Heavy Schedule Awaiting Congress After Vacation

Excess Profits Tax, Statehood For Hawaii And Alaska And Possibly Rent Control Shape Up As Big Issues When Lawmakers Return

Washington, Sept. 25 (AP)—Taxes on swollen business profits, statehood for Hawaii and Alaska and possibly rent control look like the big issues when Congress returns to Washington two months from now.

Even those problems may be too big to handle in a quick session between Nov. 27 and the Christmas holidays.

They were the major let-overs when weary lawmakers knocked off work late Saturday with a slap at President Truman—a thumping rejection of his veto of a stiff anti-communist bill.

The bill was put on the lawbooks when the Senate voted 57 to 10 to override the veto. That was 12 votes more than the two-thirds majority needed.

Another major enactment of the adjourned Congress will have almost immediate effect. Starting next Sunday, income tax withholdings will jump one-fifth for most of the nation's 50,000,000 income tax payers.

The tax boost, estimated to produce about $4,700,000,000 yearly, was approved by Mr. Truman about the time Congress was winding up its chores. He acted swiftly, just a day after Congress sent him the bill.

Even before that, the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee decided to start public hearings Nov. 15 on a second tax increase which Congress has pledged to include an excess profits tax on corporations. Estimates are that it will produce from $4,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 a year.

On the 81st Congress's list of accomplishments, besides the tax increase, were items like: A big expansion of the social security program to increase benefits and make perhaps 10,000,000 more people eligible for them. Removal of federal taxes on oleomargarine.

Raising from $5,000 to $10,000 the federal insurance on bank deposits. Boosting the national minimum wage from 40 to 75 cents an hour.

A $150,000,000 sum clearance and low-cost housing program. But many a proposal asked by the President went to the scrap pile and stayed there. For example: Civil rights legislation. The platforms of both big parties backed it, but it couldn't club past the threat of a Southern filibuster.

In addition: Federal aid to education, repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law, compulsory health insurance, the farm plan sponsored by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan.

Rent Control Bill Is Given Priority

House Hearings Slated Immediately After Vacation

Washington, Sept. 25—(AP)—Federal rent control legislation today was given top priority with the House Banking Committee when Congress re-convenes on Nov. 27.

Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) announced the committee probably will start hearings immediately after the fall congressional vacation. He said he expects to have a rent control bill ready for action by Congress this year.

The present federal rent control program ends on Dec. 31 except in communities which specifically request its continuance for an additional six months.

Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods announced over the weekend that 104 communities with an aggregate population of about 7,000,000 and with 1,350,000 rental homes have taken such action.

He said that since the present law took effect July 1 another 34 communities with 1,400,000 population and 260,000 rental units have thrown off federal controls.

Spence told newsmen "it is apparent that controls will have to be continued because of the war emergency. Whether a majority of the House and Senate would agree with him and pass a new law in the short session was open to question.

No Let-Up Ahead In Preparedness Following Korea

Sec. of Commerce Says It Would Be Stupid To Expect Return To Normalcy

Washington, Sept. 25—(AP)—No let-up in the nation's military preparedness drive—even after victory in Korea—is promised by Secretary of Commerce Sawyer.

He even hinted that new business controls may be expected so as to channel more productive facilities and materials to armament.

Sawyer was asked in a radio interview last night if the United States could properly relax rearmament efforts when the fight in Korea is won. His answer:

"My opinion is that we cannot and should not and will not."

The secretary went on to say that this country would be stupid to believe that "we can forget the whole thing and go about our normal peacetime pursuits regardless of what is going on in the rest of the world."

Sawyer said he expects more controls on business to be necessary. He didn't say when, however.

As possibilities he listed (1) "perhaps" a halt in manufacture of certain articles requiring materials needed for military operations, and (2) "probably" priorities requiring a manufacturer to fill a military order before filling any other order.

Sawyer, whose department has supervision over the National Production Authority, also said:

"There may be orders which deal with requisitioning, although that is a rather drastic remedy and we won't undertake it unless it is necessary."

He explained that this power will be used only where a case is found of "unreasonable hoarding" when the material involved will be seized "without any hesitancy whatever."

Sawyer said some civilian sacrifices are expected but there is no reason why all needed fighting equipment can't be turned out with the nation still enjoying "the highest standard of living in the world."

Draft Call For 103 Pitt Men Now Scheduled

The second call in as many months for draftees will go out shortly to 103 men from Pitt County.

Those 103 will report to Raleigh October 26 for pre-induction examinations as did the first quota last week.

When the October contingent leaves, it will bring the total for the two months to 268 men requested to report.

The local selective service board received the pre-induction order from Colonel Upton, state selective service head, this morning.

Clerk Selma Evans stated this morning only 54 of the 136 men reporting to Raleigh last week passed the mental and physical exams last Wednesday. That leaves a figure of 60 percent of the contingent who flunked, which is just about average with the other counties' pre-inductees.

Those 54 will be notified they passed the examinations. Within 21 days thereafter they will leave for induction centers for the armed services.

East Germany In Ushered Into Red Satellite Circle

Berlin, Sept. 25—(AP)—Communist-controlled East Germany was ushered into the Soviet satellite circle yesterday and marked by the event by launching a purge of spies and "Western agents."

East Germany has been working her way into the Soviet orbit through a series of treaties with Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Romania. Yesterday the official Soviet newspapers Taelgiche Rundschau formalized the union by announcing the East German state had joined "the mighty peace front, headed by the Soviet Union."

There have been recent hints that Russia may soon grant a separate peace to East Germany. The three Western allies—France, Britain and the United States—have announced plans for ending the state of war with the government they sponsor in West Germany.

ECTC Grads Work In 50 N. C. Counties

Graduates Of 1949-50 Term In Heavy Demand For School Positions, Placement Bureau Indicates In Report

Fifty North Carolina counties employed 175 graduates of the 1949-1950 term at East Carolina Teachers College as teachers, supervisors, or principals for the present school year, according to a recent statement by Dr. J. L. Oppelt, director of the Bureau of Student Teaching and Placement.

A report just issued by Dr. Oppelt deals with placements for the year ending August 31, 1950. It indicates that 268 men and women who registered with the Bureau for the period have reported that they are now employed. A number of those who registered have not yet completed their records in the Bureau, but are believed to be employed in teaching positions, says Dr. Oppelt.

In addition to requests for teachers, Dr. Oppelt says, the Placement Bureau was asked to supply personal in various other types of employment. Those included accountants, bookkeepers, secretaries, filing clerks, social case workers, dietitians, home demonstration agents, directors of recreation, rug designers, radio technicians, guidance counselors, journalists, and workers in various business enterprises.

Attain Over Half Foundation Goal

Rawl Reports $4,178 Received In Three Days Campaign

Greenville merchants and businessmen have contributed a total of $4,178.45 to the current drive of the East Carolina Teachers College stadium committee.

A report released this afternoon by Committee Chairman E. E. Rawl showed reports from 14 of the 21 soliciting groups indicate 53.7 percent of the $7,500 athletic scholarship goal has already been reached. "The response to the drive has been wonderful," Rawl commented. "We had $4,178.45 in the bank as of 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and it represented the results of the first three days of the campaign."

He said the most enthusiastic response from the members of the stadium committee have been about the fine reception the campaign for additional athletic funds for ECTC has received from the local merchants and businessmen, and the cooperation the people of Greenville have shown with the drive.

"We think the college athletics and particularly the football game Saturday night have kept faith with the people of Greenville for what they have done and are doing for athletics at the college," Rawl added. "If we are to continue to build up the athletics at the college, we must meet this goal this year. We are already seeing the results of what we have done for the school in the past two years, and more results will come."

The committee chairman urged the people of Greenville who have not yet been contacted by members of the stadium committee for a donation to the drive to mail their checks to the ECTC Education Foundation Inc. care of the Guaranty Bank. "We are very anxious to wind up this campaign this week," Rawl said. "We urge the continued cooperation of the people of Greenville."

Ticklish Problem In Naming Board

Truman Must Name Five Men To Anti-Subversives Body

Washington, Sept. 25—(AP)—President Truman faced today the ticklish political problem of naming a five-man board to fill a key role in enforcement of the new communist control act he recently denounced.

Congressional enactment of the law over Mr. Truman's veto brought a prompt pledge to enforce it "vigorously" from Attorney General McGrath, who like the President had opposed it.

But McGrath's Justice Department can take no action under one of the bill's major provisions—that calling for registration of communist organizations and their fronts—until establishment of a subversive activities control board (SACB).

That board of five men—not more than three of whom can be from the same political party—must decide after hearing whether or not an organization is required to register under the law. It will act upon complaints by the Justice Department.

Government attorneys likely to be concerned with the enforcement problem said no consideration had been given so far to the possible personnel. The law was not put on the statute books until late Saturday when the Senate voted 57 to 10 to override Mr. Truman's strongly worded veto, in which he used such words as "unworkable" and "hysterical." The House had voted to override by a 286 to 48 vote. Both votes were well over the required two-thirds majority.

Anti-Communist Law

Under The New Law Communists Are Supposed To Register With Government; Legal Machinery To Enforce Action; Draw-Out Procedure If Reds Go To Court

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Sept. 25—(AP)—Under the anti-Communist law—it became law Saturday—Communists are supposed to register with the government.

They are supposed to do that within 30 days of the time when the act became law, or 30 days from Sept. 23. But leaders of the Communist party said Saturday night they will refuse to register.

Can they—at the end of the 30 days or in fact any other time—be jailed or fined or punished in any way for refusing to register within 30 days of Sept. 23?

