a new twist in government operations as we have come to know them during the past decade. It is a thing for which people have hoped, but it is a thing which many were beginning to believe would never become a reality.

The $580 million slice from the federal appropriation sounds like a lot of money. But when one stops to consider it comes off a single package appropriation of more than $5 billion dollars, it amounts to slightly less than two per cent of the total appropriation. It's a lot of money to be saved for the taxpayers, but it is only a scratch on the surface of the mountain of non-essential government spending which is being done.

In addition to the billions which are being spent by the government on "non-essential" projects, there are millions upon millions of dollars in our federal spending program which are being wasted even in the "essential" categories of spending.

During this period of international unrest and fluctuation of our domestic economy, the federal government and the state and local governments as well should seek to do away with the waste which is siphoning a steady stream of dollars from their coffers.

News Behind The News
By ROGER WARREN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Governmental restrictions on home building may avert what might have been an economic setback which would have cost the Democratic party the Presidential election in 1952.

Mild restrictions on housing credit have already been imposed, but more are coming. The Federal Reserve Board is expected to give the credit screw a few more turns and, as priorities become necessary to advance further the rearmament program, housing construction will be slowed down more. Steel and cement have already become hard to get and other essential materials will become scarce.

TAPERING—No clamp-down on housing construction is expected but, as present plans become realities, new homes will require larger down payments, stepped up monthly payments and higher total prices. This is likely to turn what has been a racing boom into a walking dribble.

This will mean a tapering off of one of the most spectacular construction binges in the history of this or any other country. And that, in the opinion of many Washington economists, is good. Without it, they believe, there would be a bust that would blow Harry S. Truman out of the White House.

PHENOMENAL—The housing boom since the war has been phenomenal. We have stepped up construction to the rate of a million units a year, each apartment, whether in a house or larger structure, being counted as one unit.

The boom has spread far beyond the construction industry itself. Each new unit has meant a market for three, four or more new rugs, a refrigerator, a suction cleaner, a radio or two, a considerable footage of soil pipe, heating equipment, and all manner of furniture and other appliances. Thus, it has brought a high rate of sales and prosperity to thousands of retailers and wholesalers, as well as contractors.

The nation was critically short of housing accommodations at the end of the last war, as anyone over five can remember. Millions of families were doubling up or living in sub-standard quarters.

But the rate of building, much higher than the rate of formation of new families, was fast gaining on the backlog of demand.

COLLAPSE—If the Korean war, plus its lesson on the importance of rearming for other possible aggressions, had not intervened, home building would continue at its million-a-year rate.

Then, at some future date, the country would have awakened to the fact that it was over-built. At that point there would have been a collapse. Private lenders would quickly withdraw from financing housing. Contractors would have found themselves suddenly without contracts. Property values would fall. And the thousands of retailers who were supplying the things to change housing into homes would see their markets deflate with a not-too-dull thud.

DISPUTE—At just what date the country would be over-built is a matter of dispute among economists. Or—what is more important—at just what date buyers discovered it.

Some say we are already over-built, and they point to the longer and longer lists of apartments and homes for rent in many large cities as evidence of their claim. They say that sales of new units would have slowed down long ago if government guarantees had not made credit so soft.

Other authorities say that we are still a million or so units behind current requirements. Whichever is right, it seems certain that the housing boom would be punctured sometime between now and the elections in 1952.

If the puncture were to come, it would undoubtedly have such serious effects on the economy that the political repercussions would be sharp. Something else, possibly, would intervene. The fertile political imagination of the Truman administration might be expected to pull an economic rabbit out of a tam-o-shanter. But that's not necessary now. Joe Stalin has done our hat trick for us.

TIME—What we have today is the prospect of a tapering off of the housing boom instead of a sharp bust. That does not minimize the adjustments that will have to be made.

Contractors will have to shift to government work. Retailers who have been supplying the "new" market may have to develop other markets to the extent that lesser supplies of home goods permit them. Manufacturers may have to turn their eyes away from charts that foretold millions of consumers sales in the home-furnishing and appliance fields, and focus them on the realities of the consumer market and the new, growing government market.

But at least all of them—all of us—will have time to adjust. Adjusting may hurt, but it may be far less painful than a bust.

BACKLOG—Whether or not the country has over-built housing, the basic situation provides a healthy future. There may still be a backlog of demand for one, one and a half, or two million housing units. Even if there is a theoretical backlog of zero, as marriages are performed and new family units are created, a real backlog will be created and grow.

When we are over the hump on rearmament, or if we ever can establish peace with the Russians, this backlog will insure a high rate of construction activity. It means that when men are released from war work and the army there will be jobs for them, and when war manufacture is reconverted to peacetime industry, there will be markets waiting, too.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

One of the most interesting families in the entertainment world is the Bing Crosby sixsome, including Wife Dixie, four boys ranging in age from 12 to 17, and Bing. During World War II the story got around that the voice of Crosby was better known than the voice of Franklin Roosevelt. Considering the worldwide sale of Bing's record of "White Christmas" that statement seems logical.

Of course the latest colorful story about the Crosbys is about Gary (for Gary Cooper) Crosby, the oldest boy. The Decca record company hit on a gold mine when they asked Gary to make a few records with his old man. The record labels read "Gary Crosby and friend," "Sam's Song" and "Play a Simple Melody" have already sold half a million copies. The president of Decca records sums Gary up when he says "The kid reflects his father's charm and personality. He's got a good voice, a nice manner, he learns his songs quickly, and well, he just seems to be a chip off the old block."

Any praise Bing receives for his boys is quickly transferred to his wife. He says, "Most of the credit goes to Dixie She raised Gary, she raised the twins, she raised Lanny—heck, she even raised me."

Gary has recorded three more songs with Bing for the Christmas trade. They're entitled "That Christmas Feeling," "I'd Like to Hitch a Ride With Santa Claus," and "Happy Snow Man." The Decca company would like Gary to solo, but Dixie and Bing won't allow it. Bing says, "This boy is not turning groaner until he finishes his schooling. He's got one more year to go at Bellarmine (a prep school) and after that he's either going to Santa Clara or Stanford. He sings pretty well and we don't mind making these records as long as it doesn't interfere with his school work. But at this time, I honestly think that Gary is a whole lot more interested in football, young ladies, and amusements of that sort."

Gary expresses his opinion, too: "We have a cattle ranch in Nevada, you know, and it's a little early for me to know what I want to be, but I sure like animal husbandry and agriculture and stuff like that. Maybe I'll study ranching and agriculture."

"Making records with Dad is a lot of fun, and I like music. I play the trombone, you know, and I like being on Pop's radio show, but as I said, it's too early to tell what I'm gonna do when I finish school. I like a lot of things."

What pleases Gary most is what Bing said to newspapermen last summer. "Gary is just about the best having hand I've got on the ranch." Gary responded, "Coming from Pop, that sure was sweet music to my ears. Pop isn't a fast man with praise."

And I thank Consuelo Anderson.

Business Today

By ELMER ROSSNER
Santa's pack this year will set an all-time record for a variety of new playthings in spite of the shortages of some raw materials. But the American Toy Institute, research association for manufacturers, warns both merchants and parents will be wise to shop early for specially-wanted merchandise. In spite of the high level of production, the manufacturers believe their enlarged market (40 per cent more children to tease for toys than before the last war), makes it possible that some producers won't be able to refill reorderers.

The Institute reports this year's toys have greater play value and durability than ever before. Emphasis has been on testing for suitability for different ages, and more toys will have informative labels to make wise selection easier.

