Pitt Tobacco Acreage Is Increased By 3,094 Acres

Nine Per Cent Increase In 1951 Allotments Announced By Agriculture Dept. Boosts Total County Tobacco Acreage To Roughly 37,473

The nine per cent increase in the 1951 tobacco allotments announced last night by the department of agriculture will mean an increase of approximately 3,094 acres in the allotment for Pitt county.

The increase in the tobacco acreage allotment came on the heels of the selling season which brought the highest tobacco price average ever recorded in Pitt county.

The county's allotment for 1950 was 34,379.3 acres, but with the increase for 1951, the county's allotment will reach approximately 37,473 acres. It will be the largest tobacco acreage allotment Pitt county has received since 1947 when the county's allotment was 44,369.4 acres.

Immediately after the 1947 season, however, the department of agriculture announced a 27 1/2 per cent cut in the tobacco allotments, and the quota during 1948 dropped to 32,281 acres here in the county which produces more bright leaf tobacco than any other county in the world. The county's allotment for the 1949 season was increased to 34,094.8 acres, and the allotment for the 1950 season was adjusted to give the county a quota of 34,379.3 acres of tobacco.

The number of acres actually planted in tobacco in the county, not the county's allotment, is the determining factor in tobacco production, and in Pitt county during the past few years, there has been a growing tendency to plant a larger percentage of the quota.

In 1946 when the county's allotment was slightly over 45,000 acres, the farmers of the county actually planted slightly more than 42,000 acres in tobacco. The allotment was cut more than 2,000 acres the following year, but the actual production of tobacco decreased only 16.1 acres although the county still remained under its allotment figure. Last year in Pitt county the actual tobacco acreage under cultivation was 35,856 acres less than the county's allotment, and during the 1950 season the tobacco planted in the county was 43,824 acres short of the allotted 34,379.3 acres.

Figures from the county agent's office show the 1949 crop planted in Pitt county produced the highest yield per acre in the history of the county. That season the county planted 33,406.2 acres of tobacco and produced 44,578,480 pounds for an average of 1,334 pounds per acre. Complete figures for the yield on the 1950 crop in the county are not yet available.

Scholarship For Milton Spain At 4-H Club Meet

Milton Spain, 18-year-old former 4-H Club member from Belvoir, has been awarded a $300 college scholarship by General Motors Company for his work in farm safety.

The award was made yesterday during the annual 4-H Club National Congress in Chicago.

Spain, presently a freshman in the school of agriculture at State College, represented North Carolina in the field of 4-H farm safety. The scholarship given him is one of eight awarded by General Motors to 4-H Club members throughout the country.

The National Congress opened Monday and closes Friday. Spain becomes the second Belvoir club member to win the award. Wesley Manning, a student at Belvoir high school, won the honor last year at the Congress.

Crisis In Korea Hit U. S. Capital Hard; Lawmakers And Officials Confer On Problems Of The Future; Statehood Bills Get Only A Part Of Attention

By MAX HALL

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—The news from Korea has knocked this city back on its heels, and maybe the effect has been the same in your neighborhood.

Everywhere are solemn faces, and people saying, "Isn't it terrible?" "Yes, awful, isn't it? Where is it going to end?"

In a Washington department store, a clerk and a woman customer are deep in discussion of the war news, and other women come up, one by one, and stand quietly and listen.

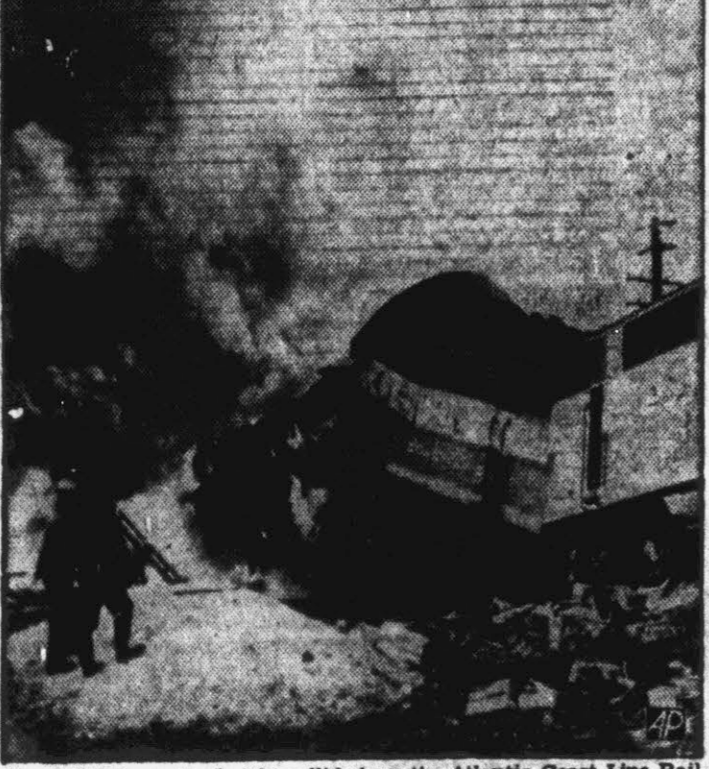

In many a government office there is worried chattering about the crisis.

At the Pentagon and other military buildings, there is great activity, no time for glumness. Conferences are all over the place. Ringing telephones. Brisk walking in corridors.

At the White House and elsewhere, men are wrestling with immense problems affecting the future of this country and the world.

President Truman, the man on whom the heaviest responsibility falls, consults with his chief advisers.

Train Wreck Sets Fire To Depot

Cost-Of-Living At All-Time High

Nearly Million Workers To Get Automatic Wage Boost

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—The government's Cost of Living Index today rose to a new all-time high. Nearly a million workers whose wage contracts are tied to the rise and fall of the index will receive a pay hike of two to three cents an hour.

The new index, covering prices as of Oct. 15, was 174.8 per cent of the 1935-39 base period, an increase of 0.6 per cent since Sept. 15.

It was 0.2 per cent higher than the previous peak of 174.5 in August and September, 1948.

General Motors Corp., first of the major auto manufacturers to adopt the cost of living formula for its workers, announced immediately 357,000 hourly-rated workers will receive an additional three cents an hour. The boost will be effective with the first pay period beginning after Dec. 1.

Approximately 80,000 GM salaried workers will receive an additional $15 as their allowance for the period between Dec. 1 and next March 1, to be paid at the close of the quarter next March.

President Asks Speedy Action On Tito Relief

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—President Truman appealed to Congress today for speedy action on emergency aid to Yugoslavia to help that country defy "the savage threats of the Soviet imperialists."

The President told the Senate and House in a message that it is his "earnest hope" that they will provide a $38,000,000 fund at the present, short session to keep food shipments rolling to the drought-stricken country.

He said it is "clearly in our national interest" to help the Yugoslavs "maintain their independence of the Kremlin."

UN Circles See Futile Endeavor

Have Little Hope Of Localizing Korean War In View Of Chinese Talk

Lake Success, Nov. 29—(AP)—United Nations circles privately expressed forebodings today on the chances of localizing the bitter Korean fighting in view of the Chinese Communists' unyielding attitude.

This feeling prevailed in those non-Communist delegations that had urged bringing the Chinese Reds to Lake Success in the hope some conciliatory agreement could be worked out.

Peiping's spokesman, Wu Hsi-chuan, blasted many of those hopes in the Security Council yesterday when he made it plain the Chinese Communists had no intention of withdrawing from Korea. Informants felt his stinging attack on United States policies in the Orient widened the gulf between Mao Tse-tung's regime and the non-Communist world.

India's Sir Benegal Rau, who has been expected to take the lead in conciliation efforts with the Chinese Reds, said he had no plan to confer with the Peiping representatives today.

Britain, which like India recognized the Peiping regime, also has no intention at this stage to contact the Chinese Reds here. A British source said his delegation does not wish to speak or vote in the Security Council this afternoon unless circumstances develop to a point where such actions would be necessary.

The British here were closely watching the outcome of the foreign affairs debate in their House of Commons. They particularly noted Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's statement that he still hoped a settlement on "political lines" would end the threat of a third world war over Korea.

A lengthy speech by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik is expected in the Security Council. The speech with the subsequent translations will run up the entire afternoon session.

The grave concern here over Korean developments was heightened by receipt of a communication from the U.N. commission for the unification and rehabilitation of Korea. The statement said in part:

"We began our meetings here on Monday, following a tumultuous ovation from the people of Seoul. We had high hopes and still have them. But now we are faced with grave news and we have of course considered it. We are maintaining touch with the civil and military authorities, but we have not lost sight of our goal and we are considering our future action."

Service By Air

Washington, O. Nov. 29—(AP)—A flying grocery store is aiding Fayette County farmers who can't get out of their snow-bound areas to buy food.

John Blair of nearby Milldelville spent several hours shoveling snow off his runway. Then he telephoned farmer friends and got their food orders. Yesterday he flew low over snowbound areas and dropped 11 grocery orders. He plans the same service until the snow clears.

Storm-Lashed Industries Near Normal Operations

By The Associated Press

Big industrial centers in the storm-lashed eastern states appeared moving toward near normal operations today.

But a big cleanup job remained in many areas. It looked like a slow and tedious fight before resumption of normal activities in some of the hardest hit sections of the storm belt.

The death toll mounted to nearly 300 from the savage weekend storms which whipped over areas in 22 eastern and midwest states. Damages continued to grow. Uncounted thousands suffered privations. Many still were without heat, electricity or telephones. The damage to property from the snow, winds, sleet and rain was estimated in the hundreds of millions of dollars.

Guest Describes Grisly Gift At Koch Birthday

Augsberg, Germany, Nov. 29—(AP)—Guests at a birthday party for Ilse Koch declared a lamp made of human skin and a human shinbone was the most successful gift of all, a witness at her trial testified today.

The red haired widow of the former Buchenwald concentration camp commander is on trial before a German court accused of instigating the murder of 45 inmates, the attempted murder of 135 others and brutality.

She served four years of a "committed life sentence on a U. S. War crimes conviction. The Germans are trying her for crimes allegedly committed against German and Austrian nationals.

He said he had been told that human skin from the back "is as tough as pigskin."

Chinese Seek Cutting Off Big Allied Force In Sweep

Red China Calls For Recognition

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—Southern Democrats, with strong Republican backing, waged an all-out fight in the Senate today to block the bill to grant statehood to Alaska.

President Truman has asked the short session of congress to pass the bill and a companion Hawaiian measure, both passed by the House.

One southerner asking not to be named, told a reporter the dispute might endanger Mr. Truman's entire program for the session. The president has asked for rent control legislation and big defense appropriations, among other things, before this congress expires Jan. 3.

Senator Lucas (D-III), Democratic floor leader, called the fight a filibustering effort to talk the Alaska statehood bill to death. He voiced concern over its apparent proportions.

The anonymous southern spokesman suggested that he saw little point in senate committees working to draft rent control and other administration measures if administration forces planned to let statehood become a long drawn fight.

The Dixie leadership, however, gave no hint it might be thinking of offering to trade its support of administration bills for abandonment of the statehood measure.

Southern senators long have objected to granting statehood to Alaska and Hawaii for a variety of reasons—among them a belief that any senators elected by the new states would be likely to link up with the northern supporters of civil rights bills.

