Firm Buys Plant Site; Opens Soon

Greenville To Be Distribution Center For N. C. Equipment Company

By CHESTER WALSH
The North Carolina Equipment Company of Raleigh, a million-dollar corporation, has bought a site near the junction of the Farmville and Winterville highways and will shortly open a branch distributing plant in Greenville.
The company deals in heavy construction equipment, industrial and logging machinery, bulldozers, dump trucks, derricks, etc.
Plans already are drawn for constructing a building 200 by 60 feet. Work is to start right away, W. H. Woolard, president of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company, said today.

The North Carolina Equipment Company has distributing plants at Wilmington, Charlotte, Asheville, Raleigh and Guilford.

The Greenville plant will be the central distributing center for Eastern Carolina.

Twelve to 15 employees in addition to traveling salesmen will be used here at first.

The North Carolina Equipment Company does business extensively in the south. It represents about 100 of the leading manufacturers in the United States.

It sells to states, municipalities, counties, saw mills and contractors.

Its selling season continues steadily through the year, Mr. Woolard stated.

The firm's annual sales exceeded $5,000,000 and in 1949 the total sales exceeded $6,000,000.

The company carries a considerable bank account in cities where it has distributing plants.

Albert E. Finley is president and chairman of the board; Wilbur C. Calkins is vice-president and general manager; W. L. Smith is vice-president and assistant general manager; D. J. Jones is executive secretary-treasurer; T. A. Wadford is assistant secretary; and A. L. Doster, Jr. is assistant treasurer.

Bradford-Dunn gives the North Carolina Equipment Company an A-1 credit rating.

Aldermen Plan Routine Meeting Tomorrow Night

Greenville aldermen will meet tomorrow night in their regular monthly session.

Mostly routine business is on the agenda for the meeting, according to Mayor W. S. Stafford.

The mayor said, however, that he intends to read to the board letters he has received from mayors of the other towns in Pitt county and some from surrounding counties concerning what the various towns are doing to cope with the rural fire fighting situation.

Also slated to be discussed is the hospitalization plan for city employees. The mayor said he anticipates having reports from the various city departments made at the meeting.

Child Painfully Injured By Car

Little Joe Lynn Caboon, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lomax Caboon, was painfully injured yesterday afternoon when she ran in front of a car driven by Edward D. Biggs, 22, student, on Dickinson avenue near Evans street.

The child received a fractured collarbone and lacerations and bruises. She was treated at Pitt General Hospital and then taken to her home, 1303 South Washington street.

Police are continuing their investigation.

Vishinsky's Argument

Not Even The Soviet Foreign Minister Could Have Taken Seriously His Own Plan To Bring Peace To Korea; Obvious Attempt To Save Reds From Ruin

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

The Soviet bloc's Korean peace plan, as laid before the United Nations, is an obvious attempt to save Red North Korea from further military disaster.

Indeed Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky, who is one of Russia's most brilliant legal minds, must have had tongue in cheek as he presented his argument.

His seven-point program had as its central point a demand for immediate cease fire and withdrawal of American and all other foreign troops from Korea.

Even while Vishinsky spoke, South Korean troops were heading towards the Manchurian border in pursuit of routed North Korean forces and American B-29s were raising further havoc north of the 38th parallel.

Australian Foreign Minister Percy C. Spender promptly called the turn on this proposal. In his outspoken fashion he declared:

"The object of this (a U.N. withdrawal) of course, is to create a vacuum. By whom would this be filled? x x x I do not think we were all born yesterday and the answer to this question must be clear enough."

By curious coincidence, while this Soviet proposal was being argued at Lake Success, allied warplanes were pounding heavy traffic columns moving southward in North Korea from the direction of China's Manchurian border. These columns caused urgent conferences in U.N. military circles, but there was no announcement to identify the "mysterious" contingents.

That leaves it for you and me to wonder if Manchurian forces may be moving to the rescue of the Korean Reds. While there has been no indication that either Russia or China intends to intervene directly in the military sense, this wouldn't preclude an undercover bolstering of the North Korean army with some of their brothers from the north.

In advancing the Soviet proposal, Vishinsky rejected the eight-point project for a united and independent Korea. This had been sponsored by Britain, Australia, Brazil, Cuba, The Netherlands, Norway, Pakistan and the Philippines. It has been receiving increasing support among

Estimates 10,000 Seoul Residents Were Massacred

South Korean Official Says Death Toll May Never Be Known

Seoul, Oct. 4—(AP)—A South Korean official estimated today the Communists massacred more than 10,000 Seoul residents before being driven from the capital city by U.S. marines and doughboys.

"Several thousand more are reported lying in the hills," said Lee Joong Choon, chief of the municipal public information section of Seoul. "Many were dumped into rivers by the Reds."

Lee said the city actually had buried only 378 bodies, some of them victims of the street-by-street fighting for Seoul.

Another source, who declined to be identified, said mass killings were not the work of North Koreans alone. He said the number of non-Communist police and South Korean soldiers probably would total several tens of thousands in all South Korea.

AP Correspondent Stan Swinton reported from Kunsan, west coast port, that a survivor told United Nations investigators 2,000 South Koreans were killed at Chonju.

The investigators there are Lt. Col. Benito N. Euben and Major D. Dionisio Ojeda, both of the Philippines.

One source said "people's courts" in Seoul were organized hastily and in operation within 10 days after Communist occupation of the capital June 28. He said political prisoners were "tried" this way:

The prisoners were marched to the balcony of the people's theater building. The charges were read and the crowd below was asked:

UN Nears Vote On Korean Peace

Showdown On Opposing East And West Plans Today

Lake Success, Oct. 4—(AP)—The United Nations drove towards a showdown vote on opposing East and West Korean peace plans today.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky takes the floor in the assembly's 60-nation Political Committee to make a final plea for acceptance of his plan. British Minister of State Kenneth Younger is scheduled to follow him with an appeal for support of the American-backed proposal submitted by Britain and seven other nations.

Most delegates expect a vote later in the day despite last-minute attempts by Yugoslavia and India yesterday to shut both plans to a subcommittee for a try at compromise.

An overwhelming victory was forecast for the West's peace blueprint which Nationalist China's Dr. T. T. Tsiang hailed as promising "independence, unity and rehabilitation" to war-torn Korea.

Russia probably will not be able to line up any votes for her plan, which calls for an immediate cease-fire, withdrawal of foreign troops, and later elections which the Soviet Union and Communist China would help supervise—except from her satellites.

Delegates, in private conversations, have labelled the Soviet proposal an attempt to snatch political victory from military defeat and have indicated they want no part of any such scheme.

All countries outside the Russian bloc—except Yugoslavia and India which have indicated they will abstain—will most likely vote for the eight-nation plan.

NCEA Officers Welcomed To College Campus

Mrs. Cora Lee Munn of Deep Run (left) and other officers of the North Carolina Education Association are shown above as they were welcomed to the campus by President John D. Messick of East Carolina Teachers College. Mrs. Munn is president of the Northeastern District of the NCEA, which held its 28th annual convention at the college with more than 1500 teachers from 22 counties present. Pictured above left to right are Mrs. Munn; C. M. Abernethy of Lenoir, president of the NCEA; and Mrs. Phoebe Emmons of Washington, N. C., member of the board of directors from the Northeastern District; and (rear) A. C. Dawson, Jr., of Southern Pines, legislative chairman of the NCEA for 1950-1951, and Dr. Messick.

Higher Teaching Goals Are Urged In NCEA Convention

Dr. Lyle W. Ashby, secretary for Professional Relations, National Education Association, addressed yesterday afternoon in the Austin auditorium at East Carolina Teachers College approximately 1500 representatives of schools present on the campus for the 28th annual convention of the Northeastern District of the North Carolina Education Association.

The meeting was the second, general session of the convention. At a morning session A. C. Dawson Jr., of Southern Pines, legislative chairman of the NCEA for 1950-1951, outlined a ten-point legislative program, tentatively prepared by the teachers' organization for presentation to the 1951 General Assembly.

At 17 departmental meetings, also scheduled for the morning, programs of interest to teachers of various subjects and grades were presented.

Speaking on the topic of "The Role of the Teacher in Today's World," Dr. Ashby described possibilities for service by the educator as citizen, teacher, and public relations worker.

"Make no little plans for education," he advised his audience. "We in public education have been guilty of not making our plans big enough."

Citing the great scientific development of our times and the growth of a sentiment for world government, he said, "This age is a time for greatness on the part of us all—most certainly in education."

He declared, must "spark the drive" to expand and improve free universal public education.

Five divisional and departmental groups held dinner meetings in the evening at various places in Greenville. Speakers, their topics, and the groups addressed were President John D. Messick of East Carolina Teachers College, "Trends in Higher Education," Division of Higher Education; Dean of Music Robert Smith of Flora Macdonald, "Music and the Ordinary Listener," Division of Classroom Teachers; A. C. Dawson Jr., vice president of the Division of Principals of the NCEA, "Remarks on the State Association of Principals," Division of Principals; Jean Booth, superintendent of Kinston schools, "Education in Japan," Division of Superintendents; and J. E. Miller of the State Department of Public Instruction, the Department of Supervisors and Directors of Instruction.

New officers of the Northeastern District for 1951-1952 were announced at the afternoon general session. John L. Dupree of Windsor succeeds Mrs. Cora Lee Munn of Deep Run as president. Other officers for the coming year are George McRorie of Everett, vice president, and Earl C. Punderbark of Elizabethtown City, district representative on the NCEA Board of Directors.

Special events of the afternoon program of the convention yesterday included a program of music at the general session, when Dan E. Vornholt of East Carolina Teachers College led delegates in group singing and George E. Perry of the college department of music played selections on the pipe organ recently acquired by the college. The Teachers Playhouse presented an outdoor performance of Chekhov's "The Boor" under the direction of Dr. Lucile H. Charles of the East Carolina faculty. With Mrs. Ruth Garner as hostess, the alumni association of the college held open house during the afternoon in honor of graduates of East Carolina who returned to the campus for the convention.

"The exhibits at the Fair this year are very educational and we have the finest livestock show of any Fair in the state, with the State Fair no exception. The exhibits put on by the vocational teachers, under the leadership of W. L. Little, are excellent and are playing a great part in the Fair."

"The 4-H exhibits under the leadership of C. J. Goodman, Miss Ann Parker and Miss Helen Hicks are the best I have seen at any Fair. All the agricultural leaders have done a great job in presenting 'Pitt County on Parade.' Goodman is assistant county farm agent and Misses Parker and Hicks are assistant home agents."

Fair President D. J. Whitchard, Jr., stated this morning the admissions during the entire week would exceed 20,000 provided the crowds continue as they have in the earlier part of the week. That will make the largest attendance in the history of the Fair.

All the exhibits were judged yesterday by farm and home agents from surrounding counties. The swine show, junior and senior, was judged late this morning. Announcement of the winners in each class in the Exhibit Hall and each breed in the swine show will be made this afternoon.

One of the main attractions that drew the crowds to the grounds last night will not be held tonight and Friday. The fireworks this year were scheduled for three nights proved dangerous to the closed in crowds and will not be displayed for that reason. Several parts of the livestock tent were singed last night by flying sparks.

