

Offers UN Plan To Be Peacemaker

Acheson Proposes Assembly Assume Military Power To Fight Aggressors

New York, Sept. 21—(AP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson today submitted to the United Nations General Assembly a four-point plan to give that body military power to combat aggression anywhere in the world.

Acheson's Republican adviser, John Foster Dulles, described it as "the most important proposal for international peace and security put forth" since the end of World War II. Dulles will be in charge of pushing the plan through the 59-nation assembly.

The fight over the proposal is expected to start today when the assembly's 14-nation steering committee meets to decide the order in which the assembly will take up the almost four-score items on its agenda and which of the six main committees will hear each one.

Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinskiy is almost certain to demand priority for a three-point Soviet declaration which he read to the assembly yesterday.

The United States plan is an expansion and formalization of ideas set forth by Acheson in a speech to the assembly in the velvet-draped hall at Flushing Meadow Park yesterday.

John D. Hickerson, assistant Secretary of State, told newsmen that it is a result of the experience gained from the war in Korea and envisions a genuine system of international security.

It would:

1. Enable the veto-free General Assembly to meet on 24 hours notice in case of a breach of the peace whenever the Security Council which bears "the primary responsibility for the maintenance of peace and security" is hamstrung by a big-power veto. Although Russia is not mentioned by name, American spokesmen made it clear the Soviet Union was considered the probable obstruction in the Council.

2. Set up a roving U.N. commission to observe developments in areas of international tension and report authoritatively to the assembly on events there.
3. Ask member governments to set up, within their national armed services, units which would be at the call of the Security Council or Assembly to put down violations of the peace. A U.S. spokesman said that although the Assembly only had the power to recommend such action, he thought a majority of nations would agree to put such units at its disposal.

4. Set up a committee to study other possible means of action to prevent aggression.

Dulles told reporters the plan plugs the loopholes in the N. Charter which have led some persons to denounce the world organization as a mere debating society, and that "transmute words into deeds."

Hopes To Avoid Past Errors In Economic Cures

Washington, Sept. 21—(AP)—President Truman said today that he is concerned about the high cost of living and he is working on plans to meet it.

He told a news conference he will act as speedily as possible but is trying to avoid the mistakes of the last World War.

The President said his administration does not want the nation to go through the travail of the last price control period when it had to follow the road of trial and error.

Questionable Victory

Britain's Socialists Won A Test On Nationalizing The Steel Industry, But May Find Issue Heart Of Political Campaign In General Election Promised Soon

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

Britain's Socialist government has won a doubtful parliamentary victory. It narrowly defeated the Conservative attempt to compel its downfall over the controversial steel nationalization program.

This attack was led by former Prime Minister Winston Churchill in best fighting form. It was precipitated by the government's announcement that it would assume control of the country's vital steel industry on January 1.

Churchill made a motion which in effect called for condemnation of this program, and Attlee announced that his government would stand or fall on the vote.

The significance of this battle lies in the closeness of the result. The Socialists won by only six votes—306 to 300. This represented an all-out effort by both sides, and involved routing 11 members of Commons out of bed to attend the session.

This means that the country also is almost equally divided over at the time of the general election last February over the question of steel nationalization. That was the major issue of the election, in which Attlee sought a mandate for his program and got it by a hair's breadth.

Churchill naturally made the most of this almost fifty-fifty division of the country, and accused the Socialists of using their slender margin to "knock the other half" about. As a matter of fact there have been reports that some of the Socialist leaders, including Attlee himself, haven't been too happy about the steel program. Socialist doctrinaires, however, have insisted on going the limit on nationalization.

Steel nationalization in England of course is in a different category from other industries, barring coal. Steel production is the very heart of the country's economy in normal times, and is doubly so now that the nation is in the midst of the great defense program.

Naturally this situation brings out the most vigorous of the ideological arguments pro and con. The Socialists reiterate that control of this great industry by capitalists is a menace to the national interests. The opposition retorts that this is no time to remove directors who for years have been running

Trail Escapee To Beaufort County

Law Officers Of Eastern N. C. Gather; Fugitive Apparently Trapped In Wooded Section; Stolen Car Is Found Abandoned

Law enforcement officers from eastern North Carolina counties were massing today apparently for the "kill" around a wooded section of Beaufort County where an escaped convict from a Pitt County Prison camp was believed to be hiding.

The abandoned car, which the subject of the hunt, Peter F. Baxter, stole in his bid for freedom yesterday morning was discovered by Patrol officers on a lonely country road, about 1.30 last night. The car was found in running condition and apparently undamaged, about one mile east of Cox's Cross Roads in Beaufort County.

Missing from the car were articles of clothing and a 16-gauge shot gun and shells which the owner reported being in the car.

The hunters, aided by dogs from the hunter farm near Greenville, worked until late last night before giving up the chase in the woods. After the spotting of the car, the search was again taken up, and later today the man was reported seen near a Beaufort County dairy attempting to steal another car. According to reports the man was foiled in this second attempt to steal a car within the past 24 hours, and fled back into the woods.

Baxter jumped from a Pitt county prison truck as it entered the intersection of Greene and Dickinson Avenue early Wednesday morning. Fleeing the truck, he stripped off his prison clothing and ran across

Falkland Begins Rebuild Property Lost To Fire

Falkland, Sept. 21.—This town which was almost leveled by a raging fire on the night of September 11 began today the task of rebuilding the property lost in the fire.

Construction work was begun this morning on buildings which will replace those lost in the fire, and in addition will provide a business location for one more concern than was operating in Falkland when the flash fire struck last week. The debris from the destructive blaze has been cleared away, and this morning workmen began digging the foundations for the buildings.

G. H. Pittman Jr. and K. R. Wooten, property owners who suffered the principal losses in the fire, are replacing the buildings which were burned. Pittman is constructing a building which will house a service station and the county ABC store. Wooten is constructing a building which will house a store, a barber shop and the Falkland post office.

Falkland's Major J. Frank Parker Jr. said the town officials have offered the use of the town hall to the county ABC board for housing the ABC store until the new building for the store can be completed. Parker said he understands the offer has been accepted by the ABC board, but so far the ABC store has not set up for business in the town hall.

Construction work on the town hall was completed last week, and the wiring for the building was completed yesterday.

In addition to constructing a new building, Parker said, K. R. Wooten is considering the purchase of a water storage tank which may be used for an emergency supply of water in case of another fire in Falkland.

Sees Symptoms

Boston, Sept. 21—(AP)—Thomas R. McCabe, chairman of the Federal Reserve System, said today that "alarms symptoms" of inflation are evident and "the outlook for a serious inflationary spiral is forbidding."

He told the National Association of Supervisors of State banks that inflation "is the most pressing internal problem before the country today. It is not around the corner. It is here now."

He called for "a tax system which would put the entire defense effort as far as possible on a pay-as-you-go basis" and declared:

"I think it imperative that there be strong public support for higher taxes all along the line."

Accident Victim Asking $65,000

Suit Filed Today In Pitt Court Against Greenville Man

One of the largest suits ever instituted for trial in Pitt Superior Court was filed this morning with the Clerk of Court by plaintiffs attorneys James and Speight and J. W. H. Roberts who are asking $65,000.

Plaintiff in the action, to which no answer has been filed as yet, is Sallie Cannon, Greenville widow with three children, who was critically injured in an automobile accident July 30 in Pamlico county. She is suing Robert McKinney, Jr., trading as Greenville Packing Company, for injuries sustained in the accident.

The complaint alleges Mrs. Cannon was riding in the packing company's truck with McKinney as driver. It is alleged McKinney was driving at an excessive rate of speed and in trying to round a curve, the truck turned over, critically injuring

Iceland Airline Crash Survivors Reach Safety

Reykjavik, Iceland, Sept. 21—(AP)—Survivors of an Icelandic Airline Skymaster crash and the three-man crew of a U. S. Army plane which crashed trying to rescue them from atop a 6,000 foot glacier arrived here today by air. The Skymaster crew of six men and a stewardess had been marooned on the glacier seven days.

Two planes brought the wreck survivors back from an improvised airfield north of snow-covered Vatnajokull glacier after a ground party had brought them off the ice on skis.

The American crew survived unscathed after their Dakota, equipped with skis, crashed and tore off a wing tip and a rudder while attempting to carry the Icelandic crew off the glacier yesterday.

Construction work on the town hall was completed last week, and the wiring for the building was completed yesterday.

In addition to constructing a new building, Parker said, K. R. Wooten is considering the purchase of a water storage tank which may be used for an emergency supply of water in case of another fire in Falkland.

Warehouses Are Hushed As Sales Holiday Begins

Set Sales Date Resumption Monday; $55.00 Average Here Yesterday

An unseasonable hush settled over the warehouses of the Greenville tobacco market today as they began an extended holiday which will not end until the "o.k." sign is given by the executive committee of the Bright Leaf Warehouse association.

Although there were no sales on the Greenville market today, the tobacco factories hummed busily in an attempt to catch up with the backlog of leaf which has piled up since the opening of the market on August 21.

Just how long the tobacco markets in North Carolina will remain closed is a question whose answer rests in the hands of the executive committee of the warehouse association. The five-man committee is slated to meet Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock to discuss the matter. The markets will be closed at least through Monday, but how long they will remain closed after Monday, the tobaccoists and farmers can only guess. The closing order was given by the warehouse association because tobacco processing plants were flooded with leaf, and purchasing companies were faced with the possibility of having to remove their buyers from the sales to catch up with the backlog of tobacco already purchased.

Sales on the Greenville market yesterday reached 1,436,230 pounds and growers were paid a total of $797,155.77 for the tobacco sold on the warehouse floors. The official average for the day's sale was $55.50. It brought the total sales for the three-day week to $4,640,678 pounds for which the tobacco companies have paid $2,595,418.61. The market average for the three days was $55.93.

With 22 selling days of the season already gone, the Greenville market has sold a total of 35,483,172 pounds of tobacco for $19,861,880.08. The season's average for the first 22 selling days is $55.98.

The 1950 season figures compare favorably with the market figures of Greenville in 1949 when during the first 22 days the market sold 31,105,386 pounds of tobacco and paid out $14,093,395.53 for an average price of $45.31.

Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee estimated that after yesterday's sales in the eastern belt between 35 per cent and 60 per cent of the area's tobacco crop already has been marketed.

Car Price Trend For 1951 Is 'Up'

Detroit, Sept. 21—(AP)—The trend of 1951 model automobile prices appears to have been definitely established upward.

Nash, which will show its new cars tomorrow, announced increases today ranging $29 to $98. Earlier this week Kaiser-Frazer added from $10 to $120 to retail billings of its 1951 units. A month ago Packard hiked listings on its low and medium priced models, but said the higher priced cars would carry lower price tags when they are put into production.

The price advances, of course, have been expected. In each instance so far, they have been attributed to increased wages, pension programs and other operating costs. The industry, quite generally has increased wages in recent weeks and expanded the pension programs.

War Casualties

Washington, Sept. 21—(AP)—The Defense Department reported 223 Korean war casualties in a list released today.

Of the total, 35 were killed in action, 164 wounded, 10 missing and 14 injured in war zone accidents.

The Department announced yesterday that 13,911 Korean war casualties had been made public through Sept. 15. Public announcements lag somewhat behind actual casualty totals because of the time needed to notify next of kin.

The total through Sept. 15 included 1,684 killed in action, 3,518 missing and 8,709 wounded. The last figure included 174 who later died of their wounds.

Sidesteps Early Verdict On Bill

Truman Awaits Anti-Subversives Bill OK'd By Congress

Washington, Sept. 21—(AP)—President Truman sidestepped today the question of whether he will sign or veto the subversives control bill passed overwhelmingly by Congress.

He did indicate early action, saying there will be no suspense about what he does with the bill.

Mr. Truman told a news conference the bill hasn't reached his desk, but as soon as it does, he will let reporters know his views on it.

While he didn't indicate whether he would sign or veto it, he previously has shown displeasure with many of its provisions and had said he would not sign an earlier form.

Senate and House passed the measure by landslide vote yesterday—well aware that President Truman may veto it promptly. Backers of the measure claimed they could command plenty of votes to override him if he did.