To Lucas and many others the fight looked and sounded like the start of a filibuster—the ancient device of dragging out debate until the opposition yields.

But Senator Russell (D-Ga), quarterbacking a drive to block the measure, insisted "there is no organized filibuster," he conceded, however, that his forces planned "a lot of debate" before even this first round of the battle ends.

At issue is whether to sidetrack pending legislation and let first the Alaskan and then the Hawaiian statehood bills come up for debate and a vote. Both bills will die automatically if they are not passed by Jan. 3.

Two American Divisions Escape Closing Trap; Communist Column Near Pyongyang; More Chinese Pouring Into Battle From Manchuria; Warplanes Roar Over Front In Support Of Desperate Ground Troops

Seoul, Nov. 29—(AP)—Two American divisions escaped south across the icy Chongchon River in north-west Korea today but Chinese Reds swarming through a wide gap threatened to trap a big allied force.

The Chinese offensive mass of more than 200,000 men was reported using tanks for the first time.

A spokesman at advanced U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said one communist column had cut within 30 miles of the former Red Korean capital of Pyongyang.

He said the Red force was near Sinchang northeast of the old capital but did not disclose its size.

At least three other Red Chinese columns were reported rolling down through the Tokchon gap in wide sweeps against the allies' exposed right flank.

This was where communist attacks earlier had crumpled three South Korean divisions.

Another Chinese force was reported attacking for the first time on the extreme left flank, but the spokesman did not give the location. A Chinese breakthrough in force to the Yellow Sea would seal off large elements of the 110,000-man force fighting for its life in the northwest.

Chinese Force Grows

The Chinese Red attack was mounted by 200,000 or more troops with more pouring in steadily from Manchuria.

The spokesman said six Chinese armies now have been identified in Korea. Elements of one Chinese army known to have been in central China a week ago, he said, were attacking the Eighth Army's northern front.

The first observed Chinese Red tanks were reported across the Chongchon, rumbling from the west on Kumu, eastern anchor of the shrunken allied line.

Escape Galt

Kumu was the escape through which U. S. 24th and Second Division troops poured after crossing the Chongchon. The Reds were attacking from three sides. Kumu's fate was in doubt.

The U. S. 24th Division last war reported in the Pachtan area north of the Chongchon, guarding an escape route over the Anju River bridge on the west or left side of the allied line.

But the Eighth Army spokesman said no enemy contact was made Wednesday in the 24th Division sector.

This seemed to indicate that "large enemy forces" reported earlier in the extreme left flank might already be across the Chongchon somewhere near the Yellow Sea.

The spokesman described the situation along the Chongchon line as "extremely fluid" and "very obscure."

He said the allies were trying to stabilize their lines against a concerted enemy attack.

Allied warplanes, grounded Wednesday morning by bad weather, roared over the front throughout the afternoon in close support of desperate ground troops.

But a heavy smoke haze over the eastern flank hampered air activity.

The spokesman said the Chinese may have set fires to conceal their movements.

Roads Jammed

Roads leading south from the shrunken front were jammed with refugees. Allied convoys rolled down clogged highways. Trucks, jeeps and heavy weapons limped along bumper to bumper.

Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, Eighth Army commander, said the allies' end-the-war offensive, launched Friday, "probably saved our forces from a trap which might well have destroyed them."

He said that if the allies had waited, the Chinese Reds might have had 400,000 troops to throw against the Eighth Army.

The retreat across the Chongchon at Kumu was made under massive Red attacks.

AF correspondent Tom Lambert, with the Eighth Army, reported at 8:43 p.m. (4:43 a.m. EST) that the river-crossing withdrawal in the eastern sector was all but complete.

But a South Korean division to the west was still north of the river at latest reports, along with the U. S. 24th.

Pitt Has Three Highway Wrecks

No One Is Injured, Though Two Trucks Turn Over In Ditch

By Roy Hardee

The driver of an asphalt-loaded dump truck escaped injury and possible burns about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon when his truck ran off the Pachtolus highway and overturned in a canal.

Highway Patrolman Delton E. Perry who investigated the accident identified the driver of the truck as Robert Greeman, 25, of Greenville route five. Perry said the accident occurred about five miles from Greenville when the left front tire of the truck blew out.

"The tire which blew out was worn down to the fabric," the patrolman commented.

Perry said Greeman was alone in the truck at the time of the accident. No charges were brought against Greeman. At the time of the accident he was hauling a load of hot asphalt which was to be used on the construction of a road in the Pachtolus section of the county.

A truck and trailer driven by Elmer Jackson Williams, 1705 Smith Street, Greenville, turned over yesterday afternoon around 1:00 when the driver stated he was forced from the road by another car.

Patrolman Dick Chadwick, investigating officer, stated that slight damage resulted to the truck and trailer as it went into the ditch. Williams' told Chadwick that he took to the ditch as another car passed him, but cut in sharply.

The accident occurred about two miles south of Greenville on Highway N. C. 11. The driver of the car did not reveal his name.

Another accident, the third for the county over the past twenty-four hours was investigated by Patrolman R. C. Ho. of Ayden last night near Belvoir.

Holt stated that a car owned by R. V. Jones of Route 4, Greenville, was parked at Warren House's service station with some other cars. A car operated by Vernon D. Everetts of Route 4, Greenville pulled out from the station around some parked cars, but because of a car to his left, did not see the Jones car until his left front struck the vehicle.

The driver estimated that he was traveling at a moderate speed. There were no brake marks on the road to indicate the driver had tried to stop.

Patrolman Holt stated that there were no charges brought against the driver. Both cars were damaged slightly. Holt stated.

This New Aggression

Chinese Action In Korea Could Lead To A Major War, But Not Necessarily A Forerunner Of Another World Conflict; Solution Is Not Up To U. S. Alone

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

This fresh Chinese aggression in Korea could lead to a major war involving China, but it isn't necessarily the forerunner of another world conflict.

Undoubtedly China is acting with the blessings and advice of Moscow. However, Russia has been keeping carefully in the background ever since the Korean upheaval began. Russian-built warplanes and other military equipment have been appearing on the battlefields, but the Muscovites themselves have been standing aside.

The indications have been that Russia desired to avoid another global upheaval at this juncture. And there is no sign that the latest development means any change in her attitude.

It could well be that Moscow would be happy to see the western powers, and especially the United States, become involved in a war with China while Russia sat on the sideline.

Such a conflict would place a terrific strain on American economy and military strength and thus make the U. S. A. more vulnerable if and when the world war came. So far as China is concerned, her millions of fighting men are expendable.

Right here we shall do well to note that when General MacArthur made his grave announcement that "we face an entirely new war" because of the Chinese invasion of Korea, "we didn't refer exclusively to the United States. The general was talking about United Nations members other than those of the communist bloc.

The Korean intervention is a United Nations affair—and let's not forget that item. America is one of this partnership. True, because of her greater resources she is carrying the major load. But this war isn't exclusively her affair.

If this development means the raising of new forces to meet the Red onslaught, they still should be supplied by the United Nations on the basis of "one for all and all for one". The United States shouldn't be expected to carry the sack alone. We advocate bigger aid

Dr. Carter Speaks Before Study Group

On Monday night at 7:00 o'clock the city elementary school teachers' study group met at West Greenville School. Mrs. Myrtle Clark, program chairman, presided. Mrs. Clark led the devotional based on Bible verses from Acts 4:32-35. How can children understand how to guide them? We come together in order that we may better understand.
Dr. E. J. Carter, acting head of the Department of Education at ECTC, spoke to the group on "Resource-Use in Education." Dr. Carter said, "Our acute need is to use what we have rather than to be continually reaching for something different. It is only by teaching the wise use of our resources that we can build better homes, churches, schools and governments." Dr. Carter illustrated his talk with timely slides showing conservation problems and how they can be corrected in this state and throughout the country. He stated that "education on conservation will produce men and women who will protect our natural resources and will build the institutions we want and need. Teachers cannot teach all children everything, but they can give them practice in making intelligent choices which will carry over to adult life."

Legion Auxiliary Meets To Honor Gold Star Mothers

The American Legion Auxiliary, honoring the Gold Star Mothers, held its regular monthly meeting Monday night, November 27, at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. J. B. Spilman. Members and guests were greeted by Mrs. Spilman and each Gold Star Mother was presented a corsage. Mrs. Humeout of the Greenville Floral Co. presented the corsages to the Auxiliary for the Gold Star Mothers for the past four years.
The Auxiliary was delighted to welcome the following Gold Star Mothers:
Mesdames Mittle Ba-night, Walter L. Cherry, G. A. Clark, Roy Cox, D. H. Fleming, Ernest Jones, H. R. Rogers, J. L. Rollins, M. C. Sermons, J. B. Spilman and Paul Vincenta.
Mrs. James Worsley presided over the business session. The meeting opened with the recitation in unison of the preamble, and the salute to the flag. The invocation was given by Mrs. Worsley in the absence of the chaplain, Mrs. Wiley Brown. The secretary and treasurer reports were heard and approved.
Mrs. H. R. Rogers stated that the Christmas boxes for the Veterans Hospital had been mailed on time, with help from Mrs. Simon Tucker and Mrs. Moye.
The Auxiliary agreed to send $1.10 each to twenty boys at the Veterans Hospital for Christmas.
Plans for helping a needy family at Christmas were discussed. Mrs. J. B. Spilman agreed to select a needy family with the assistance of Mrs. Arthur Corey.
A report on Americanism was heard from Mrs. Frank Taylor. Mrs. Taylor stated that she had contacted a number of schools in regard to the love and care of our flag, and she hoped to contact all schools in the county soon.
Mrs. G. A. Taylor, hospitality chairman, reported cards sent to sick members.
Mrs. James Worsley gave a report on the American Legion Auxiliary Area Conference meeting held in Rocky Mount Oct. 31st.
A motion was passed to endorse the project of the department president, Mrs. E. P. Rhyne.
Mrs. H. R. Rogers introduced the guest speaker, Dr. H. G. Haney, pastor of the Christian Church. Dr. Haney gave an interesting talk on his visit to the United Nations.
He described Lake Success the site for the committee meetings of the UN, and Flushing Meadows where the General Assembly of the UN holds its sessions. A person must have a ticket to enter the UN, and be seen but not heard, says Dr. Haney. The UN is an organization made up of sixty member nations; each of these nations has five delegates and five alternates. The United States group is backed by a staff of research workers.
After visiting a committee meeting and the General Assembly, Dr. Haney seemed satisfied that Delegate Malik of Russia was bent on going everything to defeat the purpose of the UN. "The United Nations is the last and best hope of world peace, if the Christian conscience is brought to bear on all matters of world government. There can be no lasting peace without Christian religion," said Dr. Haney.
At the conclusion of the meeting ice cream and cake were served.
Mrs. Spilman extended an invitation to the Auxiliary and Gold Star Mothers to hold their next November meeting with her, and to also have her same group of hostesses—Mesdames Agnes Barnes, Walter Cherry, Artaur Corey, Hicks Corey, J. K. Hester, F. A. Jordan, Frank Taylor, S. B. Tucker, Novella Williams and Misses Agusta Williams and Grace Smith.

