Down Payment On Growth Of ECTC By Greenville Men

Six Secure Option To Tract; Await State Appropriation For Purchase Before May 1

By JOHN SPINKS, JR.
 Further expansion for East Carolina Teachers College got underway yesterday when six Greenville citizens made a down payment for the college on 36 and one-third acres of land between 10th Street Extension and 14th Street.

As trustee of the option Dr. John Messick, president of the college, stated today the tract will cost $70,000, $5,000 of which has been submitted as a down payment.

The money for the property will be asked of the 1951 General Assembly.

Contributing to the option, which must be exercised on or before May 1, 1951, were R. M. Garrett, M. K. Blount, J. Herbert Waldrop, James T. Little, Graham Flanagan and W. H. Woolard.

The major portion of the land to be bought belongs to N. H. Barber, of Greenville, and heirs. A fraction over six acres belong to M. K. Blount and J. Con Lanier who bought that portion several years ago.

Bounded by the NYA Center property on the east and Rock Spring development on the west, the land will be used immediately for intramural athletic fields. No building on the property has been planned as yet.

College building committee chairman R. M. Garrett stated this morning the property, if it can be bought through a General Assembly grant, will be held in abeyance pending further expansion of the college plant.

"East Carolina is growing so fast the committee thought it had better have that property to use in the future," Garrett said.

The college can expand only in a southerly direction since it is hemmed in on three sides by residential districts.

The option must be exercised prior to May 1 of next year. If the money is not allocated before that time, those persons making the down payment may purchase it.

Dr. Messick stated the project has been planned for about three months.

The option calls for 1.65 acres to remain in the Barber hands as a life estate, thereafter reverting to the college.

The Barber heirs live in Pitt and Bladen counties and in Nansmond county, Virginia.

Hershey Favors Extending Draft Up To 30 Months

Draft Director Advances Proposal As Means Of Maintaining Big Army

Washington, Sept. 29—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, recommended today that the draft be extended from 21 months to 30 months.

He advanced the proposal as a means of maintaining an army of 1,500,000.

Hershey made this and three other major recommendations to the House Armed Service Committee which is studying possible revision in the draft.

The other suggested changes:

To modify deferment for dependency. He would have deferment for collateral dependents wiped out.

To remove restrictions on induction of veterans under 26 years of age.

To watch carefully that the "acceptability" standard does not get out of hand.

In explanation of the third suggestion Hershey said he believed "we are going to have to get a new approach to capacity to serve."

Although he did not specify, this apparently would mean less strict qualifications.

Hershey made no recommendations for changing the present draft age of 19 through 25.

In fact, he said he believed that the army could be raised and maintained by depending on this age group if the other suggestions are adopted.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) is directing the work of the House committee to find what is needed, as he said, to "attain the size of the army contemplated." Vinson himself did not give any exact figure on the size.

South Korean Army Ordered To Halt After Swift Drive To 38th Parallel

Two Pitt county men were injured last night when the car shown above plowed into a trailer-truck as it was attempting to back onto the Belvoir highway from a side road. According to Highway Patrolman Dick Chadwick shown to the right of the picture, the car was being operated by Clarence Harris, Jr., of Route 5, Greenville, who is in Pitt General hospital in a critical condition. Pursuit Of Reds Into North Korea Stopped By Allied Command; Eighth Army Spokesman Silent As To When And If Troops Will Roll North

Tokyo, Sept. 29—(AP)—South Korean forces chased broken-down Communist invader units to the parallel 38 border of Red North Korea tonight and then were called to a halt by the allied command.

The allied vanguard was pouring artillery fire on Red positions astride the line between the Red North and democratic South.

A U.S. 8th Army headquarters spokesman said the South Koreans were ordered to stop their advance and wait for what he called regrouping. He declined to say or speculate on what would happen after regrouping took place.

There was still no announced decision on whether the victorious allied armies in the south would strike into Red Korea to police it against any future invasion of Soviet-inspired uprisings.

Nor was there any indication that border-crossing might be left alone to the U.N.-armed South Koreans or other non-American allies as had been suggested in diplomatic circles elsewhere.

Among the suggestions was that Americans might be kept out of any police force going north of 38 in order not to provoke bordering Red China and nearby Soviet Siberia.

The advancing South Koreans in twin armored prongs closed up to the Red border on the east coast.

Other South Koreans were reported nearing 36 degree north of Seoul, the liberated Korean capital 30 miles south of the border.

The South Korean Third Division was the first to fight the Reds on the 38th parallel. AP Correspondent Leif Erickson, flying over the east coastal area on an observational mission, reported the South Korean big gun units plowed into ridges on the boundary.

General MacArthur handed Seoul over during the day to President Syngman Rhee and conferred on what might be done when allied troops reached the border.

Then MacArthur flew back to Tokyo without saying what had been decided.

It was agreed generally in non-Communist diplomatic capitals that MacArthur had broad authority from the U.N. to smash across the boundary and there was a move on to make it specific authority Allied planes have bombed North Korean targets since early in the war.

Correspondent Erickson said the Reds apparently were trying to make a stand between four and five miles south of Yangyang, about two miles inland from the east coast and five miles north of 38—in Red territory.

"About eight to 10 miles south of the parallel we could see considerable northbound truck traffic with a few tanks," he reported. "At this point, the North Koreans apparently had turned westward on the road inland."

Fires were burning in a small village about 12 miles north of the boundary. But Erickson said he could spot no sign of the enemy, either in vehicles or afoot, 13 to 15 miles north of 38.

Back in Seoul, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker told correspondents "the war is over." He said United Nations forces had slain 75,000 Reds in the past three months "and before we are through mopping up the resistance this total will be even larger."

The U.S. Eighth Army commander was interviewed shortly after the MacArthur-Rhee victory ceremony in the capital.

Security Council Votes Let Red China In Debate

Action Follows 7-4 Vote To Permit Communist China Sit In On Council Debate Of Formosa Issues

New York, Sept. 29—(AP)—The U. N. Security Council voted 7 to 4 today to permit Communist China's participation in the council's Formosa debate after November 15.

Council President Sir Gladwyn Jebb of Great Britain ruled that the proposal was adopted. Nationalist China immediately challenged the ruling on the ground she had vetoed the resolution.

The resolution on which the council voted was introduced by Ecuador. Yugoslavia withdrew a similar resolution of her own when the council convened.

The first test came in a vote on the operative part of the Ecuadorian resolution, calling for a postponement of the debate on Red China's charges of American aggression against Formosa until November 15 and inviting the Peiping regime to send a representative here to take part in the discussions.

Voting for this were Russia, Britain, France, Norway, India, Yugoslavia and Ecuador. The United States, Nationalist China, Cuba and Egypt voted against it.

Then the council voted on the whole resolution, including a long preamble. The result was the same except Egypt switched from the negative column to an abstention.

Pair Injured As Car Hits Trailer

Driver Remains Unconscious Hours After Pitt Wreck

Two Pitt County men were seriously injured last night when the automobile in which they were riding plowed into a tractor and trailer transfer truck which was attempting to back onto the Belvoir highway from the prison camp road.

According to information furnished by Highway Patrolmen Ernest Guthrie and Dick Chadwick, the car was being driven by Clarence Harris Jr., of Route 5, Greenville, with Eugene Edmerson Jr., also of Route 5, Greenville, as a passenger in the right front seat of the car at the time of the crash.

Both men were taken to Pitt General Hospital by ambulance, where doctors found Harris to be suffering from a serious head injury, multiple cuts and bruises. At one o'clock today Harris was still unconscious. His condition was termed critical by attending doctors. It was learned that he will be moved to the Veterans Hospital at Fayetteville this afternoon for treatment.

Edmerson suffered a fracture of the left elbow, lacerations of the scalp and forehead, and injuries to his left hand. He was treated at the local hospital and taken to his home.

The truck driver, Charles Hardy Newcomb, age 22, of Blackstone, Va., told investigating officers that he turned off highway 11 onto the Belvoir road with the idea of making a short cut to Rocky Mount. He said he had only gone a short distance when he noticed a road sign stating that the road load limit was eight tons, and as his truck was carrying more than eight tons he looked for a road to back into and turn around. The first place he found was the road leading into the prison camp.

The accident occurred as the truck was partly turned around headed back towards Greenville with all its lights burning, according to the driver.

The car struck the left center of the truck, causing only slight damage to the truck but peeling back the front of the car, carrying it into the windshield of the car. The top

Soviet Regarded As Power-Hungry

State Dept. Uses Strong Terms In Outline Of Policy

Washington, Sept. 29—(AP)—The State Department officially described Russia today as "a power-hungry government that is bent on spreading its power by force, terror."

In a policy outline drafted at President Truman's suggestion, the department said that since 1945 the Soviet Union has annexed some 7,500,000 square miles of new territory and has taken more than 500,000,000 people under its control.

"It is now trying to extend its empire across Asia," the department added.

These new denunciations of Russia were contained in a 100-page booklet entitled "Our Foreign Policy." In a brief foreword Mr. Truman said he suggested the work to "set down as simply and clearly as possible what we are after in our relations with other governments and their peoples."

A first printing of 50,000 booklets has been ordered so the booklets can be distributed to private organizations, clubs and libraries in the United States and abroad.

The booklet, written in simple language, seeks to explode Moscow's theory that the present world tension stems from a conflict between capitalism and communism.

"The conflict is really between a power-hungry government that is bent on spreading its power by force, terror and every other means and the community of three nations which refuses to be conquered or dominated, or to stand by and see its members swallowed up," the booklet said.

Tarheel Senators To Join First District Demo Rally

Willis Smith Principal Speaker; Graham, Hoey And Umstead To Attend Pitt Session

The forthcoming Democratic Party rally to be held in Greenville October 18 will resemble a Senatorial field day with members of the United States Senate past, present and future scheduled for the program.

State Democratic chairman Everett Jordan announced yesterday afternoon Senators Clyde Hoey and Frank Graham will be on the program in addition to former Senator William B. Umstead and Senatorial aspirant Willis Smith.

Smith, who recently defeated Frank Graham in the primary, will deliver the principal address on the afternoon program which will get the political ball rolling for the November 7 election in the First Congressional District.

Jordan made the announcement to John G. Clark, county Democratic Party head, in a telephone conversation from Raleigh. The two had been conferring before that concerning a time and date for the first rally of its kind to be held in the county.

The rally is slated to begin at the courthouse at four p.m. The county Democrats will be hosts to representatives of the party from the other 13 counties in the District.

U. S. Casualties In Korea Rise To Total Of 17,220

Washington, Sept. 29—(AP)—The announced total of U. S. casualties in the Korean war rose to 17,220 today.

The defense department reported the figure as the total of casualties whose families had been notified through Sept. 22.

It is 3,309 higher than the cumulative total announced through Sept. 15.

It includes 2,441 dead, 11,050 wounded and 3,359 missing in action.

Of the dead, 2,211 were killed in action and 230 died of wounds.

The total of missing includes 167 men who have returned to military control and 50 who are known to be prisoners of war. This leaves 3,742 currently listed as missing.

Leaf Prices Top Wednesday Peak Average On Local Mart Climbs Another Sixty Cents

Prices on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday showed another increase as the average climbed 60 cents per hundred pounds above the record average Wednesday.

The average price paid for the 1,495,500 pounds sold on Greenville warehouse floors yesterday was $58.68. The previous high day's average came Wednesday when the market averaged $58.08 for the day's sale. The money paid out on the market for yesterday's sale was $877,641.95.

Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee said prices showed a general advance on all grades during yesterday's sale, and that, coupled with more higher grades of tobacco on the floor, brought about the increased average.

There was a full sale on the local market yesterday and again today, and Whedbee said he is expecting a full sale on Monday. The market will continue the four and one-half hour selling day through next week.

Rehabilitating Korea

Project Being Prepared Even Before North Korea Capitulates; Demonstration Of No Imperialistic Ambitions; Program Begins Where Army Leaves Off

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Even before the collapsing North Korean army actually has capitulated, the United States has moved swiftly to lay before the United Nations a plan for rehabilitation of Korea.

This project, which is being given right of way is no routing reconstruction program. In its essence it strikes me as being a blue-print for the handling of future cases and as a declaration of international policy. Moreover it is in effect a disavowal of imperialistic ambitions on the part of the United States. And it is a warning against untoward ambitions by other powers.

This American plan isn't to be mistaken for "peace terms." Those will be the fruits of the "military decision" and in U. N. command-in-chief MacArthur's department. The rehabilitation project takes on where MacArthur leaves off.

Under the U. S. proposals, that 38th parallel which has been separating the country into two nations will be eliminated. North and South Korea once more will be united into a free and independent nation. It will elect its own sovereign government. And it will be put back on its feet economically by the combined resources of the United Nations.

This rehabilitation naturally calls for U. N. supervision on the ground. That means a commission in Korea to safeguard this great transformation.

Highly important is the fact that the United States favors a strong Asian representation on the commission. The significance of this, of course, is that it is calculated to reassure the credit regarding the intentions of the western world towards the east.

The whole tone of the American proposal is that it neither desires special privileges for itself in Korea nor does it want to see any other countries have special privileges. That would seem to apply in particular to Russia and China, both of whom have long had great interest in the Korean peninsula.

As a result of this, however, the American plan provides that the new Korea must be established in such manner that it won't pose any threat to its neighbors. As a safeguard in this direction, it is provided that the new Korean nation be admitted

Truman Said Urged To Make Political Appeals

Washington, Sept. 29—(AP)—Democratic leaders were reported today to be urging President Truman to broadcast at least three frank political appeals for election of a Democratic Congress.

The President indicated at yesterday's news conference he thinks he is going to be too busy to do any personal campaigning in the little more than five weeks left before the November election.

Democratic National Committee officials haven't given up hope for some one-shot trips to key states. But they indicated they would be glad to settle for two or three nationally-broadcast political appeals by the President for support of his policies.

These party leaders want strong, Democratic talk.

They will get some of it, of course, from Vice President Barkley, who is taking to the stump next week in a month-long round of speeches.

His itinerary was announced today by the Democratic National Committee. Barkley will cover the country from California to Connecticut, making 42 speeches between Oct. 5 and Nov. 6. He will travel by chartered plane.

If Mr. Truman intends to depart from his stated position of being too occupied with the Korean war and the rearmament program to have time for politics, he hasn't shown it.

He told reporters yesterday that the Korean matter isn't settled, and added that there is a tremendous job ahead in building up American military might.

