G. O. P. Comeback Leaves Democrats In Shaky Control

Senate Administration Leaders Among Casualties Of Off-Year Election; Lucas, Myers, Tydings Are Ousted; Shake-up In Governorships

By JACK BELL Associated Press Political Reporter Democrats held on to shaky control of Congress today after Republicans mowed down Senate Administration leaders in a stunning vote...

So strong was the GOP comeback from the presidential year defeat of 1948 that the new Senate, meeting in January, will line up with 49 Democrats and 47 Republicans.

That change represented a gain of six seats for the Republicans—in California, Idaho, Illinois, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Utah—offset in part by the loss of that held by Senator Forrest Donnell of Missouri.

A few House races remained to be decided but the Democrats had won mathematical control and seemed to be pointed to a majority over the Republicans of about 20 seats.

In an anti-Truman Administration phalanx, Republican opponents bowled over Senators Scott W. Lucas, of Illinois, the Democratic leader, and Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania, his assistant, in a sweep that saw only one GOP senator defeated.

He was Senator Donnell, who lost to Thomas C. Hennings Jr. in Mr. Truman's home state. The President had given belated support to Hennings after opposing him in the primary.

The GOP victories—which included the re-election of "Mr. Republican," Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio—were variously attributed to the adverse turn of the Korean war, criticism of the President's foreign policy decisions, opposition to his domestic "Fair Deal" program and reaction to Communist-in-government charges.

Along with Lucas and Myers, veteran Democratic Senators Millard E. Tydings of Maryland and Elbert D. Thomas of Utah went down to defeat before Republican opponents.

All four Democrats have been strong supporters of the President's foreign policies, with only Tydings wavering at times in support of Administration domestic proposals.

Thomas, as chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, had led a futile Administration drive to repeal the Taft-Hartley Labor Act—one of Mr. Truman's pet legislative aims.

Other seats which had been filled by Democrats were won by Republicans Herman Welker in Idaho and Rep. Richard M. Nixon in California. Nixon beat Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas, Democrat recently praised by the President for her support of his foreign policies.

Along with Taft, Senator Eugene Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the conference of Republican senators, won reelection. He defeated a strong "Fair Deal" supporter in Democrat Rep. John A. Carroll.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, winning a third term by a substantial majority, led a parade of Republicans capturing governor offices. GOP entries picked up posts formerly filled by Democrats in Connecticut, Maryland, Nevada and Colorado. GOP entrants led in Arizona, Minnesota, Michigan and New Mexico.

One of the Democratic victims was Gov. Chester Bowles of Connecticut, a "Fair Deal" supporter, who lost to Republican Rep. John Davis Lodge.

Some Democrats survived the Republican onslaught, notably Senators Herbert H. Lehman of New York and Brian McMahon and William Benton of Connecticut.

Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. won reelection to the House in New York.

See No Reason For Poor Draft Scores

Three Pitt Officials Reach No Definite Conclusions In Study Of County's Pre-Induction Examinations

The consensus of three Pitt draft board officials is that there are no definite reasons for Pitt's low scores in the pre-induction examinations.

At a meeting last night, called for the purpose of digging into possible reasons for the county's poor showing in the mental and physical exams, three members of the board could put their finger on no definite conclusions.

Chairman O. C. Stroud stated today the board will notify the State Selective Service office in Raleigh to that effect. Stroud said he and board members Vernon White, Winterville, and Arvin Jones, Farmville, canvassed the files of all pre-inductees, trying to determine if all were or were not capable of passing the army-administered examinations.

Williamston, Nov. 8—Martin County yesterday voted overwhelmingly a straight Democratic ticket with only a few one-shot Republican votes. The five amendments were voted in by large majorities, also. That is the report (unofficial) from 12 of the 13 precincts.

Largest Republican balloting in the county concerned the race between senate-nominee Willis Smith and Republican E. L. Gavin. The GOP candidate received 37 votes against Smith's 1,149. In the other senatorial race, Senator Clyde Hoey won over Halsey B. Leavitt by 1,171 to 24.

Eighteen Martin voters cast ballots for Robert H. McNeill, Republican candidate for associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Other offices to be filled, including other Supreme Court justices, Superior Court judges, and Insurance Commissioner received 1,000 votes each. There were no write-in candidates for any of those offices.

Louisiana Road Bond Vote Lags

New Orleans, Nov. 8—(AP)—A $140,000 road bond issue urged by Gov. Earl Long limped badly in election returns today as foes ran up a 26,000-vote lead.

But the count from yesterday's balloting was small-paced because of lukewarm interest and less than one-third of the state's precincts have reported.

Find Local Man Dead In His Car

Cecil C. Jones Dies Of Bullet Wound Near Ball Park

Cecil C. Jones, 39-year-old Greenville businessman, was found dead in his abandoned automobile near the Greenville ball park late yesterday afternoon.

Death was due to a bullet wound in the back of his head. The charge was apparently fired from a .22 calibre single-shot rifle, which was found behind the crumpled form of Jones. When found, Jones was stretched out in the back seat of the car, his folded coat and hat were found in the front seat.

Officers stated that colored workers nearby had reported seeing a man and the car around the stadium about nine o'clock yesterday morning but had not further noticed the car until late yesterday afternoon. The body was found about five o'clock. They did not report hearing any shots.

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said that the man died instantly from the wound in the base of his skull.

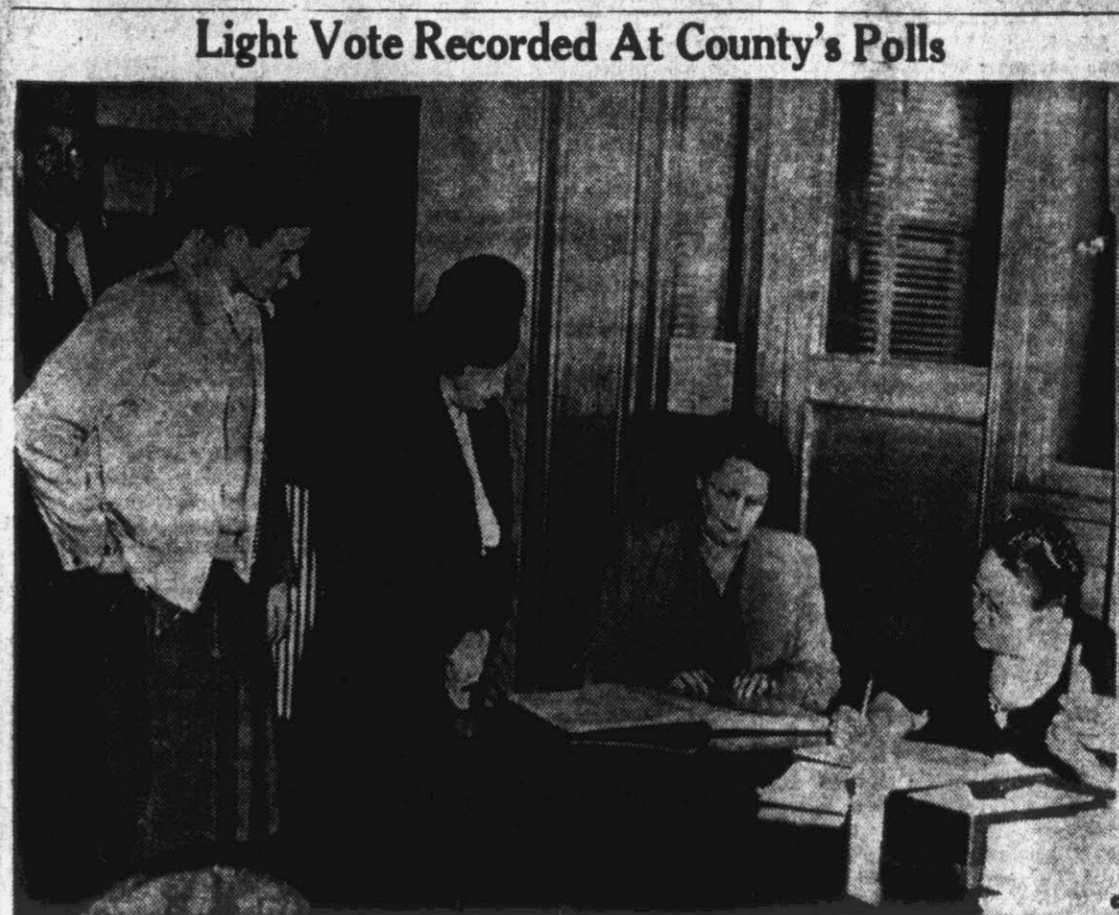

The rifle held one empty shell and one loaded shell. Another empty shell was found on the left side of the back floor.

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse, shortly after noon today, declared that investigation into the death of Jones is not complete and he will make no statement until a full investigation has been completed.

Direct Military Intervention In Korea Charged Before UN Council

Lake Success, Nov. 8—(AP)—The United States today charged the Chinese Communists with direct military intervention in Korea, and urged the United Nations Security Council to require the Mao Tse-tung regime to withdraw its forces.

Warren R. Austin, chief American delegate, told the council there are indications that 30,000 Chinese Communist troops are in Korea and that the number is increasing. He said the United Nations should assist in settling any problems relating to Korea's northern frontier.

Then he added: "But in offering assurance, the Security Council must also see to it that the authorities in Peiping are under no illusion that their conduct is condoned by the United Nations or that the organized world community can accept this thinly disguised invasion of Korea."

"The Chinese Communists have imposed a grave danger upon the world—the danger that the present conflict may not be limited to the Korean area. The United Nations has done its best to avert this peril. The United States on its own behalf and in the exercise of the responsibilities of the unified command has made every effort to do the same. We have sought publicly to reassure the Chinese Communist regime that neither the United States nor the forces of the United Nations operating in Korea represent any threat to the territorial integrity or security of the legitimate interests of states which border on Korea."

"This council is the guardian of international peace and security and must require the Chinese Communist regime to withdraw its forces from Korea and to refrain from further unlawful assistance, direct or indirect, to the North Korean aggressor."

For a few hours yesterday voters in Pitt County didn't know whether or not they were going to have a sheriff for the next four years. They may have wanted to vote for incumbent Ruel W. Tyson but not a ballot was cast for the primary vicar until about 10 o'clock in the morning.

Reason: No sheriff's ballot. It came about this way. At nine o'clock ABC officer Claude Manning reported to Sheriff Tyson he had just voted but hadn't seen a ballot with Tyson's name on it. Clerk of the court, coroner, county court judge, county solicitor, yes, but no sheriff.

Tyson got perturbed, phoned Elections Board Chairman J. Henry Harrell, asked, jokingly, if Harrell didn't want Tyson in for the next term. The chairman asked the sheriff what he was talking about. Tyson said his name wasn't on the ballot. Harrell didn't know what to make of it.

Anyway he got busy and had some special ballots made out for sheriff. The first ones off the press were distributed in Greenville at 10 a. m. The others got out in the county precincts about noon.

Harrell today said the mistake was due to an oversight in making out the ballots. However, he said, the sheriff could have drawn his attention to the error before the voting began if he had asked for a sample ballot.

"Most of the nominees in the county don't care anything about an election once they've been nominated," he said. "They get the nomination in the primary and after that don't even bother about getting anybody re-elected."