No. They not only cannot be punished for this refusal, but they cannot be arrested or even questioned about it. Is the government then helpless to make the Communists register at all?

No. Under the new law—once the 30 days are up and the Communists haven't registered—there is legal machinery the government can use to make them register. It calls for findings by a new subversive activities control board, reviewable by the courts.

But—This doesn't mean the government puts the Communists on trial for refusing to register. It means only that the government uses legal machinery to force them to register.

Four Allied Columns Deep In Heart Of Besieged City; First Cavalry Patrol Speeds Up From South, Only Forty Miles From Incheon-Seoul Beachhead

Tokyo, Sept. 25—(AP)—Four columns fought deep into Seoul tonight on a grinding for Duk Soo Palace and the nearby government building cluster.

One U. S. Marine column that crossed the Han river Sunday first planted the Stars and Stripes by nightfall on a southwest district height less than two miles from the Palace.

Then a Seventh Division doughboy stormed over the Han in dawn mist Monday and fought to knock the Red Korean defenders off the commanding heights of South mountain, a city park.

Two other columns of American and South Korean Marines stabbed into the capital from the west and North.

AP correspondent Don Whitehead who crossed the Han last Wednesday with Fifth Regiment Marines and Sunday with First Regiment leathernecks, said granite-walled Duk Soo is considered the heart of the capital. The other government buildings are slightly to the North.

A commander said they were the allied force would win Seoul within hours.

While the four-pronged drive into the city pushed ahead, a U. S. First Cavalry armored patrol sweeping up from the south sped into Chongju. This put them only 40 miles from the Incheon-Seoul beachhead.

Its swift drive—70 miles in four days—threatened soon to close the gap between the two fronts and east toward the headquarters of Red Koreans in the South.

Allied forces scored sharp gains all along the Southeastern front, from Yongdok on the sea of Japan to Chingju on the Southwest. But allied commanders were throwing the greatest weight of manpower into the battle to secure symbolic Seoul.

The Reds captured the South Korean capital three days after they invaded across parallel 38 June 25—Just three months ago.

The U. S. and South Korean Infantrymen of the Seventh Division swept eastward across the Seoul-Seuwon road and jumped the Han South east of the city.

Artillery barrages temporarily silenced Red gunfire on South Mountain, a 700-foot hill overlooking the South approaches to Seoul.

Col. Lewis (Chester) Puller's First Regiment Marines, who had crossed the river from near Youngungpo suburb on the southwest, joined in the barrage from Southwest city heights.

Fresh reinforcements poured into the beachhead to throw their firepower into the climactic battle for the city.

Airborne Infantrymen—2,400—landed Sunday at Kimpo Airfield northwest of Seoul. One hundred fifty planes shuttled the airborne troops complete with battle kits from Japan. They had just arrived there by ship from the United States.

At Incheon, 22 miles west of Seoul a fresh South Korean Division landed.

Both outfits were started inland without delay to join in the fighting.

American forces were storming back up Heartbreak Highway in nighty strides from the South.

The 24th Division captured Kuncheon, 33 miles northwest of Taegu, against bitterly-resisting elements of the Communist Ninth Division. The Communists had been ordered

Informal Supper Party Fetes Bridal Couple Friday Night

"Jule-Jo," the suburban home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. White, was the scene of a dinner party on Friday night when Mr. Tom Grier and Mrs. Dorothy Ormond, whose wedding takes place in October, were complimented.

The informal setting lent a touch of rustic gaiety to the decoration note, and as the guests arrived, they were greeted on the porch by the host and hostess.

From a table on the porch, the couples were served tomato juice and hors d'oeuvres. The table was covered with a gingham cloth and oil lamps furnished illumination.

On the bride's table in the dining room a wedding scene centered the table. Miniature dolls dressed as a bride and groom were shown driving away in a horse-drawn cart, and following them was the best man and maid of honor in a car. The dolls were showered with rice and tied to the back of the cart was a "just married" sign.

White china was set on green place mats at the bride's table, and red candles were lighted during the dinner hour.

At auxiliary tables in the living room, red and white checked cloths emphasized the informality of the supper. Hurricane lamps in the center of each table were a charming addition to the decorations. On mantel and side tables fall berries and deep green leaves lent a touch of autumn to the home.

A chow mein supper was served to the thirteen couples who were present. After the dessert course, a note of merriment was added when the hostess passed individual Chinese cakes in which fortune-telling slips were hidden. Each guest read for the enjoyment of the others his fortune card.

The hostess presented Miss Ormond with a gift of crystal in her selected pattern.

Those assisting Mrs. White in serving were Mrs. Graham Flanagan, Mrs. R. B. Lee, and Mrs. C. H. Edwards, Sr.

Mewborn scored high, Miss Marie Chapman second high. Mrs. Minges was remembered with a gift from the hostess. Other players were Mesdames, L. L. Mewborn, M. B. Hodges, W. I. Bisette, Alton Chapman, Tom Gower, Bryan Davis, Jack Tucker, Roger Johnson.

Iced drinks and sandwiches were served during the games.

The first American glass company was built in Jamestown, Va., in 1607.

Mrs. Wall Is Bridge Hostess

Grifton.—Mrs. Vance Wall was a gracious hostess on Wednesday night when she entertained at bridge at her home. In the living room three tables were arranged for the games. Bowls of spider lilies and blue daisies were used as decorations. During the games high scores were made by Mrs. J. L. Quinerly and Mrs. Sam Nelson. Mrs. Richard Minges was given a remembrance by the hostess. Help relieve distress of MONTHLY FEMALE COMPLAINTS

Are you troubled by distress of female functional periodic disturbances? Does this make you suffer from pain, feel so nervous, tired—at such times? Then try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Pinkham's has a grand soothing effect on one of woman's most important organs!

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S COMPOUND

Mrs. Dolores Brown, who was suffering from a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin, 1628 Central Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio, says she wants to congratulate those folks who read this who are feeling first rate—but she has a word of advice for those folks who are feeling miserable. Her advice is "take HADACOL" if you want to feel as good as she does if they are suffering from such deficiencies.

Here is Mrs. Brown's own statement on how HADACOL helped her by relieving such deficiencies: "Before I started taking HADACOL I had indigestion very bad. Sometimes I would not go to sleep at all during the night, and if I did it was only for a couple of hours. When I did sleep I got very little rest. I had just about given up hope—I had tried so many, many things and nothing helped me. Then one day I heard how other folks were being helped by the blessings of HADACOL. I started taking HADACOL and after the first few bottles I noticed an improvement. Now I have no more indigestion. The best thing that HADACOL has done for me is that I sleep all night long—and when I awake in the morning I know I've rested. I just can't praise HADACOL enough."

"Wonderful" Describes the Way HADACOL has helped thousands of folks whose systems were deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin. HADACOL can give you help, too, if you will just give HADACOL a chance—if you suffer from stomach distress, indigestion or insomnia, constipation, aches and pains of neuritis or a general run-down condition, caused by such deficiencies, let HADACOL help you as it has helped others all over the country. Even hundreds of doctors are recommending HADACOL to their patients who are suffering from such deficiencies.

Give remarkable HADACOL a chance to help you. Remember, you have nothing to lose. HADACOL will make you feel great after the first few bottles you take, or your money will be refunded. Only $1.25 for Trial Size. Large Family or Hospital Size, $3.50.

Departs Oct. 3 For Legion Trip

Herman J. McLawhorn, who won a free trip to the American Legion Convention at Los Angeles and a trip to Hawaii, will leave Greenville October 3 for Atlanta. McLawhorn is one of four legionnaires in the United States who won trips for obtaining new members and writing a short slogan about the American Legion's work.

The Greenville legionnaire will leave Atlanta October 4 on a special train for Los Angeles, the convention city. The convention will be held October 9, 10, 11 and 12. National Commander George Craig will preside.

McLawhorn and the other three winners will sail for Hawaii October 13 on the Matson steamship Lurline for the 12 days' trip to Honolulu and the island of Oahu during "Aloha Week." The other winners in the trip and essay contest are William E. Cunningham, Arkansas City, Ark.; Edward Munson, Lincoln, Nebraska, and George Malloy, Petoskey, Mich.

The North Carolina Department has elected 40 delegates to the American Legion National Convention at Los Angeles, and 40 alternates were named.

Women In The Church

Miss Doris Louise Armes, of Harrisburg, Penn., deaconess of the Methodist Church and librarian of the Mather Academy at Camden, S. C. was a leading spirit in organization of the Kershaw County Negro Library in Camden—the county's only public library for the race. The city of Camden gave the land, and the Negro residents raised the funds for the building. Mather Academy is supported by the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Church.

Moslem Iraq—the nation over whose oil reserve many others are clamoring as fuel for their war machines—is the "blessed land" of the Old Testament, the reputed site of the Garden of Eden, the home of Abraham. Three American Christian missionary agencies (Presbyterian, Reform, and Evangelical) tell the gospel story there. A recent survey shows that only one boy in seven, and only one girl in twenty, secure even a primary school education. An important Christian "teacher and witness" here is the American Girls School at Baghdad giving instruction and character-training to 150 girls from Moslem, Jewish and Christian homes.

