Round-The-Clock Discussion By UN Diplomats To Keep Chinese Issue From Starting World War

Lake Success, Dec. 1.—(AP)—With the specter of atomic war looming before them, United Nations diplomats today began round-the-clock discussions on how to get the Chinese communists out of Korea without touching off World War III.

British Prime Minister Prepares For U. S. Talk

Special Plane Being Readied For Emergency Consultation On Ending Chinese Intervention, Preserve Peace

London, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A special plane was readied today to fly Prime Minister Attlee to Washington for talks with President Truman designed to end communist China's intervention in Korea and preserve flickering world peace.

Industrial Committee Appointed

Seven Named To Plan Formation Of Development Body, Draw Charter

Seven Greenville businessmen last night were appointed as a steering committee to make plans for the formation of an industrial development corporation for the city and to draw a charter for the organization.

Approximately 30 persons interested in the formation of an industrial development corporation for Greenville attended the public meeting which was held last night in the aldermen's room of the city hall.

'Peace' Action

Lake Success, Dec. 1.—(AP)—About 200 youths led by Paul Robeson Jr., son of the Negro singer, staged a sit-down "peace demonstration" in the main lobby of United Nations headquarters last night.

The demonstrators held up newspapers, which carried headlines about President Truman's statement on possible use of the atom bomb, and pointed their thumbs down.

They booed Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt when she told them: "You people are silly. You should go home and be quiet."

They sat on the floor, holding hands and singing, "I ain't gonna study war no more, gonna lay down that atom bomb on the river side."

The demonstrators finally scattered after singing the Star Spangled Banner.

Road Building In Pitt Announced

Contracts Let For 12.1 Miles Of Hard-Surfacing Work

Two paving projects for Pitt County roads were announced this morning by R. Markham, division engineer for the State Highway Commission. The contracts were awarded Wednesday in Raleigh by the commissioners.

The projects, which were let under the same contract, total 12.1 miles of hard-surfacing. The longest project in the contract calls for 10.8 miles of paving in the vicinity of Farmville and Fountain. The other, in the Red Bank community, totals 1.1 miles.

One of the roads in the Farmville-Fountain area begins at a point on the Greene County line 1.3 miles north of U. S. 264 and running along the existing county road across N. C. 222 to the Edgecombe County line. The other road in the area begins at a point seven-tenths of a mile north of the Greene County line, then along the existing county road in an easterly direction with N. C. 121 to the end of the present Bell Arthur road 1.6 miles north of Farmville.

The other project calls for 1.1 miles of paving beginning at a point 1.5 miles east of Bell Fork to U. S.

Three Calls For Firemen Came Close Together

Three fire alarms around noon today kept Greenville firemen on the run.

The first alarm received by the local department came shortly after eleven o'clock when it was reported that a house on the Farmville highway was on fire. A small truck was dispatched to the scene soon after. When firemen arrived, the house, a two-story structure belonging to J. A. Bundy of Frog Level, was completely engulfed by flames.

Firemen stated that they could only prevent the spread of the flames to other buildings. No furniture was believed to have been saved. Origin of the fire was not learned.

Just as the first truck was leaving to answer the county call, a second call came into the station, about a bad grass fire on 10th Street. The new truck was sent to this fire. No damage resulted, firemen said. While both trucks were out, a box alarm came in from box 148, where a large grass fire was threatening several houses. The fire was checked before it reached the houses.

General Denies Having Been Advised To Stop

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The New York Times quoted Gen. Douglas MacArthur today as saying he had "received no suggestion from any authoritative source" that his troops should stop at any line short of the Manchurian boundary.

A Times dispatch from its Washington correspondent, Arthur Krock, said MacArthur radioed that statement to the newspaper last night.

The message from the commander-in-chief of the Far East command was in response to a radio inquiry from Krock.

Krock's message to MacArthur stated that some officials in Washington were saying that every time a stop-point was suggested to him he replied that he would not accept responsibility for the security of his troops in these circumstances.

MacArthur's reply read in part: "XXX there is no validity whatsoever to the anonymous gossip to which you refer."

"Every strategic and tactical movement made by the United Nations command has been in complete accordance with United Nations resolutions and in compliance with the directives under which I operate, every major step having been previously reported and fully approved."

See Controversy Over Proposals On Civil Defense

Planned Single Powerful Administrator May Be Argued In 'Lame Duck'

Washington, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A plan to hand the reins of civil defense to a single powerful administrator responsible only to the President may become an issue of heated controversy before the present short session of congress.

Drawn up by the National Resources Security Board, it proposes setting up a Civil Defense Agency headed by a $17,500-a-year chief who would have vast un-paralleled powers in the event of an enemy attack on this country.

An administration bill to implement the plan was introduced yesterday in the house by Rep. Durham (D-NC). It was referred to the Armed Services Committee but there were signs that this group would pass it along to the Senate-House Atomic Committee of which Durham is vice chairman.

An administration spokesman, who asked not to be named, said favorable action was hoped for during the present short session of congress.

But a leading Republican lawmaker said in a separate interview there would be a lot of talk about what he called some of the "shocking" provisions of the bill. He didn't want his name used.

The measure would give the administrator—a civilian—authority to review the civil defense activities of such key agencies as the military establishment and Atomic Energy Commission and coordinate them with his own program.

He also would have supervisory power over state defense organizations. Through these, his authority would reach to county, city and community setups.

Many of the provisions of the plan deal with the problems which would arise after an enemy attack by air or otherwise.

The measure authorizes the appropriation of any sum of money needed. There were no immediate cost estimates, official or otherwise, but on thing was certain: the cost would be high.

Earl Browder Is Jailed; Fails To Put Up Bond

Washington, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Earl Browder, longtime No. 1 American Communist, was jailed today after he failed to put up $1,500 bond on a contempt of congress charge.

Federal Judge Edward M. Curran turned down Browder's plea to remain at liberty on his personal bond.

Browder was indicted earlier this week on the contempt charge for refusing to answer questions before a senate subcommittee during an investigation of communist-in-government charges of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.).

He appeared in court for arraignment wearing a black suit and carrying an over-night bag, apparently in anticipation of going to jail.

The nurses' home is about 45 per cent completed and should be finished, ready for entry, by the tentative opening date. Opening of the hospital itself is contingent on completion of the nurses' home since the nurses have no place to stay otherwise.

Meanwhile, a landscape architect will begin planting shrubbery at various places on the hospital grounds next week. Between $1,000 and $1,200 have been set aside for purchasing the various type shrubs. Ward said. The architect was formerly manager of Orton Plantation near Wilmington.

Order Halt To Rump Sales On Burley Market

Asheville, N.C., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Rump sales on the Asheville burley tobacco market were ordered halted today.

James E. Walker Jr., president of the North Carolina Burley Warehousemen's Association and operator of four warehouses here, ordered the second set of sales suspended after buyers had claimed only 30 baskets of leaf.

Lack of major company representation in the second set of buyers was given as the reason for the cancellation.

Walker said that efforts to obtain a full second set of buyers will be continued but that second sales would not be resumed unless the buyers showed up.

High Nervous Tension

Western Europe Fearful Of Possible Asiatic War And The Probable Involvement Of Russia; They're Under Moscow's Guns, And Weak; Conversations Sought

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The Korean crisis has plunged western Europe into a state of high nervous tension reminiscent of those never-to-be-forgotten eyes of two world wars.

This is quite understandable when one stops to consider that the development of a major conflict involving China might easily precipitate a communist upheaval in western Europe. Bolshevism is opportunist and is quick to profit by favorable situations.

And western Europe is, in a manner of speaking, sitting right under Moscow's big guns.

Huge Sum Sought For Armed Forces

Truman Tells Lawmakers That Defense Crisis Requires $17.8 Billions On Top Of Scheduled Appropriations

Washington, Dec. 1.—(AP)—President Truman today asked congress for $17,800,000,000 to speed a buildup of the armed forces and vastly expand the atomic energy program.

Mr. Truman called congressional leaders of both parties to the White House for a conference on the gravest crisis since the end of World War 2, and then told them the government needs:

$16,800,000,000 for a quick buildup of the army, navy, marines and air force.

$1,000,000,000 to speed up the atomic energy program, which means increasing the stockpile of atom bombs.

This money is on top of prospective government outlays of $45,000,000,000 to $50,000,000,000 during this fiscal year, ending next June 30, and $60,000,000,000 or more in the next 12 months.

The president told the congressional leaders of the staggering sums he believes are needed at a tense, hour long White House conference. He said a formal request would go to the capitol later in the day.

At the capitol there were prompt predictions from many legislators that congress will provide the money speedily.

Senator Ellender (D-La) commented: "There is no doubt whatever that congress will meet the request."

Rep. Eaton of New Jersey, ranking Republican on the House Foreign Affairs committee, agreed. He said the United States is in its "greatest danger of extinction since it was founded."

All this money, the congress members said, would be used for United States forces, and not for the forces of other nations.

In a statement yesterday, Mr. Truman spoke also of a speed up in the defense arrangements of U. S. allies. Presumably, that will call for increased U. S. aid to them.

Opening Of Hospital Is Tentatively Set

Administrator Looks For Formal Opening Between Jan. 15 And First Of February; Two Delaying Contingencies

By JOHN SPINKS JR. The date of the formal opening of Pitt Memorial Hospital has been tentatively scheduled sometime between January 15 and the first of February, it was announced today by Administrator C. D. Ward.

Ward stated the opening, which has been delayed by two months is contingent on two things: completion of the nurses' home and arrival of the hospital trustees.

Arrival of the trustees is contingent on the arrival of steel, due to the war situation. Ward said, has delayed the construction and also the shipping of beds and other furniture.

The beds have been on order, he stated, since the first of August but several letters from the manufacturer informed the hospital trustees shipment would have to be delayed. However, he expects the equipment to arrive in the early part of January, making it possible for the building to open for business soon after.

The nurses' home is about 45 per cent completed and should be finished, ready for entry, by the tentative opening date. Opening of the hospital itself is contingent on completion of the nurses' home since the nurses have no place to stay otherwise.

Meanwhile, a landscape architect will begin planting shrubbery at various places on the hospital grounds next week. Between $1,000 and $1,200 have been set aside for purchasing the various type shrubs. Ward said. The architect was formerly manager of Orton Plantation near Wilmington.

MacArthur's G-2 Reports Allied Lines Being Stabilized; Atomic Bomb Not Needed; Chinese Believed Aiming For Parallel 38; Warplanes Active

Tokyo, Dec. 1.—(AP)—General MacArthur's top intelligence officer said today the United Nations situation in Korea is not desperate and implied the atomic bomb is not needed to stem the Chinese Red Tide.

He reported the allied line in the critical northwest is being stabilized. The U. S. Eighth Army retreated to this shortened line extending inland from the Yellow Sea after its severe setback by the Chinese in the past week.

Eighth Army sources expected strong new Red attacks on that front Friday night or Saturday. A spokesman said enemy strength was building up south of the Chongchon river.

Wave after wave of U. S. Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers lashed at the Chinese buildup south of the frozen stream.

In the northeast—across the peninsula's mountainous spine—United Nations forces were reported making a fighting retreat southward on both sides of the big Changjin Reservoir.

Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, MacArthur's G-2 boss, assessed the war situation for correspondents in a 2,500-word statement in Tokyo, and then submitted to questioning.

This briefing of war correspondents in Tokyo came as the retreating U. N. forces on the northwest took positions on a line 30 miles north of the former Red Korean capital, Pyongyang.

Willoughby said prisoners indicated the Chinese, possibly under the command of Red Gen. Lin Piao, were trying to drive the allied back below the 38th parallel—100 air miles south of the present northwest line.

In the southeast, two Marine pilots reported American Seventh Infantry Division elements were retreating south along the east side of Changjin Reservoir.

The fliers said the U. S. First Marine Division's Fifth Regiment was fighting its way southward on the west side of the lake.

Both columns were trying to break through to the road junction of Hagaru, seven miles south of the reservoir which is part of the hydro-electric power complex for north Korea. The Marines were cut off Thursday.

AP correspondent Tom Stone said the pilots predicted both the marines and doughboys would reach Hagaru.

The forces attacking the Marines and Seventh Division were part of an estimated 80,000 or more Chinese.

Superintendent Of County Home To Resign Post

O. J. Tucker, who has been superintendent of the Pitt County Home the past two years, has resigned, effective December 15, a county official announced today.

Tucker, who rented out his farm two years ago, when he took the superintendent's job, will go back to farming, it is understood. Tucker succeeded D. C. Wilson as superintendent.

H. I. Hill of Pactolus, recently filed his application for the superintendent's job with the Board of County Commissioners.

The commissioners are expected to act on the appointment of a superintendent at next Monday's meeting.