Tyson managed to establish a sizeable vote, regardless of the belated ballots. Reports from 16 of the county's 23 precincts give him an unofficial total of 2,097 votes. He led the county ticket in the May Primary and also in 1946 when he got one more vote than did Clerk of Court D. T. House.

Besides the sheriff imbroglio, a write-in ballot for Joe Lomis broke the surface of the slow, unimpassioned voting. The Brown Bomber, who won more referee's and ring officials' votes than any other scrapper, got a write-in for judge of the 4th Judicial District.

The vote came from the county's largest precinct, the court house. Regardless, though, Judge Clawson Williams of Sanford won hands down.

Another sidelight of the election was 11 write-in votes for Senator Frank Graham who was beaten in the second primary by Willis Smith. The 11 came from scattered precincts in the county, five of them being cast at the court house.

The local Post Office will close Saturday, November 11 in observance of Armistice Day. There will be no window service at the Post Office and neither will there be any Rural Delivery service.

City delivery will be made as usual with the city carriers serving their routes for one full trip. Parcel Post will also be delivered as usual. For those who desire stamps on this holiday there is located in the Post Office lobby a non-profit stamp vending machine.

Light Turnout Expected To Run Vote Count Close To 3,700; Demo Nominees As Well As Constitutional Amendments Win Easily

The fighting for Pitt county's votes for public office ended last June, but the people of the county went to the polls in small numbers yesterday to give a half-hearted vote of confidence to the entire slate of Democratic nominees.

With 16 of the county's 23 precincts reported, the unofficial vote now stands just short of 2,800. When the vote of the other six precincts is available after the canvass by the board of elections tomorrow, the total count is expected to run close to the 3,700 mark. The county's official vote in the Democratic primary in May was 9,983.

In addition to giving large majorities to all the Democratic nominees, the voters of Pitt county yesterday cast their ballots in overwhelming numbers in favor of all five amendments to the state constitution. In the largest of the amendment majorities, the amendment calling for securing and safeguarding the funds of teachers and state employment system received 2,052 votes in its favor and only 275 negative votes from the 16 reported precincts.

The Republican candidates hardly had a look-in in the voting here in the county. The largest vote received by a Republican candidate in the 16 precincts was the 175 votes which went to E. L. Gavin in his race against Democratic nominee Willis Smith. Smith received 2,900 votes in the 16 precincts, Democratic Senator Clyde R. Hoey received 2,097 votes against 110 for the Republican nominee H. B. Leavitt.

The Republican one-shot voting ran heaviest in Greenville precinct number two where Gavin received 46 votes. In Greenville precinct number six he received 27, Greenville three he received 25, Grifton 22, Greenville number four 16, Farmville 14, Greenville number one 9, Bethel 8, Whiteville 4, Four Oaks 3 and Falkland 1.

Congressman Herbert Bonner received from the 16 precincts 2,979 votes to 74 votes for his Republican opponent Z. O. Ratcliffe.

There were no Republican candidates listed on the ticket for county offices. In the voting for the Pitt officials, Judge Dink James had unofficially garnered the largest number of votes from the 16 precincts reported. James' unofficial count stood at 2,795 while Guaries Wheebee, candidate for the office of solicitor of county recorder's court, had received 2,799 votes from the 16 precincts.

Clerk of Superior Court D. T. House was third high man on the county ticket with 2,784 votes.

Elections Board Chairman J. Henry Harrell termed the voting yesterday "very light" as did John G. Clark, chairman of the Democratic party in the county. Clark commented, "It was a very light vote compared with past years. They (the party leaders) have got to give us something to vote for. The party has got to stimulate interest in the voters. There were no issue at this election and the people just were not interested at this time."

Prohibition Has Blow In Arkansas

Little Rock, Nov. 8—(AP)—Arkansas voters apparently have dashed the hopes of prohibition advocates of swinging this state from wet to dry.

And Republicans were given their biennial rebuff in the gubernatorial race.

hanced by victory over a Democratic-labor union combination. Already he is calling for a review of the military assistance program for Europe. He has been in the forefront, too, of critics of Administration policies in the Far East.

Harold E. Stassen, Republican spokesman who blasted President Truman's China policy in the closing days of the campaign, says Secretary of State Dean Acheson must go. Guy Gabrielson, GOP national chairman, demands an end to appeasing communism "at home and abroad."

In White House-Capitol Hill relationships, much may turn upon whether Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, ranking Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee, regains sufficient health to resume an active Senate role.

Vandenberg was foreign relations chairman when the Marshall Plan for economic aid to Europe was enacted. He has been a leader of bipartisanship in dealing with other nations.

Domestically, the "Fair Deal" program has been a failure. (Continued on page ten)

For A While, Candidate Tyson Didn't Get A Vote For Sheriff

North Carolina Follows Democratic Tradition

Total Vote Of 450,000 To 500,000 Is Well Below Advance Estimates; Hoey, Smith Win By Lopsided Margin

By NOEL YANCEY Raleigh, Nov. 8—(AP)—North Carolina followed tradition and voted democratic in yesterday's general election.

In all state-wide contests and in eight other congressional races, where Democrats had Republican opposition, democratic standard bearers swept to victory.

Two of the state-wide races were for seats in the U. S. senate. In one, colorful Senator Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby, was reelected for his second senate term. He overwhelmed Republican Halsey B. Leavitt of Asheville by nearly three to one.

Winner by a margin almost as great in another senate race was Willis Smith, Raleigh lawyer and former president of the American Bar Association. Smith trounced E. L. Gavin, Sanford Republican.

The vote was unusually heavy in scattered counties where there were hot races but extremely light in others. The total vote of 450,000 to 500,000 was well below advance estimates of upwards of 700,000.

On the basis of returns in the Hoey-Leavitt race, Democrats appeared to have won approximately 74 per cent of the total vote with the Republicans getting about 26 per cent. Two years ago the division was approximately 72 to 28 per cent.

Although there had been some predictions of a close race, Rep. Robert L. Doughton, 87-year-old chairman of the House Ways and Means committee who has been in congress since 1911, was an easy winner in the Ninth district. He defeated Fate J. Beal, Republican lawyer of LeROI.

A close contest also had been predicted in the eleventh district, but it did not develop. Democrat Woodrow W. Jones of Rutherfordton, World War II navy veteran and member of the general assembly, defeated A. A. Whitehurst, Marshall businessman.

Other races saw these democratic congressmen reelected easily: Herbert C. Bonner of Washington in the first district, Harold D. Cooley of Nashville in fourth, Carl T. Durham of Chapel Hill in the sixth, F. E. L. Caryle of Lumberton in the seventh, C. B. Deane of Rockingham in the eighth, and Monroe M. Redden of Hendersonville in the twelfth.

Three other democratic congressmen were reelected without opposition. They were: John H. Kerr in the second, Graham A. Barden in the third and Rep. Thurmond Chatham in the fifth.

Democrats also swept to victory by wide margins in two races for positions on the state supreme court. One victor was Associate Justice Sam J. Ervin, Jr., of Morganton, and the other was Jeff D. Johnson, Jr., of Clinton, former Superior Court judge.

Ervin was elected to a full eight-year term on the bench and Johnson to the two years remaining of the term of the late Associate Justice

Chiang And Red China

Where And How The Nationalist Regime Of China, Now Tied To Formosa, Fits Into The General Far Eastern Contest; They Still Hope And Plan For New Invasion

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

What with all the debate about how to handle the warring Chinese Communists, it isn't surprising that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist forces, cooped up on Formosa, are wondering how they fit into the picture—if at all.

Chiang has some half million fighting men with him on the island. They are waiting for the day when fortune will give them a chance to invade the mainland and, with the guerrilla forces there, retake the country from the Reds. The way things stand, the "Gimo" has given his word to America not to attack the mainland, and as a quid pro quo the U. S. Seventh Fleet is preventing the Chinese Communists from invading Formosa.

The Nationalist premier recently stated there were 1,600,000 guerrillas on the mainland, prepared to join with the Nationalists in conquering the Reds. General Mao Tse-tung, the Bolshevik leader, set the number at 400,000 last July and reduced the estimate to 200,000 later. Anyway, whatever the number, there are many guerrillas ready to fight. Actually, of course, Chiang Kai-shek hasn't enough fleet for a large invasion, even if he were free to make the attempt. He also lacks sufficient military supplies of all categories for such an adventure. He does have enough ships so that he could smuggle arms and ammunition to guerrillas, if he weren't forbidden to do so.

Fred Hampson, AP correspondent at Taipei, capital of Formosa, reports that the Nationalists keep on talking about invading the mainland, despite the fact that they know it is impossible now. And why do they persist? Well, because they want to get back to their native soil where they can establish homes and raise families.

As a matter of fact the Nationalist authorities never allow the talk of invading the mainland to die down. It is necessary to the morale of the restive troops. So, says Hampson, the soldiers train and wait and dream of going home.

Formosa is involved in so many imponderables that nobody believes invasion of the mainland is possible soon. For one thing the "Gimo" couldn't afford to embark on any

J. H. Rose Addresses Legion - Sponsored Event At College

J. H. Rose, superintendent of Greenville schools, and former state commander of the American Legion, addressing a group of approximately 500 in the Austin Auditorium at East Carolina Teachers College yesterday in an Armistice Day program, called on them to consider seriously the problems of democracy and the difficulties now facing our country. The service was held at the regular college chapel period nearest November 11.

The meeting was sponsored by Post No. 39 of the American Legion. Howard Moyer, post commander, presided and introduced Mr. Rose. James L. Fleming of the college faculty welcomed an audience including the East Carolina unit of the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps, other students, faculty members, and guests on the campus. ABC And Other Officers Seize Moonshine Still

Law enforcement officers of Pitt and Beaufort counties raided and seized a 150-gallon "pot type" oil-burning, pressure tank, copper whiskey still in the Stakestown community, between Venders Crossroads and Calico Crossroads, early today.

The officers dynamited the distilling equipment. They arrested Raymond Earl Carter, 23; Chester Hopkins, 49, colored, and Matthew Atkinson, colored, 52, and confiscated a 1941 Ford automobile.

The three men were given a preliminary hearing before the United States Commissioner at Kinston. They were ordered held under $500 bond each for the next term of Federal Court at New Bern.

Two copper coils and nine cases of half-gallon fruit jars found at the still were destroyed.

The big moonshine still was in operation when the officers made their raid. They destroyed 625 gallons of fermented mash.

Robert Stocks Gives Self Up To Sheriff In Greene

Snow Hill, Nov. 8—Robert Earl Stocks, 23-year-old Ormondsville man who was hunted by sheriff's departments of Greene and Pitt counties, turned himself in to Sheriff Kirby Cobb late Monday afternoon.

Stocks had been at large since last Wednesday and was indicted for the alleged beating of three Greene and Pitt Negroes early Wednesday morning. He is being held in county jail under $2,500 bond.

Stocks was indicted along with Earl Everett of this county and three other white men from Pitt, Herman Newell, Peeney Croom and Had Braxton Jr., all of near Ayden.

The indictments charged all five with beating up Sylvester Joyner, of near Suffleton, and Kirby Williams of Bell Arthur community in Pitt. The Negroes, it was alleged, were accused by the five for stealing a liquor still in the vicinity of the Pitt-Greene line.

Sheriff Cobb stated today Stocks gave himself up after fleeing the county Wednesday. It was learned he headed for Norfolk but learned he was confronted there by the indictments.