Each year the Civic Assembly of Women—for the Philippine Islands a sort of federation of the leading women's clubs of the Republic—award medals and certificates to five or six women who have rendered distinguished service. This year one of those brought into public notice as "distinguished citizens" was Miss Rebecca Parrish, M. D., of Indianapolis, Ind., who retired in 1935 as a missionary of the Methodist Church after 29 years of medical and health service to the Philippines, where she founded the Mary Johnston Hospital, Manila. The award was the only one made in absentia and was received for Dr. Parrish by Mrs. Ernest E. Tuck, of Manila, wife of the Methodist superintendent of the Philippines. The award, on behalf of the Civic Assembly, was made by President Quirino of the Republic. The citation to Dr. Parrish read: "The blessings of health and of social welfare which the Philippines enjoy today have been inspired by the pioneering effort of this sincere and determined American missionary doctor, who came a long way across the sea, bringing Christian

New Liquid Kills Roaches and Ants

New Way to Kill Pests Discovered by Scientists

ROACHES are the most difficult household pests to control, and they can be brought into any home from the market in a bag of potatoes or other groceries.

Science has just come forth with a new discovery that kills cockroaches and ants, and that stays effective for months. It is called Johnston's NO-ROACH coating.

It's just as simple and easy to use as it looks. You paint the coating on surfaces frequented by roaches and ants, woodwork near the sink, baseboards, garbage pails, window and door sills. When these crawling pests come in contact with this invisible, odorless, stainless coating they slowly become paralyzed, turn over on their backs with legs waving in the air, and die. Then the coating stays effective for months to kill any strays that get into the home and that walk over it.

Science has seen to it too, that this product contains no DDT, no sodium fluoride, and no phosphorus. Johnston's NO-ROACH is not a contaminating spray, or a messy powder. It is colorless, and may be brushed just where you want it, without having to move all your dishes and pots and pans.

Prices are 8 oz. for 89c, pint for $1.69, and a quart for $2.98.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
GOD MAKES THE FUTURE
History tells us that when Charles I of England was beheaded, quite a few people throughout the kingdom died of heart failure. The end of the world had come when a commoner could rise up and strike off the head of his sovereign.
But of course the end of the world had not come. In the end Cromwell's forces were destined to defeat, the son of the beheaded monarch was brought back and placed on the throne, and the royal house of England was made more secure than it had ever been.
Many things happen every day which may well cause us to feel that the world is coming to an end. And yet because God holds the events of life in the hollow of his hand, everything will come out all right in the end. The end may be a long way off. The end may not be what we now believe would be the best. But if it is not what we anticipate, we can be sure that God will make it better than we had dared to hope.
We can leave the future in his hands. This does not mean that we are to lie back and let events take their course. Into God's final decision on events will go all the things that you and I have either done or failed to do. Our conduct will condition the future, but it will not make the future. Neither will any circumstance make the future. God alone can do this.

Take A Good Look At That Pay Envelope

When you get that pay envelope next Saturday, you'd better take a good look at the contents. It will be more than you'll see on the Saturdays after October 1, because Uncle Sam is going to begin taking out a bigger handful.
As a matter of fact, Uncle Sam is going to start taking about 20 per cent more out of your pay envelope than he has been doing heretofore. The new take is a part of your portion of the pay-as-we-go plan for financing the Korean war and the long range preparedness program which is to stop communist aggression.
The tax step is the "first installment" of the tax program which the government is planning to raise revenue for carrying on its program. The 20 per cent tax increase which comes directly from your earnings is only a portion of the new taxes you will pay. There will be additional hidden taxes which will make you get less value received for each dollar you spend.
You, the individual, are the one who is paying the additional 20 per cent tax hike directly from your earnings.
In all probability there would be no necessity for a tax increase even in the face of the current emergency, could the individual citizens bring enough pressure upon their representatives in the house and senate to do away with the outright waste in the federal government spending.
On the surface, you may blame the international situation for the additional taxes you are going to pay. But fundamentally, you may place the blame for higher taxes squarely in the laps of the administration and our representatives in congress who refuse to undertake an all-out fight to do away with flagrant waste of money which is going on in the federal government.

The Stitch In Time

President Truman, in spite of his veto, now has adequate legislation to cope with the communist activities within our own country. The lopsided senate vote of 57 to 10 made into law the anti-Red measure which the president vetoed after it was first passed by Congress.
The overwhelming vote in both the house and the senate on the anti-communist bill brought out significantly that Truman was unable to hold in line even his staunchest supporters on the senate floor. Even Democratic Leader Scott Lucas of Illinois voted to override the president's veto of the measure.
The bill provides for rigid communist controls within the United States. It approaches the point of infringing upon the constitutional rights of individuals in this county who have given their allegiance to the communist movement of aggression rather than to the stars and stripes of liberty. President Truman vetoed the measure because he said it was too strong. It went too far in the way of controlling communist activities in this country.

We believe, however, that congress was wise in its passage of the bill over the president's veto. In this time in which we are calling thousands of men a month into the military service of our country, and launching on a mobilization which will cost $0 billion dollars a year; we can not afford to neglect the things which threaten our freedom from within our borders as well as from outside our borders.
The individual freedom of the people in this country must be protected. But on the other hand, security of our freedom as a people should not be sacrificed to afford freedom of activity to an individual who is working for the overthrow of our government.

