Aldermen Discuss Variety Of Topics

Insurance And Hospitalization Plans, City Purchases, REA Bond Issue, Rural Fire Protection And Other Items Disposed Of

Representatives of insurance agencies located in Greenville appeared before the Board of Aldermen last night to present plans of insurance and hospitalization of city employees.

No action was taken by the seven members present, being referred to the insurance committee to act.

James Keel appeared with Bennett and stated the company had not been notified of the plan to study insurance company bids and had therefore been late in drawing up a policy covering the employees.

Mayor Stafford stated the Board would study all policies submitted to the committee and would take action at a later date.

Stafford notified the members he will call a special meeting for October 26 to study the problem of oil trucks using the city streets.

The board granted C. K. Beatty, street department head, permission to buy a new mowing machine, cost not to exceed $500.

The board gave Stafford permission to negotiate with Flanagan Buggy Company on purchasing an eight-cylinder garbage truck.

The board referred to committee permission to buy three fire hoses to be installed in foremen's homes located on the outskirts of town.

Police chief Guy C. Langston requested permission to make changes in the administrative staff of the department, which was granted.

The board also granted him the privilege of making certain changes in town traffic on Saturday's.

Another letter from Kyzer was read stating the Chamber of Commerce will cooperate in any way with the city to relieve the parking problem.

Bevin's Poor Health

Increasing Signs That Britain's Foreign Secretary Must Soon Lay Aside His Responsibilities; His Rise To Prominence; Pillar Of Western Solidarity

Disquieting news comes out of England regarding the health of the famous laborite, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

This outstanding figure in Foreign Affairs yesterday delivered another of his pungent speeches in support of the United Nations and collective arms strength for the west.

Indeed, while he showed flashes of his old two-fisted vigor, some observers felt that this might be the last speech he would deliver at a party conference as a cabinet minister.

If Bevin does have to retire from the heavy pressure he is under, it will be a great international loss.

Medical Draft

Aboard Yacht Commander, Chesapeake Bay, Oct. 6—(AP)—President Truman signed today a proclamation providing for the drafting of physicians and dentists for the armed services.

Roosevelt Secretary Charles Ross announced Mr. Truman had put his signature to the document but gave no details of the proclamation's provisions to newsmen on this yacht.

Asked how Mr. Truman was feeling after a week of cruising on the Potomac River and Chesapeake Bay, Ross said: "The President is really feeling good. He is quite chipper. He is feeling a lot better physically."

March Of Dimes Chairman Named

Dr. Elmer R. Browning of Greenville, head of the business education department of East Carolina Teachers College, has been named chairman of the 1951 Pitt County March of Dimes campaign.

Carry Appeal To Highest Tribunal

Albany, N.Y., Oct. 6—(AP)—Two convicted "lonely hearts" slayers will carry their fight for life to the U.S. Supreme Court.

New York State's Court of Appeals gave its permission yesterday to Raymond Fernandez, 35, and his fat girl friend, Martha Beck, 30.

The court agreed to amend its records to certify that there was a question whether the constitutional guarantee of due process had been granted the couple.

The Court of Appeals upheld their first degree murder conviction by a 5-2 vote last July 11.

Squall Area Is Closely Watched

Miami, Fla., Oct. 6—(AP)—A 1,500-mile long low pressure trough—stretching from the Swan Island area in the Caribbean to Bermuda in the Atlantic—was getting close scrutiny today for possible development into a tropical storm.

Russia And China Assured No Move To Cross Border

New York, Oct. 6—(AP)—Britain assured Russia and Communist China today that Gen. MacArthur's forces in moving through North Korea would not advance beyond the Korean border.

Kenneth Younger, British Minister of State, gave this "solemn assurance" during final debate in the U. N. General Assembly on an eight-power resolution authorizing MacArthur's forces to proceed beyond the 38th parallel.

Younger said the U. N. troops in MacArthur's command would not remain in North Korea any longer than necessary to insure unification and pacification of the country.

The Assembly rejected a last-minute Soviet attempt to gain North Korean participation in discussions of the Korean case.

By a vote of six in favor, 41 against and six abstentions, the assembly rejected Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik's request that both North and South Korea be invited to appear before the United Nations as equal parties to the dispute.

Malik opened the Soviet bloc's final attack on the eight-nation resolution for unifying and rehabilitating all Korea under U. N. auspices.

The Assembly's 60-nation political committee approved the eight-power plan Wednesday by a vote of 47 to five with seven abstentions.

The assembly's action is the final one.

London, Oct. 6—(AP)—James Calhoun of Richmond, Va., flew in last night with a treat for his meat hungry English relatives. It was a three-pound steak.

Calhoun set down his suitcase, put the wrapped steak on top of it, and whistled for a car.

As the cab drew up in front, a large Airdale drew up in back. Calhoun and his kinkof had fish for dinner.

18,000 Sign Up For Rocket Trip

New York, Oct. 6—(AP)—The first interplanetary rocket will be plenty crowded if Hayden Planetarium "reservation" blanks are any criterion.

The Planetarium announced yesterday that 18,000 persons have signed up for the "H" trip.

Dispatches from Morganton said Eure had announced his candidacy for the 1952 race to reporters just before a Democratic rally there.

"I don't know where the thing got started," said Eure. "I haven't said anything. The news got out somehow I had given out a statement to a local reporter which I had not done. I haven't said anything or done anything."

Eure recalled that a photographer was making pictures at the hotel in Morganton, and "this photographer said he was going to count, 'one, two, three, and when I say four, throw your hat at me.'"

Asked if he had thrown his hat at Eure said: "Yes, I threw my hat at him."

This, he speculated, might have caused the word to get out that he had announced his candidacy.

Eure said when the report got out at Morganton that he had announced his candidacy, a number of persons, including several newsmen, asked him about it.

"A whole lot of them asked me about it," he continued. "x x x I didn't say anything about it at all. All I said was I hoped I wouldn't say or do anything that would disqualify me."

YDC President Addresses Student Group

Robert Williams, Jr., state president of the YDC of North Carolina was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the East Carolina Teachers College Young Democratic club last night. More Political Activity Is Urged

YDC President Emphasizes Young People Must Vote

Robert Williams Jr., of Asheville, newly elected president of the Young Democratic Club of North Carolina, speaking at East Carolina Teachers College last night, emphasized a trend toward greater participation in political activities among young men and women.

Joseph Congleton of Littleton, president of the East Carolina YDC, presided at the meeting in the Flanagan auditorium.

Herbert C. Wooten, one of the veterans of the force, and W. T. Peterson were appointed lieutenants.

W. D. Berg, Claude H. Christopher and Roy W. Harris were appointed sergeants and deputy clerks of the City Recorder's Court.

Chief Langston said the appointments are in line with a training program he is carrying on for improving the efficiency of the force.

"Greenville is growing. Our plan is to start now to train men to assume the responsibility as they arise in the future. We can't wait. We must keep abreast of progress and be in line to meet new conditions with an efficient and capable staff of officers."

"Loyalty and efficiency are the watchwords of the Greenville police department. These two things are the primary pre-requisites of a good officer, and intelligence and common sense and courtesy help a lot," the chief added.

Some other changes being made at police headquarters at the City Hall include the transfer of the records department from the front office to a room beyond Chief Langston's office.

The business of the police department has increased beyond the average citizen's best estimate.

There are not so many more arrests, but modern policing requires more records—more brains and not so much brawn," a city official stated.

Announce Higher Pension Program

New York, Oct. 6—(AP)—The Gen. Electric Company announced today it has given a voluntary "cost of living" in crease to 7,000 already retired employees.

For the majority of these pensioners, the company said, the increase is between $24 and $49 monthly with some receiving smaller amounts.

J. B. Moore, Livengood Ordered To Pay Fines

Raleigh, N.C., Oct. 6—(AP)—Former Prisons Director J. B. Moore was ordered to pay a fine of $1,000 today in the case in which he and a former prison maintenance foreman, A. W. Livengood, were charged with using state materials, prisoner labor and state trucks for construction work at Moore's home.

Livengood was ordered to pay a fine of $500.

In passing sentence in the case, Judge R. Hunt Parker said the state had produced evidence of "wilful malfeasance of office" on the part of both Moore and Livengood.

In addition to the fines, Judge Parker ordered the defendants to pay one-half the court costs each and continued prayer for judgment for two years on the condition that they not violate any criminal laws of the state.

Judge Parker sentenced the two men on a charge of malfeasance in office. They had entered pleas of nolo contendere when the case got underway Tuesday.

After the sentencing, Solicitor William Y. Bickett took a nod pros with leave on indictments charging Moore and Livengood both with embezzlement and with malfeasance.

Judge Parker commented that "I am convinced there has been wilful malfeasance of office in this case. The evidence certainly shows more than technical violations of the law."

Scientists Making Path To Future Says Wendt

"Laboratories are the birthplace of the future," Dr. Gerald Wendt told members of the Pitt County Executive club last night at the first meeting of the group this fall.

The noted scientist and author addressed the group in the north dining hall of East Carolina Teachers College with his talk entitled "What Science Is Doing For Us."

Dr. Wendt discussed principally the new era which is coming with the development of atomic energy and its adaptation to commercial and domestic use.

"Life will be very different in the next generation," he declared. "Atomic energy is the greatest discovery since man discovered fire and the wheel."

The speaker labeled the atomic bomb as a psychological weapon whose product is fear. The bomb, he asserted, has one supreme purpose which is that of use on forces massing for invasion or taking part in an invasion.