Wes Gallagher, AP Chief of Bureau in Frankfurt, Germany, tells us that Soviet armies stationed in East Germany are in position to grip Europe by the throat. He quotes allied intelligence officers as stating there are six such armies, comprising 33 divisions, including ten which are heavily armored. They could overrun the western continent.

Upon the defense of this vital theater depends the security of the entire world of democracy. This is the basis of European fears, and naturally the position is viewed

Informal Candlelight Rites United Couple Saturday

In an informal candlelight ceremony on Saturday, November 25, at 4:30 p. m. at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Miss Catherine Swain Spearman, daughter of Mrs. George Spearman and the late Mr. Spearman, became the bride of Herbert Pope McKim of Wilmington, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McKim of Wilson.

The Rev. Ernest H. Williams, rector of the bride, performed the ceremony.

Woodwardia fern, white chrysanthemums and white carnations were used in simple but impressive arrangements with cathedral candles to form a background for the ceremony.

Mr. Perry at the organ played "Hymn to St. Cecilia" by Gounod, "God's Time Is Best" by Bach and "Ave Maria" by Rossini preceding the ceremony. Mr. Ed Hines, soloist of Columbia, South Carolina, sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer". The traditional wedding marches from Lohengrin by Wagner and Midsummer Night's Dream by Mendelssohn were used as the professional and the recessional.

Miss Jean Hilton, the bride's only attendant, was gown in a two-piece ensemble of aqua crepe, with which she used brown accessories and carried a bouquet of gold pompanos.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, John Edward Spearman of Penn's Grove, New Jersey, chose for her wedding outfit a two-piece dress of Chamois and tulle. She wore dark brown accessories and carried a prayer book showered with white pompanos chrysanthemums and centered with an orchid.

T. J. McKim Jr. of Abbeville acted as best man for his brother, Hubert, who was William Freeman of Raleigh, James Barber of Mt. Airy, Frank Ballard of Wilmington, and James Taylor of Bethel.

Mrs. Spearman chose for her daughter's wedding a two-piece dress of tulle and crepe with a shawl of dark gray with a shoulder-cape of green carnations and bronze pompanos.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's mother entertained at a reception in the Parish House of the Episcopal Church. The reception was planned by St. Elizabeth's Chapter of the St. Paul's Auxiliary.

The rooms were decorated with wedding bells, large magnolia leaves, fern, chrysanthemums, carnations and white tapers.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Ford McGowan and introduced to the receiving line composed of the bride and groom, Mr. Spearman, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McKim Sr., Mr. T. J. McKim Jr. and Miss Jean Hilton.

Mrs. C. C. Hilton invited the calling to the punch table which was decorated with a bridal motif. Miss Christine McKim poured punch while Mrs. Irvin Taylor and Mrs. Charles Reagan served cake. Assisting in serving decorated mints and nuts were Miss Christine Jordan and Miss Jane Dall Laughinghouse.

Mrs. Bob Swain and Mrs. Eva Grandy presided over the bride's register and said good-byes to the callers.

Following the rehearsal on Friday night, the wedding party, members of the family and out-of-town guests were entertained at a buffet supper at the Proctor Hotel by T. J. McKim Jr. and James Taylor.

Long tables were arranged around the dining room of the hotel and in front of a massive mirror were banked fern, leaves and white flowers. Candles were used on the tables in attractive arrangements with fern and flowers.

Coffee, assorted sandwiches, hors d'oeuvres, bridal cakes and nuts were served to more than fifty guests.

Mrs. McKim is a graduate of Woman's College of the University of North Carolina and has done graduate work at East Carolina Teachers College. She has taught in the Grimesland school. Mr. McKim graduated from the school of architecture at State College and is associated in business with Boney's architectural firm of Wilmington.

Among the out-of-town guests here for the wedding were the following: Mr. and Mrs. John Spearman of Penn's Grove, New Jersey; Mr. and Mrs. George Swain of Suffolk, Va.; Mrs. Eva Grandy, Mr. William Freeman, Mr. Richard Schmedie, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Marshall, all of Raleigh; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Swain and James Harold Swain of Weldon; Commander and Mrs. L. W. Tilburn of Norfolk, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Swain of Kingstree, S.C.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Corbett Swain of Plymouth; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reagan of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. John Haffer of Long Island, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ballard, Mr. Charles Boney and Mr. Felix Webster, all of Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McKim Jr. of Abbeville; Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Taylor and Mr. Jimmy Taylor of Bethel; Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Pope Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Pope Sr. of Robertsville; Mr. and Mrs. James Barber and Mr. Hayward Merritt of Mt. Airy, N.C.; Mr. Ed Hines of Columbia, S.C.; Miss Beverly Hancock of High Point; Mr. Jack Marsh of Bath, Virginia; Miss Jean Williams of New Bern; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McKim and Miss Christine McKim of Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. Will Swain, Miss Marian Swain, and Mr. James Howell, all of Washington.

Committee Heads Announced For Church Bazaar

The bazaar to be held at the Episcopal Church Parish House all day on Thursday, December 7, is under the direction of Mrs. James T. Little.

Mrs. Little and her cohort of workers have just about completed the sewing, cutting, stitching, painting, wood-working and various other skills involved in creating the hundreds of original things they have been working on so industriously for the past several months.

Approximately 100 women have helped in the preparations for the bazaar. The money which is taken in at this annual event is used for the maintenance of the Parish House and the Church. Last year, for instance, the bazaar money paid for a new roof to cover the church. The dining room, kitchen and Hatie Skinner Memorial room have just been redecorated and refurbished, and the ladies of the Auxiliary are hoping to pay these bills from the sale of the bazaar gifts.

Those who are serving in the capacity of committee chairmen are the following: aprons, Mrs. C. A. White; households, Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Jr. and Mrs. Robert Greene; dolls, Mrs. W. S. Bonner; Christmas greens and novelties, Mrs. F. D. Duncan and Mrs. Hugh Ragsdale; sweets, Mrs. D. E. Jones and Mrs. W. I. Wooten; publicity, Mrs. E. C. Wilkerson; meals, Mrs. Lee Folger.

40 Years Ago Today
THE DAILY REFLECTOR
December 1, 1910
Misses Ward Moore and Mae Schults were out driving Thursday afternoon and when about a mile from town their horse became frightened at something and shied out of the road striking the buggy against the end of a log. Miss Schults was thrown some distance out of the buggy and sustained painful bruises. The breaking of the harness freed the horse from the buggy and Miss Moore, who was driving was pulled over the front of the vehicle and dragged some distance by the reins and was also considerably bruised. Mr. W. L. Hall near whose home the accident occurred brought the young ladies home.

Garden Club Notice
The Greenville Garden club is sponsoring a Christmas tour on December 15. The residents of Greenville who are opening their homes for the pilgrimage will need greenery and berries to supplement their own supply of decorations.

Mrs. W. J. Stell, president of the club, requests that people who plan to prune their shrubbery try to arrange to do that during the week of December 15, and call her, 3342, if there are cuttings that can be used in the home.

Sweet Gum Grove H. D. Club
The regular meeting of the Sweet Gum Grove Home Demonstration club was held at the community building in November.

The president, Mrs. Lewis Whitehurst, called the meeting to order at 2:30. Mrs. D. N. Nobles, Jr., led the devotional. There were 22 members present and two visitors, Mrs. Albert Bray and Mrs. Davidson.

During the business period a motion was made and carried to send pecans for Christmas to Camp Lejeune. Mrs. Julius Ross will get them to the office.

Miss Ann Hicks made several announcements from the office. These were discussed and a motion made to support the March of Dimes campaign.

The Christmas party was discussed and it was decided that we would have it on the regular meeting day, December 21st. The new officers will be the hostesses.

A thank you note was read from Miss Jean Steele. We will miss her very much.

The attendance pins were given to the members who had perfect attendance.

Mrs. Davidson then gave us a wonderful talk on citizenship and the United Nations which we thoroughly enjoyed.

Miss Hicks then gave a demonstration of original gifts for Christmas.

The recreation leader, Mrs. J. E. Whitchard, led in a short recreation period. The hostesses, Mrs. J. C. Meeks and Mrs. Roy Worthington, served delicious refreshments.—Reported.

Ayden Senior Class Play
"For Pete's Sake," a three-act comedy by Jay Tobias will be given by the Senior Class of Ayden High on December 1, in the high school auditorium. The curtain goes up at 8:00 p. m.

A brief summary of the plot is: Lying as a fine art certainly calls for a strong heart, and a good memory, and Peter Pepperdine has all these qualifications to fit him for a magnificent liar. When his exasperated aunt, in an effort to discipline him, starts on the summer tour of Palestine, without him, he rents her mansion, against her expressed desire, to her dearest enemy, the mother of his lady-love, and masquerades as her butler, disguising his pal, Bill, as her gardener, and Muggsy, the despised college grind who is supposed to tutor him, as her housemaid. And all this madcap scheming is not only to provide Peter and Bill with ready cash but to enable them to discover whether their respective lady-loves are flirting with older and wealthier suitors. The boys soon put a crimp in the suitors' wooing, especially after turning Muggsy loose on them to vamp them in as housemaid's disguise. And then Aunt Sarah spools everything by suddenly coming home. Once again, Peter, while teetering on the brink of comic catastrophe, manages to save himself and Bill by quick thinking and masterly lying, involving the aid of a spook and some fictitious robber to cover up his tracks. It is a laughing hit, traveling at express speed. The female impersonation is a riot."

First Presbyterian Church
The West Greenville Sunday school begins at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning at the Curb Market. The church service will be held Sunday evening at 7:30 at the Curb Market with the Rev. Leonard W. Topping pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, conducting the service.

The West Greenville Sunday School Council and teachers will meet Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stokes. Mr. Charles Huffstetler is superintendent.

The Westminster Fellowship will meet Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Manse, 401 E. 9th Street.

The Executive Board for the Women of the Church will meet Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the home of the president, Mrs. James S. Jenkins.

Circle No. 6 of the Women of the Church will hold its monthly meeting Tuesday evening with Mrs. Earl Stokes at eight o'clock. Mrs. Amy McLawhorn is chairman.

The young adults and married couples of the church will hold an organizational and fellowship meeting in the assembly room of the church Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Notices have been sent to all single persons and couples within two age ranges of 20 through 34 and 35 through 45. It is hoped that the interest will warrant the formation of two groups following the two-age ranges. All those interested are urged to be present.

The Adult Advisers to the Presbyterian Youth Fellowships of Albemarle Presbytery will meet in Kingston Thursday afternoon and evening for training and inspiration.

The Westminster Fellowship will have a Christmas party Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the "Y" Hut on the ECTC campus. All Presbyterian students and those designating a preference for the Presbyterian Church are cordially invited.

The dates for the annual presentation of the Christmas Tableau are December 13th and 14th. Three scenes will be presented in a forty-five minute period twice each evening.

Belk Chapel At Queen's College Is Scene Of Harper-Hodges Rites

MRS. DREW SUGG HARPER, JR.

In a ceremony of beautiful simplicity Miss Betsy Brown Hodges of Charlotte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Brown Hodges of Grifton, and Drew Sugg Harper Jr., son of Mrs. Loede Flynn Harper and the late D. S. Harper of Snow Hill, took place in the Belk Chapel, Queen's College in Charlotte at 5 o'clock, Nov. 24. The officiating minister was Dr. Hunter B. Blakley of Richmond, Va., former president of Queen's College.

Prior to the ceremony a program of nuptial music was played at the organ by Mrs. W. W. McGinn. Selections included Rubenstein's Romance, Schubert's Ave Maria and Claire de Lune. The traditional wedding marches were used.

Silver urns on each side of the altar held arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums; silver candelabra given by the bride's graduating class with cathedral candles were placed on each side of the altar on which was placed the Bible presented to the college by the King of England.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Maurer original gown of white satin and imported Brussels lace, fashioned with satin applique on a lace pointed plastron tapering from yoke to waist in the front and back. The bouffant skirt had set in panels of lace applied with satin, extending the full length of the aisle-wide cathedral train in the back. She carried a prayer book topped with a spray of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Ushers were James H. Harper III, brother of the groom, of Snow Hill and J. E. Burnside Jr. of Charlotte. Mrs. Hodges chose for her daughter's wedding a long sleeved blue lace gown, full fashioned skirt and fitted bodice, matching blue head-dress and a red-throated orchid corsage.

There was no formal reception following the ceremony. The couple received in the chapel vestibule immediately following the marriage. They later left for a wedding trip for which the bride wore a suit of Oxford gray, felt cloche of Camellia red and blouse in matching color, black accessories, a fur cape and the orchid from her prayer book.

The bride is a graduate of Queen's College, where she was a member of the Phi Mu sorority, and elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. She has been employed with the Home Finance Group Inc. in Charlotte for the past two years.

