Peiping Rejects U.S. Assurances

Communist China Charges Americans Already Have 'Smashed Their Way Into Chinese Territory; Not 'Deceived' By 'Honeyed Words And Threats'

London, Nov. 18—(AP)—Communist China's official radio has coldly brushed aside President Truman's assurances of peaceful intentions towards her and charged that the Americans already have "smashed their way" into Chinese territory.

A broadcast from Peiping, heard in London last night, caustically rejected America's "mixture of honeyed words and threats" and said the Chinese people "are not deceived by what they see through this curtain of lies and bellicosity."

The broadcast quoted President Truman at his Thursday press conference as saying the United States would respect Chinese territorial integrity, and declared such statements "are not convincing anyone here."

The Peiping broadcast asserted that U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson is "impugning that the Chinese could not possibly understand America's pacific intentions," it added.

"Acheson can be reassured. There is no misunderstanding. America has lied and smashed her way across the world to Chinese territory and into it, has seized Chinese Taiwan (Formosa), stronghold of China's Nationalists and is threatening another neighbor, Vietnam, (Indochina) where French troops are battling the Communist-led Vietminh rebels."

China has steadily held up Formosa, protected from Communist invasion by the U. S. Seventh Fleet since the start of the Korean fighting, as an example of "American aggression." Peiping also has complained of frequent violations of the Manchurian frontier.

Discussing talk about a possible neutral belt between Manchuria and the Korean fighting zone, the broadcast said Senator Knowland (R-Cal) had "thoughtlessly" bared Western intentions by saying "why not a neutral zone 10 miles north of the Yalu River?" (This would be in Manchuria.)

Knowland, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee who is now visiting Formosa, asserted in a battlefield interview in Korea Wednesday that the Chinese Communists are "aggressors." "It doesn't make sense for the aggressors to talk about a 10-mile neutral zone south of the Yalu River. Why not a neutral zone 10 miles north of the Yalu?"

Farmville Santa Parade To Be Staged Dec. 2

The annual Santa Claus and Christmas Parade sponsored by the Farmville Chamber of Commerce will be staged this year on Saturday, December 2, at 10:00 a.m. It was announced today by Parade Chairman Sam D. Bundy.

The parade will be the biggest of its kind in the history of the town according to the plans of the committee and prizes are being awarded for the best floats. Beside floats there will be individual entries, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and other organization in the parade. The Farmville High School white and colored bands will furnish the martial music for the occasion and old Santa Claus with his helpers will be on hand to pass out candy and novelties to the children. All in all it will be a gay and festive occasion.

Impossible Position

Nehru's Attempted Neutrality In Dealing With Red China Demonstrably Impractical; Indications Indian Leader Is Awakening To Communist Aggression

India's second protest to Peiping regarding Communist China's military invasion of little Tibet has brought a verbal slap in the face which one would think might impel Prime Minister Nehru to reconsider his policy of neutrality in East-West affairs.

According to a Peiping broadcast the Chinese government declares that it "will not tolerate foreign interference," since Tibet belongs to China. And that is tough talk in any language.

Acheson Decides To Fight Foreign Policy Criticism

Scores 'Re-Examinists' As Being Unfit To Assume Role Of Leadership

Washington, Nov. 18—(AP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson has decided to fight it out with his Republican critics, some of whom want him fired.

This became clear today in the light of his sharp attack last night on post-election statements made by Senator Taft (R-Ohio). It was verified by Acheson's aides.

In last night's speech, Acheson said, without naming Taft, that he had read the "isolationist" has disappeared from the American scene and that a new figure has appeared, whom he called the "re-examinist."

Taft, in post-election statements, said that "anybody is an idiot who calls anybody else an isolationist."

He called for a re-examination of the American program for re-arming Western Europe.

Acheson spoke before the National Council of Negro Women. In an acidly humorous series of jabs, which drew frequent chuckles from his audience, he suggested a "re-examinist" is the same thing as an "isolationist" and declared those who advocate such a course "incapable of the very foundations of leadership."

But the significance in the speech appeared to lie not so much in what he said as the fact that he said it. Ever since the election Republicans have been demanding his resignation on the ground that the voters had shown their lack of confidence in him.

His own Democratic Party is reported to be divided, with some leaders considering him a political liability and others convinced he should remain in office. President Truman told a news conference Thursday that Acheson stays.

Acheson launched his attack against a background of foreign policy development in the last few years. He stressed the leading role of the United States in Europe particularly, and pictured the re-arming of the West as the creation of a military shield against Russia.

The organization of the West behind this shield, and the promotion of its defenses against communism, he said, are things which "demand years and years of effort."

"In the light of what I am saying," Acheson went on, "does it make sense to say 'I want to look at this all over again to see whether we should have started on it?'"

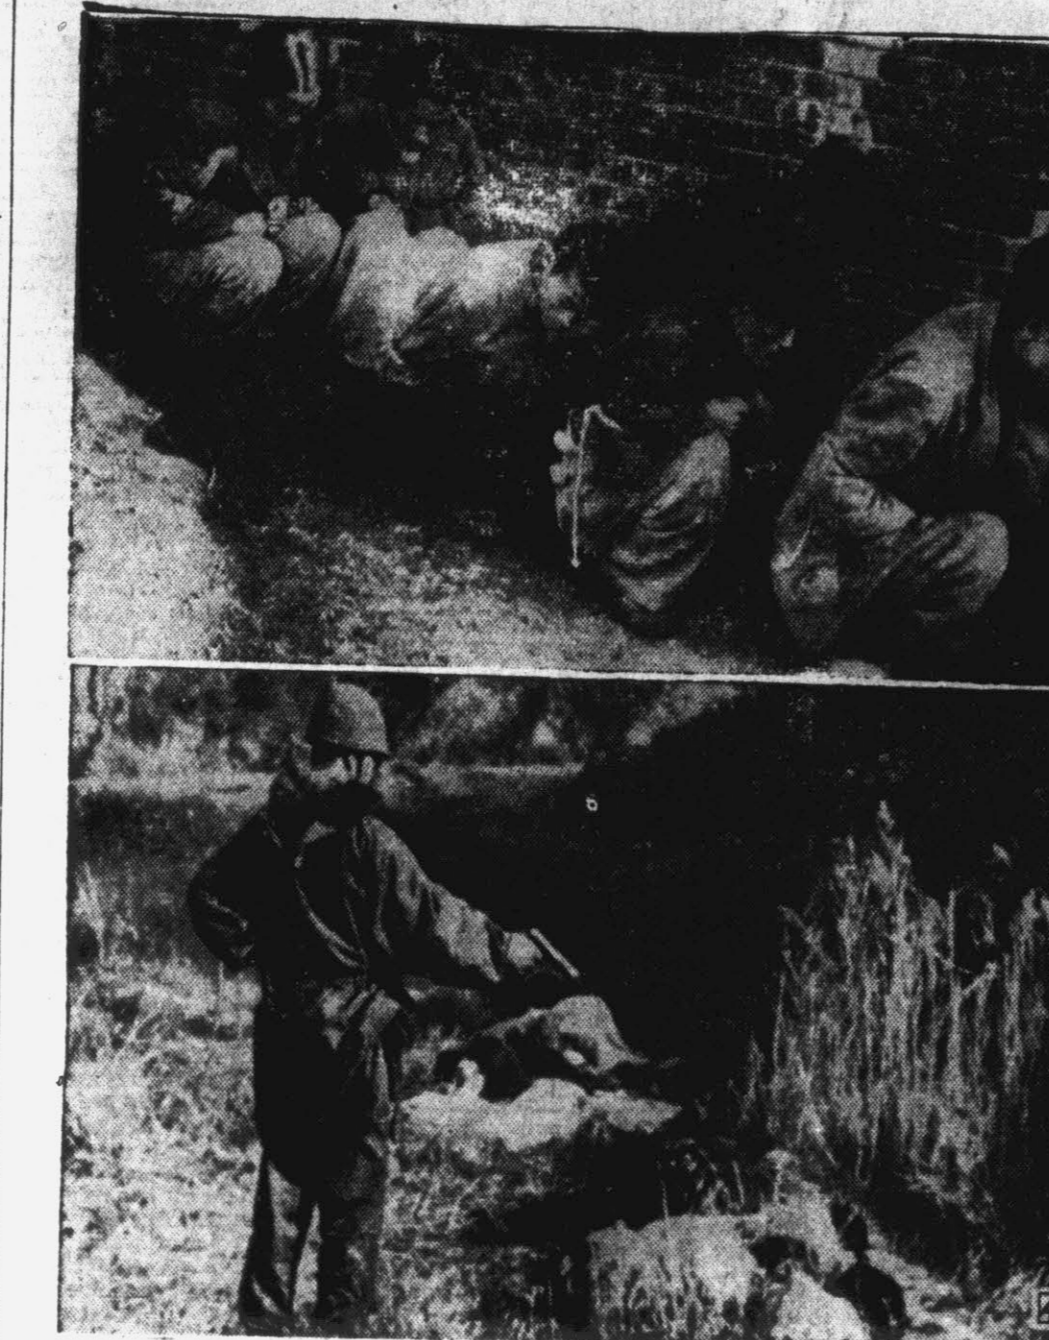

"Is that the role that a leader in these troublous times, these dangerous times, wishes to take in the world today?"

"I think your answer is that it is not."

Christmas Seals In Mail Monday

Thousands Of Sheets Prepared For Opening Day Of Drive

Literally thousands of sheets of 1950 Tuberculosis Christmas Seals will go out in Monday's mail from the Greenville post office to find their way to thousands of people throughout Pitt County.

The Greenville Service League workers who are in charge of the Christmas Seal sales have prepared the sheets of tiny stamps for mailing on the opening day of the TB seal drive. Mrs. Tyson Bilbro, chairman of the mailing committee of the TB seal campaign, expressed the hope that persons receiving the sheets of Christmas seals in the mail would accept them immediately by putting their money in the envelope enclosed with the seals and returning it to the Pitt County Tuberculosis headquarters.

Pitt County this year has been assigned a quota of $7,000 in the 44th annual TB drive for funds. Officials of the Pitt County chapter say the $7,000 is the minimum amount of money which will be needed to carry out the county's 1951 program to fight tuberculosis.

The TB Christmas seal drive this year will officially open on November 20 and will continue through Christmas day. Tomorrow has been designated as Christmas Seal Sunday, and a number of churches in Greenville and throughout the county are using the TB bulletins for printing the list of church services for tomorrow and the coming week.