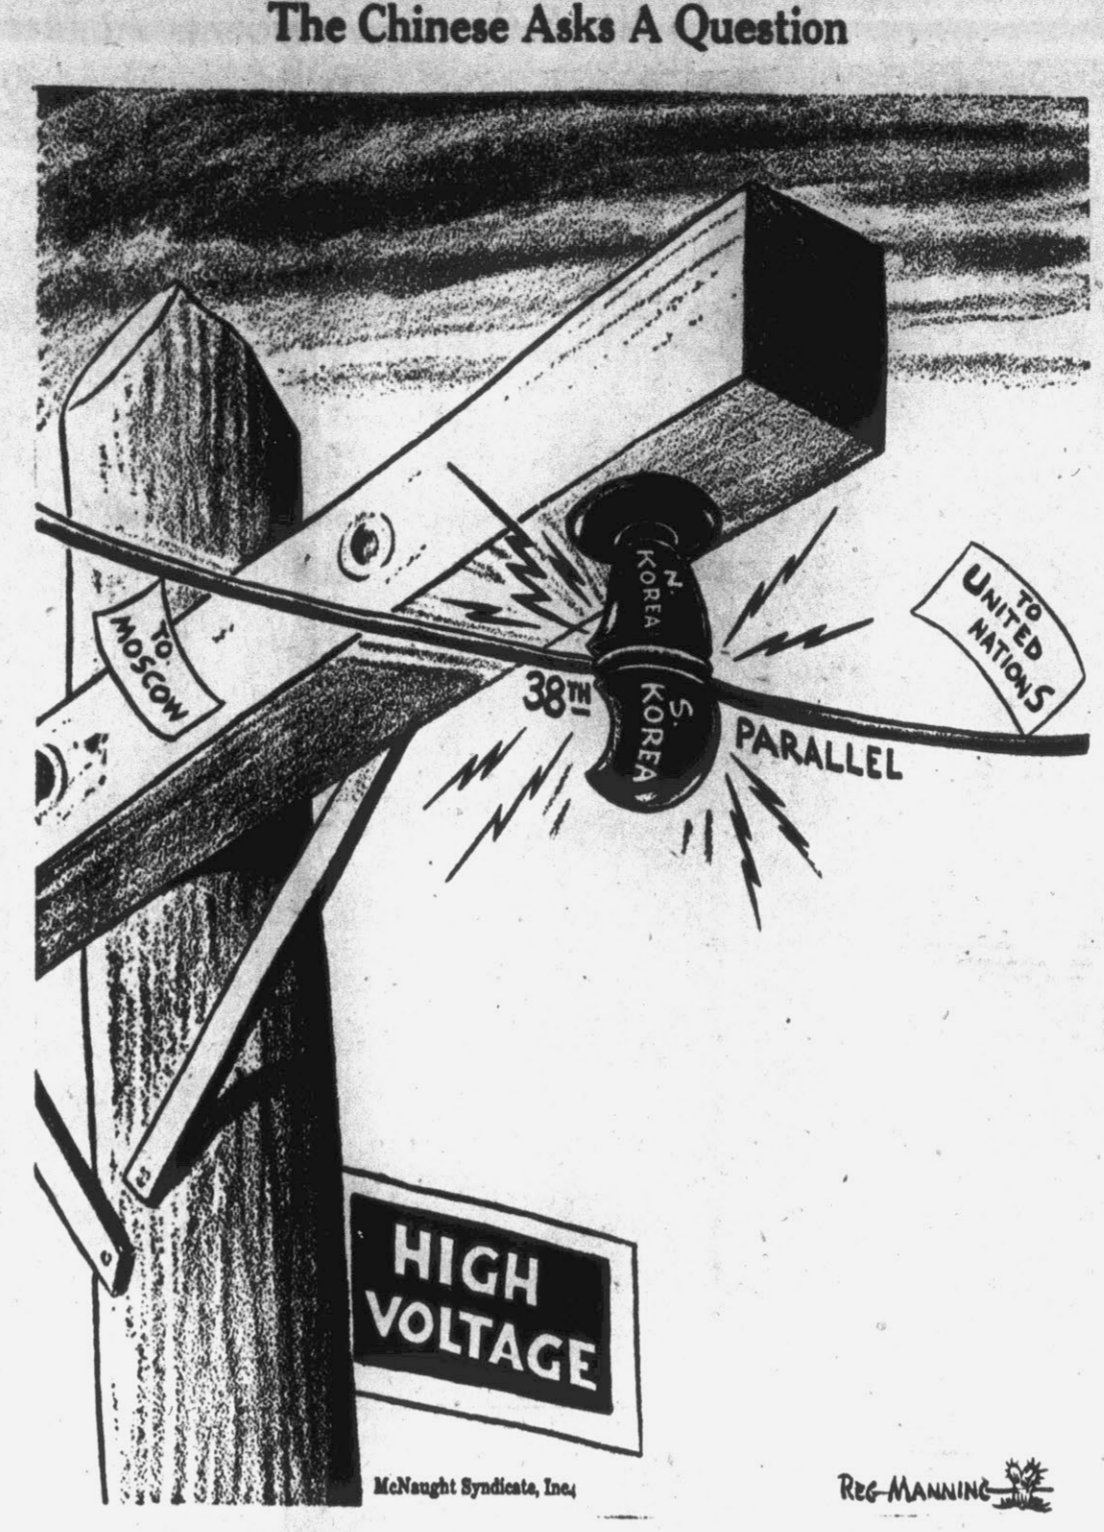

As Usual, Ewing Put In His Two Cents

Oscar Ewing, the man who would dearly love to see socialized medicine in America, tells his listening AFL audience that the American Medical Association is raising a "war chest" to defeat so-called liberal-minded candidates and propagandize against socialized medicine.
He makes it sound most sinister, un-American and dangerous. Disregarded is the fact that the major unions are all engaged in identical campaigns, as is their right.
Nor did he hesitate to use unwarranted criticism of the medical profession... inferring that the country had to resort to a draft to get medical personnel for the armed forces. The same, and equally futile argument can be used in saying that the government had to resort to the draft to get fighting men from the homes of America.
We only marvel that a man with such an intemperate, biased attitude toward his own political fortunes, should have been judged competent for the post of Federal Security Administrator.

National Whirligig News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—While the Army and Air Force will have to reopen and rebuild costly cantonments to house the 3,000,000-man defense force planned by Secretary Marshall, more than 200 buildings in a Missouri camp are bulging with grain bought at parity prices by the Commodity Credit Corporation in an utterly fantastic deal.
Although the transaction resulting in this waste of property and a heavy financial loss to the taxpayers may not fall within the jurisdiction of Senator Lyndon Johnson's revived "Truman Committee," fellow-members have called it to his attention as an example of government confusion and extravagance.
Here is the amazing story:
PROFIT—In its haste to get rid of World War II surplus and wind up its affairs, the War Assets Administration leased 163 buildings at Camp Crowder, Mo., to the Midwest Storage and Realty Company of Kansas City last September. The firm planned to use the space for storage of grain.
The rental charge was only $11,720 a year, or approximately $72 a building. But almost immediately, the Kansas City group leased the property back to the Commodity Credit Corporation for a profit, as of March 30, 1950, of 1400 per cent.
Between the time of the September, 1949, transaction and March 30 of this year, CCC had paid $158,083 in rentals for the Camp Crowder storage space.
But that is not the whole story.
LOSS—War Assets also leased 43 additional warehouses at Camp Crowder to the V. M. Harris Grain Company of Scott City, Kansas. The annual rental for this property was $16,700, a far higher figure per building than the Kansas City group paid.
Again almost immediately, so soon, in fact, that it seems like a single transaction, the Harris company sublet the 43 buildings to Commodity Credit for the storage of wheat. As of last March, the government agency had handed over $138,658 to the Scott City firm.
At the time the diversion of these leases from one government agency to another federal corporation was made, with a loss of $275,000 to the taxpayers, the offices of War Assets and Commodity Credit were only a ten minutes' walk from each other. An alert official could have made it in eight minutes.
DUPLICATED—War Assets officials must have known that CCC was desperate for grain storage space. For the newspapers and official statements were full of it. Last year, as now, the farmers were spilling their surplus crops on the ground because of stuffed elevators, bins and warehouses.
Moreover, interested members of the Senate like Mr. Williams of Delaware, as well as worried Democrats, maintain that this ancient system of siphoning profits through such a leasing arrangement can be duplicated many times. And in several instances the barracks and buildings now needed for raising a Korean or "cold war" army and air force are serving as politico-financial barns.

REWARD—Although the White House will probably deny it, President Truman promised AFL-CIO labor leaders at their recent off-the-record dinner conference that he would fire Robert N. Denham as counsel of the National Labor Relations Board. It was a reward for their all-out support in the forthcoming November elections.
In fact, Mr. Truman gave a special message to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, taking him aside, Mr. Truman informed "Friend Bill" that Mr. Denham would be off before the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor at Houston, Tex. Mr. Green was thus able to report to his membership that he had their legal enemy's scalp.
"This is just as good," confided Mr. Green to a friend, "as the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. Mr. Truman and myself have been kicked around because we couldn't get repeal through Congress. It is now just as good as off the books, with Denham out."
This is labor's second NLRB victory. Last year it persuaded Mr. Truman not to reappoint a conservative, Virginia Democrat to the board, and to supplant him with a labor union organizer.
HAY—In fact, both organized labor and the "liberal" farm groups figure that they are sitting pretty, with a possible war approaching, than they did under Franklin D. Roosevelt ten years ago. W. Stuart Symington, who will head the general war production effort, has shown great sympathy for the unions in private conferences with them.
He has virtually assured them that there will be no wage controls until they have had time to obtain increases based on higher living costs. That is the Truman policy, whether he likes it or not.
Two Cabinet members who will direct emergency activities—Chapman of Interior and Brannan of Agriculture—are pro-labor and pro-producers of the Farmers' Union rather than the Farm Federation variety. Like labor, the farmers will be permitted to "make hay" under President Truman's setup. They will reciprocate on November 7, so he expects.

Around Capitol Square

DRAFTS — Some criticism has been directed at selective service authorities for its policy of not permitting publication of names of men called up for physical examination. Col. T. H. Upton, state director of selective service, explains that there is no law against such publication, but the service has adopted a non-publicity policy to save many young men from embarrassment. Those whose names had been published in local newspapers as called up, and were later deferred to another call or failed to pass the tests, often had a lot of explaining to do among their friends. There is no ban upon publication of names of those called for induction after passing the examination, but for reasons similar to those assigned in the first instance, publication is required to be withheld until the day before embarkation to training centers.
COURTESY — Col. Upton says this policy is a courteous gesture to the young men involved, rather than any attempt at secret police methods. Friends who really care already know about the draftee's status, and the curious public can get along without advance knowledge of who has been called for examination. In case of those falling to report when called, publication is not only permitted but it is desired and urged that they be publicized as deserters.
OTHER SIDE — The policy would seem to make sense, except for the factor of pressure and "pull" exerted by some potential draftees to obtain deferment. In most cases that pressure would have been applied earlier, but there remains possibility that someone actually called might be able to get the call rescinded at the last minute. In that event, the public—and certainly the boys who reported—are entitled to the facts. Chances of it happening are admittedly remote and probably do not outweigh the "protection" afforded those who fail to pass, or who may have been deferred without their own request. Fact is, any law or rule designed to protect good folks can be used by the un-good for their special benefit.

ANTI-COMMUNIST — Considerable comment has been heard around the square about the fact that Senator Frank Graham was the only member of the North Carolina congressional delegation who voted against the anti-communist bill which was enacted last week. None of the comment has suggested that Senator Graham wants to protect the communists. On the other hand, all who voted against the measure are credited with desire to protect good people from abusive application of the law, just as communists are now protected by abusive claims upon constitutional rights. Those who voted for the bill took the position, right well expressed by former Senator William Umstead as his opinion of North Carolina sentiment—that the time had come if error is committed it should be on the side of too stringent, rather than too lenient, anti-communist laws.
BY-PASSING — Many state employees are not happy about requests filed with the advisory budget commission for legislative fixation of salaries in several positions. They had not been too well pleased with activities of the personnel department in classifying and fixing salary schedules of all state employees. However, they feel if the rank and file among state workers is to be controlled by personnel classification, it is discriminatory to by-pass this department in the case of a few middle and top bracket folks. Specific request has been of the budget commission that salaries of assistant attorneys general, chiefs of beer and wine enforcement divisions of the ABC board, and director of tax research be increased by legislative act. Similar requests with respect to other positions are anticipated. Some of the resentment voiced is obviously based in jealousy because the legislative appropriations asked are for higher salaries than the com-plainers draw. Most of it, however, is because the employees feel all should be treated alike.