Barring any big switch in sentiment, the figures bore them out. The Senate vote was 51 to 7, the House vote 312 to 20—Both far in excess of the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto.

The President had said he wouldn't sign earlier versions of the bill. Congressional leaders, eager to bring the current session of Congress to a recess Saturday, hoped he would announce his intentions toward this version quickly.

Contingent Pay Boost Decided

Raleigh, Sept. 21—(AP)—An average of $290.33 will be paid to North Carolina's 26,000 public school teachers in December provided general fund revenues maintain their present level through October.

The Advisory Budget Commission last night announced it had decided to give the teachers the contingent pay boost promised by the 1949 legislature if the state's revenues hold up.

Recipients of Old Age Assistance in Pitt County received a regretful shake of the head from county welfare superintendent K. T. Futrell this week, as he made it clear to them that their benefits were not going to increase under the new Social Security law.

"Many people now drawing Old Age Assistance grants have the idea that their grants are going to be almost doubled from now on," Mr. Futrell said, "but I am sorry to inform them that the increased benefits they've been reading about in the papers and hearing about over the radio are going to people who are recipients of Old Age and Survivors' Insurance payments. That is an entirely separate program from our plan of Old Age Assistance and only those drawing benefits under that plan are due for increases. Our grants will in most cases remain the same for the time being."

"The only way the county could increase its Old Age Assistance grants is for the county commissioners to appropriate more money for the purpose. This would mean increased amounts in matching funds from the state and the federal government."

The welfare superintendent pointed out that under the new Social Security law recently passed by both Houses of Congress and signed by the President, Old Age and Survivors' Insurance benefits would be increased, in many cases as much as 50 per cent or more. "But those increases have nothing to do with Old Age Assistance," he continued.

Old Age Assistance, according to the statement from the welfare official, is a federal-state-county matching program of money payments made to needy persons who meet certain eligibility requirements. Among these requirements, it was pointed out, are that a person must be 65 years of age or older, must be in need because he lacks such essentials as food, shelter, clothing, and other necessary items, has been a resident of North Carolina for the past year, and is not living in a public institution.

Nationality Of Manpower In Heavily-Armored Communist Column Not Known; Resistance Grows In Streets Of Seoul; Big Battle In Prospect; 5,000 Communists Caught In Trap On Southeast Beachhead

Tokyo, Sept. 21—(AP)—American marines battled for ancient Seoul today while a Red mystery column was reported rolling down on the Korean capital from Soviet-dominated Manchuria.

The nationality of manpower in the heavily-armored Communist column was not known to U.S. intelligence officers.

The marines' entry into northwest Seoul's narrow streets was met by stiffening resistance.

Field dispatches reported the tanked Leathernecks entered the city at 6 p.m. Wednesday (4 a.m. EST) from their Han River crossing eight miles downstream.

The swift allied 10th Corps advance from the original second front landing beaches at Inchon, 22 miles away, appeared to have reached the slower house-to-house fighting phase. The marines made it from the riverside into Seoul in 12 hours.

A big battle seemed in prospect. Besides the threat of the unidentified column of 40 tanks and 200 other vehicles approaching Seoul from the north, Korean Reds rushed into the city from several other directions. Many were from the old allied beachhead perimeter in the southeast.

General Douglas MacArthur appeared confident. After a visit to a marine sector west of Seoul, directly across the Han from the capital, the United Nations command went aboard the battleship Missouri off Inchon and then flew back to Tokyo. He had been at the second front since it opened on the Yellow Sea shores last Friday.

Pilots spotted the Red column 20 miles south of the Yalu River, Korean boundary 210 miles north of Seoul. It was reported Thursday morning to be possibly below the 38th parallel dividing North and South Korea. This would put the column less than 30 air miles from Seoul.

Elite divisions of North Koreans which invaded South Korea June 25 were seasoned in Communist China's Manchurian armies. They fought with Russian-made tanks and other arms. But with the allied offensive in the south picking up steam, the Reds appear unable to muster much organized strength from that direction.

The column from the north—if it reaches Seoul intact—would pose the freshest threat.

Reds in the south were reported withdrawing, changing into civilian clothes and deserting or surrendering. And many others seemed on the verge of surrendering.

A major battle for Seoul's dusty and narrow streets might destroy a large part of the 500-year-old capital. The city of 1,000,000 is a mass of closely packed one- and two-story mud-covered wooden structures.

To cut off effective reinforcements for the city from the south, the U.S. Seventh Division drove for the last line of ridges overlooking the highway from Seoul to Suwon.

On the old United Nations beachhead in the southeast, the main actions were in the Waegwan sector, 140 miles southeast of Seoul.

U.S. First Cavalry Division troops and South Koreans forged a trap on 5,000 Reds of the Third and 13th Divisions northeast of Waegwan, and the U.S. 24th Division drove three miles northwest of the town.

AP Correspondent Ben Price reported Reds fled or surrendered after the 24th took a strategic hill over a railroad tunnel near Waegwan. The hill dominates the road to Kumchon, 20 miles northwest of Waegwan. MacArthur's headquarters reported the 24th captured nine Red tanks and 20 anti-tank guns.

Carrying safe-conduct leaflets dropped by U.S. warplanes, scores of Reds quit—among them a political commissar. Those taken by the 24th Division said they didn't have much choice: They would be killed by the Americans if they stood their ground and shot by their own commanders if they fled.

AP Correspondent Jack MacBeth reported the trap northeast of Waegwan was in a small pocket 13 miles north of Tegu.

Congress Reorganized

Streamlining Of Procedure Didn't Pan Out Exactly As Planned; Some Ideas Have Worked Out, Others Didn't; Notable Failure Was Attempt To Fix Budget

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Sept. 21—(AP)—In 1946 congress, top-heavy and out of date, reorganized itself to do business better.

How has the reorganization worked? It has and it hasn't. Some things have turned out pretty well. Some, hardly at all.

You probably can expect that result in a place where all 435 house members and the 96 senators are trying to have a finger in the pie. One thing that's been a complete bust is congress' attempt to have its own budget.

On the other hand, the 1946 act wiped out a battalion of unnecessary committees, and congress has stuck to that plan more or less well. Take the case of the budget.

Every year the President and his advisers in the executive branch of the government estimate how much it will cost to run the government another year.

Then they send this estimate—called the budget—to congress, asking it to vote the necessary money. This budget goes to congress every January.

In the past, congress tackled this budget piecemeal, voting this government department so much, that one so much.

And it never knew, and never was in a position to know, how much money it was going to vote altogether until the session was over.

The reorganization act tried to improve that sloppy performance by this plan:

Congress would receive the President's budget estimate in January, and no later than mid-February would come up with an estimate of its own.

Then it was supposed to stick to its own estimate and vote no more money than its budget called for. It was supposed to be able to do that for this reason:

1. First, it would estimate how much the government would collect in taxes, since government expenses are supposed to be paid out of tax money.

2. Then, knowing how much it COULD spend, congress could estimate how much it WOULD spend.

In 1947 congress missed its own goal by $6,000,000,000. In 1948 it missed again, but by $2,500,000,000. In 1949 it didn't even produce an estimate. And this year it tried something new.

This year it tried wrapping up all

West Greenville PTA Honors Teachers At First Fall Meeting

The West Greenville P. T. A. held its first meeting of the new year on Wednesday afternoon in the school auditorium.

Mrs. W. E. Basnight, president, welcomed the parents and introduced Dr. H. G. Haney, who conducted a short devotional using as his theme, "The Child as a Citizen."

New members of the association were recognized and Miss Agnes Fullilove, school principal, presented the teachers. Two new faculty members, Miss Lillian Sugg and Mrs. Frances Whitehurst, both fourth grade teachers, were introduced.

The acting secretary, Mrs. C. B. West, Jr., read the minutes of the executive board meeting. The committee chairman reported plans for the new year. Miss Sugg's fourth grade was given the attendance prize.

Mrs. Basnight announced plans for the Tenth District meeting to be held in Swan Quarter on October 18 and asked for delegates to go. As this district meeting will occur on the same day as the regularly scheduled P. T. A. meeting, the president announced advancement of the West Greenville meeting to October 11.

At the conclusion of the business meeting a tea was given in honor of the teachers. A decorative note of yellow and blue, the P. T. A. colors, was used in flower arrangements. Each teacher was presented with a shoulderette of yellow chrysanthemums tied with blue ribbon. Mrs. Basnight introduced the parents to the receiving line composed of the following faculty members: Miss Agnes Fullilove, Mrs. Helen Wolfe, Miss Jane Hadley, Mrs. Betsy West, Mrs. George Gardner, Miss Lillian Sugg, Miss Frances Whitehurst, Mrs. Robert Fennell, Mrs. Malta Batchelor and Mrs. Georgia Franklin.

Food punch was served from a crystal bowl on the serving table. The table was covered with a Madeira cut work cloth and was centered with an outstanding arrangement of yellow and blue painted mums placed in a low bowl. On either side were yellow tapers tied with blue tulle. A delightful social hour was enjoyed by more than 85 parents who were present.

Mrs. Herman Nobles, Mrs. R. V. Massey, Mrs. Eugene Ward and Mrs. Amos Evans were hostesses.

The Altrusa club held the first of a series of bridge and canasta tournaments Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. B. Spilman. Fifty-two enthusiastic players gave their support to a very worthy cause sponsored by Altrusa, assisting a young woman through East Carolina Teachers College. The club is grateful and deeply appreciates the wholehearted support given them.

Several most attractive prizes were won, among them two large vases of red roses. These were won by Mrs. Lyndon Ormond and Mrs. John Proctor.

Attractive and delightful refreshments were served by Mrs. Margaret Cone, Mrs. Margaret Boykin, Miss Mamie Chandler, Mrs. Mary McGrady, Mrs. Ruth Meeks and Mrs. Cora Powell, Altrusa members.

The next tournament will be held October 31. This also will be at the home of Mrs. Spilman.

Lonely Hearts Club Organizer Has 13 Accusers

Los Angeles, Sept. 21—(AP)—Thirteen women, ex-clients of a Lonely Hearts Club, today confront George H. Ashley, former club chief, in court.

Ashley, 52, and two co-defendants are charged with bilking the women of $130,000.

The first of the 13 women, motherly looking Mrs. Maude Neal, 65, of Mount Airy, N.C., testified at a preliminary hearing yesterday that Ashley threatened to push her off a cliff when she demanded repayment of $17,500 she had lent him.

Vitally Needed Bridge Projects Given Go-Ahead

Raleigh, Sept. 21—(AP)—Governor Scott has given the green light for a special highway fund allocation of $3,475,000 for a half-dozen of North Carolina's most vitally needed bridge projects.

Dr. Henry W. Jordan, Highway Commission chairman, said yesterday the allocation is derived from year-end highway surplus funds.

Top-most among the projects is a new $1,000,000 bridge which will span the Cape Fear River between Elizabethtown and Wilmington. It will connect highways 53 and 87, in the vicinity of the Bladen-Pender county line.

Work on the projects will begin next spring, said Highway Engineer W. H. Rogers, Jr.

For the young lady who is merry, friendly, good fun. Because she can see right. Before she had her vision corrected, she was timid, awkward, retiring; now she has poise, self-confidence, and is a good mixer. It's surprising what a difference good vision can make. Smart girls know this, and have their vision corrected with lovely, streamlined glasses that add to their appearance by giving full, fresh beauty to their eyes and full freedom to their attractive personality.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
September 21, 1910

Much tobacco has been sold on the Greenville market this week, perhaps too much. It is taxing the capacity of the buyers to properly care for it.

The Patrick corner on Five Points, that is being fitted up for the National Bank will soon be ready for the bank to move in. The remodeling of the building has made it an attractive corner.

Mrs. G. E. Harris went to Whitesburg this afternoon.

Puppetry found little popular response in the U. S. until the present century.

Encouragers' Group Organized

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church is carrying out a plan for a "chain" visitation of "Encouragers."

Each society is to be visited by a group of "Encouragers" and in turn each society is to become an Encourager group to visit some other society. In celebration of the 10th anniversary of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, a birthday cake with ten candles and "one to grow on" will be carried by the visiting society to the hostess society, the candles to be lighted by the hostess society according as the society has met the required points in the past year.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Jarvis Memorial church will visit the Grimesland Society Friday at 3:30 p. m. All members are asked to call their circle leaders if they can go to this meeting.