West Germans Prepare For Red Riots In Ruhr

Bonn, Germany, Sept. 29—(AP)—West German police rushed preparations today to meet an expected onslaught by thousands of rioting communists in at least nine cities of the industrial Ruhr this week end.

From Hamburg in the northern corner of the allied zones to Cologne on the Rhine, cities were gripped by tension as police summoned reserves and warned the populace to stay off the streets and avoid public gatherings.

British authorities said intelligence reports indicate that communist demonstrations will erupt in nine or ten cities despite allied and German bans.

The communists have publicly trumpeted their intention to "fight ceaselessly" against the strengthening of western defenses in Germany and to undermine the west German government.

Money In A Bank Or Savings And Loan Association Has Greater Guarantee To The Individual For Its Protection; How Two Gov't Organizations Are Working

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Sept. 29—(AP)—Are your savings in a bank or savings and loan association?

If so, the government now has increased its insurance—a guarantee against loss on your money—from $5,000 to $10,000.

This went into effect Sept. 22, when President Truman signed into law a bill passed by Congress to give depositors greater protection.

Until Sept. 22—no matter how much more than $5,000 you had in any one bank or association covered by this insurance—you could be sure of getting back no more than $5,000, if it failed.

To put it another way: You might have had $5,000 in each of 10 banks and been insured in each but you could not get insurance on more than $5,000 in any one bank.

This increase from $5,000 to $10,000 in insurance probably will result in more people putting more of their money in one bank.

This government insurance covers most banks and savings and loan associations.

Back in 1933 when banks crashed and a lot of people lost their life's savings, the government realized that people needed some protection

Formal Tea Given In Honor Of Misses Kittrell And Ormond

Miss Frances Kittrell and Miss Dot Suggs Ormond were complimented at a lovely formal tea yesterday afternoon between the hours of 4:00 - 5:30 when Mrs. W. E. Hooker and Mrs. David Hardee held open house in their honor.

Mrs. Hardee greeted the callers at the door and introduced them to the receiving line. Welcoming them in the line were the brides-elect, Mrs. Hooker, Mrs. Harry Anderson, and Miss Sallie Joyner Davis of California.

Those in the receiving line were wearing white chrysanthemum shoulderettes given to them by the hostesses.

In the entrance hall the mantel was banked with an arrangement of southern smilax entwined around silver candlesticks holding green tapers. Large, clumps of mahonia leaves formed interesting touches at either end.

On a side table a white pottery bowl held an assortment of white gladioli, pompon chrysanthemums and fern.

Mrs. W. I. Wooten and Mrs. Graham Flanagan were at the door to the dining room and invited the guests to the refreshment table.

The dining room table was beautiful with its appointments of flowers, candles and silver serving dishes. The table was covered with an ivory damask cloth and centered with a green bride's basket with maline-covered handle holding yellow Briarcliff roses, pink Colorado carnations, lavender and bluish pink gladi, and yellow and orchid pompons, interspersed with fern.

On either side of the centerpiece were pairs of low silver candlesticks holding glowing green candles. Improved smilax was entwined around these and formed a unit with the flower basket.

On the buffet antique girandoles holding green tapers flanked an arrangement of yew and acacia leaves.

At either end of the table Mrs. H. L. Ormond and Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, Sr., wearing yellow mum corsages, were seated before silver trays from which they served brick cream in pistachio and peach flavors. Small side dishes held assortments of bridal cakes in pastel colors, rosebud mints in green, yellow, pink and white, and salted almonds. Assisting in the dining room were Misses Lillian Wooten, Inne Bradcher, Mary Ross Crisp, Elizabeth Kittrell and Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, Jr.

From the dining room Mrs. J. H. Blount and Mrs. Fred Forbes, Sr., directed the callers through the back hall into the music room. Here Mrs. Travis Hooker and Mrs. H. L. Rivers welcomed them. On the mantel was a low bowl holding spider lilies, tiny purple asters, and greenery. On a side table an antique pink shell bowl was arranged with baby sinias, orchid asters and lilies.

Mrs. J. B. James directed the guests to the sun room, where they were served punch by Mrs. E. G. Flanagan, Sr., and Mrs. M. L. Wright.

The punch table was draped with a cut-work linen cloth and held a crystal bowl in the shape of a large swan, from which punch was poured.

Delta Chapter Met Thursday

Members of the Delta Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma society, national honorary organization for women teachers, held a dinner meeting Thursday evening, September 28, in the Parish House of the Episcopal Church. The chapter includes the counties of Beaufort, Craven, Hyde, Pamlico, and Pitt in its membership; and approximately forty guests, a number of them from out of town, were present to enjoy the occasion.

Mrs. Nettie B. Herring, chapter president, presided at the program presented during the evening. After welcoming guests, she introduced Mrs. Ada Wetherington of Craven County, who has been invited to become an honorary member of the Delta Chapter. A veteran teacher, Mrs. Wetherington has taught for fifty-two years at the Jasper School in Craven County and has the distinction of having taught three generations of pupils from her own family.

Reports on the national and the state conventions of Delta Kappa Gamma were given as part of the evening's program. Mrs. Elizabeth Mims of Greenville and Miss Eunice McGee gave informal talks on the national meeting held during the summer months in Dallas, Texas. Mrs. Herring summarized the business transacted by the national society. She displayed a number of interesting souvenirs of the Dallas meeting and presented to Miss Alice Strawn, originally from Texas, a miniature gold map of the state. Miss Elizabeth Hyman talked on the state convention at Pinehurst last spring.

The dining room of the Parish House made an attractive scene for the dinner meeting. Tables were arranged in a hollow square. Decorations in the society colors of crimson and gold included arrangements of Guernsey lilies and goldenrod, red candles in brass candelabra, and year books in red and gold at each place setting. At the center of speakers' table was a bowl of red roses, the club flower.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
September 29, 1910

With the good season for making hay there ought to be enough of it in Pitt county this winter to cut off the usual large importations from the west.

J. B. Johnston left Thursday for Raleigh where he has accepted a position with Cooper Bros. Miss Emma Hardy left this morning for Philadelphia to enter a college of art.

Layman Speaker
Sam D. Bundy, principal of the Farmville High School, and president of the Laymen's League of the Christian Churches of North Carolina, spoke at the Oak City Christian church last Sunday on "Men and the Kingdom."

Mrs. Thompson Hostess At Shower For Miss Kittrell

Mrs. Robert F. Thompson was hostess at a kitchen shower on Wednesday morning honoring Miss Frances Kittrell, who will be wed on October 7.

The hostess presented Miss Kittrell with a red glamsia shoulderette. Together they welcomed the guests and invited them to the dining room for refreshments.

An unusual decorative scheme was used on the dining room table, from which guests served themselves. Denoting the informality of the party and suggestive of kitchen activities was the centerpiece arranged by the hostess. Using a yellow and green plaid cloth with matching napkins, Mrs. Thompson placed a collection of fall garden products in the center of the table, which emphasized the colors in the tablecloth. Red cabbage, yellow squash, green and red peppers, small green and orange gourds and frills of parsley added a note of autumn to the arrangement. On the buffet a pottery cornucopia was overflowing with fruit. On either side of this were brass candelabra with epergnettes holding grapes and yellow candles.

At the end of the refreshment hour, a child dressed as Aunt Jemima came in, pulling a red wagon on which was a clothes basket filled with shower gifts for the honoree. The guests shared in the pleasure of gift unwrapping by Miss Kittrell.

Dorothy Ormond Feted At Party

Mrs. Ralph M. Garrett was a gracious hostess at luncheon at her home on the Ayden highway yesterday when she honored Miss Dot Ormond, whose marriage to Mr. Tom Grier will be solemnized in October.

Mrs. Garrett, Miss Ormond and her mother, Mrs. H. L. Ormond, welcomed the guests upon their arrival at 1:00. Miss Ormond made with given a tailored corsage made with white carnations and tiny green and white striped leaves by the hostess. Lovely flowers were used in the entrance hall and rooms where the small luncheon tables were placed. Lavender glads, fall roses, dark-hued dahlias and chrysanthemums enhanced the warmth of the rooms.

Tables decorated with a bridal motif for the bride and her young friends were grouped together in the sun parlor. They were centered with tiny pompons of white, interspersed with asparagus fern. Similar centerpieces were placed on the other tables in the living room.

A two-course luncheon was served. Miss Ormond was given a gift of silver as a remembrance from the hostess.

Sam Bundy Speaker Macclesfield Club

Sam D. Bundy, principal of Farmville high school, was the speaker at the annual "husbands banquet" at the Macclesfield Woman's club last Tuesday night. Mrs. J. E. Wright introduced the speaker. Mrs. C. S. Winstead presided.

The program included a song, "Day Is Dying in the West," welcome, by Miss Ruth Peebles, response by A. F. Felton and prayer of grace by Rev. Claude Pepper. Mrs. L. L. Mason recognized the guests. Mrs. J. W. Van Landingham presented the awards. Miss Ann Ruth Pittman was pianist. The banquet was concluded with the singing of "Good Night, Husbands."

Greenville Garden Club Resumes Work For 1950-51

The first meeting of the 1950-51 club year was held by the Greenville Garden club on Wednesday afternoon at the Woman's club building.

A warm welcome was extended those present by the hostesses at the doors and by Miss Lelia Higgs, who presided in the absence of Mrs. W. J. Stell, president. She expressed for Mrs. Stell her regret that she was unable to be present, her appreciation of the work done by the executive board and committees during the summer, and her special welcome to the new members.

Attention was called to the service offered by the garden center at Sheppard Memorial library and its value at this season of the year. Members were urged to contribute seed catalogs and other helpful material. This center is for the use of anyone with a garden problem. Help may be obtained there on planning, planting or flower arrangements.

A plan of work for the club year was adopted. This included a Christmas tour instead of the usual Christmas show, and a bird house contest for which prizes will be offered.

Expressions of sympathy were sent to Mrs. E. W. Harvey and to the family of Mrs. F. V. Johnston.

On November 7 the Greenville Garden club will be hostess to the tenth district of North Carolina Garden clubs. Committees for this meeting were announced:

Prizes—Mrs. R. M. Garrett, chairman; Mrs. H. L. Rivers, Mrs. K. B. Face, Mrs. S. M. Crisp.

Favors—Mrs. Sam White, chairman; Mrs. J. E. Long, Mrs. M. K. Blount, Mrs. F. L. Blount.

Flower Arrangements—Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, chairman, Mrs. Owen

New Buildings At Training School Nearing Completion And Ready For Use

A trip through the new building at the Training School on the campus of East Carolina Teachers College is a revelation of the latest designs and construction methods. Two complete wings have been added to the present building, and although they have not been fully completed, Miss Frances Wahl, the principal, said she hoped they will soon be in use.

If one faces the school from the Fifth Street entrance, the new gymnasium is located behind the present left wing. It forms an extension at the back which extends almost as far as the road separating the playgrounds from the football practice field. It is joined to the old building by a flight of stairs which lead down from a covered archway. As one enters the gym to the left is a room which will be used as an office and storage space for the art and music teachers. It is equipped with private shower and toilet. On the right is a similar room where gym equipment will be stored. Between these two rooms and located somewhat under the stairwell are the shower and dressing rooms for the students.

The gymnasium is painted in eye-catching shades of dark tan and pale green. There are two basketball goals installed, four large circulating fans, twenty overhead lights and ten large commercial-type panel windows. There are two exit doors on each side of the gym and overall floor space is approximately 35' by 75'.

The right wing of the building contains the auditorium, and underneath on the ground level is found the E.C.T.C. kindergarten, the cafeteria, industrial arts room, science laboratory, clinic room and abundant storage closets.

The kindergarten is painted in attractive tones of blue. There are low cabinets lining one wall which are to be used by the children. There is a room with individual lockers for each child, a shower room and toilet facilities, and an office for the teacher with plentiful storage space for supplies. There is a concrete terrace outside the door and a yard for outdoor play and exercise. The floor is attractively patterned in rubber tile with animal figure decorations.

The cafeteria is one of the most up-to-date ones to be found. It is modern in equipment and features tables and benches which slide into the walls when not in use. The appointments are of stainless steel and the walls and floor carry out a yellow and grey color scheme. The latest cooking installations are to be found and accommodations will be provided for 250 pupils.

The science laboratory, also located on this ground level floor, has one wall of cabinets for scientific display. The outside wall is lined with counters and sinks for laboratory work. This room, painted in yellow, green and grey, also is equipped with a projector and screen for showing slides.

The industrial arts room, now occupied by Miss Elisabeth Hyman's eighth grade, is located across the hall from the science lab. It has auxiliary rooms for lumber and supply storage and a color note of saffron and pale grey is used on the walls and ceiling.

Ample closets for cleaning supplies, cabinets, and restrooms for both boys and girls are on this floor. A clinic room in which the visiting nurse will make her examinations is provided, and this room can be reached by an outside entrance as well as from the inside.

The auditorium which composes the entire upper section of the west wing, is one of the finest to be found in North Carolina. Entrances are at the front of the building through double concrete stairways and also from a covered arcade connecting with the main building.

It is painted in shades of soft grey-rose with yellow ceilings and green floor. The floor slopes towards the stage, which is reached by a flight of eight shallow steps, which form the proscenium. The stage is fully equipped with the latest kind of theatrical lighting, and when completed will have a mauve front curtain and the back-drap will be a velvet reversible, black on one side and white on the other.

Behind the large stage are two complete dressing rooms installed with sliding door wardrobes, closets, individual dressing tables with lights, and toilet facilities. The seats are of stationary steel frames with leather cushions and blond wood backs. There is a projection room from which motion pictures can be shown, and a large lobby at the entrance to accommodate the patrons.

The entire structure is fireproof with floors of asphalt tile (except in the gym, which has a floor of maple), commercial-type casement windows with steel frames, and ceilings of acoustic tile. In the auditorium both walls and ceilings are of acoustic tile. Fluorescent lights equip every room and the baths are finished in ceramic glass.

The total cost of the construction work on the two new wings of the Training School slightly exceeds $300,000, according to Business Manager F. D. Duncan of East Carolina Teachers College.

Red Oak Circle Holds Meeting

Circle No. 2 of the Red Oak Church met on Monday night, September 18, at the home of Mrs. J. E. Joyner.

The meeting was opened by group singing, after which a devotional was given by Mrs. Amos Evans. A poem, "Do You Just Belong?" was read by Mrs. Travis Crawford.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Mrs. Jesse Jordan, the treasurer, gave a very gratifying report. The roll was called and dues were collected. There was also some money turned over to the treasurer that had been collected from the sale of vanilla, and more flavoring was distributed.

