

County Fair Has Opening Today; Six-Day Showing

Gates Swing Open At Four O'Clock This Afternoon; All In Readiness

The 1950 Pitt County Fair opens its gates this afternoon to attract the thousands of persons who are expected to flock to the grounds to see Pitt County On-Parade.

At four o'clock this afternoon the gates formally open for the public. The Agricultural Fair with its exhibits and midway will be open for the entertainment and education of the public for six days.

Prior to today the exhibit hall and the livestock pens were busy having their faces lifted. All last week the county farm and home demonstration agents were busy working with their individual groups which will display the products of their work during the past year.

By this afternoon all the women's booths along with the 4-H, FFA and FHA exhibits will be in place, ready for inspection by the public and later on judging for blue, red and white ribbons and cash prizes.

Yesterday, Prell's Broadway Shows moved into the grounds and began setting up the numerous rides and slideshows for the midway. All will be in readiness for the first entrants today and the first time to be made.

This year the midway will present four more rides than last year in addition to more shows. Fair Manager Norman Y. Chambliss stated this morning the midway was a large success at the Rocky Mount Fair which ended Saturday night. Chambliss paid tribute to Miss Jean Steele, home demonstration agent, and S. C. Winchester, farm agent, for laying the foundations for this year's more extensive agricultural exhibits.

"All the success that we expect from this year's fair will be due largely to Miss Steele and Mr. Winchester's efforts beforehand," the manager said.

"The prospects for the fair this year appear to be for the most successful one in the history of the American Legion-sponsored event," he said.

Bartender Runs Amuck, Kills Self

Los Angeles, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Felix Trujillo, 400-pound Mexican bartender, ran amuck in downtown Los Angeles early today, police said, wounding three persons and killing two before blowing his brains out in a main street bar.

Edward Smith and Willard Minor, both 40, were slain.

Order Lowering Of Spite Fence

Raleigh, N.C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Raleigh's "spite fence" dispute had taken a new turn today.

The city has given Wake County Tax Collector C. C. Rich until Oct. 10 to lower his nine-foot fence built a few inches from the side of a Negro neighbor's house.

Red Indo-China Center Captured

Seigon, Indo-China, Oct. 2.—(AP)—A French military spokesman said today a French column occupied Thanguyen, Communist communications hub in north Indo-China, at 5 p.m. Sunday (5 a.m. Sunday EST).

Two other French columns were advancing toward the principal military-political center, 40 miles north of Hanoi, on the left and right of the forces that entered the city.

Woolen Yarn Mill To Operate Here

Concern Recently Signed Long Term Lease For Building Of Greenville Spinners, Inc. Equipment Slated To Arrive Soon

A woolen yarn mill will be operated in Greenville by Greenville Mills, Inc. It was announced by S. L. Duffett of Laurinburg, recently elected president and treasurer of the company.

Greenville Mills, Inc. is the concern which recently signed a long term lease for the buildings of Greenville Spinners, Inc. which were formerly occupied by American Lady, Inc. At the time it was announced, neither the name of the company nor the type of manufacture in which the company would engage was revealed.

President Duffett of the company is a textile engineer with offices in Laurinburg. He will spend a portion of his time in Greenville at the company's plant.

Duffett said the company has purchased new equipment for the processing of wool and other fibers into woolen yarns. The new machinery will begin arriving about the middle of October and should be complete by early January. All of the machinery is of modern type.

Junior Red Cross Opens Annual Enrollment Drive

October 1 marks the beginning of the month-long campaign for enrollment of all grade and high school students of the city and county schools of Pitt County in the American Junior Red Cross. Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, Junior Red Cross chairman of Pitt County Red Cross Chapter announced today.

The enrollment campaign date was moved forward to the first of October at the request of the teachers in the public schools. Formerly, the campaign extended into November, but this year, only the month of October will be devoted to this drive.

As in past years, all students, Mrs. Moore said, will be encouraged to earn enrollment fees, which amount to 50 cents for each elementary schoolroom and $1.00 for each group of 100 in the high schools. All funds raised in excess of the enrollment fees will be used for projects of the Junior Red Cross here in Pitt County, as well as for support of the organization's activities nationally and for children in other lands.

Mrs. Moore urged all parents to encourage their children to take an active part in this nation-wide program for it fosters a better relation and friendship between the students in America and abroad. Five years ago the National Education Association designated the American Junior Red Cross as the best route through which school children and young people could send aid and friendship to youth in war-devastated countries due to the fact that there are Red Cross societies in almost every country in the world which work together to relieve suffering and to build good will regardless of what the governments are doing.

Mrs. Moore said.

"The Junior Red Cross affords fine opportunity for the community's youngsters of school age to engage in humanitarian service for which they are fitted, and badly needed, not only for hospitalized and needy in this county but also in behalf of youngsters in other countries who are suffering the after-effects of war."

"We not only aim toward enrolling every youngster of school age but we want to develop our Junior

Income Tax Hike Goes Into Effect Over 25 Million Workers To Find Pay Take Hit

Washington, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The government is taking a deeper bite out of all paychecks from now on. New federal income tax withholding rates went into effect yesterday. That means more than 25,000,000 American workers will find the withholding taxes taken out of their paychecks about a fifth greater.

The bigger "take" from paychecks is needed to keep taxpayers on a pay as you go basis under the tax cuts voted by Congress to provide money for the country's big defense build-up.

Individual income taxes were raised by an estimated $2,700,000 a year. Taxes on corporations were also hiked.

The withholding payments taken out of paychecks are pre-payments toward each individual's final tax bill for this year, due by March 15. As in past years, some individuals will have refunds coming to them from the government. Others will have to fork up some more cash to settle their final tax. But the withholding payments are designed to come close to the actual amount due.

NPA Plans Tie All Industry To Defense Set-Up

Regulation To Be Issued Tonight Harnessing Industry To Arms Program

Washington, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The National Production Authority tonight will issue a priority order harnessing industry to the $30,000,000,000 a year military preparedness program.

The regulation reportedly will require every plant to accept military orders and fill them on time—ahead of any civilian work waiting for a place on the production line.

Prime contractors making planes, tanks and other munitions will be able to pass on the priority to subcontractors and suppliers clear back to the mill and mine, officials predicted.

The regulation will be the agency's second compulsory order governing business. Two weeks ago an inventory control edict made it illegal to hoard 32 scarce defense materials.

The arms program got another boost last night when Secretary of Commerce Sawyer announced a 9,400,000-ton expansion of the steel industry, to be achieved by the end of 1952.

This increase, nearly ten percent beyond the present annual capacity of 100,563,000 tons, was described by Sawyer as "an encouraging demonstration of the willingness of industry to forge ahead."

The secretary predicted that the goal of 109,963,000 tons a year "well may be" exceeded. It represents the expansion plans of 20 companies, as reported to Sawyer by the American Iron and Steel Institute. The companies were not named.

Steel industry sources said the program is wholly independent of government aid. So far as is now known, all the companies included in the figures will rely on private financing.

However, the steel industry was being eyed apprehensively by government officials concerned with inflation. Sahn Steel Corp., the ninth biggest company, announced increases of $5 to $10 a ton on most of its products over the weekend.

Some smaller companies had boosted prices earlier, but the Shaw action aroused particular concern because it is a major supplier of auto metal.

The increase could add $25 to the cost of a car, trade sources said.

Grand Jury Gets Klan Indictment

Conway, S. C., Oct. 2.—Bills of indictment against five men, including the grand dragon of the association of Carolinas klans, will go to the grand jury at a general sessions court team beginning here today.

The men are charged with conspiracy to commit mob violence in connection with a Klan parade at Myrtle Beach August 26 that left a robbed policeman dead.

They were ordered held following a preliminary hearing here Saturday. Similar charges against nine other men were dropped when Klan-trouncing Sheriff C. E. Sasser said he didn't have enough evidence against them.

The five men are Thomas L. Hamilton of Leesville, KKK dragon; J. C. Creel, Conway service station operator; Greenville G. Sawyer, Jr., Effingham construction worker; G. M. Garrison, former Florence policeman, and R. L. Sims, Jr., Florence truck driver.

High Court Goes Into New Session

Momentous Decisions By Supreme Tribunal Are Awaited

Washington, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The Supreme Court reassembles today for a new term in which it faces momentous decisions affecting communism, race relations and other major national problems.

At the forefront of attention is an appeal by 11 top U. S. Communist party leaders who were convicted in New York of conspiring to advocate violent overthrow of the government.

They have asked the highest tribunal to grant a review of the trial, overturn the convictions, and throw out their jail sentences and fines.

"There is no testimony in the record that during the entire period of the indictment any of the 11 personally taught or advocated that the government be overthrown by force or violence."

The 1950-51 court term could bring also a final test of the new anti-communist law passed by congress over President Truman's veto. Some attorneys say such a test is not likely to reach the court for several years, but others believe a speeded-up case could be rushed to the nine justices before adjournment time next June.

$1,289 To Go

Ed E. Rawl, chairman of the ETC stadium committee, reported today that $6,217.95 has been raised in the current drive for funds to support athletics at the college.

The amount already collected leaves $1,289.05 to be received by the committee to reach the goal of $7,500 set for this fall. "The report looks encouraging to us," Rawl commented, "and we hope to have the rest of the money by the end of the week."

Nearly Thirty Miles Inside North Korea; Approach Line Where Reds Reported Preparing Last Ditch Stand; Resistance They Fear

Tokyo, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Korean troops drove nearly 30 miles inside Soviet-sponsored North Korea today. They were almost halfway to the line where North Koreans were reported preparing to make a last ditch stand at Wonsan.

AP Correspondent Hal Boyle reported from the front that the South Korean Third Division had driven close to Kamsong, a coastal town 30 air miles north of the parallel 38 border.

The entire South Korean Third Division and two regiments of the Republic's Capital Division were across the border, Boyle said. The Third was driving north along the coastal highway. The Capital Division was striking west from captured Yangyang, about seven miles north of the border.

An American officer with the South Koreans said Republican forces were well ahead against very light resistance.

The South Korean Third Division crossed the border on the east coast. The Capital Division marched over Monday in the same area.

The Reds were ignoring General MacArthur's repeated weekend order that they give up now or be destroyed.

Top-ranking United Nations commanders would not say anything about what General MacArthur's headquarters called a delicate campaign—the thrust into Red territory. The crossing was reported only in field dispatches at the outset.

