CIO Steel Union Plans Pay Demand

Serves Notice On Industry It Wants Almost Immediate Wage Boost

Pittsburgh, Sept. 22—(AP)—The CIO - United Steelworkers served formal notice on the steel industry today it wants an almost immediate wage boost for its million members. Formal notification letters to 1400 firms went into the mails shortly after Philip Murray, president of both the CIO and the Steelworkers, came from a meeting of the Steelworkers' executive board to announce the demands.

Murray didn't spell out in dollars and cents just what will satisfy the union.

The veteran white-haired labor leader said he'd leave that up to the union's wage policy committee which has been summoned to meet here October 4 and 5.

In his formal notification letter to employers, Murray declared: "Obviously, the national interest requires that we conclude a mutually satisfactory agreement at the earliest possible date."

There was no immediate comment from leaders in the war vital steel industry which is roaring toward new production records.

Announcement of the Steelworkers' demands came only a few hours after the Aluminum Company of America offered its 45,000 employees a 10 per cent wage boost.

The Steelworkers represent about 30,000 of Alcoa's 30,000 production workers.

Murray said the union will seek a conference Monday with Alcoa officials. Tomorrow the offer will be reviewed by the USW at a meeting here with local union leaders in the Alcoa plants.

The Alcoa offer, coming on the heels of pay increases in the auto and other industries, obviously will strengthen Murray's hand in negotiations with the steel industry.

The steel contracts call for wage increases November 1 of this year.

However, Murray requested the industry to move up the date to Oct. 9. He made it clear, however, the USW will live up to its contract terms if the industry isn't willing to concede.

There has been repeated speculation that Murray has held secret talks with Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the U. S. Steel Corporation, concerning a five-year contract tied to the cost of living.

Top strategists of the Steelworkers believe their ace in the hole in forthcoming talks with the industry is the fact they didn't get a wage increase last year. The Steelworkers ended a 42-day strike by passing up wage demands in lieu of an improved pension and welfare plan.

Veto Coming Up

Washington, Sept. 22—(AP)—Definite word came from the White House today that President Truman will issue a veto message, within a matter of hours, on the subversives control bill passed by Congress.

Lawmakers eager to start a vacation were ready to pass the bill over his veto and go home until Nov. 27.

Eben Ayers, a White House press secretary, was asked by reporters: "When will the veto message be ready?" His reply was some time after noon.

The bill passed the House this week on a 512 to 20 vote and in the senate by 51 to 1. In both cases the margins were well beyond the two-thirds vote needed to override Presidential objections.

America's proposal for a U. N. Security force will, if implemented, prove the greatest boon the peace organization could experience.

Thus far the United Nations has been impotent to carry out the mission for which it primarily was created: Maintenance of peace. It has been equipped only with moral suasion, and has lacked the physical power to compel aggressors to obey its injunctions.

It's a sad commentary on our times, but law can't be maintained in our hard-fisted world without police. Some day, it is to be hoped humanity will be so reformed that police won't be needed, and we shall have Utopia. But meantime the display of force—and sometimes its use—will be necessary.

The United States proposal was submitted to the U. N. General Assembly by Secretary of State Acheson. It calls on all members to furnish contingents for an international army to crush aggression anywhere and everywhere.

This call applies equally to non-Communist countries belonging to the peace organization.

But that isn't all. Acheson further proposed the creation of a

House Approves Tax Legislation

Quick Senate Passage Expected To Put 'First Installment' Tax Boosting Bill Before Truman Before Day Is Done

Washington, Sept. 22—(AP)—The House shouted overwhelming approval today of a "first installment" tax-boosting bill to help pay for the costs of arming against Communist aggression. Quick Senate passage was expected to put it on President Truman's desk by nightfall.

A roll call vote of 328 to 7 sped the bill through the House.

Mr. Truman already has expressed himself as well pleased with the measure, and is expected to sign it immediately, even though its estimated annual revenue of $4,700,000,000 falls short of the $5,000,000,000 he asked two months ago.

Shortly before the vote was taken, it was announced in the House that Chairman Doughton (D-NC) has called the Ways and Means Committee to meet tomorrow. The plan is to map out procedure for bringing out a multi-billion dollar excess profits tax on which Congress can vote when it comes back in November.

Democrats and Republicans alike went on record, in closing debate, as favoring passage of such a tax then.

Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, the House Republican leader, issued a formal statement also. He said Republicans agreed to a recess of Congress this week-end "but insist we come back and in the extra session pass an excess profits tax."

This tax, Martin said, "should make provision for reasonable and proper reconversion allowances, but should rule out profiteering by anyone."

Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn.) told the House that the present bill is "only the first step in getting revenues so vitally needed" to pay for the Korean war and the armament program.

It will bring the Korean war and the big rearmament program close to every American family. The government nine days from now will begin taking about one-fifth more taxes—after allowing for exemptions—out of every worker's pay.

ECTC Budget Request Given Advisory Group

Messick And Business Manager Due To Appear Before Commission

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 22—(AP)—Four North Carolina colleges today were scheduled to present their budget requests for the 1951-53 biennium before the advisory budget commission.

The schools are Eastern Carolina Teachers College, Negro A. and T. College, Western Carolina Teachers College and Pembroke State College for Indians.

President John D. Messick and business manager F. D. Duncan, of East Carolina Teachers College were in Raleigh today to present their requests before the commission this morning.

This afternoon, the commission was to hear from the State Board of corrections and its training schools.

The commission also was to hear this afternoon a request for a $3,000,000 state grant to start a four-year college at Charlotte.

Today's session will wind up a full week of hearings by the commission. After a weekend rest, the commission will resume the hearings Monday and continue them through next Wednesday.

The commission is listening to budget requests from the various state agencies and institutions preparatory to making its recommendations to the 1951 general assembly.

Among the agencies which presented budget requests at yesterday's hearing was the department of conservation and development.

The department requested $1,857,401 for the first year of the biennium and $1,881,297 the second. This year, its budget is $1,281,233.

It also asked for a permanent improvement appropriation of 2,386,670 for construction work at State Parks.

They eliminate 80-85 percent of the fly ash, Swartz stated, allowing the rest of the gases and mineral matter to go out the top.

The latter materials cannot be burned up, he said.

There is no town in the surrounding area which uses any more up-to-date or expensive equipment in their plants to eliminate smoke, Swartz reported. Only by the installation of electrical precipitators can any more percentage of smoke be disposed of.

To install them would cost the Utilities $200,000, "which is prohibitive," Martin said.

Also, Swartz said, they would increase the elimination only by five or ten percent, cost an additional $1,000 per month to operate the

Civil Court Term To Open Monday

Four civil suits against Charles L. Whitfield, Jr., convicted of the deaths of three persons in an automobile accident last February, head the Superior Court civil calendar next week.

Scheduled for trial under Judge Chester Morris next Wednesday, three of the suits have been instituted by Thomas Earl Venters as administrator and the fourth by him as next friend.

Venters was the husband of Mrs. Thomas Venters who was killed along with her mother, Mrs. Rosa Sutton, the night of February 20 as the result of a collision with the Whitfield car. Venters' daughter, Rose Marie, died the following day after being taken to the hospital.

The four suits total over $46,000. Representing Whitfield will be the law firm of James and Speight, Sam O. Worthington will represent the plaintiff.

Thirteen other cases will be heard during the three-day term. Seven of them are divorce actions.

Top Soviet Delegates To UN Walk Out On Dewey

New York, Sept. 22—(AP)—Andrei Y. Vishinsky and Jacob Malik walked out of a United Nations dinner last night when Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said in a speech that the Soviet Union holds millions of slave laborers "under conditions which amount to torture unto death."

As the heads of the Russian U. N. delegation strode off the dais, Dewey remarked:

"I must say I am complimented by the withdrawal of those who plot the destruction of the world." There were cheers in the audience.

Vishinsky and Malik maintained a stony silence as they left the Waldorf-Astoria dinner given for U. N. assembly delegates by the city of New York.

The Soviet exit began as Dewey reached the mention of slave labor, Vishinsky and Malik were off the dais by the time Dewey finished the sentence.

Ewing Blasts Practices Of AMA In Union Talk

Houston, Sept. 22—(AP)—Oscar Ewing, Federal Security Administration, told the American Federation of Labor today opponents of the government's public health program are "stupid and dangerous."

The chief opponent, he said in an address prepared for the 69th annual AFL convention, is the American Medical Association. Ewing declared the AMA is hiring professional propagandists for large sums.

Ewing said the AMA has raised $1,100,000 through a compulsory levy on its members "in a drive to defeat every liberal-minded candidate for office this year."

In addition, said Ewing, the AMA has the promise of $19,000,000 more "chipped in by business firms, manufacturers, patent medicine companies, insurance companies, railroads and power companies."

Ewing said the money would be better spent on new facilities to train medical students, and added:

"This would normally have been a time when, in all decency, the doctors' trade association might have been concerned itself with the dreadful shortage of medical personnel x x x We have had to resort to a draft law in order to make sure that we will have medical personnel in sufficient quantities for the needs of our armed forces."

Last Ditch Fight By Reds Looms As Seoul Cut Off From Reinforcements

Inspect Stolen Truck After Chase In City

Greenville police cars last night intercepted and gave chase to a pick-up truck occupied by an escaped convict from Pitt county which had been stolen previously in Beaufort county. The man led the officers over the eastern part of the city, finally turning into a dead end street off 14th street near the Perkins Oil Company, where he fled. In the above picture, Detective Lt. M. E. Corbett, and Captain S. B. Dorsey inspect the truck for fingerprints a few minutes following the chase. (Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee.)

Prison Fugitive Returned To City, Escapes In Wild Chase

The Pitt County prisoner who escaped from a prison camp truck in the heart of the Greenville business district Wednesday morning returned to Greenville last night after making his way out of a police dragnet set for him in a wooded section of Beaufort County.