Commenting on the exhibits and the livestock shows, Fair Manager Norman Y. Chambliss praised the efforts and before-hand work of all members of the contributing departments of the county offices, he said.

Post Office And Phone Exchange Seized By Reds

Austrian Demonstrators Use Violent Steps To Provoke General Strike

Vienna, Oct. 4—(AP)—More than 1,000 Communist demonstrators seized the main post office and telephone exchange in Wiener Neustadt in the Russian zone of Austria today.

The seizure was reported by U.S. authorities.

In Vienna about 7,000 Communist demonstrators were reported marching on the governmental center in an effort to back a general strike for pay increases.

The Wiener Neustadt Communists beat off 150 Austrian policemen who tried to stop them from entering the post office. The seizure could lead to interruption of communications between Vienna and the British zone.

There was hand to hand fighting in some areas of Vienna.

British authorities summoned an emergency session of the four-power allied body charged with the security of Vienna, to discuss an Austrian government note protesting Russian interference with Austrian police.

The strike itself was flailing. The Communist march from the Russian-occupied suburbs to Vienna's city hall apparently was an attempt to bolster the strike call. The strength of such a demonstration could mean the difference between defeat and victory for Communist hopes of a general strike throughout Austria.

Socialists and Communists battled at the gates of factories. Railworkers tossed Communists out of government railway buildings. Police arrested men seeking to disrupt power supplies.

The Communists, meanwhile, had seized streetcars in the Soviet sector, while armed Russian soldiers looked on.

The purpose of the wholesale confiscation of streetcars apparently was to use them to transport thousands of Communist-led workers to a mass demonstration in Vienna's governmental district this afternoon.

The Communist call for the general strike was ignored by most of Austria's workers, although it produced short-lived attempts to seize railway stations and mounting scattered incidents.

New Socialized Industries Ahead

Margate, Eng. Oct. 4 (AP) Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison urged Britain's Labor Party today to follow a go-slow policy, but pledged it to carry out more state ownership plans.

Morrison, who is also the party's election strategist, specifically listed the sugar and cement industries, and industrial life insurance concerns, to be taken over.

He declined however to say when these will be socialized.

"We do not think it wise at this stage to commit the party to a timetable of nationalization," Morrison told the party annual conference.

He said decisions in timing must come when the party makes up a specific election manifesto—and that won't be written until the next election date is decided. The election is widely expected to come next spring.

Morrison began an all-day debate on general lines of party policy, re-stated last summer in a booklet called "Labor and the new society."

Some grower representatives have said that higher price supports than those in effect now will be needed to encourage farmers to expand production to the desired level.

But Brannan said nothing about 1951 price supports, except that there will be a support program with no strings attached. This year farmers had to comply with restrictions in order to be eligible for support.

Under normal-time provisions of farm law, the department must support the 1951 crop at between 80 and 90 cent of parity.

City Tax Take Running About At 1949 Level

Collections through the first quarter of city taxes for the fiscal year are running just about the same as they did last year.

According to the City Clerk's tax report, which will be presented to the Board of Aldermen tomorrow night, the collections on the 1950-51 levy total $143,330.52 through September 30. That is 95 percent of the total levy and is equal to the amount collected at the end of September last year.

Contrary to collections of county taxes, the month of July brought in more money than did August and September. During the first month of the fiscal year the Clerk collected $91,104.82. Collections in August were $46,866 and last month were $47,559.37.

The county reported the majority of its quarter collections were paid in September. Reason was attributed to the tobacco market opening in August.

Balance to be collected by the city is $130,028.49 on an estimated levy of $263,360.01.

New Tax Increase Due November 1

Selected Consumer Goods To Become Subject To Levy

Washington, Oct. 4—(AP)—November 1 will be another red-letter day for the new tax increases to take effect. Revenue Commissioner George J. Schoeneman pointed out today.

October 1 also meant more to taxpayers generally, since the higher income tax withholding rates began to apply then to wage and salary payments, but Schoeneman noted that as of November 1:

1. Quick freeze storage units of household size and television sets will become subject to a tax of 10 percent on the manufacturers' price.

(The manufacturer will have to pay the tax, but Schoeneman observed that the amount of the tax may be passed on to the consumer.)

2. Slot machines and other "gaming devices" will be subjected to an annual occupation tax of $150 for each machine. At present, the tax is $100.

3. The taxes on transportation of persons and property will apply to payments "made in person outside the United States by individuals or concerns paying for such services."

(This is aimed chiefly at a practice of paying freight bills or buying passenger tickets free of tax by obtaining them in Canada. The tax rates are 15 percent for passenger tickets and three percent for freight.)

4. The 20 percent excise (sales) tax on retail sale of jewelry and furs will begin to apply to "retail sale of such articles by auctioneers or agents selling these commodities on behalf of non-retailers and legal representatives of estates of non-retailers."

Betty Virginia Gard Is Wed To Henry Gibbs Johnson

The marriage of Miss Betty Virginia Gard, the daughter of Mrs. Herman Yancy Gard and the late Mr. Gard, and Mr. Henry Gibbs Johnson, the son of Mr. Hardy Johnson, of Fountain, N. C., was solemnized Saturday afternoon, September 16, at 3 p.m., in the Chapel of All Saints Episcopal Church of Richmond, Virginia, with the Rev. Robert M. Olson officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mrs. J. A. Leslie, Jr., of Norfolk, Virginia, wore a gown of royal blue crepe and carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Nancy Leslie, her cousin, of Tidewater, Va., was her only attendant. She wore a beige wool dress, and carried a bouquet of Tallman roses and bronze chrysanthemums.

Mr. Hardy Johnson was his son's best man. The ushers were the bridegroom's brother, Dr. Dwight Johnson, of Wilson, N. C., and his cousin, Mr. Jonathan Lane, of Pine-top, N. C.

A reception was held at the Laurel Hill House immediately after the ceremony.

After a northern wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Richmond, Va.

At noon on Saturday of their wedding day, Miss Gard and Mr. Johnson were honored at a breakfast given by Mrs. M. E. Lane and Mrs. S. L. Parker, of Pine-top, N. C. Mrs. F. D. Turnage of Chapel Hill, N. C., and Mrs. G. E. Treva-than of Fountain, N. C. The hostesses are aunts of Mr. Johnson.

Given at the Hotel Richmond in Richmond, the bridal motif was featured in the private dining room. An arrangement of white dahlias and gladioli centered the table.

The bride-elect was presented a corsage of yellow roses by the hostesses.

Approximately thirty guests including members of the family, wedding party and out-of-town guests, attended.

Service League Meets At Library

The Service League of Greenville met at the Sheppard Memorial Library on Monday morning, October 2. The president, Mrs. J. L. Thomas, opened the meeting with prayer.

October marks the beginning of the work on the TB Seal Sale, and the program for the day was on that subject. The guest speaker was Mrs. W. N. Johnson of the Pitt County Health Department staff.

Johnson gave a report on the work done in the X-ray department during the past year and pointed out some of the needs of the department. Funds from the TB Seal Sale were used to purchase films, holders and the X-ray machine now in use. It is hoped that the Service League can sponsor an up-to-date X-ray department by using funds from the next TB Seal Sale to meet other needs of the department.

Mrs. Johnson pointed out that tuberculosis is still very much a problem in Pitt County, which has the second highest death rate in the state from this disease.

Mrs. Johnson stated that the great need of the Health Department at the present time is more adequate space. There is little room for clinics and desk work, and the congested situation prevents proper service to the public. The work must be curtailed instead of expanded unless adequate space is provided. It is hoped that the entire Tucker building can be used by the Health Department when the other county offices move in the near future. Federal aid can be secured if there is a separate Health Center, and the facilities of the Department can be expanded to give greater service to the citizens of Pitt County.

After the program a motion was made that the Service League send a letter to the County Commissioners in an effort to influence them in favor of a separate Health Center in the Tucker building. This letter was signed by all members present.

After the roll call, the minutes of the September meeting were read and the Treasurer's report given. Chairmen of the various committees were called upon for reports.

It was announced that work on the TB Seal Sale will begin immediately. Mrs. J. Bryan Brown is the executive secretary to serve under Mrs. David Evans and Mrs. T. B. Basnight, Jr., co-chairmen of the drive. The Bond Drive will be the week of October 13-18, and members were asked to volunteer for various phases of the work.

The Thrift Shop was re-opened Tuesday, October 3, and volunteer

Dr. A. D. Frank Is Speaker In Plymouth

Dr. A. D. Frank, chairman of the department of social studies at East Carolina Teachers College, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Woman's Club of Plymouth, N.C., Tuesday evening, October 3. He talked to members on current affairs, stressing the international implications of the Korean war and the advance of troops beyond the 38th parallel.

While in Plymouth, Dr. Frank was entertained at dinner by the Rev. and Mrs. Edward Spruill. Mrs. Spruill, president of the Plymouth Woman's Club, is an alumna of East Carolina and a former student of Dr. Frank.

Atheneum Club Holds First Fall Meeting On Tuesday

The Atheneum Book club met for its first meeting of the year on Tuesday at 1:00 at the home of Mrs. Reid Perkins.

The hostess graciously welcomed them into her home, which was lovely with beautiful fall flowers in rich hues. Dahlias and chrysanthemums in various shades suggestive of the autumn season were used in attractive arrangements in living and dining rooms.

The guests were served a two-course barbecue luncheon before the club meeting. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Luther Bowling and Mrs. K. B. Pace.

Following the enjoyable luncheon, the president, Mrs. Ty Wagner, presided over the business meeting. Current events were given by each member as the roll was called. The book chairman, Mrs. N. O. Warren, introduced the new books and discussed them briefly before distributing them. This took the place of a regularly scheduled program.

The officers for the coming year are as follows: Mrs. Ty Wagner, president; Mrs. John Winstead, vice president; Mrs. D. J. Whitchard, secretary and treasurer; and Mrs. Julian White, librarian.

Mrs. Perkins had as her guests for the luncheon and meeting, Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell, Mrs. Morgan Fambrough, Mrs. J. D. Messick and Mrs. Mary McCray.

40 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
October 4, 1910

The student body at East Carolina Teachers Training school has grown so in numbers that additions had to be made to the faculty. Miss May R. B. Muffley, of Baltimore, a graduate of Peabody Institute, has arrived to take charge of the department of public school music and voice culture. She was here during the summer and her work then charmed all who saw it.

Miss Elizabeth Pugh, of Gallatin, La., has come to take charge of the domestic science department. She is a graduate of Stout Institute at Menomonee, Wis.

Miss Orpah Dabney, a graduate of the teachers college of Columbia University, New York, will have charge of the department of primary methods and give special training in this work.

Parties Are Given To Honor Bride

Mrs. Henry Gibbs Johnson, bride of September 16, was honored at a luncheon given Saturday at one o'clock at the Hotel Cherry in Wilson, North Carolina by Mrs. Hardy Johnson.

Sharing honors with Mrs. Johnson was Mrs. Larry Eagles, a recent bride of Tarboro, North Carolina.

