Marine Pilots Report Being Fired Upon By Chinese Guns

Seoul, Korea, Oct. 24—(AP)—Two U.S. marine pilots said today they were fired upon by Red China guns from across the Manchuria border while they were flying inside Korea.

Neither plane was damaged, a marine spokesman said at Wonsan. The officer said the incident took place late Monday near Manpojin, Korean stronghold near the border-marking Yalu River 30 miles northwest of Kanggye.

Kanggye is reported to be the new command headquarters of Kim Il Sung, Red Korean premier. Red troops have been fleeing into the area, a wild mountain fastness, for several days.

The two marine planes were on a reconnaissance mission.

The officer said at least 40 rounds of heavy anti-aircraft shells were fired at the two planes. The attack apparently was radar-controlled. The incident erupted along the

U.S. Troops May Be Out Of Korea By December 25

Tokyo, Oct. 24—(AP)—Informed sources said today most American troops may be out of Korea by Christmas.

They said General MacArthur expects the first elements of the Eighth Army to begin moving back to Japan by Thanksgiving.

All four Divisions of the Eighth Army and perhaps other American units should be out of the Korean peninsula by Christmas, the informants added.

British and most other allied units also presumably will be withdrawn as quickly as possible.

The informants said the time schedule depends upon the swift elimination of organized Red Korean resistance. They said American forces would remain in Korea as long as they are needed.

A Tactical Maneuver

Russia's Call For Big Five Peace Pact Has So Many Angles That Few People Take Proposal Seriously; They Can't Change The Soviet Record, Strategy

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

Russia's call for the conclusion of a "big five" peace pact, of course a further bit of tactical maneuvering in the cold war. It holds out no possibility whatever of a cessation of hostilities.

Still it probably would be a mistake for the United Nations to dismiss the move without due consideration.

You take the questionable piece of metal to a jeweler to find whether it is gold. And it's the business of the peace organization to test every proposal, however questionable, to see whether it contains a grain of hope.

This is particularly true in these days when mankind as a whole is anxious for peace. Even the regimented peoples of the totalitarian satellites would say "amen" to that.

It would be unforgivable if any opportunity were passed up to better the world's wretched situation. Anyway, it can't do harm to debate the issue.

Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky, in supporting the resolution yesterday before the U. N. assembly political committee, made an extraordinary statement. He declared that Moscow's postwar policy is "based on the inevitable peaceful co-existence of the capitalist and socialist systems for a long, long time."

Well, now, if that is meant as a "peace gesture," it calls for a bit of consideration in view of the cardinal tenet laid down by the late Lenin:

"As long as capitalism and socialism remain, we cannot live in peace. In the end one or the other will triumph—the funeral requiem will be sung either over the Soviet republic or over world capitalism. This is a respite in war."

Mr. Vishinsky is an adroit juggler of words. There is no doubt about the co-existence of the capitalist and socialist systems for a long, long time. However, there is every doubt in the world about that co-existence being "peaceful." On the contrary, the cold war may go on and on until one side is knocked out.

That undoubtedly is what Mr. Vishinsky has in mind. It must be.

Looks Like Poor Vote Turnout In City November 7

Registrars Are On The Job But Apparently Most Of Voters Aren't

From the looks of things now, many residents of Greenville Township will not cast a ballot come November 7.

That is the outlook from six of the seven registrars in the precincts who during the past 10 days have been signing voters in the new registration. All report they've been doing their job but the voters haven't.

And it looks as though most of the eligible voters don't know there is a new registration or are just not interested in voting.

At the present time the total number of registrants numbers only about one-fifth of the number on the old books of the Township. Through this morning only 1,069 persons had registered since the new books opened Saturday, October 14. There was no report from precinct No. 7 (Red Bank community).

With more than 5,000 eligible voters on the old books, the number who have stated, by signing their names, they want to vote November 7 is discouragingly small. Two-thirds of the new voters registered on the two Saturdays the books have been open. The rest have been contacted by the registrars.

All six of the reporting poll holders stated indifference was the cause of the small number of registrants to date. Most of them said they thought the voters either don't want to vote in coming elections or they were ignorant there is a new registration. For the latter reason, however, they said the fact has been advertised enough.

Leading in the Township is precinct No. 2—Couthouse. Registrar John Barker reported this morning he registered 200 Saturday and about 80 during the weekdays preceding. He signed 25 this morning.

"If everybody who is eligible to vote comes to register this Saturday, there'll be a line stretching almost to the river," Barker said.

There are at least 1,000 more on the old books who haven't signed the new ones, he said.

Mrs. James S. Jenkins, registrar in precinct No. 6 (Gold Leaf Warehouse) had a note of optimism in her report which included 125 registered Saturday and 50 yesterday.

"I think most of them are waiting for the last Saturday," she said. At any rate, she is going all out during this week to get as many as possible before the final day. She signed the 50 yesterday in two hours.

Mrs. Percy Allen, registrar of precinct No. 1 (Farmers Warehouse) said of the 90-odd she has registered since last Monday she had to buttonhole the majority of them.

In precinct No. 4 (West Greenville School), Registrar Mrs. Rosa H. Brown stated there have been twice as many Negroes to register as white persons. She registered 90 voters on Saturday and over 200 during the week—most of them on the street.

Al Jolson Dies With Final Quip

San Francisco, Oct. 24—(AP)—Al Jolson, the veteran jazz singer who was the first U.S. star to entertain troops overseas in both the Second World and Korean wars, died unexpectedly last night with a quip on his lips.

"Hell, Truman had only one hour with MacArthur. I had two!"

"I'm going boys," the famous mammy singer told two longtime friends with whom he was playing gin rummy in the St. Francis hotel.

He died quietly, quickly, of a coronary occlusion . . . and without pain, said the house physician.

Jolson, 64, had returned only two weeks ago from Korea, where he sang to Allied troops. He had a two hour luncheon chat with General MacArthur in Tokyo enroute.

President Truman and MacArthur talked privately just an hour on Wake Island a week ago Sunday in their historic get-acquainted meeting.

With Jolson were two old friends, song writer Harry Akst and Martin Fried. Al's accompanist and arranger. They had come with him from Southern California for a scheduled guest star spot on a Bing Crosby radio show, to have been recorded here tonight.

Superior Court Term Ends Quick

Pitt Superior Court for civil actions began with a bang yesterday morning as 10 divorces were granted. It closed quietly enough yesterday just after lunch when most of the cases on the calendar were continued.

Judge W. C. Harris, Raleigh, dismissed the jury just before dinner during the morning when there was not enough business to accommodate a full week's term. One reason for continuation of many of the cases, as advanced by Harris, is a meeting of the North Carolina State Bar in Raleigh this week.

There will be one more civil term this year, beginning the week of November 20. This week's cases will be continued until that time.

One hearing consumed the afternoon session. It concerned Ivey Bunn May vs. Joy Olivia May and an action against providing funds for the welfare of the baby. Judge Harris awarded the defendant $15 a month for the child and allowed the plaintiff to have custody of the child each first and third Sunday of each month.

A divorce was granted this morning to Sallie Mae Carroll from Van Buren Carroll. A jury was hastily drawn consisting of county officials, lawyers and three passersby.

J. B. James Will Preside Over N. C. Bar Gathering

Members of the North Carolina State Bar will hold their annual meeting in Raleigh Friday for an election of officers for 1950-51 and also talks by the president of the American Bar Association, State Bar Association and other judges and lawyers.

Presiding over the one-day meeting will be J. B. James, Greenville attorney, who was elected president of the Bar last October. He will also preside over the meeting of the Council Thursday which precedes the Bar proper meeting.

James stepped into the presidency of the compulsory law organization from the office of first vice president, a post he held for a year prior to the last meeting. Before that he was second vice president.

James will introduce to the gathered lawyers, who by statute must become members of the State Bar, the president of the American Bar Association. He is Cody W. Fowler, attorney from Tampa, Fla. Fowler will deliver the principal address.

Enemy Column Moves Out From Last-Stand City

Wansan, Korea, Wednesday, Oct. 23—(AP)—Air Force pilots yesterday reported they spotted a large enemy column moving South from Kanggye, reported last-stand capital of the North Koreans.

The Airmen did not give the make-up of the column, nor speculate on its destination.

Hard-driving South Korean troops have been advancing from the South on Kanggye, which is not far from the Manchurian border.

There were no estimates on the number of enemy troops in the column. U. S. officers said they did not have any information other than the bare statement from returning pilots.

County's Polio Fund Is Running Out Of Money

March Of Dimes Committee Told Only $3,000 Remains In Bank And Nine Polio Patients Requiring Care

By CHESTER WALSH

"We have only $3,000 in bank and we have nine polio patients in hospitals, each one costing $35 a day, and it now appears that we are going to run out of money before the annual March of Dimes campaign in January."

June H. Rose, chairman of the Pitt County Chapter of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation, made this startling announcement at a supper meeting of the "March of Dimes" committee at the Olde Towne Inn last night.

Dr. Elmer R. Browning of the college faculty, chairman of the 1951 "March of Dimes" Committee, presided.

"We have helped 26 victims this year," Chairman Rose said. "Of the 13 polio patients in Pitt County we are helping now, 11 of them are white and two are Negroes. Of the three polio cases in Greenville, one of the victims is a school child, the other two are about two years old. Nearly all of the victims in the rural areas are children of tenant farmers or parents of limited means."

New Polio Problems

"We are meeting new problems in the work of assisting polio victims. There are many patients in this county for whom we must continue to provide treatment and braces and other equipment for those who are crippled for life. We either are going to have to ask financial assistance from other infantile paralysis chapters or from the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation. We need more money to carry on this work. We never know when some member of our own family will be stricken. Polio seldom strikes more than one member of a family, but it makes cripples," Rose said.

He made some timely suggestions for raising money in the "March of Dimes" campaign.

Planning For Drive

Dr. Browning, who heads the campaign committee, outlined plans for the drive, including press and radio publicity, solicitations among the schools, etc. He emphasized that June Rose had said and promised his best to help make the campaign a success.

Don H. Conley, county superintendent of schools, also stressed the importance of what had been said. Johnnie Overton, treasurer, said "the infantile paralysis financial picture is the worst now since I have been in the work. We need money and we need a lot of it."

Sam Bundy, principal of the Farmville High School, told of methods used there for collecting for the "March of Dimes."

In addition to Chairman Rose, other members of the Pitt County Infantile Paralysis Chapter are Dr. Cecil Garrenton of Bethel, K. T. G. Basnight and Johnnie Overton.

School Principals Active

County school principals present at last night's meeting were: Sam Bundy, Farmville; H. L. Chadwick, Falkland; O. H. Forrest, Belvoir; W. C. Latham, Bethel; Garland Baker, Arthur; A. F. Tyson, Grifton; Fodie Hodges, Chicod; T. G. Whitford, Stokes; E. F. Johnson, Ayden; L. V. Godwin, Grimesland; Mrs. Edna Earl Baker, Fountain; T. J. Clark, Wentville; and Ralph Pickelsimer, Wactolus. Others there were Miss Annie Lee Jones, supervisor of county schools; Mrs. Ellen Carroll of the Training School; Johnnie Overton; and Mrs. Georgia Franklin, West Greenville School.