Admits Slaying Five In Family, Wounded Four

Vineland, N.J., Nov. 18—(AP)—A slim young appliance salesman after hours of questioning today admitted he shot to death five members of his estranged wife's family and wounded four others in a crazed outburst of four homes last night.

His face naggard and drawn, 25-year-old Ernest Igenito told the state police troopers who had captured him: "I did it and I don't want to talk any more about it."

The statement was made to Troopers Leonard Cunningham and Raymond Vorberg, who had seized Igenito after an automobile chase down a country lane in the scrub pine flatlands of nearby Landis Township four and a half hours after the slayings.

No Christmas

Berlin, Nov. 18—(AP)—East Germany's Communist Free German Youth (FDJ) is under instructions to scuttle Christmas as an "obsolete bourgeois affair" and concentrate instead on the birthday celebration of Soviet Prime Minister Stalin. Stalin's birthday is four days before Christmas.

The youth organization's central council issued the instructions to provincial FDJ officials, who were advised against sponsoring Christmas parties. Stalin, the council said, is the "true friend of German youth."

Historical Body Begins Organize

Pitt Group Meets To Plan Permanent Organization

A small group of interested Pitt county citizens last night approved a plan for the organization of an historical society or association for the study and preservation of Pitt county history and took steps toward effecting a permanent organization here on December 15.

The meeting held at Sheppard Memorial library was attended by citizens from Winterville, Ayden, Grifton, Farmville and Greenville. D. J. Whitchard, Jr., and Mrs. Robert Lee Humber were named temporary chairman and secretary, respectively.

Child, Youth Welfare Meeting Well-Attended

A representative group of Pitt county men and women attended the Pitt County White House Conference on Child and Youth Welfare at the courthouse last night. Church, school, civic and fraternal and other organizations were represented. Mrs. L. E. Ballard presided.

The meeting was called here (and elsewhere all over the United States) to ascertain what is being done by various agencies for child and youth welfare. Representatives of established organizations briefly reported the projects they are sponsoring, and many of them pledged full support to the plan of the Pitt County Welfare Department to coordinate various agencies for more effective and permanent results. The chairman and others urged

Babson Discusses Prices And Profits

Babson Park, Mass., Nov. 17—The uneasy international situation plus a continuing rise in the cost of most goods and services has quite naturally focused attention on profits. Unfortunately, it has also revived the dangerous and widespread belief that business, big and little, is profiting excessively at the expense of wage-workers.

Loose Talk Is Confusing

It is particularly true that there are firms which do profit unduly at the expense of their employees and the general public, just as there are some individuals ever ready to lie, cheat and swindle. But the recent record of American business generally in this regard is an honorable one worthy of defense. Yet, when costs go up, our first impulse is to blame the greedy manufacturer because we believe he is taking advantage of us.

Labor unions then take up the cry of "excess profits" as they agitate for higher wages. Meanwhile, an ever growing share of the really substantial profits of American business is being drained off by government in the form of federal, state and local tax levies. If even one half of the time, continued publicity on radio and in the press about these child and youth activities. Special recognition was given Miss Georgia Hughes, Pitt County Welfare Department child and youth case worker, and Cora S. Powell, executive secretary of the Greenville Merchants Association and Mrs. L. E. Ballard, who presided.

Rev. Leon Russell, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, said the invocation. Mrs. J. B. Spilman spoke about the goals of the White House Conference. Mrs. Sam B. Underwood discussed the proposed charter for North Carolina's children.

The chairman, reminding that about 40 different groups were expected to make reports, proceeded money and energy which government, management and labor spend in foolishly antagonizing each other were to be spent in a united effort to curb waste and increase production, we would soon have far higher standard of living than we now enjoy.

New Varieties Of Leaf Prove Value

Contributed Greatly To Richest Tobacco Crop In County's History; Recently Developed Strains Highly Productive

By JOHN D. SPINKS JR.

Pitt County, with its more than 36,000 tobacco acres this year, contributed greatly to North Carolina's record-setting golden harvest which added to the farmers' income more dollars than any other season on record.

And this year Pitt's average in pounds to the acre and money paid for those pounds was the greatest in history.

According to a study of variety yields in the county, the crop was the richest in history, although many farmers throughout the county had nightmares during the middle of the growing season when rain caused the crop considerable damage.

Tests conducted by Sam Weeks, Pitt's assistant farm agent and tobacco specialist, show the newer varieties produced more to the acre and brought in more money than did the old line varieties. This year, too, the resistant types proved their worth when the crop was brought to market.

The variety tests were conducted on the farm of J. Brantley Speight in the Winterville community. Speight has planted several varieties through the years for the purpose of running tests on each. This year's tests proved not only valuable to the grower but also to other tobacco farmers in Pitt through the results obtained by the farm agent.

The tests showed that Hicks variety led all others—new varieties and those of the old line. Hicks yielded 1,992 pounds to the acre for an average of $1,172.39 per acre. The average for the seasons of 1947-1950 show Hicks has yielded 1,707 pounds per acre and $1,015.10 per acre. Hicks is not a resistant variety—resistant to black shank and Granville wilt—but is grown widely throughout Pitt.

Bottom Special, also not a resistant variety, was grown more extensively than any other type and yielded second to Hicks. The variety averaged 1,897 pounds to the acre and $1,110.02. The pound average through the past four seasons has been close to this year's at $1,075.85.

Of the resistant varieties which are planted widely in Pitt, Dixie Bright 27 produced an average of 1,719 pounds to each acre planted and brought in $1,018.41. It is primarily resistant to Granville wilt but not to black shank. Dixie Bright 102, which is resistant to both diseases but not particularly to either one, averaged 1,331 pounds but only $773.93. The three year average prior to this season approximated those figures.

McCullers 27 variety proved the best leaf of the resistant types, although it has not been recommended as yet by the county agents for extensive planting. That variety was developed at McCullers' Experiment Station near Raleigh recently and on Speight's farm brought in $1,055.44 on an average of 1,808 pounds to each acre.

The tests showed that the broad leaf varieties such as 402, Virginia Gold and Bottom Special, none of which is resistant, proved better producers than old line varieties like Virginia Bright Leaf and Mammoth Gold. Variety 402 led the broad leaf varieties with 1,878 pounds and $1,113.99, both figures well above the

Ayden Man Dies In Flaming House

Found Huddled Over Stove He Planned To Ignite

Ayden, Nov. 18—A young negro man was found burned to death in the smoking ruins of his house early this morning shortly after six o'clock.

The body of Reuben Carman, age 30, of Ayden, was found huddled over the top of a coal heater which he had apparently ignited prior to the discovery of the fire which completely engulfed his house, before anyone could get to his aid.

Police Chief Whitehurst said that reports were made to him, said that the man came to his mother-in-law's home around 3:00 this morning looking for his wife. When he learned that she was there but sleeping, he reportedly told them he was going home and build a fire. Whitehurst stated that the man was described as being very drunk.

Snow Storm, Dropping Temperatures And Rocky Terrain Are Biggest Obstacles For Tank-Led Infantrymen Of U.S. Seventh Division

Seoul, Nov. 18—(AP)—Tank-led American infantrymen thrust through a snow storm today toward the Manchurian frontier in rugged northeast Korea. The mercury was skidding sharply.

Only scattered rifle fire from nearby hills opposed the doughboys of the U. S. Seventh Division in the four-mile drive that carried them within two miles of burning Kapsan, 21 air miles south of the Red border.

AP correspondent Tom Stone, with the Seventh, reported that the storm, dropping temperature and rocky terrain were the biggest obstacles. However, a field officer said: "We expect to make Kapsan tomorrow."

Smoke still was rising from the town from heavy allied air strikes covering the advance. The Seventh Division is the northernmost American unit on the slanting 250-mile front.

Elsewhere red resistance evaporated. But on the western sector 100,000 North Korean and Chinese communists were reported digging into a low mountain defense line south of the Yalu River's international powerlines on the Manchurian border.

The red objectives appeared on the basis of intelligence reports to be:

1. Let U. N. forces get ahead under harassment into the higher mountain gaps in the northwest where they might be tied down through the bitter cold winter at the end of snowbound supply lines.

2. Resist on a 60-mile line running through uplands from Taechon on the southwest to the Tokchon and Chancheon River areas.

Intelligence sources at Eighth about 28,000 Chinese in three division size task forces are on the Taechon-Tokchon line with about 70,000 North Koreans. Other units are in supporting positions. There was no reported evidence of any Red pulling back to the Yalu in that area 45 miles northwest of Taechon.

The Yalu power site area apparently is the point of greatest sensitivity for the Chinese Reds.

Observer and intelligence reports indicated nothing but a three-inch snow lay between tank forces of the American Seventh Division and air-streaked and burned out Kapsan in the northeast.

Associated Press correspondent Tom Stone on the Kapsan front reported the Seventh's advance was delayed three hours Friday to let Sherman tanks wheel off the road and help clean out entrenched Reds. The Communist ambush was lodged in the hillsides above the mountain gap road.

The tanks were supported by artillery fire and allied air attacks. After the skirmish 128 Reds were counted dead, more were wounded and American casualties were assessed as comparatively light. The fight was waged by the 17th Regiment Combat Team six miles southwest of Kapsan.

Then the Seventh went ahead and kept going Saturday after an all-quiet night.

Trade Barriers Fall

How The Countries Of Western Europe Are Trying To Undo Some Of The Devices For Protecting Themselves From Economic Competition; Extent Of U. S. Aid

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Nov. 18—(AP)—The countries of western Europe are now trying to undo some of the devices, built up over many years, for protecting themselves against one another's competition.

For example, country AAA not only placed tariffs, or taxes, on the goods imported from country BBB, but even set limits, or quotas, on the amount of goods that could come in from BBB.

Now the countries of western Europe—seeking some kind of economic unity for the first time, although it's still far from complete and may never be—are knocking down some of those old barriers to trade.

The United States, which has poured in billions to help get them on their feet, has been urging such unity as the solution for Europe's ancient economic ills.

The first steps in this direction were taken during the war when—because the Germans occupied their homelands—the heads of the Be-NelLux governments—Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands—exiled in London.

They agreed when an economic union of their own; the three would wipe out all trade barriers between themselves and set up a common tariff on goods from all other nations.

For one reason or another—this story can only give such simple examples as those above—they weren't able to put this agreement into effect until Jan. 1, 1948. It's still far from perfect.

But before their agreement went into effect, other wheels had started rolling. The winter of 1946-47 was so harsh in Europe there was danger of collapse unless Europe got help.

And on June 5, 1947, George C. Marshall, then secretary of state, suggested this country would help Europe provided the countries of Europe showed signs of ability and willingness to help themselves.