Decorated with arrangements of mixed flowers in the fall hues, the private dining room made a lovely setting for the affair. Mrs. Johnson chose for the occasion a plaid wool ensemble complimented with a corsage of white stephanotis and mums.

Mrs. Eagles was wearing an outfit of navy blue and similar corsage.

A delicious three course luncheon was served to the approximately fifty guests attending to pay courtesy to Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Eagles.

The hostess presented Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Eagles gifts of silver in their chosen patterns.

Mrs. Henry Gibbs Johnson, who before her recent marriage was Miss Betty Gard of Richmond, Va., was honored at a come-and-sit tea Saturday evening by Mrs. J. L. Dozier, Mrs. J. W. Jefferson and Mrs. C. L. Owens at the home of Mrs. Dozier, all of Fountain, N. C.

Upon arrival the guests were greeted by Mrs. Dozier and bride, and invited into the dining-room by Mrs. Jefferson, where Mrs. Hardy Johnson poured punch. Mrs. Owens and Miss Martha Hardy Johnson assisted in serving. The table was covered with a grass linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of mixed flowers in pastel colors, and flanked by tall pink tapers in silver candelabra.

The house was decorated in cut flowers, potted plants and magnolia leaves.

The hostesses presented their honored guest a corsage of pink rose buds, and crystal in her chosen pattern.

During the evening the guests played bingo, and winners were Mrs. Hardy Johnson, Miss Martha Hardy Johnson, Mrs. E. C. Moseley, Mrs. E. B. Beasley, Jr., Mrs. Gibbs Johnson, Mrs. F. L. Eagles and Mrs. J. W. Reddick.

Forty guests enjoyed the hospitality of the hostesses.

Lector Book Club Has First Meeting With Mrs. MacKenzie

The Lector Book club held its first meeting of the year on Tuesday at 3:00. Mrs. Ray MacKenzie was hostess at her home on Rotary Avenue to thirteen club members and several guests.

Upon their arrival Mrs. MacKenzie served a dessert course. The living room was attractive with fall flowers and on the table in the dining room, a bowl of fruit added an autumnal touch.

Following the refreshment hour, Mrs. MacKenzie, vice president, presided over the brief business session in the absence of the president, Mrs. Holly Van Dyke. The treasurer, Mrs. L. W. Gaylord, Jr., and the secretary, Mrs. Charles Flanagan, were called on for reports.

Mrs. MacKenzie, who also had charge of the program, presented as the attraction for the afternoon two Negro students from the Epps high school, who offered several musical selections. Polly King sang three numbers, "Summertime," by George Gershwin, "Lord's Prayer" by Maurice Strakosky, and an obligato arrangement of Schubert's "Ave Maria." She was accompanied at the piano by William Earl Myers.

After this enjoyable program, new books were presented and distributed.

Mrs. MacKenzie had as her guests Mrs. Hill Horne, Sr., Mrs. Carter Bell and Mrs. O. Y. Kirkpatrick.

Mrs. N. O. Warren Entertains For Dorothy Suggs Ormond

On Monday afternoon at four o'clock, Mrs. N. O. Warren graciously entertained about 20 members of the younger set as a compliment to Miss Dorothy Suggs Ormond, whose wedding will take place on October 14.

Mrs. Warren and Miss Ormond welcomed the guests at the door. The entrance hall and living room were informally decorated with arrangements of red and white flowers in containers placed on the mantel and side tables.

In the dining room a green and white bridal theme was used in table appointments. The dining room table was centered with white mums and green fern, flanked on either side by antique candelabra holding white tapers and epergnes, from which trailed graceful white and green floral arrangements. On the buffet more of the same flowers were used in a lovely antique epergne.

Seated at one end of the table was Mrs. E. G. Flanagan, Sr., who poured coffee for the guests. Mrs. Charles Flanagan assisted the hostess in serving hors d'oeuvres, canapes, ham biscuits, and sweet delicacies.

Miss Ormond wore a handsome corsage made of red roses and was remembered with a gift from the hostess of antique ash trays.

Wesleyan Service Guild No. 2 Meets

The Wesleyan Service Guild Circle No. 2 met on Monday night with Miss Jane Hadley at her home on Evans street.

Mrs. Margaret Farley, president, presided over the business meeting, which Miss Ann Askew presented a very inspiring devotional, using as her text verses 9-13 from the fifth chapter of Ecclesiastes. She used one of Fulton Ousler's modern parables as illustrative material.

Following the business session Miss Jane Hadley introduced Miss Laura Bell, who reviewed the book currently so popular, "Mr. Jones Meets the Master," by Dr. Peter Marshall, Dr. Marshall, who served as Senate chaplain for two years, published this book, which is a collection of inspirational prayers and sermons, shortly before his death. Miss Bell read many helpful excerpts from it in giving her review.

At the conclusion of the meeting a delicious dessert course was served. Assisting Miss Hadley as hostesses were Mrs. Morgan Fambrough and Mrs. W. W. Gainey.

Ruth Butterfield Becomes Bride Of Alton Thomas In Formal Rites

Evansville, Indiana — Green in various shades was combined effectively with white for all details of the wedding Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock in which Miss Ruth Dyer Butterfield and Alton Wells Thomas pledged their marriage vows in First Presbyterian church. The same theme of green and white was used in the gowns of the bridal party and in the decorations of the church and of the Evansville Country club, where the reception was held. Dr. Matthew C. Cavell officiated in the presence of a distinguished assemblage, which filled the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Butterfield, Lincoln avenue, and Mr. Thomas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Thomas, Farmville, N. C.

Ralph Waterman, organist, played preceding the ceremony. "At Dawning," "Liebestraum," "Pomp and Circumstance," and Robert Ledbetter sang "Ich Liebe Dich" and "Because"; and during the ceremony he sang The Lord's Prayer. As the vows were pledged Mr. Waterman played "Oh Perfect Love" on the chimes, which were a gift of Mrs. Azro Dyer, the bride's great-grandmother.

Other music played while the guests were arriving at the candle-lighted church included "Traumeri," "Romance," and "Clair de Lune."

The bride, who was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, had as her maid of honor her sister, Miss Mary Butterfield, and her matron of honor was the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Robert Doorley of Wilmington, N. C.

Her bridesmaids were Mrs. Hugh Poynter Nicholas and Miss Jane Walker, of Evansville; Miss Frances Sheridan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; a Columbia university classmate, and Miss Diana Hag, Highland Park, Ill., a Pi Beta Phi society sister.

Mr. Doorley was the best man for his brother-in-law, and ushers were George P. Nichol, Bill Butterfield, brother of the bride, Roy Cobb, Hugh Poynter Nicholas, Joseph Marquette of Evansville, Nils Sellman, Scarsdale, N. Y., and William Pollard, Farmville, N. C.

Walls of the sanctuary about the altar were screened with arrangements of greenery among which were placed tall baskets of white mums and white clusters of chrysanthemums, the whole illumined by them.

Pews for the families and out-of-town guests were marked with clusters of mums tied with white satin ribbon.

The bride wore a classical wedding gown of heavy antique candlelight satin. The fitted bodice was made with a mandarin collar and at the front were four small insets of hand applique lace and seed pearls.

The skirt, which was draped into a three-yard train, had long insets of the lace and pearls at both sides, with another gracefully draped at the front. With it she wore a Brussels lace veil which she bought during the summer while the Butterfield family was touring Europe. Her flowers were a round bouquet of white cluster chrysanthemums and a cascade of ribbons and chrysanthemums.

Gowns of the attendants were alike, those of the maid of honor and the matron of honor being in dynamic green and those of the bridesmaids in moss green. The front panels were of faille and the back was of satin, falling into a small train. A detail of folds at the neckline and at the hips were the only decorations. Their head-dresses were of stiff gold veiling.

Miss Butterfield and Mrs. Doorley carried cascade bouquets of cluster chrysanthemums in shades of bronze to yellow. The maids carried similarly designed bouquets in different shades.

Mrs. Butterfield, the mother of the bride, wore a gown of sand crepe fashioned with loose flowing panels and trimmed with bronze beads. It was made with short sleeves and round neckline, and the skirt's soft folds fell into a short train. Her corsage was of green cymbidiums.

Mrs. Thomas wore a Madame Barnes original of corn blue imported lace over heavy blue silk. Her flowers were pink cymbidiums.

The reception at the Evansville Country club followed immediately. A note of yellow was introduced on the buffet table, which was done in yellow and gold. The cake table was outlined with smilax and a profusion of white ball-shaped chrysanthemums continued the white and green theme.

During the reception Tommy Wood played organ music, bridal airs and favorite music of the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas have gone to Sea Island, Ga., for their honeymoon. For traveling the bride wore a beige suit, with blouse of Brussels lace and a tricorne hat of velvet in a matching shade. She wore a brilliant red topper with very full swing back and softly cuffed sleeves.

They will reside in Canton, Ohio where Mr. Thomas, a ceramic engineer, is associated with the Ferro Enamel Corp.

The bride is a graduate of Bosse high school and Purdue university, where she majored in home economics. During the past year she has been working toward a master's degree at the New York School of Social Work, Columbia university. She is a member of the Junior Service League and of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

Mr. Thomas, who formerly was with Servel, Inc., is a graduate of North Carolina State college. He is a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity and of Kermas, a professional fraternity.

The Soviet position isn't difficult to understand. The sweeping success of the United Nations intervention in Korea has caused communism a serious loss of face—and that is a mighty important item in Asia. This Red setback is likely to encourage resistance among other Asiatic countries which lie in the path of the Communist steamroller.

In short, this isn't a propitious development for the Soviet bloc as communism shifts the weight of its world drive to the Asiatic theatre.

Moreover, as it mentioned in yesterday's column, apart from the political aspect of the situation, the status of Korea is important to both Russia and China strategically. This historic peninsula has its base against both Manchuria and Russian territory and its control by a hostile power could be embarrassing, to say the least.

Moscow is said to be particularly worried for fear America may establish control over this peninsula which lies so close in the north to the great Soviet naval base of Vladivostok.

Rehabilitation Movie Is Shown

By WYATT BROWN

The Greenville Rotarians were afforded a glimpse at the joint state federal rehabilitation program for handicapped workers when the movie "Comeback" was exhibited at their meeting last night. Miss Mary McCrary, employment counselor for the Employment Security Commission, spoke briefly on fitting the handicapped worker into industry and business by proper conditioning, training and job integration.

Miss McCrary made it clear that the commission is not interested in placing handicapped workers just this week but every week in the year as well as this week, set aside for the handicapped. She also said industry had found handicapped workers steeper and more dependable than some others.

Guests of the club were Tommy Sparks and Junior Rotarian Zack Taft. Visiting Rotarians were J. B. Haney of Oxford and Lee Grutch of Graham. The program was presented by Beecher Flanagan, chairman of the Program Committee. Floyd Hendrix, club president, presided.

Demo Leaders Stop In Marion

Marion, N.C., Oct. 4—(AP)—North Carolina's Democratic party leaders were scheduled to speak here today in the second of a series of political rallies.