Plans now are being made to hold an organizational meeting among the colored people of Pitt County. Chairman Rose complimented them for outstanding work in the last "March of Dimes" campaign.

Roundup Of Alien Reds Continuing

Washington, Oct. 24—(AP)—An executive committee of the Communist party was taken into custody today in the justice department's continuing sweep-up of alleged alien Communist leaders. At least half a dozen other arrests also were made.

The newest arrests took well past the one-quarter mark the roundup of 98 foreigners the department described as among the most active Communist organizers, lecturers and propagandists in the United States.

Announcing the latest arrests, the department identified Jose Estrada Castillo, who was taken into custody at Dallas, Tex., as a member of the Communist party executive committee. He is a 57 year old Mexican who has been in this country since 1919.

It said arrests in the Detroit area included John Zydok, 3, of Poland listed as the financial secretary of the Communist party unit at Hamtramck, Mich., and also secretary of the Hamtramck Lodge of the International Workers Order. He has been in this country since 1913.

The department is rounding up the 98 with the aim of deporting them from this country. They are being taken into custody under the new internal security act. The law allows their detention in jails or on Ellis Island, while deportation is pending.

Freedom Bell Rings Out Over West Berlin Zone

Berlin, Oct. 24—(AP)—The challenging tones of the freedom bell rang out for United Nations day today in this "only spot of freedom behind the iron curtain." Its message of hope was echoed around the world.

The Communists tried frantically to drown out its voice. Within two miles of the dedication site they held a big demonstration. Angry Communist agitators denounced the bell as "a war bell, a hunger bell, a death bell."

But a crown of nearly half a million Berliners jammed city hall square and overflowed into the by-streets. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, his voice husky with emotion, solemnly dedicated the resounding bronze symbol, set in the 200 foot tower of West Berlin's city hall, with this pledge:

"To resist aggression and tyranny wherever they appear on earth—Eat this world, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom."

Many of the people, who had come by foot, bicycle, stretcher and every other means to the first ringing of the bell on U. N. Day, wept when they heard the bell. Others heard it silently, and then as the tones died away, broke into loud applause.

Hundreds of east Berliners came to the dedication from the Soviet sector. A West Berlin policeman commented: "If they can't have freedom themselves, they want to hear it ringing."

Problem Of The Draft

Nation Has Growing Need For Professional Men Of All Types; Should We Draft All College Students, or Some? Inequalities; Experts Studying What To Do

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Oct. 24—(AP)—The nation faces the following problem as it drafts young men for the armed forces:

There's a continuing need for scientists, doctors, lawyers, educators, scholars, and other college-trained, professional people.

There's a double need for them: The nation is still growing and they must be available to replace older men who die or retire.

This country feels now a shortage of such young scientific and professional people as a result of the drain on them in World War II.

If those now of draft age have to spend two or three years in the Army, they can't get the necessary college or professional training either.

What's the answer? Take them into the Army anyway and let the future worry about young, trained scientists and other professional men?

Or, perhaps, should all college students be draft-proof? If that's the answer, then—

Many youths with high intelligence, lacking the money for college, will have to serve in the Army while others, with money but poorer minds, will be deferred from military service.

That would mean penalizing youths because they were poor. What then is the solution if the armed forces are to get the young men they need while the nation continues to get a flow of college-trained men?

To help find the answer, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, in the fall of 1948 called on scientists, educators and scholars.

He appointed seven committees of them. They've worked on the problem ever since and this month turned in their recommendations to Hershey.

He hasn't acted on them yet. There's no indication when he will act or whether he'll accept or reject them. Briefly these are the recommendations:

1. Youths who score the equivalent of 120 or more on the Army's General Classification Test—an intelligence test—get deferred so long

The Business and Professional Women's club climaxed a series of activities celebrating B. and P. W. week with an informal tea on Sunday afternoon at 4:00 at the home of Miss Alys Ray Taylor on East Eighth street.

The charming tea was one of the outstanding social events in the club calendar and honored new members, who have recently joined the organization.

They will be prepared to serve hundreds of people. Sandwiches, barbecue, hot dogs, drinks, candied apples, homemade candy and cake will be offered for sale at very reasonable prices.

Family Honors Mrs. Whichard On Her Birthday

Mrs. J. D. Whichard of Grimesland was honored on her seventy-fifth birthday when members of her family had a picnic lunch in her honor on Sunday at Whichard's Beach.

The dinner was a basket picnic which was spread on a long table in the lounge room of the recreation hall at Whichard's Beach. A large chocolate birthday cake, appropriately decorated with candles, was cut by Mrs. Whichard. She was the recipient of many useful gifts, and the opening of the packages was enjoyed by all.

There was special music provided by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Edwards of Greenville and group singing in which everyone participated brought the annual family get-together to a delightful close.

Mrs. Whichard is the mother of five children—W. H. Whichard of Washington, J. J. Whichard of Greenville, Kenneth Whichard, Lloyd Whichard and Mrs. Victor Howell, all of Grimesland. She has twenty grandchildren and fifteen great grandchildren.

Also present for this affair were two sisters, Mrs. J. J. Morris of Kenly and Mrs. Della Ward of Farmville.

Ada Cherry Class Installs Officers At Night Meeting

The Ada Cherry class of Jarvis Memorial church met at the home of Mrs. F. L. Blount last night at 8:00.

The meeting was opened with the singing of the theme song adopted by the class for the year, "In Christ There Is No East or West." A business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. G. W. Smith. At this time it was reported that Edna Earle Strother, the "adopted daughter" of the class from the Raleigh Methodist Orphanage, had visited members a week ago at which time her winter wardrobe was secured. A letter of thanks from Edna Earle was read. Plans for the annual Christmas party were discussed, and it was decided to have an old-fashioned affair with every member bringing a guest. The directors of the various activities gave gratifying reports which show the wide range of interests of the Ada Cherry class.

Year books were introduced and distributed.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, Mrs. Fred Langford, immediate past president, conducted an impressive installation service for incoming officers. With the singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers," each class member present was given a lighted candle. The brief but significant installation service followed, concluding with everyone's singing, "Follow the Oleam."

A recreation period followed under the direction of Mrs. Carlos Murray, who led the group in several amusing Halloween games. Mrs. G. W. Smith delighted those present with the telling of a spooky Halloween story—"The Crooked Mouse Family."

The hostesses, Mrs. Blount, Mrs. Robert May Mrs. W. E. Bamlight, Mrs. J. B. Newman and Mrs. Ed Sawyer, served tempting refreshments, after which the meeting was adjourned.

Funeral Wednesday For Mrs. R. J. Cobb

Mrs. R. J. Cobb (better known as Miss Mollie) 81 died in her sleep early Tuesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Carter, 701 E. Fourth Street. Funeral services will be conducted at the Chapel of the S. G. Wilkerson and Sons Funeral Home Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock by her pastor, the Rev. R. E. Hardaway and interment will be in Cherry Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Cobb, daughter of the late Charles D. and Mary Smith Roundtree, was born and reared in Pitt County. She was married to Robert J. Cobb in 1886 and moved to Greenville soon after her marriage. Mr. Cobb died in 1928. She was a loyal member of the Memorial Baptist Church and was always active in both civic and religious circles until her declining years.

Surviving are two daughters Mrs. Irma Cobb Dunn and Mrs. Ruth Cobb Carter, both of the home and a son Cecil Cobb of Grifton; three grandchildren, Irma Cobb Dunn Allen of near Greenville, Mary Ruth Carter Bonkowski of Arlington, Va., and Jane Cobb of Grifton and two great grandchildren, Judith and Anne Allen of near Greenville.

Marshall Fixes Policy On Calling Up Of Reservists

Washington, Oct. 24 — (AP) — Secretary of Defense Marshall has laid down a uniform policy for all the armed forces to follow in recalling reservists to active duty.

It was intended, Marshall said in a directive yesterday, "to obviate the uncertainty with which both the employer and the reservist employee presently are confronted, and to eliminate or reduce to a minimum the inequities in the recall of reservists x x x."

The directive, sent to the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force, orders that each service:

1. Decide its manpower requirements for six months in advance and notify reservists not called on to fill those requirements that their recall "in at least four months remote" unless material changes in military requirements "otherwise dictate."

2. Give those called up at least 30 days for settling their personal affairs before time to report for duty. (This time now varies considerably with the services, running between 15 and 30 days).
3. Remove from its active reserve list all reservists who, for physical or other valid reasons determined by the service, are not available for extended active duty.
4. Keep reservists on active duty only until (a) manpower requirements can be met by the draft or volunteers, and (b) the involuntary reservists and units have reached a "maximum state of training."

This replaces the present policy of calling reservists for an indefinite period in order to bring about a rapid expansion of the armed forces.

A department spokesman said the same policy would hold for National Guard units. It was not possible to say how long it would take to achieve a "maximum state of training" for such units as a National Guard division or a reserve unit, he said.

Claims Eyes Of People On TVA

Charlotte, N.C., Oct. 24—(AP)—TVA Chairman Gordon Clapp spoke today, United Nations Day, on the world-wide interest in the Tennessee Valley Administration.

The TVA as a device of technical assistance to local and state governments without destroying local initiative and autonomy has attracted worldwide interest, he said.

"Hundreds of visitors come each year from foreign lands to study the TVA. Within the last month alone, for example, there were more than 500 visitors from 43 foreign countries."

"They recognize that the problem of building a better living from the soil, water, minerals and forests is universal," said Clapp.

"They see in TVA a dramatic demonstration of what can be done by engineering, science and the energies of free men and women."

The people of the undeveloped lands of the world want American help, Clapp added, but they want American help without American domination.

He spoke before the Rotary Club.

Engineers Club To Convene Here

Members of the East Carolina Engineers Club will meet at the Rotary Club tomorrow night for its monthly meeting. The meeting was originally scheduled to be held in Kinston.

Greenville Police Chief Guy C. Langston will be the main speaker on the varied program. He will speak on safety as it affects the North Carolina highways. Langston was formerly with the safety division of the Highway Commission. The chief will be introduced by Eli Bloom.

Meeting time is seven o'clock. Sixty Greenville and visiting engineers are expected.

2. A poor boy who shows superior intelligence in a test should be sent to college on a scholarship paid for by the government because the nation needs brains, no matter who has them.

And these committees don't draw any lines on the kind of education one of these deferred youths could take. It makes no difference whether he wants to study biology, physics, chemistry, medicine, law, Latin, Egyptology, or anything else. Why not?

Because the committees say simply, no one can predict for sure what kind of educated men the nation will need most in the years ahead. The committees said:

"There is now a larger recognition than formerly of the wide variety of fields of higher learning which were called upon in World War II.

"The engineering sciences, the humanities, and the healing arts all made significant and essential contributions to the successful prosecution of the last war and will continue to be vital to the national defense as to the national welfare. If we are to maintain our civilization, we cannot permit any one of these areas of knowledge to be seriously crippled."

A Tactical . . .

(Continued From Page One) for the cold war is a fundamental part of Soviet strategy. Moscow has no desire for a major "hot war" at this juncture. She isn't ready for it and she has been doing very well with her cold war up to now.

However, the Korean setback has jarred Moscow. And the energetic rearmament moves of the western powers aren't to Russia's liking.

Hence the peace gestures, including the idea of a big five pact. America already has given her answer. Secretary of State Dean Acheson has stated that the United States is ready to talk with anybody at any time. However, he has laid down two essential conditions for successful talks.