He came back to the county in an effort to find someone to go on his bond before giving himself up, Cobb said.

The other four men were placed in Greene and Pitt County jails last Wednesday. All of them were free by Thursday. Bond for the five was placed at $1,500 in Greene and $1,000 in Pitt.

PMA Office Is Urging Larger Cotton Acreage

The local office of the Production and Marketing Administration yesterday went on record in urging Pitt's cotton farmers to plant at least 14,000 acres next year to meet the cotton deficit caused by this year's short harvest.

The recommendation from the county committee of the PMA came as a result of a directive by the Secretary of Agriculture for the nation's farmers to plant 16 million acres in 1951.

The directive urged farmers to save a supply of good planting seed for the crop. It also pointed out to fertilizer and insecticide dealers to lay in a large supply of both commodities to meet the increased demands of cotton farmers next year.

As was recently enacted by the federal government, there will be no cotton acreage allotments next year. Farmers can now plant as much of the crop as they wish.

This year Pitt growers planted an estimated 7,554 acres on an allotment of about 9,000 acres. Only a small portion of the planted acres was harvested due to the largest infestation of boll weevil on record.

Miss Brooks Speaks Before Woman's Council On Work In Nigeria

Ayden.—On Monday, October 23, the Woman's Council of the Ayden Christian church and visitors from other Ayden churches, met at the Christian church to hear Miss Ernelle Brooks, a Baptist medical missionary to Nigeria, Africa, who is in the United States on furlough at present. Miss Brooks' talk was sponsored by Circle No. 4 of the Woman's Council. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Brooks of Greenville. In a manner which held the attention of the entire congregation, Miss Brooks told of her work as teacher in the school, teaching children from the age of five or six on up through high school. She emphasized the importance of teaching the natives how to achieve a happy home life, as that is an approach to showing God to them as a loving father. The classes include as well as the "3 R's," subjects such as housework, cooking, child care, and English. The young child starting out in school is introduced to the English language, and by the time he is in the fourth grade he must have English fairly well mastered to enable him to continue in his studies. This is most necessary, since all the text books are printed in the English language, with none in the native language. Miss Brooks spoke of her difficulties in starting a class in child care. The girls could not be convinced that such strange teaching could actually be put into practice with real children. Their incredulity is understandable, as the deplorable sanitary conditions and ignorance prevalent take a toll in the lives of babies. About half of the infants born die in the first year of life, she stated. The Baptist mission and the missions of other churches there cooperate in their efforts to bring the people out of the darkness of ignorance into the light of Christianity. In her particular group, the native college students themselves go out into neighboring villages, conducting services which would be equivalent to Sunday school classes here. She also makes regular visits to a leper colony outside the city. Leprosy is a common disease in Africa, and most of the cases in the leper colonies located outside the city limits of many of the towns are incurable, since the people are afraid to let their condition be known until they are beyond hope. Although doctors have found a definite cure for leprosy when discovered in the early stages. Miss Brooks made her talk doubly interesting by illustrating it with colored slides taken of the mission and the mission work, and slides showing native customs. Following her talk, she answered questions asked by members of her audience, and Pastor W. H. Brunson dismissed the gathering with prayer.

State Director Speaks Before WCTU

Mrs. J. N. Williams graciously welcomed members and friends of the local W. C. T. U. as they met in her lovely, spacious home last Wednesday. Among the guests who attended were Mrs. Iverson Skinner and Mrs. Williams' mother, Mrs. Waldrep. The voice of Miss Ruth Little, of Winterville charmed her listeners as she sang two lovely numbers. She had as her accompanist Mrs. Howard Bodkin.

Mrs. J. O. Howard in her devotional taken from the fifth chapter of Matthew stressed the importance of service. Mrs. Helene Higgs Kirkpatrick, president, conducted the business session and in closing the meeting she left with her audience the following thought: "This life of ours can be beautiful and interesting if we follow God's perfect pattern."

Mrs. V. C. Carson, state director of Flowers, Missions and Relief, in her talk at the meeting gave the high lights of the state convention which she attended in Charlotte in October. The theme of the convention was, Mrs. Carson said, "Enter every door with temperance truth." I Cor. 16-9. The mayor of Charlotte welcomed the most spiritual and best attended convention in the history of the organization. Dr. and Mrs. Ed Moore gave a reception in their home for the delegates. At the reception it was an inspiration to hear Mrs. Moore sing "When They Ring Their Golden Bells for You and Me," and "The Man of Galilee." Dr. Moore spoke to the convention emphasizing the need to read God's word, learn of His will and go forward to do his will. Mrs. W. H. Causey of Winston-Salem was elected president for another year.

Rev. W. H. Williams deplored the way temperance lessons are handled by Sunday school teachers. He said, "We have the truth and facts on our side. May the Lord save us from an inferiority complex about the alcohol." C. P. Morris told of the need of an educational program to combat the evils of publicized drinking. Mrs. Carson said all local unions are asked to have a rally day in the community and each church is asked to have a Woman's Christian Temperance union day and allow five minute speeches on temperance.

Mrs. Carson said in closing that if Jesus was master of the storm, master of disease, and master of life and death, then God can give to his people guidance and funds to carry on local and state temperance work. Mrs. Carson is chairman of the executive committee of the Pitt County Allied Church League. She has spent much time, energy, and means to try to promote the cause of temperance.

Tenth District Of State Garden Clubs Meets; Mrs. Henderson Speaks

In the above picture, the more than 150 women who attended the Tenth District meeting of the State Garden club are shown at the luncheon held at the Woman's Club.

The Tenth District of the Garden Club of North Carolina Inc. met in Greenville on Tuesday for its annual meeting, with the Greenville club acting as hostess for the event.

The meeting convened at 10:00 a.m. at the Memorial Baptist Church. The morning was devoted to the business session, over which Mrs. W. T. Culpepper of Elizabeth City, district director, presided.

The invocation was given by the Rev. R. E. Hardway and a welcome was extended to all in attendance by Mrs. J.H.B. Moore of the Greenville club. Mrs. J. Archie Browne of Rich Square responded to the welcome.

After the appointments to the various committees were read, Mrs. James M. Tyler, state president, was introduced. Mrs. H. S. Overman, district secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting, following which the individual clubs reported on their year's activities.

At the conclusion of the business session, the guests were invited to the Woman's Club where a three course luncheon was served to more than one hundred and sixty members.

The guests were greeted at the club house door by Mrs. K. B. Pace and Mrs. Ralph Garrett. The lobby and front parlors were lovely with profusions of fall flowers.

In the Rachel Maxwell Moore room, where three long banquet tables were placed, the mantel was particularly eye-catching with an unusual arrangement of fall garden products, flanked on one end by a bowl filled with yellow and bronze chrysanthemums and on the other by an artistic arrangement of cabbage leaves. The center of the mantel was draped with tobacco leaves and at intervals were placed gourds, peppers, ears of corn and other harvest fruits.

The speaker's table was centered with a silver urn filled with purple orchid and white chrysanthemums, and at either end low baskets were filled with fruit. The same decorative scheme was used on the other tables. Places were marked with seed catalogues, packages of peanuts, garden calendars, and packets of flower seed.

During the luncheon, special musical selections were offered by members of the faculty of the ECTC music department. Miss Gladys Reichard, soloist, charmed the gathering with her rendition of "Homing" and "The Little French Clock," accompanied at the piano by Miss Elizabeth Drake. Mr. George Perry played three numbers on the piano—a Scherzo by Beethoven, a Minor Mazurka by Chopin, and an Air for G-String by Bach.

At the conclusion of the luncheon, Mrs. Tyler introduced the speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. Isabelle Bowen Henderson of Raleigh. Mrs. Henderson is a noted artist, being particularly well known for her pastel portraits of children. She is also an outstanding "dirt gardener" and experiments with growing hybrid plants, especially iris, in her home garden.

Mrs. Henderson, in speaking to the audience with her charming humor and vivacious personality. She presented her talk by saying that if anyone understood the principles of artful creation, one could create anything lovely, whether it were a costume ensemble, a painting or a garden.

She emphasized the importance of variation in planting and the elimination of things that would make the garden unlovely. "Things that cannot be eliminated can sometimes be ignored or minimized," she remarked.

"One of the most essential things for a lovely garden is a tree," Mrs. Henderson continued. She gave suggestions as to what trees to grow, how to space them, and how to use them most effectively.

In a well planned garden there is planting according to scale size. In every flower garden there should be both large and small plants, with careful attention given to things that have a similarity of feeling. "Most people err by having too many small things," said the speaker. "The result is a hodge-podge conglomeration of annoying trivialities."

She concluded her talk by urging the use of more plants and materials that are native to their environments.

She suggested the use of pine needles for paths and walkways where pine trees grow, cypress blocks for stepping stones where cypress grows, and sawdust for mulches, coverage, etc., where it is available. She ended by discussing various plants which are indigenous to this section of the state and urged a more careful cultivation and planting of them as means of garden beautification.

Mrs. W. J. Stell, chairman of the Greenville Garden Club, presided at the luncheon and introduced the committees which served in planning the district meeting. They were as follows: Luncheon—Mrs. J. D. Messick, chairman, Miss Lella Higgs, Mrs. Alton Barrett and Mrs. Howard Porter; Favors—Mrs. S. T. White, chairman, Mrs. J. K. Long, Mrs. M. K. Blount and Mrs. F. L. Blount; Prizes—Mrs. R. M. Garrett, chairman, Mrs. M. S. Crisp, Mrs. K. B. Pace and Mrs. Henry Rivers; Decorations—Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale and Mrs. J.H.B. Moore, co-chairman, Mrs. W. I. Wooten, Mrs. M. L. Wright, Mrs. Owen Marshburn, Mrs. T. E. Hooker, Mrs. J. C. Clifford and Mrs. James Phelps; Registration—Mrs. J. R. Jackson, chairman, Mrs. H. L. Andrews, Mrs. C. L. Russ, Mrs. Hicks Corey and Mrs. N. C. Brooks; Music—Mrs. J. L. Fleming; Publicity—Mrs. E. McK. Johnson and Mrs. W. C. Harris.

Numbers were drawn for the presentation of door prizes, which were awarded before Mrs. Henderson spoke. The prizes were donated by various merchants of the city.

Recognition was accorded to the state officers and district chairmen who were present. Special guests were Mrs. Henderson; Mrs. J. M. Tyler, state president; Mrs. Ely Perry, state corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. R. Bennett, state chairman of roadside beautification; Mrs. Elias Carr, state beautification chairman; and Mrs. W. J. Whitehurst, state pilgrimage chairman.

The Saratoga club was welcomed as the "baby club" of the district and was given a present. The attendance award was won by the Elizabeth City club, who graciously presented it to the Manteo club, members of which came the longest distance to attend the meeting.

Governor's Child Is Polio Victim

Sacramento, Calif., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Governor Warren's youngest daughter, Nina, was hospitalized with polio yesterday.

Four specialists said the pretty 17-year-old was in "very critical" condition. Both legs are paralyzed. They hoped she might be helped by a serum being flown here from Chicago.

The serum has been used successfully to arrest the spread of polio but is not a cure, a specialist warned.

The tragedy turned what might have been the day of greatest political rejoicing for Warren into a day of sadness, prayers and anxious waiting. He made political history by becoming California's first three-term governor.