At the first stop at Sylva yesterday, Gov. Kerr Scott reviewed progress in western North Carolina during the past 25 years. He told his audience that North Carolina would be first in good highways, electricity, communications and other improvements if the voters would stand by him and his programs.

Building . . .

York City, 950 feet.

Happening to be in Atlanta the other day, I went to see the 1,087 foot beauty there. Besides being unusual in size, it is unusual in location. Instead of being out in the country, the tower stands on a knoll beside some railroad tracks only a mile or so northeast of the center of the business district.

It is quite an experience to stand a couple of blocks away from the structure and let your eye sweep up from the base to the top (also it exerts the neck muscles).

Like the WKY Antenna in Oklahoma City, the Atlanta tower stands slim and pencil-like—no tapering like the Eiffel tower—and is supported by guy wires.

Up to the 800 foot level it is three sided, 14 feet on a side, with a small elevator for the use of repairmen. Above that is the Antenna, slenderer than the tower, and no doubt windier for the repairmen.

Plan Court Plea On Rate Hikes

Raleigh, N.C., Oct. 4—(AP)—Some towns opposed to rate increases recently granted the Tide Water Power Company plan taking their protests to court.

So the Utilities Commission, which granted the rate increase, was formally notified yesterday.

Attorneys for the towns of Beaufort, Bayboro, and Whiteville served notice an appeal would be entered.

Smoking Heater Brings Firemen

Greenville firemen were called to the home of Elbert Bennett, 212 Meade Street, this morning about 8:20 when an oil heater became flooded. No damage resulted, firemen reported. The stove was giving off large amounts of smoke when the faulty unit was first noticed. Firemen again cautioned the people of Greenville to check their heating units before using them to make sure they are in good condition.

Brazil Awaiting Slow Count Of Election Ballots

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Oct. 4—(AP)—Brazil resumed full business activity today and waited for the slow counting of yesterday's national election ballots to outline the shape of its future government.

The three leading presidential candidates included former Dictator Getulio Vargas, who came to power through a revolution in 1930 and retained it by junking the constitution and setting up a one-man state until ousted by the army in 1945.

Vargas' chief opponents were Cristiano Machado, a pharmacist-lawyer politician far less known but backed by the powerful government political machine, and Air Force Gen. Eduardo Gomes.

SEEKING WITH THE EYES OF GOD
Benjamin Franklin was one of the greatest men our country has produced. His personal conduct, however—as his autobiography amply discloses—left much to be desired. The good old doctor behaved himself a little better as he grew older, but he was never afflicted with any too much piety. He was shrewd, sensible in many respects, gifted with a rare penetration of mind and possessing a capacity for the practical which amounted to genius.

When he came to the end of his life and looked back over the years, Franklin decided that his life was like a book with a few mistakes here and there, but nothing terribly serious. He took the attitude that if he could live his life over again, he would like to have his life issued in an enlarged and more beautiful edition, with certain mistakes carefully noted and corrected.

Franklin was the ancestor of that great mass of our fellow countrymen today who believe that their lives are not so bad after all. They might be better here and there, and a few minor vices might profitably be corrected. But on the whole, life as they live it is pretty satisfactory.

Against such an attitude the Bible from beginning to end makes continuous and firm protest. It bids us be realistic with the eyes of God.

Pitt County On Parade

Pitt county is on parade this week at the annual American Legion fair. And there is no question about the parade of progress in the county's agricultural advancement which is displayed at the fair.

The livestock exhibit is indeed a credit not only to the fair itself, but to the whole county. Last year the county had one of the most successful swine shows in the state, and the livestock show this year promises to be just as successful. The exhibits of the Home Demonstration clubs, the 4-H clubs and the FFA organizations point to better farming methods and better living conditions on the farms.

The fair is for entertainment, sure. No one will deny that. But there are plenty of educational exhibits at the Pitt county fair this year which are well worth seeing. They indeed show Pitt county's agricultural parade.

A Good Appointment By The Commissioners

The Pitt county commissioners yesterday made a good appointment in naming John G. Clark of Greenville chairman of the board of trustees of the Pitt County Memorial hospital to fill the unexpired term of C. Stuart Carr whose resignation as chairman of the board has been accepted.

Clark has worked closely with Carr on the planning of the hospital, and is familiar with the construction work which has been done on the hospital building since it was started over a year ago. Not only has Clark been in close touch with the new Pitt County Memorial hospital since construction work began on the building, but he and Carr were probably the two men who were the most instrumental in urging the people of Pitt county to support the special bond election in September, 1947, which made the hospital possible.

In appointing Clark chairman of the board of trustees of the hospital, the commissioners have again named to head the group a man who since the beginning of the movement for the hospital has shown a keen interest in the project.

Have Farsighted Plans Been Lazily Ignored?

The National Production Authority's priority order, requiring every industrial plant to accept military orders—and fill them on time—ahead of any civilian work, is only one of many such in the over-all program being prepared. Just what the next step will be, nobody seems to know.

We understand that a war mobilization plan, based on past experiences and intended to avoid past mistakes was either in the making or already prepared by a specially appointed board. What happened to this plan? Work on that preparedness program was supposed to have started shortly after the close of World War II.

Has the carefully formulated work of that board been scrapped? We have little confidence in this seeming improvisation in a matter so vital.

Then there was a board established to acquire stockpiles of strategic materials, that this country would not be caught short in the event of emergency. This board was also set up shortly after the close of World War II; governmental officials said they would not be caught napping.

Maybe we were wrong, but we had a notion that a secondary aim of this stockpiling in years of peace was to collect the necessary items at a more economical level than possible in times of stress.

At the time of the outbreak in Korea little had been accomplished in this direction. Fortunately, the emergency was not of a degree to strain our resources at hand. Nonetheless, the nervous atmosphere it inspired was responsible for skyrocketing prices in strategic materials. At least one purpose of the stockpiling board was spoiled by its slowness in fulfilling an assigned task.

These examples of how the preparedness program has been carried out are not what we would expect in the light of presumed wisdom gained by experiences of a few short years ago.

We trust these traits are not evident in other aspects of national preparedness. . . . Someone has been courting trouble if similar failures exist in more administrative branches. It's the public who pays, and pays high, when farsighted planning comes to naught.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—President Truman will ask for an additional ten or fifteen billion dollars in annual taxes in his opening message to the November-December session of Congress if he accepts the advice of his top economic advisers.

This amount will be in addition to the $4,700,000,000 levy imposed a few weeks ago, and also in addition to a prospective $4,000,000,000 excess profits impost. It will boost the annual tax burden on the American people to between $50,000,000,000 and $60,000,000,000 a year, or about one quarter of our national income.

That sum will pay for both the ordinary expenses of the government, for a $30,000,000,000 annual rearmament program and for both economic and military aid to Europe.

ADVOCATE—The principal advocate of these burdensome taxes and all-out controls is Leon H. Keyserling, the youngish and radical chairman of the President's Economic Council of Advisers. Despite recent reports to the contrary, Chairman Keyserling is President Truman's most trusted adviser.

Mr. Keyserling wants to finance war expenditures for the next three or five years, at an annual rate of about $30,000,000,000, on a pay-as-you-go basis.

He wants no spectacular increase in the public debt, which is about $287,000,000,000, lest it create the impression abroad, and especially in Russia and the Iron Curtain countries, that the United States is "going broke."

For political reasons, mainly the election of a Democratic Congress next month, Mr. Truman has not taken or acted on the Keyserling demand for immediate imposition of higher taxes and wage-price controls.

But he will give out the bad news from the White House within a few days after next month's election.

ATTACK—President Truman's personal and political attack on former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes is so violent and contrary to the diplomatic facts that Mr. T. may yet repudiate the author of the book containing the diatribes against the South Carolinian, who happens to be the candidate for Governor in that state.

Mr. Truman, however, can hardly throw down Jonathan Daniels, the author of the sensational book and a grand reporter.

Jonathan got his stuff from the "horse's mouth," as we say in the newspaper game when our information comes from on high. Harry Truman was the co-author of Jonathan's book.

INACCURATE—But what an inaccurate and untrustworthy co-author Mr. Truman was, in view of these known facts:

Jonathan quotes President Truman as saying that Mr. Byrnes, then Secretary of State, "ran out on him (Mr. Truman) and surrendered to Russia."

Never was there such a distortion of history, as proved by postwar books by Franklin D. Roosevelt's and Harry Truman's own friends.

In 1945 negotiations at Moscow, it was former Secretary Byrnes who arranged for General MacArthur to have full command in Japan as representative of the Allies and the United States.

It was Mr. Byrnes who, in making settlements for the satellite countries, insisted on and obtained guarantees of civil and religious liberties.

Those are two of Mr. Truman's chief accusations against his erstwhile Senatorial buddy.

INSIDE—"Jimmie" Byrnes argued for a far stronger stand against Stalin than Mr. Truman took until several years after Mr. Byrnes resigned as Secretary of State.

Mr. Truman got his erroneous dope on Stalin from men like W. Averell Harriman, his present Chief of Staff for Foreign Affairs.

Here is the inside, personal background of the Truman-Byrnes feud, and it does no credit to the man in the White House:

When they served together in the Senate, Mr. Truman hero-worshipped Mr. Byrnes, who was a Roosevelt leader and spokesman, and one of the smartest political operators on Capitol Hill in many years.

COMPLEX—Save for what he learned from the late Tom Pendergast, his criminal political sponsor in Missouri, Mr. Truman owes most of his knowledge of Washington affairs to the South Carolinian. So he has a deep inferiority complex with respect to Mr. Byrnes, as he does toward such men as Bernard M. Baruch, Jesse H. Jones and George C. Marshall. Mr. Truman went to Chicago in 1944 to nominate Mr. Byrnes as Vice President but the CIO turned thumbs down on "Jimmie."

So, as an erstwhile Senatorial conservative when he sat alongside his hero from Spartanburg, S.C., President Truman has a bad conscience about James F. Byrnes, because he, Harry, has gone so leftist for vote getting reasons alone.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

With the number of servicemen in the country mounting daily, it's interesting to see a report on the opinion Uncle Sam's sailors have of a few of America's cities, liberty-wise. Leonard Reed, a reporter for Pageant Magazine, interviewed 200 sailors with an average time-in of six years to see which towns they like best to spend-free time in.

Closest home to us is Norfolk, Va., which the sailors agreed is without a doubt the worst liberty town in the Western Hemisphere. Although Navy dollars keep the city's business in the black, the local citizens are said to begrudge even the drinking water they have to share. After midnight you can get whisky only at private clubs, where you have to buy a whole bottle, then pay for it at fifty cents a drink. The sailors ask, "Can you call that being friendly?"

The sailors have a better opinion of New York City: "Manhattan is the island we'd like most to be shipwrecked on. It's way ahead of any place else, because it has everything that any other port has—and more of it. The people here don't resent visitors because they know you're going to like their town. Besides, it's a big-time operation. You wire a hotel in advance, and by the time you hit port, they've got your whole liberty mapped out for you, including show tickets. At the Polo Grounds a serviceman still can get to see a ball game by just paying the federal tax. In this town we even love the police—they get you out of trouble instead of into it."