These conditions are a change in the Soviet attitude, and the development of a position of equality (equality of military power). He has held that development of adequate military strength by the free world might force changes in Soviet policy.

United Nations.

These proposals perhaps sound too far reaching to be adhered to by the people of a nation as independently strong as the United States. Yet the world peace must be built upon the cooperation of the powerful nations as well as the weak nations.

The Reflector salutes the United Nations on its fifth birthday, but while we sing the praises of the past, we must keep in step with the future and the needs it will bring with it.

The ultimate success of the U. N. will not be based upon what the United Nations does for the people, but what the people make of the United Nations. If its organization is kept adequate to meet the needs of the world, it will be successful. If the organization is allowed to remain static, it will soon crumble as have other outmoded relics.

More Support For The Chamber Of Commerce

The membership committee of the Green-Chamber of Commerce today began a brief membership drive to bring more of the city's large and small businessmen together to promote the city's business growth.

It is the organization which coordinates the efforts of the businessmen to bring new business and industry to Greenville, and to improve the business which already is located here. The Chamber of Commerce likewise is active in community affairs, and has done a great deal in promoting better agriculture for Pitt county and a wider diversification of farm products.

The Chamber of Commerce is made up of the business and professional men who are interested in the progress of Greenville and Pitt county. The Chamber of Commerce needs the support of the businesses which at the present time are not members of the organization. The larger the group which makes up the Chamber of Commerce, the greater job the organization will be able to do to promote Greenville and Pitt county.

DIFFERENT KINDS OF FAME
"Crucified under Pontius Pilate." "Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed him." "Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin."

How would you like to have had any of this immortality bestowed upon you? What would Pontius Pilate have said and done on the day he condemned Jesus to be crucified had he known that in church services through the centuries his name would be mentioned in solemn tones of condemnation. What must have been the feeling of Judas Iscariot as he weighed his thirty pieces of silver in his hand and realized that they were heavy with a man's blood? There is a variety of immortality which, had the immortal ones known they would ever achieve it, they would have thrust it from them at the cost of life itself.

"The evil that men do lives after them; the good is oft interred with their bones." So said a profound sage three hundred years ago. This terrible truth applies not just to the great; it applies to us also. We need to ponder solemnly the possibility of leaving a hateful memory in the minds of our contemporaries.

Such a memory can begin within the family circle. What will our friends say of us after we are gone? There is an immortality of contempt as well as of glory.

U. N.-The Road To World Peace

On this the fifth anniversary of the founding of the United Nations, the people of the world are groping desperately for the peace they have sought in vain since World War I. And while the people search for peace, the nations prepare for war... a war which they hope will not come, but one for which they must be ready.

The United Nations has afforded the world the greatest hope for lasting peace since it became apparent that the old League of Nations would not stand the stress of international crisis. The United Nations during its five years has given the people of the world a new and well founded hope for settling international differences at the conference table rather than on the shell-scarred battlefield.

There are few, if any, who believe the United Nations as it stands today is the ultimate answer to international problems. Yet it is much more adequate than the League of Nations, and affords the basis upon which the organization for a lasting peace can be built.

The Reflector is of the opinion that the lasting peace for the world must come through a federation of nations. The United Nations is an organization of sovereign states, yet it falls short of federation of nations. The U. N. has shown itself more powerful than the League which was its predecessor, but during the past five years, the inadequacies of the U. N. have likewise come to light.

Just as individual citizens are unable to live in peace within their own community without law, the nations of the world are unable to live in peace without law. We can not have peace without law, and the centuries have proved we can not have law without government.

Those who have studied the international situation for a period of time, and have watched the attempts at world peace through an international organization suggest some six changes which should be made in the United Nations organization to bolster it into the bulwark which is necessary for peace.

1. Create an executive more effective than the Security Council.
2. Reconstruct the General Assembly on a basis which will give adequate representation to nations both on the one-vote one-nation plan and on the basis of population.
3. Give the General Assembly the power to legislate for control of armaments and to prevent aggression. This would necessitate sufficient independent taxing power for the United Nations in its own right.
4. Create a court with the power of authority to try individuals who offend the law of the United Nations.
5. Create for the United Nations its own armed force which could recruit its own personnel under the control of the United Nations, and not be made up of contingents temporarily assigned from the member nations.
6. Reserve to the individual nations all the powers not specifically granted to the

Truman To Address U.N. Today (Headline)

Somebody Told Me

By J. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

It seemed like old time yesterday when I received a letter with a serviceman's address in the upper left-hand corner of the envelope. The address was: 2nd Lt. Jack Hedgepeth, 222th Personnel Processing Squadron, Brooks Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

In case you just moved to town, you have to be told that Jack is the man who became famous by his colorful sportscasting of the Greenville Coastal Plain League baseball games during the past two summers. Late in the season last summer, Jack received his orders to report for duty in the Air Force.

In his letter Jack enclosed, quite naturally, a sports column that he thought I might want to print. Actually, news about Jack is of more interest, since he is a popular Greenville figure.

Before we even read the letter, Wife Rachel and I commented on Jack's stationery. It's trimmed in pink, with a bunch of red roses in the upper left corner. If ever I saw anything that looks less like a sports announcer.

Jack realized the contrast, too. Late in the letter, he said: "Please excuse this 'prissy' paper, but we've been on a letter-writing spree tonight and this is all that's left."

Jack went on to say "Bet this wife, the former Betsy Fye of Greenville) and I are very happy here in San Antonio and we're seeing places and doing things that we never expected to do or see. Next week we're going to the SMU-Texas game, and you know I'm looking forward to that."

"I couldn't have asked for a more pleasant assignment. I'm the Coordinating Officer for the Air Force Reserve who are being recalled, and we're processing eighty men a day plus from 10 to 20 officers. My work is strictly personnel and it certainly is interesting. We work with all nationalities such as Mexicans, Spaniards, and Americans."

Jack particularly likes the Mexican foods he's eating in Texas. Believe it or not, the restaurants there combine the Mexican dishes with other foreign dishes that originated in Italy, Spain and China.

The column Jack sent me was a very clever take-off on the violent dispute that followed the Texas-Oklahoma football game. The column was well written and I appreciate Jack's sending it, but frankly, I think news of a Greenville serviceman is of more interest.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—National Democratic politics' unspoken but underlying worry as November 7 approaches is that the two-war veterans' vote will go AWOL on Election Day. Such a defection could provide the margin of Democratic defeat in many key Congressional contests. For the Roosevelt-Truman party has enjoyed an edge with this group since 1940.

Two front-page episodes highlight this headquarters' concern. The first was President Truman's sudden, surprise decision to travel 15,000 miles for only a few hours' conference with General Douglas A. MacArthur. On the Republican front, there was Governor Thomas E. Dewey's unofficial nomination of General "Ike" Eisenhower as a possible GOP presidential candidate in 1952, and the latter's failure to decline the honor forthrightly.

Granting that there is no such thing as a labor or veterans' or any other solid sort of voting bloc, top strategists cannot afford to forget that there are approximately 15,000,000-plus men and women deeply interested in military matters, past and present, because of their previous service with the colors.

RAP—Not since Herbert Hoovers' eviction of the "bonus army" from the Capital almost twenty years ago has any Administration suffered so many raps from "the old soldiers" as former Artilleryman Harry S. Truman's.

Both the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars have condemned the Truman-Acheson foreign policy at their national conventions, as well as the pre-Korean weakening of the defense establishment. Friends of Louis A. Johnson in both organizations are sore that he was forced to take a "presidential rap," while Dean Acheson was retained.

Had it not been for yeoman work by Administration agents at both sessions, the formal indictment of the Truman-Acheson postwar record would have been even more severe. Floor sentiment was far more critical than the views of the officials on the resolutions committees.

MARTYR—The political cashing of former Secretary Johnson has boomeranged in a strange manner. As fair-minded veterans' leaders see it the West Virginian was forced to walk a partisan plank only because he was not given sufficient money or men under the Truman economy program to carry out Mr. Acheson's expansive and generous foreign policies. Our Korean successes, coming so soon after the Johnson purge, have made him a minor martyr.

Another peculiar aspect of the Johnson dismissal now puzzles the veterans. General MacArthur was preparing his Inchon landings at the very time that the West Virginian was asked to quit, after our Korean commander had persuaded a reluctant Chiefs of Staff that they would result in a brilliant and successful coup.

In view of the juxtaposition of these two incidents, military circles wonder why the former Secretary was not allowed to stay on until the rout of the North Koreans had restored his prestige.

DISGRUNTLEMENT—World War I "doughboys" have specific gripes.

President Truman's cutback in hospital construction, also a part of his general economy drive, has reduced the number of beds for non-service-connected cases. With Korean casualties making demands on space, "old soldiers" now beyond middle age find it impossible to obtain free treatment—a perkquisite they have come to regard as a right.

GI's are even more dissatisfied. Under the Administration's draft program, many will be summoned back to service, even though they have dependents, good jobs and a chance to repair the ravages which World War II made in their careers. Naturally, they hold Washington's "management" of foreign and defense problems responsible for messing up their lives twice in a decade.

QUESTION OF ELECTRIC POWER BEGS SETTLEMENT

(Hertford County Herald)

It is about time for name-calling and propagandizing to give way to some agreed statements of fact from which an early decision can be made in the case of power development along the Roanoke river, at Roanoke Rapids and Gaston. An end of the fight over who is to build the power dams is past due, or so it seems to this newspaper.

If the Virginia Electric and Power Company has the money to build, and can guarantee that it will expedite the dam construction and at the same time protect the public's interest by following the federal government's pattern of long range development of the Buggs Island project, the company should be granted the right to go ahead. A continuing fight over political philosophies—public vs. private control—simply wastes valuable time and piles up more costs for the public to pay through lack of abundant power.

We are hopeful that a way for early action may be cleared, or partially so at least, during sessions of the Department of Conservation and Development in Raleigh this week. Governor Scott, who has never slackened his efforts to secure more electric power and other public conveniences for the State, has been working overtime trying to get contending groups together for a showdown, and it looks like this week's meetings may show some results from his efforts.

Representatives of the Interior Department and of the private power companies have been invited to sit together at the Raleigh meeting and see if some plan cannot be agreed upon. Governor Scott, in all his public utterances on the subject of electric power, has said only that he wanted the electricity made available promptly and without delay. He has not damned private utilities because they want to develop, grow, and expand; in fact, he would like for them to do more of it. The jousts that have taken place between the Government and the power companies have come about because of a political prodding for more electrical power, not because he has sided with the Interior Department against the application of VEPCO to build dams at Roanoke Rapids and Gaston.

In this area, where immediate effects will be experienced from the full development of the Buggs Island project, we are not interested so much in who does the job, but we want to see an end to the open conflict between political camp followers and the beginning of construction work on the dams. The stakes are too high and the benefits too manifest for full development to be unnecessarily postponed.

Business Today

By ELMER ROSENBERG

Employee discounts, always a problem for retailers, threaten to become a greaver-headache as manpower—or should we say ladypower?—shortages arise.

As of this sick of the clock, the manpower problem is worse for retailers than for almost any other employer. Retailers face the fact that employees are interested in the higher wages offered by war contractors, that the draft and the allure of uniforms for women are extremely potent, and that the coming of the holidays requires additional help.