Mr. Virgil Spiegel, 3032 Colerian Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio, a driver for Alber's Supermarkets, is confident that today he is doing the best job he has ever done in his life. That is because he says he has never felt better. To be first rate on the job, a man has to be in top notch condition. He attributes his feeling of well being to HADACOL because his system lacked those necessary Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin.

Here is Mr. Spiegel's own statement: "Before I started taking HADACOL I was told I had a nervous stomach. I took many pills and many other remedies—nothing gave me effective relief. It affected my sleep, too—I would doze off and then wake up at the least little thing. I had a lot of gas on my stomach and it burned clear up in my chest. I was just beside myself in knowing just what to do. I heard how other folks having the same trouble I did were being helped by HADACOL. I started taking HADACOL and after the 2nd bottle of HADACOL I noticed an improvement. Now I am in first rate shape. I sleep well, have no more gas pains and the best thing is that my nervous stomach has completely cleared up. I can't thank HADACOL enough."

It Isn't Too Late to try HADACOL as thousands of other folks suffering from such deficiencies have done and benefited tremendously from HADACOL. Why, there are even hundreds of doctors who are now recommending HADACOL to their patients whose systems lack Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin. If you suffer from stomach distress, nervousness, insomnia, constipation, heartburn, or a general run-down condition, caused by such deficiencies, give HADACOL a chance to help you. Remember, you have nothing to lose. HADACOL will make you feel great after the first few bottles you take, or your money will be refunded. Only $1.25 for Trial Size; Large Family or Hospital Size, $3.50.

Kiwanians Boost Bloom For Office

Dr. H. Glenn Haney, vice-president of the Greenville Kiwanis Club, was host to the officers and directors at a supper meeting at the Country Club last night. President Tige Gardner presided.

Plans were discussed for the annual "ladies' night" banquet, to be held in October.

President Gardner announced that Greenville's Eli Bloom is being boosted by the Greenville and other eight clubs of the Seventh Division of the Carolinas Kiwanis District for lieutenant-governor of the Seventh Division next year. The local club has elected three delegates to the district convention to be held at Spartanburg, S. C., October 15-17. They are President Gardner, Judge J. W. H. Roberts and J. Archie Rogers. Alternates are Ed Williford, Hugh Smith and Wyatt Highsmith. Some other Kiwanians are planning to attend.

The Kiwanis officials paid tribute to the memory of B. T. Holleman of Jacksonville, lieutenant-governor of the Seventh Kiwanis Division, who lost his life some weeks ago in an airplane accident.

Secretary David C. Moore Jr. read an announcement from Carolinas Kiwanis District headquarters that Raymon H. Askew of Jacksonville, a past president of the Jacksonville Kiwanis Club, had been appointed to serve Holleman's unexpired term.

President last night in addition to Dr. Haney, the host, and President Gardner and Secretary Moore, were James Ray Pittman, Roscoe W. Shiplett, J. Archie Rogers, V. A. Merritt, Past President Arthur Tripp, J. Bryan Brown, Ed Williford, Don H. Conley and Dr. Leo H. Jenkins and Col. Owen E. Marshall, chairman of the Agriculture Committee, and Chester Walsh, chairman of the Public Relations Committee.

Costly Clipping

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 21—(AP)—Beginning Tuesday, it will cost a man $1.90 to get a shave and a haircut in union barber shops here.

The Barbers' Employers Guild voted last night to boost the price of haircut from 85 cents to $1.15, and shaves from 50 cents to 75.

Stokes Students Organize; Plan School Paper

People interested in organizing a high school paper for Stokes School met Wednesday to elect new officers for the paper staff. There were several students from each room who were interested. Mr. Truman Cherry is sponsoring the paper. Willis Wilson, acting chairman, was in charge of the meeting while the officers were being chosen.

The officers being chosen were as follows: Janice Taylor as editor; Carolyn Everett and Edna Bland, assistant editors; and Donnie Cherry chosen as sports editor. The remaining students were chosen as reporters. They were: Margaret Smith, Thelma Smith, Ann Leggett, Margaret Ann Whitchard, and Willis Wilson.

Each of the officers served on the paper staff last year.

The first issues will be out Friday, September 22.

Rocky Mount Bride Honored At Coffee Hour

Honoring Mrs. William McGee Tucker of Rocky Mount, a recent bride, Mrs. Durward Tucker and Miss Eloise Tucker were at home between the hours of 4:30-5:30 on Tuesday at an informal coffee hour.

Mrs. W. S. Galloway greeted guests at the door and introduced them to the hostesses and the honoree. Mrs. Tucker, the guest of honor, was wearing a corsage of Tullman roses presented to her by the hostesses.

From the hall the callers were invited into the dining room by Mrs. Frank Bendall.

The dining room table was lovely with its table appointments of white, green and yellow. A dark green taffeta cloth covered with one of sheer white organdy was on the table. Centering it was an arrangement of yellow mums in a bowl of yellow pottery. Flanking the flowers on either side were yellow burning tapers in silver candlesticks.

Mrs. W. P. Moore was seated at one end of the table and poured coffee from a silver service. Serving trays held assortments of ham biscuits, stuffed celery, cucumber sandwiches, powdered cheese biscuits, French pastries, salted nuts and mints.

In the living room where the guests gathered for an hour of informal conversation, a large bowl placed on a table held an arrangement of yellow and bronze dahlias. On the mantel were hammered copper five-tiered candelabra holding lighted yellow tapers and entwining these were streamers of smilax.

Mrs. Tucker is the former Bernier Buettner of Chicago. She and her husband, Dr. William McGee Tucker, son and brother of the hostesses, are now living in Rocky Mount.

Questionable . . .

In short, this bitter battle is the epitome of the political differences between socialism and capitalism. Obviously it will have to be ironed out before the government can claim a clear mandate from the almost equally divided electorate to go "all out" in inaugurating socialism.

Prime Minister Attlee presumably has this in mind, for he is said by informed sources to plan another general election early next year. This would be after steel nationalization is effective and the rearmament program is going full steam. It would give the electorate a wide open chance to declare itself.

The next general election will provide an interesting showdown, not only as regards steel but in connection with other Socialist programs which the country has experienced.

Congress . . .

Now take the committees. A lot of congressmen, probably most of them, think their power and importance are increased in direct proportion to the number of committees on which they serve.

In 1946 the senate had 33 standing committees (regular, all-year-round committees) and the house 48. Then there were whole batches of special committees set up to investigate this or that.

And the work of many committees overlapped. For example: several committees might have a hand in the government's public works.

The reorganization act tried to:

1. Cut down overlapping and unnecessary committees.
2. Concentrate under one committee the field which properly belonged to that committee.

So congress, under the act, reduced 33 senate standing committees to 15 and the 48 house committees to 19. And many special committees were wiped out. Congress has stuck very closely to its new committee set-up.

History Lessons With Tax Bills

Rochester, N.Y., Sept. 21—(AP)—Residents of suburban Brighton get history lessons with their tax bills. Town Clerk George E. Drama Club Production Schedule Begins Friday Workshop productions to be staged weekly during 1950-1951 by the Teachers Playhouse, student dramatic club at East Carolina Teachers College, will begin Friday evening of this week, September 22, with a presentation of Chekhov's comedy "The Boor," according to an announcement by Dr. Lucile H. Charles, director of speech and dramatics in the department of English.

The series of productions was begun last year and will be continued throughout the present school term. Performances will be given each Friday evening at 7:30 in the Flanagan auditorium on the campus and will be open to the public.

"The Boor" will be a revival by the Teachers Playhouse of their spring, 1950, production of the Chekhov comedy. The play was presented then on the campus and at the annual joint luncheon meeting of book clubs in Greenville.

Stars of this week's performance will be Janice Perry of Lenoir and Elmer Williams of Washington. Miss Perry was chosen in August as "Miss Summer Session of 1950" at East Carolina. During the summer months, Williams toured several eastern North Carolina towns with the East Carolina Players, a student-alumni group who presented a series of plays for children.

The workshop series this year has been similarly planned to that of the 1949-1950 term. Last year's program included presentation of thirty-one plays from the United States, England, Ireland, Spain, Austria, Russia, China, and South Africa, the last a premier performance in this country; an outdoor production of Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew," and several original plays by student members of the Teachers Playhouse.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Strength for the Day

SOMETHING NEW AND DIFFERENT
Not long ago the circus was in town. In the side-shows, people paid to see the fat woman, the sword-swallower, and all the rest. Under the big top itself, the spectators were thrilled as always by the high-wire performers and the animals.
The fact is that human beings like to see something strange and different. They always have. The cave-man, indeed, never paid to see a saber-toothed tiger, but as soon as wild beasts became scarce in inhabited regions, ancient history records that they were exhibited to crowds as rarities.
We all share this instinct for the new and unusual, though some of us have more of it than others. It drives some to the movies, some to the circus, some to travel, some even to spend their lives adventuring in remote regions.
Our desire for the strange will be harmful if it makes us merely goggle at freaks, or lose ourselves in wild adventure stories to escape from the facts of life.
But if unusual experiences open our eyes to life, if they increase our knowledge of humans, if they leave us wiser and better informed, then we have chosen well. This kind of curiosity is the basis of real education.

A New Incentive For Pitt Voters

Getting the people to the polls to vote is a problem.
Even the hottest political campaigns succeed in getting only a relatively small portion of the potential voters to the polls.
The redistricting of the precincts in Greenville township and the creation of three new precincts should be a step toward solving the gross absenteeism from the polls on election day. In most instances the redistricting will make the precinct more of a neighborhood than a wide district.
The creation of the three new precincts in Greenville township will reduce considerably the number of people registered in each precinct, but it should bring about an increase of registration in the township as a whole. If some of the other larger precincts in the county were split, it would bring an even larger total registration and a heavier vote on election days.
This great democracy of ours, as wonderful as it is, has too many people who are not interested enough in their government to go to the polls and vote for the candidates they believe will make the best of officials. People are reluctant to travel five or six miles to vote, whereas they would be interested in voting at the neighborhood store if it were a precinct polling place.
Pitt county has a potential voting strength which is estimated between 17,000 and 20,000. But in the Democratic primary last May, hot as the race was, the county voted approximately 10,000 people—about 50 per cent of the potential.
The smaller precincts should be an asset to the county voting system, and an added convenience to the individual voters in most cases. The re-registration will be a bother to some people, but every voter now registered in Greenville township should make it a point to re-register in the correct new precinct during the three weeks when the registration books are open. Those people who have not registered should register and vote now that the polling place will be "nearer home."
If They Could See Into The Future!
North Carolina's Advisory Budget Commission has its share of headaches these days in considering budget plans of the various state agencies. Recommendations of the commission will be a major influence in the General Assembly when it votes funds for the coming biennium.
The commission's difficulty is not so much a comprehension of what is needed by the various agencies, but the uncertainty of months and years ahead.
A million dollars allotted to one agency may be "worth" considerably less when the money is voted; and capable of providing even less in the way of services when time comes for the actual spending of the money.
Potential shortages of materials and manpower which may result from mobilization... higher costs of labor and needed

Items will undoubtedly come from even partial mobilization.
Then, there is a question of "business as usual" in times of international tensions... whether to proceed cautiously, or boldly in mapping budget needs.
No; their task is not as simple as it might be.
We wish them well, and our contribution to a happy ending for their toil is a suggestion that someone with a good crystal ball should donate it to the "cause."

John Bull Wants Socialized Steel

John Bull can be bull-headed on occasion.
His idea of going into the steel business (by nationalization) seems headed for fulfillment; and judging from past experience, John is also going to have some trouble on his hands.
Just why the steel industry was tapped for government ownership isn't quite clear, unless it was to insure socialistic control at the very root of all businesses which require steel in their operation.
The steel industry of Great Britain was one of those industries which had made considerable strides in the post-war years under private ownership. Production was up, action was being taken to modernize the plants, the country's steel needs were being met, and the industry was showing a modest profit in spite of the strangling taxation.
In the past, when John Bull invaded industries operated by private business, there appeared an early lapse of efficiency and reduced production. They may again encounter these faults at a time when steel production is most necessary.
The socialists are building a mighty framework of bureaucracy which may provide the framework for preserving their political tenure.

