District Demos Warned Of Apathy Towards Party

No Trouble With Republicans, But Concern Expressed Over Political Indifference; Rep. Bonner Highlights Occasion With Praise For Truman

By JOHN SPINKS JR.

More than 500 First District Democrats yesterday heard a host of fellow party members declare they have no trouble with Republicans in eastern North Carolina but do have concern over the party's apathetic attitude toward itself.

Presented at the District political rally at East Carolina yesterday afternoon and night were Governor Kerr Scott, senatorial nominee Willis Smith, former Senator William B. Umstead, Congressman Herbert C. Bonner and several state department heads in addition to the delegations from the 14 counties in the District. All stated the Republican party is dead hereabouts but the main trouble with the Democrats is indifference among themselves.

Congressman Bonner highlighted the occasion with praise for President Truman, the "100th Democrat of America." Bonner stated Truman has led the nation through its most trying period since the war, even more trying and world shaking than the war years.

He declared Truman's speech, made in San Francisco Monday night after a conference with General MacArthur, was an event that "should shake the world. He told Joe Stalin where to get off."

The little Congressman from this District, who is unopposed in the November 7 election, was roundly applauded after his praise of the President. Bonner has oftentimes found occasion to disagree with Truman's policies but his off-the-cuff speech yesterday showed no trace of disagreement with the chief executive.

All the county delegation chairmen were in agreement in stating they had had trouble with Republican voting in the past but this year would see nothing but straight Democratic balloting in the counties. The chairmen introduced their respective candidates for county offices and then introduced the delegation at large. Following that they gave a brief resume of what the political situation was in their bailiwicks.

Senatorial nominee Smith delivered a short address to wind up the proceedings prior to moving to Wright auditorium for a barbecue dinner. The Raleigh native, who successfully passed Senator Frank Graham's first primary majority in the second voting in June, climaxed the statements of apathy in the counties by saying the Party must "preserve itself for the people of North Carolina if it is to prove to the people what it can do."

He agreed with Governor Scott, who openly opposed his candidacy for the Senate, in what the Party has done for North Carolina. He agreed that the people of eastern Carolina need more power to electify their homes and that the Democratic Party is striving to provide it for them.

Scott had previously outlined the Party progress under his administration. He referred to greater improvements for the people, among them the Good Health Program, an advanced school of medicine at the University, better tuberculosis facilities, and better roads and schools. He stated the Legislature last year had voted the improvements

Good Pitt Turnout

Pitt's Democrats were in full attendance at yesterday's rally for the First District. The gathering numbered about 300 from other counties, the rest attending from the townships of Pitt.

Grifton had the largest delegation present, numbering around 40. Of that number 22 were ladies. Bethel presented the next high representation, numbering about 30.

All in all it was a great day for the Democrats of the District and particularly those from Pitt, which was celebrating its first rally in recent years.

Chairman John Clark stated he was highly pleased with the turnout of local Democrats and those from the other counties, several from the lower reaches of Dare County who traveled more than 150 miles to attend.

"I'm very grateful to the Democrats of Pitt who attended our first rally," he said, "and I want to thank every one of them for their wholehearted interest in the program."

Farm Bureau Drive Said Badly Lagging

The county Farm Bureau drive for new and renewed memberships is lagging far behind schedule. W. A. Allen, president of the organization stated this week.

The Bureau, which strives to promote the welfare of the farmer through legislation in Congress, has obtained less than one-third of the goal outlined some weeks ago. Allen stated. The goal this year is 3,500 members, the same as in 1949.

The main reason for the low number of memberships at the present time is, the president said, the farmers are not being contacted as much this year as in years past. Many farmers do not know to whom to send their membership fee, Allen stated, and the campaign workers are not signing the members in their homes.

Allen reminded farmers that the organization is purely voluntary—their membership is not compulsory. That fact holds the most weight with farm legislators in Washington, he said.

Right now, Bethel Township leads the other 12 in Pitt in memberships having subscribed 190 during the few weeks the campaign has been going on.

December 1 is the deadline for joining. However, after November 15 delegates will be selected to attend the national Farm Bureau convention in Dallas, Texas.

Community Chest Charter Sought

Farmville Civic Leaders Want Permanent Organization

Farmville, Oct. 18—Approximately 25 Farmville civic leaders met at the municipal building here last night and signed a petition for a charter for a permanent community chest organization.

Irvin Morgan, Jr., chairman of the community chest fund commission presided at the meeting. Attending the meeting were presidents and heads of the civic and fraternal organizations of the Farmville community and other civic leaders.

During the meeting the group voted to make a petition for a charter for a permanent organization, and a committee composed of Morgan, Manly Liles, C. H. Flanagan, R. A. Joyner, and C. M. Paylor were appointed to confer with town attorney John B. Lewis and to draft by laws for the organization and name tentative directors for the group. The men named on the committee at present compose the community chest fund committee for Farmville.

Although it has been approximately four years since there has been a concerted community chest drive in Farmville, the fund committee of the organization has remained active under the leadership of Chairman Morgan. Morgan said the board of directors of the community chest which is to be named in the near future will determine whether there will be a community chest drive for funds in Farmville this year.

Formosa Issue Is Re-Opened After Island Meeting

Report That Truman, MacArthur In Agreement Raises Fresh Questions

Washington, Oct. 19—(AP)—The report that President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur have reached agreement on the Formosa issue opened anew today the question of what exactly are American aims for the future of that strategic island.

The heart of the question is: To what extent will the United States try to keep Formosa, now held by the Chinese Nationalists, from falling into the hands of the Chinese Communists?

Up to the time of the Truman-MacArthur conference on Wake Island last Sunday, there was considerable evidence that the two men did not see eye to eye. MacArthur clearly favored a determined policy to keep Formosa permanently out of Communist control. Mr. Truman favored neutralizing the island during the Korean war and thereafter settling its status peacefully through the United Nations.

If a key to the reported agreement may be this: Although he seeks a peaceful solution in accord with other friendly nations, the President may have no intention of letting that solution take the form of handing Formosa over to the Chinese Reds.

That is, the reported agreement may have taken the form of an assurance by Mr. Truman to MacArthur that his policies, developing within the U.N., are aimed at permanently neutralizing the island.

High Pentagon officials who reported anonymously yesterday that the two men had agreed on the Formosa issue did not say how or in what degree the differences as they formerly appeared on the record had been resolved.

These officials stipulated that they not be named. This brought a prompt protest from Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) about "second hand leaks." In a statement distributed by the Republican National Committee, Knowland said "these partial facts may or may not express accurately the understanding" about Formosa.

In Tokyo, informed sources said, MacArthur has not altered his views. They said Formosa was not involved in any policy discussions at Wake.

Nat'l Red Cross Staff Member To Visit Here

Pitt Red Cross Chairman Henry L. Brown announced today a special representative of General George C. Marshall, national Red Cross director, will visit the local chapter tomorrow to discuss vital matters concerning the operation of the chapter.

He is Paul M. Moore, one of the members of Marshall's Red Cross staff selected to take the burden of visiting the local chapters off the defense secretary's shoulders.

He will meet with Pitt's directors in a special meeting tomorrow at four p. m. at the City Hall. Brown urged all members of the chapter to be present during the meeting in the Alderman Room. Moore at that time will discuss any subject with the members of the board concerning the organization and operation of it.

Twin Allied Spearheads Occupy Most Of Communist City; Satellite Regime Apparently Fled To North; Thousands Surrender Without Struggle

Seoul, Korea, Oct. 19—(AP)—United Nations forces seized the falling nation of Red Korea today. Twin allied spearheads occupied most of the Communist capital, Pyongyang.

Reports from four Associated Press war correspondents indicated that complete conquest of the North Korean Red regime center was only a matter of hours.

Premier Kim Il Sung and his Soviet satellite regime apparently fled to the north, possibly as far as Red Chinese Manchuria or Soviet Siberia.

An end to the bitter war that started June 25 was in sight. But top allied commanders have warned that guerrilla resistance may lie ahead.

On both the east and west coasts the allies were pressing closer to Manchuria.

In Pyongyang, nothing stood in the way of the grim, grinning battalions of the U. S. First Cavalry and South Korean First division except a few die-hard Reds.

The mechanized cavalry troopers were first into the city—as they were first in historic entries into Manila and Tokyo in World War II. They smashed inside the eastern industrial section from the southern outskirts at 11 a. m. Thursday (9 p. m., EST, Wednesday).

The South Korean division thrashed in from the east afterwards.

AP Correspondent Don Whitehead reported frightened Reds rendered by the thousands. Some ran into the open from houses and fields, clad only in long underwear hands above their heads.

The ancient bomb-blasted capital seemed virtually deserted by its more than 700,000 inhabitants. The two major escape roads leading northward were clogged with civilian refugees and Red soldiers.

"The Reds could not even muster a stand or fight to the death for their own capital," Whitehead reported.

"Either the Reds had lost their will to fight for the city or else the Americans moved so fast they had no chance to group the defense force."

AP Correspondents William J. Vaughn, Tom Lambert and Jack MacBeth reported the Reds blew two bridges spanning the broad Taedong river which courses through the capital's center.

But the Communists neglected to blow a third. The cavalry troopers and South Koreans linked up on the east side of the bridges, shook hands and poured across.

On the opposite side, the Communists had strung banners across the streets urging the populace to "defend this city to the last."

"But there was no real defense of Pyongyang," Correspondent Whitehead said.

"Once the crust of resistance was broken at Hukkyo, 13 miles south of Pyongyang, the rest was a breeze for the smiling American troops."

"They were cheerful, even though they had been driving hard for the past 30 days."

The speed of the allied advance evidently had knocked sky high any over-all Red defense plan. In slightly more than a month, the U. N. forces had smashed out of their once perilous Pusan beachhead perimeter in southeast Korea, trapped the Reds in the south and plunged across parallel 38 into the Red North.

Gov't Considering Emergency Ban In Non-Essential Building

Washington, Oct. 19—(AP)—Despite forceful objections from the building industry, the government today considered an emergency ban on the construction of race tracks, dance halls, bowling alleys and other amusement spots. New moving picture theaters and night clubs might also be included but officials of the National Production Authority (NPA) said the scope of the proposed orders remains to be worked out. Its aim is to save materials for munitions. The move would be a stiff blow to the already tottering building boom. Severe limitations on private real estate credit and federal home financing were imposed Thursday, and a limitation on commercial construction credit—affecting stores and office buildings—is expected to follow.

Still another slap at credit expansion, in the form of a federal reserve board order tightening bank reserve requirements, became more likely. The board yesterday reported that bank loans to business houses hit another record high last week.

An order requiring banks to set aside more funds in reserve would limit the bank funds available for lending. Business loans last week, the board said, increased by $227,000,000 to a total of $16,142,000,000.

The proposed building ban was unfolded yesterday to a score of leaders in the building, real estate, materials, and related industries. They fought the idea vigorously, and urged instead that the industry be allowed to undertake its own conservation campaign.

The industry group argued that the real estate credit move will freeze huge quantities of materials. Some of them estimated that residential construction will slump from this year's record of 1,300,000 homes started to a total of only 600,000 or even 400,000 in 1951.

This also will produce great savings of materials now being used up in the shuffling and furnishing of new dwellings, the industry spokesmen argued. Finally, they asserted, the government should "sharply curtail" its own non-defense building as well as that of states and cities.

The latter proposal would apply not only to public works and buildings, but presumably to the big public housing program under which the government proposes to finance $10,000 units of subsidized housing for low-income families.

Farmville Policeman Shot, Negro Killed In Gun Fight

Farmville, Oct. 18—A 25-year-old Louisville Negro was shot and killed instantly this morning by police officer J. A. Gregory after the Negro had shot the officer twice while he was investigating an automobile accident on the Walstonburg-Fountain road, three and a half miles from here.

The dead man was Leslie Sylvester Spivey. He fired at Gregory with a .22 rifle from the kitchen of an abandoned farm house near the scene of the wreck as Gregory entered the front door.

Gregory was hit by two bullets in the left shoulder and arm. He returned the fire with a carbine rifle and hit the Negro in the stomach and left wrist.

Gregory was treated for slight wounds and returned to the scene of the shooting shortly after noon.

Police Chief L. T. Lucas stated he and Gregory were investigating a wreck that occurred last night, about 150 yards from the farm house. He said they entered the property trying to track down a lead on the theft of Gregory's police car which occurred last Friday night.

According to Lucas, Gregory opened the front door and was fired upon by the Negro before any word was spoken. Neither of them knew anyone was in the house, he said.

Lucas said he went around the back side of the house and was about to arrest another Negro who was hiding behind a farm building when he heard the shooting.

Spivey, according to Lucas, had 13 more shells in his gun. He also had a quantity of ammunition in his pocket. He fired at Gregory three times, the chief reported.