Almost at once 16 nations met in Paris to draw up a blueprint showing what they needed from this country and what, because of cooperation among themselves, they could do without.

All-Out Communist Attack Feared In Indochina; U. S. Strategy Affected

FRENCH TROOPS man a machine gun in Hanoi.

By ROBERT GEIGER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Washington—American military authorities have been aware for months that French Indochina probably would be a starting point for a Communist attempt to penetrate southeast Asia.

This French-controlled area, about the size of Texas, geographically is a gateway from China to the riches of southeast Asia. Its northern boundary adjoins Red China. It flanks restive India. The French have been in a tug-of-war for it since World War II, against Indochinese Nationalist-Communists.

Military and political students have said the loss of Indochina to the Communists might be fatal to western interests in the whole of southeast Asia.

Threat to U. S. Strategy

If the Communists wrest control as far down as Indonesia, the American defense line of Japan-Okinawa - Philippines would be flanked.

French Indochina is composed of the states of Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. About 22,000,000 of Indochina's 27,000,000 people live in Vietnam. In Vietnam nationalists under Communist leadership have been fighting for complete independence from France. Laos and Cambodia accepted a French protectorate.

The Japanese in World War II gained control of Indochinese bases from Vichy France, then at the mercy of the Germans. Two days after the Japanese surrender in 1945 Ho Chi-Minh, Moscow trained political leader, proclaimed a republic.

The French encouraged Bao Dai, heir to the throne of Annam or central Vietnam, to abdicate because he had retained authority under the Japanese.

Ho, dissolved the Communist party in 1946 and the French decided to recognize him. During World War II he had aided the allies in guerrilla warfare against the Japanese.

But Ho demanded full independence from France and the inclusion of Cochinchina in his republic. The Russians and Red China recognized his regime.

"Night Club Emperor"

The French refused Ho's demands and recalled Bao Dai—known as the "night club emperor" because of his exile on the French Riviera—and set him up as chief of state.

The British and Americans recognized Bao Dai, although he

U. S. Farmers Getting Into Business In Major Way Through Cooperatives

Washington, Nov. 17—(AP)—The American farmer is getting into business in a big way.

A recent government survey indicates that 60 per cent of the nation's farmers belong to one or more cooperatives. The number has more than doubled in 20 years.

Under cooperatives, groups of farmers join together to carry on marketing, purchasing and other services for themselves. The idea is to make more on farm products sold and save money on goods and services bought.

The survey shows that there are more than 10,000 such cooperatives in this country, with a combined membership of more than 6,400,000. These cooperatives are doing nearly $10,000,000 (b) worth of business a year.

Farmers are engaged in many other forms of business services. There are, for example, some 1,860 farmers' mutual fire insuland banks, which have a net worth in excess of $260,000,000 (m).

Farmers also have set up their own food processing and handling facilities. A few farmer cooperatives are experimenting in the operation of some 20 retail supermarkets. In some commercial

Greenville Firm Low Bidder For Williamston Job

(From The Enterprise)

Williamston, Nov. 16.—A contract for the laying of sewer lines and the construction of manholes and the handling of other construction work in connection with an extensive sewer expansion project was let here yesterday to the Clark Construction Company of Greenville. Representatives of the town explained that the low bid was well within the original estimates advanced by Engineers Rivers and Rivers, that the new contract is about $40,000 below the lowest bid submitted on October 17.

Declaring the bids submitted by several contractors last month were out of line, the town engineers broke the project down into sections, temporarily leaving out about 26,000 feet of eight-inch lines and a number of manholes. Bids were on the reduced project and they were opened by the board of commissioners and engineers at 11:00 o'clock yesterday morning.

On the limited project, the Clark company submitted a low bid of $73,945.55, agreeing upon completion of that contract to lay the 26,000 feet of eight-inch pipe for $1.37 a foot or $34,260. The approximately 20 manholes not included in the first part of the contract will add approximately $2,000 making the total stand right at $110,000. The bid is about $1,700 under the engineers' original estimates.

The next lowest bid on the base project or limited contract was submitted by Barnhill and Long of Tarboro in the sum of $84,594.10. Blythe Brothers of Charlotte submitted a base bid in the sum of $89,344.40.

Dog Hit By Car, Shot In Head, Buried . . Survives

Chicago, Nov. 17—(AP)—Three weeks ago Brownie, a five-month-old pet dog, was struck by an automobile, shot in the head and buried.

Brownie refused to become dispirited at his run of bad luck. He roused himself out of a shallow grave to prove it.

He's back at his home in suburban Calumet City looking and feeling considerably better than he was after his close brush with death.

Brownie strayed into the home of Albert Herman last September and was promptly adopted by Herman's four young children. They were upset when he was hit by a car and seriously injured last month.

Mrs. Herman rushed him to a veterinarian but he was out of his office. Mrs. Herman, noting Brownie was suffering, decided to put the dog out of his misery. She asked a neighbor to shoot Brownie. He took the dog to a wooded area and fired one shot at the animal's head. Then he placed Brownie in a shallow grave and covered the body with sand.

The next day, Mrs. Herman said, Brownie showed up at her back door—whining. She rushed him to a veterinarian. Dr. Robert Snyder, who went to work with penicillin, splints and other equipment and soon had Brownie patched up. Several days later Brownie was back home.

Splints were removed from the dog's fractured left hind leg yesterday. He's frisky and playful—with only a slight limp.

Dr. Snyder explained about the mercy bullet fired by the neighbor. It ricocheted off Brownie's thick but affectionate skull without inflicting serious injury.

Garden Club Program Given By Rocky Mount Visitors On Art Of Flower Arranging

The Greenville Garden Club, at its regular monthly meeting at the Woman's Club on Friday afternoon, had guests from Rocky Mount who presented an outstanding program on flower arranging.

Mrs. J.B.A. Daughteridge and Mrs. W. J. Whitehurst, both of Rocky Mount, have taken up the study of flower arranging as a hobby and have won recognition in many places as qualified consultants and judges at flower shows.

Mrs. Whitehurst discussed the art of attractive arrangements, and as she talked, Mrs. Daughteridge composed illustrations. Mrs. Whitehurst likened the construction of flower arrangements to building a house. "Before building a house, one has a blueprint of the plans. Just so in the creation of artful flower designs one should have a definite plan in mind of the effect to be obtained—a planned effect towards beauty."

She discussed the tools to be used—flowers themselves, containers, holders, and materials to use to anchor the design in place. She explained the use of containers appropriate in shape, color and design to harmonize with the finished effect of the arrangement and offered many timely suggestions as to how this idea could be worked out. Chewing gum, modeling clay, and sand are the things used most successfully as anchors for the flower holders.

She then discussed the elements to be considered in good construction and enumerated them as elevation (deciding beforehand how big an arrangement one wants), design (form and shape), scale (size relationship), balance (relationship of parts of the whole), and focus (the spot of center of interest). She explained the differences between symmetrical and asymmetrical arrangements and illustrated each kind. She also told how flowers and leaves could be dried and prepared for permanent winter arrangements.

Mrs. Daughteridge created several arrangements to illustrate the suggestions which had been made. The visitors brought several finished arrangements and explained their composition. The Garden Club members entered into a general discussion at the conclusion of their demonstration.

Before the Rocky Mount ladies were introduced by Mrs. J.H.B. Moore, a business meeting was conducted by Mrs. W. J. Stell, local club president. Mrs. Stell announced the resignation of Mrs. Travis Hooker as Garden Center chairman and appointed Mrs. W. H. Woolard and Mrs. Sam Mitchell to serve in her place.

Committees for the Christmas tour were announced as follows:

Steering Committee: Mrs. K. B. Pace, chairman; Mrs. R. M. Garrett, Mrs. H. L. Rivers; Registration: Mrs. James Phelps; Mrs. P. E. Wells; Mrs. R. E. Hardaway; Mrs. J. E. Jackson; Cars: Mrs. W. H. Woolard; Mrs. R. V. Keel; Mrs. Sam Mitchell; Refreshments: Mrs. F. L. Blount; Mrs. Ed Batchelor; Mrs. Sam White; Mrs. J. K. Long; Decorations: Mrs. W. E. Dole; Mrs. M. L. Wright; Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale.

It was announced that the tour would conclude with a tea at the home of Mrs. J. D. Messick.

The following new members were recognized: Mrs. Sam Mitchell; Mrs. Jasper Bassett; Mrs. Tom Wilson and Mrs. Betty Hansinger.

Mrs. Vance Perkins, vice-president of the Woman's Club, announced that the December general meeting would be in the nature of a "family night" party at the club house on the night of December 19.

At the conclusion of the meeting, a social hour was enjoyed. A beautifully decorated tea table, centered with a crystal bowl of flowers, flanked at each end by silver services, was at one side of the banquet room. Mrs. J.H.B. Moore and Mrs. M. L. Wright, seated at each end, poured tea. Ham biscuits, cookies, nuts and mints were served to club members and many invited guests.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mesdames J. C. Clifford, chairman; Mrs. H. Blount, Alton Barrett, N. C. Brooks, W. J. Bundy, Walter Cherry, F. L. Blount, Fred Forbes Sr., H. C. Sugg, Cammie Moore, Herman Nobles, Howard Porter, H. S. Ragsdale, L. L. Rivers, W. J. Stell, L. A. Stroud, Leonard Topping, J. B. White, J. L. Winstead, M. L. Wright and Miss Eunice McGee.

The King's Daughters Enjoy Report On Work With Indians

Mrs. G.B.W. Hadley was a gracious hostess to The King's Daughters and Sons at her home on Evans Street on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, with Mesdames J. G. Lautares, A. R. House and Miss Estelle Green as co-hostesses.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Clara Moyer Shackell, and opened by the prayer of the order. The circle had arranged to have Mrs. Z. A. Rochelle, branch president of Durham, as guest speaker for the evening, but due to illness in the family she was unable to be here and the circle was most fortunate in having as substitute Mrs. W. H. Skeels, state membership chairman, who led the devotional.

She read a most inspiring poem and also read the tenth chapter of St. Luke 1st through the 25th verses. "Therefore said He unto them, The harvest truly is great but the laborers are few, go your ways, and behold I send you forth as lambs among wolves." The philosophy of life she brought out was, "Share what is ours, have nothing that we cannot share, having no desire as our aggressors have, to take what isn't ours." She stated that there were 60,000 King's Daughters and Sons and by their going out and trying to do what God had commanded them to do, they could surely inherit eternal life. She closed with a beautiful prayer.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, and roll was called with a large attendance reported. Several visitors from the Rocky Mount Circle were present.