Red Korean prisoners said the northerners were preparing to make a stand around Wonsan, the heavily bombed east coast port about 100 miles north of the border. This is due east of the Red capital, Pyongyang, and close to the cutting North Korea at its narrowest point.

Pyeongyang remained silent both on the reported crossing and on MacArthur's surrender ultimatum. MacArthur's surrender terms were broadcast first at noon Sunday.

Correspondent Boyle reported the South Korean Third Division had smashed across the 38 border in the east coast 15 minutes before that.

Boyle said the order to cross was given by Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, U.S. Eighth Army commander, and was dropped to the South Koreans from a plane.

An Air Force spokesman in Tokyo said a new bomb line for 3-23s had been established north of the border. It was pushed northward every six hours, he explained, to keep pace with advancing friendly ground troops.

Sinh Sung Mo, acting South Korean premier and defense minister, told national assemblymen at Pusan that South Korean troops would be all along the parallel by Tuesday night.

He promised "very shortly you will hear most happy news" but

School Kids Get Holiday Tuesday

Children in the white schools of Greenville will have a holiday tomorrow while their teachers attend the Northeastern District meeting of the North Carolina Education Association.

Although the school kids will have a day out of school, they will not be getting a day off from the required 180 days they have to attend school during the 1950-51 year. The day off tomorrow was planned when the school calendar for the year was made up.

Our Population Peak

Recent Census Jolted All Concepts Of When America's Population Peak Would Be Reached; Statisticians Astonished; Rate Of Increase; New Estimates

By MAX HALL

Washington, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Until recently, it was widely accepted that the population of the United States would reach its peak during the second half of the 20th century and then start slowly downward.

That conception has been jolted almost out of existence.

Some experts now put the peak in the early 21st century. Others challenge the idea that we will necessarily reach a peak at any time. All are approaching the subject with new caution and humility.

The thing that did the jolting was the astonishing upsurge of the population during the last ten years—a decade that surely deserves to be called the fertile forties.

"Astonishing" is not too strong a word for what happened.

Since 1860 our rate of growth had been gradually dropping. We grew vastly—31 million in 1860, 76 million in 1900, 122 million in 1930—but the percentage of increase went down and down. Until 1860 the population had swelled by more than 30 per cent every decade. By the 1920s this had fallen to 16 per cent. The birth rate steadily declined. Families got smaller. Immigration was choked off.

Anybody could see where the slowing rate of growth would eventually lead us, if it continued.

In the sterile thirties the population gained only 1 per cent. This was by far the slowest rate of increase for a ten-year period in American history. The numerical rise was only 9 million, the smallest since the 1860s when the total population was only one-fourth as big.

Then came those fertile forties. The population gained 19 million, surpassing 150,000,000 in the 1940 census. Numerically the rise beat all previous decades.

The rate of increase was 14 per cent, not much in the light of the country's pre-1930 history, but twice as high as the rate of the 1930s.

One of the biggest surprises had to do with the war. In most previous wars, the birth rate had gone down (the French-Prussian war of 1870 was an exception). But in World War II, the birth rate soared.

War psychology may have helped this trend (for example, many couples had babies sooner than they might have, because the father was going away to war). But the war

Korean Significance

What Was Purchased By Our Costly Operations Against Communist North Korea; The Price Of Freedom; America's Self-Defense Enters Situation In Very Big Way

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

Now that the Red invasion of South Korea has been smashed by U. N. forces—principally those of America—just what does this costly operation mean to us?

That is to say, why should the United States send its soldiers to the other side of the world to defend—and even die for—a people so strange to us? What reason have we to risk a major war by intervening in the crisis of this small peninsula?

Well, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, U.S. Eighth Army commander in Korea, gave us one answer a few days ago. He declared the victory worth the price, saying it would mean "a free and untrammelled society for all Koreans, with the dignity of the individual fully restored." And he added:

"Human freedom is always worth the price we have to pay for it."

"That's the idealistic, the altruistic viewpoint. It certainly is a part of the picture, but we have to look a lot further to get the complete picture."

American self-defense entered into the situation, and in a very big way.

This Korean "civil war"—involving the invasion of anti-Communism

South Korea by the forces of Communist North Korea—is of course part and parcel of the global conflict between the Communist bloc and the democracies. And small as it is, it represents a highly important development in the ideological conflict.

The invasion of South Korea by the Soviet-backed North Koreans has been in reality a test case. By using North Korea as a cat's paw Moscow has discovered very conclusively what it takes to make the democracies strike back with force. It was a great gamble, but by keeping well in the background Russia was able to operate without too great risk of becoming directly involved.

A further powerful incentive behind this Red gamble was the fact that if the invasion of South Korea succeeded, and the whole peninsula was communized, it would be of tremendous propaganda value to the spread of communism throughout Asia. The Red campaign in the Orient has been swelling, and there are numerous situations developing similar to the Korean case.

Of course communism is bound

Junior Woman's Club Holds Annual Card Tournament

The Junior Woman's Club sponsored its annual card tournament at the club house on Thursday night. Fifteen tables were placed in the banquet hall for bridge and canasta playing. Funds from the sales of the tickets are to be used to pay for the interior painting that has been done at the Woman's Club during the past year. Miss Marian Perry, Junior president, expressed gratification at the response and cooperation the organization received from the public.

First high score ladies' prize for bridge was won by Mrs. Malcolm Williams, while Mrs. John Laws was winner of second high. Low score prize for the women was given to Mrs. J. B. Kittrell. Mr. Francis Williams, holder of high score for the men, and a low score prize was given to Mr. Kenneth Hite. Mrs. J. B. Kittrell was the winner of the high score prize.

In addition to these, high scorers at each game were given a prize. Following the awarding of game prizes, raffles were auctioned off by club members. They sold for about fourteen dollars together, and bidding high on them were Mrs. Malcolm Williams and Mrs. Kenneth Hite.

Refreshments were served during the game by a committee composed of Mrs. Sam Weeks, Mrs. Charles Horne, Jr., and Mrs. Vernon Tyson. They served apple pie a la mode and hot coffee.

Other committees who planned for the tournament were as follows: Reservations: Mrs. Kenneth Hite, Mrs. Thurman Dail, and Mrs. Malcolm Williams. Publicity: Mrs. Allen Patton, Mrs. Kenneth Mercer, and Mrs. Wyatt Highsmith. Prizes: Mrs. Bill Williams and Mrs. Earl Adler. Cards and tables: Mrs. Norris Merritt, Mrs. Dick Chadwick and Mrs. Stephen Bartlett.

Mrs. Cheatham Is Informal Hostess At Coffee Hour

At her home on West Fourth Street, Mrs. J. T. Cheatham Jr. was a gracious hostess at an informal coffee hour on Tuesday at 11:30 a.m.

The party was composed of two October brides, Mrs. Dorothy Ormond and Mrs. Frances Kittrell. The honorees welcomed the guests at the door where they were greeted by Mrs. Cheatham.

The house was lovely with assorted arrangements of autumn flowers. A large colorful centerpiece was on the dining room table, from which coffee was poured by Mrs. J. B. Kittrell and Mrs. H. L. Ormond, mothers of the brides-elect. Assisting the hostess in serving accompanying delicacies was Mrs. Graham Flanagan.

Miss Madeline Blount of New York, house guest of Mrs. J. S. Picklen, was a special guest at the informal morning party.

The honorees were given gifts of hand-blown glass as a remembrance from the hostess.

It wasn't too long ago that Mrs. Blair thought she had more work than she could handle—said she was tired and nervous all the time but today, thanks to HADACOL, her housework is like a breeze because her system was deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin, and Iron.

Here is Mrs. Blair's statement: "Before I started taking HADACOL I was nervous, underweight and had trouble sleeping. My food did not agree with me. Seemed like I was jumpy and irritable all the time. My back bothered me a low and I couldn't sleep, and when I did doze off at night, I would wake up in the morning feeling like I hadn't had a drop of rest. My mother noticed how bad I looked and she suggested I take HADACOL. After I started taking HADACOL I began to notice a difference right away. Now I sleep well—my nerves are steady, my disposition is 100% better and I actually enjoy my food. Life certainly is wonderful—now that I am taking HADACOL."

Service League Sponsors Elaborate Fashion Show At Country Club

One of the most delightful affairs of the fall season took place on Friday afternoon at the Greenville Country Club when the Service League, Inc., of Greenville, sponsored its first fashion show.

New York and Paris notwithstanding, the lovely local models and exclusive fall fashions from the Home on Fourth were a credit to Greenville. A large crowd of more than four hundred style-conscious women from Washington, Farmville, Wilson, Winterville, New Bern, Rocky Mount and other eastern Carolina towns, as well as from Greenville, crowded into the Club house to view the show, complete with music and lighting effects.

The fashion parade was directed by Mr. John Clark, Jr., who described the more than seventy ensembles that were worn so gracefully and charmingly by the models. Mrs. John Clark, Jr. was in charge of assembling the outfits. Soft background music was played by Mr. George Perry, of the ETCO music department. The lighting effects were provided by Johnny Russell and Van Carroll, members of the Electrical Engineering Club of the Greenville High School.

The mantels of the club house were banked with lavish arrangements of magnolia leaves and pyracantha berries. A raised platform was encircled with chairs for the guests. The models entered from a side door, singly and in groups, walked around the ring of chairs, and then mounted the platform for a pirouette.

The clothes ran the gamut of fall shades, fabrics, fashions, and accessories. Suits, coats, casual sportswear, formal dresses, and lounging outfits for home wear were displayed. Favorite colors were scarlet, yellow, gray, plum, orchid and the perennial black. Accents that proved most popular were velvet, and jeweled trim. Contrasting colors and fabrics were used in suits, sportswear, and even formal attire.

Favorite fabrics were imported tweeds, worsted jerseys, soft velvets, silk failles, wide and narrow wales, corduroys, swishy taffetas, luxurious crepes, and the all-time favorite gabardines.

One of the outstanding features of the costumes shown was their versatility—reversible jackets, mix-and-match ensembles, bare-shouldered formal dresses which could be converted into proper street wear by the use of conservative jackets.

Jet beading, rhinestone "buttons and bows," elaborate luxurious fabrics, and velvet were the trimmings lavishly used as focal points of interest on everything from cotton to satin. Hats were, for the most part, head-hugging cloches with beaded or feather trims.