It was reported that Spivey was wanted in Wake county for stealing of an automobile and also for armed robbery of a service station there.

He is known to have filled his car's tank with gas at Carl Jones' service station in Greene county last night and left without paying for it. Jones chased him to Lang's Crossroads but gave up the chase.

Gregory was treated by Dr. Charles E. Fitzgerald just after the shooting occurred. He was released shortly afterward. At the time he entered the farm house, he was armed with a .32 pistol and the carbine.

Big Turnout For First District Democratic Rally Here

Representatives of all 14 counties of the First Congressional district were here for the district rally yesterday afternoon and last night. Austin auditorium (shown above) was the meeting place of the rally where those attending heard speeches by party leaders and reports on party activities from the various county chairmen. The signs bearing the county names indicate the location of the delegations from the counties of the district. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee).

That Wave Of Unrest

Asiatic Countries Either Driving For Freedom Or Killing Any Prospect Of Future Colonialism; Two-Edged Sword Of Unrest Could Swing In Our Favor

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

Much of the mighty wave of unrest which is sweeping Asia has its basis in a factor which a lot of people overlook—hatred and fear of imperialism.

The Asiatic countries either have an overpowering urge to be free of the apron-strings which bind them to an Imperial "mother country" or, having cut the string, they are afraid they again will become enmeshed in colonialism.

Communism naturally finds this unrest a fruitful field for operations, and is going all-out to inspire and aid revolutions. However, the fact remains that broadly speaking many—perhaps the majority—of the rebels are impelled by their desire for independence rather than by any virtue they see in bolshevism.

This, I take it, is the background of America's effort to persuade France to give a greater hand to the governments of the three new Indo-Chinese states—Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. These states are aiding the French in battling the Communists led by General Ho Chi Minh, who got his training from Moscow—and things have been going very badly for the states.

As might be expected, the Communists are making a big play with the charge that the French are bent on reimposing colonial rule.

In order to counter this, secretary of State Acheson has been urging that the French raise the three states to the status of equal allies.

Moreover, the Secretary has insisted that a large part of the American arms which are to be shipped to Indo-China must be delivered directly to the state forces. The French had wanted most of these weapons to go to their army in the field, but are said to be altering their plans to fall in with Washington's views.

There is no point in trying to bolster up any tottering colonialism in Asia. The day is past when a "mother-country" can impose her will on the people of an entirely different race.

That naturally is a hard truth for a "mother-country" to swallow, but by and large the Imperial governments have faced up to it. In proof of this we have such great new nations as India, Pakistan, Burma and Indonesia.

Still, fear of a recrudescence of Imperialism is always in the minds of the Asiatic peoples. We have a specific example of this in the rebellion in French Indo-China. That is Communist inspired, to be sure, but it gets its impetus largely from the propaganda that France is trying to reimpose colonial rule.

'Not To Be Quoted'

A Device Whereby Officials Who Don't Want To Be Identified Pump Information Of A Dubious Nature To The Public; Questions Raised By Pentagon Interview

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Oct. 19—(AP)—The "this-is-for-background-so-don't-quote-me-boys-and-don't-say-where-you-got-it" kind of news conference is quite a device for pumping stuff out to the public.

It's used plenty in Washington, sometimes with explosive results. This kind of conference was held yesterday by a couple of "high officials" at the Pentagon.

They used it to tell the public President Truman and General MacArthur, who met on Wake Island last weekend, were in agreement on Formosa.

Practically every day here, it seems, a government official or someone else calls a news conference which starts off with: "Now, boys, this is not for attribution or quotation, but I want to fill you in on . . ."

This means the newsmen can write what's said but can't put any of it between quotation marks and can't even say who told them what. The newsmen, unable to say who told them what, have to base their stories on a "newsman's" or "informed source," an "authoritative source," a "government official" or a "high government official."

This must leave a lot of readers baffled and, perhaps, just suspicious because, no matter where or when or by whom this device is used, it is always a little less than forthright.

And there is always the danger that the reporters, without knowing it, and the public are being used for some purpose which doesn't appear on the surface at all.

But no matter what the reason behind any off-the-record news conference there is always one result: the public is being denied full information.

Now comes the story of the Pentagon conference of yesterday.

When President Truman flew out to meet MacArthur last week, he was accompanied by another plane loaded with top military men and government officials. Some aides accompanied the general.

There were two meetings between the President and the general: one between them alone; a second when they were surrounded by their aides.

The meeting between the two men was dramatic in itself. What made it even more dramatic was that the fact that only a few newsmen accompanied the President and the general differed sharply on Formosa.

MacArthur publicly took the position that the U. S. must make sure Formosa remains in friendly hands. Relations between the U. S. and the Chinese Communists are far from friendly.

Members were greeted at the door by Mrs. Haar, who then introduced the speaker for the afternoon, Miss Mary Rose Crisp. Miss Crisp gave a vivid and most interesting account of her recent European tour. Her impressions, experiences and descriptions of England, Scotland, Holland, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and France delighted all present. She spoke of the physical, social and economic aspect of each of these countries and their people as affected by the last war. Especially interesting was her account of occupied Germany and the part played there by the American military.

At the conclusion of the program Miss Elizabeth Norman conducted a short business session. The hostess served a delicious sweet course with coffee and nuts.

Books were exchanged and the club adjourned.

Speakers Review Symphonic Dramas For Athenaeum Club

The Athenaeum Book Club was entertained at a luncheon meeting by Mrs. J. H. Rose at her home on Tenth Street Tuesday at 1:00 p. m.

A two-course luncheon was served when the members arrived. The house was tastefully decorated with dahlias in shades of lavender and white. On the dining room table the centerpiece was an arrangement of pink dahlias.

Following the social hour the president, Mrs. Ty Wagner, presided over a brief business session before turning the meeting over to the speakers for the afternoon.

The program was devoted to reviews of three outstanding symphonic dramas that were staged during the summer in North Carolina and Virginia.

Mrs. Charles A. White gave an enthralling review of Paul Green's latest symphonic contribution, "Faith of Our Fathers." This highly-regarded drama was composed for the Capitol City's sesquicentennial and Mrs. White made the story and characters come to life for the club members.

Mrs. Leon Russell painted a vivid picture of "Unto These Hills," the story of the Cherokee Indians in the mountains of North Carolina. This outdoor drama has been well received and its author, Kermit Hunter, has been praised highly for this interesting bit of dramatic history.

Mrs. Rose concluded the program with a review of the "Duplin Story," another symphonic drama authored by Sam Byrd. This production, though less widely publicized than the other two, has been reviewed with great esteem by newspaper and drama critics.

All of these productions were written by men who in the past in one way or another have been connected with the University of North Carolina.

After this delightful program the meeting was adjourned. Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. C. A. White and Mrs. Leon Russell.

Chowan River Bridge Is Going To Be Replaced

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The old, mile and a half long bridge spanning the Chowan river between Windsor and Edenton is going to be replaced.

Built in 1929 the present structure has long been considered inadequate and a bottleneck on U S 17. The new bridge will cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

The state highway commission announced yesterday it will call for bids on the new bridge at a special letting Nov. 9. Plans for the new span have been in the blueprint stage for several years.

A temporary bridge will be erected 210 feet downstream to carry traffic during the construction period.

The home on Rock Springs Drive was decorated with fall flowers and pyracantha berries used in table and mantel arrangements.

The members and guests were served a two-course luncheon by the hostess upon their arrival. Four students from the Teachers Playhouse of ECTC joined the club for the dessert course.

Following the luncheon Mrs. J. L. Horton, club president, introduced Joe Congleton, Susan Smith, Don Blood and Garland Jackson, college students, who presented the program.

These young drama students charmed the members with two short skits which they read. One was called "Ask Me No Questions and I'll Tell You No Stories" and "Anatoli's Wedding Morning." These readings were enjoyed by all present.

A brief business session was conducted by the president, after which the books were distributed by Mrs. Howard Hodges Jr. and the meeting adjourned.

Club officers for the year are president, Mrs. J. K. Horton; vice-president, Mrs. L. S. Ficken; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. W. G. Norman; and librarian, Mrs. Dan Wright.

Mrs. Norman had as her guest for the afternoon Mrs. Jack Moye Jr. and Mrs. George P. Harvey.

Dr. Marshall Talks To Chatham Book Club

Mrs. W. D. Tucker was a gracious hostess to the Chatham Book Club on Tuesday at 3:30 at her home on West Fourth Street.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. A. C. Ruffin, served a dessert course with coffee when the guests arrived. The home was attractively decorated with autumn flowers.

Mrs. W. P. Moore, who had charge of the program for the afternoon, presented Dr. W. E. Marshall of the college faculty, who in an informative and gripping manner gave a brief history of Old Russia prior to 1917.

In his interesting talk, Dr. Marshall traced the background of the people which emphasized the social heritage from the days of the Czarist regime. In his analysis of the country he expressed the view that politically the Russians tried to copy the Western democracies when the 1919 Revolution took place, while in social and economic living they were still clinging to the customs of the peoples of Eastern Europe. He stressed the lack of mass education prior to the Revolution and the economic levels separating the serfs and the political leaders.

Following Dr. Marshall's stimulating talk, a brief business session was conducted by Mrs. Carl Adams, during which books were exchanged. The meeting was then adjourned.

Simple foods are always popular. You'll never believe how tasty these Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash Ranchburgers are until you've tried today's easy-does-it recipe. Then you'll file the recipe marked, "five-star."

Be sure the hash is Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash. It's "meaty and mighty good." For this famous hash is gently seasoned just right; it's the kind of hash you can do things with.

Mighty good eating at budget-price levels, yet here are Ranchburgers that are out-of-this world for quality and flavor. One try will convince you that your family has been missing out on something very good while living without these Ranchburgers.

CORNER BEEF HASH RANCHBURGERS

Open can and slice contents 1/4 inch thick to make:
6 slices of Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash*
Mount on lower halves of split, buttered hamburger buns and place on the oven broiler rack. Also put upper halves of buns on the broiler rack. Insert the broiler rack in position 4 inches below heat in a medium hot broiler oven. Close oven, turn out heat and leave 15 minutes to heat through.

Then top the hash with cheese using:
6 slices Wilson's Certified American Cheese or Wilson's Ol' Fashund Natural Cheddar Cheese either left in one piece or cut into strips—see picture. Close oven and leave just long enough to soften the cheese. (If you prefer to brown the cheese, light oven for a few minutes.) Serve hot with Corn Relish, green onions, greens salad and milk. Yummy, yum!

*Chilling the can before opening makes slicing easier.

More Views Of District Democratic Rally

Governor Kerr Scott (facing camera) was among the state Democratic party leaders who were here last night for the first district rally. The governor lived up to his reputation of consuming a large amount of barbecue, but he also found time to chat with hundreds of people who wanted a word with him about one thing or another. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee).

Sans Souci Club Enjoys Travelogue

Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley entertained the Sans Souci Book club at a most delightful luncheon meeting Tuesday. Individual decorated tables were placed for members and guests, and a bountiful two-course luncheon with coffee was served by the hostess assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Fambrough, and Mrs. Fred Forbes, Sr.

A brief business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale. She gave a most hearty welcome to the club's new member, Mrs. Harvey Anderson, who has recently moved here from Raleigh and greeted the following guests: Miss Lillian Wooten, Mrs. Ralph Tucker, Mrs. Pettigrew of Atlanta, Mrs. Mack Smith and Mrs. John Staton of Bethel.

The program was in charge of Mrs. W. I. Wooten, who with her daughter, Lillian, as movie operator, took us on a personally conducted tour of Europe.

Mrs. Wooten stressed two things which impressed her most—the Passion Play at Oberammergau and the Holy Year as celebrated in Rome. The origin of the Passion Play is most interesting. In 1633 Bavaria was almost wiped out by a terrible plague. Prayers of the people promised God if he would deliver them from this plague every ten years they would enact a play called the Passion Play which would bring before the country and the world, the life of Christ as He lived on earth. This promise has been faithfully kept except during years of war when it was impossible.

There are more than 1300 actors, all natives of the village of Oberammergau, who give a finished production to people who come from all over the world. This year the Passion Play was given for the first time since 1934 because of war. Mrs. Wooten's talk, illustrated by colored movies, gave a most impressive idea of the life of Christ.

Holy year is celebrated every 25 years at St. Peter's Cathedral in Rome and is attended by thousands who come from every part of the world to celebrate and secure an audience with the Pope. The Wootens were fortunate enough to secure a public audience with the Pope after securing permits from the College of Cardinals with instructions how to dress, etc. Private audiences with the Pope include up to sixty persons. Public audiences up to 50,000. As the Pope is brought in to St. Peter's in his golden chair the oration is tremendous and the Pope most impressive.