Prices? They're close to 1949 levels, the Institute says, a shade higher in a number of cases because production costs hopped on the up-escalator during the height of the manufacturing season for Christmas delivery.

The Wild West craze of course is most noticeable, with cowgirl suits, complete with two-gun holsters, offered as well as the now-familiar male cowpoke regalia.

Many new toys also emphasize career play; such as model urban street layouts with blocks representing stores, houses, etc., for budding young architects; high-powered miniature Diesel locomotives; scale model fire engines with extension ladders; toy garages with pumps for washing cars, oil-changing apparatus, and working elevators for roof parking.

New thrill for young artists is a special paint adapted for painting rubber toys. A three-dimensional paint set uses salt to create decorative effects. New thrill for mothers; crayons whose marks are easily removable.

The dolls feature new marks of realism, with plastic surfaces making possible sharper outlines of features and more flexible skin. One newborn-type doll actually has a heart beat, and its facial expressions change when a concealed plunger is operated.

Better get ads and displays ready early this year; it looks like a big season and lots of excitement for the bigger-than-ever juvenile market.

BANK FURNISHES CREDIT DEPT.

Here's an idea for banks and specialty shops too small to operate their own credit departments.

In Paterson, N.J., a local savings and trust company provides credit facilities by checking the credit rating of customers, and giving those with satisfactory standing a charge-plate and a monthly credit quota. The customer can buy at cooperating stores and have the merchant send the sales slip to the bank. The merchant subscribing to the agreement have to carry accounts at the bank, but save all the expense of operating a credit department themselves.

NEW SERVICE FOR TRAVELERS

A new and expanded service for U. S. exporters and importers is now being offered by the Societe Generale de Surveillance S. A. of Geneva, Switzerland, a long-established insurance service. The company now offers to assist American firms with other problems relating to foreign trade in any particular country or area where it has agents or representatives. The company says its network of correspondents around the world have a detailed knowledge of local trading conditions, sources of supply, foreign exchange, governmental export and import controls, etc.

The firm's knowledge of "sources of supply" sounds especially interesting in case materials here tighten up again.

ASSORTMENTS TOO NARROW?

Department-store inventories swelled ten per cent in August over the month before, and were 12 per cent above a year ago in dollar value at least, but the Textile Distributors Institute the other day complained that retail stores still are not carrying sufficient stocks of ready-to-wear.

"They're losing sales daily by not having what the public wants," complained Herman Chopak, the Institute's president. That's why, he asserts, soft goods lines are still lagging behind hard goods in the present (or recent) sales boom.

NEW AND HOT DRYING FRAMES: New non-breakable drying frames for sweaters, socks and gloves have steel cores covered in red with resilient plastic resin which imparts rust resistance, according to the maker (Queen Manufacturing Co., 427 Lake St., Chicago).

PROJECTOR: A projector designed especially for filmstrips and two-inch square slides in small and medium classrooms and auditoriums has been developed (by American Optical Co., Instrument Division, Buffalo, N.Y.).

Hal Boyle's Column

By CYNTHIA LOWRY (For Hal Boyle)

Summer time is marking-time and once Labor Day has gone everyone, it seems, starts busting out with new projects, new styles and new everything. It seems to me that Labor Day, much more than New Year's Day, marks the beginning of the year's work and really should be stock-taking time and resolutions-making time.

I've been looking over our more-an-old word I picked up in a cross-word puzzle—and am now in a position to report on some trends.

For instance, it looks to me as though the 1950-51 season will see the end of the amazing vogue to title everything "The Story." It was a little tiresome, I must say, while it lasted for we had that title mixing into everything from movies—starting with "The Stratton Story"—to magazine pieces. It also looks like the end has been reached in the "This I Remember" titles. In the latter, Mrs. Roosevelt led the field, with "This I Remember," but Mr. Lillenthal came a close second with "This I Believe." Anyway, enough is enough.

While being literary, I might well note that summer probably has pulled the curtain on the psychiatric mystery story and film. Frankly, I got sick and tired of reading whodunits which actually sounded like case-histories and I never did get over a feeling of disappointment when, at the end, I learned that the mass murderer was old Abner, who acted so bloody thirsty because he was an only child.

It is too much to hope that this fall will not start with somebody issuing a blast at conservative men's fashions, or men's conservative fashions. But there are extremely hopeful signs on the female fashion fronts. Skirts are sticking at their old, last year's length of around 14 inches. There isn't too much change in the lines of clothes, and a girl for the first time in many seasons can sneak by with a last year's suit and not feel like a relic on her annual outing to the savings bank. As far as hair is concerned, things are a little more difficult.

It was only a short time ago that everybody, but everybody, was busting to the barber and getting her shining tresses shorn to look boyish. Now, it seems the properly coiffed woman will wear her hair slightly higher than shoulder-length. This is very difficult because hair just doesn't grow that fast. Personally, I never did get myself a chie shingle, so in about three months I think I can be high-style. I think, in the interests of us slaves to Dior, the least they could have decreed was very long hair so we could fill in the awkward period with rats and hair pieces.

(Incidentally, there's quite a vogue around these parts to have a single front strand of white hair. I have just learned this can be acquired in jig time by applying a quantity of liquid white shoe cleaner to the forehead and letting it dry. Everyone, in the fall, has a little white cleaner left over and now finally there's a use for it.)

On the entertainment side, more people will buy television sets, and housewives will complain wistfully about the old days when it was fun and a change to go out to the movies.

I have noted with interest that the advice-givers are concentrating on how to get along with in-laws and stepping up to as little as 10 days the required time to get a man. There's some slight interest in advising men on how to be better husbands. This is brand new.

The wonder-drugs keep coming out at an appallingly fast pace, so it looks as though we will continue to be hypochondriacs, and, finally, the financial institutions will keep hammering away at women, trying as usual to get them to love their bank and balance their checkbooks.

As usual, the dollar will continue to buy not much.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—A pert young brunette, Evonne Henderson, is assistant to the representative of the Economic Cooperation Administration's (ECA) Paris office. It's Miss Henderson's job to see what the U. S. can do to increase American travel to Europe.

"Up to now," Miss Henderson told me, "we've found tourism is the biggest single dollar earner. In England tourism brings in more dollars than the country's exports of Scotch whiskey and textiles combined. In France it tops the perfume, wine and textile exports."

Housewives and students do most of the traveling abroad. "From this knowledge, gained by making a survey of the travel market in America, we have decided more thought should be given to housewives," Miss Henderson said. "If they make up the bulk of the travelers they should get special attention, something else besides just the rubber-neck tours with which lots of tourists seem satisfied."

After all, she says, all American housewives don't go to France just to see the Eiffel Tower. Paris is famous for its perfumes. "So we are trying to arrange things that will appeal especially to special interest groups," Miss Henderson said. "Trips to the fields of flowers at Grasse on the Riviera, and to the perfume factories. Visits to Limoges where the porcelain is made, to the Cordon Bleu cooking school in Paris, where the world's famous dishes are concocted."

Many women, Miss Henderson feels, want to see how things they see in their homes and shops or even museums are made. Lots of them want to buy the products they see.

The idea of setting up tours for American housewives is somewhat similar to tours set up for American farm groups last year. One of these was made up of 70 midwestern farmers organized through their Farm Bureaus. They paid their own way, stayed on European farms and saw what Marshall Plan aid had actually accomplished. "They had been a bit skeptical before," she said, "but when they came back they made a total of 650 speeches. The personal contacts brought good will and understanding. The same can be done through the housewives."