Styles in general featured snug-fitting bodices with overdresses, flares, ruching, and complicated gathers adding neckline and hemline interest. Most of the sports clothes were elaborately simple in line with new interest in color and material combination. The formal dresses featured hip-hugging, pencil-skirt skirts with swags or flowing drapes at either front or back. The coats revealed the new, chin-length collar and fell in full swag from yoked shoulders.

During the brief intermission, Mr. Perry delighted the gathering with novelty numbers at the piano. He imitated a sedate matron at the piano gracefully playing "Last Rose of Summer" at a sedate gathering. His second selection was composed of variation on an original theme in the styles of a beer hall piano key plunker, Mozart, Chopin, Strauss, and Sousa. His final offering was an imitation of the "Beautiful Ohio" a la player piano style.

Following the fashion show, the Service League was hostess to the guests at an informal tea. Tables were set up on either side of the club room and were attractively decorated with floral centerpieces and silver services at each end. Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Jr., Mrs. J. T. Little, Mrs. K. B. Pace and Mrs. Lyman Ormond, all past presidents of the League, poured tea. Other members served canapés, sandwiches, pastries and nuts to those attending the preview of 1950-51 fashion.

Mrs. J. H. Thomas, the present president of the League, was in charge of all arrangements, with various committees, led by the finance chairman, Mrs. M. P. Hoot. Funds derived from the event are to be used for the support of the Lainghouse Bed at Pitt General Hospital.

Local VFW Auxiliary Has Out Of Town Guests At Meeting

The VFW Auxiliary held its regular monthly meeting at the VFW club house on Thursday night, September 28.

There were twenty-four members present and eleven visitors from the Farmville Auxiliary.

Also present were Mrs. Mary Stubbs of Kinston, president of District No. 2; Mrs. Nell Jarman, president of the Kinston Auxiliary, and Mrs. Rosa Humphries, president of the Farmville Auxiliary, who were recognized as special guests.

The Greenville chapter president, Mrs. Ruth Garner, presided over the business meeting. The colors were presented and secured, allegiance to the flag was pledged, and the National Anthem was sung.

The following new members were welcomed into the organization: Mesdames Doris Davis, Inez Hadcock, Susie Webb, J. T. Manning and Jack Teel.

Mrs. Garner announced the plans for the cancer drive which is sponsored by the Auxiliary and urged all members to cooperate.

Mrs. Nellie Fleming, hospital chairman, announced that 92 magazines had been sent to the patients in the Veterans Hospital in Fayetteville, while one flower had been sent to a patient in Pitt General. Mrs. Lottie Lewis, reporting for the previous month, said that 135 magazines had been sent to Fayetteville and five birthday gifts were distributed to veteran patients.

Mrs. Madeline Vincent, rehabilitation chairman, reported that 26 of the 60 dollars which had been lent to a veteran had been repaid. A county polo victim had been sent to a camp for two weeks during the summer.

An announcement was made of the district convention which will convene in Goldsboro October 8.

Delegates from the Greenville chapter who will attend are Mrs. Lillie Pearl Joyner, district conductress; Mrs. Carrie West, district senior vice-president; Mrs. Lillie Parks; Mrs. Zula Waters; Mrs. Margaret Joyner; Mrs. Betsy West; Mrs. Peggy Tyndall; and Mrs. Lottie Lewis, district chaplain.

Mrs. Mary Stubbs was introduced and presented plans for the district meeting. She complimented the local chapter on its floor work.

Mrs. Stubbs then presented Mr. Earl Knauff, department commander for North Carolina, who gave a talk on the VFW national home in Eaton Rapids, Michigan. Accompanying his talk were slide pictures shown of the home. He stressed the necessity for full cooperation in the program of community service which is to be emphasized by all chapters this year.

At the conclusion of the program, the hostesses for the evening served punch, cookies and nuts. Acting as hostesses for the evening were Mrs.

New Liquid Kills Roaches and Ants

New Way to Kill Pests

ROACHES are the most difficult household pests to control, and they can be brought into any home from the market in a bag of potatoes or other groceries.

Science has just come forth with a new discovery that kills cockroaches and ants, and that stays effective for months. It is called Johnston's NO-ROACH coating.

It's just as simple and easy to use as it looks. You paint the coating on surfaces frequented by roaches and ants, woodwork near the sink, baseboards, garbage pails, window and door sills. When these crawling pests come in contact with this invisible, odorless, stain-

Discovered by Scientists less coating they slowly become paralyzed, turn over on their backs with legs waving in the air, and die. Then the coating stays effective for months to kill any strays that get into the home and that walk over it.

Science has seen to it too, that this product contains no DDT, no sodium fluoride, and no phosphorus. Johnston's NO-ROACH is not a contaminating spray, or a messy powder. It is colorless, and may be brushed just where you want it, without having to move all your dishes and pots and pans.

Prices are 8 oz. for 89c, pint for $1.69, and a quart for $2.98.

Strength for the Day
By EARL L. DOUGLAS
FOUR VITAL METHODS

What are you doing with your life? The late Joseph Fort Newton used to say that there are four things a man can do with his life. First, he can run away from it, and many people do this; like the prophet Jonah, who tried to get away from a divine commission and boarded a sailing vessel for Tarshish. There are others who run along with life. Jesus referred to them when he spoke of the broad highways full of overflowing and leading to destruction. Then there is another group who try to run life—both their own life and the lives of others. Sometimes these people appear as masterful characters, but more often they are pests or tyrants or dictators, and the world reads their obituaries with considerable satisfaction.

The last group of men, as Dr. Newton pointed out, are those who surrender to a higher power. They step out into the wind and face the storm when it is necessary to go so, because they know that they are reinforced by a power above their own. They do not run long with life or try to manage their own lives and interfere with the lives of others. They surrender to Him, of whom the Apostle John wrote saying: "In him was life and the life was the light of men; and the light shineth in the darkness and the darkness comprehendeth it not."

There's No Excuse For Brawls In Sports

The lack of sportsmanship displayed by some members of the East Carolina football squad during Saturday night's game that ended in a near free-for-all fight certainly was not a good advertisement for the college nor the town.

Naturally we would like to see the home town team win but true sportsmanship on the gridiron is far more desirable than winning. Some hotheads on the Pirate squad, however, apparently had a different idea about the matter and several times during the game engaged in brawls with the visiting players.

The treatment received by the Hampden-Sidney team at the hands of the ECTC team brought from the visiting athletic director the assertion that it would be the last time the two teams would meet.

Many local citizens who attended the game to root for the home team came away disgusted at what had transpired and wondered if what they witnessed was a fair sample of the athletic program to which they had recently contributed.

We do not place the blame for Saturday night's misbehavior on the entire ECTC team nor upon the college officials. But it is apparent that Coach Dole has some trouble-makers without whom the team and the college in the long run would be better off.

Of course what happened Saturday night cannot now be undone but there should be immediate action by the college officials and those in charge of athletics to guarantee that nothing like it happens again.

The good name of the college is too precious to have it spoiled by a few brawlers and if Coach Dole can't put a stop to it he should remove the offenders from the team and request the college to cancel their athletic scholarships.

We Prefer Belief In Old Santa Claus

School children have been "officially" informed that the legendary Flying Saucer does exist. The educational publication which performed this doubtful service is required reading in many schools.

It is not fitting that a presumably responsible source should teach as a fact something that is neither demonstrable nor acknowledged as truth by any trustworthy source of information. We don't like the handling of the "flying saucer" topic; there is a lack of objectivity and real knowledge. Better by far that school children be taught the leprechauns of Old Erin exist... they had more "sworn" witnesses and enjoyed greater belief in their being than the "saucers."

There is too much sensationalism and exploitation of the current myth to lend it much credence. We would rather believe in Santa Claus.

The Return Of A Dubious Prodigal

Henry Wallace has apparently given up the "line" he followed which brought him so much disrepute.

First he quit the Progressives for their insistence on following the dictates of Russia; and now he has told China's Communist leader not to be a pawn for Soviet aggression. That's quite a switch for Henry.

Maybe he would like to get back into the fold of the Democratic party, maybe not. He may be sincere in his about-face on American foreign policies... but who's to accept this at face value?

We remember most vividly that Mr. Wallace expressed the belief that "the end justifies the means"; and for this reason we can never wholly trust him.

He may have been tricked into wholehearted support of leftist policies, or he may have volunteered his endorsement; his convictions remain in doubt because they always appear to be subject to change. Is Mr. Wallace an opportunist, or does he wish to re-inject his philosophy into the Democratic party?

No reasonable person can hail this dubious prodigal's return.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Jacob Malik's return to his raging mood and violent tactics at United Nations sessions highlights a remark on Russia's diplomatic ineptitude by the American official generally credited with being as authoritative a person on Soviet psychology as any westerner can be.

He is the famous "Mr. X." George F. Kennan, formerly our Moscow expert at the State Department but now teaching at Princeton. He speaks Russian fluently, and knowledge of their language helps him to know their minds.

According to Mr. Kennan, the Kremlin has committed the most terrific diplomatic and public relations blunder of all history since the end of World War II.

It indicates to him that a sensible and well-directed program of rearming and winning over the so-called "backward countries" in the Orient and Asia will insure final victory for the democratic allies.

POSE—The conquest of western Europe and Asia might have been a "pushover" for Stalin, in Mr. Kennan's opinion. If the Russian dictator had remained on friendly terms with Britain, France and the United States.

If he had been smarter than he is, Stalin would have behaved in such a way that President Truman, W. Averell Harriman and Dean Acheson would still regard him as "a good Joe."

It would not have been difficult to adopt a friendly pose even while Moscow pursued its sinister aims of gobbling up satellite areas, and infiltrating into the political, labor and social systems of its continental neighbors.

THRUSTS—The British Labor Government, French liberals and Mr. Truman were then only too willing to come to terms with Russia on a live-and-let-live basis.

Had Stalin played such a game, Mr. Kennan contends, there would have been no aggressive, anti-Russian thrusts as the Marshall Plan, the North Atlantic Military Pact, our $300,000,000 rearmament program, or the general encirclement of the Muscovite empire.

What Stalin has done, with the Korean invasion as the climactic chapter, is to place us on guard and himself in an international doghouse.

EXPERIMENT—In fact, many Anglo-American diplomats believe that Stalin wanted to play this sort of game. Repeatedly, he told many westerners, including Franklin D. Roosevelt, Stassen, Willkie, Churchill and Harriman, that he saw no reason why Communist Russia could not exist amicably with free enterprise systems.