National Whirligig
News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Political and diplomatic Washington was shocked the other day to learn that two of President Truman's closest friends in the official family had virtually offered the position of Secretary of State to Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire two weeks before Mr. Truman declared that he would never desert Secretary Acheson or former Defense Secretary Louis A. Johnson.
In view of the summary dismissal of Mr. Johnson, there is now no reliance on the President's solemn declaration that Mr. Acheson would hang on "as long as I am President."
It is generally believed and hoped by leading Democrats on Capitol Hill that the Secretary of State will be asked to walk a Johnsonian plank before the November elections.
All of the principals involved in the tentative offer of the top diplomatic post to Mr. Bridges have been sworn to secrecy. It would be too embarrassing to Mr. Truman, Mr. Acheson and the Democrats for them to discuss the details of the proposed substitution of the Republican Senator from New England, who has become Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg's successor as the GOP's Capitol Hill spokesman and policy-maker in the field of foreign affairs.
But here is the inside story:
TELEPHONED—Early in August, two Administration officials peculiarly close to the White House telephoned Senator Bridges, and arranged for a conference under circumstances that would permit no "leaks."
They explained to him that they were seeing him without any authority from the White House and without Mr. Truman's knowledge. They asked him if he would accept a Cabinet appointment, without naming the specific post. They told him that President Truman, as Franklin D. Roosevelt did in 1940, wanted to broaden the basis of his war Cabinet by including one or two Republicans.
SHOPPING—Although they did not mention Mr. Acheson's post as the one the Senator might fill, the Yankee legislator's special role in the Senate has been in the field of foreign affairs. He has no unique qualifications for even a civilian military assignment.
It is also known now that Mr. Truman had long kept General George C. Marshall in mind for National Defense, if political pressure forced him to get rid of Mr. Johnson.
Among the very few at Washington who know of this incident, there is no doubt that Mr. Truman's emissaries were shopping around for a successor to Mr. Acheson.
And, in view of their official and unofficial association with the President, it is not believed that they would have made these overtures without reason to believe that he would welcome the success of their Bridges mission.
SERVICE—Senator Bridges turned the offer down cold without a moment's hesitation. He pointed out that he was the ranking Republican member on both the Senate Appropriations and Armed Services Committees, as well as a member of the special committee to investigate President Truman's conduct of the Korean struggle and whatever war may follow.
He explained that he thought he could be of greater service in the overall effort as a member of Congress than as a member of the Cabinet.
LOYALTY—Although Senator Bridges refuses to discuss the episode, his friends say that his loyalty to the Republican Party was a major factor in his declination. In the Senator's opinion, the GOP should cooperate in a bipartisan foreign policy on Capitol Hill, as he has tried to do.
But he believes that the party in power should assume full responsibility for the general foreign and military program in the executive field.
Mr. Bridges did not discuss the offer with fellow-Republicans, according to the accepted version. If he had, they would have advised him to refuse it.
Although supporting the Administration's foreign adventures because there is now no other alternative, they feel themselves under no compulsion to "pull Truman-Acheson chestnuts out of the fire at the last minute before the November elections," as a prominent opposition member phrases it.
YEAR—General George C. Marshall has agreed to serve as National Defense Secretary for only one year, according to his old Army friends. Neither his health nor his temperament—he is sixty-nine—will permit him to carry the burden beyond next summer, in their opinion. He had hoped to spend his sunset years with his flowers and saddle horses in the nearby colliery hamlet of Leesburg, Va.
A one-year service, however, will fit in with the Administration's military and political plans. There is no doubt that General Marshall's experience will enable him to whip our fighting machine into top shape. His stature with the Europeans may persuade them to exert themselves more strenuously in building up an anti-Russian defense force.

Somebody Told Me
By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Just about everybody who has seen a dozen movies has enjoyed a performance by at least one of the famous Barrymores, Lionel, John, or Ethel. Lionel has told the story of his career entitled "We Barrymores" for the Saturday Evening Post.
He wants everybody to know that he doesn't have arthritis. True, he is confined to a wheelchair, but because of a twice-broken hip, and not from any other ailment. He emphasized this because of the thousands of letters he gets from people suffering from arthritis. People think because of his prominence he has been given some special cures for arthritis, and they want to know them. Actually, Lionel's hip has knitted well, but walking is still difficult for him. He says that he will most certainly be up and about again sooner or later. In the meantime, he prefers the chair to crutches.
During the war, Lionel wrote this letter to Winston Churchill: "Dear Mr. Churchill: You do not know me, but you do know my sister. I am a brother of Ethel Barrymore and I have a request to make. It is this: when the time comes, as it surely will, and you get ready to spring the trap on that SOG Hitler, may I ask for two front-row reserved seats?"
The reply:
"Dear Barrymore: It was kind of you to write me such a charming letter and I am touched by what you say. We feel confident of success over here, but it cheers us to know that we can count on the sympathy and good will of people like yourself on the other side of the Atlantic.
Yours sincerely,
Winston Churchill."
Lionel wants to dispose of the rumor that he was a bitter enemy of the late Franklin Roosevelt. He did oppose the re-election of President Roosevelt on one occasion when he ran. However, Lionel has nothing but respect for FDR. He says, "Unfortunately for me, I did not know him, but he is the kind of man I would have liked. He collected ship models, had a fine house, and had humor. And I always considered him a superb actor."
"After the President's death it was proposed at MGM that I portray Mr. Roosevelt in a picture, 'The Beginning of the End.' I made a test and it was considered all right. However, when Mrs. Roosevelt heard about the casting she said firmly that she would not allow it if the terrible Barrymore played her husband. This, of course, is all over the dam now, so I think I will not be misunderstood if I say that, although I was naturally disappointed in her rejection of me, I had 'then and I have now nothing but admiration for Eleanor Roosevelt for her attitude. I did not say the things about her husband that he thought I did, but she had every reason to believe them, so good for her!"
And I thank you.

POLITICS—When one party or faction wins a political contest, it is accorded the right to exercise major control in governmental affairs. There rests upon all groups some obligation to carry on for the party, but heavy share of the burden falls upon those who have won the places of leadership. To them also goes major share of honors and privileges. That is why Willis Smith and those who supported him in the recent senatorial primary must assume large part of responsibility for the general election campaign; and also it is why this group is entitled to more recognition than those who supported losing candidates.
TOGETHER—Two years ago, after Kerr Scott had won the nomination for governor and J. M. Broughton for senator, the winners took over control of the Democratic party in the state. But in the fall campaign William Umstead, who had been defeated for the senate, and many of the staunchest supporters of Charlie Johnson, who lost in the race for governor, were just as enthusiastic in advocating the full Democratic ticket. Indications are now that, with a few exceptions which prove rather than disprove the rule, the men and women who backed primary candidates other than Smith for the senate, are pitching in to assure an unusual majority for the nominee in the general election.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
A drive for economy appears to be spreading through business organizations. A lot of fancy trimmings are being lopped off and savings of nickles and pennies are being ordered. It's brought out more edicts like, "No personal phone calls," and "Don't waste paper clips."
In some cases efforts are being made to cut operating costs to balance increased prices paid for materials and supplies. These higher prices threaten to boost break-even points unless economies are made in other directions.
There's nothing like a small increase in price to make a business man conscious of the total cost. For instance, the cost of a firm's letterheads may be hiked from $10 to $11 a thousand. The boss may never have thought about the cost of answering mail before, but this will start him going. "That's more than a cent a piece!" he may exclaim. Then he'll start reckoning the costs of the envelope, the typist's time and the postage. It may end up with an order not to retype letters for minor corrections or to cut out airmail. It may even lead to trying to get along with one less stenographer.
Whether this mental process operates in all cases, no one knows. But a check of a number of large companies shows small economies are being generally insisted upon. And a large number of small savings can amount to a considerable total over a year.
At the same time they are insisting on economies in use of supplies, some firms appear to be stocking up further in advance, in fear of shortages or price rises. There are unconfirmed reports that some companies have bought rubber bands, typewriter ribbons and other accessories for two or three years ahead. If these reports are true, somebody has for gotten about deterioration!
Another factor in the present economy drive is the expectation that manpower will become short. Office equipment dealers report a considerable rise in interest in those machines which will save labor. Many prospects figure that higher labor costs will permit these machines to pay for themselves in much less time. Interest is especially high in those machines that do not require trained personnel to operate.

WORKERS, NOT STARS, MARK NEW STORE
A live mayor in striped pants to cut a ribbon and a visiting movie star are standard equipment for opening a new store. But when a new branch was opened at Chestnut Hill, Mass., (by the Filene's unit of the Federated chain), the guests of honor were the workmen who built it.
They were entertained at a big supper party held in an adjoining tent. They were fed, entertained and showered with gifts. The "Whodunnit" party was in recognition of the fact the men had finished the job three weeks ahead of schedule.
OLD PROMOTER SNIFFS AT 'ASSOCIATES'
The Old Promoter dropped in today just to kill time (ours) and got to talking about firm names. "They seem to run in cycles," he said. "Just now the fad seems to be using 'and Associates.' You can figure out how old I am if I tell you I can remember when the fad was to end firm names with 'and Co.,' even if the 'company' consisted of a young boy who ran errands.
"Funny thing about these new names. In letterheads and logos they always seem to be 'JOE DOAKES and associates.' Haven't seen one yet that called itself 'Joe Doakes and ASSOCIATES!'
"Next time I open a business I'm going to be honest about it and call it 'The Old Promoter and Co-Signers.'"
"CYRANO" TIES IN STORE AND MOVIE PROMOTION
Art and merchandising are united in an unusual promotion in a cross-country trip by Jose Ferrer, who produced "Cyrano de Bergerac" on Broadway and which will soon be released as a movie.
Mr. Ferrer is delivering a one-hour lecture on the French classic in 11 cities.

Hal Boyle's Column

By BILL ROSS (For Hal Boyle)
Kimpco Airfield, Korea—(Delayed)—(AP)—It often takes a lot of time to cover a very few miles in a war like this.
You meet a lot of people and see and learn a lot of things. You can also spend hours in ditches and holes with bullets pinging overhead.
This is a one-day diary of a trip to Kimpco Airfield from Incheon.
9 a.m.—With General MacArthur, members of his staff and other correspondents we have a look at six burned-out communist tanks. They were KO'ed in a battle with Marine Patton tanks less than two hours ago and are still burning.
While MacArthur chats with fellow officers, Marine Pfc. Frank Adams, Jr., of 19 East Church St., Frederick, Md., tells me of the fight.
"They just kept coming around the curve through the pass and about 200 infantry troops were with them. We just kept putting away at them."
Sgt. William A. Richardson of 604 East Olmos Dr., San Antonio, Tex., told much the same story.
9:20 a.m.—General MacArthur leaves for the rear. But I came down the road toward Kimpco with a Marine infantry outfit. A sharp exchange of small arms fire clatters just ahead.
Capt. George C. Westover of Wichita, Kas., stops to tell his battle plan for the day. His company is to swing left off the main road and move toward Kimpco. So I walk with him until I meet three other correspondents.
10:50 a.m.—We can see Kimpco airfield about four miles distant. The airfield looks deserted and the administration building and hangars appear gutted and burned out.
11:27 a.m.—We are in a ditch. A communist—somewhere down the road sent us there when he opened up with small arms fire. Tanks and infantrymen move out to clean up the resistance pocket.
A sharp exchange of fire breaks out to our right as Marines push North Koreans from the ridge flanks. These Reds are the remnants of the tank-supported column that tried to break through Marine positions at daybreak.
11:45 a.m.—A sergeant with a shoulder wound is brought to our ditch by a Navy corpsman.
"Will you see that this man gets onto the first ambulance that passes?" the medic asks. We will.
"They got me in the shoulder," the sergeant said apologetically as though he had let down his squad in getting hit. The corpsman gave him a lighted cigarette.
Captain Westover came down the road in a running crouch.
"Sorry you got hit, Bill," he said to his sergeant. "Take care of yourself, son, and we will be seeing you again. Good luck."
The ambulance came and the sergeant was taken aboard. The firing had died down ahead and to our right. We moved on down the road.
12:15 p.m.—We turn down the road to Kimpco and pass the intersection of the Incheon-Seoul highway where an enemy stronghold had held us up.
12:20 p.m.—We are in another ditch. Just as we pass the village of Bupyoung, the enemy opens up and we bail out of our jeep. It's a muddy ditch and one correspondent remarks that he's sorry he put on clean clothes today.
Ten minutes later the picture is brighter. There's no fire and we crawl out and cross a double railroad track.
I walked down the road and rejoined an infantry company.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—The study of dancing in schools and colleges is a step toward successful marriages, business and professional careers, says Elizabeth Burner, She's director of dance production groups at George Washington University, here. Although the slight and willowy Miss Burner has trained a number of young men and women who have made dancing a career, she points out that most of her students are future housewives and business and professional men.
Dancing is one of the most popular activities at the university, which boasts three modern dance production groups, a square dance group and a group in folk dancing. "Most young folks dance for the sheer enjoyment of it, but there is more to dancing than its mere social aspects," Miss Burner says. "Dancing is very disciplining, instills self-control and develops such qualities as strength and endurance, agility, flexibility and coordination. Students of the dance acquire a feeling for moving well, a sense of being free of the body."
Once acquired, these qualities are manifested in many ways long after the music dies away and the dancing slippers have worn thin, Miss Burner contends. What students have learned in their classes carries over into all phases of life, she says, the housewife and the business man "by having learned to move well can stream-line their action, coordinate their thinking, better express themselves in home and office."
Making up her classes are pre-medical and pre-legal students, students in psychology, chemistry, foreign affairs, art and the drama. One of her most enthusiastic pupils is handsome young Tom Pence, who is working for his master's degree in foreign affairs. A pilot with the Eighth Air Force in the European theater for three years during World War II, young Pence is interested in folk dancing. "People dance the way they are," Tom Pence says. "That's one way of understanding how they feel."