What Other Papers Are Thinking

THE LUCKY ONE (Raleigh News and Observer)

Idle speculators should consider the case of the 18,000 persons who have told the Hayden Planetarium in New York that they would like to be passengers on the first rocket ship to outer space.

Discounting the New York policemen under suspicion for accepting graft payments, there must be at least 17,000 other potential passengers who want to take that trip for a variety of reasons. Perhaps a few would like to go to the moon, to see if the cow really can jump over it. A couple of five-percenters might like to stop at Mars, to get the low-down on future munition needs. Some romanticist undoubtedly would choose Venus.

But the luckiest of all the passengers will be that incurable veteran commuter who dashes up to the rocket ship, coattails flying and hat in hand, just as the jets open and the ship zooms away—leaving him behind.

ADVERTISING RESULTS (New Bern Sun-Journal)

The Advertising Council, Inc., with headquarters in New York, backed by American business and all factors of the advertising industry, has just made public a report for the fiscal year of 1949-50. The report was written "before Korea," and does not embrace present accomplishments; but it is pointed out that it is important that business and advertising keep in mind the mechanism of persuasion which was mobilized early in World War II, and it already mobilized to serve the nation in any emergency.

The past year was the biggest "peacetime" year in the history of the organization. Campaigns got good results, and some of them are measurable. For example, the milk-rate death rate of accidents on the nation's highways dropped again. In the five years that the council has conducted its "Stop Accidents" campaign, the death rate has been cut almost in half, despite the vast increase in cars and traffic. Sales of E. F. and G United States Savings Bonds topped redemptions by $1,500,000,000, thus helping to curb inflation.

Practically every state in the Union got better schools and better teachers because citizens acted. Church attendance picked up noticeably as a result of the Religion in American Life campaign. And for the fifth year the rate of man-made fires dropped again in the National Forest areas, saving approximately one million acres of timber land, one of the nation's most vital resources.

During the past year, the volume of public service advertising ran higher than ever. National advertisers continued to support the public service campaigns, through magazines and radio-televisions, and local advertisers stepped up their support through their home town newspapers. The nation's leading advertising agencies gave the council full support, and during the fiscal year 23 agencies contributed their services to the preparation of materials for the campaigns.

American Escape Literature Topic For Club Meeting

The first meeting of the year of the Literature Department was held on Tuesday, October 10, at the home of Mrs. Bill Sermons. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. J. C. Galloway and Mrs. Louis Harrison. Refreshments of tea, sandwiches and dainty homemade cakes were served from the table decorated appropriately with autumn flowers. Mrs. H. R. Phillips, vice chairman, then presided at a short business meeting. She graciously welcomed Mrs. R. P. Rogers and Mrs.

M. N. Maxwell into the department as new members and Mrs. R. V. Keel as guest for the afternoon. Mrs. R. R. Willmann pointed out the many interesting programs ahead on the general theme for this year, "What America Reads Today." Mrs. Walter Krausnick then introduced the speakers on "American Escape Literature," the topic for the day. Miss Mary Greens gave a delightful and thoughtful analysis of the murder mystery story. It has become respectable as literature, she said. Mr. Donald Blood showed how the Confession story has improved and how it too serves a real need. And Miss Eunice McGee, in her humorous way, made it clear that the comics have their values too and are here to stay. Mrs. J. D. Aman invited the group to her home for the next meeting of the Literature Department on October 24.

Longevity Rate In U. S. Closer To Being 'Best'

New York, N.Y.—Longevity in the United States is close to the best in the world, according to the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The gains since the beginning of the century have been greater in our country than in Australia and New Zealand, world leaders with respect to longevity.

In 1901-1910, average length of life in the United States was about 47 years less than in Australia and 9 years less than in New Zealand, the statisticians point out. By 1947, expectation of life for Americans was within 1/4 of a year of Australia's and 1 1/2 years of New Zealand's. Figures for the United States are based on white population for comparability with those of the two other countries.

"The expectation of life at birth in our country increased 16 years for males and 18 years for females since 1901-1910," the statisticians note. "In Australia the corresponding gains were 11 and 12 years, and in New Zealand a little over 9 years and 10 1/2 years."

Over-all mortality in the United States is somewhat higher than in Australia and New Zealand, but at some ages we do better than they, according to the statisticians.

"Boys at ages 1-9 years find life safer in our country than in either Australia or New Zealand; in fact, the death rate at these ages is little more than three-fourths that in Australia. For females, mortality is lower in the United States than in Australia at almost every age period under 40 years; compared with New Zealand, our rates for females are lower at ages 1-4 and 15-29," the statisticians report.

The United States has a lower death rate than Australia for a number of the important infectious diseases, including the principal communicable diseases of childhood, tuberculosis, and influenza and pneumonia. On the other hand, we have a higher death rate from the diseases common in middle and later life, such as the heart disease and cancer, and from accidents.

Lives Upside Down In Writing His Visual Perception Thesis

By FRANK K. TIFFANY
Wichita, Kas.—(AP)—Blame Fred Snyder's pet rats for his 30 days of "topsy turvy" vision. They were slated to do an experiment for him—in visual perception. He was going to write his master's thesis about them.

"But," says the 25-year-old GI graduate student, "I fed 'em, and took good care of 'em. But I couldn't get a big enough colony."

His thesis deadline near, he put on binocular-type inversion glasses and his adventure in upside-down, reversed vision began.

"It was difficult, with the lenses off, to recognize people I'd first met during the test," he remembers. "And it had been quite difficult to recognize people when I put the glasses on — even though I knew them really well."

"At first I was quite struck by the fact that everything was upside down. But as the experiment progressed, I became less and less aware of it."

"Toward the end everything seemed normal — until somebody's say, 'do you really see things upside down?'"

Then, he grinned, he'd start thinking "how queer everything looked."

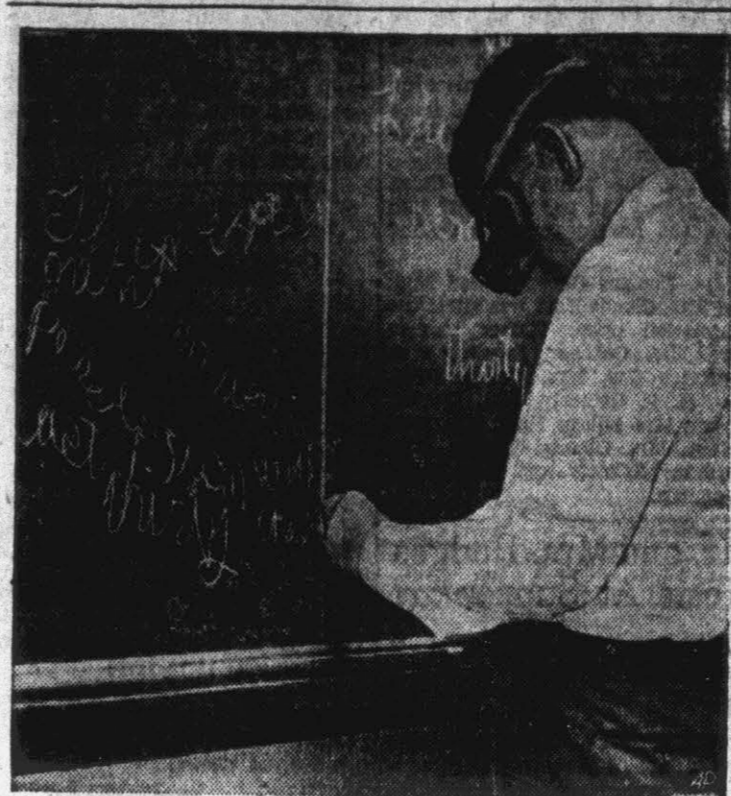

Even fully adjusted, he admits, his upside-down world "never really seems right-side-up again. It's funny—but people walking upside down seem to bounce."