One of the most useful gambits—or should we say gimmicks?—in the recruitment of sales help has been employee discounts. The offer of discounts on purchases has enabled retailers to recruit sales help far above average intelligence and education. Discounts have recruited girls right out of Vassar when mere money wouldn't tempt them.

But employee discounts can become as dangerous as they are useful.

The retailing trade is full of stories about discount plans that went awry—how stores recruited sales girls who had less interest in their salaries than in their discounts on purchases, and how sales persons charged charged many times the total of their own salaries in purchases—at a discount.

One store, which offered employees 15 per cent discount on store purchases, was shocked to discover that one employee was buying, at employee's discount, four times the amount of her weekly salary. She readily admitted that all of her purchases were for friends. Many stores seek sales persons with followings. She had a following which the store wished hadn't happened. There have been other cases in which store employees have split discounts with friends, making more in kickbacks than in salaries.

Retailers facing the necessity of adding extra help for the holiday surge of business face especially difficult problems. Some have taken the stand that temporary employees should not be entitled to discounts.

Regardless of how justified this position is, the fact remains in the past that a girl smart enough to sell bathing suits in November is smart enough to insist on employee's discount before she takes a job.

HOW TO HANDLE EMPLOYEE DISCOUNTS
Retailers, to meet these interlocked problems of manpower and discounts, may come to these conclusions:

That it is difficult, if not impossible, to recruit replacement and temporary help these days unless employees are granted discounts on their purchases.

That unless there are rigid controls on these discounts, they can create a dangerous drain on profits.

That unless employee purchases at discount are made "must" charge purchases, it is difficult if not impossible to put limitations on the amount of discount buying. Many stores limit discount purchases to from 20 to 50 per cent of employees wages.

That unless employee identification cards are used, it is difficult to limit employee purchases in larger stores. There have been instances in which not only the family, but distant relatives, friends and old classmates have used discount privileges of employees.

That if a card identification system is used, it is important to reissue cards periodically. There have been cases in which employees and friends used such cards years after the employee quit.

It is interesting to note that, when well controlled, employee discounts have been highly profitable to retailers. In some instances, even large discounts have left a margin of profit and this margin has spelled the difference between profits and loss. Some stores have issued employee discount cards to many persons not entitled to them because the profitable sales, even after discount, have swelled total volume.

GARMENTS FROM "CONTENTED" SHEEP
We've had milk from contented cows for years and now a knitted suit manufacturer (Beldoch-Popper, New York) is advertising garments made of "wool from contented sheep." That seems to leave the field open to someone to advertise cheese from psychologically adjusted goats.

"BASIC FACTS" ENTIRELY BASIC
A booklet on "basic facts about selling to the government" has been issued by the General Services Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

It's purely "basic" in that it discusses government procurement in broad terms and doesn't give detailed information, such as who to see if you have a keg of bolts to sell, but if you want it without charge, write to the GSA.

NEW AND HOT LENSES: Two-color fused lenses which simultaneously admit and cut out light of different colors to permit welders to look safely through blinding glare have been developed (by American Optical Co., Southbridge, Mass.). Different lenses have been developed for different uses.

BRUSH: For people who have a hard time reaching their own backs, a nylon-bristle brush that fits "different contours of the body" has been developed (and is being marketed by Clarence P. Hornung, 230 E. 46th St., New York).

Hal Boyle's Column

By DON WHITEHEAD

(For Hal Boyle)

On the Road to Pongyong—(AP)—Joe Stalin rode by proxy with the American column driving on Pongyong but the pipe-smoking dictator of Red Russia drew only jeers along the way. Stalin's likeness moved along the dusty road northward as a life-sized poster nailed to a truck.

"We want Uncle Joe to be with us when we go into Pongyong," a grimy doughboy yelled jubilantly.

Out of the hills and across the valley near Hukkyo the white clad figures came in droves. A few hours or a few days before they had been manning guns against the United Nations troops. But now they had had enough.

They came waving white and crudely made flags of the South Korean republic. And they shouted "Banzai." But no longer was it a battle cry—it was the cry of the defeated.

And as these North Korean soldiers ran to surrender they clapped their hands above their heads to applaud the American army.

But Brig. Gen. Frank A. Allen of Cleveland, Ohio, took a cynical view of this enthusiasm by the enemy.

"They act like politicians," he snarled. "If you can't whop 'em join 'em."

At one point a horde of prisoners was gathered in a field. One officer estimated that 2,500 had surrendered. And among them were North Korean women nurses tending to the wounded.

But one man sat alone to one side. A bullet or shell wound showed through the bandages. He sat upright but slowly his body rocked forward and then backward.

"That man is dying," someone said.

The body rocked slowly and then crumpled to the ground. But nobody paid attention and the column continued to thunder northward.

Two Sherman tanks wheeled from the road and turned their guns on a village across the valley. The guns thundered and explosions splashed in the village. And then more white clad figures began streaming out in surrender.

There were some women and children among them. But most of them were North Korean troops racing to give themselves up to the Americans.

And one of them carried a crudely printed sign, "Thank you, United Nations."

This was apple day for the United Nations troops.

The army has entered the apple country of North Korea. And the trees are heavy with fruit—juicy apples with crisp meat.

Whenever a convoy stopped, soldiers raced into orchards and came back carrying helmets piled with apples. And they were bombarded with apples by civilians trying to show their good will to Americans and British and Australians.

"Every time a Korean throws something in my jeep I'm not sure whether it's a hand grenade or apple," one GI said. "But so far it's always been an apple."

Washington Letter

By JAMES J. STREIBIG

(For Jane Eads)

Washington—The domestic airlines are sticking pretty close to their tradition against drinking on planes, although there is no federal rule against it. Economic reasons are likely to keep it that way except on some "blue ribbon" extra-fare flights.

There are two limited exceptions to the "no drinking" practice among domestic carriers. One line sells liquor on the over-water portion of some flights, and another sells drinks on its transcontinental stratospheric flights.

The exceptions fit special conditions. No state licenses are needed to sell over the Atlantic and the Gulf of Mexico on New York-Miami and Tampa-New Orleans flights. Both runs involve considerable international travel too, and drinks are traditional on international routes.

The lower lounge of some double-deck transcontinental planes are used to serve drinks. This avoids some of the objections to passenger drinking on most airlines. Both airlines regard it as a promotional step, with little possibility of profit even at $1 a drink.

The reasons against selling liquor on planes are easily understood. Number one, the public is overwhelmingly against it. Some of the larger airlines polled their customers back in 1930s and again since the war. The replies have been loud "No's."

The practical problems of selling liquor in flight are numerous. From the passenger's standpoint, the single cabin and closely spaced seats of most planes mean that everyone must live together. Some airlines permit only cigarette smoking because many people object to cigars and pipes. Objections to sitting next to someone who insisted on drinking would be more numerous.

And as good reason as any for continuing the drinking ban on airlines is that there is scarcely time to have a highball with the increasingly fast schedules.

New Zealand Cave Reveals Strange Hidden Beauties

KARAMU CAVE holds New Zealand's most beautiful stalactite formations. The traceries in limestone are so inaccessible, however, that few will ever see them. They were discovered by an exploratory party.

By FRANK HODGE
Auckland, New Zealand—(AP)—The first modern men to penetrate part of New Zealand's Karamu Cave have found the most beautiful stalactite formations known in this dominion.

The lovely natural traceries in limestone were found deep in the huge Karamu cave which has about eight miles of passages. It is 13 miles southeast of Hamilton, which is 80 miles south of Auckland.

Seven members of the New Zealand speleological (cave) society have returned to Auckland after making an exploratory survey of Karamu.

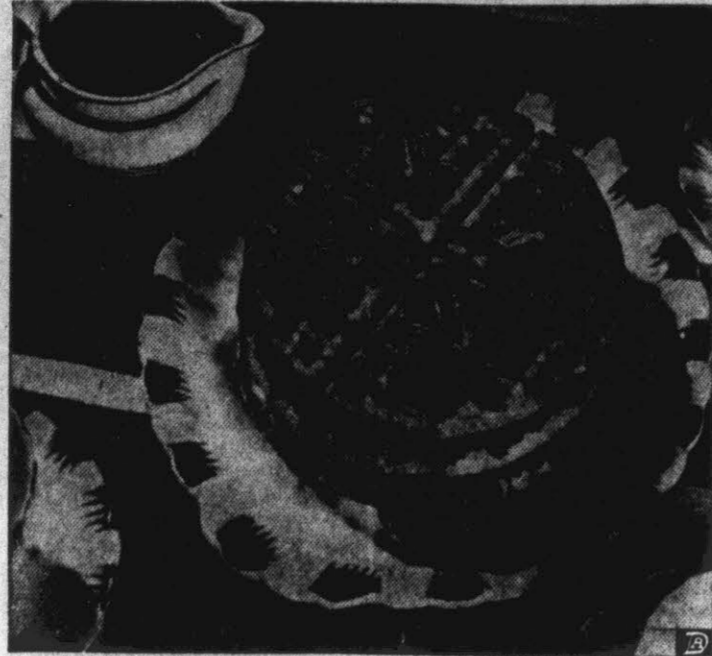

President H. G. Lambert of the society told newsmen the tortuous network of narrow passages in the cave hold New Zealand's most beautiful stalactite formations, but added that they are so inaccessible that few people will ever see them.

"Apart from a handful of explorers no one has been far into the main cave or more than about half-way down a side passage," said Lambert. "To go further into the cave one has to descend a 25 foot drop by a rope and travel on through passages obstructed by falls of rock, deep pools and difficult formations."

Mince-meat Waffles

For a delightful mince-meat dessert, spread mince-meat between crisp golden waffles and top with caramel sauce.

Mince-meat waffles are a new mince-meat treat to take a favored place among desserts along with mince-meat pie. The crisp golden waffles, made with enriched flour, are perfect to carry the rich mince-meat flavor. Because of their protein, B-vitamins, and iron enriched waffles may be served as luncheon or supper main dish.

Your friends will praise such a delectable and original dessert as mince-meat waffles, yet they can be an emergency sweet when the pantry is desert-shy and unexpected callers arrive. Cut the double-deck mince-meat waffles in quarters to serve four, topping each serving with hot rum-caramel or orange sauce.

Serve waffles occasionally as the substantial dessert to end a light meal. An interesting luncheon might include a winter pear and cream cheese salad, mince-meat waffles and coffee.

MINCEMEAT WAFFLES

- 1 cup sifted enriched flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup sugar

Peans

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add vanilla extract. Beat egg and add to creamed mixture. Mix well. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Pour 1/2 batter in hot waffle iron. Bake until golden brown. Spread mince-meat between waffles in sandwich fashion. Serve waffles quarters with rum caramel or orange sauce and garnish with whole pecan halves. Makes 1 3-layer Mince-meat Waffle.

Little Symphony Tentatively Scheduled To Appear Here

The North Carolina Little Symphony Orchestra, shown above with the conductor, Dr. Benjamin Swain on the podium, is scheduled for an appearance in Greenville February 8 in case that the membership drive now being staged in the city is successful. Plans are being made to bring the popular Little Symphony here for two concerts. Children of the city and county will hear a free performance in the Wright auditorium at East Carolina Teachers College in the afternoon, and adults will have an opportunity to attend an evening concert in the Austin auditorium on the campus. The membership fee of $2.00 will entitle the holder to attend the Greenville evening concert as well as all other concerts for adults given in this state by both the Full Symphony and the Little Symphony orchestras of North Carolina.