Mrs. Fleming Hostess To End of Century

The End of the Century club met with Mrs. J. L. Fleming on Tuesday, November 28, at her home on Greene street.
The guests were welcomed by the hostess and her daughter, Mrs. J. L. Winstead.
Mrs. C. A. White presiding over a short business meeting welcomed several members who had been absent and the guest for the afternoon, Mrs. R. E. Haraway. It was with deep regret that the club spoke of the resignation of Miss Irene Hester as librarian at Sheppard Memorial Library. Plans for the usual Christmas basket sent by this club were discussed and turned over to the emergency committee. Announcements were made of the china painting course and classes in adult education offered at East Carolina Teachers College. The program chairman, Mrs. J. H. Thomas, presented the speaker for the day, Mrs. J. B. Spilman. The club is always glad to hear Mrs. Spilman, who is an able speaker on many subjects; but who had chosen for her discussion: one in which she has long been interested—politics. Mrs. Spilman admitted that her active participation in politics had begun at an early age and had never grown dim. She reminded her hearers that often in our criticism of our government as it is handled by those in office we forget the possibilities of graver dangers that might have been. After stating in no uncertain terms the extreme dangers confronting us today she explained deftly many ways our government is ably attempting to show to the peoples of the world what the true American way of life can offer and made us keenly aware that our country was not idly standing by allowing the false propaganda of hatred engendered by the communistic forces within and without go unheeded. Mrs. Spilman's discussion of one critical condition showed much thought and depth of understanding. Her keen analysis of the situation proved to her hearers her ability to hold her own in any political gathering. In closing she said, "The free nations of the world still have the great advantage because the truth is on their side, and this great power of truth is the strongest point in working toward peace."

After the program the guests were invited into the dining room where delightful and elaborate refreshments were served.

Mr. R. L. Holt Gives Book Review

The Literature Department of the Woman's Club met in the home of Mrs. B. McK. Johnson Tuesday afternoon, November 28, with Miss Marguerite Austin, Miss Christine Johnson and Mrs. C. A. Scruggs assisting hostesses. The home was made cheery with a grate fire, late autumn foliage and fruits of the season.
Mrs. H. R. Phillips presided at the business session. A motion was passed to take a collection for woolen material to be sent to needy German children. An announcement was made concerning the sale of the Garden club calendars. At the December meeting, the Literature Department members will exchange gifts.
After a delightful coffee hour, Mr. R. L. Holt, director of religious education at E. C. T. C. reviewed Marion L. Starkey's book, "The Devil in Massachusetts." After a brief historical sketch of the origin of the persecution of witches, Mr. Holt skillfully led the discussion to modern psychiatric and religious trends

Plans Made For Annual Reunion Of Ashley Allen Family

Ayden — On September 5 several of the heirs of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Allen of Pitt County, met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Kittrell in Ayden for the purpose of discussing the organization of an annual family reunion of the Allen family. From this gathering the family named Mrs. Blanche Allen, Kittrell as temporary chairman, with Mrs. Max McGlohon and Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Allen to assist her.
The first re-union following the organization meeting was held in the Ayden Community Building Sunday, November 26. The business session was presided over by the temporary chairman and officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Mrs. Hugh Allen, president; Mrs. L. L. Kittrell, vice-president; Mrs. Tucker McGlohon, secretary; treasurer, Mrs. Ned McGlohon; Mrs. David G. Allen, of Raleigh, and Mrs. Max McGlohon, of Ayden, as historians. Raise Big Sum For Building In Winterville Winterville's Community Building, now under construction, is expected to be ready for occupancy by Christmas, it was learned today.

At a fellowship supper held during Thanksgiving week by the Winterville Ruritan Club and the Winterville Literary Club, nearly $500 was realized from sale of tickets to the banquet and the auction sale of donated cakes, hams, chickens and other things to eat. Ray Oglesby, tobacco auctioneer, conducted the sale.
Banquet tickets and the auction sale netted exactly $477 for the Community Building fund.
The Winterville Ruritan Club donated the food. A business firm gave the coffee and the Literary Society donated the cakes to be auctioned off. Elwoodavenport is president of the Ruritan Club. Mrs. McCoy Tripp is president of the Literary Club.

tobacco allotment looks bright for the tobacco farmers and all the people in the tobacco regions. But should we suddenly find the supply of flue-cured tobacco far exceeding the demand, the leaf prices would take a slump which could mean financial ruin for many farmers.

Although a great deal of publicity has not been given to the matter, there are widespread reports of farmers in the tobacco regions, especially on the fringes where the allotments are small, who are making preparations for extensive over-planting of allotments during the coming season. Of course it's the farmers' privilege to over-plant his allotment and pay the penalty for marketing the additional tobacco, but such a practice is endangering the whole structure of the tobacco allotment program.

In Pitt county during the 1950 season there were more than 1,100 farmers who over-planted their tobacco allotments, but of these, there were only 47 farmers who did not destroy their surplus acreage so they would be in line with the allotment which they had received.

There have been reports around the county that some farmers are planning to over-plant during the coming season and pay the penalty to sell the additional poundage of tobacco they raise. In so doing, these individual farmers may get more money from their crop for the single season; but if the practice is carried on by many farmers, it would take only a season to create a tobacco surplus which would make the bottom drop out of the tobacco price structure as we know it.

Practically every farmer in Pitt county can remember the dark days of agriculture in this section when there were no tobacco allotments and no price support—and tobacco was selling for an average of slightly over $9 per hundred pounds. The farmers remember and we don't think they want to return to those days.

Strength for the Day

BY EARL L. DOUGLAS
THE GREEKS HAD A WORD FOR IT
A current favorite saying is "The Greeks had a word for it." Actually classical Greek does have words for some things which we cannot express so simply in English. One such word for which we have no exact equivalent signifies the kind of arrogant pride in which a man boasts openly of his own good fortune, his success in life, his cleverness, and his great ability.
Such actions, the Greeks believed, were sure to anger the gods; and a man guilty of this arrogance would soon find himself in some terrible misfortune, if, indeed, a well-aimed thunderbolt did not put an end to him at once.
We no longer believe that God will strike the wicked with lightning. But this conduct which the Greeks detested can still lead to trouble, for everyone soon gets tired of the man who constantly blows his own horn. His friends, if he has any, begin to avoid him in order not to have to listen to the same old subject—himself. Other fortunate or successful people who are more modest are bored by a boaster, while those who have not been so lucky are often roused to feelings of dislike and jealousy.
Are you proud of what you have achieved? Fine—but let your friends be the ones to talk about it.

Will The Palmetto State Boom Or Burst?

Are real estate values in South Carolina going to boom or burst?

Chances are the value of real estate will soar in the sections of the Palmetto state where the government is going to build its new $260,000,000 H-bomb plants; but just off hand, we can't see the immediate area of the plant as a desirable place in which to live.

Of course the government already has announced that some 1,500 families will have to move out of the 250,000 acre plot which the government intends to take over for the plants. That will shoot up the prices of real estate in the surrounding areas if the people decide to stay close to home. Then too, there will be many other people who will come to work in or around the H-bomb plant.

There'll be some high priced property in Jackson, Ellenton, Dumbarton and Snelling sections of South Carolina when the government starts purchasing the property for its plant and the new people begin moving in. But on the other hand, there'll probably be some people who'll be anxious to get rid of their property in the area at most any price to get away from the plant.

The H-bomb plant is going to be a great asset to South Carolina and to its neighboring states, but with it is coming a number of problems and headaches. Industry is bringing new prosperity to the South, and along with it is coming international prominence.

A Little Common Sense Can Go A Long Way

Increased tobacco allotments for the coming year will mean Pitt county will have its largest acreage allotment in several years.

During 1950 the county had an allotment of 34,379 acres. The nine per cent increase in allotments which has been announced for 1951 will mean the county will be allotted approximately 37,478 acres of tobacco for 1951.

The Department of Agriculture, in announcing the increased acreage allotments, said the domestic demand for flue-cured tobacco is increasing, and the foreign demand for the tobacco also is increasing. Despite the efforts of other countries to raise a variety of tobacco which will be a suitable substitute for the flue-cured leaf, the Department of Agriculture is of the opinion the foreign demand for American flue-cured tobacco will continue strong.

The department in making out the allotments has estimated carefully the anticipated demands for flue-cured leaf during the coming year, and has set the allotment to meet the demand. The department is interested in having ample tobacco to meet both the foreign and domestic demands; but it is equally anxious that an over-supply of tobacco does not develop in the 1951 crop to send current prices crashing downward.

As long as the price of flue-cured tobacco holds at the level or near the level which was set this year, the future with a larger

I Dunno About Profits—

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

There are four kinds of people in Greenville:
(1) Fortunate ones who let last Saturday pass without even realizing that there was a Duke-Carolina football game.
(2) Fortunate ones who had tickets to the game, but had enough sense to stay home, realizing it was too cold for football.
(3) Fortunate ones who went to Chapel Hill for the game, but turned around, content to listen to the game on the radio on the way back to Greenville.
(4) Stupid ones who watched the game from Kenan Stadium. You already know that I'm in the fourth category. Of the almost 45,000 tickets sold, only about 30,000 were on hand when the game ended. At half-time at least 4,000 took off.
If there's nothing else to complain about, you can always beef about the weather. Saturday was a good day for that. During WW II I was stationed in Cheyenne, Wyoming, for 14 months, where a June snow is a common occurrence and the temperature was below zero before it turned cold in Greenville. Yet, I have never been as cold anywhere, including Wyoming, as I was in Kenan Stadium Saturday. The cold in high altitudes, like Wyoming, are dry colds, and will not penetrate like the Eastern Carolina cold.

If it was so cold, why didn't more fans take off? Truthfully, I think pride is what kept the fans there. They would look at each other and think silently, "If he can take it, so can I!" In our foursome, if one had admitted a desire to take off, the other three would have been half way out of the stadium before the ball could be snapped from center.
The roving salesman of "ice cold drinks" found business dull. Anybody with hot coffee could have named his own price, but in order to keep the coffee hot he would have needed a portable stove.

Those of us who were fools enough to sit in the cold only saw three-fourths of the game, whereas the radio listeners could follow every play. The fans in Kenan Stadium were turning to grab the corner of a blanket, or looking for a seat without ice on it, and in the process missed part of the game.
The Carolina football team dug up socks that apparently hadn't been used for years. Some had orange stripes, while others were white. Carolina Fullback Billy Hayes was dunned in his usual sleeveless shirt.
Even a fool can learn. Next year there'll be one man in Greenville who checks the weather report before going to a football game. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, N. C.

KIDS — Some three hundred kids were made happy in Raleigh the other night, when the Sir Walter Hotel had them as guests at a full course dinner with trimmings. The group was made up of children from the Catholic orphanage, the Methodist orphanage, and the state school for the blind. Each year on the opening day of the Kiwanis Club minstrel show, the Raleigh Kiwanis club arranges a matinee at which the children are guests of the club. Following the show the kids move to the hotel, where Roland Mumford, vice president of the Meyer hotel system, and Arthur Budenhagen, manager of the Sir Walter, are joint hosts at the dinner.

TOUCHING — Everybody was happy, including the adults who had charge of the youngsters. These adult eyes were just as bright as those of the kids, but maybe for different reason. Thanks to the generosity of a Christian society these little folks have not gone hungry or cold. But they do suffer handicaps, in lack of sight or lack of normal home life. For one night they constituted royalty. The banquet tables, with china and silver, were the same as used for big folks' dinners. The toys were extra; so were the bright eyes. And in cases where there was no light in the eyes, the tingling fingers of groping youngsters as they felt the shape of things about them—well, that made the old folks eyes bright. Few people in this favored land will dissent from the words of appreciation made in behalf of the youngsters for the fine things the Raleigh Kiwanis Club as a whole, the Sir Walter Hotel as an institution, Roland Mumford and Arthur Budenhagen as individuals, did last Monday.