With Dr. N. H. Pronko, psychologist head at the University of Wichita, Snyder feels he's helped prove that vision is a learning process.

In 30 days of seeing things in reverse, Snyder found he could perform certain tests quicker than before he donned the glasses. In others, he quickly reached or neared pre-test speeds.

His card sorting speeded up from 114 seconds to 85.8 seconds, for example.

He hit a pre-test time of 54 seconds on the Purdue peg-board—a cribbage score-board — like gadget common in college psychology labs.

SEEING IN REVERSE — Fred Snyder experimenting.

His best time, with the glasses on, was 56.6 seconds.

Chief improvement was in mirror tracing. Seated before a mirror, Snyder traced the outline of a star with an electrical stylus that recorded his blunders to either side of the star's grooved outline.

The mirror didn't turn things upside down, but it stuck his hand out toward him instead of away. His inversion glasses turned this all upside down, and gave it a left-right reverse.

His best pre-test time was 12 seconds. He hit 7.8 seconds on his 29th day of reversed vision. Best time since the glasses came off—10.4 seconds.

They're still trying to figure that one out.

As expected, his performance time jumped radically when he first put the glasses on. They expected it to jump again—less wildly—when he took the glasses off, and it did, on everything but the pegboard. When the two adjustment peaks are stricken out—5 days at the start, one day at the end—his performance times fell into what Dr. Pronko calls "the normal curve of learning."

Snyder had to learn to read, write, eat, walk—and avoid collisions—in reverse. He ran into a lot of people he tried to miss. He stumbled down stairs his eyes told him he was climbing, hanging by his feet.

There were two things he could do normally—type by touch system, and sleep. He got a lot of typing alone—notes for his thesis.

Family's Second Son 'Came Back From The Dead'

Cobden, Ill., Oct. 11—(AP)—Joseph Hicks is a Cobden couple's second son to "come back from the dead."

Word was received here that Hicks, missing 69 days behind Red Korean lines, had returned safely to American lines after enduring incredible hardship in preference to surrender.

The first news of their son's exploit came to Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Hicks here in a news dispatch yesterday from Associated Press correspondent Hal Boyle.

They had been hoping against hope he'd turn up safely—but since another son, Harold survived the Bataan Death March in World War II, they feared their luck might not hold.

"All the time since Joe has been missing," his mother said, "it seemed the Lord couldn't be so merciful to us that we should have two sons reported as missing in action and yet return both of them to us."

The older brother was found a prisoner in Japan years after the fearful death march. Joe's last letter was dated July 16.

LAST HORSE DRIVE

Hanna, Alta.—(AP)—Probably the last of the famous horse drives from the Canadian prairies to the United States left here recently. A dozen Canadian cow-boys rode nine days to herd almost 500 Alberta horses

The first successful demonstration of a motion picture, made in 1889 at West Orange, N. J., showed a man sneezing.

Singapore—(AP)—The first Japanese ship to dock in Singapore since Japan's surrender in 1945 arrived here recently with 57 Japanese crewmen, en route to Penang, South Johore, to load 9,000 tons of bauxite for Japan.

DOUBLE WEDDING

By Adelaide Humphries

Chapter 22
 "Whewwwww..." This was a long-drawn gasp from Miss Phipps' wrinkled throat.
 "I couldn't believe it," Stephanie remembered how numb she had been, not just her mind, but all of her body. "It took a long while for me to be able to believe that Sandy was actually coming back."
 "I should think so!"
 "Grant had warned me that Sandy would not be the same boy I had loved, that he would be a stranger. I guess, though," Stephanie admitted, for this retelling was making it much clearer to her. "I expected him to be the same. I expected to go on—Grant had left, of course, for you see I was legally married to Sandy—to go on right where we had left off. I'll never forget when he got off the plane. He looked just the same, so tall, so fair, wearing that wide grin of his."
 "Uh, huh," Miss Phipps nodded approval.
 "For a second it seemed the same." Stephanie's heart swelled as it had in that long-ago moment, then the swelling subsided, a deflated balloon. "But it wasn't. Everything went wrong from the very beginning—the second beginning! Sandy didn't take me in his arms and kiss me, as he did before he left. Maybe—I guess I am just finding out why now—because he found me changed; maybe because he was afraid that I did not want him to."
 "Tit, tit!" They should have rushed into each other's arms, the heroine and the hero—that was the way Miss Phipps would have had it—yet that would have brought the story to an end.
 "I told him that night about Grant." She knew now that she had blundered in that telling. She had thought she was being so fair, so straightforward. But she should not have told Sandy then; not until she had shown him that she still loved him, that her heart was rejoicing because he was alive, there beside her.
 "He took it the way Sandy takes everything—with a laugh. Only I see now that it was the kind of thing people call the last straw. It broke Sandy all in pieces."

 "Um, ummmmm..." Miss Phipps swallowed hard.
 "There isn't much more," Stephanie said. "We've been all mixed up—both of us. I, worse than Sandy. I see that now too. All we had to do was love each other. Instead of doubting and wondering and questioning; trying to figure the tangle out. Letting other people come back into our lives—like Sandy insisting Grant and I be friends again—and my mother trying to interfere."
 "Don't you do it!" Miss Phipps spoke up in a firm tone now, the tone she used when she was running the office. "No other person knows what's inside anyone else. No one has a right to tell someone else what to do."
 "I'm not going to. And I'm not going to go on any longer wondering and waiting. I'm going to start right where we left off, instead of back at the beginning. Give Sandy my trust and my love. I know I love him."
 "Ahhhh..." Miss Phipps emitted a long blissful sigh.
 "That's why I'm so happy today," Stephanie smiled at Miss Phipps, sharing her happiness because of that inward glow that brought a light into her grave eyes. "Thank you for letting me tell you, Miss Phipps."
 "You poor little thing," Miss Phipps said again. She gave another sigh, as a person does coming back to the monotony of a drab existence. "No wonder you've been mixed-up. Married so many times. Widowed. A couple of husbands, same as a bigamist. Separated, like a woman divorced, and remarried. I've read about such things happening to people, but I never dreamed, no, I never dreamed I'd meet one of them!"
 "I've read about other girls, too," Stephanie said. "And do you know, nearly every one of them went back to their first love."
 Miss Phipps nodded her short-cropped head. "Of course. First love is best."
 "I'm not so sure," Stephanie's eyes held a musing look. "Maybe there is still another, one that grows more slowly, out of the first, out of things shared, trouble and misunderstandings as well as joy—that might be better. The kind of love that would bring both rapture and serenity, that would last forever."

 Now it was Miss Phipps who closed her eyes. She pressed both hands against her heart. "Ah, that was beautiful, beautiful," she murmured. Then opening her eyes, "That's exactly why I am an old maid. But you're wasting time. You ought to run right straight home and make things right. You ought to surprise him by being there ahead of him, all prettied up, waiting. A nice supper, fixed, too."
 Now she was taking an active part; Miss Phipps' plain face looked as if the fallow skin had had a coat of varnish. "There's nothing here for you to do; it's beginning to snow, no one will be coming in, and Mr. Lerner's gone for the day. So you run along, honey: I can take charge of the front office."
 Stephanie said she did not know how to thank her. It was only about an hour before closing time, but she could do her marketing, get home in time to have an extra nice dinner, maybe time to bake a cake—
 Suddenly she was filled with apprehension that something might happen before she could make this one come true. Before she could make Sandy understand that she now saw things as if through new glasses that put her jumbled world into proper focus. She must hurry, hurry, since she could not start these new wheels spinning quickly enough.
 For Stephanie's heart had given her her answer.