Burma Love Call Is Given Priority

Rangoon —(AP)—Members of Burma's Parliament claim that Burmese telephone operators devote more time to love calls than to subscribers calls. One MP said idly-inclined operators resorted to the trick of telling subscribers the required number was "engaged." Actually they were attempting to become "engaged" themselves.

Postal employees came in for their share of wrath as well. Dishonesty and slackness were charged. MPs said letters from abroad were misappropriated while parcels "never reached addresses."

Asheville, N.C., Oct. 24—(AP)—The new million dollar Smoky Park highway bridge spanning the French Broad River is open and it isn't.

One official said the bridge would probably be open—for good this time—by the end of the week.

Export Quota On Cotton Increased By Sec. Brannan

Washington, Oct. 24—(AP)—After facing bitter criticism from growers and southern congressmen against export quotas on cotton, Secretary of Agriculture Brannan has increased the export limits.

Brannan last night added 146,000 bales to the quota of 2,000,000 bales he fixed Oct. 10 as the maximum which may be exported in the eight months ending next March 31.

He said the action was possible because the carryover from previous crops has been determined to be larger than was originally estimated. The Census Bureau originally figured the carryover at 6,700,000 bales, Brannan said, but shortly after the export order was issued it raised this to 6,846,000 bales.

This difference of 146,000 bales was added to the quota, and Brannan said it will be apportioned later among eligible importing countries.

Protests against the quota order have centered on the timing. Growers protested that it drove prices down about the time they were harvesting this year's crop.

President Truman told his news conference a few days ago that the limitation on exports was justified. Its announced purpose was to stabilize prices and to assure that this country will retain enough cotton to fill its own needs.

In increasing the quota, Brannan also promised to make further adjustments as "the situation warrants."

Wives, Dependents Of Eighty War Dead Entitled To Benefits

The Greenville office of the North Carolina Veterans Commission yesterday released the names of 80 GI's and officers of World War II killed in action or missing and presumed dead whose wives or dependents in Pitt County are entitled to benefits accruing from their deaths.

The list comprises all those men in the armed forces during the war whose wives or dependents have not applied for the benefits. The money and allowances are awaiting notification by the parties before being paid out.

Louis W. Gaylord Jr., veterans service officer, stated all eligible persons under the Veterans Administration act may collect the financial benefits due them if they report to his office and can prove their relationship.

It applies in the majority of cases, only to wives, children or parents of the deceased. All names on the list have not been identified concerning their former county address and therefore the service office cannot contact their relatives.

The benefits accruing from the soldiers' deaths or imprisonment comprise a variety of entitlements. The eligible party can collect on the deceased's insurance, mustering-out pay, death and burial allowance, social security, pension, and prisoner of war benefits. All persons in the county or elsewhere who are a wife or dependent (and in some cases brother or sister) should contact the service office in Greenville to discuss eligibility requirements for the benefits.

Here is the list of the deceased veterans:

Seek Improving Paroles System

Raleigh, Oct. 24 (AP)—The State Paroles Advisory Board has taken steps to improve North Carolina's parole system.

The board yesterday recommended that North Carolina join with 46 other states in the interstate parole and probation compact. Approval would have to come from the Legislature.

The group also called for passage of legislation to: (1) authorize the Paroles Commission to arrest alleged parole violators and hold them for hearing, (2) allow not more than four parole field deputies to be deputized for the arrest of parole violators, (3) to authorize the Paroles Commissioner to require persons who are arrested and sentenced while on parole to serve such sentences in addition to the term which they already were serving, and (4) amend the parole law so the Paroles Commission would not be required to review cases where prisoners are sentenced to terms of less than one year.

Dr. T. C. Johnson, State Paroles Commissioner, said that if the state should join the compact, parole violators would be returned to North Carolina by other states and vice versa without the need of official extradition proceedings.

Dentists Told Of New Pain-Killer

Chicago Oct. 24 (AP)—A new pain killer credited with bringing almost instantaneous relief—two tablets that dissolve beneath your tongue—was described today in the Illinois Dental Journal.

Dr. Murphy M. Hoffman, researcher and former instructor at the University of Illinois school of Dentistry, said the tablets killed the pain of toothache, facial neuralgias, post tooth extractions and other mouth disorders.

The tablets control aspirin mixed with saccharin. But they are not swallowed like plain aspirin. Dr. Hoffman said their rapid action comes from sublingual (under the tongue) absorption through the mucous membrane directly into the bloodstream.

The rapidity of action is greater than can be obtained with hypodermic injections," he said. The product is being manufactured commercially under the name Theryl.

Thoughts for a Modest Man!

The man you see in the illustration above should own a Cadillac car.

His accomplishments entitle him to it. His income is ample to justify the expenditure. And he has wanted a Cadillac for a long, long time.

But he is an extremely modest man, and he feels that if he purchased a Cadillac, some of his friends might think him ostentatious.

For him, and for all people like him, we should like to record a few simple facts.

First, let us say that we recognize modesty as a basic virtue. The man who doesn't possess it to the proper degree is a bore to his friends and a joy to his enemies.

But there is nothing immodest about owning a Cadillac. In fact, there are few more sensible purchases a man can make—if a Cadillac falls within his means.

Relatively, a Cadillac isn't even expensive. There are numerous models of several other makes of cars which cost more than the lower-priced Cadillacs.

Furthermore, the great Cadillac engine is so miserly of gasoline that a single tankful will usually suffice for a whole day's drive.

And when it comes to long life and endurance—well, few people drive far enough in a whole lifetime to invalidate this wonderful car.

So if you are entitled to a Cadillac, don't let modesty stand in your way. Modesty ceases to be a virtue when it deprives a man of his just reward.

If Pravda Speaks For Russia, Big Five Peace Talk Useless

WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Foreign Staff
If the voice of Moscow's Pravda is the voice of authority—and it is for the ruling Communist party—the new big five talks on peace will get as far as most western talks with Russia—nowhere.

On two occasions in the past few days Pravda has announced there will be no change in Soviet foreign policy.

To President Truman's proposals that Russia mend her ways to promote world peace, Pravda answered yesterday that it is not Russia, but the United States that must change its policy.

To the face-to-face peace talk proposal of the 1948 Republican Presidential aspirant, Harold E. Stassen, Pravda replied in terms of ridicule at the suggestion of any change in Soviet policy.

The new Soviet peace offensive now is in full blossom, but Pravda leaves little hope that it means any real Soviet concessions. The indications are that this peace offensive will center once again on the generalized Soviet proposals which have been rejected before: Reduction by a third of world armaments, which would still leave the Russians paramount, and a big five peace pact. Added to this would be the terms of the Stockholm peace petition of the Communists, calling for outlawry of the atom bomb.

Soviet peace offensives have been a Communist means of marking time while getting ready for new moves. This offensive apparently will be coupled with terrific propaganda directed toward western Germany in particular and western Europe in general.

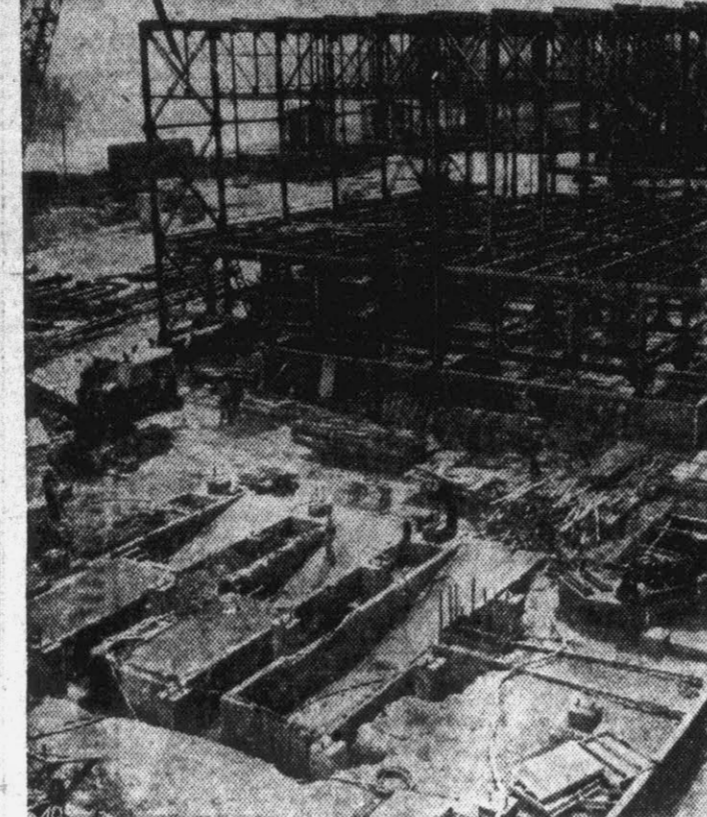

The satellite declaration of the Soviet and satellite Ministers announced over the weekend the direction of the political and propaganda pressure. Pravda today devoted its lead editorial to that declaration, saying it would inspire "peace partisans" the world over to struggle against the west.

The Russians are not so naive as to think that any part of the program for Germany as outlined in the declaration would be acceptable to the west. Russia's proposals for a unified Germany aim to thwart western Europe from rearming Germany while they provide a cover for the Soviet's own program of rearming east Germany.

The proposals also set the stage for a stalemate in the big five peace talks for which 59 nations in the U. N. political committee have voted. The Russians would make this a noisy stalemate, for the ears of Germany, which passionately wants unification.

$10 Million Coal 'Laundry' Being Prepared For Use

HUGE COAL "LAUNDRY" is now taking shape. It will have the appearance of a modern factory and will process 1,500 tons of coal an hour.

By CHARLES E. LEWIS
Cadiz, O.—(AP)—A $10,000,000 coal "laundry" described as the world's largest is taking shape on a hill near this eastern Ohio community.

When the cleaning plant built by a coal company goes into operation about November 1, it will process 1,500 tons of coal an hour.

Using water from a 65-acre lake with a 250,000,000-gallon capacity, it will clean "black diamonds" moving in three separate circuits at a rate that will permit the loading of a railroad car in less than two minutes.

The circuits will come together in the loading zone in such a way as to provide various commercial lump sizes or combinations of sizes needed by individual customers.

Four sizes of coal will be run through the plant, and will be separated by screening processes.

Six dryers similar to today's automatic washing machine and equipped with a circular drying spinner will remove the water from the coal after it has been washed.

Four flash dryers will reduce further the moisture content of the fuel to two and one-half per cent.

The plant will have the appearance of a modern factory. It will be almost dust free, with surrounding grounds terraced and planted in grass and flowers—something almost unheard of around a coal operation.

Preparation Engineer Russell Wilmoth said 15 to 20 per cent of all the coal weight passing through the plant would be rejected in the cleaning process.

Unwashed coal loaded for consumer use today, he said, is 10 to 15 per cent ash. The cleaning plant will reduce the ash to seven and one-half per cent.

Two railroads—the Nickel Plate and Pennsylvania will service the new facility, and are investing in it. Forty miles of tracks and yards are being laid in the vicinity.