PUZZLED — Governor Kerr Scott has done it again. He has a good many people wondering why he does things the way he does. Latest instance was the meeting of the Business Foundation of the University at Chapel Hill last Saturday. The governor was present in multiple capacity as governor of the state, chairman of the university board of trustees, and a North Carolina business man. He had been asked to say a few words, and the idea was to have him boost the Business Foundation, host for the day, and maybe urge state businessmen to support the program. He did endorse the whole idea of foundations to supplement appropriations at state institutions, but he devoted major emphasis to the need for a tobacco research foundation. Anybody who knows the importance of tobacco, from its planting to its final processing in state economy will agree that such support is needed. Few people except Governor Scott would have picked the meeting of a rival (?) foundation to promote the tobacco research idea.

The Voice Of The People

To the Editor:
A few days ago I read in the Daily Reflector that "a thorough survey by a competent engineer could show exactly where the smoke and ash is coming from." This was in relation to the soot problem in Greenville.
I am no engineer, competent or otherwise, but I have stood on the corners of 4th and Washington, 4th and Evans and 3rd and Cotanche and I can tell you that the soot comes from the Courthouse chimneys, the Post office chimney and Scott's Dry Cleaners. This smoke is thick and filthy black and heavy with soot and has covered me with grime whenever I have been in its vicinity.

It is very possible that other cleaning establishments in town have the same smoke situation as Scott's Dry Cleaners and taking the three places mentioned above, plus the railroad and the utility plant, I should think that would give the answer to the question raised about where the soot is coming.
The remedies ought to be simple—a change in heating systems in the above buildings and perhaps a polite request to the railroad companies to use Diesel engines on their freight hauls.

Seriously though, before the City goes into a heavy expense hiring engineers etc. why not just change the type of fuel used or convert the systems in some of the larger establishments in town.
Very truly yours,
Evelyn Beasley

What Other Papers Are Thinking

THE SQUAT AND ITS CRITICS
(Greensboro Daily News)
Whether it is worthwhile to stick a hat pin in a straw woman, we don't know. Perhaps it is if you enjoy it.
W. E. Debnam's "Weep No More, My Lady" has sold 80,000 copies.
"The straw woman" is an effigy of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who was right when she intimated that there are "signs of unhappiness and poverty" in the South. We cannot help them disappear by denying that they are there.

To those who love the South for what it is and who are willing to look its faults as well as its virtues in the face in the hope of making a better South, the Debnam, booklet is no special contribution.
When the South is accused of "signs of poverty and unhappiness," it is easy to retort (as Debnam does) that there is plenty of unhappiness and poverty in the North, East and West. Nothing could be more true, unfortunately, and nothing could do the South more harm than to seek consolation for its own deficiencies by supinely contemplating these of other sections. That is not the way the South has made the amazing progress it has made particularly in the past 50 years.

Mrs. Roosevelt as a critic of the South is often misguided and wrong, we think, but fundamentally sympathetic and desirous of being helpful.
The South is strong and great enough to take it. If no longer runs its Walter Hines' ages out of the country, it builds on the land its critics have cleared.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
We may be building up to another period of scarce buying, largely centered on autos, appliances, radios and TV sets.
National Production Authority orders have been increasing in frequency and scope. Rubber, steel, aluminum, cobalt and many other materials are already under various controls, all intended to divert essentials from civilian channels and into military uses.
As the rearmament program moves deeper into the production stage and as more plants shift from civilian goods to military materiel, it is likely these orders will be made more strict. Both less materials and less production facilities for civilian goods will result.
There are a number of reasons why the buying rush has not started yet. Chief of these is that there are plenty of autos in the show windows and plenty of durable goods in the stores. There's nothing like piling a million dollars in a bank window to stop a run of withdrawals; there's nothing like an abundance of goods in sight to dampen scarce buying.
There are autos on show because it's Fall, when demand slumps seasonally and credit controls have stopped poorer buyers. There are durables available because stores have stocked up for Christmas selling and again, credit controls.
Another reason there hasn't been panic buying is that consumers are not yet fully conscious of the impact of NPA orders. They know that rubber, metals, etc., are restricted, but they have not yet translated this knowledge into terms of pressure cookers, television sets, etc.
But if Christmas buying depletes store stocks and a few more auto production lines are shifted to military equipment, or if there are a number of lay-offs in consumer-goods plants because metals are not available, a realization of what's ahead will become suddenly vivid. This can set off a rush of buying.
However, it is a good bet it won't duplicate the buying panic of July. The Federal Reserve Board has a treatment all ready for just such a situation and is probably itching to apply it. This is tighter consumer credit controls. At the first sign of runaway buying, down payments are likely to be raised, time of payments shortened, price limits lowered and, perhaps, charge accounts regulated.

PERMANENT NORWAY EXHIBIT FOR U.S.
A permanent exhibition of Norwegian products will be established in America. A corporation has been formed to erect a six-story building on Madison Ave., New York, to house a permanent exhibition of the Norwegian Export Council of Oslo. The rest of the building will be occupied by Norwegian official institutions, the Norwegian-American Chamber of Commerce, and Norwegian-American traders. It may also house a Norwegian restaurant.
WAR PLANTS NAB BUILDING WORKERS
Plants with military contracts are finding a source of manpower among building trades workers. Not only are the building trades entering the slack season, but many workers are aware the housing credit restrictions will reduce opportunities for future employment and are willing to settle for a steady job. It's also a good source because many in the construction field have skills that can be adapted to plant production.

With U. S. Eighth Army, Korea — (AP)—The life of the first army to fight under the United Nations banner is at stake in the chill hills of North Korea. Equally at stake is the success of the entire five months' effort to unite Korea by arms as a step towards world peace.
This startling turn taken by the Korean war can be summarized by an animal parable:
A terrier has long been fighting a marauding alley cat to keep her from the home he is protecting. One day he chases the cat across the cleared land toward the jungle trees.
As he nears the jungle, he sees the cat spitting at him from between the claws of a big tiger. Before he can halt, the tiger flicks out a paw and cripples one of the terrier's legs.
The terrier pauses. Most of the tiger's body lies in the jungle that is the tiger's own domain, but its forepaws stretch out into the clearing that is the terrier's duty to guard. Between these paws, the alley cat dares him to come on.
The terrier sees no help, but his duty is clear. He must drive both cats, the small one and the large, out of the clearing.
He charges bravely forward. Both cats are ready. They draw back slightly, then lunge at him. The blow breaks one leg of the terrier and sends him reeling back. Again he turns and faces his foe. What next?
The immediate and decisive choice lies with the tiger, which can leap on the terrier and kill him—but to do that the tiger will have to emerge all the way from the jungle, and that might mean that men with torches and clubs would come and beat the tiger to death and burn down the jungle.
The tiger can fade softly back into the jungle and let the wounded terrier chase the alley cat back.
However, it is a young tiger, full of pride, and rather likes the idea of having the alley cat main in the clearing as a symbol of the tiger's power.
The tiger also has a third choice. It can just stay there on the edge of the jungle and slap down the dauntless terrier every time he advances. This could go on over and over again until the terrier's owners decide either to let him off or go all-out to his aid. In soft puffs, the tiger meanwhile insists it is not even in the clearing.
The clearing is Korea; the jungle is China; the tiger is the Chinese communist regime, and its paws are the "volunteers" now fighting the Eighth Army terrier on behalf of the defeated North Korean cat.
The scene of the fights is a 60-mile stretch of frozen mountains and winding, narrow roads in northwest Korea.
The terrier Eighth Army was first mauled late in October when it ran into a surprise ambush by the Chinese tiger during a race to catch the North Korean Army's remnants.
Last Friday the Eighth Army tried again. It had at its disposal fewer than ten of the 19 United Nations divisions in Korea. It faced at least 19 tentatively identified enemy divisions—11 Chinese and eight North Korean.
Saturday night the Reds counterattacked. They have shattered three Korean Republican divisions on the Eighth Army right flank, driving them back in disorder 20 miles.
That was the blow that broke the terrier's leg. Or, as military men say, it exposed the right flank. That badly crippled army probably now, as a result, may be at the mercy of the tiger's choice, many professional soldiers believe.
The enemy already stands less than 60 miles from the former North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Hal Boyle's Column

yang. If the Reds can slash down those last miles, they have an excellent chance of bottling up or destroying the entire allied attacking force.
Red China is said to have some 500,000 troops in Manchuria. By quickly massing in a giant offensive, they might reach Pyongyang in a week. It could be a tempting prospect, for in the small U. N. Army of 110,000 men that might be the thus surrounded—an army made up of Americans, British, Australian and Turkish troops—are four American divisions.
These top combat outfits, the 24th, 25th and Second Infantry Divisions and the First Cavalry Division, represent more than one-third of the entire American Army trained striking force in the field. They make up a professional core that is counted on to serve as heart and brain of a vast civilian army if America ever has to mobilize for a larger war.
It would add immeasurably to Red China's military prestige to capture or destroy these divisions, but what might be the final result if she tried? A third World War may hinge on her decision, a decision that must come soon.

Washington Letter
BY JANE EADS
Washington—Trying to keep a man on the job of cleaning cuspidors at the U. S. government Printing Office (GPO) used to be a howling headache. "Today," says the GPO plant engineer, W. A. Anderson, "you could not get that operator to leave his job. He has taken an entirely new attitude toward his work. He struts around as though he had been promoted to chief engineer, or superintendent of the spittoon-cleaning machine."
This miracle, according to the engineer, was achieved through a little redecorating job in the man's work room.
Mr. Anderson told about the cuspidor cleaner while addressing a group of experts studying work environment problems. He reported on the function of color to "improve seeing conditions and to improve morale."
He said tobacco chewing seems to be a favorite pastime in printing plants, possibly because smoking is restricted in some areas. "Tobacco chewing on such a large scale means that we have hundreds of cuspidors to clean each shift," he said. "Although we have a machine for cleaning them, it is a disagreeable job. We had difficulty keeping a man on the job. He would frequently report sick."
"In desperation, we decided to see what effect improving the environment would have. We painted the ceiling white, the side walls a stimulating yellow, the machine a light gray. We installed two germicidal lamps and a few fluorescent lights."
"We now use green, blue, peach, gray buff and yellow as wall colors, depending on the location of the room, type of operation and the kind of help."
Mr. Anderson explained. "We paint machinery a light gray. Furniture is painted either a light gray or tan, with tan tops on desks and tables."
Mr. Anderson said he encountered occasional reaction against the changes from some of the management personnel and even the workers themselves.
"Actually, as if by magic, we did transform a dreary, drab, crowded, and uncomfortable workroom into a more comfortable, more pleasant and seemingly more spacious place to work."

Weather Bureau Station Established Here In 1920

By CHESTER WALSH
The equipment of the United States Department of Commerce Weather Bureau's Greenville station is delicate and reliable.