French Defense Chief Arrives For Arms Talk

Washington, Oct. 11—(AP)—French defense minister Jules Moch arrives today to press his country's request for a big installment of American dollars to hasten France's rearmament.
 Moch has a date with Secretary of Defense Marshall this afternoon to explain what outside aid France will need before it can begin turning out more guns, tanks and munitions.
 Moch will be joined tomorrow by French Finance Minister Maurice Petsche who is now en route to the United States by ship. Petsche will outline the financial side of France's rearmament picture.
 The two French cabinet members are to meet with Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and a score of American experts to learn:
 1. How much France can expect of the $5,225,000,000 Congress has appropriated to reach nearly a score of friendly countries during this fiscal year, ending next June 30.
 2. What condition the United States will attach to the financial help it is ready to extend to France and eight other Atlantic pact allies.
 France has drawn up plans for creating 15 new army divisions during the next three years but says frankly it cannot shoulder this financial burden without substantial help from the United States and other western European countries.

Taft Critical Of Policy On Labor

Washington, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) accused the administration today of preventing constructive solutions of labor, farm and health programs by insisting that Congress accept its proposals on an all-or-nothing basis.

He also said it is useless to expect a Democratic controlled Congress to make any thorough investigations which might prove embarrassing to the administration.

Taft, the senate Republican policy leader now up for re-election, said in a weekly statement to Ohio voters that the only way to get a "truly independent" Congress is to elect Republican lawmakers on Nov. 7.

He said that if President Truman and the CIO political action committee succeed "in purging from Congress all those who have opposed his socialist program, Congress of course will be completely subordinate to the wishes of labor union officials."

Even if the new Congress elected next month is similar to the present Democratic-controlled Congress Taft said, "it will be almost impossible to develop any constructive policies in domestic affairs."

Winterville Ruritan Has Ladies', Charter Night

Winterville, Oct. 10.—More than 50 persons were on hand last night to celebrate the tenth annual Ladies' and Charter Night held by the Winterville Ruritan Club.

The gala affair, held in the high school lunch room, opened with a welcome by Mrs. Eve Jackson and response by the Rev. J. A. Cole.

Following introduction of guests, a chicken supper was served by members of the Literary Club of Winterville.

Two selections, "Danny Boy" and "Short'ning Bread," were rendered by Mrs. William May, who then led the group in singing.

Sam Bundy, principal of the Farmville high school and well-known after-dinner speaker, then spoke to the club members, wives and guests present.

Combining his usual humor with choice bits of advice, the speaker reminded the local club members of the work which their club has yet to do. He praised the Ruritan Club, an organization which is only about 15 years old, first originated in Virginia.

"You must take advantage of the opportunities that are offered you, which will help to make your community a better place to live in," he said, "and one of the best points of any club of this type is the fact that it brings men together in harmony and fellowship which enables them to do things as a group."

"Not all years of club work will be as successful as the past ones but we still must set our objectives high and try to fulfill them," Bundy commented. The speaker then pointed out the receipt paying operation carried on in Winterville during which time the entire road system of the city was paved on the "pay-as-you-go" basis. "It is the only project of its kind that I know of," the speaker stated.

In closing Bundy reminded the group present that the world lacks appreciation and "we need to have a better understanding among ourselves."

Mobile Unit To Quickly Process Donated Blood

Schenectady, N.Y., Oct. 11.—(AP)—A 32-foot, refrigerated truck that will process human blood for medical uses was given its first showing today at the National Academy of Sciences meeting, held at the General Electric Company's new research laboratory.

The truck is the beginning of a new, national blood program. It will be driven directly to donors' homes. In it, their fresh blood will be processed by new automatic machines that extra every vital substance. Only salt water is left when the robots finish. This water is nearly three-fourths of your blood. This human water will contain some alcohol, added to aid blood fraction separations. Because of the alcohol, the Internal Revenue Department required that the water from blood processed here today be returned to Harvard, the origin of the truck, to be poured down special drains to make sure that none of the alcohol was recovered for illegal uses.

The truck was demonstrated by Dr. Edwin J. Cohn, director of the Harvard University Laboratory of Physical Chemistry, and a group of scientists who made the blood separation discoveries.

The program, for which this is the first of a dozen or more trucks to be scattered over the United States, is sponsored by the National Institute of Health, Office of Naval Research, United States Public Health Service and American National Red Cross, with support of the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

Who Runs America?

the Congress? the President?

OR YOU AND THE MAN NEXT DOOR?

RUNNING AMERICA is the joint job of 150,000,000 people. It's the biggest job in the world today—keeping it running for liberty and for freedom. And the whole world's watching to see whether Americans can do it!

IN MUCH OF THE WORLD today, the people have resigned from running their own countries. Others have been quick to step in—first with promises of "security"—and then with whips and guns—to run things their way. The evidence is on every front page in the world, every day.

FREEDOM COMES UNDER ATTACK. The reality of war has made every American think hard about the things he's willing to work and fight for—and freedom leads the list.

But that freedom has been attacked here recently—just as it has been attacked in other parts of the world. One of the most serious threats to individual freedom has been the threat of Government-dominated Compulsory Health Insurance, falsely presented as a new guarantee of health "security" for everybody.

THE PEOPLE WEIGH THE FACTS. In the American manner, the people studied the case for Socialized Medicine—and the case against it.

They found that Government domination of the people's medical affairs under Compulsory Health Insurance means lower standards of medical care, higher payroll taxes, loss of incentive, damage to research, penalties for the provident, rewards for the improvident.

They found that no country on earth can surpass America's leadership in medical care and progress. They found that able doctors, teachers, nurses and scientists—working in laboratories where Science, not Politics, is master—are blazing dramatic new trails to health for Americans—and for the world.

THE "GRASS ROOTS" SIGNALS CONGRESS. In every community in the Nation, people stood up to be counted on this important issue. Thousands of local women's clubs, civic groups, farm, business, religious, taxpayer, medical, educational and patriotic organizations spoke out—giving the great United States Congress its unmistakable Grass Roots signal from home!

And ever watchful, ever sensitive to an alert people, The Congress saw that signal, and heard the people speak out, loud and plain. That's democracy in action. That's the American way!

Today among the 10,000 great organizations on militant public record against "Compulsory Health Insurance" are:

- General Federation of Women's Clubs
- American Legion
- National Association of Small Business Men
- American Farm Bureau Federation
- United States Chamber of Commerce
- National Grange
- National Association of Retail Grocers
- Veterans of Foreign Wars
- National Conference of Catholic Charities
- National Retail Dry Goods Association
- American Protestant Hospital Association
- American Bar Association

Doctors of this Nation are grateful that the people refused to be wooed by the fantastic promises of this un-American excursion into State Socialism. Doctors of America are dedicated to serve their fellow citizens at home and their comrades in uniform, wherever service to this Nation may take them. And the thing they stand ready to fight for—to sacrifice for—to die for—is not the alien way of life of Socialism, but the proudest security of a free and self-reliant people!

THE VOLUNTARY WAY IS THE AMERICAN WAY!