The Voice Of The People

Dear Editor:
The Civil Air Patrol, an auxiliary of the U. S. Air Force, which is being further developed by Thomas Sellers, Clarence Galloway and others of our leading qualified young men is getting in full swing at our local airport and is the most worthy organization of its kind and will cover more benefits to our community after the training than anything that we have ever had. They are, however, handicapped with the lack of funds to operate on. They have a number of efficient instructors who give their time to aid these boys and girls and certainly our community should and will get behind this worthy organization not only with funds but our moral support.
At the present they are working jointly with Washington, N.C. and having routine work at our local airport every Thursday night from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Last Thursday night they had 15 boys and girls from Washington and 25 of our local boys and girls. The patrol could and should be built up to 50 or 75 of our local boys and girls.
The main training that they get prepares them not only for aid in case of emergency but also builds into these boys and girls many essentials of life.
Some of the main items of training that they get are military training and courtesy, basic safety principles, aircraft instruments and safety flying, Morse code, first aid, navigation maps, charts, etc., time and distance problems and many other items. They have every meeting at least 30 minutes of drilling which is a part of the program.
Our local unit is in need of funds to buy uniforms, small equipment, etc. Most of the boys and girls now in the unit families are not able to assist them in these items and for the worthy work and value these boys and girls as well as their daughters to our community is a well worth while cause for our citizens, civic organization, etc. to fall in line with finances to see this project made one of the best and strongest in our state.

Blunt-Talking Lawmakers On Tour In Yugoslavia; 'Talk Turkey' With Tito

Belgrade, Sept. 21 — (AP) — A he informed them that only yesterday he had a conference in the same room where they were sitting with a "high Roman Catholic official about state and church problems."

The church official was unidentified. However, the lawmakers reported that Tito at this point informed them that the new religious situation in this country is being reviewed. Just four years ago Roman Catholic Archbishop Alojzipo Stepinac was sentenced to 16 years in prison, accused of collaborating with the Nazis. He still is in prison.

On the question of the Greek children, the congressional delegation told Marshal Tito that the United States wanted to see the immediate return of the youngsters — some 11,000 of them — to their parents.

Tito replied that Yugoslavia already has returned several hundred of the children and hopes to get the rest back to their parents just as soon as this country could determine the parents' identity and their present location.

The delegation argued with him that the children should be sent home immediately and their future determined by some such organization as the International Red Cross or the United Nations.

Tito apparently was positive on one point. He said that Yugoslavia does not want military aid from the United States while pursuing its independent policy in the cold war conflict between the East and West.

He told the congressmen, however, that Yugoslavia would welcome financial assistance from the West for domestic development, particularly for mining equipment to extract the country's valuable ore and thus pay back the loans.

Cooley explained the possibility under pending legislation for Yugoslavia to obtain surplus low-cost foodstuffs—desperately needed here as a result of a drought—if this country is willing to foot the transportation bill.

The group bluntly told Tito that the people of the United States were gravely concerned over reports reaching there that religious persecution is carried on here; that its people would tolerate aid to no country without religious freedom.

Tito denied the charges of religious persecution.

Although they declined to quote Tito directly, the congressmen said

Due To Indifference, A Minority Of Active Citizens Controls Government

By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh, Sept. 21—In a republican democracy such as the United States of America and the State of North Carolina, majority opinion theoretically controls the government. Actually, because of indifference on part of so many citizens, a small minority exercises control over the affairs of all the people.

Take some recent elections on the issue of legal control of the sale of beer, for example. Forty-one counties have voted out beer. In each case, of course, a majority of the votes cast were recorded against legal control of the beverage; but figures compiled by interested persons show that considerably fewer than one-fourth of the potential voters were responsible for saying that these counties would be legally "dry" with respect to beer. In other words, a minority of approximately twenty-three percent of the voters and perhaps not more than ten per cent of all the people set the rules for the entire one hundred percent of the population.

The past three gubernatorial elections further illustrate this point of minority rule by reason of majority indifference. Under the North Carolina system, nomination in the Democratic primary is equivalent to election. In 1940 there were well above a million and a half potential voters in North Carolina. In the November election that year J. Melville Broughton got a record vote of 608,744; but what actually assured him the governorship was the vote of 147,386 obtained in the Democratic primary. That was less than ten percent of the total strength of the state, but it was sufficient to determine who would be governor for four years.

Maximum potential voting strength had increased by 1944, but because of the war and other factors and actual vote, both in the primary and the general election was less. Again it was just about ten percent of the total state vote which was cast for Gregg Cherry in the primary and assured that he would be governor.

Came 1948 with further increase in potential votes, but with fewer cast in primaries and general elections than in 1940—although more than in 1944. Kerr Scott polled 570,995 votes in the general election. That was 42,000 more than Cherry got in 1944, but 38,000 under the Broughton record in 1940. However, the ballots that really made Scott governor were the 217,820 he received in the second primary against Charles M. Johnson. Once again it is found that just about ten percent of the maximum potential state vote named the governor, for by 1948 the state population had moved up to where some two million North Carolinians were of voting age.

The total vote cast in the road-school bond election last year exceeded expectations, and Democratic primary votes this year broke all records. Willis Smith got more votes than any man before him in a Democratic primary. Indications now are he will get more votes in November's general election than any man ever received in a North Carolina election when the officers of governor and president were not at stake. That will not change the fact that he was really made senator by less than 300,000 votes out of the state's potential of above two and a half million, because his nomination in the Democratic primary guaranteed his election in November.

There is vital difference between this kind of "minority" rule and the kind that prevails in most other countries of the world. The right to vote in North Carolina and throughout the United States is guaranteed to all literate citizens over 21 years of age (18 years in some states) except those who stand convicted of felonies. There remains the job of convincing these citizens that they also have obligations and responsibility to cast positive votes, rather than exercising negative suffrage of staying away from the ballot boxes.

Disregard Veto Threat Of Bill On Subversives

Washington, Sept. 20 — (AP) — Disregarding the chance of a presidential veto, the House today passed a subversive control bill calling for peacetime registration of communists and wartime internment of potential spies and saboteurs.

Agreeing to a Senate-House compromise on conflicting versions of the bill, the House sent it back to the Senate for expected speedy concurrence.

By completing congressional action at once, the Senate could send the bill to the White House in time for President Truman to act on it before Congress begins a hoped-for adjournment or recess this week-end.

Should President Truman decide to veto it, today's top-heavy vote made it almost certain that the House would override it by the necessary two-thirds vote.

Spells His Way Out Of Sentence

Youngstown, O., Sept. 20 — (AP) — Some people can talk their way out of jail, but one fellow spelled his way out today.

George Shirley, 61, of Punxsutawney, Pa., came before Judge Frank P. Anzellotti on a drunk charge. He was given a chance to spell his town's name correctly or serve out a fine of $5 and costs.

Shirley shook his head, cleared his throat, correctly spelled the Groundhog City's name, then thanked the judge for his freedom.

Until neighboring communities voted to join it in May 1950 Annapolis, Md., was less than a square mile in area.

Market Holiday On Tobacco Belts Is Started Today

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 21 — (AP)—Markets on the four flue-cured tobacco belts were closed today—the first day of an indefinite sales holiday.

The holiday was called by the Board of Governors of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association. It is aimed at relieving congestion in re-drying plants, which already have a large volume of tobacco on hand.

The executive committee of the board of Governors will meet here next Monday to set a re-opening date. Some of the smaller markets in the border belt area may not re-open when sales are resumed.

Meanwhile, the federal-state market news service reported fair-steady prices at yesterday's sales on the old belt. Gross sales Tuesday totaled 4,478,028 pounds at an average of $55.67.

Prices were steady to slightly lower on the Eastern North Carolina Belt. Tuesday's gross sales were 11,118,158 pounds averaging $55.47.

Losses of $1 to $3 were noted on the border belt. Gross sales Tuesday were 4,403,778 pounds averaging $50.97.

G. B. Shaw Has New Operation

Luton, England, Sept. 21—(AP)—Playwright George Bernard Shaw today underwent a second major operation at the hospital where he has been recovering from a broken thigh, the British Press Association reported.

The agency said the new surgery was designed to relieve a bladder and kidney condition which began to trouble the 94-year-old Irish-born dramatist after he was first operated on for a fractured thigh.

Severe Penalty For Non-Support

At the afternoon session of Pitt County Recorder's Court Tuesday, Judge Dink James gave Linwood Manning six months on the roads for abandonment and non-support of his wife, Edith Allen Manning, and their three children.

The court suspended sentence on condition that Manning pay $25 a week into the County Welfare office for the support of his wife and children, the first payment to be made Monday, September 25. The court also ordered that Manning remain sober and of good behavior.

John Sherman, colored, had check, 60 days on the roads, suspended provided he pay costs by October 2 and $50 for Earl Lancaster.

Alfred Harrell, colored, larceny of clothing, from four to eight months, sentence suspended provided he pay $35 for clothes stolen.

Non-support: John Lee Roach, colored, six months, suspended provided he pay $10 at once and $10 a week and obey further court orders. Appealed. David Cobb, colored, judgment passed September 9 was that Cobb was to pay $50 then and on September 19 to begin paying $40 a month to the County Welfare Department and to pay for medical expenses for his wife and children. He gave notice of appeal.

Glascio Paison, colored, of Rocky Mount, six months, suspended provided he pay the County Welfare Department $10 by September 26 and $10 a week thereafter and obey further orders of the court and keep the Welfare Department informed about his address. James E. Spain, colored, ordered to pay County Welfare Department $13.50 on arrears. He paid up.

Farmville Man In Demand As Speaker

Sam D. Bundy, president of the North Carolina Christian Church Layman's League, spoke to the meeting of laymen of the Piedmont District at Pfafftown on Monday night of this week. The history of men's work was reviewed and the onward progress of activities and influence was projected. One hundred twenty-five men were present from the Charlotte, Winston-Salem and Greensboro areas.

Bundy was guest speaker at the Leggett Ruritan Club "ladies night" annual banquet on Wednesday night of this week. The meeting was held in the Leggett gymnasium and Bundy spoke on the subject "Let's Go."

Fountain News

The Fountain Home Demonstration Club held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Alton Moore Tuesday night, September 14 with seven members and one visitor present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. John Joyner. The devotion was given by Fay Moore. Mrs. Alton Moore gave book reports. Mrs. Fred Moore gave a report on poultry. The meeting was then turned over to Miss Jean Steele, the county agent, who gave a very interesting report on safety and sanitation.

