Red Control Bill Set For Conference

Senate-House Parley Slated After Measure Given 70-7 Approval In Senate

Washington, Sept. 13—(AP)—A bill aimed at stifling Communist activities all along the home front headed today for a Senate-House conference as the first step toward a probable veto by President Truman.

It received an overwhelming 70 to 7 vote of approval in the Senate late yesterday after a day of hectic and often confused maneuvering that eventually welded two opposing measures into one.

Briefly the bill provides for:

1. The internment of dangerous Reds in time of war, invasion or insurrection.

2. Registration of Communist and Communist front organizations.

3. Barring Reds from government jobs and obtaining passports.

4. New legal curbs on sabotage and espionage.

5. New weapons to be used to exclude and deport aliens considered to be subversive.

6. Outlawing conspiracies to set up a "totalitarian dictatorship" in the United States.

Senator Kilgore (D-W. Va.) had introduced the internment plan as a substitute for the sweeping catch-all bill sponsored by Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.) of the Senate Judiciary Committee. As a substitute it was defeated 50 to 23.

Meanwhile Senate Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois grabbed the ball. When the voting was finally over, he had succeeded in nailing a somewhat modified version of the Kilgore plan onto the McCarran bill.

It was done by voice vote after the Senate had (a) batted down, 45 to 29, Lucas' move to substitute the plan for the Communist registration section, and (b) rejected, 37 to 35, his first attempt to write the plan into the bill. This vote was later reconsidered and acceptance followed.

There were only two other major changes in the McCarran bill. One stripped from it a provision to set up a semi-independent office of passports and visas. This amendment, by Senator Connally (D-Tex.), was adopted 39 to 33.

The other, an amendment by Senator Ellender (D-La.), added a provision making it illegal to picket federal courts. It was adopted on a voice vote.

Union Drops Its Pension Demands

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 13—(AP)—The United Mine Workers Union today had dropped its demand for pensions for striking soda ASH workers, and federal negotiators pressed for settlement of the 93-day old dispute.

The pension issue had been a major stumbling block in peace talks between the company, a unit of allied chemical and dye corp., and John L. Lewis' UMW. The Union also seeks wage increases.

Chief Langston Emphatic In Giving 'No Politics' Order

Outlines Policy For Police Department In Special Meet Of Officers And Aldermen

Greenville Police Chief Guy C. Langston told the members of the police department last night, "I am going to insist emphatically that every officer of this force including myself stay out of any sort of politics."

Langston made the statement at a meeting of the police department, members and the board of aldermen at which he outlined the policy which he intends for the police department to follow. The statement of policy for the department was one of the first official acts of the 35-year-old police chief who took over his duties here Monday.

Langston told the members of the department, "I have no axes to grind. I intend to be fair and impartial. So far as I am concerned, you all started with me anew as of yesterday morning."

In cautioning his officers to remain aloof from any political activities, the new chief asserted that a police department whose members become involved in politics loses its efficiency. "Keep yourself absolutely clear of any political observances. You can not let yourself become involved in politics of any sort."

Langston said in checking the files of the department he has found that complaints dating as far back as two months ago have not been completed. "In the future you will complete all complaint reports," he told the officers. He also ocltlined a new system of rotation of patrol officers and commissioned officers on various shifts whereby within three months each patrolman would be on duty under three separate commissioned officers. Langston said he will have an efficiency report made on each officer each month.

He said officers will be expected to report to the day room of the department 15 minutes prior to the time they are to go on duty. "I intend to place on the bulletin board each Monday morning a city ordinance," he told the policemen. "You are to learn this ordinance. On Thursday or Friday when you report to the day room you will be asked to write the ordinance.

"I want those school crossings handled every day of school by an officer. I expect from each of you eight hours a day of good honest work."

Langston reminded the officers to be courteous in carrying out their police duties. "Smile when you make an arrest," he said. "It is possible to make an arrest without making an enemy." The chief pointed out to the officers it is their duty to prevent an infraction of the law where possible rather than waiting to make an arrest after a law has been disobeyed.

"I am going to require that your moral conduct be at all times such that it will not reflect discredit upon the police department. I don't want to see any officer hanging around a pool room. Your moral conduct will be one of the highest things I'm going to check you on," Langston asserted.

As for retirement for police officers, the new chief said, "Before I recommend any person in this department for retirement for any reason, I am going to check with the board of aldermen to see that he gets adequate retirement pay."

Speaking of the board of aldermen and the mayor, Langston said, "They are the personnel charged with the responsibility of efficient government for Greenville. Our responsibility to them is to see that we have an efficient police department. They are capable of handling the other city affairs, and I want you to leave that to them.

"There will be no excuse whatsoever for you to contact a member of the board concerning things being done or not being done in the department. I will report to them 100 percent on what is being done and what is to be done in the department.

"I solicit your cooperation and assure you that you will have mine. I am sincere when I say I'm going to follow this policy to the letter. And I'm sincere when I say you all started over with me as of yesterday morning.

After outlining the policy which he had stated for the police department, Chief Langston turned to the mayor and members of the board and said, "If it meets with your approval, I would like for you to signify it by your standing vote." All the city officials present at the meeting—Mayor Stafford and Aldermen Rogers, Elks, Waldrop, Tripp, Pollard and Jenkins—stood.

At the beginning of the meeting, Mayor Stafford had told the members of the police department, "Mr. Langston and the department will get full cooperation from the mayor's office and from the board. It behooves all of you to give the same cooperation."

Utilities Shows Profit Increase For Fical Year

The Greenville Utilities Commission showed a net profit for the past fiscal year of $287,597.49, the 1949-50 audit report shows.

Presented to the Commission at last night's regular monthly meeting, the report shows the municipally owned utilities made approximately $82,000 more this year than last.

Comparative figures for the two years show that in 1948-49 a profit of $205,165.37 was made. This year the Commission turned over to the city treasury $82,373.98 compared with last year's even $80,000.

The report was prepared by John C. Proctor, auditor for the five-man body. Its presentation provided the majority of business during the meeting.

The balance of the money left from the two years' operations was spent for general improvements each year. Last year a balance of $125,165.37 remained on hand and $144,934.04 was spent for improvements in all departments. During the year ending June 30, 1950, the Commission spent $189,669.71.

(The additional funds over the balance on hand for 1948-49 was got out of the depreciation to all equipment which remains on hand each year and is taken from the capital assets.)

Gross revenue for 1949 showed $985,733.12 compared with this year's $1,028,199.35. The revenue came from all departments—gas, water and light.

Concerning depreciation of equipment in all departments, in 1949 $131,545.93 was charged to expense on all equipment. This year the depreciation amounted to $145,329.32.

Union Plans To Merge With Left-Wing Group

Winston-Salem, N.C., Sept. 13 —(AP)—A report that the Food, Tobacco and Agricultural Workers union is planning to scrap its own identity and unite with two other left-wing labor groups was confirmed here today.

The Communist Daily Worker newspaper in New York City reported details of the proposed merger in its edition yesterday, which was received in Winston-Salem today.

Under the move, the FTA would merge with the United Office and Professional Workers, which, like FTA, has been expelled from the CIO for Communist activity, and the Distributive Workers Union.

D-Day for the formation of the new labor organization has been set for Friday, Oct. 6, in New York City. Officials of all three unions are expected to be on hand.

Allied Troops Promised Kick-Off For Offensive Soon Against Red Koreans

General Walker Says Weakening Of Enemy Already Noticeable; Fighting Talk Comes As Red Bulge Flattened By Gains In Three-Day Drive

Tokyo, Sept. 13—(AP)—Allied troops got word today that they will kick off on the offensive soon against the big Red Korean war machine they have battled to a standstill for a month.

Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, allied ground commander in Korea, said in a fighting talk to his front-line troops:

"Soon we are going to give up the attitude of defense x x x as soon as we start forward and break the crust in front of us, the enemy will fold.

"We can feel a weakening of the enemy now . . . In some positions they actually are pulling out."

The U. S. 8th army commander described the long weeks of dealing action as necessary "agony and suffering."

Only through such an ordeal, he said, could the allies build up power for an offensive.

Walker's fighting talk came as allied troops flattened the Red Korean bulge on the Pusan front in a triple-threat.

The United Nations gains in a three day offensive were the greatest in nearly a month. They sealed much of the gap torn last week by Communists in their massive breakthrough south from Kigye near the east coast.

Resurgent South Korean troops driving east from Yongchon and Northwest from Kyongju, rolled back the Communists.

To the east, a mixed force of South Koreans and Americans rammed shut the Southern gate of a mountain corridor, trapping 3,000 Red Koreans.

This task force was led by 47-year old Brig. Gen. Gar Davidson, former West Point football coach and right end. It was a gruelling end sweep west from the Pohang area by "task force Davidson" that trapped the Reds.

Along the 122-mile allied defense perimeter, this was the picture:

Pohang-Yongchon sector—"Task force Davidson" closed a three mile gap between Angang and Pohang. From the west, the South Korean eighth Division thrust three fourths of the way to Red-held Angang. It has punched 12 miles in three days. A South Korean regiment drove Northwest from Kyongju to close this last gap. Reds dug in on Hill 343 southwest of Angang were resisting fiercely.

Taegu sector—U. S. First Cavalry Division elements attacked a strongly fortified hill eight miles North of Taegu. This was in the immediate area where they stormed and won a hill Tuesday at heavy cost. Other units seized high ground north of the Waegan area, a few miles west. The Reds pushed foot troopers off an important peak nine miles northwest of Taegu.

Changyong sector—all quiet.

Masan sector—American big guns wiped out 200 Koreans as they stormed a dominant peak four miles south of the Nam-Naktong river junction. U. S. 25th Division engineers battled 300 Reds who had infiltrated the line. Air support was called to help wipe out the rocket.

The triple-pronged drive on the northeast front lifted a threat to Pohang airport and eased a situation that was considered "desperate" only nine days ago.

But on the east coast, the Red Korean fifth Division still plastered allied defenses around Pohang airport with mortar fire. The field was called "secure" by an American spokesman but only emergency flights to evacuate wounded were permitted.

Consider Single Agency To Handle Foreign Aid

OK Exception

Washington, Sept. 13—(AP)—President Truman asked Congress today to make an exception and let Gen. George C. Marshall serve as secretary of defense even though he is a military man. The Senate Armed Services committee immediately improved the necessary legislation.

The vote was 10 to 2.

Congress has to act because the law says nobody who has been on active duty as an officer of the armed forces within the past ten years can be secretary of defense.

The Senate group acted even before a bill was introduced formally. The House Armed Services Committee postponed action until Friday.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House group said the matter is so important "that I want a full committee present if possible."

Both Military And Economic Help Would Be Chanelled Through Proposed New Agency; Gordon Gray Preparing Report

Washington, Sept. 13—(AP)—A plan to channel all foreign aid—both military and economic—through a single government agency reportedly is being drawn up for President Truman's consideration.

Informed officials said today the plan is part of a report now being prepared by Gordon Gray, former army secretary and new president of the University of North Carolina.

Gray and a staff of government and private financial experts have been studying world economic conditions for the past six months at the request of President Truman.

Tentative conclusions being put into final form, officials said, call for unified administration of all foreign aid programs which involve grants by the American government. These grants total billions of dollars annually.

First step in the unification proposal, it is reported, would be the merger of the Economic Cooperation Administration, which is directing economic aid to 16 western European countries plus Korea and China, with the military assistance program now funneling American billions to nearly a score of nations.

These two principal programs presumably would be joined to the "point four" program to encourage underdeveloped areas, and the latin American health and sanitation programs.

Part of the reasoning behind Gray's current thinking, officials say, is that a tighter check is needed on the money the United States is now distributing to over seas allies.

Other powers suggested for the proposed new agency, it was learned, is that it have a major voice in determining the policies of the export-import bank, and direct the activities of the American representative of the multi-billion dollar work bank. The export-import bank is this government's principal agency for making foreign loans.

Prior to the communist attack in Korea, administration officials had insisted on keeping the economic and military aid programs separated. They considered world economic recovery the number one item in this nation's foreign policy objectives—and not to be tied up with the somewhat less benevolent military preparedness program.

Truman's Regard For Marshall Is Again On Record

To Harry Truman, George Marshall Is 'Greatest Patriot' Of Our Times

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

Washington, Sept. 13 — (AP) — President Truman turned today to his number one public idol to restore confidence in the country's armed services in a critical hour.

His selection of General George C. Marshall as secretary of defense gave new evidence today of his supreme regard for the 69-year-old soldier-diplomat whom he once ranked "at the head of the great commanders of history," and later called virtually an "indispensable man."

Mr. Truman telephoned Marshall at his country home at Leesburg, Va., to summon him once more to the service of his country.

And Marshall, as the President knew he would, said he would accept the draft.