"We are safe from invasion since we have the atom bomb," Dr. Wendt stated. "Likewise Asia and Europe are safe from invasion. I don't know whether the bomb has a future or not. I fear no atomic attack from the other side, but it is complete stupidity to imagine that there is a scientific doubt that Russia has the atomic bomb, but the difference lies in the ability of the United States and the ability in Russia to produce the bombs in quantity."

Coastal City Of Wonsan Apparent Goal; Staggering Casualties Estimated For Communists; United Nations Troops Set For Massive Blow

Tokyo, Oct. 6—(AP)—South Korean troops swept 20 miles deeper into Red North Korea today on the Sea of Japan coast.

They reached and passed a point more than 75 miles above parallel 38 where the bulk of 175,000 United Nations troops were reported clogging a massive follow-up blow for a knockout.

The South Koreans' objective apparently was the coastal industrial city of Wonsan.

Air and naval support ranged over or stood by to join the big push against the staggering Red army now depleted by an officially estimated 200,000 casualties.

Forty thousand of the casualties were counted as Red soldier prisoners of the allies.

The Red casualty estimates were announced by General MacArthur's headquarters.

Field dispatches said South Korean's Third Division troops were approaching Tongchon, a 32 miles southeast of Wonsan.

There was virtually no Red resistance. Equipment was abandoned along the route. Red prisoners said the North Koreans had withdrawn northward in great haste for a stand in the Wonsan area.

Wonsan is 90 air miles east of Pyongyang, the Communist capital. Tongchon is more than 200 miles north of Pohang, where the Third Division began its dash in mid-September. Closer aerial support for the Third and other South Korean forces on the east coast was indicated by an announcement that the Pohang airstrip would be back in use Saturday.

As the South Koreans stabbed farther into the north, MacArthur's headquarters made its official estimate of 200,000 Communist casualties since the Reds invaded South Korea July 25.

The overall figure admittedly contained some duplications. That means a man might be wounded, removed and returned to battle wounded again, and counted as two or more single casualties.

The 40,000 roughly counted prisoners taken by the allies included 14,028 captured or surrendered in three days this week.

The Reds rushed to bolster fortifications north of parallel 38, still ignoring MacArthur's repeated surrender demands and apparently indifferent to the rising toll of men and equipment.

U.S. Fifth Air Force planes spotted two convoys speeding toward the Reds' imperiled defense points Thursday night. Flares lighted the hilly countryside in sharp relief. Pilots reported 84 vehicles and 101 boxcars destroyed or damaged.

To the west of the South Korean advances, non-Korean troops — the bulk of United Nations forces estimated at 175,000—were regrouping

Woman's College Alumnae Holds Founder's Day Meeting Thursday

The Pitt county chapter of the Woman's College Alumnae met on Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Luther Herring.

Twenty-nine members were present for the roll call.

Throughout the state, the day was being observed as Founder's Day and a special Founder's Day program was broadcast from the campus at Greensboro.

Forty-one Alumnae chapters in the state were meeting simultaneously and listening to the radio program, which was on the Dixie FM network from 8:00-9:30. There were 12 chapters meeting outside the state, having their own Founder's Day program as they were unable to pick up the broadcast.

Mrs. Julius Cone, a W. C. alumna and a member of the board of trustees of the Greater University, presided over the radio program. Dr. W. C. Jackson, retired chancellor, led in the litany of commemoration. The newly appointed chancellor, Dr. Edward Kilder Graham, gave the main address.

Following this radio program, a business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Howard Mims. Miss Pat Waldrop, chairman of the nominating committee, presented a new slate of officers, who were duly elected. They are as follows: President, Mrs. G. C. Frye; vice president, Mrs. F. L. Blount; secretary, Miss Elizabeth Kittrell, and treasurer, Mrs. Laurie Ellis.

Local Club Members Attend Supper Meet In Rocky Mount

Fifteen members of the Credit Women's Breakfast Club attended Bosses' Night banquet of the Rocky Mount CWBC Wednesday night at the Benvenue Country Club.

Thompson Greenwood, executive secretary of the North Carolina Merchants Association, spoke on the importance of having peace of mind in conducting business, saying that wealth, fame, health did not always bring happy business relations with customers but peace of mind did insure good business relationships.

Mrs. Dorothy Copeland, local president and treasurer of the state CWBC, was recognized for outstanding club work for the past 18 months.

Invitation was extended members of the Rocky Mount, Raleigh, and Goldsboro clubs in attendance there to come to Greenville October 26th for the second local Bosses Night program.

New officers were installed in an impressive candlelight service with faith, vision, courage the basis of the program.

Country Club Luncheon Honors Frances Kittrell

The Greenville Country Club was the scene of a lovely luncheon on Thursday when Miss Frances Kittrell, who will be wed in a formal candlelight ceremony at Jarvis Memorial Methodist church tomorrow night, was complimented.

Mrs. W. P. Moore, Mrs. E. Lee Moore, and Mrs. Charles W. Howard, Jr., were joint hostesses in entertaining for the bride-elect. They greeted the guests at the entrance to the club room and presented the honoree to them.

The mantels were banked with magnolia leaves and on the luncheon table a color theme of yellow and orchid was used in attractive centerpiece arrangements.

The table was covered with a white cut-work cloth and places were marked for the guests with formal bridal cards. Centering the table was a low silver bowl holding lovely orchid gladioli and yellow chrysanthemums. Silver candelabra filled with epergnettes containing small yellow mums flanked the centerpiece. These were tied with attractive bows of yellow florist ribbon.

A three course luncheon was served. Miss Kittrell was presented a corsage made of a baby orchid and tiny yellow chrysanthemums.

Out of town guests for the luncheon were Mrs. L. G. McGee of New Orleans and Mrs. C. C. Parker and Mrs. J. G. Fearing, aunts of the bride-elect of Elizabeth City.

Wesleyan Guild No. 2 Has Meeting

Circle No. 1 of the Wesleyan Service Guild of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church met on Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the home of Mrs. J. Key Brown, with Misses Lillian and Margaret Purvis as hostesses. Fourteen members were present.

Mrs. V. P. Scoville, president, opened the meeting with prayer, after which Mrs. R. P. Rogers introduced the speaker, Dr. H. A. Coleman, of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College. Dr. Coleman gave a most interesting and informative talk on Korea and the world situation of today.

Following the program a brief business session was held, with Mrs. Scoville presiding.

At the conclusion of the meeting delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Austrian Reds Suffer Big Setback In Strike

Vienna, Austria, Oct. 6—(AP)—Communism today suffered one of its most crushing recent defeats in Europe as Austria returned to normal after two days of Red Terror.

The Reds gave up in the face of calm resistance by the rest of the Austrians, who since the 12th century have sat at the crossroads of the East and West and repeatedly have thrown back eastern aggression.

The bulk of the country's laborers ignored the Communist strike call. The non-Communists courageously battled fanatic young Reds for control of factories, power plants, transport facilities and government buildings.

Trains were running on schedule again. Street cars operated unhindered, and 50,000 striking Reds went to work.

Ten days of Communist efforts to foment a general strike to terrorize the country, to isolate its capital and perhaps to set up a rump government were abandoned at midnight.

The Communist leaders called off their ineffective two-day-old general strike and within minutes Red demonstrators took down barricades which yesterday closed all but one of Vienna's main rail lines and froze traffic from the capital into the Soviet zone.

Making Plans To Improve Traffic Dickinson Avenue

Police Chief Guy C. Langston, at the Board of Aldermen's meeting at the City Hall last night, stated that some corrections are being made in their street markings at Dickinson and Manhattan avenues for the benefit of school children.

The chief, who was with the Safety division of the N. C. Department of Motor Vehicles, Raleigh, before coming to Greenville, said his department is studying the traffic situation in light situation near the A. and P. store on Dickinson Avenue, near Tenth street, and paying some attention to the parking situation there.

In his report to the aldermen, the chief said a survey is being made to improve and expedite traffic in the vicinity of the junction of the Winterville and Farmville highways, in the western part of the city.

Chief Langston said he had issued an order providing for not operating the traffic signals before 9 o'clock Sunday mornings.

Mrs. Wooten Presents Sans Souci Program

For the first meeting of the club year Mrs. F. L. Blount was hostess to the Sans Souci Club at her home on 10th St. 18 members were present and were happy to come together again after a vacation which took some to distant places. Mrs. John Staton of Bethel was welcomed as a guest for the afternoon.

Membership in the Symphony Orchestra was brought to the club's attention by Mrs. J. H. Waldrop, and all who are interested were asked to contact her. The president, Mrs. Ragsdale, invited the club members to the Art Gallery, where for the next few weeks, the paintings of Miss Duffy of New Bern are being shown.

Mrs. Harvey Anderson, who has recently come from Raleigh to make her home in Greenville, was unanimously elected to membership in the club.

The program chairman, Mrs. W. L. Hall, then presented the programs for the year, and introduced Mrs. Frank Wooten as speaker for the afternoon. Mrs. Wooten, in her inimitable way, gave some of the highlights of the two-month European tour which she enjoyed during the early summer with Mrs. W. I. Wooten, Miss Lillian Wooten, and Miss Kay Van Nortwick, after letting fellow club members get a glimpse of some of the difficulties that may attend such a momentous event as a first European tour.

Mrs. Wooten took her hearers rapidly to London, through the beautiful English countryside, to Edinburgh, touched on the Oberammergau Passion Play, which she declared surpassed all expectations, however high they may have been—and then for the remainder of the short time at her disposal, spoke most interestingly of Rome and especially of the Basilicas there. Saint Peter's, Saint Mary, the Greater Saint Paul's, on the outside of Rome, and Saint John, the Mother Church, compose the Basilica group and are of greatest historical interest.

Following the program Mrs. Blount served a delicious salad course with coffee.

teror, agriculture, commerce, and labor, and the attorney general and postmaster general.