Boston is reportedly a stiff town, but not in the eyes of the Navy: "You can spend a lot of time here without ever running into those guys that censor books. It's a wide-open city, and they tell us the burlesque shows are good. But Boston, itself, is only part of the story. It's the gateway to lively towns like Lynn, Lowell, Cambridge and Newton. More bars, bowling alleys, roller-skating rinks, beaches and women per square foot than any other part of the country. And if you don't find what you want, you board a bus and in ten minutes you're in another town."

Washington, D.C. rates No. 5 with the sailors: "This isn't strictly a seaport, but it's close enough to get a high rating among liberty towns. Bless our nation's capital, for it has more unattached women than a bosh could blow his whistle at. Washington may be expensive to live in, but for sight-seeing it's the best value in the country. And you never feel as if you've invaded a private club, because here is one city that knows it belongs to all visiting firemen." And I thank Pageant.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN MISSETT Raleigh, N. C.

(Your reporter asked C. A. Upchurch, Jr., director of the malt beverage division of the state ABC board, how his agency was getting along. He started to talking. The reporter suggested he write the story. Abie said he would, and here it is as he wrote it.)

BONANZA—In about six weeks, North Carolina counties and municipalities that permit the legal sale of beer will get something over $2,000,000 as their share of the State beer tax for the year ended September 30.

In the meantime, Revenue Department mathematicians will figure exactly the per capita share of each county and municipality, and by Thanksgiving the checks will be in the mails. The local units that permit the legal sale of beer get half of the State's take on the crown tax. Last year their share was $2,000,210. They'll probably get a little more this year, and a welcomed addition it is, too, to local treasuries hard-pressed by rising costs and static revenues.

CONTROL—Counties and towns that do not permit the legal sale of beer will get nothing—not even, of course, local license fees. That doesn't mean that beer isn't sold in those counties. Bootleg beer is sold in every county that has voted out legal sales, but local governments get nothing from it except headaches.

The mayor of a bustling town recently said more people were selling beer there than before the protection afforded. Banks pay in proportion to their deposits.

The bank holiday of 1933 and conditions which lay behind it are fresh in the memory of many business people and others. Most of the banks of the country became insolvent or closed their doors to avoid it as the great depression scraped bottom in those dark days.

One of the very first acts of Franklin D. Roosevelt when he became President in March, 1933, was to close all banks, regardless of their condition. The holiday continued for a week or ten days, and only those which could meet solvency tests were permitted to reopen. Then came the FDIC, which has done more to instill confidence of the public in their financial institutions than anything else, Roosevelt did a great many things which we never could and do not even yet appreciate.

Carolina's State tax is $7.50 per barrel, exceeded in the nation only by South Carolina's $13.95 and Louisiana's $10.

The 10 states leading in beer consumption have an average tax of $1.29. The 10 states with the lowest beer consumption average $5.12. For some reason, the South drinks comparatively little beer—about one-fourth of the gallonage poured down the hatch in the 10 leading states.

ENFORCEMENT—Before the Malt Beverage Division came into being in May of 1949, such enforcement of the beer laws as was done was carried out by local officers. It's no secret that enforcement was virtually non-existent in many communities and counties. Many officers, and even some local judges and solicitors, did not know the basic provisions of the laws covering beer.

Our Division was set up to exercise strict State control over wholesale and retail beer dealers. But, contrary to what some law enforcement agents think, we aren't supposed to do it all. Our law officer of his responsibility in enforcing laws governing beer sales. They have the same law we have; our work was meant to augment theirs not supplant it.

FUTURE—Right now there are 6,100 beer retailers in North Carolina. Their places are continually being checked by our 26 inspectors, and our rate of suspensions or revocations runs about 50 a month.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

SECURITY FOR $10,000 (Henderson Daily Dispatch)
Banks throughout the country have increased to $10,000 their Federal insurance of deposits. This is double the amount of $5,000 which was underwritten by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation under the banking act of 1933, and is made possible by the excellent record of solvency achieved by financial institutions in the last seventeen years.

Depositors in banks do, or should, know that this service is not free, except to them. It is extended to banks which buy it by payments to the FDIC annually of insurance premiums. The government assumes very little risk, though, since it keeps a close check on all member banks as to their securities and their management, both of which must measure up to certain standards that permit them to qualify for the protection afforded.

The bank holiday of 1933 and conditions which lay behind it are fresh in the memory of many business people and others. Most of the banks of the country became insolvent or closed their doors to avoid it as the great depression scraped bottom in those dark days.

One of the very first acts of Franklin D. Roosevelt when he became President in March, 1933, was to close all banks, regardless of their condition. The holiday continued for a week or ten days, and only those which could meet solvency tests were permitted to reopen. Then came the FDIC, which has done more to instill confidence of the public in their financial institutions than anything else, Roosevelt did a great many things which we never could and do not even yet appreciate.

Now, because of the near perfect record of banks as to solvency, Congress has seen fit to commit the government to deposit guarantees double the former amount, which increases the confidence of the public in the safety of surplus funds. Relatively speaking, there are few accounts that exceed the limit of the new guarantee, and that makes bank deposits generally as secure as the Federal government.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
The importance of skillful selling of related items to increase profits is emphasized in a new "Small Business Aid" published by the Department of Commerce.

While the selling of related items seems so fundamental in retailing that it scarcely needs to be mentioned, a recent check by the American Druggist in 100 stores in 25 cities found only five salespersons suggesting the purchase of other items.

The Department of Commerce, out of much that has been written on the subject, distilled these eight suggestions for employers to urge upon salespersons—or use themselves:

1. Acquire a good knowledge of the merchandise you handle and all other merchandise in the store. This will help you to suggest purchases of appropriate related items.
2. Take a sincere interest in the customer. Try to place yourself in her position so as to realize better what she might want or need, and then help her to buy it. For instance, if she is buying stockings, remind her to get two or three pairs exactly alike. Then, if she snags and ruins one, she can pair its mate with other stockings.
3. When suggesting additional purchases, do so in a confident, pleasing manner, using positive expressions, such as "You may like some to go with this" or "Have you seen this?" Don't say "Is there anything else?" A negative question generally brings forth a negative answer.
4. Capture the customer's interest by demonstrating or displaying the suggested merchandise, handling it with extreme care and appreciation. Get the customer to handle and examine it, too, and show or tell him how he will benefit by buying it.
5. Suggest related items after the customer has decided on the main purchase, but before you have written up the sale or accepted the customer's money.
6. Do not suggest too many articles or you may antagonize or confuse the customer.
7. Avoid high-pressure selling. Do not persist in suggesting an article if the customer obviously does not want it. You may sell the article, but lose the customer's future business.
8. Do not suggest additional items to customers who evidently are in a hurry. And don't make suggestions if you can think of no good reason why the customer should want what you suggest.

Those suggestions are worth pasting on the door of every salesperson's locker.

"SUGGESTION SELLING" IS OFFICIAL NOW
There is a difference of opinion as to whether selling related items is "suggestion" or "suggestive" selling.

Some of the more proper business papers always refer to "suggestion selling," on the theory that "suggestive selling" is how they sell tickets to the Harlem Dancers at county fairs. Retailers themselves usually speak of "suggestive selling." But the government leaflet quoted above calls it "suggestion selling."

REAL INCOME SEEN UP 6 PERCENT
While the cost of living has gone up, cash incomes have risen faster, says a report by Investors Diversified Services, Minneapolis. Its economists calculate that the typical consumer today has $1.06 in real income for each $1 in buying power at this time last year.

BUSINESS RULINGS UP TO SUPREME COURT
Part of the future of business will be determined by the reconvened Supreme Court. Commerce Clearing House points out that it has 300 appeals pending, many of which affect the conduct of business.

Among the questions before the court are how far state governments can go in taxing interstate business, the constitutionality of the second boycott provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act, and certain powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

NON-FOOD USE BOOSTS CAN PRODUCTION
Can production has shot up enormously, but most of the increase is due to the greater use of cans for other things than food.

Can production in the first half of this year was the approximate equivalent of 12,880,000,000 No. 2 cans, according to the American Can Co. That is 1,580,000,000 more than in the same period in 1949. Cans for non-food use in the first half of this year totaled 5,020,000,000, a gain of 1,062,000,000.

Hal Boyle's Column

With ROK forces in Red Korea —(AP)—A tall young Texan had the honor of being the first American to cross into Red North Korea with troops from the Republic of Korea (ROK).

Capt. William R. Williams of Texarkana drove over the parallel 38 border Sunday right behind the leading ROK soldiers.

His jeep flew two flags—those of the Republic and of Nationalist China.

And the captain apologizes to Texas for not having a Lone Star state flag along.

"They're a little hard to find this far north," he said.

Williams explained that one of his South Korean bodyguards had picked up the Chinese Nationalist flag and hoisted it on the jeep.

Williams is an American advisory officer with Lt. Col. Kim Jung Sun, commander of a regiment of the Third ROK Division that led the march across the frontier into the enemy's country.

The regiment stopped Saturday night at Chumunjin. This is a small port on the Sea of Japan coast about 12 miles south of 38, the line that for five years has divided 10,000,000 Koreans under Communist domination in the north from the 20,000,000 ruled by the UN-sponsored republic.

"We moved out Sunday morning at 5:30," Williams said. "Colonel Kim estimated we would reach 38 at noon. But we got there a little early and crossed at 11:45."

"The ROKS sent a platoon on ahead. It went more than a mile beyond the border and then ran into a fire-fight with some North Koreans. It was only small arms fire, machineguns and rifles, but the area is heavily fortified. So the platoon pulled back."

A reconnaissance patrol then went out and boldly cleared a network of wooden anti-personnel mines—they blew off a leg if stepped on. The withdrawing Reds had placed them around barbed wire guarding a chain of hill trenches, concrete bunkers and camouflaged pillboxes just north of the frontier.

Even a small stubborn enemy force in such strong fortifications might have delayed the advance for days. But the rearward Reds had had enough. Most of them slipped away overnight.

"We attacked again in force at 8:30 Monday morning and met very little resistance—just a few isolated pockets," said Williams.

Within four hours the ROKS had entered and taken Yangyang, the first North Korean town in its path. It lies five miles north of 38 and the Reds had honeycombed its streets with sandbags and ditches. But they didn't stick to these ditches long either.

"We took the town with just a few rounds of fire—and we didn't pick up many prisoners," said Williams. "There hasn't been any mass surrender on this march."

Williams praised the endurance of ROK foot troops, who have been advancing steadily for 15 days. Since jumping off from the Pohang port area Sept. 19 they have come about 276 miles. Williams said most of them made the journey on tennis shoes rather than trucks.

"One day they went 39 miles," he said. "I never saw anything like it."

Williams took a souvenir from the empty enemy command post in Yangyang. It was a photograph of about 70 newly graduated young North Korean army officers.

In the center of the group sat a big, unsmiling Russian in uniform.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — Neither his family, the Library of Congress nor even the Pentagon—could understand how the soft-spoken librarian ever became commander of a tank battalion.