Ever since Mr. Truman became convinced that Louis Johnson would have to step out as secretary of defense he has had in mind calling Marshall back into service. He always considers Marshall whenever he gets into a troublesome situation.

It was just a couple of days after Marshall, the World War II chief of staff, had gone into retirement in Virginia that the President called him back into harness to go on a mission to China, trying to work out a settlement of the political crisis which finally brought nearly all of that great nation under Communist domination.

After his return from that critical assignment, the resignation of James F. Byrnes made his appointment as secretary of state inevitable.

A serious operation forced the tall, gray-haired soldier to give up that post.

One day last week, the general called at the White House. He and the President conferred at length and Marshall left by a side door. The call came at a time when presidential confidantes were saying Johnson was on his way out.

The President may have told General Marshall then to get ready for a new assignment.

Certainly, when he telephoned the general yesterday afternoon at Leesburg, there was no hesitation.

Harry Truman knew it would be that way.

To him, Marshall is the "greatest patriot" of his time.

Mr. Truman is given to high praise of those for whom he has affection and admiration.

But he outdoes himself when Marshall's name is mentioned. As a military man, he regards General Marshall as the greatest of them all; as a public servant, above anybody.

Engineer Tried To 'Make Time'

Testifies In Rail Tragedy; Says His Train Was Late

Pittsburgh, Sept. 13—(AP)—(AP)—A spare, graying Pennsylvania Railroad engineer testified today he was trying to make up time when his crack passenger train rammed the rear of a troop train, killing 33 National Guardsmen.

William Eller, 65 year old engineer of the Pennsylvania's "Spirit of St. Louis," testified in near whispers at opening of an investigation into the fatal Ohio crash by the Interstate Commerce commission, the railroad, the Ohio Public Utility commission and the Army.

Eller testified he was 29 minutes late leaving Pittsburgh and had lost another minute enroute. He said visibility at the time of the wreck in the pre-dawn hours Monday was restricted because of fog. The crash occurred near Coshocton, Ohio.

The veteran engineer, described by his fireman as "one of the most alert and capable men I know," told how he reduced speed but "not enough" at the first approach block before the stalled troop train.

Eller guessed his speed at the time at 50 miles per hour. ICC regulations require that speed be reduced to 30 miles an hour at an approach block so the train can come to a complete stop at the next stop and proceed sign.

TODAY EDGES OUT GOP NOMINATION FOR SENATE

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Senator Charles W. Tobey, self-styled liberal fighting one of the toughest battles of his political career, won nomination to a third term in New Hampshire's rough and tumble Republican primary Tuesday

Vote To Ask For Contempt Charge Against Three

Washington, Sept. 13 — (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted today to ask the Senate to cite Communist leader Earl Browder, Frederick Vanderbilt Field and Philip Jaffe for contempt of Congress.

The three were involved in an investigation by a foreign relations subcommittee into the charges by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) that Communists had infiltrated the State Department.

A resolution requesting contempt proceedings was adopted by a 9 to 0 committee vote, Chairman Connally (D-Tex) told reporters after a closed meeting.

He said he hoped to get Senate action on it before Congress adjourns or recesses.

Fear Heavy Toll In Violent Quake

Bombay, India, Sept. 13—(AP)—A new earthquake was reported today in northern Assam possibly more violent than the one which took a toll of 5,000 lives in the same area a month ago. No details were available.

Official fears were expressed here that loss of life and property from the new tremors which lasted 90 minutes would be much more extensive than that caused by the severe quake of Aug. 15.

Freight Traffic Speedup Ordered In Defense Move

Washington, Sept. 13—(AP)—Speedier handling of railway freight traffic "to promote the National defense" was ordered yesterday by the interstate commerce commission.

The new spur to defense mobilization sets a 24-hour limit to the turn around of freight cars ready to move.

One section of the order called for a stiff increase in "demurrage" rates paid by shippers for keeping freight cars idle beyond the 48-hour free time period allowed for loading and unloading.

The charges were set at $5 a car per day for the first and second days after free time, $10 a car for the third and fourth days, and $20 for each succeeding day.

The present rate is $3 a day for four days and a $6 a day thereafter.

Another section of the order directed railroads to have loaded cars in a position for unloading within 24 hours after arrival at a terminal point. Then, when the cars are unloaded and perhaps reloaded with a new consignment of goods, the railroads must get them rolling within 24 hours.

In issuing the order, the ICC said that slow handling of cars is causing a shortage of badly needed equipment.

In other mobilization moves:

1 Officials said an anti-hoarding order on steel, copper, tin, aluminum and other key materials may be expected before the end of the week.

2 The interior department began setting up a new agency, tentatively called the minerals and energy administration (MEA), to prepare for possible emergency use of priorities and allocations of petroleum, gas, coal and electric power.

Reinforcements For Germany On Way By Spring

Berlin, Sept. 13—(AP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark said today the first units of fresh American troops to strengthen the U. S. garrison in Europe would start arriving in Germany before spring.

The chief of the U. S. Army ground forces told correspondents on his one-day visit to Berlin that President Truman's decision to bolster west Europe against communist threat would be implemented by the army as quickly as possible.

Clark has conferred with Gen. Thomas T. Handy, commander for Europe, on the broad plan for additional American divisions to be based in Germany. Details of how they are to be quartered and deployed "is Gen. Handy's job," Clark commented.

Against Putting Soldier At Helm

Montplier, Vt., Sept. 13—(AP)—Retired Marine Maj. Gen. Merritt A. Edson today said amending the laws to make Gen. George C. Marshall defense secretary would set "a dangerous precedent."

Edson said in a statement he was not criticizing Marshall but he opposed anything that would defeat the tradition of civilian control of the military establishment.

Mother Lost Six Kids Somewhere In Brooklyn

New York, Sept. 13—(AP)— Somewhere in the jungle of Brooklyn or Queens, a North Carolina mother rented a room and left her six children.

Now she can't remember where it is.

Mrs. Ruth Stevens, 39 year old Negro widow from Bladenboro, N. C. revealed her bewildering plight yesterday. The only clues she had were these:

From a Manhattan bus depot, she and her children, ranging in age from one month to 18 years, took a taxi cab across "a bridge with trains on it." The driver took them to a rooming house in a neighborhood with "lots of funeral parlors and a dime store."

There, she rented a room.

Then she took a subway to pick up some luggage at the bus terminal. At Times Square, she suddenly realized with horror that she didn't know the address of the rooming house, nor how to get back.

Police, who took Mrs. Stevens to a woman's shelter for the night, conceded that finding the house on he basis of her clues would be a tough job. Three bridges to Brooklyn and Queens carry trains. And funeral parlors and dime stores are plentiful throughout the 199 square miles of the two boroughs.

Union's Link Is Gone

With Death Of Jan Christian Smuts, Main Link Between Union Of South African And British Commonwealth Is Gone; No Surprise If Full Break Takes Place

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

The death of that great world figure, Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts, removes the main link which has bound a wavering Union of South Africa to the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Thus it should cause no surprise if the union breaks away before long and, like Southern Ireland, sets itself up in business as a republic. This is regarded as a distinct possibility by well informed observers. Official circles in London are said to be worried.

Smuts was leader of the United Party, which he founded largely to perpetuate the commonwealth. In fact he WAS the party. Opposed to his program has been the Nationalist Party which now is in power.

The leader of the Nationalists is Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan, a former clergyman, who advocates separation from the Commonwealth. Dr. Malan is a rather provincial and stolid figure who has lacked the colorful leadership of the dynamic Smuts. However, there are a lot of folk in South Africa who subscribe to Malan's policies.

There also have been some in Smuts' own party who, while clinging to him through loyalty and admiration, have had leanings to some of the Nationalist Party ideas, including separation. It has been the field marshal himself who has held them in line.

Now this great man, who was one of the originators of the Commonwealth idea, is gone and the United Party has lost its main element of cohesion. The way is open for striking developments in the Union of South Africa.

However, while the question of separation is paramount, this isn't the only great problem hanging over the country. There is the controversial policy of white supremacy and racial segregation maintained by the Malan government.

This racial issue is one of long standing, and its ramifications reach to far away India. The Union of South Africa has a large population of Indians who have fallen under the segregation ban. The result has been the creation of bitterness in India and the lodging of formal

Marshall In Harness

Few Americans Have Served So Long Or Faithfully As George Marshall; His New Call For A Big Job; With 150 Million Other Americans Around, It's Up To Him

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Sept. 13—(AP)—This writer has great respect for General George C. Marshall as a man, as a citizen, as a soldier, and as a public servant.

So what follows here is not meant as a criticism of him. But his selection by President Truman to succeed Louis Johnson as secretary of defense raises one question at once:

Why, in a country of 150,000,000 people, does one man, like General Marshall, have to serve in one critical job after another? Are no other men capable of filling critical jobs well?

Marshall was Chief of Staff during World War II. He retired in 1945, thinking that after his long Army career and world war duties he could get a well-earned rest.

But the situation in China—between Chiang Kai-shek and the Communists—was so bad that Mr. Truman called the general out of retirement and sent him to China as the one man capable of mediating the dispute.

Then when Marshall finished that job, Mr. Truman asked him to be secretary of state. A good man was needed. Marshall was a good man. He served until ill health forced him to retire again to private life.

He's 69 years old. And now, with the nation in a dither over its defenses, Marshall once more is asked to help the country out.

Granted that Marshall is one of the outstanding men of his time, it still is some kind of commentary on the other 150,000,000 people that one man repeatedly has to be called on to bail his country out of trouble.

Then there's another question: How will Marshall make out if Congress approves his appointment as secretary of defense? Elections are coming in November. Few people are sacred in politics. Will he get a political kicking around?

Until now the Republicans have been blaming Secretary of State Dean Acheson for our China policy. That policy can be stated briefly:

Several years ago the Truman Administration decided it was hopeless to keep pouring help into Chiang Kai-shek's government in its fight against the Chinese Communists.

City Churches To Have Student Party

Six of the city churches are planning individual parties in honor of students who are on the campus at East Carolina Teachers College. These entertainments are to be held at each of the churches at the same time, 7:30 Thursday night. All of the churches have workers who represent them on the campus and keep in contact with the students.

At the Immanuel Baptist church, the students will be welcomed at an informal reception and party. Mrs. Robert Starling will be in charge of the recreation and entertainment, and refreshments will be served by the ladies of the church.

At the Christian church Mrs. Lee Hannah and Mrs. S. W. Dunn, Jr., will lead the recreational program for the college people. Their party is an expression of welcome by church members to all Disciple students on the campus. The young Matrons' circle is sponsoring the event.

At the Methodist church plans are for making this an outstanding event in the relationship between students and church members. There will be a welcoming committee composed of various officials of the church, and the recreation commission of the Wesley Foundation will be in charge of the entertainment. Refreshments will be served by members of the W. S. C. S.

At the Memorial Baptist church the party will be in the nature of a treasure hunt. This is designed to foster the feeling of fellowship and acquaintance between members and campus young people. Deacons and Sunday school officials will be hosts.

At the Episcopal church, Mr. Al Livesay, president of the Student Government at E. C. T. C., and also student worker representing St. Paul's church on the campus is planning a gala evening in the parish house. Entertainment will be informal and refreshments will be served by Guild members.

The Presbyterian church plans an unusual entertainment for its students. The collegians will meet at the college post office and from there will progress to the manse, then on to the church, visiting later in the homes of two church members who will have a gracious welcome awaiting them. At the church members will welcome them and the students themselves will plan for their own entertainment. Refreshments will be served and in the course of the evening singing will be enjoyed in the homes.

At the Free Will Baptist church the students will be entertained by members of the congregation. Plans have been made for a period of recreation and fun and refreshments will be served by the host church.

The students associated with the Pentecostal Holiness church will be welcomed at the parsonage by Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Johnson and a committee from the church. The party will be an informal period of fun and recreation.

These parties are an annual event, with the churches sponsoring them as a welcome and get-acquainted affair to bind town people more closely with the college students in ties of Christian fellowship. It is hoped that as many church members as can will be on hand to gladden the hearts of young men and women who will be Greenville citizens during their tenure at E. C. T. C.

Teachers Enjoyed Varied Activities During Summer

The teachers of the Training school enjoyed various activities during their summer vacations, which prepared them for the resumption of their teaching duties.

Mrs. D. M. Clark and Mrs. Ellen Carroll spent an interesting and profitable summer in New York, while Miss Eunice McGee travelled west to California.

Mrs. Elsie Egan, fifth grade teacher, spent her summer working and playing. For the first six weeks she taught in the summer school and then had a period of rest and play at Atlantic Beach with her two children.

Mrs. W. J. Hynes, who as sixth grade teacher is a newcomer to the faculty, graduated in August from ECTC. She is a native of North Carolina but came this year from Connecticut, where she had been residing recently. Her husband is a student at ECTC and they live at 1105 Elm Street. She replaced Miss Hyman, who moved up to the new eighth grade.