Jokingly, he told members of the American delegation at Potsdam that he thought Russia's experiment in radicalism was partially responsible for the rise of the Labor Party in England, as well as the "new deal" and "fair deal" in the United States.

PRISONER—The contrast between Stalin's earlier attitude and Russia's present policy inclines many western diplomats to agree with Mr. Truman that the dictator is, in reality, a "prisoner of the Kremlin."

As Mr. Truman himself has learned since he entered the White House, where his policies have shocked former Senate associates who knew him as a sort of mild, easy-going and conservative individual, not even a democratically elected Chief Executive can be his own man.

He, too, is a "prisoner of politics."

COUNTERATTACK—Senator Robert A. Taft does not indulge in cheap, personal politics, holding to his fat and friendly father's code.

But if the Ohioan would unbend—and he may—on the basis of the recent W. Averell Harriman's attack on him before the convention of the American Federation of Labor at Houston, the Republicans' Capitol Hill policy maker could embarrass Mr. Truman's chief of staff for foreign affairs. The Senator has received a flood of mail and editorials that provide him with ammunition for a counterattack.

They point out that Mr. Harriman's father, a railroad builder in the freebooting and piratical days of "Jubilee Jim" Fiske, Commodore Vanderbilt and that Yankee entrepreneur, Drew, was one of the worst labor-baiters of his time.

BOASTED—The senator Harriman once boasted, and in writing, that he had personally contributed more than $200,000 to elect "Today" Roosevelt in 1904. In other states, too, he bought legislatures and public officials right and left.

In view of the famous Taft-Roosevelt split in 1912, the Senator may feel disinclined to assail the railroad promoter's son. But he will not let these picturesque events be forgotten when he really starts to campaign in the coming months.

Incidentally, Mr. Harriman is still the best bet for Secretary of State, if Mr. Acheson finds it convenient to resign before or soon after the November elections.

ALBANY, OREGON, DEMOCRAT-HERALD: "The rank and file of the American people who pay the taxes pay little attention to national government. This has encouraged wastefulness to a degree which has become alarming."

DENVILLE, N.J., HERALD: "The elaborate tables prepared by the New Jersey CIO on the voting records of the state legislators don't say directly whether a senator or assemblyman voted 'yes' or 'no'; they list him as having voted 'right' or 'wrong'... For instance, all three Morris County representatives were listed as voting 'wrong' on the utility anti-strike law because they voted to extend the law and thereby give the public some measure of protection against sudden irresponsible action by the leaders of utility unions."

CHEWELAH, WASH., INDEPENDENT: "The Hoover survey showed that the U.S. government owned 448,567 typewriters which are being used by 235,000 persons. The difference between government and private business is that private business would dispose of 613,567 of the typewriters while the government will employ 613,567 persons to run the idle typewriters."

WAKEFIELD, MASS., DAILY ITEM: "Curious to know how the female bathing-suit industry complies with the government's desire to have us get along with less of everything."

ROAD VALUE—The preliminary survey of potential use of a heavy-duty turnpike type toll road across North Carolina, and the prospective revenue which might be derived therefrom, provides a standard for judging the value of other state built and maintained highways.

The turnpike road would necessarily be of heavier construction, designed to handle traffic weight and volume far above that contemplated on the regular state highways. Consequently the maintenance and replacement cost would be higher. At the same time, the finding of a competent engineering firm that the toll road would have to yield about $16,000 a year to make it profitable, while the revenue in sight was just a little more than half that amount, proved that the sprawling network of public roads maintained by the state have greater value than many casual observers might think.

INTANGIBLE—It is also apparent that major part of the "interest yield" from investment in roads is not counted in dollars and cents. On basis of the survey made in connection with the proposed toll turnpike, it is evident that very few miles of state highway would pay for themselves through toll charges for direct use of the roadbed.

That supports contention of many good roads advocates that the greatest returns are indirect and intangible, and might be termed auxiliary or subsidiary to the primary item of highway traffic. Take the hypothetical case of a farm home located on a very inferior dirt road. There is a dilapidated fence and broken down outbuildings. The house itself is unattractive and there are pieces of farm machinery scattered around the front yard. There isn't much inducement for the farmer or his workmen to dress up, so they develop slovenly trends. Then the road is straightened and paved. What happens?

CLEAN-UP—More folks travel the good road, so there is inducement for the farmer to spruce up his premises. The old fences and barns don't match the new road, and the contrast between rusty farm machinery and the sleek automobiles on the road is acutely noticeable. The fences are repaired, the old machinery is replaced, and the farm is made more attractive.

PRISON—Resignation of the second woman superintendent of the state women's prison in just a little more than a year because of breakdown in health, poses a question for the prison authorities. Prison Director J. M. Gold is giving careful thought to a successor for Miss Antoinette Lamont, who resigned a few days ago. Miss Lamont took over the job in midsummer of last year, following resignation of Mrs. Maude P. Jimison, who had held the position for about three months. The only other woman superintendent, Mrs. Strickland, named during the Broughton regime did not give her health as the reason for quitting the post, but she was quoted as telling friends at the time the job was a hard one to fill.

The big question is whether physical and emotional characteristics of most women are suited for the position. It is a hard question to answer, because it is just as obvious that not many men are suited physically or emotionally for handling a bunch of recalcitrant and subnormal women prisoners.

PARTY—Close friends of Senate-nominate Willis Smith are trying to arrange a reception or party, maybe a dinner affair, at a Washington hotel on the night after he is sworn in as United States senator. Requests for cards to the senate gallery for the actual oath-taking ceremony have poured in at such rate there is no hope of taking care of them all in the limited space available. Even if the capitol building repairs are completed by time congress reconvenes on November 27 there still would not be room for the visitors. All plans are tentative at this stage, but effort is being made to work out some way for the several hundred North Carolinians expected to be in Washington on the occasion to get together, and give their new senator a rousing send-off. The visitors probably would be disappointed if they could get into the chamber to see the oath administered. It is an uninteresting ceremony, albeit a very dignified one.

AFFINITY—It has often been noted that there seems some kind of affinity between national income and North Carolina state general fund revenue. Nobody can explain why, but it is a fact that when the national income was estimated at two hundred billion dollars a year, the state revenue laws produced about two hundred million dollars for the biennium. When the national income estimates moved up toward two hundred fifty billions, the state revenue department was collecting about two hundred and fifty millions. President Truman now predicts that national income will soon reach three hundred billions, and Governor Scott forecasts three hundred million state revenue for the next two years. The ratio does not run exactly true all the time, but it stays close enough to have attracted attention for several years.

Business Today

By ELMER ROSENBERG
The Post Office strike against the Congress and the public—if it was a strike—is winning. Many business men who constitute a part of the public are willing to cry quits and pay higher postage rates of reasonably prompt service is restored.

The Post Office, of course, is not on strike. But the results are pretty much an equivalent of a sit-down.

What happened is this: Congress refused to appropriate additional funds to the Post Office and Postmaster General Donaldson ordered a curtailment in the number of deliveries a day. This action hit the broadest possible section of the public. Letters arrive 24 to 48 hours later than they might. Deliveries of parcels have slowed down.

It is possible that many postal workers, angered because co-workers have been laid off and fearful that they may be next, are taking a lot less interest in their work.

One New York firm, wishing to send a book to another company two miles away, offered to send it by messenger. The second company suggested that book postal rates would be considerably cheaper than a $2 messenger fee. But then you won't get it for three weeks," said the first firm. It ought to know — It's in the publishing business.

In some cities, the slowness in delivering the mail has disrupted office hours. First deliveries to business firms now often consist of a handful of letters, about what—and possibly the comparable material—they used to receive in the last "clean-up" mail the night before. Now executives and employees must wait around for the delivery of major correspondence sometime during the day.

As a result of all this, many companies say they would be willing to pay higher rates for better service. Many have already shifted a part of their out-of-town mail from first class to airmail.

Not all companies are reconciled to higher mail rates, however. Mail order concerns and others using large quantities of direct mail say a sharp rise in postage rates would be ruinous.

Congress failed to act on the postal rise bill, which was expected in view of the coming election. However, it paved the way for an increase in parcel post rates by requiring the Post Office to request permission for a rise in parcel post rates from the Interstate Commerce Commission if it is to continue drawing funds to meet its deficit. The Congressional intent was to relate the cost of parcel post to the railroads' plea for an increase in rates for hauling mail, also pending before the I.C.C. This can and in both higher railroad fees and higher parcel post rates.

U.S. REVISING
LISTS OF ASSOCIATIONS
Speaking of mail orders, the Department of Commerce is now accepting orders for a new edition of a book sometimes referred to as the "direct mailers' delight."

The book, "National Associations of the United States," is a 700-page listing and indexing of 4,000 national trade, professional and other non-profit organizations, together with the names of chief executive, also and other facts. The book sells for $3.50.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT
STARTS TO BUBBLE
With Christmas still a dozen weeks away, one New York store windows are already resplendent with wreaths, colored lights and a sign reading, "Merry Christmas, Happy New Year."

Which reminds us that another pessimistic and bomb-fearful retailer hasn't quite screwed up enough courage to order a sign reading, "Happy New Year—if any."

SPINNING SYSTEM
TO SAVE 15 PERCENT LABOR
A new system of worsted spinning that is said to save from 15 to 30 per cent of the labor required under other systems, is being installed in an unnamed New England mill. Machines used are being supplied by Isotta Fraschini Textile Machines, S.P.A. of Milan, Italy.

Hal Boyle's Column

By DON WHITEHEAD
(For Hal Boyle)

Somewhere in Korea — (AP) — The victory of United Nations' army over the North Korean Communists has come so swiftly that it is difficult to realize the Korean war may be almost over.

For two months there was nothing but defeat after defeat... nothing but those heartbreak retreats in which weary American troops fell back time and time again with that familiar refrain, "to new position."

Always the Americans were in the desperate and cruel position of retreating. A ruthless enemy was the hunter, his hordes ever threatening the defenders.

Just one month ago the U.N. troops were so hard pressed that even Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, commanding general of the Eighth Army, wasn't sure he could hold the thin line.

And then—with the behind-the-lines invasion at Inchon on Sept. 15—the whole war turned a flipside; almost overnight U.N. forces were hunters and the Reds were the hunted, fighting desperately to survive.

In a matter of a measure of time the shift in fortunes came in one single notebook full of notes—160 small pages of scribbled names and events which record the march from the Inchon beachhead to the capture of Seoul.