A treasurer's report was given and reports from the chairman of various committees were also given.

Mrs. R. E. Standell, chairman of the Indian work of the state, was also expected as guest for the evening, to give a detailed report of what The King's Daughters were doing to better the conditions among the tribes, but due to unavoidable circumstances she was unable to be present. Mrs. W. M. Scales substituted for her, giving the program for the evening, during which she discussed the entire Indian Division of The King's Daughters' work in the state.

The speaker brought out the fact that the Indians at this time are looking forward to Thanksgiving and Christmas and are preparing programs in which family groups can participate. The Indians respond happily to the plans arranged by The King's Daughters and look forward with joyous anticipation to the "Xmas" gifts from their white friends. The organization has been sending Christmas boxes for 15 years to the Indians, and each donor receives a letter of thanks.

Mrs. Scales brought out interesting facts about Indian work and the part in aiding with this great work played by The King's Daughters.

Miss Martha Lee Cowell, chairman of the building committee of the home for the aged, gave a complete report on all donations, pledges and promises which have been made and the report was encouraging.

After the completion of the business the meeting was turned over to the hostesses for a social hour. Mrs. Skeels rendered a solo, after which delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Book Review Program Given At Aries Club

Mrs. W. C. Goodwin was a hostess to the Aries Club at her home on Maple street on Thursday night. In the absence of the president the meeting was conducted by Mrs. Paul Powell. After routine business was handled, plans for the Christmas meeting were discussed. The club voted to have a dinner party at which time husbands and friends will be invited as guests. A committee composed of Mrs. Howard Moyer, Mrs. M. L. Starkey and Miss Grace Outland was appointed to work out the details of the plan.

Following current events which were given by Mrs. Powell, Mrs. Phil Coleman gave a spicy review of "Innocents at Home," a recent publication by Bob Considine.

Mr. Considine is an International News Service correspondent and also writes a syndicated column. He appears on radio and TV shows also. He and his wife have four children—two adopted ones and two of their own. Their family life and experiences are humorously related through the pages of this book and Mrs. Coleman painted a word picture of the rollicking adventures and humorous experiences that have occurred to this interesting and widely traveled family.

While in Washington, D. C., on a recent trip, Mrs. Coleman had the pleasure of interviewing Mr. Considine's mother, and this added a charming personal touch to her review.

At the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Goodwin served a dessert course to the thirteen members present.

Mrs. Spilman Hostess To U.D.C.

Mrs. J. B. Spilman was gracious hostess on Thursday afternoon to the George B. Singletary Chapter U.D.C. The hostess greeted each member in her usual charming manner.

The vice president, Mrs. P. E. Wells, presided over a short business meeting. Mrs. E. L. Willard read the minutes of the last meeting, and Mrs. J. G. Lautares gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. V. C. Fleming, Patriotic Chairman, gave her report. In the absence of Mrs. T. T. Hollingsworth Mrs. Wells gave the historical report. Mrs. J. C. Wooten reported that she had written to Washington congressmen, asking that they promote the name of Stonewall Jackson to the Hall of Fame.

Mrs. J. L. Fleming had charge of the program. She called upon Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Willard, Mrs. Lautares, and Mrs. W. R. Smith to give the highlights of the State UDC convention which was held in Fayetteville. Mrs. Fleming then gave outstanding historical facts, concerning Fort Bragg and the Confederate Women's Home at Fayetteville, which had been brought out at the convention. The idea of the Confederate Women's Home originated with Mrs. Hunter Smith at the divisional convention in Goldsboro in 1908. She presented a motion which was heartily approved that a home be erected in North Carolina. She was made chairman of a committee to begin the undertaking. The home was furnished by the UDC chapters. Mrs. Fleming stated that delegates to the state convention were entertained at luncheon at Fort Bragg. A special booklet of the history of Fort Bragg had been prepared. Fort Bragg was named for Braxton Bragg, outstanding Confederate general, who was born in Warren county. He was presidential advisor to President Johnson. Mrs. Fleming spoke of the wonderful hospitality of the people of Fayetteville.

Members were urged to attend the meeting in connection with Mid-Century White House Conference on Children and Youth, Friday evening at the Court House, at 7:45.

Members were also invited to attend the meeting for the formation of a Pitt County Historical association to be held at Sheppard Memorial Library Friday evening at 7:30. The hostess served delicious home made cake and coffee.

Impossible . . .

Asia, it will hit India sooner or later—probably sooner. Thus we have a situation in which it will be most difficult, if not impossible, for India to maintain a position of neutrality.

Many observers have been looking on Nehru as the coming leader of the democratic forces in Asia. He is a dynamic personality and a man of great capabilities, who spent his life fighting for Indian independence. But most observers venture the criticism that if he is to become the Asiatic leader it will call for a positive stand in the great battle of the ISMS.

That Ounce Of Prevention Again

The proverbial ounce of prevention gets kicked around more than most any other one commodity we know of, but there's many a ton of cure which would have been unnecessary had a few ounces of prevention been used.

The old axiom may well be applied to the present-day civil defense program in North Carolina. Civil Defense Director E. Z. Jones has asserted that officials of many towns throughout the state are not cooperating with the civil defense movement because they feel it is unnecessary.

Actually today the services of the Civil Defense program may not be called for by the people of the state, but no one knows when or where disaster may strike in North Carolina. We hope it will never come in the form of enemy bombs or other explosives, but in the modern world we can not be sure it will not. We must prepare for the worst, and if it does not materialize, North Carolina will have been none the worse for the effort.

As a matter of fact, the Civil Defense program will prepare each individual community of the state to administer its own needs not only if war should be brought to our shores, but in the case of a tornado, flood or other disaster.

A good Civil Defense training program will prove its benefits to the communities of the state which carry it out. The training should be done now while time is available. Once disaster strikes, it is too late to begin a training program.

The communities of North Carolina should not "play at war" with Civil Defense, but they should have at least well planned skeleton organizations which will be able to cope with any situation the moment it arises.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News

Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—"Why don't we hit Russia now instead of letting Stalin pick the time and place to pull another Pearl Harbor on us?" asks M.T. of Binghamton, N.Y., as have many other readers.

"He egged the North Koreans and the Chinese Comrades against us. He has killed our men with every weapon except the atom bomb. Why pussyfoot at Lake Success about this situation? How long are we going to take it on the chin and still smile back?"

Answer: This theory has substantial support in many military, diplomatic and political circles. I don't think it unfair to say that General MacArthur is one of its chief exponents, although he may favor some delay because of the Korean proof of our unpreparedness.

AGGRESSION—However, heads of states always figure that there is a psychological advantage in placing the responsibility for starting a war on the other side. In this particular instance, Washington believes that permitting Stalin to strike the first blow would rally neutrals and on-the-fence nations to our side.

Moreover, such allies as England, France, the Low Countries and possibly the Scandinavian nations would resent and oppose action by us.

They still hope to stave off a conflict in which they would lie under the Red guns and bombs. In view of their defenselessness, and internal political dissension, they might seize upon American aggression on a major scale as an excuse for sitting out this war, if possible.

WARNING—President Truman, Secretary Acheson and General Marshall also believe that time is an invisible ally for us. In their opinion, Stalin is making almost the same blunders that Hitler, Mussolini and the Japanese war lords did from 1935 to 1939. He has given us warning and placed us on guard.

His proxy conquest of China lulled the Administration out of the foolish belief that Mao Tse-tung's Communists were mere "agrarian reformers."

His arming and prodding of the North Koreans show that he will resort to war against us, if he can do so without assuming primary responsibility.

The Tibet and Indo-China invasions have forced fence-walkers and peace-at-any-price Nehru to cry for greater financial and military aid.

HOPE—Just as Chamberlain and Deladier tried to appease Hitler at Munich in 1938, so Washington and London were thinking of Stalin as "good old Uncle Joe" a few years ago. Only the wanton seizure of Austria, the Sudeten and then all of Czechoslovakia disclosed Hitler's true and warlike aims.

Similarly, Stalin has shown his Red colors. Meanwhile, and it must not be forgotten that the West will not be ready for large-scale conflict until 1953, if then, we are getting ready to hit him when and as he starts something on his own.

Finally, there is always hope that a really re-armed United States and Western Europe, not to mention Mediterranean countries, our Middle East friends and the Japanese, will force a revision of Russia's world program by Stalin or, perhaps, his squabbling successors.

DEFENSE—R.G.W. of Houston, Tex., chides me, albeit gently and sensibly, for a recent column discussing the Administration's failure to make any basic preparations for civilian defense against an atomic attack.

"Let's be sensible," he says. "At least 99 per cent of our communities are in greater danger from cyclones, floods, earthquakes and similar acts of nature than from atom bombs. The only sure defense against A-bombs is to prevent them from being delivered to their targets, but we got the wrong crowd in power to do it."

He then suggests that I "am falling" for costly construction of underground shelters, garages, peripheral communities etc., which would simply permit the government to spend more vote-getting money, in his opinion.

ELEMENTARY—I did not discuss this kind of possibly fantastic program at all. I deplored the delay in furnishing even elementary instruction that would teach the individual what to do in event of an attack. Mainly, I mentioned the unrealistic attitude at Washington toward conditioning our psychology and attitudes. I'll bet that R.G.W. himself does not know what to do, except to run for the cellar. I don't.

However, from my correspondence, the column seems to have provoked some individual and community thinking on this problem.

APARTMENT—Here is an unsigned post card from San Antonio, Tex., which bears on why union members refused to obey political orders from labor bosses on November 7:

"Most of us union members are plain dumb. We are asked to and we vote regular. But whenever anyone tries to find out how the millions collected in dues are spent, we are told to wait for the published report. But such items as the $1,500 a month paid by CIO President Philip Murray some months ago for a swank apartment in San Francisco are never itemized. Why not?"

Don't ask me. Ask Mr. Murray!

Father Of The Bride—Sequel

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

After serving 39 months with Uncle Sam during W.W. II, I left the Army with the opinion that the American Red Cross is a great organization. But the postwar bull sessions with the boys around town made me wonder. They would say, "The Red Cross is no good. It never did anything for me."

In spite of the fact that I had heard a few veterans kick the Red Cross, I solicited during the drive last March, wondering how I would defend the organization if I ran into one of those disgruntled veterans.

Henry Brown, Pitt County Chairman of the Red Cross, served as an Infantry Company Commander during W.W. II and realizes the complaints that have been made against the Red Cross. To call a spade a spade, Henry is making speeches throughout the county, meeting the kicks head on. Years ago Henry satisfied himself that the complaints against the organization were unjustified, and gained ammunition to change the minds of those under the wrong impression.