During the business session several items of business were discussed. A motion was made and carried that, although late, a donation would be sent to "A Crusade for a Christian World." There were volunteers to work at the eating booth which the church will sponsor at the fair. An announcement was made of the annual "Harvest Sale" to be held on Friday night, October 20.

Mrs. Joyner served a delicious salad plate and iced drinks after which the meeting was adjourned, to meet next time with Mrs. Amos Evans.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Corbett and daughter Linda visited Mr. and Mrs. Russell Perry of Wilson Sunday afternoon.

Group No. 1 of the Christian church met Tuesday night with Mrs. Lee Corbett. The meeting was opened by singing, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." A business discussion followed the roll call. Mrs. Howard Moye gave the devotional. Mrs. Robert Rouse had charge of the program of which consisted of the hidden answers. The hostess served delicious strawberry short cake.

Miss Brooks To Speak
Miss Ernelle Brooks, who for the past three years has been a missionary in Nigeria, Africa, will speak Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Memorial Baptist Church. Miss Brooks will speak of her work there and her talk will be illustrated with pictures made by her during her stay in Africa.

The public is cordially invited to attend this service.

Gloating Crow
Chicago, Sept. 29—(AP)—Samba, a crow, is giving Harry Strand's dog, Schmitzel, a hard time—and gloating.

Strand, a letter carrier in suburban Evanston, says Samba spends much time in his back yard—across the Westmoreland country club golf course.

When Samba's not on the golf course bothering golfers, Strand said, he's pestering Schmitzel. The dog's barking appears to delight Samba.

"But right after all of the barking," Strand said, "Samba will sneak up behind Schmitzel, stand there gloating for a moment, and then clamp down with his beak on the dog's tail. Some crow, eh?"

Wesley Players Holds Meeting

The Alpha Zeta Chapter of the National Society of Wesley Players held its first meeting of the year on Wednesday evening at the Methodist Student Center.

The president of the Chapter, Ophelia Kirven, welcomed the new pledges and presented them to the Chapter.

The program for the year was announced. This includes radio broadcasts, dramatic worship services, one-act plays, and parlor plays. These parlor plays will be presented at the Student Center every two weeks on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Anne Warren, of Battleboro, is director of these parlor plays. They are open to anyone who is interested.

At the close of the business session a reading of the one-act play "Where Love Is" by Iden Payne was given by the following, Hubert Bergeron of Spring Hope, Clark White of Belvidere, Anne Warren of Battleboro, Ethel Parks of Goldsboro, Charles Cherry of Stokes, and Bert Smith of Cameron.

A supper meeting will be held at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church next Wednesday at 6:00 p.m. after which a Pledge Service will be conducted in the sanctuary.

Morristown, N. J., once an iron smelting center, is now largely residential.

Public Service By Comic Strip

Strength for the Day

BY EARL L. DOUGLAS THE LAW OF THE THUMB In our state there is a law which forbids people to stand on a public highway thumbing a ride. But they get around this law easily enough. In villages and streets they stand on the curb, and out in the open country they stand to the side of the road. They break no laws, and they get as many rides as the people over in Pennsylvania or up in New York. There are more ways of killing a cat than drowning it in molasses. There was never a law passed which could not be circumvented. Moses had scarcely set forth the Decalogue as God's divine command before the members of the Hebrew nation began falling over themselves in an excited endeavor to break these laws. And the people, of course, who broke them most flagrantly were not those who came out openly and defied them but those who broke them by circumvention. High priced lawyers today can show anybody how to get around almost any law. Yet as a matter of fact, we never break laws. We disregard them or violate them, and in the end they break us. The laws of the universe—physical, spiritual, economic—are more unchangeable than the stars. They cannot be broken—but we can be broken. There are more ways to kill a cat—oh yes, but we said that before.

Benefits Already Are Evident

Greenville has a lot of shortcomings, but a story printed in yesterday's Reflector based on data from the American Medical Association points forcibly to our shortage of doctors. According to the report, Greenville has one physician for every 876 people while the national average is one physician for every 750 people. Of course we have realized for some time that in this county we have needed additional medical facilities; and in the new Pitt County Memorial hospital we have taken a tremendous stride to improve the medical facilities of Pitt county.

The new hospital is to be opened in the near future, and while it has already attracted to Pitt county a few new physicians, we feel confident that many more physicians will be brought into the county by the fine facilities the new hospital will afford the county. The hospital will not only afford a better physical plant in which to care for the health of the people of the county, but it is going to afford Pitt county more physicians to take care of the health of the people of the county.

The Candy Store And The Stomach Ache

This budget proposal for the Tar Heel state during the coming biennium seems to have about everyone in the state in a swivet. The state officials are sweating out the possible cuts in the budget requests, and the tax payers of the state are sweating out the possibility of increased taxes if a good deal of slashing is not done on the budget requests. As the budget requests for the 1951-1953 biennium now stand, it would take $65,000,000 more for the state operations in the coming two years than it did during the years of the 1949-1951 biennium.

The advisory budget commission between now and January will be giving a good deal of consideration to the budget requests of the various divisions and departments of the state government. But along with the consideration of the additional funds asked for to run the state government, we'd like to see, for a change, some consideration given to the tax payer who is going to foot the bill for all this proposed spending. There are very few people in North Carolina who would not like to see all the building and improvement programs proposed for the coming biennium carried out. We'd like to see $211,003,347 spent for education in North Carolina during the biennium if we could afford it. Likewise we'd like to see increases of $4,000,000 for charitable and correctional institutions, $5,000,000 for educational institutions, $4,000,000 for state aid and obligations, and $16,000,000 for public schools. But regardless of what we would like to have, the state as well as its individual citizens, must live within its means. The individual who lives on a higher plane than his income permits soon finds himself in serious financial trouble which usually takes years of toil to get out of. The same thing could happen to our state if we insist on carrying our "Go Forward" program beyond our immediate ability to finance the improvements we propose to make. Already the secondary roads which are being put down all over the state are showing signs of the great amount of maintenance which is going to be necessary if they are to be kept in usable condition. That in itself is going to prove a major financial problem of the state not too many years hence. We may be much like a kid peering into the window of the candy store at all the sweets he'd like to have. But like the kid, we'd be better off to take a few of the choice sweets as we can afford them rather than to attempt to gobble up the entire contents of the show case in a few big gulps. If we gobble too fast, we are likely to have a terrific stomach ache which will take us years to get rid of.

The Assembly Is Doing 'Committee Work'

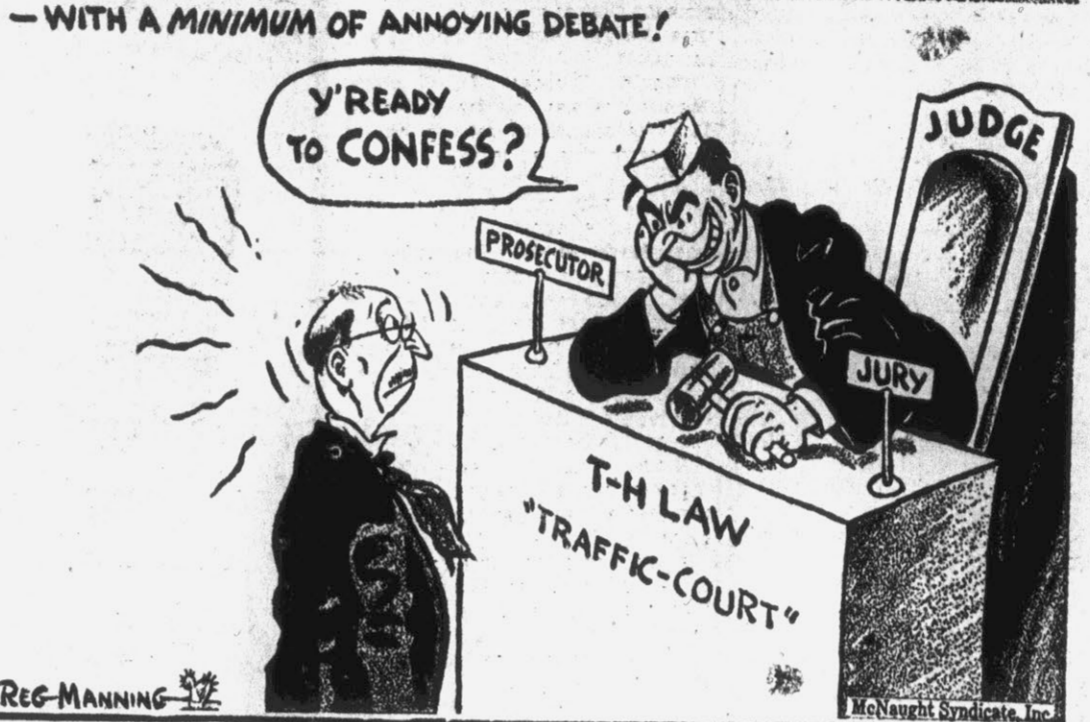

One unexpected development of the Korean war has been the shift of Security Council "responsibilities" to the United Nations General Assembly. It is in the Assembly that the next moves will be decided upon... whether it be the accepting of North Korea's capitulation or directing United Nations armed forces to unite Korea by means of arms. The veto-ridden Security Council was unable to cope with the problem. This absurd position in which an organization intended to maintain the peace of the world found itself has been partly overcome by the wishes of a vast majority of member nations that believed in the necessity of all peoples living in peace with one another. And though the procedures of the General Assembly are cumbersome for the handling of what should have been "committee work," eventual decision seems assured.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—Senator Robert A. Taft's withdrawal from the Presidential race virtually insures the nomination of a Republican candidate with liberal leanings, in the opinion of the party's leaders at Washington. It leaves the conservative wing without a distinguished and formidable prospect, unless one can be built up in the short time intervening. That will be quite a task. Some skeptical politicians profess to doubt the sincerity of the Ohio Senator's statement, figuring that it is one of those coy and hard-to-get things, but they don't know Mr. Taft, or the reasons behind his reluctance to become embroiled in another convention fracas. His reasons are personal as well as political, chiefly the illness of his extremely capable and likeable fellow-campaigner, adviser and wife. Sometimes they call her the senior and smarter member of the firm of "Bob and Martha."