SALARIES — One of the major objectives of the personnel department is to remove differentials in pay for comparable jobs. This goal cannot be obtained if the legislature picks out a few cases for special consideration. The constitution fixes compensation for members of the general assembly. (There is pending an amendment, with good chances of ratification, to increase present rates.) The general assembly fixes the salaries of all elective state officers, including the governor and lieutenant governor, members of the council of state, the attorney general, supreme and superior court judges and solicitors. Salaries of other officials and employees are fixed by various agencies. In a few instances the governor alone names the amount. In others the governor and the advisory budget commission share the responsibility. In most cases the compensation is fixed by the board of trustees or the commission in charge and the department of personnel. The only legislative control is that all payments must stay within the total appropriation for the agency. The legislature has not actually fixed school teacher salaries, except for the contingent provision that they should be on basis of $2300-$3100 for Grade A certificate-holders with corresponding rates for other grades. The state board of education has fixed salaries, within the overall instructional service allocation of funds.
FIXING — The legislature probably would not set the exact figures for the positions as to which increased salaries were requested. Procedure would be for the appropriation to be made sufficient to take care of those amounts, and then the proper agency would fix the schedule. But, a good many state employees in lower salary brackets, have not liked the idea of picking out these cases for special consideration.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

G. I. HOSPITALITY (New Bern Sun-Journal)
As a result of the expansion of the armed services, American communities are being called upon to "take a new look" at their hospitality facilities for the members of the armed forces, says the Washington Star. The President's Committee on Religion and Welfare in the Armed Forces made the request, and pointed out that the nation's services are growing to more than two million. It added:
"it becomes increasingly important for communities which are visited by members of the armed forces to take a new look at their military hospitality programs and to extend their activities to promote the off-post spiritual and moral welfare of young men and women in uniforms."
Since the committee was appointed by President Truman in 1942, staff members have visited about 100 American communities in a study of the question, "What is being done for today's servicemen?" Not too much, the committee found. There is, however, a "heart-warming willingness to do what is needed."
"Citizens were mostly uninformed about the size of our armed forces and about the great number of teen-agers who comprise them," the committee continued. "They were grateful for the information, so they might set about doing something about it."
Communities without hospitality programs for service men were asked to start establishing such programs immediately, and the committee highly praised the number of communities, both large and small, which have maintained their hospitality programs. It found a full-time paid staff of trained workers in Philadelphia, and an excellent program in Los Angeles. As an example of what a small community can do, the committee cited St. Mary's county, Md., where a citizens' committee has set up a rural area to provide services for the personnel at the Patuxent Naval Air Station.
MR. DENHAM'S RESIGNATION (Washington Daily News)
The forced resignation of Robert Denham from the National Labor Relations board is a hard pill to swallow.
It shows the length to which Mr. Truman will go to appease labor. While Mr. Truman has fought the Taft-Hartley law from the very beginning, as president of these United States, it was and is his duty to enforce the law.
When Mr. Denham was appointed to the post, it has been brought out that Mr. Truman told him precisely that. Mr. Denham tried to do the job as he saw it, but on every turn he was balked by labor.
In "firing" Mr. Denham Mr. Truman said that dissension on the board had reached the point where a peaceful solution was impossible. Mr. Truman also took

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
Government demand for wool for uniforms, plus the world shortage of sheep clippings and soaring prices, is pushing the synthetic fiber industry years ahead.
Instead of years of work in gaining acceptance for Orlon, Fiber V Dnyal and other new man-made fibers, the manufacturers can't fill demand, despite increased production. Demand for rayons is at a peak and government requirements of nylon for parachutes, hawsers, hose and other needs have created a sharp shortage even though production has tripled since the end of World War II.
The wool situation is critical and will grow more serious as the number of men in uniform increase. There have been five increases in woolen and worsted fabrics since June 1; there have been six increases in carpet prices.
Despite the rapid acceptance of nylon for many purposes, acceptance of synthetics has been relatively slow. Even nylon shirts for men have not proved as popular as many dealers hoped. Whether or not people are naturally conservative is not as important as the fact that for thousands of years the human race has clothed itself in wool and vegetable fibers, along with skins when hunting was good.
The feel of a wool garment imparts the same kind of primordial thrill as the warmth of a log fire. Acceptance of summer suits of synthetics, or synthetics in blends; acceptance of synthetic upholstery fabrics, and acceptance of rayon and wool mixtures in rugs has been relatively slow. In some areas, the acceptance has been very good. In others, people cling to the older fibers.
But with sky-high wool prices and the acute shortage, neither retailers nor consumers will have much alternative to liking synthetics and mixed carpeting, upholstery and suiting.
This raises the question of whether wool producers will permanently lose a big part of their market. Many, mindful of the fact that silk has never regained the markets it lost to nylon, guess that it will.
The chemists are even more confident. Given time, they say, they can produce fiber to any specification, something no sheep, goat or cotton plant can do. They say any degree of moisture absorption, warmth retention, elasticity, rigidity or weight can be built into fibers in the laboratory. All a fabric maker or a rug maker need do is to decide what qualities he wants and he can have it, they say.
TWO NEW DESIGNS COST A MILLION
Two new sterling patterns are being introduced today. With all the patterns on the market, that doesn't seem like a big ripple.
But the development of those patterns cost (the International Silver Co.) approximately $1,000,000.
Two years ago the design department got the assignment. Six months later designs were accepted by the executives. Then came consumer testing. Women were shown six patterns, four proven popular and two new ones. When the new ones were rated above the all-time favorites, production was ordered. That meant master models, molds, working models and then dies—a hundred for each set. As production began, distribution and advertising was planned. That brings us to today (and "Blossom Time" and "Brocade").
CARELESS BUYING FORMS "DRUG GRAVEYARD"
Retail druggists have become "the proprietors of the biggest graveyard in the world" through buying mistakes, Edward T. T. Williams, president of the Lambert Co., told the National Wholesale Druggists Association convention in New York. He urged manufacturers and wholesalers give more help to retailers.
NAMELESS STORE OPENS IN TEXAS

Newest industrial association is the National Steel Cabinet Manufacturers' Association. Immediate purposes are to develop a code of trading practices to the industry and to obtain fair distribution of sheet steel. NEW AND HOT BUNSEN: An automatic Bunsen burner is being made now by Hanau Engineering Co., 1231 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y. It has a tiny pilot and the burner is ignited by pressure on a hand rest. The flame goes out when the hand is removed.
DISPOSER: A new model garbage disposer (by General Electric) is claimed to be more economical and quieter, with a shredding mechanism that macerates bones, fruit pits and other matter to small particles.

Somewhere in Korea — (AP) — A small supply truck trundled up to the Nakdong River, south of Seoul. It was the day after the 24th Infantry Division had stormed back over the river on the long returned road to Seoul.
This dawn crossing had marked the first really successful attack by the American Eighth Army after 50 straight days. During those days it had defended the river line under orders from Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker to "hold or die." And the line held and many men died.
The supply truck was loaded with badly needed gasoline. But at one point along the rutted road it paused with the undeviating courtesy of the battlefield to pick up a solitary, hitchhiking soldier.
He was a private first class and he looked like a tired battle straggler lost from his company.
He was a stocky youth of about 22 with blue eyes and a stare that combat soldiers call "the thousand yard look." It is an expression men often get after sudden battle shock or long exposure to danger.
The private's face was pale beneath its tan. He wore stained dungarees and there was no helmet over his fatigue cap. He carried neither weapon nor canteen, and that was unusual too, in a fighting zone.
He climbed laboriously into the back of the truck. As it swung slowly on up the heavy yellow road he sat down wearily among the gasoline cans next to another hitchhiker—Bem Price, an Associated Press correspondent.
Price, who served in the Marines in the last war, had covered the river crossing the day before. He was on his way up again to go over the Nakdong and get the first news story of how the attack was faring on the other side.
The two soon fell to talking. The private was nervous and kept clutching his sides, with both arms as he spoke. He said that he was one of the engineers whose job had been to steer the assault boats that carried the doughboys across the Nakdong.
"I was in the second wave," he said. "They shot up our boat with machineguns and it went down. Then a mortar shell hit in the river by me and it seemed like the water was squeezing me to death."
The private held his chest and coughed painfully and spat over the side of the truck. He shook his head when Price offered him a cigarette.
"I blacked out and I guess I would have drowned if some of my buddies hadn't pulled me into another boat," he said. "Don't remember anything about the next 112 hours, except standing in a chow line somewhere. Then I came to in a hospital. With both arms as he spoke."
They said I had concussion and ought to stay there for at least a couple of days. But I didn't want to dope off on my outfit—not at a time like this. So I waited until breakfast and then I took off."
They talked for a while then about the Korean war and the private said he wasn't sure just what it is all about. But he said he has served three years of a six year hitch in the Army and planned to sign up for another six. And he made the usual frontline soldiers gripe about the beer ration.
"We haven't had any for four days," he said. "Now they ought to be able to do better than that."
When the truck halted to let him off, he climbed slowly down. He gripped his chest, bent over and coughed and spat between his wide-spaced feet.
Then he straightened, said "So long" and walked off to rejoin his unit.
As the truck pulled away Price glanced at where the private had stood. In the golden dust gleamed several bright drogs. They were red.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — More than 8,000,000 children are expected to get a rounded, energy-building holiday meal for about 20 cents every school day this year under the National School Lunch Act.
But the Department of Agriculture, which directs the program, says you and I may have to pitch in and help to make it so.
Appropriations for this year's program, as passed by Congress, are the same as last year's, but the fund may suffer a slight slash in the overall federal budget cut which Congress has directed the Budget Bureau to make. At the same time, food costs are up, and participation in the program will show a big increase over last year.
"This fund may have to be spread pretty thin, an official of the Department of Agriculture told me. "It looks then like communities may have to help with public and private funds to the point where we won't be able to raise lunch costs and force some of the kids out of the program."
Under the National School Lunch Act, passed in 1946, the states are assisted through federal grants-in-aid, and other means, in operating non-profit school lunch programs. State have primary responsibility for developing their own programs. For every dollar of federal funds allotted, the law requires the state to spend a dollar. In matching the grants, food and labor supplied by the schools may be counted. The Congressional appropriation this year, as for 1949-50, is $83,500,000.
Part of this appropriation is reserved for buying foods directly. These are purchased especially to make up known nutritional deficiencies, chiefly vitamin C and protein. Last year the government bought supplies of concentrated tomato and orange juice, canned tomatoes, beans and fruit, cheese and peanut butter.
In addition, large quantities of butter, cheese, dry milk, dried eggs and potatoes, canned sour cherries, pears and apples were distributed for school lunches as a result of Department of Agriculture purchases in connection with the price support program. (These foods were not charged against the school lunch program.)

Buck Hardee made it his third placement of the night, with the final score reading 27-19.

By BILL LLOYD

An all-out air battle was staged at college stadium, Hickory, Saturday night, with East Carolina's Pirates emerging victorious, 27-19, in their all-important conference opener.