At the Detroit meeting of the Red Cross Henry personally asked

General George C. Marshall (National Chairman at the time) what percentage of the Red Cross donations goes for salaries. The General said, "Less than 10 per cent, and incidentally, I make $22,500 a year." The General turned down a job that paid $100,000 a year to accept the Red Cross chairmanship. For every paid Red Cross employee there are 100 volunteers. The backbone of the organization is men like Henry Brown, who give countless hours of their time without any monetary compensation.

Servicemen during W.W. II complained that they had bought cigarettes marked "Not to be sold, American Red Cross." By investigating thoroughly over 500 cases, the Red Cross discovered that of hundreds of cases of cigarettes shipped overseas there were some destined for Army PX's, and others for the Red Cross. In all the confusion of wartime transportation, the cartons were often mixed, and PX's received cartons that were marked for the Red Cross. Other servicemen complained because the Red Cross was unable to get them furloughs. While it is a Red Cross function to handle contacts with a serviceman's family in order to by-pass military red tape, it cannot grant furloughs, but can only make recommendations. Other servicemen were refused loans by the Red Cross. The organization investigated each case, and acted in accordance with the findings. In some cases outright gifts were made. In others, the authorities saw fit to refuse.

In 1948 the state of Texas gave two and a quarter million dollars to the Red Cross. In all states, half of the money stays in the state. That same year the Red Cross spent over two million dollars serving the victims of the Fort Worth flood. More money was spent after a Florida hurricane than the aided section had donated in the history of Red Cross. More was spent in the city of Pittsburgh than was donated in 10 years.

By putting the cards on the table and meeting the complaints head on, Henry should meet much less opposition when the annual drive gets underway in March. For one, I'll know how to counter-act the beefs.

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.

CAMPOS—Phil Hedrick, tobacco marketing specialist for the state department of agriculture, has some interesting sidelights on the Puerto Rican situation, and especially on Pedro Alibu Campos, the Nationalist revolutionary. Hedrick spent several years during the middle thirties in Puerto Rico as representative of the United States government in tobacco marketing. He knows Campos personally and has talked with him many times.

FANATIC—Campos is a fanatic, whose appeal is to the prejudices and emotions of the people, as contrasted with leaders of the Independence party, who also seek freedom but through orderly processes and with continuing friendship and aid on part of the United States. The ideology of the revolutionary leader is not of recent origin. It dates back a long time, according to Hedrick.

BIOGRAPHY—Hedrick says Campos is the illegitimate son of a wealthy and highly respected Spaniard and a negress. His father acknowledged responsibility for the child, gave him a good education, including courses in the University of Puerto Rico at San Juan and at Harvard law school. For a short time after graduation from Harvard he served on the faculty there as a law instructor. Drafted into the American army during World War I, Campos worked up to an officer's commission. For a time he was stationed around New York and New England and got along well. When he was transferred to Charleston, S. C., trouble began. According to the Hedrick version of the story, when Lieut Campos was asked to move from a white coach to a Jim Crow car at Washington on his way to South Carolina, he swore eternal vengeance against the United States. From that time until now he has devoted major part of his energy and real ability toward effecting complete freedom of his native island from the United States.

CONVICED—In 1936 or '37 he was convicted of treason for efforts to recruit an army on the streets of San Juan for the specific purpose of overthrowing the Puerto Rican government, which was sponsored by the United States. He was sentenced, along with eight or ten others, to a term of ten years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta. He served about six years of the time, was released, and lived for several years in and around New York. He returned to Puerto Rico several years ago and continued with vigor his opposition to the established island government.

DELAYED TRIP—Hedrick says the bringing of Campos and his fellow prisoners to the United States delayed his own visit home in 1937. He had reservations on the plane, but when he arrived at the San Juan airport he found these eight or ten fellows handcuffed together in custody of U.S. Marshals also ready to board the plane. Hedrick forthwith decided to cancel his reservation and wait until a later flight.

MARTYRS?—Considering the abortive attempt by votaries of the Puerto Rican revolutionist idea in light of his personal knowledge of island background, Hedrick is inclined to believe they accomplished their main objective. That was not so much to remove President Truman from the scene, which would not have improved their condition at home, as it was to make a big show of martyrdom in the name of Puerto Rican nationalism. The spectacular and dramatic assault upon the president's home will appeal to the islanders as demonstration of "patriotism" beyond the average. Hedrick points out, as have many other commentators, that if elimination of the president had been the major objective it could have been accomplished much more easily and effectively in some other way.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

MORE FOR DEFENSE, LESS FOR WPA
(Henderson Daily Dispatch)

Western Europe must be armed adequately, in so far as adequacy can be determined and our resources will permit. Congress, whether it be Republican or Democratic, cannot in safety overlook that fact. In the latest analysis, it is a part of our own defense, if—and this is a big question mark—we can be sure those receiving war materials can be depended upon to stand firm, without wavering or without folding up when the first shot is fired from eastern Europe.

But Americans generally are apparently of a strong mind to curtail Marshall Plan billions, if not discontinue them entirely. Gordon Gray's recommendations for more and more billions to be poured into Europe, aside from the defense structure, has something of the ring of an international WPA, and calls for the most minute study as to specific purposes and benefits that may be anticipated.

The United States cannot forever carry Europe on its back, and this people will not endorse such a program. It would seem that sufficient help already has been sent to bail the continent out of the morass of wartime devastation to the point of being self-sustaining. This thing could go on and on forever, if the people would assent, and there are apparently those in Washington and out of Washington who would do it if they could have their way.

More for defense, on a sound and dependable basis, and less for gratuities should be the basis of American policy now and in the future. After all, the national economy in this country can stand only so much. It is not a bottomless reservoir of charity for all the world, even if there be those who think in that direction.

A LITTLE COURTESY WILL HELP
(Williamston Enterprise)

There were a dozen or more motor vehicle accidents on the highways and streets in this county in a recent week. A hurried study of the causes underlying the accidents shows that just a little courtesy shown on the part of the operators would have possibly eliminated several of the crashes.

Too often, drivers do not dim their lights because they overlook a simple courtesy. In just about every respect most of them are good folks, but, unfortunately, they are potential killers. Possibly a bright light held in the eyes of the approaching motorist is not as insulting as the act of spitting in one's eye would be, but a bright light confronting a motorist is far more dangerous.

In towns, dim lights are in order at all times.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

Most retailers, already squirming under instalment controls, are opposed to Federal Reserve Board restrictions on charge accounts. A few like the idea because charge-account controls, judged by experience during World War II, cause customers to pay more promptly. However, slowness in collections is not a major problem in this era of high employment and high incomes, and those that want the services of the government as a sort of assistant bill collector are in the minority.

A. L. Trotta, manager of the credit management division of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, has rounded up the association's reasons for opposing restrictions on charge accounts. Summarized, they are:

1. Charge accounts are more of a service than a true credit. The average of all accounts is collected within 55 days of billing.
2. Charge sales have not been expanding dangerously; in fact charges in July covered a smaller percentage of total sales than they did in 1941.
3. After regulation reduced collection time from 58 to 40 days, people would go on charging as much as they ever did before.
4. Limitations on charge accounts would not stop those who "overload;" they could simply keep opening new accounts at other stores.
5. Freezing of accounts in the last war irritated customers without limiting their credit because they used accounts in other stores.
6. Tighter terms would cause customers to withdraw savings to meet bills.
7. Retailers would lose economies gained by cycle billing and Charge-Plate systems.
8. New telephone authorization equipment will be inadequate under restrictions and additional equipment probably won't be available.
9. Where stores use central accounting for branches, the necessity of checking each sale with the credit department will add work and costs.
10. Burdens of scrutinizing accounts, keeping special records, notifying customers, etc., will "place a serious drain on manpower."

such payments for federal income tax purposes.

Because of this, executives counting on employing companies' death payments to provide for their families may be wise to consider increasing their own life insurance.

FATHERS GET CHANCE TO PLAY WITH TRAINS

Several stores in various parts of the country have set aside "fathers only" hours in their electric train departments. During these hours, children are barred.

LESS CARPETING PRODUCTION SEEN

Because the armed forces will have first call on wool, jute, cotton and other materials going into carpeting, carpet production may be reduced. Steele M. Winterer, president of A. & A. Karagheusian, told the Floor Covering Contributors Council in New York. Manpower may also become more difficult to obtain, he said.

However, he noted that total demand for carpeting would be reduced by cuts in home building.

SKIP COLLEGE, BECOME A BUYER

Women's best chances for executive jobs are in advertising, sales promotion and publicity, it is indicated by a Department of Labor four-city survey. Women with jobs as buyer make more money than merchandise managers, the study showed. A majority of the successful women never went to college.

WORLD FLEET CROP 10 PERCENT OFF AVERAGE

Fewer fish seeds will stick in people's teeth during the next twelve months.

A Department of Agriculture survey shows this year's world crop of dried figs will be 177,800 tons, about 10 per cent below the 10-year average.

United States production is estimated at 21,000 tons, compared with 28,000 tons last year and 30,300 tons in 1948.

NEW AND HOT

LOOK-SNAP: Binoculars with built-in 16 mm. cameras are being marketed (by Random Corp., 415 Lexington Ave., New York 17). The binoculars are pocket-size with 2.5 magnification; snapping the camera takes the same picture the eye sees, through an F4.5 lens. It has 25th, 50th and 100th second speeds.

GUARD: A new counter cash guard has a compartment for reserve cash with a time lock. The reserve compartment cannot be unlocked in less than 15 or 30 minutes, depending on the setting, and few robbers will wait that long. An accompanying sign explains this to discourage hold-up men. (It is by Herrin-Hall-Marvin Safe Co., Hamilton, Ohio.)

The association made two case studies and found that credit restrictions would require 675 man hours a month in one store, and cost a second store $99,084 a year.

WIDOWS MUST PAY ON POST-MORTEM SUMS

A new ruling, going into effect January 1, requires that widows of employees receiving payments in consideration of their husband's work must report all contacts with a serviceman's family in order to by-pass military red tape, it cannot grant furloughs, but can only make recommendations. Other servicemen were refused loans by the Red Cross. The organization investigated each case, and acted in accordance with the findings. In some cases outright gifts were made. In others, the authorities saw fit to refuse.

In 1948 the state of Texas gave two and a quarter million dollars to the Red Cross. In all states, half of the money stays in the state. That same year the Red Cross spent over two million dollars serving the victims of the Fort Worth flood. More money was spent after a Florida hurricane than the aided section had donated in the history of Red Cross. More was spent in the city of Pittsburgh than was donated in 10 years.