The movie camera and Mrs. Wooten took us to England with its Windsor Castle, Hampton Court gardens, Oxford University; into Scotland, Holland, Swiss Alps, Lucerne, Italy and Capri. Then to the Queen Mary for the return voyage. The club is much indebted to our travellers for a most interesting and delightful program.

Mr. B. W. James Celebrates Birthday

Mr. B. W. James of Parmele, N.C. celebrated his 80th birthday at his home in Pitt County on Sunday, October 15. A picnic lunch was served on the lawn for the children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, relatives, neighbors and numerous friends. The combined age in years for four of those present was 332 years. Mrs. O. R. Speight of Spring Hope, his only sister, was present also. Mr. James has seven surviving children, 27 grandchildren and 35 great-grandchildren.

He was the recipient of many lovely gifts and many good wishes from all present. He presented each of his children with a Government Bond which has been a custom of his on each of these occasions for the past several years.

Strength for the Day
By KARL L. DOUGLAS

WE CAN'T DESTROY TRUTH
Lloyd George, the doughty Welshman who as prime minister guided England through the first World War, was speaking one evening in a hall in Wales when a brick crashed through the window and fell at his feet. Lloyd George, internationally known as a wit, immediately stooped, picked up the brick and holding it aloft dramatically exclaimed, "Behold the only argument of our opponents."
What a pathetic outfit those people are who believe that they can stone or beat or persecute truth out of existence. Of course, they do not persecute it as truth, but as error. If, however, it is error, God will see to it that it perishes and passes away. A mistaken idea may hold up for a while, but eventually it disintegrates and disappears. If an idea is sound, sticks and stones will never drive it from the face of the earth; and if it is unsound, all the king's horses and all the king's men could not make it stand after people have had a chance properly to appraise it.
If the only argument you have against an idea is a brickbat, a curse, or a cynical remark, just keep it to yourself. Truth is not driven from the earth in any such fashion. If we try such methods we do not hurt the truth; we only reveal the shallowness of our minds and spirits.

Where Did That Dollar Go?

The other day a friend of ours thrust a 50-cent piece into our hand and asked, "Have you seen the new Truman nickel?" Implying of course that the half dollar is now worth in purchasing power about what the nickel was not too many years back.
The inflationary trend since 1939 hasn't quite reached the proportions our friend implied; but nevertheless, at the time the Korean war started some 16 weeks ago the dollar was calculated to have about the same purchasing power as 58 cents did in 1939. Since that time it is estimated that the dollar has lost another cent of its purchasing power, and by the middle of 1951 it is expected to be worth about 56 cents.
The reason for the cheaper dollars which are being spent today can be seen in the government statistics. They show the nation's production of goods has increased about 67 per cent since 1939 while the money available for spending has more than tripled.
The sharp inflationary trends which became prevalent during the first few weeks after the beginning of the Korean war have leveled off, but prices are showing a steady trend upward in most basic commodities. The fact that the price rise has been felt as little as it has so far is because many increases have been absorbed by the wholesaler and retailer rather than being passed on to the consumers. The picture, however, is likely to show a change during the coming months. The higher prices will be passed on to the consumers out of necessity.
The American people individually and collectively are getting a much higher salary than they did in years past, and for the most part they are spending more money and saving less than they did ten years ago. As a matter of fact this year the people are expected to save about 2.3 billion dollars less than they did in 1940, and about 1.8 billions less than they did in 1949.
With dollar prices and taxes going up, and consumer goods production coming down, the people of Pitt county, along with the rest of the nation, may as well prepare for an economic tightening of the belt to cope with the conditions the future holds in store for us.

Another Year-Another Rally

The Democratic rally held here last night has been considered a success by most of the leaders as well as the rank and file party members who attended. There was plenty of the traditional barbecue which has become a part of such rallies in eastern North Carolina and the same old party theme sounded in the speeches.
It perhaps is not what a lot of the party members would like to have in a rally, but is what most have come to expect.
The members of the Pitt county executive committee of the Democratic party did an outstanding job of staging the rally. It was one of the finest ever held in this section of the state. The one conspicuous drawback to the rally, if one can be cited, was the lack of Greenville people in attendance. There were a number of Greenville people here and there throughout the crowd, but proportionally, the Greenville people at the rally were outnumbered by those from other sections of Pitt county.

The Reflector doesn't believe the relatively small number of Greenville people at the rally is the fault of the county executive committee. The lag in local attendance could be due either to a lack of interest in party politics on the part of the people, or to the sameness of the rallies year after year.

"Measure Up To Full Partnership"

National Business and Professional Women's week is being celebrated this week by members of the Business and Professional Women's club of Greenville. With all due modesty, the women of Greenville can rightfully claim one of the most outstanding clubs in the state.

The B and PW club takes an active part in civic activities both on a city level, and on a county level as well. The members of the club have contributed greatly to the city recreation program, they have been active in promoting highway safety in the county, and they are taking part in a number of continuing activities for the betterment of the community as a whole.

Through their activities on a local level, the Business and Professional Women's club of Greenville is living up to its slogan, "Measure Up to Full Partnership," and in some instances, they have surpassed the public services rendered by the civic clubs which are for men only.

The Reflector congratulates the Business and Professional Women's club of Greenville upon the celebration of national B and PW week, and we look forward to their continued good work throughout Greenville and Pitt county.

National Whirligig
News Behind The News

By ROGER WARREN
WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Because there isn't enough manpower for both the rearmament program and the civilian economy as we have known it, the government has turned to womanpower as the greatest reserve of national strength.
The government—and industry—is depending on increases in womanpower for further expansion of armament plants and for the greatest part of civil defense.

UNEMPLOYED—The reserves of manpower are just about gone, and the expansion of military production has barely begun. In addition, the draft will draw 300,000 men out of the labor market in the next six months.
As of August, there was a total of 2,500,000 unemployed. Some were between jobs, some were unemployable. The number of unemployed has probably decreased since then.

Of those out of work, employers say 90 per cent are unskilled. Of the total, some have personality defects and certain instabilities; others are subject to recurring illnesses making them unsuitable for full-time work. Scraping the bottom of the barrel would probably produce less than a million men able to turn in a good day's work.

RESERVES—The nation can recall some oldersters from retirement; there is a small but constant number of young people leaving school and, quite importantly, the manpower resources can be extended with overtime. But these reserves are limited.

While some $17,000,000,000 has been appropriated to increase defense, the major impact of this spending on employment has not yet been felt. Many contracts have been awarded and the first weapons are being produced, but by and large, industry is still tooling up. The armed services daily announce new contracts and the total for this week, the next and the next will spell out needs for additional manpower.
The only handsome reserve is womanpower. (You can read "handsome" in two senses.)

PROGRAMS—The Office of Defense Manpower, created within the Labor Department, is already tackling the problem. It's developing "plans, policies and programs" for recruiting women into industry and other civilian jobs. These plans will be put into effect gradually as the manpower situation worsens.
As of today, the plans will be largely "jawbone" programs. The ODM has no power to order either men or women into specific jobs, but Pres. Truman can ask Congress for that power. Until it has real power, it will have to use public appeals and pressure on employment agencies to recruit more women as well as men for critical jobs.

DEFENSE—The entire civil defense program, as planned by J. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board, is based on womanpower. Men, of course, will be welcomed into the volunteer organization, but planning is going ahead on the basis that able men will be in the services or so busy with defense jobs that they won't have time to study and rehearse the intricate roles necessary if an atomic bomb drops.

The NSRB recently brought in the Dowager Marchioness of Reading, founder and still head of the Women's Voluntary Services, to advise the NSRB on how the British utilized womanpower for civil defense in World War II. And James J. Wadsworth, acting director of the Civil Defense Office, has been busy cultivating women's organizations to gain their help in recruiting women for similar work.

STAGGERING—If an all-out war develops, both the manpower and womanpower situations would become critical to a staggering degree.

Plans have been drafted and are being held in readiness for such an eventuality. An all-out war would add 10,000,000 men to the armed forces as rapidly as they could be trained and equipped; it would require 6,000,000 more men and women in war plants.

Some of these would be made available by shutting down civilian production—of autos, civilian radios and TV, furniture, home building and other goods. There would still not be enough men.

Sarah T. Hughes, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional women, who has been advocating a draft of women, might find herself registering at her own draft board.

Somebody Told Me
By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Today's column is a continuation of yesterday's story of Mr. and Mrs. Les Thayer and their two children, who live in Bolivia, South America. Mrs. Thayer is the former Ethel Gaston of Greenville, so the Thayers are in Greenville visiting the Gastons.
Les is the communications and electrical engineer for the firm which operates a pipe line through Bolivia for the purpose of transporting gasoline.
Les told me an interesting story about the Bolivians that anyone who knows him or reads his history books, which I have not, Bolivians celebrate marriage with a great fiesta, which is probably the social highlight of a lifetime. Quite often a couple is ready to marry before they can afford the expense of the fiesta. Therefore, they live together in common law marriage until they can save enough money for the party. Les knows of one case when a man was married and celebrated his wedding along with his wife and five children. Despite this willingness to live together out of wedlock, Bolivians' morals are as high if not higher than ours. Though not legally married, they are very loyal, and delay the ceremony only because they cannot afford the fiesta at the time.
The Thayers like living in Bolivia, but admit that there are several inconveniences. They live in the city of Cochabamba, population 80,000. Electrical current almost fades away in the late afternoon, so the Thayers have to plan their cooking accordingly. Bolivia is far enough from the coast to eliminate fresh seafood from the diet. Meats are plentiful but have to be selected very carefully to insure freshness, as there is very little refrigeration. Fresh vegetables have to be soaked overnight, and all water and milk is boiled.
Living expenses for the Thayers in Bolivia is about half of what it would be in America. They have a combination cook and house cleaner, who brings in a laundress, plus a small boy who serves as a gardener, for eight dollars a month. If this sounds like a low salary, consider that the average Bolivian family lives on approximately that much per month, and the Thayer servants make that salary, plus their food.
At work Les has picked up a knowledge of the Spanish language. Ethel knows household Spanish, so together they speak what they call social Spanish. Their eight-year-old boy, Skipper, speaks the language fluently, and often teaches them new Spanish words.
And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square
Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.

There was filed in the office of the secretary of state Monday a charter for the Carolina Livestock Loan Company, a new corporation set up for special attention to development of a beef cattle industry in North Carolina.
As always in such cases the charter is broad enough to permit the corporation to engage in almost every kind of business admissible under state laws, but its primary purpose is to provide loans for production of beef cattle, such loans to be secured by chattel mortgages on the cattle and such other collateral as the company may require.
The company has an authorized capital of one hundred thousand dollars, with three thousand dollars paid in by John R. Harden of Greensboro, George C. Mathes and Robert Ledefeld of New York. Actually the company is starting out with approximately a quarter million dollars available for lending to cattle raisers.
Idea back of the project is not new. For several years there has been increasing manifestation of interest in promoting livestock culture in North Carolina. One handicap has been that regular commercial banks were not permitted by statute or by good business practice to lend sufficient money on chattel mortgages secured by perishable animals to develop the industry. As explained by sponsors of the program, the livestock bank will operate in that field very much as building and loan associations have operated in the real estate loan field in the past, and somewhat like production credit corporations have financed seed and feed loans beyond the limits permitted to regular commercial banks.
Charter of the new corporation makes no specific reference to beef cattle, but primary purpose will be to promote that phase of livestock culture. It can aid dairy farmers, hog and sheep raisers, when it desires to do so. Information is this aid will be extended only if and when assets are left after beef cattle has been cared for.
Furthermore information is that if loan company proves its worth within the next few years, the program may be expanded and the stock list opened to investors. As presently organized it is to be a purely state money. It is known that many North Carolinians are very much interested—including Governor Kerr Scott and Agriculture Commissioner Ballentine, both dairy farmers, and the Gilmore brothers at Julian, who operate in Alamance, Guilford and Randolph counties, in varied phases of agriculture and livestock activities.
What the new lending company will mean to develop of a real livestock industry in this state will depend upon several factors.