LOOPHOLE—Mr. Taft seems to have left a loophole for a possible change of heart and mind, but it is not a very big one. He said that he might run if an irresistible movement or draft for him got under way two years from now. He knows too well that politics does not work that way. A man who wants the nomination will have to go out and fight for it. "Irresistible demands" for a man are usually trumped up by himself and his friends. Already the Ohio legislator's rivals are counting him out of the running. If they can prevent it, there will be no pre-convention call for Mr. Taft. MILD—With Senator Taft out of the Presidential picture, the surviving crop for 1952 consists of middle-of-the-roads or "mild" liberals. Although not Truman "fair dealers" by any means, they will accept, approve and embrace the basic "reforms" of the Roosevelt-Truman regime. In fact, it has been suggested that the leading candidates for the nomination, at a spring get-together early next year, write out in black and white letters the social and economic achievements of the "new deal" and "fair deal" which they favor. Such a statement, in the opinion of GOP strategists, cannot hurt the party, and it might win over many thousands of independently minded people. CONTENDERS—Now that Mr. Taft has stepped aside, the principal contenders, assuming that those facing the voters in November emerge victorious or with even greater political prestige than they already enjoy, are these: There is the 1948 team of Governors Dewey of New York and Warren of California. Both seeking reelection. There is Governor Duff of Pennsylvania, who smashed the reactionary Grumley machine in winning the nomination for the United States Senate. New Jersey will offer Governor Alfred E. Driscoll, who has made an unusually good record at Trenton, and is generally listed as a "liberal" or "moderate." Then there is Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, who has "flirted" with Senate progressives on both domestic and foreign problems. Bringing up the rear guard of Republican possibilities also with a "liberal" tinge are those two academic dons, Harold E. Stassen of the University of Pennsylvania and "Ike" Eisenhower of Columbia University. Both are running so hard for the nomination that they may fall flat on their faces before convention time. BRIDGES—Although his name is rarely mentioned as a Presidential possibility, Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire should be included in this list, for he is one of the most influential Republicans on Capitol Hill. Mr. Bridges has lined up with the so-called conservative bloc in the Senate, but he was considered a relative "progressive" when he served as Governor. In fact, he has been mentioned as a possible Secretary of State if President Truman decides to ditch Dean Acheson before or after the elections. CONSERVATIVE—On the conservative side, the only men mentioned are Senators Bricker of Ohio and Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP's Majority Leader in the upper Chamber. Neither legislator, however, has made an impressive or colorful record on Capitol Hill. It is extremely doubtful if the Republicans, in view of their new move from deep right field to a rowing centerfield position, will choose either of these two. They just don't rate the honor or the job. SEAL—The Grand Old Party has, of course, been shifting from far right to center for several years under the impact of Roosevelt-Truman pressure. It had to do so for survival.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR. Dr. F. B. Haar, one of Greenville's baby doctors, told me yesterday about a man who came into his office back in 1935 when Dr. Haar was new in Greenville. "Know what a father is, Doc?" the man asked. "Nope." "A father is a man who can sit in an easy chair with one foot on the toe of a cradle, rocking the baby. When the time comes, he can change the baby's pants with his right hand, without losing a line of print from the newspaper he's reading and holding with the other hand." By this gentleman's definition, I'm no father yet. However, Nancy has been here only two and a half weeks, and if she could talk she would say that she has a father, legally and otherwise. The only difference in me and that man who calls himself a father is that I can't read the newspaper in the midst of the other activities. Remember that column I wrote about a month ago, stressing the fact that it practically takes an act of Congress to awaken me in the morning? Those days are gone forever, provided the stork will fill our future orders during the next several years. Charlie Bissette came by the store yesterday to show me a new type of alarm clock, which he thinks would even awaken me. Before Nancy came, I would have bought it in a minute, but now I have no need for a clock. However, if you're a hard sleeper, you might take a look at Charlie's clock. They call it a "Moonbeam," which is a deceiving name, because a moonbeam is soft, and there's nothing soft about any alarm clock on the market. The "Moonbeam" looks like other alarm clocks, except that it has a slightly bigger case. At the appointed time, instead of buzzing, a bright light from inside the case begins to flash at regular intervals. At first consideration, it seems that this wouldn't phase a hard sleeper. But on a second thought, a bright light flashing might be even more annoying than a buzz. To add insult to injury, this machine begins to buzz after five minutes of flashing. The buzzing lasts 45 minutes. Anyone who can sleep through that ordeal is not a new father. If the progress of this machine age continues, sleep will probably be eliminated entirely. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C. BUDGETEER—North Carolina's chief budgeteer is finding out things about his state. Governor Scott told his latest press conference that it had been "highly educational" to listen for more than a week to representatives of the state's departments, agencies and institutions present their causes to the advisory budget commission. "It gives one a good cross section knowledge of the state," he said. The governor has not just sat by during the hearings. He has asked some pertinent questions and at times injected some sharp-witted comment. CONCLUSIONS—He has not formulated his opinion or conclusions, but he told capital newsmen that impression gained so far leads him to believe there will have to be some additional taxes to meet demands of expanding state government, but there will be no state tax on land or other property. The governor said overwhelming sentiment seemed to be this source of revenue should be left to counties and municipalities. So the additional state revenue must come from somewhere else. Most likely source now seems to be the sales tax, by eliminating many exemptions in the present law and removing the top limit of $15 on any purchase. Somewhat casual estimates are that making the sales tax apply without limit will add somewhere between twenty-five and thirty-five million dollars to state revenue. BONDS—There seems no prospect of permanent improvement authorized by vote of the people, and there is grave doubt such bond issues would be voted. The governor said there are a few projects which may have to be handled in order to make certain service programs effective, but his idea is there will be very little building approved by the next legislature. One reason for lack of building funds will be the need for some ten to twelve million dollars more money for maintenance of the overall state plant, and a like additional sum for public schools. PATRIOTIC—Kay Dixon, Gastonia banker and textile executive, here Tuesday to present the cause of the state orthopedic hospital (of which he is a trustee) to the advisory budget commission, had some comment on the national and state tax policies. He was talking particularly about the excess profits tax and other proposals for financing the national defense program. "The textile industry does not like taxes any more than other taxpayers," he said. "Textile mills are in business to make money, but they have never desired or sought to make money out of a war." That was one way of saying that if the war is responsible for increased profits, some of the increases at least should be turned back to help finance the war. CONTRIBUTION—Attendance of Kay Dixon of Gastonia, Bascom Baynes of Durham, Bill Horner of Sanford and numerous other very busy business men at the budget hearings re-emphasized the point often made that these men are contributing a lot to North Carolina through unselfish and patriotic service on boards of trustees. They serve without compensation and pay their own expenses to and from Raleigh in order to demonstrate their keen interest in the welfare of the state institutions they represent. There have been numerous instances of lawyers, who command a fee of $500 or more for appearance before a state commission or court for a private client, have appeared at their own expense in behalf of institutions serving people of the state. POWERFUL—North Carolina's attorney general isn't always facetious. He is mostly serious in his manner and conversation. Like, for instance, when he was talking with a group of friends in the hotel lobby about pending federal court suits and contemplated congressional action dealing with breaking down segregation in public educational institutions. "The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People seems to be more powerful in national Democratic circles than all the southern governors," he said. McMullan has been an ardent champion of equal opportunities and facilities for all the people, without breaking down the traditional lines of segregation. KOREA—(AP)—Two doughboys who clubbed six Red soldiers to death with empty rifles during an 18-day stay behind enemy lines have been freed by the American advance. It had rained most of the days of their adventure and they returned to their own lines shivering and hungry. Their uniforms were in dirty tatters. They had lived the entire time on grapes, apples and peaches plucked from native hillside orchards. "Once a Red patrol passed so close to us as we lay by a road that we could spit on them," said Pfc. Kenneth E. Tye of Kansas City. They used an old woodsman's trick to keep warm. "We took turns sleeping on each other at night, it was so cold," said Sgt. Charles R. North of Barborton, O. They said they joined up with another outfit when their own unit was overrun during an enemy banzai attack. The Reds came screaming back again in another banzai attack and got behind the second American outfit. The two escaped by dashing forward through the enemy's positions. They were many miles north of the Allied stronghold of Taegu—and the North Korean army was making its final convulsive effort to seize Taegu. They hid out the next day and that night unexpectedly ran into a Red soldier who began jabbering at them in Korean in the dark. "We had run out of ammunition so I killed him with my rifle butt," said Sergeant North. Figuring capture would mean only torture and death, the two pledged each other to die rather than surrender—and to cause as much trouble behind the enemy lines as they could. "We wanted to wipe out their mortar positions but we didn't have the firepower to try," said the sergeant. "They were well camouflaged and every time one of our artillery spotter planes came over they buttoned up." They saw many enemy troops and observed that they were so short of weapons that only one out of three carried rifles. The others were armed only with grenades. The doughboys tried to work back toward their own lines. In one vain foray into a village in search of food they bumped into two communist soldiers at night and beat them to death with their rifles. But they had to retreat—still starving. Another time they surprised at rifle point three enemy soldiers. All three got the rifle butt treatment. Weakened by their orchard diet, the two infantrymen decided to stake their lives on a desperate gamble. "We just slung our rifles over our shoulders and walked toward our own lines trying to look as much like gooks as we could," said Sergeant North. Luck walked with them. They made it. The first thing they did was to wolf down three cans of "C" rations. "It tastes like steak," said Tye, munching dreamily. But both men passed up fruit cocktail for dessert. Mrs. Acheson once told me her husband held up under all the problems of state by spending what spare time he had at their farm in nearby Maryland. Here he relaxes by chopping down unnecessary trees or tending his flower garden. He is particularly proud of his lilies and chrysanthemums. He keeps huge bouquets of them on his desk at the State Department. Often matters of greatest consequence are held up a few moments while he beamingly shows off the blooms and gets into long ardent discussions about their growing and care. During the week Mr. Acheson and his wife live in an enchanting old house in fashionable and historic Georgetown. And, back in town, where he has to cope with the problems of the world and spar with his critics, he has developed his own philosophy, except one phase of it... Recently, when asked how he stood up under all the criticism he gets, he said: "I think of the Scotchman who said to her friend who was burdened with seemingly unsurmountable problems: 'My dear, we just have to be philosophical about these things—just don't think about them.'"

What Other Papers Are Thinking

CONFUSION (Williamston Enterprise) Before we brand everybody as communists and then burden ourselves to, to destroy them with force, it might be well to try to dig ourselves out of confusion. If the present trend is followed, it could be that one would be branded as a communist who dared open his mouth against the government. In other words, many who participate in the political campaigns between now and November 7 might be held accountable for the remarks they make. While we write off a large area of the world as communist, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, comes along and gives us something to think about. Denouncing the black tyranny of atheistic and imperialistic Communism in Eastern Europe, the noted chairman added: "In the Far East, it can easily be seen not as a tyranny but, at present, as a liberation... from social evils too long and unheedingly accepted. Realization of this fact must make us feel acute sympathy for Christians in China, for instance, who, while quite uncertain how things may work out in the future, acknowledge that the present regime is morally and socially preferable to the corruptions and inefficiency and exploitations of the regime (Chiang Kai-Shek) it replaced." Unfortunately we have collaborated with and aided the corruptionists, not only in China, but also in Spain and other countries. And in the opinion of many, that's why the isms have spread so rapidly, despite the billions offered in free gifts in the shadow of a big stick. REVENUE AS A FIRST (Henderson Daily Dispatch) Instead of voting appropriations and then scotching around to get revenue to pay for them, why wouldn't it be a good thing to write the revenue bill first and then limit appropriations to the amount of money in sight? Why wouldn't that be a sensible? Individuals have to live that way, and governments ought to be made to do it also. Observation has been given that State government in North Carolina is constantly costing more. But there is nothing startling about that, under the circumstances. It cannot be otherwise so long as every legislature that comes along gets up new spending agencies, and continually votes more money for those already in existence. It would be a simple matter to make ends meet if one end were not allowed to get so far ahead of the other. That is one of the vices of legislative bodies. They go in for too much politics, and politics that serves their individual purposes costs all the people money. That is one answer as to why the bill for public service never is less but always more. Of course, nothing of the sort will happen now or later, but it would be an interesting innovation, if nothing else, if only the lawmakers would write their tax bill and then resolve to spend no more than it will raise in cash. After all, haven't they got the cart before the horse?

Business Today

By ELMER BOESSNER Payment of $1,250,000 for the exclusive rights to the "Sunkist" trade mark is dramatic evidence of the value of cultivating a trade name. It suggests that those seven little letters in that arrangement may have a value of five, ten or more million dollars. The name was first used about 1908. In that year, the California Fruit Growers Exchange began using it as a trade mark for its best citrus fruits. At the same time, the California Packing Corp. was using it as a name for canned and dried fruits and canned vegetables. Both organizations have been using it over the years, each enhancing its value with good advertising and quality products. This week, the exchange, on payment of the $1,250,000, acquired full rights to the trade mark. The corporation will cease using it after present packs are sold. This implies that if part of the rights to the name are worth that much, the name itself is worth at least $2,500,000. But the exchange appears to have put considerably more promotion behind the happy word—some $55,000,000 in advertising since 1908—its equity may have been the more valuable part. And now the very exclusivity of the mark further enhances its value, justifying the five-to-ten million dollar estimate. There are other trade marks worth as much if not more—Du Pont, Ford, Ivory, Swift's, Toni, Sanforize and many others. The owner of a small business rarely if ever has $55,000,000 with which to build up the value of a trade mark. Nevertheless, even smaller sums, plus association with a quality product, can develop the value of a trade mark. Even if the value can be increased by a few hundred or a few thousand dollars a year, it can be built into a handsome and salable asset. The asset value, in addition to being a means to sell more goods, can amount to a sizable rebate on advertising expenditures. The originator of a mayonnaise is reputed to have received a large sum for his trade name; the manufacturer of a limited amount of whiskey is reported to have refused a fortune for his brand name. In many instances, purchasers of companies have junked everything except the trade mark. Developing asset values of trade marks is not limited to manufacturers. Large retailers frequently devise trade marks which they apply to products especially made for them or which they make themselves. Even such businesses as restaurants and retail food stores have developed "take home" specialties under their own brand names and often these brand names become valuable. ON STARTING FIRMS ON LESS THAN $1,000 "Start Your Own Business on Less Than $1,000" is a provocative title for a new book. It is by Lansing M. Paine and Polly Webster (and published by McGraw-Hill, New York, at $3.95). While $1,000 is hardly enough to start a steel mill or a newspaper, the authors have found 64 businesses which can be started on less than that sum. Covering 64 businesses in 300 pages results in a skiminess of details, and the how-to-do-it chapters are very general. The best value of the book will probably be to generate ideas for still other kinds of businesses that can be started on small capital. The book cites many instances of business started on little money but, again, these are best as stimulators of imagination rather than detailed case histories. $1-BILL SANDWICH IS NOT BARGAIN A weekly news magazine recently told about a woman who refused to pay $1 for a pound of hamburger, saying it was cheaper to eat the money. A suburban New York restaurant was quick to capitalize on the idea to attract attention. It displayed in its window a dollar bill between two slices of bread and a sign reading, "Special: Dollar Sandwich." The price: $1.75. BOOKLETS TELL HOW TO SELL SERVICES Two booklets for companies hoping to sell the Army or Navy are now available from field offices of the Department of Commerce and the Department in Washington, D. C. They are "How to Sell the United States Army," 30 cents a copy, and "Purchased Items and Purchasing Locations of the Department of the Navy," 15 cents. TRADE ASSOCIATION ASKS FOR CONTROLS While most trade associations are urging the government to go slow and easy on controls, the Machinery Dealers National Association is asking for immediate price controls on used and rebuilt machines. The association says controls would avoid the situation just before the last war when a few dealers gave the trade a bad name with unconscionable price rises. NEW AND HOT PACKER: A machine that automatically vacuum-packs bacon, cheese and sliced luncheon meats is being unveiled today at the American Meat Institute Convention in Chicago (by Standard Cap and Seal Corp., 405 Lexington Ave., New York). ROBE CASE: For carrying blankets to football games and other outdoor uses, there is a new robe case of Vinylite plastic with a zipper closure. With the robe inside, the pack serves as a cushion. It has a shoulder strap for carrying. (It is by Troy Blanket Mills, 16 East 34th St., New York 16.)

Washington Letter By JANE EADS WASHINGTON—There are a lot of troubles in the world, and some people blame many of them these days on Secretary of State Dean Acheson. Mrs. Acheson once told me her husband held up under all the problems of state by spending what spare time he had at their farm in nearby Maryland. Here he relaxes by chopping down unnecessary trees or tending his flower garden. He is particularly proud of his lilies and chrysanthemums. He keeps huge bouquets of them on his desk at the State Department. DOUBLE WEDDING

By Adelaide Humphries

Chapter 12
"How did they look then?" she murmured.
Oh, Grant, this is heavenly, dancing with you, feeling your tenderness, your desire to protect me, to make everything calm and serene and at peace. Yet she wished—or knew she would as soon as this dance, this night, was over—that it had not been.
It could not help. It could only make things worse, more tangled, more confusing.

"Bewildered," Grant answered. "As a child is bewildered when life has been unkind. When life should bring only beauty, happiness."
"But I'm not unhappy, truly I'm not!" Loyalty to Sandy made her insist upon this denial. Besides, it could do no good to admit otherwise.
"You're not as happy as you should be. As I hoped to make you."
"Grant, please!"
"I know." There was almost the same deep bitterness in his voice that was so often in Sandy's. But bitterness was newer to Grant. "I have no right to talk this way to you, Stephanie, but I cannot help how I feel. As I always did, always shall. You know that, my darling. You see, that's what you are to me why your happiness means so much."

"Please, Grant!" she said again. It was not like him to make things more difficult for her. She remembered her mother's saying that she felt sorry for Grant as well as for Sandy. Stephanie supposed this situation had been as hard on him. And he had acted so unselfishly about it.
He said, "I was willing to step aside, but only Stephanie, it meant you would be happy. Now that I feel you are not, well, at least that gives me some right now—the right, as Sandy suggested, to come back into your life, Stephanie."

"Please!" His eyes begged her to allow him to finish. In another moment they would have to return to the table. The rainbow lights would flash into brilliance, the haunting music would cease. "You can't refuse me that right, surely, my dear. I think you owe me, as well as Sandy, something. May I come back, Stephanie, may I become your friend—if nothing more—for a while?"
"I—I don't know." It was not much for him to ask, and she did owe him a great deal. It was not much to give. She had given that much only—friendship—to Sandy. She supposed she ought to give the same to Grant.