In 1947 the number was reduced to nine when the job of secretary of defense was created and he became the only representative of the armed services in the cabinet. Last year Congress raised cabinet salaries from $15,000 to $22,500 a year.

The cabinet member who served longer than anyone else in American history was James Wilson, who was born in Scotland. He was secretary of agriculture for 16 years, from 1897 to 1913, under Presidents McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, and Taft.

Harold L. Ickes had the second longest cabinet career, serving as secretary of the interior for nearly 13 years. He was brought into the job by Franklin D. Roosevelt on March 4, 1933, and was ushered out by President Truman on Feb. 15, 1946.

No. 3 was Albert Gallatin, secretary of the treasury for 12 years and 9 months under Presidents Jefferson and Madison.

No. 4 was Frances Perkins, secretary of labor for 12 years and 3 months under Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman.

in other countries, where fuel is scarce and the price is high, may be expected in a shorter time.

He declared that great strides are being made in medical and agricultural research because of the discovery of radio active elements, and results of this research will be available in practical uses in a relatively few years.

Dr. Wendt urged the adults of today to train and educate the young people for changes which are to come in the future. "Don't educate them to live in the world like it is today. It won't be like this long enough to matter. Educate them for change. That's the one sure thing—change." The education, he said, should be pointed toward a longer life span with more wealth and more leisure time in which to spend the wealth.

As for flying saucers, Dr. Wendt said he believes, "they are fragments of rockets that have been fired very high up and there exploded. These fragments are circling horizontally around the earth and look like saucers."

James S. Ficklen presided at the meeting in the absence of President John D. Messick, and W. J. Bundy was host at the meeting.

New Policeman Goes On Duty Here Next Week

Grover L. Bailey, 43, experienced law enforcement officer, of near Farmville, who was recently sworn in as a member of the Greenville police department, will go on duty on the 4 p. m. (second) shift of the Greenville police force next Monday, October 9.

Police Chief Guy C. Langston said Bailey served about a year on the Fountain police force and a short time on the Farmville force. He gave up the position in Farmville because of too much night duty. Bailey is married and has several children.

greater portion of that money was not translated into weapons that our observers said were needed.

Who was it who stood between life and death for the thousands who have died, and said to death, "Pass on"? Who failed to heed the warnings, withheld the means for defense, making it necessary for thousands of Americans to fight and die against aggression that could have been stopped—or at least slowed—by determined and reasonably well equipped South Korean soldiers?

Those questions have been asked and asked again; but no one wants to admit his part in this blood-stained error. "Buck-passing" on the subject is a matter of record. But someone in the bureaucratic administrative maze of our government bears a terrible burden of guilt; and until the party or parties responsible for this mistake is known, we stand in danger of repetition of other Koreans, more needless sacrifice and sufferings.

News Behind The News

By ROGER WARREN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The Truman-Acheson foreign and military aid program, as expanded during the last few weeks since Congress has left Capitol Hill, virtually insures that the United States will be involved in every future world or local war from the moment the first gun is fired.

That is the generally unrecognized meaning of recent proclamations and promises by President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson.

However, this scrapping of our historic "non-entanglement" policy, which Russia's menacing behavior has produced, will be the main issue in the Congressional campaign next month.

FIRST—President Truman figures that "I beat the opposition to the gun" with the appointment of General George C. Marshall as Defense Secretary, and he may get another first draw on the GOP with the naming of certain prominent Republicans to diplomatic or military posts before the election.

He has his eye on men like Eisenhower, Stassen and "Jim" Wadsworth, retiring as a veteran member of Congress with eulogies for his national defense contributions from General Marshall himself.

"REINFORCEMENTS"—Here is what President Truman, Secretary Acheson, Secretary Marshall and their overseas spokesmen have offered to the so-called "free world" in the way of American military reinforcements: ("Reinforcements" is actually a misnomer because it appears that the United States must provide most of the men and the munitions.)

(1) We shall furnish "substantial" forces for a western European army, probably five or ten divisions. With allied troops, they will meet the initial onslaught of a hostile power, and it is not difficult to imagine what the color of the Red force will be.

(2) We shall, if other United Nations members with the exception of Russia agree, provide the bulk of an international army, as we have done in Korea, to repulse attacks by Muscovite satellites everywhere.

POWERFUL—(3) We shall build, at a cost of from thirty to fifty billion dollars a year, the most powerful army, navy and air force which both the civilized and uncivilized world has ever seen.

(4) We shall increase our stockpile of atomic bombs to 1,000 (we now have between 300 and 400), and we shall develop the H-bomb.

President Truman has already announced our willingness and readiness to use these lethal devices, if necessary.

(5) We will advance arms to any nation threatened by Russia, as we have sent them to Greece, Turkey, Iran, Indo-China, western Germany, Austria, Korea etc.

CARETAKER—In short, the United States has become the economic and military caretaker for the democratic world, after spending its treasure and its men twice in a generation to "make the world safe for democracy."

By comparison with this Truman-Acheson program, the Monroe Doctrine and preservation of the "open door" in China, to mention only two of our historic and expansive policies, was like a housewife telling the maid to keep the kitchen door locked against phony peddlers.

PUPS—Oklahoma is a fairly settled Democratic state. But Representative "Mike" Monroney, one of the ablest members of the House, who defeated Senator Elmer Thomas for the senatorial nomination several weeks ago, informs friends that he anticipates a tough time in downing the Reverend Will Alexander, a young and breezy sort of Billy Sunday evangelist.

Mr. Monroney's real opponent is the writer of a society column for one of Washington's newspapers. In one of those typical sugar-sweet and gushy articles a few weeks ago—she meant well, this non-politically minded society writer—she described in gorgeous detail Mrs. Monroney's pedigreed pups, and how she had their mugs embroidered on her expensive napery, as well as reproduced on her cocktail and highball glasses.

EXCHANGES—It should not be done, of course, but politics is politics. "Mike's" enemies have flooded the state with reprints of this well-meant column, and it threatens to ruin him.

Moreover, when the Reverend Alexander visited the Capitol several weeks ago, the embittered Senator Thomas went to church to hear him preach. Next day the Reverend Alexander repaid the compliment by visiting the Senator on Capitol Hill.

Both were simply personal and Christian exchanges, so they explain. But "Mike" fears that they might have struck a "political deal" against him.

However, if the young, handsome and progressive Democrat loses, his defeat can be charged up to a Washington society writer, who, perhaps, doesn't know the difference between a roll call and rolled stockings.

Selected Shorts

"When 80% of grass-roots editors answer 'Yes' to the question, 'Do you fear that our nation is headed toward Socialism?', do you think it is time something was done about it?"

"We have no reason to believe that the majority of Congress wants Socialism. We know that if the victors in the last Congressional election had run on a Socialist ticket, they would have been soundly defeated. Yet it is the votes of Congressional majorities which have created the situation which makes our country editors see the socialistic handwriting on the wall."

"What can be done about it?"
From The American Press

"Every member of Congress needs to be ever on guard against those sly, scheming collectivists who hope to use the war emergency as a cloak under which to fasten Socialism or Fascism on our nation."

Too Much Smoke For The Ol' Smoker

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Last summer during the Pitt County Fair a mechanic came in the store one day to buy parts for one of the vehicles in the fleet. The same night Wife Rachel and I saw the mechanic in the role of barker at the motorcycle show. People who travel with a carnival have to be versatile. By day they have one job, and by night another.

Tuesday a different mechanic came in for parts, so I asked him what his night-time job is. "I guess ages and weights," he said. Tactfully, he guessed me to be 24, two years under my age. Carnival age guessers have a four-year leeway, and if they miss, the fee for the guess more than covers the prize you win.

The attractions of the fair's free act are Tex and Sally Montana. Last summer the show featured Ken Maynard, the famous movie cowboy star, backed up by Sally and Tex. When I went to interview Ken, Tex cut me off. The star was "in conference." Yesterday afternoon Tex came in the store to make a purchase. "Where's Ken now?" I asked. "Out west getting ready to do some work for television," Tex went on to say that he, Ken, and Sally spent the summer with a circus, but toward the end of the season Ken left the show.

Ken tried to get Sally and Tex to go west with him for the pictures he was going to make for television, but they decided against it. You never can tell, they say, how things will work out when you get to Hollywood.

A musician friend of Tex's worked for a while with Smiley Burnette, the movie star. After the job Smiley asked this man to come to Hollywood in the summer, and he'd get him in a picture. The man sold his home and moved lock, stock, and barrel to Hollywood. When he arrived, Smiley had completely forgotten about the promise; in fact, he hardly knew the man. Tex says that competition is so keen in Hollywood that top-notch talent walks the streets wondering where the next meal is coming from. It's a rough game, and unless you have a printed agreement, it's best to stay home.

Tex wouldn't venture to say what Ken Maynard's future holds. He was 53 on his last birthday, and in his day has made a killing. Ken doesn't waste his money. His wife has a practice of carrying seven or eight hundred dollars with her at all times.

Next year when the fair returns it wouldn't surprise me to have the bearded lady come in for parts, stating that she is a truck mechanic by day. Show people have to do several jobs to keep things intact. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, N. C.

SYLVA — The Jackson county court house at Sylva may not be the highest in North Carolina as rated from sea level altitude, but it is certainly the farthest above the street that runs in front of it. Statements about the number of steps varied, but every estimate had well above a hundred. (Your reporter didn't count them, but will take a good Jackson county Democrat's explanation that a Republican regime some years ago was responsible for 141 steps from the street to the front door of the courthouse. So it is that in staging the first of the current series of twelve congressional district Democratic rallies here, the party leaders are starting at the top and working down, both actually and figuratively, because this is the twelfth district—tops in numerical order and tops in number of steps to climb to get to the meeting place.