Throughout the Nation, free men and women, working and planning together, are finding the American answer to every question of medical service, care and cost. Hundreds of Voluntary Health Insurance Plans are in health competition—sponsored by doctors, insurance companies, hospitals, fraternal organizations—by industry, agriculture and labor. Today in America—70 million people are protected by Voluntary Health Insurance! Throughout the Nation, families are insuring themselves against the major costs of illness—at reasonable, budget-basis prices. Voluntary Health Insurance takes the economic shock out of illness. Protect your family now. For information, ask your doctor—or your insurance man.

An American's greatest heritage is the right to learn the facts—and to speak his mind. Maintained with honor and used with sincerity—that right will guarantee forever that

Thanksgiving This Year Will Be On November 23

Raleigh, Oct. 11—The governor's office and the department of public instruction are getting a lot of letters asking when Thanksgiving Day will be observed. Business men and sports fans are interested but major concern is manifested by public school folks over the state.

Thanksgiving Day has been fixed by congressional resolution as the fourth Thursday in November of each year, which in 1950 will fall on November 23. Confusion arises out of the fact that for many years the last Thursday in November was observed. Back in 1939, yielding as was charged at the time—to pleas of merchants who wanted a longer period between Thanksgiving and Christmas, President Roosevelt proclaimed Thanksgiving a week earlier, and in those areas two Thanksgiving days were observed. Prior to and at that time, the date was fixed by executive proclamation only. The same confusion occurred in 1940 and 1941.

So on December 26, 1941, the President signed a joint congressional resolution reading as follows: Resolved by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled that the fourth Thursday of November in each year after the year 1941 be known as Thanksgiving Day, and it is hereby made a legal public holiday to all intents and purposes.

Only on rare occasions will there be five Thursdays in November, and most times the fourth Thursday will also be the traditional last Thursday. This year happens to be an exception, because the last Thursday falls on the 30th of the month. However, that does not disturb the effect of the Congressional fixation and Thanksgiving Day will be the fourth Thursday, November 23.

No presidential or gubernatorial proclamation is required to set the date, since the act of Congress takes precedence over executive proclamations.

South Carolina Planning Drama

Rock Hill, S. C., Oct. 11—(P)—Preliminary plans have been made for South Carolina's first large-scale historical drama, to be based on the battle of Kings Mountain.

A committee of York county citizens met here last night and created a committee to begin work on the drama.

The first performance is planned for 1952 at the site of the famous Revolutionary war battle. Thereafter, it will be an annual affair, according to the committee plans.

The committee is scheduled to confer with Paul Green, author of "The Lost Colony," and Kermit Hunter, author of "Unto these Hills." Both plays are pageants based on North Carolina history. The committee will also confer with Samuel Selden, director of the University of North Carolina playmakers, who directs "The Lost Colony" each year.

State Senator Lewis Wallace of York said last night that the state legislature might be persuaded to help finance the production costs. "The Lost Colony" is subsidized by the State of North Carolina.

The play would be staged in the Kings Mountain National Park in York County. Plans call for an outdoor amphitheater in a natural setting.

Firemen and other rescue workers dig in search of workmen buried under tons of earth and debris in the cave-in at an excavation project in downtown Atlanta, Ga., Friday. One worker was dug out and pronounced dead. Four others were believed buried alive. Six were dug out alive and taken to a hospital. The arrow points to the head of one worker who escaped burial completely by holding on to a board. (AP Photo).

Prisons Short Of 'Customers'

Dublin, Oct. 11—(P)—The Irish are so law-abiding these days some of Eire's prisons might have to go out of business.

Gen. Sean MacEoin, justice minister, told Dublin's Chamber of Commerce today his big problem is now to keep the country's five prisons going, what with only 60 men and 62 women behind the bars "and most of them short-termers."

Maennle Hitting Stride In Playing As Offensive End

Pulls Down 16 Passes For Average Of 18.5 Yards; Leads Pirates As Point Scorer; Swain Packs Punch In Rushing

Towering Frank Maennle, the Pirate fullback who was converted to end this year, has really come into his own at his new position.

The lanky, senior flankman from Kearney, N.J. has caught 16 passes for a grand total of 297 yards in three games this season for an excellent average of 18.5 yards per catch.

Maennle played his first game at end with the defensive forces, before being shifted to an offensive spot due to an injury to Ed Tanner. The big pass receiver is now a regular at his left end slot, and is a leading Pirate scorer with 18 points.

Following Maennle in the pass-catching department is Sophomore Dwight Shoe, who plays the opposite flank position. Shoe has gathered in 14 of Thrift's aerials for 178 yards, and 12.7 per catch. Shoe has caught two touchdown passes and scored another on an end around.

Fullback Tom Swain continues to lead the rushing of the Pirates with a 4.9 average per carry. The big, bruising Virginia lad has gained 219 yards in 48 tries. Swain shares East Carolina's scoring honors with Shoe and Maennle with 18 points.

Heralded Roger Thrift, the Pirates' all-conference quarterback who put on an aerial circus at Elon last week with 48 passes, completing 21 of them, is a strong contender for Little-All-American honors this year, as the big sure-shot slinger has completed 85 tosses in 130 attempts for an outstanding 62.1 total yardage. Thrift has averaged 14.8 yards per try.

More Polish For Pass Attack In Pirate Drills

East Carolina's running attack still sputtered in yesterday's scrimmage session, but the passing attack was still effective as the Pirates put in a long, hard workout in preparation for Saturday night's Homecoming tilt with West Carolina here.

All-conference Roger Thrift chunked steadily to Ends Frank Maennle and Dwight Shoe.

Some work was done on mapping out the pass patterns to be used against West Carolina here Saturday night, and brushing up on protection of the passer.

The Pirates' offensive line received many praises on its work of pass protection for Roger Thrift last Saturday night, when the big quarterback tossed a possible new state record of forty-eight times against Elon, completing 21 of them, with three interceptions.

East Carolina drilled yesterday without the services of Ends Ed Tanner and Bob Bradley. Tanner re-injured his leg in the Christians game, and may be lost to the Pirates for two or three weeks, while Bradley is suffering from minor injuries sustained in Saturday's scrap.

Movies of Saturday's game were also studied, as the Pirates reviewed their mistakes against Elon.

Black Cats Assume Lead In Carbon Bowling League

Carbon League (day shift)

Black Cats	5	1	0	.833
Nine Lives	4	2	0	.667
Evereadys	2	4	0	.333
Penlites	1	5	0	.167

The Carbon League's Black Cats moved into first position Monday night in beating the Nine Lives two games out of three. At the end of last week's first league outing for the fall play, both teams were tied for first with three wins each.

In addition, the Evereadys took two games from the Penlites and moved, thereby, from fourth to third place. Bill Wells, the team's top performer and holder of the league's top average, did the majority of the chores for his quintet.

He rolled a new high three-game score of 500 which beats his three-game total of last week by two pins. His highest single, however, was 200, far off the 230 he set last week.

The Evereadys as a team performed well in entering two new scores, both good for second high totals in the single and three game brackets. They rolled 633 for a team total in one game and replaced the Black Cats in second place for three game high with 1,778.

Here is a list of individual averages by team:

Black Cats: Sam Brooks—137; Bruce Hester—118; Ken Whiteley—112; Frances Carawan—108.

Nine Lives: Bill Bryan—160; Marjorie Wells—135; Rommie Mallison—119; Floyd Nichols—83; Henry Flake—81.

Evereadys: Bill Wells—166; Gordon Berry—126; Lloyd Stokes—116; Joe Andrews—85; Cora Midyette—74.

Penlites: Charles Braswell—120; Francis Whelan—120; Joe Tabar—110; Pete Venters—106; Ila Gay—106.