"Please," he said once more, not insistently as Sandy would have, but quietly, gently.
She wanted to say yes. Hadn't Sandy been the one to suggest it? And Mayo had said it was ridiculous for Stephanie and Grant to act as if they were enemies, to avoid each other, refuse to meet. Yet her heart was so confused, her emotions so jumbled, that she could not answer one way or the other.
"I—I'll see." That was all she could say now, as the last note of music drifted away and Grant's arms reluctantly released her.
He kept his hand on her arm, however, guiding her back to the table where Sandy waited.
Sandy was grinning. He got up, but Grant did not sit down.
"Not leaving us, old man?" Sandy's eyebrow quirked upward. "Didn't you two enjoy the dance? Stevie and I sure used to put them on, didn't we, Stevie? Stuck around, old boy, and when the music starts again we'll show you how we get along together. Now we, Stevie and I—"

"Sorry," Grant interrupted curtly.

"I must rejoin my party. Thank you so much for the dance, Stephanie. I am glad, Sandy"—he turned to look at the other man—"of this opportunity. It was one I had been hoping for. Like yourself, I feel it rather childish—or antiquated—that we should not all be friends."
"Suppose we call it both," Sandy's grin widened, his tone was mocking. "Kid stuff. And outdated. I told Stevie we ought to grow up and make a Noel Coward comedy out of our triangle. Glad you agree, old boys. Now if Grant here will—"

"I doubt," Grant cut him off again, yet with marked politeness, "if Stephanie—or I—can take quite the light view you do of this particular matter. However, I am sure we could be friends if we all make the effort. As a beginning, how about you and Stephanie having dinner or luncheon with me soon? Say, next Tuesday?"
"I can't speak for myself," Sandy returned promptly. "Now that I'll be slaving away again I may get tied up. Often have to work after hours when the office gets behind, as it usually does on a big job. But Stephanie ought to be able to make it for luncheon. She's been complaining, haven't you, Stevie, that time hangs heavy on her frail hands."

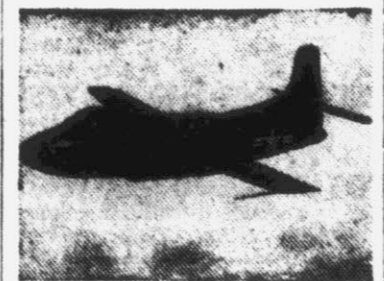

"Would Tuesday suit you?" Grant's look was only for Stephanie. His eyes seemed to beseech her to say yes to this, at least.
She hesitated, but only briefly. After all, why not have lunch with Grant, since apparently, that was what Sandy wanted? The old Sandy would not have wanted it, no matter how modern he might pretend to be. Maybe the new one did. For she had decided that the Sandy who had come back was a stranger.
"Tuesday would suit me all right," she replied quietly. "I would enjoy having luncheon with you, Grant."
Grant took his leave, having thanked her and saying he would give her a ring to set the time and place for Tuesday.
A little voice in some far corner of her mind warned Stephanie that they might all be taking an unwise course.
But she decided not to pay any attention to it.

Urges Election Able Lawmakers

Washington, Sept. 28.—(AP)—President Truman called yesterday for the election of congressmen who will put the whole country's welfare above partisan advantage.
He made a brief broadcast, recorded Tuesday, in connection with the Democratic party's observance of women's day. The speech had been billed as "non-partisan," and at no time did Mr. Truman urge election of Democrats or defeat of Republicans.

Marine Reservists To Stay In Uniform

Pearl Harbor, Sept. 28—(AP)—The U.S. Marine Corps, which scrambled men together from as far away as the Mediterranean to meet the Korean emergency, intends to keep all reserves in uniform. Its commander made that clear yesterday.

"Korea has shown us the necessity of having ready forces available to fight anywhere," said Gen. Clifton B. Cates on a stopover en route to Korea.

The general said the corps' fighting arm, the Fleet Marine Force, numbered only about 5,000 when the Reds invaded South Korea June 25.

To get the necessary men, Cates said, some were taken from security forces at naval bases. Some were veterans of World War II and joined the division sent to Korea without any refresher training.

"The thing that's remarkable is the way that division was assembled," the general said.

"It was thrown together and it made a damn good team."

He put present strength of the Marine Corps at 120,000 and said he hoped to reach authorized strength of 160,000 men by the end of this year.

"There is no plan whatsoever for releasing reserves," he said.

"International circumstances do not warrant releasing anyone."

To Hold Open House October 3 For Alumni Visitors To E. C. T. C.

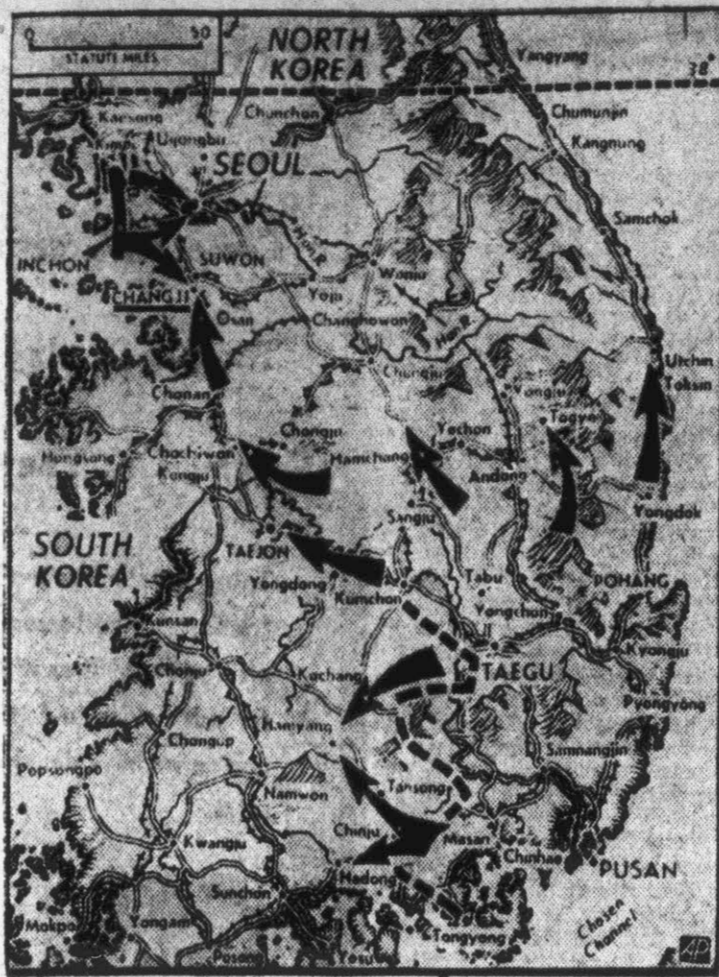

Staff members of the Alumni Office at East Carolina Teachers College will hold open house Tuesday, October 3, for alumni of the college here who will visit the campus for the 28th annual convention of the North Carolina Education Association. Mrs. Ruth Garner, alumni secretary, and others active in alumni work at East Carolina will be hostesses and will receive guests between 2:30 and 4:30 in the afternoon.

Student members of the Alumni Daughters and Sons organization at the college will be among those assisting Mrs. Garner in welcoming and entertaining former students at East Carolina. A large number of alumni is expected to be present for the NCEA meeting and to attend the open house.

THE GREENVILLE SYSTEM

Important Message To Tobacco Growers of Eastern Carolina

No market has a superior system of selling tobacco for superior prices than exists in Greenville.

In Greenville, with five complete sets of buyers, our system provides for growers to bring their tobacco any day and sell it not later than the next day.

This system certainly shows the tobacco fresh when offered for sale rather than lying on the floor unnecessarily and cause deterioration.

Tobacco sold in Greenville under the Greenville system assures each grower that his tobacco will bring full value at all times. Under the 4 1/2 hour present schedule, Greenville can sell 9,000 baskets of tobacco each day. After your tobacco is loaded, the additional cost for gasoline in transportation is of no consequence when you take advantage of our superior system of selling outlined above, which prevails in all warehouses on the Greenville Tobacco Market.

Tobacco growers living 150 miles away enjoy the profitable marketing of their tobacco in Greenville under the Greenville Market system.

Call by telephone any warehouse on the Greenville Tobacco Market shown below and take advantage of this convenient system of selling tobacco in Greenville.

Two Soviet Invasion Routes Studied By India, Pakistan

he points out that lines of communication would be longer. Khyber Pass country also is difficult, but the weather is good and the roads are adequate.

The time to stop any Russian invasion, according to these observers, would be while the Red columns were in the passes. The general belief is that air bombing would make things tough for the Reds. But that India and Pakistan have far too few aircraft to do the job effectively.

"Once they were through the passes," says one observer, "there would be no real obstacle—rivers don't mean much anymore."

Not everyone thinks it would be as easy as that, but all agree that a Russian victory would be a sure thing. Supplies—particularly motor fuel—would give some trouble, but Russian troops could live off the land, something western troops would have trouble doing.

Military men here have a high regard for the Indian army, with an important reservation about the experience of the officers, most of whom were jumped several grades with the departure of British officers. The strength of the army is estimated unofficially at around 300,000 men. There is one armored division using tanks from the last war, but a shortage of spare parts continues to eat into tank strength. Other equipment, from rifles to trucks, came from the piles of war material left here by the Allies after the war.

By STEVEN V. DAVID

New Delhi, India—(AP)—Russian forces, moving through Afghan passes, could—if they wanted to—invalidate this subcontinent and make short work of it.

That's the consensus of competent foreign observers here. No one says a Russian invasion is inevitable—in fact, there is a feeling that one may never be necessary. But it's a possibility that has been studied by top army men of the west, and, doubtless, of Russia.

The observers speak in terms of what Russia has today and what India, Pakistan and Afghanistan together could put in Russia's way. They discount the possibility of foreign help arriving in time, except for a few aircraft.

The observers rule out Tibet and Sinkiang as jumping off places for an invasion of India. That territory, they say, is too rugged and there are no routes southward which would accommodate a military operation.

But to the west, there are two possible entrances for Russian armies. One is the famed Khyber Pass, linking Afghanistan with the northwest frontier province of Pakistan. The other is the Khojak Pass, on the Afghan-Baluchistan border. Baluchistan, a barren area, is part of Pakistan.

Use of either pass would mean moving across long stretches of difficult country. One observer suggests Khojak Pass would be an easier entrance than Khyber, but

Forms Beta Club At Stokes High

A Beta club was recently organized at Stokes High School marking the first time that the Honor club organization had been introduced in the school program.

At a meeting held for the purpose of organizing, the following officers were elected: president, Janice Taylor; vice-president, Betsy Stokes; secretary, Edna Bland; treasurer, Donnie Cherry.

One of the first projects which the club plans to undertake this year is the publishing of a high school annual, the first ever to be printed by the Stokes school.

Members of the club who received invitation to become members, based on their records in school work, are: Helen Futrell, Margaret Briley, Jack Cherry, Bruce Bullock, Willis Wilson, Betsy Stokes, Jennie Rae Bullock, Gaye Cobb, Mildred Bullock, Donnie Cherry, Margaret Ann Whitehead, Janice Taylor, Edna Bland, Fletcher Wilson and Warren Whitehurst.

The members came from the 10-12 grades.

Bright Lights Lured A Beaver

Butte, Mont.—(AP)—An eager beaver that never had it so good in the woods really had itself a time in Butte's Columbia Park for a spell.

The critter moved in quietly, took up quarters in a small stream between the roller coaster and the merry-go-round and moved in hungrily on the park's succulent trees.

Ted Beach, superintendent of the gardens, soon noticed something was doing his trees a great deal of no good so he called for help from the game wardens who trapped the 45-pound animal and carried it away from the bright lights and music.

Sinatra Split Is Agreed In Court

Santa Monica, Calif., Sept. 29—(AP)—The 11-year-old marriage of Frank Sinatra and his wife officially hit the rocks yesterday with Mrs. Nancy Sinatra receiving approximately a third of the crooner's estimated $1,000,000 a year income.

Sinatra let his wife have a separate maintenance decree by default in Superior Court.

Greg Bautzer, attorney for Mrs. Sinatra, disclosed that under terms of a property settlement, she will receive one third of his gross income up to $150,000 annually and then a complicated sliding scale, based on income, tax tables, takes effect.

Bautzer said that the one time bobby sox idol will earn close to a million dollars this year.

Mrs. Sinatra has been receiving $2,750 a month support for herself and their three children during months of negotiations over the settlement.

In July, the singer's manager, Mack Millar, announced that Sinatra had signed a three-year contract with Columbia Broadcasting System under which he will be paid $3,000,000.

Sinatra has been dating Actress Ava Gardner in New York. They attended the Charles-Louis fight together at Yankee Stadium Wednesday night.

Murderous Bootlegger Is Saved As Mob Assembles

Columbiana, Ala., Sept. 28—(AP)—A 34-year-old Negro, accused of willfully crushing a sheriff to death beneath the wheels of his motor car, was spirited away from this central Alabama town at a 90-mile an hour clip last night when a mob assembled.

Officers made off with William Franklin Webb, who had been lodged in the county jail here.

State liquor investigator Jack Benton said the Negro deliberately ran down sheriff Luther Bozeman when he drove up to a moonshine still during a raid and officers sought to arrest him.

The 50-year-old sheriff was knocked to the ground and his right leg almost torn from his body, Benton stated.

When a crowd estimated at 150 to 200 demonstrated at the jail, Benton declared, officers decided to take him to Birmingham for safekeeping.

Members of the crowd leaped into their own cars and followed the officers for about 35 miles before they were outdistanced.

No formal charge was placed against Webb when he docketed at the Jefferson county jail in Birmingham. He was listed as being held for Shelby county authorities.

Bozeman would have finished his term of office in three months. He was defeated for reelection in the May primaries.

Tot Eases Old Boredom With Shopping Trip

NEW ULM, Minn.—(AP)—Sandra J. Koosmann, age three and a half, got bored when she and her mother were taking a nap. So she went shopping.

In a grocery store she helped herself to two bottles of cream, a can of soup, candy, bubble gum and cookies. She bobbed her head yes when the checker asked her if her mother had sent her and went out with her bag of groceries. But no one noticed when she added a new purse, a toy sewing machine and a little clock at another store. In a third store, busy clerks paid no attention when she tried on a new pair of shoes. Leaving her red sandals, she wore them out of the store. But her bag was heavy and she set it on the sidewalk and went into a fourth store. There a friend of the family spotted her and suggested a soft drink. That slowed her down until now frantic parents caught up. Pappa M. E. Koosmann found her bag on the sidewalk and retraced her trip, paying as he went.

Washington, Sept. 28—(AP)—An Air Force Captain who jumped from a height of more than eight miles probably has set a new world's parachute drop record.