Law enforcement officers from several Eastern Carolina counties were moving in for what was expected to be the "kill" after trailing the prisoner all yesterday afternoon. The posse, composed of highway patrolmen, sheriff's deputies, ABC officers and others, led by bloodhounds, were tracking the man towards Washington when they received a report that a fish truck had been stolen by a man answering the prisoner's description. The man, Peter F. Baxter, broke into two houses in the Beaufort County section, stole clothing and food, and possibly firearms.

Then he stole a bicycle and traveled several miles before leaving the wheel and a better raincoat which had been his only clothing since he stole a car in Greenville. The car was later found abandoned, but was in running condition.

Shortly after 9 o'clock, a radio report from Washington stated that the stolen red and white pickup truck was seen headed in the direction of Greenville on U.S. 264 City police cars dispatched to the area met the car coming into Greenville. At once the cars turned to give chase. One car, occupied by Detective M. E. Corbett and Captain S. B. Dorsey, pulled up alongside the vehicle and ordered the truck driver to pull over to the side. When so ordered, the man cut his truck in front of the car and sped down the road with the car in pursuit. From Tenth Street there began a wild chase at high rates of speed over various city streets as the convict attempted to shake the officers from his heels. By this time a second patrol car was in on the chase. Pursuing officers related that the driver nearly lost control of the truck several times, before he finally reached a dead-end street off 14th Street by the Perkins Oil Company.

Before the truck stopped rolling the driver leaped from the truck and fled into thickets nearby. The truck came to rest about two feet from a deep ditch.

As a general alarm was sounded, reports came in telling of the man being seen along the railroad tracks nearby. Prison camp dogs picked up the man's trail and traced him down the railroad tracks to the overpass on Dickinson Avenue. In the meantime the man was spotted by several other persons in the general area.

Then began an all-night search by combined law enforcement officers in this region, aided by a Beaufort County officer and state patrolmen. While cars were combing every road in the vicinity, the dogs trailed the man along the Farmville highway, then to the Kid Tyson farm. Sheriff Tyson reported that the tracks of the man were then picked up and at times he was moving along in his bare feet, having removed his heavy prison shoes.

Trailing the man was fairly easy up until about three miles from Ballard's Crossroads, where the trail got "cold." It was reported.

A blow to the hopes that the man would be recaptured was struck about 6 a.m. today with the report that an automobile with a full front of gasoline had been stolen from a farm near Ballard's Crossroads early in the night. The car, a 1947 model, bore license number 347-633. It was theorized by officers that the car was taken around 12:30, even while officers were patrolling the highway looking for the man.

At 1 o'clock today there had been no report on the escaped prisoner though a general alarm had been spread over the state for him.

Members of the committee reported today that contributors are turning over more money to the fund this year than was the case last year. Chairman Ed E. Rawl commented this morning, "Never before have I gotten such enthusiastic reports from solicitors. I want to thank the merchants of Greenville for being so courteous to the members of the stadium committee and for being generous in their contributions to the ECTC Athletic Foundation."

"Prospects look very fine for ending this campaign either this week or early next week. It looks like we are sailing over the top and the committee members are out working today trying to meet the deadline for tonight."

The committee chairman said a definite report on the funds raised in the campaign will be available Monday.

Work continued today on the ECTC stadium committee drive for $7,500 to be used to support athletics at East Carolina Teachers College.

Communist Defenders Put Up Stone Barricades, Dig Trenches In Streets; Allied Forces Smash Out 20-Mile Advances From Both Beachheads

Tokyo, Sept. 22—(AP)—Allied Marines with bayonets and flame throwers battled 10,000 Korean Reds tonight on the near outskirts of Seoul.

Fleeing civilians said the communists are hastily putting up stone barricades and digging trenches in the streets for their last-ditch defense of the Korean capital.

The Red defenders in the city are isolated by allied deployments from getting outside reinforcements and their positions are under constant allied air bombing.

While bitter hand-to-hand fighting raged on two sides of the ancient city, allied forces smashed out 20-mile advances from both the old and new beachheads to cut off Red reinforcements for Seoul.

The airfield at Suwon, 20 miles south of the capital, fell to tank-led units of the U. S. Seventh Division rolling down from the Seoul front. Other elements entered Suwon city astride the major rail line and highway leading up from the rapidly expanding southeast beachhead.

Allied forces were punching ahead on all sectors of the southeast beachhead. In some sectors the Reds were retreating northward but in others they fought stubbornly. Hundreds surrendered or were taken prisoner.

AP Correspondent Don Whitehead, with American and South Korean marines outside Seoul, reported that by mid-afternoon Friday the marines had not entered Seoul proper but patrols were moving toward the city limits on the west side.

"The sprawling city of more than 1,000,000 national population may become one of the bloodiest battle-grounds of the Korean war," Whitehead reported. "The Reds are preparing for house-to-house fighting of a large part of the capital."

General Douglas MacArthur's grand strategy is to tie a noose around the Red's Seoul supply and distribution center and then crush the Korean Red army in the south between the arms of a giant pincer.

Unless well-organized reinforcements can break through from the north, it looked as though the clamps would close.

There was no further word on a 10th Corps Intelligence report Thursday that a mystery Red armored column from Manchuria was rolling southward.

Savagery of the fighting for Yongdungpo suburb indicated that a tough battle was in immediate prospect for the capital. But residents who fled Seoul said the Americans would be welcome. They said they were sick of the Red regime after 85 days under it.

A civilian complained: "Now I know what international love means. It means you must give everything to the Communists—including the corn and rice before it is ripened."

The U. S. First Cavalry Division's 20-mile northward thrust was the biggest breakthrough.

The Eighth Army Friday called it the greatest single day's advance thus far in the eight-day allied offensive.

The Cavalry's tank-led motorized task force drove from a point near Tabu, 13 miles north of Taegu, almost to the Nakdong River, seven miles southeast of Sangju. Sangju is a key rail and highway junction on the Seoul route.

The task force covered six miles in six hours at the outset. It by-

To Curb Communists

An Explanation Of What The Communist-Control Bill Passed Out By Congress Is Intended To Do If It Operates As Intended; Complicated Legislation

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Sept. 22—(AP)—This is a 1-2-3 explanation of what the new Communist-control bill, just passed by Congress, sets out to do. It will become law if President Truman signs it or if he vetoes it and Congress re-passes it over the veto.

The bill does not outlaw the Communist party. So it does not make being a Communist or sympathizer illegal. Its stated purpose is to: Force Communists and their sympathizers into the open; prevent spying and sabotage; keep Communists out of government jobs and defense plants; give the government power to intern Communists in a wide roundup during war or emergency; deport Communist aliens; and keep such aliens out.

Whether this bill as law could do what it proposes to do—or would be worse in some ways than no such law at all—is a matter of argument. Some of the bill's critics say certain parts of it would hamper, not help, Communist-control. And they say the bill, in the end, might hurt innocent people and damage civil liberties.

One thing is certain: This is not a simple bill but a complicated one.

If Implemented, American Proposal Would Be Greatest Boon Peace Organization Could Experience; Outline Of What It Entails; Could Bypass Security Council

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

America's proposal for a U. N. Security force will, if implemented, prove the greatest boon the peace organization could experience.

Prison Term For Convicted Spy

Greenville, Tenn., Sept. 22—(AP)—Alfred Dean Slack today was sentenced to 15 years in a federal prison for wartime spying for Soviet Russia.

Judge Robert L. Taylor in pronouncing sentence termed Slack's espionage activities for Russia "shocking."

The judge thus ignored the government's recommendation for a 10-year sentence for Slack, who pleaded guilty last Monday and begged for mercy.

Correspondent Is Told To Leave

Prague, Sept. 22—(AP)—William N. Oatis, chief of the Prague Bureau of the Associated Press, was told today that he must leave Czechoslovakia by a week from tomorrow.

His three-month foreign correspondent's accreditation to the foreign Ministry runs out that day. Bedrich Runge, deputy director of the Ministry's press department told him it would not be renewed and he must get out when it expired.

Frances Kittrell Bride Elect Entertained At Dessert Bridge

At her home on West Fourth street, Mrs. Durward Tucker was a gracious hostess at a dessert bridge on Wednesday night complimenting Miss Frances Kittrell.

Upon entering the house the guests were welcomed by the hostess and the honoree. They found their places at card tables arranged in the living room. Each table was marked with a burning yellow candle in a silver holder tied with yellow tulle. The candlestick was charmingly entwined with dainty green vines in which tiny lavender flowers were placed. White linen cloths covered the tables.

The hostess served a delicious sweet course of Brazilian pie and salted nuts when the guests first arrived. Mrs. E. Lee Moore and Mrs. Frank Bendall assisted Mrs. Tucker in serving.

Following the refreshment hour bridge was played at four tables. At the conclusion of progressions, Mrs. Charles Braswell was awarded the floating prize and Miss Elizabeth Kittrell was presented with a prize for high score.

Miss Kittrell was given a gift of china in her selected pattern and wore a corsage composed of white baby mums and tiny lilies given to her by Mrs. Tucker.

Remembered also by the hostess was Miss Dorothy Suggs Ormond, bride-elect, with a gift of crystal and Mrs. William McGee Tucker, recent bride and daughter-in-law of the hostess, with a gift of china.

Pactolus P.T.A. Plans Year's Work

Committee chairmen placed before the local P.T.A. their plans of work for the coming year. They were voted on and accepted by the organization at its first meeting of the year which took place in the Community Building Tuesday night.

Mrs. C. Paul Harris, president, presented an interesting program was presented by Mrs. W. F. Little who is serving as program chairman.

Group singing was conducted prior to the business period by Mrs. Paul Davenport, Sr., chairman of music committee.

It was stated that the two outstanding objectives of the year will be improvement of the high school library and beautification of the school grounds.

Reports which sound most promising for an interesting and progressive year for Pactolus P.T.A. came from the following committees represented: art, visual education, character and spiritual education, grounds, publicity, music, membership, lunch room, hospitality, safety, program, room representatives, mental hygiene and legislation.

After the meeting adjourned an informal reception was held honoring the new teachers. Iced punch and cookies were served.

Miss Whitehurst Feted At Bridge

Miss Thorburn Whitehurst, bride-elect of September, was honored at a miscellaneous shower and bridge party when Miss Emily Jean Rice entertained at her home on Washington street Thursday evening.