He kept himself secluded—alternately at the hospital or in his home. His interest in the election was relegated to the background.

Democrat Wins In Sampson Race

Clinton, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A Democrat was elected in Sampson County Tuesday for the first time since 1936. Graham Tart won the race for clerk of court against O. Cooper Jackson, Republican. The vote was Tart $44; Jackson 5408.

Sampson has been for several years considered a Republican county. Jimmy Austin, Democrat, and chairman of the election board, said it was the "biggest vote Sampson has ever seen, a very hot race, with more money spent and more work than ever before."

Home Crafts Displayed In Special Program

An extra-curricular program of the county home demonstration clubs brought Miss Rose Bryan of the North Carolina Extension Service to Greenville yesterday to display and talk on different types of home crafts. Miss Bryan is a food conservation and marketing economist with the Service and visits the different counties in craft demonstrations. Here she is shown pointing out various articles that can be made from farm and home materials to assistant demonstration agents, Miss Anne Parker and Miss Helen Hicks, left to right. The demonstration took place at the Greenville Curb Market yesterday afternoon. (Staff Photo by Roy Hardee).

Students at East Carolina Teachers College who will appear in a production of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" by the Teachers Playhouse, college dramatic club, have been announced by Dr. Lucile H. Charles, director of dramatic arts.

Presentations of the play early in December will mark the formal opening of the new Little Theatre in the Training School on the campus and the first major production by the Players for the present school year.

Donald Blood of Greenville will play the Stage Manager, a part made famous on Broadway by Frank Craven and played at various times by Wilder himself. Carolyn Eisele of Statesville and Joseph Congleton of Littleton will play the romantic leads. They will be supported by a cast of approximately forty members.

These include Robert Craft of Beaufort, Lloyd Whitfield of Kinston, William Robbins of Kinston, Iris Aldridge of Kinston, Annette Hughes of Willard, Janet Kirkland of Durham, Keith Estep of Plymouth, Carl Smith of Washington, Robert Linderth of Red Bank, N.J., Garland Jackson of Mt. Olive, and Clarkson White of Belvidere.

Dr. Charles will direct the play. Carl Smith of Washington will act as student director and will be assisted by Deputy Foole of Durham and William Robbins of Kinston.

A technical staff of thirty members will be in charge of costuming, stage setting, make-up, lighting effects, and music. Francis Lee Neel of the art department and Dan E. Vornhol of the music department, faculty members, are acting as consultants. Mark H. Moore of Bath heads a business staff of approximately twenty members.

City Ministerial Group Elects New Officers

The Greenville Ministerial Association, in regular monthly meeting Monday morning at Memorial Baptist Church, elected the following officers: Rev. Leon Russell, president; Rev. J. A. Neilson, vice president; and Rev. C. D. Patterson, secretary-treasurer.

The Association completed plans for an extensive evangelistic program. March 4-7, 1951, was designated as Visitation Evangelism Week with Dr. John Pemberton, Cape May, N.J., as the leader. Each minister voted to support a city-wide simultaneous evangelistic service in each church, April 1-8.

Appreciation was expressed for the fellowship and cooperation of Rev. Robert Crawford, pastor of the Free Will Baptist Church, who leaves next month to become pastor of the Free Will Baptist Church of Bryan, Texas.

St. Raphael's PTA The Parent-Teachers Association of St. Raphael's school met at the school on Wednesday night, November 1. This was the first meeting of the year, held at night, for the purpose of having both fathers and mothers attend.

Dr. E. B. Aycock, as guest speaker, gave a most informative talk on the education of a child, both physically and mentally in relation to the home and school.

Following the program, a short business meeting was held after which refreshments were served.

Chiang And . . .

However, the Nationalist regime is well aware of the necessity of maintaining its claim as the rightful government of China. It realizes that its main business is to keep alive the national resistance to communism until it is possible to invade the mainland and reestablish a Nationalist government there.

And what are the Nationalist prospects of regaining control of the mainland? That question gets us into a wide field of speculation.

I should say it would depend chiefly on whether the Communists raise the general standard of living, and especially banish the spectre of hunger which haunts millions of poor little homes.

If the Communists do this they may win the confidence of a vast, unwieldy nation which is more interested in food and shelter than in ideologies.

If the Reds don't achieve these goals, there will be a host of underprivileged people who would be willing to join the Nationalists again in hopes of finding relief from want.

However, all that is a question of the distant future. The role assigned the Nationalists at the moment is a passive one.

Hardy's Estate Valued At Over $1.75 Million

Snow Hill, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Two nieces and 10 nephews will share in the major portion of Clarence L. Hardy's estate valued at $1,750,000.

The will was filed for probate in Greene County Superior Court, Clerk of Court George Mewborn announced yesterday.

Hardy, known as the biggest tobacco grower in the world, died Oct. 27. The elderly bachelor owned more than 12,000 acres of land in Pitt and Greene counties.

His estate's valuation, according to an attorney, is only an estimate pending completion of an inventory which will take at least another month.

Hardy left the bulk of his estate in a 35-page will written in 1937 to the nieces and nephews. The only other persons who are direct beneficiaries are his sisters, Mrs. Estelle Tucker of Maury and Mrs. Estelle Moyer of Farmville. Atlantic Christian College, to which Hardy gave large bequests, will receive $10,000.

Under terms of the will, executors are authorized to dispose and invest the money in a trust fund for a 10-year period. At the end of 10 years, the money is to be divided among the beneficiaries.

Nutrition experts believe children should have a quart of milk a day.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

KEYS—GREAT AND SMALL
Have you ever tried for several minutes to unlock a door, and then find to your disgust that you have been using the wrong key? One can have this experience when he is cold sober. In fact most of the people who do have such an experience are sober.

We waste a lot of time in life trying to open doors with the wrong keys. Most people want to open the door which leads to happiness, and they try first one key and then another. They try the money key, and the popularity key. They try the indulgence key, and the liquor key. But the door doesn't open. Other people all around them seem to be opening their doors with one or another of those keys. That is, from a distance they appear to be doing so. But a close-up examination would show that they are meeting with no more success than anyone else.

What are the right keys—the keys that really open the doors to contentment, happiness, satisfaction and health? One of these keys is diligence. Another is self-control. There can be no doubt that the key which opens the door to popularity is thoughtfulness. Knowledge is a wonderful key, but there is a greater one still. This greatest key is the key of faith. It is reserved for no special group. All men can have it, and having it they enter into the eternal and walk therein.

More Outstanding Work Recognized

Pitt's 4-H boys and girls are a constant source of pride to the county. The 4-H boys and girls from the county have taken places of leadership among the young farm people of North Carolina for several years.

Now another Pitt county 4-H'er, Milton Spain, has been selected to represent the state at the national 4-H club congress to be held in Chicago late this month.

The evidence of the fine work being done by the 4-H members in Pitt county may be seen on practically every hand. It is seen through state and national recognition of Pitt county projects and individuals; through exhibits at the county and state fairs, and projects in various schools and communities of the county. But most important, the good work of the farm youngsters is evident in better farm practices and improved methods in the homes.

The 4-H'ers are bringing honor to Pitt county through their achievements which are recognized as being outstanding among the others of the state. They are bettering the economic situation of the county by bringing about better farming and better farm homes.

The Community Chest A Community Project

Community chest workers have again begun pounding the streets of Greenville in behalf of seven worthy organizations. The workers are seeking $10,200 to enable the organizations to carry on their work through the coming year.

This combined canvass for the seven organizations eliminates six drives which would otherwise be made on homes and business houses that are already receiving more than an ample amount of calls for contributions to one thing or another.

The Community Chest puts all the pleas of the seven organizations into one request for funds.

When you make your contribution to the Community Chest this week, you are giving money to seven organizations which carry on work that makes Greenville a better community in which to live. The Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, both white and colored, receive the money for their organizations from the Community Chest. For the relative small amount which goes into the scouting movement in Greenville, benefits, immeasurable in terms of money, are received by the youngsters of the community. They are taught to be better citizens and better individuals and in turn are better equipped to shoulder their responsibilities in the community.

The Teen Age club affords recreational facilities for young people who otherwise would have to seek their own recreation, wholesome or not, wherever they could find it. The Emergency Charity fund provides money with which to help furnish medical aid to those people who lack the necessities of life, and yet have no means of securing them. The Service League Thrift Shop affords a place where people may purchase clothing and other articles at very modest prices, and still not be placed in the position of accepting charity.

The Community Chest drive does not ask a gift for just one organization. It is asking a package gift for seven organizations without which Greenville would be an unpleasant place to live.

Give to the Community Chest this week, and give generously. The good your money does through these seven organizations will repay you many times for your contribution.

The Fate Of The UN And The World

The world is awaiting the decision of the United Nations Security Council on the situation in Korea as related to the actions of the Chinese communists.

The labeling of the Chinese Reds as aggressors and the decision for the United Nations forces to take action against the Chinese may be the flare-up which will begin World War II in full force. The decision to allow the Chinese Reds to continue their operations against UN forces in Korea without being labeled aggressors, will leave the door open for further communist aggression in Asia and other parts of the world.

The result of the first alternative would be a death struggle for freedom with the free nations on one side of the trenches, and the communist hordes on the other. The other alternative may lead to the suppression of freedom by the communists without a struggle from the free nations.

The nations and the peoples of the world are anxiously awaiting the decision from the Security Council. It can hold not only the fate of the United Nations itself, but the fate of the world as well.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—The formation of another major anti-Russian coalition in the strategic Mediterranean Basin lies behind the western powers' adoption of a more friendly attitude toward such once ostracized personages as Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia and Generalissimo Franco of Spain.

This shift in our foreign policy in that area is generally attributed to the influence of General George C. Marshall since he became National Defense Secretary. It has also been advocated by the British, especially Churchill.

London, Paris and Washington have not given the advertisement to this containment program that they did to the Marshall Plan for fear of furnishing Moscow another reason—or pretense—to cry "imperialism."

But several seemingly unrelated developments behind the scenes combine to reveal the plan to bar Russian aggression and advance into an area of the first military importance to the western world in time of war.

ARMS—Greece and Turkey, for instance, are negotiating an offensive-defensive alliance in the eastern Mediterranean, with the defense of the Dardanelles, the Suez Canal and several vital archipelagos as their main objective.

Although the two countries are too remote to be included in the North Atlantic Military Alliance, they will be supplied with money and modern arms in due time.

Both public agencies at Washington and private corporations have recently advanced loans to the oil-rich countries of the Middle East, which would be a Russian goal in any conflict because of the Soviet's shortage of petroleum.

While the British have been entrusted with the diplomatic handling of this problem, the bulk of the financial and arms aid will be provided by the United States.

NECESSITY—After months of keeping Tito under suspicion, for his regime is still as communistically minded as Russia's, President Truman and Secretary Acheson have decided to take him into the fold. It is a question of necessity rather than desire, as it is with Franco.

With Yugoslavia in our camp, especially if we provide the sturdy warriors of that country with modern weapons, it would be almost impossible for Stalin to overrun the Balkans, in the opinion of our military experts.

Spain's strategic importance at the Atlantic door of the Mediterranean is obvious. It is this consideration which led the U.S. and Britain to rescind the 1946 ban on entering into full diplomatic relations with Madrid. If Franco adopts several suggested domestic reforms, he will soon receive more material aid in the form of food, money and munitions.