Near Record Set In Track Payoff

New York, Oct. 11—(AP)—Skin Tonic is a sweet tonic to some lucky New Yorkers today. The five-year-old mare won the seventh race at Belmont yesterday and paid the second highest mutual in New York track history, $423.60.

Skin Tonic, ridden by Jack Cano, stepped the seven furlongs in 1:25 4-5. The record payoff on a New York track was $434 straight returned by Markobob on Sept. 3, 1943.

Estelle Page Is Ruling Favorite

Greensboro, N. C., Oct. 11—(AP)—Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill was the ruling favorite as play continued here today in the North Carolina women's golf tournament.

Yesterday Mrs. Page defeated Shirley Redding of High Point 7 and 6. Today she was paired with Jane Thomas of Salisbury, who advanced by defeating Mrs. J. M. Coble of Greensboro yesterday.

Stengel Claims Positions Open

New York, Oct. 11—(AP)—Casey Stengel, set for two years with the best manager's pay in baseball, will not stand pat with his world champion New York Yankees.

Boston, Cleveland, and Detroit are respected by Stengel. So is Washington, which he regards as a potential first division club.

Stengel peered ahead into 1951 today after signing a new two-year contract to manage the Yankees. Old Case can get as high as $75,000 to $85,000 a year under a bonus arrangement. The basic pay is believed to be $65,000.

Stengel generalized about his own club's plans for next season. "I have openings on this club," he said.

"I realize we won with a hard fight. I'd say any young infielder might make our club. Maybe a first or third baseman. Sure, we have openings in the outfield, too. Anybody that can come in and hit home runs can make it.

"Our pitching is in pretty good shape. (Ed) Ford gave me a fourth man."

Ayden And South Edgecombe Tied In Coastal Loop

A terrific scramble for top position in the Coastal conference standings is currently going on between Ayden's defending champions, and Coach Wiley Parker's up and coming South Edgecombe eleven.

Both teams are tied for the lead-entail with two wins apiece, and the league champs may well be decided when these two teams meet at Ayden, October 20.

Ayden, with Teedy Bullock leading the way, has run roughshod over Robersonville and Vanceboro, rolling up a total of 82 points, while holding the opponents to no score.

South Edgecombe's record is almost identical as they have played the same two clubs, scoring 65 points, and holding their conference foes to 9 points.

Only one family battle is scheduled this weekend with Ayden playing host to its longtime rival, Farmville, Friday afternoon. Ayden is heralded as the big favorite in this tilt but the traditional rivalry should make this contest interesting.

South Edgecombe, Robersonville, and Vanceboro play outside opponents.

This week's schedule with last week's results are as follows: Farmville (Lost to Tarboro, 41-0) at Ayden (Defeated Vanceboro, 42-0); South Edgecombe (Defeated Robersonville, 26-9) at Tarboro (Defeated Farmville, 41-0); Vanceboro (Lost to Ayden, 42-0) at Wilkesboro (Result unknown); and Manteo (Result unknown) at Robersonville (Lost to S. Edgecombe, 26-9).

Windmill Arm

New York, Oct. 11—(AP)—Vanderbilt's Bill Wade, using that Windmill right arm overtime, is gaining yardage at a pace fast enough to break college football's all-time offensive record.

The Commodore quarterback is redeeming his mediocre performance of last year so well that Johnny Bright of Drake may have to give up his title.

Bright won the total offense championship in 1949 with a mark of 1,950 yards, third highest since The National Collegiate Athletic Bureau has kept book.

The Vandy Junior has gained 874 yards in three games. That's 284 yards a game, compared to Bright's 237 average. What makes it worse for the 180 pound Drake tailback is that he has only five more games left while Wade will play eight more.

Jayvees Host To Junior Pam Pack

Coach Stan Terrill's Greenville Jayvees play host to Washington's juniors here tomorrow afternoon in their third game of the season.

Kickoff is set for 4:00 p.m. on the West Third Street school field. The locals, with a record of one defeat and one tie in their two previous games with Kingston, are expected to crash into the win column in tomorrow afternoon's scrap.

Halfback J. D. Mayo is expected to lead the Baby Phantoms' offense, along with Quarterback Johnny Russell, the left-handed pass-angler. Ends Vernon Wingate, Billy Bost and Tom Brown are the juniors' stalwart flankmen.

Tackles Vann Carroll and Boots Teel form the nucleus in the line, along with Guard Tom Smoot and pivotmen Sam Winchester and Jody Taylor.

The public is cordially invited with no admission charged.

Erie Cocks, Jr. (left) of Dawson, Ga., favorite to become the new national commander of the American Legion, attends a session of the legion's executive committee in Los Angeles. Standing on the rostrum beside him is National Commander George N. Craig who will retire during the convention. The executive committee recommended the ousting of Secretary of State Dean Acheson and the dropping of the atom bomb on Russia in the event of further Soviet aggression. (AP Wirephoto).

Report Rickey Will Get St. Louis Post

New York, Oct. 11—(AP)—The Daily Compass said today that Branch Rickey "is going to the St. Louis Browns as the new president and club owner in a deal financed by the American League."

In St. Louis last night, however, Bill DeWitt, president of the Browns asserted "you can put this down. We don't plan any changes in the operations of our club and Branch Rickey isn't buying it. It's not for sale."

Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, recently contracted to sell his Brooklyn stock to William Zuckendorf, New York real estate man. Since then there have been many rumors as to his future plans. In the story written by Herb Goren, the Compass said: "American League Tycoons, sensitive to the basic second division weaknesses in their structure, in spite of top-level superiority, are ready to purchase a controlling interest in Brownie stock and turn it over to Rickey in order to acquire his services."

"In recent years the League loaned hundreds of thousands of dollars to the Browns. Whether the DeWitts, Bill and Charley, paid off one hundred cents on the dollar is unknown. But the League sorely recognizes this unhealthy situation,

Better Outlook

Washington, Oct. 11—(AP)—The outlook for the 1950 flue-cured tobacco crop is about 25,000,000 pounds brighter than it was a month ago, according to government estimates.

In its October report, the Agriculture Department estimated that flue cured tobacco production would be about 1,198,000,000 pounds. The report in September gave an estimate of 1,169,000,000 pounds.

The estimate for the North Carolina old belt is 392,575,000 pounds; 465,240,000 pounds was the estimate for the eastern North Carolina belt; and 191,640,000 pounds for the border belt.

China' Powdered Eggs Kicks Up Quick Furor

Seattle, Oct. 11—(AP)—A Seattle waterfront warehouse was jammed with powdered eggs from Communist China today. The 700 tons are awaiting transshipment to New York for distribution to eastern bakeries.

News stories about the Chinese eggs kicked up an immediate furor. Rep. Mitchell (D-Wash.) fired telegrams to President Truman and the Department of Agriculture asking an investigation in view of the present United States policy of buying up eggs to support parity prices.

The Packinghouse, Poultry and Egg Workers Union (AFL) called the egg shipments a "blow to American labor" and also prepared telegrams for the President and his Agriculture Department, as well as the Washington State congressional delegation.

A former egg man told the Post-Intelligencer that the Chinese eggs could undersell the American surplus variety in this country.

The government has bought up $1,836,043 pounds of surplus U. S. eggs so far this year at 96 cents a pound for the powdered variety, the same price the government would charge domestic users. For export the powdered U. S. eggs go for 20 cents a pound.

Alex M. Bryce Jr., of W. J. Byrnes & Co., the customs house brokers handling the Chinese eggs, said such shipments have been coming in "for 35 years" and that "there's nothing unusual about it."