Miss Whitehurst was given a corsage of white chrysanthemums by the hostess when she arrived.

The home was lovely with fall flowers, bridal decorations and lighted candles. The mantel in the living room held an attractive arrangement of ivy and candles and was centered with a bride doll.

A dessert course of ice cream, nuts and bridal cakes in colors of pink, green and white was served.

After several progressions of bridge the honoree was surprised with a shower of miscellaneous gifts from the guests.

Miss Rice presented the honoree a gift of silver. Mrs. W. R. Denton, a recent bride, was also remembered with a gift of silver.

Miss Lytle Batchelor won the high score prize and Miss Carolyn Rowlette, the floating prize. Sharing table prizes were Misses Barbara Ann Larkins, Lucile Laughinghouse and Eleanor Norris.

Invited guests for the refreshment hour were Mrs. Allie Whitehurst, Mrs. M. O. Minges and Mrs. Bobby Gaylor.

40 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
September 22, 1910

Mr. L. R. Whichard, a merchant of Whichard, was in town today and showed us two very old British coins. They were coined in 1739, making them now 171 years old.

Nineteen years ago, September 23, the Greenville Tobacco market had its first sale. During the summer of that year, a stock company was organized and the old Greenville warehouse was built on the site now occupied by the Norfolk Southern R. R. as a depot. Only two men now connected with the market were here at the beginning, Mr. G. F. Evans and Mr. O. L. Joyner.

Christian Church Announcements
At the Christian church Sunday morning the pastor will preach on the theme, "Have Modern Christians Lost Their Courage?" and the choir under the direction of Mrs. Herbert L. Carter will sing the anthem, "More Love To Thee" by Reed.

The Sunday School will observe Promotion Day when every department will graduate its senior class to the next higher department. The highest ranking class in the beginning, primary, junior and intermediate departments will be promoted to the department immediately above. Department leaders are as follows: Mrs. W. H. Woolard, Jr., Mrs. W. L. Allen, Mrs. Nelson Bowden, Mrs. J. W. Tetterton, for the respective departments, beginner to junior. A tribute of honor will be paid to all educational workers.

Sunday, October 1, is Rally Day in the Sunday School when every class is expected to strive for 100 percent attendance to begin the new quarter and Sunday School year beginning with the first Sunday in October.

Also with the Christians of all denominations around the world this first Sunday in October is kept as World Communion Sunday. Every loyal Christian of all churches everywhere is urged to sense the bond of unity of Christ's followers around the world on that day.

The various groups of young people, Chi-Rho, (intermediate), C.Y.F. and the Disciples Student Fellowship will unite Sunday evening at 6:30 for the showing of the film "What Happened to Jo Jo." This is a 30 minute film that all will enjoy and the parents and friends are invited.

DEATH OF INFANT

Lloyd Ray Jones, five-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Jones, died at Pitt General Hospital yesterday at 3:30 p.m. Funeral services will be held at Clark's Greenville Funeral Home, 1206 Dickinson avenue, Saturday at 3 o'clock. Burial will be in the Gritton cemetery.

Joint Hostesses Give Luncheon For Brides Elect

The Hotel Proctor was the scene of a lovely luncheon on Thursday when joint hostesses entertained for Miss Dorothy Suggs Ormond and Miss Frances Kittrell.

Mrs. Joe Moye, Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell and Mrs. J. J. Perkins, the hostesses, met the guests in the lobby of the hotel when they arrived at 1 p. m.

They were introduced to the honorees and then invited into the dining room of the hotel. The honorees were wearing shoulder-derettes of white mums which were gifts from the hostesses.

The long table in the dining room was draped with a white cloth and decorated with a center arrangement of pastel asters in a low silver bowl. Bags of rice tied with silver wedding bells marked the places for the guests.

A four-course turkey dinner was served to the twenty guests who were present. The dessert, in the form of two cakes made of ice cream and topped with miniature brides and grooms, was cut and served by Miss Ormond and Miss Kittrell.

As bridal gifts the honorees were remembered with silver and china in their selected patterns.

P.T.A. Of Third Street School Holds Meeting

Mrs. W. L. Whedbee, president, presided over the first meeting of the new year when the Third Street School P. T. A. met on Wednesday.

Miss Marietta Northrup gave a brief meditation on "The Meaning of Prayer" and the group was led in prayer by Mrs. Sam Northrup.

The president, Mrs. Whedbee, conducted the business session which followed. She appointed her committees for the year and they are: Program—Mrs. Sam Northrup, chairman, Mrs. Burke Stancill and Miss Laura Foley.

Ways and Means—Mrs. Troy Dodson, chairman, Mrs. John Laws and Mrs. Vance Arnold.

Membership—Mrs. Van Johnston, chairman, with Mrs. Jasper Jones. Room Representatives—Mrs. Nelson Bowden.

Hospitality—Mrs. Ralph Sullivan, chairman, with Mrs. Lloyd Vincent. Publicity—Mrs. Joe Moye.

Miss Laura Foley gave a report on the P. T. A. Institute conducted at the college this summer, which was well attended by teachers of the city schools.

An announcement was made concerning the annual Halloween festival sponsored by the P. T. A. It will be held after a fashion followed during the past several years.

Mrs. Glenn Scott volunteered to serve as chairman of the welfare committee.

At the conclusion of the business session, the hospitality committee invited the members into one of the class rooms to enjoy a social hour. Punch and light refreshments were served, after which the parents were shown the new addition to the school.

Around fifty members were present.

Home Ec. Teachers Plan Fair Exhibit

The Pitt County Vocational Home Economic teachers met in a regular monthly session at 4 p. m. in the Home Economics Department of Greenville High School. Miss Nora Lee Hinnant of Bethel presided.

The teachers were given an opportunity to inspect the department and see the new Youngstown kitchens which have been recently installed.

Delicious refreshments were served by members of the Future Homemakers of America.

During the business sessions the Pitt County Fair exhibit plans were completed.

Mrs. Lillian Hart of Gritton and Mrs. Margaret Pearce of Belvoir were new teachers present. Student teachers from East Carolina Teachers College present were Misses Doris Stroud, Amaryllis Land and Thelma Hinson, Mesdames Bettie Giles, Lizzie Jackson and Ulma Smith.

The John Spinks Guests At Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Spinks, Jr., whose marriage took place in Baltimore in August, were honor guests at a buffet dinner when Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Whichard, Jr., Jack Whichard and D. J. Whichard III entertained on Thursday night.

The guests were welcomed at the door by the hosts and introduced to Mr. and Mrs. Spinks. Tomato juice was served in the living room before the guests were invited into the dining room for dinner.

The home throughout was enhanced by graceful arrangements of red lilies and blue ageratum. In the dining room a cut-work linen cloth was used on the table and the centerpiece was a low bowl filled with yellow chrysanthemums. On either side single holders contained glowing white tapers.

Misses Lillian Wooten and Dorothy Ormond, seated at either end of the table, served turkey and congealed salad. Guests served themselves from the accompanying dishes and retired to places in the living room and sun parlor. Assisting the hosts in serving was Mrs. D. M. Clark.

Mrs. Spinks, upon her arrival, was presented with a corsage of Tallam rose and Mr. Spinks wore a white boutonniere.

Mrs. Spinks is the former Edith Forbes of Baltimore. Mr. Spinks is a reporter for the Daily Reflector.

Twenty people were present as dinner guests.

Wednesday Hostesses Honor Brides Elect At Luncheon

An all-white color note was used in the dining room when Mrs. J. Key Brown and Mrs. M. L. Wright entertained at a luncheon on Wednesday.

The social event was held at the home of Mrs. Wright on East 4th street and honored Miss Frances Kittrell and Miss Dot Ormond, brides-elect. The luncheon guests were welcomed at the door by Mrs. Wright and greeted by Mrs. Brown, Miss Kittrell and Miss Ormond. The brides-elect were wearing unusual shoulder corsages made of white chrysanthemums resembling flower petals given to them by the hostesses.

The bride's table in the dining room was all white in appointments. It was covered with a linen cut work cloth and was graced by a centerpiece of white carnations and mums arranged with silver lace vine.

Mrs. J. B. Kittrell and Mrs. H. L. Ormond were seated at either end of the table and served barbecue and salad to the guests. From a side buffet Mrs. Dan Wright served vegetables. Assisting with the hot breads, coffee, and dessert were Mrs. J. H. Blount, Mrs. Fred Forbes, Sr., Mrs. Helen White Hawes, Mrs. S. T. White and Mrs. H. L. Rivers.

The guests found their places at auxiliary tables placed in the living and sun rooms. Here mixed flowers in fall colors were attractively used as decorative notes. Twenty-six guests were present. Mrs. Brown remembered the honorees with plates in their selected china patterns, and from Mrs. Wright they each received pieces of antique china.

Funeral Services For Mrs. F. A. Moore

Mrs. F. A. Moore, 70, died at General Memorial Hospital, Kinston, Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. She had been in declining health for the past several years. Mrs. Moore was the former Lula Elks, daughter of the late Jim and Katherine Elks.

She was born and reared in Beaufort County and for the past fifteen years had made her home in Pitt and Greene County.

Surviving: husband and four daughters, Mrs. Durand Brantley of New York, Mrs. James Easton of Hookerton, Mrs. Basil Tracy of Flint, Michigan and Mrs. Thomas Beamon of Snow Hill; five sons, L. A. Moore of Chocowinity, Linnie Moore of Ayden, Lum Moore of Hookerton, Leroy Moore of Arapahoe, Luther Moore of Snow Hill; twenty-one grandchildren, and one great grandchild.

Funeral services were conducted from Clark's Greenville Funeral Home today at 2:30 p.m. Interment followed in the Snow Hill Cemetery.

Tweed Fleeces Make Fall News

ALL-AMERICAN... This is the American look for 1951. At left is the cone-shaped casual coat in black, gray and gold plaid fleece; at right, the short Chesterfield in beige and brown checked fleece. Both are in the new fluffy tweed fleeces designed by Forstmann. Detail of the new coating fabrics are shown in center insert.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor
Top news of the season in U. S. fashions is fabric.