The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Fountain and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Harris entertained at a dinner at the Fountain home Sunday, September 17, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Sadler, Jr. of Tarboro, who were married in June of this year.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Sadler, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Rush Stancil, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Savage, Mr. John Sadler, Mrs. Bruce Fountain, Mr. and Mrs. George Fountain, and daughter, Celeste, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Fountain, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Fountain, Miss Sue-Ann Sadler,

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Fountain, Mrs. S. W. Harris, Mrs. C. L. Owens, Miss Ann Harris, Carolyn Harris, Wade Clark Hunt, Mary Louise Hunt, and James Hunt.

Mr. and Mrs. James Joyner of Fountain announce the birth of a daughter, Janet Belinda, September 16, at home. Mrs. Joyner is the former Miss Sue Redrick of Walsenburg.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Horton and daughter, Miss Ann, motored to Raleigh Monday where Miss Ann Horton entered Meredith College as a student.

Mr. Warren Peele returned Tuesday of this week to Durham, for his senior year at Duke University as a medical student.

John Bishop Gay returned Tuesday of this week to Chapel Hill to attend school at University of North Carolina.

A. C. Gay, Jr. returned to Wake Forest College as a student. Blackie Trevathan and Bobbie Baker have entered school at ECTC at Greenville.

John Fountain, Jr. returned Wednesday of this week to the university at Chapel Hill.

Bob Fountain, Jr. III returned Wednesday of this week to Chapel Hill and will be a sophomore student at the University.

Donnie Phillips of Macclesfield and Kenneth Edwards of Old Sparta spent Sunday visiting Jan Gardner.

Mrs. Joseph W. Gay Thursday returned to her home from Pitt General Hospital and is recuperating from an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams of Carolina Beach were last week visitors of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baker. Mrs. B. C. Eason and Mrs. J. L. Doster have returned home after a ten-day visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Smith in Baltimore.

Mrs. W. R. Harris and Mrs. E. W. Hunt left Thursday of last week for Daytona Beach, Florida.

Mr. Edward Manning of Crownsville, Maryland, arrived Tuesday of last week and spent a few days with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Manning.

Mr. Charlie Owens of Crownsville, Maryland, spent a few days last week visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Owens.

Miss Jean Jefferson spent the week end visiting Miss Joyce Strickland of Farmville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tyndall, Mr. Richard Tyndall of Deep Run, Mr. and Mrs. Zebulon Vance Alford of Tarboro were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tyndall.

Mr. Rudolph Moseley of Crownsville, Maryland, spent a few days last week visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moseley.

Migration For British Industry

Birmingham, England.—(P)—British and foreign industry is in the midst of a big big scale migration to Scotland.

Since 1937, a total of 210 enterprises have moved there, including nearly 90 from London and 35 from overseas. A score of the foreign plants were from the United States. The figures were cited by Dr. H. B. Phillips, of the Scottish board of trade, in a paper read to the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

Dr. Phillips said new jobs in the American projects alone will total 10,000. He said many of the new firms "seem satisfied that their production in Scotland is more economic than elsewhere."

Inter-Arab Phone System Returns

Cairo.—(P)—Inter-Arab telephone communications, disrupted by the Palestine war, are to be restored and developed soon.

The Arab League Political Committee, at its Alexandria meeting in August, drew plans for establishment of new telephone lines to connect the seven League states. There are Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, Yemen and Hashemite Jordan.

Plans provide for a submarine cable across the Gulf of Aqaba, linking Jordan with Saudi Arabia. From the main cable lines will be extended to Syria, Lebanon, Iraq and Egypt.

Kids Unharmed In Bus-Truck Wreck

Goldboro, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Sixty-four school children escaped injury yesterday when their bus was in a collision with a light truck near here.

The bus left the New Hope school only a few minutes before the crash, and was crossing Highway U.S. 70 about five miles southeast of here when it collided with the truck.

Customer's Corner

The men and women in your A & P meat department are skilled employees who know their trade.

They are proud... and so are we... of their reputation for good meat and good service.

That is why they always want to be sure that:

1. You get exactly the cut you want.
2. Your meat is trimmed before weighing.
3. You get full weight and are charged the correct price.
4. Your purchase is properly wrapped.

You will be doing our employees a favor if you will let them and us know any time our meat or service does not live up to our high quality standards.

Must Apply Soon For Graduate Work Abroad

Dr. L. P. Brewster, Fulbright Program advisor at East Carolina Teachers College, has announced that students or alumni of the college who are interested in securing a grant enabling them to do graduate work or to conduct special research projects abroad should make application at the earliest possible date.

Opportunities for more than 600 Americans to study or do research work abroad during 1951-1952 under the terms of the Fulbright Act are offered by the Department of State. Countries in which study grants are available are Australia, Austria, Belgium, Burma, Egypt, France, Greece, India, Iran, Italy, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, the Philippines, Thailand, Turkey, and the United Kingdom. The grants are made under Public Law 594, 79th Congress, the Fulbright Act.

Interested students may obtain forms from Dr. Brewster. The closing date for receipt of applications is October 31. Those not enrolled at present at East Carolina should direct inquiries and requests for applications to the Institute of International Education, U. S. Student Program, 2 West 46th Street, New York 19, N.Y. The last date on which applications will be issued by the Institute is October 15.

Singapore Plans Halt Propaganda

Singapore—(AP)—The Singapore government plans to stop the flow of Communist propaganda in the form of books and magazines pouring in from Hong Kong and Red China. A branch of the Chinese Secretariat has been set up to check and translate Chin-produced publications. If considered necessary, the emergency regulations pertaining to published works will be extended to enforce a ban.

Wilson's Weekly Bulletin

from the RECTOR KITCHENS

Here in the Rector Kitchens we love to work with Wilson's w-o-n-d-e-r-f-u-l smoked meats. They are so superior in tenderness and in fine smoke flavor. When you serve Wilson's hams, you serve "America's Finest."

WILSON'S "CERTIFIED" HAM

(In the orange wrapper) is a deluxe smoked ham, nicely "sugar-cured," and of the finest quality.

See simple cooking directions inside the wrapper. Center-cut slices broil to perfection. Either the half or the whole ham will bake to a juicy tastiness. The shank end simmers savorily with vegetables. The tag ends and bone will make a luscious soup, ham loaf, etc.

A whole Wilson's Certified Ham is an economical buy because it offers such a variety of uses. Keep well when refrigerated.

WILSON'S "Tender Made" HAM

(In the yellow wrapper) comes fully-cooked ready to eat, and so tender that you can cut it with a fork. Even the shank is tender and mild.

Because this ham is pre-cooked the famous Wilson way, it may be eaten just as it comes from the "yellow" wrapper heated only 5 minutes to the pound. There is practically no shrinkage.

BROILED WILSON'S HAM with mustard-butter

As you preheat the broiler oven to medium heat, blend together:

1/4 cup Wilson's Clearbrook Butter and 1/4 cup prepared mustard

On broiler rack place:

1 Wilson's Certified center-cut ham slice, cut thick (1 1/2 to 1 3/4 inches) below source of medium broiler heat. Broil until browned or 10 to 15 minutes, then turn the meat over. Spread second side with mustard-butter. When second side is browned to your taste (10 to 15 minutes) the ham is ready to serve. Garnish with orange slices and cherries.

*When using Wilson's Tender Made Ham, slice 1 to 2 inches thick and broil 5 to 8 minutes to a side. It is fully-cooked so you merely warm it on each side.

Bosox Drop Back But Flag Race Still Anybody's Guess

Of Three Contenders, Detroit Looks Like Team In Best Position To Capture Pennant

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The final chapter of the American League pennant race opens today and, like a good "who-dun-it," the solution is anybody's guess.

Of the three contenders, the second place Detroit Tigers appear to be in the best position to take charge. The Tigers play single games today and tomorrow while the league-leading New York Yankees and the third-place Boston Red Sox are in Veterans in both of these games will put the Tigers in first place.

In addition, the Tigers have another advantage as four of the Red Sox and Yankees' 10 remaining games are against each other. They start to knock each other off in the Yankee stadium Saturday while the Tigers are in Cleveland.

The Tigers entertain the Philadelphia Athletics today with Freddie Hutchinson pitching against Little Bobby Shantz. A victory will shove the Bengals into a first place tie with New York. The Tigers then move to Cleveland where they take on the Indians in the opener of a three game series tomorrow night.

Here's the picture at a glance:

Classic Bowling League Teams Well 'Strung Out'

Billro Wholesale	6	3	.667

Wagner Walldrop	4 <td>5<td>.444</td></td>	5 <td>.444</td>	.444
Carolina Dairy	3 <td>6<td>.333</td></td>	6 <td>.333</td>	.333

The won-lost records of the four teams in the Classic League became strung out with one game separating each as a result of league bowling Tuesday night.

During the rolling this week Wagner-Walldrop pulled into third place ahead of Carolina Dairy by beating them in three straight games. In doing so W-W rolled all games with scores better than 700 for the five players and almost crashed the 800 figure in the third.

Best the Dairy men could do was 736 in the second game, four points shy of the 736 with which W-W took the game.

Also Tuesday night Hodges Hardware took two games from Billro, the league leader at the present time, and thereby pulled out of a tie for second place in the standings.

Gene Ward, W-W, moved into the top spot in individual averages after last week's leader, Speedy Reid, stopped bowling in league competition. Ward's top average this week is 155, four points better than second place Bob Matthews. However, Ward dropped three pins from last week's 158 which was good for second place.

Jim Lee, Carolina Dairy, had the night's highest single game with 184. His other two games, 142 and 106, dropped him from a possible winner in the three-game bracket. Bill Wells, W-W, took that honor with 153, 171, 171—494.

Costly Lesson On Football Field

Detroit—(P)—Gil Johnson, quarterback with the Detroit Lions football team, learned the expensive way that blood is thicker than water. Johnson, former SMU star who played with the New York Yankees in 1947, has a brother, Bill Johnson, with the San Francisco 49ers.

"I was riding the bench when Bill intercepted a Yankee pass and ran for a touch down," Gil recounts. "I automatically stood up and cheered my older brother. The Yankee coach acted automatically, too. He fined me a hundred dollars for what he said was 'fraternizing' on my part."

Farmville Plays Hertford Eleven To Open Season

Farmville, Sept. 21.—Farmville's Red Devils open their 1950 gridiron season Friday night against Hertford High School in a non-conference tilt.

Coach Elbert Moye has worked long and hard with his young and inexperienced squad in preparation for their opening game before the home crowd.

The forward wall for the Red Devil team seems ready to go with six lettermen returning from last year's squad. However, Coach Moye emphasized that the boys had not seen too much action last year, and they were inexperienced.

Coach Moye, commenting on results of practice thus far, and possibilities in the game Friday night, stated, "In view of the material that we have, I think we look fairly good. However, we are awfully short on reserves, and the boys are going to have to play a full ball game."

Expected to lead the T formation offense of the Red Devils are Quarterback Randy Allen, who will do the team's passing, along with Joe Smith and Gene Meeks, who do the skirting of the ends from their halfback positions. Fullback Richard Oakley is power-runner for the Devils.

Probably starters in tomorrow night's game with Hertford are Roy Vick and Al Cannon, ends; Bob Fulford and James Fountain, tackles; Ray Flora and Frank Moore, guards, and Doug Pierce at center. The backfield will be made up of Allen at quarterback, Smith and Meeks at halfbacks, and Oakley at fullback.

Undisputed Lead In Women's Loop

Double N Restaurant	5	1	.833
Carolina Cleaners <th>3</th> <th>3</th> <th>.500</th>	3	3	.500
WGTC <th>3</th> <th>3</th> <th>.500</th>	3	3	.500
College View Cleaners <th>1</th> <th>5</th> <th>.167</th>	1	5	.167

Women bowlers from Double N Restaurant last night spread the power among the four teams of the Women's League as they moved out of a first-place tie with Carolina Cleaners and into undisputed possession of first.

They did it by taking three games from College View Cleaners which has been able to sweep only one outing from league competition to date.