It cannot be of much value if it adheres strictly to commercial banking rules regarding collateral; it cannot last long if it ignores too many of the basic rules of secured loans.
Fact remains that there is available to those who desire to develop a beef cattle industry in this state more liberal facilities for financing than have been at hand before. For the first time cattle raisers have special facilities for borrowing money to carry on their projects.
PROPTIOUS—Gordon Gray is getting off to a very propitious start as president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina. His nomination by the special committee, his election by the trustees, his inaugural address and other phases of the beginning of an administration have been accorded almost unanimous approval. But where the new president was really smart was his attending the Duke-State football game Saturday at Riddick stadium. Instead of the Carolina-Wake Forest game in Kenan stadium. Governor Scott was also at the State game. He could justify that by reason of the fact he is an alumnus of State, and as chairman of the board of trustees of the Consolidated University could choose either school. President Gray is an alumnus of Carolina, and as president could choose either school.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

NEXT GOVERNOR (Washington Daily News)
We are beginning to hear a lot of talk just now about who will be the next governor of North Carolina.
Among those being prominently mentioned are William B. Umstead, Thad Eure, Brandon Hodges, Pat Taylor, A. T. Joyner, and Capus Waynick. There are other names too, and still others will creep into the scene before the primary.
Judging from the number of unannounced candidates and the number who "are being urged by many friends to run," we should have a merry time when the vote getting days come around.
All of the men mentioned above are good men insofar as we know. There is no reason to think that any of them would not be a good governor. Right now it looks as if Mr. Umstead has the inside track if he wants it. But times and scenes change as we well remember when Scott and Johnson were running.
Of those mentioned above only one really fits into the Scott way of doing things and that is Mr. Waynick. The others are considered more on the conservative side or middle of the road candidates.
There is always the possibility that Mr. Scott may want to see his program carried through after he is out of office. We feel quite sure that there are many things that he wishes to do but cannot because of time. In this event he may try to get some candidate out who will carry out the program which the present governor has started. Mr. Scott may feel that Mr. Waynick cannot be elected, and in this case he may seek another candidate.
At any rate we have a fine field just now, and as more entries take the spotlight, we can look forward to a great time in the next Democratic primary.

DOESN'T MAKE SENSE (Williamston Enterprise)
It just doesn't make sense when Democrats tear their party to pieces in May and then come along in October and November and plead for party support. The practice has been maintained for a long time, but sooner or later, the party is going to break at its seams.
It also doesn't make sense to parade certain issues in the primary election and then sugar coat them for consumption in the general election. In other words, republicanism must be divorced from the democratic ranks. It just does not make sense for Democrats to send a man to Washington tagged a Democrat to wallow around with and vote republican nearly all the time.
One of these days, the masses are not going to follow such leadership from the primary on through the general election.

Business Today

By ELMER BOESSNER
Terrific pressure is building up under food prices.
Non-farm employment reached the highest peak in the country's history and is still growing. Wages are getting higher.
Demand for food historically rises and falls with employment. The standard of eating improves as pay envelopes increase and get fatter. The American workman may lay off on beans, but he works on beef.
The rise in employment and wages alone would insure an increase in food prices, but there are other factors pushing them up.
The armed services have increased their buying of foodstuffs. While it is true that a man going into the uniform ceases to be a bidder for civilian food, and hence may lower demand in that quarter, it is also true that the armed forces necessarily buy further ahead, creating a buying bulge in the market, and the armed services are less economical in handling food than housewives are.
On top of this is the screw-down on consumer and housing credit and the present hiatus in the television market.

Stricter consumer credit is already affecting sales of controlled goods. There are millions of people walking around with enough money in their pockets for small down payments and small monthly payments, but not enough for the legal requirements. Some of this money, the government hopes, will be saved. But a lot of it will go for soft goods and foods. This will increase the demand for foods and prices will tend to go higher.
The amount not being spent on durables is rising rapidly. Even before new controls were tightened this week, used cars and dealers hopes were dropping and it became easy to buy a new car without extras. It is too early to estimate the effect of the tightened controls on the sale of other durables but, judging from retailers' laments, it will be large and additional millions will be available for soft goods and edibles.

A similar pattern is taking place in home-buying. Housing unit starts in September were 26,000 fewer than in August, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports. What happens to the millions of dollars that might have otherwise gone for down payments? Some of it may be tucked away in Savings Bonds or bank deposits; some will be spent. What could be future monthly payments may be more easily spent. However, the total may not be great, since purchase of a new home, or moving into a new apartment, often represents less of an outlay than previous rentals. But not always.

The conversion over color television has slowed sales, dealers report from many sections of the country. People are trying to decide whether to buy now or later. By the time they decide to buy, the new excise tax will be in effect. If this, plus controls, slows buying there will be more unbudgeted cash on hand.
VARGAS MAY BOOST YOUR COFFEE PRICE
Coffee prices, although they weakened this week, may eventually go much higher and not alone because "war nerves" induces coffee drinking. President-Elect Getulio Vargas of Brazil has learned about farm price supports from the United States and is reported to have assured coffee growers he will do as much for them.
He is understood to have promised that prices would be supported so that export prices on Santos No. 4 will be about 60 cents a pound, which would be a rise from about 53 cents. This would mean 16 cents more at the grocery store.
$100 IN PASSES OFFERED FOR $1
In an unusual promotion, a New Jersey radio station is broadcasting an offer of 64 "passes" worth $100 for $1. Passes are good for car greasing and oiling, admission to swimming pools, theaters and night clubs, a $7 massage, facials, hair-dos, a smorgasbord dinner and an evening at a night club.
Customer - building plans like this have been used before, but usually during recessions when merchants would gamble a free serving, a free seat or a free gallon of gas in hopes of gaining new customers, or making additional sales to those who used the coupons. A few years ago there was quite a wave of offers of books of coupons worth $5 or $10 for a dollar cash in the Los Angeles area, but 100 for 1 in the best odds we've heard of. In the radio deal, participating merchants also get mention over the air.

NEW AND HOT
SEAT: A new television seat for children is an inflatable hassock of Vinylite plastic. Deflated, it weighs a pound and may be stored in an 8-by-10 inch box. It may be inflated by mouth or hand pump. It's washable and has an anti-skid bottom. (By Plasticonics, Inc., 54 Greene St., New York City.)
FINISH: A new finish to make viscose rayon and cotton wrinkle and shrink resistant has been developed and announced to the trade (as Zest, by the Du Pont Co., Wilmington, Del.). It may also have uses for linen and pile fabrics.

Hal Boyle's Column

By TOM LAMBE T (For Hal Boyle)
With U.S. Forces in Red Korea —(AP)—It was a quiet sunny afternoon.
An autumn breeze tugged at scrawny boils of cotton in the fields. Dry brown cornstalks crackled like tin.
Jeeps chugged lazily along the road. Dust clouds drifted skywards in their wake.
It was one of those brief, bright respites in war—a time for planned U.S. First Cavalry Division's Seventh Regiment—famed since the days of General Custer, was hatching an attack.
Lt. Col. William Harris of San Antonio, Tex., a slight blonde who walks and talks softly, outlined the plan.
A platoon of tanks carrying infantry would rumble north to the walled city of Namchonjom and prove its defenses. If they were weak the city would be occupied. If they were strong more tanks and men would move north.
The order went to Battalion Commander Lt. Col. Gilmon Huff of Greenville, S. C., a great, red-haired man "AWOL from the medics," whose right arm is in a sling because of a recent shoulder wound.
Abruptly, the compound hummed with activity. Tankers churned their Shermans and Pershings into position. Impassive infantrymen clambered aboard. The tanks rumbled out. Jeeps chugged along behind.
Dust from the column rose swiftly. In a few minutes the tanks and jeeps were out of sight. But not out of hearing.
In the command post yard, a jeep's radio crackled. The tank liaison officer, Lt. Warren Allen of Ord, Neb., barked into his microphone, "Give me your position."
The reply: "Going through Pyongsan, shooting, no return fire."
Allen's jeep radio snapped Huff.
"What about air on Namchonjom?" Huff asked.
He returned to another jeep. Lt. Jon Robertson of Akron, Ohio, an F-80 pilot on ground liaison duty, outlined the air situation:
"F-51s working over the town now and F-80s comin' in."
Huff nodded, satisfied.
The jets called in. "On station," Robertson's radio crackled. "At 18,000 feet. What's the target?"
"Wait a minute," called Robertson. "I can't see you. Come down a little and wait a minute. The 51s are working now."
Then he called off the 51s—they can stay in the area longer than the fuel hungry jets.
The F-80s went to work, flashing quick and silvery in the sun, building a tower of smoke.
Allen's jeep radio snapped again. The tanks were outside Namchonjom and waiting for the air strike on the town.
"Tell 'em it's on," Robertson advised Allen.
"Tell 'em to look," Huff added.
There was silence for a moment. Then Allen's radio crackled again. "But there was inter-

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—Some 2,500,000 items, everything from paper clips to battleships, are used at various times by agencies of the government.
Suppose a government clerk in a Miami office wants a pencil, or a general in Tokyo a chair. There are about 1,400 different kinds of pencils, about 20,000 different kinds of chairs.
Until recently the clerk and the general had to fill out several pages of order blanks in order to describe the item wanted.
Now, as part of the responsibility under the legislation which created it July 1, 1949, the Government Services Administration (GSA) is working on "commodity classification and identification" to eliminate at least part of the red tape.
Coming up is a new catalog designed to save time, money and headaches. Each item, whether carbon paper or internal combustion engine, will have the same number, in all agencies.
"This is a mammoth proposition," Commissioner Clifton E. Mack of the Federal Supply Service told me.
Pattern descriptions are made for each item, for example, an ash tray. The pattern description: "Tray, ash, desk, glass, square, 4 x 4 inches, circular center convection." This pattern is given a number and put on a card. Then copies of the card and number are distributed to all agencies that might need such trays. Multiple this by 2,500,000 items.
Working on the catalog along with GSA is the Munitions Board of the Department of Defense.
The Munitions Board learned the value of a common listing the hard way. During the Philippine Sea engagement in World War II, a destroyer broke a main bearing 500 miles out at sea.
The crew checked the parts room but couldn't find another. At Pearl Harbor a new main bearing was ordered. The supply officer came aboard with it only to find one in the ship's parts room. The supply number on the package was not the same as the one in the supply catalog at the home base at San Diego.

Methodist Student Center Has Interesting Background

Shown in the above photograph are the 1950-1951 officers of the Wesley Foundation. They are shown as they were recently commissioned in an impressive installation service in the sanctuary of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

The Methodist Student Center, located on the corner of Fifth and Holly Streets, is a gathering place for the more than five hundred Methodist students now enrolled at East Carolina Teachers College.

The Wesley Foundation, a church-supported organization, is the Methodist Student Movement at work on campuses of state-supported colleges. It provides a "home away from home" for college young people—a place where the students can come for recreation, wise counseling, religious training, refreshment, and fine fellowship. The real purpose of the Wesley Foundation is to bring students to know God—to help them discover for themselves avenues of Christian service through church activities and to find suitable vocations in life. This year a particular emphasis is being placed on dedication of self to full time Christian service.

About fifteen years ago the plan for a center and for a leader to work especially with college students became a realization. The women of the North Carolina Methodist Conference had long been interested in student work and it was mainly due to their efforts that a sum was appropriated for the first worker and home.

Miss Zoe Anna Davis came to Greenville and a small apartment was secured at the home of Mrs. D. M. Clark on Holly Street. Miss Davis, in addition to her work with the students, served as church secretary. Her salary was paid in part by Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church and in part by the N.C. Annual Conference. While she was here, the organization was known as the Methodist Student Association. Before she left, a house was rented for this work at 405 Holly Street.

Miss Davis was in Greenville about five years and was succeeded by Miss Elizabeth Tisworth, who remained for three years. In 1943 Miss Mamie Chandler received her appointment as deaconess to the Wesley Foundation under the jurisdiction of the Woman's Division of the Board of Missions.

Miss Chandler, who is a member of the N.C. Annual Conference, has been reappointed to this service annually since August, 1943. One of the first changes that took place after her arrival was a reorganization of the program under the Methodist Student Movement and the work here became known as the Wesley Foundation.

During the past seven years Miss Chandler has witnessed a great change in the Foundation. Shortly after she arrived, they had to vacate the house on Holly Street and moved to a small three-room apartment in the old Wilson home on the corner of Fifth and Holly. In 1947 the N.C. Annual Conference purchased the residence but it was not until 1948 that they were able to obtain full possession. Now the center enjoys the use of the whole lower floor, while the upstairs is rented as an apartment.

There were 52 Methodist students enrolled on the ECTC campus in 1943. This year, seven years later, there are 530 students who are either already Methodist or show a preference for the Methodist Church, and among that number, 243 of them are men.

During the war years there were fewer students on the campus and the whole life in the Center was geared to meet wartime conditions. The servicemen who came to Greenville were extended a warm welcome although they did not participate actively in the program of the Foundation. Following the war, conditions on the campus were far from normal, and the program had to be adapted to meet the needs which arose in connection with the campus G.I. In the words of Miss Chandler, "It was not until the fall of 1949 that the student body was once again like the pre-war group—young, enthusiastic, spontaneous teen-agers."