While the silhouette remains substantially the same as last season, the range of dramatic new fabrics is practically unlimited. American mills are turning out handsome woolsens and silks equal to anything Europe has produced, in the opinions of many experts.

Particularly in the woolen field interest is high. Featherweight tweeds and deep pile fleeces, fine worsted and yarn-dyed flannels are rolling off the looms in dazzling variety, to supply the materials for Mrs. U. S. A.'s fall suits and coats.

High in favor for winter coats and ensembles are the strictly new tweed fleeces, which are warm but light-weight pile woolsens in tweed patterns. They are being used for colorful, casual sports coats and often are coordinated with solid-tone suitings.

Board Of Pitt Future Homemakers Plans County Rally Set For Sept. 28

The Executive Board of the Pitt County Future Homemakers of America met September 8 at 4 p.m. in the Home Economics Department of Greenville High School. The purpose of the meeting was to make plans for the county rally which is to be held at Bethel on September 28, at 4:00 p.m. An interesting feature for the program will be Toddy Smith's account of her trip to the National FHA convention in Kansas City as a delegate. There will also be stunts on the program presented by the Chicod and Greenville chapters.

The Executive Board cordially invites all Future Homemaker members to attend and enjoy the rally. The Greenville chapter had the Executive Board and the Home Economics teachers of the county for tea in their new food laboratory. Those members of the Executive Board present for the meeting were Zula Mae Boyd and Mary Burgess, Grimesland; Shirley Newton and Margaret Allen, Farmville; Nadine Morris and Margie Pollard, Belvoir; Barbara Worthington and Betsy Costello, Winterville; Toddy Smith, Lecky McWhorter and Jeanne Cullifer, Bethel; Doris Salmon and Jo Ann Padley, Ayden; and Bobbie Anne Smith and Ruth Whitford, Chicod.

N. C. Merchants Oppose Increased Telephone Rates

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 22—(AP)—Increased rates sought by Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph companies have come under fire from Tar Heel Merchants.

The board of directors of the North Carolina Merchants Association, meeting here yesterday, adopted unanimously a motion opposing the higher rates.

The board decided to file a formal protest to the state Utilities commission.

Furthermore, the board directed Thompson Greenwood, its executive secretary, to appear before the commission Monday when a hearing will be held on the rate boost sought by the Carolina company.

Gala Events Being Planned For Annual Alumni Homecoming

Alumni of East Carolina Teachers College who will return to the campus Saturday, October 14, for the annual Homecoming Day celebration will be welcomed in a series of gala events now being planned by a committee headed by Alumni Secretary Ruth Garner and Dean of Women Ruth White, co-chairmen of the committee in charge. Invitations to attend were mailed this week to former students throughout the state and elsewhere. It is expected that this year's program will bring a large number of alumni back to their alma mater.

Events announced for the day will begin with a meeting of the Alumni Association Council at 10:00 Saturday morning in the Austin building. Approximately thirty chapter presidents from various sections of the state will confer with association officers and members of the faculty advisory committee on plans for 1950-1951 and on a major association project for the present school year. Mrs. Mildred Harrison Bullard of Wilson, president of the Alumni Association, will preside.

A luncheon in the North Dining hall is being arranged under the direction of Dean of Men W. E. Marshall. Reservations will be received through October 7 by the Alumni Office of the college. Mrs. Garner has announced. A program of informal entertainment is being planned. George E. Perry of the faculty of the department of music will be presented during the afternoon in a recital on the new $30,000 pipe organ installed during the summer months in the Austin auditorium. Members of the Teachers Playhouse, college dramatic club, will appear in a production of "The Boor," one-act comedy by Chekhov, with Janice Perry of Louisville and Elmer Williams of Washington in the leading roles.

A parade along the campus drive-ways will be a chief attraction of the afternoon. Participating will be the Air Force ROTC unit and the 70-piece college band. Alexander E. Livesay of Rocky Mount, president of the Student Government Association, heads a group of students who will decorate campus buildings and a number of floats for the parade.

flated level with a new round of wage demands and a subsequent general price-rise just around the corner. The whole ridiculous procedure reflects a general lack of restraint and recklessness on the part of labor and management, as well as near-criminal indifference on the part of government in times of economic uncertainty. At a time when this country is about to begin a vast program of re-arming on a scale of emergency proportions, conscienceless profiteers are willing to seize any excuse to justify higher price levels. It spreads like magic. At the same time, the Great White Chief in his Washington tepee is unwilling to forestall this obvious trend by an excess profits tax or by the application of any one of a host of other procedures designed to keep the economy within reasonable bounds. Thomas B. McCabe, chairman of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System warns symptoms of inflation are evident and alarming. He warns that inflation is the most pressing internal problem before the country today. McCabe wants a tax system which would go as far as possible toward putting the defense effort on a pay-as-you-go basis, and says "I think it imperative that there be strong public support for higher taxes all along the line." We think so too, Mr. McCabe; but higher taxes alone won't solve the problem. This country should give up its "politics as usual" motto and buckle down to the kind of effort that whipped the Kaiser, Mussolini, Tojo and the Nazi hordes of Hitler. It isn't a game we're playing, this is a matter of survival.

Strength for the Day

BY EARL L. DOUGLAS THEREFORE REJOICE Dwight L. Moody used to preach that God stood behind the sinner with a double-edged sword, ready to hew him down. One day when he was preaching in Dublin, Moody met a young English evangelist named Henry Moorhouse. The great American preacher was unimpressed by the young Englishman, but agreed if he came to America he could preach one Sunday in Moody's church. Moody thought so little of him that he arranged that the sermon be preached on a Sunday when he himself was to be absent from the pulpit. Upon his return, Moody found everyone talking about the young Englishman. So the old evangelist went to a meeting and sat himself down, intent upon finding out just what it was this youngster had. To his amazement he found him preaching on just one theme, namely, that God loves the sinner. He is not standing behind him with a two-edged sword, ready to hew him down. Instead, he is behind him with love, and the sinner is running away from his love so freely offered. Moody, after listening to Moorhouse for a few evenings, gave up his former ideas and after that preached as the young Englishman did, that God is love. It made a vast difference on the preaching of the older man and greatly added to the power of his message. Too often we eringe in fear before God. Certainly the Most High does not want this. "God is love." That Biblical declaration should fill us with assurance.

Maybe We Could Walk Instead Of Run

Business of all kinds is moving at a rapid pace in this modern world. The tobacco selling business, which used to occupy people for four or five months of the year, is now an exception to the rule. The auctions have been pushed, the farmers urged to bring their tobacco to market as rapidly as possible, and the crop which the farmer spent months growing is whisked away from the packhouses to the factories in a few short weeks. Time was, and not so long ago, when the farmers were advised to hold their tobacco and not sell early during the season. Tobacco was sold at auction from September through December, and sometimes the market continued until after the first of the year in eastern North Carolina. With the shut-down on the tobacco markets in North Carolina, people are realizing the haste with which the crop is being sold this season has now caused the market to come to a complete stand-still. In the first 22 selling days of this season an estimated 55 per cent to 60 per cent of the entire tobacco crop has been marketed. It seems a little strange that we should rush through our harvest season at such a pace. The tobacco season lasts for only a few short weeks. The tobacco factories which employ hundreds of people operate at capacity for about the same length of time, and then lie idle for the remainder of the year. The peak of prosperity for a lot of the people employed in the tobacco industry in this area lasts during the short season, and from then on they depend upon relief doles for their livelihood. Although we of Pitt county have become accustomed to the procedure, it seems rather unbalanced. It seems to us a slowdown of the whole marketing system might prove beneficial to both the tobacco growers and to the tobacco purchasers, as well as to our whole system of economy in this area.

Who Will Stop That Wage-Price Spiral?

The United Steel Workers (CIO) is out for another increase, and who's to blame them! Past gains the union had enjoyed are pretty well depleted by the rising cost of living, and the workers face a larger income tax deduction in a matter of weeks. Meanwhile, the prospering industry does not have this twin hazard to profits. The cost of materials is edging upwards, but they do not yet stand in threat of a tax, which percentage-wise, would affect them as much as the working man. Nor is there a ceiling to the price they can charge for their products. The see-saw atmosphere of wages and prices has been noted many times in the recent past. Today, the general wage-price structure is dangerously perched at an in-