Mrs. Carl E. Malden, observer here, explained today that in the station in her yard on Ridgeway Street there are two official thermometers. One thermometer records the highest temperature in a 24-hour period; the other the lowest temperature. There are two rain gauges. One-gauge weighs the rain; the other gauge measures it with a government measuring stick.

The government thermometers and rain gauges check and recheck the readings. There is slight chance for an error, Mrs. Malden said.

She was official airways observer in the Greenville area for the government during World War II. Her job was to report to the Weather Bureau at Raleigh readings of the temperature, barometric pressure, wind velocity, cloud formation, relative humidity, etc.

The Weather Bureau was first established in Greenville in 1920. B. T. Clark, owner of the Greenville Machinery Company, and his wife were the observers for the government. After Clark died in January, 1941, Mrs. Clark carried on the work until World War II started. Then her daughter, Mrs. Carl E. Malden, took over the job.

Mrs. Clark, who is now Mrs. J. L. Mizelle, became the river observer here for the United States Department of Commerce after her daughter became airways observer for the government. A reading of the river gauge at the Bethel highway bridge is made daily at 8 a.m. and reported to headquarters.

Sunday here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Dunn, Sr. He was accompanied home Monday by his family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Holton and son, of Greensboro, spent the weekend here with Mrs. Mattie Holton.

Housewives Get New Tax Responsibilities Jan. 1

Housewives: Begin thinking now about a new edition to your tax listing responsibility in 1951.

Beginning January 1 you'll have to pay social security insurance on your servants provided they are regularly employed. Under the new Social Security law your maid is affected if she works 24 days and earns $50 or more in any of the three month periods in the year.

If she or he meets those two requirements, you must deduct one-and-a-half percent from her wages, add the same amount from your pocket and send the amount to the Collector of Internal Revenue. Payment must be made at the end of each quarter.

The new law affects other domestic employees besides maids. They are laundresses, housekeepers, cooks, nursemaids, gardeners, furriers, men, handymen, valets, footmen, grooms, chauffeurs, practical nurses, and so forth. However, people who do household work on the farm are protected under a different provision of the new law.

If more than one of the listed employees work for you, consider each one separately. Cash wages are considered only and room and board given do not come under the law. If your employee works in other homes, consider only the hours and wages under your jurisdiction.

Hobby Craft Should Be Found In Santa's Pack

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE, AP Education Writer

Christmas is the time of the year when all those special interests and hobbies of Junior can be nurtured and developed through the kind of gifts you give him. All that it takes, says Mrs. Emma Sheehy, Associate Professor in Childhood Education at Teachers College, Columbia University, is for parents to be alert to those interests and then to feed them.

It is unfortunate, but true, she says, that all too often grown-ups fail to respect the things children think important. Too often they try to discourage a child's interests instead of steering them into worthwhile channels.

John E. Lane, president of the American Hobby Federation, with headquarters in New York City, also felt that when parents seek to discourage what they think are undesirable interests, it is up to them to steer Junior to other activities.

How better can this be done unobtrusively, then at Christmas time, he asked.

Today there are 19,000,000 hobbyists and 20,000 hobby clubs in America, he said, and many of the hobbies were started as a result of some gift at Christmas. Starting a hobby for junior need not be expensive. Lane cites the example of the young girl who was started on a dollmaking hobby through a present of a bottle of India ink, some cloth and some peanut shells. With these it was possible to ink in eyes, nose and mouth on walnut shells, peanut shells, etc. and then to fashion clothes to make a doll.

Another lad started sculpting with a simple tool and some dried apples. He was able to carve out figures and faces from dried apples, which were then shellacked. Parents can encourage doll-making, too, by saving all the Christmas wrappings for skirts and pants; string for belts and sashes and figures cut from cards for the bodies.

The important thing to remember is that youngsters should be started on doing things they can comprehend, he said.

Other hobbies children can start on require but the gift of a bottle of iron glue. With this and toothpicks, match sticks and match boxes, many youngsters have fashioned some truly startling ferris wheels and houses.

Small Business Is Given Advice

Greensboro, N. C., Nov. 29—(AP)—A team of government experts advised North Carolina businessmen here today how to get their share of government business.

Businessmen and manufacturers from all over the state were here for North Carolina's defense mobilization small business clinic.

The government experts also discussed various procurement agencies, and suggested how they could best be dealt with.

Speakers at the clinic included Walter B. Stultz, member of the staff of the Senate select committee on small business; Comdr. Philip Ashler, chief of the small business division of the department of defense, and Merrill C. Lofton, regional director of the Department of Commerce.

Walter J. O'Donnell, chief of the small business division of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and R. L. Gould of Baltimore, executive vice president of the Manufacturers Record, were scheduled to speak on the afternoon program.

Hold No Grudge For Failure To Get RFC Loan

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—The Oklahoma Turnpike Authority let the Reconstruction Finance Corporation know today that it holds no grudge because it failed to get an RFC loan.

The Authority was set up to build an Oklahoma City-to-Tulsa road. It tried for months to borrow more than $30,000,000 from RFC at 4 per cent interest. Failing in that, it got the money from private sources at 3.6 per cent.

Today Elmer Harber, chairman of the multi-billion dollar federal lending agency and an Oklahoman himself, got this telegram from the Turnpike Authority:

"Do you need any money? We have plenty. Cordially yours."

Small Business Taste For U.S. Tobacco Flavor

Frankfurt, Germany—(AP)—The American GI has left a different taste in the Germans' mouths—one calling for U. S. cigarettes. German smokers have turned 80 per cent in favor of American grown Virginia tobacco. Before the war almost 90 per cent of all Germans preferred the Oriental brand.

Before the war, an average 35,000 tons were yearly bought from Greece, Turkey and the Balkans, while less than 2,000 tons came from America. Latest available figures indicate that 3,600 tons of American tobacco were imported in one month compared with 1,100 tons from Greece and Turkey. (The lively pre-war trade with other Balkan countries is almost down to zero since the Communists took over there after the war.)

Tyrol Cold War Over Tourists

Vienna—(AP)—A "cold war" has broken out in the heart of the snowy Austrian sky country. Two provinces of Western Austria—the Tyrol and Vorarlberg—have most of the mountains and most of the snow.

Last week, the Tyroleans accused the Vorarlberg provincial authorities of carrying out a "snow blockade". They said the Vorarlbergers were refusing to clear snow off a pass that separated the two provinces.

This, the Tyroleans said, was preventing winter tourists from reaching them. The Vorarlbergers replied: "You can clear it off yourselves if you want to."

U.N. Relief in Korea

Moving swiftly to alleviate the suffering of the civilian population of Korea, the United Nations is undertaking a vast program of relief and rehabilitation. Here, inhabitants of Seoul are seen receiving the daily ration of rice distributed by the United Command with the help of local organizations to the city's seven districts. The rice was largely contributed by Thailand and the Philippine Islands.

Reds 'Explain' Man-Made Brain

Vienna—(AP)—The development of the "mechanical brain" in the United States is designed to stop the processes of human thought. That is what the Communists say. The Romanian newspaper "Universul" recently gave this explanation of the American invention:

"The mechanical brain is the American pseudo-scientific researchers want to use instead of the human brain. Now, when the Wall Street usurers are preparing to start a third world war, they do not need human thought. They stifle thought. Hatred of man—this is the supreme law of the American gangsters."

Encyclopedia Is Going Back Home

London—(AP)—The Encyclopedia Britannica, which originated in Britain, is going to be printed here again for the first time since 1911. It has been published in Chicago.

The 25 volumes are expected to be printed here by next summer. John Armitage, London editor of the encyclopedia, said the printing of 10,000 sets of the new edition "is the biggest printing job ever attempted in this country."

Each set contains 38,000,000 words and the publication of the 10,000 sets will require 420 tons of paper—nearly 100 pounds to each set.

Greensboro, N. C., Nov. 29—(AP)—The Greensboro News Company, publisher of the Greensboro Daily News and the Greensboro Record, has signed a one year contract with the American Newspaper Guild covering its newsroom employees.

Madison County GOP May Take Case To Courts

Raleigh, Nov. 29—(AP)—Madison County Republicans will have to go to the courts if they hope to prevent a Democrat from becoming sheriff.

That was the gist of the State Board of Elections action in hearing the bitter Madison dispute yesterday.

The board recessed its hearing on the matter until Dec. 6, which is two days after the swearing-in date for the disputed office of sheriff.

The dispute involves two of the county's races. On the day after the Nov. 7 general election, the Madison County Elections Board certified that Democrat E. Y. Ponder defeated incumbent Sheriff Hubert Davis by 31 votes, and Democrat W. A. Sams beat R. S. Rice for the State House of Representatives by 64 votes.

However, the Republican member of the Madison's board dissented from the board's certification of election results.

There have been charges and counter charges by both Republicans and Democrats on alleged tampering with election returns, intimidation of voters, and vote buying. Madison is traditionally Republican. Ponder would be the county's second Democratic sheriff since the Civil War.

State Republican Chairman J. M. Baley asked the state board to issue an order preventing Ponder from being sworn in as sheriff on Dec. 4.

But the board said yesterday it does not have the authority to issue such an order. Baley was told the board's decision after Board Chairman Charles Britt had conferred with Attorney General Harry McMullan.

The board said McMullan pointed out, however, that Republicans could go to court to seek a restraining order to delay Ponder's swearing in.

Fuel Oil Truck Lands On Roof Of Apartment

Marshall, N. C., Nov. 29—(AP)—A fuel oil truck crashed 75 feet down an embankment here yesterday, and landed on the roof of a brick apartment. No one was injured.

O. A. Gregory, driver of the 1,000-gallon truck, said he parked it while making a delivery at the W. W. Peek home and heard a crash. He looked and saw the large carrier sliding down the slope. It ended up jammed against the corner of the roof of a brick garage apartment. No one was home there at the time.

He said the vehicle evidently slipped while parked on the ice-covered street.

N.C. Fugitive Is Held In Florida

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 29—(AP)—A North Carolina prison camp escapee has been arrested in Winter Haven, the FBI reported yesterday.

E. D. Mason, FBI agent of Miami, identified the man as Obie Lee Sellers, 32, of Whiteville, N.C. Sellers escaped from a Smithfield prison camp in August, 1949, after serving seven years of a 25-year sentence for armed robbery.

In Winter Haven, Sellers said he escaped the North Carolina camp because "I figured I served enough time for what I done," the FBI agent reported.

Gun Victim Said Shot By Police; Failed To Report

Durham, Nov. 29—(AP)—A 29-year-old Negro man was in critical condition at a hospital here early today after being shot by two Durham policemen who did not report the shooting, Police Chief H. E. King reported.

King said he will demand a full report from officers F. B. Smith and J. B. Lawson, who, King indicated, did the shooting. The two officers reportedly confiscated the Negro's car which contained about 10 cases of corn whiskey.

The Negro, Bonnie Lee Day, told Chief King that "a couple of policemen" shot him when he got out of his car and ran. Day was taken to the hospital by James R. Wood, a Negro from nearby Bragtown. He said from his hospital bed last night that he believed he could identify the officers.

THE RAILROAD MURDER CASE

By R. M. Lawrenson

Chapter 34
Nora O'Conner, face alight and eyes shining with excitement, perched demurely on the edge of a chair in Inspector Anderson's office. She gazed at the soles of Marc's shoes, which reared majestically above the corner of the desk. Inspector Anderson, his short legs dangling over the edge of his silted chair, rocked back and forth happily.