The bridegroom attended the University of North Carolina. He is now employed by the Dixie Leaf Tobacco Company in Kinston, Danville and Kentucky, where the couple will reside for the next three months, after which they will reside in Snow Hill.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Barringer Jr., Florence, S.C.; Mrs. Mary Alice Harris an agreement with Russia—a feat which has been undertaken many times without any sign of success. The answer to these failures, of course, is that peace doesn't fit in with the Bolshevik program of world revolution for the spread of communism.

However, while peace will be sought by all legitimate means, President Truman had made it quite clear that U. N. forces won't back down in Korea. Indeed, the chief executive declares the atom bomb will be used if necessary (a thought particularly disturbing to Britain), though he hopes the need will not arise.

Brig. Gen. William E. Brougher, retired, of the U. S. Army, a veteran of the struggle in the Philippines, was a visitor at East Carolina Teachers College yesterday. The General, Mrs. Brougher, and Mrs. Griswold of Chattanooga, Tenn., were guests of Miss Emma L. Hooper of the college faculty. Commander of the 11th Division, Philippine Army, during World War II, Gen. Brougher was a prisoner of the Japanese for three and a half years following the Bataan surrender.

The distinguished visitor stopped in Greenville en route from his home in Atlanta, Ga., to Newport News, Va., where he was scheduled to speak on the question of whether, and when, to order price and wage controls, and on what basis. They must be ready to administer such controls when the time comes.

Under the circumstances, there has been little time to draw up a specific program for voluntary action.

minist aggression from spreading. His statement has set Prime Minister Attlee packing his duds to come over and talk with Mr. Truman to find out exactly what he has in mind.

Truman's statement about the bomb came yesterday in answer to a newsman's question. And it is not the first time that the President has made an off-the-cuff statement which has set things buzzing both here in the United States and abroad.

Even though Truman did not say it in the exact words, his statement will be construed as a threat by the United States to use the atomic bomb if the Red aggression continues. Perhaps Truman meant his statement as such, or perhaps he didn't—we don't know, but maybe Attlee can find out and clarify the matter.

One thing remains evident, however. The ad lib statement by the president has touched off another fuse. Speaking as the president of the United States, he has made a threat, direct or indirect, to use the world's most dreaded weapon. The Reflector here will not argue the pros and cons of the use of the atomic bomb, but this we shall make clear.

If it is a threat and the president intends to carry it out, it is a step into a new phase of warfare which the world has long awaited—and feared. If it is a bluff, it is likely to be called by the communist forces, and then there will be red faces on the higher government levels of the United States. If we're bluffing, it will be a serious body blow to the international position of the United States.

If the use of the atomic bomb has reached the point of final consideration, the matter should have been thrashed out thoroughly by the president and the top men of his military staff. If it hasn't, President Truman has made another faux pas which will be embarrassing to the nation's military leaders, the nation's international position, and the people of the United States in general.

At a distance, the highway to progress seems to be as smooth and inviting as a newly built cement highway. When we begin to travel it, however, we find it pretty bumpy. We have to pay for every advance we make.

We need to sit down once in a while and figure out whether or not we have paid too high a price for many of our modern comforts. The dilapidated White House is a symbol proclaiming to all the nation that to go modern sometimes means the weakening of our inner powers.

Strength for the Day

BY EARL L. DOUGLAS
GOING MODERN

The White House is in process of being remodeled. This was made necessary because during the past one hundred years, the building has been almost torn apart in order to make possible the installation of bathroom plumbing, new electric fixtures, air-conditioning, and many other modern gadgets. The side walls became at last so weakened that, as one writer says, the White House was turned into "a creaking, swaying trap."

This reveals in a very striking fashion the high cost which is involved when generations and individuals go modern. Adaptation to new ways and customs brings about a wrench in the bodies of people just as it does in the structure of old buildings. We seem to have developed all kinds of modern diseases which authorities tell us are the result of new ways of living.

At a distance, the highway to progress seems to be as smooth and inviting as a newly built cement highway. When we begin to travel it, however, we find it pretty bumpy. We have to pay for every advance we make.

We need to sit down once in a while and figure out whether or not we have paid too high a price for many of our modern comforts. The dilapidated White House is a symbol proclaiming to all the nation that to go modern sometimes means the weakening of our inner powers.

Don't Overlook The Country's Economy

The cost of living in the United States has soared to a new all-time high, and the people of the country are striving to keep tabs on the higher prices.

The government price index for October 1949 registered 174.8 per cent of the 1935-1939 base period and was .2 per cent higher than the previous price peak recorded in August and September 1948. The price index showed a .6 per cent increase over the month of September this year.

Generally, the higher prices on practically all commodities are not being caused by a shortage of the commodities, but rather by the increased cost of producing these commodities. The cost of metals and other raw materials have jumped drastically in the face of the Korean war. The cost of labor in some instances is advancing to keep pace with the cost of living, and in the long run is falling into the never-ending circle of price and wage hikes.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—Secretaries Dean Acheson and George C. Marshall have joined to launch a flank counterattack on the critics of the diplomatic and military policies for which they have been largely responsible since the end of World War II and the break in friendly relations with Russia. They are presenting their case behind closed doors to so-called "leaders of public opinion."

Several weeks ago, they invited to Washington about a hundred of the most important business and industrial leaders for three days of off-the-record talks. They were briefed by the two Cabinet members, as well as by budget, financial officers and military experts from the Pentagon Building. They were pledged not to reveal any information so divulged to the press or, indeed, to any outsider.

Within a few weeks, a similar group of labor and farm leaders will be given the same course of instructions. In these extraordinarily frank lectures, the past and present framers of our world program try to explain why the United States has got into its current difficulties from the Balkans to Korea, and how the Administration proposes to meet these problems.

Who Says Nobody Can Win Wars?

IN THIS KIND OF WAR HOW CAN WE LOSE? AFTER ALL, WE RISK ALMOST NOTHING—EXCEPT CHINESE LIVES

Somebody Told Me

BY I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

You can't help wondering what Franklin D. Roosevelt would do about the international situation if he were alive today. That thought occurred to me when I saw in Collier's a few of FDR's letters that have been compiled and published by Elliott Roosevelt. The letters intend to prove something that everybody already knows: FDR had a keen sense of humor.

March 17, 1933, FDR wrote this to Mrs. Roosevelt on their wedding anniversary:

Dearest Babs:

After a fruitless week of thinking and lying awake to find where you need or want undies, gresses, hats, shoes, sheets, towels, rump, soup plates, candy, flowers, lounge, laxation pills, whisky, beer, etchings or caviar

I GIVE UP

And yet I know you lack some necessity of life—so go to it with my love and many happy returns of the day!

F.D.R.

On April 29, 1942, he wrote Mrs. Roosevelt:

Memorandum for E.R.:

Do you remember that about a month ago I got sick of chicken because I got it (between lunch and dinner) at least six times a week? The chicken situation has definitely improved, but "they" have substituted sweetbreads, and for the past month I have been getting sweetbreads about six times a week.

I am getting to the point where my stomach positively rebels and this does not help my relations with foreign powers. I bit two of them today.

F.D.R.

In Washington, August, 1933, FDR in a hushing, August 1933, FDR used the word "gotten":

Dear Jim:

Thank you for the RA postage stamp and cover. The honest farmer, who looks like me; the honest business man, who looks like Grover T. Whalen; and the honest blacksmith, who looks like Lionel Barrymore, are magnificent. But Oh Heavens what a girl! She is wearing a No. 11 shoe, also a bustle, and if recovery is dependent on women like that I am against recovery.

In spite of the above it is a grand stamp, gotten out in record time, and will do worlds of good. Congratulations!

Sincerely,
And I thank you.

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN KISSETT Raleigh, N. C.

ROAD MONEY—The state highway and public works commission Thursday authorized study and review of the formula for the allocation of public road money among the several divisions, districts and counties of the state.

Such study is admittedly long overdue, and is imperative now in light of the 1950 census, the fluctuating centers of population within the state, and the variable road mileage on the state primary, secondary and county road systems. The same factors apply to allocation of federal aid money among the states, as evidenced by suggestion from the Federal Bureau of Public Roads that 20 percent of the five hundred million available for 1951-52 will not be allotted until after census figures have been officially confirmed. The federal bureau authorized the state to proceed with program and planning for use of about nine and a half millions due North Carolina out of the total amount.

FORMULA—The highway commission empowered Chairman Henry Jordan to appoint a committee, which should not include any highway commissioner, to re-view the entire matter of fund allocation. Technically the commission has no authority over allocation of money for original construction, that formula being fixed by legislative statute. It does have control over allocation of maintenance funds. Obviously there is close affinity among these functions. Every mile of road built must be maintained. It is quite likely that legislation will be proposed putting into effect recommendations of the study committee in establishing new formula for distribution of all road money. Just as obviously, there would be considerable change in the amounts of money allotted to divisions and counties even if the same formula is retained. More

What Other Papers Are Thinking

HELPING POOR COUNTIES
(New Bern Sun-Journal)

The past few years have seen North Carolina's rich counties become richer and the poor counties poorer, says State Treasurer Brandon Hodges. And Mr. Hodges believes it is the obligation and opportunity of the state to assist the poorer counties while the nation is undergoing its greatest industrial expansion in history.

The time has come, says the state treasurer, when the state should make a concentrated effort to attract new industry, particularly for the undeveloped areas. It is his suggestion that the state be divided into districts with offices established in each district. These offices, manned by personnel familiar with the area, would work to attract new industries. Being familiar with the potential industrial sites, they would be able to bring them to the attention of industries seeking sites.

Those who have read details of the recent decent of severe winter weather upon the northeast noted especially the fact that practically all industry was forced to close down for from a day to a week as a result of the weather. Schools were closed, as well, and the snow and sub-zero weather put an end temporarily to almost all forms of normal living.

North Carolina looked mighty fine to North Carolinians in view of those reports from the north and northeast. Industries, which have many things other than the weather to consider, may not be expected to rush to North Carolina as a result of the one severe cold spell. The marshalling of all the facts and factors which favor North Carolina as a site for industry, however, should accelerate the long-term movement in this direction.

Hal Boyle's Column

By TOM LAMBERT
(From HAL BOYLE)

Chongchon River Front, Korea.—(AP)—All through the day the withdrawal had continued and now it went on into the night. It had washed through Kunu, threatened by the Red horde to the northeast and east, and along the cold and dusty roads into and out of the town.

It had flowed past the outpost battalion of mustached Lt. Col. Charles F. Kane of Caldwell, Ind., a desolate post manned by soft speaking men on the northeast outskirts of the town. There the withdrawal was only a trickle of vehicles but a steady stream of refugees.

There were hundreds of these, the little girl holding a cold ear in each hand, the tired, bearded elder tugging at a bullock. They walked the fields and the icy river's edge and the railway trestles over the dust-choked roads among American vehicles moving away from the river. They spoke only occasionally but their mood was reflected in the mournful howling of their few cattle.

The sun dropped in the west, glaring through the dust with its dying rays.

The Americans shivered and fastened the last buttons on their coats or jackets. Drivers, their faces masked heavily with dust, switched on their lights.

The darkness softened the tortured spines and peaks of the mountains and the headlight stabbed at the blackness.

The lights reminded you of the lights on New York's Triborough Bridge or on the San Francisco Oakland Bay Bridge—and they reminded you too of what a beautiful target they would make for strafing aircraft.

The lights moved into the country now, away from Kunu. The first few frozen furrows of the fields of the roadside glided by, hard and brown, some glistening with frost. The bare tree branches stood out briefly and then retreated into the darkness. Occasionally the lights picked out a signpost like "Sunchon" or "Pyongyang" or "Suncheon" or any one of a dozen towns which a few days ago we had called "rear areas" and considered safe and secure.

The withdrawal continued south. The hills were unseen now except when they loomed up suddenly to blot out the stars.

Off the road occasionally there was the orange gleam of a fire, throwing flickering yellow light on the doughboys with hands outstretched to the warmth of an abandoned campfire, vast in its empty loneliness.

The withdrawal wound along the valley, and crawled painfully over the hills, steered by

By ELMER ROESSNER

Stronger government pressures for decentralization of American industry may result from the worsening international relations.

While decentralization has been urged and aided by the government since early in World War I, the government pressures have increased since the development of the atomic bomb, because of the decentralization has been achieved by economic pressures.

Higher freight rates have made it more profitable to erect plants closer to customers. Need of large pools of manpower has made it desirable for plants to move to new locations. Community campaigns offering cheap rent and tax concessions have encouraged companies to locate plants outside old industrial belts.

These forces have achieved considerable dispersal of American production. They have been aided, of course, by the quiet advice of Pentagon experts and by the urgings of Tracy B. Augur, top decentralization planner of the General Services Administration, but most of the impetus has been economic.

But from now on, federal action may be more compelling. There is the fear of attack. But more immediate is the necessity of getting maximum use of manpower and to spread the impact of government contracts as widely as possible. From the military point of view, we will be stronger if we have plants near Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf ports, for speediest shipment of supplies to any theater.