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR. This afternoon Okki Schutte, a representative of a German tobacco firm who is in Greenville to observe the Bright Leaf tobacco market, dropped by the store. Last month I wrote two columns about Okki, and promised to send them to his girl back in Germany. In the excitement of becoming a father, I had completely forgotten my promise. Incidentally, Wife Rachel and Nancy are getting along fine. The only trouble is that Nancy is almost two weeks old and doesn't have a little brother to play with. Okki had discovered that his girl had not received a copy of the columns I had written about him, so he wanted me to get him the copies. At the store he seemed interested in the hustle and bustle of our business. One of the greatest assets of living in Europe, judging from what Okki says, is that Europeans take life much easier than we do over here. Their theory is that life is too short to spend working yourself to death, so why not enjoy life more? The longer I live the more I believe in the European point of view. But all the time I am being converted, I'm still knocking myself out. Okki is mulling these days. A few weeks ago he bought a 1948 Ford, which he plans to sell when he gets ready to go back to Germany. When I asked him why he didn't take the car home, he said, "It takes too much petrol. I mean gasoline." In Germany, gas is about 20 cents higher a gallon than it is here. The Daily Reflector office was interesting to Okki. As we were walking out of the office I asked him to come over to the Post Office with me. We walked in and checked box 642. He questioned, "What do you call these?" "Post Office boxes," I said. "Why do you have them?" "Our mail is put in them, and we pick it up here. We rent these boxes for $3.00 a month." "And how much does it cost you if the postman brings the mail?" "Nothing." "Then why do you have post office boxes?" "Off hand, the only answer I could find was that you can get your mail sooner if you have a box. It seems, I told Okki, that Americans are always in a hurry. His logical reply was, "I have noticed that." By this time I was able to explain to Okki the advantage of being able to get your mail whenever you want it. Then I had to admit to myself that it takes much more effort to go get the mail than it does for the postman to bring it to your door. Okki really started me thinking about the mail box deal, but for the time being at least, I plan to keep our box. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C. NEW TAXES—Alonzo Edwards, member of the advisory budget commission, has repeatedly asked groups appearing to urge larger appropriations if they would be willing to pay the additional taxes required to get the money. He hasn't had very satisfactory answers. Thursday he changed the question a bit. James H. Clark, chairman of the medical care commission, was presenting the case for his agency. Edwards knew his man, Clark is a large taxpayer, but a willing one. Besides that, the business man, as state senator, and as member of the advisory budget commission for twelve of its hardest years, he has pretty accurate appraisal as how far the state can and will go in paying taxes. So, Edwards asked Do you think the people will pay the necessary new taxes to provide these expanded services? DEVELOPMENT—Mr. Clark replied, but did not directly answer. He didn't like the idea of "new" taxes, but thought some revision in current schedules might be in order. (His comments on the point were off the record and cannot be reported.) He says the people do not want, probably would not stand for, any curtailment of services. Then, straightening up to the last quarter-inch of his more than six-foot height, and with a gleam in his eye, he said: "I have complete confidence in the ability of North Carolina to carry on." North Carolinians are alert as never before, he said, to necessity of using and developing the almost unlimited resources of the state. CONTINUATION—Explaining that there is nothing new in the budget presented by the medical care commission, but that its sole purpose is to continue the program projected by previous general assemblies, he implied that as needs increase capacity to meet them also increase, and that full development of the state will bring the needed funds. It is a continuing, rather than a new, process. ESTHETIC—Spokesmen for the State Art Society and the State Symphony Society supported appeals for larger state appropriations by pointing out that art and music have a definite practical as well as esthetic value. Arguments were essentially the same as those presented by the library commission earlier in the week, embodying the accepted dictum that "man does not live by bread alone." Dr. Benjamin Swain, director of the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, said there is no way to determine how many people were helped by his programs. There is record of more than 75,000 children attending free concerts last year, of nearly as many paid admissions by adults in this state; but there is no way to compute the influence of broadcasts and recordings, or the world-wide distribution of one program through channels of the "Voice of America." HILL-BILLY—He was serious in pleading for support of presentation and recording of genuine North Carolina talent. The budgeteers laughed when he remarked that most hillbilly music was written in New York by folks who had never seen a hill or a billy goat. Then he commented that the amount requested from state funds for the symphony was perhaps less than the amount of taxes collected by the state on juke boxes. USUAL—Norman Cordon, one time featured singer in the world-famous New York Metropolitan, now on the university faculty at Chapel Hill, put in words of support for the symphony program. Governor Scott suggested a song might be in order, and Cordon obliged. The girls who work on the fifth floor of the revenue building heard him through the walls, came into the hearing room to ask for an encore. They got it, and Dr. Charles Jordan of Duke, president of the symphony society, suggested that was perhaps the most unusual and most effective request ever made for state funds. DIVERSITY—These budget commission hearings afford opportunity to get a cross section of North Carolina government. They also provide a lot of humor along with facts and philosophy.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

SCANDALOUS ATTACKS (Kinston Daily Free Press) The attack on General George C. Marshall in the debate in Congress over the question of waiving the provision in the unified defense act of 1947 to prohibit a military man, active or one who had been active within ten years, so that the great Chief of Staff of the United States Army in World War 2 could accept the place of defense chief, left vacant by the resignation of Louis Johnson, was one of the most scandalous in the history of the country. Some of the Republican congressmen and senators—die-hards—who took the floor of their respective bodies to denounce the appointment of General Marshall, overstepped the mark of decency, justice and truth. Some refrained from criticizing General Marshall personally, but expressed fear that to rescind or waive the

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER In the opinion of many business men, the inventory controls made effective this week mean only one thing: a warm-up for stiffer controls to come. The controls prohibit the buying, ordering, receiving or delivery of more than a "practical minimum" inventory of 32 materials and defines that as "the smallest quantity of material from which a person can reasonably meet his deliveries or supply his services on the basis of his currently scheduled method and rate of operation." Just what the National Production Authority means by "reasonably" is not clear. What was a reasonable minimum in May may not be a reasonable minimum now, with both military and civilian orders piling up. But semantics is not the real reason the order means so little. The fact is that very few businesses have been able to accumulate inventories of scarce materials. Some have been able to increase their stockpiling from 30 to 45 days supply or from 60 to 90 days. But a lot of them are having trouble to keep operating. Many believe that the purpose of these rather loose controls is to condition manufacturers to NPA control and once they are conditioned, especially if the international situation worsens, rigid controls on historic and percentage bases will be imposed. The current control order may serve as a "warm up" in another way. Despite the difficulty most manufacturers are having to get enough materials to keep assembly lines moving, a few are suspected of having accumulated huge inventories for speculative purposes. The NPA can crack down on these hoarders. Their holdings may appear to be scandalously high. Business men who now resent controls will say, "That's why I haven't been able to get enough!" Then it will appear that business, not the government, is clamoring for more rigid controls and it will be an easy matter to tighten them up. If this is the plan, it does not convict the NPA of Machiavellian plotting. If rigid controls are necessary to the security of the country, business, like recruits, have to go through "basic." ONE PRICE CUT. ANOTHER FROZEN In the midst of general price increases, Great Lakes Carbon Corp. has announced a 10 to 25 per cent cut in Permalite building aggregates and Charles Pizer and Co. have announced prices of citric acid will remain frozen for a year. Now if you can figure a way to live on Permalite and citric acid— SHIPPING "INCOMPLETES" SAVES WAREHOUSING A dealer writes to ask why a supplier sends him electronic equipment without scarce tubes. But unless the gods of battle send a bullet through that letter I feel sure the private's little cabaret girl will fare better than did Madame Butterfly when this noisy time is past. (This is the first of two columns on this subject.) Washington Letter By JANE EADS The oysters Rockefeller, salmon glace, venison roasts, the pates de foie gras and pheasant in aspic that have distinguished previous snacks of Washington's Epicurean Club meeting were conspicuously absent at its last big buffet. Armond Visson, chef of a local hotel, who entertained the group, instead put out potato soup, stewed tripe, stewed rabbit and les pieds paquets. Translated from the French, the last-named high-sounding dish was nothing more than pigs' feet. Here's the way he fixes them: boil them till the meat drops from the bone. Chop meat fine, skin and all. You'll have more gelatin than you need, so chop in a little shoulder meat—or any cheap cut of pork. Mix with salt and black pepper. Dry mustard and shallots. If you don't get shallots, onions will do. Mold the mixture into cakes. Bake slowly until well-browned. Serve with a brown gravy highly seasoned with pepper and shallots (onions will do here) too. "Eat," says Mr. Visson, "and realize that there are delicate nuances obtainable from the sweet meat of the porker that are not to be had in roast pork." Dr. Ralph Linton, Yale University anthropologist, says a succession of "hereditary bureaucrats" is gradually beginning to develop in Washington. He believes that the government, generation after generation, will be run by sons and daughters of government workers. He says: "This will lead to more and more people in the government, to where eventually nearly everyone will be working for the government." Dr. Linton explains that children of government workers are being "bred up" on office routines and are learning from their parents the ropes of getting government jobs. But mainly, he says, the hereditary structure is being built because of low government salaries, which "are keeping fresh blood and better talent out of the government."

DOUBLE WEDDING

By Adelaide Humphries

Chapter 6
The day was to come when Stephanie would be able to look back and laugh at her first reaction to the new home Sandy had found for them. And, it was to be admitted, not only to the place itself, but its occupant, Sandy's uncle.

Stephanie had met a great many odd people through her mother, who always cultivated anyone at all unusual. But even with such groundwork, she was not prepared for a Quentin Vaughn.

When Sandy returned from his trip into the city to tell her they had been offered the hospitality of his uncle's room, Stephanie had pictured him, as one will without anything to build upon, as a nice kind old gentleman, mellowed with age and somewhat invalidated with arthritis.

After she met Uncle Quentin she was no longer so surprised. She supposed Sandy was well, a little bit ashamed of him. Not because he was such an odd person, but he was uneducated, loud, and flashy.

This was her first impression of Sandy's uncle, one she thought she was careful to hide. She was just a little ashamed of her feeling, as she supposed Sandy was too. Stephanie was not a snob, but Sandy's uncle was, to put it mildly, impossible.

His home—their home now, at least temporarily—was almost as bad. It was in one of those converted houses, what had once, in better days, been considered a fine old mansion—actually an architectural monstrosity—in a neighborhood that had also seen happier days. All of the houses that had not been torn down to make room for business pressing in on all sides had been made over into boarding places or apartments.

The particular one in which Sandy's uncle had a pint-sized portion of the top floor was, she supposed, no worse—no darker or dingier or more pathetic—than any of the rest. What amazed Stephanie was that apparently Sandy thought it was all right.

"Here we are," Sandy said. "It may not be very elegant, but I hope you will try to like it. After all, it constitutes our first home, Stevie." His voice sounded deliberately gay, as if he had made up his mind to be gay at any cost.

To Stephanie's surprise, he stooped down and swept her up in his arms before she could answer, and carried her across the threshold.

She tried to match his mood, although she felt far from gay. Already that sense of dismay was beginning to get the better of her.

She said in a forced, cheerful voice as he put her on her feet again. "Why, Sandy! It's—it's really very nice. It doesn't have to be elegant. You know better than that."

He had put her down in the middle of the living room. The hall had been another dark square with a long corridor off it leading, she supposed, to the other rooms. This, apparently, was the only one that opened onto the outside. It had two windows, covered with heavy lace cream curtaining and over those, still heavier flowered drapes. The carpeting was flowered, too, as were some of the covers of the assorted furnishings. Stephanie had never before seen all in one collection, so many different periods and styles and woods.