"Well, we got him!" he grunted. "I always did think Arnold was the man with the axe. A mean one, he is. But I'll be jiggered if I see how you figured out it musta been him. And why all the prittle-prattle and monkey business? Why didn't we just pick him up?"

Marc blew a funnel of smoke rings toward the ceiling. "Because we couldn't prove a thing on him, Jerry. There was literally no shred of conclusive proof or evidence against him. It was a beautifully planned job, and if Arnold had stood his ground instead of blowing his top, he could still have bluffed it through. We had to trap him, and startle him into giving himself away. All the rest was window dressing to build him up emotionally to a point where a sudden shock would catch him off guard." Marc chuckled. "It was an awfully thin chance, but it came off!"

Anderson nodded. "Yeah, but there's a lot that don't make sense to me. Where did Miller and Johnson and Linden come in? And how do you account for the fact that the axe was dropped at Zola at ten fifty-eight, when the murder was committed at eleven-seven? I don't get it."

"This murder was really planned—worked out to the split second. Let's look at the motive first.

"The relations between these people are involved to a degree. That pot has been simmering for years, and emitting a noxious aroma. One very offensive ingredient was Mrs. Dorene Johnson. It started years ago in Chicago where she met Miller, and Arnold, and finally Johnson. Heaven only knows how many more there were. She's a peculiar type who can't stand to lose any man. She's been seeing Miller regularly. Hence his sub-rosa visits to Calumet, and his hangout in that rookery on Elm Street. She's been playing Arnold and Richards at the same time. Dangling men amounts to a mania with her. Only in Richards she met her match. When he tired of her and she started to make trouble, he promptly put Thatcher on her trail, with the result that he learned the details of her lurid past. He intended to use this knowledge as a club to shoo her off, and keep her quiet. He knew that one thing she wouldn't do was to take a chance on losing any part of Johnson's bank roll.

"An unexpected by-product of this situation, as far as Richards was concerned, was the discovery that there was a link between Dorene and his daughter's husband. Old Dick was nobody's fool, and this development must have set him to thinking. He added up two and two, and decided to change his will, putting all his money in trust for Joan. That would eliminate any possibility of Arnold getting his claws on it. And there you have the real motive for the murder—the one that was used! Arnold had to kill Richards before he signed that will, or lose all chance of ever getting any of the money.

"His plan was a masterpiece. He had decided to kill Richards some days ago—probably decided as soon as he learned about the change in the will. He pondered the locale, the time and place, at some length. Duck Lake was very bad because it would narrow the field, and make it hard to establish an alibi. Calumet or Chicago had much the same limitations.

"At first glance, the train would appear hopeless, because of the cramped quarters, and the fact that he would have to account for any lost time to his wife. However, he figured out a solution to that problem. He was familiar enough with train operation to know that every few minutes a train's location is recorded automatically on a sheet in the dispatcher's office. His plan was to peg the time of the murder by dropping an especially prepared axe at some point along the line where it would surely be found, and where the train's time would be recorded. There are many such points and it could be—any one of them, depending on how things developed. He probably had all such points catalogued in advance. Thus with the crime timed in advance—to the second—he could at leisure set out any time—ten minutes or an hour later—and do the actual job. With luck, the murder wouldn't be discovered until the train arrived at Chicago in the morning. The police would time the crime by the planted axe, for which instant he would have a perfect alibi. The fact that he left his wife for a few seconds at some time after the murder was supposed to have been committed would appear inconsequential.

"He was prepared with a spare axe or a heavy knife—something small enough to be concealed in his clothes. He even had the method of fixing the phony axe all worked out. When he went out on the platform—for a smoke, he said—he held the door open for a minute, and out scampered Cleopatra, Miss Joan's little dog. Once on the platform, he calmly killed Cleo, smeared the axe with her blood, and dropped it off the train! A little later he did likewise with the dog's carcass, making it appear that she had fallen off, and been run over."

Europe's Press Views Korean Issue With Forbodings; Would Keep Clear

London, Nov. 29—(AP)—Europe's non-communist press voiced grave forebodings today about Communist China's breakthrough in north Korea and declared the international situation has become considerably worse.

One French newspaper asserted the third World War has started. London newspapers blazoned news of the fighting under such headlines as—

The Daily Mail—"80,000 Americans in Trap—Gap Widens in Big Encirclement."

The Daily Express—"Acheson—Grave Warning." The Daily Herald—"Truman Calls Crisis Council."

The situation was regarded with considerable anxiety in the House of Commons, which opened a two-day foreign affair debate this afternoon.

Fire Destroyed Half Of Harvest

A fire of unknown origin last night destroyed half the corn crop belonging to P. W. Majette, farmer, who lives three miles west of Grimsland highway. The corn, about 13 acres' worth, was housed in a barn and a small pack shed. The fire was discovered about six o'clock and all efforts to put it out were fruitless. Majette called the Greenville Fire Department which arrived about an hour later but not in time to do any good. Majette stated the loss approximately $1,000.

Much concern was shown too in government and diplomatic quarters here. But one western diplomat expressed the view that the Chinese move probably was made only to produce a situation in which they could "now negotiate from strength."

In Paris the Independent Socialist "Combat" said the "third world war has begun in the Far East between the United States and Communist China." It asked: "can Europe escape catastrophe?"

The Liberal Stockholms-Tidningen, in the Swedish capital, said the "danger of a third world war has never been as great as now."

"Democratic leaders must keep cool heads to settle the situation. MacArthur has already proved he can't," the paper declared.

But another liberal Stockholm paper, Dagens Nyheter, editorially approved the U. S. charges of aggression by Red China.

"The dictators state does not allow volunteers into another state without deliberation," it said. "Terminating the news from Korea 'exceptionally grave,' the Independent Times of London said 'this latest stroke has set the United Nations in the field and at the council tables a very serious problem which may be full of foreboding.'"

London's liberal News Chronicle declared: "The international situation has been immeasurably worsened almost overnight by the deliberate, carefully prepared, but quite unprovoked intervention of Chinese communist divisions in Korea."

The independent conservative

Daily Mail said: "what a tragedy it is that at this crucial moment Churchill is not at the head of our affairs. And by that we mean leader of the western world."

British officials said they believed their government would oppose authorization for Gen. Douglas MacArthur to strike at Red Chinese bases in Manchuria. Britain, they added, wants to avoid involving U. N. forces in a war against China.

French foreign office circles contended that a neutral zone should have been left on the Korean side of the Manchurian border as evidence to the Chinese that the U. N. had no aggressive intentions.

The communist press was jubilant over the U. N. reverses.

AN adequate supply of home raised meats on the farm is essential for a well balanced diet and increased happiness for the farm family. It is desirable that most North Carolina farms be self-sufficient from the standpoint of furnishing and preparing their own meats. By proper handling of meats it is possible to have cured, canned and frozen meats available throughout the year.

At the same time these products will be cheaper than going to market each day.

The importance of using controlled temperature in chilling and aging can hardly be over emphasized and where these services are available for your use much food can be saved by slaughtering when hogs are ready rather than waiting for cold weather.—Dennis D. Dufree, Negro County Agent.

Police State Is Subject Of Talk

The "police state," as administered in Russia today, was the subject of a talk last night by Lt. Paul E. Powell, instructor at East Carolina, given to members of Greenville's Naval Reserve unit.

Powell brought out the point the Communist scheme of things is based on the theory the people exist for the benefit of the State, rather than the government being a creature of the people. He added that the State exists for the benefit of a ruling minority.

"Promises, propaganda, discipline, ignorance, force and particularly fear keep the masses of the people from revolting against the State," Powell said.

As practiced in Russia, the police state is administered by a minority for the purpose of bringing all people under Communist control, he continued. "The individual has been stripped of those rights associated with freedom and he works at a job or trade to which he is assigned at wages the State decrees, which usually are too little to support his family."

Powell's talk was a continuation of week-to-week programs by the unit designed to acquaint the members with governmental policies of different nations in the world's "hot spots." Previously the unit had had talks on the Philippines and Greece.

Next week's meeting will be the annual supper meeting which will be held at Respass-James Barbecue House. Speaker for the occasion will be Major Lomax May, instructor in the AROTC department at East Carolina. Guest of the unit will be Dean Leo W. Jenkins, Marine Corps reserve captain.

Etna Thunders

Catania, Sicily, Nov. 29—(AP)—Mount Etna, erupting since Saturday, continued today to thunder and pour molten lava from some 40 ruptures.

One stream of lava, picking up speed, continued to endanger Renazzo, near Milo. This stream was moving at about 150 feet an hour, and had burned down an outlying rural cottage.

The danger to Renazzo, across from Milo in the Valley of the Lion, was reported to be averted, at least for the time being. The stream of lava flowing in its direction slowed almost to a halt.

Washington Is . . .

(Continued from page one) The House approved both bills last March. President Truman has asked the Senate to do likewise, saying that prompt approval is essential to national security. But there is strong opposition.

If the senate refuses, as seems likely, Hawaii and Alaska must start over in the new congress and win the approval of both the House and Senate before they can add any stars to the U. S. flag.

It is nothing new in American history for a territory to undergo long exertion and many disappointments before being accepted in the union.

There are many examples. One is Kentucky, which tried vigorously, and sometimes despairingly, for seven years before getting statehood in 1792.

Texas, after winning independence from Mexico, sought annexation into the U. S. But because Texas had slavery, former President John Quincy Adams talked the bill to death in the House with a speech lasting three weeks. That was in 1838. Texas was not admitted until 1845.

The Hawaiian and Alaskan bills may be talked to death, too. And as in the case of Texas, there is a racial consideration at work: certain southern senators, who are pretty good talkers, oppose the bills because they don't want to add four new members to the senate who would probably vote for civil rights legislation.

There are also other motives for opposing the bills, but that is perhaps the significant one.

Supporters of the bills have tied them to the present war emergency, arguing that statehood would help U. S. security in the Pacific and would advance the cause of self-government and democracy.

But some senators have used the war emergency as an argument on the other side. They say they can't get excited about statehood bills at this particular breathless moment.

The 1950-51 basketball slate for Greenville's Phantoms opens tomorrow night, as they play Rocky Mount's Blackbirds at Rocky Mount.

With only eight days of practice behind them, the Phantoms have rounded into fairly good shape for their opening clash with four of last year's starting five back in harness.

Virgilus Haynes and Jimmy Dillingham at forwards, Sydney Briley at center, and Johnny Aman at guard, are the four returning men who are expected to pace the scoring attack against the Blackbirds.

Larry Fye, reserve letterman at guard, is expected to complete the starting quint in tomorrow night's opener.

Cosch Bo Farley has ten outstanding stars from last year's successful junior varsity squad to boost the hopes of the Phants this season.

Good Ring Tips In Dempsey Book

New York—You can't learn to fight from a book but if you read Jack Dempsey's tome on fisticuffs you could learn a lot about the manly art of self-defense.

The Manassa Mauler's book, "Championship Fighting" (Frentz-Hall $3), is a straight-from-the-shoulder opus.

Exclusive of a couple of comebacks for exhibition purposes in the early Thirties and again some ten years ago, Dempsey's ring experience covers 13 years. His book covers every possible phase of the game.

Featuring explosive punching and aggressive defensive tactics, the 260-page book with illustrations covers the difference between fighting and boxing, the power line, stance, footwork, hooking, uppercuts, feinting and blocking.