The government has more than "jawbone" powers to speed decentralization. It can increase depreciation allowances of new plants. In negotiating secret contracts, it can specify production in certain areas. And it can withhold other contracts if it feels that bidders are in vulnerable locations or that they are in critically short manpower areas.

Even delivery requirements can help decentralization. These have already been used; in some large bids specifications have called for delivery at both east and west coast spots, thereby favoring bidders nearest those points and splitting the orders. And in lending money for new defense plants, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation can specify that the plants be dispersed.

The government's own dispersal plan, which GSA Administrator Jess Larson is trying to get through Congress, may be quickly adopted. The first phase calls for relocating key government agencies about 40 minutes out of Washington. Later phases may provide a second alternate capital as far as possible from enemy bomb bases.

Washington—Dr. Hugo Nilson never eats fish outside of business hours, but he sometimes eats it five times a day on the job.

He's a U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service pharmacologist and a volunteer member of a taste-testing panel at the service's technological laboratory at near-by University of Maryland.

Scientists and about a half dozen home economists spend their days working out ways to dish up fish so that people will eat more of same. Fish and things like oysters, crabs and lobsters have been on the plentiful list for some time and America's 140,000 commercial fishermen keep on hauling them in.

The experts claim that a lot of people don't eat fish because they don't know how to cook it right. That's why they keep whipping up new recipes and fish menus. Fish and Wildlife Service maintains test kitchens for this purpose at the University of Maryland.

First the girls cook up a recipe. It may be for home use or for school lunches or for use in industrial institutions in 50 or 100 portions. After it is cooked it is weighed and the size of the serving portions determined.

"Then we hear a ship's bell ringing outside the laboratory," Dr. Nilson told me. "The people who want to taste the fish then dash up to the lab. They sit down and taste each dish, scoring each on its appearance, flavor and texture."

"Members on the panel are all volunteers working in the building," Dr. Nilson said. "Some who don't like fish at all never come. Some eat beavers. Sometimes if only a few show up they take home what's left," Dr. Nilson said.

"I'm a bachelor, so it doesn't matter how I eat," he told me, "but some men's wives who have planned a nice big dinner don't like the nibbling their husbands do."

Dr. Nilson, who has been associated with the laboratory for 14 years, began with tasting salted fish. His particular job, however, is in nutrition and pharmacology. He tries to determine the food value of fish proteins. So far, he says, he's found all fish tested has the same high quality of protein whether cooked, canned or frozen.

President Truman again has set the world on its ear with one of his ad lib statements. This time it is the use of the atomic bomb.

His statement yesterday with reference to the use of the bomb has set the governments of the free nations buzzing. They are trying to decide what the president meant by his statement that the use of the atomic bomb is being considered to keep the com-

Repeat It Slowly, Mr. President

There was no expectation that Stalin would choose the alternative of trying to "bleed us" with piecemeal affairs in Korea, Indo-China, Tibet and elsewhere. On the other hand, experts still fear that an eventual showdown, if it cannot be prevented, will develop into the kind of a struggle that they originally envisaged.

STRENGTH—Here is their formula for meeting the world problem:

(1) Continued foreign economic and military aid in accord with the recent Gray recommendations, possibly costing $10,000,000,000 annually.

(2) No let down in rebuilding our military forces, although the yearly bill may amount to $40,000,000,000. Also some form of universal military training.

(3) Establishments of what Mr. Acheson calls "positions of strength" in Western Europe, the Mediterranean, the Middle East, Southeast Asia, Japan and the Pacific.

Washington—Dr. Hugo Nilson never eats fish outside of business hours, but he sometimes eats it five times a day on the job.

He's a U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service pharmacologist and a volunteer member of a taste-testing panel at the service's technological laboratory at near-by University of Maryland.

Scientists and about a half dozen home economists spend their days working out ways to dish up fish so that people will eat more of same. Fish and things like oysters, crabs and lobsters have been on the plentiful list for some time and America's 140,000 commercial fishermen keep on hauling them in.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

HELPING POOR COUNTIES
(New Bern Sun-Journal)

The past few years have seen North Carolina's rich counties become richer and the poor counties poorer, says State Treasurer Brandon Hodges. And Mr. Hodges believes it is the obligation and opportunity of the state to assist the poorer counties while the nation is undergoing its greatest industrial expansion in history.

The time has come, says the state treasurer, when the state should make a concentrated effort to attract new industry, particularly for the undeveloped areas. It is his suggestion that the state be divided into districts with offices established in each district. These offices, manned by personnel familiar with the area, would work to attract new industries. Being familiar with the potential industrial sites, they would be able to bring them to the attention of industries seeking sites.

Those who have read details of the recent decent of severe winter weather upon the northeast noted especially the fact that practically all industry was forced to close down for from a day to a week as a result of the weather. Schools were closed, as well, and the snow and sub-zero weather put an end temporarily to almost all forms of normal living.

North Carolina looked mighty fine to North Carolinians in view of those reports from the north and northeast. Industries, which have many things other than the weather to consider, may not be expected to rush to North Carolina as a result of the one severe cold spell. The marshalling of all the facts and factors which favor North Carolina as a site for industry, however, should accelerate the long-term movement in this direction.

Odd Case Underscores Parole Board Problem

By Lynn Nisbet
Raleigh, Dec. 1—Mrs. Eunice Pigott McLawhorn of Kinston was delivered to woman's prison at Raleigh Tuesday morning after serving a one year sentence for assault with a deadly weapon. That incident of itself is not important or significant to others than members of the family and close friends of the woman involved. Records in the superior court of Lenoir county, the supreme court of North Carolina and offices of the paroles commission, place this case in unusual if not unique position.

Briefly summarized here is the story: Mrs. McLawhorn, for many years a madame at a house of ill repute in or near Kinston, entered the home of a rival and attacked her with a knife. Arrested on a charge of "burglariously entering a home at night time with intent to commit a felony" (which was a capital crime), Mrs. McLawhorn was arraigned in Lenoir county court on a charge of "assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill." The jury returned a verdict of "guilty of assault with a deadly weapon" and Judge Leo Carr sentenced the defendant to one year in state prison. Notice of appeal was given. That was in April of this year.

Under date of June 3, 1950, and before the appeal was docketed (it never was completed), pressure was applied to the paroles office to let Mrs. McLawhorn off without serving any time. The paroles commissioner, Dr. T. C. Johnson, did not yield to this pressure. He did, however, after the appeal had been dismissed for failure of the defendant to file briefs, allow a 30-day reprieve in order for the woman to take medical treatment. At expiration of that first reprieve on November 20, another eight days was granted so the woman could provide a home for a seven-year-old adopted son. Further check of records discloses that the boy had not been legally adopted. When the second reprieve period was over, Mrs. McLawhorn was brought to Raleigh and woman's prison authorities report she was committed about noon on Tuesday, November 28. That is the story as it appears on face of the record. Back of that is another and more interesting story as it relates to attitude toward and procedure of the paroles commission office in North Carolina. Dr. Johnson, paroles commissioner, happened to know the occupation and reputation of the defendant, Mrs. McLawhorn, because he lived in Kinston for several years back in the late twenties. If he hadn't known it of his own knowledge, he could have discovered it from the court records. He never could have found it out from the petitions filed in his office seeking parole before entering prison for the woman.

The petition would have been hard to pass over, without some additional knowledge, because it bore the names of most of the officials and many prominent citizens of Lenoir county and Kinston. It set out that Mrs. McLawhorn had paid a pro se prosecuting witness, victim of her assault, $1500 plus doctor bills; that she had cooperated with law enforcement officers, and that she had probably been punished enough without having to enter prison. Here are some of the folks who signed that petition: W. Guy Hargett, highway commissioner for the third division and one of the ten men charged with administration of the prison department in this state; W. L. Measby, chairman of the Lenoir county commissioners, along with County Commissioners Mark N. Smith, Harry Sutton and B. C. Langston; R. T. Jarman, Lenoir county coroner; C. D. Chambers, Lenoir county ABC officer; D. F. Wilcox, Jr., deputy sheriff; John W. Fiver, Edward R. Evans and W. S. Kennedy of the Kinston police department; as well as a dozen or more prominent business and professional men of the community.

Not signing the general petition but writing individual letters recommending parole in advance of any time served were S. R. Churchill, sheriff of Lenoir county; Guy Elliott, mayor of Kinston; Marion Haskins, Kinston chief of police; Rev. Clifton Rice, pastor of a Free Will Baptist church in Kinston, and Dr. Z. V. Moseley. The file also contains a letter signed by Mrs. Hill, victim of the assault and prosecuting witness, and her husband, which is accompanied by a letter signed by John D. Larkins, K., state senator and private prosecutor in the case, stating there was no objection to the paroles. That is an impressive and imposing array of testimony and Paroles Commissioner Johnson admits it was hard to ignore. Policy is against granting paroles before beginning of sentence, and in this case both the trial judge and the solicitor opposed the suggested clemency. So the petition was not granted at the time.

The McLawhorn case is a strange one and it may become precedent-setting in the state. At least it will serve to focus attention upon the parole system and what the paroles commissioner is up against when petitions for clemency are signed by practically all the official family of the county and city in which the principal actor in the drama lives. It raises also the question of responsibility of officers and law abiding citizens with respect to co-operation with established authority in enforcement of the laws. There are rumors of political pull and of favored lawyers getting high fees upon promise to relieve Mrs. McLawhorn of any prison service, but the official record does not contain anything to justify these reports. In a case as weird as this almost anything could happen.

Santa Is Greeted With Snowballs In Town Parade

Pekin, Ill., Dec. 1—(AP)—Santa Claus came to town yesterday and was snowballed out of a parade by a group of teen-age youngsters.

Santa, dressed in a red suit and riding in a red jeep, was the chief feature of a pre-Christmas parade in this central Illinois community of about 20,000 population. It was a fine parade when it started—decorated floats, a miniature circus and bands, and Santa Claus riding near the end. He had smiled and waved to the crowds which lined the streets to watch the parade.

But some 40 youngsters of about junior high school age started firing snowballs at some other pupils who were in the parade. Then Santa became the main target. His smiles turned to grimaces as he attempted to dodge the snowball barrage. Police were unable to cope with the situation, sponsors of the parade said. Many adults tried to stop the youngsters.

Hundreds of the smaller children who were brought downtown to see Santa appeared upset by the snowball attack on St. Nick. The parade, staged by the Pekin Association of Commerce, completed its route but Santa dropped out before the finish to dig the snow out of his whiskers. John Kreitzman, a trucking line owner and member of the association of commerce, played the role of Santa Claus. He declined comment about his treatment.

Browning Chapel Newly Dedicated

LONDON—(AP)—Poetry lovers now can go to church amid relics of Robert Browning. A Browning chapel, furnished with his study table as an altar, his chair, and other items from the Venetian home where he died, has just been dedicated at St. Marylebone parish church. The church parish includes Wimpole Street, where Browning lived and from where he courted Elizabeth Barrett. The building of the chapel was supported by John Masefield, Britain's poet laureate, the Poetry Society of Great Britain, and ten Browning societies in the United States.

Natural Gas Will Be New 'Giant'

Berkeley, Calif.—(AP)—Natural gas may soon be more important than oil in the United States says James J. Parsons of the University of California. He estimates that six trillion cubic feet were taken from the ground in 1949. Known gas reserves are bigger than oil reserves, he says. In 1949 the marketed production of gas increased 12 per cent with eight per cent reduction in oil and 28 per cent reduction in coal.

It is estimated less than one twelfth of the original timber of 'Old Ironside' remain.

To Share Child

Los Angeles, Dec. 1—(AP)—The unwed parents of 16-month-old Lindsay Mae Shane can't agree to live with each other, but they're going to take turns daily taking care of baby. Superior Judge Mildred Lillis yesterday worked out this custody sharing plan for Gerald D. Shane, 25, actor-salesman, and Jeannette Nowitske, 21, drug store clerk.

The father will have the child from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., while the mother works; she is to have custody from 6 p.m. to 8 a.m. But the judge failed in her attempt to get the couple to marry.

Store Fire Fatal For Ten Persons

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 1—(AP)—A gaily-lit Christmas display burst into flame in a department store window here last night and at least 10 persons perished in the fire which quickly enveloped the building.

Police Chief Verdun Mitchell said the death toll could not be fixed definitely until some time today. A section of the crumbling building was too hazardous to be searched for bodies last night.

Damage was expected to exceed $500,000. Adjoining stores were extensively damaged by smoke. The fire broke out in the third story toyland of Kays, Ltd., just before closing time. About 30 Christmas shoppers and employees were in the store. Firemen recovered 10 bodies. It was the city's worst fire since 1929. Soon after the blaze started, an explosion rocked the four story, 57-year old building and hurled shattered glass over the street.