ENCIRCLING—The construction of this Mediterranean bulwark represents a basic revision of our original program for encircling Russia and creating conditions which will deter Stalin from embarking on a war for world conquest.

Here again, it is General Marshall's realistic approach to military-diplomatic problems which has persuaded both President Truman and Secretary Acheson to bow to him.

As the Korean struggle disclosed, the United Nations—or the United States—cannot continue to waste men, money and material in inaccessible areas like Indo-China, Tibet or wherever the Kremlin precipitates a bargain-basement war. It can reinforce the French, the British, the Dutch or local governments with dollars and with weapons.

But its main task must be—can be—only to insure that Russia cannot conquer what is now defined as the "free world."

PROTECTION—This spectacular extension of the Marshall Plan into the strictly military realm, in view of the Mediterranean development, is now in operation to a far greater degree than is generally realized.

The Western European nations have agreed upon formation of an international army, air force and navy for protection of that area. French opposition to inclusion of large-scale German units will delay full consummation, but an embryonic force will be in being at the end of 1950. Meanwhile, continued strengthening of the civilian economy is expected to offset the Reds' propaganda and infiltration thrusts.

CAGED—Our Far Eastern barrier will eventually consist of a united and reinforced Korea under MacArthur's rule, a partially reformed Japan, Okinawa, possibly Formosa, Indonesia, French and British possessions on the southern mainland, Hawaii, Australia and Pacific archipelagos formerly held by Tokyo will be the secondary line of defense.

In addition, both Washington and London embrace the hope that Mao Tse-tung will eventually weary of Kremlin domination and, even if he does not cast his lot with us, become a friendly neutral. Prime Minister Nehru is looked upon as another likely convert.

Thus, if this plan operates as expected and if Stalin gives us time to implement it, the Russian bear will be encircled and caged on three sides.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

One of the state's most colorful characters is W. E. Debnam, famous for his mid-day radio program called "Debnam Views the News." Sponsored by a fertilizer company, Deb always signs off by saying, "Remember, S.D. on your fertilizer bag means square deal." Year before last, the fertilizer that sponsors him sent him to Europe to give him an even closer view of the news.

Deb has hit the news because a book he wrote named "Weep No More, My Lady" is selling like hot cakes. Deb wrote the book after he made two broadcasts replying to columns written by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, which Deb thought cast reflections on the South.

The thing which Deb didn't like was that Mrs. Roosevelt had said that it was necessary to close one's eyes to the poverty of the South and particularly to this passage from her column:

"There's a charm about the South. The smell of magnolias and lavender-and-old-lace still exists there. People are less hurried; they have more opportunity perhaps for the grace of living. But underneath it all, I am not so sure that there are not signs of poverty and unhappiness that will gradually have to disappear if that part of the nation is going to prosper and keep pace with the rest of it."

In his book Debnam has traced the industrial rise of the South and the mounting volume of invested money. He has picked out the "poverty and unhappiness" angle and has applied it to the North, wondering why Mrs. Roosevelt has not concerned herself over poverty north of the Mason-Dixon line.

"Weep No More My Lady" is already rated as a best seller in the non-fictional classification in the South. It has run through its eighth edition with more than 80,000 copies sold and 100,000 printed. When Deb originally took the typescript of his book to New York no publisher would touch it because it takes issue with Eleanor Roosevelt. "I came back to Raleigh, and at my own expense, as a sort of protest, had it set up and printed here. It was the biggest pile of books I had ever seen and the printer's bill was in like proportions and I felt sure that before I was through, I would be peddling the darned things from door to door with my beard flowing in the breeze in a desperate attempt to get my money back."

Now Deb is glad that he has a publisher cutting in on the profits of his book. At $2 the proceeds will make his nest egg. My hat is off to Deb for standing up for the South.

And I thank Dr. Glen Haney for tipping me off on this story.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, N. C.

DESPERATE—Attorney General Harry McMullan's phone rang early Tuesday morning. When he answered he heard a frantic voice at the other end of the line. Henry Harrell, chairman of the board of elections of Pott county, was in trouble—bad trouble. He wanted help.

The 1950 election is over, the politically minded are giving attention to the general assembly, the congress, and the next governor and president. During recent weeks a good deal was heard about prospective candidates for governor next time, but party leaders and newspaper editors made obvious effort to keep down speculation about 1952 until 1950 had been disposed of. One of the first positive statements heard after Tuesday's voting was almost over, was that Frank Graham will be a candidate for governor in the next primary.

REASONING—The reasoning back of this forecast—whether or not it is "reasonable" depends upon the viewpoint—is that Senator Graham, ever since his defeat for the United States senate last June, has been acting like a candidate. He attended most of the congressional district rallies and many independent county or sectional rallies for the Democratic party, and everywhere he pleaded for full support of the Democratic ticket. Candidates defeated in the primary do not usually take such prominent place in the general election campaign unless they have further political ambitions.

COMPARISON—In 1936, for instance, Ralph McDonald was very active in the fall campaign, although he had been defeated in the gubernatorial primary by Clyde. That same year Sandy would hold that the entire ballot was void. No intimation was given in the inquires as to the number of votes involved, but in those counties just a few voided ballots might change results of the election.

CANDIDATE—Now that the 1950 election is over, the politically minded are giving attention to the general assembly, the congress, and the next governor and president. During recent weeks a good deal was heard about prospective candidates for governor next time, but party leaders and newspaper editors made obvious effort to keep down speculation about 1952 until 1950 had been disposed of. One of the first positive statements heard after Tuesday's voting was almost over, was that Frank Graham will be a candidate for governor in the next primary.

He attended most of the congressional district rallies and many independent county or sectional rallies for the Democratic party, and everywhere he pleaded for full support of the Democratic ticket. Candidates defeated in the primary do not usually take such prominent place in the general election campaign unless they have further political ambitions.

COMPARISON—In 1936, for instance, Ralph McDonald was very active in the fall campaign, although he had been defeated in the gubernatorial primary by Clyde. That same year Sandy Graham, eliminated in the first primary, was very quiet during the fall campaign and ever since—so far as aspirations to elective office are concerned. McDonald came back and ran for governor again in 1944. In 1949 none of the defeated primary candidates for governor took part in the fall run-up except W. P. Horton, A. J. Maxwell would have, but his health did not permit. Horton did not run again, but he was known to have been looking both to the governor's office and the United States senate if conditions had been propitious. Latest example was the 1948 campaign.

STILL IN—Charles M. Johnson and Wayne Albright were beaten in the governor's primary by Kerr Scott. Johnson took no part whatever in the fall campaign, Albright did. Johnson is now counted completely out of elective politics, Albright is still in the picture. Classic example, however, was the senatorial primary. Incumbent appointee, William B. Umstead, was defeated by former Governor J. M. Broughton. In the fall campaign Umstead was fully as active as his successful opponent. He made many friends by his vigorous electioneering in behalf of the full ticket, including the man who had eased him out of office. Now William Umstead is so definitely in the political picture that many people think he will be the next governor.

BATTLER—Frank Graham this year is following closely the pattern set by Umstead two years ago. Some of his friends complain that he has battled harder for the Democratic ticket, including his successful opponent, Willis Smith, than he did for his own nomination last year.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

MORE GASOLINE TAXES (Henderson Daily Dispatch) Governor Scott told his news conference Tuesday that if the State takes over construction and maintenance of city streets, it means that the gasoline tax will have to be advanced. Of course it will under such circumstances. But the State doesn't have to assume such responsibility and should not do so.

There is quite a danger in the gasoline field of killing the goose that lays the golden egg. Excesses can be carried out there as elsewhere.

We take it that the governor favors the State assuming this task. The commission which made a special study recommended it. Naturally the government or saw to it that personnel of the commission consisted of men who would see eye to eye with him. He is like other liberals, who are on the side of endless spending and endless taxing. They seem not to give much thought to what will happen when the point of saturation is reached, as inevitably it will be.

The more the highway commission undertakes, the larger will be its payroll and the greater the number of men for the building of a political machine as well as a road machine. These things have a way of applying in State as well as national affairs. The idea has been worked to well high perfection in the Federal government and already has been introduced into the State organization, where the administration has acquired great strength as a result.

If the State starts building and maintaining city streets, there will be fresh headaches along with the financial relief afforded to municipalities, and still another burden in the gas tax increase. The work must be paid for. Most cities and towns are doing fairly well in caring for their own streets and ought to be content with the status quo.

One may assume that the State regime is fairly itching for the authority to take over streets because it will mean a chance to slap on more taxes, to add to its payroll, enlarge its political machine and provide further centralization of control in Raleigh. The greater the control the stronger the machine. And the stronger the machine the less democracy there is in State government.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
One of the biggest differences in opinions in merchandising today is over the use of synthetics in rugs and carpets. Some retailers refuse to handle carpets of mixed wool and synthetic fibers, others carry them but don't push them, and others promote them with enthusiasm.

Those who are betting on all wool to win, place and show may be backing the wrong sheep. Because:

1. Worsening relations with China, once the chief source of the tough carpet wools, may make adequate imports more difficult.
2. Synthetics are likely to get even better, since most of the big manufacturers of synthetics are maintaining heavy investments in research.

All nylon carpets were introduced several years ago. They are good and even the most selective retailers have promoted them. But they are more expensive than all-wool carpets, even at today's prices.

Since the shortage of carpet wools became acute, many of the larger mills have introduced varying combinations of wool and rayon. The rayon fibers used are not the same as those used in apparel, but about five times the weight and size. Several of the larger rayon producers are expanding production of carpeting fibers and, at the same time, working to improve its qualities for under-foot use. "We can make it better and tougher than wool," said one manufacturer.

In an unusually frank discussion before the New York Metropolitan Carpet Club, representatives of two big carpet manufacturers confessed to the errors which have held back acceptance of wool-and-rayon carpeting. The blended carpeting was first introduced in lower priced lines. And, worse, the manufacturers failed to promote the new blends with the enthusiasm due a new product. Consequently, many retailers and consumers assumed the mixtures were cheap, if not inferior, and something the manufacturers weren't proud of.

These suspicions were strengthened by recollection of some wool and rayon blends produced during the last war. Apparel-type rayon fibers were used and the results were not satisfactory. The carpeting soiled rapidly and often the rayon fibers wore out of the carpeting.

These faults are now being corrected by manufacturers. Rayons are being introduced into the higher priced lines and vigorous advertising campaigns have been initiated to acquaint the public with the merits of mixtures. Manufacturers say that even if wool becomes cheap and plentiful—which isn't soon likely—synthetic fibers have a permanent share of the floorcovering market.

WHERE TO GET DATA ON ARMY BUYING

Because the Army is buying more things and more people are trying to sell it, specifications are being made available at three Quartermaster Agencies, instead of from the single one calling for bids on the required items. Specifications can now be obtained from:

Quartermaster Procurement Agency, 111 E. 16th St., New York

Quartermaster Depot, 1819 W. Pershing Dr., Chicago 9.

Quartermaster Procurement Agency, Oakland Army Base, Oakland 3, Calif.

FREE TO SAY "FREE" SOMETIMES, SAYS FTC

Advertising planners may have a little more leeway in describing premiums under a new Federal Trade Commission ruling on the use of the word "free."

Since 1948, the FTC has held that the word "free" could not be used if there was any "consideration," and a box-top or a dime to cover mailing costs has been considered a consideration.