At present the Wesley Foundation is open from 9:00 a.m. till 10:30 p.m. Here any campus student is welcome and they have the use of the reception hall, in which a piano is a favorite gathering place for the young people, a comfortable living room for reading and relaxation as well as entertaining, a music and game room, a study for the use of Miss Chandler in holding consultations and for the Council's planning sessions, a kitchen to which the young folks go for snacks and hot drinks, and a small chapel. On the door of the chapel, equipped with a table on which are a Bible, candles, and a picture of Christ against a curtained background, are the words "Enter, Relax, Meditate and Pray." The Wesley Foundation program centers in the Council, which is made up of a president, a vice-president, a secretary, a treasurer and chairmen of the following commissions: Worship, Personnel, Recreation, World Christian Community, Music, Church Relations, Public Relations, Literature and Training. Mr. Billy Ventrone of New Bern is the 1950-51 president.

The Wesley Players is the dramatic organization which represents the Foundation and Miss Ophelia Kirven, of Sumter, S.C., is the president of this group.

The year's program is begun in the spring when the newly-elected officers and the counselor have a retreat on the Pamlico River. In the fall before the college opens another retreat is held at which time the year's specific program is planned. The program is centered in the church activities and the Foundation members compose the college department of the Sunday school, under the guidance of Miss Chandler, who is the class teacher. On Sunday evenings a supper and vesper meeting is always held at the Center. The young adults are encouraged to attend both morning and evening church services.

The way the Foundation attempts to reach all Methodist students on the campus is by personal contact. Each active member is responsible for a certain number of "untapped" students, and they are encouraged to visit the Center and attend the church services. Already this year all Methodist students living on the campus have been contacted.

One of the most important phases of the work done by Miss Chandler is that of personal counseling. Last year she held 1119 private conferences and during this month of October she has personally talked to over 131 students in consultations.

The value of the work is inestimable; the services rendered to the students are untold; and the feeling of security and fellowship that is generated from the Wesley Center radiates to all parts of the campus.

Prospectors Get 5 Per Cent Haul

Karachi (AP)—Pakistan has fixed the royalty on the mining of gold and silver at five per cent of the market value.

The government has invited several foreign firms to prospect in the mountainous areas around Quetta, Baluchistan, where a geological survey indicated gold might be found. Silver is being sought in eastern Pakistan, bordering Burma.

Recorded Sermon Wins Pastorate

Vancouver (AP)—The rich voice of a young Scottish minister, transcribed in Scotland and heard by a church congregation in Vancouver, won for Rev. W. M. Stevenson the pastorate of a new church.

The 37-year-old minister's last parish was Dunoon, Scotland. When informed of an opening in Vancouver, he hit upon a recording as the best means of selling himself to his prospective congregation. His 12-inch recording was a short sermon on prayer.

DOUBLE WEDDING

By Adelaide Humphries

Chapter 29
Miss Phipps had told Stephanie, when she had been recounting her love story, that she did not believe in interfering and trying to tell others what to do. But Miss Phipps was decidedly disappointed in the way this particular love story was progressing. It had to come to an end some time, some way. Yes, even if Miss Phipps herself had to break her rule and do something to bring about an ending.

That young rich Mr. Hale had taken himself off to South America, if you please. Which had been a mighty smart move on his part. But it had not helped much.

Stephanie's mother had gone and got herself married again. A good move, too, as Mr. Smith, even if he did appear a timid little creature, apparently contained stern enough material to keep that lady well in hand. He had taken her off on a honeymoon, and, incidentally, got her out of Stephanie's hair for a spell.

Not as alone as she was now. Not for long. Just for a breathing space—until the hero returned.

Then his uncle—the hero's, that is—had come back from his winter in the South and had come to call upon Stephanie. And Miss Phipps, when he took his departure he said he was coming again, and he had looked right at Miss Phipps when he said it, not at Stephanie. Miss Phipps' heart had acted up right queerly, almost as if it had turned a double somersault. Which was nonsense at her age.

Mr. Vaughn had said he had no idea where that good-for-nothing nephew of his had gone. But he had said, with that contagious twinkle in his eye, that Sandy was bound, in good time, to turn up again.

"We always do, we Vaughns," he had said, chuckling. "Bad pennies, you know. So just you keep a-sticking, Queen Bee, like I told you before. He'll come back, you'll see. And I'll be a-coming back too, soon if I may." That was when his glance had traveled over to rest on Miss Phipps' face—and it had seemed to approve of what he saw instead of finding that good lady over a plain unpalatable spinster.

Miss Phipps thought that it was all very well to hope that the hero would turn up, and even for the heroine to have to wait for this to take place for an installment or so. But you couldn't just leave them dangling in thin air like that indefinitely. You couldn't let the heroine's eyes become more grieved, with purple shadows, and her pretty face paler and her slender body most too thin.

The hero, wherever he was, must be suffering too. For there was no doubt in Miss Phipps' mind as to the story's ending.

Then, when she was endeavoring to consider every possible angle—even such drastic ones as the police, hospitals, and the morgue, she chanced upon something that she would never have considered and that gave her the direction as clearly as a compass.

It was an item in a newspaper, not a long one, nor a headliner. Just an announcement that a play that had recently been sold was also being considered as a vehicle for a certain movie star. Miss Phipps, being an ardent movie fan, never missed even the smallest items concerning that industry.

But what captured her avid interest in this particular item was the name. Inconspicuous, unknown, of the author of the play. It was authored by one Sanders Q. Vaughn, a name that would hardly belong to two persons.

She sent a telegram marked "Please Forward, if Necessary." And then she waited for the ending which surely Fate—and Stephanie and her Sandy—would forgive Miss Phipps for contributing to in her small way.

She was confident that there would be some sort of answer within twenty-four hours. So that it was just as well that the other Mr. Vaughn, Sandy's uncle, did call the following evening and suggest that they all go to a show. It was also well that Stephanie pleaded a headache and letters she must write, and insisted that Miss Phipps go along with Uncle Quentin. Not that Miss Phipps needed persuasion.

"I'll be ready in a jiffy. I think you are absolutely right, Stephanie, to stay in and take care of your headache and your correspondence."

She beamed on Stephanie, too, apparently so delighted at the turn of events that Stephanie smelled a "rat."

Stephanie settled herself for a long lonely evening. Lonely because Sandy was not here. Because no matter what everyone said she knew he never would be.

She had nothing now but these letters she was always writing, telling him how sorry she was that they had messed things up so, that everything had been so confused, so tangled, all wrong from the very beginning.

Oh, Sandy. I love you so. If you knew how much, maybe you'd forgive me and forget. Maybe you'd come back to me so that we could try—together this time—just the two of us—not three, not ever three or more again—

The doorbell was ringing so that she had to stop writing and dry her eyes. For there were tears, as there usually were when she wrote these unmailed letters to Sandy, tears that not only filled her eyes but that overflowed and smeared the writing.

Whoever was at the door was impatient of tears and letters. The bell kept clamoring through the quiet little house.

Stephanie got up and opened the door.

"Sandy!" As she said his name she still could not believe it was he. Standing there, scowling down on her in his fiercest manner, his mouth wearing its most mocking grin.

Color Television Fight Shapes Up, Over FCC Ruling

Washington, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Sleeves were rolled up all around today for what looked like a knock-down, drag-out fight over color television.

The federal communications commission, which has held aloof from the squabble over color which followed its selection one week ago of Columbia Broadcasting System's color plan as the official system, announced it will vigorously contest court challenges against its order. They have been filed in New York and Chicago by Pilot Radio Corp., Radio Corporation of America and National Broadcasting Co.

At the same time, the commission moved yesterday to get RCA's rejected color system off the airwaves during regular commercial tele-casting periods, for which CBS has been given formal licenses effective Nov. 20.

The commission notified NBC, which affiliated with RCA, that it may continue "experimental" color broadcasts under the RCA system over Washington station WNBW and New York station WNBC, but that these broadcasts may not be handled during "normal broadcast hours" on the NBC network.

NBC and RCA had no immediate comment. For about a year NBC has been broadcasting some of its commercial programs in RCA color, by way of keeping the public reminded that the RCA method is "compatible" with current operations—that is, that it may be viewed in black and white by owners of present sets without additional equipment or dial adjustment.

Under the FCC ruling, NBC can make such demonstrations only in the morning hours or very late at night when most commercial programs are off the air.

The commission also answered an RCA charge that it may have been influenced in selecting Columbia color by biased advice from an FCC engineer who has invented an adapter to enable existing sets to get the CBS color system in black and white.

The commission said the invention, by laboratory chief Edwin W. Chapin, assisted by an aide, William K. Roberts, has been turned over to the U. S. government. FCC said the government holds the patent and that no individual could collect royalties from it.

FCC noted that it publicly announced the invention a year ago, and that FCC chairman Wayne Coy at the time formerly expressed resentment at any suggestion that the commission had made a special effort to assist Columbia or would be influenced in a selection of a color system "by the work of a single member of its staff or all of its staff."

No Mere Stockings In New Style Of Hosiery

SATIN COLORS—These are new deep-toned stockings in colors designed to complement the season's new afternoon and evening clothes and open sandals.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor
If you think a stocking is only a stocking, you're way behind the times.

This season the stocking designers really have gone to town with innovations to lighten the glamor of beautiful legs encased in nylon cobwebs.

There are stockings with hand-painted clocks, stockings with jeweled decorations, stockings studded all over with sequins, stockings with fancy heels, stockings especially designed for wear with every type of costume, from country tweeds to satin evening gown.

One company (Gotham) introduces satin colors, in deep muted tones to complement the rich satin tones of the winter season's high-style gowns.

Another (Sanson) presents a new fluted stocking that looks pleated in the box and smooths out to a perfect fit on the leg.

The sparkle theme is underscored by still another firm (Larkwood), with hand-painted nylons set with fake jewels by artist Ellen Troy. One has a gold clock at the ankle, another a rhinestone snowflake at the heel.

Designer Lilly Dache also has tried her hand at stockings, and in her recent fashion show she presented sequin-embroidered nylons to carry out the glitter theme of her dress-up gowns and hats.

HAND-PAINTED . . . Ellen Troy painted this black clock on sheer nylons.

FLUTED FOR FIT . . . New process to assure smooth-fitting stockings.

Profitable Error For Sanatorium

Raleigh, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The Eastern North Carolina Sanatorium at Wilson is $335,000 to the good because of an error on the part of the state legislature.

The 1949 general assembly, it seems, made a supplemental appropriation of $335,000 for permanent new General Harry McMullan's apportionment.

Somehow the figure got into the budget twice and was not detected.

Recently, however, the Budget Bureau called for bids on more than $2,000,000 worth of projects at Wilson, including a main hospital for negroes with a capacity of 400 beds.

Contractors bids were $926,000 beyond available funds. With Attorney General Harry McMullan's approval, assistant Budget Director D. S. Coltrane revealed yesterday he used the extra $335,000 to bridge the gap, bringing state appropriations to within $628,000 of the low bids.

Actually, by cutting down other contemplated buildings at the institution, the Budget Bureau was able to okay the building of the hospital, limited to facilities for 367 patients.

Romance in the Air . . .

For the young lady who is merry, friendly, good fun. Because she can see right. Before she had her vision corrected, she was timid, awkward, retiring; now she has poise, self-confidence, and is a good mixer.

It's surprising what a difference good vision can make. Smart girls know this, and have their vision corrected with lovely, streamlined glasses that add to their appearance by giving full, fresh beauty to their eyes and full freedom to their attractive personality.

Red Oak News

Circle No. 1 of Red Oak held a most enjoyable October meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Allen last Sunday evening. All but seven members answered the roll call making a total of twenty-four members and eight visitors present.

Mrs. Thurman Page presided over the meeting and Mrs. F. L. Allen led the devotion.

Mrs. James Allen gave a most gratifying treasurer's report. Mrs. Ethel Crawford swelled the treasury considerably by funds received by selling Christmas cards, note paper, etc.

It was time for election of officers and after deciding that it was unwise to change horses in the middle of the stream the old officers were unanimously re-elected.

We are indeed in the middle of a stream. We have already installed a carpet that completely covers the auditorium of the church and both choir and now we are beginning negotiations for new pews and altar furniture.

Milton May, chairman of our church board and honorary member of our circle appointed Messrs. J. R. Entwistle, Burton Evans, Leroy James and Mrs. James Allen to serve on a committee to get the pews. He will assist them.

Final plans were made for our third annual Harvest Auction and Turkey supper on Friday night, October 20. Supper will be served from 5 o'clock until seven o'clock. Delicious food, well-prepared by the good cooks of Red Oak will be served. The proceeds from this supper and auction will be used to finish paying for our carpet.