A crowd of 3500 people, mingled with about 100 Pirate partisan fans, watched EC's all-conference Roger Thrift's terrific tosses to Ends Frank Maennie and Dwight Shoe, who made brilliant catches.

East Carolina Scores First

East Carolina scored first about midway of the initial period on a pass play from Thrift to Maennie that covered 58 yards. Maennie made a beautiful catch of Thrift's toss, gathering it in on the 24, and scampering the rest of the way untouched. Buck Hardee missed his only placement of the night and the Pirates led, 6-0.

Seven plays later, the Bears had come clawing back to net the count 6-all, on a pass from Tallback C. A. Frye to Kirkpatrick, that was good for 22 yards.

Pirates Lead At Halftime, 13-6

With the clock running out the first half, Coach Bill Dole's eleven again hit pay dirt on a sustained 80-yard march which featured Thrift's passing to Maennie and Dwight Shoe. Less than a minute remained when Thrift spotted Shoe in the end zone for the score. Hardee converted the first of three placements, and the Bucs led at halftime, 13-6.

Each team felt each other out during the third period with no one crossing the goal stripe. However, great defensive play by East Carolina's forward wall prevented two serious Bear threats. One offensive drive carried the ball down to the Pirates' own 11-yard line where stalwarts such as Buck Hardee, Don McKenzie, Wally Robinson and Bobby Hodges rose up to stop the Bruin threat dead. Another time, Captain Ervin White recovered Swain's fumble on the Buc 11, and the Bears had first and ten. A pass from Frye to Little carried to the 2, but again the Pirates staved off the rally and took possession of the ball.

"Choo Choo" Britt Makes TD

East Carolina's third touchdown of the night came at the opening of the fourth quarter. After LR had punted to Billy Smith on the Bear 45, the little, determined safety man made a brilliant, sheer-force run that returned the ball to the 33. Bear tacklers were hanging all over the pint-sized back. Thrift then hit Maennie on the 8, with the big end being run out of bounds. On the next play from scrimmage, Jack "Choo Choo" Britt went off left tackle for the remaining distance for the marker. The score read 20-6, after Hardee kicked his second placement.

The Bears came roaring back immediately after, trying desperately to get back in the ball game. In fifteen plays, the Bears scored twice to make the count read, 20-19.

The first quick score came after Bobby Hodges had kicked off to Gene Robinson who returned it to the 20. Frye hit Setzer, good to the 37. On the next play Frye passed to Kirkpatrick again on a play that covered 63 yards. Trudnak kicked

Apps Lead Way With Two Wins In North State

By the Associated Press

Appalachian has already put in its bid for top honors in the North State Conference this season. With two wins under their belts, the Mountaineers are at the top of the heap in conference standings.

The second triumph was a 13-6 victory over Western Carolina Saturday. Western Carolina is the defending champion. A week earlier, Appalachian opened its season with a 22-2 rout of Guilford.

Two teams with single wins are Elon and East Carolina. East Carolina dumped Lenoir-Rhyne 27-19 in a season-opener Saturday, while Elon trampled Atlantic Christian 33-6 in its first conference outing.

In other games Saturday, High Point edged Newberry, 14-12. Guilford eased past Hampden-Sydney 21-19, and Erskine upset Catawba 34-20.

Only two conference games are scheduled this week. Guilford meets High Point Thursday night, and Elon will be at Appalachian Saturday.

Non-conference games have Lenoir-Rhyne at Newberry, Presbyterian at Western Carolina, Catawba at N.C. State, Wilson Teachers at Atlantic Christian, and Hampden Sydney at East Carolina.

Skip Alexander Injured In Crash

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 25—(AP)—A Civil Air Patrol plane crashed and burned in a railroad yards near here last night, killing Skip Alexander, top-flight professional golfer. Neighbors found the 32-year-old Lexington, N.C. golfer crawling into a field, his clothes aflame. At Deaconess Hospital, he was expected to recover.

Alexander's left leg was broken above the ankle and he was burned on the hands, arms and face. Hospital attendants said some of his arm burns were third-degree.

Neighbors said the plane barely cleared houses west of the railroad yards and crashed next to the mainline track of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad three miles north of the city. Some suggested the pilot may have mistaken the floodlighted railyard for the municipal airport, a quarter of a mile northeast.

23 Horses Lost In Track Blaze

Upper Marlboro, Md., Sept. 25—(AP)—The number of horses lost in a Saturday night fire at Marlboro race track reached 23 today with the destruction of Vona, a thoroughbred owned by E. K. Auld of Washington, D.C.

Twenty horses were burned or smothered to death in the fire which swept two stables. Two others were destroyed.

Found His Targets In Aerial Attack

Accurate passing by All-Conference Roger Thrift sparked East Carolina's winning aerial game against Lenoir-Rhyne. The contest was marked by a total of 62 attempted passes in the nip and tuck battle which saw the Pirates victorious by 27-19.

Mangrum Wins In $15,000 Kansas City Golf Tourney

Kansas City, Sept. 25—(AP)—Pressure player Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, always a serious man on the links, had the finesse in the finish to win the $15,000 Kansas City open golf tournament yesterday.

Mangrum, who started the final round on the Milburn Country club course one stroke behind Ed Oliver of Seattle, Wash., won the $2,600 first money with a score of 271.

That was a stroke better than Oliver and Jack Burke, Jr., White Plains, N. Y., who each earned $1,650.

The former U. S. open champion shot steady, rather than sensational golf, in posting a 34-35-69 for a 72 hole total of 17 strokes under par.

Oliver spent much of his time in the rough but had the gallery of 7,500 pulling for him to his very last effort—a 45 foot putt on the final hole that was true but two feet from the cup. It would have given him a tie with Mangrum.

Amateur Frank Stranahan, of Toledo, had his second straight 66 for a 276 total and fourth in the standings.

Another Shelton Brother Is Slain From Ambush

Herrin, Ill., Sept. 25—(AP)—The coroner's jury wrote another familiar chapter in the bloody history of William County—death to gunshot wounds "at the hands of parties unknown."

This time it was Roy Arnes, 32, brother of a slain member of the rapidly dwindling Shelton gang, the mob whose wars with rival gunmen were the terror of southern Illinois in the 20s.

Roy was blasted to his death early yesterday morning by shots from a high powered rifle and a shotgun.

The shots came from ambush, just as they did when Carl, Bernie and Roy Shelton were shot to death in three assassinations in the last three years.

The Portuguese empire began to wither under British and Dutch onslaughts in the 17th century.

Operation Today For Blackwell

Cincinnati, Sept. 25—(AP)—Ewell Blackwell, the Cincinnati Reds' star pitcher, will be operated on for appendicitis today.

He was stricken about two o'clock this morning while going with the club to St. Louis.

Blackwell, who pitched Cincinnati to a victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the first game of a doubleheader yesterday, was removed from the train at Indianapolis.

Boner By Detroit's Catcher Virtually Ends Flag Race

By RALPH RODEN Associated Press Sports Writer

The 1950 American League pennant race is just about over but it will be remembered as long as baseball is played as the year that catcher Aaron Robinson pulled one of the most colossal "boners" in history.

Robinson's blunder gave the Cleveland Indians a 2-1 ten inning victory over Detroit yesterday and practically erased the Tigers' pennant hopes.

The defeat dropped the second place Tigers 2 1-2 games behind the New York Yankees, who virtually knocked third place Boston out of contention by trouncing the Red Sox, 4-5.

New York needs six victories out of its remaining eight games to clinch its second straight championship. If the Yanks win only four games the Tigers will have to win all of their seven to beat out the Bombers.

Robinson's "rock" came in one of the strangest games ever played. At game time in Cleveland it was so dark because of dust and smoke that the lights were turned on.

The astounding play occurred as follows:

Bob Lemon tripled to start the Cleveland tenth. Tiger manager Red Rolfe ordered Ted Gray intentionally to walk the next two batters to set up a force play at every base.

Larry Doby then popped to first baseman Don Kolloway. Luke Easter followed with a grounder to Kolloway. Kolloway stepped on first to retire Easter and pegged to Robinson.

Robinson grabbed the throw and stopped on the plate while Lemon was starting his slide about eight to ten feet away.

Umpire Bill Summers thumbed Lemon out, but the pitcher slid across the plate. Robinson, apparently thinking he still had a force play, made no attempt to tag Lemon. The Cleveland bench dashed at Summers and brought first base umpire Charley Berry along. When it was pointed out to Summers that Lemon had to be tagged in order to be declared out, Summers reversed his decision and called Lemon safe.

Victory Booming Sale Of Tickets

Requests for season tickets to East Carolina's home football games have been booming since Saturday when the Pirates took a 27-19 decision over the Lenoir-Rhyne Bears.

The hot and heavy offensive attack displayed by the Pirates over the highly rated Bears overwhelmed Coach Bill Dole's pre-season pessimism. Greenville fans have thereby showed their enthusiasm by readily buying the season books.

Ticket sales chairman Ben Rouse stated this morning his Jaycees, who this year are pushing the drive, have on hand only 200 tickets for the five home games. The drive ends Thursday of this week, two days before the opening home schedule.

Rouse urged anyone who wants a season ticket to contact any member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce before Thursday.

"There aren't many left," Rouse said, "and I expect a sellout before the first game."

Wake Forest's Line Stronger Than Expected

Wake Forest, N.C., Sept. 25—(AP)—Coach D. C. Walker of Wake Forest had one comforting thought today as he looked ahead to Saturday's game with Richmond—his forward wall apparently is stronger than anticipated.