But in the case of the Unicorn Press, Brooklyn, this theory was modified. The company offered the first of a 25-volume encyclopedia "free" on payment of a dime to cover mailing costs. As long as the dime was actually used for mailing costs, and as long as the recipient could cancel the order for the remaining 24 books without having to return the first book, the FTC held the deal was okay. Still pending are complaints against some book clubs, but since they require the actual purchase of other books to get a "free" one, they may not benefit by this more liberal FTC attitude.

The decision is likely to cause a sharp rise in premiums and bonuses within the terms of the Unicorn decision.

Hal Boyle's Column

By STAN SWINTON

(For Hal Boyle)

Wonsan, Korea — (AP) — The first commando-trained American outfit to fight in Korea is operating against bypassed guerrilla Reds in this northeast sector. The men are volunteers from General MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters.

Bypassed Reds, striking at undefended villages and communication lines, are posing a serious problem. American forces had not been prepared for such fighting. U.S. Army staff officers readily concede the Americans had no trained anti-guerrilla field leaders.

The first such Raider Company, commanded by Maj. James H. Wear of Austin, Tex., is encamped on a lonely ridge near Munchon, 10 miles north of Wonsan.

Many men of Wear's outfit fought in World War II. But five months ago they were bakers, cooks, typists and "desk commandos." Now they have become tough and expert in ship-to-shore raids, knife-fighting and judo.

They made their initial raid with 14 British commandos at Kunsan on the southwest coast before the Sept. 15 landing at Inchon. This was a ruse to mislead the Reds as to where the landings could be expected.

This crack force has one order: "Fight guerrillas."

It has no Korean interpreter.

A 2 1/2-ton truck offers its mobility.

Not a man in it ever fought guerrillas before. Not an officer ever saw observer duty in Malaya, Indochina or elsewhere to learn guerrilla tricks.

U.S. 10th Corps headquarters in Wonsan ordered a Raider patrol to go to Kowon, 20 air miles north, where 1,900 guerrillas were reported to have made a raid the day before. No one in Kowon professed knowing anything about it. Even if the report were true, the guerrillas had been gone 24 hours.

This lack of available local intelligence suggests the outfit's difficulties.

Once the Raiders clashed with a North Korean band of about 300 men. They killed some. The next day, supported by Marine tanks under command of Lt. G. G. Sweet, Glenwood, Ill., the Raiders returned and killed 40 Reds.

Apparently the Reds fought by the soldier's book. Trained guerrillas would have slipped away and hit elsewhere.

The U.S. Eighth Army has ordered a high priority on anti-guerrilla warfare. It is assembling experts.

Many observers in the forward areas believe that, long before the U.S. forces get an effective anti-guerrilla operation rolling, the bypassed Red bands will have had time to harden into a coordinated force similar to those fighting in Malaya and Indochina.

Such a guerrilla war would leave North Korea in long unrest—a persistent drain on United Nations finances and military strength.

At first hand, this correspondent watched the British try to wipe out Communist guerrillas in Malaya and the French attempt to do it in Indochina.

could not speak local languages; and did not have widespread local intelligence based on informers within the guerrilla ranks.

Some observers feel that special South Korean units under U.N. supervision might be able to clean out guerrillas in North Korea. However, the North Korean peasant, whose cooperation is essential, has a historic dislike for South Koreans.

But almost everyone in the field agrees the job cannot be done by U.S. and other non-Korean troops alone. Asking a Raider, a Pershing tank or an infantryman to catch will-o'-the-wisp guerrillas is like pushing a man into the water who can't swim and expecting him to race an expert.

Washington Letter

By L. T. EASLEY, JR.

(For Jane Eads)

Washington—Congressional junkets are not new. In the last century many an Eastern legislator braved the wild and woolly West to investigate Indian troubles beyond the Mississippi. In 1907 the railroads stopped giving congressmen free passes, a restriction the lawmakers imposed on themselves because of public indignation against the practice.

Congressional travels, nevertheless, probably reached a peak in the summer of 1947, when so many went to Europe that you could almost have stirred up a quorum on the continent. Argument for such travels is that they help the legislators to work more intelligently.

During World War II military transport aircraft acquired a good safety record. Lawmakers boarded them in increasing numbers for hops about the globe.

Shortly before his death, the then Defense Secretary Forrestal issued an order curtailing use of military planes by congressmen. His successor, Louis Johnson, began to put teeth into the order. Now, Defense Secretary George Marshall is making it stick.

There was a time shortly after the war when almost any congressman, or even a fully accredited newsmen here, for that matter, could "manage" an air lift if a plane happened to be going in the desired direction. Congressmen didn't encounter too much difficulty in getting a flight "set up," particularly if they were on committees handling military or naval legislation.

With cutbacks in appropriations for the armed forces, about three years ago, the number of Air Force and Navy planes in operation was drastically reduced. Then came the economy orders affecting flights for congressmen. U.S. commercial airlines, unhappy over so much travelling by civilians in military planes, were heartened.

At present the Defense department will permit congressmen to ride on Air Force or Naval aircraft only if the flight is requested by one of the chairmen of the armed services committees of the House or Senate, or by the chairman of an appropriations subcommittee for military affairs. The flight, even then, is supposed to be in the interest of national defense.

Young Pitt County Native Now Boys' Town Citizen

By MARTHA S. FORBES

Pitt county has a reason for taking a personal interest in the place in Nebraska immortalized by Father Flanagan for one of its natives is now a citizen of Boys' Town.

Young Bernice Kenneth (Pete) Avery, 14 years of age, arrived in Nebraska last Friday and now has assumed his full responsibilities and duties as a citizen of Boys' Town.

Pete is the son of Mr. Butler Avery, one of a family of four children. His mother died about six years ago and his father remarried and moved to Columbia, South Carolina, leaving the children in the care of an older sister, Winifred Avery.

At the time Winifred was only a teen-ager and she assumed the care of her three younger brothers, while trying to keep up with her own schooling.

One brother, Butler Ray, 21, is now in the United States Navy stationed in Korea. Another boy, Marion, 16, lives with an uncle near Ayden and helps him on the farm.

When it became necessary for Winifred to go to work to support herself and youngest brother, they talked the matter over and decided that it was necessary to try to place young Pete in a good home.

Pete had heard and read about Boys' Town and expressed a desire to go there. Through a Protestant, Winifred sought the aid of Father Maurice Tew, who wrote the first in a series of letters to Father Wegner in the Nebraska town. The reply to the request for admission, which was made last spring, led to a correspondence between the local welfare department and Father Wegner. Then Miss Georgia Hughes of the welfare department took over from there.

She became interested in young Pete and his sister and personally handled his case. The boy had to undergo a series of physical, mental and psychological tests, as well as a thorough investigation of his home background. His sister was legally appointed as his guardian, and when formal notification of his acceptance arrived last Monday, one can imagine the thrill of joy that coursed through the hearts of Pete and Winifred and their feeling of gratitude for the help which had been rendered them!

Miss Hughes contacted members of the Kiwanis and Lions clubs, and these two clubs provided money for his transportation to Boys' Town. He left by bus last Wednesday and arrived without mishap on Friday.

He was permitted to wire his sister upon arrival and she in turn was allowed to call him by phone. Though she could not talk to him personally, she conversed with Father Wegner, who had the boy standing by his side.

Father Wegner assured Winifred that Pete had arrived in a happy frame of mind and was becoming adjusted quickly and satisfactorily. Before Pete left, everything he

Three Robberies At Same Store On Bethel Highway

Robbers broke into the same store three times on the Bethel highway, in the Fleming's Crossroads community. They obtained cash or other loot on each nocturnal visit, a police report shows.

A robber broke a pane of glass in a rear window of Jack Brady's Pool Room, removed a nail holding the window in place, entered and carried away about $20 in paper and silver money and some candy.

About 15 days later a robber broke in the same window and carried away about $15 in change and some candy. And on November 1, a nocturnal prowler broke in the same window. He carried away a dozen bottles of a cola drink and some candy.

The robberies were not reported to Greenville police until several days ago.

Blooded Greyhound Is Available Now For Very Small Fee

Enoch Elisha Jones, official humane officer for the city of Greenville, who has charge of the city's dog pound near Greenwood Cemetery, announced today that he has a fine young greyhound to dispose of.

The dog, he said, appears to be of an excellent breed and is easily handled. The dog's owner is unknown. Jones will dispose of the dog to any person who will assure him that he will take good care of the greyhound and pay the $2.50 fee. Jones may be contacted at the police station.

possessed in a material way had to be listed and tagged. Armed with all his personal belongings and a great big hug from his sister, he set out on the long trip—the first time he had ever traveled alone—with a brave smile and a determination to make good and thus repay everyone who worked to see that he would be given a new opportunity in life. He will remain a citizen of Boys' Town until he can become self-supporting.

Pete is a typical teen-age boy. He is enthusiastic about all sports and hopes to make the Boys' Town football team. He is also gifted musically, having sung on numerous occasions with hillbilly groups in and around Greenville.

His sister Winifred, who works as a bookkeeper at Saslow's, is proud of her brother whom she has reared for the past six years. And she is proud of the Greenville people who helped her provide a nice home for him. She invites all Pete's friends and interested persons to write him to keep him informed of activities on the "home front."

Incidentally, Pete Avery is one of five North Carolina boys, who are now living in Boys' Town. Pete Jolly from Grifton, son of a blind man who was unable to provide for his son, went there in June of 1949. He too was sent to Father Wegner through the efforts of the welfare department, after the department had received a petition circulated through the community by citizens who were interested in his case.

This reporter hopes that the people of Pitt county will remember these two local boys, when they send in their Christmas checks for the support of this fine community.

Hotels Take Big Loss On Annual Theft Of Towels

New York—(AP)—Taking towels from hotels may be a joke to the taker but not to the hostelry owner. No matter what you pay for the room, if you take a towel, the hotel loses money on the transaction, report owners. Most hotels pay $2.50 per towel.

The Hotel Edison here recently took an informal survey to discover if towel-taking was predominant among residents of any one section of the U.S. Owner Irwin Kramer reports that it can be traced to any one part, but that "people from all over do it mostly for a gag. These same people wouldn't ever dream of sticking their hand in my pocket when I wasn't looking and taking out $2.50," he moans.

Vienna—(AP)—House-hungry Vienna is gaining something from Communism. The real estate market in the Austrian capital has suddenly taken a turn for the better. Scores of houses and offices whose owners live in nearby Communist Hungary are being offered for sale.

Vienna newspapers report that Hungarian owners have been forced to turn over their rights to the Communist government. And the government now is selling all the property—and keeping the cash.

Ayden Tornadoes Unbeaten In Loop

Hottest High School Eleven In Eastern N. C. Has 13-Game Winning String; Bullock And Davis Spark Play

By MELVIN LANG
The Ayden High School Tornadoes are currently the hottest high school football team in Eastern North Carolina having a record for this year of seven wins and no losses and a 13 game winning streak without a loss or tie, starting the early part of last season. Over these 13 games Ayden has scored 382 points while holding the opposition to 43 points. No team during this winning streak has scored more than one touch-down against the Tornadoes.