Miss Louise Golphin, who teaches the fourth grade, taught in the summer school during the first six weeks before retiring to her home in South Carolina, where she spent the rest of the summer preserving and canning fruits and vegetables.

Mrs. Gladys Womble stayed at home and recuperated from her year's work with the first graders and prepared herself for beginning students entering school this fall.

Miss Ruth Faison, another first grade teacher, also rested up from her work and spent most of her time keeping house and enjoying short visits to relatives and friends.

Miss Christine Johnson, to whom Miss Redwine's group graduates, taught for six weeks of the summer at the Training school and then had a pleasant trip to Henderson, Winston-Salem and other places in the Piedmont section. She wound up her vacation by housecleaning for the fall before resuming her teaching duties.

Mrs. Lindsay Savage, third grade teacher, did not go anywhere. She enjoyed her home "Dilassa," her cocker spaniels and as she said, "rested and had the best summer ever."

Mrs. W. E. Marshall, seventh grade instructor, also spent the summer here in Greenville, preparing for her new home and the new year's work.

Miss Elisabeth Hyman, who is now teaching the new eighth grade at the Training School, moved into her new home on Library street and spent the first part of the summer getting settled. Later she found time to go to the mountains for a week during which time she saw "Unto These Hills."

Miss Lillian Purvis, fifth grade teacher, remained in Greenville all summer. Mrs. J. Key Brown, her sister with whom she lives, was ill and Miss Purvis assumed the housekeeping responsibilities for her.

Mrs. Forbes Entertains At Coffee Hour For Brides-Elect

Miss Frances Kittrell and Miss Dorothy Suggs Ormond were honored on Tuesday morning at 11:00 when Mrs. Fred Forbes, Sr., entertained at her home on Evans street at a gracious coffee hour.

Mrs. Forbes welcomed the morning guests at the door and presented them to the honorees, who were wearing white corsages made of tiny pom poms and tube roses, pinned on them by the hostess. The house was tastefully decorated with varied arrangements of early fall flowers in multi-colored shades of pink, yellow and red.

The serving table in the dining room which was placed against one wall, had a lovely centerpiece composed of tiny zinnias in variegated pastels, interspersed with delicate greenery. These flowers were arranged in a tall crystal compote, and flanking this on one side was a silver service from which Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, mother of one of the honorees, poured coffee. At the opposite end of the table was a silver tray of assorted pastries and cookies, which were served by Mrs. H. L. Ormond, mother of the other honoree.

In front of the flower compote was a crystal tray containing chicken salad sandwiches, garnished with assorted cheese sandwiches cut in heart and diamond shapes.

Smaller glass compotes held a variety of mixed nuts and candied orange peel.

Mrs. Fred Forbes, Jr., and Mrs. Leighton Blount assisted the hostess in serving these tempting refreshments to more than forty guests. The honorees were each remembered with china in their chosen patterns.

College Choir Is Again Organized

The College Choir, 50-member musical organization at East Carolina Teachers College, has completed organization for the 1950-51 term, and rehearsals for a series of programs have begun.

Dr. Karl V. Gilbert, professor of music at the college, will direct the choir again this year. Carl Anderson of Elizabeth City, student of music, will serve as accompanist.

Auditions for membership in the group were conducted by Dr. Gilbert during the past week, and members were chosen on a competitive basis. Twenty-six women and 24 men have been announced as having successfully passed the try-outs.

Dr. Gilbert has announced that the first major program to be presented this year will be a cantata "Mystery of Bethlehem" by Healey Willan, to be given on the annual Christmas program of the department of music. Organ accompaniment with George Perry of the faculty at the console of East Carolina's new $30,000 pipe organ, and incidental piano music by Carl Anderson will be features of the number.

Last year the College Choir made a spring tour of several towns in eastern North Carolina and, according to Dr. Gilbert, hopes to stage a more ambitious off-campus program in 1951.

The Truth About BLUE-WHITE DIAMONDS

Don't be fooled by commonly used terms "Blue-White" and "Perfect" when selecting your diamond! What many jewelers consider a "blue-white" diamond may actually be tinged with yellow.

Only a Registered Jeweler can offer you the assurance and protection of scientific diamond grading. Diamonds vary in value according to four factors:

(1). COLOR.
(2). CARAT WEIGHT.
(3). COMPARATIVE ABSENCE OF IMPERFECTIONS.
(4). CUTTING.

PERFECT POOR

National diamond grading examinations for the Registered Jeweler assure you of better diamond values. A Registered Jeweler knows the facts about scientific diamond grading and must observe the American Gem Society's standards which protect his customers from purchasing low grade diamonds.

BE SURE YOU SEE A REGISTERED JEWELER BEFORE YOU BUY ANY DIAMOND!

THE ONE CHANCE

Many years ago an elderly woman lay at the point of death. The doctor assured the members of her family that her illness was so severe as clearly to indicate approaching death. He declared, however, that in such cases it was the practice among physicians to administer certain extreme remedies. He warned the family that there was certainly no more than one chance in a hundred that these remedies would produce beneficial effects.

But they did. The woman recovered and lived for eleven years. Some physicians probably would not have bothered, feeling certain that the patient was going to die anyway. They might have reasoned that one chance in a hundred is scarcely worth taking.

But one chance in a hundred is worth taking if something very important is at stake. History is filled with the accounts of how impossible situations have quickly been turned into triumph by persons who refused to accept the impossible.

When all hope seems gone and there is only one chance in a hundred left, let us never forget that one chance. It may not be much but it is something. And because it is something it should not be neglected.

The Policy Is Fundamental; Adherence Is Necessary

Police Chief Guy C. Langston has set down the policies of the police department to the officers as they should be set down; and he has made it clear to the officers that he expects the policies to be followed.

One of Langston's first official acts as police chief was to outline these policies last night to the members of the department in the presence of the board of aldermen. He made it clear in his outline that he intends to run the department on a business-like basis. He solicited the cooperation of the members of the police department and the city officials in maintaining an efficient department.

Langston's policies as he presented them are more or less fundamental when they are considered in the light of what is to be desired in an efficient department. Yet they will cause changes in the way the Greenville police department has been run and the individual officers have been conducting themselves.

The new chief has insisted that no officer be involved in "politics of any sort," and that each officer keep himself "absolutely clear of any political observances." A police department which becomes involved in politics quickly ceases to function efficiently and to render its maximum service to the people of the community. There are several officers on the Greenville police department who in past years have meddled in politics—some openly and some in a behind-the-scenes fashion. It has had its adverse effect upo nthe department.

Langston called for courtesy on the part of the officers toward the public. He outlined a minor change in the time at which officers will report to duty, and said that complaint reports must be completed and filed with the department office.

He called for a stop to the bickering between the individual officers on the force, and warned the members of the department that he would not tolerate individual members of the department running to members of the board of aldermen with personal reports or complaints on matters within the department.

He told the department members he expects "eight hours of good honest work" from each member of the department each day.

Langston also emphasized that each member now on the department began anew with him as chief Monday. He said each man will be judged not upon reports of past activities, but upon his efficiency and behavior from Monday on.

The department policy as set forth by Langston is fundamental to an efficient police department. Nevertheless, it will make changes in the local police department from what we have known in times past. If the department is to be efficient the policy must be adhered to.

Langston has been pledged the cooperation of the mayor and the members of the board of aldermen. He must also receive the cooperation and support of the citizens of Greenville as a whole.

Another Fire Loss; Still No County Equipment

The tremendous fire loss in Falkland Monday night was indeed a blow to the people of the Falkland community, and to the county as a whole.

Had it not been for the response of the fire departments of five surrounding towns, the loss at Falkland probably would have been much greater than it was. The fire departments of Greenville, Farmville, Fountain, Tarboro and Pinetops responded readily and willingly to the call for aid. Volunteer firemen as well as paid firemen from the five departments went to Falkland to do what they could to prevent the loss of property. The expense of fighting the fire in Falkland was paid by the individual towns which sent fire equipment.

Even though the people of Falkland pay thousands of dollars of taxes to the county government, they are afforded absolutely no means of fire protection by the county.

Time and again people from various sections of the county have asked the county commissioners for county fire fighting equipment. But each time the people have gotten the same do-nothing answer from the commissioners: "We'll take it under advisement."

The towns are willing to give fire fighting aid to the people of the county. But it is unfair for the people who pay town taxes as well as county taxes to have to bear the expense of fighting fires all over the county.

The commissioners still have the question of county fire fighting equipment "under advisement." meanwhile the towns of Pitt county and adjoining counties are spending their money trying to prevent as much fire loss as possible in the rural sections of Pitt county.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13—President Truman will soon be forced to call several National Guard divisions, perhaps ten, into overseas service because the United States has no more ground troops for the Korean fighting. They cannot be spared from their present stations in Japan, Germany, Austria, Italy and other places around the globe.

The number of foot-soldiers remaining in this country consist only of housekeepers, bookkeepers, guards etc. Difficult as it is to realize, the Reds' attack on this remote and unimportant peninsula has forced us to commit all our available infantry and marines.

President Truman has surprised his military advisers by not summoning many guard units to camp and training long before now. Even if he issues a call before October 1, it will take at least three months to organize, outfit and ship them overseas.

To reach the lines before the first of the year, they would have to dispense with even "refresher training," except what they could pick up in off hours.

HESITANT—The White House is represented as hesitant because federalization of any large force would be interpreted and assailed by Moscow as evidence of our "imperialistic aims." Until recently, too, he had been hopeful that our present strength would be sufficient to hurl the invaders back behind the 38th parallel.

General Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has felt the need for fuller mobilization for some time. He regards General MacArthur's command as a mere holding force fighting a sort of rear-guard action.

But he has been reluctant to press his views on Mr. Truman, who has sided with Secretary Acheson against Secretary Johnson in their recent disputes.

National Guard divisions from Pennsylvania, California, Oklahoma, Vermont, Connecticut and Rhode Island have been notified of federalization, but they will not go to camp for several weeks. The same applies to combat teams from South Dakota and Tennessee. Moreover, it is understood that these units are not at full strength.

WEATHER—Here are several factors which necessitate immediate increase of infantry strength, and which President Truman cannot ignore, in the opinion of Pentagon experts:

(1) The fierce Korean weather strikes within a few weeks and the U.S. forces will suffer severe casualties from snow, rain and an almost arctic cold. The climate will not cripple the enemy so seriously because they are accustomed to it.

EXHAUSTED—(2) Our men are rapidly becoming exhausted from lack of relief on the lines. While fighting bravely, their South Korean allies are lost without capable and decisive leadership. They are undependable as replacements.

(3) The draftees awaiting induction or already undergoing training will not be ready for more than six months, even under the new accelerated system of training.

Too many youngsters now on the lines in Korea know little more than "squads right," according to official admissions before several Congressional committees.

FIELD—(4) Should the Reds score a decisive victory in Korea, Moscow will probably be tempted to duplicate this bargain-basement war in another section of the globe, possibly Indo-China or Iran, both convenient springboards for another test of allied power and determination.

(5) In that event, our weary and chewed-up Korean force would be almost useless. Since our allies—Britain, France, The Netherlands—maintain that their military manpower resources are even scantier than our own, the Reds would enjoy a clear, unbroken field on those prospective end runs into areas we have pledged ourselves to safeguard.

ELIGIBLE—Although Governor Thomas E. Dewey's decision to seek reelection has heartened Republican leaders at headquarters and on Capitol Hill, they do not believe that he will make himself eligible for a 1952 presidential nomination, even if he defeats the Truman-Flynn-Lynch forces in the November election.

The obvious reasons are, of course, that "he has had two chances already." Many are still rankling over the kind of campaign he conducted two years ago, when they entertained such high expectations of a GOP return to the promised land around the White House. Among these are at least fifty per cent of the Republican National Committee, who still insist that an all-out attack on the "fair deal" is their only strategy.

OPPOSITION—But Mr. Dewey's opponents raise even more practical explanations and objections. In 1944 and 1948, they point out, he was the front-runner when the convention opened. He had a definite appeal to delegates and political bosses who like to ride with a winner.

He will have sterner opposition from men like Governor James H. Duff of Pennsylvania if Duff wins the Senate race next fall, and from Governor Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey. "Bob" Taft will be making his last, desperate play for the honor. Governor Earl Warren of California may also try again. The anti-Dewey will be far more formidable than the pro-Dewey faction.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Back in June, Earl Barter, who at that time was a baseball umpire in the Coastal Plain League, came in the store to make a quick purchase. At the time I told him I wanted to write a column about him, but he took off before I could whip out a pencil. The same week Barter's contract was sold to a Class B league, the Florida-International, so he left Greenville. Monday Earl was passing through Greenville on the way back home, so he dropped in for another purchase. This time I caught him.