Grange Opens Its Annual Meeting

Lumberton, N. C., Oct. 24—(AP)—The North Carolina State Grange opened its annual convention here today with a morning business session.

State Grange Master Harry B. Caldwell of Greensboro was scheduled to deliver his annual address following another business meeting this afternoon.

The program tonight will feature an address by Stanley Andrews, chief of the office of Foreign Agriculture Relations, U. S. department of Agriculture.

Claude R. Wickard, Administrator of the Federal Rural Electrification Administration, told Grange members at a fellowship banquet last night that it was the duty of the federal government to provide opportunities for people who could not help themselves.

"The government," he declared, "has to provide opportunities for the people," but only the help which they cannot provide themselves.

"It is well for the farmers," he asserted, "it is well for the nation."

that the government has helped farmers obtain services which mean so much to the farmers and to the entire nation."

Waynick Asking To Be Relieved

Asheville, N.C., Oct. 24—(AP)—Capus Waynick, U.S. ambassador to Nicaragua, disclosed here last night that he has asked President Truman to relieve him of his duties as acting administrator of the Point Four program and replace him with a permanent appointee.

Waynick was here to address the annual conference of the North Carolina League of Municipalities. He said he planned to return to his post at Nicaragua from which he was recalled temporarily to start work on the United Nations' Point Four program.

Waynick told the conference that Point Four was "based on a very old, a very great and a very simple idea—the idea of helping people to help themselves."

Earlier, Greensboro Mayor Ben H. Cone was elected president of the league to succeed Monroe Mayor J. Ray Shute.

Other officers elected were Rocky

United Nations In English Class

Emory, Ga.—(AP)—Need some tongue-twisting exercises? Try Associate Professor George Neely's roll call as a starter.

Neely, who teaches English to foreign students at Emory University, struggles from Duiwangang Duiwahodhi, through Shigemitsu Kuriyama, to Kias Zelle, as he checks attendance of the 28 foreign students from 14 countries.

It's not all one-sided however, for while the students perfect their English the professor is learning a few foreign words in exchange. Students claim he can now say "pop quiz" in Japanese, Siamese, Swedish, and Portuguese.

Southern Methodist Voted Over Cadets In Weekly Poll

Hopes For National Champion Rise In Texas As Sports-writers Reshuffle Rankings Of Top Football Elevens

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—Texans, who take a fierce pride in their football, had hopes today of their first national champion in 11 years.

Southern Methodist University replaced Army as the No. 1 team in the Associated Press weekly poll, the most important change in a vigorous reshuffling of the rankings.

The newest top ten: SMU, Army, Oklahoma, Kentucky, California, Ohio State, Texas, Tennessee, Northwestern, Cornell.

The Southwest hadn't had a college titlist since big John Kimbrough led Texas A. and M. to the front in 1939. Little Dave O'Brien spotted Texas Christian to the No. 1 spot in 1938.

Now Texans are just as enthusiastic about this great SMU machine that has rolled up 184 points in smashing five major foes—Georgia Tech, Ohio State, Missouri, Oklahoma: A. and M. and Rice.

Of the main contenders for national honors, the Mustangs apparently have the roughest road ahead. They are idle this week but then run into five conference opponents in order, starting with big, tough Texas Nov. 4.

Softer sailing is promised for Army, which dropped to second after two weeks on top, and Oklahoma, which also fell a notch to third.

The West Pointers, with one of their great teams, have it easy with Columbia this week. Penn next week, Stanford and Navy are their largest obstacles.

The Oklahoma Sooners, with a 36-game winning streak going here Kansas and Nebraska as the main humps in their remaining schedule.

The heavy shakeup in the rankings was in the lower division where Stanford, Maryland and Washington dropped completely out of the picture following Saturday's setbacks.

Tennessee, Northwestern and Cornell moved in, taking the eighth, ninth and tenth places behind Ohio State and Texas.

Just as an example of how the mighty hath fallen, Notre Dame, the once unconquerable national champion, dropped into a tie for 39th with only three points.

The Fighting Irish, who lost to Indiana Saturday for their second setback, got one eighth place vote.

'Trick Pitching' Fatal To Careers Says Doctor

Boston, Oct. 24 (AP)—Trick pitching, the knuckle balls, "Ford balls" and sliders, can be murder on a pitcher's arm, Dr. Robert Hyland warned today.

The unnatural motions in throwing these pitches can permanently injure his elbow, the St. Louis surgeon, an expert on baseball players' injuries, told the American College of Surgeons. The trick pitching is striking a growing number of pitchers right out of their careers, he said.

Ball players can play longer if they listen to top-notch medical advice on how to use their arms and bodies, Dr. Hyland declared.

"A pitcher can and should be taught to develop and use only those types of delivery which conform as far as possible to the normal movements of his shoulder and elbow joints."

Sliders and knuckle balls can twist the arm so much that bits of membranes and tissues are rubbed off. These bits lodge in tendons and ligaments and cause pain.

Ball players, especially pitchers, are liable to a raft of different injuries. They come from the rubbing of bone against tendons, dislocation of biceps tendons, separation of bones in the shoulders, and other causes.

Arthritic deposits forming in bone joints have ended the career of several fast-ball, overhead pitchers, Dr. Hyland said.

Luke Appling On Verge Of Ending 20-Year Career

Chicago, Oct. 24 (AP)—Luke Appling, the White Sox record-breaking shortstop, may end a 20-year career as a major league player to become manager of the Sox farm club of Memphis in the Southern Association.

The job was offered to the Aging Appling, who is listed as 41, several weeks ago by Chuck Comiskey, Sox vice president. Comiskey was just a tyke in knee britches when Appling first pulled on a White Sox uniform in 1930. He was twice American League batting champion, in 1936 with a mark of .338 and in 1943 when his .328 was tops.

He has remained with the club ever since, playing 2,218 games at shortstop—an all-time major league endurance record at that position.

Last season "Luscious" Luke was listed as a played-coach, being nudged out of his regular shortstop station by 22-year old Chico Carrasquel.

Rickey And His Dodgers May Be Parting Today

Brooklyn, Oct. 24 (AP)—Branch Rickey and the Brooklyn Dodgers may reach the parting of ways today.

In any event it is believed Walter O'Malley and Mrs. John L. Smith will buy Rickey's stock which he sold in a tentative deal to real estate operator William Zeckendorf last Sept. 23.

O'Malley scheduled a meeting at a Brooklyn hotel today and it was felt that both situations would be cleared up.

Here's the problem confronting O'Malley and Mrs. Smith who along with Rickey own 75 per cent interest in the Dodgers. If they don't buy Rickey's stock they will lose control of the club.

Zeckendorf will have a 25 per cent interest as will the heirs of the Stephen McKeever estate. If they match Zeckendorf's offer Rickey's holdings will automatically fall to their interest and give them 75 per cent of the team.

They Come And Go

Colorado Springs, Colo. (AP)—The Colorado Springs Sky Sox had 62 players on their roster in the 1950 Western league campaign, but only five were with the club from first game to last. Three were pitchers, Ted Shandor, Earl (Tex) Beesley and Jim Kamis, outfielder George Rutenbar and catcher Buddy Phillips.

Unblemished Record For Ayden Gridders

Ayden's Tornados clinched their second consecutive Coastal Athletic conference crown last Friday night, defeating South Edgecombe by a 36-6 score.

Coach Stuart Tripp's charges, led by their all-conference quarterback Teedy Bullock, have gone through two seasons in the two-year-old league with an unblemished record.

Last year, the Tornados brushed aside all circuit foes in gaining their first league championship, and lost only one non-conference tilt, that to Greenville by a close, 14-13 score.

This season the Tornados are once again undefeated and untied as they go into the home stretch of their ten-game schedule.

Rounding out their regular Coastal conference season last Friday, and crowned the 1950 champions. Ayden rolled to 164 points against league competition while holding their circuit foes to a mere 12 points. Ayden also holds a 19-7 non-league victory over Williams-ton.

Five games remain on the Tornado schedule, all with outside clubs. This week the CAC champs travel to Tarboro to battle Coach John Wolfe's Tar eleven in a night game.

Coach Bob Lee's Robersonville club gained a notch in the Coastal standings last Friday as they defeated Vanceboro in a closely fought scrap, 18-6. Robersonville moved into third place over Farmville, as the Red Devils were idle with an open date. The Martin county lads record now reads one win against two losses and one tie.

Although defeated by Ayden's newly-crowned champs, South Edgecombe still remained in the second place spot with a 2-1 record.

Coastal Conference standings:

Team	W	L	T	Pct.
Ayden	4	0	0	1.000
South Edgecombe	2	1	0	.666
Robersonville	1	2	1	.333
Farmville	0	1	1	.000

Francis (Reds) Ragnell, Captain of His Brilliant Career Against Dartmouth, Had the Greatest Day of His Brilliant Career Against Dartmouth

Francis (Reds) Ragnell, captain of his brilliant career against Dartmouth football team, had the greatest day of his brilliant career against Dartmouth. Reds bettered the intercollegiate record for a single football game when he gained a total of 490 yards, 278 on 20 pass completions and 214 in 18 rushes. He completed 20 of the 28 passes he attempted and had a string of 14 straight completions.

His is a success story that closely parallels anything ever written by Horatio Alger in his palmy days. Ragnell has been a fixture on Penn campus since he was six years old. The little red head was mascot and waterboy for the football team 15 years ago and vowed at the time that he would one day play football for the Quakers.

John Kellert, another red head, was a running back at the time and a great favorite with Reds.

Then there came the day when Reds was catching and running back punts. George Munger, now head coach, walked over and asked, "Are you a Penn student, son?"

Ragnell flushed and replied, "No, sir. I go to St. Parochial school."

Today he laughs and says "maybe, the coach was kidding me, but I was tall for my age and it might have been a natural mistake." Statistically, Ragnell is 21 years old, stands six feet and weighs 175 pounds. He has a great fighting heart and is a great inspiration to his teammates.

East Carolina Faces Hard Foe In Cherry Point Team

A rough and rugged ball game is in store for East Carolina's footballers this Saturday night as they play hosts to the strong, undefeated Cherry Point Flyers here.

Coach Dole, who scouted the Flyers in their 0-0 tie with Camp Lejeune last Sunday, returned with these scouting comments:

"The war situation has certainly changed the complexion of our game with the Cherry Point Marines."

"Those Birds should be playing in the Southern conference," stated Dole. "It's a 19-bet they would finish in the top half of the circuit."

Cherry Point has rolled over six straight opponents this season, and tied a strong Camp Lejeune club last Sunday.

The Pirates will get down to serious work today in preparation for Saturday's non-conference tilt, after enjoying a well-deserved day of rest, yesterday, as they rolled to an impressive league victory over Guilford last Friday, 26-7.

East Carolina, now resting in third place in the North State conference with a 3-1 record and holding a 4-2 record for the season, will be seeking their third consecutive victory against the Flyers here Saturday.

Coach Dole's eleven came out of the Guilford scrap with only minor injuries to the club, except reserve fullback Tom Swain, who re-injured a bruised leg.

Several players came up with lime burns from the Quaker tilt, but all are expected to be back in action against the Marines here Saturday night.

Umstead Warns Carolina Demos

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—Former Senator William B. Umstead of Durham, N. C., last night warned North Carolina Democrats here that "there is no such thing as an off year election," and urged them to go home and register for the November election.