TOPS—This first rally set a high standard for the others in several respects. Due to the mechanics of getting this copy to the newspapers, most of the spot news about the meeting is old stuff by time this paragraph can be printed. Most readers who are interested in political news already know that more than five hundred people crowded the court house and its immediate environs at Sylva for the first rally, and that two thousand people were fed at the combination beef and pork barbecue served at the community park afterward. There was some off-side comment about the extra fifty hundred eaters, and some folks recalled the biblical story about the people who were mainly interested in loaves and fishes. Aside from the spot news there were several significant incidents which gave to this Democratic convalesce special importance.

TRUCE—The Democrats in the twelfth district are living now under a sort of armistice agreement, concentrating upon Republicans in the November election, without actually surrendering any of their vested rights in factionalism or intra-party squabbles. Under the surface there are leftover tender spots from the Johnson-Scott primary campaign for governor two years ago and the Graham-Smith scrap last spring. These adverse sentiments will flare up again in the next primary, but for now they are submerged in the common effort to assure election of every Democratic nominee in every township and county.

PROPHECY—One of the most interesting intimations was that embodied in Congressman Monroe Redden's virtual endorsement of William Umstead for governor. This was Congressman Redden's own party, he was the official host. That being the case he needed no introduction or presentation. But Everett Jordan, state Democratic chairman and presiding official at the meeting, asked Bill Umstead, former congressman, senator and state chairman and prospective candidate for governor to present Redden. Umstead, as always he does, did a magnificent job. The conditioning Umstead as potential candidate for governor and by not very indirect implication committed his support for that objective candidacy. The audience applauded and everybody seemed satisfied. After the courthouse meeting adjourned there was a lot of conversation among the folks waiting in line for the barbecue. Serious question was raised about propriety of Congressman Redden's endorsement of one candidate when at least three other prospective candidates for governor were in the audience—Thad Eure, secretary of state; L. Y. Ballentine, commissioner of agriculture and Brandon Hodges, state treasurer—who lives in this district and is the only one of the four prospects present who can qualify as a westerner.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

SCOTT SAYS SASS 'EM (Greensboro Daily News)

Governor W. Kerr Scott in a brief address—oh let's call it talk, in spite of loudspeaker boys—at the Ebenezer Presbyterian Church, near Coats in Harnett County, Friday night is reported to have called on the churchgoers to write "real nasty" letters in complaint of their lack of telephones.

We confess to having had a bit of trouble in coming around to Governor Scott in the matter of his all-out hell-raising for rural telephones; but we are about to throw in with him.

Certainly if there is anybody who needs a telephone it is the family man who lives some miles from town. To be sure there is no guarantee that he can by phone get a doctor for a child stricken with diphtheria or a veterinarian for a pup with running fits—and we are confident he could hardly make an appointment with a dentist under two months—but he ought for the sake of his peace of mind be permitted to join the waiting line of us townfolk who are told by telephone where we may head in, D. V., some weeks in the future.

How "nasty" the letter-writers get we leave to their own conscience. If they write long and nastily enough some profit may accrue to those of us who merely stand and wait.

THE OBLIGATION TO VOTE (New Bern Sun-Journal)

We think we have the greatest democracy in the world. Yet in free elections in the past few years, Britain, Australia, Italy and even West Germany have vastly outstripped us in the basic democratic job of voting. Two of these countries had long experience under dictators; yet each found that more than 80 per cent of the people voted when their first free elections were held.

In Russia and her satellites the voters are limited to recording "yes" or "no" when they vote on a single slate of candidates. Americans sneer at that system, but 50 per cent of our own prospective voters didn't even exercise that much choice in 1948.

Craven county's own voting record in the most recent primaries was encouraging, and there is less incentive to vote in the general election in this section. But, throughout the nation, country newspapers have entered a contest to get out the vote this fall. Says Senator A. Willis Robertson of Virginia in voicing a typical endorsement:

"I congratulate the American Press on its sponsorship of a contest which will give recognition to a weekly or other rural newspaper which does the most between now and November to get out the vote in this year's election. There never has been a time in our history when it was more essential for all of the people to accept the obligation of citizenship upon them is a primary function of our free press."

The thousands of country newspapers scattered throughout the length and breadth of the land are a powerful force for free expression that will always command respect. They are a protection and an asset possessed by no other nation.

NEW TECHNIQUE USES AIR IN CONCRETE

The National Bureau of Standards has found a way to substitute air bubbles for sand in concrete, reports the Illinois Business Review. The air not only replaces the sand but makes the concrete lighter in weight, more water-resistant and a better insulator. The cement, tested in the walls and roofs of farm buildings, is mixed in the normal way except that an industrial aerating agent or detergent is added to make the mix form and become porous.

AUSTRALIA AGAINST WOOL ALLOCATIONS

The recent dramatic upsurge in the price of raw wool, and its critical status as a raw material, has led U.S. spokesmen to advocate that Australia, South Africa and New Zealand—three major producers—allocate their supplies in place of the present system of free auctions. On the eve of the International Wool Study Group's meeting this week in London, however, Australian representatives were firm in their opposition to allocations. For one thing, they argue, the turn of events in Korea has alleviated the situation somewhat, and the price of raw wool has already receded a little from its most recent peak.

POCKET ENVELOPES: Valuable papers such as insurance policies and deeds are protected from soiling and tearing by translucent plastic envelopes (marketed by Rough Notes Co., 1142 N. Meridian St., Indianapolis).

WORK GLOVES: An all-purpose work glove with a special wing-type leather thumb for protection in handling heavy materials has been developed (by the Richmond Glove Corp., Richmond, Ind.).

LOAD BINDER: A new type of load binder that permits an irregularly-shaped load to be tightened down, and easily locks in place, is being made (by Texas Foundries, Inc., Lufkin, Tex.).

SAW: A gear-driven attachment to convert 3/4-inch power drills into an adjustable-depth saw has been announced (by Federal Engineering Co., 37 Murray St., New York 7). It has a patent quick-setting worm-driven clamp for holding the attachment in correct alignment with the drill.

LENSES: One-piece plastic lenses interchangeable with an all-plastic safety spectacle and safety goggles has been developed (by U.S. Safety Service Co., Kansas City 6, Mo.).

WARMER: For keeping food hot for several hours, there is a new electric platter 19 1/2 inches in diameter. It is made of radiant-heat glass and mounted on a wooden base and has a cord for plugging into an electric outlet. (By Appleman Glass Works, Bergenfield, N.J.).

ALARM: When a puff of smoke breaks a beam of light an alarm rings in a new smoke-detection system. This alarm is activated by a photo-electric cell and a sensitive amplifier. (It is by Valley Forge Safe-Eye Alarm System, Valley Forge Highway, Landsdale R.R. 1, Pa.).

MULTI-COLOR: For years artists have drawn cartoons of people painting with checkerboard paint. Paint like that is still a dream, but the nearest thing to it is out. It's an enamel, one coat of which will give two, three and four-color stipple or broken-brush effects. It's done with flecks of color suspended in the base color. Senamel must be applied by spray or dipping. (By United Lacquer Mfg. Corp., Linden, N.J.).

WESTERN: A pony head of stamped steel fit on handlebars of tricycles and a saddle seat to replace the old seat are being introduced (by J. H. Rasmussen Co., Merchandise Mart Plaza, Chicago).

LABOR-SAVING: A harmless, tasteless silicone compound is being offered which, rubbed inside a pan, prevents food from sticking or scorching and makes the pan easy to clean. It also prevents ice from sticking to trays and gelatines from sticking to molds. (By G. N. Coughlan Co., 29 Spring St., West range, N.J.).

Hal Boyle's Column

North Korea—(AP)—The South Korean soldier now in the land of his Red military enemy finds North Koreans a people in shreds and latters after five years of Communist rule.

He also finds the North Korean civilians don't act like people who are losing a war. He walks under several hurriedly raised victory arches of logs and pine boards spanning the road.

He comes to a small village. The Red North Koreans had used it as a checkpoint to search vehicles coming from the south. But the crude log road barriers now are lifted and point skyward. The road north is clear.

A group of villagers, happy that the war is sweeping beyond them, stand by the roadside. They cheer and wave South Korean flags as the army stragglers go by. But when the crowded trucks rumble through they raise both hands time after time and shout "Manzai! Manzai!" It is the Korean equivalent of the Japanese "Banzai" victory cry.

If the stragglers were tanks they would get even louder "Manzais" than the trucks do. For in the Orient power is admired even more than in the western world. But on this day no tanks are going up this road.

The ROK soldier sees that after five years of Communist rule, that boasted it would help the worker, those villagers are even more ragged than the peasants of South Korea. There are more children with open sores on their heads. There are more with diseased eyes. And there are few young farmers in the holiday crowd. They are in the fields harvesting each small patch of rice as it matures, for there is hunger here.

A young girl runs out and sticks a cluster of white and purple wild flowers in the soldier's helmet. She hands him some brown chestnuts and a ripe persimmon, golden as the Indian summer sun and not much smaller than a tennis ball.

He grins at her in wondering surprise. Then he shuffles on, drenching his dry mouth with the pulp of the persimmon.

The sun is almost down as he scuffles into Yangyang, the first large enemy town captured by the ROKs. The townspeople are weary of cheering and have given away all their flowers. The edge of elation has been dulled and they do not fear any great harm from this army from the south. They are now selling their persimmons and pears and chestnuts to the troops.