The main question I have always wanted to ask a baseball umpire is what the players say when they step out of the box and jaw at the umpire. "It just depends," Earl says, "on whether or not the player thinks the pitch was in there. If he does, he might say, 'Boy O Boy, would I like to have that pitch back again. Why in the world didn't I knock that one out of the park?' Of course the fans think that the player is contesting the pitch, and sometimes they join in with their yells. All the time the player is simply agreeing with the umpire, and wondering why he failed to cut at that ball."

Earl says there are naturally times when the player really is contesting an umpire's decision. One might complain by saying, "How could you call that a strike? That ball wasn't in there." Sometimes, Earl says, a player will spin on his heel after being struck out and say that the strike completely missed the plate. As long as a player complains with a civil tongue, the umpires take it, but the minute one calls an umpire an obscene name ,he's put out of the game and fined. Earl spoke very highly of Greenville's managers during the past two seasons. "Pappy Williams and Randy Heflin are both fine men," he says. Last season Pappy was put out of one game, but Earl says he wasn't working that game. In fact, he said he wouldn't have done it.

Earl says that an umpire runs into more protests from players when he works the bases. A player might howl, "How in the world did you miss that play? You were standing right over it." The logical question to ask Earl at that time was whether or not he thinks he ever missed a play. The reply: "No, sir! There is no such thing as a close play. It's always a ball or a strike, and a man is either safe or out. There's always that point of distinction."

Earl says he's seen many fights during his six years as an umpire. He added, "Umpires try to separate them, but at the same time we are careful to to get too involved. It would be awful easy for a player who was nursing a grude to slug one of us, and of course it would be termed as an accident—just part of the excitement."

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau — By LYNN NISBET — Raleigh, N. C.

PUBLICITY—Few North Carolinians have had more "official" publicity than Robert L. Doughton, technically the representative from the ninth district, but by common consent the "congressman at large" for North Carolina. Nearing the end of his fortieth year in Congress, having been first elected in 1910, he has served for longer time than any other man in history as chairman of the ways and means committee. During all this time, he has received very little personal political publicity. In fact, about the only way he can get his name in the papers in that connection is for somebody to start a rumor that he is going to quit. The past weekend had a flurry of this kind. The "old man" stopped it Sunday night with a statement he had no present idea of retiring until at least the end of the term for which he will be elected in November — his twenty-first consecutive victory.

ORIGIN—Source of these rumors has always been hard to trace. There is suspicion that they are started by other potential candidates or their friends. District lines have changed during the year, and some counties which were in the seventh district in 1910 and the eighth district in 1920, which were represented by Doughton and for most part embraced areas now in the ninth. For that reason a few Democrats in the ninth district have had opportunity to vote for some other congressman. No Democrat who has always lived in the district represented by Bob Doughton, and who is now under 61 years of age, has had a chance to vote for anybody else for congress in the general election—and not often in the primary. Because it is accepted as fact that nobody can beat Farmer Bob, primary opposition has been rare. That means the only way younger men can get any publicity as potential candidates is for a rumor that Doughton will retire to be started. Thereupon half a dozen or more younger folks get their names mentioned as possible candidates.

AGELESS—The age designation doesn't mean much to Bob Doughton. He has long been recognized as working harder for longer hours more days than any other member of Congress. And he will be elected for his 21st term on his eighty-seventh birthday, having been born on November 7, 1863.

REORGANIZATION — If the next general assembly or any subsequent session wants to go into the matter of reorganization of state government there will be factual information at hand as basis for further study and planning. The council of state this week voted $900 from the contingency and emergency fund to publish findings of a commission headed by Dr. Roma S. Cheek which has been engaged in research for the past year or more. Duke University thought enough of the project to put $500 in it. Data is entirely factual, without recommendation or suggestion.

AUTHORITATIVE — For instance, nothing in the report suggests change or continuance with respect to existing tax laws; but the information is given as to how much revenue these laws produced in each of several years. There is no recommendation that the system of licensing and examining boards should be revamped; but there is authoritative data showing how these agencies have operated — how many applicants fail, how much money is collected and where the money goes. It is not suggested that any elective officials ought to be changed to appointive status, or vice versa. There is set out just how these officials fit into the overall government structure.

RELEASED—This report is not restricted in the usual sense of that word. It is presently limited because of lack of sufficient copies to go around, even among state officials. That is reason for the C and E allocation of $900 to publish the data and make the information available to the general assembly and the public. Governor Scott said Monday that as soon as copies can be printed they will be released to the press and public, even if that time comes ahead of convening of the general assembly.

HOMEFOLKS—The report has the advantage — or disadvantage in opinion of some — of having been prepared by homefolks with sympathetic understanding of state problems. It is known that some people in state government wanted the study made by outsiders. North Carolinians have not reacted favorable to such outside operations in the past. Recommendations of the Browning Institute twenty years ago met little acceptance in this state. The education commission report two years ago "lost face" because so many outsiders were called in to make the studies. The prison reform suggestions in the McCormick report are currently questioned.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

WHAT ADVERTISING DOES
(Wilson Daily Times)

The Bureau of Advertising, an adjunct of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, has been in business now for a little more than a decade. Its purpose has been to sell the efficacy of newspaper advertising. That it has done a marvelous job has been brought out by its twelfth annual "Blue Book" of newspaper advertising. It cited 50 outstanding examples where advertisers achieved major successes through planned programs In the field, the food accounts were the largest, representing 13 of the 50 selected. But others, notably automobiles, maintained leaderships in their respective lines.

The reasons for the successes were manifold. Newspapers only reach a mass public. Since mass production depends on mass sales, what other medium could do the job? Working on that principle, the bureau set out. In key campaign after key campaign it demonstrated to the advertiser that he could get infinitely better returns if his appropriations were spent in newspapers. What magazines could give similar coverage? Even the best would reach only 1,000 homes in Wilson County. What radio station could say exactly how many were listening? It could base its claims only on the known number of receiving sets.

But, and this is what the bureau did, it tested all media. In that way it convinced the advertiser that he could get the most for his money from newspapers. In the 50 key campaigns, the results in some cases were astounding. With some new drugs, sellouts were reported the first day. In all of the cases, however, the advertisers were convinced. They had through newspaper advertising surpassed their fondest expectations. For this is a mass age. If business houses with something to sell want to reach that mass public, they must depend on newspapers. In what other way can they get an 80 per cent coverage?

Up to 1,000,000 more workers may be brought under the minimum wage law without further Congressional action, under proceedings initiated by Administrator William R. McComb.

The law exempts from minimum wage and overtime requirements employees in certain operations in processing and handling agricultural products "within the area of production." The Administrator is given power to define the phrase.

The initial definition is based on a complicated mileage and population formula. Because this definition favored the giant corporations over the little food processors, it has been one of the most bitterly criticized features of the law.

Small food processing plants are located in cities or built up areas, necessarily so to have power, other utilities and protective services available. It is largely the big companies that have placed plants in the heart of farming areas.

Under the present formula, the plants in the cities are required to pay the minimum wages and overtime rates, while big plants in rural areas are exempt. "Representations have recently been made that in particular instances substantial economic discrimination exists between establishments which meet the requirements of the present definitions and those that do not," stated Mr. McComb. So all parties involved have been asked to submit proposals and evidence to the Wage and Hour Administration before October 10.

Regardless of the proposals, it is more likely that the definition will be tightened, rather than broadened. Thinking in the Labor Department is for constantly extending coverage and last year's amendment to the law suggests that this thinking is shared by Congress. Therefore, the net results are likely to be the inclusion of more rural food-process workers under the minimum provisions, rather than exempting employees in small urban firms.

This will tend to increase wages in the industry, which will be reflected in higher prices for the foods involved.

ALTERATIONS CHARGE STYMIED BY TRUST LAW

Only fear of the anti-trust law is keeping men as well as women from paying for alteration of their clothing.

Labor costs are making alterations more expensive. In only a few areas and places are men charged for alterations now. A lot more clothing merchants would like to charge, but they are afraid they'll lose customers if their competitors don't charge. And if they make I-will-if-you-will deals with competitors, they'll violate anti-trust laws.

PLENTIFUL FOOD IN OCTOBER FORECAST

Good eating at reasonable prices is predicted for October by the National - American Wholesale Grocers Association. It says that eggs, cheese, cabbage, potatoes, dry beans, fryers, turkeys, onions, peanut butter and cranberries will be plentiful, and prices "relatively good."

HEAVY PROMOTION FOR AUTO DEALERS

National Automobile Dealers Week will be intensively promoted from October 22 to 28 by the National Automobile Dealers Association. It has forwarded material for advertising to 11,000 daily and weekly newspapers and to NADA area chairman, and a wide variety of material to radio and television stations. Local dealers are being urged to stage contests, open houses, and parades, to offer souvenirs and hold "auto queen' competitions.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Q. I have received a patent on a new article to be made of plastic, but I am at a loss to know how to get it on the market, as I have had no experience. Can you advise me?—J.L.M.

A. One procedure might be to take the matter up with a manufacturer of plastics. The larger companies are very much interested in putting patent owners in touch with fabricators who might be interested in making and marketing new plastic products. Or you may get suggestions from the nearest field office of the Department of Commerce. E.R.

NEW AND HOT

DISPLAYS: Novel effects in three-dimensional calendars and counter displays are being created by the use of Vinylite plastic (by Timely Products Mfg. Co., 607 Chaffee Rd., Fort Des Moines, Iowa). A damp cloth keeps the displays fresh.

FOLDER. A new electric folding machine for print shops and offices has been introduced (by Pitney-Bowes, Stamford, Conn). Any one of eight basic folding operations may be selected by turning a dial. It handles a variety of sizes and weights of paper as high as 19,000 sheets an hour.

BADGES: Identification and name-plate badges are being offered in new designs (by Philadelphia Badge C., 1007 Filbert St., Philadelphia 7). Improved plastics give them greater durability, the manufacturer claims. They are made to fit any requirement in sizes up to 10 inches.

DUSTER: A new hand-type vacuum cleaner, weighing five pounds and designed to get at hard-to-reach places has been announced (by the Hoover Co., North Canton, Ohio).

Hal Boyle's Column

By LACHLAN MacDONALD
(Anchorage, Alaska, Times)
(For Hal Boyle)

Anchorage, Alaska—(AP)—The wives and children of the nation's finest come home this way. Often, late at night, the great planes of Operation Raven stop briefly before the last leg of the long trip to the U.S.A.

The North Pacific run isn't a vacation tour anymore and the evacuees arriving daily at Elmendorf Air Force base are not the laughing, prosperous international travelers of a few weeks ago. They are families uprooted by war.

Some are shaken by their experience, but there are no tears. Volunteers who meet the planes with food and toys for the children are quick to note the women with a strained and detached look that sets them apart. They are the quiet widows of men who have died in the Korean hills. Reluctantly they give up their infants to volunteers who feed and care for them during the stop.

Some received first notification of their loss in Tokyo casualty lists; a few received suddenly terrible bundles of clothing. The health officer, the immigration man's questions, the customs examination, all are a little unreal for the women who only 20 hours before boarded planes in Japan.

The reception program at Elmendorf does everything possible to comfort and care for the evacuees. First planes, after the Korean war started, were met by officers who found themselves unequipped to deal with tired mothers and fussy babies. Then volunteers from the officer's wives and NCO wives club took over. The fame of their welcome has spread to Tokyo.

The operation was named after the sombre raven when it became apparent that dependents in Japan would have to return to stateside homes after husbands became casualties or as new troops required their quarters. But not all the returning dependents are bereaved by the war. Many are optimistic and it is their cheer that means much to the widows on the long Pacific flight.

At least half of the weary travelers stepping down the gangplank are children, often infants born in Asia. A few are old enough to remember comic books, which they snatch with joy, but others speak only Japanese. They cling to their Japanese dolls and highly polished sandals and beam wide-eyed at their first view of America.

Operation Raven is primarily a military air transport service (MATS) operation. Care of evacuees at Elmendorf is in the hands of Lt. Col. Charles Reid.

But the evacuees aren't the big problem for the men of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine. Plane crews and personnel on rotation deluge his office with maples, firs and stunted pine trees reputed to be hundreds of years old. Most of them aren't the famous Oriental dwarf trees, at all, the plant men report, but midget plants dug up near the mountain tree-line and passed off as the genuine article.

Traditional souvenirs, the trees must be deloused and cleaned before they can enter the U. S. The quarantine worries about Japanese bettles and other insects which haven't yet invaded America from the Orient. The trees usually end up in an incinerator.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — C. Tyler Wood, new deputy special representative for the Marshall Plan in Europe, with the rank of ambassador, is an irrepressive "doodler."

His doodles invariably run to intricate geometric patterns. A favorite consists of hundreds of matching five-pointed stars. Another is made up of progressively smaller triangles that seem to be drawn with a ruler. Still another forms perfectly balanced parallelograms.