The Ayden eleven was recently crowned champions of the Coastal Conference for the second year and has the distinction of not losing a conference game during the two years it has been organized. Five members of the present squad were chosen on the all-conference team last year. "Teedy" Bullock, quarterback; B. L. Byrd, halfback; Greg Davis, center; Troy Jackson, tackle; and Mack Whitehurst, end. The offensive attack which strikes hard and fast is led by "Teedy" Bullock, the fine quarterback who runs with speed, power, and accuracy, passes with deadly accuracy, and kicks with the best. Supporters of the team hail him to be an All-State candidate, an honor he won this week by being selected to participate in the Optimistic Bowl in High Point Thanksgiving Day. "Teedy" has a passing record of 40 completions in 83 attempts for 781 yards. He calls signals and plays safety.

Leading the strong defense is Greg Davis, a junior who backs up the line. Greg is very seldom taken out of a play and is quick in seeing plays develop and usually meets the ball carrier on or beyond the line of scrimmage. This All-Conference center weighs only 158 pounds but blocks and tackles with the power of a much larger man. The fine play of these two boys does not determine the success of the team but rather adds to a well balanced club. With boys like James Hemby and Walter Meeks at the guard posts, Troy Jackson and Jerry Britt at tackles, Mack Whitehurst and Willis Manning at ends, B. L. Byrd and Darrell Worthington at the half backs, McDonald Hardee at fullback, and Hal Edwards, Jr. helping with the line backing play, Greg and "Teedy's" accomplishments are made easier. It is generally regarded that the balance in the team has been the determining factor in the team's fine record.

The second team has made its contribution too. It has been used in all games this season except from twenty-five to seventy-five percent of the time. Especially on defense it can take the field without any fears from the coach.

Coaching this team is Stuart Tripp, a local boy. Tripp is a graduate of East Carolina where he played center on the college team. Prior to coming to Ayden he coached one year in the Roxboro High School where his team had a very fine record. Much credit is due Coach Tripp for the team's fine record. It is his fine way and influence that has gained respect and won admiration of the players, students, fellow teachers, and citizens of the Ayden community. He teaches physical education and the social studies in the high school in addition to his coaching duties.

In the seven games this year Ayden has piled up a net of 1382 yards rushing and 741 passing while holding the opponents to 209 yards rushing and 231 passing. In addition to the conference games, Ayden has gone outside and defeated Williamston 19-7; Tarboro 25-0; and Ahoskie 14-2. The Tornadoes of Ayden High School will entertain the strong Fuquay Springs Falcons Friday night at eight o'clock on the Ayden High School field. This will be the homecoming game and a big crowd of alumni and friends is expected. Fuquay Springs has a season record of 5 wins, one loss, and one tie. They have won the conference championship for the past 3 years and currently are on top in the running this year. This homecoming game should be one of the biggest thrillers in Eastern North Carolina football this Friday.

Eppes Confident Over Friday Tilt

After six games, the Eppes Bulldogs have been successful in winning only one game. That win came in the first part of the season from New Bern. They are out to break their losing streak in the final home game here Friday night at Guy Smith's Stadium with Snow Hill. The Snow Hill squad has a very impressive record for this season.

Last Friday's game gave the team more courage to win because they were the first team to score on the powerful Elizabeth City pack this season. During yesterday's practice, the squad drilled on passing and blocking with much stress on blocking. The Eppes running attack has been very dangerous this year. Coaches Crowder and Daniels feel confident that the team will win, because there were no serious injuries in last Friday's game that would hinder the team except the usual bruises and scars that go with the game.

Ranzino Sparks State Wolfpack To 74-66 Win

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 8—(AP)—N. C. State College's ace forward Sammy Ranzino poured 34 points through the hoops last night as the Wolfpack defeated the Grand Rapids Hornets of the National Basketball League, 74-66.

The pros, who had won 15 straight exhibition games in North Carolina, ran afoul of the officials and committed a total of 48 personal fouls. The Wolfpack made good on 32 of 49 free throws and got its winning margin there.

State's win was its first in five exhibition contests against top professional clubs.

Ayden's Coastal Conference Champions Rumored Bowl Prospects

Pictured above are the members of the Ayden High School football team which this year cropped its second Coastal Conference championship. So far, the Ayden team is undefeated in conference play. The 1950 Coastal champs have been rumored for a possible bowl game bid on Thanksgiving with nothing official as yet. The Ayden team is coached by Stuart Tripp.

Phantoms Prepare For Big Homecoming Game

Squad In High Spirit; Friday's Clash With Roanoke Rapids To Provide Major Test For Local Offense, Defense

Greenville's Phantoms set up their defense for Roanoke Rapids in yesterday's practice session, as they prepared for their big Homecoming tilt here Friday night against the Jays.

The Phantoms, hungry for a win in the Northeastern conference, after three setbacks and one tie, went through yesterday's drill with high spirits. Roanoke Rapids tied Elizabeth City last week, 0-0, and Coach Bo Farley's charges expect plenty of trouble from the up-and-coming Jays' eleven.

Tackles Fletcher Murray and Wallace Conway, standouts in the Phantom squad all season long, led yesterday's spirited line play along with Guard Anwer Joseph, who stepped into a starting position last week due to the loss of hefty Johnny Merwin, who transferred here from Georgia, has returned to his home state with his father.

Some emphasis was also put on offensive patterns, as Farley is taking extensive measures in rounding his scoring punch into top-notch form for the crowd of returning alumni which is expected to be on hand for Friday night's clash. Halfback Kent Lee and Fullbacks Sydney Briley and Leon Moore were the offensive leaders, with Quarterback Eddie Farley also passing to Ends Wiley Gardner and Johnny Aman.

Friday night's contest will mark the final appearance of the Phantoms here, as they close out their nine-game schedule against Washington there November 17.

Yugoslavia Topic Reservist Talk

J. B. Smith of Greenville, a naval reserve officer who served with the Merchant Marine during World War II, was principal speaker at the meeting of the local naval reserve unit last night.

Smith discussed Yugoslavia, tracing the developments in the country since 1941 when the country became involved with the war with Germany. He gave a description of the geographical background, and industry of the country, and the types of people who make up the population of Yugoslavia. Smith pointed out that Drago Mihailovich was recognized as leader of the Chetniks in Yugoslavia immediately following the surrender of the country to the German army in 1941. He traced, however, the rise to power of Marshal Tito and Tito's actions during the remainder of the war, and since hostilities ceased.

Lt. Commander John Reynolds, commanding officer of the local reserve unit, presided at the meeting which was held in the education building on the ECTC campus. Reynolds announced new training regulations for naval reservists designed to make training with pay available to a larger group of reservists.

Principal speaker at the naval reserve unit meeting next week will be Dr. E. C. Hollar of the ECTC faculty who will speak on communist expansion.

Black Cats Open Bid For Top Slot

Carbon Bowling League
Nine Lives ..... 11 7 .611
Black Cats ..... 10 8 .555
Penites ..... 9 9 .500
Evereadys ..... 6 12 .333

By winning two games from the Penites Monday night, the Carbon League's Black Cats took over second position and began their move back toward first place, a position they lost the night prior.

In winning the Cats moved within one game of the Nine Lives who have remained on top of the heap for the past three weeks. Led by Ken Whiteley, the Cats won the first and third games by handy margins, losing the middle set to a score of 507-584.

Whiteley, although his 443 was tops among his four teammates, trailed Francis Whelan of the Penites. Whelan's games were 102-140-111-450 while Whiteley rolled 161-132-150.

On the opposite alleys the Lives took two games from the Evereadys, sending the latter team deeper into the league cellar. Bill Bryan led the Lives to its two-game win and in doing so had the night's highest three-game total. He also rolled high game, scoring 178 in the third. His others were 162 and 145 for a total of 485.

Rommie Mallison, Lives, did more for his average than any other Carbon bowler during this week's round. He entered 15th game with 120 in 10th place. He finished the 18th game in eighth place with a six point hike in the previous figure.

Among the women bowlers, Cora Midyette, Evereadys, raised her individual figure from 76 to 79. Her highest game was 135 in the third, second high for the women.

Some Scorer

Xavier University's Cliff Wilke is one of the most consistent scorers in the collegiate ranks. A six-foot, 202-pound fullback, Wilke has scored at least one touchdown in every college football game he has played. By scampering to a pair of touchdowns to help Xavier overpower Louisville, 36-13, Big Cliff extended his scoring streak to 17 games. That will be a collegiate record.

Wilke began his scoring spree last fall when he bulled his way yard by yard to a touchdown the very first time he carried the ball in a collegiate football contest. He's now scoring six-pointers ever since. In 1949, Xavier won 10 of its 11 contests including the Salad Bowl game in Phoenix, Ariz., last Janu-

Clemson's Hair Is Soph Of Week

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 8—(AP)—Billy Hair, flashy Clemson halfback, waltzed off with the honors this week as the Associated Press Southern Conference soph of the week—this time leaving no doubts behind. Hair, 21-year-old sensation, passed for three touchdowns and scored two others himself in guiding undefeated Clemson to its smashing 53-20 conquest of Duquesne last Saturday.

The performance earned the well-built youth from Walterboro, S.C., the soph of the week honors which eluded him a few weeks ago. Hair was nominated for the title for his play in Clemson's 14-14 tie with South Carolina Oct. 19, but he was nosed out by North Carolina State's Alex Webster.

Playing brilliantly Saturday, Hair passed 40.35 and 20 yards for touchdowns and rammed over from the two for another score. His greatest play of the game came when, unable to find a receiver, he heaved through the entire Duquesne team for 65 yards and another six points. Aside from the touchdowns, he passed and ran for other substantial yardage as he added lusty to a Clemson record which earned the Tigers the No. 13 spot in the national Associated Press football ratings this week.

High Point Tilt Not Being Taken Lightly

Dole Puts Full Squad In Harness After Lay-off Monday; Cellar-Dwelling Team Has A Potent Punch

Offensive maneuvers for their Saturday night's game with High Point College was stressed in yesterday's East Carolina grid workouts.

Arriving late Sunday night from Boone, after a 20-0 defeat at the hands of Appalachian, Coach Dole called off drills on Monday, but had his full squad back in harness yesterday afternoon.

Punt returns, running plays, and pass patterns were accented most in yesterday afternoon's practice, with Halfback Bill Darby sharing the kicking chores with Jack Benzie and Sandy Siler.

All-conference Roger Thrift, who will be out to add to his 1,566 yards Saturday, was doing his usual tossing to Ends Frank Maennle and Dwight Shoe. Fullback Johnny Smith led the line rushes and timing of the Pirate plays with Halfback Jack Britt.

Coach Dole stated after yesterday's practice: "We are not taking the High Point game lightly, and we will work hard all week in an effort to be prepared."

High Point is currently dwelling in the cellar of the North State conference with six straight losses; however, the Panthers boast one of the best line-plungers in the circuit. Bill Lloyd, 190-pound fullback, who is a two-season all-conference back, is the workhorse for the HPC's offense, and is a leading candidate for repeat all-conference honors this year.

Ray Burleson, 216-pound guard, is the spark of the Panthers' line play. East Carolina tied High Point, 26-26, in the closing seconds of last year's contest, which gives evidence of the thriller on hand in East Carolina's stadium here Saturday night.

Truman Gibson of the International Boxing Club predicted a crowd of 6,000 in the stadium which can accommodate 20,000 for boxing. The bout will be televised and broadcast by CBS starting at 9 p.m., Central Standard Time.