By putting the cards on the table and meeting the complaints head on, Henry should meet much less opposition when the annual drive gets underway in March. For one, I'll know how to counter-act the beefs.

And I thank you.

Hal Boyle's Column

Yongbyon, Korea.—(AP)—American tankmen and Red horsemen divided control over this ancient walled city and fortress for more than three days.

It was one of the most unusual ordeals in the long history of Yongbyon, one of the fairest citadels in all Korea, to be held by one army during the day and another army during the night.

This odd battlefield situation ended Thursday morning as Lt. Col. William A. "Wild Bill" Harris of San Antonio, Tex., rode his Seventh Cavalry Regiment through the historic 500-year-old stone gate to take the city in force.

Militarily it is important now because it is the center of a minor but presently vital road-net between the Eighth Army and its Chinese and North Korean foes.

To hold Yongbyon it is necessary to hold the hills that look down upon it. Infantrymen on foot and wheel moved through the battered street to seize those hills.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

Washington—Towering six-foot-seven Cyrus Ching, chairman of the new U.S. Stabilization Board, never breaks the conversation at capital cocktail parties, and smoke doesn't get into his smiling eyes.

"People talk right into his chest, and he creates his own smoke screen," his adoring wife and former secretary told me.

The fabulous 230-pound former federal mediator of disputes between labor and management is an inveterate pipe smoker though he hasn't bought a pipe in the past 10 years.

"People give him pipes for Christmas, birthdays, anniversaries and just for fun—last count he had 93," his wife said.

Mrs. Ching says another contributor to the collection is adding a rare one on their seventh wedding anniversary this month.

Mrs. Ching, a gay and attractive woman who hails from St. Paul, Minn., met her Canadian-born husband when she went to work for the U. S. Rubber Co., where her husband was an executive. She served as his secretary for about eight years.

"Cy says I messed up the files and that's why he married me and took me home," she said.

"But he bought me a home fire cabinet for a wedding present, in addition to a salmon fishing rod and a canoe."

The Chings spend vacations salmon fishing in the Tobique River, New Brunswick, Canada. Mrs. Ching says they had fine luck this year—"Between us we caught 43 salmon in three weeks." Mr. Ching is the best husband in the world, says Mrs. Ching, mostly because "he's the easiest person in the world to please."

"You'd think he'd come home all fed up and cross with all this mediating and disputing. But he comes home calm, sits down, smokes his pipe, talks things over with me and likes everything I cook for dinner."

"Cheese souffle is his favorite dish, but breakfast is his favorite meal—fruit juices, cereals, anything except liver or kidneys. Grilled tomatoes he'll eat morning, noon and night. No sweets. Lunch is the same, day in and day out—fruit cup, Swiss cheese, crackers."

Mrs. Ching says her husband reads detective stories by the gross. Sometimes gets to the end of one and says "damn it, I've read this before." He also plays a mean game of bridge or Canasta. He thinks walking "simply gets you places you don't want to go," prefers taxis

The victory March was a strange mixture of medieval and modern warfare—a symbol of the entire confused and chaotic Korean campaign.

There was no real resistance to the entry beyond the placing of wicked belts of road mines by the enemy along routes leading into Yongbyon. As the foe mysteriously withdraws north he is relying more and more on such defensive measures.

The first tank into Yongbyon was the "James Gang," a Sherman tank mounting a 76mm. gun. Its commander—Sgt. 1c Dwight James of Bluefield, Va.—was a little weary of going into the city in the morning and backing out again at evening.

"This makes my fourth trip in here for us," James said.

"We have been coming in every morning for three days and staying until it begins to get dark."

"The civilians tell us that as soon as we pulled out two platoons of Chinese and North Korean horse cavalry came into the city from the other side. They have been staying all night and pulling out themselves the next morning as we came back here. I don't know why they wouldn't let us stay in all night."

"Well, I don't think the goods' horseback patrol will be back tonight," drawled another member of the tank crew. And the rest of the James gang laughed as they warmed their hands around a fire in front of their tanks.

They had just returned from a fire fight at a roadblock five miles northwest of the city on the road to Huchon.

"We figure we caught up to the Chinese Fourth Cavalry there," said Sgt. James. "They had made a charge on a bridge and pinned down our infantry with machinegun fire for 15 minutes before we got our tank there. It took us another 45 minutes to clean them out. But there won't be any more midnight horsemen galloping around here."

This far north city was a scene of mingled leisure, busy activity and utter devastation.

Yongbyon itself is just another dirty oriental city of medium size cupped in the hills northeast of Anju and some 60 miles the Manchurian border.

It is important because of the number of antique shrines it holds, because of the six-mile long 20-foot high stone wall that has surrounded it since the year 1416 and because it is near Myeongyang, the holiest mountain in Korea.

Nov. 11-18-25 Dec. 2-9-16.

Our pilgrim fathers had two notable characteristics; a genuine reliance upon the guidance and protection of God, and a strong disposition to look out for themselves.

These two traits are not antagonistic, but are complimentary.

There are some things in life that God expects us to do for ourselves. Men of great and lasting achievement never leave God completely out of the picture. Nor do they attempt to leave it all to God, and withhold the human support that He expects. Strong men, influential men, the most socially useful men and women are those who trust God as though all depends on Him, and then set themselves to the task as though all depends upon human effort.

Like the Pilgrims, when we receive God's guidance, let us return to Him hearts of genuine gratitude.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For the sake of his community and nation. (2) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Pirates Drop Arch-Rival Atlantic Christian By 54-7

Spectacular Wind-Up Seen In Closing Out Grid Slate

Maennle-Thrift Combine Stand Out In Scoring Spree; Outclassed Bulldogs Score On Long Aerial, Otherwise Never Threatened; Trophy Is 'Home'

The Yardstick:

East Carolina	Atlantic Christian
18 first downs	9
123 net yards rushing	27
20 passes attempted	23
16 passes completed	9
233 yardage gained passing	128
3 passes intercepted	0
3 number of punts	7
35.5 punting average	27.5
1 fumbles recovered by	70
40 penalties	70

Maennle accounted for the two scores in the second stanza, as he made two beautiful catches of Thrift's tosses to score, with the first one covering 32 yards, and the second 15 yards.

Second Half

A series of penalties against the Bulldogs set the ball on ACC 15 immediately after the second half started, and in seven plays Thrift tossed Darby on a pitch out for the score.

Dwight Shoe registered the second score of the third quarter as he gathered in Thrift's aerial on the ACC 39, and left behind would-be tacklers to score on a play that covered 60 yards.

Reserve Halfback Stanley and Maennle put the finishing touches on the scoring as Stanley made a sparkling 15 yard sprint for one score, and Maennle, on an end-around, scored on the final play of the game.

Only Marker

Atlantic Christian's only marker came in the third quarter on a beautiful, long pass from Armond Colombo to End Cohen Tart, which covered 51 yards. McCrary converted from placement. After this, the Bulldogs never seriously threatened.

Dole Is Pleased

In reviewing the game and the Pirates' season, Coach Bill Dole has this to say:

"We've ended a very fine season. I am exceedingly proud the way the fellows have played. We should have ended the season with an 8-2 record. There was no excuse in our losing the non-conference game back in September."

Close Out Careers

In addition to Maennle, Thrift, and Darby, five more outstanding seniors concluded their football last night. They were Fullback Johnny Smith, Billy Smith, Guard Leon Ellis, Center Buck Wilson, and Pete Prominski.

Immediately after the game, Coach Bill Crutchfield walked to the center of the field and presented Captain Roger Thrift with the coveted BoHunk Trophy, and then Thrift and Maennle were lifted on their player-mates' shoulders as the crowd filed out of the stadium.

The Lineup:

 LT—Stephenson, Green, Warren
 LG—Gurganus, Goff
 C—Mattox, Spirto

Scored At, Will

Coach Bill Dole's Buccaneers scored at will last night, as they registered two touchdowns in every quarter against the hapless Bulldogs.

Halfback Bill Darby, who also showed out his brilliant pickin' on the last night, scored the fifth Pirate tally, with sophomore end, Dwight Shoe, Fullback Jack Melvin and reserve halfback Jim Stanley accounting for the three remaining scores.

Tackle Buck Hardee booted six out of eight placements to run his season's total points to 30, without scoring a touchdown.

Early Start

East Carolina's first score came as Thrift spotted Maennle on the goal line, midway the first quarter, and passed from seven yards out, after a blocked punt by Bobby Hodges and a brilliant catch by Shoe set up the tally.

A few minutes later, the Pirates had their second quick TD, as Melvin caught McCrary's fumble in the air on the ACC eight, and the hustling defensive halfback lumbered over for the score.

Shotton Denies Report Of Plea For Vindication

Bartow, Fla., Nov. 18—(AP)—Burt Shotton says as far as he knows he is still manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Shotton denied a story by Dick Young in the New York Daily News that the Dodger manager had asked a one-shot chance to vindicate himself in the job.

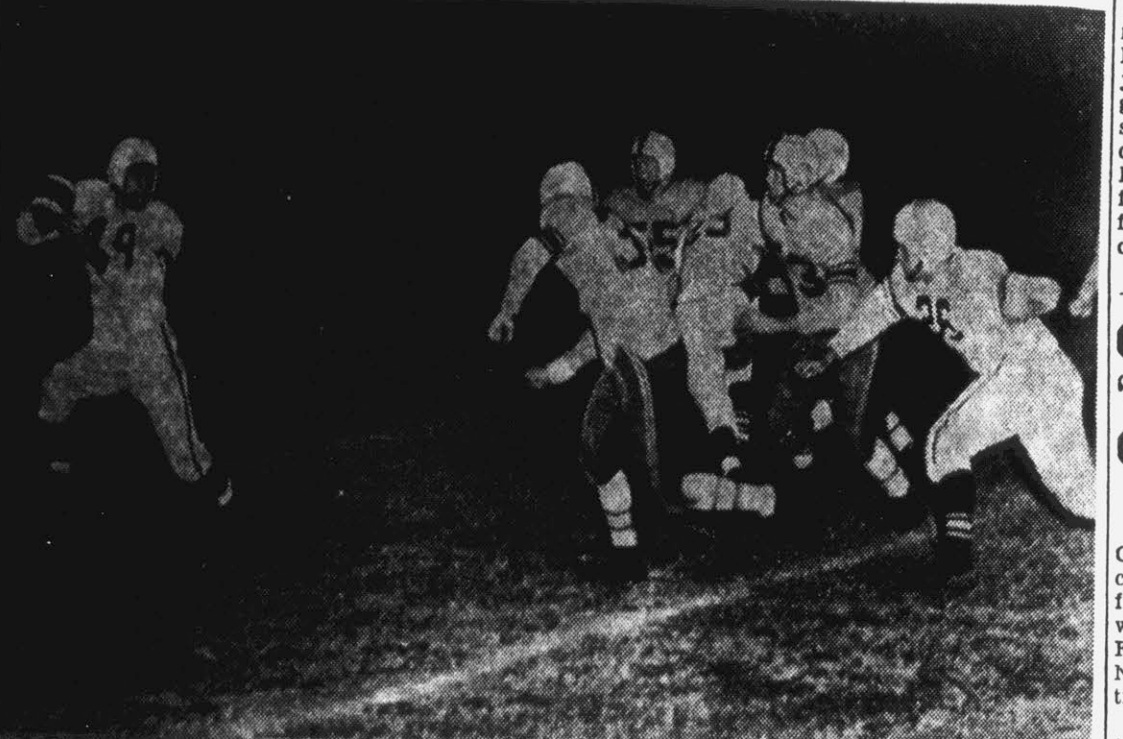

Brooklyn was picked to win the National League pennant again but finished second to the Philadelphia Phils.