Bonner Departs For Miami Meet

Washington, N.C.—Congressman Herbert C. Bonner left for Miami, Fla., last night to participate in a meeting of the Inter-American Cultural and Trade Center.

Mr. Bonner, as chairman of the U.S. House of Representatives subcommittee on Inter-Governmental Relations, will attend conferences with some 150 American industrial leaders and a distinguished group from Congress.

The highlight of the meeting will be an address by Secretary of the United States Chamber of Commerce Charles Sawyer, who will speak on the subject, "The Rediscovery of America."

The Inter-American Cultural and Trade Center is being organized in Miami to promote understanding, solidarity and trade within the Western Hemisphere. The product of thousands of conferences and a year and a half of intensive study, the Center is being sponsored by four southeastern seaboard states including North Carolina.

A few hours prior to his departure last night Mr. Bonner reminded Democrats of his home county of Beaufort of the Democratic political rally to be held in Greenville October 18. Pitt County sent the largest delegation to the record-breaking rally in Beaufort two years ago, Mr. Bonner pointed out. "I hope Beaufort will do the same for Pitt this year," he said.

SPTC Meeting Names Groups To Discuss Problem

The first of the Greenville high school Student - Parent - Teacher-Council was held last night in the high school auditorium at 7:30, with the president, Dr. E. R. Browning, presiding. Approximately 200 people were present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Following the reading of the minutes Dr. Browning called upon Mr. O. E. Dowd, principal of Greenville High School, to introduce the teachers.

With outlining the purposes of the council Dr. Browning stated, "That this is not a mothers' club and I am very glad to see some of the fathers present." He urged more of the fathers to attend the meetings.

The topic of discussion, controlling the many drives in GHS, was referred to a committee composed of Mrs. R. W. Stark, chairman, Mrs. J. T. Chestnut, Jr., Mrs. Arden Tucker, Mr. Jack Howard, and the Rev. C. D. Patterson to represent the parents' point of view on the matter. Miss Frances Smith was selected to represent the teachers. The Student Government, led by Rodney Fulcher, and these groups are to get together some solution to bring up at the next meeting of the SPTC.

The meeting was then adjourned. Open house followed with the teachers in their respective rooms. This was done in order to let the parents get to know their students teachers better.

Hazardous Ride Realized 'Dream'

Torreon, Mexico, Oct. 11—(AP)—The lad who hitched an airplane ride by climbing to an airliner's tail was happy tonight, though in jail.

"I have realized the dream of my life," Clicerio Reyes Guerrero, 19, told police. "I am satisfied."

Police said the farm boy apparently did not understand he endangered a Lamsa (United) Airlines plane and its 24 occupants on the Monday midnight flight to Mexico City.

"I always wanted to fly and never had the money," he said. "This was the only way." He told police how he had hung around the Torreon airport for a week looking for a plane ride. "There was no way to do it by day so I finally decided to try it by night," he explained.

Both Lamsa and the government are expected to bring charges today. Reyes Guerrero told police he climbed aboard the plane's tail when it wheeled around at the end of the Torreon runway and tested engines before taking off. "I was only frightened at the first blast of air from the propellers. I got over that when I realized there was nothing else to do but hang on."

Chief Outlines Police Duties

By CHESTER WALSH
Chief Guy C. Langston conducted a special class for the officers and patrolmen at headquarters Tuesday morning.

The chief, in outlining his plan for improving the efficiency of the force and providing ample equipment to do better work, explained that "policing means to maintain order."

He said the members of the force should conduct themselves in a soldierly manner; that they should be courteous; keep themselves informed on the city laws and what the police department rules call for.

The chief reminded the policemen that "the eyes of the public are upon us and it's up to us to do a good job for the safety and protection of the community."

Chief Langston commented on public relations through the press and radio and explained its value. He discussed the changing of the records department to other offices at the City Hall and the placing of police officers in front to handle telephone and radio calls.

Referring to traffic, Langston said his department is studying and surveying the situation and planning to expedite traffic and improve parking conditions. The chief answered questions from members of the force, reminding the officers that "We are here to do a good job of policing in this fast growing tobacco market city. We have confidence in you and hope you will continue to merit it."

School Children Are Shown Fire Station

The second grades of the West Greenville school visited the Greenville Fire Department yesterday as part of their Fire Prevention Week work and studies.

The two classes under the supervision of Miss Jane Hadley and Mrs. West toured the station, inspecting the trucks and sleeping quarters. Much interest was shown in the gym which the local department has upstairs over the station.

The group, numbering over 75 were told how an alarm was received at the station and the process which brings the trucks and firemen to the scene of a fire. Among the trucks the aerial and rescue units offered the most interest to the children.

The West Greenville children are the first of several classes which are scheduled to visit the Fire Department during Fire Prevention Week.

Bethel Market's Sweet Potato Sales Show Rise

Sweet potato receipts on the Bethel auction market today totaled about 1,000 bushels and the price averaged from $1.25 to $1.35 a bushel, J. L. Brown, auctioneer, stated to a Daily Reflector reporter. Sales were more than double those of yesterday. Yesterday's sales totaled around 400 bushels at $1.35 average.

Offerings at both days' sales were of mixed quality.

Bethel market officials suggest to growers that they be more careful in grading and packing their potatoes. The growers receive better prices when the baskets are full packed. Sweet potatoes should average from 50 to 65 pounds to the bushel basket.

Sweet potato sales on the Bethel auction market last year were around 40,000 bushels and the price averaged $1.85 a bushel.

Storage space for sweet potatoes on the Bethel market is between 140,000 and 150,000 bushels. Three counties—Edgecombe, Martin and Pitt—sponsored the organizing of the Bethel Auction Company.

It is estimated that 5,000 acres of land in the three counties are planted to sweet potatoes. Jesse W. Sumner, State College extension division, works with sweet potato nationalization program has been an issue in the last two general elections—1948 and early this year—and has been approved on both occasions. He declines to let the smallest of his majority stand in the way now.

So the government is going ahead with this crucial project. Ninety-two companies are to be taken over, and these are to be administered by a seven-man board.

Will the government be able to get the same efficiency through this board as the iron and steel industries have shown in the past? That is the crux of the argument as to the respective merits of capitalism and Socialistic nationalization. The government expects to maintain the efficiency, and hopes to be able to utilize many of the experts who have been working under capitalist ownership.

Home-Buying . . .

be re-arranged? No. The rules apply only where a loan has been arranged after today.

Here's a question which you probably have in mind at this point: Why is there an exception in the rules? Why don't they apply in the case of an existing home where no government loan is involved? Congress did that, when it passed a law Sept. 18 giving the government power to set these controls.

Government housing officials wanted no exceptions. They wanted the controls to apply across the board—on new and existing homes—whether the government was mixed up in the loan or not.

The reasoning denied the rules: 1 By making home building tougher, to cut down on the number of new homes being built, thus leaving more materials for the government's defense program.

2 By making home buying tougher and new houses fewer, to keep prices down and put a brake on inflation.

But what about those existing homes where the new rules don't apply so long as no government loan is involved? Will the prices on them go down? Or, since they'll be easier to buy, will their prices go up even further? We'll have to wait for the answer to that one.

(The new rules do not apply to apartment houses of commercial property. But the government will put controls on them shortly.)

Here are examples of how the rules will work on homes to which the rules apply:

A home is valued at $12,000. You're a non-veteran. You'll have to put up a down payment of at least $3,100. If you're a veteran, your down payment must be at least $1,900.

But when the price of a home is $25,000 or more, the non-veteran must put up a down payment of at least half the price by himself, a veteran a little less.