The soldier looks at the trenches dug in the streets by the retreating Reds for a last-ditch stand they never made. He looks at roof tops covered with shrubbery to hide enemy command posts from allied airmen.

Two ROK medics walk by carrying a badly wounded man on a litter. His eyes are closed, his face is pale. If he has to be operated on and morphine is available he will get it. If there isn't any morphine, the medics will pin him down forcibly during the operation.

A captured Red firewagon full of laughing troops rolls past. Three pretty ROK nurses stand by one of their own trucks retaken from the North Koreans. Another ROK girl in uniform nearby is wearing an American .45-caliber pistol.

But the dust-covered Korean doughboy has no eyes for pretty girls. He joins a line waiting to receive the evening rice ration and he waits in stolid silence. The doughboy finally gets his rice ball wrapped in sawed. He wolfs it down hungrily.

He has seen no fighting but he has walked all day and he is lonely. But he still hasn't caught up with his own outfit. He sees two other sleeping ROK infantrymen huddled together for warmth on the porch of a hut.

He sits to a sitting position on the porch. He slowly begins to lift his leaden feet. "d before his bent little body has straightened out he is fast asleep.

Tomorrow at dawn he will be up and shuffling again up the long road that leads to stone after dusty stone, to beyond the vanished frontier of the 38th parallel to the Manchurian border. Only when his army is halted at that bauer will all Korea be united—and he will be free to rest.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Most people who write biographies are sympathetic to the character, but George Fort Milton describes his latest subject as "malign."

In all the extensive research he has done on his subject—Thaddeus Stevens, the Pennsylvania congressman who led the Republican opposition against Abraham Lincoln's Civil War peace policy—he says he has failed to find many redeeming features. Nevertheless he is fascinated by Stevens. "If he weren't an interesting personality I wouldn't be writing about him," Mr. Milton told me as he poked through a stack of manuscripts at the Library of Congress.

"Stevens was a malign (I don't mean malign character. My hunch is that what Thad did was hold back the union of the states a year or much longer. He was a man who sought to paralyze the use of presidential power by converting the office of the president of the U. S. into a myth. He wanted to transfer the vigor of government from the executive to the legislative branch. And, if he had succeeded, he would have knocked out the three-branch form of government the founding fathers set up for this country in 1789."

Mr. Milton, editor, historian, economist, born in Chattanooga, Tenn., has written numerous biographies and historical books. They include "The Age of Hate," "The Eve of Conflict" and "Abraham Lincoln and the Fifth Column."

He is mostly concerned with writing about the Civil War era. "The Civil War is still the great American experience," he told me. "The story of Thaddeus Stevens is part of it." A close friend of William Jennings Bryan, he told me he was the last person ever to hear Bryan's voice. That was at Dayton, Tenn., after the Scopes "monkey trial." Bryan had telephoned Mr. Milton, then editor of the Chattanooga News. "He told me on a Sunday that he'd see me in his office the next morning at 11," Mr. Milton related. "Twenty minutes later I got a call telling me Bryan had hung up the receiver, laid down on a couch and died."

Army Shows Off Some Of Its New Secret Weapons

Aberdeen, Md., Oct. 6—(AP)—The Army showed off some of its new weapons and equipment yesterday but told the carefully selected spectators they would have to keep quiet about three quarters of what they saw.

The visitors, by invitation only, to Aberdeen proving ground, were mostly armed forces brass and members of the American Ordnance Association.

They were impressed by the display, which reportedly cost the Army close to $500,000.

Among the new or improved weapons exhibited which were not classified as secret were:

A .30 caliber carbine geared for full automatic fire with a clip of 80 rounds.

An Air Force .50 caliber machine gun souped up for F-80 jet fighter planes to fire at 720 rounds a minute.

An 81 millimeter mortar firing with a baseplate of titanium that weighs only half of what it did a few years ago.

Recoilless rifles of 57 and 75 millimeter bores.

The new 3.5 super bazooka.

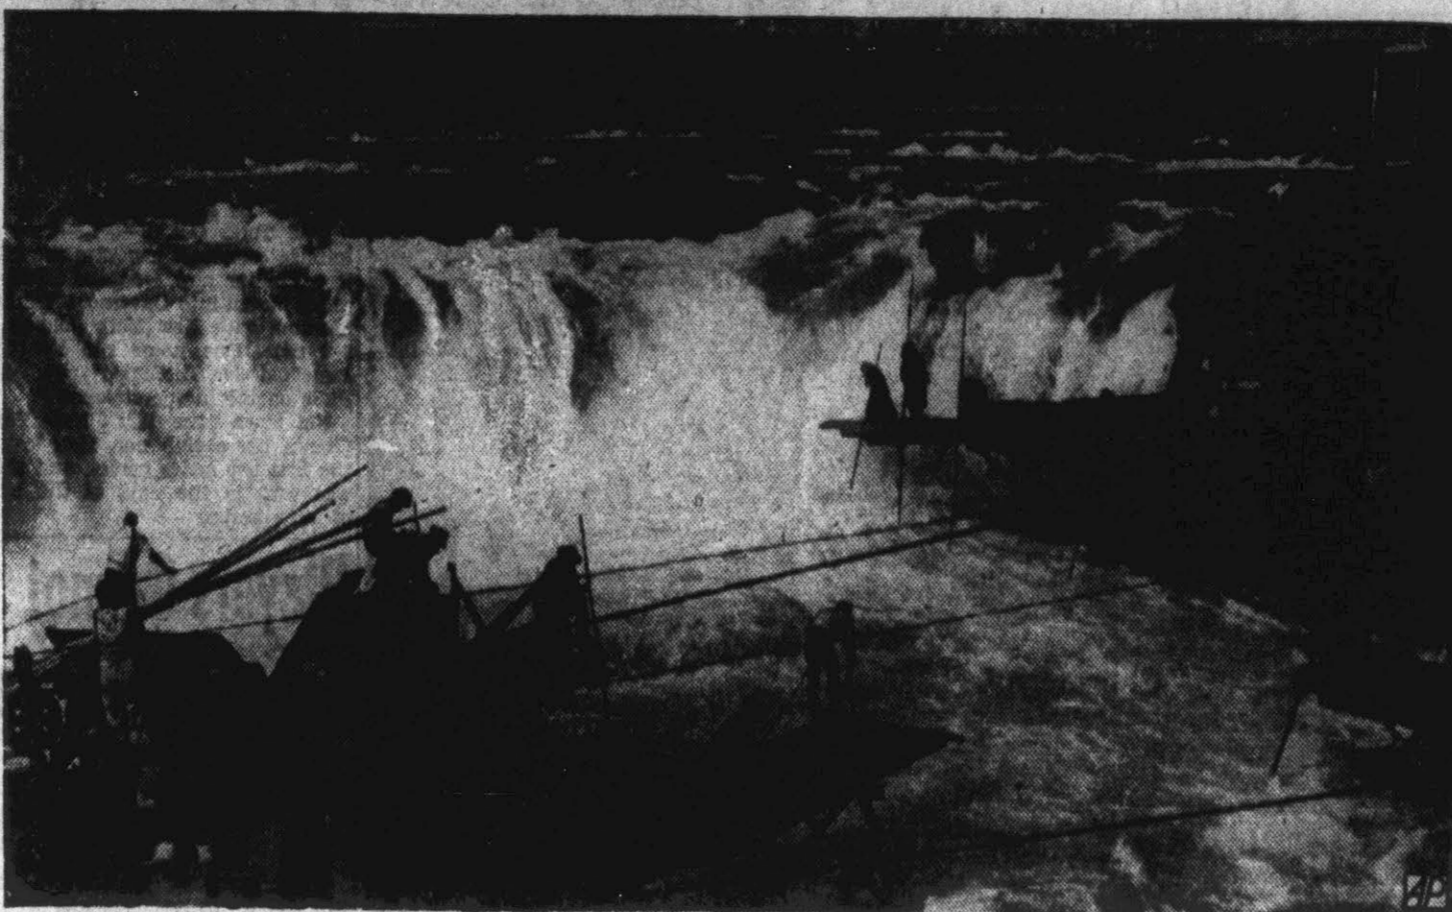

The show was held in conjunction with the annual one-day meeting of the Ordnance Association, organized in 1919 to coordinate the work of the industrialists who turn out war equipment for the armed forces.

His Premonition Proved Too True

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 6—(AP)—Pfc. Michael Bartola wrote his family:

"Folks, this may sound silly to you back home but I'm afraid to go back to the front again. Before I got hit (his second wound) I wasn't too scared, but now I am."

Shortly afterward, his parents got a Defense Department telegram saying their 20-year-old son had been killed in action in Korea Sept. 10.

No Indictment

Conway, S. C., Oct. 6—(AP)—The Horry County Grand Jury yesterday afternoon refused to indict five men accused of conspiracy in connection with Ku Klux Klan disorders at Myrtle Beach August 24.

Solicitor Rufus Long last Monday had handed the grand jury a bill charging conspiracy, but the 18-member jury returned a "no true" bill. The five were Thomas L. Hamilton of Leesville, self-proclaimed grand dragon of the Association of Carolinas Klans; J. Clyde Creel, Conway filling station operator and secretary of the Conway Klavern; R. L. Sims, Jr., Florence truck driver; Greenville H. Sawyer, Jr., of Effingham, in Florence County, and C. M. Garrison, a former Florence policeman.

Former Virginia Lawmaker Dies

Washington, Oct. 6—(AP)—Clifton A. Woodrum, who served 22 years in Congress as a Democratic Representative from Virginia, died today. He was 63.

Woodrum had been president of the American Plant Food Council since he left Congress in 1945.

His home was in Roanoke, Va., but he had been living in a Washington apartment. Associates said death apparently resulted from a heart ailment.