That notebook is frayed and stained. But when I leaf through it the lines come to life and scenes flash across the pages as clear and bright as the day they were imprinted on my memory.

There was the debris and the obscene destruction of war on the road from battered Inchon towards Seoul... the revolting tangle of dead Reds lying on the road mashed into a pulp of blood and flesh by thundering Marine tanks...

There was the cold night when shivering Marines climbed into the steel belly of amphibious tractors for the Han river crossing at the opening of the siege of Seoul... dark figures darker than the night trudging along the dusty road to climb into those strange vehicles of war... and the sergeant who cuddled a box in his arms as the Marines went into battle—a box in which little white rabbits slept peacefully...

Machinegun bullets rang against the side of the amtrac as it crossed the Han. There was the suspense of waiting for the steel door of the amtrac to open... and the chilling screams of the Marine who was hit by an enemy bullet in the groin as he leaped from the door... and the scream of surprise and pain of another Marine shot by the Reds on the ridge above us.

There was a swift advance over the ridges towards Seoul... then the bitter fighting on the outskirts of the city and the scene of the Marines' machinegun chattering from a ridge pumping bullets into the town ahead... we could see the red tracers landing into the buildings and the white clad figures running... and then someone shouted, "Stop... firing for God's sake! Those are women and children!"

But the enemy was there too, because the Marines had to fight through the women.

And then there were the streets of Seoul... flames leaped

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—We can't expect our youngsters to contribute much to world understanding and cooperation if we continue to give them notions that Chinese kids still wear queues and Dutch kids wear wooden shoes. If we seek to improve world relations then we must have more realistic reading material and pictures for our school children. This is the plea of Dr. Wilhelm Hill, specialist for social science, U.S. Office of Education, and a member of the National Citizens Committee for United Nations Day Oct. 24.

"On this day much emphasis will be placed on the United Nations in our schools, yet many elementary schools know little about UN or UNRRA, and in my travels about the United States I've found few schools teaching the subject," she told me.

"It is hoped," she said, "that persons who select reading and study material concerning the world's people will try to obtain those which show how people live in other parts of the world today rather than how they lived 19 or 20 years before the last World War."

Dr. Hill said foreign visitors are often amazed to see how the life of their countries is pictured in some of our school books. "An example is the stereotyped Chinese child with the pigtail. We seem to have gotten somewhat past the Dutch child-wooden shoes and Eskimo-igloo huts, but many of the things written about Asia and other areas are equally out of date."

Dr. Hill says children can begin to learn cooperative ways of getting along with others from their first experiences at home and school. "The kind of human relationships that children have daily in school, home and community provide the opportunities through which they may become cooperative individuals on a larger scale," she said.

Food, toys, newspapers, radio, television, foreign visitors, returned travelers, relatives, letters, international exchanges, music, dance, stories and art are some of the media she suggests through which children can have foreign contacts in their own lives.

"Because of the urgency for improving world relations during the 1950-51 school year," she said, "the development of world understandings should rank high on the priority list of those responsible for developing school programs."

What Other Papers Are Thinking

NOT A PHILANTHROPY
(Kinston Daily Free Press)

In the budget submitted to the State Budget Commission for the operation of the three units of the Greater University it is reported that the incoming president, Gordon Gray, was listed for a salary of $1,000.

Heretofore, we believe, the president of the Greater University has drawn a salary of $12,000. The reduced amount was made on the strength of the fact that Mr. Gray has a private income and will not be dependent upon his salary.

The Free Press agrees with other commentators that the amount in the budget should be $12,000 or some amount in keeping with the responsibility of the place. The fact that Mr. Gray has an independent income should not in any way influence the matter. If he desires to contribute his entire salary to some worthy cause we would have no criticism to make. It's a matter of his own concern, but the state of North Carolina should not call upon one of its able men to serve as president of its Greater University at a token salary simply because he is financially independent of what the State pays him.

GOOD FAITH IS ESSENTIAL
(Henderson Daily Dispatch)

Free nations of the earth desire a just and lasting peace more than anything else in the world. Yet they cannot afford to drop their guards and fall for the hoax Soviet Russia is seeking to perpetrate upon them. To do so would be disastrous.

Good faith is an essential that cannot be overlooked in safety. Russia's conduct in the family of nations since the end of World War II has been anything but that. That government inspired the Korean conflict, which has been so costly in human life and in resources of the American people. There is absolutely no assurance that the experience will not be repeated if the rest of the world should seriously enter into peace negotiations. History affords the greatest testimony that no dependence can be put in bargains the Kremlin makes.

Sincerity of proposals by India, Israel and Ecuador for east-west peace talks is taken for granted. But their position apparently hinders the stark realities of the present and near future to align on the far-away idealism of universal harmony. They seem to overlook the obstacles that are ever present in endeavoring to achieve such a status.

No country that sends a puppet state into conflict as Moscow did the North Koreans can have serious yearning for permanent peace. As a matter of fact, Communist ideologies thrive on that sort of stuff, not in a world living in an atmosphere of good will. There are no indications whatsoever that there has been a change of heart among the men of the Politburo or that there ever will be so long as they are in power. What appear to be efforts toward ending war are but a part of a Soviet strategy to lure unsuspecting peoples into a state of complacency and to catch them in a defenseless position so that it will be much easier to devour them.

End of the Korean war, which seems to be reasonably near, will not justify cessation, or even material slackening, of the armament program in the United States. The Russians may think that by pretty proffers of peace they will lull us to sleep again. But if America falls for that line it will be stupid indeed.

It is a terrible commentary upon the state of human relations that men are compelled to live in an armed camp indefinitely. But we have had our warning, which can be ignored only at great peril to the national security. It is just that we live in a world like that.

Hampden-Sidney Defeats Pirates In Big Last Quarter Assault By 38-26

Fumble Paves Way For Locals' First Set-back In Three Starts After Brilliant Showing In Earlier Periods.

A clawing Tiger eleven from Hampden-Sidney ripped the sails of East Carolina's Pirates here Saturday night as they came from behind in the fourth quarter to spoil the Bucs' home opener with a 38-26 triumph.

An estimated crowd of 3,500 witnessed the Pirates' first defeat in three starts this season.

Graver Scores Winning Markers Co-captain Howell Graver, a hard-running halfback for the Virginians, led his teammates to their last stanza victory, as he accounted for two of the three Tiger touchdowns in the final period.

Hampden-Sidney's game-clinching score came in the waning minutes of the last quarter as Guard Walt Bridges recovered Fullback Tom Swain's fumble on the Tiger 48-yard line. After picking up three first downs on runs by Holland and Gruver, and Quarterback Bill Blair's passes to Ends E. Moore and Ed Pusinelli that carried the ball to the one-yard stripe, Graver plunged over to give the Tigers a winning, 31-26 margin. Blair's extra point made it 32-26.

Adkins Sets Up Score With Interception

The Tigers added one for good measure in the last two minutes when End Al Adkins made a freak interception of Roger Thrift's pass that bounced off Halfback Jack Britt's helmet on the EC 42, and returned it to the 14. Fullback Callis moved the ball to the 10, in two plays, with Gruver scampering off tackle for the remaining distance, ending the game's scoring with a triumphant, 38-26, count.

From the opening referee's whistle, however, it looked like the Pirates were going to sail to their third straight victory.

Two plays after the Pirates had kicked off to the Tigers, Halfback Johnny Daughtry recovered Holland's fumble on the East Carolina 5, and Coach Dole's charges were moving toward their first score before the crowd had time to settle in their seats.

Swain Score First Marker

Halfback Jack Benzie combined with Swain to move the ball down to the H-S 40. A pass from Thrift to End Frank Maennle moved it to the 25. Another Thrift pass to Benzie placed the ball on the five, and on the next play Swain went through the middle for the score. Tackle Buck Hardee added the extra point, and the Pirates led, 7-0.

Smith's 90-Yard Run Nullified

A clipping penalty nullified a beautiful 90-yard touchdown punt return by safety man Billy Smith, behind superb downfield blocking, in the closing minutes of the same period, but the Pirates were not to be outdone as they moved for their second score on the second play of the second stanza.

A Thrift pitch out to Swain had placed the ball on the Tiger 17 on last play of the first period, then Swain picked up to the 9 on the start of the second period. On the next play, Thrift hit Benzie in the end zone, giving the Pirates a commanding 13-0 lead.

Tigers Score Two Quick Ones

The Tiger men came snaring back in the same stanza with two quick touchdowns, with Quarterback Bill Blair tossing to End Ed Moore for both of them. The first came on a beautiful aerial that covered 78 yards, as Blair pitched from his own 22 to Moore who gathered the ball in on the 48 and scampered all the way untouched.

Another long pass netted the Tigers their second score as Blair threw from his own 45, hitting Moore again on the 20, with the big end going over standing up, making the halftime score read, 13-12.

Pirates Score Quickly Second Half

East Carolina again started off quickly after the halftime pep talks, moving for their third score on a sustained 84-yard march.