The jump, announced today by the Air Force, was made by Capt. Richard V. Wheeler of Watertown, Mass. The announcement said he jumped 42,448 feet. This exceeded by about 2,000 feet the Air Force's previous bail-out record.

Mrs. Henry Ford Dies At Hospital

Detroit, Sept. 28—(AP)—Mrs. Henry Ford, 84, widow of the late world-famed automobile pioneer, died of a heart ailment at Henry Ford Hospital early today.

Death came to Mrs. Ford at 2 a.m. (EST) not many hours after her third visit to the hospital for a heart condition in the last several months.

A family representative said Mrs. Ford had been taken to the hospital yesterday.

The cause of death was given as acute coronary occlusion.

On her two previous hospitalizations, Mrs. Ford had recovered sufficiently to return to her estate home at suburban Dearborn. Her return to the hospital yesterday was not generally known.

As wife, then widow, of Henry Ford, Clara Bryant Ford was one of America's influential women. Ford died several years ago.

Businessmen Looking Ahead To Twilight Zone Of Mobilization

By SAM DAWSON
New York, Sept. 29—(AP)—Many businessmen are getting set to enter the twilight zone of defense mobilization. It will be a strange period, with war-type controls but without the sound of guns.

The nation's economic activity already is at a postwar high, as industry and trade work as fast as they can to make and lay up stores of civilian goods.

Here is what the crystal gazers see ahead for business:

1. Labor: Wages are on the way up in many industries. Some expect unions to ask for still higher pay by the end of the year.

Already some companies are scrambling for workers—in sharp contrast to the start of World War II, when there was a la. e pool of jobless men.

The Labor Department estimates that a full-scale mobilization would mean a drain of 6.6 million workers from production of purely civilian goods. (That is around 10 per cent of the present total labor force.) Meanwhile, partial mobilization will mean drafting of more young men, calling up of more trained reserve officers.

2. Profits: Production rates will be high—especially for those in defense work—but earnings will be milked by taxes. Corporate income tax rates go up next week, may rise again next year. An excess profits tax is promised by the present Congress.

3. Money: Bankers, at their annual meeting here this week, say they look for a Federal Reserve drive to make money scarcer, interest rates higher, the volume of business loans smaller, bank reserves (idle money) larger, and consumer credit smaller.

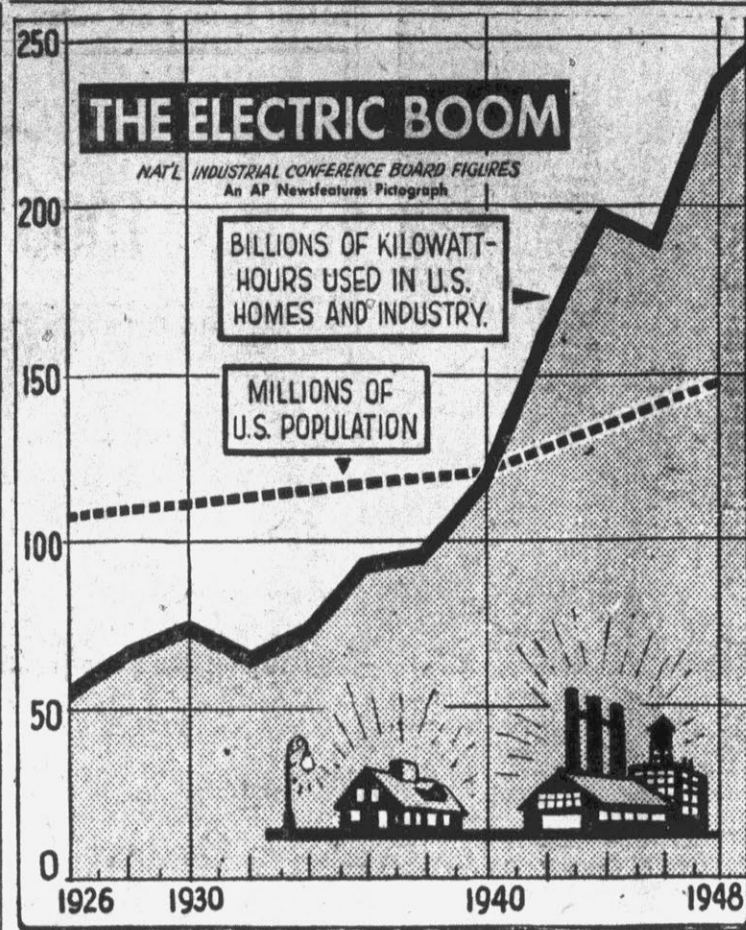

But money is going to be easier for the defense producer to get. Government guarantees of bank loans to boost defense output were made available Wednesday.

4. Controls: Price and wage controls are widely expected. Businessmen are already on notice to hold down inventories. Specific ceilings on inventories of critical war materials are looked for.

Government stockpiling of strategic materials is growing, at the expense of industries scrambling for scarce materials.

5. Construction: Home building, one of the chief props of this year's prosperity, may drop sharply next year. To some extent, expansion of industrial plants will take its place. Steps are already underway to increase the output of steel, aluminum, synthetic rubber, electric power, aircraft, and other things needed for defense.

Waste piles around gold mines of the "Rand" in South Africa have been estimated at 1,000,000,000 tons in weight.

D. H. Conley To Address Annual FTA Convention

D. H. Conley, Pitt County superintendent of schools, has been announced as speaker on the program to be offered by the Future Teachers of America at the 28th annual convention of the North Carolina Education Association at East Carolina Teachers College next Tuesday, October 3. Mr. Conley will discuss qualifications used in choosing teachers for positions in the public schools.

The FTA group of the district NCEA was organized several years ago by members of the Robert H. Wright Chapter at East Carolina Teachers College. Meetings of the student-teacher group at the annual Northeastern District convention have been sponsored by the East Carolina group.

Officers of the FTA district organization for this year are Marian Brown of Greenville, president, and William Reams of Winterville, vice-president, both students at East Carolina Teachers College, and Joy Taylor, secretary, of Atlantic Christian College.

Bow And Arrows Killed Elephants

Leopoldville — (AP) — Howard Hill, the Wilsonville (Alabama) bow and arrow champion, has completed a seven-month, 12,000 mile trip through the Eastern Congo, Kenya and Uganda. He was to shoot the outdoor scene of a new semi-documentary film on African wildlife with the probable title of "Timbo" (Swahili for elephant).

Hill shot all his game with a bow, a type invented by himself and consisting of laminated bamboo. The program of his trip called for the killing of an elephant, a lion, a leopard, a python, a buffalo, a rhinoceros, a crocodile and a hyena. This program was fully carried out, and to be sure the operators wouldn't miss anything Hill shot two elephants and lots of crocodiles and hyenas, which are not legally protected.

For a lion or a buffalo, Hill said, one arrow is enough. He shoots mostly from a distance of between 50 and 60 yards. The arrow pierces the thick and elastic skin of the African elephant. The rhinoceros is still more vulnerable. Hill shot an arrow into one rhino which completely disappeared.

"The animal never knows whence the silent arrows strike and generally does not discover the hunter but flees upward, while a good hunter always sneaks in from down the wind," Hill says.

A death in the family of early English millers was made known by leaving the wind-mill in an "X" position several days.

What Is Christian Living?

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 5:1-20; 18:21-35; Acts 11:19-26; Romans 12:9-21; Philippians 1:27-30; I Thessalonians 5:15-25; James 1:22-27.

Seeing the multitudes, Jesus went up into a mountain; and when He was set, His disciples came unto Him, and He opened His mouth and taught them, "Blessed are the poor in spirit."

Peter came to Jesus asking, "How oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times seven?" Jesus answered, "Until seventy times seven."

After the martyrdom of Stephen and the persecutions following, the disciples of Jesus scattered, some going to Antioch, where they preached the Lord Jesus to the Greeks.

Writing to the Romans, Paul commanded them: "If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men."

MEMORY VERSE—John 13:35.

WHAT IS CHRISTIAN LIVING?

JESUS AND ST. PAUL GIVE US THE ANSWERS

Scripture—Matthew 5:1-20; 18:21-35; Acts 11:19-26; Romans 12:9-21; Philippians 1:27-30; I Thessalonians 5:15-25; James 1:22-27.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. INTO THIS WORLD of hate and struggle against tyranny, this lesson, beginning a new series under the general title of Growing in Christian Living, should make us all think of what it would be like if the whole world believed in Jesus and really lived religiously.

Even if all professed Christians followed Jesus' teachings to the letter, it could be an immense help in making this unhappy world a better place to live in.

Jesus, seeing a great multitude gathered, went up into a high mountain, and the disciples came to Him. Then He gave the Sermon on the Mount, so called, which told of the blessedness of right living: "Blessed are the poor in spirit; Blessed are the meek; Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness; Blessed are the merciful; Blessed are the pure in heart; Blessed are the peacemakers," etc. Who among us is so blessed?

"Ye are the salt of the earth," Jesus further told His audience. "But if the salt hath lost its savour... it is good for nothing with me, and I will pay thee all." The king forgave him the debt. Then this man who had received so great a forgiveness, went to a fellow-servant who owed him a small sum of money, and demanded payment, taking him by the throat. The fellow insisted that he would pay the money in time, but his debtor would not listen and threw him into prison.

When other servants told their Lord what was done, he called the man to him, called him wicked, reminded him of how much he had been forgiven, and delivered him to the tormentors until he should pay his debt.

"So likewise shall My heavenly Father do also unto you, if ye from your hearts forgive not every one his brother their trespasses," Jesus told Peter. This man was punished, not for his debt; that had been forgiven; but for his cruelty toward his fellow-servant.

After the new church had been in existence for about 12 or 13 years, a great work was going on in preaching the gospel and winning men to it. Many missionaries had preached only to the

Grows Oysters In Private Ocean

REEDY BRANCH
Rev. D. W. Hansley, pastor
Services each first and third Sunday mornings and second and fourth

New York—(AP)—Since Colonial days, Long Island, New York, has been one of the few places where land under the ocean can be owned. As a result the bays around the island have an important place in the oyster industry. Oyster farmers grow their crops in their private ocean.

It takes five years to grow an oyster. Emphasis is on quality. When the crop is "ripe" it is harvested. Some of the oysters are shipped fresh, often by air to distant points. Others are canned.

but to be cast out and trodden under foot of men.

"Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid. Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in Heaven."

Are we the type of Christian who has lost savour, and, as far as helping the world is concerned, we might as well be trodden under foot? Or do we hide the light of our faith so that no one can see it? If either is true, it is time we re-examined our lives and, after reading the passages assigned to us in this lesson, determine that, by God's help, we will try to live our religion as well as profess it.

Peter asked Jesus a question about forgiveness. How many times should he forgive a brother who had sinned against him—seven times? Jesus answered at once, "Until seven times seven."

Then He illustrated His point. A servant, He said, owed a king a large sum of money, and the king wanted payment. The man could not pay, and the king ordered him to be sold, with his wife and children and all he had, to pay the debt.

The servant fell down and pleaded, "Lord have patience

Jews, but at that great and ancient, but wicked, city of Antioch the Greeks also had received the teaching and many believed.

The less desirable citizens of Antioch called this new religion "Christian," in ridicule at first. Elsewhere Christians were called Saints. Those who had embraced this new faith were "different." They had learned of Christ and His spirit and they lived and worked for Christ.

Writing to the Philippians, Paul advised them. "Only let your manner of life be worthy of the gospel of Christ."

To the Thessalonians he wrote, "See that none render unto any one evil for evil; but always follow after that which is good, one toward another, and toward all."

St. James wrote: "But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deluding your own selves.

"If any man thinketh himself to be religious, while he brideth not his tongue but deceiveth in his heart, this man's religion is vain.

"Pure religion and undefiled before our God and Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep oneself unspotted from the world."

Biography Of Truman Reviews Origin Of Splits With Friends, Publishers

Washington, Sept. 29—(AP)—Jonathan Daniels' new biography of President Truman quotes the President as criticizing Bernard Baruch—and some newspaper publishers—along with James F. Byrnes, Democratic candidate for Governor of South Carolina.

The quotation in which Mr. Truman accuses Byrnes, his former Secretary of State of being a "mis-erable failure" in office who "ran out on me when the going was rough," was followed by these lines: "So he and old Baruch have joined the McCormicks, Hearst and Scripps-Howards to discredit me. They will not succeed."

Baruch was not available for comment.

The Truman-Baruch split was the more emphatic because Mr. Truman's predecessors back to World War I relied for advice on the aging financier, and Franklin D. Roosevelt spent weeks at Hobcaw, Baruch's South Carolina plantation.

The brief quotation is the only direct reference to Baruch attributed to Truman in the book published this week under the title "The Man of Independence."

However, Daniels refers to the split in references to the 1948 campaign, and blames it on a Truman mistake.

"The elder counselors departed," Daniels writes. "The break between Truman and Bernard Baruch was not typical but it was significant."

Even under Roosevelt, Daniels explains, Baruch had preferred to stick to economics instead of getting into the publicity of politics. But "Truman was undoubtedly sensitive about departures when Baruch declined to serve as a member of a money-raising committee."

Daniels, then a Presidential aide as well as publisher of the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer, goes on: "Truman mistook, I think an old preference for a new desertion and wrote a sharp letter to the effect that politics was not a one-way street."

"The quick pride of the old counselor met the pride, too, of a beset President. Also, as often happens in politics, there were people to give each of them aid and comfort in their irritation."

The book states that "no misunderstanding or sensitiveness" was involved in the break between Mr. Truman and Jesse Jones—of Houston—who Daniels said, had been referred to by Franklin Roosevelt as "Jesus H. Jones."

Jones, publisher of the Houston Chronicle, was formerly secretary of commerce and RFC administrator. Daniels says of him, in connection with the Truman campaign: "He began to put Dewey editorials in his newspaper in Texas, even before Truman asked him to help. Also, after he had tried to beat Truman for President, and had failed, he telephoned in as an old Truman friend. The late call stirred no affectionate Truman response."

"Even some members of Truman's own cabinet were too preoccupied with their official duties to be noticeably active in the political campaign."

Mr. Truman's inclusion of "McCormicks, Hearsts and Scripps-Howards" in his criticism of Byrnes was not elaborated on. Col Robert R. McCormick is editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune. The Hearst and Scripps-Howard newspaper groups opposed Mr. Truman's candidacy.