The doodle experts seem to think these show that Mr. Wood possesses 'infinite thoroughness, patience, meticulousness." They say you can just take a look over Mr. Wood's eight and a half years' government service and find these his outstanding characteristics.

"Ty has what I call the 'bulldog' approach," Willard Thorp, assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, who worked with Mr. Wood in the early pre-Marshall Plan days, explains.

Mr. Thorpe says Mr. Wood would have exhaustive memoranda prepared by staff experts on something he was working on and almost invariably turn up next day asking for more information. Finally he'd call in the experts himself, quiz them intensively until he felt satisfied he did have all answers.

Mr. Wood first came to the government in 1942. He was an adviser to the old War Production Board, then he worked on Army production and procurement. Finally he was made a colonel, receiving the Distinguished Service Award. The past few years he has been active in various Marshall Plan positions.

Born in South Africa of American missionary parents, he speaks Afrikans as well as English. He attended Wooster College in Ohio and Princeton. Prior to the war he was senior partner of Gilbert Eliot and Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange.

"Wood, although essentially a serious man on every job, is far from being a 'stuffed shirt,'" remarked one of his friends. "He is what we call a 'good man at parties' (the few he finds time to attend) and in small gatherings he can always be prevailed upon to play his banjo and sing his favorite spirituals and cowboy songs." This, the doodling apparently does not show, nor his one serious failing, an addiction to "very bad puns."

Family Decides Against State Funeral For Smuts

Johanesburg, Sept. 13—(AP)— The family declined Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan's offer of a state funeral for Jan Christian Smuts.

Instead the famous Field Marshal and former Prime Minister, who died Monday at the age of 80, will be given a military service Friday morning at Pretoria's Dutch Reformed Church, Groote Kerk.

The body will then come by special train to Johannesburg for cremation. The family has not yet decided where the ashes will be placed.

The whitewashed gates of Smuts' farm near Pretoria remained wide open today. No crowds gathered, only the closest friends.

Telegrams of condolence flowed in from all over the world, however.

His physician said death was due to a heart collapse following dislodgement of a blood clot which settled in the brain.

Behind his death lay a story of the struggle to prolong his political influence in South Africa following the defeat of his united party in 1948 by Malan's Nationalists.

Though Smuts was taken ill four days after nation-wide celebrations of his 80th birthday May 24, doctors had withheld from the public and Smuts himself the knowledge that he was suffering from coronary thrombosis, or a blood clot in the arteries of the heart.

The fact was known only to a few newspapermen who were not privileged to disclose it because Smuts read all their stories about his health.

Rep. George Smathers (D-Fla), has been asked to investigate the death of Pfc. Vernon A. Hawthorne, 17 (above), of Miami, who was killed in Korea less than five months after he enlisted. The dead soldier's father, David Hawthorne, said his son had only "sketchy training" when he was sent to combat. (AP Wirephoto).

'Wild Ride' For Reckless Autoist

Asheville, N.C., Sept. 13—(AP)—Cecil Crownover, about 30, took a wild ride last night, police reported today.

Officers said that his automobile—with Crownover at the wheel and his two children, Robert, 5, and Sandra, 4, as passengers—careened down the Asheville-Hendersonville highway into Biltmore and—

Ran a red traffic light, traveled down the middle lane of the street, sideswiped three automobiles, raced across the Southern Railway tracks at Biltmore seconds ahead of an oncoming train, ran a second red light and swerved up an embankment, toppling a small tree. Then the automobile turned over, with the tree on top of it.

At the top of the embankment was St. Joseph's Hospital, where Crownover's wife is a nurse. He and the children received treatment there for bruises before he was lodged in the city jail, charged with hit-and-run driving on three counts and reckless driving.

His case will probably come up in police court tomorrow.

Valley Is Warned Dam Weakening

Crewe, Va., Sept. 13—(AP)—Officials of the Buggs Island dam project near Clarksville have warned residents of the Roanoke river valley of a threatened break in the coffer dam at the project site.

Radio station WSVS, at the request of Buggs Island authorities, broadcast a warning to residents of the valley area advising that the river "already is topping the coffer dam and the dam may go at any time."

The broadcast advised valley residents as far down at Roanoke Rapids, N. C., to "get all stock and crops out of the river botton as soon as possible.

The dam holds back an estimated 30 feet of water and should it give way officials pointed out the Roanoke would flood lowlands in the valley.

YDC To Open Meet Thursday

Asheville, N.C., Sept. 13—(AP)—Young Democrats of North Carolina will begin their annual convention here tomorrow.

Highlight of the three-day gathering of Y.D.C. delegates will be an address by Gov. Sid McMath of Arkansas Saturday night.

Other convention speakers will include Senator-nominate Willis Smith, Lieut.-Gov. H. P. Taylor, Secretary of State Thad Eure and candidates for Speaker of the State House of Representatives.

Find Crocodile On Club's Lawn

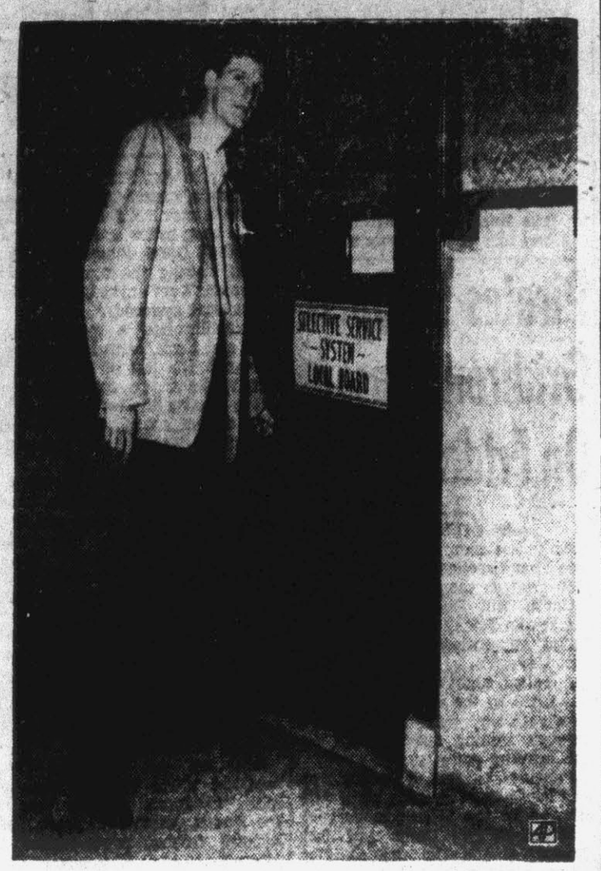

Singapore—(AP)—Singapore Flying Club at the international Kallang air port here had a surprise visitor They found a crocodile dozing in their front open drain. As the Club was for "members only," they rudely woke him up. He gave them a cold stare and crept away in a closed drain.

Next morning the croc was again found taking a nap on the club's front lawn. This time he did not escape. He was five feet long.

Too Tall For Uncle Sam

Town Threatened

Grover, N.C., Sept. 13—(AP)—Firemen from five towns last night battled a fire that threatened to destroy the business section of this Cleveland County village.

One building was destroyed and two other structures damaged before firemen brought the flames under control. The burned building was a general merchandise store.

Firefighters were called from Shelby and Kings Mountain, and from Gaffney and Blacksburg in South Carolina, in addition to the Grover force.

Using Synthetic Rubber Widely

Akron, O.—(AP)—The nation's present rubber supply position is much better than it was in 1940, according to figures compiled by the B. F. Goodrich Co.

In 1940 the United States consumed 650,000 tons of rubber, 97 per cent of which was imported from the Far East. At that time this country had the capacity to produce only 4,500 tons of man-made rubber of all types.

Today the nation is consuming rubber at a rate of more than 1,000,000 tons a year but has facilities for producing 940,000 tons of American rubber. Output of man-made rubber will be at the rate of 740,000 tons early in 1951.

give me health and a day

"GIVE ME HEALTH and a day and I will make the pomp of emperors ridiculous!" was Ralph Waldo Emerson's terse but eloquent opinion of the value of health. The vibrant, glowing health of which he speaks is seldom an accident of birth. Its price is constant vigilance, with proper regard for rest, fresh air, exercise, and diet.

Indians Move Into Pennant Race As Team Of 'Spoilers'

Out Of Contention, Cleveland Club Out To Redeem Itself At Expense Of Boston, New York And Detroit

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

With big Luke Easter as the ringleader, the smarting Cleveland Indians are moving back into the American League pennant race in the role of 'spoilers."

Knocked out of contention and blasted by their bosses, the Indians are out to redeem themselves at the expense of the three remaining contenders—Boston, New York and Detroit.

They began to reap revenge last night by defeating the New York Yankees, 8-7, on a three-run homer by Easter in the ninth inning.

The defeat sent the Yankees into second place, a half game back of the Detroit Tigers who scored a 3-2 afternoon triumph over the Washington Senators.

Cleveland has one more game with the Yanks, six with the Tigers and two with the third place Boston Red Sox. The Red Sox, still moving relentlessly forward, climbed within a game of the lead by edging the Chicago White Sox, 2-1.

Home runs in the first two innings by Joe Dimaggio, Phil Rizzuto and Yogi Berra shot the Yanks off to 6-0 lead in a rain-soaked game.

Homers by Larry Doby and Easter shaved the deficit to 6-4 by the fifth.

Allie Reynolds, who had allowed only four hits, blew up in the ninth and walked two batters. He was hurriedly lifted for Tom Ferrick. Bob Kennedy greeted Ferrick with a run scoring doube. Doby struck out but Easter then slammed Ferrick's first pitch over the rightfield fence to break up the game.

The St. Louis Browns, behind the three-hit pitching of Al Widmar, blanked the Philadelphia Athletics, 6-0.

In the National League the Philadelphia Phillies moved a step closer towards the pennant by nosing out the St. Louis Cardinals, 1-0. Behind the five-hit pitching of Robin Roberts, who attained his 19th victory.

The victory kept the Phils 6 1-2 games ahead of the runner-up Brooklyn Dodgers who got only one hit in beating the Ewell Blackwell and the Cincinnati Reds, 3-1.

Blackwell lost the game in the eighth inning when he hit a batter, committed an error and wild pitch home run that broke a 1-1 tie. The third run scored on an infield out. Gene Hermanski singled in the fourth for the lone Brooklyn hit. Carl Erskine went the route for the Dodgers allowing three safeties.

Cubs' Clouter

The change of scenery, from Cincinnati to Chicago, seems to have done Hank Sauer a world of good. The big slugger doesn't agree with the average National League slugger that Wrigley Field, with its center field bleachers, offers the poorest possible background for batters. Hank likes it and his attitude is reflected in his hitting record for the current season.

Hank admits that the white shirts of the bleacherites is far from an ideal background for hitters, but it does serve as a constant reminder to concentrate on every ball thrown up to the plate. He concentrates harder in Wrigley Field and as a recult, hits better. As soon as Hank donned a Cub uniform last season his hitting improved and he batted .308 for the part of 1949 season he spent with the Cubs. His average for the complete season was .275.

Sauer had one of the biggest days of his career before the homefolks in Wrigley Field when he poled out successive home runs in three trips to the plate against Curt Simmons of the Phillies on August 28. These three homers were part of a five day hitting spree that netted him seven round trippers and brought his total for the season up to 26.

Cleveland's Collapse Is Biggest Disappointment

CLEVELAND'S 2 col 24 Itl Spoon

Cleveland, Sept. 13— (AP)— Hank Greenberg regards the collapse of the Cleveland Indians as the biggest disappointment of his entire baseball career.

Now that the Tribe is all but mathematically out of the American League race, Greenberg picks the Detroit Tigers to win the championship.

The Indians' general manager denied that he intends to make sweeping changes for next year and refused to clear the cloud hovering over Lou Boudreau's managerial chances for 1951.

"We're not out of it yet," said Greenberg following last night's spectacular 8-7 triumph over the New York Yankees. But the way he said it you knew that he had given up all hope for the year.

Despite the victory which came when Luke Easter smashed his second homer of the game with two mates aboard and two out in the ninth inning, the Browns put the skids under us," muttered Hank, shaking his head. "Imagine a club like that beating us four straight. And right in our own back yard. I still can't believe it. We were awful I've seen high school teams that looked better.

Records Fall, Averges Go Up For Men's Bowling League Last Night

Records fell and individual averages went up last night in the second week's bowling in the Classic (men's) League.

Speedy Reid, bowling for Carolina Dairy, bettered his last week's 161 average by upping it to 165 as his team took two games from Hodges Hardware.

Reid bowled games of 130, 212 and 167 for the new average that broke a tie between him and Spooky Morgan of Bilbro Wholesale. Morgan's average sank last night when his best game came to 156. The other two were 126 and 130, much lower than last week's first try of the fall bowling competition.