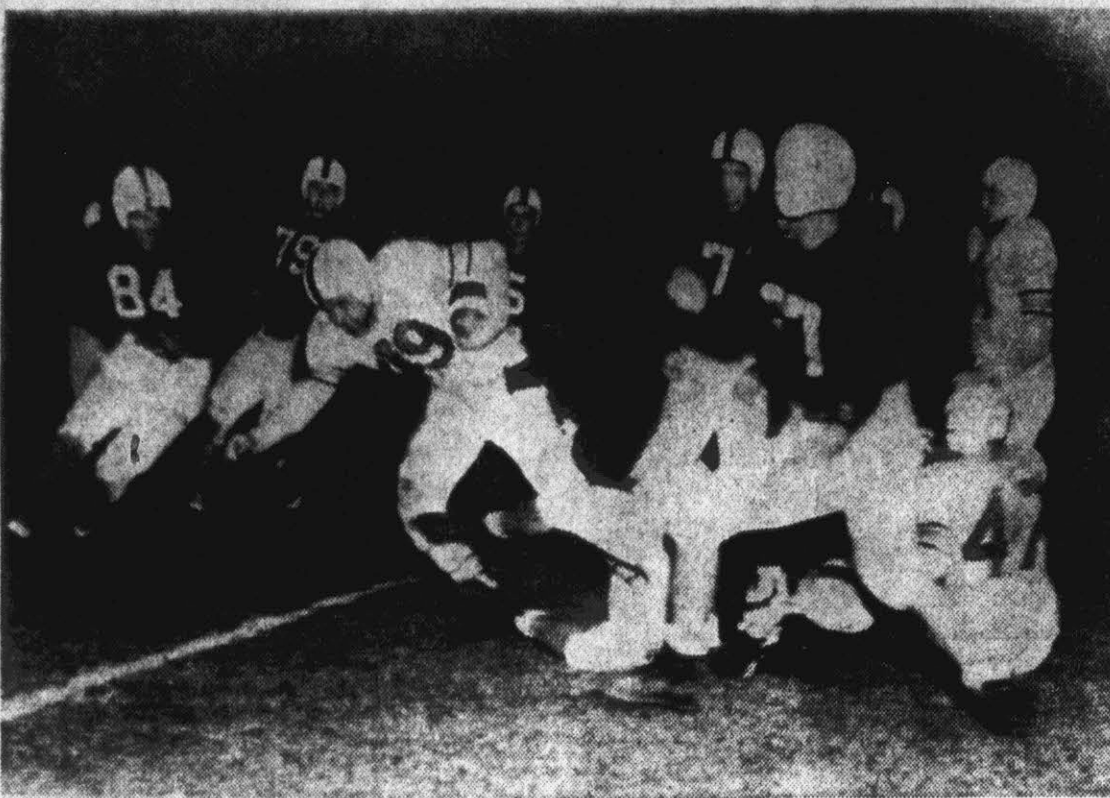

Big Tom Swain personally moved the ball down to the H-S 25 on three consecutive end sweeps. After pass interference was ruled on Thrift's toss to Britt on the 7, the Bucs were again setup for a TD, with the Bucs' all-conference QB hitting Maennle in the end zone for the score. Hardee kicked his second extra point, and the home team was out front, 20-12.

A never-say-die Tiger crew made the already tense tilt even more so, as they came back to score on a pass from Blair to Gruver in the end zone from 4 yards out, bringing the scoreboard to read 20-18.

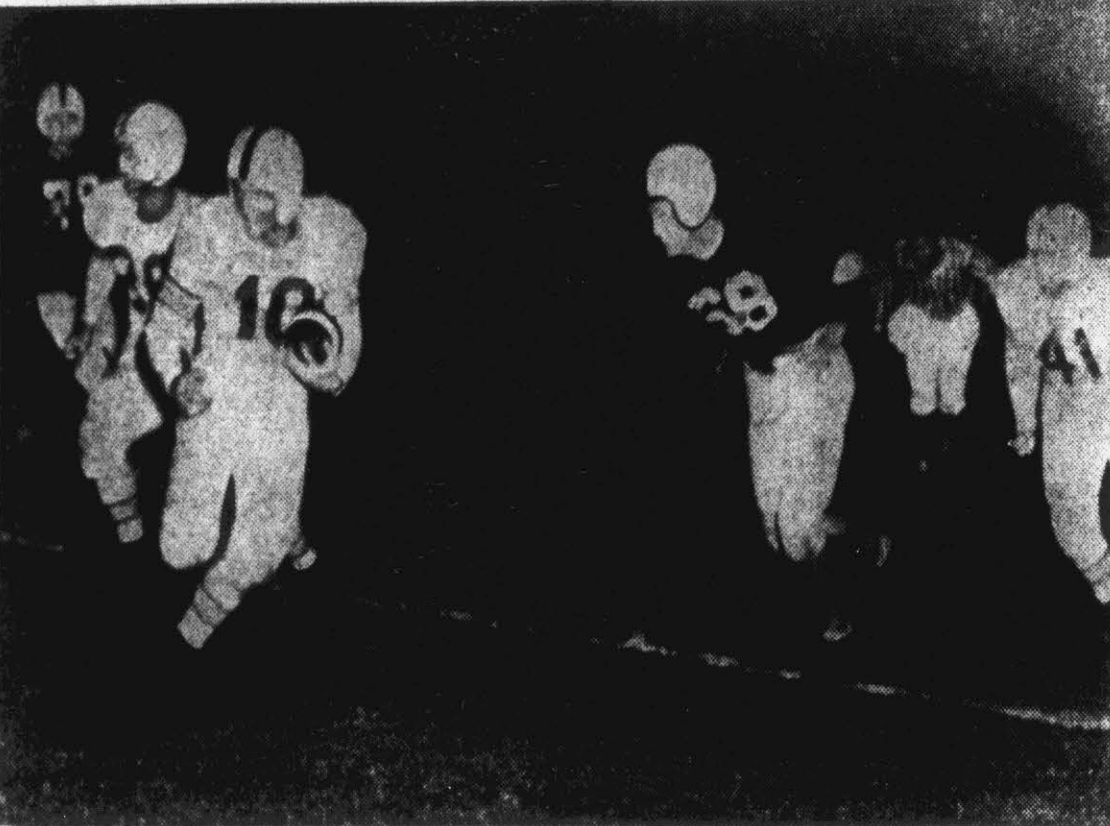

Shoe Scores Bucs' Final TD

East Carolina's final marker came as the fourth and fatal period opened, with line-backer Jack Melvin intercepting a Blair pass on the

Pirates Gain Through Line and Around Ends

Big Tom Swain (49), one of the Pirates offensive leaders, against Hampden-Sidney here Saturday night, plows through the line for yardage with a Tiger tackler hanging on. Identified Tiger players on the play are Austin (84), Adkins (79), and Bridges (67). Pirate players shown are Guard Reggie Byrd (47) and Frank Maennle looking on. Hampden-Sidney came from behind to win Saturday's tilt, 38-26. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee).

Coach Dole Expresses Concern Over Behavior Of His Players

East Carolina Coach Bill Dole today expressed deep concern over the fracas which occurred between members of the East Carolina team and the Hampden-Sidney team at the conclusion of Saturday night's football game.

Members of both teams engaged in a brief near-free-for-all on the playing field immediately after the game ended, and were joined by a number of students from the grandstand who rushed onto the field.

Of the fight between the members of the two teams, Coach Dole said, "I'm very sorry it happened. I don't condone that sort of thing, and I have taken steps to see that such a thing doesn't happen again."

Dole said the next player who exhibits such unsportsmanlike conduct as was displayed Saturday night will not only be removed from the Pirate football squad, but will lose his athletic letter for football, and likewise his scholarship.

Dole said he warned his players all during last week not to let their emotions get the better of them during the game with Hampden-Sidney, and during halftime of Saturday night's game, he said he again warned his players not to lose their heads. Just before the game ended, Dole said, he told his players in the bench he did not want them to go on the field following the game.

In the dressing room after the game, each of the players who had taken part in the melee apologized for his actions.

"I teach my boys good hard football, but not dirty ball," Dole stated. "This is the first time in 18 years a thing like this has happened to one of my teams, and it won't happen again."

Phantoms Start Home Season With Hertford

Greenville's Phantoms open their home season tonight against a highly recognized Hertford eleven in a non-conference affair.

Kickoff time is set for 8 p.m. in the college stadium.

The game, scheduled for last Friday night but delayed because of bad weather, will mark the first time the Phantoms have appeared before the home folks this season.

Coach Bo Farley's charges go into tonight's tilt with a record of one tie and one defeat. They tied Edenton in their 1950 season opener, 0-0, and fell before the New Bern Bears two weeks ago, 13-0.

Expected to lead the Phantoms' offense tonight against Coach Ellie Fearing's crew is Halfback Leon Moore, a terrific runner who has been a consistent ground-gainer for the locals all year. Assisting Moore in the running department will be Kent Lee and Bob Perry, with Quarterback Sidney Briley passing to Ends Johnny Aman and Wiley Gardner.

In the line, Johnny Merwin, a prep school transfer from Georgia, will form the nucleus of the Phantom defense from his guard position, along with Joe Rowland, his teammate guard, and Wallace Conway and Mac Crawford at tackles. Lewis Howe will hold down the pivot chores.

East Carolina Is Leading Loop As Appalachian Tied

By the Associated Press

This week finds the East Carolina Pirates in first place in the North State football conference.

The Pirates with a single conference win against no defeats replaced Appalachian which dropped to second place after a 14-14 tie with Elon Saturday. Elon with one win and a tie wound up in third place.

The only other conference game last week saw Guilford beat High Point 27-16. The win gave Guilford fourth place in the standings and dropped High Point to eighth.

In non-conference games last week, Catwba was the shining light with its 7-6 loss to State College. Although the overwhelming favorite, State was forced to go the limit to eke out the one-point victory.

In other games, Lenoir-Rhyne beat Newberry 13-7. Atlantic Christian rolled over Wilson Teachers 49-6. Western Carolina was downed 21-6 by Presbyterian, and East Carolina was upset 38-26 by Hampden-Sidney.

Family battles this week have Appalachian at Lenoir-Rhyne, East Carolina at Elon, Guilford and Atlantic Christian at Thomasville, and High Point at Catawba.

Western Carolina will entertain East Tennessee in the only non-loop game.

Musial Is Again Batting Champ.

New York, Oct. 2—(AP)—Stan Musial, the "ball player's ball player" of the St. Louis Cardinals, is the National League's batting champion for the fourth time in his illustrious career.

The belting beauty of the Red Birds finished the 1950 season yesterday with an unofficial average of .346 to win the crown by 18 points from Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn, the defending titlist, who wound up at .328.

Musial is only the third batter in the long history of the league to win more than three batting championships. The other two are Hall of Famers Honus Wagner of Pittsburgh and Rogers Hornsby of the Cards and Boston. Wagner won eight and Hornsby seven including six straight years while with the Cards from 1920 to 1925.

Musial, who never has failed to hit above .300 since he joined the Cards in 1942, previously led the hit parade in 1943 with a .387 average, in 1946 with a .365 card and in 1948 with a .376 mark.

Bill Kittrell's Greenville Midgets opened the season Saturday afternoon with a 32 to 7 victory against Washington at the Washington ball park.

The future gridiron stars of Greenville Phantoms put on the scoring pressure and left the Mites of Washington lost in the dust as they gained 191 yards rushing while their opponents lost 3. Seven first downs to none for Washington enabled them to run 5 touchdowns while the baby Pam Pac earned their lone score on a pass from Warren to West who ran 83 yards to pay dirt in the fleeting moments of the game.

Washington led Greenville in yards gained on passes by a margin of 83 yards to 37 yards. Greenville, however, completed 3 passes to Washington's 1.