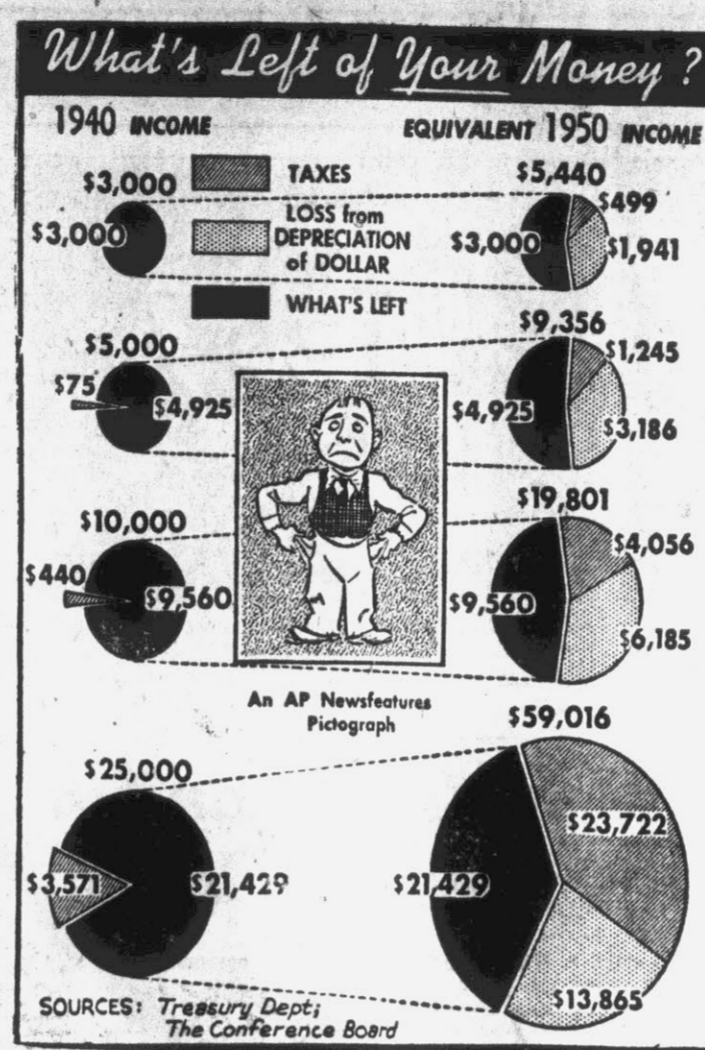

One woman was taken to a hospital suffering from burns. A 16-year old boy, Ronald Mulholland, led five persons to safety over the roof of an adjoining building. A spokesman for the fire marshal's office said the store building had no rear door and no sprinkler system.

The Stewardship of Life

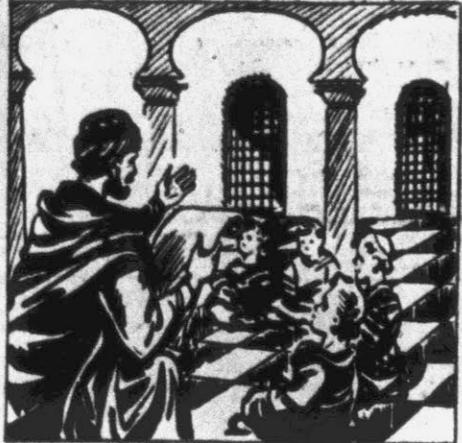

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Romans 12:1-8; II Corinthians 8:1-9; Philippians 2:19-30; 4:18-20.

Paul, writing to the Romans, said that, "we, being many, have differing gifts. If one had the gift of ministry, let him devote himself to that task."

If a person had the ability to teach, Paul said, he should concentrate on teaching—earnestly striving to impart the teaching of Jesus to the pupils.

Epaphroditus, Paul's companion, had been sick, and Paul wrote the Philippians that he was sending this friend to them, to be welcomed joyfully.

In a notorious prison at Rome, Paul wrote the Philippians, thanking them for the generous gifts they had sent him. MEMORY VERSE—Ecclesiastes 9:10.

The Stewardship of Life

USE YOUR GIFTS FOR THE GLORY OF GOD

Romans 12:1-8; II Corinthians 8:1-9; Philippians 2:19-30; 4:18-20.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

TODAY'S LESSON is based entirely upon Paul's letters to his friends—Romans, Corinthians and Philippians.

Paul tells his friends in the congregations of three cities—Rome, Corinth and Philippi—what he considers a Christian life should be. It is no idle existence, for Paul believed (and practiced) activity. His whole life, after his conversion, was one of the greatest devotion and activity in Christ's work.

This writer heard a talk the other day by a man—a successful industrialist—in which he said it was wrong to think of labor as a curse. It was one of man's greatest blessings—and it is.

The old saying of Isaac Watts, English divine, "Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do" is true as true. Few busy people are altogether unhappy, no matter what their misfortune. Few idle ones are entirely happy, no matter what their good fortune.

Even quite small children can try to be humble—not to think too highly of himself, but to study his particular abilities, and then do the best he can in meekness of spirit.

As Paul wrote to the Romans, "Having then gifts differing according to the grace that is given to us, whether prophecy, let us prophesy according to the proportion of faith; or ministry, let us wait in our ministering; or he that teacheth, on teaching. Or he that exhorteth, on exhortation; he that giveth, let him do it with simplicity; he that ruleth, with diligence; he that sheweth mercy, with cheerfulness."

In other words, in the words of our Memory Verse: "Whatever thy hand findeth to do; do it with thy might."

To the Corinthians he wrote of the poverty and suffering of the brethren in Jerusalem, and urged them to help their fellow Christians there. Very tactfully Paul spoke of the liberality of the people of Macedonia, who were not rich, but gave liberally. First they "gave their own selves to realize the truth of this. If they slight the little tasks their mother, father or teacher gives them, they are not joyful; but have a feeling of guilt. But if their small tasks are done, not only promptly, but cheerfully, they feel satisfied and happy.

First Paul beseeches his brethren to give themselves wholly to God—their bodies as well as their souls. Then whatever tasks are assigned to them, according to their abilities, to do them cheerfully. No matter how humble the task might be, to do it well.

"For I say, through the grace that was given me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but so to think as to think soberly, according as God hath dealt to each man a measure of faith."

Every man, woman and child has certain gifts. Some may not be of a very high order, but all may be used for the bettering of the world and daily living. And if one succeeds greatly at whatever his task, he should remind himself of Paul's warning, and

God," and then ministered "to the saints."

They could prove the sincerity of their love, so Paul wrote, by helping those who needed a. d. This giving to your church or to the worthy causes that come to your attention, is "acceptable to the Lord."

When Paul wrote to the Corinthians he was free, but when he sent his appeal to the Philippians he was again in prison, nearing the end of his life. He wrote them of his companion, Epaphroditus, whom he was sending to them.

He knew they had heard he had been sick "unto death." He had recovered, however, and Paul suggested that they would receive him with joy. "that I may be less sorrowful."

The last reference we have in our lesson is a letter of thanks to these same Philippians, for gifts which they had sent him (of food and clothing, it is presumed), by this same Epaphroditus, "an odor of a sweet smell, a sacrifice acceptable, well pleasing to God."

Next to the bedroom, the greatest number of fatal home accidents occur in the kitchen—10 per cent; inside stairways—seven per cent and the yard, outside porch and steps with a combined 18 per cent.

The altar and the wall behind it in the chapel of the Alcazar, famous Spanish palace, are decorated with clay tile paintings of Biblical scenes, which have been in place more than 400 years.

Divided Command In Korea Rases Doubt

By DON WHITEHEAD

With U. S. Eighth Army, Korea, Dec. 1—(AP)—Collapse of the United Nations offensive has drawn sharp criticism here of the divided command in General MacArthur's military forces in Korea.

Many military men are questioning the setup in which the U. S. Tenth Corps is operating in northeast Korea entirely independently of the Eighth Army on the north-west front.

The Tenth Corps, commanded by Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, frequently is referred to in this theater as a "special police force."

In effect, MacArthur has two forces fighting in Korea—one labelled as an army and the other as a corps. The coordination of these forces is not handled in the field but from GHQ in Tokyo.

This sharp separation of command responsibilities in the field has been one of the puzzles of the Korean War. No one yet has given an official explanation of why Tenth Corps is divorced from Eighth Army.

Associated Press Correspondent Stan Swinton, who has covered Tenth Corps since Almond's men went ashore in the northeast, pointed out today there was a physical reason for the separation of commands. He said the north-central Korean mountain mass splits North Korea in half so Eighth Army and Tenth Corps could not operate as a single unit.

Swinton said many officers at Tenth Corps privately believe there should be closer liaison between Eighth Army and Tenth Corps but a popular opinion there is that as an army and not as a corps—should be given army status and an overall army group command set up at a central point in Korea.

Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker commands the Eighth Army. But actually he is responsible for only half the fighting front despite his three stars. The other half of the responsibility rests on the two-star command of Almond.

No officer dares talk for publication but privately they have begun to question the wisdom of this cleavage in field command. This is where the spot decision must be made in fighting the enemy.

New Product For Plant In Kinston

Kinston, N.C., Dec. 1—(AP)—The DuPont company will make a new synthetic fiber, Fiber V, at a plant to be built here next year.

The announcement was made yesterday by W. T. Wood, production director of DuPont's nylon division, who with other officials inspected the 635-acre site.

Fiber V yarn for development work is being made at a DuPont plant in Seaford, Del. Window curtains, blouses, shirts, sewing thread and suitings made from the fiber are being tested in the textile trade. Experimentally, fire hose and machinery belts also have been made from the new synthetic.

Fiber V is said to be highly resistant to stretching, wrinkling, abrasion and chemical bleaches. It is also described as having high tensile strength, able to be heat set, and to launder well.

Originally DuPont had planned to make nylon at the proposed plant. "Grand Antique," French marble with black and white markings in sharp contrast, is the model for a modern asphalt tile.

Law Enforcers' Convention Ends

Charleston, S.C., Dec. 1—(AP)—Carolina law enforcement officers ended their convention here today after electing officers.

There Is No Substitute For Experience

From your own work in taking care of your holdings, you know what an essential part your own experience plays. You hardly would think of leaving the important decisions to others less competent than yourself, would you?

The executor of your Will — whether your estate is small or large — should be experienced and qualified in the matter of Estate Management. A friend or relatives might be sincere and well-intentioned, yet lack the qualifications so important in protecting the welfare of the estate.

If your Will is to do everything you expect of it, you should arrange now to have your attorney bring it up-to-date. One of the modern provisions to include is the naming of an experienced executor — an executor who is entirely familiar with all the details so important in the management and settlement of an estate.

In all matters requiring business judgment, there is no substitute for experience.

That is why thinking men and women, more and more, are providing in their Wills that their Estates be handled by an experienced institution. A Corporate Executor, such as the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company, has a continuous existence. It is always in a position to safeguard and protect the interests of your Estate. It is experienced and qualified.

Chapter 1
At midnight the storm caught them deep in the badlands. Driving rain slashed across the buttes and jagged flashes of lightning lit the terrain. They were strangers in this northern Montana cow country, and tall Buck McKee, tired from the saddle, called a halt to their slow progress.

Squaw Tortilla Joe, the Mexican, took the rain and the subsequent delay stoically, settling on his thick haunches and chewing on a cold tortilla he had carried in his saddle pocket.

Silence held them, then, broken only by the wind and the rain. Finally the Mexican started to chuckle.

"Oh Jim Tuttle, he weel be glad to see us, huh? An' sup'rised too, you betcha. But his letter—me, I do not like the way he say some theings ranch Tuttle had purchased.

Tortilla Joe's grimy thumb jabbed toward the basin below.

"There she ees—Meek Reever Valley," he announced.

The valley lay below them, miles wide. A rolling, undulant land marked by grass and greasewood and sagebrush—a cowman's paradise. Little did it seem possible that gunsmoke and trouble lurked deep in the pastoral scene below.

"Look," said Tortilla Joe. Below them, too far away for accurate vision, a group of riders—about eight in all—had emerged from the brush. They were heading at a fast lope toward Beaverton, the town about ten miles to the east, barely discernible in the distance.

"What about it?" asked Buck. The Mexican shoved back his hat and scratched his wiry mop of black hair. "Tis too early for men to ride, Buck, an' many men ride together. Why?"

"You're like an old woman," said Buck.

Tortilla Joe shook his head. "No, somethin' loose, she ees tell me—there ees trouble."

"That guy in the lead," said Buck, "is riding a dappled gray. I figure I'd know that horse again if I saw him. But, say, I'm talking like you. Come on, old man; that breakfast is waiting."