Bilbro took over ownership of first place in the league by copping three games from Wagner-Waldrop. Best game for Bilbro was rolled by Red Joyner with 206. His other two games were 173 and 109 for a three-game total of 488.

Reid set the high mark for three games in rolling 509. In doing so, his other teammates aided the team's cause in racking up a record-breaking 2,308 for three game total.

Leading the pack at the end of six games are Reid, 165, Gene Ward, 158; Bob Matthews, 157; Bill Harrington, 154; and Bruce Bilbro, 151.

Pirates To Open Gridiron Season On Friday Night

By BILL LLOYD

Only two more days remain before East Carolina tapers off on its 1950 gridiron campaign.

Coach Bill Dole's Pirates open the season Friday night against the Naval Apprentice School at Newport News, Va.

A called night session was held last night in the college stadium as Coach Dole sent his charges through ironing out exercises for the opening game.

Punting, kickoffs, pass patterns, and brush up of running plays were stressed in the afternoon workout.

Halfbacks Bill Darby and Jack Benzie shared in the kicking chores along with Sophomore Sandy Siler.

All-conference Roger Thrift, Pirate ace quarterback, did the pigskin-tossing with Ends Dwight Shoe, Ed Tanner, Frank Maennle, Ott Alford, and Bobby Hodges on the receiving end.

In last night's session, Dole worked primarily in getting his players working as a unit while stressing the kickoff and more work on the pass patterns.

Tom Swain, big 224-pound fullback, was welcomed back into the fold last night. Swain, a naval reservist, missed two days of practice because of a notice from the Navy Department.

Defensive end, Bob Bradley was still working out in light gear but is expected to be ready to go in Friday night's opener.

Belvoir, Ayden Play Semifinal Contest Friday

The semi-final series in the Tobacco County League playoffs begin Friday night at Guy Smith stadium when Belvoir, the league's first place finisher, meets the third place team, Ayden, at 7:45.

Playing in Robersonville Sunday will be the home club against Winterville, both teams finishing in the first division at the end of the summer route.

Belvoir finished the season with 20 and 9 record and Ayden finished a game and a half behind at 19 and 11.

Mrs. Porter yesterday took a 1-up trimming from Mrs. J. Albert Hayes of Philadelphia on the 19th hole.

Red Devils Look For Better Grid Team Than In '49

Farmville, Sept. 13 — Farmville's Red Devils, runner-ups in the Coastal conference last year, are looking for an even better season this year.

Football Coach Elbert Moye stated, in viewing the coming season, "if we don't get anybody hurt, we're gonna beat somebody."

Farmville had a record of six wins and three losses last year.

Despite the loss of seven lettermen by graduation, and three more either joining the service or dropping out of school, Coach Moye's sentiments were on the optimistic side.

In the line, the Red Devils will have six returning lettermen, headed by Ray Flora, a guard, and Bobby Fulford, a tackle. Other linemen returning are James Fountain and Doug Pierce, tackles; with Ends Albert Cannon and Roy Vick rounding the lettermen out.

The backfield of the Red Devils was the hardest hit by graduation. Only two lettermen have returned for duty this year. They are Randy Allen, a sharp, little quarterback and passer, and Gene Meeks, hard-running halfback.

Rounding out the Red Devil backfield which will run from the split "T" formation this year is Joe Smith, another halfback, and Richard Oakley, power-runner at fullback.

In reviewing his practice sessions thus far, Coach Moye remarked, "We'll have a fair first team, but lack of reserves will make our team spotty."

Farmville opens its 1950 football season September 22 against Hertford at Farmville. All Farmville home games will be played at night.

LaMotta Favored To Retain Title In Bout Tonight

Detroit, Sept. 13—(AP)—Middleweight Champion Jake LaMotta is expected to tame Laurent (Tarzan) Dauthuille of France tonight in a promising 15-round title bout at the Olympia Stadium. Ring time is 10:00 p.m. (EST).

Back in the city where he wrested the crown from another Frenchman —the late Marcel Cerdan—15 months ago, LaMotta rules a 5 to 9 favorite. No knockout is predicted.

With radio and television barred from this international test, Promoter Nick Londes of the International Boxing Club looks for a crowd of 13,000 to pay $100,000. If he is right, it will be a new Detroit indoor record.

"I felt the place needed to be livened up a bit. We have been having some lousy programs lately."

Buc Aerial Game Assured; Experienced Ends Are Back

By BILL LLOYD

(First in a series of four features on East Carolina's 1950 football squad.)

"We're going to throw that ball a lot," stated Coach Bill Dole at the beginning of the Pirate grid workouts September 1.

And when a football eleven throws a lot, there must be capable flankmen to receive the passes.

East Carolina's grid machine this year will have plenty of depth in the pass-receiving department.

Five returning lettermen have again reported for duty at the end positions.

They are Ed Tanner, Dwight Shoe, Frank Maennle, Bob Bradley, and Cecil Winslow.

In addition to the five letterman flankmen, Coach Dole has three Pirate newcomers who will add strength to the end positions. They are Ott Alford, Bobby Hodges, and Charles Carver.

Tanner, the rangy, 6'2" junior from Portsmouth, Va., and Dwight Shoe, a stocky-built lad from Salisbury are expected to share the offensive blunt again this year as they did last season. Shoe was one of the leading scorers for the Pirates last year from his end position while catching five passes for touchdowns. Tanner will double up on defense as well as being a stalwart on offense.

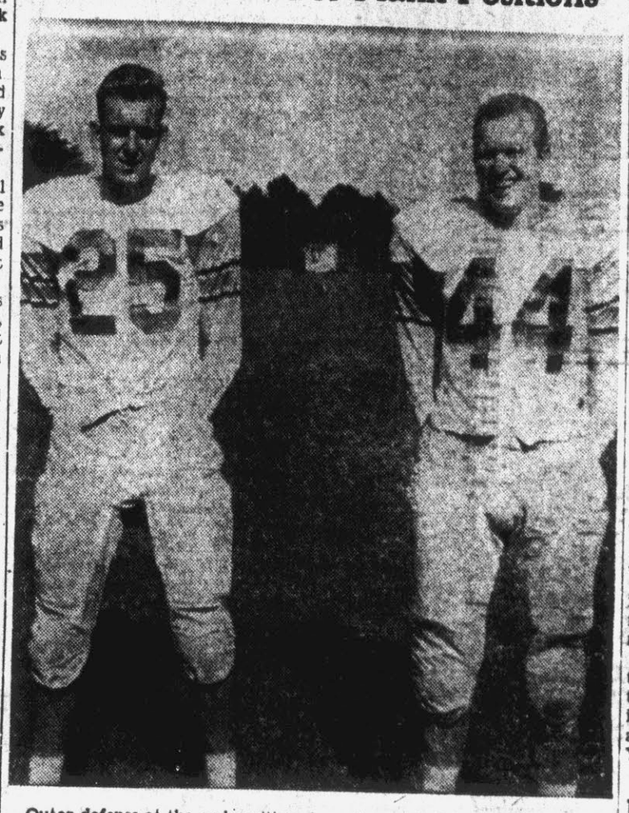

Using the two-platoon system with his ""T" formation, Dole will have rugged Frank Maennle, the converted fullback from Kearney, N.J., and battling Bob Bradley, another monogram winner from Rocky Mount, on the defensive flanks. Maennle was shifted to end this year to strengthen the outer defense of the Pirates, while Bradley turned in brilliant defensive play during last season. Maennle will also be used some on offense.

Cecil Winslow, six-foot letterman from Hertford, will be held in reserve along with the newcomers Ott Alford, 6'2" lad from Laurinburg and Charles Carver, tall, 6'3" frosh from Williamston.

Bobby Hodges, big, 6'5", 222-pound All-State schoolboy from Kinston will see plenty of action from the end position as well as doubling up with duties at a defensive tackle spot.

Football coaches have their many worries but head Pirate mentor, Bill Dole, certainly han't any gray hairs over his offensive or defensive flanks this season.

Defensive Pair For Flank Positions

Outer defense at the end positions is major part of football nowadays and shown above are two Pirate lettermen who will hold their own at their flank spots this year. They are Frank Maennle, rugged 6'3" senior, at right, and Bob Bradley, another 6'3" stalwart from Rocky Mount. Maennle, who hails from Kearney, N. J., will also see some action with the offensive unit while Bradley is a veteran of Dole's last year's defensive unit. (Reflector photo by Roy Hardee).

Farmville Wins Second Game Of Final Series

Farmville, Sept. 13.—Willie Mauney, tobacco-chewing manager of Farmville's fighting baseball club, spat out a ninth inning single that drove Gay home with the winning run last night as his club took the second game of the final series, 5-4.

The outcome of the tiff was in doubt all the way. Macclesfield staged its big blast in the third inning when four runs scored on a walk and three solid singles. The visiting club zeroed in thereafter.

But Farmville plugged away throughout the game. The locals got first blood with a single run in the second and added another in the third just after Macclesfield had extended the lead to 4-1.

It wasn't until the eighth that Farmville came to life again, scoring another singleton. And in the ninth the situation looked anything but good. But the never-say-die spirit coupled with a sparkling Frank Merriwell finish put the quietus on the Macclesfield club. The win evened the series at one win each.

East Carolina's Lou Collie, playing second base last night for the local club, began the ninth frame drive by getting a double to send across Sam Stell, who had previously walked, with the tying marker. After Stell walked, Gay drew a pass, too, and Collie's hit sent him around to third. After Bell flied out, Pitcher Yohn walked, loading the bases. Mauney came through at that time with the single that wrapped up the game for his club.

Both teams played errorless ball, the first time a perfect game has gone on the books since the playoff series began two weeks ago.

Mauney led both clubs with the big stick, getting a perfect night at the plate with four singles in four times. Norm Clark and First Baseman Piner both got triples for the extra base hit department for Farmville.

Leading Macclesfield was First Baseman Bissette who hit two singles in four trips.

Both clubs play the third game tonight at 7:45. It will be Macclesfield's home game.

Simmons Hinted In World Series

Camp Atterbury, Ind., Sept. 13—(AP)—There are rumors going around that federalized 28th Division of the Pennsylvania National Guard that PFC Curt Simmons will be released to pitch in the world series if the Philadelphia Phillies win the National League Pennant.

Simmons' commanding officer, Capt. Howard Emhardt of the headquarters battery for the Division's artillery, wouldn't object to letting the star left hander pitch.

"But I'm mum on that subject," he said yesterday, "but I'm certainly not going to object if they want to send him over there."

There was no comment from headquarters. The general impression was that a ruling must come from higher authorities.

Simmons said he had been thinking mostly of what kind "of a soldier I'll make. I'm going to try to make a good one."

"Sure," he added, "I would like to pitch in the series but I don't think I'll be in shape. The army isn't the right kind of training for a pitcher. They run you too much. You're out too often."

East Carolina's Cheering Squad Of 15 Appointed

Cheering squad for East Carolina has been chosen for the coming year, with Jack Everton of Columbia heading the group.

Those returning are Ramona Sawyer, Washington; Jack Everton, Columbia; J. B. Edwards, Greenville, and Annie Frances Riddick, Hobbsville.

Escaped Mental Patient Wounded

Goldsboro Sept. 13—(AP)— An escaped patient from the Negro Hospital for the Insane here was wounded in the leg yesterday as officers took him in custody.

Officers said they fired on Sam Harrington in an effort to frighten him into dropping a shotgun. They said he suffered only a flesh wound.

Here are the three players who took the lead in putting the New York Yankees at the top in the American League pennant race by whipping Washington in a double header. Joe Dimaggio (left) doubled to center to start the big-run second inning of the night-cap which the Yankees won 6 to 2. Pitcher Ed Lopat (center) relieved Tommy Byrne and gave up only two hits in four and two-thirds innings. Outfielder Johnny Hopp (right) drove in one of the runs in the second game. The Yankees won the first game 5 to 1. (AP Wirephoto).

Chapter 28

At three o'clock in the morning the Texas Tommy was silent and dark. The gambling casino was closed and locked. The windows of Overstreet's living quarters were tightly shuttered, the doors were barred. Not a ray of light escaped the sumptuous chamber.

But the gambler had not retired. Fully dressed, he was pacing his Persian carpet with a savage unrest. Secure in his privacy, the mask had slipped from his inscrutable face, revealing features drawn in agony. His black hair had been worried by his nervous fingers until it had lost its customary sleekness.

He paused occasionally in his tigerish pacing to pour himself a tiny glass of brandy from a slowly emptying decanter on the taboret. Tossing off the liquor at a single gulp, he resumed his striding back and forth. Once he halted beside the chess table and stared gloomily at the board. If ever Dr. Logan had suffered remorse over the death of the veterinary, this strange man was damning himself for all eternity.