The sturdy Demon Deacon line yielded only 91 yards rushing in the 7-7 tie with Boston College Friday night.

Not only that, but the Deacs hurred back a serious scoring threat by Boston College on the four-yard line in the closing minutes.

In pre-season drills, Walker had expressed some doubt about the ability of his line to come through. He pointed out that graduation had taken its toll and that the reserves were unseasoned. There were only two starters back from 1949.

EARTHQUAKE IN GREECE

Athens, Greece, Sept. 25—(AP)—Some 400 houses were damaged and five persons were injured by an earthquake which struck eastern Crete Saturday, press dispatches said today.

Mineral wool insulation is made of rock smelter by forcing steam under high pressure to break up the rock into fluffy fibers.

Paratroopers Fly Into Action In Korea; Knockout Blow Hoped

Washington, Sept. 23—(AP)—The Army is beginning to draw on the core of its quick-striking mobile reserve, the airborne force, in massing strength for the all-out blow to annihilate the North Korean Communist enemy.

How long that would take was still a question, Pentagon officers while liking the look of the Korean picture, say it is too early to make predictions.

American paratroopers showed up yesterday at Kimp'o airfield, on the Seoul battlefield, and a few hours later were committed to action.

On the basis of news reports, which said 180 plane loads of from 16 to 17 men each arrived at Kimp'o, an airborne regiment, slightly under full strength, appeared to have been sent in initially.

These infantrymen-with-wings came into battle in sedate fashion, riding in transport planes which landed on a friendly airstrip. There was no spectacular "airdrop" of men into enemy territory in a cloud of parachutes.

But also there is no reason why the paratroopers, used for the moment as regular foot soldiers, may not show up in the days ahead in the role for which they are trained—stabs behind the enemy lines to establish airheads.

Actually, in World War II airborne troops did about as much fighting in a ground force infantry role as they did by parachute or glider drops to the enemy's rear. One of the most famous actions by an American airborne force was the holding of Bastogne, Belgium—in which the 101st Airborne Division rolled into action on trucks and on foot.

The first assignment for the airborne unit which landed at Kimp'o airfield was to join in the hard house-to-house fighting for the capture of the big city of Seoul. For this, airborne troops are peculiarly adapted. Their training is nearer the commando type than any other Army unit.

In modern war, airborne forces usually begin their major operations in the late phases. Used strictly as airborne troops, they are of value not only in creating new "beachheads" to be held until the advancing ground front joins with them but in raiding-type operations. They cut the enemy's communications lines, blow up bridges along which he might seek to retreat, prevent reinforcements from reaching him and generally help the progressive disorganization that develops as a counteroffensive begins to roll against him.

More Action For N. C. Demo Office

By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh, Sept. 23—Speeded up activity has marked Democratic state headquarters during the past few days. Letters have been going out to county chairmen and other local leaders, urging efforts toward the biggest majority ever rolled up in a general election.

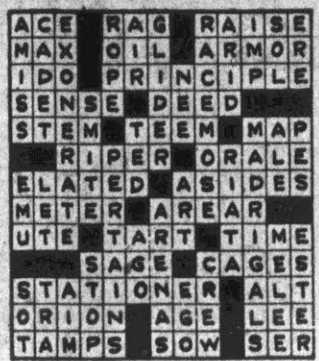

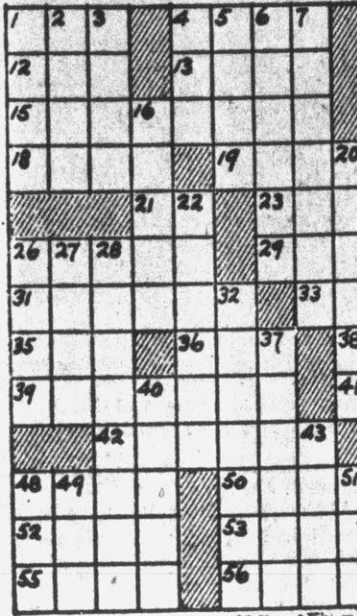

This week will see much more action all along the line. Eric W. Rodgers, editor and publisher of the Scotland Neck Commonwealth, is expected to report for duty as director of public relations within a few days. Rodgers handled publicity for the fall campaigns in 1944 and 1946.

The biennial series of congressional district rallies will begin on October 4 with the twelfth district meeting at Sylva. Next day the eleventh district rally is tentatively scheduled for Marion, followed by the tenth district meeting at Monticello on Friday, October 6. The ninth district is scheduled to have an all-day meeting at Statesville on Wednesday, October 11, and the eighth district rally will be in Lexington on the following day. Sometime that same week the seventh district rally will be held. Exact time and place not having been fixed at this time this is written.

The first district Democrats have selected Greenville as the place and Wednesday, October 18, as the day for their meeting. Tentative schedules, with places yet to be decided, for three other eastern districts are the second on October 19; the third on October 20, and the fourth (most likely at Raleigh) on October 24. The itinerary will wind up in the piedmont the week before the election with rallies for the fifth district.

Greenville, N.C.

Take a "Test Drive" in a Ford and you'll discover the fine car "feel" of cars that cost hundreds of dollars more. You'll sense the solid safety of Ford's "Lifeguard" Body and 35% easier acting King-Size Brakes. And with Ford's sure-footed, road hugging "feel," you'll have to keep reminding yourself that this is a low-priced car you're driving.

There's a "Ford" in your future with a lifetime built in.

White sidewall tires and wheel trim rings optional at extra cost.

Ford brings big-car V-8 power to the low-price field, too... with the same type of eight-cylinder engine now powering America's finest cars. And the famous Ford "Six" sells for even less. Yet, with all its big-car features, Ford is low in first cost, low in upkeep, high in resale value. It's America's all-round number one buy.

Total Of 424 N. C. Youths Due To Be Inducted Today

Raleigh, N.C., Sept. 25—(AP)—A total of 424 Tar Heel draftees was scheduled to trade civilian clothes for Army uniforms today in the first of a series of inductions in the state.

In all, 1,500 or more youths who passed pre-induction examinations will be inducted this week.

North Carolina's Army quota for September calls for 1,525, but 1,840 men have been summoned to report at three recruiting stations during the week.

The number of registrants ordered to report for induction is in excess of the state quota, draft officials explained, because some are sure to receive induction deferments.

The inductions will be continued through Thursday at Raleigh, and Fayetteville recruiting stations and through Friday at Charlotte.

The inductees are scheduled to report to Fort Jackson, S.C., for training.

The number reporting today is as follows:

At Fayetteville—Harnett 29, Lenoir 58, Robeson 31; at Raleigh—Wake 53, Vance 14, Halifax 47, Franklin 26; at Charlotte—Mecklenburg 127, Wilkes 40.

Seeks Story Of Shooting Spree

Dunn, N. C., Sept. 25—(AP)—Harnett county Sheriff's officers today were still trying to round up the details of a shooting spree at Angier Saturday night in which four persons were shot and one beaten.

Sheriff W. E. Salmon reported that "about the only thing were absolutely sure of is that four persons were shot."

One of the persons, Mrs. Rue Sims of Knoxville, Tenn., was in critical condition at a local hospital. She was shot on the midway of a carnival that was being held at Angier. Her husband who operated a gaming concession at the carnival, was in the same hospital under police guard. He was treated for head wounds after being beaten.

Also hospitalized for gunshot wounds were Allen Byre, 37, Coyatt, Myatt, 38 and Cliff Adams, 30 all of Angier.

Salmon said he had confiscated three pistols and a shotgun, but he wasn't sure about how the shooting started or who used the weapons.

Production For West Europe Is Above Pre-War

New York, Sept. 25—(AP)—Industrial production in Western Europe is up 30 per cent above 1938, the last peacetime year before the war, Robert Hanes, head of the European aid program in Western Germany, said yesterday after his arrival here.

"There has been a substantial recovery since the Marshall plan began operating," Hanes said in an interview.

"Food supplies are increasing and rationing is almost a thing of the past."

Hanes, whose home is in Winston-Salem, N. C. had been in Europe about a year and a half. He was head of the aid program in the

Attlee Says No To Vote Demand

London, Sept. 25—(AP)—Prime Minister Clement Attlee has replied with a firm "no" to demands raised in some sections of the Labor party for another general election this year.

A source close to No. 10 Downing Street said nothing short of a Parliamentary defeat for Attlee would bring elections in Britain before 1951.

This information said the final decision rests with the Prime Minister and Attlee prefers to hang on with his paper majority of seven in the House of Commons, particularly in view of the unsettled international situation.

A group of leftwing labor supporters have been reported advocating an early election with the hope of improving labor's majority. The conservative opposition press has freely predicted an election this year.

Paris Hostile To Arming Germany

Paris, Sept. 25—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman declared today France "remains hostile" to any decision to rearm Germany.

He said the big three Foreign Ministers made no such decision at their meeting in New York last week.

Several Paris newspapers speculated today that France had agreed to the principle of creating German divisions to become part of a unified western defense force.

Eclipse Tonight

Raleigh, N. C. Sept. 25—(AP)—North Carolinians should be able to see a total lunar eclipse tonight when the moon passes through the shadow of the earth.

According to Dr. Roy K. Marshall of the Morehead planetarium at Chapel Hill, it will be the last total lunar eclipse visible from any part of the nation until January 1953.

The eclipse will begin at 9:31 p.m. when the moon passes the earth's shadow, and at 10:45 the eclipse will be total. The moon will begin to emerge about 11:39 and at 1:02 a. m. the eclipse will be over.