Double N now has a two game edge on Carolina which at the present is tied with WGTC. The latter team, in turn, handed Carolina its first two-game shellacking of the young bowling season and missed by three slight pins of taking the third. Scores were 838-819, 549-562, and 573-489.

Leading bowler last night in the league was Audrey Leggett of Double N with a clean sweep of single and three game high honors. Her high game was head and shoulders above anything rolled to date. In her second game she hit 184 which may very well go on the books as tops all season.

Her other two games were 124 and 131 for a three game total of 439. That is 84 pins higher than anything to date.

Thus she takes over top spot in the averages with 136 which is nine pins higher than her 127 of last week. Following her are Frances Cassick with 121 and Edith Nisbet with 120.

Snead May Add To Big Bankroll

Kansas City, Sept. 21.—(P)—It looks like Sam Snead, the Nation's leading money winner, has a good chance to add to his bankroll in the Kansas City open golf tournament, starting today.

He's found the 6,725-yard Milburn Country Club course to his liking. Yesterday in a warmup round, he collected a 64 to tie the course record. Par is 72.

The Sulphur Springs, W. Va., pro, however, has plenty of competition in the $15,000 meet.

Cary Middlecoff, who won the St. Louis open Monday, turned in a solid 67 in his practice round. Middlecoff plays out of Ormond Beach, Fla.

Other entries include Ed (Perky) Oliver, Seattle; Jim Ferrier, San Francisco; Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago; Dutch Harrison, St. Andrews, Ill.; Frank Stranahan, Toledo; Johnny Palmer, Baden, N. C.; Marty Furgol, Albuquerque, N. M.; Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va.; Skip Alexander, Knoxville, Tenn.; Jack Burke, Jr., White Plains, N. Y.

Decisive Games

Two Tobacco County League baseball games this weekend will determine who meets Robersonville for the final series. Robersonville took two games from Winterville last weekend to cop the semifinals playoffs.

Ayden and Belvoir play the first game Friday night in Greenville's Guy Smith Stadium. The final game of their semifinal bracket comes off at the stadium at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Winner of those tilts will meet Robersonville for the first game of the final series Sunday afternoon, October 1.

Deacons Fly To Boston For Pre-Game Practice

Richmond, Va., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Wake Forest's football team flew to Boston today for an afternoon workout in preparation for its opener tomorrow night against Boston College.

With the sole exception of Carroll Blackerby, ranking quarterback who is out with a collarbone fracture, the Deacons are at full strength for the tilt at Braves Field.

Elsewhere around the Southern Conference yesterday, most teams were tapering off in drills for Saturday games.

At College Park, Md., Coach Jim Tatum of the Maryland Terps kept up his search for an offensive quarterback who will make his split-T offensive work. Tatum came up with three contenders—Sophomores John Scarbath and Bob Destefano and Junior Frank Armworthy. None of the three has had any varsity experience, but apparently they will have to do.

Halfback Steve Wadiak was back in uniform at South Carolina as the Gamecocks prepped for Duke. He had been out with a minor injury.

Sophomore Miles Gregory was promoted to the first-string at left guard at Chapel Hill, where North Carolina did its last serious work for N.C. State.

Glenn Wild, a tailback, and Guard Don Knotts remained on the sidelines with injuries during Duke workouts at Durham. It was doubtful that either would play on Saturday.

Football Forecasters To Miss 'Sure Bets' As Percentage Aid

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—How can an innocent sports guesser make a football reputation when Notre Dame, Army and Oklahoma, who seldom lose, aren't among the teams in action?
Makes the job just that much tougher, but here goes:
Kentucky over LSU: The Southeast conference may be decided in this fray in which Wildcats have a slight edge despite quarterback Vito Parilli's battle with the flu germs early in the week.
Michigan State over Oregon State: The Pacific Coast team won a year ago and Michigan State has lost many of its 1949 stars by graduation. But the feeling here is that the Spartans have adequate replacements although Oregon State boasts 21 veterans.
Boston College over Wake Forest: The Boston Eagles won by six points a year ago and the margin in this one should be about the same.
Maryland over Georgia: Maryland claims that Elmer Wingate, Ray Krouse and Bobby Ward make up the best left side of a line in college football. That's the conviction. But they really will have to be good to keep up with Lauren Hargrove, Georgia's sophomore back.
California over Santa Clara: Could go either way but sticking with the defending coast conference champions and Jim Monachino.
Southern Methodist over Georgia Tech: Kyle Rote is back. Will he pick up where he left off last year?
North Carolina over North Caro-

Phantoms Keyed Up For Friday Contest With New Bern Bears

Greenville's high school Phantoms are keyed up for their second league contest Friday night, and will be gunning for their first circuit win of the year against the New Bern Bears.
Friday's game will be played in New Bern with the contest getting underway at 8 p. m.
Coach Bo Farley eased up somewhat on his grid squad yesterday. After working strenuously on tackling and blocking for the first two days this week, the Phantoms took things fairly easy yesterday, drilling mostly on dummy defense, and brushing up on their passing attack.

Quarterbacks Leon Moore and Sidney Briley shared the passing chores with ends Wiley Gardner and Johnny Aman on the flank posts.
"We hope we've ironed out our mistakes against Edenton last week, and I think our passing attack is looking better; we've drilled on it all week," stated Coach Far-

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Hill Prince, acclaimed today as the three-year-old racing champion, might tackle older horses such as Noor and Ponder in the $50,000 Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont Park.
Casey Hayes, trainer of Chris Chenery's Virginia speedball which romped home over a dozen rivals of his own age yesterday in the Jerome Handicap, says his plans are uncertain.
"We certainly were pleased with his race, but won't know for a day or two just when he will start again," said the trainer of the colt that now holds a decided edge over Middleground for divisional honors.
Hayes said Hill Prince might appear in the $20,000 Lawrence Realization at Belmont next Wednesday. The Lawrence is at a mile and five eighths.
He added that Hill Prince might start in the Jockey Club Gold Cup Oct. 7, but it all depended on next week's Lawrence, for three-year-olds exclusively.
The Gold Cup is a stern two mile test.
Hill Prince's Jerome performance was a sensational job.
The Virginia colt was slow out of the gate yesterday and trailed absolutely last about 13 lengths back as the other dozen scooted down the backstretch.
Then, as he spun into the bend, Jockey Eddie Arcaro turned him loose. Hill Prince swung around the pack, picking up his opposition one by one. At the head of the stretch he was pouring it on, with half a dozen still ahead. Then, with about an eighth of a mile to go, the Prince zipped past the last three struggling contenders and boomed to the wire.

Gallipolis, O.—(AP)—A no hit, no run victory over another high school team caught the eye of a Cleveland Indian scout, and Forrest S. Borden Jr. is to get a chance in organized baseball. The 19-year-old Gallipolis High School pitcher, six feet, five inches of all around athlete, will be given a tryout by the Indians next spring. Borden also starred in football and basketball in high school.

DOUBLE WEDDING

By Adelaide Humphries

Chapter 8

The party was a great success. The moon was full, the night perfect. And Sandy was his old self, the "life" of the gathering.

It was he who organized all of the games they played, some rough-and-tumble ones on the beach, some quieter, after the feast was over; he led the singing when the fire died down.

"It was a success, wasn't it?" Stephanie asked, the last guest having been bidden good-bye, the last echo of laughter wafted away in the still night.

"A magnificent success," Sandy agreed.

Her back to him as she stacked the final pans and tools away in their proper places, she did not notice the fierce scowl that was fixed in two deep lines between his blue eyes.

He let her finish, then as she turned out the last lamp in the big studio living room, he said, "Let that go a sec, will you, Stevie? There's something I want to ask you."

She knew now that something was wrong.

"If it can't wait, go ahead," she said.

"This place belongs to the Hales, doesn't it? To your other husband. He raised a hand as she would have spoken. "You let me think it belonged to one of Mayo's pals. You certainly placed me in a bad position, one I don't relish, I can tell you."

Stephanie said, "That's the last thing I meant to do, Sandy. But," she added, "be practical, Sandy, it is almost impossible to find a place to stay anywhere."

"I'll find one."

"You mean you won't stay here any longer?"

"Hardly. And you can tell your Ex—is that what you call him?—that we are much obliged, but his tenants are moving out. That is," he added, that piercing look in his eyes, that fleck of sarcasm in his voice, "if my wife will move with me."

Stephanie felt the hot color sweep up into her face. But she said, quietly, "If you can find a place, I will go with you, Sandy."

"It may not be a baronial suite," he returned. "Or even up to the Hale standard. But I'll find a spot that will belong to the Vaughns with no obligations attached. Not that I wish to seem ungrateful."

Sandy had been on his own for as long as he could remember. His parents had both been killed in a train wreck. He had been brought up by various uninterested, often unwilling, relatives, shifted here and there until old enough to go it entirely alone.

The only one of all those to remain on the scene was one uncle, Quentin Vaughn, after whom Sandy had been named. He made his dubious livelihood by varied forms of gambling.

Sandy called on his uncle when he went into the city to try to find a place to live.

To his surprise, his uncle was delighted to see him, and more to his surprise, able to solve the problem of a place to live immediately and without difficulty.

"You can move in here!" his uncle offered. "You and your lovely bride. You sure can pick 'em, my boy!"

"It's mighty decent of you to offer to take us in," he said. He had already found out that Stevie had been right; it was next to impossible to find a place to live.

"Besides," Sandy added, as his uncle benevolently waved aside such generosity as of no consequence, "I'm not sure Stevie would do it. It would mean taking your one bedroom and putting you on the day-bed and—"

"Think nothing of it." His uncle waved this aside too. "I seldom use the bedroom anyhow. You know what a night owl I am. And as a final inducement, I shall be heading south before too long."

"It's swell of you. But Stevie isn't feeling up to par. And, like yourself, I'm a restless egg, usually on the go—so, well, you see—Stevie would have to have the bedroom. To herself, I mean. Of course if the day-bed pulls into a double and I could share that with you—well, then, I suppose—"

"Suppose we call it settled," his uncle broke in, chuckling. His eyes—they were as blue as Sandy's—were an anxious gleam, however. Something was wrong for Sandy. Not right, not after all Sandy had done.

"Move in as soon as you like," Quentin Vaughn said.

"Well, we'll call it a temporary deal," Sandy agreed. "We'll move in tomorrow—or this evening, if you don't mind. We'll stay until we find somewhere else. Unless it doesn't work out even before then, or before you go south. And that much must be understood, Quent—if it doesn't we'll say so, or you will—and no hard feelings on either side, okay?"

"Okay."

"I've still got enough cash to pay my way and Stevie's," Sandy spoke abruptly again.

"Well, we'll work that out," his uncle said.

He began to search through his pockets.

"Want to give you a key," he explained. "I may be out when you get back. Gotta few errands. So just move right in and make yourself at home. Tell Stevie to go ahead and fix things to suit herself. I know how a woman is. Never happier than when she is changing things. A house or a man. Doesn't matter which."

Sandy's grin was not forced now. "Thanks, Quent." He spoke earnestly, giving his uncle a playful pat in return for the squeeze. "Thanks for everything. It means more than I can say."

Brazil's Census Shows 50 Million Citizens Talled

Rio De Janeiro —(AP)— Brazil has been counting noses and it seems that they will run close to 50,000,000.

The 1950 census count ended early in July but definite results will be known in a few more months. There is enough information on hand to estimate the country's population at near fifty million and to give first rank to Rio de Janeiro as the biggest city. The count for Rio is over 2,250,000.

Sao Paulo grew amazingly but it is still number two with 2,200,000. Recife, in the northeastern state of Pernambuco, is third with a dash over half a million. Porto Alegre, in southern Rio Grande, is fourth with 372,000.

FARM FOR SALE

Public Auction

SEPTEMBER 22, 1950

These farms belong to the estate of James E. Green, late of Winterville, N.C., and are being sold under court order at the Greenville Courthouse at 12 o'clock noon on September 22, 1950.

The "CLAUDE TRIPP FARM"—Containing 54 1-4 acres, with 1950 tobacco allotment of 9.9 acres.

The "LITTLE FARM"—Containing 39 acres, with 1950 tobacco allotment of 8.7 acres.