Addressing a North Carolina Democratic rally here Umstead said the gravest danger this country faces is that its citizens will fail to use the ballot.

Cost Of Living Index Edges Up

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—The government's cost of living index inched up again last month, coming within a fraction of a point of the peak reached in August and September, 1948.

The bureau of labor statistics reported yesterday that its index on Sept. 15, after advancing 0.5 per cent above the average level in 1935-39.

Eighty-seven class A nursing schools offering 3-year courses to high school graduates have been accredited by the Japanese Ministry of Welfare.

Broom Prices To Feel Poor Crop

Springfield, O., Oct. 24 (AP)—The broomcorn crop is reported to be the shortest in history.

That, for housewives, means the price of brooms is going up.

The Vining Broom Co., Inc., Ohio's largest broom company, says retail price increases will be more than 25 cents. An average broom that now costs $1.10 will soon cost $1.39, the company reports.

The broomcorn crop is only about half of normal, says the Vining Co. Broomcorn now costs the local manufacturer $120 a bale, compared with $40 a bale last year.

Town Is 'Ablaze' Over Footballers

Bethlehem, Pa., Oct. 24 (AP)—The Lehigh University football team has this steel town as hot as a blast furnace.

With four games to go, the Engineers have already whipped Dartmouth and four other opponents this season without a loss.

Last Saturday, 400 Bethlehemites took the long trip to Hanover, N.H., to watch Lehigh upset a Dartmouth team that went into the game a 20 point favorite.

And when Coach Bill Leckony brought his boys back home, a caravan of cars was waiting at the Allentown airport. There was a horn-blowing parade through Allentown and on to the Lehigh campus at Bethlehem.

Lehigh's rise to football prominence began five years ago when Leckony, fresh from the Brooklyn Dodgers' pro football ranks, was hired as head coach.

A graduate of St. Lawrence University, Leckony played with the Pensacola Naval Air Station team, Jacksonville NAS and in Hawaii while in service.

While in uniform, he came under the guidance of several top gridiron mentors, including the late Jock Sutherland.

From Don Faurot and others, he picked up the fundamentals of the split-T which he brought to Lehigh. That formation, with the guards and tackles widely separated on offense, had a lot to do with the Engineers' victory over Dartmouth last weekend.

It marked the first Lehigh win over an Ivy League opponent in 19 years.

Beats Polio And Sets New Trinity Conversion Record

Hartford, Conn.—Although he is only a junior, Bill Vibert, already has posted a new Trinity College career record for kicking points after touchdown.

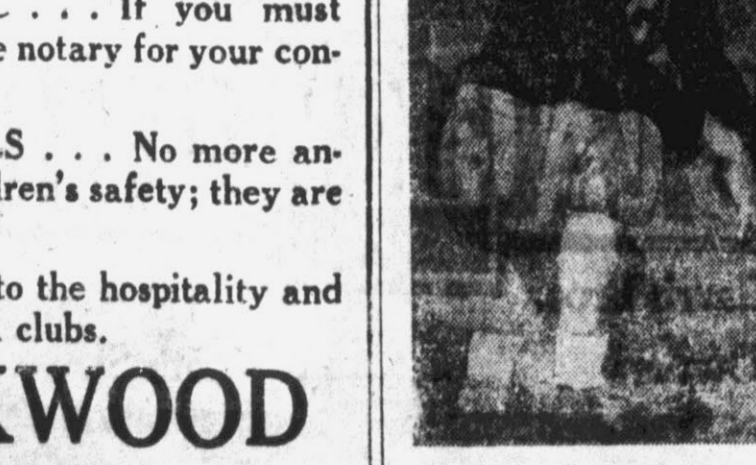

Vibert, whose leg muscles were cramped by an attack of polio after his freshman year, has booted 53 conversions for Trinity on 69 tries, and with the high-scoring offense of the Bantams, hopes to convert 100 before he hangs up his booting shoes.

Of the 53 successful efforts racked up by Vibert, 10 came in 1948 for the freshman team, on 11 tries. During the summer, polio hit Vibert, but he shook off the effects of the disease in time to take over varsity place-kicking duties last season.

He got 46 chances to boot, as Trinity rolled to an undefeated, untied season. His leg still stiff from the polio attack, Bill converted only five of 11 tries against Norwich then improved with four of six against Hobart, four of five against Williams, eight of nine against Worcester, nine of ten against Middlebury and three of three against Amherst.

Then he topped his campaign by booting the point that beat arch-rival Wesleyan, 7-6.

In this season's first two games, Vibert made good on nine of 12 tries.

Ed Ludorf holds as Bill Vibert, Trinity College's ace place kicker, tries a conversion.

Buc Cagers Hold Scrimmage; Prep For Pro Exhibit

East Carolina's varsity cagers scrimmaged the Pirate frosh yesterday, in making preparations for tomorrow night's exhibition game with George Glumack's Grand Rapids professional club.

Tomorrow night's game is to be played at Rocky Mount in the high school gymnasium, there.

Coach Howard Porter stated after practice yesterday, "The main purpose of our playing this exhibition tilt is to see how our crop of freshmen and sophomores are looking."

All-conference Sonny Russell, last year's Buc frosh sensation, at forward is expected to lead the Purple and Gold cagers against the pros along with letterman Lou Collins, junior forward; Toddy Fennell, third year center; Len Bauer, playing his last year at guard; and John Postas, up and coming sophomore guard.

Among the leading freshmen candidates for this year's team who will see plenty of action tomorrow night is Rupert Flaherty, an Eastern high school All-Star forward from Raleigh, and Charlie Huffman, another big 6'4" forward who made the All-Piedmont conference team at Thomasville last season. Paul Jones, also All-Piedmont last year, and teammate of Huffman's is slated for many services at a guard position.

Reserves Jimmy Blake, a center, and Richard Blake, sophomore forward, will round out the ten-man club that will make the trip for East Carolina.

The Grand Rapids professional club have, in addition to Glumack, a former Carolina All-American, such All-Americans as 7-foot-1 Elmore Morganthaler, former star at Boston College; Mike Novak, ten-year pro player who was All-American at Chicago Loyola; Blacky Towery, 6-foot-6 All-American at Western Kentucky; and Fritz Nagy, former Carolina player who later made All-American at Akron U. # Thrift And Smith Hike Aerial, Plunging Gains

Roger Thrift, East Carolina's heralded T-formation quarterback, three three touchdowns passes against Guilford last Friday night, and completed 12 out of 19 pass attempts for 238 yards, to increase his current aerial yardage to well over 1,000 yards.

The North State's leading pigskin tasser has now completed 81 passes in 170 attempts that has been good for 1,206 yards in six games played by the Pirates this year. East Carolina has four games remaining on its schedule.

Thrift, in targeting three touchdowns Friday, also increased his scoring aeriels to twelve which is an average of two per game this season.

Justing Johnny Smith, 162-pound fullback for the Pirates, who once again starred at the line-plunging spot against the Quakers Friday night, picked up 100 yards in 15 carries, to boost his line-charging average to 160 yards in 28 tries for a percentage of 6.2 yards for each carry.

Flankman Frank Maennie also increased his pass-receiving percentage in Friday night's 26-7 victory. He was the big wingman hauled down five more passes for 73 yards including one more touchdown, which brought the star end's total to 439 yards gained and five scores to his credit, in 26 catches.

End Dwight Shoe also picked up 62 yards in four catches to increase his average to 283 yards in 22 completions and five scores.

Big Quarterback Owns 'Hottest' Passing Arm

Morehead, Ky., Oct. 24 (AP)—The hottest football arm in the country belongs to an oversized quarterback who refuses to wear the customary mass of protective padding.

An almost unbelievable passing mark—dwarfing the accomplishments of his collegiate contemporaries and even shading the full-season records of football history books—has been rolled up by Little Morehead State College's Charlie Porter in six games this season.

Porter, although weighing 210 pounds and standing six feet two, calls signals in a tricky "T" attack that usually demands a comparative-

Bowl Teams Meet

Houston, Tex.—(AP)—The Rice-Santa Clara football contest, which dedicated the new Owl stadium here this season, was the only regular-season game in the country that pitted two undefeated major bowl teams. Rice won the Cotton Bowl crown from North Carolina, 27-13, in Dallas Jan. 2, while Santa Clara upset Kentucky 21-13 in the Miami Orange Bowl. Rice beat the Broncos here, 27-7.

Beats Racetrack In Court Action

Denver (AP)—This is another way of beating a racetrack.

A Wheat Ridge, Colo., couple won a $5,750 damage suit in district court against the Mile High Kennel club, which operates a greyhound racing plant just north of Denver.

The man contended he was ejected from the track without cause and his wife insisted she was pushed down a flight of cement steps. Officers testified the man parked his automobile in a restricted zone and became belligerent when he was asked to move it.

Sunny Jim Plans 'Visit' To Duke

Richmond, Va., Oct. 24 (AP)—Memo to Duke's Blue Devils:

Maryland's Old Liners are coming to visit you Saturday. Coach Jim Tatum, the guy they usually refer to as Sunny Jim, now is known as Gloomy Jim. And when Tatum gets gloomy, well—ask Navy, Michigan State and Georgetown what happens.

Remember September 23? That was the day proud Maryland went down to Georgia. The Old Liners were being billed as the best in the Southland—perhaps, the nation. But when they came away, Georgia had licked them soundly and decisively. The score was 27-7.

So what happens? Everybody says Maryland apparently doesn't have it this year. The Liners can't have a quarterback or something. But Jim Tatum thinks different. And he takes that Georgia misery out on Navy, 35-21.

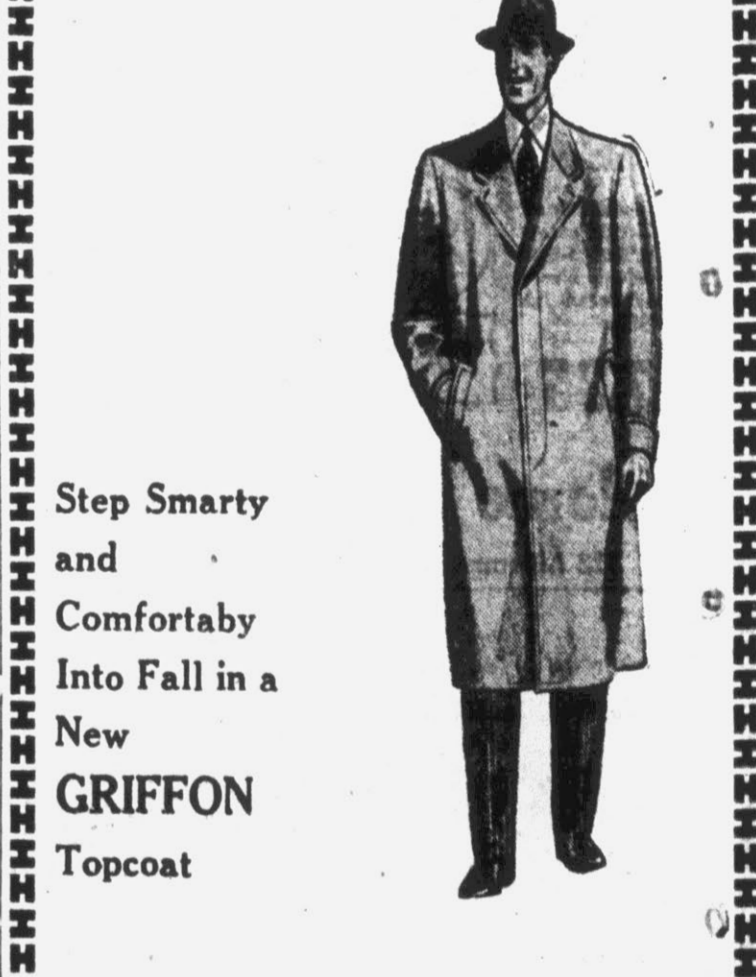

Folks perked up their ears a bit. But they still didn't hold too much respect for the Liners since Navy's victories have been few and far between in recent years. So Tatum quietly proceeded to knock off Michigan State, a team which had just beaten Michigan, to the tune of 34-7. And Maryland stopped Georgetown, 25-14.