One of the most interesting chapters is the one on "How to Watch a Fight."

"The big secret of correct fight watching is to keep your eyes and your attention focused on both men—not just one," writes Dempsey.

It might be to the advantage of some fight judges and referees to read the book. Maybe there would be fewer split decisions.

Winterville Wins Two; Vanceboro Foe For Tonight

Winterville, Nov. 23—The Winterville Wolves ran over Contentnea Monday night, coming out on the long end of a 65-46 score. The Wolves, sparked by E. C. Averette who collected 26 points for the night, were never behind the entire game.

Thomas Nobles contributed 15 points for the winners' cause while J. N. Riggs was the standout on defense.

High scorer for Contentnea was Lang with 18 points.

In the preliminary game of the twin bill, Winterville's Wolverines ramsacked the Contentnea sextet to the tune of 55-40. Betsy Castellone and Anne Speil led the Wolverines' scoring with 21 points each. Joan Averette added seven points for the winners.

High scorers for Contentnea were Sutton with 18 and Highsmith with 12 points.

Ruth Hazelton stood out on defense for Winterville.

Winterville opens its home schedule tonight against Vanceboro's Farm Life High School in a double-header in the Winterville gymnasium.

Penlites Take Over Bowling League Lead

Carbon Bowling League

Penlites	16 11 592
Nine Lives	14 13 518
Black Cats	13 14 482
Evereadys	11 16 408

Carbon League's Penlites took the bull by the horns, so to speak, and won three games from the Black Cats Monday night. The series victory served to break a three way tie between the Penlites, Cats and Nine Lives.

The Evereadys took two from the Lives during the night's play and thereby shoved that team in a second place, one game above the Cats. The victors moved up somewhat by coupling the two, now residing in last place but only two games behind the Cats.

By virtue of the three game win the Penlites bowled the second highest three game score to date. That was 712, 16 pins better than their previous best performance. The Evereadys also came in for a share in the high score honors in both single and three games. They rolled a team high 706 for a single and third place in that bracket and 1901 for third place in the three-game score.

Salary Problem Accompanies League Pennant

Philadelphia, Nov. 23—(AP)—The headaches of owning a pennant winner already are being felt by Robert R. M. Carpenter, president of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Carpenter sat down yesterday to discuss salary terms with his star pitcher, Robin Roberts, but they were unable to agree on any figure. The ace righthander won 20 and lost 11 last season and won the final game of the season from the Brooklyn Dodgers to clinch the National League flag for the Phillies.

After two long sessions with Carpenter, the youthful hurler said, "I don't think Bob and I will have any real trouble. I'm not hard to get along with."

Neither the club owner nor the pitcher would discuss the offering and asking price in their talks.

Duke Hoopsters Face 27 Games

Durham, N.C., Nov. 23—(AP)—A 27-game schedule, exclusive of tournament competition, is on Duke's 1950-51 basketball slate, released today by Athletic Director Eddie Cameron.

Herold Bradley, who has replaced Alting E. C. (Gerry) Gerard as head coach, will send the team into action for the first time on Saturday night against the semi-pro Hanes Hoopster team at Winston-Salem.

Nineteen Southern Conference games are scheduled.

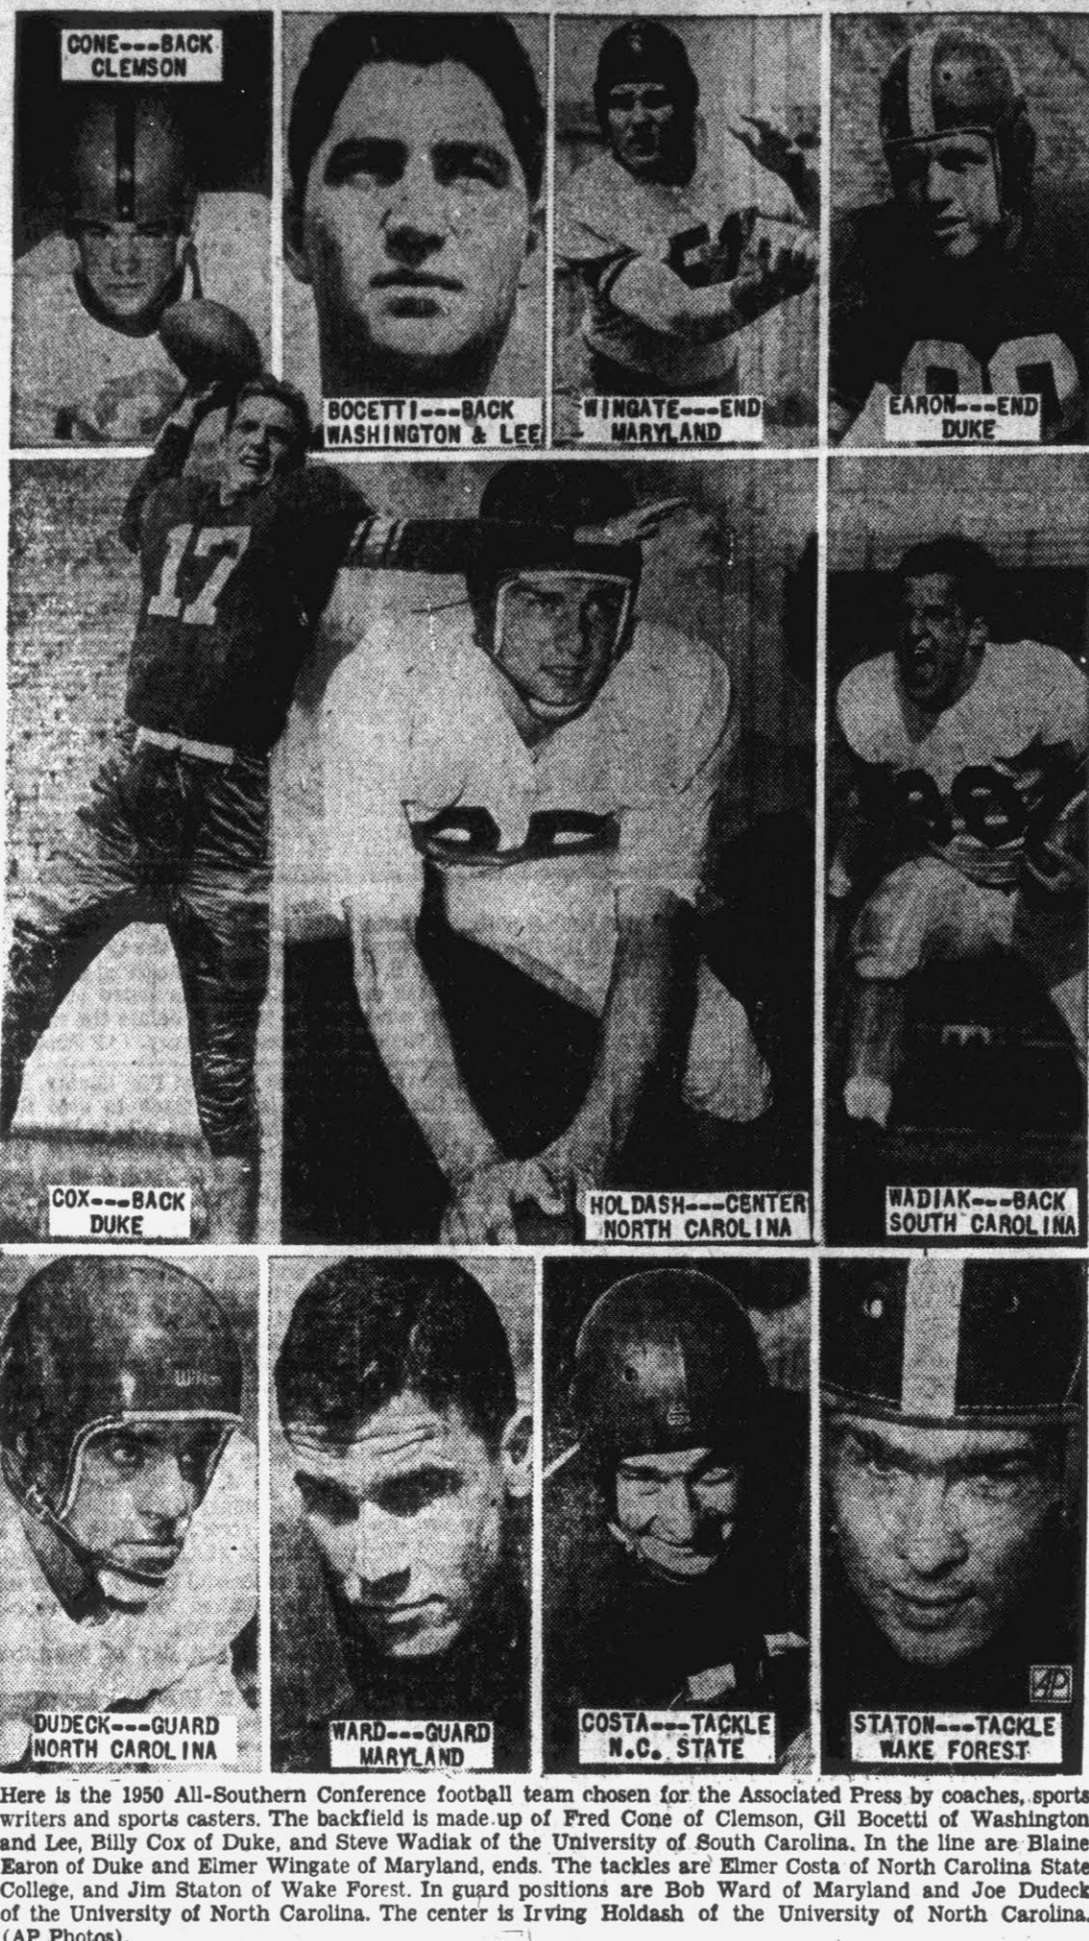

Chicago Catcher Is In The Army

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 23—(AP)—Carl Sawatski, the Chicago Cubs catcher, is in the army.

Until last mid-season, Sawatski was with Nashville of the Southern Association.

High Point Disbands Conference Football

High Point, N.C., Nov. 23—(AP)—High Point College notified the North State Conference directors today that it was abandoning intercollegiate football indefinitely.

The announcement said the school would quit the gridiron sport until such time "as the manpower situation enables the small college to have a normal male enrollment, and until the program may be carried on without undue financial sacrifice by the school."

The Panther football team won only one game in 19 played in the last two seasons. The lone victory was by 14 to 12 over Newberry College this year in a 10-game schedule.

Dr. Dennis H. Cooke, High Point College president, asserted that the football schedule had brought about "terrific deficits." He declared the Board of Trustees and the athletic council both had approved the abandonment of football. He asserted that the small college, with small game revenues, had found it almost impossible to meet the keen competition of larger schools for football players.

Simultaneously with the announcement Dr. Cooke announced that High Point College would attempt to broaden its scope in basketball.

The Panther football team won only one game in 19 played in the last two seasons. The lone victory was by 14 to 12 over Newberry College this year in a 10-game schedule.

Dr. Cooke said that C. Q. Smith, head football coach who began his tenure here in September, and Assistant Coach Bob Davis would be retained as basketball coaches. He asserted that the decision to abandon football in no way reflected upon the coaching staff.

