing about the death of his employer. A great load rolled off the physician's mind.

Then one morning Logan passed the land company office and found the place closed up and deserted. A For Rent sign was in the window. He told Griggsby.

The editor shook his head. "The land company isn't exactly defunct, son. Naylor's just moved over to Frijole Flats completely."

"How can he operate without Hohner's money?"

"I don't know. Likely he has some of his own. He had an interest in the scheme. He'll try to limp along somehow. I'm afraid we haven't heard the last of him."

Griggsby spoke with prophecy. Logan recalled his words the Saturday morning he came upon Nolly Sims blubbering miserably beside the dirty press. The boy looked as though he had lost his last friend, and it came to the doctor with a touch of remorse than he had paid scant attention to the apprentice printer.

"What's wrong, Nolly?" he asked in quqick sympathy. "Hurt yourself?"

The printer's devil started guiltily and looked around with a woebegone expression.

"No, sir," he faltered. "I—I just feel bad."

Logan studied the lad's reddened eyes, remembering that he had been a lonely orphan himself. He reflected that he knew surprisingly little about Nolly's affairs, considering their close relationship. Griggsby had told him Nolly had come to Gila City a couple of years previous in company with a handsome young woman several years his senior. The girl, Nolly's sister, was desperate by the time she reached the newspaper office and poured her story into the editor's kindly ear.

It was commonplace enough. A pair of orphans without other kin, they were drifting from one place to another. In this particular instance the girl had found a job for herself at one of the range settlements, but she couldn't keep her brother with her. She was seeking a safe place to leave Nolly while she went back and took the job.

Needless to say she looked no further. Nolly remained with Tom Griggsby. For the first few months the sister had come regularly every Sunday to visit her brother. Then there was a change of some sort, and Nolly started going Saturday afternoons to see his sister, returning Sunday night. This arrangement had been in force since before Logan came to Gila City.

"Nolly, come here," Logan said kindly.

Reluctantly the lad approached. "Tell me your troubles, Nolly. Is it anything about your sister—"

The printer's devil burst into tears and dropped his cleaning rags. "I wasn't to let anybody know," he sobbed.

Logan waited a moment. Then: "What sort of trouble is she in, Nolly?" he probed gently. "Maybe we can fix it."

"I—I don't know, sir. Maybe she ain't in trouble. But she sent me word this mornin' she—she couldn't meet me tomorrow at Grammaw Pierce's place."

"Grammaw Pierce's place?" Logan mused. "Does your sister work there?"

"No, sir. We just meet there on Sunday. Agnes works at the Full Bottle in Frijole Flats, and she won't ever let me go there to see her. I—I don't know what I'll do tomorrow."

Logan did not betray his surprise at this information. He smiled at the boy. "You know, Nolly," he said with a sort of brotherly philosophy intended to comfort the lad, "things always seem to work out for the best in the long run. I'll be making some calls over that way during the week, and I'll stop by to see your sister for you."

Logan meant to tell Griggsby of the incident later, but the tardy arrival of the Clearwater stage knocked all lesser things out of his mind. A hostler came running for the physician.

"Doc Logan! The Clearwater stage's been held up and Frank Nichols was shot!"

About nine miles out of Gila City and four miles across rough country from Frijole Flats the Clearwater road ran straight as a taut string for two miles. Near the center of this stretch a lone hill, low and wooded with scrubby timber, lay across the way. The top of this elongated mound was flat, the trail being visible for a mile in each direction.

It had been the custom for the stage driver to stop on this high point to give his team a breather. He did so this afternoon. And a masked man with a rifle stepped out of the brush in front of the lead horses and threw down the driver and express guard.

"Reach for the sky, driver!" he ordered. "You, too, guard! Pronto does it!"

From the sage and chaparral bordering the trail, six more masked men arose, covering the windows of the coach with drawn six-shooters.

"Pile out, everybody!" called the man with the rifle. "This is a hold-up. Get busy. You two men on top kick down the express box and the mail sack."

Nichols was frowning. "I know that jasper's voice," he said to Carter. "And his right hand is stiff."

"Shut up, Frank, and help me dump this stuff," Carter muttered.