Came last Saturday. Maryland made its debut in conference competition. The Liners battled North Carolina State, a team which had won only one game—a 7-6 scuffle with little Catawba. But when dusk fell on College Park, Maryland was beaten, 16-13, and Tatum's visions of producing the school's first Southern Conference championship disappeared.

So Sunny Jim is gloomy again. He wants to take that N. C. State mishap out on the Dukes. No Maryland team ever has beaten the Blue Devils, but if this one succeeds Saturday, it would keep Duke from winning its seventh Southern Conference title since Wallace Wade took over the coaching chores in 1931.

THE RAILROAD MURDER CASE

By R. M. Laurensen

AP Newsfeatures

Chapter 3

A telegraph sounder clattered away, unheeded, on a corner of the desk. A maze of tiny red and green lights twinkled in a panel mounted on one wall. John O'Conner, train dispatcher at ZA tower, studied the train sheet spread out before him.

He stretched lazily and touched a match to his pipe. A gong sounded and a red light flashed at one end of the track model. A telephone bell buzzed insistently. O'Conner flipped a switch on the table.

"ZA!"

"Hello ZA—BN tower. Passenger Number 61—engine 3140—engineer Baxter—eastbound with ten cars. OS at BN, 9:23. Treat him nice, Johnny. He's got Mr. Richards on behind."

"O. K., B. N. Dickys comin' home, eh?"

"Nope. Car's billed through to Chi."

"Thanks, Joe. I'll give him the railroad."

The speaker lapsed into silence, and for ten minutes O'Conner smoked peacefully. Suddenly the gong sounded and a red light appeared on the board. O'Conner looked up in surprise, reached for the telephone and dialed a number. In a few seconds a sleepy voice came over the wire.

"Hello."

"Morrison—O'Conner. Trouble at Perkins again. She just showed red. Take a look at it, will ya?"

"The heck with Perkins! And the heck with this railroad! I'm sick o' night calls."

"Take it easy, Morrie. Moseley said he'd clean ballast there tomorrow. Stay out there at Perkins, will ya? Stay till 61 gets by. He's dragging Mr. Richards and if we delay him, there'll be the devil to pay."

"O. K.—O. K.," grumbled Morrison. "Whotta life!"

Marc Jordan, chief attorney for the C. M. Railroad, slouched behind the wheel of his weather-beaten Ford and guided it skillfully along the winding road. One lean hand lay negligently on the wheel and he fumbled through his pockets with the other.

"For heaven's sake, Marc, 'tend to business!" exclaimed the black-haired girl beside him. "Some day you'll kill yourself, and I don't want to be along here—take this." She handed him a freshly lighted cigarette.

"I'm mad at you. What's the idea of asking me to dinner and then spending the evening arguing with that man about a dead cow?"

"That man had a cow hit on the tracks. He says our fence was down and threatens to sue us. With Archie away, I had to investigate. Part of my job, remember?"

"Well, you didn't have to spoil my evening doing it," pouted Nora. "Why don't you quit this railroad foolishness?"

"Railroading's in my blood, Nora, just as it's in your father's. Which reminds me—I want to see the old gent. Let's head for the tower."

"You two!" said Nora bitterly. "Neither one of you has a drop of blood. Just steam and cinders!"

After negotiating a series of bumpy crossings, Marc stopped beside a lonely building set in the middle of the maze. The four sides, on the second floor, were enclosed in glass, and a faint light shone on the haze that covered the switch yard.

Nora blew a kiss toward the man seated at the control board.

"Hello, Dad," she said.

"Hi kids. How's everything?" replied O'Conner, twisting around in his chair and grinning at them.

"Fine, Dad, only do you know what this string bean did? He asked me to dinner at Rosedale Inn, that new place outside town. Why? So that he could whisper sweet words to be across a table for two? No! Because he wanted to see the owner about a cow killed on the tracks last week! The nerve!"

"That's not fair, Nora," retorted Marc. "I did whisper sweet words to you. Besides, the expense account carries the dinner."

"Marry him, Nora. Comin' business and pleasure."

"Marry a railroader? Not me. I want my husband home nights. When he gets tired of playing train—well—" She flushed and shot a quick glance at Marc.

"Marc told me you two could never get along. You're too stubborn," chuckled O'Conner.

Marc dropped into a dilapidated chair, standard equipment in any signal tower, and cocked a heel against the rim of the stove.

"How's the railroad, Johnny?" he asked.

"Good shape so far," replied O'Conner, casting a critical eye over the board.

An excited voice burst out of the loudspeaker. "Hello, ZA!"

"All right, who wants the dispatcher?"

"Johnny," replied the excited voice. "Morrison. I'm at Zola. I just got derailed!"

"Well, what'm I sposed to do?"

"Johnny, I'm followin' 61 in and eased across the crossing careful like. I wasn't doin' ten miles an hour or I'da been killed. Know what pitched me?"

"What's this," snapped O'Conner in exasperation, "a game o' riddles?"

"A hand axe!"

"Yeah. Musta been layin' in the crossin'."

"What the devil was a hand axe doin' there?"

"I dunno. Fell off the train. I guess. Funny thing—the head's covered with blood!"

Arrest Follows Alleged Threats

By CHESTER WALSH

Considerable excitement was caused at Five Points yesterday about 2 p.m., when the new Greenville police radio car received a radio telephone order to proceed to 612 Pamlico avenue, where a Negro man was reported to be threatening the life of a Negro woman.

The driver of the police car swung into Fifth street, heading west, with the siren in full blast.

Reflector Carriers Enjoy Outing

Have a hot dog! That was the chow call last night at a weiner roast which was attended by more than 30 Daily Reflector carriers from Greenville, Winterville, Bethel, Grimesland and Stokes. Several of the carriers are shown in the foreground after being served hot dogs by Publisher D. J. Whitchard (left center), Assistant Business Manager Jack Whitchard, and Circulation Manager J. E. Keziah (right). (Reflector staff photo).

More than 30 Daily Reflector Carriers' Club members were on hand at Cotanche Street Park last night for a meeting and a weiner roast.

The youngsters enjoyed a play period on the park equipment prior to a brief business meeting followed by the supper and an additional play period. Just before the supper, Circulation Manager J. E. Keziah made a short talk to the carriers in which he stressed the necessity for prompt and efficient service to subscribers and answered questions regarding certain difficulties being encountered by some of the carriers on their routes.

When chow call was sounded there was a mad rush for the serving table and when the last boy, after several trips to the table, said he did not want anything more to eat, about 12 dozen "hot dogs" with trimmings and six dozen soft drinks had been devoured.

After another play period the group adjourned shortly after nine o'clock.

He allowed up at Washington street for another officer to get aboard, and then the car headed for the scene of a reported impending tragedy. It arrived before anything serious occurred.

The officers arrested Alonso Williams, 46-year-old Negro truck driver, at 612 Pamlico avenue. He is charged with threatening with a hatchet the life of Ida Mae Brown, his "girl friend." Police also charged him with carrying a concealed weapon.

Ida Mae Brown told the officers that in addition to Williams threatening her life last Saturday night, that yesterday he again threatened to kill her. She told police Williams had a shotgun in his truck out front. When the officers found the weapon they charged the man with carrying a concealed weapon. Then they searched Williams, they also found an ice pick, a dozen or more shotgun shells and a partly consumed pint of whiskey.

Nearby residents told a reporter that Williams threatens to kill Ida Mae Brown and caused man to go to cover. One resident said the police car arrived in less than three minutes after the telephone call to headquarters.

After arrival at the police station, Williams intended victim told police that she was afraid of him and that he would attack her again

Raps Proposal To Arm Germans

Bonn, Germany, Oct. 24—(AP)—Western Germany's powerful Socialist party declared today that the German people should refuse to bear arms again until the western allies have formed a powerful army to face Soviet Russia on the Elbe river.

Socialist chairman Dr. Kurt Schumacher said his party would approve German remilitarization only if the western powers "couple their military fate to the military fate of Germany for an indefinite period."

Junius Scales Won't Register

Winston-Salem, Oct. 24—(AP)—The admitted chairman of the Carolina district of the Communist party, U. S. A., announced today that he would not register as a member of the party under the Internal Security Act of 1950.

Junius Scales of Chapel Hill said in a two-page statement dated yesterday that "we (the Communists) will fight to have this law declared unconstitutional in the courts, including the highest court—that of public opinion."

May Seek Loan To Pay Teachers

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 24—(AP)—It appeared likely today that the state would have to borrow money in order to make a contingent pay increase to public school teachers.

If borrowing is necessary it would likely be on a short term basis to tide the state's general fund over until income tax payments are received in March.

Seeks Bank Loan For Yugoslavia

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Oct. 24—(AP)—Deputy Foreign Trade Administrator Vladimir Velebit left by plane today for Washington in quest of a $400,000,000 loan from the International bank to Yugoslavia.

Velebit said in an interview before boarding the plane that Premier Tito's government sought the funds—to be paid out over a two-year period—for long range projects designed to develop this country's natural resources.

Melbourne, Australia, Oct. 24—(AP)—Wool soared to 290½ pence a pound at Geelong auction today—a new world record high.

Buyers bid frantically for small lots of best greasy wool and old marks were broken time and again.

Junius Scales Won't Register

Winston-Salem, Oct. 24—(AP)—The admitted chairman of the Carolina district of the Communist party, U. S. A., announced today that he would not register as a member of the party under the Internal Security Act of 1950.

Junius Scales of Chapel Hill said in a two-page statement dated yesterday that "we (the Communists) will fight to have this law declared unconstitutional in the courts, including the highest court—that of public opinion."

May Seek Loan To Pay Teachers

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 24—(AP)—It appeared likely today that the state would have to borrow money in order to make a contingent pay increase to public school teachers.

If borrowing is necessary it would likely be on a short term basis to tide the state's general fund over until income tax payments are received in March.

Seeks Bank Loan For Yugoslavia

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Oct. 24—(AP)—Deputy Foreign Trade Administrator Vladimir Velebit left by plane today for Washington in quest of a $400,000,000 loan from the International bank to Yugoslavia.

Velebit said in an interview before boarding the plane that Premier Tito's government sought the funds—to be paid out over a two-year period—for long range projects designed to develop this country's natural resources.

The bat's wing is equipped with a hook in the form of a claw, enabling it to cling to walls, rocks, etc from which it takes flight. Without the hook on its wings, it would be one of the most helpless of all animals.