The "DAIL FARM"—Containing 161-2 acres, with 1948 tobacco allotment of 4.8 acres (to be adjusted according to 1949 and 50 crop control adjustments.)

The "L.G. MILLS FARM" Containing 197 acres, with 1950 tobacco allotment of 30.7 acres.

The Mills farm will be divided by the public road and sold as two separate farms. The north side has 67.5 cleared acres and the south side (home side) has 70 cleared acres. The 30.7 acres of tobacco will be divided on a pro rata basis governed by the crop control rules and regulations.

All of these farms have excellent locations in the Winterville section. There are no nicer farms anywhere. Your inspection of these farms is invited.

Pitt Directors Of Tuberculosis Association Met

The Board of Directors of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association held their annual meeting at the American Legion Home last night.

The dinner was given by President J. H. Waldrop.

Acting Pitt County Health Officer Dr. T. G. Basnight reported on the tuberculosis activities in Pitt County from September 1949 to September 1950. He stated that there were 48 white and 61 colored cases of tuberculosis, with 69 white and 71 colored inactive cases in the county during that time. Of the reported number, 20 white patients and 35 colored were in sanatoriums, with a waiting list of three white and eight colored persons.

Thirty-seven patients are receiving further study. In the past year there were six deaths among white patients and 15 colored.

During the year, 1,558 additional X-rays were made; 939 of which were rechecked from the mass X-ray drive in 1949. Also, 619 X-rays were made of those with whom the active cases had been in contact with.

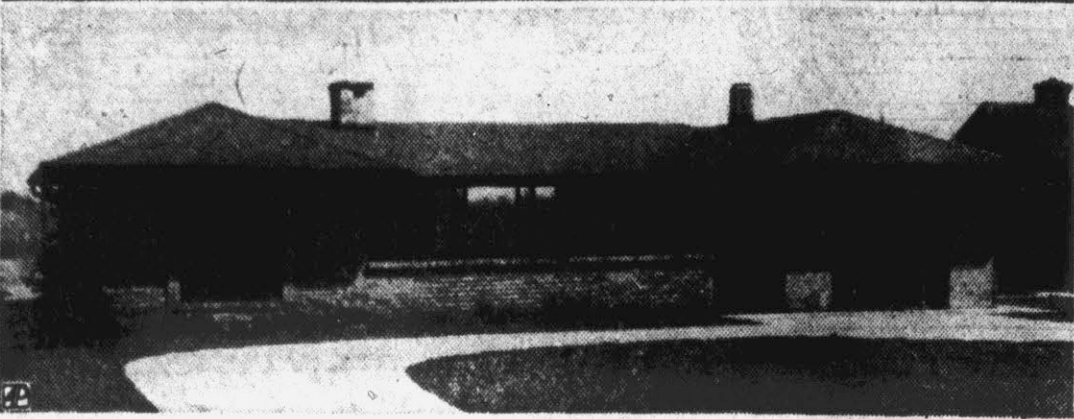

A treasurer's report from Larry E. Brown revealed receipts of $6,448.80 for the year with disbursements of $8,002.53; the deficit being taken care of out of a previous balance. The report was accepted by the group.

Attention was called to the recent North Carolina Tuberculosis Association News Letter report on the current death rate over the state, which showed Pitt County having the third highest death rate from the disease of any county in the state. The county's record was 50.2 deaths per 100,000 with the average being 32.6.

President Waldrop explained that the main purpose of the group is to take preventive measures to help curb the rising trend in tuberculosis in Pitt County before it reaches a serious stage. This is done by radio and press, speeches aimed at making people conscious of the menace afforded by tuberculosis.

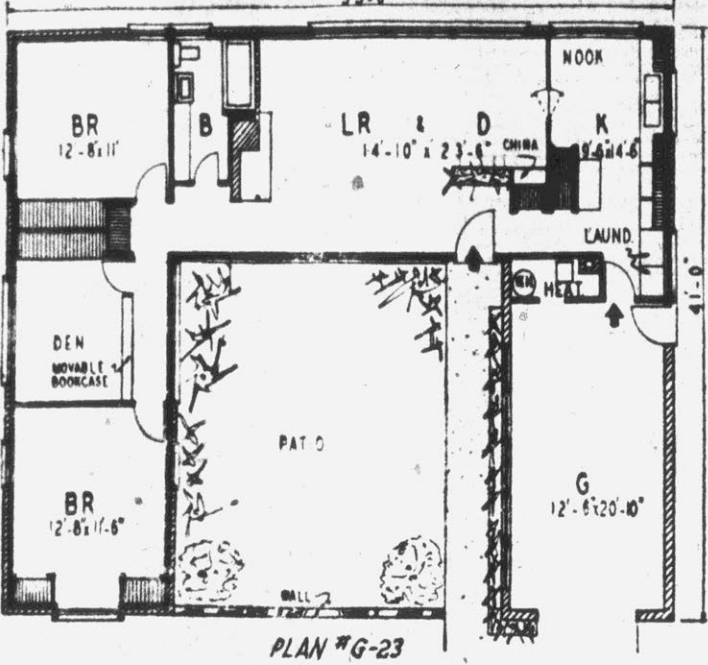

The board went on record last night as unanimously recommending to the county commissioners that they retain the Tucker Building for use by the Pitt County

TO CUT COSTS wherever possible, C. H. Goodall, 2116 Monroe St., LaPorte, Ind., designed this brick veneer house to accommodate a family with limited budget. This interesting rambler, Plan G-23, was built and sold in Indiana for $10,000, including garage and land. Window walls of double pane insulating glass feature the 14 by 23-foot living room. A corner fireplace is built at one end of this room. A movable bookcase creates the den, which can serve as a child's room. Later the bookcase can be swung against the wall to provide a second living room or study.

Health Department.

A sum of $1,000 also was appropriated to be used by the Pitt County Welfare Department to supplement the care of needy TB patients in the county. However, not more than $150 can be spent on any one patient.

The entire board of directors were re-elected at the meeting last night: President, J. H. Waldrop; vice-president, Mrs. J. P. Davenport; treasurer, Larry E. Brown, Mrs. J. Bryan Brown was elected secretary during the sale, and a salary of $35 per week for a 40 hour schedule was set up.

Waldrop then reminded the citizens of Pitt County that the funds with which the medical forces in the county fight tuberculosis are derived from the solicitations conducted during the sale drives. A seal drive will get under way sometime in the near future, Waldrop related.

The following directors were present: J. H. Waldrop, president, Miss Tabitha DeVosconti, Mrs. W. F. Stokes, R. H. Staton, Roy Turnage Jr., Mrs. J. T. Dupree, Dr. W. E. Marshall, Dr. P. P. Brooks, K. T. Futrell, Mrs. Jas. S. Picklen, S. B. Underwood Jr., Jos. S. Moye, Mrs. Jas. T. Little, Dr. T. G. Basnight, Larry E. Brown.

The following directors were absent: Sam D. Pundy, Jas. W. Joyner, Mrs. R. A. Fountain Jr., Mrs. Laurie H. Ellis, M. B. Hodges, Miss Lelia Higgs, Dr. J. M. Barrett, V. C. Fleming Jr., Errell Webb, Rev. Leon Russell.

Mrs. J. H. Thomas, president of the Service League, Mrs. David Evans, seal sale chairman, Mrs. Emily Johnston, county nurse, and Mrs. Novella M. Williams, of the Pitt County Health Department, met with the directors. Mr. Frank W. Webster, executive secretary, and Miss Sara Peatross, field director of the North Carolina Tuberculosis Association, sent regrets.

Minutes of meeting September 20, 1949, were read and approved.

Lanier Speaks In Norfolk Tonight

J. Con Lanier of Greenville, general counsel of the Leaf Tobacco Exporters Association and the Tobacco Association of United States, will address members of the Norfolk-Portsmouth Traffic Club in Norfolk tonight.

Lanier, who is recognized as one of the leading authorities on conditions surrounding the tobacco industry in the United States and abroad, will speak to the club on the present world situation in regard to the flue-cured tobacco industry.

The Norfolk-Portsmouth Traffic Club is an organization composed of all the major shipping interests in the Hampton Roads area.

Congress Plans Saturday Recess

Washington, Sept. 21—(P)—Congress trained its sights today on a recess by Saturday night until after Thanksgiving day—and the November elections.

Democratic and Republican leaders agreed to close up shop until Nov. 27 as soon as a few remaining "must" measures have been acted upon and President Truman signs or vetoes the Communist control bill the lawmakers sent to the White House last night.

Backers of that measure are confident of enough votes to override a veto, if one comes, and they are determined not to budge from town until the bill becomes law.

The drive to wind up this session Saturday killed all chance, Lucas said, for a senate vote before November on the house-passed Alaska and Hawaii statehood bills. The senate Democratic policy committee agreed, however, to take up the Alaska measure first when Congress returns. Second on the senate agenda: The Hawaii bill.

ing the plaintiff.

The accident occurred at the intersection of North Carolina highways 304 and 307 at Cash Corner in Pamlico County.

It alleges Mrs. Cannon was thrown into the windshield and front part of truck and was crushed by the force of the collision. She sustained a broken pelvis which, the complaint states, will not enable her to give birth to a child, and that the disability resulting from it will prevent her from ever working and earning a living in the future.

Making the total amount of the suit are $50,000 for loss of time at her job, personal injuries and medical expenses; $15,000 for mental anguish, pain and suffering; and $5,000 to cover costs of the action and other relief she may be entitled to.

U.S. Polio Toll Continues Climb

Washington, Sept. 21—(AP)—The number of U.S. polio cases reported last week showed the disease still is on its seasonal increase, the Public Health Service reported today.

There were 2,138 new cases reported last week, a 22 1/2 per cent rise over the preceding week. It was the sharpest increase of the year, the report said.

Radio Series Will Stress State's Lost Resources

The first of a series of radio broadcasts over WOTC will begin Saturday morning at 10:15 for the purpose of enlightening the public how much potential money the State is losing by not realizing its human, natural and social resources.

Called "The Silent Siren," which is also the general title of the entire 13 scheduled broadcasts, the 15-minute program is being sponsored by the Pitt Board of Education in conjunction with several departments of the State government.

The broadcasts were prepared by the North Carolina Resource-Use Education Commission and were recorded at the Communications Center at the University. Seven State agencies will participate in bringing the broadcasts to the radio public.

In describing the series of weekly programs, Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, stated:

"We are a rich State and the possibilities for progress was almost unlimited. We have the information and know-how available to put these resources to use. We feel that the programs in this series of 13 will bring (the radio public) much useful and interesting information."

Fourth Victim Here Of Heart Attacks

James C. Giles, 37-year-old itinerant tobacco warehouse worker, died at his rooming place, 107 West 16th Street, about 7 a.m. today.

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said the man had been under a doctor's care and his death was expected. He died of a heart ailment. Giles was a native of Lake City, S.C.

The coroner said one person each day since Sunday has died here of heart attacks.

REYNOLDS HEADS PROGRAM
Dr. John O. Reynolds will have charge of the program at the Greenville Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting Friday night at 6:30. President Tige Gardner will preside. A baseball project is expected to come up for discussion by the members.

state, the welfare superintendent added, average about $22 per person per month. Some counties with more available funds are enabled to make somewhat larger payments, Age Assistance grants.

and some are forced to make smaller ones.

"The Social Security Administration is in charge of the Old Age and Survivors' Insurance program," he continued. "For each insured worker, the Administration keeps a separate wage record, identified by his name and Social Security number. This record is necessary to determine what benefits may be due a worker or his family. To pay for this insurance, employees make a contribution from their earnings and the amount thus withheld from their wages is matched by their employers."

It is those workers covered under Old Age and Survivors' Insurance who will receive increased benefits, according to the welfare superintendent, and not those drawing Old Age Assistance grants.

TO THE PEOPLE OF GREENVILLE!

Every once in a while a picture comes along that is so unusual in its story and so heart warming in its family appeal that usual advertising methods cannot do the picture justice. For this reason, I am not using adjectives such as colossal, stupendous, etc. about "The Next Voice You Hear." Instead I urge you to see this picture that will tug at your heart, and perhaps help you to realize that there's really a lot of good in this old world after all!