Walter S. Gifford (above) was selected Tuesday by President Truman to be United States ambassador to Great Britain. The former chairman of the board of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company will succeed Lewis A. Douglas, resigned. Gifford is a Republican. (AP Wirephoto).

Legislators' Pay Hike Supported

Raleigh, N.C., Sept. 29—(AP)—Secretary of State Thard Eure has thrown his support behind a constitutional amendment which would boost the pay of the state's legislators.

North Carolina's legislators now receive $600 a session. The amendment, one of five to be decided by the voters in November, would raise the pay scale to a flat $15 a day for not more than 90 days.

In a statement, Eure said yesterday that at present 40 states and four territories pay their lawmakers more than North Carolina pays its legislators. Even if the amendment is approved, Eure added, 29 states and two territories will still pay more than North Carolina.

Eure said North Carolina is the only state that does not pay its legislators a travel allowance.

Filming History Of Williamsburg

Williamsburg, Va.—(AP)—Motion pictures will soon show the history of this restored center of American Colonial life. Scenes are being made using the authentic reproductions of colonial structures.

About 300 citizens of the community, many of them in costumes from before the American Revolution, are taking part in the documentary presentations.

An important part of the filming has centered around the Josiah Chowning tavern. Between scenes the costumed actors and modern visitors often sat side by side at the tables and were served by costumed waiters.

Germany Has New N. Y. Consulate

New York—West Germany's new consulate in mid-town New York, is among the most important in the city. Occupying the entire 32nd floor of the modern office building it commands a sweeping view of the northern half of the city. A few blocks southeast is the new Secretariat building of the United Nations.

This is different from the heavily furnished prewar German consulate near the waterfront on the Battery at the southern tip of the city. The Third Reich consulate was closed by war nine years ago.

Armed Services Plan Big Orders Of Textile Goods

Swampscott, Mass., Sept. 29—(AP)—The textile industry will be called upon to supply nearly $2,000,000,000 worth of material in the government's military procurement program.

The figure was disclosed yesterday by Col. Hugh MacKintosh, chief of the industrial mobilization branch in the office of the U. S. quartermaster general.

MacKintosh spoke at the 96th annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers.

He said that the military had made agreements with 325 plants for production of military items.

Two hundred delegates attended the session at which MacKintosh spoke. Earlier, they elected William F. Sullivan, 37-year old Boston lawyer, president for the coming year.

He is the first president elected from outside the industry in the history of the organization.

Prof. William Y. Elliott of the Harvard department of government said he believed the government had "a serious defect in the war mobilization program in its failure" to place all controls under a single director.

He urged that both pricing and production be placed under a single head to avoid "irresponsible action by people who do not have to take the rap for getting out their supplies."

The assignment of Stuart Symington as head of war mobilization, Elliott added, is "only as sort of a coordinator, not a boss."

Young Mother Is Killed In Wreck

Tryon, N.C., Sept. 29—(AP)—A young mother was killed and three children seriously injured here yesterday when their car was struck by an Army troop train.

Dead is Mrs. J. Clyde Going, 35, of Tryon.

Seriously injured were two of Mrs. Going's children, James, 10, and Ann, 14, and Sarah Jane Ballow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Ballow.

Street Names In World Affairs

Prague—(AP)—Prague avenue named after British Field Marshal Lord Montgomery and American General Dwight D. Eisenhower ought to be rechristened, a reader wrote in to the newspaper "Mlada Fronta."

"These gentlemen, initiators of a new war, are also enemies of the English and American nations," he argued.

Buffalo Stampede Is Caught For Movies

Billings, Mont.—(AP) A buffalo stampede, awesome but familiar sight to Indians and pioneers of another day, has been caught for the movies.

Jeeps, aided by Indians on horseback, recently stampeded the Chow Indian tribe's bison herd for a scene in the motion picture "War Path" dealing with the life of Gen. Custer.

An announcement by Henry J. Kaiser

Today, at your Kaiser-Frazer dealer, you will see what we believe to be the most important car that America has produced since the automobile became a necessity of daily living.

It fills the needs, the wants, the purchasing power of all America as no other car has done in the last ten years.

It is rugged. It has outstanding maneuverability, handles and parks easily, and is powered with our new Super-sonic Engines which deliver up to 30 to 35 miles to the gallon.

The Henry J is the lowest-priced car in the low-price field. It has the full, generous proportions to which Americans are accustomed. We have given it the best combination of performance, comfort, styling, and economy of operation.

It is the car that you and every American family can afford to buy, to operate, to maintain... and be proud to own.

The Henry J... the lowest-priced car in the low-price field.

$1299. Delivered at Willow Run, with Federal taxes paid. Only white sidewall tires, de luxe bumper guards and local taxes (if any) additional.

The most important new car in America!

Here today... The Henry J.

Available in two models: Henry J (as illustrated above), Henry J DeLuxe (six-cylinder at additional cost).

Important because... It's Smart! Smart to look at... smart to own! Notice the extra-wide doors... front seat 58 inches wide... head room and leg room galore! And—lock! The back of the rear seat folds forward, giving you 51 cubic feet of storage space, almost double that of the largest sedan trunk compartment!

Important because... It's Tough! Husky, Double-Channel Frame, reinforced like a steel bridge! The rear axle Hypoid geared, as in most expensive cars. Extra-wide windshield and windows give you the largest vision area in any low-priced car... short turning radius permits the easiest parking.

Important because... It's Thrifty! You get 30 to 35 miles per gallon from the quiet, responsive Super-sonic Engines. (Henry J—4 cylinders, Henry J DeLuxe—6 cylinders.)

Lower first cost... lower maintenance... lower repair bills... lower insurance... lower operating cost. Your savings, in just two years, can more than total the down payment on the Henry J.

Built to Better the Best on the Road!

Costs less to buy... less to drive... less to maintain!

Green Phantoms Open Home Schedule Against Hertford Invaders Tonight

By BILL LLOYD
 Tonight Greenville High School's Phantoms open their home schedule against a strong Hertford eleven. Kickoff for tonight's game is set for 8 p.m. in the East Carolina college stadium.
 The Phantoms go into tonight's game with a record of one tie and one loss in their two previous games this season. In their first game of the year, they tied Edenton 0-0, and last week they lost a closely fought battle to New Bern, 13-0.
 "We look for Hertford to give us a rough time," stated Coach Bob Parley after yesterday's light drills ended.
 Hertford, coached by a former

East Carolina grid star, Ellie Fear- ing, defeated Farmville last week, 28-0, and looked like a powerful ball club, with plenty of personnel. Hertford uses the two-platoon system in its T-formation. Expected to lead the Greenies' offense tonight will be Halfback Leon Moore, a hard-runner who has been a consistent ground gainer all year. Aiding Moore in the running department will be Kent Lee, left half, and Bob Perry, line-bus- ing fullback. Quarterback Sidney Briley will do the passing for the Phantoms. Ends Johnny Aman and Wiley

Gardner on the receiving end. Johnny Merwin, a prep school transfer from Georgia, is expected to lead the line play from his guard spot, together with Mac Crawford and Wallace Conway at tackles. Joe Rowland will play opposite Merwin at left guard with Lewis Howe holding down the pivot position. Elsewhere in the Northeastern conference tonight Kinston plays at Elizabeth City, New Bern is at Washington, while Edenton plays at Williamston in another non-conference affair.

The 1950 Edition of the Greenville High School Phantoms will open their home schedule tonight at eight o'clock when they tangle with the strong Hertford team at the ECTC stadium. The squad members are (left to right, first row): John Measick, Milton Foley, Charles Huffstetler, Jimmy Cheatham, John Sideris, Billy Woolfolk, Eddie Farley, Charles Mitchell, A. Joseph, John Winstead. Second Row: Wayne Smiley, Lewis Howe, John Merwin, Ralph Smiley, Walter Goor, Bobby Lee, Le on Moore, Bobby Perry, Billy Wooten, Kent Lee, Bobbie Langston. Top row: Assistant Manager Zack Taft, Jimmy Dillingham, Wiley Gardner, Joe Rowland, Doug Morgan, Wallace Conway, Sidney Briley, Tommie Evans, Mack Crawford, John Aman, Fletcher Murray, and manager Jimmie Brewer. Kinston Red Imps Edge GHS Jayvees By 13-12

Kinston's little Red Imps came back, did the most running for the Red Imps, while Henry and Jordan were the big guns in the line. Score by periods:
 Kinston 0 6 7 0-13
 Greenville 6 6 0 0-12
 Kinston scoring: Avery, Hill. Point after touchdown: Jackson (on plunge)
 Greenville scoring: Mayo (2)

Coach Stanley Terrill's Baby Phantoms took an early lead in the first quarter as they marched 60 yards for their first score, with Halfback J. D. Mayo going over from the three-yard stripe.
 The Red Imps rallied back to net the count 6-6 early in the second quarter on a pass good for 27 yards from Tailback Ken Jackson to Halfback Avery for the scoring marker. Greenville marched again during the closing minutes of the half to go ahead at halftime, 13-6 on a sustained 59-yard drive, with Mayo scoring again from the one-foot line.
 With Fullback Farece Hill bearing the blunt of the offensive running during the third period, Kinston iced the game on a 61-yard march, with Hill going over for the score from the three-yard stripe. Ken Jackson added the all-important extra point on a plunge.
 Greenville threatened seriously midway of the final stanza as they carried the ball to the Kinston eight-yard line, but a heavier Red Imp line staved off the rally and took over on downs.
 Outstanding defensive men for Greenville were Captain Carroll at tackle, along with Tom Smoote, who played the entire game at guard. Fullbacks Morgan and Langston stood out in the offensive game, together with End Vernon Wingate and Quarterback Johnny Russell.
 For Kinston, Farece Hill, big full-

Point College, 27-16 in a North State conference game here last night.
 Guilford shoved across a touch-down on an eight yard end sweep in the first period and never lost the lead. The Panthers managed to hold the Quakers for the rest of the first half and got three points in the second period on a field goal to leave the halftime score at 6-3. Guilford rolled up three touch-downs in the second half and led 27-3 until late in the fourth quarter when High Point got its passing attack clicking and scored two touch-downs.

Only Thin Chance Remains For Teams In Second Place

By RALPH BODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Rain, rain go away, come again some other day."

That's what the second place teams in the major league pennant races are chanting today. This is especially true of the beleaguered Brooklyn Dodgers, and to a lesser extent, the Detroit Tigers.

Rain could wash out what little chance the Dodgers and Tigers have to catch the Philadelphia Phillies and New York Yankees, respectively.

The Phillies in the National and the Yanks in the American assured themselves yesterday of finishing in no worse than a tie for the pennants in their respective leagues.

Brooklyn, in order to tie the Phillies, must beat Boston twice today and the Phillies on Saturday and Sunday. The Phils are idle today and can clinch if the Dodgers split, Detroit, in order to tie the Yanks, must win all three of their remaining games against Cleveland while the Yanks, idle today, drop single games to the Boston Red Sox on Saturday and Sunday.

However, Brooklyn is in danger of having its thin chance wiped out. The Dodgers are scheduled to play their third doubleheader in as many days against the Braves at Ebbets Field and the weather forecast is showers.

If rain prevents the twin bill from starting at the scheduled 1:30 p.m. (EST), the games will be started as soon as possible. If necessary, the games will be played at night.

National League President Ford Frick said early today that the doubleheader will be played "if at all possible." Conceivably this means that the teams can play all night if necessary, as the National has no curfew on weekday night games.

However, if the games are rained out, the Dodgers will be washed out of the pennant picture since Boston is scheduled to play the New York Giants over the weekend while the Dodgers entertain Philadelphia.

Rain also threatens today's game between Cleveland and the Tigers in Detroit, but there's ample opportunity to make it up as part of a doubleheader on Saturday or Sunday.

game. One game also separates each of the other three.

College View Cleaners also came out of the coldrums to take two from WGTC. They were way ahead in the first two games but didn't keep the pace, going down in the third frame, 459-533.

Edith Nisbet of Carolina Cleaners hiked the night's high mark for a singleton with 176, high but eight pins lower than the mark set last week by Audrey Leggett. That game enabled her to ring up a record-breaking three game total of 483. In that bracket she did pass last week's mark of 439 set by the Double N marksmen.

Carolina came in for its share of team honors, also. The quintet rolled a total three game mark of 1,718 for a new high in that bracket. Games were 552, 604 and 562.

They kept all scores in the higher figures, although none could reach the high mark of 614 set last week by them.

Leading in averages this week is Edith Nisbet who used her three games this week to good advantage. Her 134 is 14 pins better than second place Margaret Clark, WGTC captain, with 120. Third is Audrey Leggett with 126 and fourth, Lillian Thomas, College View, 119.

The girls bowling for Double N Restaurant kept themselves out in front of the four team pace but had their won-lost record saved by two games in dropping the duel to Carolina Cleaners Wednesday night.

Two 'Family' Battles In Coastal Conference

Two family battles in the Coastal conference feature this afternoon's play in the smaller high school league.

South Edgecombe, up and coming contender in Coastal conference play, are hosts to Coach George Woods' Vanceboro eleven in Pine-tops, while Farmville's Red Devils travel to Robersonville in the other league contest. Ayden's defending champions have an open date this week.

Coach Wiley Parker's crew will have Wingback Brooks Webb leading the Pinetops offensive game, along with George Pitt, Doug Whitley and Rufus Edwards. End Doug Eason will be the target for the South Edgecombe aerial game.

Leading the Parkermen's line play will be Center Maynard Leonard, with Tackles Julian Council and Don Sutton going yeoman work on both offense and defense.

Bernie Powell will do the quarterbacking for the Vanceboro lads with Ends James Hartley and McRae Whitman on the receiving end, to offer the offensive power against South Edgecombe.

Injury-riddled Farmville will take the role of underdog to Coach Bob Lee's Robersonville squad at Robersonville this afternoon.

Coach Elbert Moye lost two of his key men last Friday in his team's 25-0 loss to Hertford. Quarterback Randy Allen is out for three weeks with a severe sprained ankle, while End Al Cannon may be lost for the season with a broken hand.

Filling the signal-calling spot for the Red Devils this afternoon will be Charlie Fitzgerald, a youngster with very little football experience. Robert Nanney or Wilbur Morris, up from the reserves, will be called on to fill the vacant flank spot.

Both league tilts are scheduled to get underway at 3 p.m.

Eppes Bulldogs To Play New Bern Eleven Tonight

C. M. Eppes High School open their home slate tonight against the New Bern Bears.

Kickoff for tonight's game is slated for 8 p.m. in Guy Smith Stadium. Seeking revenge from last year's loss to the Bears, 6-0, the Eppes Bulldogs will field a heavier line from tackle to tackle headed by Co-captain Bennie Williams, who tips the scales at 170 pounds.