Again and again he went over the steps of his downfall, the developments of the past few months marching through his mind in stark review. How had he erred? How could he have changed the course of events? He found no loophole. The final bitter sacrifice, once having set his feet on the path chosen, had been inevitable.

He cursed the hour he had first gone to Frijole Flats in his honest attempt to investigate the Pelham murders. If only he had not gone. If only Griggsby had assumed the avenger role and killed the three murderers before that catastrophic visit, or it was in Frijole Flats that he had met John Naylor on an equal footing, and an evil idea had been born between them. Nothing less than the removal of Charles Hohner—who deserved to die—and the taking over of the land company on a fifty-fifty partnership basis.

But regrets, like good intentions, were vain. There was nothing for it now but to keep on until the string was played out. He poured another thimbleful of brandy and gazed sardonically down at the chessboard.

Once, with flawless clarity, he had analyzed his own character for Griggsby over a chess game. Definitely committed to a certain course, he sacrificed ruthlessly to win an objective. In the present crisis of realities he had done the same. He had won only what he had before teaming up with Naylor, and at what a price!

He laughed aloud, and there was crystal bitterness in the sound. He would have given his hope of heaven to recall that fatal partnership. He halted again, ran both hands through his hair with a despairing gesture, and seized the brandy decanter. A knock on the alley door startled him.

"Who's there?" he called.

"It's Dr. Logan," the voice of the physician answered him.

An impenetrable mask settled over the gambler's features. His hand steadied, and he smoothed his hair. With a firm step he went to the door and opened it.

For a moment doctor and gambler stood face to face. Both were pale and haggard, both were weary, but burning blue eyes met burning black eyes in a long dynamic glance.

"Back so soon from Frijole Flats?" Overstreet broke the silence in surprise. "Come in. I hardly expected you before morning."

Satchel in hand, Logan crossed the threshold and advanced into the room while Overstreet closed and barred the door. The doctor walked past the chess table and turned to face the gambler across it.

"Sit down," Overstreet invited, "while I pour you a drink."

"I want nothing, thanks," Logan declined, sitting behind the table and placing his satchel between his knees. "I have bad news for you, Overstreet."

"You were unsuccessful?"

"We were signally successful. We took Frijole Flats without firing a shot. We recovered all the loot of the robberies."

"Good. Tell me about it. Did you find Griggsby?"

"Yes. Is d'Auberg still missing?"

"Yes, he is. Why do you ask?"

"Sit opposite me, Overstreet," Logan said, indicating the board with his left hand, his right remaining in his lip. "I can illustrate better by using these men."

Overstreet shrugged and took the opposite chair.

"A chessboard can be likened to a map—a sort of battlefield," Logan went on, leaning forward. "It can also represent the checkered lives of people."

Overstreet frowned slightly. "True, but what has that to do with Pierre d'Auberg?"

The hanging lamp overhead shed a soft, mellow glow which relieved the weary lines in the doctor's face and pinked the pallid features of the gambler.

"I'll open by moving my king's pawn to king four," Logan said, moving the piece with his left hand.

"The king's gambit," Overstreet murmured.

"Yes. That can represent the coming of the Hohner land company to the Horseshoe Range. Will you make the logical counter move?"

Overstreet obliged with a duplicating move of the black king's pawn.

"That," said Logan, "is symbolic of your meeting with John Naylor at Frijole Flats."

Instantly Overstreet became tense. He looked across the table with tragic eyes. "Why do you say that, Logan?"

The doctor let him have it straight. "There's no point in beating around the bush, Overstreet. You, not d'Auberg, were the partner of Naylor. The Cajun was just your contact man. Don't make me explain what you know better than I."

Overstreet didn't bat an eye. All his former nervousness had disappeared, leaving him as cold and steady as a glacier.

"Just how do you arrive at this amazing conclusion?"

"The way you killed Tom Griggsby. You shot him exactly as you shot Charles Hohner."

Following the sale of these lands separately, the same will be offered for sale together with the adjacent lands of Guilford L. Moore, which are advertised to be sold at the same time provided there is any interested purchaser for both of said tracts at an increased bid over and above what they sell for separately. Said joint sale to be upon the same terms, cash, 5 per cent deposit awaiting confirmation by the Court.

Better Buy Buick!

YOU CAN SEE here how smart it is—don't have to be told that it's the most quickly identified car on the road today.

You probably know that the engine under that broad bonnet is a Fireball straight-eight valve-in-head engine and a lively stepper in any company.

FOUR-WAY FOREFRONT— This rugged front end (1) sets the style note, (2) saves on repair costs—vertical bars are individually replaceable, (3) avoids "locking horns," (4) makes parking and garaging easier.

You can check the abundance of its room by the simple expedient of taking the family and trying out its spaciousness at the nearest Buick dealer's—and a very few minutes on the open road will satisfy you that all-coil springing, low-pressure tires and Buick's torque-tube drive really do produce a ride that is matchless for its soft comfort.

BUT RIGHT NOW, it may be that the money angle is the thing uppermost in your mind, and on that we'd like to make two points:

All our records go to show that this is the most economical Buick ever built. It is easy on gas, on oil, on tires, on upkeep.

And if you choose it with Dynaflow Drive,* it immediately eliminates all chance of friction-clutch repair and replacement—not to mention greatly reducing rear-axle and transmission maintenance.

Best of all, your initial outlay is a highly favorable one—whatever Buick you buy. For these brawny straight-eights—built rugged and solid for durable service—are priced at a level that makes them a standout buy in any price class.

Yes, better buy a Buick. Your dealer will be glad to demonstrate, glad to work out all the arithmetic of a deal. See him right away and get an order signed.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

CHICAGO—The department store of the future may sell many items to customers by machine.

"Vend," a trade magazine of automatic merchandising, reports that two years of experiments have been conducted on automatic selling in department stores.

Among the items sold were hosiery, greeting cards, handkerchiefs, dolls, knitted shoe covers, razors, first aid kits, guest towels, sweaters, panties, sheets, pillow cases and plastic raincoats. Price ranges up to $8.25 were arranged with nickels, dimes and quarters.

Harold V. Dayton of the Associated Merchandising Corp. made the tests.

Circus In Town Saturday

A special train carrying 600 pretty girls, cowboys, clowns and aerial performers and 500 lions, tigers, elephants and horses will roll into Greenville Saturday morning and begin preparation for entertaining local circus fans.

The Clyde Beatty circus—all twenty-seven tents of it—will be set up at Pitt County Fair Grounds, ready for the first performance by 2:30, according to Frank J. Lee, general press agent.

Lee said those on hand to watch the circus unload Saturday morning would get an opportunity to watch elephants in action. The Beatty elephant herd does most of the heavy work involved in setting up the circus.

Performances are scheduled at 2:30 and 8 p.m. Saturday with the grounds open to the public an hour in advance of each show to permit spectators to visit the circus menagerie.

In addition to the elephant acts, the Beatty circus features a lion and tiger act by Beatty himself; the Great Barton, the man who walks on his finger tips; thirty clowns; Frank Doyle and Beatrice Andrews, aerial stars, and Don McLennon, movie cowboy and television star.

Another of the circus' featured attractions is an acrobatic performance by the four caudillo sisters of Mexico City. Daughters of one of Mexico's leading families, they were taught acrobatics by a Spanish gymnast as part of their health program and turned to the circus after they had scored a big success in a local society circus in Mexico City.

Marshall In . . .

On these grounds:

That Chiang's government was corrupt, that it wouldn't take the steps at reform necessary to help itself, and that it could not win against the Communists so long as it persisted in not reforming.

As a result American aid was withdrawn and eventually the Communists drove Chiang out.

Marshall had a big hand in shaping that policy. When Acheson succeeded him as secretary of state, the policy was continued, always, of course, with the approval of Mr. Truman, who was the connecting link between the two men.

But for many months now, with the Communists in control of China, Acheson has been condemned by the Republicans for our China policy. Senator McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, even called him the "Red Dean."

It seems unlikely that anyone would dare try to put any Red labels on Marshall but—. Now we'll have to see whether Marshall is going to be criticized along with Acheson for the China policy. The latter until now has had to bear the brunt of the attacks almost alone.

In order for Marshall to take the job as secretary of defense, Congress must change a law which it passed only a couple of years ago. That law says no former regular officer can be secretary of defense unless 10 years have elapsed since he left the service.

Marshall retired from the Army only five years ago. So before he can be secretary of defense, Congress will have to change the law—at least in his case. The purpose behind the present law, of course, was to preserve civilian control of the armed forces.

That's part of the American, democratic tradition of keeping control of the country in civilian hands and out of the hands of military men.

Several members of Congress, however, offered strange reasoning in explaining why they'll approve changing the law for Marshall.

They said they'd be against a military man as head of the armed forces in ordinary times, but—these are unusual times and therefore it's all right to put in a military man.

That's a little like saying civilians are all right till things get tough, but then we need military leaders. If that thinking was followed all the way down the line we'd have a military state, not democracy.

And that kind of thinking is completely contrary to the thinking of the founding fathers who wanted civilian control to be sure that military men always remained servants of the people, not their masters.

So it will be interesting to see just how Congress changes the law to let Marshall have the job: whether it will wipe out the ban on military men altogether or just relax the rule for Marshall alone.

Union's Link . . .

complaints by the New Delhi government with the United Nations. Thus far there has been no sign of any change of heart in South Africa on this point.

Whether Smuts' views ultimately prevail in his country, the British Commonwealth has lost one of its greatest figures, and the world one of the outstanding statesmen of generations. His achievements would fill volumes, but here are just a few:

Not only was he one of the creators of the British Commonwealth of Nations, but he was known as the father of the Union of South Africa, and was the hero of the South African masses.

He was among the founders of the League of Nations, and I saw him at Versailles where he was a signer of the World War One treaty. He was one of the creators of the United Nations.

Throughout his political life he was numbered among the chief counsels of the British Empire and Commonwealth When Britain faced its greatest crisis in World War One, Smuts was summoned to London to become a member of the Imperial War Cabinet, where he rendered invaluable service.

And now his beloved South Africa, as she faces a critical period in her history, is deprived of the guidance of her greatest son.

Berlin— (AP) —East Germans brought this latest anti-Russian joke to West Berlin:

Papa Stalin visited the Russian zone and asked an old lady on the street how things were going.

"Oh, pretty good," she replied only we don't get milk any more

"Well," said Stalin, "In the African deserts they don't even have water."

"Why in Africa?" wondered the old lady. "Have the Russians occupied that, too."

The Colonel Didn't Want Bullets Wasted, And So--

By STAN SWINTON

On the Masan front, Korea, Sept. 12—(AP)—It was dark in the front line command post. Around the defense perimeter sentries were on guard in foxholes.

They had strict orders from Lt. Col. John T. Corley of Brooklyn, against wasting ammunition. Suddenly, carbine fire broke the dark silence. A sentry fired a full clip.

"Bring that soldier in," ordered Corley, regimental commander.

A sergeant went out and returned with the sentry, Pvt Fraser Payton of Berkeley, Calif.

"Soldier," said Corley, "I said to quit wasting ammunition. When you shoot a full clip bring in a dead North Korean. Understand?"

"Yes sir," said Payton. He saluted and did about-face.

Three minutes later a voice outside the Colonel's tent said:

"Colonel, sir, could you come outside please?"

Corley stepped outside. There was Payton with a corpse beside him.

"Here is your dead North Korean, sir. I believe you asked for him."

Said the Colonel to the private: "I apologize, soldier."

"Thank you, sir," said Payton.

Panel discussions and lectures on all phases of poultry raising were to be held throughout the day.

Audley H. Ward of Aiken, S. C., district extension agent, will be the principal speaker at a banquet tonight.

Don't Be Satisfied With Symptomatic Relief! It's Now Possible To RELIEVE THE CAUSE OF YOUR SICKNESS

Neuritis Pains, Stomach Disturbances, Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn, Constipation, Certain Nervous Disorders When Due to Lack of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Iron and Niacin in Your System!

HADACOL One of the Greatest Blessings of the Times!

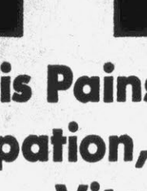

Just a Few of Thousands Upon Thousands of Interesting Records of Folks With Such Deficiencies Who Have Been Helped says HADACOL really has put a stop to her neuritis pains. She was in a very bad condition with aches and pains and unable to sleep and was forced to give up her position as a practical nurse. She had severe pains in wrists and stiffness in her hips, being almost unable to walk. Now after taking one bottle of HADACOL, she is able to do her own housework. She most enthusiastically recommends HADACOL to all sufferers from neuritis pains.