Highlights of the Game

Late in the first quarter Sawyer returned a Washington punt to the Washington 27. Norris picked up 7 yards to the 20. Shackelford made it a first down by running off tackle to the 16. Howell completed a pass to Johnson on the 3, and on the next play Norris scored. A pass from Sawyer to Johnson was good for the extra point. Score 7-0 Greenville.

Sawyer intercepted a Washington pass in the second quarter and returned it to their 38. Norris picked up 2 yards to the 36 on the first down and 7 more to the 29 on the second. Dunn made a first down as he ran off tackle to the 25. Sawyer picked up 5 to the 20. Howell ran 14 yards to the 6 for a first down, and he scored on the next play. Sawyer failed to run the extra point. Score 13-0 Greenville.

Once again in the third quarter, Sawyer intercepted a pass and ran it back to the Washington 33. Howell then picked up 27 yards to the 5. Norris gained 3 yards, and Sawyer carried the pigskin to the end zone. The pass for an extra point was incomplete.

Sawyer intercepted his third pass late in the third quarter. A series of gains by Dunn, Shackelford, Howell and Sawyer plus two completed passes, one to Johnson and the other to Saleed, set up the fourth touchdown made by Shackelford. The pass for the extra point was no good. Score 26-0 Greenville.

Washington's Scoring Pass
Washington made its lone score in the last quarter when Warren passed to West from his own 17 and with good blocking all the way West scored. Nobles scored the extra point on an end run. Score 26-7 Greenville.

Howell ended the game when he ran 52 yards on the last play of the game for the Mites' fifth touchdown. He ran the extra point across and the game ended 32-7.

Billy Warren, David Zeiuro, Joe Taft, Ike Riddick, James Speight, Edgar Moore and Tommy Saleed led the defensive department for Greenville by giving the backfield the necessary interference for the five touchdowns.

Sawyer May Start Robin Roberts, Hurler Who Beat Brooks, In Wednesday's Game

By JOE REICHLER

Philadelphia, October 2—(AP)—Their first pennant in 35 years safely stowed away, the Philadelphia Phillies today planned to shoot the works against the highly favored New York Yankees in the World Series starting Wednesday.

Unless he has a change of heart, Manager Eddie Sawyer of the Phils will open with Robin Roberts, 4-1 conqueror of the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday in the game that gave the Whiz Kids the National League flag. Roberts will be opposed by Allie Reynolds in a battle of right-handers.

0 Having clinched the American League pennant last Friday, the well-rested Yankees rule 2-1 favorites over the tired Phils. Experts figure the Yanks have too much experience, deeper reserve strength and stronger pitching than the youthful Whiz Kids.

Roberts undoubtedly pitched the greatest game of his life yesterday. However, he knew he was in a battle with Brooklyn's Don Newcombe. If Dick Sisler hadn't hit that homer with two on in the top of the 10th to snap a 1-1 tie, the game might be going on yet.

The blow by Sisler, son of the immortal George Sisler who acts as Brooklyn's head scout, ended Brooklyn's "miracle" finish that for a time threatened to throw the race into another flat-footed last day tie. It gave Roberts his 20th victory of the year after the youngster had made five futile tries for it.

Although Roberts yielded but five blows to 11 for Newcombe, he had to summon all his wile and cunning to hold off a Brooklyn bases-loaded threat in the ninth that appeared destined to bring about the Phils' straight defeat.

A crown of 35,073, biggest of the year at Ebbets' Field, went into hysterics as Cal Abrams led off the last blast of the ninth with a walk and took second on a single by Pee Wee Reese.

That brought up Duke Snider, the best lefthanded hitter on the club. With everyone expecting a bunt, Snider teed off and slashed a line single to center. Abrams attempted to score from second but Richie Ashburn made a one-handed scoop of the ball and threw on the run to the plate. The ball came on a good hop right into Stan Lopa's hands. Abrams didn't have a chance and was tagged standing up.

Then it was the Phils' turn. Roberts opened with a single to center. Eddie Waitkus bloomed another single to center. Ashburn, attempting to sacrifice, bunted into a force play at third. That set the stage for Sisler's game-winning hit.

Lead Alma Maters

Chicago—(AP)—Six of the Big Ten head coaches are fielding teams at their alma maters this fall. Ray Eliot of Illinois (class of '32), Leonard Raffensperger of Iowa ('27), Bennie Oosterbaan of Michigan ('20), Bernie Bierman of Minnesota ('16), Bob Voight of Northwestern ('39) and Wes Pesler, Ohio State ('32).

Touchdowns Wanted

Annapolis, Md.—(AP)—Navy bettered its nine football opponents last year in four statistical departments.

The Midshipman recorded 149 first downs in 113 for the opposition and completed 89 passes for 1,319 yards whereas their foes had 75 completions for 1,170 yards. Navy punters averaged 40.1 yards, slightly better than their opponents' 39.4.

DOUBLE WEDDING

By Adelaide Humphries

Chapter 14

Stephanie had been trying to find some sort of job, but she had not had much luck. She had not had the necessary training or experience for any specialized work.

She had had no intention of mentioning this problem to Grant. Yet, another day when they were lunching together she found herself telling him that she had been searching, in vain, for work of some kind.

"You ought not have to go to work!" Grant's tone expressed disapproval. "I shouldn't think Sandy would want you, Stephanie."

"I don't have to," Stephanie said quickly. "I think I would be happier if I were busier." She ought not have said that; it implied that she was not happy. "I feel so useless now that I'm not doing war work at the hospital."

BD=BE DEPENDABLE
for BD means Black-Draught, the friendly laxative so helpful to relieve constipation when it causes headaches, loziness and upset stomach. Black-Draught is made of pure, imported herbs. Popular with four generations. Costs a penny or less a dose. Children like "tasty Syrup of Black-Draught." When you need a laxative, get Black-Draught from the dealer nearest you.

"As if you could possibly be useless—a wonderful housekeeper like you!" His smile reproved her. "You really want a job," he added. "I am sure I could do something about it."

"Jean was telling me, only the other day," Grant went on, seeing her hesitation and sensing that she—or that present husband of hers—would not want him to be of any assistance, "that a friend of hers needed a girl. Not just any girl. One with nice manners, who would be ornamental. A sort of receptionist job, I believe. Fair pay, easy to do, pleasant surroundings. How about it, Stephanie? Would it appeal to you?"

Grant felt justified in fictionizing a little. The friend was his friend, a young man who was branching out into real estate, mortgages, and insurance. Grant was not even sure that Bob Lerner would need a receptionist. But he had said, jokingly, that since he was going to deal with clients in the social register only he wanted his new offices to be as impressive as possible. Grant knew he could fix it up with Bob, and Stephanie need never know he had had anything to do with it. "You cannot deny that, Stephanie."

"It sounds made to order," Stephanie agreed, a bit reluctantly. Of course, if she got such a place through Jean it would not be quite the same as through Grant.

"You would fit the bill perfectly."

Please say you'll think it over. Suppose I have Jean phone you tomorrow?"

He would have to get in touch with Bob and make all the arrangements. But he would have Jean relay them to Stephanie.

"I guess I shan't have to think too long," Stephanie admitted a bit ruefully.

A shadow crossed Grant's face. He said, "Why don't you put an end to it, Stephanie?" He leaned across the small table, his look holding hers so she could not refuse to meet it. "This marriage—it's not real and you cannot make me acknowledge that it is. It's not the kind you entered into with Sandy before he went away. Nor the kind we had together. Look at me, Stephanie, and admit that what I say is true."

"It—may be." She was forced to look into his eyes. Yet she did like to make such an admission. She was legally married to Sandy. She was still bound to him, besides, through that first love and loyalty. And she had promised his uncle that she would give that marriage a fair trial.

"You must hear me out!" he insisted. "You must remember, Stephanie, that this situation has not been easy for me, either. I assure you I would have stayed out of your life if I had been convinced you were happy. But now that I know you are not, I feel I have the right to come back, the right to speak for myself."

"It's too soon," Stephanie said. Her eyes were filled with distress. "No, it's not." His hold on her hands tightened. "Didn't we have time, dearest, during our one brief month, to know our marriage could have been a success?"

No, she could not. "You have had as much time—more—to find out that this second venture with Sandy Vaughn is not turning out, to question if it ever will. Surely you must admit that, my dearest?"

"I—I don't know."

That seemed the only answer she could give.

"You are the one who should know—you must," Grant reminded. "Marriage is so important." She attempted a light laugh, although her heart felt far from light.

"I've already been too much married." She tried to adopt the air of light sophistication which Sandy had said would be appropriate to a play or book. But it fell short. It was not amusing to her. It was far too serious.

"The next time must be the last. A real marriage, as you just said, Grant. That's why you—and Sandy, too—must let me decide myself and must give me enough time in which to do so."

"How much time, dearest?" Grant urged gently.

How could she answer that question? Uncle Quentin had said she ought to stick by her husband as long as she possibly could, as long as Sandy would let her—until, so she had decided, her heart gave the final answer.

"No longer than necessary," she told him, her eyes looking into his. "That is all I can promise, Grant. For all our sakes."

That seemed to satisfy him. He said, "All right, Stephanie. But I just want you to know that I am still waiting. That I shall always be waiting. And our house—that was one thing I wanted to discuss with you—I suppose you know, dearest, that it will be waiting, too. I simply turned the key. Everything is just as you left it."

Stephanie had never had much doubt of Grant's love; he was so dependable, so constant, so reliable. He was, in fact, everything that was the exact opposite, it seemed of Sandy.

Paratrooper To Seek Jump Mark

Blytheville, Ark., Oct. 2—(AP)—A paratrooper who's out to top his Army buddy's world record for consecutive parachute jumps may try again later this week.

Sgt. Howard Griggs, here on furlough, peeled off 25 jumps at municipal airport yesterday but quit when a gusty south wind started whipping him around like an autumn leaf.

ADVICE IGNORED
Buffalo, N.Y., Oct. 2—(AP)—Selective Service officials ignored the message scribbled on an envelope containing a filled-in draft questionnaire. It read: "Do not open until Christmas."

WHAT'S THE LATEST WRINKLE?

The young lady who lets misplaced vanity keep her from wearing the glasses she needs, does not escape the penalty.

There is no surer way of creating "crow's feet", wrinkles and other signs of age, than the constant squinting of the person who needs glasses but doesn't wear them.