But Nichols, trembling on the verge of recognition, would not be silenced. "By gravy, I know 'im, Ralph. That's Jake Holcomb who used to deal at the Texas Tommy. Pierre d'Auberg busted his hand and he's turned road agent. I—"

The man with the rifle calmly pulled the trigger. The gun cracked sharply, and Nichols jerked convulsively. He toppled backward, a bullet hole drilled through him. A woman passenger screamed, and was promptly stifled by the burly bandit nearest her.

BPW Club Is Sponsoring Safety Drive In Greenville

The Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club is sponsoring a "safety drive" here. The Health and Safety Committee is directing the project.

"Since the traffic problem in Greenville and Pitt county now presents a disturbing picture of careless and reckless driving," a club official said, "it should be the aim of every interested citizen to cooperate with city and county officials in reducing traffic accidents.

"Now that the city schools are about to open the question of safety for our children is at hand. The Business and Professional Women's Club is anxious to cooperate in any way possible to help alleviate the traffic problem. As a club, the members unanimously endorse any program or precautionary measures which will help in solving this problem.

"Pedestrians, bicyclists and motorists are urged to observe all traffic signals and regulations. Be sure you do your part to save a life today. All interested citizens of Greenville and Pitt county are invited to send in slogans similar to those printed in this story today. Watch to see how we may all help to make our town and county a safer place in which to live," the Business and Professional Women's Club official stated.

Here are some ideas for safety slogans:

"Take a chance—ambulance!"

"Wet streets, skids! Save our kids."

"Safer driving—living longer."

"Red light, Stop. Green light, hop."

KIWANIS CLUB WILL MEET WINTERVILLE TONIGHT.

Assure Immunity To Kidnaper If Child Returned

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 1—(AP)—The abductor of an ailing two year old boy, missing since last Sunday, was promised immunity from prosecution if the child is returned unharmed today.

State's Attorney George P. Coutrakon, acting on the theory that the boy has been abducted, said he made the offer "at the urgent request" of the boy's family.

The boy, Ernest Cagle, Jr., a diabetic, requires special medical care. He disappeared early Sunday morning from the family car parked outside a saloon at nearby Buckhart. His father, 34, is a farmer near Illiopolis.

Sales Tax Aided By Scare Buying

Raleigh, Sept. 1—(AP)—Hysterical war-scare buying during July resulted in increased sales tax collections during August, Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw reported today.

Shaw's figures showed that sales tax collections were up by approximately $857,000 during August as compared with August of 1949.

Sidetracked

Washington, Sept. 1—(AP)—The senate today sidetracked any immediate action on an excess profits tax.

It decided that congress should take up a bill next January, with the tax to be made retroactive to October 1 or July 1, 1950.

The action was taken on a voice vote and was a compromise.

Some senators have been insisting the excess profits tax should be imposed now.

There was some hope the bill could be disposed of quickly.

Fugitive Who 'Made Good' Is Asking Pardon

Raleigh, N.C., Sept. 1—(AP)—A one-armed fugitive who made good as a small businessman since fleeing a North Carolina prison camp 13 years ago asked the state of North Carolina today for his freedom.

A. T. Andrews Jr., 32-year-old Richmond, Va. laundryman, pleaded his case before Governor Scott and later before Paroles Commissioner T. C. Johnson

After hearing the plea, Johnson said he would investigate the case "in the usual manner." He turned Andrews over to a fugitive officer who accompanied the prisoner to Central Prison where he will be confined pending the investigation.

Republicans Hit Plan Withdraw Formosan Guard

Washington, Sept. 1— (AP)—Demands for an early peace treaty with Japan arose in Congress today after Republicans attacked as "confusing" President Truman's plan to withdraw naval protection from Formosa when the Korean fighting ends.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday it will not be necessary to keep the seventh fleet off Formosa when peace has returned to Korea.

He said also the incident caused by his cancellation of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's message on Formosa was closed.

MacArthur contended that the United States ought to see to it that Formosa never falls into hostile hands, a longer range commitment than President Truman made in ordering the fleet to neutralize the island temporarily.

Family Unable To Feed Quads

Hong Kong, Sept. 1—(AP)—Quadruplets were born to a Chinese woman here Wednesday and were reported healthy and well today.