But Tennessee-born Willard Webb, 46, slight, prematurely silver-haired, left his job as chief of the library's stack and reader division to command tank forces in the Pacific during World War II. He participated in assault landings at Leyte and Okinawa and became a lieutenant colonel.

The colonel is back on his job at the library—soft spoken as ever—but he still commands a reserve battalion.

Col. Webb is responsible for some 1,000,000 books. He is responsible for the comfort and welfare of those who use the books, for administration of the reading rooms, for private rooms for scholars, researchers and others, for entertainment of important guests. He keeps two guest books on his desk. One he bound himself in chamois. The other is a gift from an Italian prince. They are filled with autographs of persons from all over the world.

People from 45 states and 19 foreign countries used the special facilities of the library for study and research last year. Of the 225 private rooms, some 139 were used by the Defense Department, 133 by members of Congress and other government agencies. About 109 university and 200 other non-governmental people made use of the rooms and reserve shelves.

Colonel Webb started as a messenger at the library in March 1928. He planned to leave in June to return to the University of Virginia to study engineering. Instead he stayed on and studied nights at George Washington University here. He is a man of many hobbies and talents. A student of the Civil War, he was once found on Okinawa oblivious of a battle that had raged for two hours (they were breaking the Shuri line) as he read of cavalry actions on the Mississippi in 1864.

The colonel lives with his wife, Margaret, and sons Thomas, 18, a student at the Virginia Military Institute, and Willard Clark, 13, on a 30-acre farm 30 miles from the capital at Clinton, Va. He commutes with Willard, who attends high school in Washington.

DOUBLE WEDDING

Chapter 16
"If you want to know what I think of such an idea," Stephanie said, "I think you are just talking."
Her mother was still staring at the closed door. The expression on her lovely face was almost comical. "I also think," her daughter went on, using the severe tone a parent

"Yes, gently. Going on and on about turning the shop over to him, letting him run it without you, making the whole thing so sudden and casual. It was cruel, Mother—that's what it was—cruel."
"Cruel?" Mayo repeated. "I certainly didn't mean to be cruel, darling."
"Smitty loves you."
"Of course he loves me. I love him, too. Didn't I say he is a part of our family, a very real part, like a—"
"An old piece of furniture," her daughter broke in. "That's a fine way to love a person. Do you suppose any man would want to be loved like that?"
"I can't imagine him walking out. While I was talking, Stammering the door in my face!" That still appeared the main issue for Mayo. "He didn't slam it, but he should have," Stephanie stood by Smitty. "You didn't mean that"—she changed the subject abruptly, leaning forward to clasp her hands about her knees, an interested light in her green eyes now—"about Smitty being in love with me, did you, darling?"
"Why don't you ask Smitty?" her daughter parried.
"He's never said a word or given a sign to me."
"You're his boss, remember?"
"What difference would that make? Smitty certainly doesn't stand in awe of me. You should hear how he bawls me out if I make a mistake."
"You're frightfully fond of Smitty, aren't you, darling?" Once more she switched the subject, her eyes narrowing speculatively.
However, her daughter saw through her this time. "Of course I'm fond of him," she answered. "But if you're thinking of using Smitty in some way to try to manage my life for me—"
"Really, Mother, you simply must get used to the idea that I am grown up. My problems are my own."

I must be left alone to work them out as I think best."
"By the way"—it was Stephanie now who turned the topic of conversation—"I am starting to work the first of next week. I have too much time, not enough to keep me busy."
"Why didn't you come to me?" Stephanie told her briefly about the job Jean had got for her.
"You mean Grant, don't you?"
"Grant did mention the place to me and he did speak to Jean," Stephanie said, color rising in her lovely face. "I'd rather it had not come from him, or Jean, but I couldn't seem to find any sort of job. And I decided to be perfectly honest with Sandy, rather than have him find it out and I'd deceived him as he did about the cottage."
"How did he take it?" Mayo asked.
"Sandy took it very well," Stephanie replied. "He just laughed and said that it was up to me—whatever I did."
"Sandy would," Mayo shrugged her shoulders. "But go ahead, darling, and try this new idea of yours. I doubt if it will solve anything."
"I'm glad you understand, Mother," her daughter said, getting up from where she perched to cross over, lean down, and place a light kiss on Mayo's smooth brow.
"My little girl," Mayo murmured, tenderness flowing over her. Mayo's heart almost burst with the love she felt for her daughter. A savage, primitive sort of mother love. The kind that would claw and fight to shield its young, break any law go to any lengths to give the one she loved happiness.

Service League Favors Building For Health Dept.

The Women's Service League this week went on record as favoring the retention of the Tucker building (Agricultural) for the Health Department as a health center for Pitt county.
In doing so the women's group increased the talk favoring such a project. It was begun at Monday's commissioners meeting when the Board of Health appeared requesting the use of the entire building when other offices therein vacate their quarters.
In a letter addressed to the Pitt County Board of Commissioners and dated Monday, 46 members of the organization signed their names as favoring the request. The letter was in the form of a petition.
The group, as stated in the petition, endorsed the Board's proposition because it has been "closely identified with the Pitt County Health Department more than ten years."
It continued, "As Pitt county citizens, we heartily endorse the movement now under consideration of securing the Tucker building in Greenville . . . as a Pitt County Health Center, thereby bringing the Pitt County Health Department up to date, which will then put Pitt county in line with our progressive neighboring counties such as Greene, Martin, Beaufort, Wayne, etc., which are building new modern health centers."
The petition added that the county can obtain such a center and

"be spared the expense of building by retaining and renovating present quarters."
Australian Asks Destruction Of Red Korea Army
Lake Success, Oct. 3—(AP)—Australian Foreign Minister Percy C. Spender called on the United Nations today for the complete destruction of the North Korean army as a fighting force, to prevent a new aggression in that country.
In a defense of the crossing by South Korean forces of the 38th parallel, Spender told the General Assembly's Political Committee:
"It would be useless if North Korean forces were allowed to remain ready again to threaten South Korea. The bloodshed and destruction of the last months would all have been in vain."

Coach Porter Is Looking For Tougher Basketball Season

"It gets rougher all the time in this league," remarked Coach Howard Porter, Pirate coach, after East Carolina's 1950-51 basketball season ended their second drill yesterday afternoon.

Porter meant North State conference basketball, naturally, as the head basketball mentor looked toward the upcoming season.

About thirty boys reported for the Bucs' first drill Monday afternoon including eight lettermen from last season's fourth place club.

All-conference Forward Sonny Russell, a sophomore from New Bern, led the returning lettermen which include Guards Lou Collins, Len Bauer and Toddy Fennell, giving the Pirates four regulars from last year's starting five.

Missing from last season's quint is towering Jack Everton, 5' 7" scoring ace from Columbia, who has used up all his eligibility.

Other monogram winners are Jim Blake, Roger Thrift, Eddie Tanner and Frank Maennie. Thrift, Tanner and Maennie are presently busy with football drills.

Two sophomores who sparked the 1950 freshman five, Richard Blake and John Postas, will also be on hand for the coming season.

In addition to the above seasoned men, Coach Porter, starting his fifth year here, has some of the most

Enthusiasm Runs High In Pirate Grid Practice

By BILL LLOYD

East Carolina's gridgers went through a spirited workout yesterday as the Pirates prepared for Saturday night's conference tilt with powerful Elon at Burlington.

Enthusiasm ran high in the Pirate camp, with Coach Dole drilling his charges for two and a half hours on pass defense, pass patterns and blocking assignments.

A stop when the whistle blows scrimmage touched off the afternoon schedule.

Coach Dole summed up the Pirate drills and the game to be played Saturday like this:

"The spirit of the squad is fine. We realize we're meeting perhaps the best team in the conference Saturday night when we play Elon, and we'll give the best we've got."

Four players remained on the Pirate injured list yesterday, and did not participate in the workout.

Another Bowling Loop Begins Fall Competition

Carbon League (Day Shift)

Nine Lives	3 0 1,000
Black Cats	3 0 1,000
Penitents	0 3 000
Evereadys	0 3 000

The day shift of the National Carbon bowling league began its fall and winter competition Monday night with two teams stepping out in front with three wins each.

The Nine Lives and the Black Cats, both of which wound up the spring bowling out of the first place money, topped three games apiece to tie up the percentages in the first and second brackets. Nine Lives beat the Penitents while the Cats were taking three from the Evereadys.

The teams this fall have cut their participants to five each instead of the six they used in the spring.

Bill Wells, rolling for the Evereadys, jumped out in front of the rest with a score of 498 for three games. That pushed his entering average up to 166 from 147. He also bowled the highest score for a single game ever recorded in the league with 230. However, he slipped on his other two with scores of 148 and 120.

Right behind him with an average of 162 for the three games was Bill Bryan with 486 for the three.

Princeton Leads Gained Yardage

New York, Oct. 4—(AP)—Princeton, led by Halfback Dick Kazmaier, gained enough yardage walloping Williams in its opening game Saturday to lead the nation in total offense.

The Ivy League team traveled 629 yards in the 66-0 victory, well ahead of Clemson's two game average of 528. Princeton gained 465 yards on the ground and 164 passing. The running figure also put Princeton at the top in that division.

Henrich Ready To Give Up Chance To Manage Yanks

Philadelphia, Oct. 4—(AP)—Because his love for his family is far greater than his love for baseball, Tommy Henrich was prepared today to sacrifice a chance to become manager of the New York Yankees.

The veteran outfielder-first baseman, in a surprise disclosure, declared he had no managerial ambition whatsoever. One of the brainiest and most popular players ever to wear a Yankee uniform, Henrich generally is regarded as Casey Stengel's successor.

Rumored as a certainty to pilot the Yankees in the near future, the 34-year old native of Massillon Ohio has been reported as ready to accept an offer for a managerial post with Kansas City, a farm club of the Yankees, next year.

"Neither the Yankees nor anybody else has offered me any kind of a managerial job," he said. "I wouldn't accept one if it were offered."

"This is the way I look at it," he said. "I've been playing baseball for 17 years. I'm not getting any younger. It's time I began to think of my happiness and the happiness of my family."

"I have a wonderful wife and three children. They mean all the world to me. Sure, I love baseball. Sure I owe it a lot. But I love my family more and I owe more to my family."

Henrich said he'd welcome a job in baseball. "But not one that will keep me away from my family. Being a manager means staying away from home. I don't want that. I've spent seven months out of every year away from my family. That's much too much."

Tommy realizes better than anyone else that his playing days are just about over. He would not be surprised if he learned that he had played his final game. Henrich received a hint of it yesterday when he received the bad news from Stengel that he had been placed on the World Series ineligible list to make room for Johnny Hopp.

Phantoms Relax After Hertford

Greenville's Phantoms took things easy yesterday after their grueling 7-0 win over Hertford in their home opener Monday night.

The boys that participated in the Hertford game worked out light with the accent on running and passing plays, while the Phantom reserves got down to heavy drills.

Coach Farley's eleven plays their second home game in a week here Friday night when they meet Scotland Neck in another non-conference tilt.