Plans were also made for the broadcast on Monday night. Twenty-seven people from Red Oak and some special guest artists from Greenville were on the air for one-half hour. The highlights of the program were the special numbers by "The Harmonizers," Mrs. Clarissa Edwards May, Mesdames Glenn Scott and Harvey Ward, Lawrence Tyson and community singing by all present. We have received several favorable comments on the broadcast which makes us feel mighty good.

The following people are asked to serve on these committees at the Harvest Sale.

Supper: Mrs. Joe Joyner Sr., Mrs. Clyde Bright, Mrs. N. O. Hodges, Mrs. James Allen, Mrs. J. T. Manning, Mrs. Ora Allen, Mrs. F. L. Allen, Mrs. Ethel Crawford and Mrs. Doc Smith.

Serving Committee: Mrs. Rena Manning, Mrs. George Haddock, Mrs. Leroy James, Mrs. Bill Dail, Miss Louise Eiks, Mrs. H. W. Nobles, Mrs. Travis Crawford, Mrs. L. W. Edwards and Mrs. W. C. Jenkins.

Table Decorations: Mrs. Lizzie Vandford. Marking Committee: Willie Pate, James Sydney Allen, Charles Allen, F. L. Allen Sr. Meats and Poultry: Mr. and Mrs.

Ola Kittrell. Canned Goods: Mrs. W. T. Page and Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Sr. Flowers: Jarvis Tripp Jr. Cakes and Pies: Mrs. M. H. May, Mrs. W. S. May and Mrs. Lena Manning.

Sewing: Mrs. Albion Bright and Mrs. Joe Joyner Jr. Auctioneer: Mr. Reginald Austin of Scotland Neck.

Fire: Mr. Thurman Page. All church members are asked to take an active part in this sale by assisting these committees in any way possible.

Come on, folks! Let's really make this our very best Harvest Sale!

Mrs. John Crawford was hostess to our pastor and his wife last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Ola Kittrell will be hosts to them on next third Sunday.

Little Miss Ness Ann Page will be hostess to the November meeting of Circle No. 1 at her home.

Our hosts, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Allen, served a delicious salad plate with a cold drink. All departed declaring that our circle meetings get better all the time. The secret? Having a task before us, and then putting our shoulders to the wheel and all pushings towards the same goal!

Teacher Thinks Living In Japan Spoils Families

Sydney—(AP)—Luxury living in Japan is spoiling wives and children of allied soldiers there, says Mr. H. Porter, a school teacher.

Porter, an Australian, taught the children of BOOF families for a year at Iwakuni. He said in an interview on his return here: "Classroom reactions of the children reflected the luxury of their life in Japan. Even the smallest of children talked of 'my housemaid'."

"And in the classroom, they did not seem to be able to apply themselves as well as the Japanese children."

"The Japanese children seemed to have a fanatical zeal to learn as much as they could."

'Moods' Of Baby Patients Are Sketched By Cartoonist Nurse

AP Newsfeatures
NEW YORK—Every baby has a distinct personality.

So says Miss Yvonne Shannon, assistant head nurse in the premature baby ward at Presbyterian Hospital.

To prove her point, Miss Shannon makes cartoons of her tiny patients, most of whom spend their first weeks of life in plexiglass incubators. Her sketches endow the babies not only with personalities of their own, but also with a sense of humor.

Miss Shannon started doing the cartoons after reading an article in a medical magazine in which the author set forth his worries about babies being isolated from their mothers.

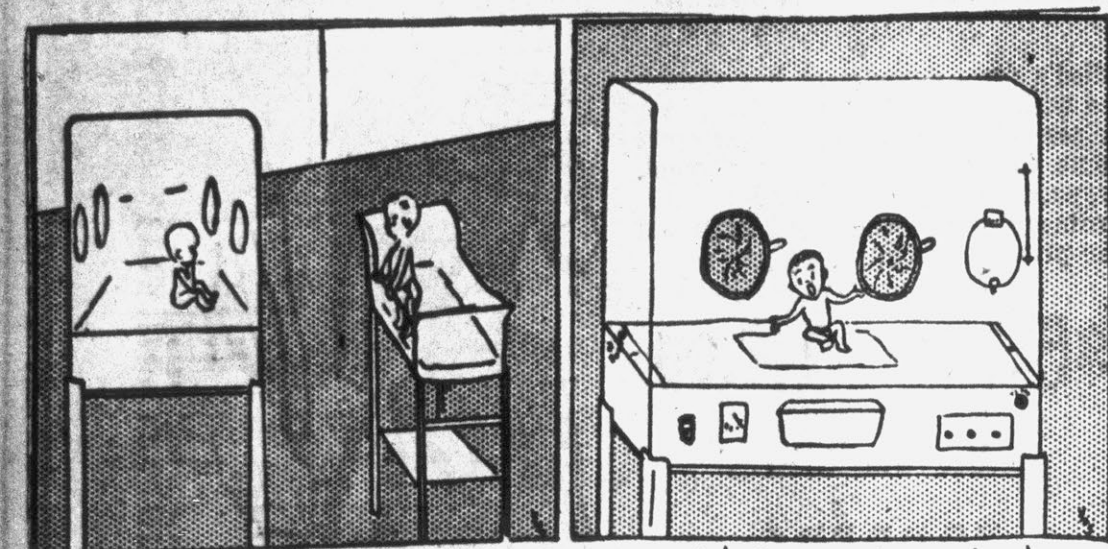

Her sketches showed the progress of the babies in their glass houses, and proved to doubters that the babies gained both weight and character. Proud parents often take the sketches home along with the babies.

The smiling nurse has no desire to change careers, however. Says she:

"I'd rather be a nurse, as long as I can take care of little children."

YVONNE SHANNON—Babies' nurse looks over some of her cartoons two of which are shown above.

Sweet Potato Marl Stronger

Three thousand bushels of sweet potatoes was sold on the Bethel Sweet Potato Market Monday. The price averaged from $1.10 to $1.75 a bushel. Quality of the offerings ranged from common to above medium grades.

The general tone of the Bethel auction sweet potato market, which opened last Tuesday, was steady and prices showed a steady upward trend, in line with improved offerings.

Storage facilities for sweet potatoes on the Bethel market are provided for 150,000 bushels or more. The Bethel Auction Market was established last year, with J. P. Harris, founder of the Bethel Freezer Locker Company, as president. The market handles sales for sweet potato growers of Pitt, Edgecombe and Marion counties.

J. L. Brown of Bethel is auctioneer. Jesse Sumner, sweet potato specialist for the State College extension division, Raleigh, who keeps in contact during the year with the sweet potato growers of this area, said the average production should net 100 bushels or more to the acre.

The auction market in Bethel is open daily from 9 to 12 o'clock, and from 2 to 5 p.m. No sales are made Saturday.

The first mechanical refrigerator was patented in 1856, but electricity was not applied until after 1890.

Reference is also made to deed from W. J. Fleming and wife to Randolph Brothers, dated November 1st, 1914, duly recorded in Book IKO at page 255 of the Pitt County Registry.

The foregoing three parcels being the same designated as parcels 2nd, 3rd, and 4th in that deed from the Greenville Banking & Trust Company to Rosa Ella Briley, dated May 27th, 1931, recorded in Book A-19, at page 80 of the Register of Deeds office, to which reference is made. And said three parcels being the identical lands conveyed by Rosa Ella Briley and husband, John H. Briley, to J. H. Woolard by deed dated January 12, 1934, as appears of record in Book B-20, at page 261, to which reference is made.

The successful bidder at said sale will be required to make a deposit of 10% of his bid.

This 17th day of October, 1950.

Best Wives Cost A Little More

Singapore—(AP)—Rubber plantation workers in Negri Sembilan state buy their wives. They declare the more they pay the greater the likelihood of getting a good wife.

The Negri Sembilan Plantation Workers Union says it is facing a gigantic task in discouraging these "business deals" and persuading the workers to understand the real matrimonial relationship.

Communists And Workers Clash

Srinagar, Kashmir—(AP)—Twenty-four persons were injured when Communists and workers of Prime Minister Sheikh Abdullah's national conference party staged a brickbat battle at Badgam, 10 miles southwest of Srinagar.

It was the first clash between Communists and non-Communists in the Kashmir valley. The Reds were defeated in the recent national conference elections.

An estimated 104 million animal hides and skins from all corners of the world will be required in 1950 to meet America's demand for shoes and leather soles.

Buccaneers Drill For Split-T Formation Used By Quakers

A lengthy drill on polishing up East Carolina's aerial attack was held under the stadium lights last night, to almost finish up the Pirates' preparations for Guilford tomorrow night.

The Buccaneers will run through light drills on signals and checking of blocking assignments today, and will depart for Greensboro tomorrow morning.

Both Quarterbacks Roger Thrift and Sandy Siler shared in the passing exercises last night, and the Pirates' two outstanding aerialists were hitting with deadly accuracy.

Doing most of the receiving were Ends Frank Maennle and Dwight Shoe, who will be counted on heavily for tomorrow night's Quaker game.

Fresh star Bobby Hodges also worked out at an offensive end position, and looked mighty good.

In yesterday afternoon's practice session, Coach Dole ran his charges through drills of punting under pressure, kicking extra points under pressure, and setup his defensive tactics for Guilford's split T-formation.

Buck Hardee, the Pirate tackle with the truetoe, was kicking the extra points, while Halfback Bill Darby was getting off some splendid kicks of 45, 60 and 55 yards.

Spirits ran high in the Pirate camp last night as the Bucs are out to take over sole possession of third place in the conference and move into the championship running in case Appalachian or Elion get knocked off.

East Carolina and Guilford are currently running a two-way tie for third place, with two wins against one loss in conference play.

Tackle Wally Robinson missed last night's workouts because of a sore throat but the outstanding defensive lineman is expected to be ready for tomorrow night's battle.

Guilford Quakers Turn Out 'Surprise' Of Year

By BILL LLOYD

Guilford's surprise team of the North State conference has broken all pre-season predictions of the Quakers this year.

Rated as a so-so ball club in the pre-picks forecasts way back in September, the Quakers have made a strong uphill climb that has put them among the current leaders of the nine-team conference.

The Quakers, determined to make the grid prognosticators eat their words, have rolled to four triumphs this season, while suffering only one loss in their opening game with Appalachian, 22-2.

Last week, Coach Eddie Tongue's spirited eleven added feathers to their hats, as they dumped a heralded Emory and Henry club, 21-20, in the last few seconds to halt the Waps' win streak at 15 games.

It was a definite upset for the Quakers, but the game proved the quality and determination of the Guilford footballers.

Leading Coach Tongue's split T-formation this season is Quarterback Al Johns, a swivel-hipped runner who also specializes in the passing game. Johns finds able pass-receivers in Ends Bill Topping and Chuck Whitcomb, both jettermen flankmen.

The always threatening scoring attack of the Quakers comes from such fine ground-gainers as Sam Venuto, John Schoop, Bob Yarborough, and Phil Phoeney at halfbacks, and George Tate, Walter Moon and Joe Attayek at the fullback spot.

Moon, a hefty 210-pound senior, is the leading scorer with 24 points.

The Quakers' line has not been up to par with the backfield, but the forward wall still has power to burn which enables the backs to go downfield, and makes the going rough for their foes through center.

Such tackle stalwarts as Sam Lynch, Ben Baker and Ab Alexander form the nucleus of the line, with Guards Jerry Clapp, Tom Ewall and Sam Shugart anchoring down the beside-the-center slots. Larry Crawford and Lawton Gresham hold down the center chores.

It will be some ball game as the Quakers play hosts to East Carolina's Pirates at Greensboro Friday night, with each team possessing a 2-1 third place record in the conference standings, and both battling to see which one stays in the running for the conference championship—should Elion or Appalachian drop by the wayside.

Jimmy Dykes Is Proud Of Being In Mack's Shoes

Philadelphia, Oct. 19—(AP)—Jimmy Dykes is proud of being selected to succeed Connie Mack as manager of the Philadelphia Athletics but he's realistic enough to know that a tremendous rebuilding job has been tossed into his lap.

To say Dykes was starting from scratch would be an understatement. The rotund smoker of big black cigars inherits a ball club that finished last in the American League this year, 47 games behind the first place New York Yankees.

But Jimmy isn't wearing a harried look yet. After the excitement of his being selected to fill the famous shoes of the retired 87-year-old Mack had died down today, Dykes took this stock of his ball club:

"This team isn't as bad as its record. They finished so far behind because they loafed. And believe me, there won't be any loafing in 1951. The A's will hustle from spring training to the end of the season. That, I promise you."

Dykes said he and the new general manager, Arthur Ehlers, would decide next week what players they want to keep and whom they would like to get rid of.

"The only help we can expect from the farm teams next year consists of Lou Limmer, first baseman from St. Paul who was voted the outstanding rookie in the American Association; Frank Robinson, a pitcher from Savannah and George Moskovich, Buffalo second baseman," Dykes said.