"It's cozy, isn't it?" Sandy said. He wore a wide grin. But he did not seem to be wearing it because he found his surroundings something worth grinning about; he actually looked as if he thought "cozy" an apt description.

Quentin said that we were not only to make ourselves at home, but that you were to go ahead and change things around to suit yourself." Sandy was saying. "I wouldn't think of changing anything," Stephanie answered. Yet she wondered how she could live among such ugliness such a shrieking array of colors, such cluttered confusion.

"Don't you want to see out?" He motioned for her to join him at the window. "Lots to look at—even if the landscape isn't composed of sky and lake and silence."

She went over to stand near him and peered through the curtains, too.

The windows opened onto a sort of court. On a low roof directly beneath, a line of wash was flapping in the breeze. Beyond this was another apartment house, its many windows making small patches of light or darkness. There was a low, steady hum of activity; the blare of a radio turned on too loud, a child crying, dogs barking. And from below those nearer sounds came the noises of street traffic, horns tooting, brakes screeching, even the protesting wail of a police siren.

"A regular sideshow," Sandy said, turning to bestow another wide grin on her. "A person ought never get bored or lonely here."

Had he been bored and lonely at the lake? she wondered. For again she saw that he meant what he said. He did not see anything wrong, either, with what lay outside their new quarters.

"Don't worry about me," she said. "I shan't have time to be lonely or bored, keeping house for two men. Will your uncle be back for dinner, Sandy? Or didn't he say? I expect I ought to start right away getting something ready."

"Not tonight," Sandy returned. He let the drapes fall back in place and went over to throw himself down on the davenport that made up into a double bed. He sprang lightly up and down, testing it. It felt hard and lumpy. But he had slept on worse.

Officers Found Guilty Torturing For Confession

Santa Fe, N.M., Sept. 22—(AP)—State Police Chief Hubert Beasley and two former southern New Mexico peace officers were convicted last night of torturing a Negro in an attempt to force him into making a confession.

A. L. (Happy) Apodaca, former Dona Ana County sheriff, was convicted on two counts—conspiracy to violate and actual violation of the civil rights of Wesley Eugene Byrd, 28, now of Altapass, N.C.

Beasley was convicted of the violation count but was acquitted on the conspiracy charge.

Roy Sandman, Apodaca's former deputy sheriff, was convicted of the conspiracy count but was found innocent of the violation count.

A fourth defendant, State Patrolman I. E. Salazar, was acquitted on both charges.

A federal grand jury indicted the four men several weeks ago, accusing them of torturing Byrd to try to get him to confess to the still-unsolved murder last year of Ovida Coogler, Las Cruces waitress.

Defense attorneys indicated they will appeal. Federal Judge Carl Hatch said sentencing would be delayed.

Federal statutes provide a maximum sentence on each count of one year imprisonment and or $1,000 fine.

The jury twice reported it was unable to agree. Its decision was announced after it had deliberated, off and on, for 11 hours.

Service Chiefs Will Get Added Responsibility Under Marshall

Washington, Sept. 22—(AP)—The secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force may find they have greater stature and more responsibility under the administration of Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall.

While no one expects any deviation by Marshall from the spirit or letter of the law which unified the armed services, those who have worked with him before make these points:

1. Marshall is an experienced administrator, former military chief of a huge wartime army and former head of the State Department. He prefers to delegate responsibility and authority.

2. As secretary of state, he had key assistant secretaries who handled matters in their own provinces and brought only the larger, policy matters to him for decision.

3. If he follows that pattern as chief of the Defense Department, greatest single agency of government, it would mean more decentralization, greater freedom of activity than the service secretaries had under former Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson.

So firm was Johnson's control of affairs in the Army, Navy and Air Force that one man, John L. Sullivan, resigned as Navy secretary in protest. Former Air Force Secretary W. Stuart Symington had some behind-the-scenes jousts with Johnson, but when he left it was to become chairman of the National Security Resources Board, a cabinet level position.

All three service secretaries — Frank Pace of the Army, Francis Matthews of the Navy and Thomas Finletter of the Air Force—are comparative newcomers to their posts. Pace and Finletter were appointed by President Truman early this year. Matthews has been Navy secretary since May, 1949.

Pace's name has been mentioned during the last few days among those speculated upon as possible successors to the deputy defense secretary's job which Stephen Early is leaving at the end of this month.

Reasons advanced for this speculation include the fact that he is a fiscal and business expert and was personally picked by President Truman for his former job, director of the federal budget.

Marshall, in his first and busy day after being sworn in yesterday morning, talked with the three

He went immediately into a meeting with the Joint Chiefs of Staff, presided over by his old friend and associate, General Omar N. Bradley. Significance was attached to this meeting in light of Marshall's announcement that he planned to go today to New York to attend the meeting of defense ministers of the three big western powers—the U.S., Britain and France.

Detroit Takes On Tough Cleveland Indians, Opening Three-Game Series; Newhouse To Oppose Feller On Mound

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Detroit Tigers are after undisputed possession of first place in the see-saw American League pennant struggle tonight while the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox are idle.

Detroit takes on the tough Indians in Cleveland in the first of a three-game series while the Yankees and Red Sox mark time before opening a two-game series at Yankee Stadium tomorrow.

The Tigers tied the Yanks for the lead yesterday by trouncing the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-2. The Red Sox and the Yanks were not scheduled.

Hal Newhouse, 29-year-old left-hander, has been selected to pitch for the Tigers against the Indians' Bob Feller. Both boast identical 14-11 records.

The Indians have proved one of the Tigers' toughest adversaries this year. They have clashed 17 times, with each side winning eight games. The other resulted in a 13-13 tie. The victories were evenly distributed, four for each in Cleveland and Detroit.

Newhouse has beaten the Indians four times and lost to them twice. Both of his defeats came at Cleveland. Feller holds a 2-1 card against the Tigers.

In the National League, the Boston Braves defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-0, and the Brooklyn Dodgers thumped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-8, to remain tied for second place. They trail the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies by seven games. The Phils and Chicago Cubs were tied.

Warren Spahn blanked the Cards on two hits to rack up his 21st victory.

In the only other game, the Cincinnati Reds defeated the New York Giants, 8-5.

Night Games For Ayden Athletes

Ayden, Sept. 22.—The high school athletic field will have night games this year instead of all afternoon affairs when the Tornados' opponents come to town.

The Rotary and Lions Clubs are now conducting a drive to raise about $4,000 to install lights on the field. The money will come from donations from the public.

No Weakness At Center

Coach Bo Farley has not found any trouble with his pivot position this year. Letterman Lewis Howe, 175-pound center for this year's Phantom eleven, does yeoman duties at the pivot spot. Howe will see plenty of action tonight, both offensive and defensive, as the Green Phantoms clash with the New Bern Bears at New Bern. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee).

Phantoms Clash With New Bern Eleven Tonight

Greenville's Phantoms and the New Bern Bears clash head-on tonight in a Northeastern conference tilt.

Kickoff for tonight's game is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Bears' home field.

Coach Bo Farley's eleven, playing its second contest away from home, will be striving to improve their showing over last week's 0-0 tie with the Edenton Aces.

Spirited workouts have marked the Phantoms' practices this week, and the locals will be gunning for their first Northeastern league win.

Fullback Leon Moore, line-smasher for the Greenies, is expected to lead the Farley-men's T formation, along with Halfbacks Kent Lee and Walter Gore. Sidney Briley will do the quarterbacking to round out the starting backfield.

Newcomer Johnny Merwin, 175-pound guard, is expected to lead the forward wall for the Phants.

Running beside Merwin at tackle will be Mac Crawford. These two boys from the anchor for Greenville's line-man.

Ends Johnny Aman and Wiley Gardner will be on the receiving end of Moore's and Briley's passes.

Greenville's sixty-four piece band, under the direction of James Rogers, will accompany the Phantoms to New Bern tomorrow night.

Ayden Plays Robersonville, Farmville Meets Hertford

Ayden's Tornados open defense of their Coastal conference crown this afternoon against Bob Lee's Robersonville eleven.

The Coastal conference tilt is to be played in Robersonville with the kickoff slated for 3 p. m.

Teedy Bullock, all conference for Coach Stuart Tripp's crew, will lead the Tornados' offense in this afternoon's game.

Linebacker Greg Davis and Tackle B. L. Byrd will be the stalwarts in the Ayden defensive play.

Ayden was victorious, 19-7, over Williamston last week in their 1950 season opener.

In the night activity of the Coastal conference, Farmville's Red Devils open their grid season under the lights of the high school athletic field against Coach Ellie Fearing's Hertford crew.

Coach Elbert Moye's squad is expected to have quite a time on their hands with the Hertford eleven.

Farmville's offensive attack will be lead by quarterback Randy Allen, who will target his passes to Ends Albert Cannon and Roy Vick. Ray Flora and Bobby Fulford, along with Doug Pierce will lead the forward wall.

Elsewhere in the Coastal conference South Edgecombe plays hosts to Bevenue, while Coach George Wood's Vanceboro team entertains a strong Camp Lejeune aggregation.

Myers says that his forces are inexperienced and lack depth. Coach Peahead Walker protests that his Wake Forest team suffers from those same weaknesses.

Bucs Depart Today For Big Lenoir-Rhyne Game

Will Reach Hickory In Time For Brisk Workout This Afternoon In Final Preparation For Conference Opener

By BILL LLOYD
East Carolina's football team departed for Hickory this morning for their conference opener with Lenoir-Rhyne tomorrow night.

Ending a long, hard week of drills will arrive in the western town this afternoon in time to take a brisk workout in preparation for Saturday night's tilt.

With the exception of End Ed Tanner, who was left behind with a wrenched knee, the Pirates will be almost at full strength for tomorrow's test against the powerful Bears.

Bears' Halfback Johnny Daughtry and Guard Mickey Berman have minor injuries, but will see limited action in the league clash.

Opening up their grid season last week with an impressive win over the Newport News Apprentices, 21-7, the Pirates will be gunning for their first conference win in tomorrow night's contest.