Friday's game will be played under the lights of the East Carolina stadium, with the Greenville stalwarts seeking their second win in a week. The Green Phantoms' season record now stands at one win, one loss, and one tie.

Coach Farley was not too impressed with his team's showing Monday night, as the Greenville eleven was pressed for 44 minutes by a determined Perquimans club, before winning on a desperate pass play in the last four minutes.

Farley summed up his team's showing this way, "I thought we messed up a lot of scoring opportunities in the Monday night tilt."

Three airmen from the Keesler Field Air Force base at Biloxi, Miss., perished in this wreckage of a B-25 bomber which crashed in the backyard of a home near the base. The plane plunged to the ground a few minutes after taking off from the field. A war relic helmet on a clothes line post at left gives an eerie touch to the scene of death. The owner happened to place the helmet on the post before the crash. It remained there undisturbed. (AP Wirephoto).

Carnival-Time In Philly As Folks Get Series Craze

Philadelphia, Oct. 4—(AP)—The unveiling of baseball's big show gave this city of two million a carnival atmosphere today as housewives and schoolgirls shared the unbridled enthusiasm of their male counterparts.

From the produce merchants around early morning street fires along the riverfront to women shoppers in the suburbs the principal conversation piece was the World Series.

Philadelphians had waited 19 long years to toast a pennant winner. In the Phillies—National League opponents of the New York Yankees for the world championship—they had that winner.

The downtown streets were festooned with enough red, white and blue bunting for a couple of New Year's eves. Raucous hawkers peddled pennants and souvenirs on every corner. Hardly a store window was without some expression of the series fever.

Hotel lobbies were a seething mass of baseball fans—some fortunate enough to have series tickets in their pockets, others wishing they had. And in the background the ever-present scalpers were asking as much as $150 for a pair of box seat duets.

Every available hotel room was spoken for with a convention of brewmasters adding to the logjam. A murder trial had to be postponed because no hotel rooms were available for the jurors.

Many out-of-town fans were forced to commute between Philadelphia and other cities within striking distance.

The box and reserve seats have been sold out for days in advance. First in line for a $1 bleacher seat was Art Felsch, Milwaukee notions salesman, who set up housekeeping in a cardboard box last Thursday.

State Cagers In Outdoor Contest

Raleigh, Oct. 3—(AP)—N. C. State College's basketball team will bring a new innovation to North Carolina this fall—basketball played out of doors.

Coach Everett Case, in announcing a six-game exhibition schedule yesterday, said his wolfpack would use a portable floor for out of doors games in Bowman Gray Memorial Stadium, Winston-Salem, Oct. 10, and in Memorial Stadium, Charlotte, Oct. 19.

Dyer To Bow Out

Philadelphia, Oct. 4—(AP)—Eddie Dyer will be replaced as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, the Associated Press learned today.

Dyer's successor will not be chosen from among the present members of the Red Birds. But it definitely will be a man in the Cardinal organization, a reliable source revealed.

Speculation as to Dyer's dismissal has been going on for several months, ever since the sale of Pitcher Jim Hearn to the New York Giants. Rumors had either Card Coach Terry Moore or Shortstop Marty Marion replacing the genial oil man from Texas.

Passing Game In Store For Terps

Richmond, Va., Oct. 4—(AP)—University of Maryland Football Coach Jim Tatum is a fellow who can take a hint.

Tatum noticed two weeks ago that Oregon State talked both its touchdowns against Michigan State's Spartans by passing.

Nor did it escape Tatum last weekend that Michigan's mighty Wolverines got their only score against the Spartans by passing, too.

Governing himself accordingly, Tatum today was getting ready to launch a concerted attack by air when his Maryland Terps tangled with the potent Spartans next Saturday at East Lansing, Mich.

Tatum has the material to do the job. Passes set up the Terps' only score when they were upset by Georgia. Two of Maryland's five touchdowns against Navy last weekend came on tosses by John Seabath.

It's no secret that Maryland will pass plenty in an attempt to enhance its national prestige at the expense of Michigan State. The Spartans are ranked as the nation's No. 2 team right behind Notre Dame. In contrast, Maryland is rated no better than 26th, mainly because of the Georgia fiasco.

Eleven Quakers Cloudy Day For Series Opener

Annapolis, Md. —(AP)—Navy's football team includes players from 20 states, with Pennsylvania heading the list with 11. There are four players from Illinois on the Middle roster. Three players are from New Jersey; two from Colorado, New York, North Carolina, Texas, Ohio and California and one each from Virginia, Arkansas, Maryland, Massachusetts, Nebraska, South Dakota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Missouri and Rhode Island.

Philadelphia, Oct. 4—(AP)—A wan sun peeped through scudding clouds over Philadelphia this morning, backing up the Weather Bureau forecast of "rather cloudy and windy" for the first game of the 1950 World Series.

The day started out on the cool side for October, with the temperature around 60 degrees. An afternoon high of 68 was predicted.

Domestic Problems Reclaiming Attention In Campaign Drives

Washington, Oct. 4—(AP)—Domestic problems began to reclaim attention in the congressional campaign today as military victory tended to diminish the Korean war as a political issue.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), who has been contending the Truman administration's "blunders" invited the Korean communist attack, shifted to a denunciation of the Brannan farm plan.

In a weekly report to his Ohio voters, Taft said the Brannan plan—which would provide direct government subsidies to growers of

Hurricane Heads Into Open Sea

Miami, Fla., Oct. 4—(AP)—Bermuda and the Carolina coast relaxed today as a small but severe hurricane turned northward and sped up the open Atlantic.

The season's seventh hurricane, packing winds up to 100 miles an hour, near the center, passed to the west of Bermuda and picked up forward speed as it veered northward well off the South Carolina coast.

Grady Norton, chief storm forecaster at Miami, said the hurricane would clear all land south of Cape Hatteras and might even swing wide of Long Island and the New England coast.

It was whirling northward about 12 to 14 miles per hour with indications the forward speed would increase even more from the nine miles per hour of yesterday.

Rain squalls lashed Bermuda as the hurricane passed to the west of the resort islands.

At 4:30 a.m. (EST), the hurricane was about 460 miles southeast of Norfolk, Va. A slow turn to a more northeasterly course was expected.

Squally weather hit the lower Texas coast as a squall wave moved across the western Gulf of Mexico.

At 4:30 a.m. (EST), the disturbance was about 140 miles south of Brownsville, Texas. It had apparently moved southward during the past six hours, and indications were that the center of the wave would move inland on the northern coast of Mexico during the morning.

Strongest winds near the center were estimated at 45 to 55 miles per hour. Squally weather was forecast for the lower Texas coast today.

perishable crops under certain circumstances—"is a fraud on its face."

"He complained that supporters of the Brannan plan have not said anything about the taxes which would be necessary to pay farmers who sold their perishables at prevailing market prices lower than fixed standards.

"Yet those taxes will have to be paid by the farmers and the consumers," Taft said. "In short, they are getting a bill from the government for the benefits they are supposed to receive and into the Department of Agriculture to administer the plan."

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan has contended that the system might well be less costly than present price supports.

Unlike many of his previous ones, Taft's weekly report didn't mention the Korean war, although he still stresses that as an issue in his reelection campaign speeches. He is opposed by Democratic state auditor Joseph Ferguson.

Until recently, the Korean war has overshadowed all other issues in many Senate and House races and has cropped up in strictly state contests.

But the victory achieved by United Nations military forces has left some politicians undecided as to the political value of discussion of Korean issues.

Democrats generally contend that the smashing of the communist aggressive power has wiped out the chagrined voters felt at early American reverses. Republicans argue that the voters still think the United States went into the ven-

Six Students Invited To Become Members Honorary Fraternity

Six students at East Carolina Teachers College have been invited to become members of the Beta Kappa chapter of Pi Omega Pi, national honorary fraternity for students of business education, according to an announcement by Jane Albritton of Snow Hill, president. The students were chosen because of their excellent scholastic records for work in the department of business education at the college.

A pledge service will be conducted Thursday evening, October 12, with Grace Sugg of Snow Hill, vice president, in charge of the ceremony. Formal initiation of the new members will take place late in October.

Those invited to join the college chapter of Pi Omega Pi are Claudius Altman of Dunn; James Hudson of Greenville; Charles H. Edwards of Lewiston; Vance M. Lockman of Rocky Mount; James Faison of Clayton; and Delbert Hatch of Mount Olive.

Neuritis Pains, Stomach Disturbances, Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn, Constipation, Certain Nervous Disorders When Due to Lack of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin in Your System!

HADACOL One of the Greatest Blessings of the Times!

Just a Few of Thousands Upon Thousands of Interesting Records of Folks With Such Deficiencies Who Have Been Helped

Mrs. C. C. Keller, 1629 1/2 Frederick Avenue, St. Joseph, Missouri: "I really have put a stop to her neuritis pains. She was in a very bad condition with aches and pains and unable to sleep and was forced to give up her position as a practical nurse. She had severe pains in wrists and stiffness in her hips, being almost unable to walk. Now after taking one bottle of HADACOL, she is able to do her own housework. She most enthusiastically recommends HADACOL to all sufferers from neuritis pains."

Link Robinson (a steel worker for over 20 years), 519 Lindsey, Newport, Kentucky: "When your stomach is in bad shape as mine, couldn't eat, gas pains, stomach bloating and nervousness, then your body doesn't get the proper foods it needs. My boss told me about HADACOL and I started taking it immediately. After the second bottle I could tell a definite improvement. Now I can eat anything I want to. Best of all I haven't got those terrible gas pains and stomach bloating."

Mrs. John Goetz, 840 Ursuline Street, New Orleans, Louisiana: "I had such a nervous stomach I was unable to eat regularly. Lots of times I was unable to hold any food on my stomach. Then I heard about HADACOL. After the first few bottles I could tell a definite improvement. Now my stomach doesn't trouble me at all. I eat anything I want. HADACOL is wonderful. You can see that, if it did so much for me after suffering so. (A big improvement is often noticed within a few days' time. One of the many advantages of HADACOL is that continued use helps prevent such stomach distress from returning. Don't continue to suffer. Start taking HADACOL today!)

Mrs. L. Crisaf, 327 N. 14th Street, Springfield, Illinois: "I am elated with the wonderful results obtained by taking HADACOL. I had emotional indigestion, which is stomach distress and makes a person feel down and out. HADACOL seemed to be prepared for my ailment, for it made a new woman of me."

Mrs. E. Homeworth, a skilled maintenance man in Waco, Texas: "I almost had to give up my job because of suffering from stomach distress. I couldn't hold my food, as no food agreed with me. After hearing about HADACOL and completing a second bottle, I began to feel better and regain the weight I lost, and suffered no more indigestion. I now take HADACOL regularly to help stay well. (Why don't you try HADACOL?)

Mrs. J. Schenck, 514 Kruger, Ottumwa, Iowa: "My daughter, Marilyn Sue, is five years old and for some time lacked pep, had a poor appetite, was generally run-down. Since giving her HADACOL, we have noticed wonderful results. She has a much better appetite, eats everything on the table and doesn't seem tired like she used to. Incidentally, she likes to take her HADACOL too. (Kids sure do like HADACOL.)

Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc—the Man Responsible for the Great New HADACOL

Now! Thanks to the tireless efforts in scientific research of Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc—eminent statesman of Louisiana and creator of this great new HADACOL nutritional formula—it's at last possible to relieve the REAL cause of such ailments as neuritis pains, stomach distress, gas pains, heartburn, indigestion, insomnia, certain nervous disorders and a general run-down condition due to lack of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin.

Senator LeBlanc has just completed a modern $250,000 manufacturing plant and a similar one is well under way so that this wonderful HADACOL will always be available to the public.

What the Great HADACOL Does...

No longer do you have to be satisfied with symptomatic relief—you can start this very day, and relieve the REAL cause of such ailments with HADACOL. Get that wonderful HADACOL feeling everyone is talking about! A big improvement in the way you feel is often noticed in a few days.

And continued use of HADACOL helps prevent such ailments from coming back. Naturally, there's an explanation for this. You see, HADACOL not only feeds deficient run-down systems with extra quantities of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin but also helpful amounts of precious Calcium, Phosphorus and Manganese—elements so vital to help maintain good health and guard against such deficiency sickness.

Communist China Has Stake In Preserving Red Korean Govm't

By FRED HAMPSON
Hong Kong, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Why is communist China apparently so worried about the 38th parallel in Korea?

Undoubtedly one reason is the Yalu river hydroelectric power grid built by the Japanese to supply industries in both Manchuria and Korea.

Now that south Korean troops have crossed 38 and the communist regime of north Korea seems about to collapse, the Chinese reds see possible interruption of power to their vital Manchurian industries.

Presumably the Chinese red view is this:

If all Korea is unified under the United Nations the all important Yalu river power dams will pass into hands considerably less friendly.

The fear of such a development could explain the many threats Chinese communists have made to intervene in the Korean war—threats which appeared efforts to discourage U. N. forces from driving into north Korea.

Red China's premier Chou En-Lai said Sunday in a speech observing the first anniversary of the communist government of China that his country will not "supinely tolerate seeing their neighbors being savagely invaded by imperialists."

As the Chinese communists have launched their big program of rebuilding Manchuria's industries, Yalu power was of vital importance. It presented no particular problem so long as the dams remained in the hands of friendly Korean reds.

In the overall picture, red China would seem to have little to gain by involving herself in the Korean war.

Still, she cannot afford to lose the major source of power for Manchuria, communist China's main industrial area.

Whether this power is worth risking war is a question yet to be answered. But the Chinese communists are very touchy about Manchuria.

Protest Release Italian Marshal

Addis Ababa.—(AP)—The recent release from prison of Italian ex-marshall Rodolfo Graziani brought violent protest from Ethiopia's only newspaper. Graziani commanded the Italian troops which conquered Ethiopia in 1935-36. He is wanted by the Ethiopian government for alleged war crimes and atrocities.

In 1944 Graziani became war minister in the Fascist government set up by Mussolini in northern Italy. After World War II, the former marshal was sentenced to 19 years by an Italian tribunal, on charges of treason. But he was released in August following an amnesty.

Belgian Divorce Rate Drops, But Still High

Brussels.—(AP)—Belgian divorces are decreasing but nevertheless remain much above pre-war figures, according to latest official figures. In 1949, 5,988 divorces were granted. This compares to 6,519 in 1948 and 6,825 in 1947. Figures for 1938 and 1939 respectively were 3,501 and 3,423.

Easier To Get Benefits From War Claims Board

Washington, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Parents of deceased World War II prisoners of war who are found eligible for benefits under the war claims act are going to find it easier to get their money, the war claims commission said today.

President Truman signed an amendment Saturday to the act to remove the requirement that such parents prove they were dependent on the POW's before they could collect payments.

The agency said here is how it works:

Former prisoners of war are entitled to $1 a week for each day spent in an enemy prison camp.

If they die before collecting their $1 a day, no matter when death occurs, their survivors are entitled to the money.

Widows and children, says the act, are first line survivors, and the $1 a day payment goes to them, if there are any.

If there aren't, the money is payable to the UOW's parents—but the parents, up to last Saturday, had to prove they were dependent on the deceased POW before they could collect.

Now they don't.

Senator Anderson (D-NM), who sponsored the change, told Congress it was very hard to prove dependency.

The Valley of 10,000 Smokes in Alaska was formed when nearby Mt. Katmai erupted in 1912.

Better Buy Buick!

PERHAPS you've noticed that there seem to be a lot of these brawny beauties running around on America's highways—and it isn't just that boldly gleaming forefront that spreads this impression.

It isn't just the fact that folks who own a Buick get such a bang out of it that they do a lot of driving.

Back of all this is another fact. It's a fact that contains a broad hint to anyone who'd like to know what's what in motorcar buys. 1950 Buicks are breaking all past popularity records, as registered in sales.

So we suggest that you do some personal investigating.

Find out, for example, how masterful you feel, with Fireball power purring away the miles, at a polite touch of your toe on the gas treadle.

Find out how the jolts and jars seem to disappear, when you have big soft coil springs on all four wheels, and fat low-pressure tires on wide Safety-Ride rims.

Then there's Dynaflo Drive* which Buick owners vote the biggest automotive hit that has come along in years.

With all this, there's room, and comfort, and road-hugging heft combined with a light and willing response to your hand on the wheel—and prices that start down with the sixes.

Seems like almost everyone wants to own one of these Buicks—and most people can. How about you? Isn't it a smart idea to see your Buick dealer now and get your name on his list?

Only BUICK has Dynaflo—and with it goes! HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New 1-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD fender, taper-through fenders • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube

Enters Nolo Contendere Plea To Charges Of Manslaughter

Attorneys for Grover Lee Smith, indicted last December for manslaughter for the deaths of four persons, entered a plea of nolo contendere this morning as Superior Court convened for the third day.

The plea before Judge Henry Grady enabled both defense counsel and the solicitor to present the evidence during the morning session. The judge held up judgment until this afternoon.

Smith was the driver of the car that killed two of its occupants and also two others, passengers of the car which collided with it. The collision occurred last December 10 about three miles from Greenville on the Falkland highway.

The dead were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Skinner, Greenville, who were occupants of the other car. Ray Dunn, passenger of the Smith car was killed outright. Wilbur Charles Drake, another occupant, died later in the hospital.

The plea this morning came as somewhat of a surprise. The trial was continued from the April term at which time there was no such plea or indication of one.

The jury sat for hearing in the trial although they will not pass on the evidence. Judge Grady stated he would pass judgment first thing after court convenes for the afternoon session.

Appearing as witnesses for the state were members of the state highway patrol and sheriff's office who investigated the accident. Also taking the stand were William and Elias Braxton, two other occupants of the Smith car who had hitchhiked a ride just prior to the collision. Other cases heard and judgments rendered during the Tuesday afternoon session were:

Harry B. Gibbs, drunk driving; not guilty by jury.

Sebia Lee Cox, Jr., plead guilty to reckless driving; $50 and costs.

Church L. Perkins, drunk driving; continued for term.

Charles A. Rumley, drunk driving; continued for term.

Police, Firemen Report Fire Tower Broken Into

A strong warning was issued by the Greenville Police and Fire departments this morning about the misuse of the local firemen's training tower.

Fire Chief George Gardner said today that the training tower has been broken into and abused. Heavy wooden coverings for the doors and windows which were recently installed in an effort to prevent entrance to the building have been pried apart, all windows opened and the building broken into.

The same trouble has existed from time to time since the building was first built in 1940, donated by M. O. Minges to the city. Since that time every means has been used to prevent anyone except authorized personnel from entering the building. "Our main concern is that the building is being damaged and the possibility of some child or other person going into the city property and getting hurt."

"It is dangerous for anyone other than training personnel to go into the building as they are in the wrong," it was pointed out.

From Greenville's Chief of Police came word that local patrol cars will make frequent checks day and night around the building. Any person found around or in the building will be taken into custody, and charged with trespassing.

The two department heads urged parents to keep their children from playing around the building and to report it to the local police department when anyone is seen trying to break into the building.

Nearly all of the first story window glasses have been broken out, doors torn up, and the inside of the building littered with rubbish.

Shipment Of New Cars Damaged Hitting Bridge

A big trailer truck carrying a load of 1950 Pontiac automobiles collided with the Norfolk Southern railroad bridge over the New Bern highway near here last night about 11 o'clock. Two automobiles on the top deck were demolished, but the remainder anchored to the truck.

Darrell Harrell, 22, driver of the Baker Delivery Company of Detroit, Mich., truck, was quoted by police who investigated the mishap as saying his load topped 12 feet, six inches. Clearance of the trestle is only 12 feet, a sign on its states.

The truck, heading for New Bern on highway 43, passed under the trestle after the impact had "ironed down the tops of the upper deck cars." The driver stopped for a while at Wilson's store to inventory his damage. He was shaken up some by the jolt, but not injured.

Harrell said he had been driving trucks about three months. He told police his company routed him over highway 43, but did not notify him that his load of automobiles was six inches too high to pass under the bridge without damage.

Similar collisions with the railroad trestle have occurred before, police records show.

G. B. Shaw Is Out Of Hospital

The 94-year old playwright was in good spirits as he was lifted from a rolling bed into a waiting ambulance for the short trip to his home at Ayot St. Lawrence.

Here are the bodies of some 400 natives of Taejon, Korea, who were bound and slain by North Korean Reds before they retreated from the city. The corpses lie in and around trenches in the city's prison yard. Witnesses told U. S. 24th Division troops that the victims were forced to dig their own graves before the slaughter. That division recaptured Taejon last Thursday. Looking at the ghastly scene is War Correspondent Gordon Gramack of the Des Moines Register. (AP Wirephoto).

Sgt. Joe E. Barker, 24th Division soldier from Georgia, keeps a sturdy leash on his pet pig which he picked up near the Taejon battle front in South Korea. The little porker stays close to his master—and thereby escapes the barbecue pit. The name of Joe's hometown in Georgia was not available. (AP Wirephoto).

"Guilty or not guilty?" He said executions followed invariably.

Asked for comment as to whether South Korean authorities executed political prisoners, Lee said some reformed Communists were executed for returning to the Red banner after the invasion of the Republic.

The public information official said the figure would not run as high as 30,000 to 40,000. He added that the disappearance of perhaps 50,000 loyal South Koreans does not mean all were executed by the Reds.

"We were told many skilled persons, such as doctors, engineers, musicians, leading actors and actresses and professors were taken north for the purpose of enriching the Communist country with needed talent," Lee said.

Prisoners said the Reds planned to make their big stand at Vonsan. AP correspondent William Jordan reported from the front that Red captives had disclosed 4,000 North Koreans were digging in southeast of Tongchon. This was planned as a delaying battle, the prisoners said.

"COKE" PRICE DOUBLED

Alexandria, La., Oct. 4—(AP)—A coke cost Alexandrians a dime today. The traditional 5-cent bottle of Coca Cola was doubled in price this week by the local bottling company. The company said the price was raised because of increased costs in production. The wholesale price went up from 85 cents to $1.40 for a case of 24.