Brannan Plan Is Losing Support Of Demo Leaders

Milwaukee, Oct. 6—(AP)—The Brannan farm plan for the support of agriculture, vice President Barkley hinted last night, is losing favor with the administration.

In the first indication that the much discussed proposal might not be pressed ardently by Democrats in the present election campaign, Barkley told a news conference last night:

"The Brannan plan is controversial. It is entitled to be studied but I am not committed to it and administration is not committed to it."

The vice-president set the tone yesterday to Tennessee officials for the extradition of James P. Carr, convicted of bank robbery.

He escaped six years ago.

Carr is expected to fight extradition. Governor Gordon Browning of Tennessee has promised Carr's friends he would appeal to Scott in behalf of Carr.

Carr was discovered living on a small farm in Clairborne county, Tenn. His friends and neighbors rallied to his defense claiming Carr has been a model citizen.

for his 18-state tour in behalf of Democratic candidates when he declined to discuss Wisconsin's Republican Senators, Alexander Wiley and Joseph McCarthy.

Wiley is seeking reelection and McCarthy has made frequent charges of Communist influences in Washington.

"I do not believe it is ethical for the vice president to come into a state and attack office holders," Barkley said.

"I am presenting the permanent positive and progressive program of the Democratic party. I believe in letting people decide on the record."

He predicted continued Democratic party control of both houses of Congress after the Nov. 7 elections.

Later at a party rally Barkley said the nation faced its gravest period.

"This is no time to change horses in the middle of the stream when you don't know whether you will get another horse," he declared.

Phantoms Bid For Another Victory

Take Field Tonight Against Visiting Scotland Neck Eleven At College Stadium; Strong Starting Eleven For Locals On Tap

Greenville's Phantoms play their second game within a week's time tonight, against Scotland Neck's gridgers, in a non-conference tilt. Kickoff time is 8:00 p.m. in East Carolina's college stadium.

Coach Bo Farley's team will be seeking their second victory in tonight's game, after defeating Hertford here Monday night, 7-0.

Facing the Phants attack tonight will be Fullback Leon Moore, hard-charging fullback, who has been a consistent ground-gainer for the locals all season.

Aiding Moore in the rushing onslaught will be Halfbacks Kent Lee, Bob Perry, and Walter Gore. All three boys showed power in Monday night's tilt.

Quarterbacks Sidney Briley and Eddie Farley will lead the Phantoms aerial attack, with Ends Johnny Aman and Wiley Gardner receiving. Aman scored Greenville's lone tally against Hertford.

Guard Johnny Merwin, bothered all week with a leg injury sustained in Monday's game, will be ready for action again in tonight's scrap, and is expected to form the nucleus of the Phantom forward wall, along with Joe Rowland, Wallace Combs, and Lewis Howe. Fletcher Murray, who played commendable ball in silling Mac Crawford's tackle spot Monday, may get the starting nod at that position, to round out the starting eleven.

Little is known of Coach Bill Stogner's Scot eleven, except they strictly play from the single wing formation, with Wingback Tommy Locke being the sparkplug.

Probable lineups:

Greenville	Scotland Neck
Aman	LE
Murray or Crawford	LT
Rowland	LG
Howe	C
Merwin	RG
Conway	RT
Gardner	RE
Briley	QB
Lee	LHB
Gore	RHB

Bucs Wind Up Heavy Grid Drills

East Carolina's Pirates wound up their heavy work this week in vigorous drills yesterday afternoon and last night, in preparation for their all-important clash with Elon at Burlington Saturday night.

Coach Dole split his offensive and defensive units up for a while in the afternoon practice, with the defensive unit working on defense of the Christians' passing attack, and setting up their force against a more powerful running game.

The offensive unit, paced by passing Roger Thrift, brushed up their scoring onslaught, with work on the posts.

Punting and kicking extra points under pressure concluded yesterday afternoon's spirited workout.

Halfback Bill Darby, the Pirates' ace kicker, was getting off some booming punts in yesterday's session, with Buck Hardee kicking the extra points.

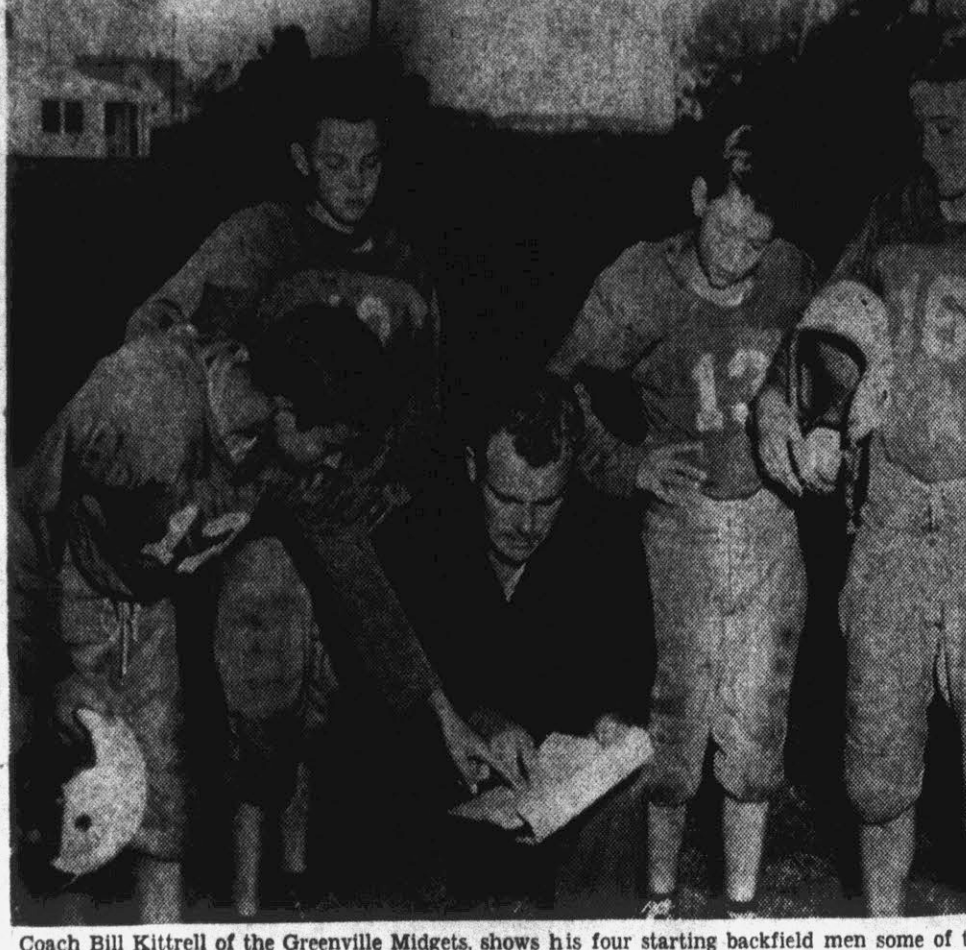

In the night drill, Coach Dole reviewed his passing game set for the Christians this week.

Contender for little-All-American honors this year, Roger Thrift, lead the passing act, with ace receivers Ed Tanner, Dwight Shoe, Jack Britt and Jack Benzie as the targets. Tanner will be back in harness this week, after missing the last two games of the Pirates.

Practically the same starting twin-platoons that have placed the Pirates atop the North State presently will be used against the Christians Saturday with the exception of Guard Regie Byrd and Sandy Siler. Byrd, an offensive guard, will miss this week's trip because of a bad shoulder, and will most likely be replaced by Jesse Aldridge or Bobby Hodges. Siler wrenched his knee in last week's encounter and is a doubtful starter, with reserve Jack Melven working in his defensive halfback position. Guard Mickey Berman will also miss this week's game because of an injured ankle.

East Carolina will work out briefly again this afternoon before departing for Burlington by bus tomorrow morning.

Kittrell Shows Midgets Some New Plays

Elon Looks For Aerial Attack; Plan Defenses

Elon College, Oct. 6.—The Fighting Christians of Elon College have been building defenses this week for an aerial blitzing attack as they prepare for their meeting with the East Carolina Pirates in Burlington Memorial Stadium on Saturday night.

No team in the North State Conference is more air-minded than Coach Bill Dole's Pirates of the Pamlico, and the efficiency of the Pirate air attack is shown by the fact that they are now resting atop the standing in the Conference and with a scoring average of better than 24 points per game in their early contests.

Leading Yardage Made On Ground

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Bud Fisher of Iowa Teachers College has jumped into an early lead in small-college total offensive yardage solely on his ball-carrying ability.

That's unusual in these days of heavy passing. The Cornbelt halfback has gained 445 yards running in three Teachers games. Close behind comes Eddie Hyduke of Pepperdine with 405 yards, all on passes. The third man, Joe Rabb of Louisiana Tech has gained 381 yards, 178 in the air and 203 on the ground.

Bill (First Down) Cross of West Texas State, second in running with 378 yards, has a 13-yard average, better than a first down each try in statistics compiled by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Zeke Martin of North Texas State has completed 26 passes to lead the small college aerialists. Jack Harper of Presbyterian is one completion back in second and Hyduke is third with 23.

The Pepperdine passer's best target, Jack Bighead, leads the receivers with 13 catches for 247 yards. Martin's favorite receiver, Wendell Swann in second place, also has caught 13 but for only 192 yards.

GHS Cheering Section Planned At Game Tonight

Tonight for the first time Greenville High School will have a cheering section in East Carolina's stadium when the Phantoms meet Scotland Neck at eight o'clock.