Expected to lead Coach Bill Dole's aerial attack Saturday night is All-Conference Quarterback Roger Thrift. Thrift, ace passer and field general for the Bucs will have Ends Dwight Shoe and Frank Maenne as targets for his tosses. Reserve End Ott Alford will also see plenty of action at the flank position.

Halfbacks Jack Benzie, Bill Darby, John Daughtry, Mike Kovack and Jack "Choo Choo" Britt will furnish offensive running attack for the Bucs. Britt scored the final TD for the Pirates in last week's victory. Big Tom Swain, 224-pound line-bruise, who made a neat 38-yard run against the Apprentices last week, and added a scoring marker on another 11-yard run, will be the starting fullback.

East Carolina's offensive line will be made up of Bill McDonald and Dennis Smith at tackles, Leon Ellis and Reggie Byrd at guards, and Buck Wilson at center.

The defensive forces for Coach Bill Dole's charges will see Bob Bradley and Cecil Winslow at ends, Wally Robinson and Buck "True-toe" Hardee at tackles, Bobby Hodges and Don McKenzie at guards, Johnny Smith and Frank MacGinn will be the linebackers, with Daughtry, Sandy Siler and Billy Smith making up the secondary.

Hodges, the Kinston schoolboy all-stater, and Winslow, a reserve player, are the two new faces in the defensive lineup.

Ayden Man Will Head Conference

Representatives of the five schools in the Coastal Conference last night elected E. F. Johnson president of the conference for the current athletic year at the first meeting here.

For Johnson, this makes the second time he has been elected to the post, having gained the position at last year's inaugural meeting.

The Ayden High School principal presided over last night's meeting. Elected Secretary-Treasurer was Stuart Tripp, also of Ayden, and football, basketball coach at the high school, E. P. Blair, Vanceboro's Farm Life school principal, received the vice president's office.

Discussion during the dinner meeting centered around adding two more teams to the roster of the conference, bringing the total to seven. No schools were named as possible newcomers, but it was moved to invite two to join the ranks with Ayden, Farmville, Robersonville and South Edgecombe (Pine-ville).

The body voted to again use officials for all athletic events from the Walter Jones Agency as it did last year. It was also agreed to hold the annual Coastal Conference Basketball Tournament in Farmville during the latter part of February. The tourney was staged in Ayden this year.

The group moved to award athletic trophies to all champions in the three sports during the year. Also, a record will be kept by the secretary of all athletes in the conference, keeping a tab on their athletic record.

To Reopen Issue Of Sharing TV Baseball Money

Cincinnati, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Baseball's bigwigs are going to reopen the question of disposition of $800,000 received for World Series television rights and the unofficial information was that the players might get a share of the money.

Opposition to putting a part of the money in the World Series players' fund appeared in the offing, however.

Will Harridge, president of the American League, declared he thought it would be "unfair to the players of the other clubs to take money earmarked for the pension fund and give it to those who play in the Series."

Eppes Loses By 19-2 Despite Fast Start

Downfield March By Local Eleven Stopped Twice; Washington Held Scoreless Until Last Period Touchdowns

Eppes High School's football team Griffin and Carlton Bruce led last night took the ball on the open way Washington's attack was stopped quarter and led until the last period when Washington pushed across three quick touchdowns for the final score. All three TDs were scored on passes when their ground attack was stopped cold.

During the second half Eppes drove to the seven yard line but was stopped. Most of the sustained drive came through passes. Halfback Washington's attack was stopped dead during the first half when it crossed the midfield stripe only once. Until the last period, Eppes' two point lead seemed the margin of victory.

The locals scored their only points when Washington intercepted a pass in their end zone. Eppes tackled the man there for the safety.

Leading the Eppes offense and defense were Ends E. Green and Ernest Dupree, Guards S. Hemby and B. Williams, and Tackle Joseph Wynn.

Eppes will meet New Bern next Friday night here at 8 o'clock.

Steve O'Neill Signs Again As Manager For Red Sox

Boston, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Portly Steve O'Neill hailed in the major leagues as a good guy who does win, today shed one of his many worries. On the eve of his Boston Red Sox club's do-or-die two-game series with the New York Yankees, he was reappointed its manager for the 1951 season.

While making the announcement, which did not disclose salary terms, General Manager Joe Cronin intimated he and Owner Tom Yawkey were anxious to have O'Neill concentrate on winning this year's American League pennant, free from worry about his future.

Just a bit more than a year ago, the 59-year-old O'Neill appeared out of baseball for the first time since he broke in as a minor league catcher back in 1910. He had been let out as a Cleveland Indians coach when his longtime friend Cronin appointed him to the Red Sox scouting forces.

O'Neill, however, never served in that capacity. Just before the last spring training season, the then Manager Joe McCarthy appointed Steve to fill the Red Sox coaching vacancy caused by the sudden death of Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler.

On June 23, a few days after the falling McCarthy announced his permanent retirement from baseball, Cronin named O'Neill the Red Sox' protege pilot.

Paul, having received a message from a man from Macedonia in a vision, asking him to come and help them, sailed to Philippi, Greece, and there he sat on the river bank talking to women assembled there.

As Paul approached the city of Athens, he read an inscription on an altar, "To the unknown god." On Mars' Hill in the city he told his hearers of this "unknown god," who is Lord of all creation, maker of all mankind.

Arrested and tried by the Jews, Paul defended himself so well before King Agrippa, telling the story of his conversion and his faith in Jesus, that the king was moved to say, "Almost thou persuaded me to be a Christian."

After Paul's defense of himself before King Agrippa, Festus and those with him talked together, Agrippa saying that Paul could well be liberated if he had not appealed to Caesar. MEMORY VERSE—Mark 16:15.

Paul Became World Evangelist

HE OBEYED JESUS' CHARGE TO SPREAD THE GOSPEL

Scripture—Acts 16:9-15; 17:22-31; 28; II Corinthians 11:23-12:10.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

TODAY we conclude our study of the great teachers of the early Christian church. St. Paul was the greatest of them all. He was an educated man and a zealous one. When he was a Pharisee he persecuted the Christians with all the energy of his nature, and when he became a Christian he went "all out," as we say, in his enthusiasm for the faith.

Paul never spared himself in his efforts to spread the gospel of Christ to "all the world," as Jesus had said to him and his disciples. Travel in those days meant walking over terribly rough roads, through valleys and over mountains, often in danger of robbers; or sailing in primitive vessels that might easily be wrecked in a sudden squall.

Our story begins in the middle of Paul's life and during his second missionary journey. "The Spirit" had forbidden him to visit certain churches where he had planned to spend some time. He arrived in Troas on the Aegean sea, opposite Greece, probably somewhat bewildered about what God intended him to do next.

tars to different gods and goddesses that were worshipped in this center of culture, but one altar intrigued him more than all others, for on it was inscribed, "To the unknown god."

This man who was entirely unknown in Athens where many famous philosophers, and orators had lived, wended his way to Mars' hill—meeting place of the ancient court—where gathered men who discussed everything in the universe.

His speech to the Athenians is one of the greatest ever uttered. He did not antagonize these citizens, but addressed them as their ancient philosophers had done, "Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious, referring probably to their worship of a multitude of gods and goddesses.

"For as I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, 'To the Unknown God.' Whom therefore, ye ignorantly worship, Him declare I unto you."

Then he told them of God the creator of all the natural world and of all mankind. He warned them of judgments to come and

Announces Beginning Of Dramatic Series

Dr. Lucile H. Charles, director of speech and dramatics in the departments of English at East Carolina Teachers' College, has announced the beginning of a series of workshop plays to be given weekly by the Teachers Playhouse, college dramatics club, "The Boor," a Chekhov comedy which will initiate this season's performance, will be presented this evening at 7:30 in the Flanagan auditorium. The public is invited to attend. The plays will be produced under the general supervision of Dr. Charles, who will be assisted by student directors from the Teachers Playhouse.

Miss Jean Steele, county demonstration agent for the State College Extension Service, says the entire community is looking forward to the time when the last curtain has been hung, the last nail driven, and the last rug laid.

Full Outlay For School Lunches

Washington, Sept. 22—(AP)—The Agriculture Department will be allowed to spend the full amount of an $83,500,000 appropriation for the National School Lunch program this school year.

The allotments by states include: North Carolina, $2,834,138; South Carolina $1,701,715; and Virginia, $1,585,583.

Under the appropriation act, President Truman had authority to trim the figure if he thought it advisable in order to cut down on non-defense spending. But Truman said he will allow the department to spend the full amount.

Of the total $84,625,000 has been apportioned among the various states, the District of Columbia and outlying U. S. possessions.

The balance of the money will be used by the department for foods needed to provide the 8,000,000 participating children a nutritious diet.

The law requires that each dollar of federal funds spent by states must be matched by $1.50 from sources within the states.

Cities Operate Own Auditorium

Chicago—(AP)—A new survey shows that at least 174 cities in the U. S. now own and operate municipal auditoriums. The study, made by the Public Administration Service, also showed: "With only minor exceptions, all municipal auditoriums were found to be operated as revenue-producing enterprises. Generally, however, they cannot be regarded as money-makers. Of the 85 civic auditoriums supplying information on their financial position during recent years, only 26 operated at a profit during the latest year for which figures are available."

THANKS TO PROSECUTOR Victoria, B.C.—(AP)—Prosecutors don't often get thanks especially from the wives of the men prosecuted. But one woman was grateful for her husband being called to court and ordered to pay hospital insurance premiums. Her husband now is in a hospital and if the action hadn't been taken "we'd be faced with hospital bills we couldn't afford," she said.

Day Of Kindness Never Forgotten

pulling a new airline fleet from the dusty five-year-old pile of war disposals left here by the Allies. The communications ministry has announced that 70 twin-engine Curtiss Commandos, used in wartime to carry freight, will be reconditioned as passenger planes. India's present commercial fleet consists largely of another wartime plane, the Douglas DC-3.