"Dick Young made up that whole thing," Shotton said of the story. "He hasn't gotten anything like that from me, and I'm sure he hasn't from O'Malley." (Walter O'Malley is president of the Dodgers.)

SENTENCE POLICEMAN

Charlotte, N.C., Nov. 18—(AP)—Claude V. Oates Jr., Charlotte policeman, yesterday was convicted of hit-and-run driving and manslaughter. Superior Court Judge George B. Patton sentenced him to two to three years imprisonment, and his lawyers gave notice of appeal.

Atlantic Christian Back Poised For Long Toss

A. C.'s Armond Colombo, gets set to pass a long one in last night's battle between the E. C. T. C. Pirates and the Bulldogs, as the entire forward wall of the Pirates rush in on him. The Bulldogs went down before the Pirates aerial attack to the score of 54-7 in the last ball game for the two teams. (Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee).

Thrift Set To Loose Another Yard-Gaining Aerial

Heralded Roger Thrift, who climaxed his brilliant college career last night, as he threw five touchdown passes in East Carolina's romp over Atlantic Christian, cocks his arm for another aerial against the Bulldogs as the Pirates offensive line forms the pocket. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee).

Ayden Ends Victorious Season Swamping Central High By 19-0

STATISTICS

Ayden	Central
11 first downs	4
196 yards gained rushing	50
12 passes attempted	8
7 passes completed	3
80 yards gained passing	40
1 passes intercepted by	0
43 punting average	31

Ayden, Nov. 18—Ayden's Tornadoes closed out an all-conquering 1950 football season last night by beating Central High of Elizabeth City, 19-0, to run their victory skein to 15 straight wins.

The Tornadoes dominated the entire action, except for a short while in the third period. During that Central attack, Ayden nipped the progress on the three yard line to preserve the whitewashing.

The Tornadoes never performed more accurately than they did last night. Playing before 400 fans who braved the biting cold and wind, Coach Stuart Tripp's charges scored once in each of the first three periods and made those three scores readily.

Drives of 85, 55 and 63 yards netted the three touchdowns for the locals, the longest one beginning just after Central kicked off. Ayden got the ball on its own 15 and in a series of short gains ran the ball down the field to the 26. There Mac Hardee, fullback for Coastal Conference champs, was shaken loose for 20 yards which put the Tornadoes in their first scoring position. Quarterback Teedy Bullock took the ball around right end for the first score standing up. Darrell Worthington tallied the extra point by running through the middle.

Bullock figured in both the other touchdowns, either scoring himself or throwing a pass. In the second period, he scored from the five around end again. That opportunity was set up by a sustained drive of 55 yards, beginning when Bullock took a punt on his own 45 and carried to the midfield stripe. From there the Ayden backs carried to the five where the quarterback carried across. The extra point was no good.

In the third period Willis Manning scored on a seven yard pass from Bullock to end the point making. Previous to that Bullock had passed to Manning for 23 yards and again to Worthington for ten which worked the ball to the seven. The extra point was again no good.

Central's running and passing attack proved anything but good against Ayden's polished and determined performance. The visitors failed to make it across the midfield stripe until the middle of the third quarter. They also chafed up their first down in that period in a drive that carried almost into pay territory.

However, the Tornado forward wall stopped the drive just short of the goal when Central failed to get past the three in four downs.

Central's only outstanding players were members of a brother act which supplied most of the hustle for the Perquimans team. Right Guard Bob Hudson and his brother William Hudson at right half furnished the bulk of the defensive

Chandler Said 'Cinch' To Have Contract Again

New York, Nov. 18—(AP)—A. B. Chandler's seven-year contract as commissioner of baseball comes up for discussion at the major leagues winter meeting in St. Petersburg, Fla., next month and the Daily News says it's a "cinch" the contract will be renewed.

The News said "there still is some opposition among the 16 major league owners to Chandler's reign, but not enough." Chandler needs only 12 of 16 votes to have the contract extended.

Fred Saigh, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, identified by the News as the leader of the anti-Chandler group, said here Chandler's contract was not discussed at the joint major league meeting in Cincinnati on Thursday, but will be taken up by the league owners at St. Petersburg.

Gavilan Edges Out Decision In Garden Clash

New York, Nov. 18—(AP)—Kid Gavilan is New York's No. 1 welterweight contender today but that designation is about as important as an admiral in the Swiss navy.

The Cuban Keed with the flashing hands and feet was named crown prince among the 147-pounders by virtue of his 10 round decision over Irish Billy Graham in Madison Square Garden last night. It was a close fight with the two judges voting for Gavilan 6-4, and the referee, Barney Felix, balloting for a 4-4-2 draw.

Witnessed by 7,567 paying customers ($20,092 gross gate) and several million television spectators around the country, it was just a fair scrap. There were no knock-downs, no real hard shots, and no damage.

Last Period Saw Locals' Only TD

Washington, Nov. 18—Washington's Pam Pack used every player on the bench last night and slaughtered Greenville's Phantoms 40-7 to nip in the bud any Greenville hope of winning a Conference game.

The Pack was definitely "up" for the family affair last night and used every weapon at its disposal to score on the Phantoms.

Little Jimmy Asby was the work-horse for the Pack in dominating the action through most of four quarters. Asby accounted for three touchdowns by the Pack, his most outstanding display being a 50-yard punt return which accounted for the Pack's third score.

The Phantoms' only spark of offensive attack came in the fourth period when fullback Sid Briley threw a 35 yard pass to quarterback Eddie Farley and he completed the remaining distance by running 40 yards for the Phantoms' only score.

Washington scored only once in the first quarter, waiting until the second to pour on the coal and run up the score. In that period Asby ran the longest jaunt of the game when he took a Greenville punt on the midfield stripe.

Prior to that Dick Cherry, substitute halfback, had scored from the eight yard line. Woolard also scored on a six yard run in the same

Wofford Wallops Panthers, 28-0

Spartanburg, S.C., Nov. 18—(AP)—The Wofford Terriers scored five plays after the opening kickoff here last night and went on to give a 28-0 football lesson to the High Point Panthers.

The North Carolinians, who used only 18 men, were outclassed, and Wofford scored in all but the third period. The Terriers had two more touchdowns nullified by penalties as they cruised to their sixth victory against two losses and a tie.

Chapter 25
"Hold it, Jerry," said Marc. "The fog shows signs of lifting. A few of the pieces are starting to line up. But I still do not understand how—By the way, here's something I forgot."
He carefully extracted his wadded handkerchief from his pocket and placed a ball of paper on Anderson's desk.
"I picked this out of Johnson's wastebasket the night of the murder."
Anderson stared at Marc. "You bet you forgot!"
"My apologies, Jerry, but this looked like a plant at the time. See that dirt on the paper? Tell me what it is."

"It's cigarette ash!"
"Of course. Do you have any of those letters from Richards' file handy?"
Smoothing out the crumpled note, Marc selected one of the letters and laid the note beside it.
"You see, Jerry, Mrs. Johnson was on the platform, as proved by the fingerprints. If these two samples of handwriting only matched, we'd really have a case. But they don't. They're very different. Therefore, it looks as though someone else's involved."
Again the telephone interrupted insistently.
"Yeah!" said Anderson. "Who? Oh, Jordan. For you," he said, handing the receiver to Marc.
"Hello, Marc. This is Nora. A telegram just came for you a few minutes ago."
"A telegram. Hm. Open it, Nora."
"The telephone conversation set act shortage 2478 dollars stop current shortage 185 dollars stop monkey business in the coal shed indicated. Abercrombie. "Jerry," he said, turning to face a puzzled Anderson, "just to take the record straight, let's now take up the case of Mr. Eric Linden."
"Linden?" exclaimed Anderson. "I'd about forgotten him."
"Don't believe we can afford to forget anyone," replied Marc dryly. "You remember that receipted bill of sale in Richards' private file? He brought the manuscript to Lord to sell, and stipulated a price of $2475.00, no more, no less."
"Abercrombie just wired me that a shortage in the company books at the time of the sale also amounted to $2475.00, said shortage being subsequently made up on a personal check from Richards. Funny business."
"In other words, all signs point to the fact that our Mr. Linden had dipped into the company checkbook to the tune of $2475.00, and that Richards caught him at it."
Marc paused while Anderson blinked, his brain absorbing the implications of this information.
"And moreover," continued Marc, "Abercrombie now reports another shortage amounting to no less than $1500.00, circumstances similar."
"Good grief, man, you telling me Linden's a thief, once for sure and mebbe twice?"
Marc grinned at him. "Check. And considering Linden's character, a little on the loose screw side, he could easily work himself up to a state where he could commit murder!"
"Looks like everyone had reason to kill him. Now you tell me who did."
"Our list's shaping up, Jerry. For instance, Linden. On his own admission, he and Richards turned in at the same time. Therefore, he's unaccounted for at ten fifty-eight when the axe hit the track at Zola."
"Item: Linden had motive and opportunity."
"Johnson probably knew about his wife's pilanderings."
"Now Arnold. Richards was about to change his will putting all his money in trust for Joan."
"Item: Arnold might be considered to have motive, and opportunity, if we can figure out how he skinned the length of the car in nothing flat without being seen."
"Consider Dorene Johnson. She had plenty of motive—a very lurid past which Richards knew about. Moreover, she was boiling with the ire of a woman spurned."
"And Mr. George Miller, erstwhile boy friend of the lovely Dorene. He was on the train, was seen with Mrs. Johnson, and left under suspicious circumstances."
"Miss Arthur. In love with Richards. Unrequited. There's no check on her movements after nine thirty."
"That leaves out Cliff and Joan. Justified. I think there you have it. You figure the answer."
Anderson slowly shook his head. "Richards wasn't murdered? He died of old age!"
Marc chuckled. "You have something. But don't be dehearted. A ray of sunshine appears. In the meantime, I want to borrow the blood-stained towel found under Johnson's bunk, and the murder axe."
Anderson considered for several minutes. "Okay. But, brother, you have 'em back here tomorrow. If anything happens, I'll have your hide." He picked up the receiver and barked into the telephone. "Bring me Exhibits 'A' and 'B' in the Richards case."
"Thanks."
Marc gingerly wrapped the axe and towel, brought in by a languid clerk, into a neat bundle, using Anderson's newspaper.