A few minutes later, following a worn trail, they were on the level bottomlands, heading toward the cottonwoods where the riders had come out of concealment. Suddenly Buck pulled in his horse.

Sitting saddles, they stared at a big cottonwood. Tortilla Joe's grimy hand rose, making the sign of the cross. For a young man hung from the cottonwood, his head lopped crazily against the rope, his lanky body swaying slightly in the wind. His red hair was spilled across his shoulder.

Sudden fear seared through Buck McKee. Then, with lifting emotions, he saw that the hanged man was a stranger. It was not young Mart Tuttle.

"Now," he said, "we know what those riders were doing in the brush."

"Madre de Dios," breathed Tortilla Joe. "The hombre ees dead, huh?"

"His neck," said Buck, "is broken. This wasn't any legal killing."

He studied the ground, reading the hoof-marks there. Then he rode into the brush, came back leading a saddle and bridled horse by the reins.

"The dead man's horse," he said, "they've ridden it out from under him. Lasy N-S iron."

Tortilla Joe's black eyes widened. "That ees Jim Tuttle's brand!"

"Sure is," muttered Buck. He tied the bridle reins around his saddle-horn and scratched his unruly brown hair.

"Look," said Tortilla Joe. Four men were coming over a distant hill, riding hard on stirrups. A big man, heavy-set and hard-looking, headed the group. The morning sun, slanting in, reflected from the shiny star pinned to his jumper. The four riders spurred forward, their guns naked in their fists.

New Swim Suits Fret Australia

SYDNEY—(AP)—Australian migrants from Europe who appear on Sydney's beaches in French-style bathing costumes, or undress in the open are causing beach inspectors concern.

Inspectors say, in most cases, the new Australians have protested that in the countries from which they came they had been accustomed to such habits.

Time Turns Backwards As Big Storm Makes Altoona, Pa. A Pioneer City

Altoona, Pa., Dec. 1—(AP)—You need the pluck of a pioneer—and maybe a flashlight—to get along in this storm darkened railroad town today.

Most of the 84,000 residents have been without electricity since a ferocious sleet storm last weekend. The storm was part of a blow that nature struck against the entire northeastern quarter of the nation.

Today 75 per cent of Altoona's inhabitants still are without electricity.

One veteran's and three civilian hospitals had no power until emergency circuits were rigged up 24 hours after the storm started. A Pennsylvania Railroad generator still supplies power to one institution.

For days doctors and nurses at a state mental hospital tended bewildered patients with only flashlights for illumination. Officials of the Pennsylvania Electric Company—called Penelec by folks around here—say it will take weeks to restore normal service.

More than 500 repairs are working night and day on damaged lines. But sub-freezing temperatures and ice hinder their efforts. Yesterday the sun came out two hours—for the first time since Saturday. Ice thawed and smiles brightened.

Said Penelec vice president William H. Wade: "Twenty thousand men couldn't have done in two hours what that sun did."

The 25 per cent of the population who now have power still aren't worry free. The service is spotty. It halted for hours twice yesterday without warning.

The telephone situation is almost as bad. Only 65 per cent can use their phones. Many residents simply gave up trying to buy the necessary emergency equipment—flashlights, old-fashioned kerosene lamps and coal stoves. They left town for the duration.

About 50 families moved into the Penn-Alto Hotel—one of the few downtown buildings with electricity.

but there are other inconveniences. Only two of the city's 25 laundries are open. One citizen complained: "I've had to wear summer shirts for four days."

Gasoline stations closed because their electric pumps won't work. Most industries have shutdown, causing widespread unemployment.

The big Pennsylvania Railroad furloughed thousands of workers.

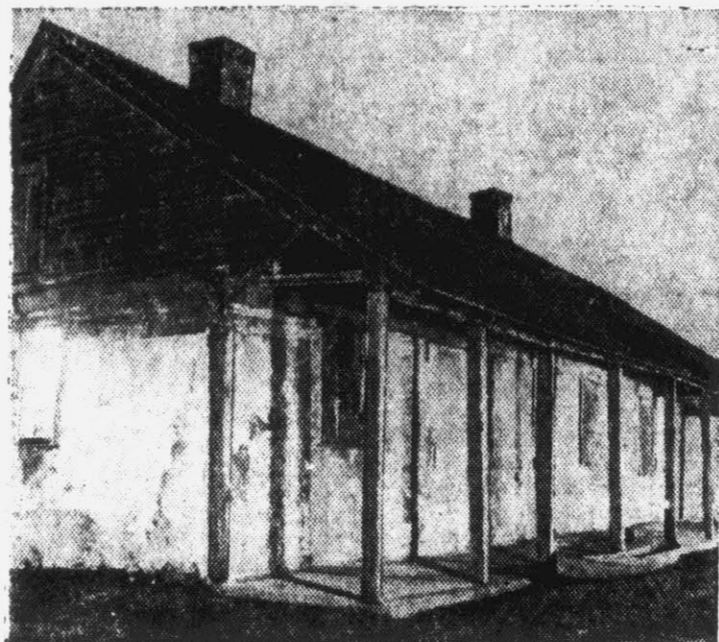

A handful of taverns are operating by candlelight. But customers have to be satisfied with warm beer.

Water pipes froze and some residents melted snow for drinking water.

A poultryman lost a million would-be chicks when the current shut off in his egg incubators. All public meetings were canceled.

Reports of prowlers mushroomed. Police expect a rise in burglaries on darkened streets.

Spanish Fort Is Bidding For Renown As Antique

MISSISSIPPI Valley's oldest: Old Spanish Fort.

RICE HUSKING demonstrated by Joyce Nelson at Old Fort.

AP Newsfeatures
Pascagoula, Miss. Pascagoula's historic Old Spanish Fort built 230 years ago by an officer of a French exploring party, has been rededicated with a challenge for intiquity.

The Jackson County Historical Society, which helped rehabilitate the sturdy three-room structure, claims it's the oldest building in the Mississippi Valley. Other sections of the valley were challenged to produce an older one.

Pomp and pageantry marked the day long ceremony dedicating the structure as an historic shrine.

Actually the name of the shrine is a misnomer. The structure was neither Spanish-constructed nor intended as a fort. It was built by Sieur Joseph, an officer with the French explorer Jean Baptists Bienville, for his home. Later, however, it was occupied by Spanish troops—hence Old Spanish Fort.

Walls, made of oyster shells, and moss and sand, are almost a foot thick. The low, wood-shingle roof is supported by hand-hewed timbers.

Farmville Church Dedicates Plaque

Farmville.—About three hundred people were in attendance last Sunday at the Christian Church in Farmville for the morning service, dedicating a beautiful marble plaque to the late Rev. C. B. Mashburn. Rev. C. B. Mashburn came to Farmville from Charlotte and remained here for some twenty years. He was one of the most loved ministers of Pitt County. Upon his retirement from active service he and Mrs. Mashburn moved to Black Mountain in 1946. Rev. Zesely B. T. Cox was called by the Church to serve the Church as minister upon the retirement of Rev. Mashburn.

Dr. H. S. Hille, former president of Atlantic Christian College was the guest speaker. He brought a message pointing out that men change as the years come and go. Rev. C. C. Ware, state secretary of the North Carolina Missionary Association, gave the charge to the church in a very forceful way. Special music was furnished by Miss Barbara Shyle of Silver Springs, Md., a granddaughter of the late Rev. Mashburn, who sang "The Holy City"; and Mr. J. Harper Wetherington of New Bern, sang "Sweetly Solemn Thought." Zesely B. T. Cox presided at the meeting and Mr. Arch J. Flanagan gave the closing prayer.

The plaque bears this inscription: "Cleophas Bowen Mashburn 1884-1946. 'I have preached righteousness in the great congregation; I have not refrained my lips.' Ps. 40:9"

All of the family were present except Mrs. George Farr, a daughter and her husband and two children, who live in Asheville. They were prevented from attending the service because of snow. There were many of the couples who were united in marriage by Rev. Mashburn present also.

Between 1930 and 1947 the U. S. Bureau of Mines received reports of 194 lives lost in 434 mine fires.

Alaska Fights 'Suicide By Ignorance' Among Eskimos

AP Newsfeatures . . . . . Anchorage — Hit by typhoid and influenza epidemics for the third time this year, the Eskimo tribes of western Alaska have placed an age-old ban on disease carriers—and the penalty is death. Even as they are being thin- ned out by the white man's dis- eases, they forego his treatments for ancient practices designed to do away with the agents of bad spirits. More direct than their former dances and incantations is their taboo by which typhoid carriers are left alone without food or weapons to perish in the wild- erness or on the ice.

The Eskimo, once purely a nom- ad, finds it difficult to understand that permanent dwellings have made unfit the water on which his ancestors thrived. Lack of funds has prevented proper agen- cies from educating him in the ways of sanitation.

Milan Skirmish

Milan, Italy, Dec. 1—(AP)— Skirmishing broke out today be- tween police and demonstrators who tried to march to the United States consulate carry- ing placards protesting against President Truman and the use of the atomic bomb.

Other placards demanded peace. There was a sharp skirmish- ing before the demonstrators broke and scattered.

Literary Honor Awarded Tonight

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 1—(AP)— Annual meetings of six of North Carolina's cultural societies are slated to climax tonight with the naming of the Mayflower Cup win- ner.

The cup, awarded by the N. C. Literary and Historical Association, is given to the author of the best book written by a state resident during the year.

A committee of judges selected by the association chooses the win- ner.

The meeting of the six organiza- tions began two days ago. In that time all have held their regular bus- iness sessions and all have elected their same officers for another year.

Holding their annual meetings during the three-day period have been: The N. C. Art Society, the N. C. Society for the Preservation of Antiquities, the Archaeological Society of North Carolina and the literary group.

Traced to Drinking Water

The disease, like typhoid, seems to stem from a slough behind the town which drains immediately into the Kuskokwim laden with the village waste. Here it blends with fragments of the riverbank ceme- tery which is being gradually swept into the river. Coffins and bodies appear often on the beaches.

Bethel homes are supplied from a tank truck which draws water from below these points on the river. Chlorination is a hit and miss affair depending on the whim of the truck driver. Natives, disliking the slightest chlorine taste, prefer to dip their water from the river. In the winter bac- teria-swarming ice is cut from the river for melting in the homes. Boiling is rare, for in this tree- less country fuel presents a great problem.

Aged Woman Is Given 'Reprieve'

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 1—(AP)— A 78-year-old mentally ill woman who has been in the Wake County Jail since last August has a temporary reprieve.

Mrs. Mary Margaret Kern, formerly of Nebraska and late of Wake County, has been imprisoned while trying to be committed to the state hospital at Dix Hill.

Wake County superior court clerk P. H. Wilson said yesterday he received a letter from Dr. David Young, general superintendent of the state hospital. The letter stated Mrs. Kern will be allowed to enter Dix Hill for an "observ- ation period."

There are strings attached, how- ever. Young wrote that Mrs. Kern could be admitted only if Wilson, Mrs. Kern's children, or the De- partment of Welfare would assure the hospital "that if she was ad- mitted the county or the family would undertake to find a place for her and assume responsibility... if the findings of the hospital were such that she cannot be admitted permanently."

Under North Carolina's law, Mrs. Kern is not legally eligible for admission to the state institution. This is because she was on the Nebraska state relief rolls when she entered North Carolina six years ago.

New Distributor For Dairy Products In City Announced

Ben Harrison, well known local man of Greenville, has been named as sole distributor for Sealtest milk in Greenville according to an announcement made by Fred Shumate, manager of Southern Dairies Inc. in Wilson.

Shumate, in making this announcement, emphasized that Southern Dairies' policy is to foster the growth of local enterprise in the belief that cooperation between large and small business is the founda- tion for future progress in the dairy industry.

The addition of this new distribu- tor handling Sealtest products in Greenville marks another step in the company's plan to encourage the establishment of locally operated sales outlets for its nationally known brand of milk and other dairy prod- ucts.

Exactly Nine Years Ago Japan Decided To Fight

Washington, Dec. 1—(AP)— has always existed between the Chinese people and the American people.

Two days later—on Sunday—it was apparent that Red China had opened a powerful offensive against U.N. troops in Korea. Many ob- servers had predicted such a move would set off another world war.

In December, 1941, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill came to this country to confer with Pres- ident Franklin D. Roosevelt and yesterday it was announced that Prime Minister Attlee will arrive probably early next week for talks with President Truman.

Pfc. Jack Tilghman Now Home On Leave

Sgt. Don Fare of the Greenville Army and Airforce recruiting office today announced that PFC Jack W. Tilghman, of 1304 Evans Street, Greenville, has returned to Green- ville on a 10-day leave, after com- pleting an eight-week training pe- riod with the Airforce.

Tilghman enlisted in September, 1950 and was sent to Lackland Field, Texas, for training of four weeks and then to a four-week school at Tyndall Air Force Base, Florida. After his furlough at home, Tilghman will be sent to the Greenville Air Force Base, South Carolina, for further training.