Sweet potatoes are expected to be somewhat cheaper this fall than last year. As a result, many farmers will be storing their potatoes for higher prices. They must be aware of some of the dangers of storage. One of the greatest dangers is storage rot. Many of the disease organisms live over from year to year in the storage house and on used baskets. The chief ones are Soft Rot, Black Rot, and Jarva Black Rot. These disease organisms can be killed in the storage house by fumigating the storage house before the potatoes are put in.

The storage house must be air tight or capable of being made so by covering cracks with gummed paper or other suitable material. Postpone fumigation if there is wind blowing that may dissipate gas from house. It should be done when the temperature is 70 degrees or higher, choosing a rainy or humid period is helpful. If rainy day is not convenient, one can hose down room and contents with a fine spray at the rate of at least 1 gallon per 1000 cubic feet and apply Larvacide 4-6 hours later. If hose is not available, soak burlap bags and suspend from rafters and dash water around from bucket.

Members of the State's Advisory Budget Commission have indicated they would like some suggestions on new tax sources to meet the mounting revenue needs of an expanding state government. The commission has been holding hearings on the needs of state agencies and institutions for funds to operate during the 1951-53 biennium. Most of the agencies and institutions have indicated they will need more money to operate next biennium than they're now getting.

The amount required for a good job of fumigation is one-half pound per 1000 cubic feet of space. To find number of cubic feet, multiply length by width, by average height. The Larvacide may be purchased at your local ROK store. Be sure to read pages one and two of instruction sheet packed with each 1 pound bottle and follow each instruction.

Budget commission members indicated their concern over the problem of finding more revenue to meet requests. They interrupted chairman James H. Clark of the Medical care commission when he was presenting the budget needs of the commission.

Seth T. Hooker Dies In Hospital

Seth Tyson Hooker, 87, died in the General Hospital at 9 a.m. today. He had been in declining health for several years and became critically ill on Thursday at his home on Greene St.

Funeral services will be conducted in the chapel of the S. G. Wilkerson and Sons Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. Leon Russell, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, will be in charge of the service. Burial will follow at Cherry Hill cemetery.

Son of the late Heyrick and Elizabeth Tyson Hooker, members of pioneer families of Pitt and Greene counties, Mr. Hooker was born on August 17, 1863, on the Hooker farm, near the present Bell Church. He moved to Greenville with his parents in 1871 and attended private school here. As a young man he was employed in the store of the late John Conleton and while still a young man formed with the late W. B. (Napper) Brown the general mercantile firm of Brown and Hooker. In 1899 Mr. Hooker erected the Liberty Warehouse, which burned in 1940, and owned and operated it until 1920. For several years thereafter he was active in the real estate business in several states, being associated with the old Atlantic Coast Realty Company. For the past twenty years or so he has been retired from active business affairs.

As a young man, Mr. Hooker took a leading part in civic activities. The volunteer fire department was one of his particular interests. He was also for many years interested in political affairs and was a delegate some 40 years ago to the State Democratic convention at Charlotte. In former years he participated in church activities and was one of the oldest members of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Mr. Hooker was married in 1889 to Miss Lillie E. Peebles, of Greenville, who survives. Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Eccles Wall of Tarboro; three sons, Bruce Hooker and Seth D. Hooker of Greenville, and W. Howard Hooker of Atlanta, Ga.; two grandchildren, Miss Ann White and William H. White, Jr., of Greenville, and two sisters, Mrs. Rosa H. Brown of Greenville and Mrs. Louisa H. Ruelh of Baltimore, Md.

TO THE PEOPLE OF GREENVILLE!

"The Next Voice You Hear" stars James Whitmore, Nancy Davis, and a wonderful lad named Gary Gray. It's the story of Joe Smith, American, and his family.

Very few pictures have been preceded by such praise as has been accorded "The Next Voice You Hear." Cosmopolitan, Red Book and Seventeen Magazine selected it the picture of the month. Parents Magazine gave it a special merit award.

It comes to Greenville and the Pitt Theatre direct from its record-breaking world premier at Radio City Music Hall.

Please see it and experience for yourself the thrill of a truly outstanding film. It will stir your heart!

Civil Air Patrol Wing Given Inspection

Family Lost All In Tuesday Fire

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Meek, formerly of Pitt county, but now of Craven county, lost all their personal property Tuesday night in a fire which destroyed their home.

The Meeks live on Dover route one.

The Meeks had sold their tobacco crop and had bought winter clothes and supplies which were lost in the fire along with all the house furnishings. Living at home with their parents at the time of the fire were nine sons ranging in age from 4 to 22 years, and one daughter, another daughter, Mrs. Robert McKenney, lives in Greenville.

The Meeks lived in Pitt County until this year when they moved to Craven County.

Firms Agree To Restrain Claims

Washington, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Eight companies have agreed not to advertise that their anti-histamine preparations will cure or prevent common colds.

However, the stipulations do not prevent the firms from saying that the medicines will relieve and often stop cold symptoms, the federal trade commission said yesterday in announcing the agreement.

20 Sweet Potatoes From A Single Hill

J. B. Taylor, farmer on the Bethel highway, about seven miles north of Greenville, today brought 20 sweet potatoes from one hill in his patch in the Daily Reflector office.

This is an unusual number of tubers from one hill. The potatoes are of the Porto Rico variety.

Thirteen of the twenty sweet potatoes were of small size, but seven of the tubers were eating size. The potatoes are in the Daily Reflector's office window.

Fruit Jar Hurler Not Guilty Assault On Mother-In-Law

In Police Court today, Judge J. W. H. Roberts dismissed the case against Lawrence Bratt Hazan, 28-year-old colored man, 1022 West Fifth Street, charging him with assault with a deadly weapon—a fruit jar.

The warrant charged Hazan with assaulting his father-in-law and mother-in-law, Julius White and Annie Mae White. Testimony was that the in-laws went to Hazan's house and tried to persuade their daughter, Hurline, to leave her husband; that Hazan ordered them to leave and that they refused to depart, and that Hazan threw a glass jar at his mother-in-law's feet, breaking the receptacle. Hazan stated that he did not strike the woman unless scared her.

Judge Roberts warned the son-in-law not to mistreat his wife, and the court reminded the in-laws to "call on the law to settle your marital differences."

Overcast Sky

The highest temperature recorded in the Greenville area yesterday was 90 degrees, Mrs. Carl E. Maiden, local observer for the U. S. Department of Commerce Weather Bureau, reported. Lowest last night was 70 and at 8 a. m. today the mercury stood at 71 degrees.

The sky was overcast during the forenoon and there was a slight drizzle of rain, with indications of showers.

Firms Agree To Restrain Claims

Those firms are constantly in touch with the Commission, Swartz stated, and his department is required to accept their recommendations.

Claim Loot Was Hidden In Bucket

Asheville, N. C., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Most people use buckets for carrying water but police say a Negro youth here used one to carry clothing from a dress shop.

The youth, Franklin R. Sweet, 17, was arrested in McDowell County yesterday. Police say he and his bride were aboard a bus at the time, heading for Philadelphia.

Chief of Detectives Fred Jones said Sweet was employed by the dress shop (Lerner's) here last Aug. 14. Since then, Jones said, Sweet smuggled into women's clothing, one item at a time, hiding it in the bottom of his cleaning bucket. On Sept. 13, he was locked in the store when it closed and took $64.60 from the cash register, escaping by breaking out a rear door, Jones reported.

He was charged with larceny and receiving. No charges were filed against his wife.

passed an estimated 5,000 Reds trapped Thursday in a triangle between the highway and the river.

More than 400 of the trapped force surrendered. Major Gen. Herbert R. Gay, First Cavalry commander, personally brought in two prisoners, a division spokesman said. The Reds were getting hungrier. More were expected to quit.

Farther south, British troops were on their first real assignment since the allied offensive began a week ago. The British relieved elements of the U. S. 24th Division near Songju and were in heavy battle on high ground seven miles west of the Nakdong.

British Royal Marines were reported in action on the Seoul front.

UN Security

the widely known British newspaper, The Manchester Guardian, which says of the proposals:

"They make a working program which will at least provide a sincerity test for the United Nations members. There is nothing in them to which Russia can fundamentally object, if her aims are as unaggressive as she pretends. x x x But the non-Communist world will feel no hope of peace unless it can fall back on a world security system backed by military strength and ready to meet aggression promptly."

To this might be added that the Old League of Nations failed because it lacked such a security system. Had it been able to give a good accounting of its stewardship, we shouldn't have had world war II.

The U. N., has moved quickly to deal with the American program, which is labeled "United Action for Peace." The Assembly's steering committee has placed the program on the agenda for full consideration.

It is the most important issue to come before the organization since its creation for the preservation of peace.

To Curb

6. And, further, a member of a Communist outfit couldn't hold a job in a defense plant although a member of a Communist front could.

7. No government employe or defense plant employe could knowingly contribute any money or service to a Communist outfit or Communist front.

8. No government employe could knowingly give to a member of a Communist organization information listed as "classified" by the President or head of a department or agency, unless authorized by the President.

9. No member of a Communist organization, front or otherwise, could receive such information.

10. No member of a Communist outfit or Communist front could receive a passport to get out of the country or even apply for one.

11. And it would be a crime for any government employe to give such a person a passport.

12. It would be a crime for any Communist group or Communist front, or for any individual acting for either, to send any material through the mails or talk over the radio or television without labeling what was written or said as material coming from a Communist organization.

Anyone found guilty of violating anyone of these 12 points in the bill could be jailed for five years or fined $10,000.

Then the bill has a lot of provisions to keep out of this country aliens who are Communists or Com-

peaches and cream.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Lucy Love, 1011 Fleming street. All members are asked to be present.

Here again the purpose is to prevent spying or sabotage.

Another part of the bill gives the government power to ban Communists or members of Communist fronts from getting into defense areas. This was aimed at preventing sabotage.

Still another part would require anyone who was trained as a spy or saboteur for a foreign government to report that fact to the government. So, if it could be proved a man came here to spy, even though he didn't get started in his spying, he could be jailed.

And the bill gives power to the government to jail Communists or their sympathizers in time of war or when there might be an invasion, or uprising here for a foreign power. They could be held—unless a court ordered them released—until the war or emergency was over.