Asked if bringing up Limmer would make first sacker Ferris Fain available as trading material, Dykes said it is an angle to consider.

"Fain is a good first baseman and we would have to get darn good players in any deal involving him. We don't want cash, we want players."

Hold Vital Posts In Piratical Plans

One of the big reasons for East Carolina's aerial success this year has been End Frank Maennle, rangy 6'3" wingman from Kearney, N. J. Maennle was shifted to offensive end this year from the fullback spot, and has been one of the high scorers for the Pirates this season, gathering in four touchdown passes. The big flankman will see plenty of action against Guilford College Quakers at Greensboro tomorrow night. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee).

Undeclared Mites Play Selma In Return Match

Greenville's midgets, the smallest yet the winningest football club here, play again Saturday night in a return battle with Selma's mites in Guy Smith stadium. Kickoff is slated for 8:00 p.m.

Coach Bill Kittrell's eleven was tied by Selma last Saturday night, 0-0, but the little Greenies still extended their undefeated streak to 14 straight games.

The Greenville minute-men scored twice in last Saturday's clash, but both touchdowns were called back because of penalties.

The Eastern Carolina's Boys champions will be out to lengthen their undefeated column to 15 games in their return scrap with Selma, and Coach Kittrell remarked yesterday that "the team that gets the breaks will win Saturday night."

Quarterback Pat Sawyer, the mites ace passer, will lead the aerial game here Saturday night, tossing to Ends Tommy Sealed and Billy Johnson. Halfbacks Tommy Key Norris and James Speight will share the brunt of the running with Fullback Bobby Howell. Joe Taft, another halfback, will also be used extensively.

Tackles Edgar Moore and Zero Zieour are expected to form the anchor in the middle of the line, along with Guards Charles Hollingsworth and Barney Barrett. Ike Riddick will start at center.

Coach Kittrell also reported yesterday that the Greenville midgets had been invited to play in the Civic Bowl at Fayetteville around Thanksgiving but the invitation had been declined because of participation in the Exchange Club bowl game here on Thanksgiving Day.

Halfback Bob Shackelford and Guard Harry White Scott will miss Saturday night's skirmish because of injuries.

Jayvees Tangle With Baby Pam Pack Tonight

Greenville's junior varsity round out their season's schedule tonight as they go against Washington's baby Pam Pack in Washington. Kickoff tonight is set for 8:00 p.m.

Coach Stan Terrill's eleven will make their final bid for a victory tonight in ringing down the curtain on their football season.

The Baby Phantoms have a record of two losses and one tie during the current season. Washington defeated the locals here last week, 19-7, and the G-Men will be seeking revenge.

Fullback Hilton Quinn, and Halfbacks Doug Morgan and J. D. Mayo are expected to be the spark-plugs in the J.V.'s efforts for a final win tonight. All three backs have shown promise of powerful running in their past three games.

In the line, Coach Terrill will count heavily on Tackles Boots Teel and Vann Carroll to stop the powerful running attack of the Pam Pack. Aiding Carroll and Teel in the forward wall will be Guards Tom Smoot and Dobby Nunn, with Jody Taylor holding down the pivot position.

Greenville scored first in last week's tilt, only to weaken in the second half, which provided a win for the Pam Pack.

Television tubes now range in size from 3 inches to 30 inches in diameter. Engineers say they can even be made larger.

Hodges Hardware Now Leading Classic League

Classic Bowling League

Hodges Hardware	12	9	571
Wagner-Waldrop	11	10	528
Carolina Dairy	10	11	476
Bilbro Wholesale	9	12	428

Hodges Hardware emerged from a three way tie with teams in the Classic League and landed on top of the heap, one game in front of Wagner-Waldrop from which it took two games out of three.

Of the three teams in the tie, Carolina Dairy fared the worst when it dropped three games to Bilbro Wholesale. The latter team came out of the bowling doldrums to dump the Dairy and thus rack up its best night since the league started play. With a record of nine wins in 21 games, it is now close up in contention with the other three.

Leading the Bilbro team was Tyson Bilbro who not only rolled the night's highest single game but also the best three game score. In topping the efforts of the other players, Bilbro moved into the top ten in averages with a score of 144, good for eighth place.

In that bracket, Red Flanagan was the only player in the first ten who could improve his average. He gained a pin on his 143 score of last week. The others dropped anywhere from one to three pins.

Wagner-Waldrop copped the night's highest three game score with 2,038 pins. However, it managed to win only one game from Hodges, the first one when they bowled 721. They followed that with a 711 game but Hodges' handicap gave it a score of 729.

Justice's Name Is Selling Tickets

Washington, Oct. 19 — (AP) — Charlie (Choo-Choo) Justice's popularity isn't doing the Washington Redskins any harm at the box office.

Business Manager Russ Swan said today the 'Skins had their greatest single day ticket sale of the season on Monday only to have the figure almost doubled on Tuesday. Yesterday's sale was about the same as Tuesday. The former North Carolina star will make his pro debut against the Chicago Cardinals Sunday.

Big Bobby Hodges, 6'5", 225-pound frosh star from Kinston, has added much strength to East Carolina's forward wall this year. Hodges, one of the most sought-after prep school All-Staters last year, has been playing defensive guard and defensive end for the Pirates this season, and has been a continuous thorn in the opponents' backfield. Coach Dole has also been working Hodges at an offensive end position. He will be among the Pirate leaders in tomorrow night's game with Guilford's Quakers. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee).

Spirited Workout For Phantom's Friday Tilt

A spirited workout in passing and rushing offense featured yesterday's Greenville High School drills, as the locals prepped for their traditional rivalry game with the Kinston Red Devils here Friday night.

The running of Sydney Briley, newly converted fullback, took the spotlight in yesterday's brush up of the Phantoms' ground attack. Briley was switched to the line-plunging spot last week against Elizabeth City when Leon Moore sustained a bruised shoulder. Briley has looked good at his new position, and Coach Farley expects to add much needed power with Briley at his new position.

Quarterback Eddie Farley's passing also received considerable attention, with the son of the Greenville mentor, hitting Ends Johnny Aman and Wiley Gardner with deadly accuracy in the aerial game.

Two backfield reliables, Kent Lee and Walter Goor, also shared in both the running offense and as pass receivers.

Tackles Wallace Conway and Fletcher Murray sparked the line play along with Guards Johnny Merwin and Joe Rowland. Lewis Howe worked at the center position.

Coach Farley said his squad would taper off in practice this afternoon, the accent being on signal drills and blocking assignments.

Greenville will be striving for their first conference win in their game with the defending champs. The Phantoms have a record of two losses and one tie in league play, while the Red Devils hold a record of two wins against one loss.

Only Scattered Price Changes

By the Associated Press
Food shoppers will find only scattered changes in retail prices this week as compared with last weekend when several items tipped downward slightly.

Top grade large eggs advanced two to six cents a dozen in many places after declining irregularly for two weeks, but medium and smaller eggs showed little change.

Frying and broiling chickens, some coffee, apples, snap beans, Idaho potatoes and cranberries eased a bit in most stores. Melons and bunch carrots were a little higher. Meat prices were mostly unchanged.

At the wholesale level, some small advances in food prices were just about balanced out by minor declines. The Dun & Bradstreet Wholesale Food Index held steady this week at $6.48 after dropping for four consecutive weeks. This index represents the sum total of the wholesale cost of a pound each of 31 general use foods. On September 12 when the decline started, the figure was $6.68. A year ago this week it was $6.58.

Several brands of coffee, both canned and bag-packed, were trimmed one to three cents a pound by independent roasters and food store chains. They said the reductions—first since May—reflected a recent downturn in the cost of green coffee beans.

Agriculture Secretary Brannan, speaking in Cincinnati, said an upward price trend in over-all food prices "is plainly discernible" until well into the first quarter of next year.

Cotton Growers Submit Protest

Washington, Oct. 19 — (AP) — Southern cotton growers carried to government officials today their protests against a recent order limiting cotton exports.

They contend the order, coming in the midst of the 1950 harvest, dropped domestic cotton prices and in effect imposes price control on this one commodity.

The controversial order, issued last week by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, limits cotton exports to 2,000,000 bales for the period ending next March 31. In a statement this week Brannan said the order is subject to revision. He defended it as a necessary defense measure in view of a short U.S. cotton crop and a probable heavy military demand.

Cotton growers and cotton state congressmen have called for revocation of the order. Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.) even said Brannan should be impeached unless the order is revoked.

In hastily summoned meetings at Memphis and El Paso, cotton growers selected representatives to come to Washington to see what could be done. The Memphis meeting suggested stockpiling of cotton to meet defense needs as an alternative to the export curb.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY'S

New Automatic Drive Makes its Bow in the new 1951 MERCURY

"Smoother, simpler, more efficient!"
—that's how engineers hail this amazing new automatic drive that's coming soon in the new 1951 MERCURY.

MAYBE you've read about it. Surely you've heard about it. It's the amazing new automatic transmission developed by Ford Motor Company. Now you're going to see it, thrill to it, for the first time in any car, in the new 1951 Mercury.

Called Merc-O-Matic

Merc-O-Matic is the name. And of this you can be sure: there'll be nothing like it on the road! The thrilling new 1951 Mercury will be making a debut in our showrooms in a very few days. And once you see it, we think you'll agree:

For "the drive of your life," it's the new 1951 Mercury with Merc-O-Matic Drive!

What is Merc-O-Matic Drive? It's a completely new, completely automatic drive developed under the direction of Ford Motor Company and Borg-Warner transmission engineers, and made to order for Mercury's great, V-type, 8-cylinder engine. It's s-m-o-o-t-h-e-r, simpler, more efficient!

Makes every driver an expert

Naturally, there's no clutch or gearshift. But there the resemblance to other drives ends. For this new Merc-O-Matic Drive is different. Even the easier-to-read indicator panel is different. The drive selector is so arranged that a person accustomed to a standard shift will feel perfectly at home. And if you're familiar with other drives, you'll notice immediately the big difference in the way this new 1951 Mercury with Merc-O-Matic performs.

There's no "mushiness." With Merc-O-Matic Drive you get instant, certain response. You start in one smooth sweep of power. No tugging as gears change. There's a "down-shift" for extra hill-climbing and passing power; just press the accelerator smartly to the floor. And Merc-O-Matic is cool operating—no uncomfortable heat in the passenger compartment.

There's no "runaway" downhill. You are in control all the time with the engine's compression at work to save your brakes.

There's no stalling in traffic. Park on a hill if you like. You're safe. Merc-O-Matic Drive locks when in Parking position.

Yes, Merc-O-Matic is going to make you forget all you ever knew about automatic transmissions. This is it—the easy, sure, safe, s-m-o-o-t-h-e-r "drive of your life." And—it's extremely thrifty.

Dozens of New Features in 1951 Mercury

But Merc-O-Matic is only part of the great new Mercury for 1951. There's a new look from end to end... beautiful new styling... rich, new fabrics and colors to make Mercury for 1951 one of the smartest cars on the road.

New safety, too—the new rear window alone gives you more than 1,000 square inches of safe viewing area. Greater comfort in a new, improved ventilating system which brings you just the amount of fresh air you want, when you want it, and where you want it.

It's the plus car of the year—plus on beauty, plus on comfort, plus on safety, plus on economy—plus on everything but price!

All that and the great new Merc-O-Matic Drive, too. Yes, you'll want to see these new Mercurys. So watch Mercury showrooms for the new 1951 Mercury with Merc-O-Matic for "the drive of your life"—for "the bug of your life."

"It has always been the first aim of Mercury and its dealers to bring you each year a better car, better in every way that engineering, research, and experience can achieve. "For 1951 we are proud to present the great new Ford Motor Company automatic transmission—Merc-O-Matic Drive—developed by what we regard as the greatest team of engineers in the country today. We think this automatic drive is as efficient and as reliable as the automobile industry knows how to build today. "We sincerely believe that the new 1951 Mercury, with its Merc-O-Matic Drive, its new style and comfort, will be the greatest of all Mercurys."

Vast Military Machine In Readiness For Any Use By Russian Government

By ELTON C. FAY
Military Affairs Reporter
Washington—(AP)—When President Truman said that "the Soviet Union and its colonial satellites are maintaining armed forces of great size and strength" he presumably meant that at least 7,000,000 men are under arms.

That is the estimated total of the ground, air and sea forces of Soviet Russia, its European satellites and Communist Asia, on the basis of authoritative information available here.

These are actual forces-in-being. They do not include the hordes of recruits or reservists with World War II battle experience who could be drawn from the almost unlimited 3,000,000.

The North Korean army ranges from 2,500,000 to more than 3,000,000. The North Korean Communist army once estimated at 150,000 now is being cut up and destroyed by United Nations forces.