Mrs. C. C. Keller, 1629½ Frederick Avenue, St. Joseph, Missouri,

Floyd Mabe, 1401A South 7th Street, St. Louis, Missouri: "For some time after a wartime injury I had been troubled with neuritis pains in my legs and could not work. Nothing seemed to help me until I tried HADACOL. After taking a half bottle, I seemed to feel better. My wife told me it was only my imagination, but I continued to take HADACOL and up to the present have taken 13 bottles. Now I feel fine with no more pains in my legs." (HADACOL is so effective because it relieves THE REAL CAUSE of neuritis aches when due to such deficiencies. Why don't you give HADACOL a chance to help you?)

Link Robinson (a steel worker for over 20 years), 519 Lindsey, Newport, Kentucky:

"When your stomach is in bad shape as mine, couldn't eat, gas pains, stomach bloating and nervousness, then your body doesn't get the proper foods it needs. My boss told me about HADACOL and I started taking it immediately. After the second bottle I could tell a definite improvement. Now I can eat anything I want to. Best of all I haven't got those terrific gas pains and stomach bloating."

Mrs. John Geary, 840 Ursuline Street, New Orleans, Louisiana:

"I had such a nervous stomach I was unable to eat regularly. Lots of times I was unable to hold any food on my stomach. Then I heard about HADACOL. After the first few bottles I could tell a definite improvement. Now my stomach doesn't trouble me at all. I eat anything I want. HADACOL is wonderful. You can see that, if it did so much for me after suffering so." (A big improvement is often noticed within a few days' time. One of the many advantages of HADACOL is that continued use helps prevent such stomach distress from returning. Don't continue to suffer. Start taking HADACOL today!)

Mrs. L. Crifasi, 327 N. 14th Street, Springfield, Illinois:

"I am elated with the wonderful results obtained by taking HADACOL. I had emotional indigestion, which is stomach distress and makes a person feel down and out. HADACOL seemed to be prepared for my ailment, for it made a new woman of me."

W. E. Hoxworth, a skilled maintenance man in Waco, Texas:

"I almost had to give up my job because of suffering from stomach distress. I couldn't hold my food, as no food agreed with me. After hearing about HADACOL and completing a second bottle, I began to feel better and regain the weight I lost, and suffered no more indigestion. I now take HADACOL regularly to help stay well." (Why don't you try HADACOL?)

Mrs. J. Sciesinski, 514 Kruger, Ottumwa, Iowa:

"My daughter, Marilyn Sue, is five years old and for some time lacked pep, had a poor appetite, was generally run-down. Since giving her HADACOL, we have noticed wonderful results. She has a much better appetite, eats everything on the table and doesn't seem tired like she used to. Incidentally, she likes to take her HADACOL, too." (Kiddies sure do like HADACOL.)

Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc—the Man Responsible for the Great New HADACOL

Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc

Now! Thanks to the tireless efforts in scientific research of Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc—eminent statesman of Louisiana and creator of this great new HADACOL nutritional formula — it's at last possible to relieve the REAL CAUSE of such ailments as neuritis pains, stomach distress, gas pains, heartburn, indigestion, insomnia, certain nervous disorders and a general run-down condition due to lack of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Iron and Niacin.

Senator LeBlanc has just completed a modern $250,000 manufacturing plant and a similar one is well under way so that this wonderful HADACOL will always be available to the public.

What the Great HADACOL Does...

No longer do you have to be satisfied with symptomatic relief—you can start this very day, and relieve the REAL CAUSE of such ailments with HADACOL. Get that wonderful HADACOL feeling everyone is talking about! A big improvement in the way you feel is often noticed in a few days.

Technicians Hired For Cattle Breeding Plan

The county's artificial insemination program for cattle officially came into being last night when members of the steering committee elected officers and hired two technicians to undertake the service.

The program, which was proposed early in the winter and soon thereafter started proceedings by pledging upwards of 400 cows, will begin its operation on or about November 6.

At that time the technicians hired last night will have completed a special course at State College pertaining to the administration of the service to cattle growers.

Elected president of the organization, which is sponsored by the agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce, was Norman Coward, cattle raiser from Belvoir. Other officers elected were Hassell Gurganus, Stokes, vice president; Noel Lee, Pactolus, secretary; and B. W. Baker, Pactolus, treasurer.

The two technicians hired are T. Heber Fleming, Stokes, and Reid McLawhorn, Winterville. The officers will receive no pay for their services while Fleming, who is chief technician, and McLawhorn will draw their salaries on a commission basis from the fees for each insemination.

As stated by members of the Chamber of Commerce committee, the program will need initial funds to begin the service. As yet no definite setup has been discussed whereby the semen can be got from the national stud farms. That is planned for discussion at a meeting to be held next Tuesday night by the officers.

At present, a tentative program of charging each grower a set sum for his first cow served has been discussed, and from there on down a graduated pay scale will be set for the second, third, fourth cows and so on. This sum, which will be charged in addition to the regular fee for each serving, will be held in the treasury to get the program started.

Thereafter, the money for perpetuation of the program will be taken from each farmer's fee. Of that the technician performing the service will take approximately five dollars for his commission. The fee will be between $7.50 and $8 per cow.

County Farm Agent Sam Winchester, along with other members of the committee, urged all farmers who wish such service to make application for it to any county agent or vocational agriculture teacher. This should be done as soon as possible, said Winchester, so as many as possible may be served at the outset.

There are 400-odd cattle pledged for the program at the present time. Those cows are owned by about 65 Pitt County growers, many of whom are owners of a family cow. Secretary Lee is the only officer of the organization who owns only one cow, although many other farmers at large have stated their preference for the service for their family cows.

Winchester stated this morning the grower who stands to profit most by the service is the owner of only one cow. By taking advantage of the insemination program, he said, he doesn't have to bother with keeping a bull on the farm or borrow a neighbor's for settling purposes.

Two More East Germans Purged

Berlin, Sept. 13—(AP)—Two more high officials of East Germany's Communist-controlled government have been purged, a party announcement disclosed today. One is reported in jail and the other is said to have fled to the West to beg for refuge.

Less than two weeks ago the Communists purged their own party of six leading members who had held important jobs. One of their biggest crimes had been "lack of faith in the Soviet Union."

The two most recently purged are Dr. Helmut Brandt, deputy minister of justice in the East German government, and Josef Rambo, vice president of the East German parliament. Both were charged with being "saboteurs and dangerous elements."

The two were members of the Christian Democratic Party, which has been forced into rubber-stamp collaboration with the ruling Socialist Unity (Communist) Party. The two were expelled from their party and thus automatically lost their government posts.

The Red purge of the ranks of its own hard core of members already had extended to elements of the former "bourgeois" or middle class parties—the Liberal Democrats and the Christian Democrats. Guenther Stempel, general secretary of the Liberal Democrats, was arrested recently on a charge of "criminal conduct."

More Than Inch Of Rainfall In An Hour's Time

More than one inch of rain fell in Greenville in an hour last night, the Greenville Weather Bureau reported this morning.

The heavy rain fall came about midnight in what the weather lady described as being the "hardest rainfall in this area for some time." The official measurement revealed that 1.05 of an inch of rain fell.

Thus far this month, more than four inches of rain has fallen, with rain being recorded daily at the local weather observation station since the fourth of September.

In August only about two inches of rain fell in the entire month.

Highest temperatures recorded yesterday was 91 degrees with the mercury going down to 66 degrees on the heels of the hour rain storm.

Committee Members For Negro PTA Study Named

A committee of 12 people was appointed last night at the meeting of the Colored Civic League to meet with a committee of faculty members from the Negro schools of Greenville to work out plans for forming a Parent-Teacher Association for the schools.

The committee from the Civic League and the committee from the schools are to decide whether the parent teacher organization will be formed on the basis of one PTA for each of the four colored schools, or one overall organization to work with all the schools.

The committees are scheduled to meet at the C. M. Eppes school at 7 o'clock Sunday evening in the school library.

Appointed to the committee for the formation of the PTA by the Colored Civic League were: Donovan Phillips, chairman; Mrs. Gertrude Latham, M. L. Bartlett, Sylvester Wilson, Mrs. Glenn Garrett, Rev. Shade Clark, Mrs. Lillie Donaldson, James Brewington, Wilbert Brown, Mrs. Rosalyn Waters, Dr. H. B. Kelly and Mrs. E. L. Kearney.

Principal W. H. Davenport of the C. M. Eppes school said the committee from the faculties of the four Negro schools of Greenville will be appointed to meet with the committee of the Civic League.

Chairman Phillips of the Civic League committee stated, "We urge all Negro citizens to interest themselves in the organization of a Parent-Teacher Association for our schools."

At the Civic League meeting last night, a report was made by the Rev. O. J. Rooks on the meeting which was held at the C. M. Eppes school Sunday to formulate plans for the organization of a PTA for the Negro schools. The tentative organization plans were discussed at length last night, but were referred to the joint committee to be worked out.

School Speech Forum For Area Held In Winterville

Winterville, Sept. 13—The first in a proposed series of interscholastic speech forums for high school students in this region was held in the Winterville High School last night with students from four schools taking part.

"The purpose behind the meetings, which are set to be held in different schools at a pre-arranged date, is to help boys and girls in our schools to improve their speaking ability," R. B. Starling, high school speech advisor related.

The program is the outgrowth of an idea forwarded by the Greenville High School speech organization of the National Forensic League. By having the various towns taking part the students will gain valuable experience in public speaking, debating and other types of speaking, in competition with other towns. Students from Kinston, Winterville, Ayden and Greenville were present.

Last night 27 high school students ranging from the freshman class to seniors discussed, passed or tabled a variety of bills dealing with national issues as well as state affairs. The host school, Winterville had selected five or six topics for discussion and sent copies of the proposed topics to the attending schools in order that the participants would be prepared for discussion on the matters.

The meeting was presided over by Betsy Castelloe of Winterville, with Dot Hunt of Kinston, being elected co-chairman.

The next meeting of the groups is set for Greenville on September 26.

Topics to be discussed at this time will be: Free medical care; social security changes; R.O.T.C. training in high schools; abolition of capital punishment; and the possibility of Truman remaining in office in the event of a full scale war.

A larger crowd than attended the initial meeting of the school year is anticipated for the Greenville meeting, Starling pointed out.

Students taking part in the discussion last night will be listed by schools:

Kinston: Pat Sheppard, Isabel Madry, Pat Jones, and Dot Hunt.

Ayden: Juanita Garris, Elaine Hatch, Elliott Dixon, Hannah Jackson, Madge Smith, Allen Johnson and Troy Jackson.

Greenville: Rodney Fulcher, Carl Worsley, Betty Lou Small, Lula Mayo, Barbara Tilley, Ray Evans, Margaret McCrary, and Virginia Smith.

Wintervile: Barbara Worthington, Bets Casteloe, Denyse McLawhorn, E. C. Everette, Jr., Thomas Nobles, Becky McGlohon, and Anne Spiers.

Driving License Examiners Of District Meet

Driving license examiners of the Highway Safety Division's eastern district met in the Greenville City Hall yesterday afternoon.

Around 22 counties were represented at the meeting, a purpose of which was to introduce the new Safety director to division members.

Since the group's last meeting, several months ago, L. R. Fisher has been appointed to the top position in the Safety division, and most of the men had not had a chance to meet their new commander.

Included in yesterday's meeting was the taking of measurements for winter uniforms and other routine business.

He was given a handful. Ten minutes later he returned with four more Reds.

Hershey Hints At Draft Plans

Washington, Sept. 13—(AP)— Maj. Gen Lewis B. Hershey is making plans for inducting between 370,000 and 500,000 men into the armed services before next July 1.

He told the Senate appropriations committee at a closed session Sept. 1 that his "most conservative estimate" was "at least 370,000, and maybe 400,000 and maybe 500,000.

Frontline Troops To Get Their Free Beer After Controversy

Tokyo, Sept. 13—(AP)—Frontline troops in Korea who like beer will continue to get it—for free.

This is on the word of a high Army official who declined use of his name lest he get all foamed up in controversy.

An Army order yesterday removing the one-can-a-day ration in Korea raised a howl of protest heard as far as Washington.

Combat troops had been getting a small can of beer as a free ration. Some of the boys who don't like beer wrote home about it. There were protests. Beer was stricken from the ration.

"What was not made clear back home was that the beer was in addition to normal rations and did not take the place of other items," said the source.

"Bottles of soft drinks also have been given to frontline men and many chose Cokes over beer. And there was always water, coffee and cocoa."

Under the new arrangements, no more beer will be furnished troops from appropriated funds—taxpayers' money allocated by Congress.

But the Army has non-appropriated funds. This is revenue from small charges for various items in Post Exchanges and theater admissions.

The source said beer will not be free to rear echelon soldiers. They can buy it in rear areas. But the men at the front, where it's 24-hour duty and no time for shopping, will get a can almost every day, if they want it.

Soft drinks will continue to be available.

"We have no intention of circumventing the will of Congress," said the source. "Congress has the power to direct how public funds should be used. x x x Beer is an expense and we should not do it if we were not aware of the rugged situation our fighting men are facing without complaint."