Sgt. Fare reported that Tilghman was well pleased with his army life even though he had been in only two months.

Insurance Group In Business-Supper Meeting Wednesday

The members of the Greenville office of the Coastal Plains Life Insurance company were hosts to company representatives from several adjoining counties at a barbe- que chicken supper held Wednesday night.

A business conference was held during the afternoon at which time reports were given showing the in- crease in business and the financial position of the company.

Following the afternoon session, the group had supper at Respos- James.

S. T. Bullock, local manager, pres- ided at the dinner meeting which was attended by an estimated 85 persons.

The group heard from S. E. Wil- son, president of the company; J. B. S. Utley, agency supervisor of the company and Judge Dink James of Greenville.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service says most varieties of hawks and owls are valuable as rodent- killers.

Durham Suspends 2 Policemen In Shooting Probe

Durham, N.C., Dec. 1—(AP)—Two city policemen have been suspended in the continuing investigation of the shooting of a Negro here Mon- day night.

The policeman, Fred B. Smith and James Bruce Lawson, said they fired into the air after Bonnie Lee Daye, 29, ran from a car that had non-tax-paid whiskey. Daye, wound- ed in the back by a bullet of the same caliber as the policemen's guns, is in fair condition in a hospital.

Police Chief H. E. King yesterday suspended Smith and Lawson in- definitely and said they had failed to report using their guns until he demanded a full explanation.

Mrs. F. D. Stuart of Norfolk will spend the week end with Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Mizelle.

Mrs. Maggie Jackson and Mrs. Fannie Dall of Ayden spent Wed- nesday afternoon with their sister, Mrs. Albert Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Weatherford and family of Rocky Mount had supper Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Johnston.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Newton of Fountain had as their dinner guests Saturday, Mrs. Nan King of Wash- ington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. Joe Newton and son, Bob.

Group No. 4 of the Christian church met Tuesday night with Mrs. F. A. Darden, Mrs. C. L. Ivy presided. After the business dis- cussion Mrs. Lloyd Smith gave a "hidden answers quiz."

Mrs. C. L. Ivy had charge of the program using a chapter in the book of the "Strong Son of God." The meeting was dismissed by re- peating the circle benediction. As- sisted by Mrs. Rouse and Mrs. Ivy the hostess served fruit cake, cor- nets, sandwiches, stuffed dates and hot coffee to the 19 members and one visitor.

Group 1 met with Mrs. T. R. Mi- selle Monday night, Mrs. Burton Jones of Maury co.-hostess.

Mrs. Edson Moore presided and Mrs. Hubert Dixon conducted the devotional, a study taken from "Strong Son of God."

After a short business discussion, Mrs. George Windham gave the pro- gram. Sponge cake, nuts and spiced tea were served to the 18 members and two visitors.

The kind of plow you've always wanted

A-C MOUNTED DISC PLOW FOR THE WD TRACTOR

Here is something new in disc plow design. Overhead beam gives you much greater trash clear- ance — means clean plowing in heavy corn or cotton stalks. Notice the hitch point — ahead of the rear tractor wheels. This plow will make a furrow as straight as you can drive, or give you true trailing on curves and contours. Low draft line assures smooth plowing, even in hard soil.

Finger-tip hydraulic control at the tractor steering wheel regulates depth of the discs, lifts the entire plow for turning and transport.

Disc blades have sealed lubrication — good for a year. Free-floating rear wheel rolls over rocks or roots without affecting the discs. (Subsoiler optional.)

Pirates Lose To Marines, 63-62, In Overtime Period

Hodges And Russell Lead East Carolina Scoring With 12 Points Apiece; Late Overtime Rally Falls Short

Camp Lejeune, Dec. 1.—East Carolina lost its regular basketball season opener in an overtime period last night, 63-62, as they fell before the Camp Lejeune Marines.

It was the first varsity game to be played in the new Goettges Memorial Field House which has a seating capacity of 6,000 persons.

A field goal by Seb Sebring, Marine center, and a charity toss by Guard Bimbo Singer knotted the score, 57-57, in the last 1:15 of regular play, causing the overtime period.

In the overtime, the Marines quickly raced out from as Stovall and Smith pushed in shots from the floor, and Smith and Singer added free throws, before the Pirates could get going again.

At last minute rally by Russell, Coile and Jones fell short.

Camp Lejeune's center, Seb Sebring, took individual scoring honors for the night, with seven field goals and three free throws for 17 points, while Smith was runnerup with 16 points.

East Carolina plays its first North State Conference game Saturday night against Guilford at Greensboro.

Basketball Officiating Clinic Here On Sunday

The Northeastern Official Book- ing Office will hold its first basketball officiating clinic Sunday afternoon, December 3, in the Wright gymnasium on the East Carolina college campus.

The clinic will begin at 1:30 o'clock, under the direction of Walter Jones, well-known cage official from Farmville.

Rules changes, mechanics for refereeing, and relations of coaches and officials will be discussed.

In addition to the above discussion groups, an excellent movie on plays, officiating, and basketball in general, will be presented.

Every coach and prospective official throughout the eastern part of North Carolina is cordially invited to attend.

Vol Scouts See Longhorns Score 17 To 0 Win

Austin, Tex., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Tennessee scouts got an eyeful of the University of Texas' power yesterday as the Longhorns smashed traditional foe Texas A. and M., 17-0.

They saw a massive, manhandling Texas line check the Aggies' feared ground game and watched a pre-season question mark—Ben Tompkins—supply a dazzling answer to his quarterbacking ability.

It was Tompkins who engineered Texas to one touchdown, passed for another, kicked two extra points

Winterville Wins Over Vanceboro

Winterville, Dec. 1.—Forward Anne Spier scored a last second field goal Wednesday night, giving Winterville's Wolverines a 45-43 verdict over Vanceboro's sextet in a hotly-contested cage battle here.

The score was knotted twice in the last thirty seconds in the thrilling girls' clash, before Spier sank her game-winning shot. Spier and Betsy Castellone paced the Winterville scoring with 15 and 14 points respectively, while Wilson led the losers with 14 points.

Winterville's boys' team made a clean sweep of the night's doubleheader as Forward J. N. Riggs and Center E. C. Averette led the Wolves to a 42-7 victory.

Riggs collected 19 points to lead the individual scoring honors, with Averette sinking nine points. Both boys were also outstanding on defense.

Wesley Gladson, center, and J. L. Peterson were top men for the losers with Gladson gathering 13 points and Peterson eight.

and a field goal.

The Tennessee scouts were taking a look at the Texas team the Vols will meet in the New Year's Day Cotton Bowl game.

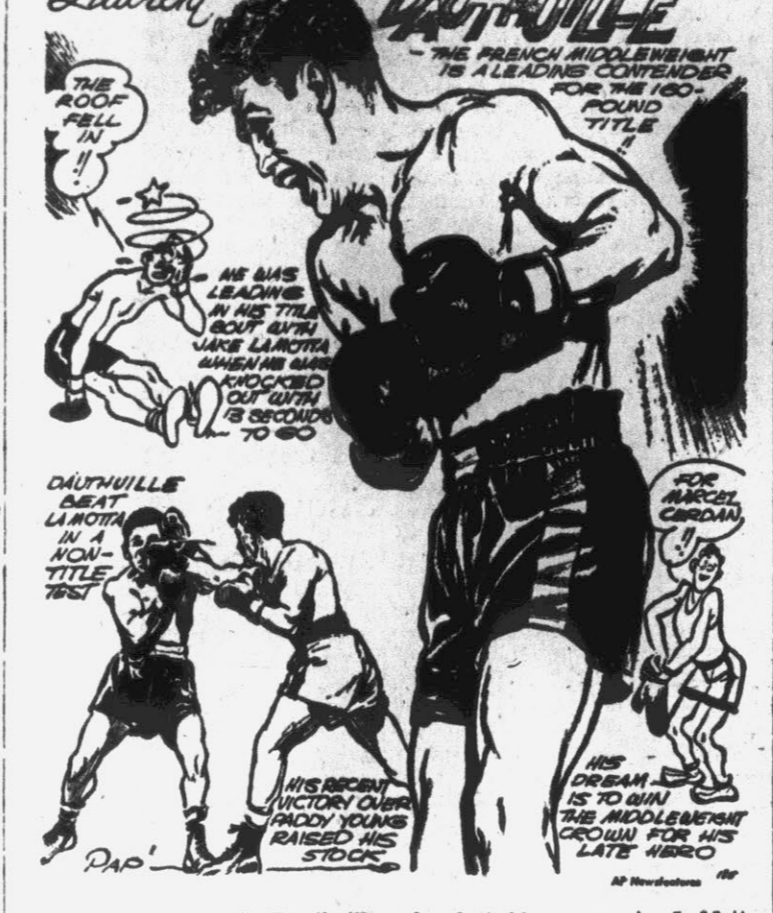

For their records they could jot down 218 yards rushing for Texas and 106 passing compared to 161 rushing and 111 passing for A. and M.

The victory was a nice tribute to the Longhorns' retiring coach, Blair Cherry, hospitalized with a stomach ailment. He couldn't even listen to the game on the radio, but shortly after it was over he was presented the game ball — autographed by every member of his squad.

French Fighter

The way Laurent Dauthuille bounced back to trounce Paddy Young after losing to Jake LaMotta in their title bout indicates that the colorful Frenchman must be rated a serious contender for the 160-pound title.

Dauthuille fought LaMotta for the first time in Montreal, Canada, on Feb. 21, 1949, and won a unanimous decision. He not only beat the Bronx Bull in sensational style but cut up the champion considerably. He met Jake for the championship in Detroit last September and, for 14 rounds, 37 seconds, looked like the new middleweight champion of the world. It was his dream to win the title for Marcel Cerdan, the late former champion

Ayden's Sextet Defends Last Year's Titles; Boys Look For Good Season

Ayden, Dec. 1.—The Ayden Tornados will open their basketball season next Tuesday night against Chocod High in the local gymnasium at 7:30 o'clock. This will be the first game of the year for both boys' and girls' teams.

Ayden's sextet will be defending both the Coastal Conference and Pitt County championships this season, having a record of 27 wins, two losses, and one tie.

One of the losses was to Cool Springs in the state championship tournament at Southern Pines last year.

The boys hold a record of 22 wins and six losses from last year, and are looking forward to a better season this year, when they hit their stride.

Basketball practice was started late because of the long football schedule, and it may be some time before the club reaches its peak.

Ayden's 1950-51 cage schedule is as follows: Dec. 5, Chocod, here; Dec. 8, Snow Hill, here; Dec. 12, South Edgecombe, there; Dec. 15, Winterville, there; Dec. 19, Belvoir, there; Jan. 3, Belvoir, here; Jan. 5, Chocod, there; Jan. 9, Tarboro, here; Jan. 10, Grifton, there; Jan. 12, Robertsonville, here; Jan. 16, Bethel, there; Jan. 19, Grifton, here; Jan. 23, Winterville, here.

Jan. 26, Vanceboro, there; Jan. 30, Snow Hill, there; Feb. 2, Farmville, here; Feb. 6, Bethel, here; Feb. 9, Vanceboro, here; Feb. 13, Tarboro, there; Feb. 16, Robertsonville, there; Feb. 20, Farmville, there; and Feb. 23, South Edgecombe, there.

George Barclay 'Coach Of Year'

Greensboro, N.C., Dec. 1.—(AP)—His feat of leading Washington and Lee's Generals through an unbeaten Southern Conference football season has won for George Barclay the conference "coach of the year" recognition.

A poll of members of the Southern Conference Sports Writers Association resulted in 119 points for Barclay to 108 for runnerup D. C. (Pea-head) Walker of Wake Forest.

Walker led the field in first place votes, 16 to 15, but Barclay picked up sufficient second and third place votes on a 5-3-1 point basis to gain the honor.

Frank Howard, whose unbeaten Clemson team goes to the Orange Bowl next month, was third with 91 points. Others who received votes: Beattie Feathers, N.C. State, 63;

WGTC's Broadcasters scored three wins in Wednesday night's Women's City Bowling League over College View Cleaners, to break a two-way tie for first place.

M. Lacham paced the victors, taking individual bowling honors for the night. Lacham scored 188 pins in her first game to walk off with the single game laurels, and had a three-game total of 450 pins, which bested B. Weir, College View, 449.

Carolina Cleaners came within one game of second place in the league standings, taking two games in their series with Double N Restaurant.

Dot Rawls was high for the Cleaners in three-game total with 363 pins, while Eloise Warren paced the series high with 406. Warren also took single game honors with a 174.

Quinn Decker, The Citadel, 14; Tom Nugent, VMI, 8; Rex Enright, South Carolina, and Jim Tatum, Maryland, 2; Carl Snively, North Carolina, and Bo Rowland, George Washington, 1.