Robinson is expected to weigh 156 pounds, nine above his weight class limit and five more than the six foot Dykes. Dykes has 30 knockouts in winning 52 out of a recorded 60 fights. Robinson in 10 years has been defeated only once in 117 bouts and has stopped 74 opponents. His only risk tonight will be prestige. He will step out of his weight division to face Jake La Motta in a middleweight title go in Chicago Stadium Feb. 14.

N. C. To Get Federal Sum For Airport Improvements

Washington, Nov. 8 — (AP) — North Carolina will receive $138,345 from the federal government to improve airports at Charlotte, Goldsboro, New Bern and Roanoke Rapids. The Civil Aeronautics Administration made the announcement yesterday.

This year's federal contributions for the national airport program total $24,839,910. That is only about half of last year's $36,500,000 in line with a congressional directive to cut spending. In most cases, the federal airport aid is matched or exceeded by local or state sponsors.

The program for North Carolina, including the federal contribution, total funds available (which includes state or local matching money), the proposed improvements, and their cost:

Charlotte, Douglas Municipal Airport—$120,000; $240,000; $210,000 for building, $30 for miscellaneous.

Goldsboro, Municipal Airport—$6,000; $24,000 for land.

New Bern, Simmons Nott Airport—$25,845; $53,680; $3,980 for land, $49,700 for preparing site, paving, light and miscellaneous.

Roanoke Rapids, Halifax County Airport—$6,500; $13,000; $10,000 for buildings, $3,000 miscellaneous.

THE RAILROAD MURDER CASE

By R. M. Laurenson

Chapter 16

Arriving at the Union Office Building, Marc strode into the building, consulted the directory posted beside the elevator, and rode to the eleventh floor.

He walked slowly down the corridor, examining names on the doors. At an angle in the corridor he was jarred roughly by a man hurrying in the opposite direction.

"Why the devil don't you look where you're going?" snapped an angry voice.

"Pardon me, Arnold," replied Marc calmly, "but why don't you look where you're going?"

"Oh, hello, Jordan. Didn't recognize you," Arnold stared at Marc. "Where are you going?"

"Aren't you being overly personal?"

"Why, Dave," replied Marc lightly, "one would be led to believe you're upset. What are you afraid of?"

"Nothing," replied Arnold. "I'm sorry, Jordan. This business has me on edge. Things have happened so fast the last few days that I'm not myself."

"The last few days—yes," murmured Marc. "Well, you'd better get yourself in hand, my friend. The police'll be around to ask questions. You might give a bad impression. Inspector Anderson's feelings are easily hurt."

"I see what you mean. Accept my apologies, will you, and forget it." He extended his hand to Marc.

"All right," replied Marc. "He watched Arnold disappear into the elevator with puzzled wonder, and continued his search. Opening a door marked "Thatcher Detective Agency," he was met by the cold stare of a burly individual who appeared to combine the functions of doorman and bouncer.

"Mr. Thatcher in?" he asked.

"Yeah. Who wants to know?"

Marc selected one of his cards and handed it to the man in silence. He disappeared through an inner door, to reappear a minute later.

"In here," he said sullenly.

Marc walked into the inner office and considered the man seated behind a chipped oak desk. He was big. Dark brown hair, streaked with gray, was slicked straight back. He sat with both hands on the top of the desk, palms down, and returned Marc's stare with the vivacity of a brick wall.

"Jordan?" he asked in a flat voice. "That's correct," replied Marc. "Mr. Thatcher?"

"Yeah. Come in and sit down. What's on your mind?"

"Quite a number of things, Thatcher, but most of them'd bore you."

"Quit stalling, Jordan," snapped Thatcher. "What're you getting at?"

"I discovered by accident—an almost fatal accident—that your last caller was Dave Arnold. Right?"

"What of it?"

"Thanks, Thatcher! Mind telling me what Arnold wanted?"

"You bet I mind! None of your business. That all you wanted to know?"

"By no means, Mr. Thatcher. That was just an accident. I want to discuss this interesting document which came into my possession—also by accident. Do you recognize it?" he asked, taking the report from his pocket and holding it for Thatcher to see.

Thatcher, making no move to take the report, glanced at it, and returned his stare to Marc. "Yeah, I recognize it. What're you doing with it?"

"You know that J. C. Richards, president of the C. M. Railroad, was murdered on his own private car last night—practically chopped in two with an axe. I'm interested in the investigation of his murder. You know Anderson. He's a mighty fine traffic cop, and passable at the County Fair, but he'll never find this murderer. I ran onto this scrap of paper in the course of the investigation, and under the circumstances it seemed rather important. Your name is appended, so I came straight to you. Come now, Thatcher—give!"

"You have the report; why bother me?"

"Oh, but I've a feeling—intuition perhaps—that there's much more than appears on the surface of this sheet of paper. You know, Thatcher," said Marc, coolly blowing a smoke ring toward the ceiling, and surveying the room, "you've a nice place here. Spacious office, good protection—that sliding iron door didn't grow there, did it?—indicate an extensive clientele. It's strange that we never hear about you. Could you yearn to stay in the wings in preference to being the leading man up by the footlights?"

"Keep talking."

"Meditating's the word. And meditating along such lines, the inevitable conclusion is that you shun publicity."

"Yes?"

"Yes. That's unfortunate." Marc carefully knocked the ash from the end of his cigarette. "Because I feel sure that Inspector Anderson'll insist upon considerable publicity when this interesting document becomes part of his glossary of information."

"Are you trying to say, Jordan," asked Thatcher, his blunt fingers beating a rhythm on the desk top, "that if I let you pump me, you'll suppress the report?"

"Heaven forbid, Mr. Thatcher! I'd suggest no such thing. If this report proves vital, the police'll have to have it. However, I'm not at all sure that it is vital, except to point the way to further investigation. At some later date the report—mislead perhaps or overlooked—will turn up. I don't believe you'll find it hard to imagine the catcalls the gentlemen of the press'll raise if Anderson gets his hands on this morsel. The name 'Thatcher' might figure prominently in some of the catcalls."

"Hang it, Jordan, I don't mess with criminal cases. They're poison. I don't intend to start now."

"Pardon me," Marc tapped a lean finger on the desk. "You're in a criminal case now—in up to your neck. I'm giving you one chance to ease out and keep the Thatcher name unbesmirched on the chance that you know something that may help clear this thing up."

"Will you guarantee to keep us out of it?"

"I'll guarantee nothing except that if you don't give me straight answers to a few questions I'll be forced—forced mind you—to turn this report over to Anderson—at once."

Thatcher heaved a deep sigh and dropped his hands in a gesture of surrender. "All right, Jordan. What do you want?"

HUGE STOCK SALE

London, Nov. 7—(AP)—An American was reported today to have sold $11,200,000 worth of British Woolworth Ltd., stock to British interests. There were unconfirmed reports the seller might have been Barbara Hutton, wealthy dime store heiress.

Puppets operated by strings are usually called marionettes.

FRANKSTER—Mrs. Alice Eisele, 52, (above) admitted heating coins and tossing them to nine Miami kids, according to Assistant Dade County Solicitor Herbert Shapiro. The Halloween prank burned the hands of the youngsters and Mrs. Eisele was arrested. (AP Wirephoto).

ASSASSIN'S WIDOW SEIZED—Mrs. Carmen Torresola, 21, widow of the slain assassin who tried to kill President Truman, is escorted to Federal Court House in New York by a Secret Service man. She disappeared after the pistol-shooting attack on Blair House in Washington Wednesday and was the object of an intensive FBI search. She was arrested Thursday night and was taken to the Federal Women's House of Detention. It was reported she may be charged with conspiracy to injure President Truman. (AP Wirephoto).

Warden Calls For Fire Precaution

District Fire Warden N. S. (Kid) Tyson warned again today against hunters and others throwing matches carelessly in grass or woods. He said nearly all woods fires result from careless smokers. The fire warden said a grass fire last Sunday endangered Hollywood Presbyterian Church, on the Greenville-New Bern highway, about five miles east of here.

The district fire warden also reminded that the state law requires persons living in rural sections to obtain a permit before burning trash or brush during October and November. The law also requires all rural dwellers to obtain permits from fire wardens to burn brush

Cosmetics Queen Struck It Rich

Sydney — (AP)—A 50-year old Sydney widow gave up a cosmetics factory to become a prospector — and struck it rich. She is Mrs. Mildred Makinson, who has found a big wolfram deposit on the Tennant Creek goldfield in the Northern Territory.

Wolfram, used in making steel, is worth 1200 Australian pounds a ton. Mrs. Makinson is the only woman prospector on the Tennant Creek field. She knows how to handle a pneumatic drill, and does many other jobs on her lease. She employs some miners who help with the heavy work.

Police Record

The Greenville police department came into possession of a record for the department when not an arrest was made from Sunday at 5:45 p.m. until about 12:30 Tuesday. Older members of the police force could not remember a time when such a long period transpired without an arrest.

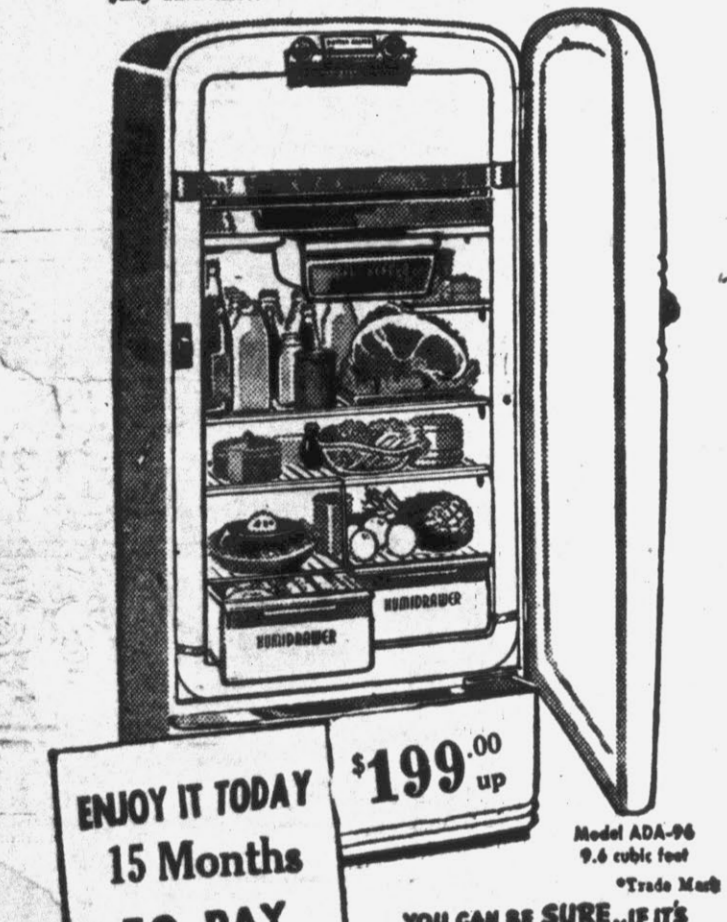

Numerous improvements have been made in the personnel of the police department since Chief Guy C. Langston took charge. Many changes have been made in the routine of patrolling the city, day and night, and the police officers are given special training and instructions at weekly meetings conducted by Chief Langston.

Within 25 minutes—between noon and 12:30 p.m.—they destroyed 90 per cent of this city which has been the chief ferrying point of Chinese Communist troops into Korea.