So foolish to pay this penalty, when today's colorful glasses can actually add to your appearance. Let us show you how!

NOTICE OF NEW REGISTRATION FOR GREENVILLE TOWNSHIP AND THE CREATION OF NEW PRECINCTS

Under the authority vested in the Pitt County Board of Elections by
G. S. 163-22 of the laws of North Carolina, a new registration will be had for all of the precincts in Greenville Township. The new registration will begin at 9 o'clock A. M. on October 14, 1950, and continue until sunset on October 28, 1950.
During this period of time, the registrars will be at the voting places of their respective precincts from 9 o'clock A. M. until sunset on Saturday, October 14, 21st, and 28th, and will have the registration books at their homes available for registration on other days during this period.

The township will be divided into precincts as follows:

1. The voting place for Greenville precinct No. 1 will be Farmers Warehouse, and the precinct will embrace all of Greenville Township north of Tar River.

2. The voting place for Greenville precinct No. 2 will be the Pitt County Courthouse, and the precinct will embrace all of the territory south of Tar River, east of Greene Street, north of Fifth Street and Highway No. 264, to Allen's Road (now State highway) and west of the Allen Road extended to Tar River.

3. The voting place for Greenville precinct No. 3 will be at the Third Street School, and the precinct will embrace all of Greenville Township west of Greene Street, south of Tar River, and north of Fifth Street and State Highway No. 43 leading west (Falkland).

4. The voting place for Greenville precinct No. 4 will be the West Greenville School, and the precinct will embrace all of Greenville
Township south of Fifth Street,
State Highway No. 43 (Falkland highway to the township line), and West of Greene Street, Dickinson
Avenue, and State Highway No. 11.

5. The voting place for Greenville precinct No. 5 will be the city hall, and the boundary of the precinct
will be as follows:

Beginning at Greene Street on the south side of Fifth Street;
thence a southerly direction down
Greene Street into Dickinson Avenue to State Highway No. 11 (Ayden highway); thence down State
Highway No. 11 to the Greenville

Sparkman Urges 'Wiping Out' Of Artificial Line

Washington, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Senator Sparkman (D-Ala) urged today that the United Nations erase the 38th parallel dividing line and unite Korea.

Sparkman, a member of the American delegation to the U. N., told reporters on a brief visit to Washington that no partition line should be permitted to interfere with the final destruction of North Korean aggressive powers.

"Whether United Nations forces should cross the 38th parallel, was a military decision, of course," he said. "But as a layman it seems to me that it will be necessary to continue military action until the North Korean power of aggression is broken."

Already, South Korean forces have plunged across the boundary line under U. N. military orders, pending a response from the North Korean reds to a demand from

Gen. Douglas MacArthur for surrender or "early and total defeat."

Sparkman said he believes that after victory the United Nations should take over in Korea on the basis of a unified nation, moving toward the establishment of a democratic government for all of the people there.

"I hope we will erase the 38th parallel as a dividing line," Sparkman said.

His views apparently coincide with those of many of his colleagues in Congress. Senator Bridges (R-NH) said in a weekend broadcast that the 38th parallel is only an "imaginary line" which should not be permitted to stand in the way of a unified Korea.

And Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said in a telegram to secretary of state Acheson that the United States ought not to become a party to any plan to re-establish a new "iron curtain" at the 38th parallel.

Two Minor Auto Mishaps In Pitt

Two minor accidents were reported on Pitt County's highways over the weekend with one driver arrested on charges of driving drunk and hit and run, and another man arrested for a parking violation resulting in an accident.

Patrolmen Dick Chadwick and Ernest Guthrie said today they were called to an accident on the New Bern highway Saturday night about 11:30.

When they arrived in a matter of minutes the patrolmen had enough information to track down their man to a filling station about one mile away from the place of the accident.

There they found a car operated by Vayden Matthews, age 32, of Faison. The officers charged him with hit and run driving and driving drunk. In City Police court this morning Judge J. W. H. Roberts fined Matthews $475.95 for fines and damages. Roberson's car was estimated to be damaged over $300 with about $150 done to the Matthews car.

Andrew Roberson, age 42, Negro, told the patrolmen that he was going in the direction of Bell's Fork and was coming into a curve when a car meeting him came on his side of the highway. The man stated that he pulled over off the highway and that the car still came on and struck his car, but did not stop.

The second weekend accident occurred around 3 a.m. this morning, three miles south of Greenville on N.C. 11.

A car driven by Joe Darson, 1718 Pitt Street was reported by Patrolman Dick Chadwick as being stalled on the highway, when it was struck in the rear by a truck, driven by Willie B. Lewis of Winterville.

Darson was arrested on charges of failure to have lights on a motor vehicle parked on highway.

Suicide Ruse To Frighten Wife

Charles Dixon, 25-year-old Negro laborer, had not drunk DDT, a bug-killing chemical, police found out after they took him into custody on complaint of his wife and had him examined at Pitt General Hospital, Chief Guy C. Langston said.

Dixon's wife went to police headquarters Saturday and asked an officer to investigate her husband's alleged suicide attempt. They took Dixon to jail for observation and then decided to have him examined at a hospital.

The hospital examination revealed that Dixon had not taken poison and had "worked the suicide ruse to frighten his wife."

Police had information that a "person swallowing DDT disinfectant would spit it up quicker than it went down their throat."

Dixon was released.

Two Judgments Returned Today

Two judgments were returned by Judge Henry Grady this morning in the first day of the October term of criminal Superior Court.

Judgments against W. C. Whitehurst and J. R. Whitehurst, two Bethel natives and brothers, indicted for breaking and entering L. J. Whitehurst's store last month, placed them on probation for a period of five months.

Judge Grady suspended an 18-month sentence for both on payment of costs.

Another judgment given to John Williams, Negro, for assault with a deadly weapon, was a six month suspended sentence provided he pays a medical bill, loss of time, and remains of good behavior for three years.

Williams was indicted for attacking Rosa Lee Anderson with a knife. He was ordered to pay $11 for medical expenses and $25 for loss of time from her job.

Other business on this morning's proceedings:

Grand Jury—Harold Wells, seduction, not a true bill; Franklin D. Clark, crime against nature and breaking and entering and larceny, true bill.

The cases against Swanson Lee Waller, indicted for drunken driving, not pressed. The case against Marshall Lee, drunken and reckless driving, was continued.

said he could not disclose it prematurely. Shih said the news came from General Walker.

Correspondent Boyle reported from the front that the Reds who said a stand would be made at Wonsan also said they had been ordered to move to that port with all possible speed.

The slow mop-up campaign continued in South Korea. There battle lines had changed little in the past 24 hours. Allied troops fought to wipe out enemy pockets.

Bootleg Liquor Uncovered Under Pile Of Tobacco

Pitt County ABC officers and a sheriff deputy seized eleven and one-half gallons of bootleg whiskey concealed under tobacco in a pack house belonging to John Ellison, negro, Saturday morning in a surprise raid.

Officers said that they found the liquor under scrap tobacco and that Ellison and his family were working in the tobacco when the search was made.

The negro man posted a bond of $200 and was released pending the next term of county court. Ellison lives in the Venters Cross roads section.

Officers taking part in the raid were: J. M. Ward, J. L. Taylor, Claude Manning of the ABC office and deputy sheriff Loyl Manning.

Duffett said it is the company's intention to use all local labor "except for a few skilled supervisory personnel who must of necessity come from other areas." Announcements will be made shortly relative to employment interviews.

Alfred O. Therkliden will be the plant manager and already has commenced his duties. Mr. and Mrs. Therkliden and son, Thomas will move to Greenville shortly and will live on South Cotanche Street.

Duffett and Therkliden were in Greenville today where they conversed with Matt R. Long, president of Greenville Spinners, and visited the new company plant.

Duffett said valuable assistance in locating the new plant in Greenville was given him by Willard T. Kyzer, manager of the Greenville chamber of commerce, Matt R. Long of the Greenville Spinners, Inc., and H. P. Cotton, of the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development.

comb, toothbrush, soap, marbles and so on has received the praise of the nation. These gift boxes were sent to the European countries which were ravished by the last World War. Numerous letters of gratitude have been received from the students in Germany, France, Italy and so on receiving these boxes. This is just one of the many projects which the chapter has planned for the coming year.

"Junior Red Cross," Mrs. Moore stated, "is the most democratic youth organization existing today, and we hope to have the enrollment reach the 100 percent mark again this year. If every child contributes generously in order to bring his class within the requirements set by the Chapter, this goal can be obtained. The enrollment committee, other active Juniors, and teacher-sponsors, in all schools have been busy setting the stage for what is hoped to be a record-breaking membership drive. Since there has been a substantial increase in the number of students attending the schools, it is believed that this will be another successful year."

Red Cross Service projects to the point where every newly-enrolled Junior will have a chance to take an active part. Last year, the enrollment was 100 percent, and although some of the Juniors did not take an active part, those who did manifested a fine spirit toward the unfortunate students in Europe.

As one of the big projects of the local chapter, the filling of educational gift boxes which contain basic school and health supplies—pencils, paper, erasers, crayons, apparently wasn't the main cause of the rising birth rate, because it had started to go up even in the thirties, and it stayed high after the war ended.

Our Population . . .

The main cause probably was economic prosperity. More people got married. They got married younger. They had children sooner, and they could afford to have more children.

But the other forces were at work. There was a spectacular drop in the deaths of babies less than one year-old. Old folks lived longer than before. Immigration was greater than expected. Social security and hospitalization insurance may have encouraged the having of children. Furthermore, the idea of large families seems to be having a renewed popularity in this country.

Professional students of population (called "demographers") spent a bewildering decade, revising their forecasts only to have the revisions out-dated before publication.

The latest Census Bureau forecast, published Aug. 10, is extremely conservative. It runs only to 1960 and has an unusually wide range of alternatives. Like earlier forecasts, it gives three sets of figures, "high," "medium," and "low," based on different assumptions as to births, deaths, and immigration.

For 1960, the "high" estimate of U.S. population is 180,000,000, the "medium" estimate 169,000,000, the "low" estimate 161,000,000.

to lose some face by its defeat in Korea. This practical demonstration that the peace organization is willing and able to act as well as talk will have a tremendous impact on world opinion.

Thus we see that the South Korean victory is a great gain for the democracies the world over. And in that sense it is a marked contribution to the defense of the West against Bolshevism. In short, one reason why America has been in this Korean war is to protect herself.