Barclay, in his second year at W&L, led his team to eight wins in 10 starts, losing one-touchdown decisions to Virginia and Tennessee.

Army-Navy More Than Just Game

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Army-Navy always is more than just a football game.

This week it will be waged in the ominous shadow of another war. So reminds Gen. George C. Marshall.

The Secretary Of Defense, in a statement for the program of Saturday's game, likened the vast Philadelphia stadium in which it will be played to the green fields of Eton.

Lord Wellington's remark that "the battle of Waterloo was won on the playing field of Eton" has special significance, Marshall said.

Army grey and Navy blue on the gridiron and in the stands "are all part of the greater All-American team which we count upon for victory in battle," the General said.

Many who were there last year are now "taking part in the tough game of war thousands of miles from here."

"You will find them in the snow-covered mountains of Korea, in the mine-infested waters nearby, and in the dangerous skies overhead."

Marshall called the roll of men who actually played in 1949: "Gallifia, Heml, Kellum, Malladowitz, McDaniel, Purvis and Trent," who went to Korea to fight.

Lt. John Trent was captain of the Army eleven which beat Navy, 38-0. He was killed three days after landing in Korea.

Only war kept him from being in Philadelphia again for the 1950 game. Army's football brochure, printed last summer, lists Trent as end coach of the pebe team.

Tom Lombardo, Army captain in 1944, lost his life in Korea before Trent.

"Even in the midst of these great festivities," Marshall said, "let us keep in mind these men and all of our American young men of today and other years who learned on our athletic fields the lessons of strength, loyalty, courage and leadership."

Haymes And Briley Lead Greenville Scoring; Scott Standout On Defense; Herring High For Blackbirds

Rocky Mount, Dec. 1.—Greenville's Phantoms played a good first half last night, then fell apart during the second half, as they bowed to Rocky Mount's Class AAA five, 42-26, in a non-conference opener.

Forward Virginius Haymes and Center Sydney Briley were the sparkplugs for the Phants, with Haymes sinking three field goals and three charity tosses for 9 points, Briley following up with seven.

Dan Herring, stocky-built guard for the Blackbirds, was the individual star in last night's game with fifteen points, sinking six field goals and three free throws.

Glenn Scott turned in the top floor game for the Phantoms with Gray leading the winners.

Greenville, although trailing throughout the game, came within one point of the Blackbirds at the end of the first half, to trail only 14-13.

Cpl. John Laws Is Transferred

Captain S. R. Mitchell, commanding officer of Troop "A" of the Highway Patrol, announced today that Cpl. John Laws, a veteran patrol officer, stationed in Greenville for the past six years, has been transferred to Hendersonville.

Mitchell in making public the transfer stated that the change was effective as of this morning, Dec. 1, and was part of the patrol's system of transferring officers and men from one part of the state to another.

A replacement for Laws, Cpl. H. M. Murrow, formerly stationed in Brevard under Captain C. A. Speed, is due to arrive in Greenville some time today. Murrow was promoted from private first place to fulfill the vacancy left by Laws.

Laws will continue as an instructor at the Patrol Training School now underway at Chapel Hill, until the completion of the course. He had been small arms instructor at the school, a position which he held for several years.

The patrol order sending Laws to Hendersonville was signed by Major D. T. Lambert, executive officer of the North Carolina Patrol and former captain of Troop "A" with headquarters in Greenville.

Cpl. Laws was first stationed in Greenville on September 1, 1944, coming from Elizabeth City. He entered patrol work in September of 1937 and was stationed in Morehead City until 1942 when he moved to Elizabeth City, where he remained until 1944.

The transfer of Cpl. Laws is a great loss to Troop "A" and the gain of Troop "D." Captain Mitchell said in releasing the transfer order. Laws was one of the mainstays in the troop's pistol team which this year captured first place honors in the state. "Cpl. Laws is a very effective and capable officer and we regret his leaving," Mitchell said.

Prior to joining the patrol, Laws was a member of the Burlington Police Department, where he served as a motorcycle traffic officer for three years.

Cpl. Murrow, also a veteran officer with patrol work, joined the service in 1939 and has been stationed most of that time in the western part of the state.

As of this morning, no other orders had been received governing any proposed changes in personnel of the patrol now stationed in Pitt County.

Mule Carts And Cars Involved In Two Accidents

Two minor highway accidents over the past twenty-four hours involving mule-drawn carts and automobiles were reported by the Greenville Highway Patrol office. Two persons were injured in one of the accidents.

Yesterday afternoon a car driven by Mrs. Virginia Kell Mumford, of 1500 E. 14th Street, Greenville, was going east on the Stokes highway, attempted to pass a mule and cart, at the same time a pack of dogs ran into the path of the car.

Patrolman Dick Chadwick, investigating officer, said that the car driven by Mrs. Mumford got out of control and went off the left shoulder of the highway across a ditch. The car was slightly damaged. No one was injured.

Early this morning a car driven by Thomas Edward Knox, of Route 1, Stokes, coming toward Greenville on the Old Creek road, struck a mule and cart as it attempted to pass the cart. Two boys riding in the cart were thrown from the cart. They were taken to Greenville for treatment, Chadwick reported. Investigation of the accident is not complete.

Probable Cause In Assault Case

In Police Court today, Judge J. W. H. Roberts found probable cause against Walter Busbee, 38-year-old

Over $35,000 For Christmas

Negro, charged with assaulting with a deadly weapon his wife, Savannah Busbee, with intent to kill. The court placed the defendant under $500 bond for appearance before the grand jury in Superior Court.

Testimony was that Busbee assaulted his wife with a knife at a dance at a tobacco warehouse the night of November 16; that he cut her throat, injuring it to such an extent that she cannot now eat solid food. The woman testified that she has difficulty swallowing. One of the investigating officers stated that about a score of stitches were required to sew up the woman's wounds. The witness ascribed Busbee's attack on his wife to jealousy.

Sale Of Burley Tobacco Is Off To Good Start

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 1—(AP)—Sale of the 1950 burley crop in Kentucky is off to a better start than last season's auctions.

Opening-day auctions returned an average price of $48.91 a hundred pounds yesterday, the Kentucky Department of Agriculture reported last night.

The department's tabulations were based on complete sales reports from 24 markets and a report on sales at three warehouses in Paducah.

Figures on yesterday's auctions as compiled by the agriculture agency showed 12,037,706 pounds auctioned for $5,887,606.88.

Opening-day sales last season amounted to 11,265,890 pounds for $5,074,549.14 and a $45.04 average, records show.

Strong Indications Crop Rotation Helps Tobacco

Washington, Dec. 1—Strong indications that crop rotation will increase the tobacco yield of soils infected with root diseases have shown up in experiments at McCullers, N.C., the Bureau of Plant Industry reported.

The Bureau, a division of the Agriculture Department, told of the McCullers experiments in its annual report. The best results so far obtained have come by a rotation of corn, oats and weeds, and tobacco in that order.

An experimental plot, using this rotation, produced a crop of 1,335 pounds of tobacco valued at $653 per acre, the report said.

In 1949, a check plot which had been continuously planted in tobacco for 12 years, produced a crop of 115 pounds valued at $57 per acre—a sharp contrast to the rotation plot result.

At McCullers, the experiment has been going on 12 years to measure the effects of crop rotation on yield of flue-cured tobacco in areas heavily infected with root knot and meadow nematodes. During the first five years, the report said, no outstanding results were noted.

The best rotation during the first five year period came from a plot which averaged 1,161 pounds at $247 an acre. A check plot, during this five-year period, averaged only 737 pounds valued at $134 an acre.

A three year rotation plan, in which cotton preceded tobacco, was said to have given the poorest results at the experiment.

Box Score

Raleigh, Dec. 1—(AP)—The Motor Vehicles Department's report of traffic accidents for the 24-hour period ending at 10 a.m. today:

Killed—2
Injured—22
Killed to date—869
Injured to date—16,919
Injured to date in 1949—8,823

Mild Weekend In Store For State

The weekend weather outlook is almost unbelievable.

After a full week of sub-freezing nights and cold wintry days, here's what the Weatherman says in his store for the Carolinas through Monday:

No below freezing nights; crystal clear skies and unseasonably warm days. There is a slight possibility of scattered showers seen for late Sunday.

In the central and coastal regions tonight the temperature is expected to drop to only 38 and 40 degrees. It will be slightly colder tomorrow night; it will be, still warmer.

High readings yesterday reached upwards to 60 degrees in both states. Low readings this morning hovered around the freezing point. But even frigid Mr. Mitchell reported only 19 degrees which is in contrast to its recent reading of 19 below zero.

Young Mother Kills Children And Self By Gas

Englewood, N. J., Dec. 1—(AP)—An attractive 29-year old wife shepherded her three small children into a closed garage last night and took their lives and her own with carbon monoxide fumes.

The bodies of socially prominent Mrs. Margaret Thompson Oppenheimer and the children, two of whom had been stricken with scarlet fever recently, were found slumped in the family station wagon by her husband, William.

He told police he returned home from work about 9:55 p.m., and found the house empty. Oppenheimer said he then went to the darkened garage and discovered his family dead.

Police listed the deaths as suicide and triple murder.

Program Relates Future Of State

The shape of things to come in North Carolina will be described in a radio broadcast tomorrow titled "Your Future—Here Today", 11th in the "Silent Siren" series which is broadcast over WGTC each Saturday morning at 10:15.

The program deals with the children of the State and the financial and non-financial services administered to them by the State Board of Public Welfare. Aid to Dependent Children, the federal-state-county financial aid program administered by county Welfare departments, comes in for a large share of the treatment, with actual cases cited where children have been enabled to stay in their own homes and grow into useful citizenship through this program.

Also, foster homes, adoptions, behavior problems, psychological examinations, services to handicapped children, licensed day nurseries and boarding homes, non-attendance at school investigations—all of these are part of the State Welfare Board's continuing program and will be described during the broadcast.

The entire series, comprising 13 broadcasts, is sponsored by the North Carolina Resource-Use Education Commission. A second program under the auspices of the Welfare Board will be aired next Saturday.

boys for tomorrow's citizens," President Chadwick declared.

O. H. Falson of Good Shepherd Hospital, New Bern, introduced the speaker.

W. E. Jones of Wilson, who accompanied a Boy Scout troop to the Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa., last summer, gave an interesting report of international event, in which 47,000 Boy Scouts from 19 countries participated. He said the "brotherhood link" featured the visitations among the troops from all parts of the world.

President Truman and Gen. Eisenhower were speakers.

Malcolm D. Williams of Wilson was unanimously elected divisional chairman. In his report he stated that next plans are for holding three divisional meetings in North Carolina with Oconee, Tuscarora and East Carolina Boy Scout councils participating. Meetings will be held at Burlington, Wilson and Wilmington, he said. The Wilson meeting will be held at Darden High School, December 10. Present plans provide for charging a $1 fee for those attending. A conference for ministers and layment will start at 10 a.m. Rev. Hugh Victor Bryant of Goldsboro will be the speaker.

Field Executive W. C. Hart in his report to the divisional council last night paid tribute to the late F. S. Jones, faithful Boy Scout Negro leader for 20 years. W. J. McLean of Nashville read the nominating committee's report.

James Brewington of the Pitt Council awarded the attendance trophy to the Craven, Jones and Pamlico district delegation.

Ralph H. Moss of Wilson, Boy Scout executive, felicitated officials and leaders for their cooperation and excellent work.

The following districts were represented at last night's conference: Albemarle, Beaufort-Hyde, Carteret, Contee, Craven-Jones-Pamlico, Pitt, Halifax, Roanoke, Chowan, Edgecombe, Nash, Onslow, Rocky Mount and Wilson.

Some of the outstanding Scouters were Dr. J. W. Black, R. D. Armstrong, C. E. Edwards, B. L. Antrum of Rocky Mount; M. D. Williams, C. W. Foster, E. M. Barnes of Wilson; W. M. Daniels, Jr., Rev. J. WE'VE JUST BOUGHT A SWELL STORY FOR YOU, PATSY!
"IT'S GOING TO BE A DIFFERENT SORT OF ROLE FOR YOU!"

REALLY?

YOU PLAY THE PART OF A VERY UNRULY
LITTLE BRAT!
"ALWAYS INTO MEANESS"
ALWAYS MAKING TROUBLE!"

LIKE
WHAT?

LIKE PUTTING DDT
IN YOUR UNCLE'S COFFEE!
"HA HA" AND LIKE
FEEDING YOUR BABY
SISTER CEMENT

OH,
LAWZY!

JEEPERS!
THIS CHANGES
MY PLANS!

MEET

TO TAKE IT ALL
BACK, SANTA!
"IT'S GOING TO BE IMPOSSIBLE FOR ME TO BE A