The Panther basketball team last season won 25 of 28 games, but lost to Elon in the North State Conference tournament. The team was coached by Ralph James, who resigned last June. Four of the five varsity players and several substitutes are back in school.

The Panther cage schedule calls for games against leading teams in this area and road games against Western Kentucky, University of Evansville and Murray State Teachers. It is hoped to bring these teams to High Point the following season.

Salisbury, N.C., Nov. 23—(AP)—West Liberty, W.Va. Teachers College will meet Appalachian State Teachers College in the Pythian Bowl football classic here Dec. 9.

The Hilltoppers accepted the bid yesterday, after winding up an undefeated season. Appalachian, North State Conference champion, is also defending champion in the Pythian Bowl game.

Brion Confident; Sees Louis Knockout Tonight

Brown Bomber, In Turn, Promises He'll Be Looking For Victory Short-Cut Over Young Opponent

Chicago, Nov. 23—(AP)—Young Caesar Brion, full of vim and confidence, predicts a kayo within seven rounds of aging Joe Louis in their scheduled 10 rounder in Chicago Stadium tonight.

The 25-year-old Argentine heavyweight is at the short end of 4-1 odds to defeat Joe Louis, trying a second comeback at 36 after being decisively beaten in 15 rounds by Ezzard Charles last September, still thinks he packs enough dynamite to chill Brion.

Although not appearing impressive in training sessions, Louis says he will try to end the fight as soon as possible. He would not name the round.

"I'll shoot for a knockout from the very start and throw as many rights as possible," promised Louis.

A crowd of possibly 10,000 and a $50,000 gate, largest since the International Boxing Club began stadium promotions 18 months ago, may be realized. Louis will receive 27 1-2 per cent of the net gate. His payoff may amount to less than $10,000—the smallest purse for a regular bout he ever has received. He made more in some of his exhibitions two years ago.

Both fighters will get a flat $1,000 each from radio and television fees.

Brion will weigh 194, spotting the ex-heavyweight champion some 21 pounds lighter than when he met Charles.

"I believe my bad showing against Charles was because I just had an off night," said Louis. "I'm going to find out for sure tonight."

Hunting Season Has A Zany Side

Salt Lake City—(AP)—Utah's 1950 hunting season had its zany side. Perhaps the best story involved Pierre Perry, the former French boxer who came west to search for uranium.

He took a day off to go deer hunting. Pierre lugged his rifle all day without success. Then he traded it for a slingshot to hunt chicken hawk.

That's when a 165-pound buck appeared. Pierre brought it down with a ball bearing fired from his sling. A hunting companion, Fred C. Clemore, swears this happened.

Or take the case of Richard Hooper, a 15-year-old high school athlete. A large pheasant cock took to the air, soared about nine feet off the ground and headed for Richard. The lad leaped, caught the bird by the neck, and held on. A deputy game warden witnessed this flying bird tackle.

Then there was the Utah farmer, Walt Summers, who wanted to find out if hunters could tell a mounted bird from the real thing.

They couldn't. Summers said 50 shots were fired at his stuffed pheasant.

Appalachian Officially Declared 1950 Gridiron Champs At Conference Meeting; High Point Drops Football

Two honors came to East Carolina last night as the North State Conference officials held their annual winter meeting at High Point.

Roger Thrift, heralded quarterback for Coach Bill Dole's Pirates this year, was presented the "most outstanding" player award in the North State Conference by the American Business Club of High Point in its fourth annual award.

Dr. John B. Cummings, member of East Carolina's athletic council, was elected president of the conference to succeed Dr. C. F. Dodson. Dr. M. C. Yoder of Lenoir-Rhyne was elected vice-president; Prof. A. L. Hook of Elon was reelected commissioner, and Dr. David E. Faust was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Appalachian was officially declared North State Conference football champion for 1950, and in a surprise move High Point declared that it was discontinuing intercollegiate football indefinitely.

Appalachian, undefeated in regular season play, got the championship despite a protest by Clarence Stasavich concerning the eligibility of two Appalachian players.

Governors Urged To Push Equal Education Plan

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 23—(AP)—A plea for equal educational opportunities for Negroes was voiced before the Southern Governors' conference yesterday.

Colgate W. Darden, Jr., president of the University of Virginia, recommended that Negroes be admitted to southern professional and graduate schools. The public school system, he said, should be continued on a segregated but "first-rate" basis. But he added, equalities to which the basic law of the several states says the Negro is entitled, should be provided.

The governors decided to meet next year at Hot Springs, Ark., and elected Gov. Fielding L. Wright of Mississippi as conference chairman.

Lenoir Wins In Lions Bowl Tilt

Hickory, N.C., Nov. 23—(AP)—Lenoir high school defeated Hickory high school 14-13 in the fourth annual Lions Bowl game before 1,500 fans here last night.

Playing in sub-freezing weather, Bobby Hendricks almost pulled the game out of the fire for Hickory with touchdown runs of 57 and 85 yards.

Monte Seehorne scored Lenoir's touchdowns, both on short line plunges.

Wildlife Group In Dinner Meet

The Pitt County Chapter of the North Carolina Wildlife Association at its supper meeting at Respass-James place on west Dickinson Avenue last night, made arrangements for farmers to plant feeding strips for birds on their farms. President Rufus V. Keel presided.

W. Conner Eagles, U. S. soil conservationist, explained the plan and said he had available plenty of Lespedeza plants suitable for planting along hedgerows and near woods. He said these plants grow unusually tall and hold their seeds well. This Lespedeza is regarded by hunters and sportsmen and wild life resources commission officials as being ideal for feed for birds. When snow is on the ground, he said, the seed remains in the pods and is choice food for birds in wintry weather, he said. Lespedeza seed is a favorite food for quail and rabbits. Eagles booked orders for about 25,000 Lespedeza plants.

Farmers at last night's meeting agreed to plant the Lespedeza on their farms as a part of the wildlife conservation program.

The Pitt County Club voted to make the annual dues $3 a year. The present schedule provides for seven meetings during the fall and winter months and two meetings during the spring.

On recommendation of President Keel, the club voted to sell Wildlife insignia buttons to members to wear while hunting. They may be procured from President Rufus Keel or C. T. Goodman at the county farm agent's office, in Greenville.

Grave Decisions For U. S. Posed By Chinese Offensive On Korean Front

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—The Chinese communist offensive in Korea has confronted the United States with the gravest decisions since the start of World War II, administration officials said today.

The government's present intention, they said, is to deal with the situation in the United Nations and through intensive consultation with Britain, France and other U. N. member allies in the struggle against spreading Red power in Asia.

These consultations are already under way. Some authorities said they may involve proposals for the use of political and economic sanctions against Communist China by the U. N.

Sanctions could mean cutting off all trade with China by non-communist countries and curtailing or withdrawing diplomatic recognition accorded the Peking regime by some countries.

Diplomats reported President Truman, Secretary of State Acheson and other government leaders are determined on full consultations with allied nations to avoid a split in the U. N. anti-communist coalition which might result if the U. S. acted alone.

The National Security Council, with Mr. Truman presiding, talked over the new crisis for an hour and 15 minutes yesterday. Persons

Truck Driver Escapes Possibly Serious Injury

The driver of the asphalt laden truck shown in the above photograph escaped possible injury by burns yesterday afternoon when his truck left the Patoelus highway and turned over into a canal. The reason given for the accident was a blow-out of one of the tires. Patrolman Deiton E. Perry, who investigated, stated that the tire was "worn down to the fabric." (Photo by D. E. Perry, SHP).

familiar with the situation said the secret session produced no hard and fast decisions on new steps to be taken.

It did result, these informants said, in a general agreement to continue pressing in the U. N. for adoption of a pending resolution demanding that the Chinese get their troops out of Korea.

This is somewhat short of proposing that the U. N. brand Red China as an aggressor, which the U. S. government did on its own yesterday.

Formal action on this charge reportedly won't be sought now because it would have to be accompanied by proposals for action to deal with the aggression and there is no final agreement so far on what steps should be taken.

It isn't known for certain here whether the Chinese communists intend to launch a full-scale war or whether they are only harassing U. N. forces in a series of mass border actions. The increasing tendency is to fear they mean to drive U. N. forces out of Korea.

There is apparently a strong desire on the part of the country's diplomatic and military leaders to avoid becoming involved in a general war in Asia. Basic American strategy is the concept that any final military showdown with world communism should come in Europe rather than Asia.

Also surviving are a brother, Claude Cannon of Ayden, and two sisters, Mrs. L. M. Jackson of Ayden and Mrs. Wilbur Singleton of Fountain.

Women To Play Major Role In Civil Defense

Raleigh, Nov. 29—(AP)—Women will be called upon to do at least 50 per cent of civil defense chores, State Civil Defense Director E. Z. Jones said today.

Jones said the women would be mighty handy in day-time staffing of air raid warning posts and filter centers, as teachers to conduct drills in schools and institutions, as air raid wardens, to train nurses' aids, and to replace nurses in hospitals when they are called to military service.

Jones said this in elaborating on a talk he made at Chapel Hill yesterday about "disinterest of men" in civil defense.

Lost Fortune In Florida Casino

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—A wealthy oil man named Sinclair dropped $800,000 in a swanky Dade County (Fla.) casino but was allowed to settle his debt for $500,000, Senate crime investigators have been told.

The testimony was given yesterday by George Patton, a former Miami, Fla., deputy sheriff, at a hearing in which he described gamblers' payoffs for protection in the Florida Gold Coast area.

STUDY WAGE OFFER

Pittsburgh, Nov. 29—(AP)—The mammoth United States Steel Corporation today made an undisclosed wage offer to the CIO United Steelworkers. Union President Philip Murray promptly called his top policy makers together to consider the proposal.

Adult Education . . .

The department of industrial arts is now completing plans for a non-credit course entitled "Industrial Arts for Adults." It will be taught by Dr. Kenneth Bing, director of the department, and will include woodwork, upholstery, plastic, leatherwork, metal work and drafting. The class will meet next Wednesday evening, December 6, at 7:00 in the Flanagan building.

The series of adult education classes now being offered at East Carolina marks the beginning of this type of public service by the college. Dr. Phillips said this morning that the interest shown in the courses has been gratifying and that indications are that the adult education series has made a good start this term and will expand in service to the public in the future.

And while we are in a critical mood, there is one other thing I might mention. I heard a disparaging remark yesterday by a foreigner about American conduct of the United Nations campaign in Korea. The critic is the citizen of one of the major powers.

The answer to him is that the people of America would be mighty glad to see his country turn to and contribute something worth while to the U. N. effort in Korea. But to get back to MacArthur: what is his next move? He has told us bluntly that "this situation, repugnant as it may be, poses issues which must find their solution within the councils of the United Nations and the chancelleries of the world." This is interpreted to mean that if political pressure won't stop the Chinese, then the U. N. forces should be authorized to bomb Red Manchuria where an estimated 300,000 more Chinese troops are held in reserve, ready to be poured over the frontier into Korea.

Undoubtedly the U. N. inclination will be to try political pressure first. But if the Chinese aren't open to reason, then one would expect a strong sentiment in the U. N. for a resort to bombing. This is especially true since other hundreds of thousands of Chinese troops are said to be on their way to Manchuria from China.

The employment of bombs—if the pressure of reason won't work—might avert a major Chinese war.