Aiding Williams in the forward wall will be a freshman stand-out, Simon Hemby Hemby is rated as a potential all-state tackle. Five freshmen round out the Bulldog forward wall.

In the backfield, Coaches Crowder and Daniels will have hard-running

Co-captain H. B. Griffin leading the way from his halfback position.

The Bulldogs run either from the single wing or the T-formation, and have stressed running and pass patterns all week in preparation for tonight's home opener.

Little is known of the New Bern attack except that it runs from a varied offensive formation.

Tentative lineup for Eppes high school tonight is Greene and Dupree at ends; Wynn and Hemoy at tackles; Price and Williams at guards; and Outerbridge at center. In the backfield will be Tucker at quarterback; Hines and Griffin at halfbacks; and Williams at the fullback spot.

Pirates Wind Up Heavy Drills For Saturday's Game

East Carolina's Pirates ended most of their prepping for their home opener with Hampden-Sydney here yesterday with light offensive drills.

Some time was given to setting up a stronger defense for the Tiger onslaught here Saturday night, with punting drills rounding out yesterday's workout.

Coach Dole will send his squad through another light session this afternoon, winding up the work for Saturday night's non-conference scrap.

All members of the East Carolina squad took part in the drills yesterday except End Ed Tanner, who will probably miss Saturday's game because of a wrenched knee.

A few more Pirate gridders are on the ailing list but will most likely see action in the tilt Saturday night. They are Tackle Dennis Smith and Guards Don McKenzie, Bobby Hodges and Leon Ellis. End Cecil Winston has also been bothered with a bad shoulder.

A mammoth pep rally this afternoon at four o'clock, headed by Cheerleader Jack Everton, will launch the Pirate followers' spirit for tomorrow night's clash.

Swain Leads In Ground Gaining For Buc Crew

Bustling Tom Swain, 224-pound fullback for the Pirates, is the leading ground-gainer for Coach Dole's offensive in the two games played thus far this season.

Swain has carried the ball 22 times with a net yardage of 106 yards for an average of 4.7 yards per try. Halfback Johnny Daughtry is also tied with Swain, but the converted halfback has not carried as many times as the big fullback.

Daughtry has run seven times, netting 33 yards for another 4.7 percentage.

Roger Thrift, all-conference quarterback for the Bucs, is the ace passer of the Pirates. He is up among the conference leaders in the passing department with 20 completions in 51 tries, with an average of 16 yards gained per completion.

In the pass receiving department, rangy Frank Maennle, who was shifted to offensive end last week against Lenoir-Rhyne, leads in this department with six catches for a total of 129 yards. Maennle caught all his passes during the Bear tilt. His nearest competitor is Dwight Shoe, who plays the opposite end for the Bucs. He has caught four passes good for 69 yards for a 15.2 average.

Unrest Growing In Eastern Zone

Berlin, Sept. 29—(AP)—A wave of unrest appeared today to be shaking Germany's Russian zone.

Reports of growing resistance to the Communists were confirmed by the Reds themselves.

The outbreaks may have been encouraged by the United Nations successes in Korea, judging from the timing.

East zone. Informants said the propaganda activity against the Red regime was particularly heightened in Leipzig, Dessau, Magdeburg, Potsdam and Halle.

A flood of pamphlets urging the Germans to boycott the ration free stores, the Communist political meetings and even the Red press have been found in these cities.

Anti-Soviet posters in the Russian language have been posted in public places recently. Western observers speculated that the tough Ukrainian resistance movement may have gotten a foothold in east Germany. Members of the resistance group from the Ukraine are known to have sought refuge in west Germany, near the Soviet zone border, about three years ago.

Lost Profits To Be Underscored

The second in a series of 13 weekly radio programs entitled "The Silent Siren" will be broadcast over WGTG tomorrow morning at 10:15.

Sponsor of this week's educational program is the State Department of Conservation and Development. This 15-minute edition of the series is called "What Would You Do?" and will point out various ways the people of the state are losing income that could be theirs through the development of the many resources of the state.

The program bears out the fact that although North Carolina has more protected coastline than any other state, only 2,655 persons make their living through fishing.

Another resource native to the state the program will harp on is hog raising. The hog raising section of North Carolina raises up to six times the national average in hogs but very little meat packing is done in the state.

Attention is called also to the counties in the southeastern part that their climate and soil are ideal for truck farming and that year round canning factories should be providing employment to thousands in that section.

In connection with this particular program, George R. Ross, director of the sponsoring department, says: "Your State Department of Conservation and Development has many services with their main interest to see that with your help a portion of this vast income that is being lost may some day be yours."

Funeral Today For Mrs. R. D. Murphrey

Farmville—Mrs. Margaret Carraway Murphrey, 68, of Lizzie in Greene County, died in a Kinston hospital early Thursday afternoon following a long illness. She was born and lived all her life in Greene County. She was the daughter of the late William Carraway and Henrietta Suggs Carraway. Her husband was the late Richard D. Murphrey. She was a member of the Advent Christian Church.

Funeral services were held from the home this afternoon at 3:30 conducted by the Rev. James Ellis and assisted by the Rev. W. N. Harrison and the Rev. T. J. Ellis. Interment will follow in the Forest Hill Cemetery, Farmville.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. B. E. Thomas of Lizzie, Mrs. H. A. Morris of Farmville, and Mrs. Jack Blanchard of Fuquay-Varina; seven sons, E. L., D. B., Chester, Dalton, Harry Lee, and Melvin of Farmville RFD and Raymond of Snow Hill, RFD; 19 grandchildren and two great grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. L. T. Moreadith of Raleigh; and a brother, Jesse Carraway of Farmville.

Two days after he was reported missing, the decomposing body of Bobby Topp (left), 9, was found stuffed in a refrigerator at a tavern operated by his mother, Mrs. Lois Tipp (right), at Tampa. He had been shot in the head and his body was wrapped mummy-fashion in a sheet. Officers questioned Mrs. Tipp for hours, but she stuck to her story that she knew nothing about the slaying. LOOK IN THE BARN FOR ROLLED BALE QUALITY

Now is the time to check on hay quality. Here are some things we would like to show you — right in our store or on some of your neighbors' farms.

- How rolled bales save the leaves, right through to the manger or feed bunk, because the hay is never pounded, twisted and crumpled during baling, and bales can't break during handling.
- How rolled bales are rain resistant. Each bale has its own "thatched roof." If good hay goes into the baler, good hay comes out of the bale.
- How rolled bales are easy to feed, rolled out or cut open for stanchion feeding, fed whole in bunks or out on pasture.

Come in and let us show you now how the Allis-Chalmers Roto-Baler and rolled bales can help you make better hay at lower cost, with less work and worry.

OK Sterilizing Of 41 Persons

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 28.—(AP)—All records were broken when the state eugenics board approved 41 sterilization operations at its meeting here yesterday, it was announced today.

Board Executive Secretary Miss Elsie L. Parker said the total was the biggest for one meeting in the history of eugenics sterilization in North Carolina. The board has jurisdiction over persons who are mentally ill, feeble-minded or epileptic.

America's first handmade pressed glass was made in the early 1800's at Cape Cod's Sandwich factory.

Program Scheduled By Faculty Lecture Club

Dr. Ed J. Carter, director of the department of administration and education at East Carolina Teachers College, will be the first speaker to appear on the program presented during 1950-1951 by the Faculty Lecture Club of the college. Dr. Hubert Coleman, chairman of the program committee of the organization, has announced that speakers for the school year will include four faculty members at the college who will read papers before the group.

Dr. Carter's talk is scheduled for Monday evening, October 9, in the Flanagan building at the college and will deal with resource-use education. He joined the college faculty here this fall, replacing Dr. Allan B. Hurlburt, now on leave of absence while working with the North Carolina State Department of Public Instruction. Dr. Carter is head of the department of education at Murry State College in Kentucky.

Marshall Helms of the East Carolina department of science will give a lecture - demonstration before members of the Faculty Lecture Club early in December. His topic will be "Atomic Disintegration Particles and a Demonstration of Apparatus for Their Detection."

Other faculty members who will be on the program for the year include Dr. Kathleen Stokes of the department of social studies and Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, director of the department of health and physical education. Further announcements of programs, including a talk by an off-campus speaker, will soon be made by Dr. Coleman and members of the program committee.

No Developments In Murder Case

There was no new development in the case against John Frank Green, 21-year-old Negro tobacco factory worker, charging murder of his 17-year-old wife, Victoria Hardy Green, late Wednesday night, Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said today.

Green is charged with assaulting his wife with three deadly weapons—a glass bottle, a hammer and an icepick—fatally wounding her. She died shortly afterwards at Pitt General Hospital. The assault occurred at the victim's mother's home, No. 2, Pitt alley, near Tar River.

Police are holding Green without privilege of bail pending an inquest. Coroner Griffin H. Rouse will hold the inquest at the City Hall Monday night at 7:30.

Green will be given a preliminary hearing before Judge J. W. H. Roberts in Police Court after the inquest. The defendant may waive preliminary hearing and await action of the Pitt County grand jury.

The murdered woman had 40 wounds about her head and body. Coroner Rouse said. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon.

ing an absolutely free and independent nation, the plan provides that no single nation should be dominant in settlement of the Korean problem. That is, the new nation will be a United Nations baby.

Another highly interesting aspect of the American project is the declaration that the United States wants Korea made a "pilot project" in which all the resources of the United Nations would be brought to bear. This means, I take it, that it is proposed to make Korea at once a model for future operations and a test of United Nations resources and efficiency.

Patrolmen described the car as being a total loss. Investigation of the accident has not been completed as yet, it was reported, because of the inability of the patrolmen to talk with the driver, Harris.

$1,200,000,000. The FDIC has $60,000,000 in surplus and reserves.

The amount of deposits in insured banks now is around $184,000,000,000 representing 104,000,000 accounts.

All but about 2,000,000 of them will be completely covered by the FDIC insurance. The 2,000,000 are mostly big corporations and insurance companies.

Still Overcast

The sky was heavily overcast during the forenoon today, with indication of rain. A light northeast wind prevailed.

The highest temperature in the Greenville area yesterday was 75 degrees. Lowest last night, 62, and at 8 a. m. today it was 63 degrees.

Service Station Is Opened Today

Greenville's newest service station started operations this morning when the Spur Station opened its doors for business on Dickinson Avenue, a block from the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad.

The station, the first to be operated by the Spur Company in this section, is being managed by E. P. West, of Dunn, North Carolina. Mr. West has had about 12 years experience in this type of work, having been associated with several large companies in the past.

"We will strive to give the best service to all our patrons," West commended today. The station is open 24 hours a day.

Free premiums and balloons are being given away to the opening day visitors.

The station, a modern plant, has ample driveways and gas facilities for the speedy handling of a large number of cars at one time, West pointed out.

Employment Rise In N.C. Industry

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 29.—(P) The period from mid-July to mid-August was one of plenty in the state for workers engaged in non-agricultural pursuits.

Employment jumped 31,000 to $71,600, the highest level since last December.

Negro Schools' PTAs Organized

By CHESTER WALSH

Parent-Teacher associations have been organized at all four Negro schools in the city. Prof. W. H. Davenport, principal of Negro Schools, announced today.

Meadowbrook School Parent-Teacher Association, across the Tar River, elected officers last Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Laura Clemmons is president; Mrs. Naomi Morning, vice president; Mrs. Sallie Edwards, secretary, and Neph White is treasurer.

Fleming Street School Parent-Teacher Association chose its officers Tuesday night. Mrs. Anne Davis is president; Mrs. W. C. Stanton, vice-president; Mrs. Allie B. Greene, secretary; Mrs. J. L. Sledge, assistant secretary, and Mrs. D. D. Garrett is treasurer.

C. M. Eppes High School Parent-Teacher Association Wednesday night elected Mrs. Roslyn Walters, president; Mrs. Julia Barnhill, vice-president; Mrs. M. B. Allen, secretary; Mrs. Hattie Streeter, assistant secretary, and James Brewington, treasurer.

South Greenville School Parent-Teacher Association elected its officers Thursday night. Mrs. Odessa Perkins is president; Mrs. John Harris, vice-president; Mrs. Mary Roberson, secretary; Miss Flora Phelps, assistant secretary and Mrs. Maude Cobb is treasurer.

Prof. Davenport acted as temporary chairman at the meetings of the four Negro schools. He said attendance was gratifying. He and others explained the objectives and good influences of parent-teacher associations. Social contacts at the PTA meetings result in a better understanding and better mutual cooperation between parents and teachers and the public.

The four PTA associations are now working out plans for programs and for fixing dates for the meetings.

President Names NLRB Counsel

Washington, Sept. 29.—(P) Appointment of George J. Bott as general counsel of the National Labor Relations board was looked upon today as a long step toward ending a three-year tug of war over enforcing the Taft-Hartley act.

Bott, 40-year old associate general counsel, was moved up to the $15,000 post as chief prosecuting officer for the labor act, succeeding Robert N. Denham. President Truman, who dropped Denham last week, announced the appointment yesterday.

Reprieve Signed For Wilson Man

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 29.—(P) Governor Scott today signed a reprieve to delay the execution of Covey Connor Lamm.

Lamm, a Wilson fish dealer, was scheduled to be executed on Oct. 13, but the 12-day delay automatically postpones the death date until Nov. 10.

Elks Seek Site For Lodge Hall; Favor CAP Here

Greenville Lodge No. 1645, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, at a meeting last night, heard a report from Heber B. Tripp about the Civil Air Patrol, with its senior and auxiliary groups of boys and girls from 15 to 18 years old. The Elks went on record as approving the CAP unit and the good work it is doing here, especially now, during the trouble in Korea. The patrol meets at the airport Thursday nights for drill. The Civil Air Patrol did outstanding work on the home front during World War II, it was stated.

Exalted Ruler Jesse R. Moye presided. He appointed Heber B. Tripp, Erskine Duff, Bill Davenport and Chester Walsh on the Civil Air Patrol Committee.

The Elks Lodge will present a program at the next meeting in observance of "National Newspaper Week." Chester Walsh, Roscoe W. Shiplett and J. Alvin Bunting are on the Program Committee.

During a discussion of a report of the Elks Lodge Building Committee last night, the committee was authorized to negotiate for a suitable building or building site for the lodge. The lodge also instructed the committee to investigate suitable sites for the Elks home on the sub-