Narcotics Agent Killed In Raid On Opium Center

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 25—(AP)—One federal narcotics agent was killed and another wounded in a Sunday morning opium raid on a downtown hotel here.

Four men—one of them wounded in an exchange with the agents—were taken into custody.

Killed by a bullet through the heart was A. M. Bangs, 50, chief of the U.S. Narcotics Bureau for the northwest area. Joseph Windberg, 27, a narcotics agent, was shot through the side.

John Wong, 50, is held under guard in a hospital. He was wounded five times. Doctors said both wounded men have a chance to recover.

DOUBLE WEDDING

By Adelaide Humphries

Chapter 8
Sandy came home not long after this to announce that he had got his old job back. He was starting to work again the next morning. He seemed quite pleased about it, yet it was that determined gaiety, and Stephanie knew he had been looking—and had hoped—for a different opening.

He had been employed by a big advertising agency, the same one that handled most of Mayo's contracts. It had, in fact, been through her mother that Stephanie had first met Sandy. So, as Mayo would have said, it was her own fault that her daughter had fallen in love with someone her mother might not have chosen for her.

"I had rather hoped," Stephanie said, "that you could find a part-time job, so you would have time left over to do your own kind of writing." She had even thought about getting a job herself, in order to make this possible. Mayo, she knew, would have made one for her at the shop. Stephanie had done all sorts of war work, so that now she often found herself wishing she could have been as busy as before.

"I've about decided," Sandy returned with a little deprecatory grin, "that my kind of writing is a waste of energy. Much more profit in the commercial kind. And funds are beginning to run low."

He had insisted upon paying for everything since he had returned, although Stephanie had wanted to do her share. He had that stubborn sort of pride; the man must, in every sense, be the head of the house. He would not have liked his wife to work, as that would reflect on his ability to provide for her.

Stephanie knew he hated turning out commercials. He used to make a sort of game about them, reading them aloud and adding so much emphasis to certain phrases, giving them new meaning, that Stephanie had often been dissolved in helpless laughter.

"I wish you'd let me help with expenses," she said, knowing such an appeal was useless. "You know I have—"

"I don't know what you have," he broke in, those two stern lines furrowing his smooth brow, "and I don't care. What you have is yours. I didn't mean we were that broke."

She supposed he thought that whatever she had might, in part, have belonged to Grant. She said, a bit stiffly:

"What I have is mine alone, but what you have is ours. That doesn't make sense to me, but I suppose there's no use arguing it with you. Or that it would ever occur to you, Sandy, that I would be happier if I had more to do."

The scowl remained on his handsome face. He said, shortly, "Then you aren't happy."

"I didn't say that. I said I would be happier if I were busier. Keeping house for two men was not enough, she had found, to fill her time. Sandy's uncle took as many meals away as he did with them. The apartment was so small she could get it in order in less than an hour.

"I would never want to stand in the line of your happiness," Sandy said, a bit ironically, as if to accent the fact that he believed he was doing just that. "If you want to get a job, by all means do so."

Knowing his views on this particular subject, Stephanie did not believe he would really want her to take him up on his suggestion. Yet she might, if only to prove that she could get a job and to let him know she had taken him literally.

It was not like her to want to do anything out of spite. Perhaps it was so much idleness that made her spiteful! It would be wonderful, she thought, beginning to see all sorts of possibilities in this new idea of hers, to get away from the apartment most of the day, although she was beginning not to mind it quite so much. At Uncle Quent's insistence Stephanie had made a few changes. He had kept saying she must feel free to go ahead and change things to suit her, insisting that he knew women liked to make changes and that he supposed his home did lack the feminine touch.

The few touches Stephanie had managed had helped some, but not enough. She had taken down the heavy drapes and lace curtains, substituting fine net and a bright coverlet. She had made slip covers of the same material for the davenport and the Morris chair. She had put away most of the bric-a-brac. But the place was still crowded and small and dark. She still felt as if it were a cage, pressing down and in upon her.

"Suppose now," Sandy suggested, returning to that forced cheerfulness as if he realized he had been short and a bit surly, "we step out and celebrate my getting a job—such as it is. Quent would insist it called for a celebration. How about it?"

His uncle always found any occurrence worth celebrating. Only a night or so ago he had treated them to dinner, with champagne, because he said he had come by a windfall. Stephanie did not know what Sandy's uncle did for a living; there had never been any explanation offered as to the odd hours he kept and she had not felt it her place to make inquiries.

"If you think we can afford it," Stephanie agreed to this idea of Sandy's because she decided he really felt low about going back to his old job.

Three Highway Accidents For County Reported For Weekend

Three highway accidents were reported in Pitt County over the weekend with several persons being injured slightly and considerable property damage.

The first accident took place about 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon on N. C. 11 about one and one-half miles from Greenville near the Open Air Theater when a car operated by William Tyson Baker, Route 1, was struck by a car following behind it as the Baker car attempted to make a turn on the highway.

According to Patrolman Dick Chadwick, investigating officer, a Negroes overturned as the driver claimed he was forced off the highway when he came into a curve on the New Bern highway about a mile from the Chlood school.

The driver, Robert Evans, 122 W. 16th Street, Greenville, stated to Patrolman Paul C. Whitley that he was traveling about 50 miles per hour when a car started to pass him at the beginning of a curve at the same time they were meeting another car. According to the story told Whitley, the other car cut in on Evans, forcing him from the highway, into a ditch, traveling along it for a considerable distance before coming back on the highway right side up. Evans stated that the other car did not stop. The accident occurred about 3:00 this morning.

The car was damaged to the extent of about $450.

Evans suffered several minor cuts. Dot Lee Harris, a passenger, reported a lacerated knee. Several other occupants in the car were shaken up.

No charges have been brought in the accident.

Cars In Collision Sunday Morning

A chase by a Greenville police car early Sunday morning ended in a head-on collision for a speeding car which the officers were seeking to overtake at the Fifth and Elizabeth Streets intersections.

According to information received from the Greenville Police department, a local patrol car was in pursuit of a car operated by Guy Kite of Norfolk which was speeding and operating in a careless and reckless manner when it collided head-on with a car driven by Jack Crawford, 1211 Washington Street, City.

Police officers arrested Crawford for operating a car on the left side of the road, and charged Kite with careless and reckless driving and speeding.

Both Crawford and Kite were injured in the accident and were taken to the Pitt General Hospital for treatment of their injuries. Crawford suffered cuts about the face and leg, while Kite was treated for minor injuries.

Crawford reported told officers that he was traveling about 80 miles per hour at the time of the accident.

Damage to the cars was reported to be about $500, officers said. Crawford has been released from jail while Kite has not.

The injured persons were taken to the hospital by the Greenville Fire Department's rescue truck. The accident occurred about 1:30 Sunday morning. A passenger in the Crawford car was not injured.

Rock-Throwing Boys Are Subject Of Complaint

Complaints have been made to Greenville police about boys on the railroad underpass on Dickinson avenue throwing rocks at passing automobiles. One woman motorist reported that a rock thrown from the bridge broke the windshield on her car.

Erroneous Report

A report to police headquarters that Perkins' mill, 14th and Evans streets, had been broken into Friday night, was a false alarm, records at headquarters show. Police said a door to the mill found open apparently had been blown open by the wind. There was no evidence of robbery.

"We are likely to run into the whole enemy Ninth Division before this is through," said Maj. Gen. Frank W. Milburn, First Corps commander. "I would just as soon destroy them here as any place."

The First Cavalry foot troopers leapfrogged Taejon, scene of the bitterest American defeat of the war. It was there the 24th Division had lost its commander, Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, in retreating combat.

Presumably Taejon still was in Red hands. But Communists troops there, like tens of thousands others in the south, were being trapped.

Hindu and when it became clear that Kashmir would be absorbed by either India or Pakistan, he elected to join Hindu India. But his subjects were Moslems, and they wanted to join Pakistan.

This quarrel over Kashmir has several times come close to war during the three years it has been going on. A United Nations mediator now is trying to straighten the matter out, and he has recommended partition as the best way to settle it.

It will be a godsend to peace if the U. N. can solve the Kashmir quarrel. But perhaps even more important is a solution of the religious strife in the two nations, for there is danger of war in that, too.

Anti-Communist ...

(Continued from page one) government has gone through the legal machinery mentioned above. So, until all is finished—maybe three or four years from now—it won't be possible to punish any Communist who may work for the government, or in a defense plant, or who may put out propaganda without a Communist label.

If you read the law you could see why the Communists would not register under this law.

The law says there is a world wide conspiracy of Communism to take over every country. It says this conspiracy is directed by a "Foreign power," meaning Russia.

This Foreign power, the law says sets up "action organizations" in various countries to help carry out the world-wide conspiracy. And—it says these action organizations are controlled by the Foreign power.

In turn, the law goes on, these Communist "action" organizations set up Communist "front" organizations to help carry out their plans. (The difference between a Communist action organization and a Communist front—under the definition given by the new law—is this:

(1) Action organization—It's secretly planning forceful overthrow of a government, and directed and controlled by the Foreign power, Russia.

(2) Communist front—This is controlled by the action organization, to help carry out its plans, but may have members who are innocent of its real purposes.

(So with the new law the basic difference between the two is this: A Communist action organization is made up of Communists; a front outfit is really run by Communists but may have non-Communist members or even members who don't know it's tied up with Communists at all.)

The Communist party in the United States is made up entirely of Communists. But if the party members stepped up and registered as an "action organization" they would be admitting:

1 That they were directed and controlled by Moscow.

2 That they were really plotting to overthrow this government by force.