PITT — SUNDAY and MONDAY

Officers Arrest Liquor Violators

Pitt County ABC and other law enforcement officers are unusually active in ferreting out hidden supplies of moonshine whiskey and arresting the owners before the arrival of Thanksgiving.

Last night, with the assistance of Winterville officers, arrested two Negro women in Winterville after they searched their home and found a quantity of booting whiskey. They arrested Florence Clark and Kathleen Brown. They were jailed in default of $150 bail bond each.

Participating were ABC officers J. M. Ward, J. L. Taylor, Claude L. Manning and Winterville police chief Jim Buck and Officer Alton Hill.

Pitt County ABC officers J. M. Ward, J. L. Taylor, Claude L. Manning and Deputy Sheriff Duke Andrews and Greenville Detective S. Bowen Dorsey last night arrested Willie Hopkins, 30-year-old negro, 117 West 16th street. They found two gallons of booting whiskey on the premises. Hopkins was released under $200 bond. He will be tried in Police Court Monday.

William Lundigan has both arms full of cinematic sisters. June Haver and Gloria DeHaven, in the latest technicolor salute to show business, "I'll Get By." Dennis Day is also starred.

Kiwanians Enjoy Music Program At Weekly Meet

The Kiwanis Club, at its weekly supper meeting last night, enjoyed a program of songs and music presented by Miss Jacqueline Waldron as soloist, and Miss Patricia Vaughan as accompanist at the piano. Eli Bloom had charge of the program. President Tige Gardner presided.

Guy V. Smith, a charter member of the Greenville club and a past president, was given a warm welcome last night after an absence of several weeks on account of illness. The club felicitated Police Chief Guy C. Langston on the news that he was the father of a new son born at New Bern yesterday. Don H. Conley and Wyatt Highsmith had birthdays and they donated a nickel for each year of their age. Guests included Richard K. Barnhill, brother of John Barnhill, and R. E. Hardaway, Jr., son of Rev. R. E. Hardaway. Dr. H. Glenn Haney, recently returned from New York, gave a report of his visit at one of the sessions of the United Nations.

President Tige Gardner delegated Chester Walsh to represent the Kiwanis Club at the White House Conference at the courthouse last night.

Car and Passenger Bus Collide Near Ninth and Evans

A car driven by Zachie Hill, 20-year-old colored youth, 401 Bonner Lane, and a city passenger bus driven by Joe Haddock, 23, collided at Ninth and Evans streets early today. None of the occupants was injured. Both vehicles were damaged. Police arrested Zachie Hill for alleged failure to stop at a stop sign.

Van Fleming, Jr. Guest Speaker Exchange Club

The Greenville Exchange Club, at its supper meeting at the Woman's Club last night, had as guest speaker Van Fleming, Jr., president of the Chamber of Commerce. Bruce Gay introduced the speaker. President John G. Clark presided. The speaker discussed in an interesting manner methods of promoting activities in a civic club or other organization.

Plans for the last two games of the season for the Midget football players, sponsored by the Exchange Club. The Greenville Midgets play the Farmville Midgets at the college stadium tonight. They will play the Raleigh Midgets here Thanksgiving Day.

President Clark represented the Exchange Club at the White House conference at the courthouse later in the evening.

Firemen Answered 3 Calls Last Night; No Homes Damaged

Greenville firemen last night answered three calls in less than an hour to minor fires in the city.

The first call was to the home of H. K. Leggett, 1102 Colonial Avenue, when an oil stove became overheated. Just as the firemen were pulling back into the station from the first call they were dispatched to 107 North Woodlawn Avenue to another summons. An oil furnace in the home of Howard W. Mims became flooded and overheated. There was no damage to either of the residences.

Shortly after eight o'clock an alarm from Box 32 sent the firemen to 1804 Henry Street, in the Cooperfield section, again to a flaring oil furnace. There was no damage to the home of Heber Tyson. After last night, firemen again

Telephone Talk Is In Stalemate

New York, Nov. 18—(AP)—The nine-day old telephone strike appeared to be stalemated today.

The coast-to-coast Bell Telephone System said its long distance and local service was almost normal, despite partial picketing by striking Western Electric Co. employees of the CIO Communications Workers of America (CWA).

Mediation continued in New York, with federal conciliators slated to hold separate talks with the union's striking divisions and Western Electric—a Bell subsidiary.

The key issues are wages and contract duration. The union demands a 15-cent hourly pay boost and a one year contract. The company's best offer has been an 11 1/2 cent boost and a two year contract, adjustable for wages after 18 months. Present pay averages from $1.55 to $1.62 an hour.

Colored News

The Dollar club of Phillippi Christian church will meet at the home of Deacon Shade Hardy on Wyatt street Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. All members are requested to bring a donation for the sick.

AMERICAN LEGION WILL MEET NEXT TUESDAY

The American Legion will meet at the American Legion Home Tuesday night, November 21, at 7 o'clock. J. Howard Moye, post commander, will preside. All members are urged to attend and to take a new member with them.

PRESENTS CREDENTIALS

Mexico City, Nov. 18—(AP)—William O'Dwyer, new U.S. ambassador to Mexico, presented his credentials at the Foreign Office yesterday. He will be received by President Miguel Aleman Thanksgiving Day.

Cliff dwellings in New Mexico were occupied by Indians until 350 years ago or six decades after the arrival of the first Spanish explorers in that region.

Call 3356

City subscribers who do not receive their Reflector by six p. m. are requested to report same by telephoning 3356 between six and six-thirty p. m. After that hour the circulation department will be closed and deliveries will be made of paper missed.

MAYOR MICHIGAN CITY ON VISIT IN GREENVILLE

Mr. Fred J. Reader, mayor of Scottville, Michigan, who visited Greenville frequently during World War II, is spending the weekend here again and visiting with Hermon L. Norris, manager of the Elks Home. Mrs. Fred J. Reader III, whose husband is with the Marines at Camp Lejeune, accompanied the Michigan mayor here. They visited at the Marine base yesterday.

New Varieties . . .

Virginia Gold was a new variety planted this season and on which the tests were conducted in Pitt for the first time. It proved a good producer with 1810 pounds to the acre but did not figure too well on the market as other varieties. It averaged $1,099.84 for each acre planted.

Two other new varieties tested this season were Bell's No. 1 and 2. They were developed on a farm near Rocky Mount but did not prove as good in Pitt as other varieties nor as good as it was reported in other counties.

No. 1 is a cross between 402 and Bottom Special and brought in 1,584 pounds and $881.42. No. 2, which is a hybrid of Bottom Special and Oxford 26, produced 1,429 pounds and $850.59 per acre.

The best resistant variety to black shank proved to be Dixie Bright 101. It averaged 1,762 pounds to each acre and brought to the grower $1,092.66. It proved resistant to Grandville wilt, also. Dixie Bright 27 led all other varieties in resistance to Grandville wilt and averaged 1,719 pounds and $1,018.41 per acre. The figures are consistent with the three year average.

Oxford No. 1 proved a moderate resistor to Grandville wilt. It averaged 1,411 pounds and the grower got $808.63 for that average.

Historical . . .

ly, pending perfection of the organization.

There were brief talks by D. L. Corbett, former Greenville resident but now of the state department of Archives and History, J. L. Jackson, of Raleigh and Winterville, who is quite active in the gathering of historical data on Pitt county, Robert Lee Humber and Dr. H. P. Johnson, of Grifton, for many years professor at the University of Virginia. The speakers pointed out the present lack of a history of the county and urged that quick action be taken toward the forming of an historical organization.

Mr. Corbett told of steps being taken in other counties, especially some of those in the eastern section of the state, and pointed out the advisability of similar action in this county in order that the achievements of the past in this county might be preserved as a guide for the future.

A committee composed of Judge Dink James, Robert Lee Humber, and J. L. Jackson, was appointed to prepare a charter, constitution and by-laws for presentation to the December 15 meeting. C. V. Cannon, of Ayden, Mrs. C. R. Townsend, of Farmville, and L. J. Ellis, of Winterville, were named as a nominating committee for officers of the permanent organization. All the 16 persons present were named as a prospective membership committee to canvass their communities for persons who are interested in the formation of such a society or organization and urge a large attendance at the December 15 organization meeting.

Child, Youth . . .

It was announced that the Mid-century White House Conference on Children and Youth will be held in Washington, D.C., the week of December 3. Dr. W. E. Marshall of the East Carolina Teachers College faculty, who was present, will report on this meeting to the state conference to be held in North Carolina shortly.

Mrs. Frederick Brooks reported on the activities in this work in other communities.

The representative group present last night voted to hold the next public meeting some time in February. At that time full reports will have been made of projects and it is expected that they may be coordinated.

K. T. Futrell, Pitt county welfare superintendent, spoke briefly and outlined the part his department is taking in this public welfare work.

The following clubs and other organizations had representatives at the meeting: Altrusa Club, American Legion, Business and Professional Women's Club, Lions Club, Credit Women's Breakfast Club, Council of Church Women, Women's Society of Christian Service at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, Missionary Society, Memorial Baptist Church, Immanuel Baptist Church, Women's Christian Fellowship of the Christian Church, women of Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church, women's auxiliaries of the Free Will Baptist churches, St. Paul's Episcopal churches, Elks' Lodge, Exchange and Executives clubs, Junior Chamber of Commerce, King's Daughters, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, Pitt County PTA and Greenville PTA, Ruritan clubs at Winterville and Pactolus, Woman's clubs of Greenville and Ayden, Veterans of Foreign Wars and auxiliary, Greenville Service League, American Red Cross, County Health Department, Welfare Department, and the Pitt County Board of Education.

Don H. Conley, superintendent of county schools, always optimistic, always cheerful, spoke briefly and outlined many of the needs of the