The regular Soviet army is estimated at a little above 2,500,000. This is the army alone. It doesn't count in perhaps 400,000 of the so-called security force, the NKVD. Nor does it include a flexible force which is seasonal in nature—about 1,000,000 men who are called, by age groups, for military services. The time for these men to return to civilian life normally occurs in the fall, but the Soviet army is reported holding them in service until the spring of each year.

The Russian army has excellent artillery and in quantities. It demonstrated its artillery powers in World War II.

The Red army is believed to have more—and perhaps better—tanks than any of the great powers. Some guesses in military circles are that the Soviet armored force now may have more than 25,000 medium tanks not including an unestimated number of the huge, 60-ton Josef Stalin III models. Some of the medium tanks—the T-34s—were turned over to North Korea for its invasion of the Republic of Korea, but the number probably made little difference in the total Russian tank force.

Estimates of the rate of production for new Russian tanks range as high as 5,000 annually.

The number of men in the Red air force is placed at about 600,000, but in view of Soviet efforts toward expansion of its air fleet may be well above that figure.

Russia is reported concentrating on swift expansion of her jet fighter plane force. She presumably feels she needs as interceptors to challenge long range American bombers of the B-36 and B-29 type should she launch war and bring down retaliation on her cities. But Russia has not neglected her bomber force since World War II. It is known she is producing quantities of four-engine TU-70s, copies of the American B-29. There are only guesses as to whether the Soviet designers have tried to duplicate the huge B-36.

Among the newer Russian interceptor designs is a reported twin-jet night fighter, equipped with radar locating enemy bombers and having a speed in excess of 600 miles an hour.

At sea, primary Soviet interest is in expanding the submarine fleet. In the past, estimates of the Russian submarine fleet have ranged up to 350. But the British publication, Jane's Fighting Ships, says the Soviet goal is believed to be between 750 and 1,000 long range submarines by 1951.

Although priority has been given submarines, the Red Navy also is reported to have pushed ahead with surface ship building, including not only cruisers and destroyers but some radically new types. Among them, Jane's believes, are three 35,000-ton battleships to fire rockets and radio-controlled aerial torpedoes.

The great bulk of Communist military strength and equipment, of course, is in the Russian force itself. The European satellites—Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria—offer mainly ground forces. Together they number only a fraction of Russian strength. Their quality is below that of Soviet troops and they lack the masses of artillery and armor the Red army maintains.

Personal To Women With Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters wash out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

United Nations Day In Farmville

Farmville, Oct. 19—Plans have been made for the celebration of United Nations Day on October 24 in a program which will be held on the grounds of the Farmville high school.

The ceremonies are scheduled to begin at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The Farmville Veterans of Foreign Wars post under the leadership of Commander Jack Tyson will present a United Nations flag to Mayor Walter Jones. Bill Creekman, commander of the Farmville American Legion post, will lead the gathering in the allegiance to the flag of the United States.

The Rev. Z.B.T. Cox will be the speaker at the United Nations Day program, and music for the program will be played by the Farmville high school band.

"It is hoped the local merchants will close their doors from 11 o'clock to 11:15 in honor of United Nations Day and the program we are planning," Mayor Walter Jones said.

Pitt Girl Is Second In State Fair Event

Hazel Harris, 4-H Club member of the Farmville club, won second place in the Wildlife Contest at the State Fair this week. She was selected by the Pitt County Wildlife Club and represented the district. Carolyn Thornbury, Durham 4-H Club, won first place among the nine entrants from the state districts.

The Ladies Had Their Say, Too, In Demo Meet

Yesterday's Democratic rally here was not all men as is indicated by this group of Grifton women who made sure that Congressman Herbert Bonner got the women's view of the party activities. The Congressmen didn't hesitate to stop eating his plate of barbecue to see what the fair ladies had to say. Grifton women shown in the picture are Mrs. Henry Oglesby, Mrs. M. Brown Hodges, Mrs. Thurman Williams, Mrs. H. P. Quinley, Mrs. Tom Gower, Mrs. George Sugg and Mrs. Cecil Cobb. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee.)

Legion Planning For November 11

Pitt County Post No. 39, American Legion, at its recent meeting, reviewed plans for observing Armistice Day, November 11, with appropriate exercises. The program, as outlined previously, is to have the customary memorial exercises and a barbecue dinner, which will be free to those legionnaires who have paid their 1951 dues. This course was decided on at a previous meeting because of the uncertain conditions caused by warfare in Korea. Post Commander Howard Moyer presided.

Crash Of Three Jet Fighters Is Still A Mystery

Washington, Oct. 19—(AP)—The search resumed today for two of three air force F-86 jet fighter planes which crashed minutes apart yesterday in wooded country 35 miles northwest of here. Cause of the triple crash remained a mystery.

Wreckage of the third craft was found near Nokesville, Va. Its pilot, Luther C. Barcus, Jr., of Springfield, N. J., suffered a broken leg and lacerations.

He told of seeing the other two planes spinning toward the earth just before his own machine went into a mystifying spin. It skidded a mile after reaching earth.

Air Force officials were unable immediately to account for the freak triple crash.

Sabu Cleared In Paternity Suit

Los Angeles, Oct. 19—(AP)—A Superior Court jury has decided that Sabu, Elephant Boy of the movies, is not the father of a British ballet dancer's two-year-old baby.

The jury of six women and six men returned a 9 to 3 verdict yesterday favoring Sabu in the paternity suit brought against him by Mrs. Brenda Julie Ernst.

Mrs. Ernst, who married a British film technician last August, claimed the baby was conceived in December 1947 while she was living in Sabu's home at Northridge, Calif. Her attorney said the baby was born Sept. 12, 1948, in Dublin, Ireland.

Attorney Sydney M. Williams, representing the actor, whose full name is Sabu Dastagir, told the jury no proof was produced to show that Mrs. Ernst is the mother of the girl, Michaela, and that "we have only her naked word that she had a baby in Dublin."

Under Fire For French Defeats

Paris, Oct. 19—(AP)—Premier Rene Pleven's government came under heavy political fire today because of French military defeats in Indochina.

Communist Deputy Pierre Juge opened the debate in the National Assembly by demanding an "immediate end" to the war. Edmond Michelet, a right-wing follower of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, called for a more energetic fight against the Communist-led forces of Ho Chi Minh.

Michelet branded the evacuation of Cao Bang "the greatest disaster in our colonial history."

Rain Needed

A southeast wind during the forenoon today drifted the heavy dark clouds over this area that old timers regard as omens of a long rainy period. Farmers here today said the ground is too dry for this time of the year and that rain is needed.

During October, 1949, two and one-half inches of rain fell in the Greenville area. During the first 18 days of this October only one-half an inch of rain has fallen. That's according to the local weather bureau records. Mrs. Carl E. Malden reported.

The highest temperature here yesterday was 81 degrees; lowest last night, 63 and at 8 a. m. today it was 67. Excessive humidity prevailed over the area during the past 24 hours.

2 Fair Visitors Killed By Train

Raleigh, N.C., Oct. 19—(AP)—Two men were killed when their car, in a slow moving line of traffic leaving the State Fair grounds, was smacked last night by an eastbound Southern Railway passenger train.

One man was seriously injured. Two others escaped from the car before the moment of impact. All five were from Colerain. A highway patrolman, trying to clear the tracks, was injured.

The Highway Patrol identified the victims as Harlan O. White, 48, and M. L. Perry, about 50. A third person, Manley H. White, about 52, had 16 stitches taken in his scalp and is in serious condition. The Whites are not related.

Occupants of the car who escaped were E. L. Stokes and J. A. Jenkins. The accident occurred at 10:25 p.m. at Cox's Crossing, on an alternate road leading the Fair grounds and heading for U.S. 1. This is the same crossing where the lives of three Raleigh residents were lost in a similar accident on Oct. 22, 1948.

Mr. Harlan O. White, of Colerain, was a brother of Miss Ruth White, dean of women at East Carolina Teachers College. Miss White left this morning for Colerain.

Install Air Raid Shelter Signs In New York City

New York, Oct. 19—(AP)—Air raid shelter signs mushroomed in New York City yesterday.

Black and white signs bearing the letter "S" appeared in and near buildings in congested areas from lower Broadway to Rockefeller Center.

An arrow on the signs points to the building entrances.

Civil Defense Director Arthur W. Wallander said 90 buildings had been selected to provide reasonable shelter in case of an air raid.

In the event of a raid, building managers and others will direct people to the underground sites.

Officials Take Time For Fair

Raleigh, Oct. 19—(AP)—Most state offices were closed today because state employees got the day off to take in the State Fair.

It was the same for some Wake county offices. Superior Court suspended for the day and no city court was scheduled for the morning.

City Hall workers get a half day for the fair at their own choosing but the holidays are spread so as to keep the offices open.

'Hot Rods' For Detroit Police

Detroit, Oct. 19—(AP)—It takes a "Hot Rod" to catch a "Hot Rod," police here decided.

So they ordered more than 100 "Hot Rods" scout cars for pursuit of speeders. Police have received the first batch of the new speed jobs. They are souped-up to do 110 miles an hour and can jump from zero to 83 miles an hour in 30 seconds.

Receive Heavy Pearl Shipment

Chicago, Oct. 19—(AP)—A shipment of 500 pounds of pearls—including 15,000 necklaces—valued at $1,000,000 arrived here yesterday from Japan.

It was believed to have been the largest shipment of pearls ever to enter the country. The pearls were the combined output of several hundred growers in the Dutch East Indies and Japan.

Sixteen Injured In Rail Accident

Oneida, N. Y., Oct. 19—(AP)—The New York Central Railroad's passenger express "North Star," roaring westward across central New York in early morning darkness, hurtled the rails in the heart of this city today.

The locomotive engineer and his fireman were killed. At least 16 persons were injured, most of them not seriously.

A steel freight-car door that had fallen in the path of the North Star was blamed for the wreck.

The steam locomotive and all 11 cars of the Flyer plunged off the tracks and tore up 500 yards of the Central's four-track main line, which hugs the North bank of the New York state barge canal. Traffic was re-routed over the Central's parallel west shore railroad on the other side of the canal.

The fireman, Frank Romeo of Watervliet, N. Y., was killed in his cab. Engineer Frank Honway of Menands, N. Y., died several hours later in Oneida City hospital.

and not a penny more would be spent during his term than that which was approved. Taxes have not been raised than what were provided for by the General Assembly, he said.

Secretary of State Thad Eure, a native of Gates County, stood with his adopted Hertford County delegation. Later he made a short speech which he concluded with singing a verse of "Oh What A Beautiful Morning," substituting the last line, "Everybody's coming our way."

Other department heads presented to the audience were Attorney General Harry McMillan, Insurance Commissioner Waldo Cheek, Highway Commission Chairman Henry Jordan, YDC President Bob Williams, National Committeeman Jonathan Daniels, Mrs. B. B. Everett, director of Women's Activities, State Treasurer Brandon Hodges and Ben Roney and Jack Spain, Senator Hoe's aide and secretary respectively.

Both Hoe and Graham, who previously were scheduled to appear, wired congratulations but expressed regrets that other commitments prevented them from attending.

ing to restore her colonial hold. Paradoxical though it seems, this feat of imperialism may in the long run be an aid to the Democrats in keeping Asia from succumbing to Communism. For Communism is the last word in imperialism. It demands that its satellites surrender their sovereignty to Moscow. It calls for totalitarian regimentation of all populations.

The Asiatic countries are strongly nationalistic. This feeling is more intense in many instances because the countries have just emerged into statehood. They are jealous of their new found rights.

'Not To Be . . .

But Mr. Truman rebuked the general at the time by stating publicly the long-range future of the island must be determined by international decision.

So what the President and general had to stay about Formosa when they met on Wake was of prime interest here and everywhere.

Yesterday the President and his accompanying plane-load of aides flew back here, arriving around 10 a.m. About noon newsmen who cover the Pentagon, working in the press room there, received invitation to coffee.

Who invited them? I know but I can't say. Probably most of the newsmen around Washington know. How do we know? Because the newsmen who attended the conference told us, although they couldn't put it in their stories.

The hosts of the Pentagon newsmen at coffee were two important officials. They opened the conference by saying nothing they said could be attributed to them directly or in quotes.

Then they said the President and MacArthur had reached agreement on Formosa. How did they know? They said the President told them. What kind of agreement? This was the $64 question. Who swung over to whose side, MacArthur or the President?

These anonymous officials said they couldn't answer that because they hadn't met in on the head-to-head conference between MacArthur and the President. But this answer created a brand new $64 question:

If the President wanted the public to know about any agreement with MacArthur on Formosa, he could have said so in his San Francisco speech. But he didn't.