The mother is Mrs. Lau Tai-ki, a vegetable hawker and wife of a coolie.

The quads were born at five minute intervals—three boys and a girl. The boys each weighed 3 3-4 pounds, the girl 3 1-4.

"We have no money to buy food which they need most," Mrs. Lau said. "Will some kind person come forward and adopt them?"

Man Who Lost His Wallet Was Not Local Hotel Man

A report received at police headquarters last Thursday, purportedly from J. E. Moore at the Greenville Hotel that he had lost his wallet containing $405 now appears to have been a hoax.

J. A. Edwards, manager of the hotel, said today that no J. E. Moore had been registered there and that he had not heard anything about the loss of a wallet.

Police quoted Moore as describing the denominations of the bills and the papers in it, and indicating that he was connected with the hotel. The story in yesterday's Reflector stated that Moore reported that he had his wallet when he visited a cafe and movie theater at Five Points, but missed it while at aa carnival show.

YDC Meeting

The Pitt County Young Democrats will have a supper meeting at Respess' place, on the Bethel highway, next Tuesday night, September 5, at 7 o'clock. President J. B. Spilman will preside.

New officers are to be elected and delegates to the Young Democrats' State Convention at Asheville on September 16. Terry Sanford of Fayetteville is president of the state YDC.

Pitt County is entitled to send 11 delegates to the state meeting.

judking from earlier field dispatches the figures were ultra-conservative.

The Reds appeared to be making a supreme bid to wipe out the United Nations beachhead on the southeast corner of the Asiatic peninsula.

Some 50,000 Communists—a third of their estimated strength—were involved. This included three dovosions, one of them a full armored division, making the push. Two others were in reserve to exploit breakthroughs.

Heavy carrier planes joined U S. Fifth Air Force and Australian fighters in swarming into the battle like angry hornets. But the North Korean attack ground ahead. The Reds swept forward through minefields and barbed wire.

The Eighth Army communique reported the attack as "generally contained," with the exception of the 25th Division's extreme right flank—locale of the Haman action

Mrs. R. M. Williams' Funeral On Saturday

Mrs. Julia Williams, 77, died at her home, 117 Cotanche Street, at 7:15 o'clock Thursday night. She had been in declining health for the past six months and critically ill for the past ten days. northern Korea is a momentous one. Military observers generally recognize that any indication this would be done might result in Russit herself occupying North Korea to keep the U.N. troops out.

However, that strategy would bring Russian troops face to face with MacArthur's command and should fighting develop between them it must mean another world war. Therefore Russia might send in her Chinese satellite to hold North Korea, thus lessening the danger of another global upheaval.

There is another reason why the Chinese might be selected to carry the ball for Communism. This is that the Chinese Reds reportedly are committed by agreement to help the North Korean Communists, for

The new law on these special transit workers is so full of "ifs" that the whole case can't be stated in this limited space. If this involves you, check with your nearest social security office for full details. It may even be possible for you to get a social security pension and a state or city pension.

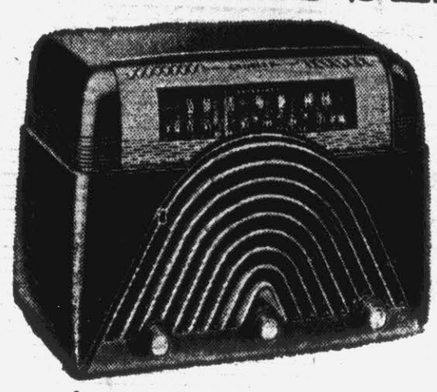

Federal employes—.

The phrase "federal employes" is a pretty loose method Congress used to describe the following workers who now come under social security:

1. Federal employes not covered by a government pension system.
2. Employes in so-called wholly-owned government corporations. For example: TVA—The Tennessee Valley Authority has a pension system which covers many of its employes, but not all.
3. There are various organizations in which the government invested money, or to which it loaned money, or over which it retains some supervisions.
4. Various post exchanges of the armed forces hire people who are not regular government employes but are paid out of the profits of the exchanges. They'll be brought under social security now.