Principal O. E. Dowd this morning announced a section near the 40 yard line has been marked off for use by the high school students and the band. They will sit together tonight to add to the cheering in a group instead of scattered cheering as in games past.

Dowd requested the cooperation of the public in not sitting in the student section. He stated there will be plenty of room with good seats elsewhere.

State Frosh Top Baby Tar Heels

Asheboro, N.C., Oct. 6.—(AP)—A 90-yard touchdown romp by Tommy Swanger in the final period gave N. C. State's freshman team a 7-0 victory over North Carolina's Tar Babies here last night.

Only four minutes remained when Swanger scooped up a North Carolina punt on his 10 and set sail for the game's lone score.

Lots Of Yardage

Wake Forest, N. C., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Wake Forest's high powered offense has already rolled for 716 yards in only two games this fall. The Deacs have amassed 460 yards on the ground and 256 in the air in the twogames with Boston College and Richmond. The Baptists meet William and Mary in an important Conference game at Williamsburg, Va., Saturday.

Only A Miracle Comeback Can Save Trailing Phillies

By JACK HAND
New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Only a miracle comeback can save the hitless Phillies now as the World Series moved into cavernous Yankee Stadium with New York holding a 2-0 edge. One home run by "the same old Joe DiMaggio" put the Phils on this desperate spot.

Not since the 1921 New York Giants, has a club won after losing the first two series games. And that was back in the days of the best of nine series.

Talk Of 'Four Straight' For Yankees Now Louder; Lopat Choice For Victory Today

Talk of "four straight" buzzes in Yankee ears with the odds 1 to 15 on the American Leagues to cop their 13th world title. Some 70,000 fans will be on hand for the Phils first visit.

Yankee Ed Lopat (18-8) is a 5 to 12 choice over either Ken Heintzelman (3-9) or for Miller (11-6) for today's third game at 1 p. m. (EST). Manager Eddie Sawyer will pick his starter in the clubhouse before batting practice.

No miracle—but only a timely base hit—was needed to rescue the Phils in the first two games when they lost 1-0 and 2-1 in 10 innings on DiMaggio's home run. Now they are fresh out of pitchers like Robbin Roberts and Jim Konstanty who can be counted on to chill sluggers like the Yanks.

Sawyer has no complaints about the excellent jobs of the first two pitchers. They contained the Yankee power hitters like Yogi Berra and Johnny Mize. They put the shackles on DiMaggio until he rocketed Roberts' pitch into the upper left field seats yesterday afternoon. But this is the end of the line. Now the battles figure to cut loose.

Lopat, a chunky lefthander with a knuckler, screwball, slider and a little bit of everything except a fast ball, may not match Vic Raschi and Allie Reynolds in effectiveness. Still, in the vast confines of the Stadium, Lopat can be expected to pitch his usual steady, capable game. To succeed he must continue to check the righthander power of Del Ennis and Andy Seminick, strangely silent in the early games.

It could be that Sawyer already has made up his mind to pitch Miller but doesn't want the youngster to worry about the job overnight. A handsome rookie who made the big hop from Terre Haute, Ind. to the majors in one season, Miller won his first eight starts. His best pitch is a sinking fast ball. Since mid-Sept. the 24-year-old rookie has been troubled by a sore shoulder. In his last two starts he pitched fine ball in the early innings but weakened badly.

Players Cannot Agree On Where That Ball Went

Philadelphia, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Did you ever try calling balls and strikes from the grandstand?

Are you an expert enough to classify every ditch even if you are 100 or 200 feet away from the plate?

Well, listen now to some testimony from men right in the thick of things. If they can't decide what happened, what chance have you got back there in your seat, peering down from a bad angle?

This is on a very important pitch, too. It was the one Joe DiMaggio belted for a home run in the 10th inning of yesterday's World Series game to give victory to the New York Yankees over the Philadelphia Phillies, 2 to 1.

Robin Roberts, the Phillie pitcher, declared:

"It was a fast ball, belt high. I had to challenge him with a fast one. I was behind two balls and one strike."

Said Joe DiMaggio:

"I thought it was a low, inside slider, the ball I hit. Course he will probably say it was something else. They always do. But it looked like a low inside slider to me. I went down with it."

Now a fast ball and a slider are two entirely different things. A fast ball is just what you would think—a ball thrown with all the speed a pitcher can command. A slider is curve ball with a gentle bend to it, instead of a fast break—the pitcher grips it on the smooth part instead of on the seams, so it does not get as much twist as does a curve ball.

Furthermore, there is a disagreement of a couple of feet as to where it was. Joe said it was right down at his knees. Roberts said it came in belt high.

So if such experts as these can't agree, what hope has a grandstand expert?

College View's Bowling Team Advances In Loop

Women's Bowling League
Double N Restaurant ... 9 3 800
College View Cleaners ... 6 6 500
Carolina Cleaners ... 5 7 417
WGTC ... 4 8 353

College View Cleaners jumped into the thick of the Women's League scrap Wednesday night when they took three games from Carolina Cleaners, showing that team into third place, one game out of fourth.

Double N Restaurant did the same thing in beating WGTC and thus maintaining a strangle hold on top spot.

The wins came not on scintillating bowling by the winners but on just so-so play by the losers. None of the scores was equal to last week's when high single and three-game totals were run up. Consequently, those bowlers having high averages last week sank rather low but still, in most cases, maintained their order.

Highest game recorded was 152 by Polly Dall of Carolina Cleaners. She followed, though, with a 90 that put her out of the running for three game honors. Audrey Leggett walked off with that honor with a score of 393, still short of her best total of 439 set last week.

High team score for a single was rolled by College View Cleaners, this week's most improved team. Score was 603. Highest three game total went to Double N Restaurant with 1 639.

Four highest averages to date: Edith Nisbet, Carolina, 126; Audrey Leggett, Double N, 128; Margaret Clark, WGTC, 120; and Frances Cassick, WGTC, 119.

DOUBLE WEDDING

By Adelaide Humphries

Chapter 18

She had wanted a job, she had taken this, and she meant to keep it as long as she could. If she did not have as much to do as she would have liked, it was better to have regular hours rather than long idle days in the little apartment. Not only long, but since Uncle Quentin had left, hours that were lonely too.

Another thing she liked was being financially independent. Sandy gave her money regularly for the household expenses, but she would not have dreamed of asking for any extra to take care of personal requirements.

One evening after devouring his favorite dish—a thick, juicy steak—Sandy, raising a quizzical eyebrow, asked how they could afford such a magnificent feast.

"It wasn't so expensive," Stephanie protested hastily, foreseeing that he might raise objections if he discovered that she was using any of her earnings for the tabs.

"I've been misinformed then," Sandy returned, but he spoke good-naturedly, settling back to enjoy his after-dinner smoke. "I not only thought steaks like that delectable morsel would be above a poor working man's pocketbook, but that you had to have a butcher in the family in order to wrangle one at any price."

"Oh, I stand in good with my butcher!" Stephanie said with a smile, as she began gathering up dishes. Then she decided to let them wait, although her orderly instinct usually forbade any such dalliance. Sandy seemed in an excellent humor. She decided to sit down again so he would not feel she was hurrying him. "Do you have to go back to the office again tonight?" she asked.

"I'm supposed to," he said. "But I'm not sure I will. Home sweet home looks pretty good to me tonight." He pushed back his chair, putting his feet upon another one. He was no respecter of furnishing, comfort being the first requisite.

She gave a little start at Sandy's next words, since the could almost have meant that he read her mind. "You don't really like your job—not much more than I like mine, do you, Stevie?" he asked. "You'd rather be fusing around a home. You weren't cut out to be a career gal." He did not wait for her to answer. Instead, he put his feet down on the floor, leaning forward to discard his cigarette; both restless movements. "What I ought to do," he said, his brow furrowing in its two deep lines "is to walk out of the picture—same as your Ex did so gallantly. I ought to let you go back to him and the bed of roses he could give you. If I were a gentleman, like Mr. Hale, I suppose that's what I would do."

"Must you talk that way?" Her eyes begged him not to; soft color mounted her cheeks. For the past weeks they had scrupulously avoided any such talk. Marking time.

"Now and then." His tone was dry, movement he got up and rounded the table. He stood over her. His voice held a ruff note.

"I'm not a gentleman, as I just told you, Stevie. I'm just a man. So that now and then—" He broke off.

"Guess I'll go back to the office after all," Sandy turned from the window. His handsome mouth was set in a grim line.

"Sandy, I'm sorry." Her voice was low, regretful behind him.

He swung round once more, to face her. He took a step toward her, but then—as before when he had checked and controlled his movements and emotions—he stopped.

She was gathering up the dishes, her hands both filled, her eyes bent upon the task.

So that he knew that that regret in her voice was still all she could give him.

Sandy did not return to his office that night. Instead, he walked the streets until he was so foot-weary he could walk no longer. Then he came back to let himself out into the apartment. Stephanie's door was closed.

He threw himself on the couch, now neatly made up into a bed.

Oh, Stevie did all the homemaking duties expected of a wife with the one thing let out that made the others count—the love a wife was also supposed to supply.

He did not bother to undress, shedding only his coat, kicking off his shoes, ignoring the carefully folded pajamas placed on the Morris chair with his robe and slippers.

He was so tired he knew he would sleep. He would not be haunted by those nightmares this night. Maybe never haunted by them again.

For during his long walk, hands thrust deep in overcoat pockets, collar turned up around his neck, cold, clear air stinging his face, Sandy had reached a decision.

They could not go on as they were, he and Stevie. This was no marriage.

He might not be as much of a gentleman as Grant Hale, but if he was a man, any kind of man, he could take himself out of the picture as Grant had. He could do that much for Stevie. Then she would be free to go back to Grant, to all the things he could give her. She would be happy again. And Stevie's happiness was really all that mattered.

Orphaned Korean Child May Find Home In America

Los Angeles, Oct. 6—(AP)—Butch Chango, an 11-year old Korean whose mother and father were killed by American planes in the Inchon landing, may find a foster home with two Southern California marines.

The Immigration Service showed a letter today from Cpl. Gordon M. Paris of San Pedro and Al Poy, Lomita, asking permission to bring Butch back to the U. S., because he saved their lives.

Butch warned them that Red troops were near, the letter said. They asked him how he knew.

"Because the crickets have stopped chirping over there in the rice field," Butch said.

The marines turned a machine gun on the rice paddy and smoked out a squad of Red Koreans.

Farm Leaders Speculate Rigid Cotton Quotas May Be Ended

By OVID A. MARTIN
Washington, Oct. 5—(AP)—Farm leaders speculated today on the possibility that secretary of Agriculture

Brannan might suspend rigid government marketing quotas on this year's very short cotton crop. The secretary announced Tuesday that all production controls would be dropped for next year's crop because supplies are dwindling and needs are increasing under the defense program.

Then Wednesday the government (a) clamped down on the export of cotton lint and cotton pulp, and (b) authorized the importation of an additional 1,500,000 pounds of long staple cotton.

The commerce department announced it would stop issuing export licenses for lint and cotton pulp, both used in market explosive. The action was taken at the request of the Agriculture department, commerce officials said.

The importation of an additional 1,500,000 pounds of Egyptian-type long staple cotton by next January 31, was ordered by President Truman. The action was taken on the recommendation of the U. S. tariff commission, "in order to enable domestic users to obtain their essential requirements for such cotton."

Meantime, the International Cotton Advisory Committee—an inter-governmental group set up to advise governments on cotton production and supply situation as "more stringent" that at any time since the 1930's. Prices, the committee pointed out, have climbed to the highest point in 30 years.

The group estimated world production this year at some 27,000,000 bales, 4,000,000 less than last year.

Some American farm leaders said they saw no justification for continuing quotas on this year's crop because the situation that prompted the government to impose them no longer exists.

Quotas were put into effect a year ago because cotton supplies were large then and the government wanted to prevent an increase in a surplus that might break prices and to the government's financial burden under its price support program.

Training School For Fire Wardens

N. S. Tyson, Pitt county forest warden, will attend a six-day training school in forest fire control work early in October.

The school is being conducted by the N. C. Department of Conservation and Development and will be attended by division of forestry wardens from all six districts in the eastern part of the state. Headquarters will be established at the N. C. State College forestry students' camp in the Hofmann Forest. At this site, complete camp and classroom facilities are available in the heart of the 84,000 acre Hofmann Forest. Extensive field work, at the scene of last spring's disastrous Hofmann forest fire, will be featured in the program.

Courses of instruction will include such subjects as fire suppression methods, short wave radio operation, fire plans, law enforcement, fire weather danger prediction, smokechaser and towerman training, equipment operation, damage appraisal, forest management, and public relations.

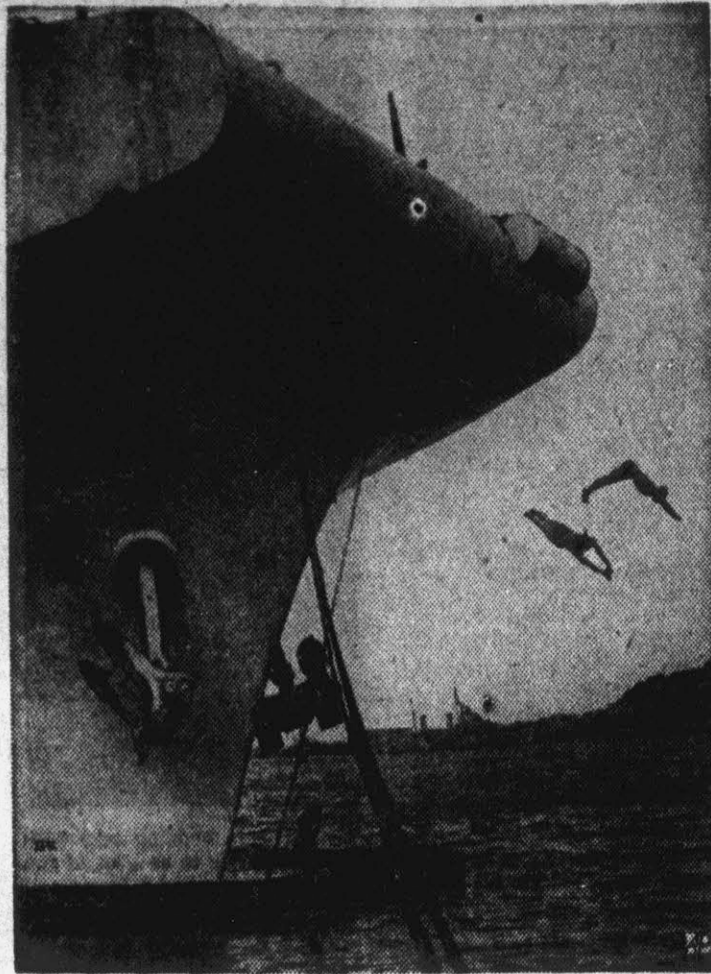

A full scale field problem will conclude the week's training. During all classes, emphasis will be placed on methods of training men in the warden's county organization.

Forest Service officials state that one of the chief purposes of the school is to qualify every man in the organization to assume greater responsibilities during periods of emergency forest fire conditions as were experienced last spring. As Pitt County Warden Tyson expresses it, "our problem is to make best use of the man power we have available and intensive training seems to be the answer."

Condemed U. S. Officer To Get Review Of Case

U. S. 8th Army Headquarters, Oct. 6—(AP)—A U. S. 8th Army spokesman said today the case of Lt. Leon A. Gilbert, York, Pa., Negro, condemned to death for misconduct in battle, has been placed in the hands of the Judge Advocate General in Washington.

Gilbert was charged with "misbehaving himself before the enemy by refusing to advance with his command. It had been ordered forward by Col. Norton V. White, the regimental commander, to engage with North Korean forces, which forces the said command was then opposing."

Gilbert was a member of Company A, 24th Regiment. The alleged offense was committed near Sangju on July 31.

The lieutenant was tried early in September and the sentence of death imposed. This was reviewed by the division commander, Maj. Gen. William B. Kean, who upheld the verdict.

The spokesman said the Judge Advocate General will submit recommendations to the Secretary of the Army who will review the case. It will then go to President Truman for final decision.

Gilbert in a letter to his wife, said he refused to obey the order because it meant certain death for himself and his men.

He asked her to go direct to the President for clemency.

U. S. About To Reject British Arms Program

Washington, Oct. 6—(AP)—The United States is about to turn down a three year British rearmament program calling for approximately $1,500,000,000 in free American aid.

Officials who have been studying the British proposal for nearly two months indicated they believe the amount asked by Britain is too large in view of the results that can be expected.

Newspaper Man Speaker Elks Program Here

By CHESTER WALSH
D. J. Whichard, Jr., publisher of the Greenville Daily Reflector, guest speaker last night at the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks' National Newspaper Week program, said newspapers of the smaller cities are closer to the hearts of the people.

These people in the foreground were rounded up during the investigation into the theft of about $100,000 in telephone company funds by the "brasserie brigade" at Miami, Fla. And now they are hiding their faces from the camera at the Dade county jail. Left to right: Lawrence Herbert and his wife, Bonnie; Mrs. Betty Corrigan, and her husband, William. The two women were charged with grand larceny. They were accused of stealing from the telephone company counting room over a period of years by hiding rolls of coins in their brassieres. (AP Photo).

and be fair with its readers and advertisers if its paper is to prosper and succeed." Whichard said. His description of the gathering of news and assembling it in the printed pages and distributing the papers to thousands of readers was interesting.

The option on the lease of the Terminal Commission, chairmaned by Guy C. Evans, was extended to June 1, 1951. The action was done in concurrence with the recent extension by the Pitt County Commissioners. Both governing bodies own the property jointly.

It was moved and passed that the city refund the office rent on the Rehabilitation Commission when it moves its office soon. The rent is paid until the first of the year.

Mrs. Ruel W. Tyson appeared to request the Armory on the night of October 27 for the annual Business and Professional Women's Halloween carnival. The request was granted on condition the club coordinate the date with Superintendent of Schools J. H. Rose.

Amos Evans, resident of Hillsdale, appeared requesting construction of a road from the north end of the residential development east to Hooker road for primary use by school buses. The request was referred to the street department and a committee including C. K. Beatty and Alderman Pollard for further investigation.

A letter was read from W. J. Moore and Lt. Colonel George Pittman, Falkland residents, thanking the city for its services in fighting the recent fire in the community.

A request by Marshall Evans was granted permitting him to mark off in concrete a 20x20 plot in the cemetery which belongs to him.

A motion by Stafford was passed appointing an acting city clerk to sign bills this month instead of City Clerk J. O. Duval. The board was informed that Duval is confined to his bed and will be unable to authorize payment on city checks.

A refund on taxes paid in error was granted to Mrs. Mittie Jones on the $600 property evaluation. Another refund was granted amounting to $13.37 to Home Building and Loan Association to be credited to one of its patrons.

The Board granted Allen Howell permission to operate a taxi in the City of Greenville.

A committee was appointed to investigate possible construction of a sidewalk in front of a resident's home on Dickinson Avenue. Committee members appointed are Aldermen Rogers, chairman, and Elks and Waldrop.

The Board voted to pay all bills and adjourned.
